'Monty' Needs Lots Of Love

Dumped Dog Found To Be Deaf, Blind

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

A mixed breed dog found near death in Lake Monroe Friday morning suffering from exposure and shock may be deaf and blind, a Humane Society official said Monday.

Despite the handicaps which make the requirements of a potential new owner unique, the animal may be offered for adoption if it is not suffering from any other illnesses. Officials said the animal also has heartworm.

The dog, an older male mixed breed retriever, has been named "Monty" by Humane Society workers. The name is short for "Monroe" because he was found in Lake Monroe.

A Sanford Herald reporter discovered the shivering 30-pound animal in the lake near the seawall, east of the Sanford Marina Friday morning. He was rescued by Seminole County Animal Control officers, and taken to the Humane Society shelter. Officials there sent the animal to a veterinarian for evaluation and treatment before being returned to the society's Old Home Road shelter, at the intersection of U.S. 17-82.

Animal Control official Bob Young said Monday that his department investigated a lead on a possible owner of the animal, but turned up nothing.

The dog remained docile and silent throughout the weekend in the animal shelter, curled in a blue blanket.

"Sunday all he did was get up and eat his food," Barbara Woodall of the shelter said. "Then he went back and curled up in a ball."

"He acts like he's never had any love," Ms. Woodall said of his withdrawn personality.

Judging from his scarred coat, she added "It looks like he's had a rough life."

The animal seems to enjoy being petted by visitors to the shelter, and hasn't barked or whined since he was brought in.

"We'll try our best to find a good home for him," she continued. "He can't be left alone and he needs a lot of socialization. He requires someone to be able to provide for him. For this dog, I wouldn't recommend him going with any larger aggressive dog or with small kids. I would recommend a retired family who could give him the attention he needs," Ms. Woodall said.

She says the scar on his side may have been caused by an automobile accident, but she doesn't know how he got into the lake Friday. Ms. Woodall speculates he may have fallen in, or

Leaders Divided On SIB

Call For Resignation Of Chairman Fails

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The resignation of Sanford's Scenic Improvement Board chairman was "strongly suggested" by a city commissioner Monday, but squelched by three of his fellow commissioners in favor of the SIB's reviewing its responsibilities and reporting back to commissioners with results of the evaluation.

The self-evaluation was proposed by Mayor Bettye Smith to the five of nine SIB members who attended Monday's session. Among those present was SIB Chairman Sara Jacobson, who said she does not intend to resign.

"I have sensed in our community a lot of unrest over the subject of the SIB and it's unfortunate because the SIB has done so much good for our community," Mayor Smith said Monday. "I think the board should have a chance to work out any perceived problems themselves."

While commissioners on Monday applauded the SIB's impact on the city's appearance, three of them also questioned the means the board uses to achieve its success. According to statements made Monday, the board should consider its "advisory" role as defined by city charter and whether it has overstepped these bounds. The board also should consider possible problems within its own ranks, Mayor Smith said.

The session came amid recent charges the SIB has assumed more responsibility than its charter allows. The allegations have been denied by Ms. Jacobson. The SIB also has been accused by City Commissioner Dave Farr of playing a role in City Manager Frank Falson's critical job evaluation of a department head.

When the matter of "influence" was raised by Commissioner

Yankee Lake Jurors Hint Whitewash Stifled Probe

In Letter To Gov. Graham

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Several members of a defunct grand jury that was looking into Seminole County's purchase of 2,900 acres for a regional sewer facility believe a "whitewash" may have helped shut down their investigation, the Sanford Herald has learned.

The accusation was made in a letter from a member of the grand jury to Gov. Bob Graham's office Oct. 31. The letter stated several — perhaps as many as six jurors — believe there was an effort to "sweep under the rug" their inquiry and related information. The jury has asked that if they cannot continue the investigation that it be passed on to the new grand jury that meets Thursday.

Critics of the purchase have contended the county bought the $7.5 million property illegally, that elected individuals stand to profit from its purchase and subsequent regional development, and that the purchase benefits a private residential development at taxpayers' expense.

The grand jury began its secretive inquiry into the contested purchase just a few weeks before it was routinely disbanded on Nov. 3. It did not receive an asked-for extension from Gov. Graham to continue looking into the issue beyond that date.

Confusion also exists as to who has the authority to extend a grand jury's term, and the accusation has been made that the governor's office also wanted the grand jury's investigation killed. A death threat has also reportedly been made in connection with the inquiry.

The grand jury began an inquiry into the issue after two developers presented their allegations to the grand jury foreman. The developers, Grant McEwan of Casselberry, and Art Davis, of Sanford, became involved in the issue, in part, by the way their separate plans were handled by the county and decided to look into the commission's activities.

McEwan said he has had his life threatened by associates of elected Seminole County officials over his involvement in the inquiry.

They took their Yankee Lake allegations, which had been published, in part, in news reports, to the foreman after the local State Attorney's office reportedly refused to take the matter before the body. Because of the state attorney's office reportedly refused to present the issue to the grand jury, the grand jury requested the governor appoint a special prosecutor to help them in their actions.

Graham appointed Robert Eagan, state attorney for Orange and Osceola counties, to work with the jury but the jury apparently did not believe Eagan was cooperative. Neither does McEwan who told the Sanford Herald Eagan had no intention of assisting the grand jury but was sent before the grand jury by Graham's office to quash the inquiry before it gathered momentum.

He also contended Orange County, which Eagan represents as prosecutor, stands to benefit from the alleged scheme underway in Seminole County, a point which Graham's office says should have eliminated Eagan from being appointed as special prosecutor, if it had known of the accusation.

Graham's office, however, has denied any involvement with the issue other than the "random" appointment of Eagan. County officials, likewise, have denied any wrong doing in the purchase of the property and related matters.

Late Filing Fine Exceeds Campaign Contributions

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commission candidate Lynette Dennis, who has only $125 in contributions to date, has been fined $150 for filing a late campaign treasurer's report.

The deadline for filing the report was 5 p.m. Friday and her campaign treasurer John "Jeff"

Etchberger did not turn the report in to City Clerk Don Terry until 10 a.m. Monday.

Terry said under the new law he had no discretion. He said he called County Elections Supervisor Sandra Goard, who informed him the law required him to fine her $50 a day for being three days late, even though it was over a weekend.

Etchberger paid the fine from the campaign account, but under the law it must come from Mrs. Dennis' personal funds, Terry said. He said he had notified Etchberger of this fact, but as of this morning Mrs. Dennis said she was unaware of this requirement.

Terry said he is holding the check until he gets a replacement. A resident of 263 W. Palmetto Ave., Longwood, Mrs. Dennis is running for the District 3 seat on the commission, now held by Perry Faulkner.

Her opponents are the incumbent and Irene Campbell.

In addition to contributions received, Mrs. Dennis, a newcomer to Longwood politics, has borrowed $550 to finance her campaign. She has reported $25 in expenditures.

Mrs. Dennis said she had been late getting the report ready because she has been ill with a virus for four days and was also busy taking care of other family members who were sick. She said when she talked with Etchberger Friday night he did not

Seminole Schools Observe American Education Week

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County schools are celebrating American Education Week this week in virtually every classroom. The special week opened with a kickoff breakfast Monday during which the superintendent commented on the planned activities.

"We have almost 1,300 more students in the district this year than last, and 900 of them are in kindergarten through third grade. We have more kindergartners than we've ever had. And it looks like at the end of our building program in 1990, we will still need four new elementary schools," Superintendent Robert Hughes said at a media breakfast at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary.

Students prepared "gifts" for the media including homemade "books," poetry, hand-drawn placemats and hand-drawn book marks.

For their teachers, some students gave each a rose and some gave them apples. Each school scheduled events of their own, and many students are busy making competitive posters and writing compositions.

Here are some of the events going on at the various schools:

— Goldsboro Elementary students will give a rose to every teacher Wednesday. Students will make posters relating to American Education Week, and their parents will be invited for breakfast Wednesday morning. Also, a continental breakfast will be held Friday for the faculty and staff, compliments of the

— At Rosenwald Exceptional Student Center, the parents, grandparents and the community which has contributed to the school will be invited to an assembly Wednesday. They will observe classroom art and have lunch. Students will also present a program and slide presentation and recognize a person or organization which has made a significant contribution to the school.

— At Oviedo High School, there will be a principal's breakfast honoring high achieving academic students. The Selective Service will talk to the 11th and 12th grade boys Tuesday, and there will be a pep rally Thursday regarding Education Week.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Girlfriend Has Man Arrested On Concealed Weapon Charge

Lauren Conklin reported to Sanford police that her boyfriend who reportedly had been drinking allegedly took her car without permission Saturday. She also alleged to police that he was armed.

The suspect, Glenn Jay Miller, 26, who lives in a car in Sanford was located and arrested on a charge of possession of an unspecified concealed weapon at Ideal food store, 13th Street and Park Avenue, Sanford, at 10:32 p.m. Sunday. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Man Charged With Child Abuse

A passenger in a car driven by a 16-year-old boy stopped by Sanford police on Hidden Lake Drive, Sanford, at about 1:30 a.m. Sunday was charged with child abuse after police determined the passenger had allegedly bought wine for both the boy and himself.

Robert William Stepen, 18, of 203 Ventura Drive, Sanford, has been released on $500 bond to appear in court Nov. 26.

Man Arrested After Stabbing

A 22-year-old Winter Springs man who allegedly stabbed another unidentified man in the back during a fight in the parking lot of the Hotline Bottle Club, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at the scene by an Altamonte Springs policeman who reported recovering a knife believed used in the assault.

The victim, a police report said, sought treatment at a hospital. Gary James Craft, of #3 Sycamore Court #208, was charged with aggravated battery at about 6 a.m. Sunday. He has been released on $2,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 1.

Girlfriend Reports Assault

A 30-year-old Altamonte Springs man has been charged with aggravated assault. According to police, he allegedly attacked his live-in girlfriend, Liza Rodgers, 22, of 741 S. Wymore Road, after accusing her of "making eyes with men" when they were together at Club Juana, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, before the 1:30 a.m. Sunday assault.

Terry Evan Malone, of the above address, who allegedly threw Ms. Rodgers on a bed, choked her, chased her and put a knife to her throat, was arrested at his home after Ms. Rodgers fled and called police. Malone has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 1.

2 Arrested In Lounge Incident

A man who allegedly resisted an Altamonte Springs police order to leave Bowties at the Hilton Inn, North Lake Boulevard, was charged with battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence. A man who tried to intervene in the arrest faces the same charges.

The second suspect, Wayne William Buckley, 20, of Woodbury, N.J., allegedly shoved a policeman to the ground.

The other man, Robert Thomas Wirtz Jr., 18, of Chicago had been asked to leave because he was allegedly creating a disturbance at about 10:30 p.m.

Both allegedly struggled with police. Each has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 1.

Stop Results In Drug Charges

A woman stopped and questioned by Altamonte Springs police in an area near closed businesses on Ballard Street, was charged with possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia reportedly found in a search of her car.

The policeman reported smelling marijuana and seeing two smoke pipes in the car. The woman was arrested and the car searched. Illegal drugs were reportedly found.

Adel Janice Solomon, 23, of 1246 Laura St., Casselberry, was arrested at 3:28 a.m. Sunday and has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 1.

4 Charged With Having Cocaine

Altamonte Springs reported charging four suspects with possession of cocaine. Two men arrested were also charged with tampering with evidence after they allegedly tried to throw away cocaine when confronted.

Arrested at 3:33 a.m. Sunday in the parking lot of Hotline Bottle Club, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, were: Angela Sue Little, 22, and Lynette Jackson, 24, both of 201 Monroe Ave. Bldg. 18-D, Winter Park; Patrick Robin Boone, 26, of Orlando; and Gene Charles Lovely, 40, of 5135 Richland Road, Sanford. They have each been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 1.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Ivan A. Maataft, 21, of #705, 525 E. Semoran Blvd., Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $385 medical kit and a $300 scanner were stolen from his car Saturday or Sunday, a sheriff's report said.

An assistant manager reported to sheriff's deputies that a $1,280 video camera was stolen from TV & Stereo Town, 1101 Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, Sunday.

About $1,700 worth of items including a floor jack and an air compressor were reported stolen from McGrew Motors, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, Saturday or Sunday.

A $300 television, a $300 radio and, $800 worth of tools were stolen along with a 1985 Chevrolet van valued at $7,800 from Executive Auto Sales, 355 N. U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, Saturday or Sunday, according to a report that owner John Green of Casselberry filed with sheriff's deputies.

A gunman got an undisclosed amount of cash in a 10:25 p.m. Sunday robbery of Good Times Pizza, 3748 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, a sheriff's report said.

A $1,200 boat motor was stolen from the yard of Preston Walker, 37, of 300 Trinity Ave., Altamonte Springs, Saturday or Sunday, a sheriff's report said.

Several Face DUI Charges

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Kitt Rice, 28, of Longwood, was arrested at 10:14 p.m. Saturday, after his car failed to maintain a single lane on State Road 434, Winter Springs.

—Ralph Eric Browdy, 23, of P.O. Box N, Oviedo, at 3:49 a.m. Monday, after his car was in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. He was also charged with failure to carry a driver's license and careless driving.

—Steven Joseph Tretter, 27, of 215 Sweetwater Creek Drive E., Longwood, at 9:49 p.m. Sunday after his car was in an accident on Lake Destiny Drive, Altamonte Springs. He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Many Homeless Pets Destroyed

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Animal Control and Humane Society officials try to set a good example for the public by adopting animals at their facilities, often providing the only alternative to death.

Employees on both groups usually own at least one dog, and sometimes several, which would otherwise have been destroyed because they were unclaimed. Workers owning as many as a half-dozen animals aren't unusual.

The animal-lovers try to set good examples for the public by adopting the dogs and cats, and they encourage their friends to do the same.

Bob Young says the public perception of the Animal Control division is often negative.

"They look at us as dog catchers," Young said. "My people are Animal Control officers who are here to protect the public and the animals," he said.

"People complain about having to get dog tags and rabies shot tags. Most of the dogs here could be returned to their owners if they had tags," Young said.

"Most of the animals we get are from owners who let them run loose," he continued. "A very small percentage are from people who just turn their dogs out because they don't want them anymore."

Young said he has adopted two dogs which would otherwise have been destroyed, and he encourages friends to do the same. "My accountant has one," he said.

Another Animal Control officer David Murray said he now has eight dogs.

The Animal Control division employs 12, and most average owning between one and four dogs, Young said.

