

If Iron Lung Stops, A Polio Victim Is Three Minutes From Death's Door

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
BOSTON (AP)—You're only three minutes from choking to death if your iron lung stops—if you can't breathe.

But hundreds of polio victims, facing this terror, are being weaned from their iron lungs at special polio centers and are courageously going home to live new, more independent lives.

With some breathing muscles paralyzed by polio, many had lain for months, even years, in hundreds of hospitals scattered across the nation—all alone, nearly forgotten, each a solitary prisoner of his own thoughts. Men, women, children . . . Now they're being gathered together in 10 special polio respirator centers.

They help each other, cheer each other on to stay out of the massive lung for a minute, two minutes, five minutes . . . breathing alone.

They cheer each other to "graduate," free for a few hours in a new lightweight chest lung made of plastic or metal, or to live without any kind of artificial lung while lying in a rocking bed which lifts up and down to help weakened breathing muscles.

A mother of two children now does her own housekeeping, wearing a little chest lung by day, going to dinner parties and the Theater with it, sleeping at night in an iron lung.

A man still able to move only one thumb now owns and runs a music-record shop, owns his car fitted out with a portable chest lung, is enjoying independence.

A young girl, for two years isolated in a hospital room, now lives at home in a wheelchair with no breathing aid of any kind. She is the shining example for another girl near here who now is being weaned away from her iron lung. She also knew that moment of first being able to be outside the big lung for a while, and thrilled at being able "to see my feet again!"

The centers show doctors and nurses how better to care for iron lung patients. And they are training grounds for other doctors and nurses.

They also give research scientists the opportunity to study and solve the problems faced by iron lung patients. From that is coming a new science of helping patients with breathing troubles of all kinds, new knowledge of the basic facts of breathing.

Established and maintained by March of Dimes funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the centers so far are pioneering a new era of treatment for polio breathing victims.

Some 20 per cent of patients in the last three years have gone home to live more independent lives.

The center here is the Mary MacArthur Memorial Respirator

Center at Wellesley Hills, a division of Children's Medical Center in Boston.

This unit has only 12 beds, but has sent nearly 30 patients home since it was opened in November 1950. Five are completely free now from any breathing aids.

Nine other centers are operating or soon will start in Ann Arbor, Mich.; Omaha, Neb.; Los Angeles; Houston; Louisville, Ky.; New York; Buffalo; Chicago; and Seattle. One—in Houston—has sent more than 100 patients home. The Los Angeles center now has 120 patients.

No College Allure For Harry Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Halls of Ivy hold no allure for former President Harry S. Truman.

"I don't expect to be a college president," Truman said today in the wake of a report that he was under consideration for appointment as president of the University of Maryland.

The former President first declined comment on the report, later issued his unelaborated statement.

IN THE HERALD:

5, 10, And 40 Years Ago

Sanford Heights should have sidewalks and a street as soon as possible. The road to Dublin of ancient times was a feather bed compared to Park Ave. from 10th to Hughey.
The first split skirt of the season was on the streets here today, being worn by a very attractive girl who was a stranger even to W. J. Thigpen. The gown was cut from the foot to the knee exposing a beautiful array of silk bonetry. There is no ordinance against the split skirt in Sanford.

The Sanford Cerylates defeated the DeLand baseball team by a score of five to three. Groosa, pitching for DeLand struck out 15 and allowed three hits. Sanford's hurler, Wallace, fanned 15 and was touched for four safeties.

Aviation Machinist Mate Harold V. Booth, a former resident of Sanford, and a cousin of Mrs. Ira Southward, has worked conjunctively with another Navy man and invented an aerial missile to save lives.
A sale at the Table Supply grocery store featured the following articles: meaty club cuts of beef steak, 40c lb.; veal chops, 38c lb.; breakfast bacon 41c lb.; lettuce, 9 1/2c per head, and butter, 40c lb.

The staff of The Sanford Herald had a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dean on Lake Onora where they enjoyed baseball and swimming games before supper.

Charles Morrison, song leader, and Harry Kudoff, pianist, teamed up to give Winter Park Rotarians a lively musical quiz at the meeting today in that city.

Old Richard, zoo superintendent, announced today that seven new alligators, five to seven feet long, were presented to the Sanford Municipal Zoo by State Game and Fish Commissioners Finley and Welch.

In an impressive candlelight service the Girl's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church conducted a coronation service last evening. Miss Barbara Ann Pearce was crowned as queen because of her outstanding achievements in church work.

Some fans who have backed the Cardinals through thick and thin all seasons—never giving up on the boys when losses were coming fast and furious—are just a bit disgusted when they hear about some of the things which if done by others would cause no lifting of the eyebrows. We have the reports of rowdism that we've heard are exaggerated, but since the sixties we've heard come from people who generally live on the 100 percent cold truth, we're afraid things may be even worse in some respects than related. Follows, my kids and that recent commotion in the Sanford area look to you as their heroes—please don't let them down.

