LATE SUMMER TORRID WAVE SETS RECORD

Schools In Some Sections Are Forced To Close Because Of Weather's Severity

A late summer heat wave brought torrid blasts which left, during the past 24 hours, records in many sections. While relief was felt in the Northwest, where the mercury climbed to 100, at Huron, South Dakota, and Moorehead, Minnesota there was only a rare possibility of the cooler temperatures predicted for central and eastern states.

The hottest spot was Phoenix where the temperature reached 110. There were three deaths in Wisconsin caused by the heat two in Michigan, one in Pennsylvania. There were six prostration in Maryland, one in Pennsylvania, and three in Washington. In many cities in Massachusetts and in Madison, Wisconsin and Winona, Minn., schools were closed because of the heat.

The mercury raced up to degrees in two hours in Charleston, W. Va., Friday to establish a record of 103, and Chippewa Falls, Wis., and Ironwood, Mich., reported 98.

New York roared under 90, five degrees higher than the record September 11 of 1897, and the Central Park observatory, whose all time September high of 101, was set in 1881, read 90 in the shade. Portland, Maine, with 92, reported the hottest September 11 in 50 years.

Hard rains in Texas brought sharp respite and dropped the temperature in Dallas to 80. Parts of the Southwest were also slightly relieved. Oklahoma City reporting 80; Kansas City 93 and Tulsa 95. Elsewhere the summer was unrelenting.

High winds swept South Dakota and Minnesota and a dust storm raged near Fergus Falls, Minn., even the North Lake regions were not spared. Saginaw Steamer steaming under 92 and Toronto under 90.

Two Negroes Who Skipped Bonds Are Given Stiff Fines

Two negroes who skipped town last April after having been arrested and released on bonds on charge of disorderly conduct received stiff fines when they were placed before Municipal Judge R. W. Ware in police court yesterday afternoon.

One was Robert Williams who pleaded not guilty to the charges. Arrested by Officers Shaffer and Gray in April, he left town, but yesterday paid $10 fine for having quarreled with his wife at that time. He was arrested two weeks ago on another complaint of his wife, charged with disorderly conduct, and sentenced to pay a fine of $12.50. Officers Gray and Chet Roy Williams made the arrest.

The other was Step James, who, fighting with a colored woman, was arrested by Officers Shaffer and Nicholson, charged with disorderly conduct and fined $18, although he pleaded not guilty. The offense took place in April. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon.

Porter Angel and O. H. Hartman, white men who figured in an automobile collision last week, were charged with reckless driving. The charge against Angel was dismissed, while Hartman was ordered to pay a fine of $2.50. Officers Williams and Gray made the arrest.

J. D. Duncan and Elmo Lee, white youths arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after a fight at the Band Shell Wednesday night, will have their case tried Monday. They were arrested by Officer Anderson.

WOMEN CONVICTS CAUGHT

2 Die When Paris To Tokyo Plane Falls

MOSCOW, Sept. 12. (AP)—Two of three men in the French airplane, Hyphen II which set out yesterday on a non-stop flight from Paris to Tokyo were killed to say when their plane crashed near Ufa. Identity of the dead was not learned immediately as Ufa is about 300 miles from here, nor could the cause of the accident be learned. Aboard the ship were Joseph Lebrun, one of France's best known pilots, Marcel Durat and René Mex-

BRITISH LABOR BEGINS ATTACK UPON CABINET

Premier Defends His Economy Program On Grounds It Is National Necessity

LONDON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Embittered labor members of Parliament launched their attack against the national government's drastic program of taxation and economy yesterday in a turbulent session of the House of Commons. "I am driven to it by national necessity," pleaded Prime Minister MacDonald in behalf of his economic bill, but his old followers only jeered him.

Finally the angry mood of debate terminated in a sharp scene between Nancy Astor, Conservative, and Mrs. Leah Manning, labor member from North London.

The prime minister justified the imposition of orders in council characterized by the opposition as approaching a dictatorship because of the urgency of the financial situation.

But when he said, "I am speaking for labor," an open of frantic laughter burst from the opposition benches.

MacDonald retorted bitterly to his former colleagues, who have ousted him from the labor party leadership.

"They can take the label from my back," he said, "but they cannot take the label from my mind."

J. H. Thomas, dominant secretary, feared even worse from the labor press.

An indication of the length of time the national government may last was given in prime minister's announcement that orders in council would be issued only within one month of the passing of the economy bill.