The Humane Society employs seven, and also has three full-time volunteers. Most of them also have taken animals into their homes permanently.

"These are very compassionate people," said Humane Society co-director Barbara Woodall. "They really care about animals."

The county Animal Control facilities, located across U.S. 17-92 from Flea World on Bush Blvd., can hold up to 70 cats and 100 dogs at a time. The Humane Society can handle at least 32 dogs and 50 to 60 cats. Both agencies are near capacity today.

During fiscal year 1985-1986, which ended Sept. 30, Young said the Animal Control division handled 8,662 dogs. Of that group, 720 were adopted, and 651 were recovered by their owners. The rest were taken by the Humane Society or destroyed, Young said. He projected that 75 percent of the animals at the Animal Control division won't be claimed or adopted.

Ms. Woodall said the Humane Society of Seminole County places more animals in homes than the national average. "Here, we average 40 percent placement," Woodall said.

So far during 1986, she said the Humane Society has handled 1,015 dogs and 800 cats, along with between five and eight horses, and various other animals.

Some of the animals have been reclaimed by owners, adopted or sent to the Animal Control division.

Still, 30 percent of animals they handle are destroyed, including those which are injured, ill, or which have a aggressive or vicious nature.

The county Animal Control division and the Humane Society are two separate agencies. The Animal Control division is operated by Seminole County government, while the society is a private not-for-profit group which relies on contributions and fund-raising projects.

People who wish to inquire about a lost pet, or about adopting one, can ask for the Animal Control division at 323-2500, or reach the Humane Society at 323-8685.

Sanford Parolee Jailed Again

A Sanford man on parole for bank robbery picked up a five year prison term Monday in federal court for lying about his criminal background on a gun registration form.

James Ferguson, 49, was arrested in August by federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearm agents in connection with the purchase of a .22-caliber revolver in Orlando in 1985. They accused him of lying on the gun registration form. Ferguson pleaded guilty to the charge.

According to the federal prosecutor, Paul Moriarty, Ferguson had been convicted of two crimes, bank robbery and stealing weapons from the military in Jacksonville. After he got out of prison, Ferguson bought a gun and said on the form he had never been convicted of a crime. Moriarty said. Moriarty said he asked for a "substantial" sentence because of Ferguson's background and thinks the five-year term is just.

According to court records, Ferguson was sentenced to 25 years for a bank robbery in Jacksonville in 1971. He was on parole when he bought the gun, records show.

According to court records, the gun in question was used in a June 1985 Maitland restaurant robbery by an associate of Ferguson. —Deane Jordan

Man Charged With Child Abuse

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported charging a 39-year-old Apopka man with battery/child abuse after he allegedly battered and verbally abused his 15-year-old son Sunday.

Ronnie L. Cowan, of 1030 St.

Covix St., was arrested at his home when a sheriff's deputy arrived and was told by the suspect's wife that he was allegedly abusing their son. The Cowan has been released on $500 bond to appear in court Nov. 26.

Wintry Storm Sweeps East

By United Press International

A wintry storm centered over the Dakotas dumped snow as far east as Michigan and heavy fog blamed for a plane crash that killed two people again blanketed the South early today.

A storm off the coast of Washington state was moving into the Pacific Northwest, bringing strong winds, rain and snow. In California, storms that dumped nearly an inch of rain in San Diego and Los Angeles were headed east toward Arizona, Utah and New Mexico.

The storm in the north-central part of the nation spread snow across the Dakotas, southern Minnesota, northern Iowa and southern Wisconsin, with up to 4 inches expected. Up to 3 inches was forecast for parts of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan.

The wintry weather pushed temperatures to the single digits from northeast Montana to upper Michigan, with some sub-zero readings reported. But temperatures in much of the rest of the nation were in the 30s and 40s.

"We've got a fast west-to-east flow, so the cold air doesn't make too much progress south," said Bill Barlow of the National Weather Service. He said the frigid temperatures would remain confined to the northern states.

On Monday, storms piled snow into two-foot drifts in the Dakotas, where a Roman Catholic nun was killed and another person was critically injured in a two-car crash on snow-covered U.S. 81, 4 1/2 miles south of Yankton, S.D.

Snow also fell Monday in the Rockies, with 8 inches recorded in Stanley, Idaho, and 15 inches in Teton Village, Wyo. A foot of heavy, wet snow forced schools to close for 1,720 students in Jackson, Wyo., about

NATION IN BRIEF

Shultz: Another Side To The U.S.-Iran Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz, whose stewardship over U.S. foreign policy has been called into question by the secret U.S.-Iran arms deal, says the United States will not trade "something of genuine importance" for American hostages.

"If you do that all you do is encourage the taking of more hostages and put more Americans at risk," Shultz said Monday night. "So that's the theory. I think it's a perfectly good theory and it's a good practice and we intend to stick with it."

Shultz made his comments following an address at the University of Chicago on nuclear arms control in which he said the administration continues to seek elimination of long-range ballistic missiles.

Shultz acknowledged European concern over that proposal, made by President Reagan at the Iceland summit in October. But he said, "It would not mean the end of nuclear deterrence for the West."

Stealth Costs Sneak Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Research and development costs for the "stealth" bomber being built by the Northrop Corp. have exceeded original estimates by $2.2 billion since fiscal 1981, financial and defense analysts say.

The plane, which the Air Force dubs the Advanced Technology Bomber, is being designed as the successor to the B-1B manufactured by Rockwell International Corp. at a cost of $280 million each.

The first B-1B squadron was activated Oct. 1 at Dyess Air Force Base, Texas, but some of the planes leak fuel from their wing tanks.

The Northrop bomber, which is to be in production by the early 1990s, is expected to rely heavily on the much-vaunted "stealth" technology to help it evade radar while penetrating Soviet defenses.

The Air Force — which declines to comment on the bomber because it is a secret project — initially is seeking 132 of the planes for an estimated $38.6 billion.

U.S. Prepares For Trade Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 300-page report listing numerous existing and potential barriers to American exports will be a good starting point for a new round of global trade talks, U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter says.

Yeutter released the report Monday which details a country-by-country "national trade estimate" of possible stumbling blocks to trade in goods and services, investment and intellectual property — many of them legal under the current draft of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The second annual report of the executive branch to Congress in compliance with the Trade and Tariff Act of 1984 deals with 12 areas of violation in 40 nations and two regional trading blocs representing about 78 percent of 1985 U.S. exports.

Although the report cites some positive actions and concessions on perceived export barriers, the bulk of it is devoted to "government imposed measures and policies that restrict, prevent or impede the international exchange of goods and services as well as the absence of appropriate policies," according to an executive summary.

Waite: Iran Arms Deal Did Great Damage To Negotiations

LONDON (UPI) — Church of England envoy Terry Waite said reports of a U.S. arms trade with Iran for American hostages drove his contacts in Lebanon underground and did "immense harm" to his efforts to free more captives.

Waite, who met Monday with three former American hostages, stopped short of calling on President Reagan to halt arms shipments to Iran.

Reagan admitted last week that he sent military equipment to Iran but denied it was part of a deal to secure the release of American hostages held by a pro-Iranian group in Lebanon.

Waite invited three former U.S. hostages — the Rev. Lawrence Jenco, the Rev. Benjamin Weir and David Jacobsen — to London and met with them for seven hours in the Church of England's Lambeth Palace to discuss further moves to seek the release of American captives still in Lebanon.

Kim Proves He's Alive

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A healthy North Korean President Kim Il-sung greeted visiting Mongolian leader Jambyn Batmönh in Pyongyang today, quashing South Korean reports Kim had been assassinated.

Wearing a dark blue cap and overcoat, Kim, 74, appeared in a satellite television clip shaking hands with the Mongolian leader and hugging him before accompanying Batmönh down a red carpet, where he greeted other North Korean officials.

It was Kim's first public appearance since South Korea announced Monday that he had been shot to death in his homeland.

South Korea's main opposition party demanded today that the Cabinet of Prime Minister Lho Shin-yong resign because of the false report of Kim's death.

Auto President Assassinated

PARIS (UPI) — The president of state-owned French automaker Renault was shot to death by two young women who lay in wait for him on the sidewalk near his apartment and opened fire just before he arrived home after work, police said today.

Police said they suspected the leftist French terrorist group Direct Action as the likely suspect in the Monday night shooting death of Georges Besse, 58, the head of France's largest automaker since January 1985, who led a financial turnaround of the company. There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Investigating police said they interviewed throughout the night seven principal witnesses, one who was chased away by one of the assassins just before Besse walked into the ambush.

Besse's chauffeur dropped him off and he was walking to his apartment building on a dimly lit street near Montparnasse Tower, the tallest building in Paris, when he was struck by bullets in the head and chest. He died on the sidewalk.

Competitors Crowd To Shuffleboard

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

More than 300 Golden Agers showed off their strategy skills Friday in their favorite game — shuffleboard.

If you think it's a sport just for old people, think again. It takes patience and a great deal of strategic thinking. Unlike bowling or golf, people can "undo" what you've already done, and you have to think of ways to stop that.

Perhaps that's what makes a pro in this game. He or she must have more than just good luck — a continual one-ups-manship on the opposing mind. And a good many of the players were pros, such as 75-year-old Tom "Hopple" Hopkins of Sanford, who told why he thought it was the best game going.

"It's my favorite of all the games because it's the most challenging," he said. "It takes more strategy and finesse than any game I've ever played." And he's played many.

In the Golden Age Games, he has won 15 gold medals over the years in 11 different events. He was the 1976 overall men's winner, winning seven golds and a bronze.

A retired truck driver from near Fort Wayne, Ind., he was quite impressed that shuffleboard is now a competitive sport between countries such as the U.S., Canada and Japan. There was recently an international tournament at Las Vegas that paid $30,000. And some 60,000 Floridians belong to the state shuffleboard association, Sanford, too, has a group and Hopkins is vice-president of that group.

"We have serious shuffleboard players in this state and they follow the tournaments around in RV's just like they would golf," he said.

President of the local association, Frank Wilson, said two of the best reasons to play shuffleboard is for the fresh air and exercise.

"It gets you up in the morning and out in the fresh air. You can play 20 minutes or 10 hours. It doesn't matter — any amount of time is good for you," Wilson said.

Another reason to play, they cited, was the fact it is so inexpensive.

"It's about the least expensive sport you can play," Hopkins said. "It only costs $10 a year to belong in Sanford, and you can play as much as you like."

Hopkins has been playing for seven years, and he became a state pro before the end of his third year.

Now that he has learned to love the game, he regrets not having started earlier.

"People should really start playing this when they are young, because they'll be that much better," he said. And he doesn't feel there's any reason it should be considered mainly an older person's game.

"So many people think that it's nothing but an old person's game," he said. "That's probably because our games are held in the daytime when mostly retired people can come. But anyone can belong to our club who is 18 or older. Remember, the younger you start, the better you're going to be."

Pitching To Win

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Norm Ameling, 67, of Deltona was a dead ringer to win a medal in Saturday's Horseshoe Pitching contest of the Golden Age Games. He had already won gold medals each of the last four years and was winning matches as the day went along.

He's quite a natural, too. He's been pitching the iron clankers ever since he was a small boy on a farm in Ohio.

But it's really surprising the number of senior citizens in the Golden Age Games who entered the various competitions simply because they like to win and try to win.

"I really like the competition," Ameling said. "That's what gets all of us out to these games, and I think even more people would play if they know how exciting it is."

Ameling also won a gold medal in bowling. However, horseshoes is such a singularly interesting game that many who came to the games did so just for the pitching contests — like 76-year-old Ed Hawkins of Astor, Fla.

"I just like the competition, the exercise and the fellowship," Hawkins said, belying his age in looks and energy. He's only been playing since he moved to Florida a few years ago. "I just got with a bunch of guys and picked it up." But the talent these seniors discover when they pick up a game is another note of interest.

To play horseshoes, Hawkins said, it takes particular skill and talent.

"Anyone can play," he said, "but you have to have good timing and good coordination. If you are good at bowling, you can probably pitch horseshoes, too."

People who pitch find it challenging and interesting, even if they're just playing by themselves or with a friend.

"It's really an interesting game," Hawkins said. "You can run into a lot of good pitchers — you can win some and lose some, but it's always fun."

He also plays baseball and bowls. He spent 37 years as an inspector in the Chevrolet plant in Norwood, Ohio.

A total of 88 men and women competed in the horseshoe games Saturday, and you could hear the clanking for hours.

"We have a good time and challenge ourselves in this game," Hawkins added. "It's an old game, but it's one of our favorites."

FIRE CALLS

Sanford fire fighters have responded to the following calls, details based on department reports:

FRIDAY

—9:15 p.m., 940 State Street, rescue. A 17-year-old boy, reportedly cut on the left ear during a fight, was left in the care of his older brother after survey.

—11:55 p.m., area of 25th Street and Hardy Avenue, rescue. Caller stated a woman was in the roadway. No one was found during police and firemen's survey.

SATURDAY

—5:42 a.m., 112 Country Club Circle. An arcing transformer line was attributed to dense fog in the area. Florida Power and Light called for follow-up survey.

Holiday Special

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Katherine Helmond and Sid Caesar will star in "Christmas Snow," an NBC-TV special to film on locations in Vancouver, B.C., this fall.

Helmond will play Mrs. Muttterance, a widow with two adopted children who faces eviction during the holidays by her mean-spirited landlord, Mr. Snyder, as portrayed by Caesar.

The two-hour movie will be directed by Gus Trikonis from a script by Suzanne Clauser who adapted it from "London Snow," a novella by Paul Theroux.

"SANFORD COMMISSION SETS NEW RECORD"

When the Friendly City reaches a point that a citizen may not speak and be heard before the City Commission (more especially a man that gave more than half his life guiding Sanford) a new record has definitely been set.

During the seven years I served with Mayor Lee Moore on the commission he never once stopped a citizen from being heard, even though on occasion we listened to some unique comments.

If Pete Knowles and Jim Jernigan are "marching to a different tune" then maybe the present administration should re-evaluate their marching order.

Arms Flow And Rising Tensions

Contrary to popular assertion, stepped-up arms shipments to Central America are not the cause of rising tension in the region, but rather are a consequence of it.

For most of its history, Central America was a relatively demilitarized quarter of the globe. That changed dramatically after Nicaragua's Sandinista regime cast its lot with Havana and Moscow and launched an aggressive military buildup to consolidate a grip on its own people and to threaten its neighbors.