Local residents take the Sanford Municipal Zoo pretty much for granted without realizing what an outstanding drawing card it is for visitors to Florida. We know of several groups down from the north who have gone miles out of their way to spend an hour or two looking over the animals. Monkey Island appears to be the greatest attraction. This reporter always cuts through the zoo on the way to and from service club meetings. The City is constantly adding new features.

Sometimes bunches pay off. When the big hurricane started developing off Daytona Beach on Wednesday, we felt it wouldn't flate out as so many others have done. We played it as our big story of the day, and the prominence given to the weather story was justified. Just a year ago the SomerTime family was living on the oceanfront at Virginia Beach, Va., and that recent commotion last night caught the full fury of the storm. We'll never forget the hurricane that swept through New England back in 1852 that caused so much damage mainly because the people up there just couldn't believe the storm would hit the area. Not that we hold anything against more northern states, but we sure hope that future blasts will again bypass Florida.

Thoughts While Shaving—The readers who think the remarks under the "shaving" paragraph head comprise the best portion of this column get a double dose yesterday. Oftentimes the SomerTime writes one portion of the column in the afternoon and finishes up the next day. That's what happened yesterday—we just plumb forgot that we'd turned out similar remarks the previous day.

The typhoon with 175 mile an hour winds in its core that's headed for Okinawa reminds us of another typhoon two years ago when the Navy was conducting maneuvers off the most northern-most of the Japanese chain of islands. A typhoon headed right for the portion of the Pacific Ocean we were then occupying, and all the ships headed east "full steam ahead" and never stopped running for some 60 hours. We did miss the full blast of the storm though.

Through the medium of the amateur radio setup, Mrs. Mary Bucarel and her two young sons are happy people these days. About a month ago Marine Corps Master Sergeant Chris Bucarel sailed for the West Pacific. He is now stationed on Hedron Island, just off the coast of Korea. Through an amateur radio operator here, he sent a message to his family on Aug. 2 and four days later Sonny Bucarel received the message from Leeburg here after it had passed through the hands of several other operators. Mary was certainly a happy girl when the dispatch came around. Incidentally, Sonny tells us that if anyone has a message which he would like sent to overseas points, he or some other kum would be glad to handle it. There is no charge for the service.

Don't look now, kiddies, but according to the calendar, school opening is just around the corner. On the morning after Labor Day, those carefree summer days will become a thing of the past. For the next couple of weeks, parents will be taking their youngsters to doctors and dentists for physical checkups followed by trips to clothing stores for new outfits. Dime stores and stationery shops are getting ready for the heavy demand for notebooks, pencils, and all the other items which are put to use by the student. Football will slide into the spotlight forcing baseball (except for the approaching World Series) into the background. And we sufferers of prickly heat and other hot-weather ailments will be moaning no more.

Hurricane Howls Into Norfolk Area 11 More Tremors Rock Ionian Islands

Landslides, Fire, And Death Stalk Survivors

PATRIE, Greece (AP)—Eleven more earth tremors shook the Ionian islands of Kefallinia, Ithaca and Zakynthos today. Landslides, fire and death continued to stalk the survivors, already stricken by modern Greece's worst earthquake disaster.
But the new tremors were of subsiding intensity and air-sea and rescue units from many nations were reaching the scene.
There still was no accurate account of dead and injured. American observers said they believed a Greek government estimate of nearly 1,000 killed was too small.
Adm. Lord Mountbatten, British command-in-chief of NATO naval forces, flew over Zakynthos, the main city on the island of the same name, and reported by radio that he saw "a large part of a cliff fall in the sea."
Fires still raged over the city of 25,000 population, he reported, and oil and gasoline storage drums were exploding. He added:
"Although two or three modern buildings in Zakynthos are still pristinely undamaged, the rest of the town is in even a worse condition than Argostoli. It has been gutted by fire in addition to receiving serious earthquake damage."

School Projects Will Be Finished By Labor Day

Three school projects under construction in the county will be finished in time for the opening of school, E. J. Moughtin, school architect, told the County Board of Public Instruction yesterday.

"Children must have a birth certificate in order to enter the first grade," Mr. Moughtin said. "Children must be six years old by Jan. 1, 1954, in order to enter school. The school year will be Sept. 2."

It was expected to hit southern New Jersey in the afternoon and have some effect on the South seaboard as far north as Massachusetts by midnight.
To the north, coastal cities and beach resorts were cautioned down against gale winds and abnormally high tides.
Damage in North Carolina and Virginia, forecasted at the sudden blow that erupted up in the South Atlantic, appeared comparatively light on the basis of early reports.

