

Fate Of Norway Depends On Quick Action Of Allies

By KIRK L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

The fate of all Scandinavia, except unwillingly in the deadly grip of the Allied-German sea war, seems to turn on which side can rush the heaviest battalions into north central Norway.

The old military adage that victory in battle goes to the army that gets there first with the most men is about to be tested anew in the Trondheim sector. Three weeks of give-and-take skirmishing for positions has not yet clearly defined the probable front of major action nor revealed Allied strategy certainly.

Yet despite initial Allied setbacks, candidly admitted in London, there are several factors clearly favoring the Franco-British-Norwegian team's chances of turning the tables quickly on the Nazi foe.

Not least among them is the fact that the Germans are operating in hostile territory. The Norwegians, although incapable of making a frontal stand against German light columns, are harrying them with hit-and-run tactics which menace any delay the head-hunted Nazi effort to reach the Trondheim garrison. It is certain, too, that the civilian population is passing vitally important information on enemy movements to Allied-Norwegian command. That tends to offset German air superiority in scouting enemy dispositions.

Another and even more important factor is the shorter distance between Andalsnes, the Allied landing base south of Trondheim, and the developing Trondheim front, as compared with the distance heavy German forces must travel to reach it from the Oslo region. Furthermore, Allied advance units are in possession of key junctions on railroads over which the Germans might send aid to the Trondheim garrison, still hemmed in on all sides.

It is clear that the only help now reaching the relatively meagre Nazi forces holding Trondheim is being ferried in by air. They have been cut off by sea and land since the surprise and bloodless seizure of the ancient Norwegian capital. Whatever detachments have been flown to increase it, the garrison of Trondheim must now be thinly spread. It must hold the city, the forts commanding Trondheim fjord along its 80-mile length, and outposts over 100 miles apart on the rail and road approaches to the city from the north and south.

From Steinkjer, where the Allied northern flank attack was checked and is still stalled, it is a 100 miles down the vital rail way to Melhus, south of Trondheim, where the southern outpost of the Trondheim garrison is reported. It is up that railway that the nearest German relief column is attempting to force its way.

Swedish reports say that Allied detachments from Andalsnes held the Storen junction. If so, they are a barrier that the German flying column coming up the Osterdalen route must overcome quickly if it is to break the Allied grip on Trondheim.

Southward, the Allies also hold the Dombas junction on the other rail route to Trondheim from Oslo. London reports sharp fighting south of Dombas down the Gudbrandsdalen valley up which the second German flying column is attempting to move.

There is strong indication that the major Allied thrust in Norway is that based on Andalsnes. The British expedition landed at Namsos to encircle Trondheim from the north may, in fact, be more of a feint to cover the Andalsnes operations than anything else. If so, it has served its chief purpose, even if stalled. It has forced the Nazi garrison at Trondheim to thin its defenses by expanding its front.

Presumably, it is from Andalsnes that the Allies are planning their major attack, not only to wrest Trondheim and its vitally important fjord from German hands, but to push directly toward Oslo. If that is true, it is in Andalsnes or in its vicinity that heavy Franco-British supporting forces are being set ashore to back up their control of the Andalsnes-Trondheim rail route and highway junctions.

While Allied-Norwegian forces can hold Dombas and Storen and thus prevent the converging of the two Nazi flying columns, the fate of the German garrison at Trondheim must remain in doubt.

Allied Resistance Develops As Nazi Armies Strike Hard

and Italy discussed resuming trade negotiations.

STOCKHOLM, Apr. 25. (AP)—German mechanized forces paced by bombers yesterday laid siege to three railroads south of Trondheim, lifeline of the Allied forces in central Norway, in an effort to close a huge trap on British and Norwegian forces around strategic Dombas.

Dombas, 100 miles south of Nazi-held Trondheim, was reported under heavy attack from three sides while squadrons of German planes swept along the railroad west to the British landing base at Andalsnes, bombing British troop trains.

The Allies at Dombas and Storen, an important base 80 miles northward along the railroad to Trondheim, faced isolation if the German motorized columns should succeed in cutting the network of rail lines and forming a junction with the Germans in Trondheim.

The Allies had taken strong positions at Iljerkinn on a high plateau, 17 miles northeast of Dombas along the railroad and reinforcements were being rushed to the spot. It stem German thrust from Foldal to the east, the Swedish radio said last night.

