Group Questions 'Rush' To Name Police Chief

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

A predominantly black citizens group is concerned the Sanford City Commission is 'rushing' to make Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett police chief without considering other potential applicants, including blacks.

In a letter from the Concerned Citizens Task Force, a coalition representing churches, social organizations and civic groups in the black community, presented to the commission Monday, the group's chairman, Francis Oliver, said the commission was not using the same "thorough process" for selecting a police chief as it used for picking a city manager earlier this year.

The city searched three months and went through more than 100 applicants for a city manager to replace retiring Warren "Pete" Knowles. The commission also established a citizens advisory board to review the applications and give input concerning them.

The city manager's position does not come under the Civil Service Board's jurisdiction, but is filled by the City Commission.

Dr. Velma Williams, a member of the group who gave the letter to the commission, said a memo to the commission from Knowles recommending Harriett for the job suggested other applicants would not be given a fair chance. In the memo, which Knowles sent to the commissioners after they received word of Chief Ben Butler's April 30 retirement, he said. "It is recommended the city commission immediately appoint Steve Harriett acting chief, pending time for the Civil Service Board to meet and to act in their normal procedures. Once the Civil Service Board has reviewed the available criteria, it is recommended the city commission appoint Steve Harriett the police chief."

The next day, the commission unanimously approved Harriett to be acting chief, effective May 1, and told the board to start searching for applicants. Before the vote, two commissioners — David Farr and Milton Smith — said they favored Harriett as chief. Commissioners John Mercer and Robert Thomas, while saying Harriett would be a "fine" chief, disagreed with what they saw as Knowles' attempt to lead the commission. Mayor Bettye Smith said at that time she had a "totally open mind" on the subject.

At Monday's meeting, Mrs. Smith said she was "bothered" by Knowles' memo but voted in favor of making Harriett acting chief "in spite" of it, "not because of it." She also said the commission would be fair in the selection process.

"Trust us that we have the best interest of all the citizens in mind," she told Ms. Williams. But Mrs. Oliver, reached at her home after the meeting, said

City of Sanford
Board of City Commissioners
Sanford, Florida 32771

Dear Sirs:

The Concerned Citizens of Sanford have reviewed with great interest the progress of the city government made during the past three (3) months. On this occasion, we wish to congratulate the governing body for the dedicated and creative efforts exhibited during this period of time.

However, the recent action taken as it regards the selection of the chief of police gives us cause for concern. The lack of a thorough process for selection as was utilized in the choosing of the city manager, indicates that this position of police chief does not carry the same importance that the manager's does.

We wish to advance for your consideration the fact that to make a decision by the mere recommendation of one entity is a step backward, and this body has on more than one occasion indicated that its forward approach to guiding the city of Sanford in how standard procedure.

We admonish you to continue this approach by working through diligent effort of the review and selection process for the best and most competent and experienced police chief that is available. Sanford needs it.

Respectfully yours,

Francis Oliver

'Swat Team' Readies

Spacewalk Smooth

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Two shuttle astronauts lashed improvised snares to the end of Discovery's robot arm today in an impromptu spacewalk to prepare for an attempt to activate a stranded satellite Wednesday.

"Not a bad view, huh? It's like Cinerama," Jeffrey Hoffman said as the shuttle raced from darkness into daylight approaching the coast of Baja California at more than 17,500 mph.

Hoffman and David Griggs, wearing million-dollar spacesuits carried on all shuttle flights for emergencies, left the shuttle's airlock about 7:35 a.m. EST for a planned three-hour work session. Commander Karol Bobko, co-pilot Donald Williams, McDonnell Douglas engineer Charles Walker and congressional observer Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, — the other members of Discovery's "swat team" — were on hand to monitor today's spacewalk and provide guidance.

Success today would set the stage for a tricky rendezvous and a bold attempt Wednesday to activate the Syncom communications satellite, which was left stranded in useless orbit Saturday shortly after its launch from the shuttle.

Letter Won't Sway Commission On Search

All four Sanford city commissioners and Mayor Bettye Smith said today a letter from a citizens group questioning the procedures the city is using in its search for a new police chief will not change the way the city is handling the matter.

Commissioner Robert Thomas, however, said he agrees more time should have been allotted for an in-house search. But he said he believes Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett, named acting chief April 5, is the most qualified of any applicants so far.

The Concerned Citizens Task Force, a board representing churches, social and civic organizations in the black community, questioned the thoroughness of the ongoing search for a chief, saying the city took its time when looking for a city manager earlier this year but now seems to be in a rush to find a chief.

The group contends pushing to fill the position may mean other applicants, especially blacks, may not get a fair chance for the job.

The city's Civil Service Board advertised for applicants among city employees last week. It is expected to draft a list of applicants for the commission tonight at an 8 p.m. meeting at city hall. The commission will then choose from the list or advertise nationally, statewide and locally for 30 days for more applicants.

The group said one week was not enough time for in-house applicants and wants the deadline to be extended for all applicants until May 15. Chairman Francis Oliver also said comments from some commissioners and City Manager Warren "Pete" Knowles favoring Harriett made it sound as if he were already picked.

But Commissioner Milton Smith defended the procedures. He said Chief Ben Butler's surprise announcement of his pending retirement in less than 30 days made it appear the city was rushing to fill the position.

He said it would be preferable to pick "a qualified in-house applicant" but added "we are not going to hurry up to the point where we overlook any qualified applicants."

that would not be enough. She said the group wanted there to be more time for in-house applicants to apply. "There was not enough time.

It seemed like it was a rush job," she said.

Mrs. Oliver said the Concerned Citizens Task Force has a 15-

Thomas Chided For Lone Action On Race Panel

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith told Commissioner Robert Thomas Monday that his plans for a bi-racial committee would have to get the rubberstamp of the city commission to become official.

The mayor gently chided Thomas for not letting the city commission in on his plans.

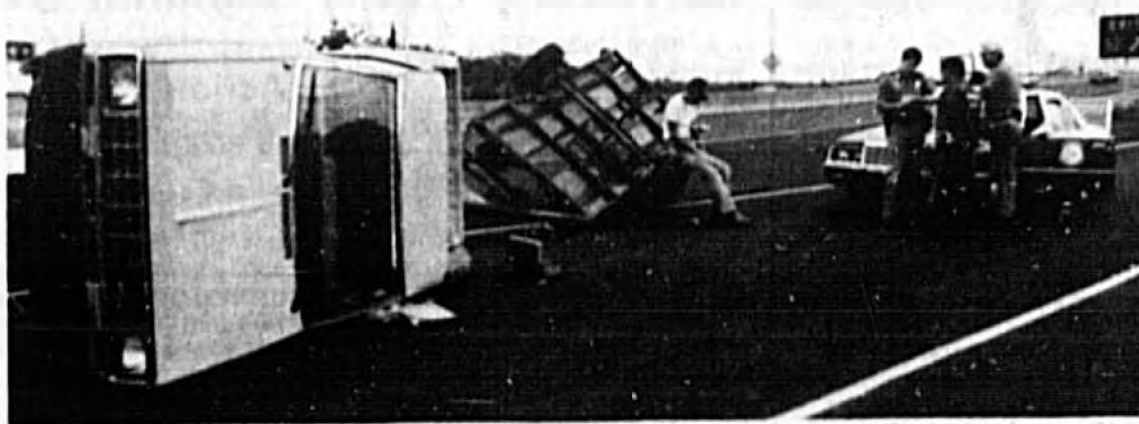

Thomas told the Evening Herald last week he had formed a committee to promote racial harmony in the city and that it would hold its first meeting the first week of May. He said he had eight people on the committee — five blacks and three whites — and was searching for three more people to even its racial composition.