Under the Sandinistas, the pint-sized national guard kept by Nicaragua's longtime dictator, Anastasio Somoza, was replaced by an army of more than 70,000 regular troops reinforced by 60,000 reserves. Given the scant military forces maintained by Managua's neighbors — Honduras, Costa Rica, El Salvador — the Sandinista military machine far surpasses the country's legitimate defense needs. For that reason alone, the weaker nations of the region have increasingly turned to Washington for protection from potential Nicaraguan aggression.

Honduras, with a 17,500-man army, shares a long border with Nicaragua and has been the chief recipient of American military aid. Miles of anti-tank ditches, for example, have been built along the Honduran side of the border to deter Nicaraguan attack. Similarly, new military airfields, roads, ammunition depots, fuel-storage tanks and port facilities have been built with U.S. assistance to strengthen Honduras' defense infrastructure.

Now the White House has offered to provide newer jet fighters to Tegucigalpa and the administration's critics decry the action as upsetting to the military balance. Despite Sandinista claims to the contrary, the proposed aircraft sale won't create a ripple in the military equation.

Washington has proposed the transfer of a single squadron (a dozen planes) of American-built F-5E fighters or Israeli-built Kfir fighters. They would replace, not add to, Honduras' lone squadron of aging Super Mystere fighters, a French-made aircraft. Neither the F-5E nor the Kfir is a top-line fighter; the United States long ago supplied F-5Es to Mexico without any hue and cry. The proposed sale to Honduras is primarily a symbol of America's political commitment to defend that country.

The administration's critics have been less vocal about Nicaragua's growing military might. According to the Pentagon, 43 shipments of Soviet military hardware have arrived in Nicaragua since the first of the year alone. Most recently, six to eight advanced Soviet Mi-24 helicopter gunships have been delivered, doubling the Sandinista fleet. Surface-to-air missiles, tanks, and cargo aircraft also have been added to Managua's arsenal.

After explicit warnings from the White House, Moscow has refused Nicaragua's request for Soviet MiG-21 fighters, which are roughly equivalent to the F-5E and the Kfir. But the Sandinistas reportedly have trained pilots to fly the MiG-21 in anticipation of receiving the planes someday.

Managua will use its growing military power to battle the American-backed Contra rebels, which now are receiving $100 million in fresh assistance approved by Congress. Without U.S. support for the Contra cause, the Managua regime's influence in the region would continue unchecked, providing the Soviet Union with an expanding base of operations in this hemisphere.

Thus, the spiral of conflict will continue, not because of arms shipments but because of strains introduced in the region by the Sandinista revolution, which punctured decades of stability in Central America.

Presidential Relief Spelled 'No-Donaldson'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush was overheard to whisper to President Reagan in the Rose Garden: "You're in luck. Donaldson isn't here."

But seconds later ABC's Sam Donaldson was booming out a question to Reagan, asking how long the "stonewalling" would continue by the White House regarding the Iranian connection in the release of three American hostages.

The occasion was Reagan's meeting with the New York Mets to congratulate them on winning the World Series.

The president has not held a news conference since mid-August and a lot of water has happened since then, including the Iceland summit, the midterm elections and the hostage story.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes promises Reagan will hold a news conference this month. He has held only seven this year.

The Reagans will celebrate Thanksgiving Day at their mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., with members of the family, including their son, Ron, and his wife, Doria; daughter Maureen and her husband, Dennis Revell; and the president's brother, Neal, and his wife, Bess.

The menu will be traditional, prepared by their housekeeper, Anne Allman. It includes roast turkey, cornbread dressing, giblet gravy, cranberries, mashed potatoes, green beans with almonds, salad, monkey bread and pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

The Christmas season also is upon the White House. A giant Christmas tree will be delivered from The Windy Knoll Tree Farm in Mossy Rock, Wash., on Dec. 3 and accepted by Nancy Reagan.

Most of the decorating will be done the weekend of Dec. 5-7. The first lady will unveil the yuletide decor at a press preview with a mystery Santa Claus on hand, and the singing of Christmas carols.

There will be parties galore for the children of the diplomatic corps, the press, the White House staff, the Secret Service and police and their families, the household help and others.

As has been the tradition, there will also be candlelight tours from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. for the public to view the mansion in all its glittering splendor on Dec. 20, 22 and 23.

The Reagans, along with members of the family and close friends, will celebrate Christmas Day in the White House.

Mrs. Reagan has selected an East Room scene as their Christmas card and volunteers have already begun to address them by the thousands. The cards will be paid for by the Republican National Committee and dropped in the mail on Dec. 15.

A larger edition of the card will be given to members of the staff as a Christmas gift to be framed.

Reagan also evoked laughter from the team when he said: "I want these fellows to know, I pitched three games for the Cardinals in a World Series. It was a 1926 World Series. I waited until 1952 to pitch the games. It was in a movie. But I had an edge on all of you here in the sense that I had the script in advance, so I knew it was going to come out all right."

Crisis Affects Nation

LINCOLN, Neb. — The vast American heartland is one of the most bountiful farming regions in the world. Today, however, it is in crisis. The bounty of the land is excessive. America is producing more food than it can consume or sell. In the case of corn, the harvest this year could total more than 8.3 billion bushels while demand is estimated at 6.5 billion bushels.

The problems of the farm states, chiefly those in the midlands, puts the well-being of millions of people — indeed entire states — at stake. Food production is a key part of the nation's strategic power. Scores of millions of urban Americans benefit from the availability of low-cost food. If the economic fabric of the heartland farm states is torn, the social and political fabric will be damaged as well.

One farm state, Iowa, already has a very radical U.S. Senator, Tom Harkin, who wants to introduce what he calls a "supply management program," a euphemism for farm production controls which were struck down as unconstitutional in the 1930s. This is a step towards a socialist farm system.

In recent days, I heard Dr. William Pratt, professor of history at the University of Nebraska, discuss earlier periods of farm state radicalism. In a lecture on "Populism in Its 20th Century Descendants," Dr. Pratt offered historical perspective on the politics of the farm states of this region. He traced the influence of the Populists and other radical groups shortly before and after the turn of the century. He noted, for instance, that in 1900 "there were more socialists in Oklahoma than in New York." He pointed out that a radical newspaper published in a small midlands town had 500,000 subscribers; also, that Omaha was a center of the socialist movement. And, he reported that on one occasion 3,000 people paid to hear Eugene Debs, the American Socialist Party leader, when he arrived in Omaha on the so-called "Red Train" — his vehicle for carrying the revolutionary message to towns and cities of the region.

Later, in the Great Depression, came the Farm Holiday, a farmers' strike or embargo of farm products and threats to judges and law enforcement officers who attempted to impose or carry out foreclosures on farms. The backdrop to these radical actions was a 60 percent decline in farm prices between 1929 and 1932.

Here and there, one encounters a bit of old-style, direct-action radicalism. Today, however, there seems to be more apathy or fatalism.

Diplomats Embarrassed By Arms Deals

Secretary of State George Shultz was reported to be outraged over the White House's backdoor arms-for-hostages deal with Iran, but his wrath was nothing compared to that of his professional underlings in Foggy Bottom. Rank-and-file career diplomats were understandably aghast at disclosure of the secret arms supplies sent to Iran; for years they have been quietly entreating U.S. allies and other governments not to sell weapons to the Iranians. In fact, one of those delicate don't-sell missions was in progress at the very time news of the administration's secret deal hit the headlines. The diplomats are mightily embarrassed.

A Drug Solution?

The drug problem can be solved, street crime greatly reduced, prostitution cut back and organized crime dealt a heavy blow by eliminating all drug laws from the statute books. That's right. Decriminalizing all use of narcotics.

First of all, and in the foreground, the White House has made a strategic mistake in making "drugs" a big part of its current political identity. Of course, everyone is against "drugs." This is not an issue that divides conservatives from liberals, Republicans from Democrats. Everyone is sorry that John Belushi and Len Bias have checked out of existence. This is not a political issue.

On the other hand, the move toward universal testing for drug use is universally resented. This intrusion is not a political winner. Those who do not use drugs are hostile to the intrusive urine test. Those who do use drugs are hostile to it for obvious reasons. There are no votes to be gained on this front and the White House ought to have the sense to know it.

There are, however, compelling reasons for decriminalizing the narcotics industry.

First of all, the laws are not enforceable. Their only practical effect is to make drugs more expensive to the user and thereby to enrich the mob. The narcotics laws create a Mafia cartel.

Drugs are pouring into this country from Mexico, Bolivia, Turkey and elsewhere. A tiny bit of expertise allows people to manufacture strong narcotics in the bathroom sink, much as people made bathui gin during Prohibition. There is no way that laws and public policy are going to cut down narcotics usage.

But if cocaine, heroin and the rest were freely available on the open market, the price would fall through the floor. There would be no need for criminal importation, the lights-out night flight from Mexico to Miami. Organized crime would be out of the drug business and the price would plummet.

This columnist has talked with several public prosecutors in the urban Northeast. All agree that something like 75 percent of street crime is drug-related. The drug users commit crimes to feed their drug need. They commit burglaries, muggings, purse snatchings, hold-ups and work as prostitutes to pay for drugs. If the drug laws were wiped off the books and the price of crime would sharply decrease — and the prosecutors unanimously agree that it would.

Our current "anti-drug" campaign and our anti-drug laws, in truth represent a form of protectionism. They establish a drug cartel for the benefit of the criminal syndicates. Without the law, you could buy a pound of cocaine for a dollar.

The cost of supporting the prison system would of course go down. About half the people in prison are there because of drug-related crimes, and it costs about $20,000 per year to support each prisoner.

The idea that the law should forget about drugs is supported by Ira Glaser, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, who seems to be right about almost nothing except this proposition. Most public prosecutors support it too.

Of course, if drugs were freely available, the insatiable users would certainly soon die. So what? Bad drivers die too.

The anti-narcotics laws are relatively dated, dating from the earlier 20th century, and they have a racist component.

We can at the stroke of a legislative pen save ourselves billions, cut down street crime, empty the prisons and smash the crime syndicates by forgetting all about drugs.

Smoking Lamp Is Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Regardless of how many tobacco farmers have become financially strapped during the interval, it doesn't seem possible a whole decade has passed since the first Great American Smokeout was observed.

Yet, the American Cancer Society assures anyone who will listen that this week's event will be the 10th annual Smokeout and I can't argue. The society, after all, is the sponsor and presumably keeps an accurate count.

Nevertheless, it says, 54 million Americans still smoke and "will be given a variety of fun ways to kick the habit for the day."

I can tell you that almost any way you kick the habit is fun. Almost as much fun as trying to strike a headless match.

I enjoyed it so much I kept going for more than a day. And I didn't even have a pack of headless paper matches to laugh about.

The society says "anyone who quit smoking during the past 10 years will be treated as a celebrity" during this year Smokeout on Nov. 20.

I suppose I quit too long ago to qualify, including "adopting" a woman smoker.

I am told that the six-time Smokeout chairman, television's Larry Hagman of the "Dallas" series, "brought national attention to the smoking problems of women" last year by "adopting" a California nurse for the day.

That could be even more fun than snapping an elastic wristband every time you feel like lighting up.

I guess there weren't enough female smokers to go around.

The society reports that the Smokeout "set an all-time record" last year when more than 23 million persons "tried to kick the habit for the day." But since it didn't, alas, break that figure down according to sex and occupation, I can't say what percentage of the 23 million consisted of California nurses.

The society does tell us, however, that "Smokeout 1985 was observed in a number of ways," including a "splitout" to point up "the hazards of smokeless tobacco" and "urging smokers to choose a carrot instead."

I personally have never tried lighting up a carrot, even with a headless paper match. Therefore, I am unable to attest to how much fun that might be. But, believe me, the texture of the vegetable is quite different from any smokeless tobacco I ever saw.

In addition to suggesting ways that smokers can have fun kicking the habit, the Society provides a factsheet telling "how to help a friend quit on Smokeout Day."

Don't try to get your kicks by kicking smokers.

out grants to state governments. The clock-turners just don't want Uncle Sam to tell the states how they can use the money.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Those who ignore history aren't always doomed to repeat it; some of them become TV anchormen. One distinguished network news host mused the other night on the coincidence that the late, unlamented Soviet apparatchik Vyacheslav Molotov had died just one day after the anniversary of "the Bolshevik revolution, which overthrew the czar." The facts, of course, are that the Bolshevik "revolution" was actually a coup d'etat, and that the czar was overthrown eight months earlier in the authentic, truly popular Russian revolution of 1917. That "bourgeois" revolution, of course, is never celebrated in the Soviet Union.

MINI-EDITORIAL: There goes Ed Meese's Justice Department again, trying to turn the historical clock back 200 years. A department study deplores the federal government's "usurpation" of states' rights and urges that it divest itself at once. It's almost as if there had never been a Civil War, a New Deal or a civil rights movement. Oddly enough, the attorney general's study group, while denouncing the federal government for sticking its big nose into state business, has no fault to find with the federal treasury doling waivers for federal prisoners, who are frequent applicants for FOIA searches to help overturn their convictions. On the other hand, Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., says convicted felons are entitled to apply for a fee waiver. The argument won't be resolved anytime soon.

FOIA FEE FUSS: Controversy still smolders over the amendments recently passed to the Freedom of Information Act, which makes government files available to the public. One continuing dispute is over who is entitled to a waiver of the often considerable fee for searching and copying requested documents. Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, for example, says the law doesn't allow fee

Appeals Court Blocks Bundy's Execution By Six Hours

STARKE (UPI) — Serial sex slayer Ted Bundy, suspected of killing more than three dozen young women, won an indefinite stay of execution today about six hours before he was to die in the electric chair for murdering a 12-year-old schoolgirl.

A three-judge panel of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta granted Bundy — who is under a total of three death sentences in Florida — the indefinite stay at 12:50 a.m. EST.

Bundy and Nollie Lee Martin were to have been executed in "Old Sparky," Florida's electric chair, at 7 a.m. today. Martin received a reprieve Monday night from the Supreme Court.

The stay for Bundy came less than two hours after a federal judge in Orlando rejected his appeal, calling it "abusive." Bundy's trial judge and Florida's Supreme Court also denied appeals Monday before defense lawyer James Coleman took the case to the federal appeals court.

Bundy was scheduled to die for the Feb. 9, 1978, murder of Kimberly Diane Leach, a 12-year-old from Lake City, Fla.

Astronauts Arrive For Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Twelve astronauts, including the last crew to survive a shuttle mission, flew to the Kennedy Space Center Monday for major tests that include a practice countdown and full-scale emergency escape drills.

The three days of tests mark the first time astronauts will have been aboard a space shuttle at the launch pad since the Jan. 28 Challenger disaster; the escape drills are a direct result of safety concerns raised after the accident.