Old Era Ends As Guard Changes In U. S. Top Military Command

WASHINGTON (AP)—An old era ends this weekend and a new one begins with the changing of the guard in America's top military command.
It means President Eisenhower is ready to direct a sweeping new study of the armed forces' makeup and missions in relation to the destructive fury of guided missiles and atom bombs.
In brief Pentagon ceremonies Saturday morning, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, 57, will take over the duties of chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS), succeeding Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 60, who had held the post for four turbulent years.
A few minutes later, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, 58, will become Army chief of staff, replacing

Old Era Ends As Guard Changes In U. S. Top Military Command

57-year-old Gen. J. Lawton Collins (Gen. Nathan F. Twining, 55, already has taken office as Air Force chief of staff, succeeding Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, 54, retired.
The new Joint Chiefs of Staff will be completed Monday when Adm. Robert B. Carney, 58, becomes chief of naval operations, succeeding Adm. William F. Fechteler, 57.
The first big job of the "new team" will be to study the composition and missions of the Army, Navy and Air Force and to take another look at the strategic planning which has guided the nation's defense buildup since the start of the Korean War in mid-1950.
The recommendations from this study are expected to influence:
1. The size of the Air Force and the makeup of its wings.
2. The role which the Navy will play in strategic air warfare.
The changeover in command was not a case of President Eisenhower putting his friends in command to replace men who were cool to him—because the old Joint Chiefs were friends who had served under him in Europe. Bradley, in particular, was close to Eisenhower and was one of his architects of victory in Europe.
But politically, the President pleased a good many Republicans who had come to identify the JCS closely with the Truman administration and the criticized conduct of the Korean War.

FROM THE SANFLY: VJ-62 Receives 'Outstanding' Rating For Annual Administrative Inspection

Photographic Squadron 62 received an "outstanding" rating yesterday in an administrative inspection conducted by Rear Admiral O. B. Harrison, commander fleet air, Jacksonville and his staff.

The rating received by the squadron is the highest classification for an inspection.

Following the inspection, Cmdr. G. R. Pearson, acting commanding officer of NAAS, accompanied the admiral on an automobile tour of downtown Sanford.

The National Emergency Ground Defense Forces of NAAS will parade in the Mid-Summer Jubilee at Winter Park tomorrow.

The NEGDIF was established to protect government property and to lend assistance to civilian authorities in local emergencies.

The NAAS unit is composed of men from each of the departments of the station.

The group will be accompanied in the parade by units from the Pine Castle Air Force Base, the American Legion and the Orlando Drum and Bugle Corps.

Other features of the Jubilee will include refreshments, luncheon, tours, a softball game and entertainment. Activities will begin at 7 a.m. with a flag-raising ceremony and the finale will be at midnight.

Proceeds will go to the Legion recreation and swimming pool fund.

A personnel inspection has been scheduled for Aug. 20 at the rear of the administration building.

A discussion of the topic, "The Bible — God Inspired," was held at the eighth weekly meeting of the Christian Fellowship in the chapel Tuesday evening.

During a business meeting, activities of the group were determined and progress evaluated. Plans were discussed for future meetings.

Games and refreshments will highlight the next meeting, Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. at the chapel.

The group will be accompanied in the parade by units from the Pine Castle Air Force Base, the American Legion and the Orlando Drum and Bugle Corps.

Other features of the Jubilee will include refreshments, luncheon, tours, a softball game and entertainment. Activities will begin at 7 a.m. with a flag-raising ceremony and the finale will be at midnight.

Proceeds will go to the Legion recreation and swimming pool fund.

A personnel inspection has been scheduled for Aug. 20 at the rear of the administration building.

A discussion of the topic, "The Bible — God Inspired," was held at the eighth weekly meeting of the Christian Fellowship in the chapel Tuesday evening.

YOUTHFUL IZAAC WALTONS, numbering over 500, flocked to Trout Pond Wednesday afternoon to participate in Seminole County's largest sporting event—the fourth annual Junior Chamber of Commerce fishing rodeo. The young anglers, ranging in ages from one through 14, came from every section of the county. Upper left, two-and-a-half-year-old Sidney Lloyd receives his rod and reel prize from JCC president Cliff Abel for being the youngest angler to snare a fish. Upper right, Abele Dillard displays his 12-ounce bass to Jack Grant, center, editor of the Florida Wildlife Magazine and Judge Porter Lansing, right. Upper center, the winners in all age groups hold their prizes. Left to right, Cecilia Hunsal, Betty Miller, Leroy Humphrey, Terry Appleby, Eugene Taylor, Charles English, George Dillard, and Johnny Yeakle. In the foreground is little Sidney Lloyd. Insurance Payoff Greater During Last Six Months

Florida families received $18,830,000 in life insurance death benefits in the first half of this year, compared with $17,550,000 in the corresponding period of last year, it is reported by the Institute of Life Insurance.