The vote gave the committee authority to recommend to the house whatever bill it chose from the many proposed. It was given until 9 A. M. Monday to make its report.

Lady Astor had made numerous salutes at the expense of the labor members. Lab. "red-headed woman member took her to task over reductions in teachers' salaries. The American-born member replied with her usual vigor until friend intervened and led them in separate directions.

Award 3000 schoolmasters assembled on the Thames embankment and marched to King's Hall to protest against cuts in their salaries, as provided in the new budget.

The orderly procession of young men who carried only small signs stating "Schoolmaster protest" and "no to it" was in curious contrast to the usual street demonstration.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, explained in a broadcast last night the reasons for the new taxes, economies and sacrifices. He described what "a terrible calamity" it would have been if the country had "gone off the gold standard."

"The country does not realize how near to the edge of the precipice we have been," he said. "Had it happened, he would not have been a question of a 10 percent reduction of benefits. Wages, pensions and all incomes would have followed and it is impossible to say at what point it could have been arrested."

The army was called on yesterday to bear its share of the national sacrifice in a letter from the war office to all military commands at home and abroad.

The letter said: "A royal warrant decrees the reduction of 10 percent in the pay of officers, active and retired, beginning Oct. 31."

Selman Will Speak Before Bible Class

Dr. G. S. Selman will be the principal speaker before members of the newly organized Lake Monroe Club of Holy Cross Episcopal Church last night in which Judge James G. Sharon and Mayor T. L. Dumas took opposite sides on the question, "Shall Florida close its doors to the influx of indigent winter visitors this winter?"

The debate actually ended in a round-table discussion of the subject, with both sides agreeing to the conclusion of the speaker. It was decided that the next meeting in October would be a more elaborate affair, with a dinner served, and to which prominent speakers of this section will be invited.

Those present last night included: the Rev. H. Irving Lovell, A. P. Connally, R. A. Smith, T. L. Dumas, J. G. Sharon, B. F. White, Sr., C. J. Humphrey, Frank Bennett, Howard Walker, G. G. Gray, J. L. Galloway, Francis C. Mahan, Jas. Gonzales, J. R. Stewart, E. J. Hill, A. L. Betts, and Sherman Libby.

Caribbean Storm Is Losing Its Strength

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning: "Visibility 10 A. M. The center of the tropical disturbance that passed through the area of Santa Domingo Friday afternoon continued to move southeast of the island of Haiti and apparently near Navassa Island this morning. The intensity is diminishing rapidly. No strong winds were reported at Navassa Island between Haiti and Jamaica. The disturbance that was over the Southeastern Gulf of Mexico this morning has apparently passed into the Pacific Ocean, Mexico."

OFFICIALS SEE NO CAUSE OF ALARM AS TO JOBLESS

Believe Distress Will Not Necessarily Be Felt By All Of Idle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Federal officials are in close touch with the unemployment situation to determine the problem of preventing distress next winter as soon as possible, in view of the present general strike.

They are hoping that relief plan of the present that the number of persons who will need and during the cold months receive jobs will be smaller than the total of 10 million.

Administration leaders feel they may not immediately judge in need of assistance next winter that 10 million are confident they can be saved for adequately without any social strife.

Nowing completion of his organization, Walter C. Johnson, national relief director, very recently appointed eight state representatives, making a total of 12 that have been established.

Gifford also announced Medio

Thurman, Washington magazine editor, had been appointed as his assistant to keep in touch with the state representatives.

Official views on the distress problem were emphasized to contact what relief leaders consider an over-emphasis of the situation which has disturbed the public mind.

Relief officials were keeping their plans on last year's experience.

The estimate said while the General Relief Fund of $6,000,000 was out of work, the number in distress was held to 2,000,000 and 3,000.

There were two exceptions to this figure, one being the 100,000 unemployed in the District of Columbia and another in the 100,000 employed in the 100,000 families.

The administration also takes into consideration an estimate that in normal times there are about 1,500,000 out of work simultaneously due to the usual turn over in jobs, and calculates that more than 1,000,000 were only reasonably unemployed.

Relief officials take no stock in estimates that 6,000,000 unemployed persons that counting members of wives' families 30,000,000 are in distress.

They have figures indicating there are 17 "breadwinners" to every 10 families and that there are 100,000 families have some income left.

