

Chevrolet Unveils New 1967 Model, The Camaro

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet wheelbase, the same as the today took the wraps off its new Camaro which will challenge Ford's Mustang in the sports car field in 1967.

General Motors' biggest division showed its diversified 1967 line at a press preview at the corporation's Millford (Mich.) proving grounds.

The revised Chevy lineup cut the much publicized Corvair line to five models for 1967, two more than in the 1966 run. The personalized Camaro will be built on a 108-inch wheelbase, the same as the Corvair and the Mustang, but it will have a more width, over-all length and curb weight than Ford's entry. A coupe and a convertible will be offered in the Camaro line.

The Camaro lines are very similar to those of the Mustangs featured by the trend to the long hood and short deck. In general, Chevrolet's new offerings tended toward the "big car look."

Chevrolet's 48 models, the most it has ever offered, feature more than 400 accessories and options. These range from front disc brakes to an eight-track stereo tape player.

A heavy emphasis on safety was in evidence all through the Chevrolet lines, with a standard equipment safety package including:

- Energy absorbing steering wheel and column.
- Dual brake system.
- Seat belts front and rear.
- Four-way warning flashers.
- An energy absorbing instrument panel with knobs and levers recessed to minimize the chance of occupants being injured in a crash.

The day-long press conference included a news conference with E. M. (Pete) Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of the Chevrolet division, and it appeared certain the future of the Corvair would be brought up.

Much of the recent publicity on auto safety centered on the 1966-67 Corvair whose handling characteristics had been challenged by auto industry critics Ralph Nader and others.

General Motors vigorously defended the car and won several civil suits resulting from Corvair accidents.

Newsmen were curious whether the cutting of the Corvair line on five cars was a tipoff the line might be dropped in 1968. The best guesses were that General Motors would stand by the Corvair in 1968 with the expectation the car might make a sales comeback with the 1967 model.

Burton, Rogers Selected; Plans Set In 6-8 Months

Plans for the long awaited new courthouse and jail addition complex which were begun in 1959 can be expected in six to eight months with the employment of John A. Burton, IV and James Gamble Rogers by the county commission today as associate architects to design the facility.

John Alexander, county commission chairman, presided over the selection of the architects and designating Alexander the contact person between the commission and the architects.

James Gadsden, president of Rosewood Elementary School Parent Teacher Association appealed to the board to consider paving North and/or Jackson Street to the school pointing out that no paved access is presently provided to the school. He also requested that stop signs be erected as well as speed zone signs to furnish some protection for the students against "speed demons."

The board instructed J. C. Lander, road superintendent, to investigate the need for signs.

Final decision on the realignment of Sand Lake Road will be made on Oct. 4, the County Commission decided this morning.

City Hears Tax Complaints

Several tax-hardened city residents, dismayed by increased assessments and encouraged by the victory of a county taxpayer, Monday told city commissioners they would be glad to sell their properties at less than the assessed valuation.

Commissioners sitting as a board of equalization heard complaints from 35 protesting taxpayers, and said they would be glad to sell their properties at less than the assessed valuation.

Most of the protesters apparently were retired persons, owners of second properties and unused lots. Many said they "simply could not afford" to pay the increased taxes.

Several declared they "are willing to pay my fair taxes, but these increases are too much coming on top of increased city taxes."

A postal employee said he had increased his income by 23 per cent and an increase in property taxes of 35 per cent.

William Hush, who owns large amounts of property in the southern section of the city said that "property values will be diminished by the closing of the Sanford Naval Air Station" and called the tax increase "prohibitive, unfair, discriminatory, depressing, discouraging" and urged that if assessments are increased then the millage must be rolled back.

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. cut short a space walk today and hurried back to the safety of the Gemini 11 cabin when "he got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

Gordon, husky, 36-year-old Navy lieutenant commander, remained outside only 35 minutes of the planned 115-minute excursion.

It was the third straight time that an American astronaut cut short a space stroll because of troubles.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. flashed the word to a tracking station in the Indian Ocean that Gordon was back inside the spacecraft and that the cabin was repressurized.