Thomas told the commission he went ahead with plans for the committee because he wanted to make

Teacher Faces Prison In Fatal Hit-And-Run

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A junior high school teacher felt a thump as she drove her car into the early-morning sun March 8 a year ago but did not stop to investigate. The "thump" turned out to be a 23-year-old man who was found dying beside the road an hour later.

About the time David Burnett was found on Crane's Roost Boulevard, Altamonte Springs, not far from his home, Linda Rene Katz, 34, called her father from the school 17 miles away to say she may have hit something on her way to work.

Burnett died about 2½ hours later. Miss Katz pleaded no contest in November to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident with injuries and faces up to 5 years in prison.

Tomorrow Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr., who has postponed sentencing once, will have to decide whether to follow the state recommendation of jail time or the defense's request for leniency.

At the Jan. 9 sentencing hearing, several people spoke for and against Miss Katz and her possible sentences. Davis asked for more information — arguments from both sides and recommendations — before making a decision. The sentencing is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in the courtroom at the Seminole County jail.

According to court records, Burnett, a surveyor who lived at 1113 Lakeside North,

AIDS Battle May Require Nationwide Vaccinations

ATLANTA (UPI) — Vaccination of the entire American population may be necessary in the future to stop the relentless spread of deadly AIDS infections, a scientist said today.

Dr. James W. Curran, head of the AIDS task force at the national Centers for Disease Control, said scientists are assuming that an effective vaccine against AIDS will be developed by 1990.

Health officials "initially would vaccinate all Americans," Curran said. He said such a vaccination program "would result in a rapid reduction of infection."

Curran spoke to scientists from 30 nations attending the world's first major conference on AIDS, which was called amid

Amnesty Offered Cable TV Pirates

An amnesty period for those receiving cable television without paying for it is being offered by CableVision now through May 15.

While CableVision has launched a campaign to emphasize that stealing cable service is a crime, it is offering the amnesty period so anyone receiving unauthorized cable service can become "a customer in good standing," no hassles, no questions," according to the Central Florida firm.

CableVision estimates its losing about $6 million a year to cable tappers in its five-county service area which includes Orange, Seminole, Brevard, Volusia and Osceola counties.

There are an estimated 3,500 to 5,000 people in Seminole County using CableVision's services without paying for it, according to Mike Harrigan, the company's vice president of marketing. That adds up to about $100,000 the company loses in Seminole County every year, he said.

To fight this, CableVision kicked off a program Monday with television ads featuring state Attorney General Jim Smith, who tells viewers using cable without paying is a violation of federal and state laws. In Florida, violators can be fined up to $1,000 and sentenced up to a year in jail, or both. The law also says violators could be charged up to three times the cost of the service used but not paid for.

Seminole County users may go to the CableVision offices at 2619 S. French Ave., Sanford, or 551 E. Sanlando Springs Drive, Longwood, and become official customers.

"We don't want anyone to go to jail, but people need to understand that they are violating the law when they receive cable programming without proper authorization," said Bill Brown, president of CableVision of Central Florida. "It is as

Extracurricular Achievement

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Michigan State University and The University of Maryland had the most students arrested in Fort Lauderdale during Spring Break, with nine from each school jailed overnight.

That outdistanced the Spartans' Big Ten rival, Ohio State University, and the U.S. Naval Academy, which each had six students thrown in the brig.

In all, 283 students from 180 out-of-state colleges were arrested this Spring Break, including five each from the University of Massachusetts and the University of New Hampshire, and four from West Virginia University.

The students were arrested for:

— 153 acts of disorderly conduct or disorderly intoxication.
— 40 charges of resisting arrest without violence.
— 37 charges of loitering or trespassing.

— 28 acts of indecent exposure or lewd and lascivious behavior.
— 25 charges of possession of marijuana.

Only six of the students arrested were women.

Utility Bill Fluoride Vote Favorable, But Not Enough

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The 2,229 Seminole County water customers who responded to a poll on whether they want their water supply fluoridated voted 3-1 in favor, but that wasn't good enough.

The poll was conducted through a survey question printed on the back of utility bills in late February.

Cindy Wright, acting director of environmental services, said the response to the poll represented only 30 percent of the 8,422 customers.

So, information sessions will be scheduled within the next six weeks with customers at the public health department in Sanford and at a location to be announced in Casselberry.

After those meetings, the issue will be taken to the county commission for a decision, probably in June, Ms. Wright said.

At a meeting of the county's utility steering committee, Ms. Wright reported that engineering, equipment and installation of fluoridation equipment will cost about $36,750, or about $5,250 per water plant. The county has seven water plants in its system.

She also estimated it will cost about $1.25 per customer per year or a total of $10,528 annually for the chemicals.

All those costs for the first two years may be paid by the state in the form of a grant, she said.

The grant would come through the state's public health dental program which sets funding priorities among competing grant requests on the basis of population served, she said.

Depending on fund availability and competing requests from other jurisdictions, it is possible that Seminole County could receive grant funding for only some of the plants initially.

"Were this to happen," Ms. Wright said, "the county could reapply for grants for the remaining plant sites in future years."

Ms. Wright said that two Seminole County cities — Sanford and Longwood — already fluoridate their water supplies and since Lake Mary's water supply is furnished by the city of Sanford, Lake Mary residents also received fluoridated water.

Cities in bordering counties which have fluoridation programs include: Tavares and Leesburg in Lake County; Orlando and Maitland in Orange County; Ormond Beach, Daytona Beach, Port Orange and New Smyrna Beach in Volusia County; Titusville, Cape Canaveral, Merritt Island, Cocoa, Cocoa Beach and Melbourne in Brevard County.

No Contest Plea Entered In DUI Manslaughter Case

A crippled man, charged with DUI manslaughter in the death of his friend during a spectacular accident in Casselberry in August, has pleaded no contest to the charge.

David Eugene Megahee, 22, of Orlando, entered the plea in the death of Darren Kevin Kendall, 22, also of Orlando. Megahee was partially paralyzed in the accident and lost his sight in one eye.

