

Sharkey, Dempsey To Fight If Boston Battler Defeats Stribling In Miami Fight

Manassa Mauler Gives "Lip Promise" Which Sharkey's Crowd Has Accepted With Perfect Confidence

By Davis J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (INS)—Sharkey has a "lip promise" that the boy friend, Jack Dempsey, will meet him for the many-watched championship this year, provided Sharkey doesn't blow the coming fight at Miami Beach in a month, it was learned today. A lip promise is something that usually is given with great freedom; you give it, in fact, ready to give up on it at any time. You don't have to keep it. In a court of law, a lip promise is liable to run rapidly for the leeman.

However, the Sharkey crowd has accepted the statement in perfect faith and is going along on these lines if it takes all summer which undoubtedly it will. They have signed what they understand to be a contract for the Dempsey fight and did so only after Dempsey had refused to be a party to the document until Dempsey's son of Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey would be in the other corner.

The signing took place last night with the closing of the Sharkey Stribling deal in Boston, provided by Dempsey and William F. Casey of the garden corporation. It is understood that Dempsey's name doesn't appear in the document.

The signing of the second contract in Boston may mean something or nothing. Dempsey, it is understood, learned to call for Sharkey almost not at all during that conference. As a matter of fact, he was present to discover that Sharkey was nothing but a vulgar sucker for money. This naturally didn't mean very much. So, undoubtedly, the fact that he came to Miami for personal money became involved in the deal.

Anyhow, it may be that he decided, then and there, that that man was getting everything except the name which is Dempsey's. It is understood that Sharkey on the nose. On the other hand, Dempsey may have decided to be cute. His head might have nodded "Yes," while his tongue was whispering "no." Dempsey is a remarkable man but he has limitations. He can't nod his tongue.

The Striblings, of course, are pardoned if they think that a fight with Sharkey is a prelude to the fact that New York seems to have accepted a Sharkey victory at Miami Beach as a matter of course. The general idea here seems to be that Stribling can't hope to absorb the right opponent with which Sharkey smote K. O. Christner so many times and oft.

I think I can go further than that and say that Stribling doesn't hope to do this or even expect to do it. The resident observer, if you will, are overlooking several essential considerations, namely: Christner is wide open like a huckster's mouth; Stribling is wide open like a case of lockjaw.

Tech Is Slated To Obtain Basketball Title Of Southland

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 28. (INS)—Another Golden Tornado from Georgia Tech today loomed as potential champions in another season of sports of the southland—the title seeking of basketball. With only one month of the 1929 campaign remaining before the 10 leading teams of the southern conference gather in Atlanta for the March championship tournament, the Yellow Jackets today have secured the top of the list of some 35 contenders. With six victories and no defeats at the hands of conference foes.

The Tornado stood the test Saturday night here when the Bulldogs of the University of Georgia succumbed to the fury of their attack by a 25 to 17 score. The Yellow Jackets have lost in their wake some of the strongest teams of the conference, including Vanderbilt and New, should be able to sail along at a rapid rate until the tourney.

The Bulldogs lead the conference in the number of games played, having engaged in nine battles. Their record stands at six wins and three defeats.

LONDON, Jan. 28. (INS)—The American horse Billy Barton, trained in Baltimore, is one of the favorites for the Grand National, according to the first odds posted today. Billy Barton, great Span and Master-Billy are joint favorites at 10 to 1.

U. S. Citizen Is Held For Ransom In China

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (INS)—Rev. Edward Young, an American citizen connected with a Catholic mission in China, was captured at Nananfu, Kiangsi, by two communists, Chu Teh and Mao Chih Tung, who demanded $10,000 in gold as ransom within three days. The state department was alerted of the kidnapping by Bishop O'Shea of the Catholic mission.

The consular at Hankow reported that he was making direct representations to Manchling for immediate action to effect Young's release. The American minister at Peking has telegraphed the location, name of the kidnappers, and the matter with the Chinese Foreign Affairs Office, and requests immediate action to secure Young's release.

What's become of all the homely women?

Women simply aren't homely any more. You meet plain women, yes... but their smart, trim air is the envy of many who are only beautiful.

