Hunted: New Police Chief For Sanford

i believe Butler could help the city a great deal during the period of etting a new police chief.

Public Safety Post? It's There In The Charter

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The big question in Sanford: Who will the city's new police chief be?

The city began advertising today in The Herald and in other newspapers and specialty publications in the state seeking applicants for the position. It appears a foregone conclusion that the current police chief, Ben Butler, will be promoted to the position of public safety administrator, according to City Manager Warren E. Knowles. City Commissioner Eddie Keith, asked if Butler is going to be promoted to the post which carries with it the responsibility of being assistant to the city manager, pointed to the advertising as a response.

"Isn't it enough that we are advertising for a new chief of police?" But, what of the position of public safety administrator? When will the city commission take action to create the post? It doesn't have to. It was created more than four years ago by ordinance and Knowles has been filling the position since it was created. "What it amounts to is that when Knowler technical thing to conform with the city charter. The only duties involved were that the public safety administrator approve the payrolls of the police and fire departments,' Mayor Lee P. Moore said. "If Ben (Butler) takes over the job there will be additional duties - duties commensurate with the job and salary involved," Moore said, adding he has recommended to fellow city commissioners that Butler be appointed to the position.

The public safety administrator post was created by Ordinance No. 1117, passed and adopted by the city commission on April 9, 1973. All members of the city commission were the same as in office today with the lone exception of Keith.

The ordinance was enacted because the 1972 city charter required authorization for the city manager to approve the payrolls of the fire and police department personnel.

Knowles was first named to the post under an emergency ordinance. Keith said Moore first brought up the idea of naming Butler, who has been in the city's employ for the past 27 years, to the position "I believe Butler could help the city a great deal during the period of getting a new police chief," Keith said.

"It would be good for the police department and good for Butler, too," Keith said, adding the position that Butler would fill would have more duties and responsibilities than Knowles has been handling as technical public safety administrator.

"Coordinating the police and fire departments would be a help to the city," Keith said. "Things are changing so much in police and fire departments; things are so different now and so much more exacting."

Salary mentioned for the public safety administrator post has been $20,000 annually and, although funds are not designated for that specific purpose in the budget, money reportedly is available from the city's oudgeted contingency fund.

During the 14 years Butler has headed the police department, the numbers of officers has risen from 30 to 70. The city commission also has discussed the possibility of amending the city charter as it relates to the pending changes. When the old city charter was adopted in 1958, the police and fire departments were made directly responsible to the city commission, rather than the city manager as is government. The 1972 charter continued the two departments as independent of the city manager's direction and control. The 1973 ordinance which created the position of public safety administrator, set the administrative duties and responsibilities of the post in the operation of the police and fire departments as follows: personnel records including transfers, terminations, payroll entries and medical reports; job descriptions, salary reclassification, approval of payrolls, approval of vouchers for expenditures; approval of salary advances to employes; sick leave records, approval of incentive pay lists, all matters dealing with insurance claims, all matters dealing with workmen's compensation, purchasing procedures including preparation o specifications for bids on vehicles and equipment; review and approval of parade permits, public address permits, monthly fire reports and other related matters: representing the departments in matters before the civil service board; and such other duties as may be required and directed from time to time by the city commission.

The ordinance states that the public safety administrator shall be directly responsible to the police and fire departments in an administrative capacity only. In recent weeks, Knowles has submitted to the city commission recommended additional duties for the post including that he be "assistant to the city manager. Additional illustrative duties Knowles has recommended include: to provide orientation course on city policy to all new employes and the review and development of objective specifications for bids on police and fire vehicles and equipment. DAYTONA BEACH (AP) - A Florida congressman who owed $45,000 in interest on a delinquent loan got tougher treatment because of his office, the savings and loan president says.

Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Fla., eventually got the interest payment dropped following negotiations, said George C. Boone Jr., president of Security First Federal Savings and Loan of Daytona Beach.

Cattle-Feeding Warning

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner has warned cattlemen not to allow livestock to feed in drought-stricken fields without checking with feed experts.

"Results of tests run on some corn samples taken from parched fields in West Florida show nitrate levels that could prove to be sources of trouble if livestock is allowed to consume this forage," Conner said in a press release Friday.

