Happy Hanukkah

Today at sundown marks the beginning of the Jewish Feast of Dedication. Depending on which spelling is used, it is Hanukah, Hanuka, or Chanukah.

Webster's International Dictionary describes "Hanukkah" as having been instituted by Judas Maccabacus, his brothers, and the whole congregation of Israel in 165 B.C. It was done to commemorate the dedication of the new altar set up at the purification of the temple of Jerusalem to replace the alter which had been polluted by Antiochus Epiphanes.

The feast is held for eight days, and is celebrated everywhere, chiefly as a festival of lights, by the Jews.

According to Chase's Annual Calendar of Events, "Chanukah" commemorates the victory of Maccabees over Syrians in 165 B.C. and the rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem.

Webster's New World Dictionary gives the spelling of "Hanuka".

Sanford store robbed

SANFORD - Police are investigating an apparent armed robbery at the Fina Express Mart, 1407 S. French Ave. The incident was reported at approximately 8:40 p.m. yesterday.

Police Commander Dennis Whitmire said a man reportedly approached the clerk at the cash register and demanded money. Whitmire said when the man reached in to obtain the money, the clerk slammed the window on his hand.

The man reportedly managed to obtain an undetermined amount of money however, and managed to escape.

Withinite said it is believed a firearm lifely have been used in the robbery, but police are continuing their investigation.

Ethics board rules on Morse

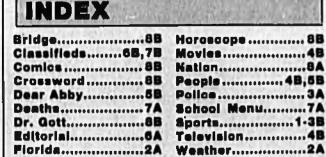

SANFORD - The Florida Commision on Ethics found probable cause to believe Seminole County Clerk Maryanne Morse used a public inter-agency telephone service to make personal long-distance calls and recommended she be issued a letter of admonishment. Morse has 14 days to appeal the decision.

The complaint was filed earlier this year by former clerk's employee Joseph Zajicek, computer services director. Zajicek retired in 1991 and began allegations Morse was wasting public funds. Zajicek supported Morse re-election opponent Mona McGregor.

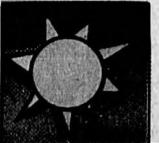

The commission rejected their advocate's recommendation to find probable cause to believe Morse destroyed documents to conceal the private calls and dismissed further state action in the complaint. According to the ethics Investigation, Morse made $45 in personal calls on the clerk's office SUNCOM line during the summer months of 1992. She dld not reimburse the public account for the calls until Zajicck filed a complaint with the State Attorney's Office.

The commission also found no cause to believe Morse violated state law by providing free coffee service to employees, a service she began shortly after taking office.

County plan: hike utilities, property taxes

By J. MARK BARFIELD Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole County budget planners unveiled their vision of the future Monday and it's not a pretty picture.

According to county staff's view, the county will need to spend more than $1.6 billion between this year and 1998 to serve a growing population and meet state and federal requirements. Of that amount, nearly $380 million will be spent on new roads, sewer lines and the like. The remainder, about $1.2 billion, will be spent to conduct the basic functions of the county.

The plan also calls for annual countywide property tax increases of 2.6 percent or less, a 150 percent increase in the unincorporated utility tax beginning in late 1994 and an 11 percent See Growth, Page 7A

St. Lucia Festival

Something for everyone at weekend holiday celebration

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Reaching back to the Swedish ancestry that built Sanford many years ago, residents will celebrate the festival of St. Lucia this weekend with a myriad of activities.

Following the arrival of the mythical St. Lucia aboard a small scale viking ship, Sanford's "Magic of Christmas" parade will wind its way along the waterfront to the delight children of all ages.

St. Lucia, crowned with a wreath of greenery and lighted white candles, is said to have been a maiden who lived in the provence of Syracusa in Sicily during the reign of Diocletian, it is said that her Christian beliefs were seen as a threat to the crown. As such she was executed.

Vikings far to the north heard the story and made it their own. In the Scandanavian countries, her feast day is celebrated just as the long, dark winter days are starting to lengthen.

The feast of light is considered a family feast day.

"We try to make it a celebration for the Sanford family," said Kay Bartholomew, who leads the group which has organized the Sanford St. Lucia Festival since its inception.

Oyster boats return to Apalachicola Bay

TALLAHASSEE - Oyster harvesting resumed in the east end of Apalachicola Bay after state health officials found no contamination at area seafood processing plants or from wastewater treatment plants or septic tanks.

Oyster boats returned Tuesday to the section of the bay east of the St. George Island Bridge. It had been closed Thursday after the Department of Environmental Protection received 24 reports of illnesses since Nov. 24. No new reports were received after Dec. 1, and continuing contamination from septic tanks or a sewage-treatment plant were eliminated as a possible cause, said David Heil, chief of the department's marine resources division. "Preliminary reports say the illness looks like a virus that is sewer-related, (but) we can't find any ongoing source." Hell He said health officials suspect the illnesses resulted from a chance contamination, possibly by a sewage discharge from a commercial or pleasure boat, or one of the fishing boats. lilnesses involving diarrhea, nausea, vomiting and body aches were reported by people in Panama City, Chipley, Perry and Winter Haven. The only common denominator was that they'd eaten oysters from the eastern end of the bay. The oysters weren't handled by the same fishermen, processors or preparers, Heil said.