It is the view of several officials that the relief problem next winter will be much less serious than last in one respect, because the burden of 2,000,000 actual victims has been removed.

Masonic Degrees Are Conferred On Friday

Nearly 90 members of Ormond Grotto of Orlando were in Sanford last night, somewhere, parading through the down town streets to music furnished by their band and drum corps, they entertained a large number of spectators who applauded the music and drill work to the echo.

The band and drum corps accompanied a degree team to this city last night for the purpose of conferring degrees upon approximately 10 candidates for admission into the branch of the Masonic order. Three Sanford men, Jim Meisch, Sheriff J. F. McClelland and Charles Dunn received their first degree.

After the band concert and parade, the band marched to the City Hall where a dance was held until shortly after midnight. Many Masons and their wives attended the affair, and all reported an enjoyable evening.

LOCALS OUTHIT SAINTS BUT GET BEATEN 6 TO ONE

Brilliant Fielding Of Capo Is Feature Of Contest Yesterday

By E. H. CULLUM.

Although outshitting the St. Augustine team 10 to 8, the Celery Feds went down to defeat at 6 to 1 yesterday afternoon on the Saint's diamond.

The Feds' lone tally came in the first inning. Schirard, first up, grounded out, short to first; Higgins fled out to second; Martin hit a single to left field and stole second; Pittman lifted a long fly to left field, good for two bases, scoring Martin; Peters went out, second to first, to end the inning, and the run getting so far as Sanford was concerned.

The Saints tied the score in their half of the first; McKinney grounded out to Peters; D. Williams hit a line drive to right field for a single, and stole second; Colee out; Pitcher to first; Capo singled to left, scoring D. Williams; S. Masters struck out. The Saints added three more in the fourth, on two singles and two errors. After S. Masters and Clegg had singled in succession, Herman was laid a bunt down the first base line; Peters fielded the ball and relayed it to Higgins on third to catch S. Masters; his throw was wild, and Masters scored on the play. Crews tagging up at third; and Hernandez at second; in an attempt to cut down Masters, who was playing off third, Schirard threw the ball into left field, letting in Masters and Hernandez. The Saints added one more each in the 7th and 8th innings.

With the exception of two in which the Feds had a man in scoring position in every inning, but lacked the punch to put over the runs.

Capo, playing center field for the Saints, put up a brand of fielding that was absolutely inimitable. It mattered not whether the ball was hit to short center or clear to the outer edge of the field. Capo managed to get under it in time to cut off six hits, and in most instances ran, as the outs credited to him was each time the third out with men on the paths. It was his fielding that kept the Feds' score so low, and probably saved the day for the Saints.

Schirard pitched a beautiful brand of ball, striking out five and walking only one.

Hernandez also pitched one of his best games, and although nicked for a total of 10 hits, he struck out nine of the Feds, five of the strikeouts coming in a row—two in the third and three in the fourth.

There were less than 100 people out to see the game. Questi in the cause as to such a small attendance, the writer was informed that most of the St. Augustine fans had gone to Deland to witness the Deland-Coe game.

on two singles, a walk, and an error.

Here's what happened in the Big Show. American League: Deland won his 19th game of the year when he halted the Browns by a 6 to 3 score. Herbert and Coratti were rapped for 13 hits by the Macks, headed by Williams. The Goose got a homer with two on, while James Dykes tripled with the socks full in the first. Four double plays helped the Senators beat Cleveland 5 to 3. Brown and Hurdle gave up 13 hits to the Indians, while Harder and Connelly were nickel'd for 10. Every Indian's winning chance was spoiled by a snappy double play, and the work of Hale and Porter at bat went for naught. They got three hits each. Tommy Bridges, of the Tigers hurled shutout ball to beat the Red Sox 3 to 0 in opening game of their final series. Seven Tiger hits, including a homer by Alexander, proved to be the undoing of Moore and Lisenbee of the Sox. Bridges gave up only six hits all day.