Megahee could receive up to 2 1/2 years in jail when sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge Robert McGregor.

Kendall, passenger in Megahee's truck, died shortly after a four-vehicle accident Aug. 19 on state Road 436 near Oxford Road, Casselberry.

Megahee's Dec. 13 arrest followed a lengthy homicide investigation into the accident by Casselberry police.

According to court records, Megahee's truck was westbound on SR 436 when it crossed the median about 1:43 a.m., drove over a Capris, flipped over on its side and skidded along the road. It then struck a Buick, rolled over and left the road, striking a Pontiac. The truck then flipped and spun over the Pontiac, throwing Megahee out of the vehicle. As the truck slammed to a halt, Kendall was thrown out. He died shortly afterwards at Winter Park Memorial Hospital. The crash stopped traffic in both lanes for about 2 hours.

Megahee was hospitalized at the Orlando Regional Medical Center. Six other people involved in the accident received minor injuries. According to the court records, Megahee has been unemployed since the accident because of his injuries.

Records show that because of the extensive injuries Megahee and Kendall received, police investigated the accident as a traffic homicide before Kendall died. Megahee was unconscious for several days after the accident and it was difficult for police to determine that he was the driver of the truck.

Supreme Court May Decide Legality Of State Restrictions On Abortion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, on a day when four young Floridians went on trial for bombing three Pensacola abortion clinics, indicated it is interested in taking up the issue of abortion again in a case from Pennsylvania, a state which has placed several restrictions on a woman's right to obtain an abortion.

The justices Monday asked attorneys to present arguments next term to explain why the court should hear the case. After that, the court will decide whether to review the constitutionality of the Pennsylvania Abortion Control Act.

The state is appealing a federal court ruling striking down several provisions of the 1982 penalties for its violation.

Last May, the federal circuit court in Philadelphia struck down many major provisions of the 1982 law, including requirements that a woman wait 24 hours after counseling to consider possible emotional and physical effects of an abortion and that doctors offer literature explaining the proposed abortion method and alternatives to abortion before obtaining "informed consent."

Also overturned were provisions that all abortions performed after 12 weeks of pregnancy must be done in a hospital, and that a second physician be present in some instances to save the aborted fetus.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, however, left intact several provisions, including one that requires women under 18 years old to obtain parental consent before they can have an abortion. The law does allow them to ask the court for permission to obtain an abortion in some cases.

The law was in effect for one day in December 1982 before the appeals court issued an injunction halting enforcement. While in effect, the law subjected violators to both felony and misdemeanor penalties, as well as revocation and suspension of physicians' licenses. The penalty for a doctor's failure to select the best procedure to save the life of the fetus carries a penalty of seven years in prison and a $15,000 fine.

The challenge was brought by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, abortion clinics, clergymen and some doctors who perform abortions. They argued the statute violated the constitutional rights of women seeking abortions in Pennsylvania.

The Supreme Court, in a landmark 1973 decision, upheld a woman's right to seek an abortion.

In other court action Monday, the court:

• Agreed to decide the legality of an affirmative action plan that calls for layoffs of white teachers before less experienced blacks if necessary to achieve racial balance.

The justices will hear arguments next term in a Michigan case filed by 10 public school teachers who were laid off during the 1970s and early 1980s by the Jackson Board of Education.

The teachers are challenging the constitutionality of a union-approved contract clause that allows racial preferences in layoff decisions to preserve a racially-mixed faculty.

At issue in the case is the power of local governments to voluntarily adopt racial preferences in public employment.

Although the high court last year struck down a similar court-ordered affirmative action plan in a case involving Memphis firefighters, it has never ruled about the legality of a union-negotiated plan.

The disputed contract clause creates an exception to the rule of seniority-based layoffs if necessary to preserve the existing proportion of minority teachers.

• Agreed to decide whether cities and towns can ban adult movie theaters from most of the corporate limits.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by the city of Renton, Wash., which passed an ordinance restricting theaters that show sexually-explicit films to 520 acres in undesirable parts of the community.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down the ordinance as an unconstitutional infringement on the First Amendment rights of the theater owners. The city said its desire to maintain "quality of life" was sufficient reason to restrict theater sites.

The ordinance at issue, enacted in 1981 and amended a year later, banned adult theaters from any area within 1,000 feet of residential zones, houses, churches, religious institutions, public parks and schools.

A map blocking out the restricted areas showed the only remaining property in the city was an area occupied by a sewage disposal site and treatment plant, a horse racing track, an industrial business park, a warehouse, an oil tank farm and a fully-developed shopping center.

• Let stand a lower court ruling that a transsexual airline pilot was not protected against discrimination by civil rights laws.

Washout

Public boat ramps at the Sanford Marina were closed Monday after marina officials discovered steep 3-5-foot drop-offs at the end of each ramp. The drop-offs were caused by turbulence from the engines of the Star of Sanford cruise ship, according to Don Howard, one of the marina's managers. He said the ship often runs its engines a full power in order to get out of the marina instead of being pushed out by another boat. The practice has done "extensive damage" to the bottom of the nearby ramps, he said. As a result, the marina will have to hire a dredging company to fill in the depressions with more sand. The ramps will remain closed until the work is done. He did not know how much the work would cost or when it would be completed.

Refugees Betrayed

The Reagan administration's response to Poland's repressive regime has been disappointing during the last three years.

In December 1981, following the imposition of martial law, the president slapped a series of economic sanctions on Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's government. Mr. Reagan also instructed the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to inform its offices that Polish refugees would be welcome in the United States. Unfortunately, most of the economic sanctions have been lifted, even though most of Warsaw's ham-fisted policies remain intact. Worse still, thousands of Polish refugees have been betrayed.

According to a recent report from the Georgetown Center for Strategic and International Studies, more than 7,000 Solidary trade-union activists have been denied asylum in the United States since 1981. This despite the fact that most of them face prolonged imprisonment and even death if they are returned to Poland; most are charged with serious offenses, including high treason.

How mystifying and disturbing, therefore, that the INS rejected 77 percent of the Poles who applied for asylum between 1981 and 1984. By contrast, nearly 75 percent of Polish applications for asylum were approved between 1948 and 1980.

Why the disparity? It appears that the INS is pursuing its own policy irrespective of the president's instructions. Apparently, the agency's policy is being confused with its immigration policy, which is designed to stem the flood of refugees fleeing poverty. Clearly, Polish applicants, who demonstrate a "well-founded fear of persecution," must not be compared with these prospective immigrants seeking to improve their standard of living.

Although the INS does not disclose actual deportations and departures induced by departmental harassment, the Georgetown study estimates that thousands of Polish refugees to this country have been pressured to leave the United States during the last three years.

Second Opinion

Absent major reforms, Medicare, the federal health insurance program for 30 million Social Security recipients, will be out of money in the late 1990s.