"We've sampled intensively every day that it was closed and the water quality is excellent," he said.

Flamingo back from cross-country jaunt

ATHENS, Ga. - Phil, the pink plastic flamingo, is back on his perch after a mysterious but well documented two-month journey to 33 states and Canada.

The bird, one of two adorning the lawn of newspaper carrier Gerald Stalker, disappeared in October.

Two weeks later, Stalker began receiving letters addressed to "Home Family' and signed "Phil."

Altogether, Stalker received in the mail 19 photographs of the bird at such landmarks as Mount Rushmore and the Grand

Other stops included Old Faithful, Niagara Falls, the U.S. Capitol and the Hollywood sign. Phil also took a Southern swing, according to the letters, stopping at Bourbon Street in New Orleans, a family reunion in Tampa and Stone Mountain Stalker said the bird reappeared Monday, a tiny suitcase taped to its neck with a map of its travels inside.

'None of my friends have been out of town since Phil took off, and no one I call a friend could have afforded a trip like this," he said Tuesday. 'I'd love to meet them, whoever they are, if only to talk about their trip. There are no hard feelings at all. Whoever did this has a great sense of humor." The final mailing, postmarked Nov. 30 in Eugene, Ore., pictured Phil at the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco. From the map in Phil's suitcase, Stalker figured that the bird traveled more than 11,000 miles. The travel bag also included toiletries, snacks, a pen and 22 cents.

The flamingo reappeared sometime after Stalker left at 4 a.m. for his early paper route.

"I guess it's like a Christmas miracle," he said.

Charges filed against six fourth graders

TAMPA - Prosecutors have filed formal charges against six fourth-graders - aged 9 to 11 - who were caught at school act month with tiny bage of escaine:

"Parents need to know when they send their child to school, their child is going to be safe," Ada Carmona, head juvenile prosecutor with the Hillsborough State Attorney's Office, said Tuesday. "Drugs are not something we want in schools."

The boys arrested at Dale Mabry Elementary School Nov. 12 with 3 grams of the drug were charged in juvenile court with possession of cocaine, and two of the boys were charged additionally with delivery of cocaine.

Adults convicted on similar charges face up to five years in prison, but the children would face a range of penalties in the juvenile justice system from counseling to probation.

The widely publicized case touched off an emotional response from parents at the school, who were shocked children so young would have access to cocaine. Police have so far been unable to find where the drugs came from and said they were still looking into whether an adult was the source.

According to the accounts given by two children facing the most serious charges, a 10-year-old found the cocaine on his way to school, gave it to an 11-year-old and both boys passed out the tiny bags to the other children.

Hillsborough County Schools officials suspended the boys for 10 days after the arrests and have since decided to place them in an alternative school, at least until the end of the year.

Chiles, PSC locked in struggle

By ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Lawton Chiles said he wants more power over the appointment of Public Service Commission members to help restore the regulatory panel's credibility.

Chiles and the PSC Nominating Council are locked in a growing struggle over who the governor can appoint to the five-member panel. It is a decision that could end up with the state Supreme Court and could affect every utility customer in the state.

The governor's newest appointment, Diane Kiesling of Monticello, was sworn in Tuesday to the PSC while about 250 watched and applauded. Chiles called Kiesling, a state hearing officer, the most qualified of the nominees recommended by the nominating council. He said he wanted to pick the person who would do the best

"I find that I have been intimately identified with the body since the day I have been governor," Chiles said at the swearing-in ceremony. "At the same time I have found that often I did not have the responsibility that should go with the accountability of being the chief executive."

Andy Blank, chairman of the nominating council, accused the governor of illegally appointing Kiesling and trying to portray the nomination process as broken in a grab for more political power.

Blank said the quality of nominees in recent appointments have reflected the current process is working. The current PSC commissioners weren't involved in socializing and other activities with utilities that hurt the PSC's credibility, he said.

The nominating council had sent two slates of candidates to Chiles to fill two vacancies on the PSC. Kiesling was on the same list as current commissioner Luis Lauredo, who Chiles re-appointed to a four-year term last month.

The Supreme Court may have to decide who is right like it and three years ago when it upheld the nominating council's authority to appoint members when the governor failed to meet a selection deadline.

"This isn't about qualifications. This isn't about ethnicity. This isn't about anything but how he (Chiles) can get additional PR and get re-elected," Blank said. "The governor's got an agenda and the agenda is in his best interest."

Governor coy about campaign

By ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Lawton Chiles remained tight-lipped about his re-election plans but speculation increased that he will kickoff his campaign for a second term.

Chiles planned to meet with reporters today to discuss his political future. He would only say Tuesday that he was "getting closer to being ready than I was before" to announcing a decision.

Chiles refused to say whether he would announce his plans before heading to Los Angeles Thursday to promote the state's film industry. He had said he would announce his intentions the first week of December but later changed that to sometime before Christmas.