Officials said the fields in the 30-county area of the drought may contain lethal concentrations of nitrate. They said that cattlemen should check with feed inspectors or county extension agents before letting their livestock into the fields.

Escapee Nabbed In State

GAINESVILLE (AP) - A man who escaped from a New York State prison where he was being held for the attempted murder of a police officer has been arrested here. George Dunleavy, 38, and his wife, Regina, were apprehended at a local residence after police received a tip from New York authorities, police said. Dunleavy was one of 11 prisoners who escaped about a month ago, police said. He was the ninth escapee to be recaptured.

Dunleavy's wife was charged with aiding him in the escape, police said. Both were being held in Alachua County Adult Detention Center.

House plants are seldom propagated from seed. Most foliage plants, are not grown in

The most common and satisfactory method to There are two basic methods propagate house plants is from upper 80's to mid ninety's, Lows of plant propagation - sexual, cuttings. A cutting is a portion by seed and vegetative or of a plant taken from a parent asexual, by means of some plant. There are many types of vegetative part such as a shoot, cuttings, but the most commonly used are those made from stems and leaves.

Leaf cuttings are of two types - those where new plants arise house plants, particularly from the leaf blade, such as sansevieria (snake plant), rex begonia, and kalanchoe and those where the roots and shoots arise from the base of the petiole, such as African violet and gloxinia.

> Sansevieria leaves may be cut into sections about 2 to 3 inches long and stuck in a moist rooting medium (mixture of 1/2 peat and 1/2 sand) about one inch. It is important that the Roots and a shoot will form from the section and should be removed from the leaf section when it is 3 to 4 inches high. The variegated sansevieria will not reproduce true to type using this method. To retain its characteristics, it must be propagated by division of the original plant.

Leaves of rex begonia and other fibrous begonias develop young plants from their primary veins. Make small cuts across the larger veins on the undersurface of the leaf. Then lay the leaf right side up on a moist medium. Use hair pins or wire to hold the leaf in contact with the medium. New shoots should appear in about two weeks. When the new shoots are 2 to 3 inches high they can be transplanted.

African violets and gloxinias can be propagated using entire leaf (leaf blade plus petiole) cuttings. Cut the leaf from the plant leaving 1-14 inches of petiole attached to the leaf. The leaf cutting should be stuck into the rooting medium only deep enough to keep the cutting upright, and at an angle. Most house plants root well from a stem cutting. Cutting of 4 to 6 inches in length should be taken from healthy, vigorously growing plants. Make a clean cut about 14 - 1/2 inches below a node (joint) with a sharp knife. Avoid crushing the stem. Remove leaves from 1 to 2 inches above the cut end of the cutting. This makes it easier to stick and reduces water loss from the cutting.

To hasten rooting, you can dip the cut end in a rooting hormone. Stick the cut end of the cutting in a rooting medium about 1 to 11/2 inches deep and firm the medium so that the cutting remains upright. Stem cuttings can be rooted in plastic bags or in containers covered with plastic bags. The plastic cover allows the cuttings to breathe but prevents loss of water. The cuttings should not require watering until they are well rooted. The plastic covered container hould be set in a warm well ighted place but not in direct CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) - They stepped out of the shadows of There are signs, a New York police official says, that "the ordinary life into the glare of danger, and they carry the scars they earned for being Good Samaritans. It changed their lives.

"No sir, no regrets," he says 23 years later, many of those years spent in pain. "If I had to do it over, I'd try a little harder, I believe. If I'd been a little quicker, maybe I'd have done it. I had a brother driving a bus at the time. If that had been my brother in there, I'd want somebody to do something."

People like Don Hemphill have always been the exceptions, but in recent years the reluctance of people to step forward - risking danger or merely becoming "involved" - has been a subject of much social comment.

However, while there are no statistics to prove it, there are some indications that the tide of indifference may be turning. More often now, New York police arriving at the scene of a crime find the culprit in the hands of bystanders. In Washington, D.C., police say, it's more common now for bystanders to tail armed robbers until they find the police or to thwart a pickpocket on a

All of the Carnegie award winners came out of their ordeals even more fiercely independent than they had been before. Dorothy taught herself to control her bodily functions and never used the support equipment the hospital gave her. Alex Patitsas taught himself to walk on his artificial legs.