This year's payments were 123 percent greater than those in the corresponding period eight years ago, when the six-month total was $9,378,000.

The number of policies paid off because of death in the first six months of 1953 was 17,703, which compared with 16,909 in the first half of 1952 and 9,584 in the first half of 1945.

The rise in death benefit payments in the years since World War II directly reflects the greatly increased role of life insurance in meeting the family protection needs of the American people.

Holger J. Johnson, president of the Institute said in announcing the figures, "Death benefits paid in the first half of this year throughout the country were 51 percent greater than in the corresponding period of 1945 even though mortality among policyholders generally is very near the record low rate and materially below the 1945 rate."

Aggregate ownership of life insurance in this country has risen 82 percent in the past eight years. Many more people are now protected, and those who are insured through mortality are considerably more protected today than under the influence of alcohol.

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin's government today unadvisedly plans to halt its food distribution to East Berliners for 11 days and announced the giveaway would continue without pause.

The city senate said the American-sponsored parcels of food would be given out daily to all Soviet zone residents who come for them.

Driver Of Car That Killed Varns Convicted

CROSS CITY (AP)—A 6-man circuit court jury here Tuesday convicted Jerome Miller of Miami of manslaughter on charges of killing two Sanford residents in a traffic accident April 19.

Science was deferred pending hearing a motion for a new trial. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Varn were killed and four other persons injured, including Miller, his wife and baby and Edward C. Daniel of Sanford, the last passenger in the Varn car.

Varn was driving to Tallahassee to attend the Legislature where he was a lobbyist for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Witnesses testified Miller pulled into the left lane to pass and was confronted with Varn's car coming from the opposite direction. Both drivers swerved onto the shoulder and the cars collided.

France Gripped
By Bitter Strike

PARIS (AP)—France settled down today to a bitter struggle between striking labor and economy-minded Premier Joseph Laniel. With millions already off their jobs, the walkouts spread to civilian workers in the nation's armaments, army hospitals and quartermaster outfits.

Only 80,000 workers were involved in the 24-hour walkout at the military installations, but they dramatized the unions' determination not to stop until Laniel abandoned plans to trim government payrolls and up the retirement age for the civil service.

Most of the palms native to the United States are found in Florida.

PEOPLE AND PLACES: VC-5 Men Mistaken For Cons

By BILL YOST

Three men from composite squadron Five found themselves in a very uncomfortable position last Sunday night. The three, D. W. Durham, A. O. S. Lutz, AN, and W. G. Town, AN, were returning from a weekend in Homer, Ga. An unmarked black Buick sedan pulled abreast of them as they waited for a traffic light in the town of Palatka, Fla. Durham, who had been sleeping in the rear seat, was awakened by a knock on the car window.

As he investigated the disturbance, he found himself looking into the "business" end of a .38 revolver. The men then noticed that several carloads of policemen, sheriffs, and patrolmen had surrounded them completely. Upon orders from the lawmen, the three men got out of the car, immediately they were searched for deadly weapons and then handcuffed together.

Since the episode, the real fugitives have been apprehended near Adairville, Ga.

Okinawa Digs In As Wild Typhoon Nears Island

NAIHA, Okinawa, (AP)—This great American island base dug in tonight for one of the wildest typhoons ever recorded in the Pacific only a few hours away.

The Army ordered Condition 1 alert at 10 p. m. (8 a. m. EST) with the storm only about 12 hours away.

The typhoon's winds were howling up to 184 miles per hour. Already angry gusts whipped across air base runways and some B29 Superforts took off for safer air fields elsewhere in the Pacific—possibly Japan, the Philippines or Guam.

Other aircraft stayed at the field, loaded with sandbags or circled by fuel trucks filled with oil to break the typhoon winds.

Lower Income Families Will Find They Must Pay More Taxes In '53

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many lower income families will find they are paying more federal taxes next year despite a 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes set for Jan. 1.

The explanation: an automatic increase in social security taxes, which Congress has decided to let take effect on the same date.

In some cases, the social security boost more than offsets the reduction in income taxes.

President Eisenhower asked the lawmakers to cancel the social security tax increase, but the administration didn't press the matter and Congress took no action.

A powerful group of lawmakers apparently was ready to try to block Eisenhower's proposal on the theory that the tax boost is needed to safeguard death and retirement benefits for millions of persons under social security laws.

Congressional tax authorities estimate the 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes, for example, will save $13.20 a year for a married couple with two children and an income of $3,000 a year.

The tax cut would be reflected after Jan. 1 in pay checks subject to the withholding plan.

But the same checks will reflect an increase in withholding for social security. The boost on workers is from 1 1/2 per cent withheld now, to 2 per cent. Employers must pay at the same increased rate.

So for the $3,000 income family, the social security increase will amount to $15 a year—or $1.80 more than the income tax reduction.

