

In Society

Miss Irene Brady came over from Stetson University Friday afternoon, and enjoyed a short visit, with the home folks; returning Sunday afternoon.

Light Housekeepers, Take Notice

The Ladies of the Missionary Society of the Congregational church will have a sale of jellies, cooked food, vegetables, etc., at Crippen's Music Store, next Saturday, March 23rd., to which the attention of Sanford's house housekeepers is directed. Visitors in the city who are doing light housekeeping, will find at this sale just the articles that they want.

Missionary Society

The Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting, at the residence of Mrs. Henry McLaulin; Friday evening. The topic considered was Mexico. The members of the society are perfecting their arrangements to entertain the delegates from the various societies, composing the Presbyterian Missionary Union, of the St. John's Presbytery, which will meet with the Sanford society March 28th., and will continue in session three days. About forty delegates are expected. After the business of the meeting had been concluded, the election of officers took place. All those holding the various offices have given such eminent satisfaction, that they were all unanimously re-elected.

Birthday Dinner

Another milestone, on the journey of life, was most charmingly noted, for W. J. Hill by a delightful birthday dinner, with which Mrs. Hill surprised him Friday evening; on the occasion of his seventieth birthday.

The pleasant home party, and invited guests, who enjoyed the delicious four-course dinner served as only Mrs. Hill can serve a dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Hill, their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman, Billie Hill and little Olive Newman, Mr. E. W. Styles, Mrs. Hill's brother, and his wife, Mrs. W. W. Long; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Puleston.

After the dinner had been enjoyed, the party spent a pleasant evening together, delightfully entertained by the instrumental music and songs, charmingly rendered by Miss Stumon and Clarence Mahoney.

Every Week Bridge Club

Mrs. W. D. Holden was the charming hostess of the Every Week Bridge Club Friday afternoon. The decorations were green and white, suggestive of St. Patrick's Day. The tally cards were green, decorated with tiny green flags. Three tables of bridge were played. The first prize, a silver spoon, was won by Mrs. Lawrence, who made the highest score. Mrs. Cruse Barnes received the booby prize, a hand embroidered linen towel.

After the conclusion of the games of cards delicious ice cream and cake were served, with bonbons in little opera hats, decorated with green ribbon bands with bows and miniature pipes on the crowns.

Mrs. Holden's guests were Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin, Mrs. O. W. Brady, Mrs. R. L. Hughes, Mrs. H. P. Driver, Mrs. C. M. Vorce, Mrs. C. E. Bell, Mrs. Cruse Barnes, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Miss Wilson, Miss Faddy, Miss Nell Whitner.

The DeKoven Male Quartet Company

The last number on the Lyceum Course will be given Thursday evening, March 21st, at 8:30 p. m., in Auditorium of the Sanford High School.

The DeKoven Male Quartet are selected vocalists, and are in a company of artists, who are capable of correctly interpreting the songs of today, as well as the songs of long ago. They have been returned year after year, over some of the best Lyceum Courses. The Salisbury Evening Post, N. C., says: "The Quartet so delighted their audience, and received such tumultuous applause, that the eleven numbers on the program received thirty-five encores." "The work of the DeKovens was different from other organizations of kind introducing novel features, making the entertainment highly entertaining."—Athol Transcript, Athol, Mass.
Admission 50 cts.
Pupils, 25 cts.
Seats on sale at Thrasher's store, Wednesday and Thursday. All seats reserved.

The Clover Club

The young women of the Congregational church have organized themselves into an auxiliary to the Missionary Society of that church; which they have named The Clover Club. The main object of this organization is to assist Mr. Fred Ensminger in his work among the Cubans in West Tampa. Incidentally, they are helping to furnish the Pariah room at the parsonage. The club was charmingly entertained by Mrs. Wight, at their meeting last Friday. The guests were seated around the table, which was illuminated by lighted candles, in handsome brass candlesticks, and beautifully decorated with violets. At each cover was a menu and place card, on the card a ten cent piece, and a sketch of a clover leaf. On the back of the card, in rhyme, was given the object of the dinner, which the members of the club were to multiply as many times, as they possibly could during the month. Objects representing an elaborate dinner were passed to the guests, which they were to place correctly opposite the course on the menu.

The dinner consisted of:
Soup, (a stick of macaroni).
Meat, (duck and a pig).
Relish, (a ripe olive).
Vegetable, (beet, turnip, potato, celery).
Dessert, (orange, nut and banana).
(purie of cheese).

After this elaborate dinner (?) had been enjoyed, the club were served with "sure enough" hot chocolate, sunbeam crackers, ripe olives and mints.

THE UTILIZATION OF WASTE

products to the very fullest extent is, of course, the aim of every industrialist, and the Wood Waste Distilleries Co., Wheeling, West Virginia, U. S. A., certainly makes this possible in the case of the waste material of wood working establishments. By means of their distilling apparatus, ranging from a capacity of 5 to 500 gals., the industrial alcohol and turpentine contained in sawdust are effectively extracted, while the resultant fiber is ready for paper manufacturers. This still will actually pay for itself over and over again every month, and Colonial and foreign fruit canning companies, chemical works, saw mills, varnish makers, oil refineries, sugar refineries, etc., cannot fail to find it a profitable acquisition.—R. G. Dun's International Review

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

All the mines in the bituminous fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, will shut down on April 1 and 200,000 miners will quit at least for two weeks, according to the operators and miners' union officials who conferred at Cleveland this week. It will not be a strike they say, but merely a suspension of operations pending negotiations for a two-year wage scale to follow the present one, which expires March 31.

As the alleged discovery by the government of Nicaragua of a plot to assassinate Secretary of State Knox on the occasion of his recent visit to the capital of that country, it is not improbable that a number of prominent "Liberals" will be put to death, according to mail advices received from Bluefields.

Immediate indictment of Mrs. Daisy Opie Grace was asked of the Atlanta public prosecutor by attorneys for Eugene H. Grace, her husband of the husband of the woman accused of shooting him. She is on her way to her former home in Philadelphia, having been released on bond yesterday. The prosecutor refused to make any move in the case, explaining that it was a matter for the judge who admitted her to bail. The request was made, it is understood, to affect the arrest of Mrs. Grace on her arrival in Philadelphia, and head off any possible tangles should Grace die while she is out of the State.

With 1,167 of the 1,800 precincts in the State heard from in the North Dakota Presidential preference primary election of Tuesday complete returns give Senator LaFollette 34,159 votes; Theodore Roosevelt 22,877, and President Taft 3,000. Senator LaFollette's plurality in these precincts is 11,282. LaFollette's strength was greater in the eastern part of the state, although Roosevelt did not develop so much strength in the west as had been anticipated. Roosevelt carried but one of the eastern counties.

Even the Men and Religion Forward Movement is to be assisted by the good use of newspaper space. In Chicago the committee of one hundred men in charge of the work are making a campaign against the politicians who sent out campaign literature on Sunday. Letters were sent to each political headquarters in Chicago, requesting that all candidates cease political activities on Sunday. It is the intention of the committee to publish replies sent to those letters.

Still at liberty, but being hunted as will beasts, the Allen gang of outlaws and murderers are somewhere in the mountains in the Chestnut Ridge section, to which almost inaccessible place they are supposed to have moved from Squirrel Gap, where on Monday night they are known to have been. Fully 150 men are in the poses in the man-hunt game.

One hundred and five lives is accepted as an approximately correct estimate of the human toll taken when Mine No. 2 of the San Bois Coal Company in Oklahoma was wrecked by an explosion. Of the 116 men of the day shift only eleven are known to be alive while the others are entombed behind the debris. In the opinion of government experts and mine officers they are dead and a special train which brought physicians and nurses from Fort Smith, Ark.

Miss Marion Little, aged twenty-one years, Miss Lora Little, aged twenty-three years, and Virginia May Covington, three years old daughter of Dr. James Covington, Jr., prominent local business and social circles, were killed and Mrs. James Covington, Sr., grandmother of the dead child, was seriously injured when the building occupied by the Parsons Drug Company collapsed at Woodesboro, N. C., Wednesday.

Feeling keenly the disgrace of being caught in the act of smuggling Mrs. Blanche Carson of San Francisco committed suicide in New York in a most sensational manner. A man walking along the street past the Hotel Brotzell and chancing to look upward saw the body of a woman dangling just beneath a window ledge of the eighth floor of the structure. The hotel people were notified, and upon entering Mrs. Carson's room found her lifeless body suspended by a small rope, dangling just outside the window. She had made a slip noose which she placed around her neck, and after tying the other end of the rope to the steam radiator leaped from the window. She had strangled. When discovered the body was still warm, but life was extinct.

In a gas explosion, caused, it is thought by mine settlements, nine persons were killed and two injured early in Danmore Pa., near here. Two families, comprising two women and seven children, were either blown to pieces in the explosion or burned in the fire that followed and destroyed three houses.

The scout cruiser Birmingham, bearing the recently recovered remains of the victims of the old battleship Maine have arrived at the navy yard. The thirty-four coffins will be kept at the navy yard until Saturday, when they be taken to the State, War and Navy building, where there will be memorial services, attended by President Taft and other officials. Interment will be at the Naval Cemetery at Arlington.

FINE SPRING CROP PROSPECT

Sanford Has the Bulge On The Rest Of The World

C. G. Perry, the well-known commission man and truck grower, has just returned from a tour of the central and northern part of the state and reports that the truckers in those sections have been suffering from the devastation of the recent heavy rains and all the crops are backward.

This being true and the reports from the crops just north of us where spring crops could compete with Sanford growers would indicate that Sanford growers have a sure thing this season in the way of spring crops. All through the Carolinas the cold wave froze out the early farmer and just as he was about to get his land ready the floods came and the Carolinas will not be competitors this season.

Missionary Reading Circle

The Reading Circle of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church, were entertained by Mrs. J. K. Mettinger, Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mrs. P. M. Elder, at the residence of Mrs. J. K. Mettinger, Tuesday afternoon. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. H. V. Perry, third vice president of the society who has charge of the Reading Circle and the Tithing department of the society. The devotional exercises were followed by an interesting and instructive talk by Mrs. Perry, on "Christian Stewardship," concluding with several enthusiastic testimonies from tithers which were read by different members of the circle.

A chapter from "The Incoming Millions," the book the circle is reading at these meetings, was read giving the statistics characteristics and conditions, prevailing among the Italians, Slave and Jewish immigrants who are making their homes in America. A unique missionary drill prepared by Mrs. Perry was enjoyed by the ladies, as was also the beautiful Gospel hymn, "My Father Knows," sung by Mrs. T. A. Newton; after which light refreshments were served. The interesting meeting and afternoon was made very pleasant for the large number of the circle who were present, and the six visitors they were pleased to have with them, by the gracious hostess and the fine program prepared by Mrs. Perry. The Reading Circle have been invited to meet, at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Householder, the third Tuesday in April.

Death of George Davies

The many friends of George Davies, age 46 years, will regret to learn of his death, which occurred in a local sanitarium at a late hour last night. Deceased was prominent in secret order circles. He was a member of Hy Davis Aerie, Order of Eagles, as well as of Seminole Tribe No. 28, Improved Order of Red Men. He was favorably known to a large circle of friends. The funeral services are in charge of Wm. C. Cooper, Jr., and will take place Thursday afternoon, the hour to be announced later.—Times-Union.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Carrie Blaine Yeiser announces the engagement of her daughter, Vivian Blaine, to Robert Eugene Laramore, of Jacksonville, Fla. The marriage, which is to be a very quiet affair, will take place in April.

CAPITALISTS VISIT CITY

Prominent Party Spent Several Hours in Sanford

INSPECTED THE CELERY DELTA

Some of Directors and Stockholders of Fellsmere Farms Company on a Tour

On special Pullman sleeping cars, Miami and Weldon, and a dining car a large party of prominent bankers and capitalists of New York arrived here yesterday afternoon and spent several hours looking over the Celery Delta. In the party were several directors and stockholders of the Fellsmere Farm Co., a new project in Brevard county selling drained lands in ten acre tracts.

The gentlemen came to Sanford to inspect the wonderful sub-irrigation project that has made our lands famous over the world, and a trip over this section where the celery is being shipped at the rate of forty car loads a day was a revelation to these men who have never seen winter gardening done upon such a large scale in any part of the Union.

The entire party was taken over this section by the citizens of Sanford, but on account of the lateness of the hour but very little of the growing stuff could be seen.

Hon. J. N. Whitner afterward made an address to the assemblage in their car and fully explained the advantages of Sanford and the Celery Delta.

The personnel of the party arriving here yesterday included the following:

- Paul Appzeller, of Swartwout & Appzeller, New York.
- Frank Battles, of Battles & Co., Philadelphia.
- James F. Brown, of New York.
- W. W. Baldwin, Jr., of the Fellsmere Farm Co., New York.
- Percy M. Chandler, of Chandler Brothers & Co., Philadelphia.
- Oscar T. Crosby, president of the Fellsmere Farm Co., president of the Wilmington and Philadelphia Traction Co., president of the Trenton and Mercer County Traction Co., and director of the J. G. White Co.
- D. C. Clark of the Engineering Securities Co., of New York.
- W. B. Chamberlain, of Philadelphia.
- Henry P. DuBous, of the J. G. White Co., New York.
- E. M. Farnsworth, of Farnsworth & Co., Boston.
- J. D. Fleming, of London.
- W. F. Fuqua, of Fuqua, Lyng & Co., Philadelphia.
- Adolph Gehring, of New York.
- H. A. Kahler, of O'Conner & Taylor, New York.
- E. M. Kane, of Philadelphia.
- Chas. E. Lyman, of Littlefield, Ct.
- V. H. Power, of the Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore.
- Geo. X. McLanahan, of McLanahan & Barton, Washington.
- Chas. I. Mordock, of the Chicago offices of J. G. White & Co.
- Mr. Moller, of Moller Bros. & Co., Frederick, Md.
- Claude Meeker, banker, of Columbus, O.
- Geo. S. Pingree, of Pingree, McKinney & Co., Boston.
- H. R. Porter, of Vancouver, Washington.
- F. J. Scott, of the J. G. White Co., London.
- W. Frederick Snyder, of the Northern Trust Co., Philadelphia.
- James H. Strange, broker, New York City.
- William H. Singer, Pittsburg, Pa.
- S. C. Talbott, New York.
- J. G. White, president of the Fellsmere Farms Co., New York.
- J. D. White, New York.
- Sidney L. Wright, Philadelphia.
- Wallace Wilson, of the New York Transfer Co., New York City.
- H. B. Warner, Washington, D. C.

Zero Weather in North

A blinding storm of snow and sleet swept across the north central states on Wednesday and continuing heaped disaster upon transportation and communication facilities.

It was the first day of spring. Half a hundred cities were shut off from communication with the rest of the world when telegraph and telephone poles were blown down or wires were covered with ice until they broke.

Steam and electric railroads were brought to a standstill and in several instances trains were snowbound. In a belt of territory between a 100 and a 400 mile radius of the Great Lakes the snowfall was heaviest.

In places from five to seven inches was reported Thursday.

Later a temporary rise in temperature was followed by a colder blast. The snow changed in many places to sleet, which was blown like shot before a gale that increased in velocity until it reached nearly sixty miles an hour.

At Chicago, tempered by the lake it was forty-two miles an hour.

Zero weather was reported in several places.

Will Sell Insurance

D. L. Thrasher cannot remain inactive long and in a few days will open an office in this city for insurance. He will be agent for the Equitable and has a large slice of territory which will keep him busy and give him plenty of outdoor exercise. Mr. Thrasher now feels like a boy on a vacation after a long seige of school. That he will be successful in his new ventures is already conceded, having friends in every part of Florida and being a hustler.

LARGE CELERY MOVEMENT

High Water Mark Will Be Reached This Week in Celery Shipments

At the present rate of shipments there will be about 200 cars of vegetables leave Sanford this week which will be the high mark for the season. On account of the warm weather many growers are anxious to send their stuff in as early as possible. The price is still beyond the dollar mark despite the heavy shipments.

The cold wave in the north will give this section a visit in a few days and do much toward assisting the celery man in marketing his crop. The greatest handicap in the celery delta this week is the lack of help and several growers who expected to cut the entire crop this week were forced to wait on account of the failure to secure adequate help.

The celery fields and the loading stations present an animated scene this week with hundreds of hands cutting, packing and shipping.

With the lightening of the bulk of the crop the situation will become easier and the prices get better.

Dinner Club

A very delightful and unique dinner club has been organized by a number of young ladies living in the same neighborhood. The hostess for the occasion makes out the menu, and each dish that is to be prepared is written out with the recipe with which to prepare it, and the members of the club each draw one of the papers. The name of the article drawn is to be prepared by the accompanying recipe, and taken to the home of the hostess the evening of the dinner party. It is the idea to use as nearly as possible all new and untried recipes.

Monday evening last a delicious three course dinner was enjoyed by the club, prepared in this way, at the home of the Misses Ward. The club dinner will be given next Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. Lawson.

The members of this enterprising and thoroughly commendable club are Misses Lillian Gibson, Leila Michaels, Annie Lee Caldwell, Emma and Estelle Beard, Madge and Veda Ward, Mabel Hand, Flora M. Johnson and Mrs. J. B. Lawson.

Making New Opera House

E. H. Herndon has a large force of men busy this week on the Star opera house. There are carpenters, painters and decorators. A scenic painter from Jacksonville is evolving pretty woodland scenes out of cold canvas and altogether the scene is an animated one and bespeaks a new opera house in short order. Mr. Herndon has purchased new opera chairs and is having them placed in position and will be able to seat eight hundred people comfortably. He expects to open the moving picture business in a few days, continuing the work or the theatre proper meantime. The scenic and stage settings will make a very fine appearance.

Mrs. Munson's Piano Recital

Mrs. Lucien Philips, reader, will assist in the Piano Recital in Mrs. Munson's Studio on Monday evening, March 25, at 8:00 p. m. Voluntary contribution to defray expense of programs.

Abernathy a Delegate

B. C. Abernathy will be a delegate to the National Convention from the Second Congressional District. Everybody knows Doc. Abernathy, and everybody will take pleasure in voting for him for delegate.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

The decomposed body of Geo. Thompson a prominent New Yorker was found on the out-skirts of Jacksonville on Tuesday. He had been demented and wandered from an Augustine hotel to Jacksonville where he died from natural causes.

The negro murderer of the Jacksonville merchant, Silverstein, have been arraigned for the crime and the trial will be held in St. Augustine at an early date.

L. W. Parker, an experienced celery grower who has a crop near the Seaboard railroad in Plant City, cut a carload of celery last week which he sold to a Boston firm for $1,017 f. o. b.

John T. Fuller, a prominent citizen of Orlando and member of the real estate firm of Fuller & Giles died in that city on Tuesday.

The recent hard rains have done much damage to the roads in Leon county, especially in the vicinity of Tallahassee.

Two fine new horses were recently purchased in Jacksonville for the DeLand Fire Department. An experienced fireman who served ten years in Jacksonville has also been secured for DeLand.

The Lewis grove in St. Petersburg has been sold for $20,000. The property, which consists of twenty acres, will be improved and placed on the market.

A new brick or concrete hotel is to be erected in Kissimmee before the next season. The structure will be four stories high.

City Attorney Robt. E. Davis has received a communication from Dillon, Thompson & Clay, attorneys, New York, in which they express the opinion that the authorized issue of $50,000 Public Utility Bonds of the City of Gainesville, bearing the date of January 1, 1906, are valid. These bonds were voted for the purpose of acquiring or constructing an electric light and gas plant, and when the matter as to their legality was under consideration by the City Council and Board of Public Works last spring City Attorney Davis recommended that a special act be secured from the Legislature validating the issue. This was done. Attorney Davis spending some time at Tallahassee in securing the passage of the act. In the opinion furnished by the bond attorneys they allude to this special act, approved June 6, 1911, as validating the issue.—Gainesville Sun.

The K. of P. Lodge of Gainesville has purchased a valuable piece of property in that city, and will erect a fine three-story building immediately.