National League: After chunking shutout ball for eight innings Wild Bill Hallahan wankered for a moment, but the Cards beat the Braves 7 to 3 anyway. It was his 10th victory of the year, and it was a fine one. For seven innings he gave up one hit, and with a lead of six runs, let down a trifling 11. The Braves put together six other hits in the next two innings. Selbold, Sherel, and Hall issued 13 hits to the league leaders, including Bottomley's homer. Frisch and Wilson got three hits in four tries each. The Giants halted the Pirates' eight-game winning streak when they grounded Kremer for five hits in the first inning, to finally win it 1. Ray Hubbard pitched four hit ball for the Giants, who got 11 hits off Kremer, Osborne, Wood and Spencer. Lucas and Vance hooked up in a duel for seven innings, only to have the Reds pull away with a three run rally, to beat the Robins 5 to 3. Lucas gave up 10 hits, while the Reds got 11 off Vance, Quinn and Thurston. The Cubs broke a nine-game losing streak by murdering the Phillies 17 to 4, pulling out 21 hits off J. Elliott, Watt and Fal Malone. Malone was nickel'd for 10 hits in the meantime. Hurst, Hartnett and Malone hit homers.

Jim Steinoff, that ever popular young gentleman who not so many years ago starred in one of Coach Whetzel's Seminole High School backfields, was in town over the weekend, visiting his parents, saying hello to his hundreds of friends, and, as usual, radiating good fellowship, courage, enthusiasm, and above all, the healthy glow that comes from clean living. During the summer months, Jim has been holding down a responsible position with the Coca Cola firm, and has been touring the waste and plenty lands of Texas and the Southwest. He got that job because of some fine work as a member of the University of Georgia eleven the past two years, and because Coach Mehre sees in him a player and man of extraordinary ability.

Asked to predict the success of the 1931 Bulldog eleven, Jim could say but little more than "If we can only win half the games on that tough schedule, we've got well be plenty lucky, although we

As a result of the win both teams are tied for first place, with only two games left to go. Cocco comes to Sanford Sunday, and closes its season at Cocco next Thursday with a game with Winter Park. Deland plays at Daytona Sunday, and ends the season in Deland Thursday with Sanford. So far Sanford has proven easy for both clubs, as has Winter Park. The odds are therefore in favor of Cocco's winning the second-half flag. Sanford will surely try its best to whip Deland, and with the boys hitting as they are, they might pull the trick.

Up at St. Augustine Bert Hernandez was a trifle steadier than was Bill Strickland in the pinches, and as a result, the Saints won out 6 to 1. The Feds got 10 hits to the Saints' eight, but couldn't convert them into runs. Fed errors gave the Saints a couple of runs. Hernandez struck out nine men too. Red Martin did as he needed to do, got three hits in four tries, and as a result, is this afternoon batting an even .400, only 10 points behind the leader. Wally Shannon, of Deland, Red has a good chance of landing the second-half batting honors, and he ought to be hard to stop Sunday and Thursday.

Lefty Lane shut the Parkers out, 3 to 0, in the final game of the year between Daytona and Winter Park. He allowed only seven hits, while his own players made but eight off Urban Yachum, the former high school star. It was a tight game from the start, with the Islanders putting across three runs in the seventh

Junior League Of Boys Beat Girls To Obey Order On Capone Indictment At Diamond Ball

By E. H. CULLUM.

The junior league of boys defeated the girls team last night in a nine-inning battle that kept the crowd on its feet from start to finish.

Hazel Gates pitched for the girls, and after getting off to a bad start, two runs coming in in the first inning, as a result of bases on balls and two hits, she settled down in the second inning and for the rest of the game.

Adelaide Higgins was behind the bat for the girls and played her position wonderfully well, especially as this is the first game she has ever attempted to catch.

Bebe Bahnsen was on the mound for the boys and pitched sensational ball, holding the girls to

A Folies chorus girl who said was promptly sent to jail, which proves, if it proves anything at all, that you mustn't say "My dear" to a judge unless you are sure he

A New York man took two chil-preparatory to leaving, a spray of machine gun bullets from gang-

The unusual thing about the episode was that neither of the chil-

Charity At Home First

A little earlier than usual this year the Knights of the Highway are making their annual visits to Florida. Residents returning by motor from vacations in the North report that the highways are fairly lined with evidently ill-fed, poorly clothed individuals looking for rides and beating their way south getting away from the suffering in congested city districts and looking for the bare necessities of life among the orange groves of Florida and under the warm glow of a tropical sun.

Already efforts are being made by public officials, welfare committees, and chambers of commerce, to keep this veritable horde of hitch hikers from over-running this state. The "Hobo Express" is working over time on the lower east coast picking these vagrants up and carrying them to the next northern county line. Governor Carlton has called a meeting of various civic leaders to discuss methods of dealing with the problem. The idea has been advanced that state police should be stationed on the border between Georgia and Florida to keep beggars out.

