Rebellious Children Defying Parents; What's The Answer?

First In A Series

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Spare the rod and spoil the child—a philosophy that members of the juvenile court system, family counseling institutions and the county school system agree with in the face of a growing number of unruly and ungovernable teen-agers, a Herald poll reveals.

"Parents of recent schools of thought were told that they should talk to their children and find out what they want and how they feel but never discipline them for fear their spirits would be destroyed," says Gayle Hair, Seminole County juvenile court coordinator. "Now we have a generation of youth who have no direction and, because they were never required to do so, refuse to take responsibility for their decisions and actions."

"That way of thinking appears to be causing problems though," Mrs. Hair says. "We (the juvenile court system) are seeing more and more cases of families out of control because the children are telling the parents what they will and will not do. Children need and, I feel, want rules to live by, and parents need to set them."

Mrs. Hair, who works closely with Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi in juvenile cases, says that because children are allowed to make their own decisions without being held responsible for those choices, "the family is out of control, leaving the state to intervene and set up rules for the child and family to follow."

"We run into problems when family situations reach the courts," Salfi said in his courtroom chambers between hearings of child dependency cases. "There is a lack of understanding, caring and preparation among every part of the system in dealing with these cases. No one sits down and talks with the child and parent before going ahead with the court process, and that results in confusion for the court, which then has to serve as a director, saying, 'Okay, let's go back, work it out and come back when you've got it right.'

"No wonder the parents and the child lose confidence in the system to help them," he says. "The parents get exasperated because they don't think the system works. And there's also the cost factor to consider. Each case, on the average, costs about $1,000 to come through the court system, and that cost affects everyone."

Salfi says he supports awareness groups such as Toughlove and his recent initiation of Parent-To-Parent, because this type of group helps parents understand that "It's okay for the parent to not like his or her child."

"Toughlove, the concept, is not new, while Parent-To-Parent, the program, is relatively new in this area," Salfi says. "It's unfortunate that we have to think of tough and soft love, because love, unconditional love, caring and reaching out are all that's necessary."

"These groups tell a parent, 'Hey, it's okay to say to your child I love you and nothing will ever change that, but I don't like you worth a damn right now,'" he says. "The most important thing for parents to do is realize they should not feel guilty about their feelings but to be direct with their children. Parents have to get to children on their level—talk to the kid where that kid is, on his level, understanding the frustration and commitment to the child."

"I wholeheartedly support Toughlove," Mrs. Hair says. "I don't know all there is to know about it, but I do know it is a national organization with community involvement where parents can get together and talk about their problems. They can talk out the differences between themselves and their

During Tallahassee Deadlock

Solons Just Sit And Wait

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Both of Seminole County's resident state legislators are home biding their time while conference committee members from the Florida House and Senate are in the state capital trying to compromise their deadlock.

Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, sees the deadlock resulting from one question. That question is whether the 20 members of the Florida Senate should be permitted to remain in office representing districts many of them have never been elected from.

"If the Senate reappointment plan for the Senate passes, that would mean Seminole County would be represented by two senators they did not elect or even have a chance to vote for or against," Hattaway said. "Those members would be Sen. Toni Jennings (R-Orlando) and Sen. Dick Langley (R-North Lake Minneola)."

"Once this one issue is settled, everything else will fall into line," Hattaway said, adding that his view is also held by the major members of the Florida House.

Meanwhile, State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, said a major cause of the stalemate is that Gov. Bob Graham doesn't understand the Florida Constitution.

He said the governor called a special session limited to reappointment when the Constitution doesn't permit him to set that limitation.

Second he said, even if the Legislature can come to agreement on districting next week, several important deadlines will have passed before state Supreme Court approval can be given.

Third, Brantley strongly criticizes the House leadership for attempting to cut U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, and U.S. Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Ocala, out of congressional districts in its districting proposal.

At the same time, Brantley sees the Senate as trying to make sure that both McCollum and Chappell have a fair shot at reelection.

Hattaway says, however, that Sen. Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, the Senate strongman, and his coalition of some Democrats and Republicans are trying to side step the state Constitution. He insists the Constitution clearly requires all 40 senators to run for reelection after reappointment.

While most of the legislators are at home, Barron and State Rep. Lee Moffitt, D-Tampa, chairman of the House Reappointment Committee, and speaker-elect of the House, are trying to come up with a compromise.

"The House feels it should come up with neutral language requesting the Supreme Court to decide whether 20 or all 40 state senators must run," Hattaway said.

"That is the real issue," he said, adding that the members of both Houses are home except for members of conference committees on appropriations, finance and taxes.

Brantley said, "We went into session in January instead of April for reappointment. If we had been there only on that issue, instead of sales taxes and other controversial matters, the chances are we would have completed that job. The groundwork had been done."

"Then the leadership tried to work outside the committee process. Their thinking was the same last week, and reappointment didn't get done. There has been no agreement on any reappointment," he added.

"The Senate sued when Graham tried to limit us to reappointment in the first special session, and the Senate won the suit. Then, instead of Graham calling us right back for a legislative session, he chose to call us back for congressional reappointment, sales taxes and the budget," Brantley said.

"Yet legislative reappointment is the only part that has to go through a Florida Supreme Court review. Congressional redistricting goes straight to the federal court," he added.

Brantley said that if a legislative reappointment plan were approved, it would be sent to the state Supreme Court, which has 45 days to review the plan. The Legislature would have another 15 days to correct it.

So, he said, if a plan were approved by both houses next week and the court and the Legislature took the time allotted by law, the candidate qualifying period would have passed before all the work was done.

"Then we are going to run into some very serious problems. We are going to miss several deadlines for filing. This should not have happened," Brantley said.

"This is the most miserable and agonizing legislative session I've ever gone through. Thank goodness reappointment is mandated only once every 10 years. When the governor calls us into session, we must respond or we could go to jail," he added.

Brantley said both must begin talking. "We've got a Mexican standoff now. Each house is digging in and refusing to move," he said.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

Mailboxes generally tend to look alike, but some Sanford area residents like to brighten up the mailman's life with something a little different to put those letters and packages in. From left, here are three motifs: the patriotic, the rustic and the nautical. The one in the middle is on Old Lake Monroe Road, the other two on Riverview Avenue in Sanford.

Former Commissioner Died Thursday

Tributes Paid To Fitzpatrick

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

"I'm deeply saddened," said former Seminole County Commission Chairman John Alexander, commenting on the death Thursday of former County Commissioner John Fitzpatrick.

Mr. Fitzpatrick died at his home at 405 Lakeview Drive, Sanford, at the age of 71 following a short illness.

"He was a good commissioner and was dedicated and a good family man. A lot of people will miss him," said Alexander.

Mr. Fitzpatrick served six years on the board, coming on in 1961 to serve out the uncompleted term of David Gatchel. He was reelected to a four-year term, and served until 1967.

"John's history in Sanford was one of community interest and dedication of talents, of which he had many," said civic leader George Touhy. "He had a progressive attitude and gave immeasurably of his professional talents to causes that rely on public contributions of time, talent and treasury. Such a loss is not readily filled."

"John Fitzpatrick was one of those quiet, capable individuals who contributed a great deal to our community," said Jack Horner, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. "He served without fanfare or recognition. We will all miss him."

Funeral Mass for Mr. Fitzpatrick will be celebrated Monday at 10 a.m. at the Church of the Nativity, Lake Mary, by the Rev. Clement J. Kuhns. A wake service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church. Burial will be in Oaklawn Memorial Park. Gramkow Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Born Jan. 12, 1911, in Columbus, Ohio, Mr. Fitzpatrick moved to Sanford in 1949. A certified public accountant, he was an owner of the Fitzpatrick & Hartsock accounting firm in Sanford. He was a member of the (Catholic) Church of the Nativity. He was a former member of the Sanford Airport Authority and the Seminole County Port Authority, and was active in the Sanford-Seminole Development Corp.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was on the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce board of directors and served as its accountant. He was on the local Salvation Army advisory board and was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Father Richard Lyons Chapter; Sanford Moose Lodge 1851, and the Fleet Reserve Association, B. Duke Woody Branch 147; and was a life member of Elks Lodge 1241, Sanford.

Survivors include his wife, Toi; five sons, Dan, Apopka, Tom and Jim, both of Sanford, Pat, Osteen, Mike, Ormond Beach; a daughter, Miss Donna Fitzpatrick, Sanford; and a brother, J.D., Sanford.

Benefits For Ex-Military Wives? Former GI Joins Fray

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

There is a growing movement among divorced wives of military personnel, and federal legislation currently picking up steam, which all but ensures the issue of whether divorced military wives should be entitled to part of their husband's retired pay is headed for a steamy battle.

Earlier this week, in a story in the Evening Herald, Lois Jones, president of a local group called Action for Former Military Wives, explained the basis for her group's actions, which include seeking legislation that would allow divorced military wives to regain some of the benefits they lost as a result of divorce.

Ms. Jones said military wives have often sacrificed careers and their own college educations to further their husbands' careers. Among the group's other views: Divorced military wives who didn't work failed to build up Social Security benefits; wives who remained married for 20 years only to be divorced after their husbands retired suddenly found themselves without medical benefits or an insurance annuity, and in the job market with no previous experience or skills to enter the work force.

National organizations such as the YFW and the Non-Commissioned Officers Association of the United States (NCOA) are vehemently opposed to the legislation.

One local resident, with a stake in the outcome of any bill on the matter that could be passed into law, read Ms. Jones' comments with great interest and a 180-degree turnabout in perspective.

"It was a real tear-jerking story," says Ralph Padgett of Sanford. "It's too bad the wives are telling only half the story."

Padgett is a retired Air Force sergeant. A heart attack has left him disabled enough not to be able to work. While he was stationed in Vietnam in 1969, his wife divorced him on grounds of desertion.

Padgett says he's not the only GI it happened to, either.

"I was a first sergeant for several years, so I became familiar with a lot of family problems and divorces," he says. "I consider myself a very liberal person. I'm all for the ERA and equal rights. But what these ex-wives want isn't equal by any means.

"I think any wife whose husband flat runs out on her deserves to be compensated. But there are two sides to every story," says the retired sergeant.

"What about the soldiers and sailors whose wives were running around on them while they were stationed overseas? What about the trauma and rejection the husbands feel after their wives divorce them?" he asks.

As for the contention by the Association for Former Military Wives that they have no Social Security benefits and also lose medical and insurance benefits in the event of divorce, Padgett disagrees. "Does a wife of a business executive keep her insurance benefits provided to her husband if they divorce?" he asks. "No. And while the wife may not be entitled to medical benefits in a military divorce, dependent children are covered under CHAMPUS" (Civilian Health Administration Medical Program for Uniformed Services).

Padgett also scoffs at the contention of the wives' organization that, once divorced, the women are forced out into the cold.

"A lot of women had the opportunity to go to college on bases and posts throughout the world," he says. "Many of them never would have had that opportunity because of the expense of a civilian education. And after 10 years of remarriage a wife is entitled to part of her husband's Social Security benefits too."

Padgett sees the most infuriating part of the controversy as being the wording of some of the proposed bills.

"What if a career soldier is married late in life—say, the last five years of his active duty time—and then he and his wife divorce. Should she be entitled to half of what he's worked for for 20 years?"

"No," says Padgett. "And that's what these bills will do if they become law. I don't think the federal government should have the right to make blanket decisions in military divorce matters without giving regard to each divorce on an individual basis," he says.

Meanwhile, ex-husbands and ex-wives remain at swords' points over the issue.

Starting A Family? Here's The Best Way

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband and I have decided to begin a family and there are some questions in our minds. I am 27 and have had no previous pregnancies. My periods average anywhere from 28 to 33 day cycles and are light. My husband is 25 years old and in good health. We don't smoke and we don't drink alcohol to excess.

I have been experimenting with the basal temperature method to determine ovulation. I detect a rise in body temperature in mid-cycle. I am assuming that is when ovulation is occurring.

With that in mind, when is the best time for sex? Our understanding is that the egg must be fertilized 24 hours after ovulation. Does this mean there is a very critical one-day occurrence for pregnancy or are there several days preceding and following the rise in body temperature?

I also notice a non-annoying discharge for several days and a slight aching in my breasts. Are those additional signs my ovaries are functioning properly? We would appreciate any advice you can give us.

DEAR READER - It is important for everyone to understand the basic functions of their bodies. I am glad you have discovered the basal temperature method. But the temperature rise occurs one to three days after ovulation. The temperature usually falls a day or two before ovulation. If you abstain until the temperature is elevated you are not likely to get pregnant.

the uterus or the tube, will be able to cause fertilization. The actual union (fertilization) of the egg and sperm cell occurs in the tube.

The discharge is probably normal mucus which can also help pinpoint the time of ovulation. I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-2, Female Reproductive Function, which will help you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have just found out I am 11 weeks pregnant. Before I knew I was pregnant I went to one of those sun tanning booths with ultraviolet light that you stand in to get tanned. I went six times in one week when I couldn't have been more than a week along. I went another time when I couldn't have been more than three weeks along. I am afraid that this might have harmed the baby. Can you give me any information on this?

DEAR READER - No, the exposure will not hurt your baby. Think of it as super sunshine. After all, it is the ultraviolet light in sunshine that causes the skin to tan. It is no more dangerous to your pregnancy than exposure to sunlight.

Now that doesn't mean I approve of such devices. They are hard on your skin in the same way that too much sunshine can damage and prematurely age your skin. And unless you are protected you can damage your eyes.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Tuesday, April 6, 1982

- YOUR BIRTHDAY April 6, 1982 Your chances for advancement are likely to be better this coming year in the field you are already in rather than in another. Do a good job and make yourself indispensable where you are.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Beware of tendencies today to rationalize or to postpone tasks that require immediate attention. What you fail to do will cause hardships later. Find out more of what's ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your Astro-Graph. Mail to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to include birth date.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'd better tie a string around your finger today if you promise to do something special for your mate. There's a chance you may forget and cause disappointment.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) At work today, make doubly sure your directions to others are clear and explicit. Confusing commands will impede production.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let your extravagant whims get the better of you today and cause you to buy things you can't afford or may not even need.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're quite detail conscious. When you begin something you usually carry it through, but today these splendid qualities may desert you.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your compassionate instincts will be easily aroused today and, should others need your help, you'll be there to aid them. Do so without making them feel obligated.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very careful today if you're with friends who haven't been doing as well as you have lately. Do nothing that could make them feel inferior.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Flattery will not accomplish your purposes today, but sincerity will. Forego trying to butter-up others in order to satisfy your needs.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extremely careful today that you don't let something told to you in confidence slip out to the wrong party. Keeping secrets may be tough.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Take nothing for granted in financial or commercial situations today. If you're careless, there's a possibility you'll make mistakes.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rather than being indecisive, it is sometimes better to take action even if it isn't under optimum conditions. Don't look for excuses or delays.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Jack Prosser Ford-Adcock Roofing Battle At 5 p.m.

There will be at least one less unbeaten team in the Sanford Little American League following today's competition.

Jack Prosser Ford and Adcock Roofing, both 1-0, square off at 5 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park. The league's other unbeaten team, Krayola Kollege, plays winless Seminole Petroleum at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park.

In the other Little American League game, S&H Fabricating and Engineering plays Atlantic Bank at 5 p.m. at Bay Avenue Field. Both teams are 1-1.

The Sanford Junior League opens today with a pair of games at Chase Park. Defending champ Knights of Columbus plays Elks in the 5 p.m. opener, while Moose and Rotary battle at 7:15 p.m.

Cobras Strike Sanford 081

F.C. United Soccer

The Cobras, FC 080, struck early but had to come from behind to defeat Sanford 081, 3-2.

With the game barely under way, Cobra striker Jason Coleman sent the ball into the net on a corner kick from Ralph Rankin Jr. Rankin, coach of the Cobras, said the action was fierce up and down the field with goalie Ron Johnson making several great saves. The half-time score stood at 1-0.

The second half action saw Sanford put in two quick goals to take the lead. Coach Rankin said his boys refused to quit and eventually saw their persistence pay off. Rankin Jr. scored both of the Cobra second half goals unassisted.

After allowing the two Sanford goals, second half goalie Matt Hufford settled down and turned away several string Sanford shots.

Coch Rankin said, "It was team effort and the strong determination of the boys who refused to quit after they fell behind that led to victory."

There will be no action in the Central Florida Youth Soccer League this coming weekend due to the holidays.

In other F.C. action:

Under 8: The Strikers, FC 860 played to a 1-1 tie with Winter Park 801.

Under 10: FC 700, the Wildcats defeated CP 600, 3-1; FC 060, the Tornados, outscored PH 081, 3-1.

Under 12: the Jr. Strug, FC 270 beat FC 180, 4-1; FC 220, the Raiders led to WP 285 4-1 and FC 280 was defeated by PH 281 7-1.

Under 14: FC 480, the Arrows, shut out SA 400, 6-0.

Little Rallies To Win Shore

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Eight times Hollis Stacy stood on the fairway and looked ahead to the green and saw the same sight and heard the same cheer from the gallery.

"I kept seeing her rear end all day every time she bent over to get her ball out of the cup after a birdie," Stacy said.

The person Stacy saw retrieving her ball from the cup all day was Sally Little, who overcame a five-stroke deficit Sunday by firing an 8-under-par 64 — the best round of her career — to capture a $310,000 LPGA tournament by three strokes over Stacy and Sandra Haynie.

Party Not Over For Blazers... Yet

United Press International

The party's not over quite yet for the Portland Trail Blazers, but most of the guests have left.

Since the Blazers won the NBA title in 1977, they haven't missed qualifying for the playoffs. But after Sunday's 129-111 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers at Inglewood, Calif., Portland is on the brink of elimination.

"We're not out of the playoffs yet," said eternally optimistic Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay, but he added, "We're going to have to win almost all our remaining games, or at least six of the eight, to say the least. But we can do it."

The drubbing administered by the Lakers dropped Portland's record to 37-37, which would be just fine for the playoffs in the Eastern Conference but is five games behind the sixth and last qualifying team in the West.

The Lakers, ensured of a post-season berth, were led by 32 points from smooth forward Jamaal Wilkes. In games during Wilkes' five-year Los Angeles career when he has scored over 30 points, the Lakers are 21-0.

In other games, Philadelphia routed New York 127-106, Boston edged Chicago 114-112, Milwaukee downed Indiana 125-115, New Jersey defeated Cleveland 119-109, Houston beat San Antonio 95-93, Seattle ripped Denver 140-116, and Phoenix topped Kansas City 104-95.

At Philadelphia, Julius Erving scored 24 points and led a third-quarter surge that helped the 76ers hand the Knicks their 10th straight road defeat. The Sixers took control of the game by scoring 13 straight points in the third quarter. Campy Russell led New York with 23 points.

Celtics 114, Bulls 112
At Boston, Larry Bird tossed in 29 points, 20 in the second half, and the Celtics held off a fourth-quarter push to post their 21st triumph in the last 22 games.

Porter Drives To Late Model Victory

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — LeRoy Porter drove the Lewis Green Camaro to victory in the 25-lap late model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Brian Westcott dominated the thunder car division, with Johnny Grainger doing the same in the street stock class. "Surfin'" Danny Pardus of Daytona Beach celebrated his 19th birthday by beating a large field of extra close running four cylinder in the Lambert Construction-Zeno Marine Pinto.