"Listen," he said, "I just brought Dick back in. He just got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister, succeeding Hendrik Verwoerd, who was assassinated a week ago.

Vorster was elected unanimously as national leader of the ruling Nationalist party at a full meeting of the party caucus in Cape Town's Parliament building, only a short distance away from the chamber in which Verwoerd was stabbed to death.

SARASOTA (AP) — The chief medical examiner of New York City says he believes an overdose of a drug, not a heart attack, killed Dr. Carl Coppolino's wife.

Dr. Milton Helper testified at a preliminary hearing on a murder charge against Coppolino. The state has accused the 34-year-old anesthesiologist of slaying Carmela Coppolino, 35, with a drug which was thought to be undetectable after death.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Despite civil rights leaders' pleas to end violence, defiant Negro youths hurled rocks and fire bombs Monday night before police sealed off the area.

The outbreak was in the same sense, predominantly Negro sections where racial rioting erupted Saturday and Sunday nights, resulting in numerous arrests and extensive property damage.

GREENADA, Miss. (AP) — The highway patrol has been called to protect Negro children attending newly desegregated schools.

Patrolmen stepped into a virtual law enforcement void after a day in which white mobs, swinging ax handles and chains, attacked Negro children leaving the schools.

The 175 burly officers, in full riot dress, took over Monday night. They dispersed one hostile crowd early today. A white man who argued was slugged unconscious and carried off in an ambulance.

Medical society said the other day there are no charges by a doctor for admitting a patient to the hospital. Okay, but some guy came in this morning to show us a bill from a local MD charging a youngster $50 for admittance.

They don't forget the United Fund drive kicks off Oct. 1. Gotta good man running — Dick Keogh of Florida State Bank. He's been having his hands full. Goal up over $5,000 from last year. So give him some help. The drive will just start. Series of kick-off meetings set Sept. 30 around the county. Oh, yes, NAS has already started its drive.

If the proposed new school plant for Lyman High School doesn't get under way soon the old facilities may pop at the seams. Present enrollment at the school is 1,017 as compared to 800 at the end of the last school year.

It might be noted that the state survey committee estimated the school's maximum capacity at 529. Many more students are coming up from Jun for high each year than are graduated to add to the population explosion.

'No Snow Ball'

A. D. Rosier's legal move to bring about reductions in tax assessments on two properties is not expected to "snow ball" into a rash of similar actions by other Seminole County real estate owners, in the opinion of Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker.

Under a new law by the 1965 Legislature, Rosier, three residents of Weston Road, who are suing the county, asked the court to reduce the assessment on his property.

Mrs. Walker said today that "this was under the process of law and I, as an elected official, must comply."

However, the tax assessor said she does not expect many other real estate owners to follow Rosier's action. She said that last year 400 such actions were taken in Duval County and only 10 this year.

Sanford Tables Plans For New City Hall

Study of plans for a new city hall in the future and work space needs in the present building were tabled indefinitely by Monday, on motion of Commissioner M. L. Rabara to "cancel further study at this time."

Moyn was seconded by Commissioner Joe Baker and opposed by Commissioner W. Vin charging Rabara with "canceling" the study.

Provisional for professional services on layout and land use for the zoological park area was tabled until the next regular meeting, because of length of tax equalization hearing.

Scheduled presentation by Kenneth McIntosh on purchase and beautification of "triangle property" at the intersection of French Avenue and Seminole Boulevard was postponed because of lengthy agenda.

Also postponed was action on an illegal sign erected by Louis Rotas outside the city. Rotas had applied for a sign permit and was denied. He is alleged to have removed or "topped" the sign and found Bryan dead in the bedroom.

Shoots Wife, Turns Gun On Himself

A Seminole County man wounded his wife and fatally shot himself after a family argument early this morning, the Sheriff's office reported.

Sheriff J. L. Hobby said Leon J. Bryan, 45, an employee of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, shot his wife Jean, 40, in the back with a .45 caliber revolver and then shot himself in the chest.