On board the shuttle Atlantis for the countdown exercise today at launch pad 39B — the same pad used by Challenger — will be commander Robert "Hoot" Gibson, co-pilot Charles Bolden, Steven Hawley, George "Pinky" Nelson and Franklin Chang-Diaz.

All five, who arrived at the spaceport shortly after noon, flew aboard the shuttle Columbia in early January, just two weeks before Challenger's demise, for what turned out to be the year's only successful shuttle flight.

Senate Leadership Battle Today

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The direction of Florida politics for the next two years is up for grabs today as a coalition of conservative senators and the embattled Senate President-designee square off in a battle for control of Florida's upper chamber.

The Senate battle will be the hotspot of a one-day organizational session that will determine the leadership and the philosophy of the Legislature through 1987 and 1988.

The session itself is scheduled for only two hours, and is constitutionally limited to selecting House and Senate officers and making committee assignments.

Victory for the conservative coalition would provide Republican Governor-elect Bob Martinez philosophical peers in control of the Senate, and isolate the more liberal House leadership. A comeback victory by Senate President-designee Ken Jenne, on the other hand, could mean four years of confrontations between Martinez and the Legislature.

Senator Files Lottery Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami, has filed a bill establishing a state lottery and directing all profits to improving Florida's educational system.

Voters overwhelmingly approved a ballot initiative establishing a lottery on Nov. 4, but the Legislature must still adopt legislation spelling out how it will be run and where the proceeds will go. Gordon, a long-time supporter of the lottery, pre-filed his bill on Monday.

Under Gordon's proposal, the lottery would be run by a state lottery commission made up of the governor and the Cabinet. Forty percent of the gross revenue would go into a Florida Education Improvement Trust Fund, 15 percent would go for administration, and the remaining 45 percent would be prize money.

Lawn Game Is No Sticky Wicket For Golden Age Medal Winners

George Arent, 75, of Lake Monroe hits the ball squarely.

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

They came from as far as Illinois and as near as Sanford to navigate the winding course of wickets McDonald's Restaurant served up Saturday as sponsors of the croquet competition on the great lawn of Howell Place.

Husbands and wives and a busload of seniors from Tennessee were among the 26 entrants who made up the most crowded croquet contest to date. All came away smiling, even Dorsey Henley, 70, who took first place in the 1984 and '85 croquet competitions, but was eliminated in the first round of play Saturday.

"I stubbed my dubb," the Martinsville, Ill. resident said with a grin.

"I gave it my best shot, but suppose I had an off day; all professionals do."

This "professional" and his wife, Maxine, 72, "play once a year, when we come to the games," Henley said.

Mrs. Henley took the gold in croquet in 1984, but, like her husband, failed to capture a medal this year.

First place in the women's competition went to S. Anna Wales, 63, Jacksonville Beach; second to Christine Cook, 65, Trenton, Tenn.; and third to Virginia Arent, 55, Sanford. In the men's contest, Frank Reed, 64, Woodbury, Tenn., got the gold; Jessie Scott, 73, Trenton, Tenn., the silver; and James DeLong, 65, Sanford, the bronze.

"I played croquet all the time when I was a child, I guess I haven't lost my touch," Mrs. Wales said. "You just have to line your shots up right and hit them squarely."

A great lawn of yesteryear in the foothills of Tennessee prepared Mrs. Cook and her sister, Bessie Abernathy, 73, for Saturday's competition.

"We've played all our lives," Mrs. Cook said. "My daddy used to set up the croquet set in our backyard and all our neighbors would come over to play."

The sisters were part of the nine member "Tennessee contingent" that came down to Sanford from Trenton and went home with a number of medals. All the group live at Holiday House, which is owned by the operator of Howell Place.

Mrs. Abernathy and Mrs. Cook came to Saturday's croquet match fresh from an appearance Friday night at the games' talent show. They performed "How Much Is that Doggie in the Window," and although they failed to capture a medal, "It sure was a lot of fun," Mrs. Abernathy said. "This whole week has just been terrific."

DeLong's bronze medal performance was cheered on by his wife, Dottie.

"I'm his gallery," she said. "He couldn't have done it without me."

DeLong said his strategy, "to just get out there and play," and his wife's participation "as my cheering section," had also garnered him the bronze last year.

Mrs. Arent said family get-togethers kept both she and her husband, George, 75, on their croquet game. "With eight kids, we've played a lot," Mrs. Arent said, adding that "lots of running around" also assisted her bronze medal wins in the two-mile race walk and six-mile leisure walk this year.

Mary Catherine Nave, 66, of Sanford takes a swing toward the wicket.

Arent said he wasn't as successful as his wife during this year's games, and that he'd gone in "for the strenuous competitions, like croquet, pinochle and cribbage."

"I got clobbered though," Arent said. "I was up against a tough field of competitors." Laura Peasley, 74, of Eustis, said she "came out for the fun" of Saturday's croquet matches. "I've played all my life," she said. "I just love it. It's a game for the entire family; mom, dad, grandma and the kids."

ABC's Citrus Lure Came Out XYZ

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC television and the Florida Citrus Bowl attempted to lure the University of Miami into a Jan. 2 national title game but made the offer too late, network and school officials told United Press International Monday.

ABC made its proposal late Saturday night after learning Miami agreed to play Penn State in the Fiesta Bowl under a similar Jan. 2 format, said Donn Bernstein, ABC's director of college sports.

"I was told Dennis Swanson (president of ABC Sports) had gone to the president of the network to get clearance for this counter-proposal," Bernstein said. "I was given that information early Sunday morning."

"We then approached Sam (Jankovich, Miami's athletics director) as a last try, but the other deal was in place. We had asked to be considered and we told them we could do the game in prime time Jan. 2, but it was too late. We just weren't fortunate enough to land the game."

Jankovich agreed timing was essential

Football

In Miami's decision to choose the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., over the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

"I felt it (the ABC-Citrus proposal) came too late," Jankovich said. "Our players had said 'let's go for it' and I'm not one to go back on my word."

Miami's decision ended a bidding process by the Citrus, Fiesta and Gator bowls to secure a game between Miami and Penn State if the two independents could remain unbeaten.

Said Don Meyers, the Fiesta Bowl's team selection chairman: "We needed something to set the game apart from the others. The others had the attraction and the political pressure of being based in Florida."

He said he contacted NBC on Nov. 11 and asked the network if it were possible to move the game to Jan. 2. Meyers said the following day he received an indication from Ken Schanzer, executive vice president of NBC Sports, that it might be possible to move the game from noon EST Jan. 1 to prime time Jan. 2.

On Nov. 13, Meyers said both athletic directors told him they liked the proposal. The next day Meyers said he told Jankovich in person and Penn State by telephone that NBC was close to agreeing. This past Saturday, NBC approved the move.

"At that point I was told that Miami was holding a team meeting Sunday morning to decide where it would go," Meyers said. "I was in a car with some Orange Bowl people after Miami beat Tulsa Saturday night and on the postgame show I hear (Miami Coach) Jimmy Johnson announce they had voted unanimously to come to the Fiesta January 2."

Besides the Jan. 2 date, an escape clause was vital in luring Miami to the Fiesta. The clause allows Miami to go to the Orange Bowl if Penn State losses to Pittsburgh Saturday while Nebraska beats Oklahoma to win the Big Eight title and an automatic Orange bid.

"The biggest thing was the January 2 prime time," Jankovich said. "The other thing was to be able to come back to the Orange if Penn State and Oklahoma lose and we stay undefeated."

"I am very excited that we won't have to share the television audience New Year's Day. This will be one of the most publicized games in college football history."

The Citrus Bowl had completed a deal over the weekend with ABC and sponsors to offer Penn State and Miami between $2.2 million and $2.4 million — about what the other New Year's Day games give.

"We're a little depressed," said Dylan Thomas, associate executive director of the Citrus. "We thought we had the game at our fingertips and with what transpired it didn't seem like we could do much to change their minds."

Coach Can't Prepare OT In X-Country

Preparation for an overtime or tiebreaker is commonplace for many high school coaches. It's part of their plan. They are aware that a game or match could go overtime — and plan accordingly.

In most sports it comes down to an extra performance, a second effort.

In cross country, a different format has been set up for the sudden death efforts. The only difference is that there is no extra time, innings or plays.

The scores of a cross country meet are made up of a team's first five runners. If two or more teams tie, the decision comes down to who has the better or best sixth runner.

This past Saturday, at John Prince Park in Lake Worth, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks used this tiebreaking rule to eliminate both Lyman and Orlando Boone from the state tournament.

Melbourne Palm Bay won the region with 56 points. Orlando Colonial was second with 89 and Winter Park was third at 101. Then, came the logjam. Howell, Lyman and Boone each scored 142 points to tie for fourth place — the last state qualifying position.

Never had a sixth-place runner meant so much.

Lake Howell's Luis Caban, who finished in front of Lyman's and Boone's sixth runner, advanced the Silver Hawks to Saturday's state meet at the DeLand Airport course. With the fourth place finish, Lake Howell qualifies for state for the second year in a row.

"Everyone on the team counts," Lake Howell coach Joe Corso said. "We had everyone move up and fill in the spots Saturday."

Lake Howell did have some fine efforts. Chuck Buster, usually up with the front pack, has been battling the flu and turned in a courageous performance, finishing 33rd as the Silver Hawks' third runner.

"We run in a pretty tight pack," Corso said. "That helps move the entire team along."

Corso hopes for a healthy Buster in the season finale. "Buster ran a better race Saturday than he did in the district meet," Corso said. "He ran a slower time but it was a much better effort as he was more competitive in this race."

Lyman coach Fred Finke no longer has a team to work with in his 1986 season but he will guide Seminole County's top runner, Robin Rogers, into the state final. Rogers qualified with a fifth-place finish with a time of 15:34.

All three teams, Lake Howell, Lyman and Boone, have different styles and it was just a matter of which had a better team race to get them into the state meet.

Lake Mary coach Mark McGee, whose team finished right behind the tie, compared the difference in each.

"Lake Howell has a pack in which they run, whereas Lyman has both top runners and good middle runners," he said. "Boone, on the other hand, has the quality up front but has no depth in the fourth and fifth runners."

McGee had his team geared to go after the teams which tied, looking for a possible upset, but Eric Petersen, the second ranked runner in the county, came down with a virus which had him in bed with a 103-degree temperature which put off pace as he finished 20th.

The Lake Howell girls team also made it to the state meet with a strong performance, considering four of their runners had the flu.

The Lady Silver Hawks won the meet with 43 points, holding off second-place Winter Park by two points. Lake Howell will now return to DeLand in hopes of avenging its only loss of the season, a setback to Largo which is now ranked as the top team in Florida. Coach Tom Ham-montree's Lady Hawks, who were first all year, are second and defending state champion Winter Park is ranked third.

'Skins Frustrate Montana, 49ers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joe Montana and the San Francisco 49ers, who amassed 441 yards passing and 501 total yards against the Washington Redskins, have only frustration to show for their efforts.

Montana, in his second game since returning from major back surgery Sept. 15, established personal and club records for passing yardage and passes attempted, could not direct his team into the end zone Monday night.

Washington won, 14-6, on the strength of a 27-yard touchdown pass from Jay Schroeder to Gary Clark and a 1-yard scoring run by George Rogers.

The Redskins, who were out-gained by 235 yards, improved to 9-2 and maintained a share of the lead in the NFC East with the New York Giants, two games ahead of the Dallas Cowboys. The 49ers fell to 6-4-1, a half-game behind the 7-4 Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West.

"It's very frustrating and unbelievable that we got all that yardage and couldn't get it in the end zone," said Jerry Rice, who caught a career-high 12 passes for 204 yards. "It seems every time we got going, we were penalized."

"There were certain passes that I missed," Montana said. "I don't know if I was rusty, I felt more tired. They played us tough when we got down to the goal-line areas."

Montana completed 33 of 60 passes, but threw three interceptions — two inside the Washington 31 — and fumbled once to set up Washington's first score. Montana had held the team records for passing attempts and yardage, attempting 57 passes and throwing for 429 yards Oct. 6, 1985 against the Atlanta Falcons.

The 49ers were assessed 118 yards on a club-record 15 penalties, breaking the previous mark of 14 set three different times, in a game that lasted three hours and 53 minutes, finishing shortly after 1 a.m. EST.

Montana became the first quarterback in NFL history to throw for 400-plus yards and not have his team score a touchdown. He also became the second NFL quarterback to throw for more than 400 yards but not complete a scoring pass. Last Monday night, Cleveland's Bernie Kosar threw for 401 yards but no TDs in the Browns' 26-16 victory over Miami.

Montana, an eight-year veteran, underwent surgery for a ruptured disc, but missed just eight weeks of the season. The two-time Super Bowl MVP wore a protective flak jacket with an extension covering the surgical incision Monday.

It was the second 400-yard passing performance yielded by the Redskins in three weeks, as Washington surrendered 490 yards to Minnesota's Tommy Kramer in a 44-38 victory. Montana's attempts and completions matched the most yielded by a Redskins defense. Both marks had been set by Philadelphia's Davy O'Brien in 1940 and the completions record is shared by Chicago's Bill Wade.

TRC Wins Softball Title, 14-5

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The Tim Raines Connection, relying on two home runs from the Tim Raines himself, captured the Sanford Men's Fall Softball League championship Monday night with a 14-5 victory over Bill Knapp's at Pinehurst Field Monday night.

TRC improved to 10-1 for the season and Bill Knapp's dropped to 1-10. Six Flags Nursery topped All-Sports Program, 6-5, in Monday's second game, but Six Flags is 8-3 with just one game left to play and can't catch TRC. All-Sports fell to 3-8.

The Connection used a five-run second inning and a four-run third inning to put the game out of reach.

In the second, Thaad Brooks drew a one-out walk and scored on a triple by Sam Raines. Otis Raines followed with a single to plate Sam for a 2-0 edge. Greg Hardy's walk pushed Otis to second before Tim Raines slugged a three-run homer for a 5-0 advantage.

"I thought I'd go for it since I knew we were going to win," Raines said. "The wind was blowing out."

In the third, "Steady Eddie" Jackson led off with a solo homer before Rodney Turner and Ernest Shuler singled. Fred Washington hit into a fielder's choice but Brooks walked to load the bases. Sam Raines followed with a sacrifice fly for one run and Otis Raines doubled for two more and a 9-0 lead.