A married couple with no dependents and $1,500 income would gain $6.80 from the income tax cut. But the same couple would lose $7.50 from the social security tax increase. Net loss: 90 cents.

The tax effect doesn't apply to higher income families, because they pay more income taxes and thus get a bigger dollar reduction. But the social security tax is limited to the first $3,600 of income. So the maximum social security increase will be $18 per year.

But God says, "Love God above all things, and after that love thy neighbor as thyself." Now don't ask who is your neighbor, but rather, how can you prove yourself a neighbor to anyone who stands in the need of help.

'Incidents' Can Lead To War

When the Russians shot down an American Air Force plane off the coast of Japan, it might have led to war. Actually the number of instances where a single incident has led to war are remarkably few. We did not go to war in 1915 when the Germans sank the Lusitania. We entered that war only when it became apparent that sinking neutral ships was a regular part of the German program. In 1937, when the Japanese sank the gunboat Panay, war could easily have resulted. It didn't come off because neither Japan nor the United States was ready to fight at that time.

Russia and Japan were at each other's throats along the Manchurian border for many years. Despite a great number of incidents, war between these two countries did not come until the waning days of World War II when Russia decided to gain what they had always wanted with very little risk.

War is too serious a business to result from one single hostile incident. But such incidents do irritate and unless steps are taken to prevent recurrences war can happen.

Ended Immunity

For years the people of the Scilly Islands, located off Land's End, England, have been able to escape paying income taxes. But that blessed isolation from the tax collector is about to end. Britain has decreed that the Scilly Islanders must pay taxes just as Her Majesty's other subjects must do.

The people of the Scilly Islands may find it difficult to adjust to the income tax. A man who must suddenly pay out 45 per cent of his income in taxes, which is what the British tax amounts to, may find himself facing a difficult financial situation. It is likely that the tax adjustment will be reflected in the prices of flowers on the London market for the Scilly Islands, because of their mild climate, produce and export a great many flowers.

The great jurist Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that he did not mind paying taxes because he regarded them as the price he must pay for civilization. This wise attitude toward taxes is sometimes a bit difficult to accept but it is nonetheless true. Perhaps that may bring a measure of consolation to the people of the Scilly Islands who are at the end of their blessed immunity from one of the less pleasant aspects of civilization.

Difficult Choice

Some observers believe that Governor Frank Lausche can change the complexion of successor to Senator Taft. They point out that at present the Republican edge is precarious and that the appointment of a Democrat may give that party control of the Senate.

On the other hand it should be pointed out that Governor Lausche is a conservative Democrat and it is possible that the man he appoints will share his viewpoint. While there are almost as many Democrats in the Senate as there are Republicans, many of the Democrats are conservatives with political philosophies which are closer to those of the Republicans than they are to those of the liberal Democrats.

There is no certainty, either, that the Democrats want to control the Senate next year. An election will be held in 1954 and it is possible that the Democrats will want the chance to run against the Republicans, that is to be in a position where they hold what may be wrong or whatever remains undone, the Republicans responsible for whatever remains undone.

Nevertheless the Governor's choice will not be an easy one to make. He has to not only bear a sense of responsibility to his state and to his country to appoint a party lack, he is well aware of the great responsibility that is his.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Magnificent civilizations have crumbled into dust and some are so completely forgotten that humanity cannot read the inscriptions on their ruined palaces. A race of slaves persecuted by a score of empires and decimated in our own day yet flourishes. They made God their fortress and guide. For this God is our God for ever and ever. He will be our guide unto death.—Ps. 48:14.

Is Business Like A Dinosaur?

NEW YORK (AP)—Dinosaurs, monsters of the past, got so big they outgrew their control mechanism. Some in management are asking now: Will big business go the same way? Will corporations grow so huge that corporate red-tape will strangle them?

The electronics industry thinks it has a solution. It sees business in the years just ahead going over to automatic control. That means fewer people can turn out more both at the factory or production level and at the office or control level.

When mechanical brains take over, the electronics men contend, corporations can grow much larger and yet be more easily run than at present.

For example: An oil refinery already runs with very few men needed to operate it. But at the office and oil company management is a highly complicated thing, and getting on the new technology. Almost every week electronics offers management new tools: speed calculators, closed circuit television, problem solvers to keep top management in quick touch with sales, production, and inventory.

Nearly a hundred companies are busy at work on these electronic devices. Some are specializing in machines doing particular jobs. This week Soundscaper Corp. of New Haven, Conn., offered a 24-hour magnetic automatic sound recording device, aimed at the aviation and radio industries, but useful for recording police and fire calls.

Others range up to the mammoth scientific marvels of International Business Machines and Remington-Rand, which solve in minutes business or design problems that would take hours or even weeks for men to figure out themselves.

