Nuclear Air Test Off - JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy announced today that the United States will not hold any further nuclear tests in the atmosphere "so long as other states do not do so."

Kennedy issued the pledge in announcing that the United States, Russia and Britain will begin "high-level" talks in Moscow soon in an effort to rescue a general nuclear test ban treaty.

The President said soberly that "the hopes of all mankind" go with the meetings, which are expected to start in mid-July under an agreement reached by Kennedy, Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold A. Macmillan.

The President then said in this connection that the United States will prove "our good faith and solemn convictions" by holding off any further nuclear tests in the atmosphere "so long as other states do not do so."

"We will not be the first to resume," the President declared. "Such a declaration is no substitute for a formal binding treaty—but I hope it will help us achieve one."

Women Win Pay Equality

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy planned to sign into law today a bill extending equality of the sexes to the pay window.

The legislation does not cover all women workers and will not take effect for one year.

Support Asked By Bryant

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. Farris Bryant said he plans to go to the voters to drum up support for two bond programs—one for college construction and the other to buy land for public recreation.

The Legislature already has approved both programs, but it will take a favorable vote by the public to put the programs into operation.

The date for the election, which cannot be sooner than 90 days after the Legislature adjourns or more than 180 days, has not been set. But the governor said he wants to hold the election as soon as possible.

The bond plan for college building earmarks $75 million during the coming biennium for construction. Revenue from the state's 1.5 per cent gross receipts tax on utilities would pay off the bonds.

The Legislature didn't set any limits on the amount of bonds that can be issued for the recreational program. Last year the governor's committee said $30 million worth of additional land was needed.

A small part of the money to back the bonds has been approved by the Legislature, but the bulk of the needed funds are included in the major tax bills being considered by lawmakers in the extended session.

Derailment Try Also Reported

ST. AUGUSTINE (UPI)—Fire damaged the passenger station and general roadmaster's offices of the Florida East Coast Railway at New Smyrna Beach Sunday night and a new attempt was made to derail a train, an FEC official said today.

Vice President W. L. Thornton said there was "every indication of arson" involved in the fires, both of which were extinguished before extensive damage was caused.

The company lost large quantities of files and papers in the roadmaster's office both through fire and water damage caused when firemen doused the flames.

No one was injured in the fire, or in the derailment attempt which occurred a few hours later at a grade crossing at New Smyrna.

Thornton said someone "pulled the tap from the bottom of the oil storage tank for the general roadmaster's office heater, then broke a window and threw oil on the floor and over our files. Then he set fire to the place."

He said the saboteur apparently "did the same thing at the rear of the old wooden passenger terminal 200 yards away." Firemen restricted damage to floors and walls in one room.

Thornton said the FBI was called to investigate.

"Two fires just don't start themselves like that," he said.

The FEC, which has been strike-bound in a wage dispute for 139 days, lost its station at Oak Hill, a few miles south of New Smyrna Beach, last month when fire apparently deliberately set—swept through the 50-year-old building.

Since the strike began Jan. 23, the railway has been plagued with vandalism and sabotage of its property. The FBI has about 50 reported incidents on its books.

Police Probe Theft Series And Shooting

Scott reported to police that Peterson demanded a bottle of wine and drew a knife and that he shot the Negro with a .25 caliber revolver. Scott was released under $200 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, pending hearing this afternoon. Peterson faces a charge of disorderly conduct.

Police also were investigating the theft of $50.21 from a cash register at the Hunter Cars and Fuel Company, 700 West 13th Street, an undetermined amount of cash stolen from a juke box and cigarette machine at the Silver Tip beer garden, 1400 West 13th Street, and $60 from a pinball machine, an undetermined amount from an e-cigarette machine and some currency from a hiding place at the Pure Oil service station, French Avenue at 6th St.

"LET'S TALK DRY CLEANING"

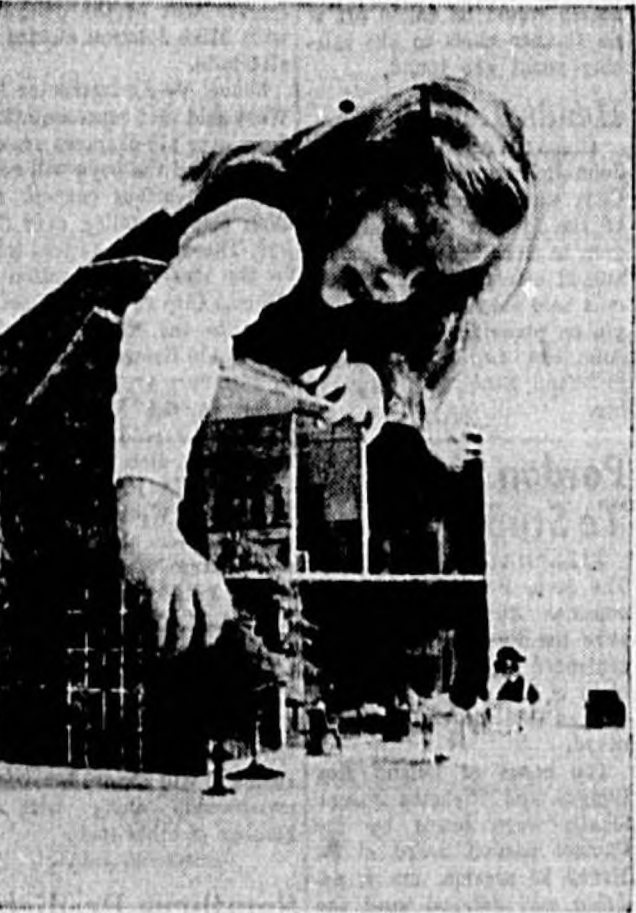

By - WOODROW CASH

In a recent column, we briefly discussed our cotton clinic. Questions from our customers indicate a lack of understanding about the professional drycleaning of cottons and what the Cotton Clinic consists of. Some even think a drycleaner deals only with non-washable fabrics, such as wools, etc.