The Norwegian high command said last night north of German-held Roeros near the Swedish border, the Germans had advanced Saturday but so slightly that it is hardly worth mentioning.

Later reports placed the Germans at Glasnos, eight miles north of Roeros, in a synchronized drive with another column which was only three miles east of the Dombas-Stoeren railroad at Ulsberg.

These two columns appeared to be striving to isolate the large Allied forces at Stoeren, drive on to a junction at Trondheim and then turn back southward in full force upon Dombas.

Northwest of Oslo, the communiqué said, the Norwegians retreated along the Numedal and Hallingdal valleys after engaging the enemy in battle.

The Germans have captured Voss, 38 miles inland from Bergen along the railroad to Oslo, it was admitted, while German planes continue to bomb roads and railways.

The communiqué said one German plane was shot down, three were forced to land and

Methodists Call For Fasting On Day Of June 2

ATLANTIC CITY, Apr. 25. (AP)—The general conference of the Methodist church yesterday called upon all its 7,850,000 members in the United States to do without Sunday dinner on June 2 and pray for "speedy termination of war."

The 776 conference delegates resolved to set the example by doing likewise this Sunday and contributing the money they would have spent for "for the relief of human suffering."

"The first Sunday in June," their resolution read, "is hereby designated as a day of self-denial, fasting and prayer throughout the Methodist church."

"We urge that every Methodist follow the example of the general conference in making a sacrificial offering. We regard this period of fasting as a preparation for further sacrifices to be made during the continuation of this period of critical human need."

"They resolved the fast day should be "a time of deep intercession for other lands, and of earnest petition for the speedy termination of war and the establishment of a just and lasting peace."

At yesterday's business session the delegates debated lengthily as to where the newly-created Methodist church's administrative boards and commissions should be located. They rejected temporarily at least, recommendations of the small commission on location appointed at Kansas City a year ago, and turned the entire matter over to the large committee on temporary economy for reconsideration.

The commission on location wanted the commission on world peace and the board of lay activities to be in Chicago. But a group led by Chester A. Smith of Zanesville, N. Y., wanted these two located in Washington "in the same building with the board of temperance."

GOOD LIGHT is so CHEAP!

It's foolish to deprive your children... and all the family... of Good Light when it's easy to see how cheap you can install light conditioning in your home. A good lamp doesn't glare into the eyes. Instead, it diffuses the light throughout the room, dispels black shadows, yet throws soft, clear light on the reading and working surfaces.

Never before has good light cost so little, so it doesn't pay to run the risk of eye-strain. Make sure that you have at least 100 watts in every reading lamp in your home—properly shaded. The L. E. S. tag on any lamp is a safe guide to safe lighting.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 30.—(AP)—Labor Board today ruled that the Ford Motor Company had violated the Wagner Act at its St. Louis plant, and ordered the company to re-instate with back pay 94 employees who participated in the 1937 strike.

The board also ordered the company to bargain upon request with the CIO's UAW as exclusive representative of the St. Louis plant employees. In addition, the company was ordered to disestablish the St. Louis division of the Liberty League of America, Inc. The board declared the company "dominated and interfered" with the formation and administration of the Liberty League.

At the same time, the board dismissed allegations that the Ford Company discriminated against 128 other workers.

President Moves To Halt Fight Of Texas Democrats

WASHINGTON, Apr. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported last night to have given tacit approval of a drive by Texas Democrats to force the Texas Democratic convention to pledge to Garner, but would refuse to be a party to any "stop Roosevelt" movement.

The suggestion was made in a telegram which Bayburn and Johnson sent to Myron G. Black, Garner's Texas manager, and to Assistant Secretary of the Interior Wirtz in Texas, who recently returned to his home state purportedly to whip up third term sentiment.

The message quoted Wirtz as stating that the telegram in Texas should urge Garner as a native son candidate, and Black as declaring the Garner forces would insist that the state convention select the additional delegates to the national convention which will carry out the above program.

The telegram was made public at the White House after Bayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Buckley conferred with the President. Bayburn said the President had the message but had no comment. The document was in keeping with assistance reports on the Wirtz would serve as a check on the Wirtz's activity in Texas.

Sanford Building In Four Months Reaches Highest Level In Years

A substantial program of new home construction and home repairs during the first four months of 1940 has boosted the amount of building permits issued by the City of Sanford to $52,208, the highest level for this period in several years.

The month of April saw the largest amount of permits with a total of $16,200. This morning, the total amount of the permits issued for the month of March was $12,300. February, $11,620 and January, $12,278.