Knapp's, which won its initial game last week, came back with three in the bottom of the third when Mark Andrews walked and one out later, Mike Reeder doubled him to third. Doug Emmons singled home one run before "Hard-hitting Harry" McCarty brought home another when he reached on an error. Joe Grestini accounted for the third with a single.

TRC, though, came back with two more in the fourth when Turner clubbed a two-run homer after a walk to Tim Raines. Brooks homered for a run in the fifth. Ned Raines singled in another in the sixth and Shuler smacked a leadoff later in the seventh.

McCarty's sixth-inning triple and a single by Grestini accounted for the last two Knapp's runs.

Reliever Burnett "Slim" Washington came off the disabled list to hurl the last four innings for TRC.

In Wednesday's second game, Six Flags used three-run outbursts in the fourth and fifth innings to turn back ASP, which jumped on winner John Emerson for five runs in the first frame, but was blanked thereafter.

Scott Williams doubled home two runs in the fourth and Ted Miller added an RBI single. In the fifth, Tony Dickinson and Emerson singled before Terry Rawls loaded the bags with a walk. Buddy Stumpf followed with a two-run single and Joe Ervin accounted for the game-winner with a sacrifice fly.

In the All-Sports Program first, Junior Thompson, Greg Regler, Sam Griffith and Jay Laney opened with singles for two runs. Ray Smith doubled home two more before Clancy and Tracy Walker slugged RBI fly balls.

Emerson shut down ASP on three hits over the final six innings.

Lady Lions: Kings Of Court, Style

Once they get over Friday's heartbreaking loss, Oviedo's Lady Lions can look back on the 1986 season and be proud not only of what they accomplished, but of the style in which they accomplished it.

Oviedo ended the most successful season in Seminole County volleyball history with a 24-3 overall record. The Lady Lions were champions of the Winter Park Tournament, the Seminole Athletic Conference, District 3A-6 and Region 3A-3. They had a 15-match winning streak going into Friday's 3A-2 Section match which they lost to host Land O' Lakes, 15-10, 15-5.

While those accomplishments speak for themselves, there was much more to this team than its won-loss record and championship trophies. The talented Lady Lions impressed everyone they played with their all-out desire and team unity. And they captured the hearts of a tremendous throng of fans that grew bigger with every match.

"Once the hurt is over, we'll be happy with what we've accomplished," junior Jill Knutson said. "We didn't really know at first how good we could be, but after we won the Winter Park Tournament we knew we could go a long way."

Since they only played Land O' Lakes once, that was the only team to have a winning record against Oviedo in 1986. In the regular season, the Lady Lions lost to Lake Howell and St. Cloud but they also beat both of those teams twice. No other team in Central Florida could stop the Oviedo volleyball express.

"We showed a lot of other teams how important teamwork is," senior Cindy Wood

Crum's Cardinals Favored To Repeat Title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite losing three 1,000-point scorers, Louisville is favored to win its second straight national championship.

Louisville was named the top team in the country Monday in preseason Top 20 voting by United Press International's Board of Coaches. The Cardinals received 17 first-place votes, three fewer than No. 2 North Carolina, but finished a single point ahead of the Tar Heels. Coach Denny Crum's team earned 584 out of a possible 630 points.

Louisville is trying to become the first team since UCLA in 1973 to win back-to-back national championships.

Basketball

That Bruins team was led by John Wooden, who coached Crum at UCLA and later hired him as an assistant.

Nevada-Las Vegas, Indiana and Purdue rounded out the first five selected by UPI's 42-member Board.

The rest of the Top 10 was Kansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech. Georgetown was ranked 11th, followed by Alabama, Auburn, Navy, Iowa, Syracuse and Illinois tied for 16th, Arizona, North Carolina State and Wyoming. Louisville lost Milt Wagner, Billy Thompson and Jeff Hall from last season's team, but returns Pervis Ellison, the NCAA Championship Game Most Valuable Player, and Herbert Crook.

GATORS WIN EXHIBITION

Andrew Moten and Vernon Maxwell combined for 43 points while 7-foot freshman Dwayne Schintzius collected 14 points and 12 rebounds as the Florida Gators opened their college basketball season with a 96-84 exhibition victory over Athletes in Action.

The Gators play for real Nov. 28 at Tallahassee against Florida State.

Roberts Adjusts To New Role, Helps Raiders To No. 2 In Poll

Tony Roberts, one of the best all-around players to ever don Seminole Community College blue, took more than 14 points, five rebounds, five assists and three steals with him when he was ruled ineligible for the 1986-87 basketball season.

The 6-1 sophomore guard was also SCC's most charismatic performer. Whether he was driving with blatant disregard to the basket or drawing blood with all-out sprays for loose balls, Roberts was the inspiration.

He was the player who wanted the ball at "crunch time." The man who made things happen. The guard who could find a way to win.

The Fort Lauderdale St. Thomas Aquinas product was the Raiders' force, a player looked up to and expected to provide the leadership. Even last year, as a freshman, no one cringed when he took over the role.

This year, as the sophomore floor leader, Roberts figured to write his own major-college ticket. Preseason forecasts of 20 points, seven rebounds, eight assists and four steals were not farfetched.

Coach Bill Payne's crystal clouded over, however, two weeks prior to tip-off. The NJCAA determined that Roberts had played "too far into the season" during his freshman year at Western Kentucky and the medical redshirt had been granted erroneously.

Tony Roberts, SCC's best player, would be relegated to assistant coach status this year. The Raiders' heart and soul wouldn't light up any scoreboards this year.

It was a crushing blow for Roberts, an emotional sort, coaches Payne, Dean Smith and Greg "Slim" Johnson, along with the players. "Tony just can't be replaced," moaned Payne after the heartbreaking news. "You can't replace what he does statistically and you can't replace his leadership."

"That's the area where we'll be hurt the most — leadership. We don't have a leader."

The Raiders are now 13 days into their season. They are ranked second in the Florida Junior College Basketball Poll and have won all six games. They are averaging 103 points a game and allowing 84.7. That's a victory margin of nearly 20 points.

The Raiders are still looking for a leader — but maybe not as hard. Incredibly, it's a team without a leader yet one with six half-leaders.

"We're really surprised," Smith said on the eve of SCC's 7:30 p.m. Tuesday battle with Polk Community College. "Everybody is taking over the role. They are picking themselves up. It's been amazing."

Although Roberts has been removed from the playing floor, he has not been taken from his teammates' side. "Tony is on the bench yelling," Smith said. "That's been a big help, too."

Payne agreed. "It was tough on Tony, like the rest of us, at first," he said. "But Tony has really been a big help to the younger guys. I know it's killing him to not play, but he's put it behind him."

Great players, with talents like Tony Roberts, usually don't respond in that manner. It's hard for them to take a subsidiary role. They are stars and they crave the limelight. They usually quit school and mope. Or mope and don't go to class. Either way, they hurt themselves and future college opportunities with that attitude.

Sam Cook
SANFORD HERALD
SPORTS EDITOR

Tony Roberts, who will be in line for one of those scholarships in April, moped for a while. That's normal. But the moping didn't last, which is a credit to him. Those who have watched Roberts play know his heart is as big as a basketball on the court.

Now they know it's the same size off the court, too.

SCC's latest conquest was its most impressive. The Raiders slipped past Brevard, 77-74, Saturday night for the Raider Tournament title. On Friday they knocked off Patrick Air Force Base, 106-94.

With the way guard Malcolm Houston and Darris Gallagher are playing, one has to wonder how good the Raiders would be with Roberts at swingman. Good enough to move up another notch in the rankings, no doubt.

Houston, another of Payne's greybeards (28 years old) who he seems to come up with every year, has been nothing short of sensational. Smith said he compares favorably with Roberts except for one phase of his game.

"Malcolm doesn't take it to the hole like Tony," Smith said. "He's content to shoot the jumper. If we could get him to drive, he'd really be something."

He's "something already." Houston, a 6-0 freshman from Orlando via Miami Norland High, leads the club with 18.8 points per outing. He also has 4.8 rebounds, 2.3 assists and 3.3 steals per game.

Gallagher, the jet-quick lefty from Orlando Edgewater, is the consummate point player. Without a selfish bone in his anatomy, the sophomore swifly is averaging 9.5 assists per game. "And he'd have more than that if we hadn't gotten fouled so much against Patrick," Smith said. "We went to the line 62 times. That cuts down on the assists."

Gallagher, who sometimes needs a gun put to his head to shoot, is one of five starters in double figures with 12.3 points. He leads the team in steals, too, with 3.7 per outing.

Vance Hall, a 6-8 sophomore center, was plagued by foul trouble Saturday. The St. Petersburg native is second in scoring with 17.2 points and tops in rebounding with 9.0 per game.

"What made Saturday's win more remarkable is we did it without Vance," Smith said about his enforcer's 17 minutes of action. "He came on at the end and helped out, but it was pretty much without him."

Barry Dunning, a 6-7 freshman from Mobile (Ala.) Davidson, is fourth in scoring with 11.3 points and third in rebounds with 6.8. Claude Jackson, a 6-7 sophomore from Bill Payne makes a point with his Raiders while assistant Tony Roberts (above in sweater) helps out with the guards. Roberts, the Raiders' best all-around player last year, was ruled ineligible by the NJCAA two weeks before the season. Despite the setback, he has been one of SCC's biggest cheerleaders.

St. Pete Dixie Hollins, is fifth in scoring with 11.2 and second in board with 7.0.

SCC employs three sixth-men, depending on the situation. James Morris, a 6-3 forward from Orlando Jones High, is averaging 9.2 points. Efreem Brooks, a 5-10 sophomore guard from Lake Howell High, is getting 7.2 points. Robert Williams, a 6-6 forward-center, is scoring 7.2 points and 6.7 caroms.

"Robert Williams did a great job off the bench," Smith said about the 200-pound freshman sleeper from Eustis (Montverde Academy). "He's the muscle we've lacked the past four years."

SCC Women Play, Too

Tonight's junior college basketball game at Winter Haven against Polk will be a double date for SCC. Coach Ileana Gallagher's Lady Raiders open the action at 5 p.m. against the Polk women and the Raiders take the floor at 7:30 p.m. against Polk's men.

The Lady Raiders, 1-2, who opened the season with a victory, dropped games to Pensacola (88-61) and North Arkansas (88-62) in the Pensacola Tournament this past weekend.

"We just played horrible in both first halves," Gallagher said Monday. "We got off to bad starts in each game and couldn't come back."

Gallagher said Valerie Jackson, a Lyman High product, Fatima Lafond, Carol King, Lisa Starks and Paul White turned in strong efforts over the weekend.

Alabama, Louisville Top Teams In South

Basketball

United Press International
The top thoroughbred in Eddie Sutton's stable at Kentucky has come up lame, which may cost the Wildcats the Southeastern Conference title.

Already missing first-round draft choice forward Kenny Walker and starting guard Roger Harden, who played key roles in Kentucky's 32-4 campaign last season, the Wildcats will also be without 6-foot-7 senior forward Winston Bennett.

The top returning scorer (12.7) and rebounder (7) for Sutton's Wildcats, Bennett injured his knee during practice and will be sidelined the entire season. Another Kentucky forward, 6-9 Cedric Jenkins, will miss the early part of the season with an injury.

Even with Bennett, the Wildcats wouldn't have been the SEC favorites. That role goes to Alabama's Crimson Tide, which lost leading scorer (20.7) and rebounder (8.3) Buck Johnson, but returns four starters from last season's 24-9 squad.

Alabama will move 6-7 sophomore Michael Ansley, a 60-percent shooter last season, into Johnson's power-forward post and pair him under the boards with 6-9 junior center Derrick McKey, who averaged 13.8 ppg and 7.9 rpg.

Without Walker or Bennett, Kentucky probably will again use a three-guard lineup with returning starters James Blackmon and Ed Davender and 6-5 freshman Rex Chapman, one of the top prep guard prospects in the nation.

Auburn, which won 22 games last year, loses leading scorer (21.5) and rebounder (7.9) Chuck Person, but, like Alabama, returns four starters.

Mike Jones, a 6-7 sophomore, replaces Person and big things are expected from 6-7 junior center Jeff Moore and 6-7 junior forward Chris Morris. The Tigers feel they have one of the top guard tandems in the SEC with seniors Gerald White and Frank Ford.

"The SEC race will be different this year than last," said Auburn Coach Sonny Smith. "I don't believe the SEC will be stronger, but it will be more competitive. The top teams are a little weaker and the bottom teams are slightly improved."

Florida has all five of its starters back from last season's team that won 19 games.

A few years back, Florida had an exceptionally strong front line, but poor guard play. Now, the Gators are weaker up front, but senior Andrew Moten (16.9 ppg) and junior Vernon Maxwell (19.9) rate as the best guard duo in the SEC.

Louisiana State, as usual, rates as the SEC darkhorse. The Tigers won 26 games last season, but their sophomore superstar John Williams and two other starters — Don Redden and Derrick Taylor — are gone and Dale Brown has been scrambling to find replacements.

The picture is clearer in the Metro Conference where Louisville (32-7) will be playing without three of the starters from last season's national championship team, but is still heavily favored to repeat as Metro champs.

"As defending NCAA champions, we're probably going to have to be ready to play our best from Game One all the way through," said Louisville Coach Danny Crum.

Memphis State, the Cardinals' chief Metro conference rival last season, lost four-year starters Andre Turner and Baskerville Holmes. Also, William Bedford went to the NBA and Vincent Askew transferred, leaving junior guard Dwight Boyd as the Tigers' lone returning starter from a 28-6 team.

Another perennial Metro power, Virginia Tech, lost three starters from a 22-9 squad.

Florida State is expected to make a dramatic turnaround in the Metro this season. Despite size, depth and talent, the Seminoles were only 12-17 a year ago. But all five starters and five other lettermen return and there's a feeling new coach Pat Kennedy may get more mileage out of that crew than did former coach Joe Williams.

"We're going to be playing a new brand of basketball, a 94-foot pressure game both offensively and defensively," said Kennedy. "If we learn to blend together as a team, we could be in the race."

In the Sun Belt Conference, where defending champion Old Dominion lost six of last year's seniors, Western Kentucky (23-8) and Jacksonville (21-10), both with four returning starters, figure to move up a notch from their previous 2-3 finish.

Murray Arnold, formerly at Tennessee-Chattanooga, has replaced Clem Haskins, at Western. Arnold inherits an imposing front line featuring seniors Tellis Frank (6-10), Kenneth Johnson (6-9), Clarence Martin (6-8) and Bryan Asberry (6-8).