To remain solvent during the next 25 years, Medicare will need to reduce expenditures by 19 percent or increase revenue by 24 percent.

No one in Washington disputes these bleak projections. Yet administration officials opposed a simple reform that could save Medicare up to $1.2 billion a year.

That's how much a Senate study says would be saved if Medicare required patients to obtain second opinions before undergoing certain elective surgeries. According to the study, second opinions reduce the rate of some surgeries by as much as 45 percent, without threatening the health of patients.

Indeed, the inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services has recommended a mandatory second-opinion program. But he apparently has been overruled by officials in the Health Care Financing Administration, the HHS agency that oversees Medicare. HCFA officials claim that existing peer-review regulations are adequate safeguards against needless surgery and oppose even a demonstration program to determine whether the savings estimate is accurate.

This internal battle must end. Secretary of Health and Human Services Margaret M. Heckler should explain to her HCFA underlings that there is but one opinion on this issue — that second opinions and the savings they can produce are long overdue.

BERRY'S WORLD

DONALD LAMBRO

Bloated Defense Staffs Must Be Trimmed

WASHINGTON — Navy Secretary John Lehman's surprise announcement that he will close the Naval Material Command, one of several bold actions to reduce the Navy's overweight bureaucracy, has sent shock waves through the Pentagon.

Lehman's latest assault on the military's "incredible and unwieldy monster" of a bureaucracy, delivered in a scathing April 3 speech before the Navy League, signals that some long-overdue reforms are going to be made in the way the Navy runs its ship.

His blunt, hard-hitting address reveals not only a cost-conscious Pentagon manager, but also an astute politician who understands that a spate of defense spending scandals has driven the military's credibility to a new low. Only tough medicine will halt its decline.

The Naval Material Command, which employs a thousand people, oversees the purchase of billions of dollars in Navy weapons, materials, supplies and support services. Lehman says it is an unnecessary and wasteful layer in the Navy's top-heavy bureaucracy and should be junked.

Under the present structure, the contract procurement recommendations of the various Navy bureaus must run a bureaucratic gauntlet before reaching the Navy's two highest officials: the chief of naval operations and Lehman himself.

Under Lehman's plan the heads of these bureaus will report their recommendations directly to these top two officials.

In his speech, Lehman said something that most Pentagon insiders have known for years, but that few if any at the top levels of management have had the courage to say in public: that in the last 40 years, the military's bureaucracy has grown into a fat, lethargic and inefficient structure badly in need of reform.

During this period, for example, the Office of the Secretary of Defense has grown from 50 people to more than 2,000.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff's bureaucracy has climbed from 100 people to over 2,000.

It's too bad that Lehman's bureaucracy-cutting, efficiency-improving speech wasn't made by Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger... about four years ago.

Instead, Weinberger's administration is continually climbing out from under one spending scandal after another — from the spare-parts fiasco to excessive overhead expenses charged by defense contractors like General Dynamics.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Deposits: Safety First

The recent action of the Ohio State government in temporarily closing 70 savings and loan associations has caused concern far beyond the borders of that state or the United States. Among other things, it triggered a sell-off of dollars on the international money markets, thereby arresting the giddy rise in the value of the U.S. dollar.

Americans weren't as alarmed about the closures as the Europeans because they understood that the Ohio problem was a special situation. Only five states have private or state insurance plans for deposits in thrift institutions. Similar institutions in other states are covered by federal deposit insurance which is backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Nevertheless, the U.S. public is far from unconcerned. The media attention focused on the Ohio closings has reminded Americans that those who seek above normal returns on their money may be exposed to an above normal degree of risk. Indeed the Ohio situation is a reminder of the need for individual and public prudence in respect to financial institutions.

The last couple of years have seen some disturbing situations with respect to financial institutions, notably the mess at the Continental Illinois Bank which necessitated a huge federal bailout. In Tennessee, the collapse of the Butcher banking empire exposed manipulation of banking institutions and the weakness of state bank examination procedures.

Since the early 1970s, U.S. financial institutions have been in process of extraordinary change. Banks and thrift institutions have encountered a host of new competitors. A technological revolution, which makes possible international money transfers in a few minutes, introduced not only new opportunities but a new degree of vulnerability to shifts in funds. The deregulation fever has been strong in the financial community as it has been in other industries.

The Ohio situation, while marginally important, is a reminder of the need for prudence in the operation and oversight of all financial institutions. The first requirement for a bank or thrift institution must be the safety of the deposits. A bank has a fiduciary responsibility, meaning it holds something in trust for another. That responsibility comes ahead of its role as a money-making machine.

This was well-understood by the generation of Americans who lived through the Great Depression and saw the doors of America's banks closed shut in 1933. However, people who lived through that era are only a small proportion of the U.S. population now. A new generation was brought up on go-go banking. A measure of prudence has been lost and must be regained.

The Great Causes

There is something mysterious about the sequence of topics that, one at a time, dominate public discussion. They go off like Roman candles, light up the sky, and then they are gone.

Just why is everyone talking about South Africa today? The actual situation in South Africa is about the same as it was five years ago, and probably about the same as it will be five years from now. But Bishop Desmond Tutu has his Nobel Prize, waves his arms on TV, and has seen President Reagan and insulted Mayor Ed Koch. All sorts of people are getting arrested for blocking the entrance to the South African embassy. Congress may pass some sort of an anti-South Africa bill. But why now?

After all, other things to worry about are going on in the world. The Soviets appear to be carrying out a deliberate program of genocide in Afghanistan, with the goal of killing up to five million people through starvation. They are willing to reduce the local population to a malleable one million, if necessary, with the goal of Sovietizing the country and perhaps making it another Soviet "republic."

No one is getting arrested outside the Soviet Embassy. There is no organized agitation on the college campuses about the genocide. There are no bumper stickers.

It seems to be the case that these "opinion flare ups" always have a leftward direction.

Two years ago, we heard little about the horrors of apartheid. Everything then was the nuclear freeze. We had huge demonstrations in New York, Washington and other cities. The campuses were boiling with the issue. There were teach-ins. Students at Brown University demanded cyanide pills against the day of apocalypse. Most of the Democratic presidential candidates came out for the freeze, even though they knew it was a fraud.

This year's focus on South Africa may indeed have one beneficial effect. The Soviets, at Geneva and in the media, are trying to crank up a major campaign against Reagan's Star Wars research. But the South African agitation seems to be blanketing the anti-Star Wars campaign. Apparently the sensibility of agitation can entertain only one Great Cause at a time, and this year the campus chaplains are working on South Africa posters.