Some of our best drycleaning work is done on cottons, and the finished product looks as good, or better, than when it was first bought. When cottons are laundered, they are often hung in the sun to dry, and they soon begin to look faded or even spotted from the sun. Sometimes they are limp and lose their body. We give your cottons the same careful treatment as any other fabric, plus the Sanitone process of rejuvenating limp garments. Our special method of handling and adding slings to the garment brings satisfaction to the owner who has paid a considerable price for his cotton clothes.

The buyer is often misled by the term "drip-dry". This does not assure you that it can be laundered, and worn without pressing. Any garment be it wool or cotton, can be washed and will drip dry. Carefully inspect the label on your cottons, and you will note the difference between "drip dry" and "wash and iron". Very often, you will see "can be laundered; for satisfactory results, we recommend drycleaning". This we can assure you; Cottons will retain their crisp, fresh look longer with good professional drycleaning. For this, we can recommend the Sanitone process as highly for your cottons as for your finest nylons or wools. Call, or drop by, the Downtown Cleaners, your Sanitone dealer, for further information about the Cotton Clinic.

Party Responsibility

The faded congressional coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans, which has existed in varying strength since 1953, is not what it used to be.

When President Kennedy took office in 1961, he could usually expect something like 60 southern Democratic votes in opposition to major domestic proposals.

For a variety of reasons, that total slowly has been reduced to a point where it now ranges from 50 to 55 on critical administration measures.

Administration liaison officials have been effective in many instances. And some southern lawmakers have changed their view as to what their constituents want.

Curiously, however, as this shift has occurred, the Democratic administration has not gained proportionately more comfortable margins for its principal programs. For, as Democratic vote totals have risen, Republican support for administration proposals has declined sharply.

There was time 50 or 50 or more GOP House votes were fairly certain for any major Democratic bill. Steadily that figure has sagged, until in some recent cases less than 10 fence jumpers have been counted. Once or twice it has been just one.

Republican leaders in Congress point proudly to this performance as evidence of increasing party unity.

Democrats are likewise pleased at the diminishing opposition from within their own ranks.

The situation that exists today is much closer than for many years to that which some political scholars consider a proper show of "party responsibility."

Some scholars argue persuasively that a party label cannot mean much unless the overwhelming majority of its office-holding members stand together in support of agreed programs clearly different from those of a rival party.

This seems to make eminently good sense, if not carried too far. Obviously there can be important measures, beyond the defense field, on which both parties ought to see nearly eye to eye. Neither party should oppose just for the sake of opposing.

Some politicians think unity of party must be rigid and total. Yet this notion leaves the national interest out of the picture. It is interesting to note, too, that quite a few political scientists believe the test of party unity is successfully met if office-holders stand together on many—but not all—major issues.

The key here is sound leadership judgment as to what it is important to be unified about. We cannot exalt such unity above the national good.

Lyle C. Wilson Says:

JFK Faces Issue

Continued bad luck with civil rights could impose a heavy penalty in next year's election on President Kennedy and on the Democratic Party.

Among the political facts of life are these:

- Only under unusual circumstances can a Democratic presidential candidate be confident of election without the electoral votes of most of the southern states.
- In the great industrial states outside the South, all Democratic candidates usually need the Negro vote to be elected.
- Well organized movements have developed in five Southern states to deprive Kennedy next year of their electoral votes. The method would be to effect voters' station of unpledged presidential electors. Legislation in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia have been rewritten to provide for the unpledged states. The proposal is pending in the legislatures of Florida and Louisiana. These five states represent 53 electoral votes.
- If no presidential candidate obtained a majority in the electoral college—270 votes—the election of a President and Vice President would be thrown into the House of Representatives. In that event, each state would cast one vote. Mississippi's vote would be equal, for example, to the vote of New York or Pennsylvania. The Southerners might be able to make a deal.

The one-state-one-vote system would restore to the South some of the political leverage it lost when Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered Democratic National Convention rules changed in 1952. For 100 years the Democrats had required a two-thirds majority for the nomination of a presidential candidate. In practice, the two-thirds rule gave the South a veto over presidential nominations. FDR scrapped the two-thirds rule, making a simple majority sufficient to nominate. The political influence of Southern states in the Democratic party has been shrinking toward zero ever since FDR's triumphant second nomination.

Political trouble outside the South will fall upon the Democratic party if President Kennedy is unable soon to reverse the disenchantment of Northern Negroes with his civil rights performance. Disenfranchised Southern Negroes have no muscle at the ballot box. They must take to the streets or put on the pressure with one of their sit-in maneuvers. Southern communities have been unable to cope with the sit-in technique of Negro protest.

A Northern Negro sit-home maneuver next year on election day would scuttle Democratic candidates in a great many Northern states. It could be deadly to candidates for mayor and sheriff as well as for the big shots.

An election day sit-home would be a revenge technique, no more, at the moment of next year's election. But the long-range impact would be very great if major Democratic defeats in such states as New York, Pennsylvania and California could be attributed to a Negro boycott of the polls. The Democrats then would know that Northern Negroes had bought into the party leadership for keeps.

O's and A's

Q—What admiral was shot for an error of judgment?
A—Admiral John Byng, the only British Admiral ever executed. In 1757, the naval court convicted him on the charge of not relieving Fort Mifflin in Minorca, threatened by the French.

Q—What is the origin of the expression "two bits"?
A—It comes from days when the Spanish dollar was often used as currency in American colonies. When small change was needed, the dollar was cut. The coin could be divided into 8 pieces, or bits.

Q—Which is the only Central American country that does not border on the Caribbean Sea?
A—El Salvador.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE #461: Albert H. aged 34, is a star salesman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I have heard you address our sales convention before. And I recall your urging salesmen to use what you described as 'psychological gravity.'"

"Would you explain that again?"

In psychiatry, we doctors often employ hypnosis. "But we, meanwhile, take full advantage of the known laws of inertia and physical gravity."

Thus, we have the patient clasp his hands in advance. For when we hypnotize him, if he is in the light stage of the first attempt, we get an "assist" from inertia.

For his fingers tend to stick together. So he would need to exert extra force to pull them apart.

Thus, when we tell him he cannot pull his hands apart, we have inertia working on our side to prove our point.