Parker Uses Balance, Wins Rich Plan's Punt, Pass, Kick

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Only 60 points separated the first and seventh place finishers and it was the balanced performance of Matthew Parker that won out in the end in the 12-year-old age division of the Rich Plan/Sanford Recreation Department Punt, Pass and Kick Skills Competition.

Youngsters in five age groups competed in the punt, pass and kick competition held last week at Sanford's Chase Park.

Parker rolled up 86 points in the punting phase, 110 in the passing and 90 in the kicking for a total of 286, just ahead of Donnell Troutman who was second at 281. Gerard Wilson took third at 275.

Andreas Key had the top punt score of 91 and the top kick score of 102 and ended up fourth at 274½. Key was followed by Jamie Tut at 240½. Britt Henderson at 238 and Jimmy Carraway at 228. Carraway had the top pass score at 115.

In the 11-year-old age group, it was another close race as Craig Merkerson (247) edged Johnny Dennis by three points (244) and Matthew Harris by five points (242). Merkerson had the top kick score of 90½ while Terry Jones had the top pass score of 100½ and Dennis' 80½ was the top punt score.

Among the 10-year olds, Lanier Wells was first with a score of 129½, boosted by a top pass score of 76. Caleb Watson was second at 131 and Freddie Hampton had the top punt score of 74 and finished third at 129½.

In the nine-year-old division, Cyrus Bradley had a big day as he compiled 231½ points compared to 218 for second place Joshua Watson and 211 for third place Freddie Hampton. Bradley had the top kick score (96) while Watson had the top pass (102½) and the top kick (73½).

Among the eight-year-olds, Omar Jackson was first with 201½ points, edging out Michael Ashley (199) and Eddie Key (153½). Jackson had the top punt (89). Key the top pass (94½) and Ashley the top kick (88½).

Sanford Recreation Department employee Robbie Robinson and Reginald Perry, coach of the Sanford Buca Midget League Flag Football team, conducted the competition.

Naylor Poise Belies Her Rookie's Status

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

She's just a rookie in Class III, but Sally Naylor performed like a veteran this past weekend in the Class III Sectional meet at United Gymnastics in Jacksonville.

Naylor, a fifth grader at Winter Park's Brookshire Elementary, representing Brown's Central of Altamonte Springs, took second place in the all-around competition in the 9-11 age group with a personal best score of 34.90. Naylor, 10, in her first year as a Class III gymnast, took first place on the vault with a score of 8.95, second on the balance beam at 8.6, fifth on the uneven parallel bars at 8.7 and eighth on floor exercise at 8.85.

The Section Meet was the last qualifying meet for gymnasts before the Class III State Championships scheduled for Dec. 13-14. The meet is being hosted by Brown's Central and will be held at Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs.

Prior to this past weekend's meet, Naylor and Alicia Rhoades had already qualified for state in the 9-11 age group, but Heather Peery came through with a score of 33.15 to earn a spot at state.

In the 12-14 age group, Allison Pizzil and Robyn Sorenson compiled all-around scores of 33.0 which qualified them for the state meet. Those who already qualified in the 12-14 group include Pam Davis, Erin McFadin and Shannon Allen.

In this past weekend's meet, Rhoades claimed sixth in the all-around with a score of 33.85. Rhoades, 10, a fifth grader at Forest City Elementary, had a fourth on floor exercise at 8.85, added a 10th on vault 8.4 (10th) and also had scores of 8.3 on bars and beam.

Perry, 11, from DeLand, was ninth on the beam at 8.4. Tiffany Dunn placed seventh on bars (8.55) and seventh on floor (8.7).

In the 12-15 age group, Davis, had an all-around score of 34.15. Davis, 12, a seventh grader at Greenwood Lakes Middle School, was sixth on bars (9.0), and seventh on floor (8.75).

McFadin, 13, an eighth grader at Trinity Preparatory School, tied for fifth on floor (8.9) and had an all-around score of 33.50.

Pizzil, 13, an eighth grader at Teague Middle School, tied for fifth on floor at 8.9.

Sorenson, a sixth grader at Park-Maitland School, was sixth on vault at 8.85.

Brown's took third place in the team standings behind Central Florida Gymnastics and Diving of Orlando and the host team from United Gymnastics.

Bennett: Loss To Falcons Turned Season For Worse

Football

TAMPA (UPI) — After the 23rd loss in his 27-game tenure as coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Leeman Bennett said Monday his team reached a crossroads seven weeks ago.

The Buccaneers were coming off a 24-0 victory against Detroit with a chance to even their record at 2-2 Sept. 28 at home against Atlanta. Tampa Bay led 20-0 at halftime but the Falcons tied the score on the final play of regulation and won 23-20 in overtime.

"The fourth game was the turning point of our season," said Bennett, who went 2-14 in his inaugural season with the Buccaneers. "We lost a game in which we had winning in our grasp and then we lost two defensive players (end Ron Holmes and John Cannon) on top of it."

Bennett did not appear particularly disturbed by Sunday's 31-7 loss to Green Bay, a one-sided game that left both teams at 2-9. He said the score might have been reversed had the first play from scrimmage succeeded.

"The whole thing started with the first play of the game," Bennett said. "We had Phil Freeman wide open — nobody within 20 yards of him — but Steve Young didn't see him and threw instead to James Wilder underneath, and the ball was dropped. Their free safety left the middle of the field completely open and it would have been a touchdown for us on the first play."

Wilder left the game early because his bruised ribs hadn't healed properly, but Bennett expects to have his veteran fullback back for Sunday's home game against the Lions. Tight end Calvin Magee, who leads the club with three touchdown catches, is doubtful with an injured hamstring and guard Sean Farrell has fluid in his left knee and is questionable.

For the second consecutive game,

Tampa Bay fell behind 14-0 after two opposing drives. With a transparent pass rush the chief culprit, Tampa Bay is last in the NFL in total defense despite drafting primarily for defense this spring.

"We're still giving up all those yards every week (403 average) and yet I see better players out there for us on defense than I did last year," he said. "It's a great concern, but these people simply have to play together longer. I thought our defense throughout the year would get progressively better. This season points out dramatically that we don't have a lot of depth. When teams like Chicago and New England get someone hurt, they replace them with a No. 1 draft choice."

With another losing season assured, Bennett will try to maintain team morale for the final five games.

"I think we're all down right now," he said. "You can't help but be down after losing to Green Bay by that margin. I think these guys feel embarrassed about the game and they're frustrated, just like all of us are. I don't have to focus on the embarrassment because others do it for you ... just look at the headlines this morning. I think the point has been driven home."

DOLPHINS: GOOD NEWS

MIAMI (UPI) — When a perennial playoff team is struggling through a season with more defeats than victories, good news often comes in small measures.

For the Miami Dolphins, the good news from their 34-24 win over Buffalo Sunday was their ability to bounce back from a lethargic first half to raise their record to 6-6. Miami trailed at halftime 21-10, but rallied behind quarterback Dan Marino to outscore the Bills 24-3 in the second half.

Buffalo had the ball for only 7:32 in the second half as Miami won its second game of the year against the Bills.

IN BRIEF

Williams Scores On Breakaway, Leads Sanford Under 14 Victory

Jonathan Williams scored on a breakaway in the second half to lead the Sanford Soccer Club under 14 team to a 1-0 victory over Downtown Orlando in the ninth week of Central Florida Youth Soccer League play.

Williams also played goalkeeper in the first half and had two unassisted saves while Ryan Ortiz took over in the second half and had three unassisted saves. The defense that held Downtown Orlando in check most of the game was led by Amy Williams, Joe Nicholas and Jason Walraven.

In under 12 play, Andy Greenlee scored a breakaway goal for Sanford but it wasn't enough as College Park claimed a 4-1 victory. Joseph Hoffman, Mike Ponzillo and Steven Kyle were also noted for their offensive play.

In under 10 action, Patrick Shannon and Tyler Blair scored goals to give Sanford a 2-1 lead but Maitland scored in the last minute of play to salvage a 2-2 tie.

Erich Hoffman and Scott Carroll played well as goalkeepers while Erica Duffendack, Robby Duffendack, Jason Franza, Ralph Keeler, James Smith, Kelly Williamson and Jay Smith had solid defensive games. Laura Williams contributed an assist on Blair's goal while Gene Bouch and Marty Neal were also recognized for their offensive efforts.

In under eight play, the Sanford team fought hard but couldn't make up for being two players short as Maitland rolled to a 7-0 victory. Maitland played with the regular 11 players while Sanford fielded just nine. Goalie Jorge Piquer was noted for his strong play.

Martina Remains Enemy No. 1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Considering the alternative, Martina Navratilova would just as soon remain public enemy No. 1.

For the last five years, Navratilova has been the scourge of women's tennis, winning more than 95 percent of her matches. The price for this incredible success is the attendant pressure of being the favorite target for the other women.

In several respects, Navratilova is enjoying the finest year of her career. She has a match record of 85-3, includes Wimbledon and the U.S. Open among her 12 tournament titles, and made a highly emotional return to Czechoslovakia.

All that remains on the 1986 calendar is the $1 million Virginia Slims Championships, and Navratilova will be taking a winning streak of 49 matches into tonight's opening-round contest against Catarina Lindqvist.

Seventh seed Manuela Maleeva and Bettina Bunge won their opening-round matches Monday night in this season-ending championship. Maleeva overcame an attack of nerves and serving problems to beat 17-year-old Melissa Gurney 6-4, 6-1, and Bunge beat eighth seed Kathy Rinaldi 7-5, 6-4.

Scanlon, Davis Provide Upsets

HOUSTON (UPI) — Unseeded entrants Bill Scanlon and Scott Davis provided the $279,000 WTC Houston Shootout with a pair of upsets Monday in opening day action.

Scanlon defeated No. 7 Paul Annacore 7-6 (7-3), 6-4 while Davis bumped No. 8 Gary Donnelly 7-6 (7-3), 6-3.

In earlier play, fifth-seeded Ramesh Krishnan stopped qualifier Jim Grabb 6-3, 6-4; Elliot Teltscher won two tie-breakers to beat Chip Hooper 7-6 (8-6), 7-6 (7-5); Brad Pearce beat qualifier Ken Fitch 6-3, 6-4; and Andre Agassi beat Glenn Michibata, Canada's No. 1 singles player, 6-3, 6-2.

Derrick Rostagno took the only three-set victory of the afternoon session, beating Mel Purcell 6-4, 5-7, 6-1.

Polite Decides On Florida State

Daytona Beach Mainland's Mike Polite, considered one of the top forwards in the state, signed a letter of intent to play basketball next year with Florida State Monday.

Polite, a 6-7 senior, will be one of the major obstacles in the path of coach Bill Klein's district title dreams. He averaged 20.3 points per game last year as the Buca finished second in the district.

FSU also signed David White, a 6-6 235-pound forward from Boca Ciega High School, Livingston Chatman, a 6-7, 230-pound forward from Lakeland Kathleen, committed to Florida.

Layne: Very Critical Condition

LUBBOCK, Texas (UPI) — Former Detroit Lions quarterback Bobby Layne, in very critical condition following weekend surgery, had breathing problems Monday that were brought under control, Methodist Hospital officials said.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 13.07 Monday, was down 6.19 to 1854.33 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 551-346 among the 1,334 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 10,680,000 shares.

The stock market retreated in active trading Monday as news of the biggest insider-trading scandal in Wall Street's history prompted traders to take profits.

Just after the open, the Dow slid more than 14 points on nervous selling related to news, released just after the market closed Friday, that one of Wall Street's most prominent arbitrageurs, Ivan Boesky, had agreed to pay $100 million in fines and disgorged profits for trading on inside information.

The Boesky scandal is discouraging some takeover speculation, some traders said. In connection with the Boesky case, the Securities and Exchange Commission on Friday also served subpoenas on professionals at several major Wall Street firms.

But Alfred Goldman, investment policy strategist at A.G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis, said the fact that stock prices partially recovered from initial selling means the market is saying that just because Boesky is out of the picture does not mean "deal mania" will die.

"Stocks involved in actual merger and acquisition deals are doing fine," said Goldman. "Only the totally fictitious stories have gone the way of all flesh."

Dollar Edges Up As Gold Declines

By United Press International

The price of gold extended its losses at the opening on major world bullion markets today, while the U.S. dollar edged slightly higher against most major currencies.

In London gold opened $2.375 an ounce lower at $388.75 per ounce, down from Monday's close of $391.125.

The morning fixing in London was $388, off $3.125 from Monday's close.

In Zurich gold fell $2 an ounce to $387.50 from Monday's close of $389.50.

Gold dropped more than $17 an ounce in Zurich and London on Monday, closing below the $400 per ounce mark for the first time since Sept. 2.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $387.35 an ounce on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, off $8.90 from Monday's close.

Dealers said gold was being pulled down by platinum, whose price was also falling sharply, as a large supply of platinum was starting to reach markets from South Africa.

Dealers in New York said they expected gold to bottom out around $380 an ounce during the week.

Silver fell 5 cents at the opening in Zurich to $5.55, from Monday's close of $5.60, and lost 6.5 cents an ounce in London to $5.545, from a previous close of $5.61.

The U.S. dollar was mostly higher in European trading opening in Frankfurt at 2.016 German marks compared to Monday's close of 2.0096 marks. The West German markets will be closed Wednesday for a holiday.

In Zurich the dollar opened at 1.68 Swiss francs, against a previous close of 1.676.

In Paris the dollar opened at 6.5985 French francs, up from 6.5975; and in Milan at 1.396.50 lire, up from 1.392.

In London, the pound opened at $1.4195, compared with Monday's close of $1.4285.

The lone exception to the upward trend in Europe was in Amsterdam, where the dollar opened at 2.2745 guilders, slightly off from Monday's close of 2.2765.

In Tokyo the dollar edged slightly higher against the Japanese yen in light trading, closing at 162.65 yen, up 0.15 from Monday's close of 162.50.

Dealers in Tokyo said traders stayed on the sidelines awaiting the revised U.S. gross national product figures for the third quarter, expected to be released on Wednesday.

In early trading on New York's Comex, a 100-ounce gold futures contract for current delivery in November opened at $391.90 an ounce, up $2.70 from Monday's close. A 5,000-ounce silver futures contract for delivery in November opened at $5.564, up 6 cents an ounce.

Report: Boesky Taped Calls

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tape recordings of Ivan Boesky's conversations with leading Wall Street figures were made as part of his cooperation with a widening Securities and Exchange Commission probe of insider trading, it was reported today.

The taping has been done with his consent for as many as three months, both The New York Times and The Washington Post said, citing unidentified lawyers and other Wall Streeters.