Bryan died instantly and his wife was hospitalized at Seminole Memorial Hospital. Authorities said she was listed in "fair" condition at press time.

The shooting occurred at the Bryan home, located at Monroe Corners and West 42.

Sheriff Hobby said that the two had been fighting since yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bryan spent the evening at her daughter's home next door. She came back to the house early this morning and Bryan promptly shot her in the back. Hobby said Bryan went "crazing out of the house" after her husband shouted at her "I'm going to kill myself!" She heard a shot and found Bryan dead in the bedroom.

Lakefront Complex Enters 2nd Phase

Construction plans for second phase of the lakefront development project and authorization to advertise for bids were approved by city commissioners Monday.

Second phase includes piers, docks, launching ramp, mooring piles and facilities building. Facility building includes offices, lounge, laundry room and public restrooms and showers. Installation of bulkheading is expected to begin within a few days and within weeks the city will begin installing utility lines for sewer and water facilities. Florida Power and Light Company and Southern Bell Telephone will install power and telephone lines.

Payment of monthly statement on hydraulic fill contract work was withheld pending repair of "poor fill conditions" on southside of the landfill area in the vicinity of the launching-dry storage facility.

You Take Tiger Bus; You Take The Rabbit

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N. J. (AP) — A typical Brick Township school child finishes his last class in the afternoon, then grabs a tiger home from school. The child really takes a bus, but in order for him to identify the correct bus, he takes pictures of animals have been placed in the windows of the vehicles.

"We don't want any mistakes if we can help it," School Supt. Henry E. Dux said after the opening of school Monday.

"We tell the children what number their bus is but we also tell them to ride home in the rabbit bus. It works."

Homemakers Hear Report On Short Course

A complete report on the annual Extension Homemakers Short Course in Gainesville was presented to members of the Lake Monroe Homemakers Club at their first meeting of the current club year.

Mrs. H. L. Johnson, council president, and Mrs. Charles Pierce, alternate delegate, attended the short course, and were guests at this time.

Mrs. Johnson said "To me, this meeting of 140 homemakers from all parts of the state was the best of any I have yet attended. Friendliness reigned the entire time and we received much from the educational standpoint."

Utilities Planning OK'd By City For Jr. College

Firm of Clark, Dietz, Painters and Associates of Sanford and Urbana, Ill., was chosen by city commissioners Monday to draw engineering designs and planning for extension of city water and sewer lines to the site of Seminole Junior College.

Presentation was made by Dr. Jesse Dietz, who was described by City Manager W. E. Knowles as "probably the foremost and most knowledgeable engineer in the country when it comes to sanitation problems."

A presentation also was made by William Bishop, Tallahassee engineer, who said he would be working with the John Burton Matzre under study will include routing of utility lines, sewage collection, transportation and treatment, gravity flow versus pumping. Several alternate routes on the transmission line will be considered.

North Orlando Eyes Changing Its Name

North Orlando, after years of confusion in separating the Seminole County community from the northern section of Orange County's "Orlando," has taken initial steps to change its name.

The Village Council Monday night agreed to ask its attorney to investigate legal procedures required after which the issue will be placed before the people.

Move for the name change was presented by Councilman Charles Rowell who emphasized since incorporation of the village as "North Orlando" less than a decade ago by Silver Creek Mining and Precision Company residents here have had difficulty in receiving mail and telephone calls through confusion caused by the similarity of names.

Navy Officer's Death Probed At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — An autopsy was to be conducted today by the Duval County medical officer to determine the cause of death of Lt. Col. Robert J. Wheeler, 86, of Sanford Naval Air Station.

Commander Wuehler arrived at Naval Air Station Jacksonville Monday, accompanied by Capt. Edward A. Anderson, senior medical officer at Sanford Naval Air Station, and died shortly after being admitted to the emergency ward.

Officers reported Commander Wuehler had been involved in a slight automobile accident last weekend but were of the opinion this was not the cause of death.