Late model pole sitter Jack Cook nosed ahead when the green fell, but Porter wasted no time in grabbing the second spot and the lead, when Cook dropped out with electrical woes.

Porter, with David Rogers right on his back bumper, immediately started threading through heavy traffic, while high point man Joe Middleton led the second wave. The flying lead pair pulled half-a-lap away to fight their own duel, with Rogers slowing down and settling for second in the closing laps. Joe Middleton was third, with Phil Dorman and David Collins rounding out the top five. Heat winners were Cook and Jack Hackney.

During the first rounds of the four cylinder finale, the cars forming the extremely close-running front pack were bouncing off each other, with Charlie Tolson and Bud Seaty tangling on the back stretch.

Pardus took over first place for good at half-way, with Tolson recovering nicely to finish second in an ill-handling car. Third to fifth were early leaders David Gibbs, Alan Howell and Bob Clark.

Leaded Gas And Troubled Children

Three years ago, a medical researcher at the University of Pittsburgh named Herbert Needleman reported the results of an imaginative study whose conclusions had long been suspected — that there is a direct correlation between the amount of lead a child ingests and his or her problems in thinking, learning and behavior. Those findings have since been replicated by other research in Germany and England.

Roughly a year later, Vernon Houk, acting director of the federal Center for Environmental Health, discovered that between 1977 and 1980, the period when, because of federal regulations, the lead content of gasoline dropped sharply, the mean level of lead in blood samples taken from children in 60 U.S. cities declined by more than 25 percent. "We know," said Houk, "that this was a real reduction (and) the only thing we know that changed in the environment during that time was that there was a 30 percent reduction in the amount of leaded gasoline used in this country."

Leaded gasoline is not the largest source of lead in the environment; the chief sources are paint, soil and dust. But according to the Journal Science, airborne lead, which comes primarily from auto exhausts, may account for 20 percent of the lead found in blood samples; it is also the most widespread source of lead, and is the most easily controlled. Nonetheless, EPA, the federal Environmental Protection Agency, following the anti-regulatory course of the Reagan administration, and under strong pressure from some refiners, is now considering dropping federal controls on lead in gasoline.

The controls do not prohibit the use of lead, but they restrict it in such a way that large refiners may not produce gasoline that contains, on average, more than 5 gram of lead per gallon. Since half the gas they make is unleaded, leaded gasoline contains about one gram of lead per gallon.

So far, small refiners have been exempt from those requirements, but if they're not changed, they will have to begin complying in October, something which they claim would be prohibitively expensive. At the same time, an economic study done for EPA indicates that if all federal limits on lead content were lifted, the major refiners would gain a windfall of $133 million in the next two years, while small refiners would gain about $62 million in 1983.

When the refiners first went to the administration with their complaints about the lead standard, they were asking for what Science calls "a modest revision of definitions and deadlines... (But) the warm reception they received encouraged them to ask for more. They said they wanted complete abolition of the lead standard."

In light of what's suspected about the connection between lead and a variety of serious medical problems — and in light of what's already known — it would be unconscionable to abolish the lead standard. Houk says that no childhood disease begins to approach lead poisoning in the breadth of its impact, an impact that appears to become greater with poor nutrition and which may, therefore, get worse as nutrition programs are reduced. "We have demonstrated that we can control lead in gasoline, and it just seems prudent that if you can do it, you should."

What If OPEC Collapses?

For almost a decade, the Western world has been in the harsh grip of OPEC, the international oil cartel. Middle Eastern and other oil producers have been rolling in newfound wealth while the economies of the United States and its European allies suffered cruelly.

Now, all that may change. OPEC is in danger of collapsing. At the least, its power will be lessened.

We already see the change at the gasoline pump, where prices have dropped.

Danger exists, however, that a permanent glut of oil supplies may find the West as unprepared as it was for OPEC's dominance. The Economist Magazine warned of this danger in its March 6 issue.

According to The Economist, the consequences of higher oil prices in the 1970s included "the creation of 28 million unemployed among the top industrial countries' 350 million workers and a doubling or tripling of inflation across the free world." The current slump in the United States today can be attributed in good part to the oil shock, to the outflow of money to the OPEC countries.

The Economist believes that oil prices could fall by more than one third or over $11 a barrel.

The danger here is that the United States and other Western countries will abandon conservation practices adopted over a decade. Americans, for example, might lose interest in small cars. In short order, we could become dependent again.

The Soviet Union, the world's largest oil-producing country, will feel any new oil shock. It already is dumping gold in order to purchase foreign grain.

The Soviet Union and its satellites are deeply in debt to Western banks. Poland, as everyone knows, would be in default on loans save for gentle treatment from the United States. The Western banks, of course, made a disastrous error in lending money to East Bloc countries in the first place. Many banks in Europe may fail if oil prices collapse and inflexible communist economies can't adjust to the changed conditions.

The Economist believes that there will be a great opportunity for the West if the OPEC cartel collapses because of a surge in supplies. It warns, however, that this is an opportunity that the West "is dangerously likely to throw away."

An intelligent response to drastically changed conditions in the global oil industry requires advance consideration of the situation. The American people need to understand that a big drop in oil prices is good news only if the West is prepared to deal with this situation and not revert to a state of unconcern about energy supplies.

For Americans, the basic need is to protect the domestic energy sources which have been developed since the first oil shock. The country must continue to seek energy independence. Never again can America afford to place enormous reliance on oil from unstable foreign countries.

Tough Judge Puts Informant In Danger

WASHINGTON — Michael Zepin is a federal prisoner with probably less than seven months left to serve on a conviction for bank fraud and car theft. But he's afraid he won't live to make it. He fears he has been marked for death because of testimony he gave that helped New York authorities convict a gang of murderers.

What makes Zepin bitter as well as scared is that the prosecutors promised to do what they could to protect him from retaliation by friends of the convicted murderers, or from fellow prisoners enforcing the underworld code of death to informers. Apparently, the prosecutors did try to help Zepin, but they could not prevail on a tough law-and-order federal judge.

Zepin wrote me for help, in the hope that publicity will reverse what he views as a doublecross. Here is his story, which has been confirmed by my associate Sam Fogel: In 1980, Zepin was temporarily lodged in the county jail at Waukesha, Wis., pending trial on federal charges. One of his cellmates confided that he had participated in the murder of four persons in Utica, N.Y.

To obtain Zepin's testimony, Oneida County prosecutor Richard Enders promised him, in writing: "I will not put you on the stand to testify unless some positive agreement is made before hand that you will not be returned to the federal prison system... I will do all in my power to have you placed in the witness protection program or such other disposition as will keep you out of federal incarceration and an environment where any fellow prisoner would have a chance to retaliate because of your testimony."

As it turned out, Zepin testified in good faith, but the authorities reneged. Oneida County Assistant District Attorney Edward W. Wolff Jr. wrote later that Zepin's testimony "played a valuable part in the conviction," and added: "It is my feeling that because of cooperation by Mr. Zepin, he has been placed in a great deal of jeopardy with regard to his presence in the general population of any prison..."

What Zepin hoped to get in return for his testimony was either probation or the protection of serving time under a new identity. What he got from U.S. District Judge Robert W. Warren of Milwaukee was four years at the federal prison in Englewood, Colo. The unsympathetic Warren, the last federal judge appointed by Richard Nixon, was Wisconsin attorney general during the anti-Vietnam campus protests, and gained a reputation as a strict law-and-order man.

Zepin's forebodings came true at Englewood. Twice he was assaulted by other inmates until he found refuge in "the hole" — confined away from the other prisoners.

Finally, by appealing directly to another federal judge, Zepin won a transfer to the harm morale.

The crux of the matter remains the institution of marriage, whether it be civilian or military. Every military wife has heard the cliché, "Marry the Man — marry the service."

In the past two years we've seen court rulings on alimony, palimony and other settlements of divorce that strongly clash with the institution of marriage itself.

I've always been under the assumption that the basis for marriage is trust, absolute trust.

The new move on the part of former military wives seeking post-divorce benefits is certain to shake up the Department of Defense.

If the move by former military wives proves successful, career military personnel may find themselves making a stop at the post or base Legal Affairs Office as well as a stop for a blood test and marriage license. It's not too far fetched to envision Uncle Sam wanting a pre-marital contract hammered out between wives and their military husbands before each respective branch of service allows career soldier or sailor to reenlist.

News Of Sandra O'Connor

When President Reagan nominated Sandra O'Connor for the Supreme Court last year, there was a "good deal of grumbling in conservative circles."

It turned out to be a political master-stroke that sailed through the confirmation process in the Senate, but conservatives weren't so sure.

Her record was sketchy, and what there was of it caused alarm among anti-abortion groups.

After Justice O'Connor's six months on the Court, however, The New Republic concludes after an examination of her record that "her vote has not always been predictable. But she has cast her lot often enough with law-school classmate William Rehnquist and with Chief Justice Burger to help forge a clear conservative majority on a number of crucial issues... Mrs. O'Connor's record so far suggests she will not alter the steady conservative momentum of the Court... And as the youngest member of the Supreme Court, Justice O'Connor may be with us until well into the 21st century."

The key cases in her six-month record were not of the headline variety, but they do indicate that Justice O'Connor takes a restricted view of activist interventions by the Supreme Court.

On January 12, for example, her vote helped provide a bare five-vote majority in a ruling that ordinary taxpayers could not sue in federal court to block the government from giving property to a religious group.

The case was Valley Forge Christian College versus Americans United for Separation of Church and State. It turned on the issue of "standing," that is, who is entitled to bring suit.

A restrictive view of "standing" implies a restrictive view of the activism of the courts, and that is where Justice O'Connor ended up, with the majority of five. In its way, this was a litmus case, for had she gone the other way activism would have been given an encouraging majority.

The case is also interesting in that Americans United for the Separation of Church and State actually lost. This organization has been a spearhead in the movement over the last 30 years to secularize all aspects of our public life. Its defeat here may mark a reversal of that trend.

In another case, Justice O'Connor sided with five other justices to uphold a 60-year sentence given a Virginia man for the possession of nine ounces of marijuana. The severity of the state sentence was not the issue here — though the sentence does seem wildly excessive.

The decision turned on the relationship of the federal courts to state courts and state legislatures. The Supreme Court chastised a lower federal court for daring to overturn the will of the legislature and the decision of a state court.

Again, the decision implies a less imperial role for the Supreme Court. As such, it strikes me as being a beautiful piece of constitutional reasoning, and a move in the direction of the restoration of the federal system.

When various conservative groups were mutinous over the O'Connor nomination, the White House panned the word that there was nothing to worry about.

Mr. Reagan, it seems, knew what he was doing.

Commercial Banks Are Healthy, But

By MARY TOBIN
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Some commercial banks may have trouble with profits, asset quality and excess leverage, although the industry as a whole remains sound in the face of dramatic change, a major rating service said.

Moody's Investors Service said the "effects" of 15 years of inflation on the banking sector and its customers, compounded by regulatory changes and the emergence of strong alternate intermediary markets have permanently altered the competitive environment of the banking industry.

While the firm said U.S. commercial banks "are among the best managed in the world... clear differences exist among the major banking institutions in the degree to which (the new) environment has affected their condition to date and how well they are positioned to meet the future."

Moody's used the report as a forum for downgrading slightly the senior debt rating of a number of large bank holding companies, leaving Morgan Guaranty Corp. the only one of the top ten to retain a triple-A rating.

Dropped to double-A were BankAmerica Corp., San Francisco; New York's Chase Manhattan Corp., Manufacturers Hanover Corp., and Chemical New York Corp.; Continental Illinois Corp., Chicago; First Bank System Inc. and Northwest Bancorp., both Minneapolis; National City Corp., Cleveland; and Mellon National Corp., Pittsburgh.

Moody's said it is giving "greater weight" to the fact that debt of bank holding companies is subordinate to that of the underlying banks. Moody's said in a regulated industry it "always regarded (this subordination) as a negative rating factor," but until now "we believed that... the banking industry's strengths offset this factor."

Banks are faced with competition as never before:

—Money market funds have grown enormously, primarily at the expense of deposits.

—Competition from foreign banks has intensified.

—Corporate and consumer liquidity patterns have changed, reducing levels of interest-free demand deposits.

—The ballooning commercial paper market has taken business away, especially that of top-rated non-financial companies that are a bank's traditional customers, leaving banks, many fear, with lower-grade corporate debt.

At the same time Moody's said asset quality has weakened. "Loan quality has declined steadily... The ratios of both net and gross charge-offs to loans in 1979 and 1980 were almost as high as they had ever been between the end of the Second World War and the severe recession of the mid-1970s."

Commercial bank leverage has been increasing steadily, the rating firm said. It expressed particular concern about "off balance sheet leverage" it said could signal increased risks bankers are taking to generate more income relative to assets.

Earl Of Baltimore Bows Out In Style

EARL WEAVER
...swan song

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

When somebody gets a facelift it takes you awhile to recognize them.

The same is true with baseball teams. The New York Yankees are trying to change their image. Instead of their powerful five o'clock lightning of years past, they're going for late-inning lightning on the basepaths to steal the game from the opposition.

Like all transitions, it will take time to take effect. That time will allow the Baltimore Orioles to wrest the East Division crown from the head of George Steinbrenner's exalted Yankees.

Baseball's best manager Earl Weaver says this will be his last year. A couple of years ago, a gentleman named John Wooden announced his retirement before an NCAA championship basketball game. UCLA promptly handed him a nice going away present.

Look for the Orioles to do the same for Weaver. Like UCLA, Baltimore has tradition on its side. In the last 25 years the Orioles have the best record in the major leagues.

"It's been a trademark of our team to perform better as the season progresses," says the fiery little skipper. "We usually play our best baseball down the stretch."

The Orioles are a perfect example that you don't need an all-star at every position to win a division. First baseman Eddie Murray (22, 78, 294) is a star. Right fielder-designated hitter Ken Singleton shines a flicker less. Left fielder Gary Roenicke is coming into his own. Rookie third baseman Cal Ripkin Jr. (23, 75, 288 at AAA) could win rookie of the year. Dan Ford (15, 44, 277) is an awesome acquisition.

These guys will drive in the runs.

The rest, second sacker Rich Dauer, shortstop Lenn Sakata, catcher Rick Dempsey and leadoff man Al Bumbry, are role players which set the table for the big guns.

While other managers hem and haw about their starting lineup, Weaver can tell you who is starting where and when any day of the year.

Pitching, usually a Baltimore trademark, fell off last year. Jim Palmer was 7-4 with a 2.75 earned run average. Mike Flanagan was 9-4 with a 4.19 ERA and Steve Stone was 4-7 with a 4.57 ERA. All had physical ailments which appear to be healed except for Stone.

The remarkable thing, though, is that Baltimore got front-line pitching efforts from their third and fourth starters, Dennis Martinez (14-4, 3.32) and Scott McGregor (13-8, 3.28) carried the club.

With four of the five healthy, the Birds are too tough to beat.

The Yankees will come close. Left-handers Tommy John, Ron Gaudry and Dave Righetti are outstanding. Right-handers Rick Reuschel and reacquired Doyle Alexander will help.

The bullpen is the best. Headed by Rich "Goose" Gosage, Shane Rawley and Ron Davis, any game which New York leads going into the seventh inning — it will win.

The outfield is set with Dave Winfield (13, 88, 284), Jerry Humphrey (307) and Ken Griffey (311 with the Reds). Where does that leave Oscar Gamble, Dave Collins, Lou Piniella and Bobby Brown?

Probably batting for the DH job or first base where the Yanks already have Bob Watson and Dave Revering. Catcher Rick Cerone was great in '60 and bombed last year.

Although the Yankees are changing design, manager Bob Lemon says the long ball will not become a lost art.

"That doesn't mean the Yankees are foregoing the long ball," insists Lemon. "Not by any means. We still have quite a number of players with quite a bit of sock."

One of those is third baseman Graig Nettles, who has been designated captain by Steinbrenner. Every time George wants something extra out of a player, he makes him captain.

Nettles, a fun-loving sort, isn't quite suited for the role. He has averaged 26 home runs a year, however, to become one of the players with sock.

Shortstop Bucky Dent and Willie Randolph at second base fill the double play combination. They are as good as anybody in the field, although at times their bats are lacking.

"I have said, 'this is my last year as manager,'" repeats Lemon. "I'm looking forward to it. It should be exciting for the fans because we have that kind of club."

If "Lem" doesn't win right away, look for it to be a short year for his excitement.

Third place falls to the Milwaukee Brewers. They can put the best nine players on the field, but they can't win. Pitching is the reason. Pete Vukovich (14-4, 3.56) is tough but, Moose Haas, Mike Caldwell and Randy Lerch aren't the answers.

Even with all-stars Cecil Cooper and Robin Yount along with new third baseman Paul Molitor, Gorman Thomas and Ben Oglivie, the Brewers are still a third place club.

"Last year we did a good job of executing...but we still feel some of our players didn't have the type of year we expected them to have," reports skipper Buck Rodgers. "Thus, if most of our people have a 'normal' year for us, we can win the A.L. East."

Two above and below normals for Milwaukee were Rollie Fingers and Ted Simmons. Fingers carried the club with his relieving right arm, while walking off with the Cy Young and MVP awards.

Simmons, meanwhile, a lifetime .300 hitter with St. Louis, batted .218, but did hit 14 home runs.

Look for Rodgers to lose his job about mid-season and Fingers to lose his arm shortly after.

There's no optimist like a spring optimist and no one's more optimist this time of the year than Sparky Anderson.

"There's no experience like the experience gained in a pennant race," chortled Sparky about his Detroit Tigers. "Our guys learned that first hand last year."

If Anderson wants to call last year's abortion a pennant race, that's his prerogative. The Tigers were 3 1/2 games behind the Yankees in season one, and 1 1/2 behind Milwaukee in season two.

Kirk Gibson is a budding superstar in center field, while Larry Herndon and Chet Lemon flank him. Catcher Lance Parrish is solid as is the double play combination of Lou Whitaker and shortstop Alan Trammell.

If the remaining spot up the middle — pitching — pans out, the Tigers could be for real. Jack Morris (14-7, 3.87) is one of the best. Retired Bill Wilson (13-0, 3.83) was good last year. But the rest depends on Dan Petry, Dave Rozema and Kevin Saucier.

Columbus hasn't won too many pennants.

Cleveland should have its best pitching staff since the early '50s, but probably won't have enough hitting to climb past fifth place.

"I'm really excited about this club," says manager Dave Garcia. "It's the best one the Cleveland Indians have put together since I've been with the organization."

Newcomers Larry Sorensen, Rick Sutcliffe, Ed Whitson and Silvio Martinez should be fine additions to Len Barker and Bert Blyleven, but the Tribe employs Jerry Dykinski at shortstop and ex-Dodger Jack Perconte at second base. Ron Hassey takes Bo Diaz's place behind the plate.

A week middle will keep the Indians on the reservation.

"I have gone over $,800 lineup," reveals Boston Red Sox boss Ralph Houk. "But all I can tell you is that Jerry Remy will be at second base and lead off and Jim Rice likes to hit third, he'll probably be there."