An Interesting Paper

Col. A. M. Thrasher sent The Herald a foreign newspaper this week. It is a most interesting paper printed on yellow stock and bears the cut of some prominent man. The type looks like an old hen had jumped into an ink well with both feet and then walked over the paper. As Col. Thrasher is now in Egypt the paper is probably printed in Arabic but as our knowledge of this language is rather limited we cannot prove it. The paper will be preserved as a relic and we thank the Col. for the remembrance.

He mentions in his letter that he met the uncle of Mrs. Frank Woodruff, near Jaffa and had a most pleasant visit with him. This worthy man has been in Arabia for a number of years engaged in Missionary work.

Col. Thrasher and family are in excellent health and enjoying their travels although they long for their old Sanford home.

N. A. Colbert Resigns

N. A. Colbert has resigned as Traffic Manager of the Florida Vegetable Growers Association and will be succeeded by R. F. Nyman, who has been employed by the North American Fruit Exchange for the past twelve months. Mr. Colbert has been a busy man for the past two years and desired a rest and recreation. Colbert's friends say that his success in celery growing was so great that he was forced to lay off to spend his money but he will soon be back home in harness again for he is accustomed to the strenuous life and will never be content to remain idle.

GENEVA JOTTINGS

Special Correspondence to The Herald.
Geneva took her first ride on the first passenger train on the new road last week. Quite a crowd went from here as also all along the line.

Misses Fry and Myers left last week in order to visit other places of interest in Florida and Georgia and reach their home in Baltimore by Easter. The young ladies have made many warm friends among our people, and it is with much pleasure we will look forward to their promised visit next winter.

Miss Harris accompanied by little Miss Helen Moran, visited her parents Sunday at Winter Park.

We notice our editor's proposition to celebrate the completion of Geneva bridge; nothing would tickle east Orange county more than to have the opportunity of celebrating this event in some way.

On Friday night the 29th, int., the ladies will serve supper at the hall, also ice cream and cake. These entertainments are for the benefit of the Methodist and Baptist churches, and the public is cordially invited.

Miss Mabel Daniel is now taking a normal course at Southerland, preparing herself for better service in her chosen work.

Miss Mayme McLain is at home from school duties in Chuluota.

Last Thursday afternoon was certainly one of the most pleasant meetings the ladies society has ever enjoyed; meeting as announced previously with Mrs. Lewis at her summer home on lake Geneva. Quite a large membership was present also several visitors, one new member was enrolled, Mrs. C. W. Culpepper. Mrs. Lewis being reader for the afternoon the guests knew a real treat was in store for them and our hostess did not disappoint anyone, giving us in her own sweet way a "Mother" poem. Assisted by Mrs. Raulerson and Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Lewis served delicious cake, sandwiches and coffee.

Miss Nellie Geiger came home last week having finished her school.

The workmen have completed the draw-bridge and have moved to other work near Jacksonville.

The dredge boat has also finished work in Lake Harney and has gone to Green Cove Springs.

Geneva is very proud of Mr. Herman Daniel's success in winning in the oratorical contest at Southerland, which means a trip to Jacksonville, and another contest which will be state-wide and which will be held in that city soon. Herman is Geneva's own boy and with great interest and hopes are his friends watching his career. He is also to represent Southerland at a literary debate with Stetson.

WOODLAND PARK NOTES

To the Editor of The Herald:
The rain Sunday did not prevent Reed's bus from bringing a picnic party. The bus is well fitted for this purpose and no doubt will be much in demand this summer. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton and friend, Mr. and Mrs. Gray and children, Mrs. Allison and child and Mrs. Ball and child. Mr. Reed brought a good phonograph, which was very much enjoyed. An excellent dinner was served and besides many other good things was some very fine celery grown by Mr. Thornton. Our high divers, Harry Houston, Ed Bowman and Edgar Hawkins performed well and were fully applauded. Some little divers, the Woodruff boys and Jones also did stunts which were enjoyed as much by the spectators as by themselves. Two autos brought people and some came on bicycles. Luckily there was very little rain during the day and everybody had a good time.

The Manatee ferry does a thriving business and everybody wonders why our county does not cooperate with Volusia county and put in a free ferry, when the need is so apparent.

That railroad crossing which was promised by the county seven months ago may be put in this week.

WOODSMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnson of Monroe were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Willis on Sunday.

Wesley Britt, Jr., has been visiting his parents and will leave for Savannah, Ga., this week.

The Mitchell boys were called to town to see their father on Friday. Mr. Mitchell has not been so well of late and it was feared the end was near. He is a trifle on the gain again.

E. A. Gilbert has a telephone placed in his home now.

Mrs. J. F. McClelland purchased a fine Singer sewing machine through the agent, J. H. Hunter last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton dined with Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Dutton Saturday at their home on Park avenue in town.

Mrs. Ella Greenland and Miss Mabel Starr are appointed a committee to arrange for some special music Easter Sunday at the church.

Stayed to the End.

A fine example of coolness was given the other day by a telegraph operator at Rennes, France, while the postoffice was burning. The Central postoffice in Paris received from them the following message: "The postoffice is on fire on the floor below us, where the telephone cabins have been burned. We will leave when the flames reach our floor." Soon after all were obliged to escape to the basement.

For Boarding School.

Napkin rings of hand beaten silver are designed especially for the use of boys and girls at boarding school. They are in an oval shape, about three and a half inches being the largest diameter, and the child's initials will be added for a consideration. The same rings are also sold for holding the baby's bib.

As She Saw the Notes.

When my daughter was 4 years old she sat gazing at the notes on a piece of music, when she suddenly looked up and said: "Mamma, here's a lot of little boys on a wire fence," and, looking down at it, said, after a moment's thought, "and some of 'em got hats on."—Exchange.

Rus in Urbs.

A Springfield, Mo., man, describing his experience in New York, says: "I got on street cars two or three different times and told the conductors the names of friends along the line that I wanted to visit, and blame me if they could tell me where any of them lived!"—Kansas City Times.

GREAT REVIVAL AT METHODIST CHURCH

Much Interest Taken—Great Good Done—Many Have Joined

The meeting at the Methodist Church, which has been going on for two weeks, is of most remarkable character, the preaching done by Rev. J. M. Bass, the evangelist, so wonderfully used by God, has been used to stir the entire community.

Men, women and children of all denominations are being led to repentance by the scores, and especially is this true of the men, for never before have men been moved to such action as during this meeting and it is beyond doubt the remarkable power of the "God of All" that is moving upon this fair city.

Money has been restored, people have apologized to each other, and hundreds of hearts and homes have been made glad because of the determination of men to close their lives of debauchery, and the effect of true repentance is clearly seen on every hand.

The chorus of fifty voices, and the best talent of Abbeville, led by the evangelistic singer, O. W. Stapleton has been used as a special feature of the meeting and the singing has been excellent.

Mr. Stapleton has a voice of rare quality and has sung a solo at each night service. All who hear him are readily convinced that the spirit of God is directing his voice, which is so wonderfully used of the Lord.—Abbeville Chronicle.

ALWAYS CURES

Why Leonard's Blood Elixir is the Best Remedy in the World.
The Only Medicine That Cures Blood Poison

Sold Under $1000.00 Guarantee That It Will Cure or Cost Nothing

"When everything else has failed, Leonard's Blood Elixir has cured me of blood poison."

In thousands of instances this has been said; scores of people in every town and in every city have told this simple story, the down-to-earth facts, the grateful testimony of men and women who have suffered from the diseases that are caused by sluggish, impure blood. These are the people who have made Leonard's Blood Elixir the one remedy above all others that physicians prescribe, druggists recommend and the public endorse.

The unfortunate person who is ailing with acrofula, skin diseases, boils, tumors, ulcers, sores, syphilis, rheumatism, catarrh, or any other disease arising from impure blood, should use this great remedy and get immediate relief.

It is by merit, and merit alone, that Leonard's Blood Elixir has achieved its wonderful pre-eminence. When a sick man or woman finds that he or she has taken a remedy that has actually done all that is claimed for it, their friends will all be told about it. It is in this way, through the commendation of those who have used it, that this remedy has won such remarkable success among the best people throughout the South.

A person will continue to suffer from the evil effects of blood poison for years and will go from bad to worse unless he attacks the disease by getting rid of the unnatural and unhealthy poisons in the system, supplying new blood, arousing to healthy action the kidneys and liver and digestive organs and strengthening the weakened nervous system. All this and just this Leonard's Blood Elixir will do. In the multitude of cases of blood diseases where it has been used, it has never failed.

As proof of the marvelous power of Leonard's Blood Elixir to cure all diseases arising from impure blood, such as rheumatism, catarrh, indigestion, kidney and liver complaints, etc., it is sold under a $1000.00 guarantee to return the purchase price on first bottle if it fails to cure. If it does not have merit unknown to other remedies it could not be sold under such a guarantee. Get a bottle today if you are ailing and see how quickly it will make you well.

Delightful Luncheon

Miss Laura Fish was the charming hostess of a delicious five course luncheon Wednesday. The Sanford guests who enjoyed the pleasant occasion and afternoon were, Mesdames Samuel Preston, Chas. E. Bell, Robt. Newman, Miss Bessie Schumpert.

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. T. S. Davis entertained the Fancy Work Circle, Wednesday afternoon. The members of the circle were delightfully entertained by their lovely fancy work and the pleasant afternoon. Delicious ambrosia and wafers were served. Mrs. Davis's guests were Mesdames J. J. Purdon, Roberta, N. H. Garner, W. L. Jones, H. H. Hill, Hines, W. H. Milteer.

Delightful Entertainment

The DeKoven Male Quartet gave their audience a very enjoyable entertainment last night. Their singing was excellent and was thoroughly appreciated. The dear old songs touched many responsive chords in the hearts of those who recalled memories of the past. The several new features introduced by the company were bright and sparkling with fun, which the audience enjoyed. The management of the Lyceum Course wisely reserved one of their very best numbers for the last entertainment of the season. The DeKoven Male Quartet Company will always be welcomed in Sanford.

Helping Hand Society

The Helping Hand Society of the Baptist church held their regular meeting, Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Stewart. The Mission study class was conducted by Mrs. E. E. Cox, after which the young people enjoyed an evening of song as they were practicing songs to be used at the meeting of the society in the church very soon. After the practice a candy contest afforded a great deal of amusement. Miss Boyd gave a delightful reading. Delicious ambrosia, cake and candy were served. The pleasant meeting and evening was enjoyed by about thirty-five young people, members of the society and their invited guests.

Good Story This Week

Every reader of The Herald should start the great serial story this week. "The Glow of the Rubies." The story begins in this issue, and is designed for laughing purposes, making it a fine selection for spring reading. An almost impossible tale, and yet written in such a subtle manner as to deceive the reader and lead him on and on into a labyrinth of a modern Arabian Nights tale. Read it today.

A Social Program

"A Social Program for Sanford" is Mr. Waldron's subject at the Congregational church next Sunday night. This is the subject announced for last Sunday, but services were omitted because of the rain. It will be handled in view of the opportunities of the Men and Religion Forward-Movement for this city. Men are especially invited. Services open at 7:30.

Dr. Evans Paralyzed

Dr. Evans had a stroke of paralysis last Monday between Lake Mary and his home and fell from his buggy where he was found unconscious. He was taken to his home at Lake Mary and is today reported to be in a precarious condition. He was apparently in the best of health and the sudden stroke came most unexpectedly.

"I'M LITTLE, BUT I'LL TRY"

Brave Child of Section Foreman Saved Train and Set Example for All Others.

She was only seven years old, Eileen Martin, the section foreman's daughter, as she stood reaching up to a telephone at the little town of Alta, Cal., telling the agent at the nearest station that a rail was broken. Child-like, she knew the semaphore signals, had come to the track to see the Overland Limited whirl by and had watched the long finger drop, letting the train into the block.

"I'm pretty little, but I'll try," she said, when the station agent asked her if she could not stop the train that was past him, and started out with her sister of fourteen who had just appeared. They ran down the track, stopped the train and saved a wreck.

Pretty much every primary school in the city ought, within the next week, to hear of Eileen's "I'm pretty little, but I'll try." The alert attention which knew the semaphore signal, the quick wit which understood what a broken rail meant, the decision and initiative which alone sought the telephone, the courage with which she and her sister started up the track, waving their aprons to stop the big Overland Limited as it bore down upon them—these are the qualities which through life bring self-help, for others, success and happiness.

And she was only seven years old, "pretty little," but ready to "try."—Philadelphia Press

MADE ITS MEANING PLAIN

Proof That While Ants May Not Be Able to Talk They Can Understand Each Other.

In some quarters it is held that the existence of language among insects is already proved, and that what it is now of interest to ascertain, is if it can be ascertained, in the extent of their language, and the ideas and inferences to which it gives rise. It is a question, however, in what way communication is opened and kept up. It is by rubbing the antennae together? The movements of the insects makes this seem reasonable, yet a German naturalist has insisted that ants are provided with a sounding apparatus resembling that of the wasp by means of which faint sounds gelled to the ears of ants are produced. In the opinion of other naturalists this remains to be proved.

How is it that these small creatures can venture, far from the nest, distances that are relatively enormous, and never hesitate about the road to take when they wish to retrace their steps? Learned men who have studied the matter attribute the power to the formic acid given out by the insect as it travels, so that it finds its way in exactly the same manner that a fox or a dog does.

One investigator followed an ant for a long time. She was far from the anthill and seemed to have no intention of returning soon. In the middle of the path she came upon the dead body of a goddized snail. She first walked all around it, then climbed upon its back, crawled over it, and after this thorough examination, instead of going on, immediately returned to the nest. When half way home she met one of her companions. In an instant they had touched or rubbed antennae with great animation and she was soon upon her course again. The same performance took place when she met a second and a third companion, and as soon as she had left them they quickly turned toward the spot where the snail lay. The first ant soon entered the nest, and the naturalist lost sight of her, but doubtless she continued her work of informing and exciting the rest, for a long line of ants immediately came out and set forth for the prey. Ten minutes later the snail was entirely covered with the yellow swarm and by evening not a trace of it remained.

Story of Ely Place.

The romance of history, as well as romance of modern life, was associated with Ely place, birthplace and workplace of the late Sir George Lewis. The one-time residence of Ely's prelates had nobler tenants still than any to be found on the episcopal bench. There died, in 1399 old John of Gaunt, "The honored Lancaster." It was the mansion, too, of Lord Chancellor Hatton, Queen Elizabeth's favorite, who paid as rent a red rose, ten loads of hay and £10 annually in money. The bishop who demurred at the courtier's privileged lease had better have remained content, for his protest led but to the passing of the episcopal estate to the crown. At Ely place, in James I's reign, was performed the last mystery—that of "Christ's Passion"—to be represented in England. —London Chronicle.

Half Measures.

Nervous Prisoner—Had I better get hold of a lawyer, do you think? It's three years if they convict me.

Friendly Constable—Humph! In that case you'd better get hold of a lawyer.

Coming of Autumn.

Sometimes autumn may be perceived even in the early days of July. There is no other feeling like that caused by this faint, doubtful yet real perception, or rather prophecy, of the year's decay, so deliciously sweet and sad at the same time.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Method in Madness.

Pat Sullivan was a soldier and a good fellow; but in the opinion of officers and men alike he was certainly suffering from some brain affliction, and when on duty or at drill he would suddenly break from the ranks and run after an imaginary bit of paper, visible to no one but himself, shouting as he did so.

"There it goes! There's the paper!" This at length became so frequent an occurrence that, on the matter being brought before the medical authorities, he was declared to be suffering from a slight attack of insanity and in consequence he was given his discharge. When leaving, however, he gave evident proof that there was some method in his madness, for as he quitted the service for ever he cried, flourishing his discharge paper: "Faith, boys, sure I've got the piece of paper I've been running after this long time!"

Small Potatoes.

Every man who has gone through the bridegroom stage has a keen appreciation of the insignificance of his sex.

Perfect Analogy.

Shortleigh—My Uncle Frank is a veritable Klondike.
Longleigh—Why, how's that?
Shortleigh—Plenty of wealth, but cold and distant—Smart Set.

For Constable

I hereby announce myself as candidate for re-election to the office of Constable of Justice of Peace District No. 3, which includes voting precincts Nos. 3, 4, and 25, and solicit the support of voters at the coming Democratic primary April 30th 1912.

R. C. WOOTEN

For Justice of the Peace

The primary close at hand, and as no one has announced themselves for this office, of Justice of the Peace, my friends have prevailed on me to become a candidate in precincts No. 3 and 25, Orange County, subject to Democratic primary. If elected, will endeavor to fill the office with honor and credit.

JOHN I. ANDERSON

For County Treasurer

To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Treasurer. In asking your support in the coming primary election for this very important place, which is to be given to some one by the Democratic voters of this county, and if you can see your way clear to honor me with this place, I promise you that I will at all times and under all circumstances strictly guard your interests so far as lies in my power.

Yours very truly,
J. H. TEXAS

For County Commissioner

I am a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Orange County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912. Your support will be appreciated.

PETER T. BARNES

For Sheriff

James A. Kirkwood announces his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Orange County subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912.

I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Orange County subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held April 30th, 1912. Having served in the capacity of deputy sheriff of the county for a number of years and being familiar with the duties of the same I feel that I can leave the operation of my ability entirely to the voters of Orange County.

CHAS. M. HANCOCK

I wish to announce to the voters of Orange County that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff for said county, subject to the primary to be held April 30th, 1912. I am desirous to carry out the law without fear or favor to any one, and special privileges to none. I respectfully ask your support.

To the Democratic Voters of the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Florida: I hereby announce that I am a candidate for re-appointment as State Attorney for the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Florida, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912. You have honored me with this office and I have endeavored to deserve your confidence in me by doing my duty to the best of my ability.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction

To the Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction to succeed myself subject to the action of the approaching Democratic primary. I feel that I am especially fitted for this office by educational qualifications and by experience in management of small and large schools, and in dealing with teachers, by practical transportation and care for the work, and by familiarity with the details and the general demands of the office acquired during my present incumbency. If elected to the office the educational interests of the county will be upon my heart, and I will endeavor in every way to be faithful to the trust imposed.

J. F. McKEOWN

For County Judge

I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election to the position of County Judge of Orange County, subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912.

WILLIAM MARTIN

For Clerk Circuit Court

I announce my candidacy for the position of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Orange County subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912. Having served the county in this capacity for a number of years I again ask for the suffrage of the people. My past record is my best recommendation.

B. M. ROBINSON

For State Legislature

I will be a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature from Orange County subject to the decision of the Democratic primary held April 30th. Having served the people of the county for one term in this office gives me the benefit of experience as a legislator and the knowledge acquired by this service gives me a better opportunity to work for my constituency during another term in the Legislature.

FRANCIS LANE

To the Democratic Voters of Orange County

I hereby announce that I am a candidate before the approaching primary for member of the Legislature from this county. If elected I will represent you ably and honestly and will endeavor to return to you a record that will meet with your hearty approval.

Respectfully,

I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Orange County, subject to the decision of the Democratic Primary held April 30th, 1912.

FRANK WOODRUFF

Clark's Uncalled-for Attack on Florida's Governor

I give below the interview of Governor Albert W. Gilchrist in the Washington Post of March 5, and also Associated Press dispatch from Washington of the same date, quoting from Mr. Clark's speech in the House of Representatives in reply to the Governor's interview.

Governor's Interview:

(From Washington Post of March 5, 1912.)
"I came to Washington," Mr. Gilchrist said, "to let the committee know the true state of affairs."

Puts Blame on Railroad

In my opinion the attacks instigated by the railroads of the West, who wish to have this great immigration to Florida stopped. They are naturally anxious to not only keep their own people at home, but to have other immigrants come to their country. Naturally with the influx into our country the Western railroad interests are being diminished.

"The last census shows that Florida's increase in population was 42.1 per cent, second to no State east of the Mississippi. The valley of the Everglades, and the feasibility of the drainage, and the healthfulness of the country have been admitted by all who have visited the section.