These Great Causes appear to have a pretty short half-life. What has happened, for example, to the excitement over urban black poverty? At one time, and it lasted a few years, the paperback shelves were crammed with books about the situation of the blacks. We had sociological studies, tracts, fiction and poetry. But it has all passed over us, a great ocean wave of paper that crests, breaks upon the shore, and disappears. The inner city blacks are today just as poor as they were then, but that subject does not excite popular interest any more. Part of the answer may be that we have now poured billions into a supposed solution of that problem, and it hasn't made much difference. The Rev. Jesse Jackson is a sort of latter-day Martin Luther King, and a strong orator in the vein of King, but he made some waves as a candidate and has now been almost completely tuned out. If Jackson scheduled an address at the Washington Monument, only the usual suspects would turn up. It would hardly be a national event.

But the ebb and flow of these things remains somewhat mysterious.

If you could predict what the Great Cause would be next year, you could make some money out of it. You could corner the banner and button market, schedule the symposia and teach-ins, and get advance booking on the talk shows.

The good news is that these Great Causes usually have about the life-span of the gypsy moth.

United Way Not 'For All'

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the early 1980s, a struggling Washington organization dedicated to providing assistance to battered women was rebuffed when it sought financial assistance from the local United Way campaign.

That rejection was hardly surprising because aiding women who had been beaten by their husbands or boyfriends wasn't an especially "respectable" charitable endeavor at the time — particularly among the traditionalists who control United Way funds in communities throughout the country.

Today, however, helping battered women has become more reputable — and My Sister's Place, the pioneering group snubbed earlier now has an opportunity to become a United Way beneficiary.

The example typifies the nationwide behavior of the United Way — an organization that has been reluctant to adjust its traditional philosophy, policies and priorities at a time when social and cultural values are changing rapidly.

Critics offer convincing evidence of an organization that, on occasion, can be patronizing at best and arrogant at worst when dealing with creative and innovative yet unconventional and risky philanthropic initiatives.

The United Way, they argue, perpetuates the very conditions it claims to be relieving by devoting its resources to palliative remedies rather than working to empower the impoverished and disadvantaged to control their own lives.

In Oregon, the City Club of Portland commissioned a study that concluded that the United Way was "overly cautious and protective of the status quo" as well as a "prisoner" of the old-line agencies that receive much of its money.

In California, a Sacramento newspaper found a United Way board representing "an inventory of the area's power structure." A Boston newspaper reported that "United Way's board of directors reads like a who's who of the (city's) business world."

Even traditional organizations serving females — the YWCA, Girl Scouts and Girls Clubs of America — receive significantly less support than their male counterparts, while newer groups such as rape crisis centers and shelters for battered women often are shunned entirely.

Ethnic and racial minorities also have suffered in the allocation of funds. The Black United Fund was founded largely in protest against the perceived racial discrimination of the United Way. A Hispanic Leadership Development Program was initiated by the United Way only two years ago.

The United Way has moved slowly in recent years to remedy those shortcomings, but in many respects its slogan — "One Gift for All" — remains a deceptive claim.

JACK ANDERSON

Jake Garn — Our First Space Tourist

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — History's first space passenger, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, will launch the age of man's routine commuting through the galaxies. He will be followed into space by a new generation of travelers who will voyage to the outer reaches of the solar system, build laboratories on the moon and begin the settlement of Mars.

These great expectations are not science-fiction yarns. They are part of the planning of space scientists for the decades ahead — as feasible now as the Apollo project and the space shuttle when they were just sketches on a drawing board.

Here are a few projects that are already in the planning stage:

— Future astronauts are scheduled to establish laboratories on the moon, with satellite communities to house scientists.

— They will "terraform" the environment of Mars, melting its permafrost into life-sustaining water and introducing plant life that will, in turn, beget breathable oxygen. In time, domed islands of humanity will appear on Mars' surface.

— If essential industrial activities on earth become dangerous to our fragile biosphere, they will be transferred to space where they will be harmless.

— Scientists may be able to assemble in space solar-powered satellites that can capture the sun's energy and transmit it to earth.

Garn is the right man, meanwhile, to represent the public as the first space tourist. He not only is an elected representative of the people, with specific responsibility for overseeing space expenditures; he has a romantic's enthusiasm and a pioneer's optimism about the challenge of the stars. Yet he is a fiscal conservative, a no-nonsense, can-do senator who doesn't believe in squandering the taxpayers' money.

Federal funding for celestial projects is coveted for things on earth — subsidies for the poor, handouts to the rich, appropriations for pork-barrel projects. There is an undoubted appeal to the claim that we can't afford to chase moonbeams in space while we have unmet needs down below. But it is an argument that rests on bad arithmetic and blinkered vision.

The long-term budget for extending man's reach into infinity and expanding his knowledge 10,000-fold amounts to one-half of 1 percent of our gross national product. The federal government throws away five times more money, according to the Grace Commission, on waste, fraud and inefficiency.

Historically, it has been discovered — whether the opening up of new continents or of new vistas of knowledge — that have been the best antidotes to poverty, squalor and disease. The voyage of Columbus, for example, made possible the most successful anti-poverty program in history: the great migration of destitute peoples to the new world.

The selection of Garn for this historic space mission has been criticized by the press. The senator doesn't mind. "I would rather fly in space," he told us, "than serve in the Senate."

Footnote: The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will issue a special, historic patch to commemorate the Garn flight. The senator has asked that all proceeds from the sale of the patch ($5) be donated to the Young Astronaut Council, 1015 15th Street, N.W., Suite 905, Washington, D.C., 20005.

Ozzie Now Highest Paid

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ozzie Smith tied up his present and future Monday when he signed a four-year contract extension with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals signed the 30-year-old Smith to a contract worth a reported $8.7 million, to be paid out over five years.

Smith would have been a free agent at the end of the season and seemed resigned to being traded by the Cardinals.

Smith's agent, Ed Gottlieb, said the pact makes Smith the highest paid player in baseball. The five-year term includes the current season.

Money is guaranteed and is not deferred, although Smith agreed to waive a no-trade clause in the contract.

Gottlieb said George Foster of the New York Mets and Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia make $2 million a year "and Ozzie's four-year contract extension exceeds both of them."

In other provisions of the deal, Smith will receive a loan worth $500,000 at 10 percent, which is below prime rate, and he will receive primary consideration for a wholesale distributorship from Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc., which owns the Cardinals.

"When I started playing, I didn't set out to be the highest-paid player," said Smith. "I always work hard at what I do, and try to get people who come to the ball park their money's worth."

Terry Forster follows through. Veteran lefty hurled two strong frames but Braves couldn't overhaul Reds.

A's Crack Seattle's Streak

The Mariners had their six-game season-opening winning streak cracked open Monday night. Now it's up to Seattle manager Chuck Cottler to put Humpty Dumpty back together again.

After enjoying a rare stint in first place, Seattle, a perennial doormat, lost its first game of the season, a 7-4 decision at Oakland Monday night. Cottler didn't expect his team to go 162-0, but now must see if the Mariners can maintain their confidence after having their balloon burst.

"It had to end some time," Cottler said of the streak. "Now we just have to put it together again."

Mike Davis and Mike Heath each ripped a solo homer to lead the Oakland attack.