As the first week of the month ended, he was as fuzzy as ever about his plans.

"There's speculation at all times, but that's one of those things," he said after watching the swearing-in of his latest appointment to the Florida Public Service Commission. "I'm firm. I'm going to make that announcement before Christmas.

Trust tours city for the best of the best

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford Historic Trust has traveled around the city's historic district to find the homes that are decorated the most beautifully for the holidays.

Bright lights, festive bows and luminaries brought the Christmas spirit to life along the downtown streets for the first annual judging by the trust.

'Actually, we had pretty good participation for the first year." said Laura Straehla of the Historfliers announcing the judging on the door of every home in the historic district and said that many homes began to sparkle shortly thereafter.

"I think a lot of people decorated earlier this year because of the contest." she said. "The district looked very beautiful already this weekend.'

During the annual tour of historic homes in the district this past weekend, many homes, both on the tour and not, were festooned with delicate white and colorful lights. Wreaths of greenery and decorative shapes graced many doors and garlands of evergreens were wrapped Straehla said the trust put around pillars and porches.

"There were some fantastic decorations," Straehla said. She said that over the weekend many of the homes lined walkways and porches with luminaries. Mayor Bettye Smith and city manager Bill Simmons drove with Straehla through the district to select the best of the best. Being the first year, the criteria for their selections were a bit sketchy, Straehla said, but they believe they picked the best in each category. "People can drive around the district and see what they think," she said. This year's winners were:

Paterson sentence to be corrected

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A teacher sentenced last month for molesting four male Lakeview Middle School students will be back in court

Former band teacher Stephen A. Paterson, who began serving a year in jail Nov. 29 after being found guilty of four counts of committing a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child, will appear in court for a sentence correction.

Under the negotiated plea, Paterson was to serve one year in jail followed by two years community control (house arrest) and then be placed on 10 years supervised probation. When Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. sentenced Paterson, he made the jail period part of the community control period.

"When I looked over the judgement and sentence," assistant state attorney Stewart Stone said, he discovered the error. "The sentence is two years community control followed by 10 years probation, a condition of his community control is one year in the county jail. So effectively, instead of one,

When Stone discovered the problem, he contacted Paterson's defense attorney, J. Chency Mason, who agreed the sentence should be corrected in accordance with the plea agreement.

Stone was accosted by two angry victims and the parents of all four youths after the sentencing for the handling of the case. Some of the parents said they will seek an investigation into the handling of the case.

Paterson pleaded no contest to the four charges although the court adjudicated him guilty. Some of the victims claimed they agreed to the negotiated plea from Paterson after being told he was pleading guilty. Parents were also angry that the counts Paterson pleaded to did not reflect the acts were done to the victims, only in their

Sanford police are investigating graffiti on the window of State Attorney Norman Wolfinger's downtown office over the weekend stating "child molester release center." Two high-profile child abuse cases, Paterson's and one involving the conviction two and ten, he's doing one, one and ten. of former Sanford policeman Guy Brewster Right now he's on community control in were prosecuted during the last two months. Several others are also moving through the court system.

When the sentencing error was discovered, Stone said, "I looked at the paper work and said, 'Oh God,' if anything can go wrong in this case, it's going to go wrong.

The attorneys signed a stipulation about the sentence and will appear with Paterson before the judge at a brief hearing Friday.

Stone, who is the division chief of the sex and child abuse unit in the state attorney's office, said in the wake of the Paterson case, he is taking a very aggressive stance on abuse cases. Many cases of child abuse are referred to the prosecutor annually.

"As far as child abusers and molesters, in general," Stone said, "please understand that we just can't simply sweep them off the street. These are very difficult cases to prosecute. I will concede. Paterson, that's a different story, where we had three out of the four kids that were good witnesses. But generally, these kinds of cases are very difficult to prosecute, especially with young kids. And as much as I sometimes don't like it, there is something called 'due process of law' and we have to prove it and they are very difficult cases to prove."

Battered spouse free from jail?

By SILL BERGSTROM Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Elizabeth Ann Gelis should be free after serving more than two years of a 22-year sentence for killing her abusive husband, her attorney told Gov. Lawton Chiles and Cabinet members.

After years of abuse including beatings and being pushed down stairs, attorney Richard Morris said Tuesday, "She felt like she would have gotten killed if she had left. She is the classic battered spouse."

Chiles and Cabinet members meeting as the elemency board said they would take her plea and one by a man who said he has contracted AIDS while wrongly imprisoned in a Hallandale nightclub slaying under advisement, with no deadline for a ruling.

Gelis' parents later appeared at a news conference where the Women in Prison Committee of the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence released a study calling for a coordinated community response to spouse

The study showed that people who see the results of domestic violence, such as physicians, attorneys and clergy, often fail to deal with the problem, said committee Chairwoman Candice Slaughter.

"Domestic violence shelters seem to serve as the community's answer to addressing issues of violence in the home," the report said. But it said, "Shelters do not have the funding, nor the ability to handle every area of domestic violence."

At the news conference, Gelis mother, Ruth Simmons, held up a photograph of her daughter's swollen face on the day she was arrested in the April 1991 slaying of husband Charlie Gelis in Palatka.