Quotes Representative Clark

"I am at a loss to understand or account for the attacks made upon the Everglades by Representative Clark. From what I have been told he has never seen them. When the Congressional committee on its way to Washington from Key West stopped off at Fort Lauderdale to visit the Everglades, it is said that Representative Clark's boat reached the cypress swamp that borders a part of the eastern edge of the Everglades, when Mr. Clark addressing the committee, said:

"Gentlemen, here are the Everglades. You see what they are. This is all there is to see. Let's go back, as I have an engagement with Mr. Flagler at Palm Beach—and toward Palm Beach his boat was turned immediately. From the citizens of Fort Lauderdale I have the information that Representative Clark never did reach the Everglades."

"I am confident that the investigation in progress will prove his charge to be unfounded. Just what his motive was in bringing them I know not, but I can say they are a mistake."

From the Governor's interview, in the left hand column, you will see that Mr. Clark's undignified remarks in Congress were unwarranted, as the Governor did not say in his interview, WHICH SPEAKS FOR ITSELF, that Mr. Clark was working in the interest of Western railroads.

Because of his Office, Governor Gilchrist HAD THE RIGHT and it was his DUTY as Governor to REFUTE Clark's attack upon the Everglades in particular, and upon the INTEGRITY and DIGNITY of the State in general. Clark's "personal privilege" speech, while directed against GILCHRIST, THE MAN, was in effect A DIRECT ATTACK UPON GILCHRIST, THE GOVERNOR, and through him an insult to the PEOPLE that have honored them both.

It would be hard to estimate the STATE-WIDE DAMAGE, which Representative Clark has done Florida.

As I have repeatedly said:

The TRUTH about Florida is GOOD ENOUGH!
The TRUTH about Mr. Clark is BAD ENOUGH!

Candidate for Congress, Second District

When a two million dollar company can be organized to grow winter vegetables in Sanford there should be no doubt in the minds of the people about the future prospects of Sanford.

One days shipment this week of celery and lettuce amounted to 40 cars or $40,000 worth of Sanford stuff. And yet there are people who say there is no money in growing vegetables here.

If Hilburn and Burr will continue to talk about Frank Clark he will win in the first primary. All this tirade about a man is tiresome. Why, don't they tell us what they intend to do if elected?

Since paving Kissimmee's streets with brick the city council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the cows from running at large. Probably afraid the cows would slip on the bricks and sprain an ankle.

Lige Douglass of the Oviedo Advance says that Frank Clark called Governor Gilchrist a "pig head." Worse and worse. By the time the report percolates through the Everglades the monkeys will get mixed up in it.

Sanford still spells it Celery, according to the record of W. M. Colbert of that city, who sold his crop of 1,248 crates from one and a third acres for $4,253.85, f. o. b. That's more than we can make from an acre of newspapers.—Orlando Citizen.

Under the picture of Woodrow Wilson in the Waycross Herald is the statement: "Woodrow Wilson asks the Democratic nomination on the strength of promises of what he will do if made president rather than on his record." Woodrow is right. Judged by his record we would infer that if elected president he would visit Washington occasionally.

February was remarkable for some things, especially for the severe storms that played havoc in some parts of the country. But in one respect the February of 1868 was the most remarkable in history, for it had no full moon. January had two, and so had March, but February was left out entirely. Such a condition had never before occurred, and it is said that it will not again for at least two and a half million years.

The Florida Press Gang has been strengthened by some mighty good material lately, among them being Clarence Woods who recently assumed charge of the DeLand Supplement. Mr. Woods come from the good old state of Kentucky, where he owned several good papers. He also served as mayor of Richmond, Ky., and is an honorary member of the Kentucky Press Association. We welcome Bro. Woods to the ranks and reach across the raging St. Johns river and give him the right hand of fellowship. Florida will soon have all the good Kentuckians down here in the newspaper ranks.

Less than a month after his famous "hat-in-the-ring" declaration, Theodore Roosevelt finds himself in one of the most embarrassing positions of his public career. The avalanche of popular approval which his friends predicted would overwhelm President Taft and sweep Mr. Roosevelt to victory in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination has not developed.

Instead there have been desertions from the Roosevelt ranks. States which always have exhibited strong liking for him have rebuked him, county committees in many States have recently "turned down" resolutions indorsing him, and the Taft managers have gone ahead, sawing wood and gathering in 134 delegates—almost a third of the required majority—while the Roosevelt boomers have corralled only 16.

Reports from all portions of this Senatorial district indicate that the candidacy of Arthur E. Donegan is receiving the hearty approval of the people and the prospects for his nomination are exceedingly bright. There is a general disposition to resent an attempt to deny Osceola county the recognition to which she is entitled at this time, especially when she presents such a candidate as Mr. Donegan, who is in every respect fully qualified to fill the senatorial chair and will work faithfully for the best interests of the people in both counties.—Kissimmee Journal.

HAVE NOT CHANGED

We beg leave to differ with the esteemed Pensacola Journal in the statement that The Herald has changed from Harmon to Underwood. This paper simply stated that the race would narrow down to Harmon and Underwood. We have not thrown down our original candidate and will not until the decision of the majority at the convention is made known. Judson Harmon is the strong man of the nation today and this paper is not making a fight for him by belittling the other candidates. They are all good men and all good Democrats will abide by the decision of the convention.

PEOPLE LEAVE TOO SOON

Though reports from the north show that the icy reign of mid-winter is still unbroken, people are going away and leaving Florida, when it is at its best. For now spring comes fast, and brings in her train the soft green of the trees, the bloom of many roses, the perfume of orange and jessamine blossoms, and an air which is like green golden sherry in its gleam and exhilaration.

They leave this ideal land now, and return to their own, and if the snow has melted there at all, it is just an icy slush. Boreas is getting in his best work, and the wind rends and tears the home corners, chills the blood made sensitive by a winter in Florida, and the consequences are influenza, gripe, or even pneumonia.

If one can afford to make a stay in Florida till the weather is settled in the north, it is better to delay their stay can carry them later in the spring. The cold weather they have before coming here will not hurt them half so much as it will to come south, enjoy our summer land, and then lose all the good accruing from their Florida trip by a two quick return north.

All the physicians in Florida unite in urging that people should show common sense in this matter, but in spite of this, the exodus begins early every year, and brings with it all sorts of evil consequences. But people can not get it into their heads that because it is warm and delightful here, it must of course be equally pleasant "at home." Yet in Chicago, last Sunday, the thermometer stood at ten above zero. It is in Florida that "Summer first unfolds her robes," and the less favored lands will have to wait till the year is older to get the open air roses.—Reporter-Star.

The Wednesday Club

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Walker was the scene of a very pleasant event Wednesday afternoon when Library Day was observed by the Wednesday Club as the occasion of a book shower for the benefit of the Sanford Library.

The afternoon was made doubly pleasant by the presence of Mrs. Frank E. Jennings of Jacksonville, a lady of charming personality and distinguished presence, a prominent and earnest worker in the Woman's Club of Jacksonville, being chairman of "Social and Industrial Conditions," secretary of the Daniel Memorial Orphanage, a director on the board of the Y. W. C. A., a member of the flag preservation committee of the national D. A. R., a member of the legislation committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and who is frequently mentioned as a desirable and acceptable next president of the State Federation of Clubs. From this mention of the many offices held by Mrs. Jennings it is easy to see what an enthusiastic and philanthropic worker she is in the cause of others and for the betterment and uplift of all classes all over this fair state. Mrs. Jennings is returning from a visit to several prominent clubs in the state. She was given an informal reception at the Tampa Bay Hotel by the Woman's Club of Tampa, where she talked to them on "The Influence of a Well Rounded Club in a Community," the subject that she discussed with the Wednesday Club. She talked to the Dade City club and the Lakeland club, the club at Crescent City and the Palatka club. She also will make a short personal visit to Prof. and Mrs. Blackman at Winter Park before returning to her home. Mrs. Jennings is an interesting, fluent and majestic speaker, easily holding the interest of her listeners and drawing them to her by her very attractive personality. Mrs. Jennings' talk on "The Influence of a Well Rounded Club in a Community" was instructive and replete with good advice to club women.

Miss Florence Frank opened the program by playing one of Greg's most beautiful selections, "The Rustle of Spring."

Mrs. Jennings was followed by a vocal solo, "Asthore," Trotter, sung by Miss Mabel Bowler, accompanied by Miss Florence Frank. The program was concluded by Mrs. T. A. Newton, who sang the "Song of the Nest," Lillian Kate Sheldon, accompanied by Miss Clara Walker.

Delicious strawberry ice cream and cake was served by Mrs. Walker's charming young assistants, Misses Annie Whitner, Katherine Waldron, Ethel Moughton and Clara Walker.

It was a very generous shower of books for the library, which will be richer by the number of volumes contributed by the Wednesday Club and their friends.

Program for March 27th:

An outline of Scandinavian history from the Kelmar Union to the present day.

(a) Norway under Danish Rule—Mrs. G. R. Walker.

(b) The Kingdom of Sweden and Norway—Mrs. May Dickins.

(c) The Kingdom of Norway—Mrs. C. G. Woodruff.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. Henry Wight next Wednesday.

Big Land and Cattle Deal

One of the biggest deals in the cattle business reported in some time comes from the Kissimmee river section. W. H. Lewis, for many years in the cattle business, was also engaged in the banking business at Fort Meade, purchases the great Lightsey and Parsons cattle ranch. This property consists of about 40,000 acres of the finest land in South Florida, located on the Kissimmee river. His purchase also includes 6,000 head of cattle. This ranch extends about fourteen miles on each side of the river, and is one of the most valuable in South Florida. The cattle have been well cared for during the past eight or ten years, and there is said to be no finer herd anywhere than that included in Mr. Lewis' purchase. The price paid was in the neighborhood of $200,000 00.

Welaka Club Notes

On Tuesday afternoon the following program was very thoroughly enjoyed by a large attendance of club members and their friends:

Duet, Morris Dance—Mrs. Thrasher and Miss Frank
Violin Solo, Overture from William Tell—Eleanor Herring
Piano Solo, Spider Dance—Maud Alice Wagner
Vocal Solo, Deep in My Heart, Beloved—Miss Johnson
Reading, Aunt Ketura's Visit to the City—Marguerite Coffee
Duet, Nevin's Country Dance—Misses Madge and Veda Ward

The musical committee is to be congratulated on the splendid programs they have been giving during the winter.

All the club members who will attend the bridge party on next Tuesday afternoon are asked to send their names and the names of their guests to Miss Laura Fish or Miss Mell Whitner.

PRESS REPORTER.

The Boys to Have a Chance

The Boys' Work section of the Men and Religion Forward Movement Campaign for Sanford next month is to be in charge of Mr. Friend E. Hoyt, who is Boys' Work Director of the Young Men's Christian Association of Jacksonville. He understands the boy problem thoroughly and will open it up from many points of view. Those men who have selected this branch of the work should not fail to hear him. The general program of the campaign is being worked out and will soon be ready to present to the public.

Pay Your County Taxes

For the benefit of the tax payers W. E. Martin wishes The Herald to announce to the people that their state and county taxes must be paid on or before March 31st, as the tax books close on that date and delinquents will then be placed on the delinquent tax list.

Remember March 31st is your last call for state and county taxes.

PURELY PERSONAL

Read the "Glow of the Rubies." Starts in this issue of The Herald.

Great tale starts this week. "Glow of the Rubies." Read it in this issue.

Meade Fox arrived in the city Thursday morning, from Columbia, South Carolina.

A cool wave is predicted for tomorrow, which will be good news to the celery growers.

Tax Assessor Butt was in the city last Wednesday looking up some property assessments.

A very pleasant impromptu dance was enjoyed by the young people Wednesday evening in the hall.

Miss Mary McClung of Clearwater is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. H. Dingle of Sanford Heights.

R. L. Hughes, of the Florida Growers Association has been confined to his home this week by illness.

Hon. S. A. Robinson, candidate for the Legislature, was shaking hands with the voters here this week.

Mrs. M. Fleisher and children left today for several weeks visit with her brother in Memphis, Tenn.

A German band here this week brought back pleasant recollections of old days in Cincinnati and "over the Rhine."

You will like the "Glow of the Rubies." Starts in this issue of The Herald.

George DeCotes has returned from a canvass of the county and received gratifying news from his many friends.

Everett Shepherd, of Birmingham, Ala., is in the city, the guest of his sisters, Mrs. Jessie Speer and Miss Louise Shepherd.

A force of carpenters are busy this week at the Peoples Bank building putting in steel girders to brace the second floor.

Rev. J. W. Wildman returns from his trip to Virginia and will fill his pulpit at the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening.

J. P. Conway of Scranton, Pa., was in the city today looking over the Celery Delta. He represents the Tippecanoe Securities Co.

The Sanford Shoe & Clothing Co. are making changes in their store and will soon have one of the finest clothing emporiums in the south.

Mrs. R. F. Frost of Huntington, Indiana is in the city and expects to purchase some property. Her husband is a prominent physician of Huntington.

C. H. Dingle is getting a reputation as a chicken fancier, and his fine place on Sanford Heights is visited daily by people wanting the Barred Plymouth Rocks.

Mrs. Frank E. Jennings of Jacksonville who talked to the Wednesday Club on Wednesday afternoon was the guest while in the city of Mrs. Henry Wight.

Mrs. W. R. Gardner spent several days of this week looking after her property interests. The Gardners are now residing in Waycross and like their new home.

The many friends of E. S. Scuggins are glad to see him back in Sanford again. He is the well-known representative of Crutchfield & Woolfolk, and will be here several months.

The wonderful human machine, the Monotype, recently purchased by the Herald, is expected next week, and there will be something doing in the printing line this summer.

Mrs. E. Molnar left Sunday for Sanford, where for the next week or two she will be a guest of her mother. Mr. Molnar accompanied her as far as Palatka on the journey.—Gainesville Sun.

J. H. Tucker, candidate for county treasurer was in the city yesterday. Mr. Tucker is one of the finest men that ever came from the county seat seeking office and he will be the next county treasurer.

Chas. Perry and family have returned from a trip to their old home near Gainesville. Mr. Perry has a large crop of cucumbers and tomatoes this year and expects to realize a handsome profit from the same.

Don't forget the sale of good things to eat, at Crippen's store, all day Saturday. "The Lend a Hand" young ladies have kindly left the field for that day to the Congregational Missionary Society, as that date had already been fixed by the Society.

A solicitor for The Herald made a thorough canvass of this territory this week and brings in the gratifying news that the people take this paper and every one reads it—not always their own—but they read it. Advertisers please take notice.

County Commissioner Woodruff made quick provision for the man who was brought here sick from the fishing camp. As soon as the matter was brought to his attention he sent the man to the County

Home on the next train. A room should be provided in the city hall where these patients could be kept while in the city as this jail is no place for them.

Sanford Heights never looked prettier than at present time with all the orange trees in full bloom and the gardens in vivid green. This is one of the most beautiful sections in Florida and will be recognized as such by wealthy tourists ere long.

The fine prizes that will be distributed soon by D. A. Caldwell & Sons' department store are proving a great incentive to the public, and this well known firm of bargain givers are realizing the fruits of their industry. They believe in printers' ink and always get results.

Hon. Louis C. Massey, of Orlando, candidate for State Senator from this district, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Massey expects to make a thorough canvass of the counties of Orange and Osceola, and the contest in the Nineteenth will warm up some ere the primary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gerber left Thursday afternoon, for Jacksonville, where they will spend a day or two, before going to their home in Pittsburg. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gerber, made during their several months' stay in Sanford, regretted their departure, and will welcome their return next winter.

Sanford Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F., held an important meeting in the Masonic Hall last Monday night. Matters of importance regarding the establishment of an Odd Fellows' Home were discussed. The first Degree was conferred upon a candidate. Sanford Lodge is gaining new members, and is in a most flourishing condition.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leigh have arrived in the city to make this their future home. Mr. Leigh has purchased the Ensminger Studio and when the many improvements are finished will have one of the finest in the state. We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Leigh to Sanford and profuse them that they will never regret leaving their lot with us. They propose to build a new home here and become active citizens at once.

Mr. Moses O. Overstreet announced today that he will be a candidate to succeed himself on the Board of County Commissioners. This will be good news for residents of this who have the real welfare of the county at heart. Mr. Overstreet is doubtless better posted on the need and possibilities of the county than any man in it. He is likewise one of the most successful men, in his private capacity, of the county. We might well say then, that as a Commissioner, he is indispensable.—Reporter-Star

Wade, the Farmer, Orlando.

Why and What is Woodland Park?

We have been to picnics and found many things to spoil what otherwise would have been great pleasure. A sudden shower has ruined many a dress and brought on sickness, because there was no shelter, good water is not always convenient, intoxicated people start a fight, necessities are lacking, pigs and cows intrude, etc. etc. We decided to make a picnic ground on as beautiful a spot as there is in this locality, 6 1/2 acres covered with immense live oaks, palms, etc.; containing a shell mound, located at the mouth of Lake Monroe, accessible by boat or vehicle and only a short distance from Monroe R. R. Station. We cleared, drained and otherwise improved the grounds, built a neat, tight fence around it, cut a canal and built a dock to deep water and made roads to the place, provided shelter, tables, benches, swings, sawaw, trolly, toilets, croquet ground, etc., and for the use of all this we charge for the present five cents admission. We have also a swimming pool which we empty and clean thoroughly after each day's use and refill with fresh water from a flowing well. Spring broods, slute, diving stage shower and forty dressing room are provided. Bathing ten cents. Suits and towels to hire. Refreshments. Open every Sunday. Leased other days at reasonable. Address Victor Schmelz & Son, R. No. 2, Sanford Fla. 1tp

Week of Prayer

The members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church will observe next week as a week of prayer for Home Missions, as follows:

Monday, March 25th, the ladies will gather at the Baptist parsonage for a missionary meeting and social evening.

Tuesday, the young ladies' Helping Hand Society will have charge of the exercises which will be held in the church.

Wednesday evening, prayer meeting.

Thursday, the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. M. Stewart.

Friday, the ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. R. C. Maxwell for their closing service.

Each of the above meetings begin at 7:30 o'clock. Every member is urged to be present each evening as far as possible and visitors will be warmly welcomed.

Weather Report

Rain tonight and Saturday followed by cooler weather in central and south portions. Colder weather in northern portions.

CHAPTER I.

A Present from China.
It was the first thing I saw that night as I swung into my chambers. Fact is, for the moment, it was the only thing I saw. Somehow, its splash of yellow there under the shaded lamp seemed to catch my eye and hold it. I screwed my glass tight and examined the thing with interest. Nothing remarkable; just a tiny, oblong package, bearing curious foreign markings, its wrapper plainly addressed to me, but—

"By Jove! From China!" I ejaculated.

Somebody in far-off China sending me a present, with duties and charges prepaid evidently.

"Anybody I know in China, Jenkins?" I asked. And to help him out, I added: "Fact is, some chap's sent me a package, you know."

"Name on box, sir, perhaps." Said it offhand, just like that—no trouble of thinking, dash it all—never even blinked. Just instinct, by Jove!

And there it was, nicely printed in the corner with a pen!

Roland Mastermann, Government House, Hong Kong, China.

I read it aloud—can't read anything, you know, unless I read it aloud—and looked at Jenkins inquiringly. But he came right up to the scratch; just seemed to get it from somewhere right out of the wall over my head.

"Beg pardon, sir; but think it's that London gentleman—entertained you at the Carlton when you were over the other side."

Mastermann! By Jove, so it was—I began to remember him now, because I remembered his dinner, several of them, in fact, during the three years I had lived over there, acquiring the English accent—manner, you know—and all that sort of thing!

Mastermann—oh, yes, I had him, now! Jolly rum old boy, but entertaining and clever—long hair, pink wart on jaw! And, by Jove, I had promised him—promised him—what the deuce was it I had promised him? Let me see: he was something, or other in the foreign office; yes, I had that—and tremendously interested in mummies and psychical investigation and rum sort of things like that, and—

"By Jove!" I ejaculated, as it came to me. "And for that reason he wanted them to send him out to China."