So much for being a Weaver prototype. Houk still has last year's leading hitter, Carney Lansford, at third and right fielder Dwight Evans (22, 71, 286), who should have beaten out Fingers for the MVP.

Oldtimers Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Perez will contribute, but too much of the importance relies on guys like Glenn Hoffman at shortstop and Dave Stapleton who is moving to first base.

Dennis Eckersley and Mike Torrez lead the starters, while Mark Clear is the bulwark in the bullpen.

"I want to set up the club so we'll have a strong bench," says Houk. "Everyone knows about the stars, but you have to have the extra men to fill in and win those big games for you."

Don't hold your breath, Ralph.

Toronto has a team this year. It's debatable if it had one last year. When the players were serious — the first half of last year — the Blue Jays managed to fall 19 games off the pace with a 16-62 record.

Post-strike, they went on a tear by winning 21-of-48 games to finish only 7 1/2 games off the pace. Oh, it was still last, but the kind of last that you tell people, "we were just 7 1/2 back."

Toronto can get out of its binooculars this year too. "Expansion teams require patience," points out manager Bobby Cox, who learned that with the Atlanta Braves before taking over for the Blue Jays.

He'll have to be very patient with these guys. John Mayberry (17 homers, 61 RBI) is a Toronto strong point offensively. Harlan Davis leads heads the pitching staff which returns all four starters. That's one step in the right direction for an expansion team.

The outfield isn't too bad with Lloyd Moseby, Barry Bonnell and ex-Twin Hoskie Powell. Otto Velez is a decent designated hitter.

"We want to win as soon as possible," maintains Cox. "Again, it won't happen in one year, but you'd be amazed how fast things can get turned around..."

And, Bobby, you'd be amazed how fast things don't turn around.

Weather Chills Openers

United Press International
It's time to "Play ball!" — maybe

Except for predictions of some very un-springlike weather, the major-league baseball season was all set to open today at 2 p.m. EST in Cincinnati and Baltimore, with both cities expecting capacity or near-capacity crowds to brave the conditions.

The National Weather Service set an 80 percent chance of rain or snow in Cincinnati and high temperatures only around 60. A 60 percent chance of rain or wet snow was forecast for late in the day in the Baltimore area.

The Reds opened the National League season against the Chicago Cubs, with the ceremonial first pitch thrown out jointly by astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly, who piloted the second flight of Columbia last November. A sellout crowd of 32,382 was expected at Riverfront Stadium for the game.

Mario Soto started for the Reds, opposed by Doug Bird of the Cubs.

The Orioles, beginning what is expected to be their last season under manager Earl Weaver, started the American League's year as hosts to the Kansas City Royals. Dennis Martinez drew the starting assignment for Baltimore against Dennis Leonard of Kansas City.

The wintry weather conditions were symbolic of the memories many baseball fans have of the strike-broken 1961 season, which the players will try to erase beginning in the opening games today and Tuesday.

In Tuesday's NL opener, it will be Montreal at Pittsburgh and San Francisco at World Series champion Los Angeles in day games, and the New York Mets at Philadelphia, St. Louis at Houston and Atlanta at San Diego at night.

No Break For County Baseball Teams

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Spring Break may have bloomed, but Seminole County's Five Star baseball teams aren't taking any break from the diamond activities.

Manager Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles play today at 2 in the 1962 Colonial Classic Baseball Tournament in Orlando.

The 'Noles, 9-13 and 6-7, battle Winter Park, a team which has beaten them twice earlier this season. Lundquist will send sophomore left-hander William Wynn against the Parkers.

"William's going to be a great player before he's through at Seminole," predicted Lundquist. "And not just as a pitcher either. He's got tremendous quick wrists. He's just gotta get more batting practice in because he started late."

In other action Monday at the Colonial tournament, Apopka played Boone at 9 a.m., West Orange meets Lakeland at 11:30 a.m., Edgewater and Bishop Moore battle at 4:30 p.m. and the Boone-Apopka winners go against Miami Jackson at 7 p.m.

Action continues at Colonial High Tuesday with the West-Orange-Lakeland winner meeting Pensacola Gonzalez Tate at 9 a.m. and the Seminole-Parker victory taking on Colonial at 11:30 a.m.

The tournament, won last year by Colonial, is a double-elimination event.

Prep Baseball

Elsewhere, manager Bob McCullough's Lyman Greyhounds travel to Daytona Beach today for a one o'clock game with Seabreeze. On Wednesday Lyman plays a make-up game with Lake Howell beginning at noon at Howell. On Tuesday the Greyhounds play Thomas Jefferson High School at Sanford Memorial Stadium beginning at 3 p.m.

Lyman has slim hopes of catching Five Star Conference leader Apopka. The 'Hounds are 4-4, while the Blue Darters are 13-3. One Lyman loss or one Apopka win in the final two games will give the Darters the Five Star.

Lake Brandley, 9-11-1 and 7-5-1, travels to Trinity Prep on Thursday and goes to Oviedo on Saturday. The Prep game is at 2 p.m., while the Oviedo clash is at 1 p.m.

Bishop Moore dropped the Patriots, 6-4, on Saturday for their third straight loss. Billy Powers was the big stick for Brandley driving in three runs with two doubles.

Lake Howell, 9-11 and 4-4, played Mainland Monday morning at 10:30. The Hawks host Lyman Wednesday before taking on Oak Ridge Friday.

In county batting statistics, Lyman's Todd Marriott had a super 4-for-4 week at the plate to take over the county batting lead with a .482 average.

The Greyhound junior also leads in runs batted in with 18. Another 'Hound, Kenny Brown, has stolen 18 bases in 18 tries for the lead in that department. Lake Howell's David Martinez leads in runs with 21, while Lyman's John Reich, along with Silver Hawks Tony Dimarzio and Jim Royal have three home runs.

Pitching-wise, Pat Burkhardt led in earned run average with 1.85 runs per seven innings.

Brandley's Tommy Novak leads in strike outs with 61 in 48 innings and Lyman's Kevin Brubaker has picked up six wins.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Defends Budget; Rides Hard On Young GOPs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan will likely defend his budget proposals as necessary ingredients for economic recovery right up to his departure this week on a working Caribbean vacation. Reagan scheduled a meeting with freshman Republican congressmen today in a bid to hold their loyalty. Many are concerned about reelection in light of the upswing in unemployment that has followed the Reagan economic plan.

Fire Destroys Music Center

VIENNA, Va. (UPI) — A brushfire whipped by 30-mph winds has destroyed the amphitheater at the Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts, a stage for musicians Leonard Bernstein, Count Basie and Judy Collins.

The Filene Center of the 117-acre park still smoldered early today after the four-alarm, three-hour fire — one of 80 brush or forest fires reported in Virginia Sunday.

Actor Oates Dead At 52

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Warren Oates, who started out as "third bad guy on a horse," then played a scurry collection of villains and voyeurs in dozens of movies, had died of an apparent heart attack. He was 52. Oates' death was confirmed Sunday. He was found unconscious Saturday by his wife, Judy, shortly after lying down to take a nap. She told paramedics who tried to revive him that her husband had complained recently of chest pains and shortness of breath.

Mount St. Helens Rumbles

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Mount St. Helens shuddered and throbbed today in a mild-but-lengthy eruption that sent a series of steam and ash plumes up to 4 miles above the volcano's scarred summit. The restless mountain jarred itself awake with a sudden series of earthquakes Sunday night, leaving scientists little more than an hour's warning that an eruption was in the way. The volcano shot a steam plume, apparently containing only a small amount of ash, up to an elevation of about 28,000 feet around 9 p.m. PST. Smaller bursts continued today.

Escapee Kills Himself

RATON, N.M. (UPI) — An escaped Colorado mental patient on a three-week rampage of rape, robbery and kidnapping shot himself in the head and died Sunday rather than be captured at a police roadblock. State police said David Lee Benna, 27, shot himself with a .45 caliber revolver when the car in which he was riding with four hostages skidded to a halt at a roadblock 7 1/2 miles south of Raton on Interstate 25.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Spring storms raged on with no sign of weakening today, devastating the East with fire, ice and 148-mph winds and leaving parts of the Midlands a tornado-ravaged wasteland. At least 80 people were killed and hundreds more injured in the latest onslaught. Dry conditions and sweeping winds fed about 300 brush fires Sunday in North Carolina and Virginia, burning at least 18 homes in the two states. Officials said it appeared the Wolf Trap performing arts center in suburban Washington, D.C., was also a casualty of the fires. Snow and ice strafed Great Lakes states and New England, and warnings of an extreme avalanche danger were posted in the mountains of northern California and Idaho, where up to 30 feet of snow have fallen in the last few days. Blowing snow made mountain highways invisible. Arkansas and Texas were the hardest hit by more than 70 weekend tornadoes, reporting 13 and 10 deaths respectively. California reported six deaths with two people missing and presumed dead, Michigan five, Colorado and Wisconsin four, Mississippi three.

Marijuana Worth $25,000

Forest City Man Charged In Pot Deal

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Forest City man is free from the Seminole County jail today after posting $10,000 bond following his arrest on charges of possessing more than 100 pounds of marijuana.

Mark Anthony Williams, 22, of 2819 Autumnwood Trail, was arrested at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday following an undercover drug investigation by Seminole County Sheriff's Department drug agents.

Williams, a self-employed window-tinter, was charged with possession with intent to distribute and trafficking in marijuana, deputies said. He was arrested by county narcotics agents on Red Bug Road near Casselberry.

According to sheriff's spokesman John Spolaki, the confiscated marijuana was a street value of about $25,000.

"Our investigation which led to Williams' arrest took about a week but we are continuing the investigation," Spolaki said. "There may be others involved."

THEIR DAY IN COURT

A 25-year-old Nashville, Tenn. woman faces 15 years in state prison after being convicted in Circuit Court, Sanford, in the Dec. 4 holdup of the Dollar Prescription store, Fern Park. Faye Lincoln was ordered held in the county jail pending completion of a background investigation and sentencing June 7.

Mrs. Lincoln was arrested after a car chase in which sheriff's deputies fired at the fleeing vehicle. She testified at her trial that her confessed heroin addict husband forced her to drive the getaway car.

Mrs. Lincoln's husband, Joseph Lincoln, has pleaded guilty to robbing the pharmacy of prescription drugs and is awaiting sentencing.

Earlier last week, a circuit court jury convicted a 27-year-old Longwood man of three criminal charges including chewing a hole in the back seat of a police patrol car on Christmas Eve.

Charles K. Welborn was convicted of obstructing Longwood police with violence, criminal mischief, and driving under the influence. He was arrested during a traffic investigation on County Road 427. After being arrested, Welborn reportedly kicked out the side window of the police car and bit holes in the seat. Damage was estimated at about $1,000.

In other court action, several persons were sentenced on charges for which they had been convicted or pleaded guilty. They are:

— David Lee Rose, 29, Lockhart, depositing with intent to defraud and obtaining property with a worthless check, 30 months in prison.

— Carolyn E. Wilson, 25, Winter Park, grand theft, 18 months in prison. Ms. Wilson was charged with stealing $7,000 worth of sterling silver from an Altamonte Springs home.

— Ronald L. Wells, 24, Altamonte Springs, battery of a law enforcement officer, one year in the county jail and five years probation. Wells was accused of striking deputy sheriff Bruce Bowden on Oct. 18. At the time of the incident, Wells was serving a one-year probationary term in a separate case involving battery of a police officer.

— Mark D. Benson, 30, Altamonte Springs, grand theft, six months in jail and five years probation. Benson was accused of stealing a German luger pistol from a vehicle in August.

— Edward R. Rauch, 22, Orlando, obtaining merchandise from the Merry-Go-Round store, Altamonte Springs, with a worthless $213 check, five years probation.

— Melvin J. Miles, 22, Sanford, burglary and grand theft, 10 years probation. Miles was accused of breaking into Seminole Sporting Goods, Sanford Avenue, on Oct. 18 and stealing several guns and air rifles valued at $668.

— John R. Gates, 20, Altamonte Springs, possession of Quaaludes, five years probation.

— Donald W. Whaley, 28, Apopka, petty theft, four weeks in the county jail and six months probation. Whaley was accused of stealing wire mesh from a Lake Mary construction site.

— Geneva L. Mitchell, 27, of 2714 W. 23rd St., Sanford, welfare fraud, five years probation. Mrs. Mitchell was accused of receiving $6,543 in public assistance between Sept. 23, 1978 and July 31, 1980 by failing to report the fact that she was working and falsely alleging that her husband had abandoned her.

SHATTERING EXPERIENCE

Vandals caused about $800 damage to the Lake Mary High School sometime between 8 p.m. Saturday and 10:30 a.m. Sunday when they broke out the glass windows and door panes of the school's main office.

Deputies said the vandalism at the school located along Longwood-Lake Mary Road between Longwood and Lake Mary was discovered by the school's custodian.

Ford Says Reagan 'Wrong' On Poland

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford says President Reagan should have responded more harshly to the crackdown in Poland so as to put economic pressure on that nation and the Soviet Union.

Ford said he would have declared Poland's debts in default rather than, as Reagan did, have the U.S. government pay the interest Poland owed to Western banks.

"Well, honestly, should we worry about the bankers, or be concerned about what happens to 35 million Poles?" Ford asked rhetorically in an interview published Sunday in Parade magazine.

"I am disappointed with the lack of hard-hitting, prompt action by the Reagan administration in doing something about martial law in Poland," Ford said.

"In my judgment, the Reagan administration should have declared the Polish debts in default and promptly taken remedial action. They did just the opposite. I think it was the wrong thing to do."

Ford said Poland owes about $77 billion, not only to Western banks, but to governments.

He said Reagan paid $71 million to keep Poland from going into default "and got nothing for it from (Gen. Wojciech) Jaruzelski. Nothing. That is a mistake. They should have gotten something in return, some relief for the Polish people."

Said Ford, "If Mr. Reagan had acted more promptly and more harshly, it would have forced the Soviet Union to assume the economic burdens that will follow from the collapse of the Polish economy."

Jobless Rate Expected To Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Labor Department statistician said today that unemployment, already at a post-war high, is expected to continue upward for two or three months even after economic recovery begins.

Janet Norwood, director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said in an interview on ABC's "Good Morning America" the unemployment rate tends to lag behind other statistics when the economy moves out of a recession.

"And if this recession behaves as others, one would expect that for two or three months after a recovery is taking place ... the unemployment rate would continue upward," said Mrs. Norwood.

The unemployment rate for March was 9 percent, tying the post-World War II high first established in May 1975 during the 1974-75 recession. The Labor Department said 8.9 million Americans were out of work last month and another 1.3 million were too "discouraged" to look for jobs and not included in the jobless figure.

Mrs. Norwood said the current recession "has shown a much sharper focus" than most and "the durable manufacturing industries in particular, the steel industry, the automobile industry, machinery have been very hard hit."

The services industries, where workers provide services rather than build goods, "have pretty much held their own," Mrs. Norwood said, "and we should remember that about 75 percent or so of the people in this country work in the service industries."

"The unemployment rate for blacks is exceedingly high and it has been high for many months," Mrs. Norwood said. "It reached 18 percent in the month of March and that's partly because, I think, the black population of this country did not benefit as much as the white population during the recovery in 1981."

Mrs. Norwood said some problem areas such as the steel and auto industries, textiles and apparel, had troubles before the recession and recovery will not necessarily end their problems. "They're not recent and they're not caused by this recession. They have deteriorated during this recession."

Castro To U.S.: 'Negotiate Or Intervene'

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban President Fidel Castro says the United States is going to have to either negotiate the problems of El Salvador and the Caribbean Basin or go ahead and intervene.

"The U.S. has to decide between intervention or accept negotiations in El Salvador," Castro said Sunday in a speech broadcast by Havana radio and monitored in Miami.

"It must follow one position or the other. It must accept the realities in the area or march against the realities," he said.

Castro told the fourth Congress of Young Communists' Union of Cuba for a recent buildup of arms in Cuba was for the defense of the nation against the threats of U.S. military action against his country. He denied the arms were being exported to other countries including Nicaragua and El Salvador, as charged by the Reagan administration.

"It was the threat of a blockade and military actions that made us build up arms in Cuba. This is the only reason," he said.

He said he supports a negotiated settlement to problems of El Salvador and the Caribbean basin as called for Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

In a speech in Managua, Nicaragua, in late February, Lopez Portillo proposed a peace plan for Central America in which Nicaragua would sign a series of non-aggression pacts with its neighbors. In exchange, the United States would work to normalize relations with Nicaragua.

After discussions between Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Mexican Foreign Minister Jorge Cantaneda last month, the Mexican government also

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. officials reportedly knew Japanese germ warfare researchers experimented on American prisoners during World War II but never tried them for war crimes for fear the Soviets would copy their "bacteria bomb."

The Japanese experiments began in Manchuria during the invasion of China in the 1930s and continued during World War II, using captured Americans as guinea pigs, infecting them with pathogens and systematically killing them to study the effects, Morley Safer reported Sunday in a CBS "60 Minutes" interview with John Powell, a former editor of China Weekly Review.

Safer said U.S. officials learned of the Japanese experiments after the war and found plans for producing bacteria bombs but decided against making the information public because they feared the Soviet Union would use the Japanese data to develop germ weapons.

Safer said the Japanese viewed the Chinese as racially inferior and planned to take over the country by using the most efficient method possible — germ warfare. The officer in charge of the project was Gen. Shiro Ishii, whose top secret 731-Corps operated under the guise of a water purification unit. "Sometimes they were unbelievably scientific," Powell said. "On day 3 they would select one man out and kill him and autopsy him to the extent to which the disease had affected his various internal organs. Then a few days later they would kill another man," Powell said.

"In one experiment with hemorrhagic fever, they killed everybody," he said.

A documentary supplied to "60 Minutes" by the Japanese Broadcasting System revealed that the 731-Corps was one of the biggest germ factories in the world, experimenting with plague, cholera and typhoid germs.

One former officer told the Japanese Broadcasting System that prisoners were tied to piles behind protective barriers and certain parts of their bodies were exposed. Germ bombs were then exploded and severe shrapnel wounds were allowed to become gangrenous.

The documentary said typhoid germs were injected into tomatoes and those who ate the tomatoes developed typhoid fever. In other cases, prisoners were exposed to cholera fleas. Days later, the prisoners' bodies were dissected and studied.

According to Safer, at the end of the war the prisoners were killed and their bodies incinerated. The death factories then were blown up.

Neither Ishii nor any members of his corps of human experimenters were brought to trial as war criminals. Instead Ishii was taken to the American chemical warfare center at Fort Detrick, Md., and interrogated. Afterward, he was granted his freedom.

Powell was born in China but was called back to the United States to testify before the Senate after he published charges that the United States was using germ warfare in Korea. He and his wife, Sylvia, later were indicted for sedition and treason, but the charges were dropped in 1961.

The U.S. Army declined comment on the Japanese documents and officials at the State Department and the Department of Defense denied knowledge of germ warfare on the part of Japan.