There is very little that most of us can do about this situation as it is a problem which rightly belongs in the hands of the welfare committees and the officers of the law. However, business men, farmers, packing house executives, and other employers, should, it seems to us, make it a point to give preference to local men when it comes to distributing jobs. Our unemployment problem is not as serious as it is in many sections. Nevertheless, there are hundreds of men in Seminole County who, at the present time, are unable to obtain work. They should be properly taken care of before jobs are given to transients.

The Avon Park chamber of commerce has set a good example in aiding the unemployed of that town by providing facilities for registering all men and women who are without work. Careful records are kept with the view of giving jobs to local people first when the packing houses open next month. After all local people have been taken care of, then, the Avon Park group believe, will be time enough to provide jobs or charity for strangers.

It is perhaps a cold-blooded view to take of this situation, and there is little doubt, from a humanitarian standpoint, it is quite as important to help strangers as neighbors. The Herald, for one, hopes and believes, that every possible effort will be made this winter to provide the essentials of life for every individual who may be among us, whether old time resident, or hitchhiker from some foreign port, but the home people, the people who have helped build this town and who have stayed with it through good times and bad, who will be here tomorrow and the next day, and who will spend whatever money they earn in this city, should be taken care of first.

Ask prospective employees where they live before giving them jobs.

Viewing The Needs Of The Country

Speaking to a group of Lions at their luncheon yesterday the Reverend H. Irving Louttit, while decrying many of the characteristics of Russian communism, admitted that some phases of its economic and industrial development are worthy of emulation in this country. Evidently thinking of the Farm Board's recent suggestion to the cotton growers to plow under one-third of their crop, the Rev. Louttit declared that Russia carefully visualizes and estimates its agricultural needs and grows crops accordingly.

While Russia is sometimes apt to over-estimate its own needs, particularly in its wheat fields, and dump products on markets beyond its own borders, depressing prices in other countries, we cannot deny that the policy as expressed by the Rev. Louttit with regard to the Russian method of growing crops is an excellent one, and is perhaps one which should be given some very serious consideration by farmers in our own country. At a time when practically every other kind of farmer in the United States is complaining of over-production, it would be a strange lack of foresight which would permit our celery farmers to create a similar market condition.

Carefully visualize the future, estimate the agricultural needs of this country and grow crops accordingly!

That should be the guiding principle of our farmers this season. Should there be an over-production of celery next winter, prices would drop out of sight, and Seminole County farmers would be in exactly the same boat as the peach growers of Georgia, the cotton farmers throughout the entire South, and the wheat farmers of the middle west.

There is very little satisfaction in owning a dozen or more acres of beautiful celery which cannot be sold except at a sacrifice. There is little compensation in plowing up a third of the acreage after over-production is an accomplished fact.

There is a great deal more satisfaction in having a comparatively few acres of celery which will bring a fancy price. There is more wisdom in anticipating an over-supply, and avoiding production costs, before plowing up becomes necessary.

The wise farmer these days is one who will plant at least a few acres of his farm in a variety of vegetables so that regardless of marketing conditions, he will always have plenty for his own table.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

The county grand jury will meet in special session today for the second time in connection with the killing of George H. Hickman, Jacksonville theater manager and attempted robbery of the theater last Sunday night. The body was ordered convened by Circuit Judge Gibbs today following the arrest of John Pope, Jacksonville attorney, and Irwin Noskatty, an electrician, on charges of being implicated in the tragedy.

Relief funds totalling more than seventeen thousand dollars had been subscribed today by citizens of San Antonio toward a goal of twenty-five thousand for relieving distress of those who lost possessions in the flood of Sept. 10. Property damage is fixed at not more than eight million dollars by C. D. Yandel, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, while the death list is uncertain. Some estimates running it as high as one hundred dead, including forty-seven bodies recovered.

CANDLE LIGHT

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

"A daughter of the gods, divinely tall,
And most divinely fair."