Likewise, which would you think is the better suggestion to a hypnotic novice: To let him hold his arms out straight from the shoulder before starting hypnosis and then tell him he can't lower them? Or to start with his arms hanging down at his sides and then tell him he cannot raise his arms?

Physical gravity works with the hypnotist in that second case, for the patient must resist both the hypnotist's command, plus gravity, if he wishes to raise his arms.

In advertising and salesmanship, moreover, it is wise to employ "psychological gravity."

In short, utilize the existing habits of the prospect to help instead of hinder, the sale. For example, which one of these advertising suggestions is better: Take XYZ coffee with you when going on a camping trip." "Going on a camping trip? Then take XYZ coffee with you."

If you wish to derive the correct answer, then try this next little experiment yourself or test the other members of your family thereby.

Take pencil and paper. Then, at the signal "Go," print the alphabet in the standard order beginning A-B-C . . . through X-Y-Z.

Time yourself and record the exact number of seconds required.

Now, for the second test, take a fresh sheet of paper. But at the signal "Go," print the alphabet in reverse order, starting with Z-Y-X and going backward to the letter "A."

Again, record the exact time in seconds.

Which time will be longer? It requires much more time to write the alphabet in reverse order, even though you have always seen the letters together, so it might seem as easy to go from right to left as vice versa.

But our previous habits of thinking have always led from "A" to "Z."

In the advertising situation mentioned above, our thought process starts with the idea of going on a camping trip, (not with the need for coffee) so that second example is better.

For it takes advantage of the natural direction of the prospect's thought.

Send for my booklet "New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 50c. It can zoom your sales.

WASHINGTON (EA) — Anyone who believes the reactionary right wing in America will not have to re-think the light at developments as they unfold.

Defeat of Kennedy administration control plan in a referendum of farmers.

Continued resistance to civil legislation endorsed by three states rightists to the U. S. Sen.

Early congressional action groups to the 1964 congressional elections.

The New Industry Political Committee (BIPAC) — led with a $100,000 from National Ass. of Manufacturers expected to draw support from American Medical and similar organizations group intends to start a Political Education.

This year's added strength of four-year drive by ans for Constitutional to elect more conservative members of Congress.

ACA has given public awards to congressmen whose records show consistent support for conservative legislation. Twenty freshmen congressmen who have not implied extensive volunteer work, but are on the "C" track, also were awarded.

If this accurate measure of relative strength in Congress is still decided by a tally, it consists of 20 percent 20 senators, 12 Repus and 8 Democratic—100 senators. It has 33 out of 154 representative 130 Republican and 24 Democratic—out of 435.

Right strength cannot be seen in Washington, however, found in roughly 1,000 organizations of all kinds across with an unknown membership scattered about the country.

So far has been impossible to them all on any cause or program, and that is their greatest weakness.

Up to now, the prevailing analysis of right-wing movements is that the country has always had them and always will. They are considered a necessary part of the democratic process to balance the far left.

This was the viewpoint of Michigan Gov. George Romney—the silver-haired boy of many conservative businessmen — on his last appearance in Washington. "The Know-Nothing Party of Abraham Lincoln's time was stronger than the John Birch Society of today," Romney commented.

"I think both (the radical right and left) are deplorable," the governor declared.

On another manifestation of right-wing sentiment in America today, the governor was even more emphatic. This was in reference to the three constitutional amendments put forward by the Council of State Governments' Volunteer Committee on Dual Sovereignty.

They would give the states more power to amend the Constitution without participation by Congress, to nullify the Supreme Court decision on state legislative reapportionment, and to set up a super court of one judge from each of the 50 states to pass on U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

"This smacks of the states passing the Supreme Court instead of the executive passing it," said Romney, "and one is as bad as the other."

This was one of three authoritative denunciations of the proposed amendments on the same day in Washington. The American Bar Association Board of Governors adopted resolutions opposing the two amendments affecting the Supreme Court. ABA then referred to its full House of Delegates meeting in August the proposed reapportionment limitation.

(Finally, U. S. Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren, speaking before the American Law Institute, called for "a great national debate" on these states rights amendments to prevent their slipping through to adoption without challenge.

When these amendments were first proposed they were generally dismissed as unconstitutional in themselves that they could never gain acceptance.

But in less than six months, 20 state legislatures have acted favorably on one or more of the proposals. Additionally, six states have acted favorably on the so-called "Liberty Amendment" which would abolish personal income taxes and force the government to turn over to private enterprise some 700 of its service operations.

All such proposals are considered well worth as much scrutiny as the reform programs advocated by the far left.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A nurse wrote that a married woman visited a doctor at the hospital regularly and she implied that something shady was going on. I am that woman. For three years I've been seeing the doctor about chronic headaches caused by the nervous tension of an unhappy home life. My doctor, being the most patient, understanding man in the world, has helped me to face my problems and adjust to them. Last year I was dumfounded when my doctor confided in me that HIS home life was worse than mine. He trusts me and discusses everything with me. His wife recently took an overdose of sleeping pills and he said if he didn't have me to talk to he would have had a nervous breakdown. He helped me when I needed it, and now I can't let him down, no matter what.

DEAR ABBY: About the married woman who made a habit of going to the hospital regularly to see a doctor: I think she is my wife. Her weakness has always been doctors. If there is a good-looking doctor within a hundred miles, she'll find him and keep him busy with one complaint or another. Can you tell me if the letter came from Elmira, New York?

"BILL"

DEAR ABBY: Why can't people mind their own business? I am the woman who goes to the hospital so often. The nurse got it all wrong. I am not seeing a doctor. I'm an engineer. It's not about love, it's about money. We bet the horses together. NOT GUILTY (BRENTWOOD)

DEAR ABBY: Our entire hospital staff is up in arms about the nurse who wrote the letter reporting the married woman who visits the doctor regularly behind closed doors. We nurses at the hospital think you ought to know that no doctor would even attempt to get away with such carryings-on in his hospital. In the first place, every minute of the doctor's time is scheduled, and even if he wanted to, he wouldn't have the time. The nurse who wrote that letter has been mad about the doctor for years, and he has refused to look at her. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

THE BELLES OF ST. MARY'S

DEAR ABBY: I am sure that letter about the married woman visiting the hospital so often to see the doctor was meant for me. I wish you would put this in the paper for that long-nosed nurse to see. Yes, I am seeing a doctor at the hospital frequently, and if you are so curious about whether I am getting a treat instead of a treatment, why don't you ask the doctor? You might be surprised to learn that I am taking a series of shots for a combination of 116 allergies. NOTHING TO HIDE (Baton Rouge, La.)