"Beg pardon, sir," put in Jenkins, "but think you had a letter with a Chinese postmark last week."

He looked around at my little writing-desk and coughed slightly behind his hand.

"Was just a-wondering, sir, if it might not be among those you haven't opened—there are several piles. If I might look, sir—"

I nodded. Fact is, I allow Jenkins much privilege, owing to long service. Then you know—oh, dash it, he's so original—so refreshing and that sort of thing—so surprising. Just as in this case, he thinks of so many devilishly ingenious, out-of-the-way sort of things!

It was Jenkins' idea that I find out what was in the box by just opening the dashed thing while he looked for the letter.

Clever that, eh? Well, rather! So I unsheathed my little pocket manicure knife, cut the strings and removed the wrapper. Inside was just a little, at-aw-covered box with a telescope cover and inside the box, wrapped in tissue, was a tight roll of bright red silk.

That was all—not another thing but this little silk roll. It was a wad as thick as three fingers and perhaps twice as long, tied with a bit of common string, ending in a loose bow-knot.

I pinched the roll gloomily. "If it's a red silk muffler, Jenkins, catch me wearing it, that's all!" I burst out indignantly. "Rotten bad form, if you ask me. I'd look like an out-and-out bounder!"

Then I had a horrible thought: "Or—the Salvation Army, dash it!"

Here Jenkins thrust a letter at me. "Perhaps this may explain it, sir," he suggested.

Bure enough, it was from Hong Kong, and from that chap, Mastermann. Out there on special mission for his government, he said. I don't know what it was—never did know, in fact, for I skipped down to this paragraph, which I read aloud:

"Every puff of those rare cigars you sent me has but reminded me that my debt to you is still unpaid."

I read thus far; then I read it again. But I could make nothing of it.

"Cigars—cigars?" I exclaimed, puzzled. Then I forgot the letter as I stared at Jenkins. "And what's the matter with you?" I demanded.

For I had caught him with his hand over his mouth, obviously trying to suppress a chuckle. He sobered instantly, but seemed embarrassed for a reply.

"Oh, I say, you know!" I urged him. He started to speak, then pulled up. His breath went out in a sort of sigh. And he just stood there looking at me, and looking kind of scared.

Fact! Perfectly irreproachable service for five years; and now here, dash it, showing emotion and that sort of thing, just like—well, like people, by Jove! Gad, I don't mind saying I was devilish put out! I screwed my glass rather severely and he made another go:

"I hope, Mr. Lightnut, sir, you'll try to pardon me, sir, but I— Well, indeed, sir, the mistake wasn't mine; it was the dealer's fault, you know, sir."

"Oh!" Jenkins cleared his throat with an effort, his eyes rolling at me apologetically. When he spoke there was a tremble in his utterance, and it was rather husky:

"Why, sir," he began in a low tone, "you told me to have your dealer ship this gentleman, this Mr. Mastermann, a dozen boxes of Paloma perfectos—your favorite brand, you know, sir—ninety dollars the hundred."

He paused, his fingers resting tremblingly on the edge of the table.

"An error, sir, of the shipping clerk. He—"

With a murmured apology, Jenkins paused to wipe his forehead. I saw that the perspiration had gathered in great drops. Then he seemed to gather himself for a resolute effort, his eyes fixing themselves upon me with the most extraordinary expression—kind of half-frightened, half-desperate glare—that sort of thing, don't you know. I began to feel devilish uncomfortable and edged away.

And he made another plunge: "They sent him—"

And, dash me if he didn't stick again! It just looked like he couldn't get past. But I encouraged him—just like you have to do a horse, you know—and this time he got over:

"They sent him a dozen boxes of 'Hickey's Pride,' sir, instead!"

He spoke in a low, choking voice and looked me full in the eye—the kind of look you get when a chap's boxing with you, you know—that sort of thing.

CHAPTER II.

An Ominous Discovery.

I was puzzled. "Hickey's Pride?" I repeated thoughtfully. "I don't seem to recall that one. Do I smoke it often?"

Jenkins seemed to gasp.

"You? Certainly not, sir! Never!"

And, by Jove, he turned pale! Anyhow, he looked devilish queer as he put his hands down on the table and bent to whisper:

"Mr. Lightnut, sir—" And the way he dropped his voice and turned his head to peer around into the corners was just creepy! That's what, creepy! This, with the glow from the green lampshade on his pale face as he leaned across the table—oh, it was something ghastly—awful, you know!

Never Saw a Man So Moved.

It got on my nerves, and I could feel the hair slowly rising on each side of my part. He bent close, whispering behind his hand, and I knew he had been eating radishes for dinner:

"It's what's known in the trade, sir, as a 'twofer.'"

"A twofer!" I repeated, puzzled.

"Two for five, sir," Jenkins spoke fatally. "I'm sure I'm ashamed to mention to a perfect gen—" "By Jove, I know!" I lifted my finger suddenly. "I know now—the kind you mean—big, fat, greasy-looking ones—the sort Vanderdecker and Colonel Boylston smoke over at the club". I shook my head. "Too jolly thick and heavy for me. So they're two for a 'V'—eh? Oh, I see—'two-fer!' By Jove!"

A brand new one, this—a ripper! I made up my mind to spring it on the fellows first chance—that is, if I could remember the jolly thing. I just looked at Jenkins' solemn face and laughed.

"Oh, I say, Jenkins—hang the expense, you know!" I remonstrated in some disgust. For this London chap had given me no end of a good time, you know; and it's such devilish bad form—rotten, I say—haggling about expense when you want to make a come-back and do the handsome. I was jolly glad the mistake had happened.

Just here I remembered the letter and went at it again, for I was keen to find out, if possible, if it was a muffler under the string. So I fixed my glass and read on:

"Realizing what these cigars are, I have given them, from time to time, to friends of mine—and others. Really, I don't think I ever had such unselfish, unalloyed pleasure from anything in my life. Gave one to a bus driver out Earl's Court way—chap who had never been known to speak to man, woman or child in years, and, after he lighted it—well, my word! He opened up and grew so bally loquacious I had to get off."

"Had been trying to get Jorgins, my chief, to send me out here again to China, but he was ever finding some cold, beastly evasion. But when your package came to the office, the first thing I did after I had tried the cigars was to hand the old iceberg a box with my compliments."

"Five minutes after, he came back, completely thawed out. Fact is, never saw him so warm toward any one. Asked me if the other boxes were to be given away outside. Said no; that his was the only box I could spare; was going to keep 'em all there at the office and smoke 'em myself. Never saw a man so moved—so worked up over little thing. Next day he sent me out here to China."

"And so I have been looking about since I have been out here, trying to find something as rare, unique and full of surprises for your friends as your cigars have been for mine. I have found it."

"You know what a curiously upside-down people the Chinese are. Example, they begin dinner with desert and end with soup; they drink hot, acid beverages in summer instead of iced ones; they write from right to left, vertically, while we write from left to right, horizontally; they mourn in white instead of black, and they are awfully honest and pay their debts."

"But there is one other point of difference still queerer: they wear pajamas all day, while we wear them only at night."

Here I yawned. Always hate that heavy, historical, instructive stuff, you know. If you have to hear it, gives you headache, unless you can slip off to sleep first.

So I reached the letter up to Jenkins.

"Just run over the rest of it yourself, and see if he says anything about his present," I said, settling comfortably. Clever idea of mine, don't you think?

And I was just dropping my head to have a snug little nap—just a little forty, you know—when, dash me, if I didn't have another idea! Awfully annoying, time like that.

Mind is so devilish alert, dash it! Always doing things like that; can't seem to get over it, you know. And this ripping idea that bobbed up now and got me all roused up was nothing more or less than to untie the string myself and see what the thing was. See?

"I believe, sir," said Jenkins, looking up, "the gentleman has sent you—hm—has sent you—"

"By Jove, a suit of pajamas!" I exclaimed, holding them up.

It was neck and neck, but I beat Jenkins to it, after all!

"Gentleman says, sir," continued Jenkins, studying the letter, "that his present of a pair of pajamas may seem surprising, but you won't know how surprising until you have worn them."

"Jolly likely," I admitted, feeling the silk. By Jove, it was the finest, yet thinnest stuff I ever saw, soft as rose leaves and as filmy light as a spider's web. Not bad, that, for a comparison, eh? Caught the idea from a vase of full-blown roses that were beginning to shed their petals there on the table. And on one of the blossoms was a little brown spider. Catch the idea? Suggested spider's web, you know.

"They're rather red, sir," Jenkins commented dubiously.

Red? Well, I should say! My! How jolly red they were! We spread them under the light, and the red seemed to flow all over the table and fall from the edge. Why, they were as red as—

I tried to think of something they were as red as, but somehow I couldn't fetch the idea. I thought of red ink and blood and fireworks, but they didn't seem to be up to them at all. And a big, velvety petal that dropped from one of the crimson roses just seemed brown beside them.

I was wondering whether the little spider was curious about the jolly red color there below him. And just then Jenkins' hand went out and swept at the little thread. The spider dropped and shot into a fold of the pajamas.

"I say! Look out!" I exclaimed as Jenkins made another clutch. "Don't mash the beast on the silk; you'll ruin it—the silk, I mean!"

"There it goes, sir!" said Jenkins eagerly. "Over by your hand."

"No; by Jove; he's gone into a leg of the pajamas! Here, shake him out—gently now!"

Jenkins lifted the garment gingerly and lightly shook it. But nothing came forth.

"Why don't you look in the leg," I said, "and see if you can see it?"

Jenkins peered down one of the silken tubes and forthwith dropped it with a yell. He jumped back.

"Look out, sir," he cried excitedly; "don't touch 'em! There's a tarantula in there big as a sand crab, and it's alive."

I backed nervously from the crumpled crimson pile on the floor.

Crimson?

Of course, I knew it was crimson; it must be the shadow of the table there that made the things so dark—black, in fact. But my mind was on the tarantula; and I was thinking that it must have been wrapped with the pajamas. Yet I could not understand how this could be, considering how tightly the things had been rolled.

Anyhow, it was there; and Jenkins pointed excitedly.

"Look, sir! You can see it moving under the silk!"

By Jove, so you could! And the thing seemed nearly as big as a rat. It was making for the end of the leg. I climbed upon a chair.

"Get a club," I exclaimed, "and smash the thing as it comes out!"

Jenkins rushed out and returned with a brassie.

"Careful now," I warned from the chair. "Don't go and hit the dashed thing before it gets out, and make a devil of a mess on the silk! There it is—it's out! No, no—not yet! Wait, until it gets its whole body out! There now; he's drawing out his last beastly leg. Now—now let drive!"

And he did, and seemed to hit the thing squarely.

I knelt on the chair and craned over, while Jenkins still held the stick tightly at the point where the thing had struck.

"Get him?" I queried. "Where is it?"

"That's it, sir," said Jenkins in an odd voice. "It ain't here."

"Why, dash it, I saw you strike the beast, right where you're holding that club."

"Mr. Lightnut, sir"—Jenkins spoke a little huskily and glanced around at me queerly—"will you look under the end of this stick and see if you see what I see?"

I climbed down and examined cautiously.

"Why, by Jove, it's the little spider!" I exclaimed, surprised.

"Exactly, sir; what's left?" Jenkins took a deep breath.

"Thank you, sir—it's a great relief," he sighed.

"Eh?"

"I mean, sir, I'm glad I ain't the only one who thought he saw that other—it's some comfort."

Jenkins spoke gloomily.

"Thought you saw?" I repeated.

But Jenkins only shook his head as he gathered up the remains of the spider and consigned them to a cuspidor.

"You mean—say, what the devil do you mean?" I asked sharply.

Jenkins straightened with air respectful but solemn.

"Mr. Lightnut, sir," he began gravely, "there's a party lectures on the street corner every night at nine on the fearful consequences of the drink habit, and passes around blank pledges to be signed. I'm going to get one first chance; and if you will accept it, sir—meaning no offense—I would be proud to get you one, too."

I stared at him aghast.

"Oh, I say, now," I murmured faintly, "you don't think it was that, do you?"

Jenkins' face was eloquent enough.

"I'm through, sir," he said sadly.

"When it comes to seeing things like that—" He lifted his eyes. "No more for me, sir; my belief is, it's a warning—yes, sir, that's what, a warning."

I collapsed into a chair.

"By Jove, Jenkins!" I said, trying to go a feeble smile. "I never felt so fit for a corking stiff highball in my life—never!"

I took a screw on my glass and studied him curiously.

"And I say, you know—better take one yourself!" I added.

I twisted before the glass and surveyed the pajamas with much satisfaction. They looked jolly right from every point. Moreover, with all their easy looseness, there was not an inch too much. They had a comfortable, personal feel.

"Lucky thing they weren't made originally for some whale like Jack Billings—eh, Jenkins?" I commented musingly.

Behind his hand Jenkins indulged in what is vulgarly known as a snicker.

"Mr. Billings, sir, he couldn't get one shoulder in 'em, much less a—h—leg," he chuckled. "They'd be in ribbons, sir!"

I yawned sleepily, and Jenkins instantly sobered to attention. He held his finger over the light switch as I punched a pillow and rulled over on the mattress.

"All right," I said; "push the jolly thing out." And with a click darkness fell about me.

"Good night, sir," came Jenkins' voice softly.

"Night," I murmured faintly, and I was off.

Sometime, hours later, I awoke, and with a devilish yearning for a smoke. It often takes me that way in the night.

I climbed out in the blackness and found my way into the other room. I remembered exactly where I had dropped my cigarette case when we were fooling with the pajamas by the table, and I found it without difficulty.

In the act of stooping for it, my hand clutched the edge of the table and I felt a spot yield under the pressure of my thumb. It was the button controlling the bell to Jenkins' room.

"Lucky thing he sleeps like a jolly porpoise," I reflected.

I pushed a wicker arm-chair into the moonlight and breeze by a window, and pulling a flame to a cigarette, leaned back, feeling jolly comfy. For the breeze was rippling and delicious, and the delicate silk of the pajamas flowed in little wavelets all the way from my heels to my neck.

I was just about dropping off when I heard some one hurrying along the private hall leading from the back—Jenkins himself popped into the room.

"And you ring, sir?" he inquired, and advanced quickly.

And then, before I could think about it to reply, he halted suddenly, almost pitching forward. Then with a kind of wheezy howl he sprang to the wall. Next instant, I was blinking under the dazzling electric light.

"Here I was! Shut off that light!" I remonstrated, half blinded.

I heard a swift rush across the rug, and the next thing I knew I was roughly jerked from out my chair, strong fingers clutched my throat, and I found myself glaring into a fright-ened but resolute face.

"Ten Jenkins!" I tried to gasp, but only a gurgle came.

I was so taken unawares, I know it must be some dashed dream. Perhaps another minute, and I would wake up. But he gripped me tighter and shook me like a rag.

"Say, who are you?" he hissed. "How did you get in here?"

And then, of course, I knew that he was crazy. Whether he was crazy in a dream or crazy with me awake, I couldn't guess. It made very little difference, anyhow, for I knew that in another minute I should be either dream dead or real dead, and dash me if I could see any odds worth tossing for in either you know.

But I don't belong to the athletic club quite for nothing, and have managed to pick up a few tricks, you know. So with the decision to chuck the dream theory, I shot my leg forward with a mix-up and twist that made Jenkins loosen his clutch and stagger backward.

"What's the matter with you?" I gasped, advancing toward him. "Are you trying to murder me?" But I was so hoarse, the only word that came out plainly was "murder."

Jenkins uttered a howl. "Help, Mr. Lightnut! Murder!"

"You old fool!" I cried, exasperated. "Come here!"

He was coming. He seized a light chair and swung it behind his head. Then he rushed me with a shout.

"Oh, Mr. Lightnut!"

"Come clear off his nut!" was my thought. As he swung the chair, I ducked low, and man and chair went crashing to the floor. But he was up again in a jiffy and dancing at me.

"Mr. Lightnut, sir, why don't you help me?"

"Help you—you jolly idiot!" I muttered indignantly. Then my voice raised. "I've a mind to kill you!"

With a yell he made a kangaroo jump and swung at me again.

"He says he's going to kill me, Mr. Lightnut!" he panted as I dodged again. "Help me—wake up, sir!"

"Wake up? Wake up, indeed, when I had never been so devilish wide awake in all my life! I was sure now about that. I moved toward him cautiously.

"Stop your row!" I cried angrily; "you'll have somebody in. Think I want the police up here?"

With a glare at me, Jenkins darted past me to the bedroom I had just left. Its light switch clicked, and then back through the brightened doorway he sprang and dashed for a wall cabinet at the side. He began tugging at its little drawer. And suddenly I remembered the revolver there, an old forty-five from a friend in Denver—and loaded!

My spring to intercept him was quick, but not quick enough! Half-way to him I pulled up under the compelling argument of the long blue barrel pointed at my head.

"Here! Look out, you fool—it's loaded!" I warned, backing away to the window.

Jenkins advanced. "What have you done with him?" he panted hoarsely. "Where is he?"

"Where's who?" I asked anxiously, for I was getting devilish tired of it all. But for the publicity, I should have yelled from the window.

"Where's Mr. Lightnut?" he demanded.

"Oh, he's all right." I decided to adopt that soothing tone that I had read somewhere was the proper paper with lunatics.

"Where?" Jenkins insisted, pushing nearer.

And dashed if I knew what to answer, for if I made a mistake it might be serious, by Jove! Perhaps some jocular reply would be safest—might divert his attention, you know.

The open window gave me an idea.

"Why, do you know," I said pleasantly, "I just checked him down into the street."

It sounded like a cannon crack, that gun! The shower of splintered glass from the picture between the windows barely missed me. But I never waited a second. This last devilish straw was too much for me, you know, and something had to be done. I leaped for the weapon as it struck the hardwood floor between us, jerked from Jenkins' hand by the unfamiliar upward kick. Another instant and I was poking the muzzle into his side.

"I've just had enough of this, you fool!" I cried impatiently. "Here, take a good look at me!" I pushed my face closer. "Look at me, I tell you!"

By Jove he shuddered. His eyes, wide dilated with terror, rolled to the ceiling.

"I can't," he whispered. "I just can't—anything but that! Only please—please don't kill me, too!"

"Kill you?" I said, frowning sternly as he gave a furtive glance. "I certainly will, if you don't take a good look at me!"

He gave a sort of despairing sigh and closed his eyes so tightly the lashes disappeared. "All right, then," he said sulkily. "You may kill me!"

The way with these lunatics I thought. Next thing he would be begging and insisting that I kill him. I motioned to the door of my guest room and gave him a push.

"In there," I said, "and keep perfectly quiet!"

And as he shot inside, I closed the door and locked it. I just had to take the chance of his hurting himself against the walls and furniture; I didn't believe he was so crazy he would undertake the six-story leap to the ground. Listening, I heard something like a sob. Then I caught my name.

"Poor Mr. Lightnut," came chokingly. "the kindest, gentlest master!" And then more sobs and gulps.

By Jove, under his insane delusion, the poor beggar was grieving for me; not thinking of himself at all, you know. I felt my eyes grow a bit moist, somehow, and all at once my heart went heavy. Thought how long poor old Jenkins had been with me—ever since I was out of college, you know—five years—and remembered how devilish faithful and attached he had always been. Poor old Jenks! It was awful his going off this way! I recalled how he had taken to seeing things, earlier in the evening, and had made me see them, too, dash it! One thing I determined: whatever had to be done with him, he should have the finest of attention.

I knew that I ought to telephone to somebody or something, but dashed if I had any idea who or where. Oddly enough, not a soul seemed to have been roused by the pistol shot, but I saw by the little clock that it was close to three—the hour in a bachelor apartment house when everybody is asleep, if they're going to sleep at all.