Sanford doesn't need reputation for prostitution

Sanford police conducted another reverse prostitution sting this past Friday. It's the hird such effort this year.

This latest operation took place between Third and Fourth Streets, and French and Laurel avenues.

Of the six men arrested during the short time period, it is interesting to note that only two were from Sanford. Others listed their homes as DeBary, Lake Helen, Altamonte Springs and Lake Mary.

Police held a similar reverse-sting operation on April 29 in the same general area. At that time, 14 men were arrested. Almost half of them were from out of town. Several were from Orlando, Kissimmee, and Daytona Beach.

Sanford is getting quite a reputation, and it's spreading throughout Central Florida. Men seeking prostitutes apparently believe Sanford is the place, and the area around Third street, from Sanford Avenue to French, is the general vicinity.

If they feel safer in coming to Sanford than staying in their own areas, we hope our police will change that opinion.

If revealing the names of persons arrested for soliciting prostitution in Sanford causes them embarrasament, we hope all media will join the Sanford Herald in spreading the

A city obtains many reputations. Sanford hopes to be known as a beautiful Main Street City! It already has its share of good points.

It should not be, however, known as the place to find a prostitute. This is one reputation our city can do without.

····We commend the police for this latest. operation, and urge them to continue conducting these stings. If the word starts to spread that Sanford is not going to allow prostitution on its streets, it will result in establishing a better reputation.

What is often called the world's oldest profession, must not be merely driven out of Sanford to some nearby location. Prostitution, like street-corner drug sales and burglaries, must be stopped completely.

Kids are 100 percent of our future

Secretary of Education

R i c h a r d R i l e y , t h e prize of the Clinton Cabinet, makes a simple point: "Our children are 20 percent of our population, but 100 percent of our future." And so, looking at American youngsters is a good way to look at America.

Accordingly, I commend to your attention the new edition of "Youth Indicators," published by the National Center for Educational Statistics. The results, as I divine them, are ambiguously clear. There is good news; there is medium news; there is real bad news. GOOD NEWS. In school, many of the things that nice people once wanted to happen, have happened. The high-school dropout rate is now at about an all-time low, 13 percent. (The rate among blacks is 14 percent, down from 28 percent in 1970.) We spend much more money per child on education: up 38 percent from $3,992 in 1980 to $5,501 in 1992 (constant dollars). Classrooms are less populated: The pupil-teacher ratio has fallen steadily from 27 children per teacher in 1955 to 17 children

There's more. Follow the indicators. It's not what we heard during the election campaign, but family income went up by 8 percent during the 1980s (before wrinkling down 4 percent in the recession, and now climbing again).

children lived in an "over-crowded" circumstance in 1975; by 1989 the rate was 7 percent. Youngsters are less likely to die; since 1960 the death rate for ages 5-14 has declined by 48 percent, and declined by 7 percent for ages 15-24. (Mostly due to fewer accidents, and less death from cancer.) MEDIUM NEWS.

Scores for proficiency in reading. mathematics and science have remained about flat from the 1970s. There has been a small decline in writing proficiency since 1984. At best, things haven't gotten worse. On the plus side, there has been an increase in reading proficiency among black and Hispanic 17-year-

Or consider housing: 11 percent of young olds. But American youngsters are still at the bottom end of the international spectrum in math, and mildly lower than average in science. At the top of the math/science lists is South Korea; we trail Slovenia, but -- hooray! -- we beat the Kingdom of Jordan, consistently. We are about average in reading.

Riley's legislative campaign for national educa-tional standards of excellence is the right way to go. It could break up the dumbing down of American schools. We shall see early next year whether Congress is willing to do it with teeth. and whether the Clinton administration is willing to bite if they don't.

BAD NEWS. We are a nation at risk, socially. From 1960 to 1988 the rate of children born to unmarried women soared from 5 percent to 26 percent. (The most recent rate for blacks is 67 percent.) The divorce rate has more than doubled in a generation. At any given moment about a quarter of our children are living in a single-parent family. In 1975, among married couples with children, 41 percent of the mothers worked; in 1991 the figure was 64 percent. Youngsters with absent fathers and working mothers get less attention. They also commit more crime and are more likely to be victimized by crime. The arrest rate for teen-agers ages 14-17 in 1960 was 47 per thousand.

"It's still awfully farsighted. It sees stuff great 200 million light-years away. but nothing up close."

Racial matching and adoption

BOSTON - At first it sounds like a scene out of the Old South or the Old South Africa. People are assigned at birth to one racial community or another. Those called black are doomed to wait endlessly until an opening comes up in their separate world while places among the whites go wanting.

But this time we are not talking about schools or jobs or seats on a bus. We are talking about another valuable resource: famiiles. We are talking about black or mixed-race children who need parents and white adults who want to adopt them.

What keeps many children and parents apart is not the oldfangled segregation created by whites who oppose racial mixing. It's the newfangled segregation now supported by a small but powerful group of black Americans who support "racial matching."