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

Today's hand is from the Southeastern championships in Miami, Fla. It shows various lines of playing the hand. Practically every South player holding today's hand wound up at two spades and West led the eight of hearts. South would be in dummy for the first and last time, would take his two "best" tricks while he had the chance and discard a club.

NORTH		SOUTH
♠ AK10883	♥ 885	♠ KQJ765	♥ 8
♦ 876	♣ 8765	♦ 8765	♣ 8765

South would discard another club and from that point on there would be no way to keep South from making his contract. Greedy South players tried the diamond finesse and when the queen lost to West's king there was no way left to make the contract unless the defense went crazy. West might lead back the ten of diamonds. South would take the trick and lead a high spade to East's ace. Then East would cash red cards until South decided to ruff in. If South ruffed high there would be a natural trump trick for West. If South ruffed low West would overruff.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millett

To help this season's brides in furnishing their first homes the National Design Center in New York has drawn up 10 rules. The 10th is by far the most important of the lot. It is: "Consult your husband every step of the way. It's his home, too." Wives need to consult their husbands when they buy furniture because, in shopping for their houses, women have one weakness men don't share—they are more concerned with looks than with comfort. They find it hard to resist a "darling little chair" that is about as comfortable to sit in as a telephone booth, or an "adorable little lamp" that doesn't give enough light for reading, or the straight-backed copy of an antique sofa that was originally designed to grace a parlor—but not to sit on while reading the paper.

When men look at a piece of furniture they think about whether it is comfortable, serviceable, and whether it has a truly homelike, inviting look. They are also sensible enough to question out loud why one chair costs three or four times as much as another, when the basic structure is pretty much the same. Since men aren't likely to be impressed by name brands that have become status symbols to women, a salesman can't easily put them in their place by saying, "Of course, you can get by with this chair; there's nothing really wrong with it. But if you buy this one, you will have something you can be proud of."

So it is important for a wife to take her husband along when she buys furniture, for two reasons: It will make him feel that it's his home, too. A woman who has a man helping her select furnishings is almost sure to end up with a more comfortable and livable house than the woman who hasn't a man along to make sure that the furniture is for living—not just for looking at.

Miss Janice Sue Collins Marries Ernest H. Cowley

Miss Janice Sue Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas Collins and Ernest Herman Cowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer D. Cowley, of Tampa, were married June 8, at 8 p. m. at the Grace Methodist Church.

Rev. John Hines Jr., pastor, officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony. The church was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli, mums, baby's breath, fern and palms.

Organist, Roger Harris, presented a program of spiritual music and accompanied Mrs. Robert Bennett, who sang, "O Promise Me," "Whether Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and pure silk parchment satin. The empire bodice of lace featured a bateau neckline and long tapered sleeves with tiny lace covered buttons down the back.

The billowing princess skirt had lace appliques embroidered with candlelight iridescents and seed pearls. The skirt terminated in a court train. Her two tiered fingertip veil of imported illusion, was attached to a crown of matching lace with iridescents and seed pearls.

Her bouquet was a white orchid with streamers of green ivy and white ribbon. She carried a satin bound Bible, given to the groom's grandfather, Albert Ernest Edward Cowley, by Queen Victoria. The Bible has been carried by brides in the Cowley family since that time.

silver and crystal bowls. Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. James Leonard, Mrs. Herbert Mann, Mrs. Louis Kosky, Mrs. Jimmy Weems and Miss Barbara West.

Mrs. Ben M. Howland assisted with the bride's book which was placed on a table decorated with a white rose ensemble. Floating hostesses were the Misses Sberalynn Williams and Susan White.

For traveling Mrs. Cowley chose a beige suit of rayon hopsacking, trimmed with brown fringe and brown iridescent buttons, brown accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following their stay at the University of Miami, in Coral Gables, the couple will reside in their home, on Lake Markham.

Buffet Dinner Enjoyed By Church Teams

The "Every Member Canvass" teams of the First Christian Church were delightfully entertained with a buffet dinner at the Loch Arbor home of Maj. and Mrs. W. E. Bristol.

A sumptuous baked ham and turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served from the dining room table. The guests were seated at a long green table on the enclosed patio.

The exotic arrangement of red gladioli centering the table vied hard to compete with the bright flowers in the patio planters.

After an evening of fun and chatting, the guests had nothing but "Oh's" and "Ah's" as Mrs. Bristol told of some of the exciting places, and stories back of many of the lovely pieces adorning their charming home.

Rev. Arthur A. Froelich officiated at the ceremony, and Mrs. Froelich played traditional wedding music at the piano.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, chrysanthemums and palms. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a white street-length gown with pointed bodice of imported lace with lace inserts in the full skirt of silk organza, scoop neckline and cap sleeves.

A cabbage rose accented a bustle bow in back. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of matching roses and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses.

Kathe Stone, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore a pink street-length gown of silk organza over taffeta and carried pink sweetheart roses. Her other attendants were Miss Judy Pusey and Mrs. S. E. Hill III, who wore ensembles to match that of the maid of honor.

Nancy Schnering's SKI SCHOOL

Written for NEA

Before getting the feet wet, make several dry runs.

Fit the skis by adjusting the rubber bindings until they are snug. Dunking the feet in water will keep the bindings from chafing when they rub.

Start land instruction with a pull-up. This is to get you used to the feel of being pulled up by the tow boat—and teach you the right way to do it. Have someone stand close to you with the tow rope. Takes the shallow water starting position—sitting on the skis with the thighs pushed against the calves so that you are as far forward as possible.