IN BRIEF Senate Leader Gordon Suffers Heart Attack

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — State Senate Appropriations Chairman Jack Gordon was reported in serious condition at Mt. Sinai hospital after suffering a heart attack Sunday.

Gordon has been directing the efforts of a House-Senate committee trying to reach an agreement on a penny sales-tax increase plan and a $10 billion state budget.

Cubans Hijack Jetliner

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban father and his two sons hijacked a Chicago-to-Miami Delta Jetliner to Havana early today by splashing gasoline on the stewardess and the floor of the plane and threatening to ignite it.

Several of the 96 passengers said one of the younger men smoked a cigarette despite the heavy smell of gasoline fumes in the Boeing 707, which also carried a crew of seven.

Dying Man Losing Hope

MIAMI (UPI) — Friends of former Dade County freeman Dale Lott say he is losing hope for implantation of a mechanical heart he thinks might save his life, but they insist the battle isn't over yet.

"He is dying. He has lost hope," said Bernard Young, one of the Navy veteran's lawyers. "He is coughing. He is not eating. He feels abandoned."

But Young and fellow lawyer Ellis Rubin say there is still a chance that rules prohibiting giving the new Jarvik-7 mechanical heart to Lott can be changed.

Britain And Argentina Battle Over Falklands

Buenos Aires, Argentina (UPI) — Argentine troops captured the last six British Royal Marines holding out on the Falkland Islands but faced hostility from the remaining 1,800 English-speaking residents, news reports said today.

In London, British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington and two deputies resigned following harsh criticism in Parliament for allowing Argentina to capture the South Atlantic island chain.

Another War In Zimbabwe?

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (UPI) — Former guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo has told 60,000 supporters in his first major address since being ousted from the coalition government that Zimbabwe again was on brink of civil war.

Nkomo, leader of the minority Patriotic Front, blamed the potential for renewed hostilities on Prime Minister Robert Mugabe.

...Rebellious Teens And Their Troubles

daughter," she continues. "Debbie is not doing well in school. She takes drugs and has even been caught smoking pot on the school grounds. She is a chronic liar and has continually told her parents she was a certain place while turning around and going to her boyfriend's for the night."

"Well, after these lies had been going on for about three years, Debbie's father caught her in the middle of one," Mrs. Hair says. "She told him she spent the night with a girlfriend, and he found out she actually spent the night with her boyfriend. The result was that he got upset and hit her in the mouth."

And what about the children who physically abuse their parents?

"John is 15 years old and physically bigger and stronger than his mother," Mrs. Hair says. "He comes and goes when and where he pleases, and if she attempts to stop him, well, you know what's going to happen — he shoves and knocks her down."

"So what happens?" Mrs. Hair says. "The mother looks to the state to control John. We gave her options, but she refused them. She just wants us to take care of it."

"The most burnt-out people in the whole judicial system are judges and workers in juvenile cases," Judge Salfti says. "It's tough to cope with the constant knowledge that the chances are slim in these cases of bringing about any change. I'm not saying change can't happen, but it takes the total, caring interest of everyone involved to do it, and that just isn't the case."

"These kids need rules and they need tough parents to enforce the rules," he says. "They need parents who will direct and ask them, are you taking drugs, what drugs, how often, where are you getting them, why do you take them? Parents need to be direct and press their children for answers. I've been on the bench 11 years and I'm just finding this out."

"What I try to do is make these kids and their parents sit down and write down the rules of the house," Salfti continues. "These rules will be agreed on by both the parents and the child, and they are literally entering into a contract with each other, hoping to maintain some type of discipline and order in the family."

Salfti says that if the family continues to have problems, the child is removed from that environment and placed in a detention center, home or other institution.

He adds that a study currently is under way to determine how many dependency cases and "ungovernable" cases are heard in Seminole County each year. He says he hopes to determine the success rate of measures he takes to rectify stress-filled situations in the home.

"There are a lot of cases," he says. "How many I just can't even begin to say, but they do appear to be on the increase."

Salfti says he has initiated a Parent-To-Parent program to help parents confronted with an out-of-control teen-ager to deal with the situation. He also says there are programs, such as the national Toughlove program, the Straight drug rehabilitation program and other awareness programs that attempt to deal with the problem.

"Toughlove is a program where parents can learn to alleviate themselves of the guilt they feel when they finally have to tell their child to get out," he says. "They learn to get tough, to set rules and demand that those rules be adhered to or the child must leave."

According to Rusty Brown, whose syndicated column appears regularly in the Evening Herald, Toughlove is "a banding together of distraught, concerned parents. It is for those ready to bite the bullet and say: My kid's behavior is tearing apart this family, and I'm not going to take it any more."

Ms. Brown attended a newly formed Toughlove group meeting recently and said she heard tale after tale of children who lived by their own codes with little regard for home rule.

"Each parent was in a crisis," she wrote. "The Toughlove format helps them deal with it on a week-to-week basis. Each must decide where to draw the line and set up one rule, one demand, to be enforced for the next seven days."

After dealing with these parents, who Salfti says are "at wit's end," he agrees with Ms. Brown when she wrote, "Nobody said loving is easy. Sometimes it's tough."

In Part III tomorrow of the Evening Herald's series on Toughlove, staff writer Joe DeSantis takes a look at the parents of these "tough" children, their view of the problem, their frustrations, and what solutions they are finding to regain control of their lives and the lives of their offspring.

Truman Daydreamed About Bombing Stalin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Blunt-talking Harry Truman often daydreamed about what he would really like to do, such as nailing labor leaders, adjourning Congress and bombing Stalin.

President Truman jotted down these and other thoughts while mulling over the problems of his day. For years, these scraps of paper and ideas remained secrets.

Now, however, they have been combined in a new book by historian Monte Poen, "Strictly Personal and Confidential" (Little, Brown & Co.). It includes more than 100 memos and letters that Truman wrote, but never sent or acted on.

In June 1946 — while tormented by labor unrest, resistance in Congress and signs that the Soviets were backing out of the wartime agreements — Truman wrote the following memo: "Declare an emergency —

'Get plenty of atomic bombs on hand — drop one on Stalin, put the United Nations to work and eventually set up a free world.'

— Harry Truman

(labor) leader interferes, courtmartial him. (John L.) Lewis (of the Coal Miners) ought to have been shot in 1942, but Franklin (D. Roosevelt) didn't have the guts to do it. Adjoin Congress and run the country. These and other memos, notes, letters and drafts were found by Poen in the Truman Library. He says they were ordered not to be opened during Truman's lifetime.

And, he says, many letters were held back when Truman saw the typed version, after having dictated it in anger "with his Missouri up."

Truman saved the unmailed letters, Poen says, "because he insisted that the only good history was history based on all the facts."

As Truman wrote to another supported his secretary of state, James Byrnes.

But in letters that could have been unmailed first-drafts of messages that were later delivered, Truman dresses down Byrnes in sharp terms for failing to keep Truman informed on negotiations with the Soviets.

Truman's unmailed letter also sharply criticizes Byrnes for not taking a hard enough line with Moscow and says, "I'm tired babying the Soviets."

Another memo shows that Truman smoldered with anger over Byrnes' concealed presidential ambitions.

Brezhnev Out Of Action For At Least A Month

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Leonid Brezhnev is under treatment for a possible stroke and is not expected to appear in public for the remainder of this month, Soviet sources said today.

Reports on the severity of the 75-year-old Kremlin leader's ailment differed, but three sources said Brezhnev would be unable to carry out his official duties for several weeks.

Brezhnev's illness has been tentatively diagnosed either as a stroke — a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain — or a prestroke "spasm," one source said.

The precise nature of Brezhnev's symptoms was not known, but his doctors reportedly said he was being treated for "a possible mild stroke."

The Kremlin leader, who has not been seen in public since March 25, apparently was taken to a hospital on one or more occasions last week for tests. His whereabouts were not certain Monday, but a second source contacted by UPI said the president was at one of his homes in the capital.

Newsweek magazine reported this week that Brezhnev would be replaced as Communist Party leader next month, even if he survives his present illness. Soviet sources in Moscow specifically denied any knowledge of such plans.

Another memo shows that Truman smoldered with anger over Byrnes' concealed presidential ambitions.

A spokesman for the Foreign Ministry Monday declined to discuss Brezhnev's physical condition.

"As has been our policy, we do not discuss rumors," he said.

Brezhnev looked extremely tired during his last public appearance in Tashkent March 25, where he delivered a speech on foreign policy, toured factories and handed out awards.

Vitamins A And D Can Be Harmful

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you were discussing the fat soluble vitamins and you said we really worry about vitamins A and D. I take a vitamin capsule a day that contains 5,000 U.S.P. units of A and 400 U.S.P. units of D. I was told it was good for arthritis. I would like to know what side effects these two vitamins have on people. What parts of the body are affected?

DEAR READER — The amount you are taking, if that is all you are taking, is not likely to cause you any harm at all. The vitamin preparation you are taking meets the recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA). In addition you are getting vitamin A from some of the foods you are consuming so your daily intake should be well above the RDA.

The National Academy of Sciences (the body that determines the RDA for vitamins and other nutrients) recommends that adults avoid taking more than 25,000 IU or more on a daily basis to avoid vitamin A toxicity. Your intake of vitamin D is also within the accepted range. It should not be more than three to four times the RDA of 400 units.

Vitamin A toxicity can cause your hair to fall out, your eyebrows to fall out, unsightly skin changes, fatigue and even serious liver damage. In children it can cause an increase in pressure within the brain that mimics a brain tumor. Children should not take more than 10,000 IU a day on a chronic basis.

Vitamin A is extremely important to your health, but it will not cure arthritis. Neither will vitamin D. That is a hoax. Vitamin D is useful if an increase in calcium absorption is desired as to help prevent or treat osteoporosis (which is dissolving bones, not arthritis).

There is even good information to show that an adequate intake of vitamin A is important in preventing some forms of cancer. And there are big changes in how I checked an outlet store recently and found not one sock with the word cotton on the label. This was all new stock. Just thought you might like to know.

DEAR READER — No, I don't really like to know. It is a polyester world. But if you search there are still some 100 percent cotton socks. I checked Sears catalog and they have 100 percent cotton thermal socks. I recommend cotton and wool because they absorb moisture. Many synthetic fibers trap moisture that causes body odors. That includes synthetic underwear that doesn't breathe.

For Wednesday, April 7, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 7, 1982. Normally you like to operate independently, but this coming year you may seek for a partnership with one who is equally capable. You'll make a good team.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Hard feelings will result if you make promises to another today and then try to back out of them at the last minute. Stand by your word even if it hurts. Predictions of what to expect in each of the seasons following your birthday are in your Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to include birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Co-workers could cause you problems today if they are not handled diplomatically. Strive to work in harmony with others, not against them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). Doing your own thing is admirable, provided it doesn't hurt or inconvenience others. Don't cause complications with pals today by being too independent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22). Be supportive of family members and relatives today. Above all, don't compare them to outsiders if the comparison would put them in an unfavorable light.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). There's a chance today you could be so intent upon making your points that you'll fail to see any merit in the ideas or views of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Usually you're pretty sharp at recognizing bargains, but if you're not careful you may make a bum deal today. Don't believe everything the salesperson says.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Think for yourself today, especially where important decisions are concerned. Don't let others decide for you in areas where you are more knowledgeable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22). Think your moves through carefully today where work is concerned, or you might make your tasks far tougher than they should be. Plan ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21). Do nothing today that is not in line with your highest standards, even though your peers may encourage you to do otherwise. Know when to say "no."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Let your accomplishments speak for themselves today, rather than tout your own horn. Others will be well aware of your achievements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19). If you challenge the position of another today, be sure you have all the facts to back up your case. Don't use hearsay information.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20). Be prepared to stand up for your rights today if you feel you have something coming to you that is being withheld. A squeaking wheel gets the oil.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, West, and East cards and scores.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is another example of good and bad luck in match points. North and South were good players who had never played together before.

We don't really approve of South's bidding. His jump to two spades was a very slight overbid. He thought that his jump to four spades at his second turn to act would warn North that his first bid left something to be desired.

North was one of those players who knew exactly what those two jumps should show, just about what South actually held except that his spade suit should be headed by A-K-Q-J.

So North Blackwooded his way to the spade slam.

West opened his ace of clubs and continued the suit. South had his first anxious moment. Would that club get ruffed? It didn't and South was in dummy.

He led dummy's singleton spade, finessed his jack and prayed. His prayers were answered. Not only did West have to follow low, but the queen was going to drop. South brought home the slam for 11 and one-half match points out of 12. Only one other pair had reached that poor contract.

Note how really lucky South had been. Had East held the king of hearts a heart lead would have beaten the contract and East-West would have scored 11 and one-half match points instead of just one-half.

Election Dates May Be Switched

Sanford Commission, Panel To Eye Charter Changes

The Sanford City Commission and its Charter Study Revision Committee, at a 4 p.m. meeting today, will discuss recommendations for city charter changes.

The meeting will be held at the City Commission meeting room at City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

If the commission approves the proposed changes, it can adopt an ordinance setting those changes and place the issues on the ballot at either a special or regular city election.

The major emphasis today will be on the rationale used by the study committee to come up with its proposals.

The most controversial of the recommended changes would require city commissioners to live within designated geographic areas.

The proposal was suggested as a compromise among the nine-member committee. Black community representatives earlier asked that the commission be expanded from its current five members to seven. The two new members, according to the black leaders, would be elected by the voters within certain geographic areas, which could assure the election of a minority member to the commission.

The revision committee's proposal calls for the city to be divided into four geographic areas as nearly equal in population as possible. A commissioner would have to live in each area, but would be elected at large. The mayor would be permitted to live in any of the districts and would also be elected at large.

Currently, all commissioners are elected at large, but may live anywhere in the city.

Other changes proposed include:

—Changing the name of the governing body from a city commission to a city council. The committee considered the name "city council" more in keeping with the duties of the elected officials and more consistent with the times.

—Changing election times from the first Tuesday after the first Monday in December to the first Tuesday after the second Monday in September.

The committee said a September election is recommended because the committee does not want the city election to be overshadowed by state and national elections.

However, in even-numbered years the first primary election for county, state and federal officials is held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September.

So if the election times are changed for Sanford city elections, city voters could be faced in even-numbered year with going to the polls the day after Labor Day to vote in the first primary, again the next week to vote in the city election, back two weeks later for the city runoff election, and to the polls again the following week for the second statewide primary election. Sanford voters thus would be voting four times in five weeks.

—Extending Mayor Lee P. Moore's term in office from four to six years, during this term only. His term was to have expired in 1984. The purpose of extending the term is to eliminate the possibility of three members—the majority—of the commission being elected in any one year.

—Placing the uniformed services—the police and fire departments—under the direction of the city manager. Currently both departments are under the direct control of the City Commission. —DONNA ESTES

Bradshaw Decision: Today's The Day

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

The fate of suspended Winter Springs building official Ray Bradshaw will be decided today when the controversial 10-year city employee meets with City Manager Richard Rozansky at 4 p.m.

Bradshaw was suspended with pay March 24 for failing to comply with regulations governing the behavior of city employees. His suspension is the latest development in a stormy 10-year tenure with the city.

Rozansky has said that Bradshaw has failed to cooperate with other city employees, follow written directives or meet coordination requirements with other city departments, and has exhibited behavior contradictory to city policy.

On Friday, Rozansky sent a letter to Bradshaw instructing him to be present for today's meeting.

Rozansky said, "I'd rather not speculate on the outcome of our meeting. Mr. Bradshaw's future with Winter Springs will be decided at our meeting." Rozansky and Bradshaw met briefly Thursday to discuss Rozansky's charges. A decision was expected at that time, but Rozansky was still awaiting a reply from Bradshaw's lawyer on Friday.

During his 10 years with the city, Bradshaw has had several run-ins with both city officials and residents.

He was investigated in 1975 on charges that he improperly issued building permits for a church. Those allegations were later dismissed.

Also in 1975, former Winter Springs Councilwoman Irene Van Espeol asserted Bradshaw was improperly running his department, that he failed to return her phone calls and that he hung up on her when she tried to call him at home.

Bradshaw also ran into troubles that same year when a gag rule was imposed on him following his public denunciation of city policy.

Rozansky's disciplinary options concerning Bradshaw's suspension include suspending him without pay, giving him an official written reprimand, or firing him from his $19,405-a-year job.

At Longwood's Fairy Lake

Canal Drainage Held Adequate

Following a walking tour late last week, Seminole County officials informed concerned Longwood city officials that drainage capacity at the Fairy Lake drainage canal is adequate if local developers don't add more water to it.

The county maintains the canal, which runs from County Road 427 north of Tullis Avenue to Fairy Lake in Columbus Harbor. County Engineer Bill Bush, County Commissioner Sandra Glenn and officials from both Longwood and the county inspected the drainage canal at the request of Longwood Mayor June Lormann.

Longwood residents have expressed concern about the drainage capacity of the ditch in the event of a major storm and the effect the proposed 184-acre Park

Industrial Center, west of CR 427 and south of State Road 434, would have on the capacity of existing drainage facilities.

"We explained to Mayor Lormann that the main obligation and responsibility of the county is to ensure the flow of the ditch," said Bush.

He said the ditch is adequate and is not a great problem for Longwood if everyone understands that increased development in the area, such as the industrial park, will have to handle its own additional runoff.

"If development in Longwood would contribute to the point where the ditch needed improvement, it would be the responsibility of the developers to come up with plans for on-site retention of the additional water runoff," Bush said.

According to engineers designing the industrial park's drainage system, some storm water runoff from the park will be retained on-site in roadside swales and in pockets of unbuildable lowlands.

Engineers indicated that for each individual site plan, however, the park will need to build retention ponds to meet city requirements.

Those requirements call for developers to keep on site the difference between runoff before and after the development of a 25-year storm—a storm accumulating eight inches of rainfall over a 24-hour period.

Bush said county crews will work on the ditch within the next week to 10 days. "It's ready for its annual cleanup," he said. —JOE DeSANTIS

No Courtroom Funding For Juvenile Unit

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

There'll be no state funding to build a new courtroom and related offices at the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center at Five Points—at least not this year.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, who has been spearheading the effort to get the state funding, said he cannot find support for the measure in Tallahassee.

"At this time there is no movement on the issue," Brantley said, adding he talked to State Rep. John Mills, D-Gainesville, chairman of the health and rehabilitative services (HRS) and criminal justice subcommittee.

Brantley says Mills "has not shown any real interest in adding more dollars to programs like this right now."

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said today he's sorry to hear that funding will not be available. "The Legislature is going to have to start realizing that if it continues to mandate court actions, it is going to have to provide funding on a larger basis than now," he said.

And County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, an advocate of providing court space at the detention center, said, "We're disappointed. Space is always of concern to us as in any county with the rate of growth we've had. Maybe by working with the judiciary, HRS (the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services) and our local representatives, we'll be able to get funding in next year's state budget."

"We have learned if we don't succeed the first time to come up with more information and ask again," Mrs. Glenn said. "We do feel we have a valid program and that this would assist youthful offenders in our area."

Sturm added that unless juveniles in Seminole County are completely deterred from crime, the need for courtroom space at the center will accelerate as the problem grows.