The concept of "matching" parents and children came from the days when adoption carried a stigma and was often kept a secret. Parents wanted children who looked as much like them as possible - redheaded or blond, Italian or English.

In the early 20th century, legal adoption occurred largely in the white world and transracial adoption was as rare as an integrationist at a Dixtecrat convention. It wasn't until the civil rights movement in the '50s and '60s that white parents began adopting children of color.

But suddenly in 1972, the old policy of matching found a new source of support. The National Association of Black Social Workers began to call transractal adoption a "particular form of genocide." Since then, the NABSW has said "Black children should not be placed with white parents under any circumstances." Indeed, they and a few others have argued that it's better for black children to be in foster care or institutions than with white parents.

Well, be careful what you wish for. Today, about 40 percent of the half million children in foster care are black. Out of 22,000 bables abandoned in hospitals, 74 percent are black. Tens of thousands of these children are waiting for adoption and the median length of time they wait is nearly three years.

The black community has made efforts that are nothing short of heroic to care for the children and the grandchildren who lose parents to drugs, AIDS and the side effects of poverty. But black Americans are only 12.5 percent of the population. The numbers simply

So this year in some belated recognition that the matching that matters most in a child's life is with a family. Ohio's Sen. Howard Metzenbaum sponsored the Multi-Ethnic Placement Act. It was designed to climinate the racial and ethnic bias that can keep children in a foster-care limbo.

But a funny thing happened to his bill on the way through a senate committee. It ran into the opponents of transracial adoption.

The original bill said agencies should not delay placement of children in order to match them. The compromise version of the bill says they shouldn't "unduly" delay placement.

The original bill said a transracial placement is better than long-term foster care. The

It's not hard to Some hear echoes of slave days when black children were bought and sold by white families. Others share anger about policies that help break up black families and now would award the offspring to white folks. Still others genuinely worry about a black child's struggle for identity in a transracial family in a still racist world.

All things being equal, given two sets of available parents, one white, one black, I would agree to place children with parents of the same race. But all things are not always

Randall Kennedy, an Airican-American and Harvard Law professor, argues against the notion that black children "belong" to the black community and are "lost" when adopted by whites. He calls this thinking an example of both "naked racialism" and "the impulse to view children as property."

There is something equally sorry in the idea that we would allow children to languish in foster homes for months or years in order to protect and respect racial identity. Harming black children to "save" the black community is like destroying a village to save it.

If children belong anywhere, they belong in a family. If children need a sense of identity, they get it first of all and best of all as a son or a daughter.

Taking home the whole hog

TUPELO, Miss. - When it comes to filling up the pork barrel for the folks back home, there are few better at it than Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., and the voters here know

Like many other Americans, his constituents are all for cutting the budget deficit just so long as it doesn't dry up the trough for Tupelo.

That's what helps keeps the 83-year-old Whitten politically invulnerable. Each campaign, Whitten's photos of federally financed projects in order to brug about all the pork this longtime, powerful-chairman funtil this year) of the House Appropriations Committee has brought home.

which had its grand opening two summers ago. It sits just outside of town here, but the locals didn't put a cent into it.

Instead, the six federal agencies that Whitten has most tapped for pork largesse were compelled to ante up the tax dollars to help build this self-congratulatory edifice. In return, each of the agencies - the National Park Service, the Tennessee Valley Authority. the Appaiachian Regional Commission, NASA, the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service — got the "right" to set up an exhibit virtually boasting about the projects Whitten has extracted from them over the

and slices of pork over the years — roads, waterways, NASA installations and a bumper crop of farm programs. He has a Robin Hood-like way of rationalizing wasteful spending. "These federal programs help to equalize opportunities in our state with those in the larger and richer states," he once told constituents

Consider Whitten's biggest baby of all, the "Tenn-Tom" — on the banks of which sits Whitten's historical center. The more than $2 billion, 234-mile Tennessee-Tomigbee Waterway was dubbed "the federal pork barrel's greatest monument" by former Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Also derisively known as "The Big Ditch," the river-canal was an attempt by the Army Corps of Engineers to duplicate the configuration of the Mississippi River — which is less than 150 miles to the west. The corps cut through mountains to build 10 locks and dams, taking out two and a half times the amount of earth scooped from the Panama Canal. Whitten promised it would bring greater prosperity to the region. But the Atlanta Journal and Constitution last year concluded the opposite in a story headlined: "Poverty, Not Prosperity, Flows Down Tenn-Tom. But Waterway Keeps Draining Tax Dollars." The newspaper re-ported it was a "broken promise to the rural poor who live along the border of Mississippi and Alabama" because since its opening in 1985, "it has seen more bass boats than barges."

The big-money river businesses still prefer to travel on the Mississippi, so the region is left with a river-canal that even former proponents now say could take 50 years to reap its rewards. There were warnings about this huge waste of taxpayer money before the project even began, but Whitten wielded his power to implement a political engineering plan that worked.

Surgeon general says streets could be safer

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders, no stranger to controversy, finds herself enmeshed in a new one after suggesting that legalizing drugs could help make America's streets safer

The White House quickly made it clear Tuesday that President Clinton doesn't see eye to eye on that issue with the health crusader who accompanied him from Little Rock.