The recordings have implicated investment specialists Boesky has known for years in the spreading scandal, including some leading investment bankers, takeover stock speculators and lawyers in the financial world, the Times reported.

Reports of the recordings, involving both Boesky's employees and business contacts, have heightened uncertainty and fear on Wall Street as to the scope of the probe and the number of potential suspects.

"He has been walking around with a recording device on his phone and himself," one Wall Street source told the Post.

"There is a lot of fear out there," said another. "This is a financial Watergate in one respect: Who is next and where does it lead?"

Samuel Winer, a securities lawyer with Arter & Hadden in Washington who spent more than four years with the SEC's enforcement branch, said Boesky's "contacts appear to have been extensive."

"A good number of people who had dealings with Boesky ... undoubtedly are nervous," said Winer.

Neither Boesky's lawyers nor the SEC would comment on the taping reports, the Post said.

Boesky was caught using information provided by Dennis B. Levine, a former managing director of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., whose $10.6 million penalty for insider trading was the largest at the time. But it pales beside the $100 million levied on Boesky, who also was barred from securities trading.

Levine also taped conversations with fellow employees and business associates in an attempt to gain leniency from federal prosecutors, the Post said, citing an unidentified Wall Street lawyer.

In London, ripples from the scandal were felt, as fears caused early losses in leading London Stock Market issues.

An insider-trading investigation is also in progress in London involving Boesky's Cambrian and General Securities firm.

possibly was dumped. "You just don't know," she added.

She said no time limit has been set on how long the animal will be held at the shelter. If he remains withdrawn today, she said he would be sent back to the veterinarian Tuesday for a second examination.

If the dog was in the custody of the county Animal Control division, he would have a few days remaining before the owner could reclaim him before being offered for adoption for a week to ten days. After that, he would likely be destroyed.

Monty is the "runt" of the shelter, surrounded by 32 cages filled with dogs which appear much more adoptable. There's a white mixed breed white Poodle named Ying-Yang which its house broken, a Beagle named Dandy, and a personable Greyhound named Shotgun Flak. Ms. Woodall said all three were turned over to the society because the owners no longer wanted them.

Most animals held by the county Animal Control division are those who have been roaming the streets without tags. If animals had tags, county officials say they could quickly be returned to their owners, who often give their dogs up for lost after several days, Young said.

jurors felt Eagan misrepresented to the governor what it asked of him and prevented it from seeing certain information a witness wanted the jurors to know. That information pertained to a state law controlling how a county is to purchase land. In the letter, it is stated Eagan had a copy of the law but would not let a witness present it to the jury. Local court records also show the jury asked to see 23 witnesses the day it convened on the matter, Oct. 29, but saw only three.

The Sanford Herald has also learned that the grand jury made at least one other recommendation and request in writing before disbanding.

The grand jury recommended through Eagan that State Attorney Norman Wolfinger investigate the allegations that one of his assistant state attorneys refused to take the issue before the grand jury, according to records.

That investigation is reportedly complete. Wolfinger is in Tallahassee at a meeting of prosecutors and was unavailable for comment. The jury, through Eagan, and again in a second separate letter, also asked that the Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigate the matter.

While the FDLE will neither confirm nor deny such an investigation, one of its representatives is reportedly interviewing persons related to the grand jury's session and collecting related information, the Sanford Herald has learned.

Eagan reported to Graham Oct. 30 that looking into the developers' allegations would entail a "considerable investigation."

Wolfinger said in early October that any extension of the grand jury's term would have to be approved by Graham's office. The grand jury also believed that was the issue and wrote Graham asking for such an extension.

Barbar Lithincum, general counsel for Graham's office, however, said the governor does not have the authority to extend grand juries. She said that authority lies with local circuit judges. She said she told that to the jury foreman, who has reportedly denied being told that. The foreman could not be reached for comment on the matter.

McEwan said Eagan was heard commenting that the Oct. 29 session of the grand jury wouldn't take more than 30 minutes. He said it was Eagan's intent to sidetrack the investigation before it got started. Eagan's office would not comment on his actions before the grand jury.

A new grand jury is to meet Thursday. If it does not asked to see the Yankee Lake issue, McEwan and Davis are expected to again ask the State Attorney's Office to consider the matter, and if it is refused again, take it before the new grand jury with letters of comments from old grand jury members recommending there be an inquiry.

stioner Milton Smith Monday, Falso responded, "I'm not controlled. I will give the city commission advice, but even the city commission won't control me, they'll fire me."

Falso's comments and the SIB's evaluation guidelines came during a lengthy and occasionally turbulent session. At one point, Ms. Jacobson said, "We talk about the S-I-B, but we mean 'S-a-r-a.'"

Although Ms. Jacobson's name was not used during the discussion, Commissioner Smith did say "she, I mean the board," during an accusation the SIB has overstepped its authority.

Mid-way through the discussion, Mayor Smith said to the SIB members, "You've heard our concerns today, and I challenge you to meet as a board and come back to tell us what you plan to do about these concerns."

Although the list is lengthy as defined by commissioners' comments, Ms. Jacobson said the board's successful response to the challenge "will be easier than you think, mayor."

She said she polled board members before Monday's work session "and only two want to see a change of leadership." She also said, "To my knowledge the SIB has never done anything not mandated by the city commission."

After the session, Mrs. Jacobson said this included the board's not "directing" city staff who conduct scenic board projects. However, Commissioner Smith read from the SIB's charter Monday and said instead of "refraining from involving itself in day to day affairs of the city" as required, SIB members "have gone out into the field, supervising or attempting to supervise staff."

Smith called the board "aggressive," said it had "an attitude problem," then "strongly" suggested Ms. Jacobson resign as chairman.

The resignation was overriden by Mayor Smith, and commissioners Bob Thomas and John Mercer.

In response to Commissioner Smith's statement regarding aggressive behavior, Ms. Jacobson said, "Show me a leader who doesn't act this way and I'll show you an ineffectual leader."

Mercer, whose wife serves on the SIB, remained staunchly in the board's corner throughout Monday's session. He said the charter had never been violated and pointed to its allowing the board to "initiate" beautification efforts.

"If you go look at the lakefront, city hall, plans for the future development of Sanford, you can't forget what the SIB has done and we shouldn't attempt to muzzle them," Mercer said. "We should encourage them to continue initiating those things that make Sanford a better place to live."

Mayor Smith said the "public's perception" of the SIB "doesn't find any fault with what they've accomplished, but maybe with the methods they've used to accomplish it."

She said if the board's evaluation determines problems along these lines, it "rethink its methods." She also said a change of leadership in the SIB should be determined by the board itself, not the commission.

Thomas said Ms. Jacobson should continue in the role "because she and the board have accomplished so much for the city."

He also said if the SIB had overstepped its bounds the fault lay with commissioners "for not telling them these are your responsibilities and that we expect these directions to be adhered to."

Commissioner Dave Farr disputed the statement, saying the SIB's responsibilities "have been spelled out in their charter all along." The board was formed nearly two years ago. Ms. Jacobson has been chairman throughout.

Board member Danny Floyd said Monday "some toes have been stepped on" by the SIB and "some of the city's businesses, civic groups and citizens are not happy about it."

Farr also said he felt the SIB pressures the business community into conforming with its wishes.

Farr was recently named to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce presidency and has been an out-spoken critic of the SIB in recent weeks. On Monday, he said Sanford businesses "want their city back," instead of feeling squeezed by the SIB regarding site plan reviews.

Ms. Jacobson denies the SIB has ever acted in such a manner. She said Farr "has a personal vendetta against me." Farr denies the claim.

She also said "Dave Farr is the cause of many of our problems. Instead of coming to me and asking what I've done, he goes to a board member or two and asks them, I think if Dave and I talked, we'd eliminate a lot of the problems."

In response to Ms. Jacobson's call for communication, Farr, who is not running for re-election, said, "Well, I'm going off the board at the end of December."

Ms. Jacobson said, "Me too." Farr said, "Maybe that solves the problem, are you serious about leaving Sara?"

Ms. Jacobson said the response "was meant to be sarcastic."

she moved to Altamonte Springs from there in 1976. She was a retired clerk for the Internal Revenue Service and was a Lutheran.

Honesty May Be Best Policy When Making Introductions

Dear Abby

DEAR READERS: I recently published a letter from "Birmingham," who wrote to say that while she was at the home of a new friend, the children came home from school and the mother introduced them this way: "I'd like you to meet my son, Andrew. And this is my stepson, Johnny."

"Birmingham" wrote: "Might it not have been kinder to have introduced them both as 'sons'?" Then she ("Birmingham") remarked that she had a relative who always made it a point to tell people on first meetings that Sharon and Natalie were her whole sisters, but Jennifer was her half-sister. She added, "Another relative, believe it or not, would say in the presence of her children, 'Tommy is our own child, but Jimmy is adopted.'"

"Birmingham" asked me to comment. I did, as follows: "In making a casual introduction, any mention of 'step,' 'half,' 'own' or 'adopted' strikes me as insensitive and uncalled for. Should a closer friendship develop, the specific relationship will probably be disclosed in due time. But until and unless it does, to make a point of it is both tasteless and inappropriate."

That seemed to be a reasonable and proper comment, right? Wrong! Read on for a few of many critical letters:

DEAR ABBY: I am the stepmother of two wonderful children who have lived with my husband and me for over five years. The children's mother lives in the same town in which we live. When introducing the children, I state that they are my stepchildren. Not only would their mother have corrected me for calling them my "children," but the children would have corrected me. (And they have!)

So, you think the introduction of stepchildren as such is "tasteless and inappropriate"? Well, you haven't had a 12- and a 14-year-old correct you in front of a stranger. Abby, give us mothers a break!

THE "WICKED STEPMOTHER" IN HOBS, N.H.
DEAR ABBY: My own mother, to whom I was very close, died when I was 13. My father remarried and later moved to a city where I had never lived. My stepmother not only told all her new friends that I was her daughter, but maligned me to them and complained continually about my lack of love and respect. She treated me with contempt, and then had the temerity to complain to my children about what a terrible child I had been. She also berated me for telling my own children about their "real" grandmother.

Thirty years later I am still trying to undo the damage she has done. She even persists in introducing me as her daughter after I have repeatedly asked her not to. I do not wish to be thought of as this woman's daughter. Moreover, the memory of my own mother means a great deal to me and I want to keep it alive for my children.

So, you see, Abby, some of us stepchildren prefer to be introduced that way.

A STEPMOTHER (NO CITY, PLEASE)
DEAR ABBY: When I married a man with two teenage children from a previous marriage, there was considerable discussion as to what I should be called. The children felt that calling me "Mom" was disrespectful to their still-living mother. For that reason, there were some protests and corrections from them when some unknowing stranger referred to me as their "mother."

However, they were uncomfortable with "stepmother" because of the "wicked stepmother" connotations from fairy tales. I joked about it and told them they were perfectly welcome to introduce me as their "wicked stepmother."

When addressing me directly, they call me by my first name.

With the high number of divorces these days, this must be a common problem. I see no reason to do away with a distinction between two different relationships, which the child may regard as an important distinction.

BEARI PRANGE, CALIF.
DEAR SHARI, STEP-MOTHER, STEPMOTHER AND ALL WHO WROTE TO PROTEST MY ANSWER: Thank you for broadening my vista. It did not occur to me that my perspective was myopic and limited. Sign me... STILL LEARNING ON THE JOB

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 15-year-old girl who has been having sex with her 17-year-old boyfriend without using any kind of protection: When I was 16, I did the same thing and ended up pregnant. After our son was born, my boyfriend and I got married. Six weeks later we got a divorce. I would be a senior in high school this year, but I had to quit to raise my baby. Now I'm 17 with a 4-month-old baby, no husband, no job and no education.

Don't end up like me. Do yourself a favor and get protection. You can get something over the counter, or go to Planned Parenthood, or go to a doctor other than the family doctor and get on the pill.

You've got your whole life in front of you. Don't mess it up.

Contestants Needed For Miss Altamonte Pageant

The Miss Altamonte Springs Scholarship pageant is seeking contestants to compete for the title of "Miss Altamonte Springs 1987." The pageant is an official preliminary pageant for Miss Florida, and part of the Miss America program. The pageant has been tentatively set for Saturday, Feb. 28, 1987 at the Altamonte Hilton. Last year's pageant awarded $4,000 in scholarship money, and plans call for a substantial increase in cash scholarships in 1987.

This is the third year for the Miss Altamonte Springs pageant, which is rapidly becoming a major annual event in the city, according to Barbara Hauck. The 1986 pageant was judged to be the "best pageant" in the state of Florida by the Miss Florida Pageant Board of Directors, winning out over 48 other local pageants throughout the state, Ms. Hauck says.

Miss Altamonte Springs 1986 is Traci Wixson, a singer and dancer who recently completed a tour of military bases throughout Florida and the Caribbean as a member of the Miss Florida USA Troupe.

To qualify as a contestant, a young woman must be between the ages of 17 and 26 and a high school graduate by Labor Day 1987, and must never have been married. Prospective contestants must also live within a 75 mile radius of the City of Altamonte Springs, or be a student at a school within that radius.

For more information about the Miss Altamonte Springs Pageant, contact the Miss Altamonte Springs Scholarship Pageant, Inc. at Post Office Box 2088, Altamonte Springs, Florida 32715-2088, or call Barbara or Russ Hauck at 305-862-1510.

Getting Married?

Engagement and wedding forms are available at The Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave. The completed forms may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph if a picture is desired with the announcement. For information, call 322-2811.

Christensen's Clockworks Has Pre-Christmas Sale

With Christmas just around the corner, Christensen's Clockworks Sales and Service in Longwood is holding a timely sale during November. They have over 200 clocks in stock in all styles from travel alarms to floor clocks and they are all on sale. Some of the clocks are marked down as much as one-half the suggested retail price during this special sale event.

They have a Christmas layaway plan available and if you act now you can still arrange for Christmas Eve delivery of large clocks.

When you purchase a Grandfather's clock at Christensen's Clockworks, located at 430 Savage Court, you are investing in the future. In addition to the pleasure it will bring you in the present it will be a treasured heirloom for your grandchildren's grandchildren to enjoy.

Your clock should come from a reputable dealer who can be counted on for service after the sale. One such is Christensen's Clockworks, which makes available the best clocks in the world. Unique to Central Florida is the fact that Christensen's is a full-service clock shop providing sales and service for leading clock manufacturers such as Howard Miller, Ridgeway, Seth Thomas, Silgh and many others.

The service includes personal delivery set up and a full five-year warranty provided it is serviced and lubricated within the first three years.