The County Commission in late January wrote a letter to Brantley seeking his assistance in gaining some $722,400 in state money for the courtroom and related offices at the center.

In the letter, signed by Sturm, the commission said construction of the courtroom and offices would reduce operating costs and provide a method of efficiently handling cases at the center.

A report included with the letter showed that the county is spending $16,500 annually to transport the youthful offenders to court at the courthouse. It is also costing about $1,600 annually for gasoline, oil and maintenance for vehicles to transport the juveniles.

The letter also said that by holding the court cases at the center, security would be vastly improved and valuable courthouse space, currently used for the cases, would become available to the court system.

The report to Brantley also said courthouse maintenance problems would be reduced with the elimination of potential vandalism by youthful offenders taken to court in the courthouse.

Who Are The Rebellious Teens? Why Are They In Trouble?

Second In A Series

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

She wipes tears from her face while her mother, sitting next to her, listens with lips pursed tightly as the judge declares, "You are now a dependent of the state."

Boys and girls of every age, size, color and background parade through the juvenile judge's courtroom in a steady stream as the state is asked by parents to take control of their children.

"I could cite you case after case that comes before Judge (Dominick J.) Salfi where the family has just gotten out of control and now the parents look to the courts and the state to solve everything," says Gayle Hair, Seminole County juvenile court coordinator.

"Take the case of Maria (not her real name)," Mrs. Hair continues. "Maria is a 16-year-old girl who is ungovernable, meaning she doesn't obey home rules. She has a drug problem and is a runaway. She has a habit of telling her parents, 'I'll come home when I want to, and pretty much runs her own life.'"

"In Maria's case, and those of kids like her, she controls the parents instead of the parents controlling the child," Mrs. Hair, the mother of two boys, explains. "We suggested action for Maria's family to consider in resolving the situation, like drug-treatment programs such as Straight in St. Petersburg, but her parents chose to take her to another center in Miami—which may be good, but not a place we felt was best suited to Maria's needs. Well, she's run away from that center three times."

"It all boils down to the fact that her mother does not want to take responsibility for Maria's life and actions, so she is seeking to dump her off on the state," Mrs. Hair says.

Mrs. Hair says she feels the parents of these problem children are looking at the courts as the "last hope" for disciplining their children.

"That's the fallacy, though," Mrs. Hair says. "The parents need to treat the situation as if they themselves are the child's last hope. But the parents often give up, saying, 'I'll go down and sign a dependency petition. Then the court will make him come home at night, they'll make her quit taking drugs.' But that just doesn't happen."

Michael (not his real name) is 17 years old, Mrs. Hair says. He's in a family situation where a stepfather is present. There is considerable hostility between the son and mother, because he doesn't approve of the stepfather and also because the mother is not "tough" enough with her husband, in Michael's eyes.

"Michael takes drugs, has been through juvenile arbitration and counseling for drug abuse, continues to break the law in minor offenses including disorderly intoxication and resisting arrest without violence," she says. "Michael's parents have refused to take him back into the home, and he has been placed by the court in a residential program."

"This is just another example of a family out of control," Mrs. Hair adds. "They got to the point where they don't like each other, they don't love each other, and they don't care what happens to each other."

Court records also show another twist to the dependency cases. Parents who have lost control over their sons and daughter often find themselves in the middle of law violations.

"Take Debbie (also not her real name)," Mrs. Hair says. "She is 17 years old and has filed charges against her father, saying he physically abused her. The father and mother now have turned around and filed 'ungovernable' charges against Debbie."

"But if you look into Debbie's history, you find a little more beneath the surface than a father supposedly abusing his

GAYLE HAIR:

"That's the fallacy. The parents need to treat the situation as if they themselves are the child's last hope. But the parents often give up."

Gambling A Matter Of Money, Morality

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Turf Club in rural Brooks County, Georgia, was a family place where people could spend a quiet afternoon eating barbecued chicken while watching sleek quarterhorses run the track.

But earlier this month one of the Sunday outings was not so quiet.

Law enforcement officials raided the club and arrested four people for illegal gambling and selling alcohol on Sunday.

One informant said he had seen a wager as large as $3000, although most bets averaged $100.

Illegal betting on sporting events and lotteries is commonplace in most parts of the country, but the odds against legalizing it in many areas of the Bible Belt are still 50-1.

Alabama and Florida both have state-regulated gambling. The Sunshine state reaped over $100 million in taxes in 1980 from gambling interests and two Alabama counties collected more modest amounts.

Legalized betting in Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and the Carolinas, however, is still a longshot.

Georgia Bureau of Investigation Director Phil Peters estimated that in 1980 some $600 million was placed in illegal bets in the state — money that supporters of legalized gambling would like to see taxed, but money that proponents feel is spent in sin.

Arguments for and against regulated gambling in Georgia center on those two issues: money and morality.

Proponents say legalized betting will increase state revenues at a time when federal budget cuts are sorely eroding the state treasury.

"It will provide revenue to supplement the budget," said Jack Smith, head of the Georgia Horse Foundation. "And when it comes down to horse racing or another tax increase, two-thirds of the state would vote for (horse racing)."

Opponents warn that the consequences of gambling are crime, weakened morals and the disintegration of the family.

"That's a dead horse," quipped Rev. Lavoy Johnson, who heads a Christian lobby called Citizens United for Research Education (CURE). "We feel the whole proposition is not wholesome or sound — economically or morally."

Attempts to get pari-mutuel betting on the books in Georgia have failed for several years. The last time the legislature considered it was in 1973 when the House defeated the proposal. Twice since then, in 1977 and 1981, legislators have gotten nowhere with bills that would permit pari-mutuel betting.

This year will be no different.

But Rep. Billy McKinney, D-Atlanta, tried again this session, calling for the setup of a statewide gambling commission. According to the chairman of the committee to which the bill was assigned, the measure isn't going anywhere too soon.

Pari-mutuel betting is defined as a system of gambling on races where those backing the winners divide, in proportion to their bets, the total amount wagered. A percentage of the bets is taken out for the track operator and for taxes. Some 22 states around the country allow pari-mutuel betting.

"The governor has projected dire (economic) circumstances for this state and it's evident that with cutbacks in federal funds there must be new sources of revenue," McKinney said. "It's an option that is available to this state."

He said "there is enormous illegal gambling... on every sport there is," and it should be taxed.

"If rural legislators would allow us in Fulton county to have a track, the money could be designated to benefit anything in urban or rural Georgia," McKinney said. "It's basically rural legislators opposing the bill. They go to tracks in Florida and dog tracks in Alabama but they're afraid of their preachers."

Pari-mutuel betting is an emotional issue at the State Capitol, but not one worth fighting over for most lawmakers. If the constituents object to it, legislators will vote their way.

"I come from a primitive Baptist background and we don't believe in any gambling," said Rep. Randy Karrh of Swain County. "I'm not going to say I'm not a sinner. But pari-mutuel betting would open up the state of Georgia to all the evils that are connected with gambling... such as organized crime."

"I represent the Bible Belt," said Pete Phillips of Spouton. "They don't want it because they fear the consequences — what will it do to families? How will it affect the kids?"

Jack Prosser Ford's Brian Green has a determined look as he gets ready to unleash a fastball against Adcock Roofing. Neither determination nor the fastball worked as Adcock prevailed, 13-2, in Little American League play.

Krayola Crushes Petroleum

Krayola College boosted its record to 3-0 and Adcock Roofing pushed its mark to 2-0 with wins Monday in the Sanford Little American League.

Krayola College had to overcome deficits twice before beating Seminole Petroleum 18-6, while Adcock Roofing dumped Jack Prosser Ford 13-2 in four innings.

In the best game of the day, S&I Fabricating and Engineering overcame a two-run deficit to beat Atlantic Bank 4-3.

Poppa Jay's and Sunniland Corporation, both 2-0, square off at 7 p.m. tonight at Fort Mellon Park in Sanford Little National League action. In 5 p.m. games, First Federal plays the Railroaders at Fort Mellon Park, while Cardinal Industries battles D.A.V. at Bay Avenue Field.

Trailing 1-0, Krayola College scored three runs in the top of the third when Bobbie Myers led off with a single, Travis Pickens walked, and Jason Heffington blasted his third home run of the season.

Seminole Petroleum regained the lead with three runs in the bottom of the third, but Krayola College broke the game open with 11 runs in the top of the fourth.

Heffington and Tim Cover finished with two hits each for the winners. Tommy Mitchell blasted a pair of doubles and a single in three trips to the plate for Seminole Petroleum.

Jack Prosser Ford scored a single run without a hit in the top of the first, but Adcock Roofing scored two runs without a hit in the bottom of the first.

Scoring again without a hit, Jack Prosser tied the score at 2-1 in the top of the second, but Adcock Roofing scored six runs on just two hits in the bottom of the second. Reginald Bellamy and Sam Black had singles for Adcock in the second.

That ended the scoring until the bottom of the fifth when Adcock exploded for five runs to end the game under the slaughter rule.

Bellamy had a double and single to lead Adcock at the plate.

Three Adcock pitchers combined for a no-hitter. Bernard Mitchell started the game, but had control problems and was lifted for Reginald Bellamy with two outs in the second. Bellamy faced four batters and struck out all four. Sammy Edwards hurled the fourth inning and retired the side on three strikeouts.

A pair of walks and a single by Leslie Thomas gave Atlantic Bank a 2-0 lead in the top of the first. S&I Fabricating and Engineering scored three runs on three hits in the bottom of the second, with Eric Hansen providing the power with a home run.

S&I padded its lead with a run in the bottom of the fifth before Atlantic Bank scored one in the top of the sixth. James Cox singled with one out in the sixth for the Bankers and Titus Manning followed with another single. Although Richard Inman collected the third hit of the inning after Denise Wood was hit by a pitch, Atlantic Bank was unable to push the tying run across the plate.

Inman was three for three with a double for Atlantic Bank.

John Lewis was the winning pitcher as he went the distance for S&I Fabricating and Engineering. He struck out nine.

Rotary's Comeback Guns Down Moose

Scoring a dozen runs in the final three innings, Rotary battled from behind Monday to beat Moose 16-9 in opening day action in the Sanford Junior League.

Knights of Columbus scored 15 runs in the first inning and glided to a 17-1 win over Elks in Monday's other game.

Rotary scored an unearned run in the first and boosted its lead to 3-0 with a pair of runs in the second on singles by Craig Dixon, Gregg Pond and Clay Hickman.

Rotary starter Eddie Korgan lost his control in the third inning and gave up six runs on just one hit, giving Moose a 6-3 lead.

An unearned run for Rotary in the top of the fourth made it 6-4 and Rotary regained the lead with four runs in the top of the fifth. Mike Edwards, the winning pitcher in relief, opened the fifth with a double and Pond and Keith Denton had singles in the inning.

Rotary added a pair of runs in the sixth on singles by Korgan and Joe Evans and then put the game out of reach with six runs in the top of the seventh. Evans had a triple in the seventh and John Cooks added a single.

Using singles by Kenneth Morris, Tim McKinney and Vernon Remassar, Moose scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Evans, Korgan and Pond had two hits apiece for Rotary, while Morris and McKinney had two hits each for Moose.

Junior League

Knights of Columbus sent 18 batters to the plate in the first inning and scored their 15 runs on just six hits. Alonzo Gaines had a triple and single in the inning, Curtis Rudolph had a triple and Stewart Gordon added a double.

Gaines and Brian Ashcraft finished with two hits apiece for Knights of Columbus. Ashcraft pitched a one-hitter in the four-inning contest, striking out eight.

Terry Williams had the only hit for Elks.

DKG District IV Meeting

Change: 'A Pathway To Tomorrow'

Members of Mu State, Delta Kappa Gamma held their District IV meeting Saturday at the Lake Mary High School Complex.

Jo Willis, District IV Director, presided over the business and activities of the day which included various workshops and a luncheon.

Delta Kappa Gamma members from across the district and the state were in attendance to focus on the objectives of the society through the theme of "Change: A Pathway to Tomorrow."

Maxine Smith, Mu State President of Melbourne, presented an overview of the future in Delta Kappa Gamma and plans for meeting these challenges at the state and international levels.

Dr. June Gordon of District IV Director Jo Willis addresses women educators.

Seminole Community College, the keynote speaker, spoke on "Women Emerging from the Blur."

Various workshops in the afternoon laid the groundwork for the next biennium in District IV, which includes 18 chapters across central Florida and down the east coast.

Mrs. Willis states that it has been a very rewarding experience serving as District Director. "It has offered a great opportunity to explore and speak out on the issues facing the women of today in education." Members of Beta Chi, the local chapter, and president Nancy McNamara played a significant role in the activities of the day.

'Old Timers' Annual Reunion Set

The Longwood Woman's Club annual Old Timers reception will be held on Sunday, April 18, from 3-5 p.m. at the club building on Church Street.

Maxine McGrath is in charge of the event and urges members to find people who can relate interesting historical stories about Longwood.

The public is invited with promises of unusual and informative entertainment, according to Ruth Hamilton.

Altamonte Elementary School recently started "SAPP," the Super Altamonte Pizza Party. Pizza and fun will be had by all at Chuck E. Cheese this time.

Also the second graders at Altamonte recently enjoyed a field trip to Sea World, and the kindergarten classes visited Central Florida Zoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Miller celebrated their 25th Wedding Anniversary on March 28.

There's a new guy in town and he's looking good. Hampton "Mike" Miles recently moved to Longwood from Syracuse, N.Y.

The Lyman High School reunion committee is looking for alumni who attended Lyman from its opening thru the class of 1948. Please call Mrs. H.E. Bothell if you know of anyone.

The Seminole County YMCA will hold Spring Break Fun Week from April 5 thru April 9 for children aged 6 thru 9. Pre-register by calling 862-0444. Activities will include Sea World, Circus World, Wet 'n Wild, skating, swimming, Kennedy Space Center and a major league baseball game. You must pre-register.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), in conjunction with Charter Consultants Travel Tour Operators are sponsoring a trip to the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. June 3-8. Contact RSVP, P.O. Box 936, Longwood for information and registration.

Happy Birthday to Jean LeMieux on March 29.

Cuddling Is A Lasting Closeness

DEAR ABBY: A 75-year-old woman wrote to say that when her 77-year-old husband was 30, due to a bungled operation, he had lost all desire for sex, but over the years they had experienced an intimacy that would not be believed by the present generation that thinks all there is to marriage is sex. She said, "When we cuddle up in each other's arms on a cold winter night, we achieve a more lasting closeness than the couples who make love for three minutes, then leave each other to go to sleep in separate bedrooms."

Dear Abby

Abby, when I read that, I cried. How I wish I had what she had. I love my husband, but I feel closer to him when he just holds me until I fall asleep than when he makes love to me, rolls over and goes to sleep with his back toward me.

Sometimes I pray that he will become impotent. To me, cuddling and holding expresses genuine "love." The sex part is just selfish animal gratification.

I am 20, and I think the younger generation is changing because most of my girlfriends say they don't like sex any more than I do. Some women just hide it better.

Abby, impotent men have as much going for them as the men who aren't. And if they can't find a woman to love them for who and what they are, tell them to come to Arkansas.

LOVES LOVE, NOT SEX
DEAR LOVES: Thanks for a potent letter.

DEAR ABBY: I've been meaning to write this letter for a long time—10 months to be exact—because that's how long I've been sober. I'm 34 and didn't even start drinking until I was 26.

I didn't know I was an alcoholic until I read the "test" in your column, and after answering the questions truthfully, I realized I was.

You said that Alcoholics Anonymous was the best, so I went to a meeting, and what I found there was exactly what I needed. The open discussions helped me to see the light.

My sincere thanks for helping me to save myself years of misery. About A.A.'s spiritual program: There may be lots of people like myself who aren't religious at all, and might shy away from A.A. because they don't believe in any kind of "God." But if they go, they'll find a new kind of faith. Please keep telling people about A.A. Some people make it on the third or even fourth try! SOBER AND LOVING IT

DEAR SOBER: Thanks for writing. I know I sound like a broken record plugging A.A. as I do, but if only one person is helped today, it will be worth space in my column. A.A. is in your phone book. There's a chapter near you. It doesn't cost a dime, and could be worth a million.

DEAR ABBY: "Lacking Love and Hating It" blames his wife because he had a heart attack. He claims his doctor told him that withholding sex causes sexual tension, which in turn causes heart attacks in men. I can't believe a doctor would make such a statement. As though men were the only ones with sexual tension!

"Lacking Love" should take a good look at himself. I'll bet he's a slob who smells like a brewery, abuses his wife, then gets mad because she's not in the mood to make love. There are a lot of men like that around. You see them every day in the corner bars complaining their wives are "cold."

ICE-COLD IN LOUISVILLE. CONFIDENTIAL TO FEELING STUPID IN SARASOTA: Don't ever hesitate to ask a question because you're afraid you might sound "stupid." There are no stupid questions. Only stupid mistakes.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90033.

BEDWETTER

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting—What It's All About and How To End It," a report by two medical doctors. No obligation.

Murray Slugs Royals; Cubs Slip By Reds

United Press International
If only the winter weather would go on strike.

Major-league baseball opened Monday with rain in Cincinnati, 45-degree temperatures in Baltimore and the forecast of bad weather for much of the country.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, in a National League opener shortened to eight innings by rain, and the Baltimore Orioles began the American League schedule with a 13-5 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

EDDIE MURRAY
... grand slam

Assorted bad weather has postponed the Toronto at Detroit, Boston at Chicago White Sox and Cleveland at Milwaukee A.L. games from today to Wednesday, and imperiled the Texas at New York Yankee and California at Oakland games.

In the National League, Montreal at Pittsburgh has been postponed, the New York Mets at Philadelphia stands in the path of a predicted snowstorm while San Francisco at Los Angeles, St. Louis at Houston and Atlanta at San Diego should take place as scheduled.

Not even the weatherman can put as big a crimp in the season as last year's strike did, though, so Monday's winners talked enthusiastically of the season.

"I just hope we can keep it up for a while and run away from some people," Baltimore first baseman Eddie Murray said after his grand slam paced a 16-hit attack.

"It's always good to win an opener, but for a team like us it's really important to win it," Cubs' Manager Lee Elica said of his new-look team. "I think the people we've acquired are better than what they have had in Chicago."

Besides Murray's blast, his fifth career grand slam, the Orioles used home runs by Gary Roenicke, Dan Ford and Cal Ripken Jr. to rout the Royals before an Opening Day crowd of 52,034, the largest regular season crowd in club history.

The Orioles built a 7-1 lead on a two-run blast by Ripken in the second inning following a walk to Ken Singleton. Roenicke's solo shot was in the third and chased loser Dennis Leonard.

Dennis Martinez needed relief help from Sammy Stewart in the fifth inning, with the long-relief ace limiting the Royals to two hits the rest of the way to gain the victory.

Ford smacked a three-run homer, his first homer as an Oriole, in the seventh.

Frank White drove in four runs for the Royals with a three-run homer and a single and George Brett added a solo homer. In Cincinnati, newcomers Bump Wills and Keith Moreland slugged home runs to carry the Cubs.

Wills, one of five new starters in the lineup, helped make Elica a winner in his managerial debut by smashing loser Mario Moreland's second pitch of the game over the right field wall.