Grasp the tow bar and have your accomplice pull you to a starting position. Let the pull bring you to your feet. Don't try to help yourself with your legs or arms. Let the rope do the work.

Keep the skis straight, not bent at the elbows. As you are pulled to a standing position, lean back against the tow and keep the knees slightly flexed.

Practice this until it becomes natural. Then you are ready to take to the water.

There you will encounter several things that dry land practice has not prepared you for.

Federals Win

Behind four-hit pitching by Larry Ridd, First Federal ran up 11 hits to down Standard Oil 18-8 in the Little League.

WORST FOOT forward—Yank's Mickey Mantle is wheeled from hospital in Baltimore, Md., after having a cast applied to his left foot. Mantle suffered a broken bone when his spikes caught in center field fence while trying to flag a homer by Orioles' Brooks Robinson. He'll be out of play at least a month. (NEA Telephoto)

Tampa split a doubleheader with Orlando losing 3-2, and winning 5-3.

Orlando scored its winning run in the first game in the sixth inning when Dick Ashcroft singled, stole second and moved to third on a Tarpon error. He was singled home by catcher Hank Inguarino.

Beginner Racks First No-Hitter

By United Press International

To say that Rochester's Nat Martinez was successful in his first starting assignment of the season is an understatement.

Given a chance as a starter after having been used exclusively in relief, the 21-year-old Martinez pitched the first no-hitter of the International League season, turning back the Jacksonville Suns, 5-0, in their seven-inning nightcap Sunday.

Import-Export U.S. Colleges Develop Other Lands' Athletes

NEW YORK (NEA)—American college track and field coaches have become big wheels in the import and export business.

They pile up points and win medals while developing athletes for other countries. More than 200 members of the scanty pants set competing for United States seats of higher learning are from foreign lands.

Noel Carroll, who turned in the fastest half mile in the world this year, 1:47.5, in the Los Angeles Coliseum Relays, is a typical case. Carroll, a roughly handsome lad with finely-chiseled features and an appropriate brogue, hails from Annagassan, a sea coast village in County Louth, Ireland. He is a Villanova sophomore at 21.

Carroll, who perhaps is as big as New Zealand's Peter Snell at 6-2 and 180 pounds, would be the early favorite for the Olympic 800 meters if it were certain that Snell, the defending champion, would concentrate on the 1,500. Like Ron Delany before him, Carroll will compete for Ireland in the games in Tokyo in October, 1964.

"After I did 1:48.5, fastest ever for a 19-year-old, in Dublin, Ron Delany wrote Jim (Jim Elliott, Villanova coach) and Jumbo wrote Delany at about the same time," explained Carroll after winning the IC4-A 880 at Downey Stadium on Randall's Island in New York in a leisurely 1:52.4.

"When Irishmen talk track, the name Villanova pops up at once," Delany and John Joe Barry, another distance man; Jimmy Heavon, the quarter-miler; Clem Clancy, the discus thrower, and other fine lads who went there made Villanova a big name in Ireland.

"I'm a little old to be a sophomore, but there is no track in Ireland's secondary school and I didn't really get moving until I got in the Army, where I spent two years."

Carroll came to the U.S. as a member of a relay team headed by Delany in the winter of 1961-62 and never went back. He doesn't intend to return except on a visit.

Villanova was made even more attractive to the youngster, who is the son of a widower doing office work in a mill, by two suits in Philadelphia who take good care of him.

Other foreigners who bounced down in front in the IC4-A included Harvard's Chris Ohliri from Nigeria with a meet record 50-foot, 1-inch triple jump. The Crimson has another able hop-skip-and-jumper in Chukwura Adhiso, also from Nigeria. Wendell Mottley of Trinidad became

NOEL CARROLL "For Ireland in Tokyo"

Yale's first IC4-A 440 winner in 35 years.

Sam Amukun of Uganda has done 9.8 in the 100 for Colgate. Harvard's Aggrey Awori from Uganda has done 20.6 in the 220 and 14 flat in the 120 high hurdles.

Holland sent Oregon a swift 880 man in Ray Van Asten. Great Britain shipped Southern Illinois a corking miler in Brian Turner. Geoff Walker, running that distance, and Al Lawler, a two-miler, are two of eight Australians at Houston. Hylke Vanderwal of Kearney State in Nebraska, is a Canadian. Colin Ridgway, high jumping for Lamar Tech of Beaumont, Tex., is a South African.

C. K. Yang, currently the world's foremost athlete aiming at an amazing 10,000 points in the decathlon, is the son of a Taiwan tribesman who co-captained the UCLA team, but why go on?

The big question is how the great Peter Snell got away.

Elks Win 10-6

The Elks nine downed the CPO team 10-6 in the Sanford Junior League. CPO failed to follow through on its nine hits, as compared to seven for the Elks. Maples was the winning pitcher.

FSU Set Today In Series

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The race for the national collegiate baseball title begins today with Missouri and Western Michigan favored and the rest of the entries tightly bunched behind.

The four-game first-round program in the double-elimination NCAA World Series opened at noon with Penn State meeting Arizona. Florida State and Western Michigan are matched in a 2 p.m. game.

The evening double-header will be launched with a Texas-Southern California contest at 7 p.m. Holy Cross and Missouri are scheduled to climax the marathon show at 9:15 p.m.

Another four games are on tap Tuesday, with the losers' bracket games slated for the afternoon.

Severe weather forecasts have been routine in this area the entire past week, but forecasters said skies by game time should be partly cloudy today. Some relief from the 90-degree-plus temperatures was also expected by today.

Illegal Gambling Rampant In U. S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The other day a woman stepped out of a telephone booth here and was arrested on charges of operating a numbers game netting about $1,000 a day. This is a fairly common occurrence and is mentioned only because the arrest was made in the lobby of the Bureau of Internal Revenue where she had been employed for 20 years.

It is common knowledge that illegal gambling is rampant across the United States, and some persons in position to know put the annual turnover at $50 billion. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, armed with new powers from Congress and using advanced techniques, is waging massive wars against the gamblers. He believes that gambling, rather than narcotics or prostitution, for instance—is the chief source of revenue for the American underworld.