Speed is the essential factor here in solving big business' greatest weakness. The bigger the animal or corporation grows, usually the slower its movements.

To busy companies at present, the machine Business Week will point out in its next issue—the assembly of essential data takes weeks and months. Corporate decisions, therefore, sometimes are made on information which has more historical than current worth.

This often gives small and less unwieldy business, with its greater speed, just the edge it needs.

New devices, now appearing in electronics plants, could change this. No matter how big and sprawling the company, it could use them to gather data faster, interpret its meaning all but instantly and thus make far more intelligent decisions. If technicians take over at the production level, overseeing factories running largely on automatic controls, top management may spend less time than now on production problems, and more on financing, sales and accounting.

Should this new industrial revolution come off as predicted, the man who runs a machine today, may become in the factory of the future a maintenance man. But Business Week feels that "mechanical" in a plant, because they will be few in number but important in function, will gain new status.

Adjustment to such a revolution would be pretty rough for a lot of folk.

The stenographer who loses her job when a new all-purpose machine comes into office won't appreciate the electronics industry's assurance that the long run it's the best thing for the economy. It will open up new jobs in time and a higher standard of living for the majority.

Makers of the new machines cite the advent of the typewriter and the adding machine as examples. More work got done—and more office jobs opened up. But time may have her doubts.

However, the whale now has a story to tell which no other whale naturally will believe.

Among postmasters confirmed by the Senate were a Hawk and a Peacock. Airmail, presumably.

Russia's Malenkov congratulates the North Koreans on their "great victory." Apparently the Reds, in war as in the Olympic Games, have a method of scoring different than anybody else's.

Man Must Keep Head At Home

NEW YORK (AP)—If a man will only keep his head, he can escape a lot of work around the house.

The secret is to appear to be working on something important. And to meet the requirements of the perfect labor-saving device, you couldn't find anything better than burning out an old tree stump.

It seems important, seems like a job in which a husband and father shouldn't be disturbed. Above all, it is pleasant, relaxing and serene. Staring at the blue and white and yellow fingers of flame makes you feel like a philosopher. But you don't actually think much. You only think you're thinking.

As a way of getting rid of a big, unsightly stump, it is the slowest method possible. If you play your cards right, you won't burn out your raw material for months.

I have now gotten away with it for three week-end runnings, and the end is nowhere in sight. I begin every Saturday morning with an impressive show of force—with kerosene, ax, shovel, crowbar, pickax, rake and garden hose.

Most of these things, I don't use at all. The others get only a minimum workout. The hose, of course, is for putting the fire out if it gets unruly. You can use the shovel to make one shallow trench around the stump. You can use the ax to make a few grand cuts in the wood that the fire will have something to burn through.

After making as much noise with the tools as possible, I ignite the thing and put up a lawn chair. Obviously, fires have to be watched. Occasionally, if anyone gets suspicious, you can poke fresh kerosene, shoot impressive black smoke and flames into the air. That takes care of the skeptics.

For three week-end now, my wife has failed to mention the warped screen door which needs painting. For these week-end now, the kids have forgotten the playhouse I was supposed to build. Occasionally, a warm sense of satisfaction, responsibility and importance courses through my body when I hear someone whisper: "Don't bother, daddy. He's burnin' the stump."

Frankly, I don't know why this impresses people. But it does seem to spread a sense of awe. Perhaps it's the cross-sectional view of the big old stump, all the hardened rings of age in the wood, the suggestion of mighty nature at work in these thousands of years, and here is puny man trying to undo a piece of it.

Of course, there is the hypnotic effect of the fire itself. It makes men pause and look grave and take the long view. With unseen hands, it holds a tight rein on conversation, and there is no room for anything complicated. It also makes busy people envious.

The first day I started, the man across the street, who was busy painting the outside trim, came over. He stared a while into the fire and said: "Burnin' it out, eh?"

"Sure am."

Long stare, long pause.

"There's something about a fire—"

"There sure is." Long stare, long pause. "Cigarette?" "Thanks." Long stare, long pause. Finally, he shook himself loose, almost wistfully one of our great soldier the best prepared and best equipped in the world.

The modern military installation is far different from those of World War I and the training given our men is much more thorough. Ft. Benning compares favorably with one of our great universities, and while its primary purpose is to teach the art of modern warfare, it does much more than that. It is building men physically and mentally, encouraging them to make the most of themselves through the exercise of initiative, tact, unselfishness, determination and many other character traits that will benefit them the rest of their lives regardless of whether their pursuit be military or civilian.

It is difficult for the average civilian to grasp what the Army is doing in its vast training program and to get the feel of it. A person has to spend some time in one of these training centers, sleep in the barracks, eat in the mess hall, sit in the classes and follow field maneuvers.

I did just that and was tremendously impressed with the whole program. The officers and instructors with whom I came in contact were high type men with a job to do and they were doing it well. The quality of their leadership was evidenced by the respect and confidence the men in the ranks displayed for them.