Food Prices Up; Cause Complex

Commissioner of Agriculture TALLAHASSEE (Special to The Herald) — Food prices are rising in food prices. Each time food costs go up, an accusing finger usually is pointed at the farmer. But this is an unjust accusation.

The farmer should not be blamed for the increase. His net return is very much the same as it was before.

The Farm Front

Convenience foods appear to be the mode, though, and chances are that consumers will demand even more services in the future.

It appears that representatives at every level in the food handling process have pooled prices to cover their increased costs—and added a little more, for comfort. This practice tends to snowball prices. A modest increase at the bottom of the marketing ladder has ballooned substantially by the time it reaches the retail level.

Let's Not Wait Too Long

The Herald realizes that new schools cost a great deal of money. However, we are concerned with the welfare of our children at Sanford Junior High School.

Even school officials will admit that the school is overcrowded and that construction of a new junior high school is still years away.

We have heard glowing reports on how Hugh Carlin and his faculty have used every available space in the facility for classrooms. But there is still a desperate need for adequate safety precautions in the school.

City records reveal that the last inspection made on the building was April 26 of this year. At that time they submitted a list of desirable fire precautions:

We quote one of the recommendations: "In a building such as the old school, it would be desirable to have an automatic sprinkler system throughout the building."

We urge the school board to do everything in its power to appropriate funds for this needed precaution.

We understand that once we get a new junior high school the present facility will still be used for guidance offices and such.

The sprinkler system surely wouldn't go to waste.

However, our main concern is RIGHT NOW. . . There are over 1,000 young lives at stake.

INFLUENCE PEDDLING

Helen Fuller Says:

50 Years Later

WASHINGTON—It is half a century since Lincoln Steffens started the nation with his expose book on "The Shame of the Cities" of America.

It is into these root problems that Ribicoff and Kennedy intend to look. They are well into the first month of the two-year hearings they plan. A dozen mayors, four cabinet members and numerous civil rights leaders are on the list as witnesses for this first act of the drama.

The opening days of the hearings promise plenty of fireworks—and political reverberations—before they are finished.

The Mayors of New York, Detroit and Los Angeles led off the proceedings. They, and the witnesses who have followed them before the Subcommittee, bore down on the necessity of a far larger "national commitment" of funds for building the decaying cities.

At Mayor of our largest city, John Lindsay of New York, was the first to speak.

He pointed out that two million people live in poverty in his city; one of every four schools is more than 50 years old; one-fourth of the city's housing is substandard; and the last 20 years 750,000 poor Negroes and Puerto Ricans have moved into the city while 2 million white-collar whites have moved to the suburbs. The remaining New Yorkers, Lindsay argues, are taxed to the limit, and more local taxes are not the answer.

Mayor Kennedy gave his Senator a complete rundown. "More money just won't do it," Kennedy insisted. Instead "new and imaginative ways to bring private industry, the foundations and federal and local governments into an enterprise to help the ghetto" are what is needed, according to Kennedy.

The more the witnesses talk before the Senate Subcommittee the clearer it becomes that demands for federal aid will mount as the cities are heard from. Many of the requests are for projects that split over state lines. The Mayor of Detroit, River, which will cost $250 million to clear up. There is no way, Mayor Cavanagh says, to finance this locally in the next few years. "Get the River in one of those feeding into Lake Erie and without corrective action, the lake will turn into a giant polluted bog."

Some smart politicians think that the Shame of the Cities may prove a more explosive issue in President Johnson's reelection campaign in 1968 than Viet Nam.

When the scaling breaks out in a new place, I buy a small can of spray paint and touch up the afflicted spot. The fact that the touched up places do not match the rest of the car is not my fault, I tried.

Originally the car was a billious pink enamel. Now that color is gone in stock.

Dick West

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I personally do not mind driving a faded billious pink car with bright neurotic pink spots. In fact, I rather like it. But when I drive home in the evenings, the people next door stare their flats and about "There goes the neighborhood!"