A small but vocal group of people, think Bobby Kennedy is wasting his time. They argue that the urge to gamble, the desire to get something for nothing is as basic in human nature as hunger and the sex drive. On the principle that if you can't lick 'em, join 'em, these people say the solution is to let the federal government to legalize gambling and drive the racketeers out of business. Some of these proposals will be examined in detail later.

Such incidents as the woman's arrest are fuel for the fire of advocates of legalized gambling. How, they argue, are you going to stamp out gambling when an alleged numbers ring is operating inside the citadel of the American tax structure? They follow up by telling two stories, both fictional and both so heavily encrusted with the most of time that doubtless you have heard them: —A man is losing steadily at roulette and a friend says to him: "Don't you know that roulette wheel is crooked?" The man replies: "Sure, but it's the only game in town." —A man about to enter a horse race track falls to his knees and utters this prayer: "O, Lord, please let me break even today. My wife needs to have her appendix out."

The point they are trying to make, of course, is that nothing is going to prevent gambling. This argument gets short shrift at the Department of Justice. Bobby Kennedy is not interested in philosophical discussions about the gambling urge. The laws are on the books and he has sworn to enforce the laws. In a recent statement Kennedy explained what he was doing: "In the Department of Justice the organized crime and racketeering section has been revamped and strengthened so that it can marshal all the resources of the federal government and provide effective assistance to state and local agencies . . ."

Increased Personnel "The number of attorneys working in this section has been expanded about three times to about 60. Each is assigned a specific part of the country and is responsible for all grand juries and trials in this area. Steps also have been taken to instill a new spirit of co-operation among the 27 federal law enforcement agencies. . . ."

Serious Crime Up 7 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Serious crime in the United States rose seven percent in the first three months of 1963 over the corresponding period of 1962, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said. Hoover said increases in crime against property was responsible for the increase. Crimes against the person declined — murder was down one percent, aggravated assault three percent and forcible rape two percent.

Titan Missiles In Their Silos

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The chief in charge of the Titan and Titan II missile systems said some Titan II missiles already are in the hands of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) and are being checked out in advance of a "refreshingly imminent" complete transfer. "Some Titans already have been placed in their silos," Brig. Gen. John L. McCoy told a news conference. "When they are completely operational it will double the number of missile launching sites and more than double our capabilities."

Central Baptist WMU Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

The Girls Auxiliary and invited guests presented a very entertaining program recently for the Mother-Daughter Banquet, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Union of Central Baptist Church.

Those participating on the program were Rev. Gall Smith, principle speaker of the evening, who brought an inspiring message. Miss Pat Nelson welcomed the mothers with a poem.

Miss Winnell Messer, home for spring vacation from Nurses Training College, was also a guest speaker. In her talk, she impressed the girls with the advantage gained for college life through having been an active participant in work of Girls Auxiliary.

The G. A. Hymn, "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations" was sung by the entire assemblage. The girls recited their G. A. Allegiance. Five girls took part in the "Dear Ideals" candlelight skit. Miss Becky Nelson gave a short testimonial on "What Girls Auxiliary Means to Me". Miss Faye Hayes gave an informative talk on "What Forward Steps Mean To A Girl." Mrs. Edna Giles, Girls' Auxiliary Director, told of the blessings received from the privilege of leading girls in their mission work.

Mrs. Maybelle Hayes, W. M. S. President, spoke on the advantages of working in each organization of W. M. U., from Sunbeams through W. M. S. Circles. "The G. A. Anniversary Song" was sung by Mrs. Alice Smith. Mrs. Shirley Grieme was accompanist for the evening.

Girls whose mother were unable to attend the Banquet, adopted a substitute for the affair. Food for the banquet was plentifully supplied by members of the W. M. S. The Banquet Hall was beautifully decorated with crepe paper streamers, G. A. Insignia, stars, flowers and candles in the Girls Auxiliary colors of green, gold and white. A large candelabra was arched over the speakers table, with a center with a twelve-inch gold star carrying the G. A. Insignia.

Those attending the banquet were Mrs. Ben Bullard and Ruth Bullard; Mrs. R. D. Grieme and Wanda Nelson; Mrs. Alice Smith and Pat Nelson; Mrs. Leon Nelson and Becky Nelson; Mrs. Theresa Warren and Theresa Warren; Mrs. Joyce Walker and Barbara Maples; Mrs. Edna Giles and Gandace Watson; Mrs. Charles Hayes and Faye Hayes; Mrs. Linda Bostic and Patricia Bostic; Mrs. Hazel Warren and Alice Warren; Mrs. R. L. Bradley and Jon Smith; Rev. Gall Smith, pastor, Miss Winnell Messer, special guest and Rev. and Mrs. J. H. East, who kept the Nursery.

Space Agency In Scientific Hot Water

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Professional jet pilots ordinarily are not scientists, and vice versa—and the Federal Space Agency is getting into some scientific hot water because of it.

A growing number of U. S. scientists are demanding that at least one of their number be included on the nation's first Apollo flights to the moon, now set for 1968. Failure to do so, they contend, would reduce the manned lunar landing to the status of an expensive stunt.

There were no "pure scientists" as such among the first group of seven Mercury astronauts selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA); nor were there any in the second group of nine picked for the Gemini and Apollo space programs.

The space agency has just issued invitations for a third group of 10 to 15 new astronauts—and it's a cliché there will come up a bowl of protest from the scientific community.

For in the list of qualifications, there is one key line: "... Must have 1,000 hours jet pilot time or have experimental flight test status through the Armed Forces, NASA or aircraft industry."

There are few, if any, scientists walking a round with 1,000 hours of jet flying time under their belts. They are not, generally speaking, a sporty breed.

The space agency has taken its stand—that the first astronauts to the moon will be pilots. It contends that the initial lunar landings will be largely concerned with just the gigantic technical task of getting men up there and back, alive and healthy. Without saving so in that many words, it means that science as such will have to take a backseat the first few Apollo times out. The astronauts will be collecting scientific data, such as rock samples and photographs, but their time in this area will be severely limited.