Republicans and conservatives who opposed her confirmation expressed outrage; some said the outspoken doctor should resign or be fired.

"Americans must be wondering if the surgeon general is dazardous to our health. eracked Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole

But Elders also was praised for Ther usual conrage by Baltimore Mayor Kurt Schmoke. who felt some of the same wrath five years ago when he sing gested the nation consider de-

Elders, responding to questions at a National Press Club luncheon after a speech decrying violence, said 60 percent of violent erimes are drug or alcohol-related,

"Many times they're robbing. stealing and all of these things to get money to buy drugs," she sattl. "I do feel that we would markedly reduce our extine rate if drugs were legalized."

She added that she did not know about the ramifications. but felt it was worth studying because some other countries that have taken this route have reduced crime without driving up drug use that infuriated critics who felt she was unlit to be surgeon general because of her unabashed support for sex education - including distributing condoms in schools - and abortion rights

WASHINGTON - American schools employ fewer teachers. as guidance counsclors bus drivers and cafeteria workers. according to an international study out today that illustrates ver another shortcoming in U.S. education

Even though it is the world's top spender on education, the United States has a smaller proportion of teachers in the work force than most other Industrialized nations, said a report by the Parts-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Calling the study "a timely reminder about the critical need for comprehensive school re-Education Secretary Richard Riley said it suggests a need for "slutting resources going to school administration into the classroom and into the professional development of teachers so they will be able to teach tougher content in all subjects."

This report confirms the pressing need for world-class standards for excellence in education and illustrates why the American habit of being comfortable with just being average comes up short in the new global economic environment." Riley said in a statement.

Riley pointed out that the study did have "some very goodthings" to say about American education For example, the United States has a much higher graduation rate than most European countries and more women receiving university de-

Nabeel Alsalam, an official in the Education Department's Naitonal Center for Education Statistics, said schools in the United States are the "most natural way" to get services to children who need them.

"It may be these non-teaching staff are being used to help poor children get free breakfasts and lunches or get to schools where there is a better racial mix," he

The report found that education spending in the United States was second only to Canada when considered to terms of the gross domestic product. Canada spent 7.4 percent of its GDP on education in 1991, compared with 7 percent in the United States. The total includes private spending of 1.5 percent of GDP in the United States and 0.7 percent in

In higher education, the United States spends more money per student - 62 percent of per capita GDP - than any other country except Australia. But U.S. spending on preschool students - 14 percent of percapita GDP - is only slightly above average, the report said.

"We didn't think it had a chance of going in," said Mc-Corkle. "Brandon was 35 or 40 yards away from the goal with most of the other players in front of him. Normally, someone will put a foot to a ball like that. It looked like that's what everyone was waiting for someone else to Jody de Bruin, in his first game back with the Rams after being named to the United States Under-20 national team, gave Lake Mary a 1-0 lead with an unassisted goal 15 minutes into the game. He later started a combination that included Chris Campbell and resulted in Jon Martin's goal in the 60th minute.

Matt Rosenblum netted Lake Mary's final two goals, one coming off the rebound of a shot by Ralph Eugene.

The final outcome was a little surprising considering the fact that Lake Mary and Ovledo had played to a 1-1 tie in the Goldenrod Rotary Cup tournament two weeks ago.

"Oviedo is well-coached and has good players," said Mc-Corkle. "I was a little surprised. The final two goals were our subs beating their subs.

By DOUG TUCKER

AP Sports Writer OVERLAND PARK, Kan. -Hold fast, football fans. A college playoff may be only 25 months away. And, it may not. But at least a blue-ribbon committee of big shots has agreed to do a feasibility study. And that, like a real-life, honest-to-goodness major college football champion, has never happened before.

"I don't think this necessarily advances the possibility of a football playoff," said Francis Canavan, the NCAA's group executive director for public affairs. "What it advances is that, finally, there will be a firm decision, yea or no."

It's too late to do anything about the current Nebraska-Florida State-West Virginia debate raging right now through The Associated Press media poll and the CNN-USA Today coaches poll.

The polls will have to sort out the mythical national championship for this season and next. But maybe not in 1995.

If the feasibility committee should deem a playoff advisable, then the NCAA Council or Presidents Commission could put some format together, probably a one-game or two-game concept, and let NCAA schools vote yes or no at their January 1995 convention.

If approved, fans would celebrate the first Division I-A playoff at the end of the 1995

Sources said the request to open the review came from the powerful NCAA Presidents Commission. "The interest by the prestdents is an indication they are listening to and in tune with intercollegiate athletics," said Oklahoma athletic director Donnie Duncan, a member of the study group. "This is a healthy move.

Duncan has not been supportive of a playoff in the past.
"My position has been to recognize the tradition and accured benefits, financial and provided. But that has not precluded the possibilty of considering that there could be a better way to do something, I don't think any of us should have a closed mind."

'Whether this advances or retards the possibility of a championship will be driven by the facts the study uncovers," Canavan sald.