This description from Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women" might apply to any one of the three languorous Nordic screen stars whose box office appeal is so great that Hollywood's small biplane artifices are frantically bleaching their raven tresses, wearing the highest heels to aid inches, and eating hitherto forbidden sweets to cultivate contours. Of course, it's no use trying to be like Garbo unless you happen to be Marlene Dietrich, and then it isn't necessary. And there's Eliza Landi, with her queenly poise, which is said to be inherited in some fashion, somewhat vague, from the Austrian throne, and with her shining hair which is another good reason why this year of grace seems to have been given over to the blonds.

The light or dark controversy which has raged with more or less fervor ever since Anita Loos wrote a thesis several years ago maintaining that gentlemen prefer blonds is one of those intriguing questions which never dies and is always good for argument. In the film world at present, what the Nordic invasion and the home grown Constance Bennett and Tallulah Bankhead that the blonde isn't much doubt that the blonde are in the ascendancy.

The world's taste in women changes from year to year just as it does in everything else. The bawling Venuses of eighteenth century French paintings would be ousted off the stage of Mr. Ziegfeld's theater, and slim boyish Adele Astaire would probably have a drub on the market in the London music hall of Con- greve's day.

It might be interesting to take a fleeting glimpse at some of the lovely ladies of literature just to see what type of beauty appealed to various writers of the world. I believe one can say with impunity that Tennyson was definitely lined up with Anita Loos, as most of the damsels of King Arthur's court seem to have been of blonde persuasion. Through all the great Victorian's poetry there runs the glint of golden hair.

Of Elaine, he says, "Elaine the fair, Elaine the lovable, Elaine the Lily Maid of Astolat," and he compared Lady Godiva, descending the stairs of her castle for her famous ride through Coventry, to "creeping sunbeam." Then, there is Maud with her "little head, running over with curls," and most significant of all, the bright hair of the Queen Guinevere. For proof of this, we have the lovely tragic picture painted by King Arthur, the betrayed, as his bids farewell to his wife at the convent at Almesbury:

"Yet think not that I come to urge thy crimes,
I did not come to curse thee,
Guinevere,
I, whose pity almost makes me die."

To see thee, laying there thy golden head,
My pride in happier summers, at my feet."

Turning to Alexander Pope, one finds that the "fair'it's curl" celebrated in "The Rape of the Lock" was a dark one, and that the beautiful Belinda was definitely a brunette, not a blonde, and between, mind you, but decidedly brune. As evidence, I offer these lines from the famous poem of nymphs and gnomes and neoclassicism:

"These, in two sable ringlets taught to break,
One gave new beauties to the snowy neck."

For blonde novel heroines, there are Thackeray's Ethel Newcome of "The Newcomes" with her black rippy hair, Jane Austin's Elizabeth Bennett, whose dark eyes Mr. Darcy found "uncommonly intelligent," and Victor Hugo's Esmeralda in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," from whose long dark downcast eyelashes emanated a sort of ineffable light, which impacted to her profile that ideal beauty which Raphael subsequently found at the mystic point of intersection of virginity, maternity and divinity.

The blonde contingent can always take the immortal Helen with her hair that blushed a thousand shades and turned the topless sons of Ilium," but a girl in "Lunch" reminds Hollywood in her "fervor for golden hair," forgetful that "the world has been once well lost for the sake of Helen, a certain ed., and not too youthful blonde." Cleopatra, described in Tennyson's "Fair Women" as sitting on a crimson sofa, "a queen with swarthy cheeks and bold black eyes," who says,

"The ever shifting currents of the blood
Ac ording to my humor ebb and flow.

I have no men to govern in this world;

That makes my only woe."

While I admit that the golden-haired Helen has more magic for me than the black-eyed Cleopatra, my bias is not because of her complexion. On the whole, I am inclined to agree with Byron in his catholicity of tastes expressed by "Don Juan":

"An eye an eye, and whether black or blue
Is no great matter, so 'tis in request;
Tis nonsense to dispute about a hue—
The kindest may be taken as the test."

There is a point where taxation becomes confiscation — when it goes beyond what the people can reasonably pay. Many American communities are fast reaching this point. Tax rates have gone up a hundred per cent or more in a comparatively few years. A multitude of special taxes are being levied. Class taxation has become a commonplace. Both businesses and individuals find the tax collector a barrier in the way of industrial expansion and personal prosperity. A condition such as this cannot long continue without placing the nation in a position from which it may take years to recover. The present spectacle of debt-ridden European nations should be a warning to public officials to do everything in their power to promote government efficiency, limit its operations to fundamental governmental duties, and keep expenses down.—St. Augustine Record.