In the old days, when a girl gave promise of becoming "hopelessly plain," she was frankly informed of the fact to save her from hurt pride in later years. She remained frumpy and tried to convince herself that she didn't care!

Not today!

Advertising has played a remarkable part in making every woman attractive. It has taught her to use the beauty and charm that are her heritage, regardless of the shape of her features. Her teeth, her hair, her hands, her complexion, her clothes, and even her erect, athletic figure have been 'brought out' by methods constantly before her in advertising.

The great beauty and style specialists of the country have been her consultants, as they are yours, if you are taking fullest advantage of the opportunities before you every day, in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Read the advertisements. They hold secrets of beauty and style that were denied the women of yesterday.

COOLIDGE PAYS BIG TRIBUTE TO U. S. BUSINESS

Each of the succeeding years brought an ever-increasing improvement in the business of government, with expenses greatly reduced, efficiency established, confidence inspired and workers restored to their jobs. "I believe that the federal government to day is the best conducted big business in the world," Mr. Coolidge said. "The closing months of 1928 and the opening weeks of 1929 have seen American industry and commerce at the highest point ever attained in times of peace."

In virtually all lines of government, commerce, industry, education, art, and society substantial progress has been made. Mr. Coolidge said that savings deposits rose from $10,500,000,000 in 1921 to more than $28,000,000,000 on June 30, 1928, and that the amount of life insurance in force nearly doubled, reaching a present total of $87,000,000,000.

"I do not claim that action by the national government deserve all the credit for the rapid restoration of our country's business from the great depression of 1921, or for the steady progress that has since taken place," the President said. "Unquestionably, however, wise governmental policies and particularly wise economy in government expenditures with steady reduction of the national debt have had a dominant influence."

"The people gained confidence in themselves because of increasing confidence in their government."

American Girl To Ascend Throne If Union Materializes

desire to merge into what would unquestionably be a powerful and important kingdom. Three men are under consideration for the crown, besides Count Bernadotte, they are Prince Jan Radzwill, the famous Polish statesman and member of an ancient and aristocratic family, and the Duke of Connaught, uncle of the present King of England. The possibility of the Duke accepting such a post is not taken seriously in London.

The choice, therefore, lies between Count Bernadotte and Prince Radzwill. Well informed circles here state that the nationality of the Count's wife would be no barrier to her being proclaimed queen as her husband's consort; the astute monarchists who are attempting to bring about this revolutionary event, would be glad to have that link between the projected kingdom and the United States.

Neither Count Bernadotte nor his American wife, the principal figure in the now famous "half million dollar wedding" which caused such a sensation in international society two months ago, have committed themselves either way on the proposition.

Smith Pays Visit To Herbert Hoover At Belle Isle Estate

Mr. Hoover in white flannels and a blue coat accompanied his visitor to the door. The Governor stepped in the blue Rolls with Keweenaw and Keweenaw, and they, who had been to their hotel at Coral Gables for a brief breakfast before proceeding on to the Miami race track, where "Smith Day" was being celebrated in the Governor's honor.

Apparently the only feeling of regret about Governor Smith's call had to do with the publicity attendant upon it. By orders of Mr. Hoover all photographers were barred, although he has been photographed with other visitors to his winter home. Also by order of Mr. Hoover, only two newspapermen were permitted to go near the home during the call. They constituted the general press representatives.

It had been arranged for Governor Smith to stop in over breakfast, about a block away from the Hoover home, after his call. But after getting back into the car, in consultation with Keweenaw and Keweenaw, it was agreed that such a call on the press would be "unbecoming" to the Governor and his wife.

On Mr. Hoover's part there was no information coming about the call. He had a long talk to the newspapermen who accompanied him through Biscayne that "Mr. Hoover does not care to authorize anything about the call."

with all the ancient ceremony of that ancient faith. Later they sent to France where they have been living at Chateau Hekar, formerly Chateau D'Hannement, in St. Germain, near Paris, except for a brief sojourn in Switzerland. When the news came out that the American born wife of the Indian prince was expecting an heir, keen interest was aroused in the Hindu household, the family's deity was invoked with prayers and offerings that the child might be a boy. The ceremonies, similar to those that have been known in India for ages, were conducted in the French home of the ex-Maharajah and his wife.