"I was shocked when Wills hit that," said Elica. "It all happened so quickly... and bang, all of a sudden we're ahead."

"Suddenly we were up 1-0 and the juices were flowing," Moreland also accounted for the Cubs' third run with a bases-loaded single in the eighth inning that scored Larry Bowa, another newcomer, who had singled.

Doug Bird pitched the first seven innings for the Cubs and gave up just five hits and one run in earning the triumph.

"I think we've got a club that's going to score a lot of runs," said Moreland. "But what really will determine how well we do this year will be our pitching."

"This place is happy, jubilant, excited," Wills said, grinning. "... Today there was a lot of excitement. We figure from here on out we can make anything happen."

If it ever stops snowing.

Umpires Settle For Usual Strikes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The only strikes major-league umpires will be calling for quite some time are the kind the pitchers throw.

After five months of hard negotiations and just eight hours before the scheduled start of the season, the umpires Monday reached agreement with the two major leagues on a four-year contract.

Under terms of the new contract, the umpires have increased their benefits considerably in several areas, including salaries, pension benefits and per diem allowances.

Their biggest gain was made in the area of salaries. Starting salaries will be increased immediately from $18,000 to $26,000 and be raised to $36,000 over four years. The immediate increase is even greater for senior umpires. They will be raised from $50,000 to $70,000 this year and receive $73,000 per year in the final year of the contract.

"This will put umpires into the top 1 percent of all salaried employees in our country," said Richie Phillips, attorney for the Major League Umpires Association.

In addition to higher salaries, the Major League Umpires Association also received major concessions in the following areas:

- A 100 percent increase in pension benefits.
- A 50 percent increase in widow benefits.
- Increases in benefits for previously retired umpires totaling about $150 per month per year of service.
- The addition to the major-league staffs of minor-league umpires who refused to work during the 1979 major-league umpires strike.
- An increase in daily per diem expenses from $77 to $90. The money will be used to pay for hotels, meals and transportation to and from the ballparks. The leagues will continue to pay for travel between cities.
- An agreement to select umpires for post-season play on a merit basis instead of by rotation.
- Increases in pay for postseason games. Umpires will receive $15,000 for the World Series, $10,000 for the League Championship Series, $7,500 for any divisional playoff that may occur and $2,500 for the All-Star Game.

and Exotic Plants at 601 Celery Ave. Sanford. They have learned that Jean always has something new and different in flowers and plants as well as the old favorites such as roses, orchids, hybrid daylilies, African violets, begonias and geraniums.

Jean has all the products needed for planting and keeping your plants healthy. She knows each plant personally and will be glad to share her secrets for growing them and fascinating facts about each one.

For Easter gifts or decoration she has plenty of beautiful spathiphyllums, also known as "Peace Lily" or "spath", and African violets, which fit perfectly into Jean's straw Easter baskets or hats. The spathiphyllums range in size from six-inch pots to the five gallon size. You can enjoy their attractive dark green foliage and white blooms all year round.

The African violets are in full bloom in many different colors. They are both standard and trailing varieties. Woodsy dish gardens containing African violet plants and fern make an extra special gift and can be custom designed.

Jean has a large variety of beautiful Nelson's Florida Roses from which to choose. These roses have been developed to grow well in Florida's climate.

For first time rose growers she will get you off to a good start with a free booklet on rose culture.

You will also find blueberry plants loaded with big luscious fruit and potted strawberries, caladiums, flowering annuals and bedding vegetable plants.

Jean can also make a corsage for your best girl to wear in the "Easter Parade."

Planning a spring or summer wedding? Remember Jean has potted palms and ferns to rent for the occasion and will be glad to make your complete floral arrangements and corsages in either fresh or silk flowers.

She will also act as a consultant advising on other aspects of your wedding plans if you wish.

Browsers are welcome. The shop is open Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information call 322-3976.

Greg Whitcher (right), president of T.C. & S. Unlimited, and Don Baker, sales manager for the firm, which specializes in commercial and residential kitchen cabinets and countertops.

Quality Custom Kitchens From T.C.&S. Unlimited

T.C.&S. Unlimited is in the business of remodeling and building kitchens, whether commercial or residential. They specialize in cabinets, countertops and specialty work.

They are the distributors for Keller Cabinets and various other building specialty products. "All of our work is guaranteed," said Greg Whitcher T.C.&S. president. "Our philosophy is our business is 'measure twice and cut once.'"

"I feel we can offer quality built-in at a price they can afford because of our low overhead," he added.

T.C.&S. offers sales, service and installation for residential remodeling and new construction. Originally from New Hampshire, Whitcher has been in the kitchen business for five years, four years in the Central Florida.

His plans call for opening a new office with a sales room and show room in the Altamonte Springs area in the near future. T.C.&S. has a trained installation crew and sales force.

Don Baker is the sales manager for T.C.&S. in charge of commercial accounts. Whitcher is trained in kitchen design and will be glad to give you a free estimate and draw up a floor plan for remodeling your kitchen and take the necessary measurements.

He will bring along cabinet door and countertop samples and plenty of ideas to help design your new kitchen. He will make an analysis of your individual needs and desires and incorporate them into the design.

T.C.&S. Unlimited will fabricate special custom furniture and counter tops. They make specialty items such as those needed by handicapped persons. In addition to kitchens, they also have vanities and formica cabinets for bathrooms.

They do commercial work for condominiums, apartments, offices and schools throughout the state and residential jobs in the Greater Orlando-Seminole County area.

"We are able to help with questions and answers related to kitchen planning and cater to individual needs of customers," said Whitcher. "Each kitchen is unique. No job is too small or too large."

Russia, U.S. Play China Card

If Washington can play the so-called China card, so too can Moscow. Or, more precisely, Moscow can try.

That appeared to be just what Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev was doing when he declared that his country was "prepared to come to terms" with China. It cannot be a coincidence that Brezhnev's overture comes at a time when relations between Peking and the Reagan administration are strained over the unresolved issue of U.S. arms sales to Taiwan.

Clearly, the Soviet leadership views the continuing Sino-American dispute over Taiwan as a window of diplomatic opportunity. By exploiting Peking's presumed doubts on the value of its American connection, the Soviets obviously hope to dilute China's militantly anti-Soviet foreign policy.

Thus, Brezhnev announced that Moscow wanted to end the long-standing Sino-Soviet border disputes and to "normalize" political relations between the two communist giants.

From Brezhnev's standpoint, there is everything to gain and nothing to lose in offering the olive branch now. A genuine rapprochement between China and the Soviet Union would vastly increase Moscow's political leverage in dealing with Western Europe, the United States, and Japan. And, Brezhnev may reason, even if the olive branch is rejected, the mere fact that it was offered may tend to diminish the fear that drives China to cooperate with the West.

Fortunately for the United States and its allies, there appears little chance of a significant reduction in the mutual suspicion and enmity that pervades Sino-Soviet relations. China and Russia are natural competitors in Asia and have been since long before either country fell to communism.

The Chinese have not forgotten Russia's bullying and land grabbing of decades past. And the ethnic Slavs who rule the Soviet Union today are still obsessed with a historic fear of the "yellow peril" that dates to Mongol invasions centuries ago.

Then, too, the patently expansionist foreign policy pursued by the Soviets today presents an unmistakable danger to China. The Chinese can hardly be expected to forget that Brezhnev himself hinted at the possibility of a "pre-emptive" Soviet nuclear strike at Chinese missiles and nuclear test facilities during the early 1970s.

Still, the Reagan administration would be well advised to keep careful watch for any signs of a possible Sino-Soviet rapprochement, and be prepared to react accordingly if one seemed to be developing. That reaction should not entail abandonment of Taiwan; a craven act more likely to convince Peking that the United States lacked the backbone to be a reliable partner in time of need.

But the administration should even now be pressing ahead with an active diplomacy designed to keep the mainland Chinese mindful of the fact that their current geo-political interests are shared more by Washington than by Moscow.

BERRY'S WORLD

'I was headin' south to catch some rays during spring break, but REAGANOMICS messed up the plan.'

By DONNA ESTES

Several weeks ago, U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, sent a questionnaire to his constituents in Florida's 14th Congressional District asking a series of questions on controversial topics.

The following is the result of McCollum's survey. Approximately 10,000 persons responded.

— Should Congress increase any federal taxes to balance the budget? Yes, 33.1 percent; no, 64.8 percent; undecided, 2 percent.

— To balance the budget, should Congress make more spending cuts in any of the following programs: Agriculture — yes, 49.9 percent; no, 28.7 percent; undecided, 21.4 percent. Defense — yes, 41 percent; no, 42 percent; undecided, 16.7 percent. Education — yes, 42.6 percent; no, 39.3 percent; undecided, 18 percent. Foreign Aid — yes, 91 percent; no, 5 percent; undecided, 3.8 percent. Housing — yes, 45.9 percent; no, 35.8 percent; undecided, 18.4 percent. Social (excluding Social Security) — yes, 37.2 percent; no, 29.3 percent; and undecided, 13.5 percent.

— Do you approve of the job each of the following is doing? President Reagan — yes, 61.6 percent; no, 24.2 percent; undecided, 14.1 percent. Secretary of State Alexander Haig — yes, 50.9 percent; no, 23.7 percent; undecided, 23.8 percent. Secretary of the Interior James Watt — yes, 21.0 percent; no, 41.8 percent; undecided, 29.2 percent. Speaker of the House Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill — yes, 24.8 percent; no, 58.6 percent; and undecided, 16.8 percent.

— Do you favor the president's proposal to grant amnesty to all illegal aliens here before Jan. 1, 1980? Yes, 15.6 percent; no, 75.6 percent; undecided, 8.9 percent.

Keeping Salesmen On The Road

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a decade of rises and three years of rapid advances, the growth in the cost of keeping a sales force on the road is slowing.

Sales & Marketing Management Magazine, in its annual survey, found the rise in the costs of lodging, food, drinks and automobile rentals in 80 metropolitan centers probably will dip below 10 percent this year. The increase last year was 13 percent, and that in 1980 a shocking 22 percent.

The current deceleration is all in lodging and auto rental rates falling because of slowing inflation and the recession. The cost of meals will jump about 9 percent this year, however, compared with a rise of 4.8 percent in 1981, the magazine said.

To give an idea of what it means over the long haul, S&MM noted the weekly cost of maintaining a salesperson on the road had climbed from $250.45 in 1973 to $655.25 in 1981. In this period, meals rose least — from $81.25 to $137.25, auto rental from $104.20 to $304 and lodging from $84 to $214.

In addition to calculating the cost of keeping people on the road, the S&MM annual survey keeps track of the steadily rising cost of making a single sales call.

This is more complicated because it involves five different types of salespersons and must include their varying salaries as well as varying customs. The growth in these costs slowed, however, in about the same proportion last year as the cost of keeping sales people on the road.

The average cost of a single sales call in 1981 ranged, though, from a low of $44.40 for a service salesperson to $89.90 for a call by a sales engineer.

The survey of the costs of keeping people on the road indicated the rise in hotel room rates this year will ease to 10.5 percent from 17 percent last year and auto rentals will rise only 8.5 percent against 12.8 percent last year.

The variation in the costs of maintaining salespeople and in overall selling costs in the various market areas of the United States is large. The two most expensive, New York and San Francisco-Oakland, are 50 percent above the national average.

The New York index is $144 a day and San Francisco-Oakland $132. Dayton, Ohio, the least expensive market, is $77.

The other most expensive markets are Washington $147, Chicago $140, Los Angeles $138, Boston and Miami each $128, and the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Paterson, N.J., areas each $122.

After Dayton, Wichita, Kan., New Bedford and Fall River, Mass., Akron and Canton in Ohio, Omaha, Neb., Memphis, Tenn., Jersey City, N.J., Des Moines, Iowa, Jacksonville, Fla., and Springfield, Mass., were the cheapest areas.

New York remained the most expensive place to hold sales meetings at $129.75 per day per person, followed by Washington with a cost of $131.30. A cost of $88.25 in Indianapolis made it the least expensive city in which to hold a meeting. The cost nationally averaged $98.96.

A Lot Of Budget Fat In Pork Barrel

WASHINGTON — The howls of anguish from Capitol Hill over the Reagan budget deficit wouldn't have such a hollow ring if congressional leaders were willing to give up some of the costly pork-barrel projects in their own backyards that add substantially to the deficit.

But in an election year, too few of our distinguished lawmakers will do more than express pious outrage at the general subject of a $100 billion deficit. When it comes down to specific examples of expensive bondfide projects in their home state or district, the legislators' fiery rhetoric becomes a defensive, barely audible murmur.

If a defense contract or public works project keeps a few hundred constituents off the unemployment rolls, it will get the enthusiastic support of the senator or congressman, no matter how dubious the expenditure of tax dollars may be for the nation as a whole.

Here are just a few examples of the pork-barrel mentality that pervades Congress at a time of record budget deficits:

— Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Budget Committee, has come up with a number of ideas for reducing the staggering deficit built into the administration's proposed budget. Yet one idea that seems never to have occurred to Domenici is any amount on $38 million worth of flood-control projects under consideration for New Mexico.

A Domenici staff aide even uttered the usually forbidden word when he explained to my associate Peter Grant that the levees are really "rather minor pork-barrel projects compared to the things in other states."

—The Pentagon has developed a curious attitude toward the billions lavished on defense by the Reagan administration. The generals and admirals read the newspapers, and they're clearly afraid the rearmament Christmas tree may be smaller next year. So they're determined to get what they can before Santa's sleigh is grounded by an irate public.

In one case, the brass hats can count on solid support from at least one of Santa's helpers on Capitol Hill. He's Rep. William Carney, R-N.Y., in whose district the Navy's F-14 interceptor is manufactured by Grumman Aerospace. Before Reagan took office, the Navy was content with 509 of the multimillion-dollar planes. Now the admirals have asked for an additional 336 F-14s, at a projected cost of $5 billion.

A Carney staffer wasn't all that sure why the Navy wanted the extra planes, but said: "I can guarantee you we would not be advocating shutting down the No. 1 source of employment in our district."

—Special interests also add to the budget deficit when it's revenue-raising that's under consideration. Tax loopholes and favored treatment are as jealously guarded as pork-barrel projects.

Take the proposal to raise "user fees" — that is, to have the cost of a particular government service borne by those who benefit directly from it, rather than by the public at large. One glaring example is the Treasury's plan to charge recreational boat owners fees to cover the expense of the Coast

Guard's search and rescue operations.

This might seem a reasonable proposition to the millions of Americans who don't own yachts, but it's anathema to the white-duck set. And guess who's chairman of the House Coast Guard Subcommittee: Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass. His district includes Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket and all of Cape Cod.

Studds doesn't want his boat-owning constituents to pay more for Coast Guard protection than an Iowa farmer or Idaho rancher does.

—Sizeable sums could be raised by restricting the tax exemption granted to businesses for construction bonds. A Depression-era incentive that has lingered on, its cutback would raise $7 billion.

An influential defender of the exemption is Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., chairman of the Economic Growth Subcommittee. Pennsylvania is the largest beneficiary of the tax loophole. "I'll do everything I can to protect this program," said Heinz, who's up for reelection this year.

After OPEC—What Next?

We were discussing in this space recently the world oil surplus and the consequent decline in prices.

That — and the decline if not the demise of OPEC as an economic power — is the good news for the moment.

But there is more to the story than that. There may not necessarily be bad news to come for the consuming countries, but there are certainly challenges. And they have their origin, as oil problems usually do, in OPEC.

The cartel's 13 members are currently producing less oil than at any time in more than a decade, yet the surplus not only persists but grows. The reasons are in a few large numbers.

Oil consumption in the non-Communist world is down sharply and still dropping. Worldwide production is also down, but the OPEC share of it is down the most. Major new producers have entered the market and OPEC now accounts for less than half of non-Communist production compared with 64 percent only three years ago.

Even with supply-tightening production cutbacks much more drastic than the 700,000 barrels a day the members have just imposed upon themselves, it is unlikely that OPEC could regain control of world oil pricing.

Others — Britain, Mexico, Norway — are in a position to counteract any manufactured shortage as long as there is financial advantage in it. And there will be unless the price drops to levels that would be ruinous to OPEC, most of whose members are economically totally dependent upon oil.

OPEC will, however, remain a major and indispensable market contributor for the indefinite future. That means that another explosion in the politically volatile Mideast, such as led to the first oil shock in 1973, could bring a real rather than manufactured shortage and another energy crisis in the industrial world.

In the pre-OPEC era, that world was living in a consumers' paradise of low stable prices resulting from apparently inexhaustible oil supplies in a limited number of undeveloped and essentially undemanding countries. With the advent of OPEC, prices shot up but retained an element of stability in that OPEC had the power to fix them according to its judgment of what the market would bear. Consuming countries could adjust, if at a painful cost, and plan ahead.

Post-OPEC may not resemble either period, however. Analysts suggest that oil consumers are facing an indefinite period of unstable prices that has its own dangers and imposes its own costs.

Falling prices, which are expected to continue downward for some time yet, could encourage not an abandonment of conservation measures — by most reckonings they've already taken too firm hold for that — but an easing off that would have painful consequences in a later price upturn.

There are suggestions that one possible way of dealing with this situation in the United States is to impose a tax on imported oil that would have the advantages of compensating for world swings to stabilize the domestic price and also channel much needed revenue into the Treasury.

Maybe. But the idea is not without flaws — large political and economic ones. Most of the recent decline in the Consumer Price Index, and thus the inflation rate, can be credited to softening energy costs. It may be asking too much of both government and public to buy stable oil prices at the cost of renewed inflationary pressures. Nor would the consequent increase in production costs help U.S. industry in world trade competition.

Saudi Arabia's Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the world's unofficial oil czar for most of OPEC's brief era of dominance, has said that the organization's greatest achievement has been in the producing countries' taking control of their own resources for their own benefit.

Objectively, there is nothing wrong with that except that in pushing too hard for immediate benefit they appear to have defeated themselves.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Optimistic Approach To Recovery

Sitting 20 feet away from President Reagan in the historic East Room of the White House, one gets a much clearer impression of his personality and outlook than one receives from television. The word charisma was made for him. His sunny disposition and Irish charm quickly wins over a non-political group assembled to hear him talk about private incentives in American society.

The President is the ultimate star. He has the looks and bearing of a man in his early fifties. With his easy repartee and amusing anecdotes, he quickly disarms hostile newsmen. He is a cheerleader for America and American values.

America needs cheerleading and pep talks. For years, we have had grim worry wars in the White House — Carter, Nixon and Johnson. Mr. Reagan obviously enjoys the job and has no trouble sleeping at night. The electorate most probably chose him because of his warm personality, not because of any doctrinaire economic theories.

Presidential cheerleading plays an important role in our system. Franklin Roosevelt's fireside chats gave the American people hope in the darkest of Depression days. Though the national circumstances are different now, our people continue to need an optimistic leader. And optimism is the primary ingredient in the mind and personality of Ronald Reagan.

Something more than optimism is needed, however. Many sectors of the American economy are in serious trouble. Positive government actions are needed to prevent the country from going into a tailspin.