Subscription Bridge Party Given At Club

For the maintenance of the Country Club building, the women givers of the city sponsored a subscription bridge party given last night at the Sanford Country Club with about 50 players in attendance. The room of the club were opened especially for the occasion and decorated with a profusion of bright-colored gauds and ferns arranged in vases and bowls.

Throughout the evening bridge games were enjoyed by the guests. Late in the evening scores were collected and prizes awarded by Mrs. P. E. Perkins, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, and Judge James G. Sharon had high scores among the contract players, while Mrs. W. W. Potter and Dr. W. D. Gardner won high score prizes among the auction players. Mrs. J. G. Sharon and Maxwell Stewart had low scores among the contract players and Mrs. Vivian Speer and R. R. Dean won low score prizes among the auction players. Miss Katherine Scott, of Goldsboro, N. C., was the recipient of our prize.

"At the supper hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Vivian Speer, Mrs. Leon LeRoy, Mrs. A. C. Fort, and Miss Helen Marette. Among those playing were Mr. and Mrs. H. Glenn Lingle, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. COLLEGE AND PREPARATORY SCHOOLS ARE DRAWING BIG SANFORD GROUP

With some colleges and preparatory schools already open and with others planning to get underway in the near future, many Sanford homes have been filled with an atmosphere of excitement during the last few days as certain of their members prepare to depart for schools of their choice in other sections. Talk of football, "rushing," fraternities, sororities, and the necessary, but in some cases unpleasant, subject of "courses" is being heard wherever groups of college students or prospective college students congregate.

In order to attend fraternity "rushing" week at the University of Florida and the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee, a large number of the college set of the city will be leaving here the first part of next week. The others who plan to attend the schools will not leave here for another week.

Among those who will be at the University of Florida, this spring, are Leonard Miller, Peter Schirard, Fred Bender, Jr., Ben Cogburn, George Mayo, Wallace Phillips, Bruce Laney, Roy Frank Symes, Jr., Stanley Peckham, Charles Butler, Jack Peters, Earle Kipp, Joseph O'Connor, Donald Anderson, Leon Herschowitz, Frank Russell, Harold Herbst and Sydney Weinick.

Circle Number Five of the First Methodist Church will meet at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. E. Jones, 119 W. Sixteenth Street.

Circle Number Two of the First Methodist Church will meet with Mrs. J. D. Parker, 112 Myrtle Avenue, at 3:30 o'clock.

Circle Number Four of the First Methodist Church will meet at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. O. Shinholser, 1408 Oak Avenue, with Mrs. Shinholser and Mrs. Z. B. Ratliff as hostesses.

Circle Number Five of the First Methodist Church will meet at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. R. B. Monroe, Celery Avenue.

Circle Number Seven of the First Methodist Church will meet with Mrs. Morris Spencer, 1920 Palmetto Avenue, at 3:30 o'clock.

The St. Agnes Guild will hold its regular business and social meeting at 4 o'clock at the Episcopal parish house with Mrs. Jose Gonzalez and Mrs. George McRory as hostesses.

Christian Endeavor Society Lays Plans

At the regular meeting of the Congregational Christian Endeavor, held last Sunday evening, Charles Gant, the president, suggested the following program of activities for the organization for the coming three months: Sept. 20, a short play to be given as a feature of the regular Sunday evening meeting; Sept. 25, a bun-a-party with side attractions of indoor horseshoe pitching, miniature golf, and refreshments; latter part of October, entertainment for the City Union; last week of October, begin practice of a three-act play to be given in January; November, (first or second week) miniature golf tournament; Nov. 24, a supper; Dec. 10, a bazaar, possibly in connection with the Ladies Aid; and Dec. 25, a Christmas pageant.

Mr. Gant announced that parties may be planned in addition to his program. He added that arrangements have already been made for a short play to be given on Sept. 20 and for the bun-a-party on Sept. 25.

Friends of Mrs. W. A. Zachary, who has been ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. S. Cherry, Mount Olive, N. C., will be glad to learn that she is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Couch and family, formerly of this city, who have been living at Orlando and Daytona Beach for several years, are now residing at 1308 Magnolia Avenue.

Miss Lillian Branen, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Branen, who expects to enter her first year's studies at Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee next week. Miss Branen has been visiting in Georgia and Alabama for the past several weeks.