The dancing girl, Muntax De gum, who was involved in the scandal that caused the ex-Maharajah's abdication, was recently divorced here from her husband through mutual consent.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

PRAYER—"All Thy works with Thy surround, Thee, Earth and heaven proclaim Thy Ways."

BILLY AND ALADDIN

If Billy were Aladdin,
The lucky lad Aladdin,
And he might stand,
His lamp in hand,
His genie d'd his will,
He'd live in grand palaces
With kings of ice cream sodas,
And there he'd stay
Most every day
And eat and drink his fill.

He'd own a hundred motors,
All brand new shining motors,
And boats beside
The tide would ride
To bear him to and fro.
And never mind the weather,
For long, long days together
Above the clouds
In swarming crowds
His racing planes would go.

But Billy's not an Arab,
A little odd Arab,
He's just a lad
Who's always had
Close by his home to stay,
He's not one who requires
That all his wild desires
Should be obeyed;
He'd be afraid
Of genie anyway!

Oscar Underwood

Oscar W. Underwood, who died last Saturday at his country home in Virginia, was for thirty-two years a distinguished leader in Congress and for twenty years as representative and for twelve years as senator he served Alabama in a manner calculated to bring fame to himself and glory to his state. He was the leader of his party in both branches and his most noteworthy piece of legislation was the tariff law of 1914 which was less anti-protectionist than any Democratic tariff bill had been for a generation but was prevented from having a thorough test on account of the war.

Mr. Underwood was a new type of southern statesman. Born in Kentucky, educated in Minnesota and Virginia, he lacked the emotionalism of the older southern leaders and the radicalism of the group who rose to power with the spread of Bryanism. He was a moderate, a friend of business and progress and a man of a high sense of regard for the public interest. He was on two occasions a candidate for the presidency of the United States and his name became popularly associated with the expression "21 votes for Underwood" as uttered by the delegates from Alabama when they were called upon to cast their vote in 1924 at Madison Square Garden.

No better measure of the man can be obtained than from the words of praise expressed by his colleagues upon the appraisal of his death. Speaker Longworth declared: "He was one of the best men, privately and publicly, that I have ever known. The great characteristic of his public career was courage always." Senator Carter Glass had this to say: "Never in haste, rarely ever in a temper even under extreme provocation, his fine poise and cogent reasoning made him a leader in public affairs whom it was nearly always safe to follow." Senator Overman of North Carolina said: "The South has lost one of its great leaders." These are only a few of the expressions of regard by the leaders of public life who were associated with the great statesman in the halls of Congress but they are ample proof of the enviable niche which Underwood carved in the estimation of his fellow legislators.

Cannibalism

Some startling disclosures have been made in a recently published book concerning the rescue by the Soviet ice-breaker Krassin of several members of the ill-fated arctic expedition. Cloaked in mystery until the present time, the events surrounding the fate of Dr. Finn Malmgren and the conduct of Zappi and Mariano have been the subject of much conjecture. There were many conflicting stories spread about the survivors but the book written by Maurice Jarrienne, French journalist, calculates to give the facts since it is based upon an examination of the records seen by the author aboard the Krassin before the documents were forwarded to Moscow. The DeLand Sun writes interestingly on the newest revelations concerning that epochal exploit:

"The most amazing disclosure relates to the trio which set out under the leadership of Dr. Malmgren, in an effort to find a'd for the survivors. Subsequently, Captains Zappi and Mariano, who were with the young Swedish scientist, were rescued. Zappi was wearing three suits of clothing, his own, Malmgren's and Mariano's. The latter was found, lying half-naked on the ice, dying of cold and starvation. He was sheltered by an ice rampart, dressed in a shirt and a pair of short-kneed breeches. His bare feet were on the ice without protection or covering.

"Zappi's physical condition indicated his having eaten within six days but Mariano's stomach showed no food for about two weeks. As Mariano came to board the Krassin, he was heard to mutter twice, 'When I die, you can eat me, but not before.' Zappi's explanation of Malmgren's fate was evasive and contradictory. The finger of suspicion points to murder and cannibalism. Mariano died without explaining the fate of Malmgren; Zappi's stories conflict.