The question of sending a scientist to the moon on early Apollo flights is complicated by still another question: What kind of scientist? Geologists would want one of their number, in their certain belief that the geologic make-up of the moon is the most important area of scientific interest. Astronomers, on the other hand, are entranced by the thought of an atmosphere-free moon as a base for looking up at the stars, and they might logically be expected to disagree with their geology brethren. And so it goes.

Sen. Clinton Anderson is a defender of NASA's position. His comment is that "what is needed is an expert scientific observer who can be trained to make critical observations in a number of areas." The term "scientific observer" here is distinguished from "scientist."

Furthermore, says Anderson, "there is plenty of time between now and the lunar landing to add a substantial amount of such training to the schedule of all NASA's lunar astronauts."

But Anderson recognizes there is "a growing rift" between NASA and the scientific community, and he proposed that NASA work more closely with the National Academy of Sciences to identify the areas of scientific need in lunar exploration, and for the astronauts along these to set up a training program lines.

Now that school is out why are the blinker warning lights still in operation at the Lake Mary School?

Our informant "goofed." He told us the courthouse committee would NOT recommend a South County annex. Today the committee did just that . . . recommended an annex.

Wednesday evening session of the North Orlando village council has been cancelled. Councilman Art Rhodes announced today.

Word is that Altamonte Springs has rounded up enough councilmen to make a quorum for a special meeting called for 8 p. m. this evening at Town Hall.

Notice to dog owners: Time to have your pets inoculated for rabies. Dr. Raymond Bass will be at the rear of the city hall tomorrow (June 12) and again on June 19 between 1:30 and 4 p. m. to "shoot" your dogs.

Our apologies to South Seminole VFW Post #207. Last Friday an announcement was scheduled for their chicken barbecue which was held Sunday . . . It appeared in Monday's paper. At any rate, we hear the event was successful and more than 60 dinners were served. We'll try to do better next time, VFWers.

The "Clock" has a vote of thanks from AA members last week the "Clock" invited ex-alcoholics or for that matter, alcoholics to attend the AA meeting. Officials in-charge extended appreciation . . . five new AAs showed up and signed up. For others interested, AA meets at 8 p. m. Mondays and Thursdays at 1201 West First Street.

But in all fun, and we hope AA will excuse us: A local bar displays a sign—"Resignations from AA accepted here."

Or as a local wag puts it: Difference between a drunk and an alcoholic is that the drunk doesn't have to attend AA meetings.

Note to AA: We are only making a joke. We highly commend your aims, activities and success. And wish you well.

Final meetings of the fiscal year will be held by Florida Nurses Association, district 37, at 8 p. m. Thursday at the county health offices. Business meeting and refreshments are on the agenda.

Is it ladylike (or for that matter gentlemanly) for an argument at a town meeting to be settled "outside?" Mrs. Hope Bennett and Alderman George Howard exchanged "pleasantries" about something that was supposed to have happened when Mrs. Bennett was a member of the Caselberry Board of Aldermen. Acting Chairman Cliff Overman had to gavel them into silence and a settlement outside was suggested.

Annual meeting of Seminole County Chapter, Red Cross, will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the Florida State Bank. If you have contributed to the Red Cross in the past year you are considered a member and are invited to attend.

Winners of the American Legion Citizenship Awards at All Souls School were Susan Galletta and Steven Macek.

Co-operation with the law authorities is the watchword in a certain South Seminole County community. Boys broke into two homes and stole a camera, projector, tape recorder, pellet guns and other articles, according to Sheriff J. L. Hobby. Deputies spread the word around, asking for co-operation. One juvenile reported to the sheriff's department Sunday and most of the articles were recovered. That boy is in jail and the investigation is continuing.

New University Moves Closer

(Editor's note: Sanford and Seminole County authorities—County Commission, City Commission and Chamber of Commerce—have been driving for months to have located here one or both of two proposed colleges. Governor Bryant has signed into law acts to establish these universities in East Central Florida. Sanford and Seminole County want one or both of these two institutions of higher learning. The following tells the story.)

Governor Bryant's approval of the bill authorizing new facilities for higher learning in East Central Florida is the culmination of a co-ordinated effort by many groups. Our own Senator Mack Cleveland and Representative Joe Davis deserve a vote of appreciation for their effective work on this project. This is a tremendous step forward, and will truly open the door for a new horizon in this area.

F. E. Roumillat Jr., President, Chamber of Commerce

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Bills authorizing new facilities for higher learning in the vicinity of the nation's missile test center at Cape Canaveral became law with Gov. Farris Bryant's approval.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA) and space industrialists told the legislature Florida might lose vital plants if it failed to provide graduate facilities for advanced training of scientists in this center of the space activity.

One of the bills directs establishment of an extension of the University of Florida engineering college to provide graduate studies at the masters and doctorate level and research facilities in order that proper instruction and research can be carried on in the field of sciences and engineering.

The extension must be established in East Central Florida but the exact location is left to the State Board of Control and Board of Education. The general appropriations bill carries a $1.5 million appropriation to get it started.

The second bill is more permissive, authorizing rather than directing establishment of a state university or branch of an existing state university in a nine-county area covering Flagler, Orange, Seminole, Lake, Bradford, Volusia, Osceola, Indian River and St. Lucie.

The exact site would be picked by the boards of control and education and a number of counties vying for the university.

Funds for the university depend on what happens in the coming week to a bill implementing the $75 million bond financing program for higher education which cleared last week.

The bill as originally written contained $200,000 in first priority planning funds for the East Central university and $1.4 million in construction funds in second priority.

However, the bill had to be recalled for adjustments after the bond program was reduced from $125 million to $75 million and it is not believed there will be funds in the next biennium for building the new university.

JFK Moves On Alabama

Old P. O. Site Bid $6,760

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today federalized the Alabama National Guard and authorized Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to use any Army troops he may need to enforce admission of two Negroes to the University of Alabama.

The President issued his executive order shortly after Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace blocked entry of the Negroes in defiance of a proclamation by Kennedy and a federal court injunction.