They shunned help. "If I let someone do little things for me, it took away my mental security," Dorothy explains. Alex tried to help other amputees, especially those who came out of the war in Vietnam. Once he walked up to a group in a Chicago area hospital, and one of the young men brashly told him, "Okay Mac, you go ahead and talk all you want, you've got your legs." New Cuban Policy Has Hit Its Limits tator gets invited into American living rooms, so a spate of television close-ups of Fidel Castro has probably kept a lot of viewers up past their bedtime. These dialogues have been more revealing than most snippets of Castro news film aired in the ANGLE-WALTERS past, and they have come at an ideal time.

We get the impression that Castro is more than a little amused by the current wave of interest in his island domain — from the Carter administration's diplomatic overtures, to the dutiful visits to Cuba by American senators and congressmen and the probing questions by Barbara Walters into his mysterious personal life. In fact, we'd guess that Castro has been more amused than aggravated by the gyrations in American policy toward Cuba over the years, despite his professed fears of the CIA.

Viewers can see what they're looking for in the Castro image. Presumably American opinion remains divided between those who regard our bearded Caribbean neighbor as a misunderstood Third World reformer, and those who see him as a ruthless revolutionary all the more dangerous because he can buffalo so many American visitors.

The recent interviews were valuable for what they add to the scales in weighing President Carter's effort to "improve relations" with the Castro government. The President has carried this initiative so far to the point of relaxing travel restrictions, encouraging American businessmen to consider the benefits of Cuban trade, and setting up a permanent channel for U.S.-Cuban diplomacy via intermediary embassies.

If Mr. Carter is waiting for a constructive response, he apparantly has a long wait ahead. Castro himself is saying he doesn't think full diplomatic relations can be restored in Mr. Carter's current term and possibly not in a second one. We take this to mean he has no intention of doing anything that would make such an event acceptable in Washington.

He'll use his troops in Africa as he pleases. He's not interested in a partial lifting of the trade embargo - it's all or nothing at all. As for political prisoners in his jails, so what? Indeed, Castro sees no relevance at all to Cuba in Mr. Carter's human ights policy. What can we expect from a man who thinks the Soviet Union is the freest country in the

Since Castro has slammed the door on a gradual resumption of trade relations, that issue appears to be closed, and the Senate voted June 16 to drop a proposed relaxation of the embargo. Americans who want to visit Cuba remain free to do so, and this relaxation of an old passport restriction can help convince the world that the United States supports freedom of travel.

Mr. Carter senses that the U.S. policy trying to isolate Cuba has not accomplished much, and Castro must be reckoned with. But Castro has now made clear that resuming diplomatic relations with the United States is well down the list of his ambitions. He remains dedicated to promoting Communist revolution in the Third World and is prepared to march in step with the Russians in Africa and elsewhere.

Given the picture that Castro has given us of himself. President Carter's Cuban policy appears already to have gone as far as it can go.

Carter Will Prevail

The recent vote in the House of Representatives on the federal water projects indicated that President Carter is likely to projects to override a presidential veto.

The Senate promptly moved to delete funds for nine of the 17 water projects Mr. Carter wants to halt, thereby hoping to appease the President and avoid a veto.

Much has been made about how imprudent it was for the chief executive to publish a "hit list" of projects so dear to congressional hearts. But it will be difficult indeed for the Congress to finance these projects if they are clearly labeled by the President as pork barrel projects.

The people will back sound projects but they will also back Mr. Carter against a back-scratching Congress when it comes to rendering the pork.

Several years after falling into the "whatever is new must be better" trap Florida schools are returning to basics.

Unfortunately many thousand children attended school in the interim and either graduated with or are suffering from great gaps in their education. Those who learned to read through memorization are missing phonics. Those who learned math theory instead of addition, subtraction and other basic functions are unable to buy groceries and count their change with any rapidity

Those whose study of history was limited to memorizing dates and places are missing the breadth which would enable them to understand those dates. What happens now?