"The Krassin, it is said, asked Italy for the loan of a plane to continue the search for the unrescued men and the request was refused.

"Dreadful as it is to believe, that Zappi, the navigation officer on the Italia, committed such a fearful crime against his companion, the story related in this book compels such a conclusion unless other facts disprove it. The mysterious fate of Dr. Malmgren, while uncertain, seems clearly indicated by the circumstances in which Mariano was found and in his strange remark."

STILL PLENTY OF ROOM AT THE TOP

PORT MYERS PRESS

News dispatches of the last few days have been particularly encouraging to the youth of America. One news item told of the retirement of John D. Hertz, millionaire carman and horse racing enthusiast, who has retired to play ball under fifty years of age.

Another press dispatch related the story of David Sarnoff, just forty-eight years old, who has become head of the Radio Corporation of America.

Both these men started out as poor American boys, and both were newspapermen in their younger days. Their life stories thrill with messages of inspiration to the youth of America.

How often do we hear a boy exclaim: "I wish I could be a millionaire," or "There's nothing for me to do to become famous."

There is much for a boy to do to become great, even now. There are many ways in which he may reach the top of the ladder of success, in any chosen field.

Think of the head of the patent office resigning his job along a out 1840 because he believed "there isn't anything else to be invented." Think of the thousands of things that have been invented since that time.

Whatever may be your situation in life, if you have youth, health, strength and courage and determination, there is still a chance for you to climb the jagged peak to fame. Don't get the idea that because the ocean has been spanned by air that there isn't anything else to do in the aviation world. Don't think because radio is now being enjoyed by millions nightly, that you can't do anything in that field.

PARK

ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

So far Senator Fletcher has encountered no opposition to his bill which, if passed, would require the Department of the Interior to conduct a survey of a large area in the southern part of the United States to determine the feasibility of creating a large national park. The bill has been carefully considered by the Senate Committee on Lands and last week was passed by a vote of 70 to 20.

The bill is a landmark in the history of the United States. It is the first time that a large area of land has been set aside for a national park.

This Afternoon

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

"Summer isles of Eden, lying in dark-purple spheres of sea."

Contemplating the dark purple of the waters off Belle Isle, these days Herbert Hoover, it is hoped, will be seized with such a wanderlust as will bring him back such winter from Washington, that Florida should become the "winter place of presidents" is the most logical thing in the world.

If Governor Carlton attends the annual session of the Florida Council on Education at Pensacola on Feb. 15, this well-known felicity of speech may be badly strained in the effort to make an address which will hope the best for the future of the state and at the same time avoid antagonizing its morose here below who don't care how little business these directors at a boom in the embalming business is up, respect Florida on early foreign.

State Republican officials objected to the nomination of C. R. Jones for a federal judgeship because he had not been active in party politics. But this was in fact a very excellent reason for giving Mr. Jones the office. It is eternally to the glory of the American judiciary that it has generally been manned by individuals who held themselves above official partisanship.

Now that Major General J. J. Johnston, chief of army engineers, has recommended that the federal government take a hand in the Everglades, Florida can easily forgive him for the number of lesser federal projects in this state on which he has frowned recently.

Representatives of all sorts of industries are in Washington now leading for tariff protection and putting up pitiful stories of ruinous foreign competition. Everybody wants tariff protection, it seems. And everybody should have it, too, as long as there is to be a protective tariff system at all. That is the line of reasoning which makes it so easy for Florida Democrats to urge a tariff on fruits and vegetables (and sugar) as for Pennsylvania Republicans to urge one on pig iron and steel. The Democratic efforts do not necessarily admit that a protective tariff system is a good thing, they merely presume that so long as the system exists it should be operated without discrimination.

If, for example, the protective tariff did not make the cost of living and production so high in this country Florida farmers and fruitmen might need no tariff on their own special products against Cuban and Mexican competition. Protection against the evils of protection is what Florida really asks.

The Orlando Reporter-Star thinks the new order in Florida calls for an elimination not of "boasting" but of "boasting." But there's something in a name and the word "boasting," however innocent its origin and useful its early life, has come now to connote a noisy salesmanship without concern for good taste or fact.