The foreign imports problem is worsening all the time. Japanese auto imports now account for 22 percent of all sales. Is it any wonder that unemployment is rife in the auto industry and its multitude of suppliers? Administration responses to this situation are half-hearted and ineffective.

The administration also is trying to maintain a cozy relationship with Big Unionism, instead of confronting it and making increased productivity a key public issue. The administration also turns a blind eye to the new class of military and government pensioners who get automatic cost of living increases while other citizens suffer.

If President Reagan is to succeed in his political counter-revolution — and his New Federalism plan is a splendid design, the administration must be more positive in its actions. It must have a game plan for use if the economy continues to slip. Counting on reduced taxes to solve all problems is an inadequate approach to economic deterioration.

Basic to a more active administration is a change in personnel at the top. Mr. Reagan needs the modern-day equivalent of Jimmy Byrnes, who became "assistant president" for domestic affairs in the Roosevelt administration. The President needs as advisers the strongest men our society has in its midst, not the people who directed his election campaign nor who have been brought aboard since then.

A.L. West KC's Royal Swap Turns Division Blue

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
Kansas City's acquisition of Vida Blue will propel the Royals to the division title in the American League West.

"We have a solid nucleus of experienced players and a strong group of talented young players," points out KC manager Dick Howser. "We feel good about the club."

With George Brett, Willie Wilson, Willie Aikens, Amos Otis, Dennis Leonard, Larry Gura and Dan Quisenberry he ought to. Now, he feels much better with the deal (steal?) which brought Blue back to the American League for Renie Martin, Craig Chamberlain and some other non-descript player.

"The key will be for these veterans to have productive years," continued Howser. "Not have exceptional years or do things they have not done before, just reach levels they are capable of reaching."

Howser makes a good point here. Brett doesn't have to hit .300 again for the Royals to win, but he has to hit better than the .314 he did last year. And he will too. Brett is a .318 lifetime hitter and a leadoff man expected after his super-human effort of 1980.

Likewise, Wilson, Aikens, Otis and either second baseman Frank White or Hal McTae should have productive years. A team need not get a great effort from everyone to win. It just needs good seasons from five players to lift it to a division championship.

Wilson quietly hit .303 last year with 34 stolen bases. Look for that average to climb and the steals to double this year. He's truly an exciting player and the catalyst on this ball club.

Blue, however, makes KC better than Oakland and Chicago. He is 32 years old and coming off an 8-6 year. To win eight with San Francisco, though, is like 12 with anyone else in last year's strike-shortened season. Blue's earned run average was a fine 2.45. He's always been a big money player and the fact that he'll be playing in a division race this year will make him even better.

Teamed with Dennis Leonard (13-11, 2.99), he gives the Royals a potent 1-2 punch. Left-hander Larry Gura seems to get better with age and Paul Splittorff is a solid fourth starter. Quisenberry, super in '80, was just 1-4 last year, but the relief pitcher's true indicator — his 1.74 and 18 saves — was excellent.

Closely behind the Royals will be the Chicago White Sox. To hear manager Tony LaRussa talk, you'd think the top spot was locked up. LaRussa predicted third last year and he was right. He should have stuck to his gradual ascent (32-1) and he'd been more accurate.

"Two trades brought us players who led their clubs in game-winning RBI," reveals LaRussa. "With Greg Luzinski, the American League's most valuable DH, along with Tom Paclorek (from Seattle) and Steve Kemp (from Detroit), the Sox will have power."

The trouble with the Sox is they have a team of DHs. Kemp is a poor fielder, so he'll play left. Paclorek is a poor fielder, so he'll play first base. Ron LeFlore is a poor fielder, so he'll play center field until newly-acquired ex-Dodger Rudy Law, no Golden Glover either, beats him out.

Harold Baines is the only complete Sox outfielder. He'll play right.

In the infield, Carlton Fisk (7.45, .263) is an excellent leader, but a declining player. Second baseman Tony Bernazard can field, but not hit. Third baseman Jim Morrison is just the opposite. Who knows how newly-acquired Vance Law or last year's surprise Bill Almon will be at shortstop?

Left-hander Britt Burns is being touted for the Cy Young Award. Last year he was great with a 16-6 record and a 2.84 ERA. Steve Trout and Dennis Lamp, an ex-Cub, are the other starters. Lamarr Hoyt is a solid reliever, but after that it's up for grabs.

Last year's pennant winner, the Oakland A's, stunned everybody by jumping off to an incredible start and playing good enough the rest of the first half. KC won the second half.

The A's won last year because they had the best outfield in baseball and an awesome pitching staff. This counteracted the worst infield in baseball which doesn't become any better with error-prone Dave Lopes coming up the state.

"Our outfield is simply the best in baseball," says manager Billy Martin. "There is very little that Rickey Henderson (.319, .56 steals), Dwayne Murphy (15 homers, 60 RBI) and Tony Armas (22 homers, 76 RBI) can't do."

Besides Martin's outfield, the starting pitching is good. Steve McCatty (14-7, 2.33), Mike Norris (12-9, 3.75), Rick Langford (12-10, 2.99) and Brian Kingman (3-4, 3.95) are four pretty good pitchers. The bullpen is suspect, however, and the infield, composed of such no-names as Rob Piccolo, Wayne Gross and Kelvin Moore along with has-beens Joe Rudi and Lopes, should signal a third spot for the A's.

California makes a big deal out of the fact that it has four former American League most valuable players dotting its lineup. More should be made out of the "former" than the people.

Reggie Jackson and Rod Carew are on downward cycles. Both can still hit, but neither has used a glove effectively in years. The other two — Don Baylor and Fred Lynn — are still in their prime. Lynn is an excellent all-around center

GEORGE BRETT ...best A.L. hitter
WILLIE WILSON ...to double steals fielder, while Baylor is a hitter, period. Second baseman Bobby Grich and shortstop Ken Burleson lend more to manager Gene Mauch's cast, but its more important to point out what Mauch doesn't have.

"I'd like to know that our pitching is ok," said Mauch. "There's a chance that it isn't."

There's a lot better chance that it isn't. You don't build championships on Don Aase, Ken Forsch, Mike Witt and Angel Moreno. But you do build fourth place ball clubs, which is where Gene Autry's stallions will reside this year.

"I don't do any predicting — too many things can happen — but I believe we are going to be a pennant contender," observes Texas manager Don Zimmer.

And what brought the "Gerbil" to this assumption? Are you ready for this? The acquisition of Frank Tanana, Lamar Johnson and Doug Flynn.

Don't print the playoff tickets just yet Ranger fans. Even with the most recent Ranger — former Expo Larry Parrish — Texas is still a few people away from the top.

For instance, outfielders Parrish, a third baseman, is in right. Mickey Rivera is hurt or he'd play center. The others are Billy Sample and Johnny Grubb. Hardly cornerstones for championships.

The pitching is adequate. Rick Honeycutt, Doc Medich and Danny Darwin are all capable, if not outstanding. Tanana, who puts together a good year in every four to get himself some big bucks, is overrated.

Third baseman Buddy Bell is super. Too bad he plays for the Rangers.

There is no sixth or seventh place in the AL West. Only ninth and 10th.

It would be a travesty to put the rebuilding Minnesota Twins and the still-building Seattle Mariners in the company of the rest of these teams.

Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith gave three of his players — Roy Smalley, Butch Wynegar and John Castino — long-term contracts. I don't have space to name the ones he didn't who are now flourishing elsewhere.

Smalley is considered a hypochondriac by several of his teammates who won't play with little hurts. Wynegar, an all-star catcher his first two seasons, hasn't done a thing since then. Castino, the one quality player of the trio, is sidelined until mid-season after an operation fused his back together.

Now, how's that for an investment?

Fortunately, the Twins' farm system reaps grand rewards.

First baseman Kent Hrbek (27, 111, .379) inherits the first base job. It should be pointed out, though, that these awesome numbers were put on the board against Class A pit bing.

Third baseman Gary Gaetti (30, 93, .277) takes the places of Castino. It should be pointed out, though, that these awesome numbers were put on the board against Class A pitching.

And what came from the AAA club? Nothing. Catching prospect Tim Laudner (42, 104, .284) was farmed out to AAA without much of a look. He attained his fame in AA. At least the Twins will have something coming from AAA next year.

"I feel very comfortable with our pitching, which could be among the league's best," promises manager Billy Gardner. For starters there are Pete Redfern, Al Williams, Brad Havens and Darrell Jackson. Doesn't sound like a powerhouse to me.

Reliever Doug Corbett is a standout and he'll get a lot of work.

Same old Twins, good farm, but no future. "You'll be seeing a lot of new faces wearing Mariner uniforms in 1981," said manager Rene Lachmann.

So, what's new. The Mariners have Richlie Zisk to designated hit and Julio Cruz to handle second base. Jim Easian is a pretty good catcher and ex-Dodger Joe Simpson is a decent center fielder.

After that, it gets pretty thin. Veteran Gaylord Perry joined Seattle to take on the role of "The Ancient Mariner." He needs three wins to reach 300. He should to that. Even with the Mariners.

Brubaker Comes Back On Crabs

Seminole Misses Calling

ORLANDO — Seminole missed its calling here Monday afternoon.

But Winter Park righthander Rick Abel didn't miss his. The thin senior fired a four-hitter and fanned 10 'Noles to turn back the Tribe, 4-1, in the first round of the 1982 Colonial Baseball Tournament.

"I don't know what they're thinking," said a perplexed Bobby Lundquist after watching seven of his 10 strike-out victims not lift their bats from their shoulders.

Abel, who beat Seminole earlier this year, held Sanford hitless until Fred Howard roped a single to left. During the second, third and fourth innings, he nailed six batters on called third strikes.

One of the biggest, however, came in the fifth when the 'Noles had runners on second and third with no one out. Junior John Polk was caught looking, though, before William Wynn fanned and Howard lined out to end the threat.

Wynn, the Sanford starter, began spectacularly himself. He fanned the first three hitters before running into a 20-mile and hour crosswind and some shoddy fielding in the second.

Tom Veazey led off with a wind-blown double to right. Terry Russi made a super, shoestring catch on the next hitter, but Mike Conway sliced one down the right field line which Jeff Litton had trouble locating. And when his relay throw finally came into second base, Conway rounded third and slid into home with an inside-the-park, two-run homer.

The Wildcats built a 3-0 lead in the third. With one out, Mark Leggett walked and stole second. With two strikes on the next hitter, Wynn tried to pick Leggett off second. His wild throw trickled off Brian Rogers' glove and Rogers threw it past Bruce Franklin, allowing the run to score.

The Tribe finally got the board in the sixth. Tracy Walker, who had a double in the fourth, reached on an error by the shortstop and went to second when sophomore Stevin Dennis grounded out to second.

Paul Griffin then rammed a base hit to center and Walker raced home with the run.

Prop Baseball

Winter Park picked up its last run in the sixth when Randy White singled, stole second, went to third on Leggett's bunt single and scored on a sacrifice fly by center by Ben Evans.

The setback drops Seminole in the loser's bracket where it will meet powerful 21-3 Miami Jackson, a 7-4 loser to Boone in Monday's late game.

Boone knocked off Apopka, 9-5, in Monday's first game. Mike Justice's two-run homer was the only offense for the Blue Darters, who fell to 16-6. In other games, Lakeland clubbed West Orange, 11-2, and Bishop Moore upended Edgewater, 6-3.

'NOLES NOTES — The Tribe continued to have its bad luck with injuries. Junior catcher Greg Hill took a foul tip on his right fingers. There was some slight swelling and Hill was x-rayed Monday night.

Original catcher Brett Von Herbulis has his right thumb in a cast after hitting a bat throwing to third base weeks ago. The .319 hitter expects to be able to resume catching duties next Monday.

Lundquist pulled up some junior variety players for the tournament. Sophomores Bruce Franklin, Kevin Smith and Stevin Dennis all saw action. Junior Andy Griffith pinch hit.

In other Five Star action Monday, Lyman's Kevin Brubaker adhered to the policy if at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

Brubaker started the 'Hounds game at Daytona Beach Seabreeze, but was yanked in favor of Willie Pashe because of control problems in the second inning.

The senior righthander, however, returned in the seventh inning to squeeze a rally and earn his seventh victory when Jorge Sierra singled in the game-winner in the eighth.

The victory keeps Lyman's hopes alive for a Five Star tie with Apopka. The Greyhounds are 9-4, while the Darters are 12-2 with games remaining against Seabreeze and Mainland.

The Sand Crabs seized a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but Lyman tied the game in the fifth with a little deception. Rusty Huff, pinch-hitting for Brent Smartt, walked and was replaced on the bases by Bob Brooks.

Karl Sutcliffe then threw the ball down the right field line allowing Brooks to race to third. Kenny Brown faked a bunt, retracted his bat and hit the ball at the startled Seabreeze shortstop, who misplayed it allowing the run to score.

In the seventh, Brown singled in Sierra and John Reich was hit by a pitch on a 1-2 count to force in Lee Jenkins to tie the game.

In the eighth, Tom Perkins collected his third single, but was forced at second by Mike "Duck" Sawyer, who then stole second. Sierra ripped a hit up the middle to score him and Brubaker shut down the Crabs in the eighth to preserve Lyman's 15th win against five losses.

The 'Hounds play Thomas Jefferson High School at Sanford Memorial Stadium today at 5. On Wednesday they continue Five Star action with a noon encounter at Lake Howell.

Reagan, Brezhnev To Meet On Nuclear Disarmament?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, insisting the Soviets have a dangerous nuclear edge over the United States, says he would like to meet President Leonid Brezhnev at a U.N. disarmament conference in June.

Reagan announced Monday he will address the United Nations on reducing the nuclear arsenals and said he hopes Brezhnev also will attend and speak to the conference.

Hinckley Headed For Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than a year after the attempted assassination of President Reagan, the way finally has been cleared for the trial of his accused assailant, John W. Hinckley Jr.

Federal prosecutors, after being defeated in their third bid to use certain evidence, announced Monday they will ask U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker to immediately set a new trial date.

College Student Kills 2

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI) — A "gutsy" young woman hostage helped disarm a junior college student to end his wild 125-mile flight from the classroom where he had shot and killed his teacher and another student.

Kelvin R. Love, a data-processing student reportedly having trouble with his studies at Garland Community College, was arrested Monday at a police roadblock where he crashed his hostage's car. The hostage, classmate Carrie Loy, 18, escaped unharmed and Love, 28, was charged with murder and kidnapping.

Abe Fortas Dead At 71

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Abe Fortas, the first Supreme Court justice to resign under threat of scandal, died Monday night at the age of 71.

"Death was very sudden," said spokeswoman Mary Beth Clark. "It was believed to be cardiac arrest." Born June 19, 1910, in Memphis, Tenn., Fortas served as associate justice of the Supreme Court from 1965 to 1969. He resigned when it was revealed that while on the bench he received but later returned a $20,000 fee from Wolfson Family Foundation. Louis Wolfson, a discredited financier, was in prison at the time for stock manipulation.

Avalanche Victim Rescued

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Trapped in a tiny air space under ski lodge lockers toppled by an avalanche that killed seven people, Anna Conrad said she heard rescuers call out her name. "They didn't hear me. It was frustrating when they left."

Charged With Attempted Murder

Sanford Man, 32, Jailed In Shooting

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 32-year-old Sanford man is being held in the Seminole County jail today on $10,000 bond following his arrest on charges of attempted murder, aggravated assault and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Thomas Kellie Penn, of 145 Bethune Circle, is accused of shooting Altermease Harper, 23, of 72 Seminole Gardens Apartments, Sanford.

According to police reports, Ms. Harper received a telephone call at about 9 p.m. March 31 from a woman who told her to go to a white house at 1512 W. 7th St. where she could recover her purse and a .22-caliber handgun which Ms. Harper had reported stolen last week.

When Ms. Harper and a passenger, Sylvester Byrd Jr., 28, Allamonte Springs, got out of their vehicle at the house, a man jumped from behind a tree and shot Ms. Harper in the right shoulder and fired three shots at Byrd, missing him but striking the vehicle, police said.

The gunman fled on foot and Ms. Harper was taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital by Byrd where she was admitted for treatment of the gunshot wound, police said.

POT FOUND UNDER WIG

During a strip search at the county jail of a woman arrested for retail theft by Sanford police, jail officials discovered what appeared to be marijuana hidden under her wig.

While Regina Bailey, 32, 417 W. 3rd St., Sanford, was not arrested on charges of drug possession, she was charged with theft and released after paying a cash bond at about 12:30 a.m. Saturday, deputies said.

Deputies said further charges may be pending against Ms. Bailey.

TOOLS TAKEN

Thieves broke into a Sanford man's home sometime between 8:30 p.m. Friday and 12:21 p.m. Saturday and stole about $800 worth of tools.

Stephen D. Baillif, 24, of 107 Ventura Drive, told police the thieves entered his home through a rear window.

STORE CASHIER LOSES CASH

A 53-year-old Sanford shoe clerk is out $150 after a man and a woman came into the store, stole her purse and fled.

Louise Taylor, of 215 W. 9th St., told police that a man and woman came into Touchton's store, E. First Street, Sanford at about 8:45 p.m. Saturday and while the woman talked to her, the man stole Ms. Taylor's purse from behind the counter.

Ms. Taylor's purse was later found and returned to her. While Ms. Taylor's personal belongings were still in the purse, the thieves had removed about $150 cash, police said.

THIEVES TAKE RODS AND REELS

An undisclosed number of fishing rods and reels were stolen from the Sanford Avenue Boat Shop, 313 E. 11th St., at about 4:40 a.m. Sunday.

Police said the thieves broke into the shop after breaking a window and stole the fishing equipment.

BOATING MISHAPS

A sailboat and canoe overturned on Seminole County lakes Saturday, dumping the occupants overboard. No one was injured.

John William Iannotti, 32, a Maitland school teacher, was operating a canoe on a lake near Forest City at about 4:54 p.m. when it overturned near the intersection of State Road 436 and the Pearl Lake Causeway, deputies said. The canoe sank, but was later recovered.

Peter C. Erevdenberger, 22, of 108 Windingridge Road, Sanford, was sailing with a friend on Lake Monroe when wind and a wave caused his 13.5-foot craft to capsize.

Erevdenberger and his companion were given life preservers from a passing boater. No one was injured. Deputies said Erevdenberger was given a citation for not

THIEVES BURGLARIZE TOYOTA DEALERSHIP

Thieves broke into the Citrus County Toyota dealership sometime between 7 p.m. Sunday and 2:26 a.m. today and stole an undisclosed amount of money and papers from the company's safe.

The burglary was discovered by deputies making a routine check of the business. Deputies said when they looked through the office window they saw the safe open in the hallway with a hammer, screwdriver and parts of the safe lying on the floor nearby.

The thieves entered the business, located at 1571 U.S. Highway 17-92, through a broken window, deputies said.

IT'S A BIRD, A PLANE, A PARACHUTIST?

Four parachutists, landing at a Lake Mary home at about 5 p.m. Sunday stirred quite a bit of interests from area residents and law enforcement officers.

The parachutists touched down near 275 Evansdale Road, and the Nativity Church, deputies said.