Trailing 3-2 in the fourth, the A's touched Seattle starter Mark Langston, 1-1, for two runs. Heath led off the inning by ripping a 3-2 pitch to right center, which rolled along the wall away from Mariners right fielder Al Cowens allowing Heath to come home with his first career inside-the-park home run.

"I lost my footing a little going around second base," the A's catcher said. "I thought for a moment of going back to second base, but I saw Clete (Boyer, the A's third base coach) waving me on. By the time I got to home, I was getting about two miles to the gallon."

Davis followed by launching a 2-2 pitch into the right field bleachers. It was his third homer in

Sax Sub Hits Homer To Lift L.A.

By United Press International

Rookie second baseman Mariano Duncan does not expect to hang around Los Angeles very long. If he keeps up his game-winning heroics, though, the Dodgers may have no choice but to keep him.

Duncan, subbing for injured Steve Sax, hit a tie-breaking home run in the seventh inning Monday night to lift the Dodgers to a 5-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

"I don't have any expectations about staying here, and I'm not thinking what will happen when Sax is able to play," Duncan said. "I will go to the minors without being too disappointed because that's where I was scheduled to go."

Duncan had hit only three home runs in three years of professional ball before his shot Monday gave the Dodgers their victory.

Less than 10 days ago, Duncan was in Albuquerque preparing for a year in Triple A.

"When I went to Vero Beach this spring, I never thought I was going to play in the major leagues," he said. "And when they sent me to Albuquerque I was very surprised that I was called up."

Cubs 2, Phillies 1

In Chicago, Chris Speier's pinch-hit sacrifice fly in the eighth inning snapped a 1-1 tie for the Cubs. The victory was the Cubs' fifth in six games, marking their best start since 1975. Philadelphia slipped to 1-5. Steve Trout, 2-0, scattered six hits over eight innings to get the victory and Kevin Gross, 0-1, took the loss.

Reds 9, Braves 8

At Atlanta, Nick Esasky belted a two-run homer and Dave Van Gorder added a two-run single to power the Reds. Starter John Stuper, 1-0, pitched 5 1/3 innings to record the win. Pete Rose went 1-for-4 to move within 87 hits of Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191. Pascual Perez, 0-1, was the loser.

Pirates 4, Mets 1

In Pittsburgh, Bill Alton

drove in two runs and Mike Bielecki combined on a nine-hitter with John Candelaria to lead the Pirates. The victory snapped the Met's season-opening five-game winning streak. Bielecki, making his first major-league start, gave up one run on seven hits over 6 2/3 innings for the victory. The loss went to Bill Latham 0-1, who lasted 3 2/3 innings in his major league debut.

Cardinals 6, Expos 1

At St. Louis, Ozzie Smith, who signed a new 5-year contract earlier in the day, hit a home run, and Bob Forsch continued his comeback from injury with a complete-game victory the Cardinals downed the Expos. Forsch, 1-0, picked up the win while going the distance. Bill Gullickson fell to 0-1.

Padres 8, Giants 3

In San Diego, Carmelo Martinez, making his first appearance of the season after being sidelined by a broken hand, hit two home runs — one of them a grand slam — Monday night to power lift the Padres to a home-opening victory over the Giants.

Baseball

four days and ran his league-leading RBI total to 13.

Oakland starter Bill Krueger, 1-1, pitched six innings for the victory. Jay Howell went the final 1 1/3 innings for his second save.

Oakland added another run off reliever Mike Stanton in the seventh to make it 5-3 on Dave Kingman's RBI single.

The Mariners cut the score to 5-4 in the eighth on Cowens' second homer of the season.

Oakland added a pair of insurance runs in the bottom of the eighth on an RBI single by Dave Collins and Carney Lansford's sacrifice fly.

Seattle opened the scoring in the first on Dave Henderson's RBI single.

Angels 5, Twins 0

At Minneapolis, Ruppert Jones and Jerry Narron each belted solo home runs to pace the Angels and hand the Twins their fifth straight loss, spoiling their home opener. Geoff Zahn, 1-0, was the winner and Mike Smithson, 1-1, took the loss.

White Sox 6, Red Sox 5

At Boston, Julio Cruz's two-out, two-run single in the 11th inning broke a 4-4 tie and lifted the White Sox to a victory over the Red Sox. Al Jones, 1-0, was the winner and Bob Stanley, 0-1, was the loser.

4 Plead Innocent

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Two Tulane University basketball players and two other suspects in a point-shaving scandal pleaded innocent Monday to sports bribery charges and then were ordered by the judge not to discuss the case.

NBA prospect John "Hot Rod" Williams and sophomore David Dominique, accused of accepting cash and cocaine to fix the results of two Metro Conference games in February, each pleaded not guilty to two counts of sports bribery and three counts of conspiracy to commit sports bribery.

Also appearing before Judge Alvin Oser were convicted bookie Roland Ruiz, 48, and Craig Bourgeois, 23, both of New Orleans. Each pleaded innocent to five counts of sports bribery and one count of conspiracy to commit sports bribery.

Bourgeois is not a student at Tulane or an alumnus of the school, said his attorney, who refused to say whether his client has an occupation.

Oser gave defense lawyers 30 days to file motions in the case and granted a request by Williams' attorney that a gag order be placed on all parties — blocking them from discussing the point shaving allegations publicly.

Basketball

Later Monday, the Tulane University Senate was expected to discuss a proposal by President Eamon Kelly that men's basketball be abolished at the school.

Kelly's recommendation came in the wake of eight indictments in the point-shaving scandal and the discovery that basketball coach Ned Fowler and two assistants had paid some of the players in violation of NCAA rules. Fowler and the coaches have resigned.

Two defendants last week entered guilty pleas in point-shaving case and two others pleaded innocent.

Player Bobby Thompson pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit sports bribery and student David Rothenberg of Wilton, Conn., pleaded guilty to two such counts. Rothenberg also entered a guilty plea to an unrelated charge of cocaine possession.

Student Gary Kranz of New Rochelle, N.Y., has pleaded innocent to a series of sports bribery and drug charges. Mark Olenak, a student from Fair Lawn, N.J., also has pleaded innocent to sports bribery charges.

'Bitter's' Defense Of Smoking Lights Thousands Of Fuses

DEAR ABBY: I recently received a letter signed "Bitter and Heartbroken in Arizona," who stated that she and her husband went to a family reunion in the Midwest last Thanksgiving — against their better judgment: (a) They didn't have adequate clothing for a cold climate; (b) Her husband was a heavy smoker — which their relatives considered "an unpardonable sin."

Dear Abby

After they arrived, her husband was told that he could not smoke in the house, so he was forced to go outdoors to smoke. Subsequently he developed pneumonia and died.