Clocks have always been a popular and important household item, but for the last 25 years there has been a phenomenal increase in the number of Grandfather clocks being sold in the country.

Christensen's Clockworks was established in 1984 by Eric Christensen after he served a 10-year apprenticeship in clock making. On the staff with Eric is Bud Rupert who recently retired from Jacobson's in Longwood as the manager of their furniture and clock departments. Eric and Bud are both qualified clockmakers and specialize in the repair and restoration of antique clocks. In addition to the repair and maintenance of modern clocks. They also make house calls for ailing floor clocks.

They are prepared to give an extended warranty because they check the clocks inside and out and know they are running properly before they go on the floor.

They also have a large selection of cuckoo clocks from the Black Forest of Germany, mantle clocks, wall clocks and desk clocks.

Savage Court is located off State Road 434 between Frank's Nursery and McDonald's Golden Arches.

Visa, Mastercard and American Express cards are accepted and financing is available if desired.

Fred Hoffower, owner of Redlon Nursery, holds 25-year-old bonsai tree.

Gift Plants Galore At Redlon Nursery

For unusual gift plants that make different and welcome gifts come to Redlon Nursery, located at 420 S. Country Club Road, Lake Mary. They specialize in indoor and outdoor bonsai trees and cactus gardens at reasonable prices.

Owners Fred and Lona Hoffower have operated Redlon Nursery at the same location (across from the west entrance to Seminole Community College) for 10 years.

They have a large variety of cactus in stock and cactus gardens in all sizes from $4.95 to $24.95.

They make cactus gardens in your pottery or theirs. You can have your dish garden made to order in your favorite pottery.

Send a gift to your favorite cactus lover anywhere in the country. Redlon will package and ship 10 bare root cactus plants for only $10.50.

Poinsettias, the colorful Christmas favorite, come in four-inch, five-inch and six-inch containers and specimen size range in price from $2 to $15. They are grown at Redlon Nursery.

Living miniature trees indoor and outdoor type such as cypress, ficus, aralia, pine, and Madagascar palm from $10.95 up.

Redlon specializes in Serissa foetida, snow rose and variegated. They are a beautiful indoor blooming plant.

If you prefer to make your own miniature trees, Redlon has all the materials, small plants and bonsai pots plus helpful advice.

Groups are always welcome to visit the greenhouses. Call the nursery for an appointment at 323-9061.

Redlon Nursery is open Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon. Flea World goes on and Fred and his plants at Booth F3234, Friday through Sunday each week.

Supreme Court Will Hear Internment Camp Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, returning to one of the most controversial cases in its history, agreed Monday to decide whether Japanese-Americans herded into war camps 44 years ago can sue the government for damages.

The justices will hear arguments early next year in the administration's appeal of a lower court ruling that enabled World War II internment camp survivors — who number about 60,000 — to seek compensation for violation of their constitutional rights.

In January, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia reinstated a class-action lawsuit by 19 Japanese-Americans seeking money damage stemming from the mass roundup sparked by fears of subversion after the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese Imperial Navy.

A trial judge ruled in 1984 that the suit was barred by a six-year statute of limitations. However, the appeals court said the clock for filing claims did not begin ticking until 1980 when a congressional report concluded that the internment of Japanese-Americans was based "on their ethnic origins alone," rather than military necessity.

In a sidlight to Monday's action, the high court noted that Justice Antonin Scalia, its newest member, did not take part in the decision to hear case. Scalia was a member of the appeals court when it ruled on the issue, although he was not on the three-judge panel that made the decision.

The full appeals court refused to review the panel's ruling and Scalia said at that time he favored a full-scale re-examination of the case. It was not clear whether Scalia would take part in the high court's review of the matter.

In other action before beginning a two-week recess, the court:

- Ruled unanimously that employers have a duty under federal law to try to meet employee requests for time off to go to church or for other religious reasons. But the court rejected arguments employers must always defer to such requests.
- Left intact a ruling barring officials in St. Charles, Ill., from stringing Christmas lights in the shape of a cross atop the city's fire department building.
- Allowed the use of federal grand jury materials in the state criminal trials of former Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan and his business associates at the Schiavone Construction Co. The men are on trial for defrauding the New York City Transit Authority of $7.4 million.

The internment case forces the court to return to one of its most well-known opinions, issued in 1944, which upheld President Franklin Roosevelt's executive order requiring the removal of Japanese-Americans from the West Coast.

That 6-3 ruling, written by Justice Hugo Black, upheld the imprisonment of more than 100,000 Japanese-Americans, despite protests from high court dissenters that most were citizens who had not been convicted of a crime.

The court said it was deferring to the executive branch's judgment the action was needed to prevent spying and sabotage. But documents discovered since have revealed that there was no evidence of disloyalty among Japanese-Americans and that the segregation order actually was based on racial prejudice.

"Not a single act of espionage or sabotage by Americans of Japanese ancestry in the United States was ever shown," lawyers for the National Council for Japanese-American Redress said in legal briefs, adding the "economic losses alone during the imprisonment have been estimated at $3.4 billion to $4.2 billion."

Both sides had asked the high court to review the appeals court decision. The Japanese-Americans argued the ruling unfairly limited the types of legal claims that could be made to those involving lost property, while the federal government said the court should not have allowed any claims at all.

The high court took only the government's appeal.

Justice Department lawyers maintained that "our national misjudgment under pressures of war in the 1940s" should not be second-guessed now, and asserted, "If the approach of the court of appeals is to be taken seriously, then there is really no such thing as a statute of limitations."

Executive Order 9068, signed by Roosevelt on Feb. 19, 1942, less than 10 weeks after Japanese forces savaged the U.S. Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, resulted in the forced removal of 120,000 Japanese-Americans from their homes on the West Coast. They were placed in camps in Arkansas, Arizona and other states where they lived for up to three years surrounded by barbed wire and military police.

Families were allowed to take to the camps only what they could carry. By the time the executive order was lifted in December 1944, they had lost homes, farms and businesses.

About 60,000 of the 120,000 internees are believed alive today. Some 26,000 filed claims under the American-Japanese Evacuation Claims Act, enacted by Congress in 1948 to compensate survivors for lost property.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of Monday's Supreme Court action:

Rulings — Ruled unanimously that federal civil rights law requires employers to offer "a reasonable accommodation" to workers who need time off for religious observance. Chief Justice William Rehnquist wrote the opinion (85-495 — Ansonia Board of Education vs. Philbrock).

— In an unsigned opinion, ruled unanimously that a Newport, Ky., ordinance banning nude dancing where liquor is sold is constitutional (86-139 — City of Newport, Ky. vs. Iacobucci).

Cases Accepted — Will decide whether Japanese-Americans forced to live in detention camps during World War II can sue the government for billions of dollars in damages (86-510 — United States vs. Hohri).

— Agreed to decide if federal courts can impose residency requirements on attorneys (86-475 — Frazier vs. Heebel).

— Will decide what standard of proof should be used in paternity disputes. The case involves a Pennsylvania law that provides paternity shall be established by a preponderance of the evidence instead of clear and convincing evidence (86-98 — Minnich vs. Rivera).

— Accepting an appeal by the federal government, will decide if a corporation's chief shareholders of a portion of their shares, in order to improve the company's financial position, entitles them to an immediate deductible loss in taxable income (86-511 — Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Fink).

Cases Rejected — Left intact a ruling barring officials in St. Charles, Ill., from stringing Christmas lights in the shape of a cross atop the city's fire department building (86-351 — City of St. Charles vs. American Civil Liberties Union).

— Let stand a ruling that federal grand jury materials may be used in the state criminal trials of former Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan and his business partners at the Schiavone Construction Co. (86-519 — Schiavone Construction Co. vs. Merola).

— Refused to review Northwest Airlines' decision to recognize the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks over a competing union to represent its ground employees after its merger with Republic Airlines (86-442 — Air Line Employees Association vs. Republic).

— Left intact a decision setting aside the conviction and death sentence of Clifford Henry Bowen, who was accused of a triple murder at an Oklahoma City motel (86-485 — Maynard vs. Bowen).

— Refused to review a ruling that barred Colorado police from using sensory equipment to detect substances on hands, a practice being used increasingly to catch thieves and other criminals (85-1903 — Colorado vs. Santistevan).

— Let stand a ruling that orders several oil companies to pay the Jicarilla Apache Tribe of New Mexico more than $300,000 in royalties for oil and gas recovered on their reservation (86-219 — Southern Union Co. vs. Jicarilla Apache Tribe).

— Rejected an appeal by Volkswagen of America of a ruling requiring it to accommodate an employee whose religion says believers should refrain from working on Saturday (86-496 — Volkswagen of America vs. Protos).

NOTICE
 The St. Johns River Water Management District has received an application for Management and Storage of Surface Waters from:

SOUTH COUNTRY CORP. 648 SR 434 NORTH, SUITE A, ALTA MONTE SPGS, FL 32714.
 Application #46-117-0067A, on 10/29/84. The project is located in Seminole County, Section 23, Township 31 South, Range 21 East. The application is for a 23 acre P.U.D. CONSISTING OF LOW, MEDIUM AND HIGH DENSITY RESIDENTIAL UNITS WITH VARIOUS SUPPLEMENTAL FACILITIES to be known as ALAFAYA WOODS EAST BASIN. The receiving water body is the T.L.E. ECONOMOCKHATCHEE RIVER.

Action will be taken on the above listed application within 30 days of receipt of the application. Should you be interested in any of the listed applications, you should contact the St. Johns River Water Management District at P.O. Box 1429, Palatka, Florida 32978-1429, or in person at its office on State Highway 100 West, Palatka, Florida, 904/328-8221. Written objection to the application may be made, but should be received no later than 14 days from the date of publication. Written objections should identify the objector by name and address, and fully describe the objection to the application. Filing a written objection does not entitle you to a Chapter 128, Florida Statutes, Administrative Hearing. Only those persons whose substantial interests are affected by the application and who file a petition meeting the requirements of Section 28-3.381, F.A.C., may obtain an Administrative Hearing. All timely filed written objections will be presented to the Board for its consideration in its deliberation on the application prior to the Board taking action on the application.

Dumping Syndrome And Stomach Surgery

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the dumping syndrome and why does one get it?

DEAR READER — Dumping syndrome is a complication of stomach surgery. After part of the stomach is removed and a patient eats, the gastric contents empty too quickly into the small intestine. This "dumping" causes sweating, nausea, weakness and dizziness. The condition is permanent, but the symptoms can be prevented if the patient limits his diet to small, frequent meals consisting of high-protein, high-calorie foods.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 49, and 25 pounds overweight. When I become overheated, the right side of my face becomes red, hot and sweaty; the left side becomes pale, cool and dry. One neurologist said the problem was in my neck, but he was unconcerned. Another said he was unfamiliar with the condition, but that it was untreatable. I'm not satisfied with either answer. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing an isolated malfunction of the sympathetic nerves. On the right side of your face, the blood vessels relax (to cause redness and heat), whereas blood vessels on the left side are stimulated to constrict, causing coolness and pallor. Although this appears to be a circulatory disorder, I suspect that the real basis is a nerve abnormality.

Your symptoms could be caused by many conditions, ranging from migraine equivalent to a peculiar side effect of some medicines. I suggest that you ask your doctor for a referral to the neurological clinic in a teaching hospital, where the specialists may be more able to identify the source of your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was told that I have aura migraine. The optometrist told me the treatment would be more painful than the migraine. Since the blinding spells are getting more frequent, should I accept the diagnosis?

DEAR READER — You can accept the diagnosis, but you do not have to accept the pronouncement of painful treatment. If your visual difficulties are caused by migraine, preventing the migraine will stop your "blinding spells." Beta-blockers often are useful for this purpose. Ask your doctor about this treatment. In addition, the use of other prescription drugs, such as ergotamine, may help abort a migraine attack once it has started. Again, your doctor can advise you.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband uses snuff. Lately he constantly sniffs his nose, clears his throat and has a slight cough. Any connection?

DEAR READER — Sure. Snuff is powdered tobacco and is just as irritating to the nose, throat and lungs as its more familiar counterpart: tobacco smoke. Also, snuff can cause cancer. Your husband would do himself a favor by getting off the stuff.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

With a loss of bidding room, players frequently land in unusual contracts. For the intrepid declarer, such a contract is a challenge that can often be successfully met. See what happened in today's deal. South was correct to double three diamonds for takeout but was up against it when North bid four diamonds, ostensibly asking him to bid a four-card major. Since he didn't have one, he bid his three-card heart suit — a reasonable choice.

The play began with West leading a singleton club and getting a ruff. Next came the king of diamonds. Declarer won and played a spade to dummy's king and a heart to his jack. Even though that drew the eight from West, declarer still persisted with the ace of hearts. The contract still could have been made, but declarer foolishly played two high clubs, ending in dummy, and then played a low spade toward his jack. That lost to West's doubleton queen, and declarer still had to lose a heart and another spade, so he was down two.

After playing the ace of hearts, declarer has a chance only if West holds the doubleton queen of spades. Declarer can play a spade to dummy's ace (dropping the queen), and then back to his spade jack. Next will come two clubs, ending in dummy, and the ruff of the last spade with his small heart. The queen and nine of hearts, which are still in dummy, must make one trick. That will be enough for game.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 19, 1986

In the year ahead, failure is not in the cards in enterprises where you are determined to succeed. The world can slow you down, but it can't stop you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A situation similar to one you experienced in the past is shaping up once again. The replay will produce the same lucky results as before. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that will govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, re-examine an arrangement you've made with someone else. You should now see advantages you've overlooked.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's best not to keep things to yourself today if you have a problem making a decision. Talking with friends will give you fresh alternatives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try not to permit an unmotivated associate to lower your level of performance today. If you have things to do, let him or her idle alone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) All will go quite well for you today, because you'll see the humor and hope in matters that others treat negatively. Too bad they lack your perspective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Doing nice things for others will give you as much pleasure today as it does the recipients, especially if those you help are family members.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your words carry a lot of weight today, and you can easily influence associates. Therefore, don't talk them into things that do not serve their best interests.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although there is a hint you might lose something through carelessness today, stronger trends favor you in matters that affect your finances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You should be rather successful today in ventures that have speculative elements. However, this may not be so if others make decisions for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your productivity will accelerate as the day wears on. By evening, when you put your tools away, you'll be proud of all that you've accomplished.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Substantial benefits may develop for you today through your organizational affiliations. Touch base with fellow club members.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Opportunities that have been denied you careerwise and financially could start coming to you in this cycle. Don't let your faith waver.