"We got a call about someone jumping out of a low-flying plane Sunday afternoon," said sheriff's spokesman John Spolaski. "I responded to the scene and notified Lake Mary police because it was in their jurisdiction. Apparently, there was a party going on and the parachutists, who supposedly had the necessary permission to do so, were putting on a skydiving exhibition for their friends."

Lake Mary police said today that no arrests were made and no one was injured in the incident.

Seminole Greyhound Park's opening date was in jeopardy until Monday when the track's owners agreed to post a $300,000 surety bond while they appeal a Fifth District Court of Appeals ruling which held that the facility's racing license is invalid.

struction business doesn't apply to a racetrack."

Coble said he will draw up the surety bond order for Laffer's signature and asked that the new bond be posted no later than April 30, since Seminole Greyhound Park is scheduled to open May 3.

"It's a compromise. Everybody gave a little bit," said Strawn. "The agreement on the surety bond is acceptable to both sides," he said. Laffer ruled last June that Seminole Greyhound Park's racing license was invalid because it violated state laws governing the proximity of pari-mutuel plants in Florida. Seminole appealed the decision unsuccessfully. Last week the 5th Circuit Court of Appeal upheld that decision.

Strawn said he expects to begin work on filing an appeal to the state Supreme Court today.

Seniority Systems Immune From Job Bias

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even if statistics show a job seniority system favors white males, a Supreme Court ruling means minorities and women in the labor force will have a tough time getting the system revised.

The justices, splitting 5-4, ruled Monday that seniority systems are immune from job discrimination suits unless actual intent to discriminate can be proven.

"The fact that a seniority system has a discriminatory impact is not alone sufficient to invalidate the system," Justice Byron White noted for the sharply divided court.

The broad protection applies no matter whether the seniority system was put in place before or after the nation's civil rights laws were strengthened in 1965, White concluded.

The high court's ruling grants all bona fide seniority systems the protections written into Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, which took effect in July 1965.

Although the law made it illegal for an employer to discriminate in hiring, firing and pay, it granted special treatment to seniority systems. It allowed employees to be treated differently under seniority systems to protect workers' accrued rights to promotions and wage benefits.

The four dissenting justices argued against giving special treatment to all seniority systems.

Justice John Paul Stevens said Congress wanted to protect only those seniority rights that accrued before Title VII took effect — and not "benefits under seniority systems that were the product of deliberate racial discrimination."

Justice William Brennan, who was equally critical, called the majority's ruling "truly remarkable" and protested that Congress never intended to protect "the byproduct of discrimination."

Pay Raises: Who Gets One And How Big Will It Be?

The Seminole County Commission was scheduled to work on a formula to determine cost-of-living salary increases for some 800 county employees at an afternoon workshop session today.

The commission will consider three basic formulas, or a combination of the three, in figuring just how much to budget for raises in the upcoming fiscal year.

And it will be taking into consideration that out of 67 Florida counties, Seminole ranks as the sixth most expensive to live in based on the Consumer Price Index.

The county based cost-of-living increases at 6 percent this year, but how much inflation has affected buying power is one of the questions facing the commission when it determines the percentage of increase in raises.

According to the Consumer Price Index (CPI), which measures a fixed market basket of goods, including costs of transportation, clothing, housing and medical care, a survey of 88 urban areas nationwide computed to an increase of 10.4 percent for 1981.

However, under the CPI's personal-consumption category, which covers transportation and food prices but not housing, the increase was lower, at 8.3 percent.

Under a third CPI category, which measures the Gross National Product — the gross increase of all goods and services produced by the economy — in 1981 the increase was 9.1 percent.

"The board has three basic items to select from," explained Commission Chairman Robert Strawn.

"The CPI has been used before in determining cost-of-living salary increases," he said. "I believe it's as good an equalizer as any method. The board has three basic items to select from," explained Commission Chairman Robert Strawn.

"The CPI has been used before in determining cost-of-living salary increases," he said. "I believe it's as good an equalizer as any method. The board has used it before and modified it," somewhat, and usually has gone with a figure somewhat less than the increase noted in the CPI."

Strawn noted that the commission will consider factors such as regional trends and percentage increases in other areas of the South to determine what percentage of increase will be selected for county employees.

"The raises could go into effect primarily in mid-year," he said. "Any time between now and July. Or the increases could come as far back as Oct. 1 or even the first of the year," he said.

For the period from December 1980 to December 1981, the national Consumer Price Index average was 8.9 percent. However, for urban areas with populations between 75,000 and 385,000, the index increase in the South was set at 9.6 percent.

County workmen put finishing touches on the new realigned section of County Road 427 at the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 419 at Five Points.

Traffic Light At 'Six Points'

Five Points, the junction of State Road 419, County Road 427, and U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford, became "six points" this week with the opening of a new alignment of CR 427 and Hwy. 17-92.

The 600-foot strip brings CR 426 out on the west side of 17-92 at the SR 419 signal light. Motorists can still use the old SR 426 approach.

"This is the final phase of safety improvements recommended by the Tipton Associates 1978 traffic survey," according to Seminole County Public Works Director Jack Schuder. "Five Points was one of the worst intersections for traffic accidents and fatalities in the county."

"The county developed the new intersection to try and improve safety in that area," Schuder said. "The state put up two signals and our part was to realign 426 to come in at one of the lights."

A left turn light was added in the northbound lane of 17-92 for motorists wishing to turn left onto CR 426. Those entering the old intersection from 17-92 must stop to give the right of way to those using the new section. The new road cost the county more than $75,000 for purchase of the right-of-way and $19,000 for materials, Schuder said, noting that the new light is just part of the county's ongoing signalization process.

Schuder said that other traffic signals installed recently include those at Old Lake Mary Road and Airport Boulevard and Airport Boulevard and Sanford Avenue. Presently out for bid are signal lights at State Road 436 and Hunt Club Boulevard, Sand Lake Road and Hunt Club Boulevard, and CR 427 and Church Street.

Also in this year's budget is a light at Spartan Drive and 17-92 north of the Maitland interchange. The design has been completed and approved, Schuder said, but it has not gone out to bid.

Schuder said the present level of growth in Seminole County calls for adding 4-6 signal lights a year. "We are continuing to look at major intersections to see if they warrant a traffic signal," he said.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

State Budget Impasse Nearing Resolution

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — House-Senate negotiators on the $10 billion new state budget probably will wind up their work today.

The argument over how to ensure that part of the money going to cities and counties from a penny increase in the sales tax will reduce property taxes is serious, but House Rules Chairman Sam Bell of Daytona Beach and other leaders believe it will be resolved in time for Wednesday's scheduled adjournment of the current special session.

Concealed Handguns OK

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Motorists can conceal handguns in their trucks or cars if they are "securely encased" or "not readily available" for firing, under a bill signed into law by Gov. Bob Graham.

The measure (HB 1179) by Rep. Wayne Hollingsworth, D-Lake City, clarifies the statutes to allow handguns in a locked or unlocked glove compartment, under a seat or in a snapped holster.

Boating Mishap Claims 4

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A pleasure ride on the St. Johns River turned into apparent tragedy Monday, with two adults and two young children missing and feared drowned in treacherous waters.

Two other passengers were rescued after their boat was swamped by heaving waves.

WORLD IN BRIEF

British Residents Ready To Evacuate Falklands

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Argentina's 17,000 British residents made urgent plans today to evacuate if the Falkland Islands crisis escalates into a full-scale war. Residents of the archipelago also voiced fear of a bloodbath.

Argentine officials, meanwhile, said a 40-veeael British rescue fleet en route to the South Atlantic was "unthinkable in the civilized world" and said Britain was causing "a conflict of world proportions."

Politician's Killer Sought

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Right-wing politicians say the assassination of a newly elected assemblyman will not slow formation of their coalition, and police vowed today to track down the killers.

A National Police spokesman said Monday the agency's investigation Division launched a dragnet for the killers of David Joaquin Quinteros, an assemblyman of the ultra-right Nationalist Republican Alliance.

COG To Discuss Garbage Study

Solid waste disposal will be the major topic of conversation at the 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday of the Seminole County Council of Local Governments. The meeting will be held at the Oviedo City Hall, 20 E. Broadway St.

Jack Schuder, the county's director of public works, will be the guest speaker.

Several years ago, Schuder and municipal representatives completed a solid waste (garbage) disposal study as mandated by the state.

Schuder is currently conducting a similar study and will report Wednesday on the results of that effort.

The Council of Local Governments is composed of delegates from each of the seven city governments in the county and the county commission. The group discusses subjects of interest to all the local governments and exchanges information.

Plans Being Made For Older Americans Month

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

An information seminar on subjects relevant to senior citizens to be held May 26 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Greater Sanford Civic Center is among the activities planned by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Senior Citizens Committee for the upcoming "Older Americans Month" during May.

During the month, there will be informative exhibits and demonstrations on health, safety, crime prevention, and agencies providing services for seniors.

Barbara J. Lipelas, operations supervisor for the Sanford Social Security Administration office, will speak on Social Security at a chamber breakfast at 9 a.m. on May 7 at the chamber office.

A "36 Alive" Driving Course will be held April 30 and May 1 at the Senior Citizen Multipurpose Center, Secret Lake Park, Casselberry. The class will be taught from 1 to 4:30 p.m., Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. The course will be sponsored by the South Seminole Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, will help pass out the quarterly disbursement checks to United Way of Seminole County agencies at noon on April 14 at the Senior Citizen Multipurpose Center in Casselberry.

The checks, which are usually mailed out, will be presented to the agency representatives, where possible someone who has been a recipient of its services, to let the congressman and the public know what United Way is doing and what the needs are.

The chamber is also working with a travel agency to provide a package deal to include a bus trip for seniors from Sanford to Cape Canaveral, a one day cruise and overnight stay in a motel for $100.

Mrs. Pauline Stevens, committee chairman, announced that plans for the Golden Wedding party for couples married 50 years or more have been postponed until an as-yet undetermined later date.

...Parents Search For A Way To Cope

leading the father to ordering his son out of the house after the son had struck his mother, damaged the house and left.

As with all the parents' personal stories, this family's crisis centered on their son's use of drugs.

"The drug culture has its own ethics, morals and sense of values," said the father. "The kids who get involved with the drugs are as thick as thieves. They lie for each other and cover up for each other.

"You wouldn't believe that a 14- or 15-year-old child was capable of looking his parents dead in the eye and lying flat out to them. No parent wants to believe their child is capable of that."

The man, a self-proclaimed talk-show addict, first heard about the "Toughlove" organization on a local radio station, and later borrowed the organization's handbook.

The two biggest keys to the "Toughlove" concept are the "bottom line" and a verbal or written contract.

The bottom line is, in effect, the parents saying, "This is the way I'm going to be. Under our roof, live by our rules or suffer the consequences."

Sometimes the consequences are tough. Tougher on the parents than the kids.

"I was afraid to kick my son out of the house," recalled the father. "Afraid of the guilt. But things got to the point where it was the only alternative."

The son returned home, agreeing to a contract of do's and don'ts. He goes to college now and holds a part-time job. A success story? Yes, but one still in the making.

"When you have a child with a problem like ours, there are going to be peaks and valleys," said the father. "Right now things are going well. That doesn't mean they'll be going well tomorrow or next week, though," he said.

"Our daughter smoked pot for two years before we realized it," said the mother of a 15-year-old girl.

"She ran away from home eight times. The last time she left she was gone for six days. To meet her, you'd never think she could be like that," continued the mother.

"Right now she's going to a local drug counseling group, and it's helping. Things are calm now, and we're getting control of our family again. But she put us through the wringer," she said.

"It took us a long time to realize that our daughter was using us against each other, that she was manipulating my husband and I. Kids are so smart, they're the masters of manipulation, and parents can easily play right into their hands," she added.

Another mother, new to the group, explained that she had three children with disciplinary problems — two daughters 20 and 18 and a 19-year-old son.

The elder daughter started smoking pot when she was 13. The mother never found out until three years later.

"By then all hell had broken loose," said the mother of four. "We were constantly getting into trouble. My elder daughter ran away from home, the last time she was gone for six or seven days. Later I found out that she had struck up a friendship with a known lesbian, a woman my age, and that was where she was staying."

"That came as a real shock," said the mother.

"Our son, who is now in the service, was a problem since the day he was born," continued the mother.

"When he was 13 he hot-wired my husband's car and stole it. One year in high school, he skipped from October to the Christmas holidays before we found out.

"He cost us $1,500 in legal fees for the trouble he got into, and once when we got in an argument when my husband was at work, he tried to break my arm when I attempted to keep him from going out," said the woman.

"We lost control of our family life, and I found myself hardening on everything else in life because of the problems with my kids," she said.

"And I'm concerned about my 5-year-old. He hears and sees the older kids in the family and has begun to mimic their behavior. I've already been called to his kindergarten for some temper tantrums," she added.

A couple in their late forties arrived a little late for the meeting, having just finished meeting with the local juvenile arbitration board.

"Our 17-year-old son was arrested for shoplifting, and he was using drugs," explained his mother. "He was always tired and rundown. We've got a written contract with him now, and he's going to have to live by it."

Another mother pointed to a common denominator of all the parents in attendance.

"They manipulate us," said the mother of a 17-year-old girl. "My kid told me I'm the one who needs the counseling, I'm the one with the problem."

"My daughter got involved with pot and Quaaludes," she said.

"We put her in a residential drug counseling center for a weekend, hoping it would help. But it turned out to be a bad move. She was roughed up by some of the other kids there and threatened suicide if we didn't come get her right away."

"After that incident she swore she'd behave, that she'd agree to a contract, including a urinalysis test whenever I wanted her to take one.

"Things have been calm for a couple of weeks," said the mother. "Then last weekend she admitted that she had taken a few puffs of a joint at a concert. We were in the car at the time, and I almost went off the road. I wasn't happy, but maybe this was making a little progress. At least she talks to me a little bit."

Another couple, who drove all the way from Melbourne, explained they'd been searching all over for help but had found few results.

"Our 16-year-old daughter used to be a straight-A student and she'd make Linda Carter look undernourished," said the proud father.

"She had everything in the world going for her. Then she started using marijuana, her personality changed and she kept getting into trouble. She dropped out of school too, and now hangs around one of those damned game rooms," said the father.

"We've tried to get her to counseling programs and a psychiatrist," added the mother. "But nothing seems to work. She stays out all night," said the soft-spoken woman.

"We try to make her stay in," the father added, "but she walks out the door and flips us the finger."

"You would be amazed at the language she uses when there's an argument too," he added. "She curses at us terribly."

The couple from Melbourne also acknowledged that peer pressure definitely played a more important role in their daughter's life than they did as parents.

"She's been running around with the same friend for a couple of years now," said the father. "They're inseparable, and my daughter even told us not to try to break off their friendship. She told me we'd never pry them apart."

"Kids seem to have a hard time making good decisions," injected another woman.

"Our 17-year-old son has been on and off drugs and in and out of trouble since he was 13. He keeps doing things and making bad decisions that bring self-hate upon him, and we get a terrible feeling that he's headed for another crisis," she said.

"He quit Alcoholics Anonymous, he quit a couple of drug rehabilitation programs too," she continued. "He just seems ready to go over the edge again."

While not all youngsters who rebel against parental authority are involved with drugs, every troubled couple that attended the local Toughlove chapter meeting confirmed that their kids are using drugs — marijuana, in particular.

Where do high school-age kids get the money to buy drugs? And where do they buy them?

"You'd be amazed at how resourceful they are at coming up with the money," said one mother.

"Sometimes they steal the money from home or steal something worth selling," added a father.

"Some of them get together and form a bankroll," said the mother with three problem children. "Then they buy enough pot to turn around and sell at a profit, so not only are they using the drugs, they're dealing them too."

"Kids can go to school and with their lunch money buy a joint for a dollar or two, or maybe a Quaalude," said another parent.

While parents contend that drug abuse remains the underlying reason for the majority of the problems with their teen agers, Winter Park family therapist Dr. John Curtis disagrees.

"Drugs are part of the problem," he says. "But they are symptomatic of an underlying problem, and parents use the drug problem to take on the roles of martyrs."

Curtis points to massive sociological changes in the last two decades as strong contributing factors to troublesome teens.

"The impact of television and the mass media has extended the childhood of a lot of young people," he says. "This is the first generation that has grown up knowing there's a very real possibility that some nut could push a button and we could have a nuclear holocaust."

"The average kid spends six hours a day parked in front of a television set. Most of them think food comes from places like Albertson's and Publix."

"Young people today don't have any real concept or respect for family survival. Years ago, if the kids didn't do their chores, sometimes the family wouldn't eat. They don't have an appreciation for what it takes to make a family work. They feel they no longer belong to the same kind of world their parents grew up in," he says.

But Curtis hesitates to point the finger directly at societal changes and at young people.

"As infants, everyone comes into the world with the basic fear of abandonment. Children, at a very young age, realize parental support is essential for their survival. But as they grow older," says Curtis, "they begin testing their parents for authority. They want a strong family support system up until about junior high age. Then they begin testing their parents in a power struggle, and it can be difficult for both sides."

"But I firmly believe kids want their parents to be in charge, they want a predictable, safe, loving environment."

"A lot of parents may not realize it, but kids look for the parents to help them carry the burden of peer pressure when they get to the age where drugs can become a part of their lives."

"At the junior high and high school age, what their friends think about them takes on more significance than the rules and regulations of their parents," continues Curtis.

"That has a big impact on the kids, and at that stage they're really looking for the parents to tell them to believe in themselves. Most kids quit believing in themselves at that stage; that's why many of them fall prey to drugs."

While the present generation is faced with dealing with many sociological changes, Curtis sees a shift back to a more conservative outlook on the part of young people.

"In the 1960s family life and society underwent a real upheaval," he says. "In the '70s things went into the doldrums for a while."

"But I feel kids are beginning to become more conservative in their interests. Things like the Iranian crisis brought back a feeling of nationalism, and young people are again becoming concerned with the future, with education, and they're beginning to get back to a strong family concept," he says.

None of the parents who came to the Toughlove meeting came expecting an overnight cure for their real, painful, personal problems. Instead, they came to share, and possibly learn to cope with their troubled children. They came for support, and to gain a feeling that each family with a crisis is not alone.

Tomorrow, Herald staff writer Donna Estes completes the four-part Toughlove series with information about the national organization and where troubled parents can find help on the local level.

Political Promises: Just About Anything Goes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters beware: the Supreme Court says when it comes to political promises, politicians can get away with just about anything.

In striking down a Kentucky law that sought to ban candidates from vowing to cut their salaries, the court ruled — in effect — politicians are free to pledge less taxes, more happiness, or any of countless other campaign promises.

Writing for the unanimous court, Justice William Brennan said:

"The free exchange of ideas provides special vitality to the process traditionally at the heart of American constitutional democracy — the political campaign."

He noted, however, states can prohibit candidates from "corrupting agreements and solicitations" — such as offering payments in return for votes.

But he added, "A candidate's promise to confer some ultimate benefit on the voter ... or member ... of the general public, does not lie beyond the pale of First Amendment protection."

During oral arguments on the case, Justice Thurgood Marshall quipped he thought the law tried "to enforce a rule a politician must always tell the truth."