DON'T BE FOOLED

Mr. Voter, Let's Compare the Three Candidates for State Superintendent of Public Instruction

(BY P. B. JACKSON, CARTERS, FLORIDA)

HOLLOWAY ADVERTISES HIMSELF:

"A SUCCESSFUL TEACHER"

He hasn't taught for twenty years, and I don't believe he could pass the required examination for a State certificate to save his life.

"A Successful County Superintendent."

(Read the Records—Page 246 Report of Schools 1893-1894.)

Alachua County Balance Cash on hand	$1,192 34
Just ten years under Holloway (page 77, Report of Schools July 1, 1903), net indebtedness	$77,253 60

ONE THIRD OF THE SCHOOL INDEBTEDNESS OF THE ENTIRE STATE.

(Mr. Sheats was the COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT of Alachua who left the "CASH ON HAND" after Twelve Years of service.)

"A Successful State Superintendent, and has Forced the progress that marked his career in the lesser field."

It takes NERVE to advertise as a SUCCESS when STATE RECORDS are against you. As State Superintendent he has not been a "SUCCESS" for fear that he might incur the displeasure of some of his COHORTS.

"W. M. Holloway Has Promoted Much Educational Advancement, without Cost to the People."

A huge JOKE, even as an ADVERTISEMENT.

MY TAXES have not been reduced, have YOURS?

The greatest of Holloway's claims—"He was instrumental in securing to the School Fund 25 per cent. of the proceeds arising from the sale of State lands, from which was secured. The revenue thus derived will amount to several hundred thousand dollars in a few years."

BURRAH for SHEATS! He is the AUTHOR of ARTICLE XII—EDUCATION, of our State's Constitution.

ing provision for the School Fund to secure this money. And poor Governor Roward, who is dead and gone, deserves Credit for what MR. HOLLOWAY TAKES unto HIMSELF, for the STATE SUPERINTENDENT IS NOT a member of the State Board making that transaction.

ENOUGH SAID, But I Have More If Necessary.

W. N. SHEATS

He advanced the Public Schools of Florida by helping to properly educate Teachers, and holds HIGHEST Teachers' Certificate obtainable in Florida. Has during the past seven years SUCCESSFULLY TAUGHT in Florida's leading high schools.

He fought for public education while superintendent of Alachua county when only Ability, courage and determination could have won.

Upon the record made by Mr. Sheats as County Superintendent, he was elected our State Superintendent without the cost of a Postage Stamp.

And, he is an acknowledged success as our state superintendent.

HE made school teaching in Florida a profession.

HE secured Donations to Florida from the Peabody Fund of $2,000.00 annually to conduct Teachers' Summer Training Schools. Also Eight Annual Scholarships worth $200 each. With this assistance many of Florida's boys and girls were educated and now rank as our best trained teachers.

How about that $100,000 Sheats secured for the school fund from the Indian War Claims?

Yes, he secured it, but had to get it by act of the Legislature of 1903.

Return W. N. SHEATS to the care of our public school affairs, for the results of his earnest efforts in the Constitutional Convention of 1885, and careful administration of our public school affairs as State Superintendent IS THE REASON FLORIDA is today noted for her public school system.

History so accredits Mr. Sheats, and by our ballots lets RETURN HIM!

HE WILL DO HIS DUTY.

MR. RUSSELL'S FREE TEXT BOOKS

Free is good! But how will Free Books for 105,877 negro children be provided? (See page 392 last School Report for number of Negro School Children.)

Why, we White taxpayers will have to supply them, just as we are Now Burdened with the negroes' education. And, believe me, if the negro can (according to law) get his books free—he will be on hand.

BUT—Why Not CHEAPER Books?

Our Uniform Text Book Law admitted competition, and we should be getting our books 25 per cent. cheaper. Has this law Received any Encouragement at the hands of our present State Superintendent, Mr. Holloway.

ENOUGH Said, but I have MORE if Necessary.

Now, Mr. Voter in making the above comparison of the candidates asking for your vote and mine, I have done so Honestly by going to the State records for my every statement. I can get More if Necessary

Yours truly,

FACTS ABOUT SUICIDE

SAXONY LEADS IN NUMBER AND IRELAND IS LAST.

Self-Murder Far More Prevalent Among Men Than Among Women—Former Seem to Prefer Hanging and Latter Drowning.

Modern conditions in all countries are such that the subject of suicide must occasionally come under discussion in every community of any size. Not that suicide is of modern origin, for history shows that it occurred in very ancient times, but those who have made a study of the subject maintain, any probably with reason, that the highly organized conditions of modern society and the social abnormalities and nerve disturbances incident thereto, promote and strengthen the suicidal tendency. This may be more theory, but statistics do show that it is more prevalent in some countries than in others. Statistics covering a term of years show that during the entire period of observation Ireland had the fewest annual number of suicides, seventeen to the million of inhabitants, and Saxony, the largest number, 392 to the million. Denmark showed 251 per annual to the million inhabitants; Switzerland, 239, France 180, Belgium 100, England and Wales 75. The Swiss people are commonly supposed to be happy and comparatively free from care, and it seems strange that the average suicide rate should be several hundred per cent greater in Switzerland than in Ireland.

On another point statistics are more conclusive, for they show that in all countries the proportion of suicides is three or four men to one woman, and that this proportion continues from year to year. The fair inference would seem to be either that men are more subject to the suicidal tendency than women or else that they yield to it more readily. Either supposition opens a field for biological and metaphysical speculation. Another curious fact disclosed by the statistics is that suicide is much more common among Protestants than amongst Roman Catholic communities, while Jews have a smaller suicide rate than Roman Catholics. It is also demonstrated that self-murder, as suicide is styled by Christian ethics and law, is more common among the educated than the illiterate classes, and more prevalent in city than in rural districts. These facts might be accounted for on the theory that educated people are more sensitive to misfortune than the illiterate, and the nervous strain of city life greater than that of country life. The suicide rate is higher in certain occupations and professions than in others. It is high among soldiers and doctors.

As to the modes of suicide they are found to vary but slightly in different countries. Hanging is the most common among males; then drowning, firearms, knife cuts and poison, in the order named. With women a different order prevails, viz. first drowning, then poison, hanging and knife cuts and firearms.

Too Deep for Men.

The fact is that women are uncomfortable if they are not fashionably dressed, relates Katherine F. Gerould in Atlantic. No man understands the subtle and complex significance of the phrase "nothing to wear"—witness the distressed but utterly puzzled expression that over spreads a man's face at the words. He knows that his wife or his sister looks charming in "the blue one," or "the lace one," or "the one with the jet." She has looked charming in it often enough for him at last to identify it—and that, unless he is an exception to his sex, is very often. He is cheerfully getting into his evening coat for the fiftieth time. No wonder he does not realize that some frock which, the first time it was worn, made for triumph, should, the tenth time, make for humiliation. But the most strong-minded woman—the woman who will, if necessary go to the opera on a gala night in a coat and skirt—at heart exonerates the woman who so foolishly, for the reason mentioned, stops at home.

Man's Period of Foolishness.

Of all literary compositions the love letters of men contain the maximum of twaddle and the minimum of sense. The only explanation is that every man in love tries to become a poet.

Our Business in This World.

Our business in this world is not to succeed, but to continue to fall in good spirits.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Strong Man Story.

"You may talk about Gotch being a strong man," said a gentleman from Butte, Mont., who is visiting in the city, "but I met a fellow in Minneapolis who had the prize strong man champion of the world story. 'It came out in a discussion of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt wrestling bout,

One man made the assertion that Gotch was about as strong a man as there is in the country or the world. The Norwegian was quiet for a moment, then interposed: "Ay got bruder in woods, he ban better man than Gotch." "Better than Gotch? How do you make that out?" "Well, my brudder he drive log team. One day team he balk and my brudder he got so mad he tak' one log 'bout ten foot long and three foot thick in one hand, and he tak' nodder log 'bout ten foot long and three foot thick in odder hand and he smash dem together until all is left is sawdust."

Judging Character.

JEALOUS OF THE NEW CAMEL

Elephant in Jardin des Plantes Purchased His Former Admirers for Their Fickleness.

At the Jardin des Plantes in Paris there occurred recently an incident that showed that animals are subject to feelings very like those which occasionally ruffle the bosoms of men.

A large elephant, formerly the center of attraction, found itself supplanted in public favor by a new arrival—a young camel. The camel was the latest acquisition, and very naturally engaged the attention of visitors.

The elephant for a long time showed signs of dissatisfaction, and at last its jealousy reached a point where it must find expression. When the usual crowd gathered about the camel, the elephant prepared for action. It filled its trunk with water, and with deliberate aim discharged the water all over the people who stood looking at the baby camel.

This method of throwing cold water upon the admirers of a rival brought a laugh even from its victims.

In certain parts of India railroad engineers have many difficulties to encounter, some of them more amusing to read than to experience. The following is one such difficulty:

A freight train was lumbering along when a big elephant came out of the woods and undertook to butt the engine off the track. The engineer did not like to charge the beast, for fear of an upset, and several times reversed the engine, in the vain hope that the elephant would take that as a sign of surrender and retire.

Finally the elephant backed into the engine, and setting its forefeet firmly between the rails, endeavored to push the train backward with its hind quarters.

The engineer promptly put on all steam, toppled the elephant over a small embankment, and before it could recover its senses the train passed on.

There was a cat that chose a peculiar spot for a bed. Comfort was the cat's object, and the chosen spot did not seem to be calculated to afford it. The cat was found fast asleep in a large ship-building yard, lying on what seemed to be a very muddy path.

It was found, however, that the spot chosen by the cat for its couch was the point at which a hot steam-pipe passed under the road, so that the mud was baked into a warm, dry clay.

IN THE SPONGING SEASON

How Valuable Utensil of the Bath-room Is Brought From the Ocean's Depths.

From October until July the sponging season in the Bahamas is in full swing. There are several thousand men and boys engaged in the fishery, each schooner carrying a crew of from five to seven. The sponges are found all over the banks, which vary in depth from two to four fathoms. Arrived on the ground, the small boats, of which each schooner carries two or three, put off, manned each by two men, one of whom sculls, while the other, armed with a 30-foot pole bearing at the end a double hook, lies extended over the bow and examines the bottom through a "sponge glass," or bucket with a glass bottom. Laying this upon the surface, he sees everything below as clearly as if no water intervened. The sponges when found are hooked up, and as soon as the schooner's deck is filled she sails away to a "ranche," where she deposits her evil-smelling load in a "crawl," or inclosure of wattles in shallow water, where it remains for a couple of weeks, during which the crew are fishing for a fresh cargo.

On their return all hands enter the crawl and beat out the now rotted fleshy parts of the sponges, which when first gathered present the appearance of round masses of dark India rubber, freely perforated.

When the fleshy part has been thoroughly removed and the marketable skeleton washed the heap is laid on shore in a secluded spot and the schooner starts again for the sponge banks. At length, when enough sponges have been gathered and cleaned to load the vessel they are sorted by the crew into glove, reef, lamb's wool, grass, etc., and each kind is separately strung in rings of from one to two dozen.

In this way they are sold at auction in the sponge exchange, when the first step of the preparation for the consumer is carried out by the sponge merchants. The sponges are exposed to the sun to improve their color. They are then clipped and all irregularities and pieces of shell or rock are removed. Harper's Weekly.

CHILDREN INJURED.

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associated bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store.

Gentlemen—I wish to say a good word in reference to Valpar. I have used this varnish in October, 1907, on extreme outside work where it was not protected from anything. This month we went back to same job and gave it one coat, finding this was all that was required as there was plenty of body still left, only dead here and there.

I have tried all kinds of outside varnish here before, but must say this is the best of all.

I know there cannot be too much said about such an article, and I also know there are plenty of men looking for such varnish, but don't know where to find it. I shall never buy another as long as it remains what it is and hope many more will find out the good results it gives. I remain yours very truly,

SLANG BY NO MEANS NEW

Familiar Phrase "Get the Hook" Has Come Down to Present Times From Long Ago. We are accustomed to having accepted ideas about the freshness and originality of our slang held up to the scorn and mockery of the initiated...

"How often we have seized upon some newly coined phrase, some apparently unique product from the great popular language mint, and advanced it as a genuine invention of the day, only to discover that it was known to generations past in almost identical form and is truly an old coin restamped.

"Everybody is familiar with the phrase 'get the hook.' It has been established in current speech as a slang expression of peculiar vigor and terseness. Almost anyone could tell you that it originated in the amateur nights at popular vaudeville theaters where aspirants for fame are given a chance to try their powers upon an audience, and that it refers to the implement with which the stage manager brings about the actor's forcible exit when the audience can stand no more.

"From this application the phrase has come into general use for all occasions when one is bored or wearied of anything or anybody.

"Now, on the face of it this looks like a truly modern slang. It can be traced, apparently, to a modern custom and a modern method of entertainment. You would say, off hand, that 'the hook' is a genuine Americanism if ever there was one.

"Not at all. It is at least 19 centuries old, possibly older than that.

"Among the most interesting discoveries in the ruins of Pompeii, destroyed 79 A. D., are the inscriptions scratched upon the walls by idlers and street arabs, 'graffiti,' they are called.

"One of them reads as follows: 'Puteolanis felicitur, omnibus Nucerninus fellicia, et uncu(m) Pompeianis (et) Pithecusanis.' Which means, 'Hurrah for the Puteolaneans, good luck to all Nucernians; the hook for the Pompeians and Pithecusanis.'

Notice of Incorporation of Florida Gardens, Incorporated

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned intend to apply to the Honorable Albert W. Christ, Governor of the State of Florida, at Tallahassee, Florida, on the 15th day of April A. D. 1912, for Letters Patent, incorporating the FLORIDA GARDENS, INCORPORATED, under the following proposed charter, the copy of which is on file in the office of the Secretary of the State of Florida.

ARTICLE I. We, the undersigned, have agreed to associate ourselves and do hereby associate ourselves together for the purpose of forming a body politic and corporate under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Florida, and to have the following Articles of Incorporation.

The name of this corporation shall be Florida Gardens, Incorporated, and its principal place of business shall be at Sanford, Orange County, Florida, but it may have such other offices, agencies and places of business in Florida, and in other states of the United States and in foreign countries, as the Board of Directors may determine.

ARTICLE II. The general nature of the business to be transacted and conducted by said corporation shall be as follows: To purchase, hold, own, control, lease, rent, sell, mortgage, exchange and otherwise deal in real estate, and any right, title, interest or estate therein in the State of Florida, and in other states of the United States and in foreign countries.

To acquire, own, lease and occupy, farms, farm lands, garden lands, orchards, groves, ranches, town sites and territories, to lay out, plat, improve, irrigate, drain, cultivate, use or operate the property of the corporation or of others, and to plant and perform all things appropriate to said property, and to develop and improve the same for any purposes for which the same may be adapted to undertake and direct the management and use of the property of the corporation or of the property of others.

To acquire, own, lease, occupy, use, and develop farms, farm lands, town sites and territories, to lay out, irrigate, drain and subdivide the same, to operate farms, ranches and orchards and plants, and establish colonies of immigrants.

To manufacture, produce, purchase, transport, commission or otherwise acquire, hold, own, mortgage, pledge, sell, assign, transfer, trade and deal in timber, lumber, naval stores, fertilizers, manure, oil, fruits, garden and farm products, live stock and all other goods, wares and merchandise of every class and description, which may be calculated directly or indirectly to effectuate its business.

To issue bonds and secure the same by pledges or deeds of trust or mortgages of or upon the whole or any part of the property held by the corporation, and to sell and pledge such bonds for proper corporate uses as and when the Board of Directors may determine; to loan and borrow money on notes, bonds, mortgages and other securities.

To guarantee, subscribe for, hold, purchase or otherwise acquire, sell, transfer, assign, mortgage, pledge or otherwise dispose of the shares of the capital stock, or any bonds, securities and evidences of indebtedness issued or created by any corporation or corporations of this state, or any other state, country or nation, and while the owner thereof, and generally to exercise such powers as may be incident to the purposes and business of said corporation, and to have, exercise and enjoy all rights, powers and privileges incident to corporations organized and existing under the laws of the State of Florida.

The foregoing clauses shall be construed as independent objects, businesses and powers, and the enumeration of any specific business or power shall not be held to limit or restrict in any manner any other business or power of this corporation.

ARTICLE III. The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be TWO MILLION DOLLARS ($2,000,000.00), to be divided into twenty thousand shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each.

One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00) of said capital stock divided into ten thousand shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each, shall be common stock, and One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00) divided into ten thousand shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each, shall be preferred stock.

Said preferred stock shall entitle the holders to receive each year out of the net earnings of the corporation a fixed yearly dividend of seven (7) per centum per annum, to be paid before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock; such dividends on the preferred stock shall be payable semi-annually upon the first day of February and August of each year; the dividends on the preferred stock shall be cumulative so that if in any year dividends amounting to seven (7) per centum shall not be paid on such preferred stock, the deficiency shall be a charge upon the net earnings of the corporation and shall be subsequently paid before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock.

The balance of the net profits of the corporation after the payment of the said cumulative dividend of seven (7) per centum per annum to the holders of preferred stock, shall be paid to the holders of common stock when the Board of Directors shall determine when and where the same shall be paid.

The holders of preferred stock shall be entitled to the said Board shall determine, and the vote of each of the stockholders shall be in proportion to the par value of the shares held by them.

The holders of preferred stock shall be entitled to the said Board shall determine, and the vote of each of the stockholders shall be in proportion to the par value of the shares held by them.

The preferred stock shall be redeemable at the option of the Board of Directors at any time after the expiration of three years from the date of issue of said stock at par value of said stock and a premium of five (5) per centum, together with all the accrued interest or dividends.

All or any portion of the common stock of this corporation may be payable in real or personal property or in labor or services, to be assigned or used for the purchase of real or personal property or for the payment of labor or services, the valuation to be determined by the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE IV. This corporation shall continue and have full power to exercise its corporate rights and franchises for a period of forty (40) years, and until after the commencement of its corporate existence.

The business of this corporation shall be conducted by the following officers: A president, a vice-president, a general manager, and a board of directors, of not less than five (5) or not more than nine (9) directors, who shall be holders of one or more shares of common stock of the corporation, to be elected annually by said stockholders.

Until the first annual meeting of the stockholders hereinafter provided for, and until their successors are elected and qualified, the officers of this corporation shall be: J. N. Whitner, President; B. A. Howard, Vice-President; J. D. Eckford, Secretary.

The Board of Directors shall be: J. N. Whitner, B. A. Howard and W. D. Holden, J. D. Eckford, J. O. Eckford and G. M. Connor.

The first organizational meeting of this corporation shall be held in the City of Sanford, Orange County, Florida, at the office of the corporation on the 15th day of April A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time become subject shall be an amount equal to the total capital stock of this corporation.

The names and residences of the incorporators of this corporation are: J. N. Whitner, Sanford, Fla.; B. A. Howard, Sanford, Fla.; J. D. Eckford, Sanford, Fla.; J. O. Eckford, Sanford, Fla.; G. M. Connor, Sanford, Fla.

PICTURES OF OLD FRANCE

La Valliere's Brilliant Youth and the Contrasting Scene of a Few Years Later.

The festivities and intrigues of Fontainebleau and Versailles may seem a far cry from this old Chateau of Blois, but standing this afternoon in the rooms that had echoed to the light footsteps of Louise de La Valliere in the days of her youth and innocence, distance and the centuries between that day and this seem to fall away, and we picture to ourselves the court of honor and salle de reception as they appeared on the night of the arrival of the court at Blois. The fast-fading light lent a semblance of reality to the scene, as the torches and candles used in those early days could not have brilliantly lighted the vast hall. We see the chairs placed in a half-circle for the accommodation of the royal guests, the king's not an inch higher than that of Mazarin or of the queen, Anne of Austria. The astute Italian prime minister is seated, his body bent, his face pallid, the hand of death is already laid heavily upon him; but his mind is as keen and alert as in youth, his eyes as penetrating. The courtiers are grouped around Mazarin, the real king.