Kennedy said he acted because the commands in his proclamation "have not been obeyed, and the unlawful obstructions of justice and combinations referred to therein continue."

"The secretary of defense is authorized and directed to take all appropriate steps to remove obstructions of justice in the state of Alabama," the order said.

It further authorized the defense secretary "to use such of the armed forces of the United States as he may deem necessary."

Kennedy specifically directed McNamara "to call into the active military service of the United States . . . any or all of the units of the Army National Guard and of the Air National Guard of the state of Alabama."

Army units trained in riot control have been stationed at Ft. McClellan, Ala., on a stand-by basis since Kennedy sent them there for possible use in the Birmingham race riots last month. This was the first authorization for their actual use in an Alabama racial trouble spot.

Kennedy earlier today ordered Wallace "to cease and desist" from any unlawful obstruction of justice in connection with the admission of the Negro students.

Escalante, Utah (UPI) — School was over, and two truckloads of jubilant Boy Scouts headed into the Utah mountains on a vacation expedition. Their leaders, including two university professors, accompanied them, along with a woman reporter.

The first truck reached its destination without incident. Late Monday, on a primitive mountain road in "No Man's Land" 35 miles southeast of here, tragedy struck the other vehicle.

Nine Scouts, the two professors and the reporter were killed as the truck plunged down a precipitous mountain-side, throwing them from its open bed. The other 31 Scouts and leaders in the truck were injured.

Demos Briefed WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today was expected to brief Democratic congressional leaders on the administration's new civil rights proposals.

County Annex Wins OK

The Courthouse Committee unanimously recommended to the County Commissioners today that a branch facility of courthouse services be established in the south end of the county, preferably in the Caselberry-Fern Park area, near Hwy. 17-92.

The committee, represented at the Commission meeting by H. B. Pope, based its recommendations on the bulk of school attendance growth in the south end of the county and the actions of 16 other counties which have experienced similar problems.

Recommendations of the committee for beginning services included those of the tax collector, sheriff's office, county judge, tax assessor and zoning office—all services to be combined in a central rented facility with telephone service.

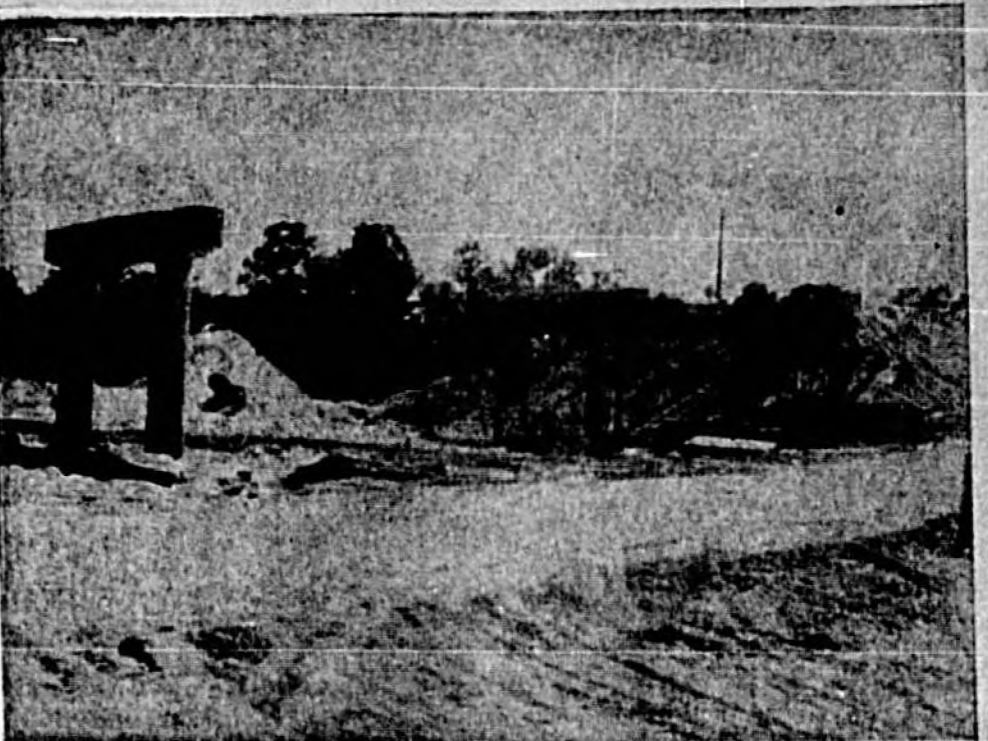

The committee's report noted that the present recommendations represent only the minimum requirements at the present time and if the facility is used for the purpose intended will have to be expanded considerably in the future.

Upon presentation of the committee's recommendations, John Alexander moved that the commissioners, the committee and all fee office heads and department heads meet together as soon as possible to formulate plans for the establishment of the facility.

James Avery noted that Hibbard Caselberry had offered (orally) to build, adjacent to the Caselberry postoffice, any type of structure that might be needed according to the specifications of the commissioners, and lease it to the county.

Casselberry Charter OKd

The charter bill for Caselberry has been passed by both houses of the Florida Legislature and is awaiting the signature of Gov. Farris Bryant, City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh reported to the Caselberry Board of Aldermen Monday evening.

McIntosh said that a complete and up-to-date copy of the charter, introduced May 31 before the Legislature by the Seminole delegation, would be prepared and placed in the hands of the board at its next meeting.

The board voted, after some discussion, to amend a brochure explaining the provisions of the charter to include the changes made by the Legislature and to have copies printed to be mailed to residents of Caselberry for study and guidance prior to the referendum.

In this connection the board voted to have printed vote registration cards to be mailed out to all new residents of the town to enable them to become eligible to vote in the referendum.

The card proposal was included in a resolution, proposed by Acting Chairman Cliff Overman, calling for a campaign to "get out the vote" for the referendum. This would include a concerted effort by all the civic organizations. Mayor David Heath was authorized to send out letters calling for a meeting of these organizations to plan a city-wide campaign. Another proposal calls for preparation of absentee ballots to enable residents on vacation at the time of the referendum to vote.