"Bitter" wrote: "I agree, nonsmokers have rights, but if the relatives didn't permit smoking in the house, they could have provided a reasonably warm sheltered area for smokers. I personally feel that these self-righteous, anti-smoking crusaders killed my husband just as surely as if they had put a bullet through his heart!"

Well, "Bitter's" letter lit the fuses of several thousand readers. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: That wife has my deepest sympathy. My husband was also a heavy smoker who developed pneumonia. He survived but promptly went from a productive professional to a helpless invalid. He is now on oxygen 24 hours a day. I, too, "lost" my husband although he's still alive.

DEAR ABBY: As a physician may I point out that exposure to cold air is not a known cause of pneumonia, whereas chronic cigarette smoking is. It is a fact that cigarette smoking is associated with chronic bronchitis, emphysema, cancer, heart disease, strokes, fetal abnormalities, and ulcers. Furthermore, smokers are more susceptible to infections and respiratory ailments than non-smokers, and their ability to fight infections is greatly reduced.

DEAR ABBY: "Bitter" blames her relatives for "killing" her husband. In truth, he killed himself. Anyone who craves a smoke so desperately that he would stand in the cold without adequate protective clothing gives a new meaning to the phrase "I'm dying for a cigarette."

DEAR ABBY: When our son was 18 months old he was hospitalized with a respiratory infection. At that time we learned he had a life-threatening allergy to cigarette smoke. My husband is a chain smoker. I begged him to quit. He said he "enjoyed" it too much to give it up — but he promised not to smoke around the baby. Well, soon he was smoking around the baby even in a closed car! so I gave him an ultimatum — us or cigarettes. He chose us. I know he still smokes because I can smell it on him — but at least he doesn't smoke when he's near our child.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sorry that the lady's husband died, but she is wrong to blame her relatives. They were only trying to protect themselves. She was lucky he died of pneumonia. He probably would have died of lung cancer anyway. It's a terrible way to die. I know because my daddy died that way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse working in an intensive care unit, and I have nursed many terminal patients on ventilators — unable to breathe on their own because their lungs are filled with secretions that healthy lungs could have easily handled. Nine out of 10 patients were smokers. My hat is off to people who refuse to allow smoking in their homes.

DEAR ABBY: I smoked for over 40 years. I was up to three packs a day, and I am now paying for it — tenfold I quit five years ago, but only because I was in such bad shape. I nearly died. I have emphysema so bad I can't walk a block without stopping to rest. I think God spared me so I could write this letter. It's too late for me, my lungs are shot. But I want to take this opportunity to apologize to anyone who has ever had to suffer through my smoke.

Springs Concert Saturday

Florida Symphony Orchestra's annual "Concert at the Springs" will be this Saturday p.m., April 20 (21 for raindate). The concert, sponsored by the Florida Symphony Orchestra League, is a yearly event which draws more than 6,000 patrons.

Held on the garden grounds of The Springs subdivision, this year's program, directed by Associate Director, Alfred Savia, is entitled "Romantic Interlude" and will present romantic music of a pop and light classical vein.

The orchestra performs on a stage extending over the waters of the spring with listeners sprawling over the grounds on quilts and lawn chairs while munching on picnic suppers and refreshments.

The performance begins at 6, but come early to locate parking and find your sport for viewing and listening.

Red Bug Elementary School's spring carnival will be held at the school on April 20. A host of games, events and goodies plus a shoe and sale by local artists and crafters will be featured at the 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. carnival. The school is located at 4000 Red Bug Lake Road in Casselberry.

Seminole Community College's campus is the site for "A DAY IN THE PAST," the Seminole County history fair slated for April 20. The fair will offer a whole day of educational entertainment for the entire family.

A parade is scheduled for 9-45 a.m. followed by a day full of historical features and activities. Scheduled are early crafts and Florida cookery, school bands, Scouts, community artifacts and photographic displays, concerts, dancers and singers, slide shows and lectures, the Longwood Fife and Drum Corps, Florida Militia and real Seminole Indians. Also offered are Public school social studies activities and displays by Seminole County museums and historical societies and clubs.

The fair, sponsored by the Seminole Community College Office of Community Instructional Services in cooperation with the Seminole Historical Commission and Seminole County public schools is free and open to all. Time schedule is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. — come early and stay all day.

Under The Stars With The Stars

Meet Joffrey Dancers At SBT Outdoor Fete

"Evening Under the Stars with the Stars" will be held at the Marketplace, May 2, from 7-10 p.m. Net proceeds will go to the Southern Ballet Theatre to support their endeavors in bringing professional dance to Central Florida.

This special event is being coordinated by the Southern Ballet Theatre Guild in cooperation with the Marketplace. Eateries such as Darbar (Indian Cuisine), Loomis Good Old Days Emporium (All-American Cuisine), Traditions Restaurant (Fine Continental Cuisine) and others combine their talents to offer guests delectable delicacies. Fine wines from Cook & Company will be provided by Friday's Knights Band plus other events.

Tickets are $25 per person in advance (by April 24), or $30 at the event. Bring a friend to share

Second Image has fashionable consignment clothing for women.

Second Image Celebrates Its Fourth Anniversary

Second Image, located in the Pine Crest Shopping Center at Highway 17-92 and 27th Street, Sanford, is celebrating its fourth anniversary in business. In appreciation for the many customers who have made the business a success, owner Margie Davidson is holding a one-half off sale on all color tagged clothing and costume jewelry in the store through the end of April.
Second Image specializes in fashionable women's consignment merchandise in sizes 1-38. If you have wedding plans, before spending a lot for your gown, be sure and see the bridal gowns at Second Image where you can save money. There are also gowns suitable for the attendants and the mother of the bride.
Margie has remodeled the store and is now accepting spring and summer consignments of clothing in good condition. The consignee receives 40 percent of the sales price when the item is sold. The sales price is agreed upon by Margie and the consignee.
Margie has a large selection of costume jewelry including silver, gold, and rhinestone. She also has shoes, purses and other fashion accessories.
In addition to current fashions, Second Image has vintage fashions from the 40s and 50s and costumes.
Second Image is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday until 6 p.m.

Lash Blue Book Cars For Sales, Service, Rentals

Work is getting underway on Jim Lash Blue Book Cars' new facilities at 4114 S. Orlando Ave. (U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Lake Mary Boulevard) Sanford. The two-story building with a waiting room and 1600 sq. ft. showroom area is due for completion in three months.
"We should be able to serve our customers with better sales, service and rentals when the new facilities are completed," said Steve Lash, general manager.
Jim Lash has been in the automobile business for 30 years in this area and has operated his used car sales from this same location. His son, Steve, who joined the business in 1982, is in charge of the three operations: auto sales, service and rentals.
"We have almost 200 cars in our inventory which sell from $300 to $20,000," said Steve. "They are not just used cars, they are reconditioned both mechanically and in appearance and they are backed with a warranty to prove it."
Blue Book Cars is closed on Sunday, but if you see something you like take advantage of their "Sunday Salesman" in front of the sales office. Just leave your name, telephone number and the type of car you are interested in and they will call you and set up an appointment or bring it to you at your convenience.
They also sell used trucks and vans, as well as cars on consignment. Blue Book has economical rental cars from $9.99 a day up. The well-staffed service department is equipped with the latest in diagnostic equipment and does everything but body work.