The men in training know why they are there and realize that it is for their own personal interest to learn all they can so that they will be better able to take care of themselves and outsmart the enemy should they ever be called into service.

The airborne training program was intensely interesting and the men engaged in this operation have to be physically fit and mentally alert. Ground and class room training fully prepares them before they make their first jump from a plane, and an indication of how thorough this training is, is evidenced by the fact that injuries to students are less than one half of one per cent.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

As a member of the Third Army Advisory Committee, it was my privilege, together with other committee members, to visit the Army's Infantry Training School at Ft. Benning, Georgia and acquaint myself with the training program designed to make the American soldier the best prepared and best equipped in the world.

Major General G. S. Meloy, Jr.,

is Commandant of the Infantry School, and I am indebted to him for a clear and concise interpretation of just what the infantryman represents in our military picture.

The general points out that final victory in any war must be won on the ground. With all due respect to our naval and air arms, we still must fall back on the infantryman to close with and destroy the enemy on the ground.

With the absence of physical seizure, vital enemy installations, damaged or destroyed, can be rebuilt or repaired.

In spite of devastating attacks by other forces upon objectives the fighting man of the Army still finds a determined enemy force resting in the ruins—an enemy force which can be ejected or destroyed only by superior forces on the ground.

The Army's primary mission is to train, equip and support the fighting man who, in the end, must bear the terrific impact of battle. It is he who gives continuity to battle. In all weather, by day or night, his fight is endless. Each plan, each team, is subject to constant disruption by violence amidst which he seeks to live and advance. In no other service is there greater need for intelligence, technical skill, leadership, hardiness and courage.

Visitors are always welcome at Ft. Benning, and if you want an unusual and interesting experience, I suggest you visit the rear area and see for yourself what is being so ably done there. It's your money and your Army, and you'll find it worthwhile to take an interest in it.

New Kind Of Survey

WASHINGTON (AP)—If a man from the Internal Revenue Service knocks on your door, wanting to know if you filed an income tax return, it's because of a paragraph tucked away deep in the tax law by Congress 25 years ago.

Every collector shall, from time to time, cause his deputies to proceed through every part of his district and inquire after and concerning all persons therein who are liable to pay any internal revenue tax, . . . and to make a list of such persons.

When new men were appointed to top internal revenue jobs by the Eisenhower administration, they began rummaging around in the tax laws to see what they were supposed to do. And they came across the section just mentioned. One of these new men is O. Gordon Delk Jr., former banker and farmer.

He said that under previous administrations in the past 25 years revenue agents have made this kind of survey in various places and at various times. But, he said, they didn't have enough statistical information for the new people to decide precisely the best way to make the survey.

So the agency, headed now by T. Coleman Andrews, began making different kinds of surveys around the country. In one place they'd check householders, in another manufacturers or storekeepers. And they have been instructed to overlook no one, including gamblers, who might be liable for a federal tax.

This doesn't mean that eventually a revenue agent will call on every home or business. Not enough men for that. But already surveys have been started or completed in New England, Nebraska, Denver, Fort Worth, and Roanoke, Va. Others will follow.

Andrews completed in a speech Wednesday night that his bureau got some stiff newspaper criticism in New England when the survey began there late in July. His men, he said, had been accused of G. I. tapo tactics. He promised the gate for any agent who tried that.

News about this project has almost cooled out. When the New England survey began, the agency released information about it in New England only, not nationally. News about the other surveys has been made known in bits. Yet the agency plans in time to make these surveys more or less nationwide.

The law provides a fine up to $500 and as much as two years in jail for interfering with an agent on this kind of survey.

But suppose an agent comes to your home, asking questions about your income tax return, and you tell him it's none of his business, (A) tell him that, if he wants to learn anything about your income tax relations, he can learn it at the nearest revenue office where you make your return.

In short, suppose you won't cooperate. Does the penalty apply to you?

When asked about this, Delk said he thought the penalty applied only to people in business when they interfered with an agent attempting to carry out the survey, not to householders.

If you refuse to cooperate with an agent who comes to your door—since he has your name and address—he can go back to the nearest bureau office and check in a minute on whether you filed a return.

If you did file a return and cooperated with him to the extent of showing him your return—but the return reported an income too low to be keeping with the apparent cost of your house and the car in your garage—the agent might like to pursue that a little further.

Andrews, of course, hopes his men will get nothing but cooperation. He says he's after cheaters because it would be unfair to people who honestly pay their taxes if he didn't try to find those who don't.

He said: "Preliminary reports indicate that a great many delinquent individual income and business tax returns are pouring into our field offices, along with the money due. It all adds up to the fact that we are causing a lot of folks to face up to their tax obligations for the first time."