The Clock

Many children are already enrolled in the school system, which is suddenly being adjusted to require things not previously demanded of them. Children who were "socially promoted," allowed to attend the next grade whether or not they were capable of learning at the level are now advanced in

That the high school junior should find that he is short of knowledge while still in school is probably better than discovering it when he begins looking for work, trying to support himself, or entering

That he should be so short of knowledge is however, little short of inexcusable. Placing blame is often futile-especially since the teachers in our schools often receive blame automatically, without any regard for the logic or wisdom of pushing the responsibility off on them. Teachers can only give students what they are allowed to, from materials which it is required they use. If those materials are inadequate a conscientious teacher may try to supplement them with

However good the teacher inadequate materials cannot be entirely overcome. So who supplements

Only one answer is possible to that question, as only one answer is possible to laying blame for inadequate education: the parents who fail to educate themselves, who fail to involve themselves with the school system (not trying to run it, but trying to share their own accumulated knowledge). Parents who care will never toss away material because it is different from what they once used; or because it takes into consideration new theory and new concepts. Neither will they allow themselves to be bulldozed into accepting "just anything" and calling it education for their children.

Can Carter Be Isolated From Assets?

Around

Y MARYLINK, SHEDDAN

WASHINGTON - Only three weeks after integrity-minded Jimmy Carter was sworn in as president, his staff proudly announced that virtually all of his personal assets were being placed in trust for the duration of his tenure in

The purpose of that action was to allow Carter to "be isolated from those of his assets most likely to be affected by actions of the federal government and it's agencies" - but that's

Despite the fact that countless government officials have relied upon similar arrangements. ostensibly to shield themselves from conflict of interest, there is no federal law or uniform set of regulations which provide guidelines for such

As a result, there are almost as many varieties of trusts as there are people who establish them. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee now is in the process of drafting the first legislation ever to cover that sensitive area, and one of the most important provisions under consideration could cause problems for Carter.

That proposal would require that the trustee selected to administer an officeholder's assets should be an individual or institution qualified to maintain a truly arm's-length relationship with the beneficiary.

Let's Veto Rumania's No. 1 Status

Finance Committee's subcommittee on international trade will begin hearings to decide whether Congress should terminate, affirmatively vote to extend, or permit by inaction the extension of President Carter's authority to waive the requirement that Rumania allow freedom of emigration in order to keep its Most-Favored-Nation (MFN) treatment, a special trade status it has enjoyed since 1975.

In a message to Congress earlier this month, Carter recommended that his waiver authority be extended 12 months because, as he puts it, while Rumanian emigration to Israel has been somewhat inconsistent and uneven that "overall" emigration has "risen markedly" since implementation of the U.S.-Rumanian Trade Agreement two years ago. But the facts are blatantly at odds with what the president says they are.

An internal background document prepared last month for the members of the congressional commission established to monitor the Helsinki Agreement reports the following: Noting that the Rumanian government has "largely ignored" or "further restricted" its family reunification and human rights policies since Helsinki, Rumanian society is characterized as "one of the most tightly-controlled in Eastern Europe." On the subject of emigration specifically, this background paper declares: "The Rumanian record of compliance

'human contacts' since Helsinki has been mixed. but, on the whole, negative ... emigration of ethnic Germans to the Federal Republic of Germany and Jewish emigration to Israel has declined considerably since 1974. The figures to Israel for the first nine months of FY 1977 are 50 per cent lower than for the same period last year - to the United States, 30 per cent lower.)

"The Rumanians claim that fewer Jews are applying; that is no doubt true since it seems that the procedures for emigrating to be reunified with families have become more to leave, but most have not applied because application procedures remain discouraging and dangerous for Jews as well as other Rumanians.

basketball players. It should be noted, first, that both did not lost. The only problem is that Astros 6, Giants 5, 11 innings spend their entire careers with the 76ers - in fact, they didn't even end up their NBA playing days in Philadelphia. So I'd see no reason for retiring their numbers on that score. And as far as A three-time Cy Young ard and lifted Houston past San super star status is concerned, Wilt would fit that bracket a lot Award winner, Seaver made his Francisco Giants. easier than Chet, who had a fine but not spectacular career in pro first appearance in Cincinnati Bob Watson drove in Housbasketball. Besides, I'm not much for retiring any numbers.