Gaston, the indolent father of an energetic and courageous daughter, is talking to him, and chroniclers of the day tell us that the duke of Orleans was an admirable raconteur. The Grande Mademoiselle, now over thirty and in the full flower of a beauty which, according to Peillot's miniature and her own rose-colored descriptions, was not inconsiderable, is in another group at one side of the hall, with her half-sisters and the other young girls of the house, among them Louise de La Valliere, whom Madame de Sevigne likened later to a modest violet hiding beneath its leaves; but not so successfully concealed as to evade the eyes of royalty.

In strong contrast to this scene is another and later picture in a far different setting, in the dim, religious light of a convent, where a woman still young and in the full maturity of her beauty is taking the veil, which is held for her, the former royal favorite, by Queen Maria Teresa, the neglected wife of Louis.—Lippincott's Magazine.

An Elopement Fifty Years Ago.

Married in La Crosse fifty years ago, the culmination of a pioneer day romance of the sort that is read about in fiction, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dougherty celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home at Rodeo, N. M.

But one witness of the marriage is alive, and he James W. Young of La Crosse, told the story of the wedding, which follows:

"William Dougherty was born in Vermillion county, Ind., and so was his wife, whose maiden name was Mary Catherine Hiller. It seems that at the time of the wedding the girl's parents objected to the young man's attentions, which made it necessary for several other young fellows and myself to help the prospective bride-groom out of the difficulty.

"We got a skiff and rowed up the river to the girl's house, where we quietly got her out of the house and into the boat. We then rowed down through French Slough and up to the north side where Mr. Dougherty was waiting for us. We soon had Justice of the Peace Winston on the scene and the necessary ceremony was performed."—La Crosse correspondence St. Paul Dispatch.

The Man They Admired.

Several senate clerks and stenographers were gossiping in the Capitol building the other day, telling reminiscences of statesmen past and present, when Senator Cummins of Iowa passed them. "Ah, there's the best of all of them," one remarked. "Right you are," asserted another. "Foraker was great, but, in some respects, this man even surpasses him." "I doubt if this old building ever forgets his memory," sighed a third. "Wonderful in debate!" was the fourth man's contribution. "No man was ever his equal in the hullabaloo of a hot fight on the floor." A stranger had listened to the praises, following Senator Cummins with his eyes as long as he could. "Who is he?" he asked eagerly. "Some famous orator? The country's leading statesman, perhaps? A political genius?" "Genius nothing!" grunted one of the stenographers. "Why that man's the slowest talker of the senate and the easiest to take in shorthand!"

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain

The city council of Eustis met last week to consider the question of sewerage for that town. The council has the matter under advisement and will determine later whether or not an election be called to decide the question of a bond issue.

News comes from Clearwater that the Clearwater Pier Company is to give all of its waterfront property to the town of Clearwater. The dock at the foot of the pier will be a pavilion and all the other buildings and fixtures. The pier will be an improved one.

News comes from Fort Myers that there has never been so many boats on the waters of the Caloosahatchee river as there are now.

Palatka is getting ready for the coming of the State Fair. The town is being beautified and the streets are being cleaned.

It is understood that the school board will hold their meeting on the 15th.

New Drug Store

Along with the growth of Sanford is the growth of new business, and the very latest is a new drug store. This will be a new department in the establishment of J. B. Lawson, who recently purchased all the fixtures of the Clyde Pharmacy, and who purposes to put in a first-class and most complete stock of drugs and toilet articles. Mr. H. E. Roseberry, a registered pharmacist, will have charge of the drug department. Mr. Roseberry is a native of Indiana, but in later years has resided in the Southwest. After a trip over the state of Florida, he decided to locate here on the future prospects of the city being good to him. The new store will be ready for business on Saturday, and the public is cordially invited to come in and meet Mr. Roseberry.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

A Budget of Opinion "Just Between You and Me"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chiel is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em"—So Says Saunterer.

Last week in an article I made a mistake and called the Lend a Hand Society the Helping Hands. I hereby apologize to both societies. The Lend a Hand Society were organized by Mrs. Wight and are recruited from all the churches while the Helping Hands are a Baptist organization. Both of them are doing good work and while the mistake was an error I could safely say the same words of praise about either only my statement about the worthy patroness would be erroneous.

Well, I see by the papers that Frank Clark has returned to Florida to face his adversaries and refute some of the wild statements made about him and the investigation of the Everglades. It seems that all his opponents can do is to chew the linen about Frank and the Everglades. As far as most of us are concerned we want the Everglades and every other land scheme investigated and commented upon. There are too many swindles being perpetrated by bank fakirs not only in Florida but in every state in the Union, and the truth will not hurt the real article. Sanford has been imposed upon by some of these exploitations and the so-called Celery City proposition gave our community a black eye, although it was twenty miles from here and had no connection with Sanford. Ever since the drainage of the Everglades started there have been all kinds of rumors about regarding the land swindling operations down there, and in justice to the Everglades and the rest of the state we want the light of publicity turned upon them and upon the whole state. Frank Clark cannot be bluffed by any publicity, and his desire to have the truth about the suppressed reports upon the Everglades is commendable.

Claude L'Engle, who is fighting Frank Clark says that Florida is too good an agricultural state to suffer loss from any derogatory statements, regardless of the author, and if the great Claude thinks thonly why does he attack Frank Clark about the Everglades report?

The truth about Florida will never hurt the state. We have the real article and want the world to know it. Nothing will do us more good than a searching investigation of every section of the state that is being exploited for colonization purposes.

Our little sister city just south of here where everybody goes to pay county taxes to keep up the court house and the inhabitants thereof—Orlando I believe they call it in the winter time—is just now agitated over the question of sewerage, and the daily Bungalow is filled from kiver to kiver every day with a burning appeal to the voters to build the sewer, even if Mr. Cheney is forced to supply the water for the same from his nice little water works plant. The people of Orlando are wise in their generation. For years they have told of the wonderful subterranean and Mediterranean passages that carried off the sewerage of the city. All they had to do was to drive a well into the ground until the drill struck the head of a Chinaman on the other side of the earth and when the drill could go no further on account of the Mongolian cranium the deep well at once became a sewer and the wonderful subterranean streams that abound in China carried off all the sewerage of the city.

But now they have discovered that a real bona fide sewerage system must be built. One that can be visible to the naked eye. One that can be shown to the visiting tourist. One that can be extolled in song and story and pictured in the Red Book and the Blue Book and the book with a red seal printed by the Orange County Fair Association.

The seven thousand people and one baby that were discovered in Orlando by the census taker during the week of the Orlando Fair are too many for the subterranean sewerage system and no more will the sewerage of this great city be dumped on China.

The Yangtsé Kiang and the Hoang Ho and the Tally Ho rivers of the Flowery Kingdom will have to depend upon some other source to swell the floods of their rivers, for they will get no aid from Orlando's sewers.

Mr. Cheney, who owns the light and water and gas and ice and the Republican party in Florida has offered to flush the new sewerage system of Orlando just as he has flushed the city—faithfully and well for so many years—and I for one am heartily in favor of Orlando having a sewerage system of their own and letting Mr. Cheney supply the water. There is not another man in the United States that can supply water and light and gas and ice so cheerfully as Mr. Cheney and take the money for it. The only man who comes near this on the cheerful part is our own Forrest Lake and he has never overlooked a bet when it comes to taking money for water.

Mr. Lake furnishes water for Sanford and in order to satisfy everybody he sometimes furpishes mud, just to make the proper weight for the customers. Sometimes you can spread the water on your bread in the morning.

But coming back to the main issue I repeat that I am glad that Orlando is to have a sewer system. Sanford has one of the best sewer systems of the state and with the small expenditure of a few thousands it could be made the best system in the south. No city should be without a sewerage system and Orlando has been backward only in this respect.

And then, I am glad for the Chinaman's sake.

I never like to talk politics in these columns because my friends get mad at me when I tell the truth and telling the truth is a simple way that I have at all times. But just to keep up interest in politics I will prognosticate somewhat and after the election you can remember what I said and if I miss my guess don't take my advice politically any more. A little trip over the county last week gives me the following dope on county candidates:

Forrest Lake will be the leading candidate for the Legislature. Charles Hand will be Sheriff, J. H. Tucker will be County Treasurer, Geo. A. DeCottes will be County Solicitor.

Arthur Donegan will be State Senator. Cary Landis will be Prosecuting Attorney or State Attorney I believe they call it for this district.

Just paste all this in your hat and remember it. You don't have to vote that way unless you want to and I am not giving out this advance dope sheet to influence any votes. This is merely my impression and if it happens to tally with your own we are friends for life and if you disagree with me we will be enemies until after the election.

Such is life!

Fair Weather This Week

Washington, March 26.—Fair weather over the greater part of the country with temperatures near or slightly below the seasonal average during the next several days is promised by the weather bureau in a bulletin today.

"Rain or snow is probable, however," say the bulletin, "on Monday in the North Atlantic states, and the extreme upper Ohio valley. The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the Far West Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the Middle West Wednesday or Thursday and the Atlantic states near the close of the week, this disturbance will be preceded and attended by a general rise in temperature and local rains in Southern and rains and snow in Northern states, and be followed by considerably colder weather, which will appear in the Northwestern states Thursday or Friday."

Wesley's Cup Filled.

On one occasion Wesley said, while preaching in Dublin: "All crimes have been laid to my charge of which a human being is capable, except that of drunkenness." Whereupon a woman arose and shouted: "You old villain! And will you deny that you pledged your bands to Mrs. Blank for a noggin o' whisky, and didn't she sell them to our paragon's wife?" After a moment of amazed silence on the part of the audience, Wesley calmly "thanked God that his cup was now full."

Havoc Wrought by Beast Creation.

Even in thickly peopled communities man has not yet subdued the beast creation. In India last year wild animals and poisonous serpents killed 25,000 persons. The number of cattle killed by the denizens of the jungles was 93,000. The natives, in turn, slew something over 100,000 elephants, tigers, leopards, bears, wolves, hyenas and other animals, including 91,000 snakes.

Appeal for Native Talent.

A New York hotel man, who has just returned home after scouring Europe for cooks, complains that they are a scarce commodity abroad. The condition is one for which hotel men themselves are largely to blame. Why don't they encourage native talent in the cooking line instead of filling their kitchens with foreigners?—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Indian Aristocracy.

Among the guests at an Indian dance were Mr. and Mrs. Walsingham Kick-a-hole-in-the-Tepee, Misses Gwendolyn and Cleopatra Buffalo-Fat, Miss Hayzelle Saw-the-Bear-Go-into-a-Hole and her brother, Algernon, and Charley Fell-Off-the-Bridge, and his sisters, Claudia and Penelope.—Washington Post.

LITTLE NELL WAS ORIGINAL

DeQuincey's "Our Lady of Tears" Did Not Suggest the Character to Dickens.

It is remarked by Charles Dickens that no modern writer was less open to the charge of having received suggestions from the characters and plots of his novels from others than was he, and this for the reason that his plots and characters were chosen, not from books, but from people and incidents in the living world about him. Some time ago, however, an English author thought that he had found in DeQuincey's essay, "Our Lady of Tears," the suggestion for the beautiful pathos of Little Nell, in "The Old Curiosity Shop." A little investigation, however, showed that DeQuincey's essay was published in 1845, while "The Old Curiosity Shop" was published five years before. The extract here given from DeQuincey's essay is interesting:

"The eldest of the three sisters is named Mater Lachrymarum, our Lady of Tears. The sister, it is that carries keys more than papal at her girdle, which open every cottage and every palace. She, to my knowledge, sat all last summer by the bedside of the blind beggar, him that so often and so gladly I talked with, whose pious daughter, eight years old, with the sunny countenance, resisted the temptations of play and village mirth, to travel all day long on dusty roads with her afflicted father. For this did God send her a great reward. In the springtime of the year, and whilst yet beneath spring was budding, He called her to himself. But her blind father mourns for ever over her; still he dreams at midnight that the little guiding hand is locked within his own, and still he wakens to a darkness that is now within a second and deeper darkness."

VOTE FOR
DONEGAN
FOR
STATE SENATOR

(From the Kissimmee, (Florida) Valley Gazette)

"When the County of Osceola was created, the late John Milton Bryan was the senator but at the next election Orange County furnished the senator and E. M. Hammond was elected. He was succeeded four years later by M. R. Marks, of Orange County, giving that County the senator for eight years. Mr. Hammond was succeeded by C. A. Carson, of Kissimmee, who served for eight years and he was in turn succeeded by Louis C. Massey, of Orlando, who has just completed his service for eight years. Then, clearly, if precedent is to be observed it is Osceola's time to have the senator again, and in presenting the name of Arthur E. Donegan, the people of this county feel that they can assure the people of Orange County of a representative in the State Senate in every way the equal of any of those who have preceded him in service in that distinguished body."

HERALD MAKES GREAT IMPROVEMENTS

INSTALLING ONE OF THE FINEST OUTFITS FOR SETTING AND CASTING TYPE THAT IS MADE

The above cut shows the Keyboard of the Lanston Monotype, a machine that is supposed to be the last word in printing machinery.

The cut below is the type-casting machine, a small type foundry in itself that enables a printer to take his worn-out type and cast up new type at a small cost. The Monotype is new in Florida, the machine of The Herald being the third one to be installed. Such a piece of machinery costs over $4,000.00, but with our increased facilities, The Herald will be increased to a large paper, the job department will have increased facilities and the city of Sanford will have one of the best-equipped plants in the state.

With a larger cylinder press and folding machine to be installed later, the management of this paper expects to do a larger business or go broke, as there is no middle ground for an active printing office. It must either go forward or backward, and The Herald prefers the forward movement.

Big Time at Kissimmee
Kissimmee is yours today, and tomorrow when a grand carnival will be given for two days. Aeroplane flights, automobile parade, water carnival, baseball, good roads rally, basket lunch, candidates pow-wow, bicycle races and a number of other amusements will keep the visitors busy. Kissimmee knows how to entertain the people and every one who attends will have a good time. Sanford and Kissimmee will play ball tomorrow.

PROF. O. W. STAPLETON

At First Methodist Church Beginning March 26th

Hawkinsville, Ga., Oct. 31, 1910
The meeting of two weeks at the Methodist church proved to be a great blessing. The down-grade movement morally and spiritually of many was stopped. The up-grade movement of many was begun. Some was reclaimed; some started in the moral and spiritual life. Reformation characterized the conduct of a number. The spirit, fact and act of essential Christian unity was revealed, emphasized and strengthened. There was but little sensational excitement, and but little emotional excitement manifest. Lasting results were most earnestly and faithfully sought in every way. The preaching by Evangelist J. M. Baso was very plain, pointing practical and penetrating. It was clean, clear, close and cleaving. It dealt with motives, means, methods, manners and men. It was bold, brave and beneficial. He was genial, gentle, generous and gracious. The singing Evangelist, O. W. Stapleton, has had no superior and probably no equal here in his leading characteristics and efficiency, and complete freedom from all objectionable qualities. As a genial, spiritual Christian gentleman, soloist and leader he was really excellent. The heart of the faithful, prayerful pastor, Dr. J. O. A. Cook has been greatly encouraged.

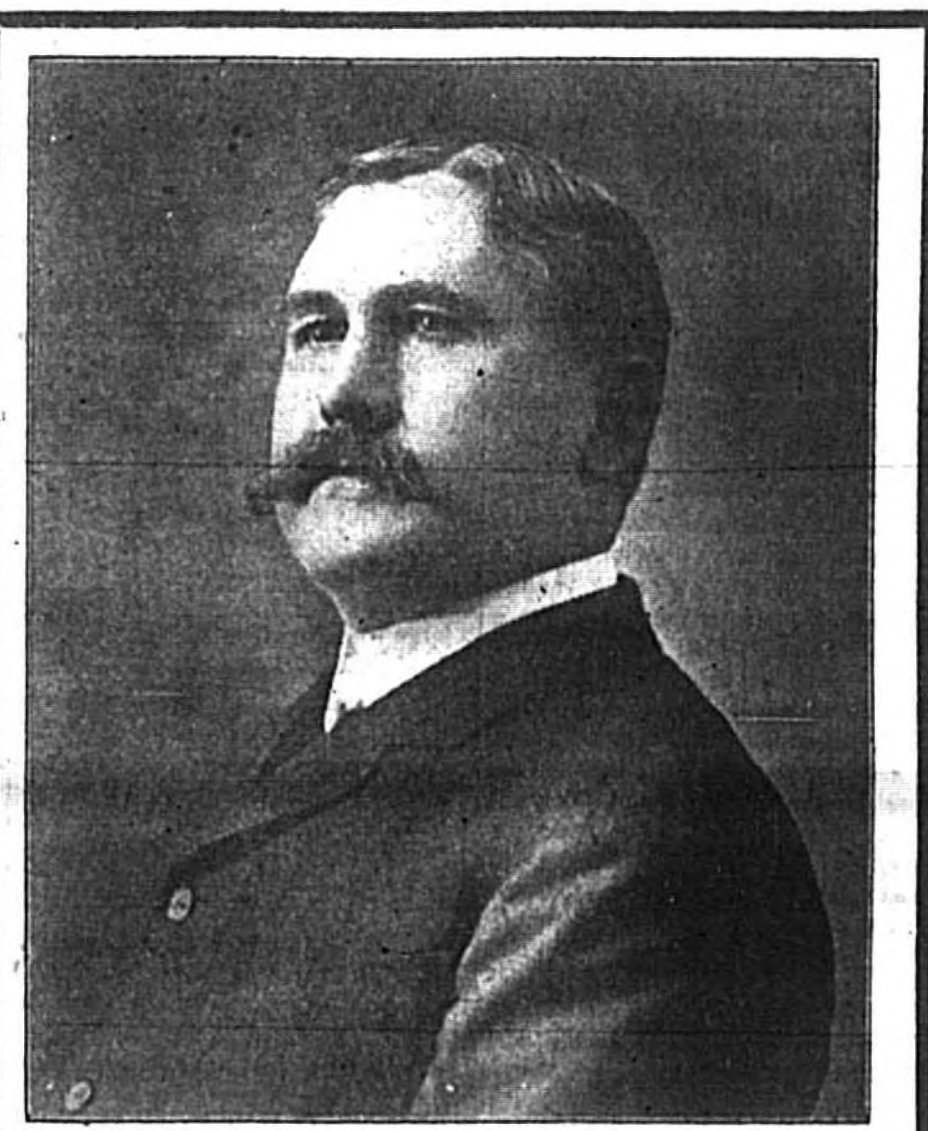

Sincerely,
CHAS. HARRIS NASH, D. D.
Pastor Baptist Church

All Sanford will be pleased to hear these men May 26th.

UNSOPHISTICATED CONFIDENCE

Something like a quarter of a century or more ago, Mr. Hamilton Diaston, a wealthy saw manufacturer of Philadelphia, bought four million acres of lands in Florida, and scattered literature over the country containing the most fairylike predictions on making sugar enough on the border of the Everglades to supply the world's demand. To this end costly machinery was bought and erected, and tons of seed cane was purchased and planted, but in a little while the whole scheme exploded as completely as the South Sea Bubble that deluded the best financiers of Europe for a long number of years.

Years after this, now about eight years ago, Mr. Napoleon B. Broward, then a candidate for Governor, told the voters of Florida in a most insinuating and captivating manner about supplying the world with sugar, to be grown in the Everglades if he were elected Governor.

The proposition is as much a fairytale today as it was then.

Yet, Mr. Miltop, a candidate for Governor, comes out apparently seriously with a proposition to work the state convicts in the Everglades, growing sugar cane, and works out a beautiful and entrancing picture on paper that the state can clear annually seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars by the proposition.

And Mr. Frank Mayes, editor of The Pensacola Journal, who recently believes that Mr. Woodrow Wilson, who has secured ten votes up to the present time, will be nominated for President on the first ballot, gulps down Mr. Miltop's proposition, calls it a "concrete issue," and after two weeks' meditation, continues to say that it "looks good" to him.

Now, if this is not sublime, unsophisticated confidence, we would like to know where one would go to find it.—Ocala Banner.