Ohio State football coach John Cooper suspects a playoff is coming will see it." Greg O'Brien of New Orleans.

otherwise, that the bowls have chairman of the Presidents Dempsey, Oklahoma athletic Commission, said the formation of the study group should not be seen as an endorsement. The Presidents Commission, which has spearheaded a sweeping reform movement throughout college sports, is on record opposing a playoff. Its approval would be needed for the idea to have a chance. "This is simply a decision to gather information," O'Brien said. "Where that information will lead us is anybody's guess." UCLA chancellor Charles Young will chair the study group, which also will include

NCAA executive director Cedric

director Donnie Duncan and NCAA chief operating officer Tom Jernstedt.

Any number of playoff ideas have been floated through NCAA committees before. Several years ago, the extra events committee, chaired by Texas athletic director DeLoss Dodds, tried unsuccessfully to interest the Council in a playoff.

The College Football Association, which includes all major programs except the Big Ten and Pac-10, has discussed several playoff ideas.

down to 76-68. Another twominute dry spell for the Raiders allowed Indian River to cut the lead to five, 76-71.

Raider guard Mike Sheppard get points off of the bench. When stopped the bleeding momentarily with a huge three-pointer to make the score 79-71 with 0:53 remaining. But the Pioneera scored the next six points, slicing the deficit to two points.

Teacher claims she's a 'recipe borrower'

SANFORD - Most of Cook of the Week Myrlam Garrett's time is devoted to children - her students by day and her own two children by night. Her energy is awesome and she wholeheartedly loves every minute of every day.

Garrett has been in the field of education for the past 16 years. Currently, she is a teacher at Sanford Middle School teaching sixth grade social studies. She also taught for four years at Crooms School of Choice in Sanford.

Although she is a native Floridian, born in Jacksonville, the greatest part of her "growing-up" years were in Sanford. She attended local schools, graduating from Sense note High School in 1969. In fact, Carrett is the chairman of the committee for her 25th class reunion, "It's hard to believe that 25 years have gone by," sald Garrett.

Carrett is an active member of the Seminole County District Leadership Committee, National Middle School Association, and Sanford Middle School PTA. Her sorority is XI Theta Epsilon and she is a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Sanford.

When it comes to hobbies, Garrett's list is very impressive. 'I enjoy gardening, canning, basketry, stenciling, wreathmaking and refinishing untique furniture." But all of that was at a time in Garrett's life that she refers to as "BC," better known as "Before Children." Now there is no greater hobby in her life than that of her children and her husband.

Garrett and husband, Otto. have been married for 14 years. He has been employed for 14plus years with Litton Laser Systems in Orlando. They have is in the first grade at idvilwilde does, and he does everything Elementary School and is also an Indian princess through the Garrett said, "I'm a recipe bor-

1 banana 2 Maraschino cherries

Combine sugar, cornstarch and orange juice in 2-cup glass measure: mix well. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 114-21/2 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens, stirring once. Stir in butter and orange peel. Cool. Microwave on 100 percent power coconut in uncorered small glass dish 2-3 minutes or until lightly toasted, stirring every 30 seconds. Cool. Cut pineapple in half lengthwise through leafy top. With grapefruit knife, cut around pineapple to remove fruit pulp, leaving about 44-inch rim. Remove core and cut fruit into chunks. Place in bowl.

Section orange: cut sections into thirds. Peel banana and slice. Add orange, banana and grapes to pineapple; mix with cooled orange sauce. Spoon fruits into pineapple shells. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Garnish with cherries.

About 6 servings. Coffee, Juice, muffins or fruit brend would complete this brunch menu.

Organ donor's age no concern

DEAR ABBY: So often you have functioned as a feminine King Solomon, wisely settling disputes. Please advise me in this case: I am a 53-year-old woman in good health. I wish to donate my organs in the event of an accidental death. My husband claims my organs are too old: "Who would want 53-year-old kidneys, eyes," etc. I consider healthy (aging) organs better than none. What do you

IN NORTH HOLLYWOOD DBAR PUZZLED: Excellent question. According to Bruce Conway, president of the Living Bank in Houston — the national organ and tissue donor registry:
"Fifty-three is not old. The organ procurement team evaluates the condition of all usable organs — heart, lungs. liver, kidneys, pancreas, etc. at the time of the donor's death. The need for vital organs is great, and every medically ac-ceptable organ is utilized. Donated tissues - which include corneas, bone, skin, heart valves - can be utilized despite advancing age.

The families or estates of the donors are charged nothing. (The recipients pay the costs of obtaining the organs.)

It would be both generous and compassionate of you to sign an organ donor form. To obtain one. write to: The Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77265.

close to each other while kissing. Then they just naturally proceed to the next step, which is petting.

Sometimes they remove some of their clothing because it's "in the way," or they burrow underneath it to explore each other's bodies with their hands. This is known as heavy petting, or "doing everything else but."

The technical (and legal) definition of sexual intercourse is "penetration." (The male's sex organ must penetrate the female's. However, as impossible as it may sound, in the medical literature can be found cases where there has been no penetration - the girl remained a virgin but after engaging in heavy petting, she found herself pregnant.