Fire Moving Job

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP)—When the fire trucks couldn't go to the fire, they brought the fire to the trucks.

A diesel engine caught fire outside the city limits and the trucks were prohibited from leaving town. The railroad hooked a switch engine to the train and pulled it into the city limits where the firemen did their duty.

Blood Donor Gains

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Charles (Happy) Jones, Tinker Air Force Base fireman, has just donated his 100th pint of blood—some 12½ gallons worth.

When Jones donated his first pint of blood in 1937 he weighed 165 pounds. When he gave his 100th, his weight was 205.

Jeff Chandler Isn't Surprised At His Rapid Ascent In Films

HOLLYWOOD — A lot of people were surprised by Jeff Chandler's rapid ascent to fame in films. But not Jeff Chandler.

"I'm surprised it didn't happen sooner," remarks the actor with an amazing candor.

False modesty is a drug on the Hollywood market. That's why it's refreshing to meet a guy like Chandler, who takes a realistic view of himself.

"Maybe I'm being immodest—undoubtedly I am," he said. "But I wasn't surprised at my success in pictures. It sounds awful to say that, but I can't help it. Ever since I was a little boy, the one thing I wanted to do was make a name for myself in the movies."

"I knew it was going to happen. I was surprised that it took so long—three years."

Many observers have expressed amazement at Chandler's success, particularly with the mall shop set. They point out that he is far from pretty and has grey hair, although he's only 25.

"Yes, but look at the other leading men of today," he replied in his own defense. "John Wayne is certainly no pretty boy, nor is Marlon Brando or Burt Lancaster or Montgomery Clift. The age of the handsome leading man has pretty much passed."

Chandler's success is because he knows how to read lines convincingly. He had some valuable seasoning in stock and radio.

Take a tip from the Hawaiians these hot summer days—relax, and enjoy a tall glass of cool, refreshing Frozen Pineapple Juice! Delicate in flavor, this golden pineapple juice is a new taste experience for it is the fresh juice of field-ripened pineapples, concentrated and frozen by DOLE in Hawaii the same day the fruit is picked, and a new product in your markets.

The frozen juice makes the can of frozen juice into a pitcher or jar, and 3 cans of cold water, six of iced water, iced, and you have one can makes six servings of 4 oz. each, or four 6 oz. servings. Incidentally, if you are counting calories you may drink happily for no sugar is added, but all the natural sweetness of the sun-ripened Hawaiian pineapples is captured in the process.

It may be stored conveniently in your ice cube unit or freezer so that at a moment's notice you can serve frozen-fresh pineapple juice for breakfast, to afternoon guests, or for youngsters' snacks.

A perfect punch for a crowd is this one, and it's easy too. Try it at your church social, PTA meeting, or home party. It is so quickly prepared that you can make it just before serving.

FRUIT PUNCH FOR FIFTY, ISLAND STYLE

3 1/2 oz. cans DOLE Frozen Hawaiian Pineapple Juice Concentrate
1 1/2 oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate
1 1/2 oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate
3 quarts cold water
1 cup strong tea
2 quart bottle of gingerale, chilled

Combine frozen concentrates, water and tea in a large punch bowl, stirring well. Add chilled gingerale and mix immediately. For an Hawaiian touch, float a fresh flower or two on the punch, and surround the bowl with a "lei" of green garden leaves. Makes over 4 quarts, or 50 servings of 3/4 cup each.

The Hazards of Poliomyelitis Occurring During Pregnancy

By HERMAN N. BUISSEIN, M.D.

SINCE the late Franklin D. Roosevelt first started the March of Dimes campaign, there has been a great amount of research carried on, covering all aspects of polio.

One of the phases of the disease that has caused much concern, is the relationship of polio to pregnancy. At one time it was believed that a pregnant woman was more susceptible to polio than a non-pregnant woman. However, this has been disproved.

More Common in Twenties

Susceptibility does not vary with the stage of pregnancy, though it is more common in women having their first or second baby. Two-thirds of these cases of polio occur between the ages of twenty and twenty-five. Women who are pregnant, however, have a much higher mortality from polio than do non-pregnant women. Usually, the period of greatest danger is during the last three months of pregnancy, and right after the baby is delivered. Although the severe complications, such as pneumonia, are greater in the pregnant woman than in the non-pregnant woman, developing severe paralysis is less.

Affects Respiration

When polio occurs during the last three months of pregnancy, it may impose a considerable hardship upon respiration which may already be somewhat affected.

Polio Increase Rate Starts To Slow Down

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Infantile paralysis cases continued to increase last week, but at a considerably slower rate than in the week ended Aug. 3, which in turn had been a 24 per cent increase over the 1,300 cases in the week ended July 29.

But the most cases last week compared with 2,642 in the similar week ended Aug. 4 last, a total of 29 per cent below the comparable 1947 week.