SANFORD CAN SHOW YOU

In a recent dispatch from Washington it is stated that the Democratic members of the House are trying to keep the lid on the pork barrel this year and no city will receive an appropriation for a public building unless said city has 5,000 inhabitants and postal receipts over $10,000.

Well, send on the Sanford appropriation. We have over 5000 inhabitants and own postal receipts are almost double $10,000 and we have brick streets, good sidewalks and free delivery. No use to waste time on the smaller places when such a fine city is waiting for an appropriation and so richly deserves one.

HOW ABOUT SANFORD?

News note from Green Cove Springs states that a new tourist hotel will be built in that city. The river front will be bulkheaded, new land made and the hotel will have ample grounds, the location overlooking the river being ideal for a tourist resort. No better place for a hotel of the this same type could be found than Sanford and if this same plan of bulkheading could be used what a beautiful site could be made. This plan has been discussed time and again but no one has been found to take the initiative and go ahead with the work. We allow every other city in Florida to take away our laurels and without a united effort Sanford will never have a tourist hotel.

FIRE INSURANCE

Representative Jackson urged before the house interstate commerce committee today his resolution calling for an investigation of all fire insurance companies. Mr. Jackson declared they were so manipulated that they virtually "have the people of this country by the throat."

The Hon. Mr. Jackson is right, but the Republican party will never allow any of these licensed robbers to be brought into the searchlight. Our own city of Sanford can vouch for the robbery of the people by the fire insurance companies.

The cold wave promised by The Herald last Saturday is here and while not coming on schedule time is none the less welcome. Now for a record price on celery and lettuce.

Because the editor of the Tallahassee True Democrat advocated a dry town some of the wet ones threatened to tar and feather him. Strange how mad some people will get over the wet and dry election.

The Kissimmee Gazette removed the whole outfit into new quarters last week and never lost a thin space. The Gazette now has one of the handsomest office buildings in the state. Well deserved prosperity.

Hon. Albert M. Williamson of Jacksonville is on Claude L'Engle's trail and a joint debate between these two candidates for Congress at Large would be most interesting. Albert can go some when he gets hooked up and Claude is no back number.

In two years time the voting strength of Sanford has more than doubled which shows the increase in population better than any census ever taken. Over seven hundred voters in the primary indicates a large white population.

Congressman Clark opened his campaign for renomination in his home town of Gainesville last week. He received an enthusiastic greeting from a large audience. Mr. Clark evidently stands well at home, and that is a public man's strongest recommendation.—Ocala Star.

SAME HERE

If W. B. Taylor of this city could be induced to accept the position of Railroad Commissioner it would be one of the best things that could happen for the interest of the people of Florida. In The Sun's judgment W. B. Taylor is the best qualified man in the entire State and this important position.—Gainesville Sun.

He can get the support of The Herald for Taylor is the right man for the job.

Mr. Beacham, candidate for Congressman-at-large, emphasizes one plank of platform which entitles him to the consideration of the voters—that is, federal aid for good roads. That's about the only way the average community in the interior of the State could ever be directly benefitted by the labors of a Congressman, and the man who works earnestly and sincerely to bring such a result about would certainly earn the plaudits of the people. As it is, the seaport towns get all the money and the inland towns the sand-streak roads and the high freights.—Lakeland News.

Persons who want to see either Harmon or Underwood nominated will be safe in voting for the following candidates for delegates to the national convention: From state at large, vote for six, A. W. Gilchrist, B. S. Williams, Frank E. Chase, Frank Harris, E. S. Orill, Edwin D. Lambright, from first congressional district, vote for two, A. P. Jordan, W. Hunt Harris; from second congressional district, vote for two, Robert E. Davis, B. C. Abernathy; from third congressional district, vote for two, Milton A. Smith, F. G. Ren-show. There may be other candidates who favor nominating a sound democrat on a tariff reform platform, but we happen to have observed particularly that those mentioned are in favor of this program for the party.

Land Sharks Again

The following from California shows how the public can be gulled by fake land sellers. The gentlemen was swindled by one firm and is sore at the whole state:
 Mr. R. J. Holly, Sanford, Fla.

Dear Sir:
 As my subscription to the Herald expires sometime in April, I will ask you to discontinue it, I have been handed such a raw deal with the Florida Homeland people, I have lost all interest in Florida, I had a strong notion of making my home there, and made a purchase from that bunch of swindlers, hence the results. The receipt of the Herald does not add to my kind feelings toward them, but simply keeps before my memory the fact that I have been taken in.

Please bear in mind I have nothing but the kindest feeling toward you and your associates and wish you success with the Herald. It was through your paper that I was put wise with the doings of that Co., and it saved me more than one remittance, which would have been accepted by them without a quiver.

Again thanking you for your help in this case, and when you publish an issue stating those swindlers are safe in the Pen, I will greatly appreciate it if you will forward it to me. I remain

Very truly yours,
 CHARLES C. CROOK,
 Hornitas, Cal.

Pay Your County Taxes

For the benefit of the tax payers W. E. Martin wishes The Herald to announce to the people that their state and county taxes must be paid on or before March 31st, as the tax books close on that date and delinquents will then be placed on the delinquent tax list.

Remember March 31st is your last call for state and county taxes.

PURELY PERSONAL

Wednesday, March 27th, the Woodman Circle will hold their regular meeting at Eagle's Hall at 2:30 p. m.

A large number of Sanford people will attend the big barbecue and carnival at Kissimmee today and tomorrow.

Misses Mabel Bowler and Mell Whitner were the guests of Mrs. Kent Rossetter on Celery avenue for a couple of days.

Hon. Albert Williamson, of Jacksonville, candidate for Congressman at large, was in the city last Saturday and managed to meet a large number of voters. He has many friends here who expect him to make good in the first primary. He is certainly a strong candidate.

Mrs. A. M. Frederick, of Miami, President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, arrived in the city today. She will be the guest of Mrs. Henry Wight while in the city; and will be present at the meeting of the Wednesday Club, which will be held at the residence of Mrs. Wight tomorrow, at 3 o'clock, sharp.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dickins will be glad to know that their son, Arthur, who was accidentally wounded in the leg three weeks or more ago, has improved so much that he is able to be rolled about in a roller chair wherever he wants to go. In a few weeks more he will be able to use his legs, if no unforeseen cause prevents.

William R. Dorman of Suwannee county, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture was a political caller in the city today. Mr. Dorman, who styles himself "A Plain Farmer" is making a thorough canvass of the state in the interests of his campaign. He aspires to a position which is of vital importance to Sanford and vicinity, and while Mr. Dorman is not well known in this section he gives the impression as being the man for the job.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barnes, Jr., will regret to learn that Mr. Barnes' father, who has been his guest for some time, has been ill for three weeks. He is so much better now that Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will leave Wednesday or Thursday, for Mrs. E. S. Scroggins, sister of Mr. Barnes, has arrived and will care for her father. Mrs. Barnes will visit her parents in Pennsylvania, while Mr. Barnes will go to Beaufort, South Carolina, to look after the lettuce crop, that is about ready. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will return in the fall.

About thirty-five persons went to Sanford in the launch "Wektwa" last Saturday. The day was ideal and the party delightfully congenial. The trip on the river was surpassingly beautiful. The party was gotten up by Mrs. Almira Wilson and Miss Frances Bouchelle in compliment to their relatives, Mrs. E. F. Greenlee and daughter, Miss Mary Gordon Greenlee, who spent part of the season here. Mr. Robinson also rendered appreciated assistance in engineering the party to a successful termination.—DeLand News

Just As Good As Sanford

Nothing gives us more pleasure than the success of our neighboring towns. We note in the Sanford Herald of March 5th the fine returns being received by the lettuce and celery growers of Sanford. Celery is bringing in Sanford, $3 to $3.50 per crate f. o. b., lettuce, $1.50 to $2. f. o. b. The celery growers are getting $3,000 per acre for their crop this spring. The receipts to the growers of Sanford amounting to $40,000, weekly.

Anyone owning land in Prosper Colony can do as well if the same effort is made. Prosper Colony land is second to none in Florida for the production of any of the vegetables, including celery, lettuce and Irish potatoes. Prosper Colonists should put away their horse shoes and spend some of their hours preparing seed beds. August is the month to sow celery for winter celery crops. Sanford's success is due large to the push and stick-to-it-iveness of the men in the vegetable growing business in Sanford. They have had failures. Many of their first attempts were total failures, but they did not quit and say the country wasn't worth a d—. They went at it again, and again, and the result has made many rich. Our good wishes to lucky Sanford. Success demonstrates what can be done when good sense and proper methods are pursued. Its success is great encouragement to truckers elsewhere in Florida, and we should all feel thankful that Sanford or any part of Florida, is successful. It indicates that we can be successful, if we try hard enough, and often enough. If one will look at the gardens in Taft and note how wonderfully the vegetables are growing, it will convince the most skeptical that the soil is fertile.

The Growers' Associations of Taft is working in the right direction. Mr. Sharp is the right man as secretary. Mr. Sharp is a worker and will succeed. He is doing more to improve the conditions in the Colony than all the grumblers. It may be a long pull before we reach the Sanford mark of $40,000 per week, but can do it.—Taft Messenger.

Interesting Missionary Exercises

Sunday morning one of the exercises in the Baptist Sunday School was given an interesting program, given by the "Sunbeams" a children's Missionary Society of appropriate recitations and songs on Missionary subjects, which was very much enjoyed by the Sunday School after which the pastor, Rev. J. W. Wildman gave the school a Missionary talk.

Monday evening at the parsonage the first meeting of the week of prayer was held, which was led by Mrs. J. K. Johnson, subject "Survey of Home Missions."

Several articles were read by different members of the society, carrying out the subject. Little Margaret Davidson entertained the meeting with the charming solo "Tying On The Leaves." Mrs. R. C. Maxwell gave the beautiful legend from the Talmud, "Sandalphon," which was much enjoyed. The invitations to the meeting were written on leaves, the pretty decorations in the rooms, were also leaves, bringing into prominence the thought of that wonderful tree, the leaves of which shall be "for the healing of the nations." The refreshments were ice cream and cake. Here again the idea was continued, as the cakes were in the shape of leaves. It was a very interesting, profitable and enjoyable meeting.

This evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the young ladies' society will have charge of the exercises in the church. Thursday, the ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society will meet at Mrs. M. M. Stewart's and Friday night at the home of Mrs. R. C. Maxwell.

Dinner Club

The Dinner Club was entertained by Mrs. J. B. Lawson Monday evening.

The menu cards were ornamented with water color designs, and little yellow chickens. On each plate was a gilded peanut shell, tied with a dainty yellow ribbon, and containing the fortune of each fair guest, written on a slip of paper.

The menu of the delicious three-course dinner consisted of: Veal loaf, Macaroni, Green Peppers stuffed with creamed potatoes. First course, Waldorf salad, Olives, Wafers and salted almonds. Second course, Strawberry fluff, Angel cake, coffee. Third course.

It is the rule that each guest must explain to the club at dinner, how she prepared the dish that was her contribution to the feast.

After the dinner, the club enjoyed the attractions at the Imperial.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Richard Lightnut, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China.

CHAPTER II—The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of surprises to the wearer.

CHAPTER III—Lightnut dons the pajamas and late at night sets up for a smoke. His servant, Jenkins, comes in and, failing to recognize Lightnut, attempts to get him out. Thinking the servant crazy, Lightnut changes his clothes intending to summon help. When he reappears Jenkins falls on his neck with joy, confirming Lightnut's belief that he is crazy.

I decided that the best thing to do first was to get into some clothes. And with this thought I was turning away, when it occurred to me to make an effort to see if poor Jenkins seemed more rational now or had gone to sleep.

I tapped upon the door. "Are you asleep?" I asked softly. A howl of positive terror came back.

"I'm sleeping quiet," he cried, "but don't let me hear your voice again, or I'll jump right out of the window."

I shook my head sadly and tiptoed into my room, where I slipped hurriedly out of the pajamas and into some clothes; then back I went to the telephone. It was on my little writing-desk close to the door confining Jenkins.

I lifted the receiver with a sigh. "Hello, central," I began, responding to the operator. "I say, will you give me information?"

A loud shout suddenly sounded from behind the closed door, and there came a frantic double-pounding of fists.

"Mr. Lightnut—Mr. Lightnut!" screamed Jenkins. "Oh, Mr. Lightnut, you're back—you're alive—I can hear your voice! This is Jenkins, Mr. Lightnut; yes, sir, Jenkins. They've got me locked in!"

I clapped the receiver on the hook and sprang to the door, unlocking it. Jenkins almost tumbled into my arms. By Jove, for a second I hung in the wind, he acted so crazy still; at least, it seemed so just at first. The fellow threw his arm about my neck and laughed—laughed and cried, dash it—and just wringing my hands and carrying on—Oh, awful! And even when I got him into a chair, he just sat there laughing and crying like a jolly old silly, patting my hand, you know, and wiping his eyes, what time they were not devouring me.

"Has he gone, sir?" he gasped huskily. "Did he jump from the window?" But I waved all questions aside.

"After you've had some sleep," I insisted. "Then I'll tell you the whole jolly story." And I just got him to his room myself, despite his distress and protests over my attention.

"Thank you, sir, and good night," he said as I left him. And he murmured placidly, "I guess we're all right now."

But I was not so sure as to him, when I viewed the broken chair and scattered fragments of glass—ominous reminders of the scene through which I had passed. And so, though I threw the pistol on top of a bookcase, spent the rest of the night upon the soft cushions of my big divan.

CHAPTER IV.

Jenkins Declares for the Water Wagon.

"But this savage-looking Chinaman that you saw, Jenkins—how was he dressed?" I adopted a careless tone of inquiry.

It was high noon, and I was toying with an after luncheon, or rather after breakfast, cigar.

Jenkins' head shook dubiously. "I just remember something blackish. My, sir, I didn't have time to notice nothing like clothes!"

His tone conveyed aggrieved protest. He went on:

"Just as I'm telling you, sir, I saw some one sitting there by the window and walked toward him, thinking it was you. Then, all of a sudden, I see his awful face—a scowling at me there in the moonlight."

"And he was smoking, you say?" Jenkins sniffed indignantly. "Free and easy as a lord, sir! He held a long stick to his ugly mouth, and smoke was curling out of a little bowl near the end."

"Oh, opium pipe, eh?" "Likely, sir," agreed Jenkins; "but I never saw one."

By Jove, I had my own opinion about that! I knew he must have seen one before; but I just went on questioning to gain time, you know, and wondering all the while how I should ever be able to break the truth to the poor fellow. "Tell me again what he was like," I said. "How did you know he was a Chinaman?"

"Why, by his long black pigtail, sir, and his onery color. But I never saw no Chinaman as ugly as this one—no sir. Oh, he was just too awful horrid to look at, sir. His forehead sloped away back, or maybe the front part of his head being all shaved made it look that way. And the skin about his eyes was painted white with red streaks shooting around like rays of light."

"No beard or mustache, I suppose?" I suggested, feeling my own smooth-shaven face. Jenkins' reply was a surprise:

"Yes, sir; there were long black kind of rat tails that dropped down from the sides of his mouth. And then his neck—ugh—all thick with woolly hair."

"Oh, it was, eh?" I said drily, thinking of the long red stripe that my collar concealed. "I suppose you felt this, eh, when you jumped at his throat?"

Jenkins rubbed his chin with a puzzled air.

"Why, that's uncommon queer, sir; but now that you remind me, I do remember that his neck felt perfectly smooth—and it wasn't so big, either. Why, I should say it felt just about like yours would, sir."

I eyed him ruefully. "By Jove, I don't doubt it a minute!" I commented with some disgust.

"Well, go on with your yarn. You were telling, when I interrupted, about rushing into my bedroom."

"Yes, sir," he resumed with animation. "And when I didn't find you, I was just frantic, for I didn't know you had gone out, sir—never thought of that. I went for the ugly monster with the big pistol there in the cabinet—which, by the way, sir, the low-down villain stole when he locked me up and lit out."

I had an inspiration. "I see," I broke in carelessly, "and then you demanded to know where I was—that is? Then you backed him to that window, and he told you he had chucked me into the street—whereupon you tried to blow off his head and knocked the jolly daylight out of the lady with the fencing foil."

Jenkins, his mouth agape, viewed me with distended eyes. "I didn't tell you that, sir," he faltered. "How—"

"And when you dropped the weapon," I went on, "this chap collared it, jabbed the beastly thing into you, and told you to look at him. And by Jove you wouldn't!"

Jenkins groaned slightly. The apologetic cough with which he strove to muffle the sound was dry and spiritless.

"No, sir; it seemed easier to die, sir," he muttered—"what with him grinning like a fiend and his long teeth sticking out over his lip—ugh!" Then he added wonderingly: "But what gets me is how you should know, sir."

Grinning Like a Fiend.

I looked at him gravely. "Jenkins," I said gently, "I know, because it so happens I was here all the time."

His eyes bulged incredulously. "You, sir? You mean in this room?" I nodded slowly. "I mean right in this room—I was a witness of the whole thing."

Jenkins just gulped. I motioned to a chair.

"You may sit down, Jenkins, my poor fellow," I said compassionately. I poured out some whisky and gave it to him.

"You must brace yourself for a great shock, my poor Jenkins," I said soothingly. "And then I thought I had

To The Democratic Voters
Of the 19th Senatorial District

The Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County put the Senatorial claims in the proper light in the resolutions printed below. It will not endorse any candidate who must be voted for by you. In this the Committee is right. Endorsement of such candidates is your business exclusively. I ask your careful consideration and if you think I can best serve the district to renominate me.

Yours respectfully,

LOUIS G. MASSEY

Resolutions of Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County

WHEREAS, on January 20, 1912, the Democratic Executive Committee of Osceola County, by resolution, called to the attention of the good Democrats of Orange County an alleged agreement of custom of dividing the Senatorship of the 19th District equally between the two counties, and expressed the belief that the patriots of Orange county democracy would not suffer this cause to be broken at the present time and then proceeded to endorse a candidate for Senator. Therefore, be it

RESOLVED, by the Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County, assembled February 17, 1912:

1. That this committee knows of no agreement or custom by any competent authority by which the terms of the senators from this district must be equally divided between Orange and Osceola counties. The equal term given to the last senator from Osceola county was because of the services and record of Senator C. A. Carson and, being personal to him, is not to be construed as an admission by the Orange County democracy that the senatorial terms are to alternate equally without regard to the merits of the candidates.

2. That in the opinion of this committee, the democratic voters of the 19th district should elect their senator according to their estimate of the fitness of the respective candidates.

3. That the democratic voters of the district will nominate a candidate for Senator in a primary held in this county regardless of place of residence under the auspices of this committee, which is the judge of the returns in this county. It would therefore, be improper for this committee, under such circumstances, to endorse any candidate.

best hurry on, for I could tell by the way his eyes rolled and the blue color of his lips that probably I was just in time to head off another attack. And then I told him all.

"And here," I concluded, "are the marks of your fingers under my collar, and the pistol is on top of the bookcase."

Jenkins just sat there, kind of huddled up, you know, and his face as white as the what-you-call-it snow. Didn't seem able to say a word. By Jove, it was too much for me; my heart just went out to him.

"It's all right, Jenkins," I said kindly, and I patted his knee. "Doesn't make a jolly bit of difference to me, personally. Just told you because I thought you ought to know. You just go right along and continue your duties, so far as I am concerned."

Jenkins' hand slipped along his knee and ventured to touch mine timidly. He rose heavily.

"Mr. Lightnut, sir," he said huskily, "if you're not going to need me very much, could I be excused for a while tonight?"

"By Jove, yes, Jenkins! Go out and enjoy the evening; it will do you good. Stay as long as you like, dash it! You know I dine tonight at the club. Go to a roof garden and get some fresh air."

A toss of the head broke Jenkins' calm; his fist struck his palm.

"It ain't that, sir," he exclaimed. "I don't want no fresh air, but I do want fresh resolution and a fresh start. I'm going to find him."