Gravely Tractor Company
 Specializes In Service

Fred Baker, owner of Gravely Tractor Co., Orlando.

Gravely Tractor Co., 2424 S. Orange Blossom Trail, Orlando, will be exhibiting the complete Gravely line of mowers and tractors at the Home Show this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Tupperware Convention Center on Highway 441 north of Kissimmee.

The company has been in business in the same location at the corner of 25th Street and S. Orange Blossom Trail (Highway 441) for 35 years. It is south of the East-West Expressway and 2 miles north of Interstate 4. Exit from I-4 at Gore Avenue and turn left.

Fred Baker, owner, was a district manager with Gravely for 20 years before he bought the Orlando business in November, 1984 and remodeled the building.

"We specialize in service after the sale," he said. "Our mechanics are all factory-trained and keep an abundance of parts on hand to serve customers after the sale. It's not unusual for customers to have owned a Gravely for 30 years and it is still performing—our best salespeople are our own customers."

"If something is wrong, we'll fix it free of charge and if there is a manufacturing defect we will replace it. Our guarantee is backed up by Gravely."

Made in the U.S.A., the Gravely line of equipment caters to both the homeowner and commercial trade and even carries a one-year warranty to commercial trade.

Gravely products begin with an 11 hp. 38-inch cut mower at $2,399 and includes a two wheel tractor line, a four-wheel tractor line and a pro-line and pro-master line.

"The main feature of the full Gravely line is the all-gear drive through to the cutting deck," explained Fred.

"We'll be glad to take our Gravely machines out and demonstrate them under any conditions to prove that Gravely is the first choice of professional grounds maintenance people."

Gardening attachments are available as well as other specialized attachments for specific requirements.

Pick up and delivery service is available and the take in trades. They have a retail finance program featuring no down payment and no payment for 90 days.

The customer may pay off the amount due with no interest payment or carry the amount for two years at the rate of 7.7 percent interest.

The business is open 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Treat yourself to lunch where the cook shops daily. Enjoy old fashion flavor of natural ingredients individually prepared in our own kitchen.

Dishwashing, Cold, Age All Cause Nail Problems

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have trouble with my fingernails. They grow just so far, then break. My nail tips peel. Am I lacking a vitamin or what? I am 62.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Fingernails become more brittle with age and in cold dry weather. You may be able to reduce nail peeling and cracking by keeping them cut shorter. Some experts recommend eating two or three portions of gelatin every day as a method of strengthening your nails by adding protein to them. I have not been encouraged by the results of applying hardening material or lacquer to nails. I have seen women whose nails became brittle as a consequence of long immersion in dishwater. Would your husband be willing, as a trial, to take over washing dishes?

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 63-year-old mother has been told by her doctor that she has decreased lung capacity. He described her condition as "borderline." She has not smoked for 25 years. What can she do, besides avoiding smokers, to ensure that her condition doesn't worsen?

DEAR READER — Decreased lung capacity usually signifies a degree of emphysema. This common lung disease is more prevalent in smokers, but most non-smokers, as they age, will also develop a degree of lung stiffening. This reduces the ability of oxygen and carbon dioxide to pass back and forth between the bloodstream and inhaled air. If your mother, at 63, has only a "borderline" condition, she will probably not suffer ill effects for many years. But you are correct in assuming that her condition can be arrested if she avoids air that is polluted.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 19-year-old female with a desperate problem. All of my life I have had inverted (retracted) nipples. Can plastic surgery be done on my breasts to have them corrected? Please hurry and let me know before I drive myself crazy.

DEAR READER — Retracted nipples are a normal variant of nature. Yours probably protrude when your breasts are stimulated, and they will certainly behave normally once you become pregnant. I think you will enjoy life to its fullest extent if you'll make an effort to stop worrying about your nipples. Nipples are nice, but there are more important things in life. I suggest that you resolve to pay less attention to your chest and more to your mind. It will get you further.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have gotten into the habit of using cider vinegar in my food at each meal. I have a pacemaker and asthma, and I wonder if the cider vinegar will do me harm.

DEAR READER — Vinegar is a weak acid which will not, in moderation, affect either your pacemaker or your asthma. You

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

In an ideal world, every bid would be made in the same tempo without any inflection. But bridge players are not robots, and sometimes bid too quickly or too slowly. This can be a costly error.

The weak two-bid by South on only five cards was unorthodox, but it is a tactic used when the vulnerability is favorable and the suit is strong. West was quick to bid five clubs. North bid five spades, and East thought it must have been Christmas in April. The double by East came quickly on the heels of five spades. West tranced for a while and finally passed.

Two rounds of clubs were played, the second trumped in dummy. It was certainly against normal percentages to play East for all four spades, but that seemed the only explanation for the immediate double of the five-spade contract. That would also be consistent with the fact that West almost took the double 'out to six clubs.

Declarer came off dummy with a low spade. When East followed with the four, South won with the seven in his hand. The deal was not yet over. A diamond was led to dummy's king and East's ace. East returned a spade. Declarer cashed the A-K of hearts and a high diamond before picking up the remaining trumps.

The hand now counted out. East had shown up with four spades, five hearts, and two clubs. Since he could not hold more than two diamonds, South finessed against West's diamond 10 to land his contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY APRIL 17, 1985

This coming year will be more fortunate for you than it has been in the past where friendships are concerned. The pals you make will prove their loyalty when the chips are down.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important today that you be purposeful and consistent. If you permit your attention to wander, you'll get thrown off course. Looking for romance? The Matchmaker set can help you in your search. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against tendencies today to worry and fret about things that may never happen. Don't use your imagination negatively.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone in your peer group who often takes advantage of friends might try to use you in some manner today to further his purposes. Be watchful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are too self-seeking today, it will not rest well with your companions. Be considerate of others and keep your image in mind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to keep pace with your present duties and responsibilities. Things you delay today will stack up on you and be harder to handle later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) One who loves you will be disturbed today if you're too attentive to someone else in his presence. Don't make waves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're involved in negotiations today, stand up for your rights. Don't agree to any terms that do not serve your best interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

It's not likely to work out too well for you today if you get others to perform tasks that you should be taking care of yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In social situations today, relax and be yourself. Affections or airs will make those with whom you're involved feel uncomfortable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Review your guest list today if you're having others over to your place. Be sure the friends you invite are compatible with one another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Disappointment is likely today if you do things for others in hopes of getting more in return. When they don't reciprocate, you might be angered.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might be a little too loose with your resources and possessions today for your own good. Take measures to protect what you have.