Now here is the moral dilemma mentioned above: Almost every day as I am driving to and from work I have several new messages in my mail preventing a collision. Suppose one day I stand my ground. Let one of these cowboys charge into me on the right side. It damages my car and is his fault. His insurance company has to pick up the tab for repairs, and I get a new paint job.

So I had it examined by a dent surgeon. The prognosis was not favorable.

"There are only two things you can do," he said. "You can either have the door amputated or you can have the entire body repainted."

It legally, but would it be doing something morally wrong? Or at least unethical? I don't know. Not even Solomon could judge this case. He never owned a Rambler.

Thank you so much for all the time and effort you spent on the kids in Sanford to make a successful Bullhalo Club. We're all sorry it had to close because of a few people. We just want you to know we appreciate your time and effort in trying to make Sanford a real swinging place and giving us a decent place to go on the weekends. —SM

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Lorna needs to widen her perspective and realize that 2,000,000 others are in the same boat with her! Besides, many other ailments are far worse than hers. She can live to a ripe old age and be a charming wife, if she rids her stomach of her brain. Scrubbook these cases for they offer you medical "horse sense."

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE A-528: Lorna T., aged 16, is discololate.

"Dr. Crane," her school adviser began, "Lorna feels that her life is ruined."

"For following a severe case of the flu last month, she has now been diagnosed as a diabetic."

"She must take about 40 units of insulin per day."

"So she figures no boy will ever be interested in her in the future."

"As a result, she is moody and thinks there is no purpose in going on. Dr. Crane, can you reassure her?"

DR. CRANE'S PSYCHOLOGY

We already have about two million diabetics in this country and the number is increasing.

So Lorna must not think she is a freakish case, for she has a lot of company.

Besides, many people who receive an early diagnosis of diabetes, (as well as heart trouble, etc.) may actually live longer than if they did not suffer from such ailments as diabetes. And that is not a vain statement to bolster your morale.

For when you are ruddy and healthy, you may then live to a ripe old age than if you were not a diabetic, but gluttoned your appetite, caroused around and generally sabotaged your health.

In diabetes, the blood sugar level is elevated.

Normally, it ranges between 80 and 120 milligrams of sugar per 100 c.c. of blood.

That means you have one rounded teaspoonful of sugar in your total blood stream all the time.

As exercise consumes some of it, more is added via the liver's storehouse.

Since untreated diabetics have more sugar in their blood stream, this sweeter blood makes them more susceptible to infections.

For germs usually thrive on sugar!

If your blood sugar level is thus 300 instead of 100, and you get a scratch or ingrown toenail, then infection is more likely.

Diabetics should thus wear clean socks and be doubly careful in manicuring their nails, especially the toenails.

A mild case of elevated blood sugar may be handled just by diet alone.

If not, then tablets may do the job, but by mouth.

But in other cases, a shot of insulin must be injected under the skin to bring the total insulin supply up to normal.

An athletic person may need 100 units of insulin per day. If his body (pancreas) makes only 50 units available, then he must get 50 more via needle.

If his body produces 75 units, he may require only 25 by needle.

These are simple, "horse sense" facts that patients should understand, so watch your food intake, for eye cataracts also form and retinal damage can occur in untreated diabetics, thus causing blindness.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs (what you send for one of his booklets.)

Miss Spencer, N.S. Wiley, Jr. Married In Church Ceremony

Miss Sandra Lee Spencer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Spencer of Claverack, N.Y., was married Saturday afternoon, Sept. 10, 1966, to Newton S. Wiley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, of Johnsonville, N.Y., in Christ Church, Hudson, N.Y.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend H. Boardman Jones, a wedding at Windward Brook Country Club, Valtie, N.Y., followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a candid pearl de sole gown graciously accented by a renouvoile Chapel train. The Empire hotel and Kahala sleeves were bedecked with French Alencon lace. Her face mantilla matched her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Linn Hyde of Syracuse was mother of honor. The other attendants were Miss Nancy Hoover Miss Nancy Maas and Miss Ellen Roberts, all from New York City. They were dressed alike in moss green crepe Empire style gowns. Their headpieces were miniature French turrets with moss green ribbon veiling. They carried yellow fugi mums.