How can that be? Simple.

The boy and girl were lying very close to each other (unclothed). "doing everything but," when a small amount of sperm leaked out...near (not inside, but very close to) the girl's vagina. The sperm got into the moisture around the vagina and found its way up into it, and fertilized the egg!

Beef up the holidays

Roast a steak, glaze, and wait for rave reviews

When it's your turn to host the holiday meal, of course you want it to be wonderful and special, and elegantly served - a tough order when you're busy and time is at a premium.

Instead of a roast this year, consider a thick-cut beef top strioin steak, an economical lean, flavorful cut that can be prepared in about one hour. Oven-roasted and brushed with easy. irresistible Mustard Maple Glaze, it will yield eight generous holiday servings. Fruited Wild Rice with Pecans is a delicious accompaniment, made with convenient packaged long grain and wild rice mix. ROASTED SIRLOIN WITH MUSTARD MAPLE GLAZE

1 (3 lb.) boneless beef top strioin steak, cut 2 inches thick Salt, as desired

Mustard Maple Glase: 4 cup maple syrup

3 Thap, coarse grain Dijon-style mustard. 2 tsp. cider vinegar

14 tsp. pepper

Heat oven to 350°. Place beef steak on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part, not resting in fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in 350°

Meanwhile in 1-cup glass measure. combine glaze ingredients. Microwave on high 31/2 to 5 minutes or until thickened, stirring halfway. (Glaze will be very hot.) Set aside.

About 5 minutes before steak is done, remove from oven to apply glaze. Brush top and sides of steak with glaze. Change oven setting to broll. Return steak to oven; broil 3 to 4 inches from heat 4 to 5 minutes until meat thermometer registers 135° for rare, 155° for medium. Let steak stand 10 minutes. (Thick-cut steaks will continue to rise about 5° in temperature to 140° for rare, 160° for medium.)

Trim fat from steak. Carve steak crosswise into slices. Season with sait, as Twin's condition not hereditary

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 61-year-old identical twin recently died from scleroderma. Raynaud's phenomenon, respiratory fallure and cardiac arrest. As a twin, I'm very concerned these conditions might be hereditary, although I recently took an ANA test with negative results. What are my chances of contracting her conditions?

DEAR READER: Your chances are no greater than they would be if you weren't a twin. The conditions you mention are not considered to be hereditary allments. Also, your blood test (ANA) for lupus, a related disease, is normal. Therefore, you needn't worry. The cause of scleroderma and similar diseases leading to Raynaud's phenomenon (blanching of the fingers) is unknown. DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been experiencing a whooshing. pulsating sound in my right ear when I lie down at night. This has been going on for a month now and is very irritating.

DEAR READER: Pulsating sensations in the ear are often caused by arteriosclerotic blockages in the arteries in the neck and back of the skull. Although no treatment may be necessary, you should be examined by an otolaryngologist. Such a specialist may urge you to have a carotid Doppler ultrasound.

If the test shows narrowing in one of the carotid arteries, which supply blood to the brain, you may have to consider having the blockage removed to avoid the possibility of stroke. If, however, your carotid arteries are free of obstruction, no therapy is indicated (because surgery inside the skull near the nerves of hearing is too risky) and you may have to learn to live with the symptom.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can a viral infection cause sleeplessness and a change of body odor? If so, what viruses could cause this unusual situation? DEAR READER: Any viral infection can cause insomnia and a change in body odor because of fever, which leads to achiness, sweating and malaise. Fortunately, most viral infec-

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 9, 1993

In the year ahead your chart indicates you might be lucky once again with persons who were fortunate for you previously. Make it a point to maintain good relations with these key people.

- SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Others will be working on your behalf today partially screened from your view. It won't require your management or guidance to function properly. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed stamped, envelope to Match-maker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you've always been fond of who has been treating you a bit indifferently lately might do an about face today and warmly welcome you back into the fold. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

It's time to elevate your sights and aim for more ambitious objectives. Lady Luck is your ally at this time and she might make things much easier for you than you usual.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A friend might provide you with a piece of information today which you'll know how to use better than your peers. It's something you've been very anxious to learn about.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your most propitious opportunity for gain today might come from a situation where another has already done the spade work. Your contribution may earn you participation. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A partnership arrangement in which you're presently involved might begin to take on greater ramifications as of today. It includes a capable, serious

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The methods and procedures you use for handling things in the a.m. aren't apt to be as effective later in the day. Fortunately, you should know how to

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The needs of loved ones are likely to be foremost in your mind today and you'll willingly sacrifice for them if necessary. Love and gratitude will be your reward. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Consistency and tenacity are your best assets today and this is why you are likely to finish difficult assignments you start. What you'll do, you'll do well. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you haven't been too successful earlier in the week in getting a hold of persons pertinent to your immediate plans, try again today. You could be very lucky at establishing contacts. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something big might break at this time regarding a labor of love to which you have stead-fastly attended. You may even get your first form of reward

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of delegating important assignments to surrogates. you're likely to attend to all the critical details yourself. Because of this things should work out quite advantageously for you today.