Tax officials of Florida, in session assembled, wish Governor Carlton well. The wish will be worth while if it fathers more thought to the uniform assessments and efficient collections sorely needed now.

Broadcasting dance music out of Chicago carries with it a chance, realized last week that Chicago gun play will be given an official gun play performed by professional gun players.—Mobile Item.

Often a husband's explanation enlightens his wife more than he intends.—Mobile Item.

Other animals would become accustomed to mankind and tame, and where beautiful birds, including the flamingo and the wild parrot of the "redes, could wander without fear or danger and be seen and enjoyed by visitors.

This is looking considerably ahead, of course, should the bill be passed some time must elapse before arrangements can be completed for the survey, and several months would be required for its completion. After that had been done the department of the interior might report unfavorably on the project.

Senator Fletcher may be relied upon, however, to meet all emergency and to see the project through to a successful conclusion, if such be possible. It would be a great achievement and the park would be a great name to the nation as well as to Florida.

HIS FOOT IN THE DOOR!

CONGRESS

PROMISE OF EXTRA SESSION IN APRIL

BOY HIKERS

MIAMI HERALD

It has been noticed that the same boys have practically disappeared from the highways, boys of from 10 to 20 years, bent upon seeing the world in the cheapest sort of way.

over the country come report the extensive movement of boys over the highways, boys of from 10 to 20 years, bent upon seeing the world in the cheapest sort of way.

some Northern city. Perhaps he developed a desire to spend the winter in Florida or California. Anyhow, all he has to do is to pack out of his home town, going by the direction, he has chosen for a mile or two. Then a car comes a friendly automobilist who generously picks the boy up and gives him a ride. During the ride, the friendly man usually discovers that the boy is going a long way, to see his sick mother, or something, and that the boy has no money. Oh, comes a quarter or a half dollar and when a few miles further on the generous helper must turn off, the boy is let out on the highway and proceeds on his journey. This may be repeated several times a day. The hiker takes most of the way and puts up quite a quantity of silver and possibly a meal or two. Everything is lovely and he finally arrives at his destination none the worse for his long trip and, perhaps, with a few cents in his pocket. Then he proceeds to look for a job.

But right there his troubles begin. He has no job, no money, no support, no friends and no money. There is no work for him in the community in which he has landed and the problem immediately arises as to what shall be done about him. The community cannot support him, and there is no money to be made for him.

There are thousands of these boys on the road all over the country, making for places that are better situated as to climate than the towns whence they came if they are not put to work earning something they invariably become responsible for the petty stealing that goes on constantly or for even worse crimes.

Miami has entertained hundreds of these youthful hikers, over night, this season and other cities are looking to the city daily. They are a costly problem and the community is to be only one thing that can be done with them and that is to send them out of town, relying on the next community, north, to send them to another station until they are finally dumped beyond the state line, where they become the responsibility and the problem of other communities.

That plan may rid the special community of a burden, and it seems to work, but it does the boy no good and does not help society in general.

There does not seem to be a remedy for this condition, which is really deplorable. One thing has been suggested and that is that people who drive automobiles on the highways of the country would rescue, absolutely, to pick up young boys on the roads, there would be an almost instant stopping of this peculiar and latter-day hiker. Although free riders, there would be a little long distance boy hiker.

"When a sweet tempts me, I light a Lucky Strike."

Rosalie Adele Nelson
The Original Lucky Poster Girl

"I'm a 'Lucky Girl' because I've found a new way to keep my figure trim. Whenever the desire for a sweet tempts me, I light up a Lucky Strike. It's remarkable how nicely the toasted flavor of Luckies satisfies me. Toasting has taken out all impurities—all that is left is the thrilling Lucky aroma. I certainly am lucky to be 'The Lucky Girl.'"

ROSALIE ADELE NELSON

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Thousands are doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest tobacco, skillfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say "It's good to smoke Luckies."