Linn Hyde was best man. Uncle's of the bride; John Wiley, brother of the bridegroom; Bruce Kenan and Edward Benjamin.

Mrs. Spencer, a member of the bride, wore a wreath gold and silver. Her hair was styled in a classic and maturing accessories. Her corsage was Cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Wiley, the bridegroom's mother, wore an olive green silk outfit with accessories to match. She wore a corsage of yellow orchids.

The bride attended the Mary A. Barham School, Northampton, Mass., Syracuse University and Chamberlain School of Retailing, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Wiley was graduated from Syracuse University, School of Architecture, class of '62, where he was a member of Alpha Chi Rho. He is with the Specialists in the youth field say that the question parents ask them most is—"What kind of an allowance should I give?"

See what you think of this advice from the experts—Start younger teenagers off with a reasonable sum, about $3 to $4 a week, and increase this with their needs and how responsibly they handle it.

Allowances usually should cover daily expenses like bus fares, supplies for school, lunches—but parents should agree that the extra money left over should be spent as a teen-aged boy or girl chooses.

If there's foolish spending, allowances should be kept small rather than large. And parents shouldn't give an advance against allowances ahead, except in a real emergency.

The experts acknowledge that grownups don't always handle money too well. So they point out the big aim of an allowance should be to encourage those receiving it—right up through college age—to train themselves to handle money well.

Dear Teen-Ager:

AN OPEN LETTER TO A TEEN-AGER:
Judge Phillip Gilliam of Denver gives us this Open Letter to a Teen-Ager, author unknown.

We hear teen-agers complain "What can we do... Where can we go? The answer is "Go home!" Paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, sweep the walk, wash the car, scrub some floors, help the minister, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, visit the sick, the poor, study your lessons. And when you're through, if you are not too tired, read a book.

Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city doesn't owe you a recreation center. The world doesn't owe you a living. You owe it your time and energy and your talent so that no one will be at war or in poverty or sick or lonely again.

You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, excused and tolerated you. They have denied themselves comforts so that you could have luxuries. This they have done gladly for you are their greatest treasure. Teenagers, grow up and go home.

I would urge each of you to search your heart, be sure you know Jesus Christ in personal salvation, make the goal of your life to live for Him, to know His good, acceptable and perfect will—then the problems you are faced with and the temptations Satan puts in your path will dissolve away in the light of His glory and grace. I want you to know, I BELIEVE IN YOU. I PRAY FOR YOU daily that you will be strong in Christ in this hour when the devil has so many teenagers on his team.

Sanford Junior High News

By TINA DAVIS and PAM TAYLOR

Football season is just around the corner for all interested S.J.H. fans. Our players are a pretty tough group and we know we're going to be proud of them. But let's give some of the credit to the coaches: MR. CARTER, MR. CAZONGNI, MR. PELHAM and last but not least, MR. KOKE. We hope to have a successful season as was the preceding football season.

This year's S.J.H. cheerleaders are as follows: captain, LINDA NELSON; co-captain, DEAN E. DEAROLPH; PAM ERICSON, JAN SIMPSON.

The clothes being worn by students this school year are simple for the girls but far "out" for the boys — such as wide belts and hip huggers. But due to the rule of short skirts now you can tell the difference between boys and girls.

First football game of the season will be with South Seminole Junior High "Hurricanes" on Sept. 22. See you there!

Colors And Title Selected By SJC

By CHUCK BEST

Collegians at Seminole Junior College have selected their school colors and title. In dark and light blue uniforms the Seminole Raiders will meet their foes in athletic competition.

Students voted for the name and colors during the first week of classes and results of the balloting were announced at the beginning of the second week. Students at the campus have shown a sincere interest in improving the college by their many requests. A day was requested on which they could plant shrubs and grass to beautify the grounds. Sept. 17 was set aside for the "Planting Party" and students and faculty have been invited.