Q. Being a Los Angeles sports fan, I often wonder what the nicknames, Dodgers and Lakers, refer to. I have heard various reasons, but I don't know which answer to believe. Would you clear the air for me? - Rick Mosso, Redlands, Calif. The names predate the existence of those teams in Lost Angeles. The origin of the term, Dodgers, remains a little hazy but it is generally accepted that it derives from Trolley Dodgers, a nice pastime in Brooklyn when fans would flock to Ebbets Field. The Lakers were first organized in Minneapolis, which is in Minnesota, the land of 10,000 lakes, including a bunch of them right in the city. So "Lakers" seemed a logical name for the team. Q. Are David Thompson and Julius Erving arch rivals — they finished 1, 2 in the slam dunk contest? And what college did Dan Issel come from? - Keith Collins, Lancaster, Pa.

I wouldn't call Thompson and Dr. J arch rivals. Each does his own thing. Ironically, Dr. J, the most publicized player in the NBA, was only voted to the All-NBA second team, while Thompson of the Broncos was put on the first team. Re the slam dunk contest, the one conducted by the league was won by Darnell Hillman of the New York Nets. Dan Issel was an All-American basketball player at Kentucky before going to the ABA and eventually winding up at Denver.

Q. Why do the goalies in professional hockey get pulled from the net late in the third period when the team is winning only by a point? Even if a team is winning by 10 or more points, I still think he goalle should stay in his position. - Cedric Flowers,

I think you have your strategies mixed up. Teams will generally pull a goalle in the final seconds when trailing by a goal, hoping the extra man on ice will generate enough offense to score the the extra man on ice will generate enough offense to score the tying shot. The reasoning is that even with the goal open, it last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning, his under cover at the Silver Spurs last the inning and Pittsburgh in the first inning and Pittsb

An agency spokesman said the complaints centered on both the estimated $100 million conversion cost and resistance to

Cox said his agency is closing the book on the matter and there are no plans to revive the short-lived plan in the future. When the recommendation was made in April, the agency said it was acting in line with the national policy of converting to the metric system as outlined in the Metric Conversion Act of 1975. The act makes conversion voluntary. Under the proposal, the conversion of all speed limit and vertical clearance signs would have been completed by Dec. 31, 1979. Instead of 40 m.p.h., for example, a speed sign would have read 65 k.p.h. (kilometers hour). Warning and

Teen Arrested Mayor Orders 'Beating' Probe

Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore said today that State Atty. Douglas Cheshire's office is investigating allegations of police brutality in connection with the weekend arrest of a 16year-old juvenile boy.

Moore said the probe was requested by city officials after Sandra Gaines, representative of Seminole Neighborhoods United Counci (SNUC), alleged that three policemen "beat Ip the son of an ex-police officer."

The mayor identified the youth as a stepson of J.C. Moore. one of two former black policemen being re-instated to police jobs as the result of a city agreement with the federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission (EEOC).

A spokesman for Cheshire's office confirmed that investigators this morning began a probe of the brutality allegations. The Herald has learned also that a number of Sanford policemen are seeking polygraph examinations for themselves and persons making the brutality allegations. Police Chief Ben E. Butler today referred all requests for information in the case to Mayor Moore. Moore gave the following account of the incident in which the juvenile was arrested: Police headquarters received four telephone calls from citizens in the Washington Oaks subdivision about 5 a.m. Saturday reporting a neighborhood disturbance. At least one of the callers said a gun was involved and a fight was taking place between two men in the street near the Drew Avenue city park. At least four police cars responded to the disturbance call and officers found-a crowd restraining one man and another man was struggling with citizens.

Allegedly charged a policeman amid a flurry of obscenities and struggled with officers before being sprayed in the face with a chemical spray, handcuffed and placed in a Mayor Moore said the youth continued to be

Sleepy Lake Helen Spawning Major Orthopedic Clinic

Arthur Jones is the Howard Hughes of the athletic training

His Nautilus equipment, training and research company in Lake Helen has a nice healthy jingle to it, but it isn't so much the bank account that likens Jones to Hughes. It's the near-eccentric manner in which Jones confronts what he calls an "uneducated world."

Rufus Hayes was seeking advice from Jones as to how he could convert about 30 pounds of fat into muscle without losing weight. "Football coaches. . ." said Jones, with a touch of distaste. 'They look at the scales and figure the answer is there. Look what happened to Mercury. He weighed 185 when he came to me and gained 20 pounds. But he also cut two-tenths of a second off his time running the 40-yard dash. He was bigger and faster, which