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

FINE ARTS COMMITTEE IS ANNOUNCED FOR GUIDING LITTLE THEATRE

By Mrs. D. P. Drummond

Mrs. D. P. Drummond, president of the Sanford Women's Club, announces the Fine Arts Committee under which the Little Theatre will function. Mrs. John Leachman, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Colclough, Mrs. W. F. Stone, Mrs. Bert Chapman, Mrs. John Sneed, Mrs. G. E. McKay and Mrs. D. P. Drummond, are officials. It is the aim of the Little Theatre to educate the public to appreciate and to demand good drama and to awaken the public to the importance of the theatre as a social factor and as an educational movement. It will present at regular intervals plays of character.

The first open meeting of the "Little Theatre" which is being fostered by the Woman's Club will be held at the Woman's Club house on Thursday, Jan. 31 at 8 P. M. The men and women of our community interested in any of the various phases of Little Theatre work are cordially invited to attend this meeting and become identified with the Little Theatre group.

The following organization scheme suggested by the General Federation of Women's Clubs will explain the intent essential for the successful production of a play.

1. An experienced director or producer.

2. Committee chairman.

3. Production.

4. To assist director in selection of cast and during rehearsals and performances.

5. Selection.

6. To read and select plays.

7. Properties.

8. To make property list and secure properties.

9. Art.

10. To design and select scenery.

11. Costume.

12. To design, make and secure costumes.

13. Lighting.

14. To advise practical schemes of lighting.

15. Music.

16. To select and practice appropriate music when needed.

17. Publicity.

18. To advertise the production.

19. To arrange for all printed material.

20. Business.

“---as advertised”

HOW many times you see those two words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value.

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility: you know how it fits into your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised" creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, and month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. And above all you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.

Tennessee To Face Another Episode Of Evolution Trouble

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 29. (INS) Tennessee, the place of the famous Scopes trial, apparently is going to hear some more on the evolution theory pretty soon.

Indications are that the State Legislature now in session will be asked to repeal the anti-evolution law which caused the Dayton episode.

Rep. George L. Stockton, of Polk County, has announced he will introduce a bill to repeal the anti-evolution law before the current legislative session ends.

Would Repeal Law

"The monkey bill" prohibited the people to make monkeys out of Tennessee. It is a law which is intended to keep the people from making monkeys out of the law.

The announcement of the bill has created a furor of its own throughout Tennessee, and particularly in Nashville, the city here.

Rep. Stockton's decision to fight for the abolishing of the monkey law came after the old controversy had again in another part of the State, the representative's home county.

It is a county for a while was threatened with a Dayton monkey trial, and Rep. Stockton, who has long been a supporter of the law, has now decided to fight for its repeal.

Charles, Dismissed

It all happened when two monkeys, named Jim and Sam, were taken to the State Fair Grounds in Nashville, which is supposed to be a public place.

After considerable discussion, the community, and after the fact had been established, the monkeys were taken to the fair grounds, and the controversy was ended.

FOR MYERS. In the Court of the County Judge, Sanford, Florida, in the case of Myers vs. Myers, the court has decided in favor of the defendant.

PRINCE. A construction of the for $50,000 high school building.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, will hold its next regular meeting in the Court House at Sanford, Florida, Tuesday, February 5, 1935, at 10 o'clock A. Cattle Rustlers In Northwest Become Expensive Menace

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Jan. 29. (INS) Barred from checking cattle rustling by the method employed by their forefathers, Klamath cattle operators are determined to get help from the next session of the state legislature.

Losses suffered from "motor theft" rustlers have mounted close to the $100,000 mark in Klamath and Lane counties, stock raisers report.

It is a far cry from the devil-may-care rustlers of old to the modern, truck-driving cattle thieves of today. The horse as a vehicle for rustling has been replaced by the automobile with small deer trucks attached to lift the carcass of a slaughtered beef from the ground to the car.

Quickly do these rustlers operate that cattle operators are hard pressed to drive them off the range. Depredations are particularly marked in the Chewaucan cattle range of Lake county and in the northern and eastern Klamath country.

The method is simple and swift. The truck is driven into a herd of cattle, the rustler, using a small-caliber gun, shoots an animal down and within a few moments the carcass has been swung aboard and the thieves are speeding away.

Cattlemen believe that strict laws regulating the sale of beef of wholesaler and retail dealers would prevent rustlers from selling their legal products to meat dealers at sacrifice prices.