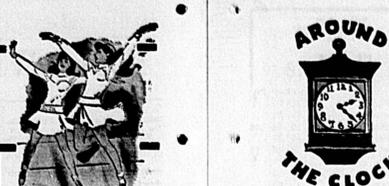

Requests for a yearbook were met by the administration with requests for students interested in working on an annual staff. A list of names grew and resulted in H. R. Sionker being requested to act as an advisor capacity over the college's first yearbook staff.

Mr. Sionker said he had never seen a group of such enthusiastic school spirit as at Seminole Junior College.

Other activities at the campus have been: opening of a student center, moving of a faculty building to the campus, and campaigning of candidates for offices in preparation for the elections on Sept. 9.

16 Youngsters Hurt In Sanford Bus Disaster Probe Crash That Killed Tot

Investigation is still incomplete in the traffic accident which claimed the life of four-year-old Bradford Allen Spence and injured 16 children and one adult early Tuesday evening.

Charges of making an "improper turn," however, have been filed against Kerest Anthony Sanchez, 29, of Geneva, and FHP Trooper C. L. Tomlinson.

World News In Brief

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Shouting "We're on top of the world!" the Gemini 11 astronauts today soared higher and faster than man has ever flown, and then, amazingly, both crashed on a star photography assignment.

Gordon was standing in his seat, his head poked through an open hatch waiting for a nighttime pass so he could see the stars, when command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. reported: "A space first — sleeping in a vacuum."

The astronauts had started the day by using the power of an Agena rocket to rise to a record altitude of 860 miles. "I tell you, you can't believe it!" Conrad exclaimed as they first reached the high outpost above eastern Australia. "Utterly fantastic. The world is round."

Both took a cat nap — dozed off for a few minutes.

Mission control center in Houston, Tex., commented: "That's the way it should be."

Hospital 'Negligence' Hit File Suit On County

Suit for damages was filed in Ninth Judicial Circuit Court today by Roy Smith, charging he "suffered burns on his leg as a result of negligence" on Jan. 11 when he was a patient in Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Seminole County, as a political subdivision maintaining, operating and controlling Seminole Memorial Hospital, is named as defendant in the case.

As of press time today, no papers had been served on John Alexander, as chairman of the county commission, or on Robert Besserer, hospital administrator. Sheriff J. L. Hobbs, reported that his office had not received any summons to be served.

Both the county attorney, Harold Johnson, and hospital

LAWRENCE SWOFFORD

County Commissioners were accused of playing politics with the proposed county road department program for the new fiscal year by District 3 Commissioner Lawrence Swofford.

Swofford today took issue with an earlier statement by Commission Chairman John Alexander that there is "no politics" involved in selecting what roads will be resurfaced, rebuilt and built under the county's $220,000 road building program.

"We've been playing politics for years and are still doing it," Swofford said.

Swofford said he is disturbed by the proposed program being finalized by the board in "work session" during the past few weeks.

He said he feels the county board will push through roads where only 100 cars a day are traveling while others in desperate need of repair travel by more than 500 cars daily are being ignored.

"We are not maintaining our most needed roads," Swofford said, spilling out the many sand and clay roads in his district that are going "to rot."

He stressed that Palm Avenue in the Bear Lake area is a disgrace and added that roads like Wynton, Jewell Drive and Oakhurst are "a must."

Ex-Raceway Boss Is Subpoenaed

DELAND (AP)—The Volusia County Grand Jury was called back into session today, reportedly to take up an alleged legislative bribery case.

Three witnesses were subpoenaed to appear. The state attorney's office identified them as Clyde Hart of Seaside; Fred W. Nelson and William Nelson, both of Daytona Beach; State Atty. Dan Warren was unavailable for comment but the St. Petersburg Times quoted him as saying an alleged legislative bribery case would be presented.

Hart was president of Seminole Raceway, at Casselberry, until it ran into financial troubles.