"Him!" I was startled. Dash me, I half thought he meant the Chinaman.

"Him, sir; that temperance lecturer, I mean. I'm going to get out a paper against that old enemy there!" And he shook his fist at the whisky-decanter.

WORKED LONG FOR SUCCESS

Mrs. Stannard Wrote Steadily for Years Before "Bottle's Baby" Made Its Hit.

It is interesting to recall just now that the late Mrs. Stannard, otherwise "John Strange Winter," once described herself as a woman writer but not a "woman's righter." Yet there was certainly no lack of character or brain power about the author of "Bottle's Baby," who was indeed an eminently capable woman with a clear, well-balanced intellect, much robust common sense, and a great capacity for organization, which served her in good stead when she turned from literature to commerce.

Struggling authors may be interested to know that it was only after ten years of incessant work that Mrs. Stannard, who lived to write something like one hundred books, scored her first real success. And even this might not have been achieved but for a little piece of luck, for "Bottle's Baby" the work in question, had then been selected by six London publishers and fast asid as hopeless. Mrs. Stannard's husband, however, happened to pick up the manuscript one day and liked it, and suggested that she should send it to the Graphic. Mrs. Stannard answered: "Send it anywhere you like," and no one was more astonished than herself when in due course the Graphic took it—Westminster Gazette.

Temperatures of Volcanoes.

Scientists have recently secured an accurate measurement of the temperature of boiling lava in a crater. The experiment was a very dangerous one, and it was considered a triumph of precision no lives were sacrificed in making the test.

The crater of Kilauea in Hawaii was selected for examination. The work progressed very slowly. For a long time it was impossible to obtain results but after several thermometers had been destroyed a pyrometer was substituted to advantage. The temperature recorded was 1,010 degrees centigrade, which is the same as 1,850 degrees Fahrenheit. Iron is still unmelted at this heat, but gold, silver and copper become a molten mass at a lower temperature.—Harper's Weekly.

L. G. STRINGFELLOW

For County Treasurer

To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Treasurer. In asking your support in the coming primary election for this very important place, which is to be given to some one by the Democratic voters of this county, and if you can see your way clear to honor me in this place, I promise you that I will at all times and under all circumstances strictly guard your interests so far as lies in my power.

Yours very truly
J. H. TUCKER

I am a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Orange county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912.

Your support will be appreciated.

PHILIP T. SHERWOOD

For Sheriff

James A. Kirkwood announces his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912.

I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912. Having served in the capacity of deputy sheriff of the county for a number of years, and being familiar with the duties of the same I feel that I can leave the question of my ability entirely to the voters of Orange county.

CAS. M. HARRIS

I wish to announce to the voters of Orange County, that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff for this county, subject to the primary to be held April 30th, 1912. I pledge myself to carry out the law without fear of favor—to any one, and special privileges to none. I respectfully ask your support.

Death of Dr. Evans

Death came yesterday to one of Sanford's oldest and best beloved citizens in the person of Dr. W. H. Evans.

Several days ago, while driving near his home at Lake Mary, Dr. Evans suffered a paralytic stroke, and had to be assisted to the house, where he has been partially unconscious, until death claimed him.

Dr. Evans was in his seventy-third year at the time of his death, and had been a resident of this section for the past twenty-five years. He was born in Ohio, and received his education at Miami University, where he was a class-mate of President Harrison, Whitlaw Reid, Calvin Brice and other distinguished Alumni of that famous institution. His medical education was finished at the celebrated University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor. The balmy climate of Florida attracted the Doctor and his family from Boston, Indiana, where he had practiced medicine, and they came to Sanford, where Dr. Evans practiced medicine until he was forced to retire from the active life and he chose the restful shades of an orange grove, near Lake Mary, where he passed the remaining years of his life, surrounded by family and friends; and, even at his advanced age, attending the call of duty when suffering bade him go.

While a resident of Sanford Dr. Evans served three terms as Mayor of the city, and his record as a public servant was one of the chief joys of the doctor's later life. He seemed to have lived to do the most good in this world to his fellow man and his life could be emulated by all who wish to lead a spotless life in order to join that great white throng in the great beyond.

Dr. Evans leaves a wife, three sons and three daughters to mourn his loss; all of them grown to man and womanhood's estate, yet clinging to the old homestead in memory, if not in person.

John Evans, Will Evans and Mrs. Hester, of this city; Mrs. Pillett, of New Smyrna; Frank Evans and Miss Cora Evans, of Lowell, Mass.

The funeral services will be conducted from the Congregational Church tomorrow afternoon, at two o'clock. Interment made in Lake Mary cemetery.

No bronze or marble shaft, no splendor of ancient or modern tombs and no play of immortal genius can adorn the memory of such manly men. Their lives, their deeds, their influence, living or dead, and their pure inspirations are the monuments that will keep their names burning in the home and the hearts of kindred and brethren, while the flying moments are dimming with their dust and rust the inscription upon the brightest obelisk in the cemetery. While the silence of death wraps and chills us at this moment, memories, sweet and precious, come crowding in.

The Tribute on Beacham

Hon. Braxton Beacham of Orlando, candidate for congressman at large, was in Tampa yesterday, meeting influential people and mingling with the voters in the interest of his political aspiration. Mr. Beacham is one of the leading business men of Orange county and has large property and other interests which he has built up by strict attention to duty and honesty and integrity in his dealings with his fellow men. Mr. Beacham is receiving the solid support of the people of his home county, who recognize his worth, and his campaign is now extending over the state. His friends believe that he will qualify for the second primary and that he will defeat his opponent for the office in the final sprint.

Mr. Beacham is making his campaign on the paramount issue of federal aid for the building of good roads. He believes in national assistance to the states in the building of improved highways and talks most interestingly on the subject. He also favors liberal appropriations for rivers and harbors and makes the point that the perfect roads to the country are what deep water is to the port.

Mr. Beacham made a decidedly favorable impression here and will return to Tampa later in the campaign for a more extended canvass. Col. E. R. Gunby, who was one of his closest friends in young manhood, was bewailing the fact yesterday that he would be unable to vote for Mr. Beacham in the primaries, on account of party distinction, but declared that the sending of Mr. Beacham to Congress would prove one of the best things the people of Florida could do.—Tampa Tribune.

Eastern Star Entertainment
An appreciative audience greeted Mrs. Cora Ransler, of Hendersonville, N. C., on Wednesday evening, March 29, at Masonic Hall.

Mrs. Ransler had just returned from a visit to the Holy Land, and came under the auspices of the Eastern Star of Florida.

She gave a description of the customs and her travels, and what it meant to a stranger traveling in the Orient to be a member of the Eastern Star. At the close of her lecture she sang of the beautiful Love and Constancy of Ruth to Naomi; which caused her to leave her kindred and native land and follow Naomi to a land of poverty.

Mrs. Earnest Tolar favored the audience with a beautiful instrumental selection. Mrs. Hoy with a Solo, accompanied by Mrs. Tolar. Both selections were highly appreciated.

The ladies served delicious Punch and Cake, while every one mingled with their friends and enjoyed a social chat.

So ended an evening of pleasure for those who were fortunate enough to avail themselves of the opportunity given by the ladies of the Eastern Star, of Sanford.

Woman's Missionary Union

A very interesting program will be given at the meeting of the St. Johns Presbytery which will meet with the Sanford Presbyterian Society in the Presbyterian church, beginning Tuesday evening and continuing through Thursday. The public is cordially invited to attend the meetings and enjoy the fine program.

The music committee has arranged an entertaining musical program.

THE UTILIZATION OF WASTE

products to the very fullest extent is, of course, the aim of every industrialist, and the Wood Waste Distilleries Co., Wheeling, West Virginia, U. S. A., certainly makes this possible in the case of the waste material of wood working establishments. By means of their distilling apparatus, ranging from a capacity of 5 to 500 gals., the industrial alcohol and turpentine contained in sawdust are effectively extracted, while the resultant fiber is ready for paper manufacturers. This still will actually pay for itself over and over again every month, and Colonial and foreign fruit canning companies, chemical works, saw mills, varnish makers, oil refineries, sugar refineries, etc., cannot fail to find it a profitable acquisition.—R. G. Dun's International Review

"Not guilty" was the verdict rendered by the jury in the trial of the ten Chicago meat packers, accused by the government of violating the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust act. The jury was out seventeen hours. All the defendants were in court when the verdict was announced. Federal Attorney Wilkerson was deeply affected; when the verdict was announced his eyes filled with tears but he declined to talk. One of the jurors said they gave the defendants the benefit of the doubt, as they did not believe the government had made out a strong case.

The Rivers and Harbors Appropriation bill already passed by the House will come up in the Senate early next week. A number of Senators are ready with projects to add to the measure. Senator Simmons today introduced amendments to provide for an appropriation of $500,000 for the Cape Lookout, N. C. harbor of refuge; $300,000 additional for improvements for Cape Fear, below Wilmington, and $235,000 additional for the improvement of the Chesapeake and Albany canal between Beaufort and New York.

Tuesday's New York Republican delegates to the national convention at Chicago resulted in election of organization candidates in practically every district where there was a contest, according to unofficial returns fairly completed in many instances. Claims that at least eighty-three of the ninety delegates will be for Taft and not more than seven for Roosevelt were made by State Chairman Williams Barnes, Jr., and John W. Hutchinson, director of the organization faction.

Navy department officials are greatly pleased with the result of the speed trial of the great dreadnought battleship Florida, queen of the United States navy, made yesterday afternoon off the coast of Maine. The Florida made an average slightly in excess of 22.54 knots per hour on the run. She is commanded by Capt. Harry S. Knapp. The Florida's test trip which ended at Provincetown, Mass., today shows her to be the fastest craft of her type in the world. Her record exceeded that of the British dreadnought Vanguard, which showed 22.30 knots. The Florida's test showed her to be nearly two knots above the requirements.

The trial of Annie Crawford, the young New Orleans white woman accused of murdering her sister, Elsie, so that she might secure insurance money, being the beneficiary, was declared a mistrial Wednesday morning by the presiding judge. The case had been in court for several weeks. The trial was replete with exciting incidents, counsel for the state and for the defense coming to blows one day last week.

Governor Wilson of Kentucky has vetoed the anti-tipping bill recently passed by the legislature, which seems to smack of good sense. No one is obliged to give a tip unless he wants to and thinks it will pay—which it generally does.

Philip S. Hichborn, a young lawyer and son of the late Rear Admiral Hichborn, killed himself at Washington in despondency and humiliation over the elopement more than a year ago of his wife, Eleanor Hoyt Hichborn with Horace L. Wylie, a prominent Washington attorney. He shot himself in the head with an automatic revolver and died almost instantly.

The Moss investigating charges that Florida Everglades land speculations influence the Department of Agriculture's reports on the drainage projects there, agreed to close testimony when Secretary Wilson has been heard. This probably will be on Monday. Two other witnesses are first to be heard. They are Secretary Geo. Carter, of the Senate Printing Committee, and Dr. B. T. Galloway, chief of the division of Plant Industry of the Agricultural Department. Their testimony will be brief and the hearings of the Everglades controversy will conclude with Mr. Wilson's statement on Thursday, although the committee will then take up its inquiry into North Carolina reclamation projects, which also under

PARADISE REGAINED

East Orange County Most Attractive Farming Community

Hearing so many reports and glowing accounts of the progress of East Orange county, the editor of The Herald made an early pilgrimage to Oveido and Chuluota on Tuesday. Leaving the clay road just beyond the fine place of P. M. Elder, and winding among the pines and across the marshes and over the hammocks, passed the loading stations of Clyde and Wagner, where $2.00 lettuce was being shipped. Arriving at Oveido, we paused long enough to allow the machine to cool off and the chauffeur to tie up his hand that had been kicked by the crank. A good clay road for most of the way leads to Chuluota, and the new tracks of the F. E. C. branch are passed at this point. I said that the East Coast Ry. has purchased thousands of acres in East Orange for development purposes. They are only up eating one train a week now, but expect to get busy when more rails are laid branching off toward Chuluota, over a good straw road, the present residence of Tilden Jacobs is here. The first glance at his home and surroundings will make you sit up and take notice. Built upon the shore of Lake Mills, this house has one of the finest locations in the county. By the aid of small bodies of water, Mr. Jacobs has been enabled to surround his home by a canal of pure running water, and the effect of this water enhanced by the vivid green of the plants and riot of colors of roses and other flowers is one of the most "back to nature" pictures the writer has ever seen. The home is known as "The Palms," and Mr. Jacobs was besieged by so many tourists for shelter that he has made the house convenient for a limited number of guests. Mr. Jacobs has everything that grows on his farm, and the rich black land seems to grow everything in profusion. His orange and grape fruit grove is beyond compare, and his garden contains every known vegetable—even raising celery here without irrigation.

The lake is a great fishing place, and the Sanford party managed to catch two fine trout in a half hour's pull along the shore.

It would take a volume to mention the home of Tilden Jacobs and his kinsmen, of the Chuluota neighborhood. Suffice to say that if any one in Sanford, or any other seaport, wants a glimpse of Paradise go to The Palms for a day.

Returning to Oveido we were met by E. A. Douglas, the long and lanky scribe who pours hot shot into the ranks of the common herd through the columns of the Oveido Advocate, and B. G. Smith, the genial conductor of the Oveido-Sanford Cannonball. Mr. Smith seems to be one of the liveliest wires that ever sparked off the main stem, and beside his daily vocation of running the Coast Line, builds banks, has a newspaper, sells town lots and vegetable land, and by the aid of his good wife conducts the postoffice. If there were any other stragglers to Oveido's fiddle B. G. could play them all right. He and Douglas have awakened the dead with the Advance, and their progressive methods, and the new bank is only a forerunner of the many improvements coming to Oveido. The great development soon to take place in Black Hammock lands near town will make a thriving city out of Oveido in a few years.

We stopped at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Smith where we ate until it was a shame, but the trip gave us a new appetite, and a halt could not be made. After a pleasant evening we retired, and it is a safe bet that never was such sleeping accomplished by the same parties before. It was the lettuce or the spring onions, or the drowsy atmosphere, but the sleep was there, and only morning light and the noise of the culinary department could rouse the visitors.

Owing to an accident, the writer was forced to return home, and did not have the pleasure of visiting the good people of Geneva; but the party made the trip and, no doubt enjoyed it to the fullest.

We don't intend to visit East Orange again soon. Our systems couldn't stand such good treatment, and high living, for those people out there have real cream for your coffee, and no canned goods is allowed.

It is our candid opinion that every man in this end of the county is doing well. The places look prosperous and so do the owners, and as a farming proposition—well, the man who thinks Florida is a sandy waste ought to visit East Orange and see Tilden Jacobs' farm.

A CANNING FACTORY

Will Be Needed In Sanford In Tomato Season

TO TAKE CHARGE OF SURPLUS

Factory Here Put Up Some Very Fine Tomatoes and Beans Last Year

Sanford will have more acreage in tomatoes this season than ever before, and while indications are now strongly marked for good prices this season, there should be a concerted movement inaugurated for the canning up of all the tomatoes that will not be shipped, and there will be plenty of them that will rot in the fields after the shipping season is over.

There has never been a season yet so good that all of the surplus could be marketed at a good figure, and the only way to take care of the crop is to ship while the prices are good, and when you can't ship can what you can't.

Remember that in a large canning factory Sanford would realize many profits in the wages spent here and in the money to be derived from the products.

Sanford people could afford to form a stock company and put up a good plant to can fruits and vegetables, put up marmalades and guava jellies and all the surplus products of field and grove.

Register Now

It is very important that every new voter see that his name is on the register. The book will be open until April 13th. After that you will be of no use to your community, unless your name is on the registration list.

Weather Report

Fair tonight, warmer east portion. Wednesday fair, warmer.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL

Man Wanted For Highway Robbery Makes Getaway

A prisoner named Wilson, a white man wanted in Georgia, for highway robbery, effected his escape from the city bastle Tuesday night, and up to the present time has not been captured. Marshal Tillis received a telegram from Georgia Tuesday describing Wilson, and giving instructions to hold him for Georgia officers, as he had held up a man in true Jesse James style, and they were very anxious to get him.

Marshal Tillis went to the new apartment house of Mr. Tuggle's where Wilson was employed and staged the case, but Wilson liked Florida so well that he refused to listen to the proposition of returning to the cotton fields, and the making of good roads, and showed fight. Marshal Tillis was obliged to jab Wilson over the eye with his revolver to let him know who was boss, and, after a lively scrimmage, he was landed in jail.

Wilson evidently did not like to stay in the city bastle awaiting the arrival of his Georgia friends, and some time during Tuesday night broke off the pipes connecting the toilet in his cell, bent back the bar, and through this small aperture squeezed through into the corridor, using his piece of pipe again on the outer door, he broke through into the fire engine room and thence to liberty.

From all appearances Wilson must have had some outside help to a bar or tool of some kind, for his work made the cell shudder that the man was desperate and intended to get away at any cost. He has evidently been there before.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

Charles B. Hudson, foreman of the pressroom of the Fort Myers Daily Press, was the victim of an accident last night which resulted in the loss of his left hand, which was completely severed at the wrist. Mr. Hudson was beneath the press trying to rectify some fault of the machinery, when the press was set in motion and his left hand was caught by the plunger piston which works in an air chamber and so badly mashed that the doctors had to take it off about an inch below the wrist.

Publicity is a good thing, as Miami can testify. Since the row was raised about the investigation of the suppression of the Wright report the purchases of real estate have more than doubled, and the boom is spoken as just approaching its height.

Just $10,000 was the amount of easy money secured during the last few days by the race horse swindlers operating at St. Augustine, and the victims of this latest coup have been in Jacksonville during Monday and Tuesday trying to get local officers to do something for them.

Now that it is certain that Judge James W. Locke is to resign the Federal Judgeship of the Florida circuit and district courts within the next few months, many have begun to wonder who is to follow him. The position has been so honorably filled by the present incumbent that it is but natural that those in his successor should look for none but the most honorable and learned of the Florida bar to mount to the position of honor.

The two children of Simon Silverstein who were murdered in Jacksonville a short time ago are steadily improving at St. Luke's Hospital. Mrs. Adelin Silverstein, their mother, was discharged from the hospital a few days ago.

One of the largest cargoes of naval stores ever to be taken from a port of the United States left Pensacola Saturday for Hamburg. It consisted of 43,500 barrels of rosin and 2,500 casks of turpentine.

The Columbia County Bank opened its doors for business in Lake City on Thursday. Its structure is said to be one of the handsomest in the State.

A fleet of nineteen torpedo boat destroyers is now at Pensacola.

A Fort Lauderdale dispatch says: The Atlantic, Okeechobee and Gulf Railway Company's surveying crews arrived in this city this morning, having surveyed the line from Tampa to a point about nine miles west of this city. Chief Hiram McElroy stated that headquarters of the crew would be established here while completing this trans-Everglade railway survey and that survey for the terminal here will soon be under way.

Boy Gets 63 years

Albert Vreeland of Paterson, N. J., has been called a bad boy for a good many of the sixteen years of his life. Until three years ago, however, the description was largely conventional. Then he entered upon a series of activities that won for him in the Passaic county court of special session today Judge Scott's assurance that he was "the champion bad boy of New Jersey."

Judge Scott did more than characterize the lad. On nine charges of burglary he gave him the longest term of imprisonment ever imposed in the county for any crime. Nine indeterminate sentences of from one to seven years were laid upon the boy, and they are not to run concurrently. He will spend not less than nine years in prison, therefore, and he may spend sixty-three.

Appreciated Gift

Mrs. Geo. H. Fernaki, treasurer of the Hospital Association received through the mail a check for $25.00 from Mr. C. B. McNair of the McNair Lumber Co. of Jacksonville several days ago. The Hospital Association and all others who are interested in the earnest efforts that are being made by the association and their friends to secure a hospital for Sanford appreciate very much Mr. McNair's fine donation and the kindly interest shown by a stranger in a Sanford enterprise.