Building permits for the first three months of this year totaled $35,438 as compared with $13,317 for the same period in 1939, according to the records of Building Inspector Grady L. Duncan. In this increase for the first quarter of the year, Sanford shared in the increase for the state as a whole. In 37 municipalities the building permits issued during the first quarter of 1940 reached a grand total of more than $10,000,000.

The first four months of 1940 has seen the construction of many new homes. Frank Ashdown has built an attractive $1,250 bungalow on Summerlin Avenue near Fourth Street which will be sold soon. R. H. Wright is having a new $3,750 bungalow built on Summerlin Avenue between Second and Fourth Streets, and construction of the new home for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holt at the corner of Seventeenth Street and Oak Avenue is practically completed. A home has been built for F. H. Stephenson on West Fifteenth Street.

Completed several weeks ago was a new $3,500 home at the corner of Nineteenth Street and Oak Avenue for Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fort, while Mr. McTeer has expended several thousand dollars in remodeling his residence on Mellonville Avenue.

Current permits issued was one issued yesterday to J. A. Calhoun for the construction of a two-story residence and store on West First Street between Cedar and Poplar Avenues. Construction will begin immediately on this building.

Construction has also started on a $2,200 project for an addition to the vault at the Court House. The permit was issued to J. T. Pope, who was awarded the contract by the Board of County Commissioners.

Improvements To Homes Are Urged During This Week

Better Homes Week Is Sponsored To Stimulate New Interest

"Clean up your back yards and alleys, cut your lawn, plant a few shrubs, brighten the interior of your home with a new coat of paint or add some new curtains," Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Reva D. Andrews, head of the local observance of Better Homes Week, urged today.

With a small cash outlay and some physical effort it is surprising the improvements that can be made to both the interior and the exterior of the home, Mrs. Andrews said.

Pointing out that this week is set aside to stimulate interest in home improvement, Mrs. Andrews pointed out the value in advertising for the City of Sanford if every resident along the principal streets an evening made an effort to improve his home by planting seasonal flowers and shrubs and properly caring for the lawn.

Nazi Expeditionary Force Bridges Gap Between Columns Northwest Of Oslo

Action Is Seen As Isolating Allies

Russians-British Unable To Agree On Trade Relations

The southern half of Norway, apparently was falling today like a ripe plum into the hands of the German invaders.

Official announcements in Berlin reported two important successes: a Nazi expeditionary force has bridged the last gap between its columns moving north and northwest from Oslo and south from Trondheim. Dombas, the vital railroad junction 100 miles south was Nazi-held where Allied forces tried to stop the German advance in several days of heavy fighting.

The meeting of the two Nazi columns was southwest of Storungen, another vital railroad junction about 80 miles north of Dombas.

Although the German line evidently was long and deep, it means the Nazi forces have laid down a front to defend their hold on southern Norway—an important part of the nation. It means the Germans are in a position to isolate Allied forces, which advanced inland from the interior with forces moving north along the seaboard from Andalsnes, and south from Namsos.

The British Admiralty disclosed two British submarines were lost, and two trawlers sunk. British warplanes were reported to have shot down two Nazi planes off Norway.

A London military source said the Germans captured Storfer, and the Allied position in Dombas sector was "difficult."

The British apparently were encountering difficulties on the diplomatic front also. Sources close to the foreign office said Russia deemed the British offer to negotiate a trade agreement as unsatisfactory because of Russian insistence that has treaty with Germany was her own affair. They said the Soviet position "still was under consideration" however.

Hungary warned German protected Slovakia she would not hesitate to act in "defense of her national honor" if rights of the Hungarian minority in Slovakia are not respected.

Germans Slash North Against Allied Defenses

The Germans came almost abreast the lifeline of the Allied forces south of Trondheim.

The troops were landed at new landing ports in Nord fjord, 62 miles southwest of Andalsnes, and at Sundals fjord, 30 miles northeast of Andalsnes, it was understood.

Presumably they were rushed to the front over the railroad from Andalsnes to Dombas, which has been the target of bombing and machine-gunning German planes night and day.

The troops landed at Sundals fjord were rushed to the villages of Opdal and Berkak in the Driks and Orkial valleys for the defense of Ulberg, 22 miles south of the British base at Stjernen on the rail line, and to Hjerking, about 20 miles above Dombas.

The troops arriving at Nord fjord were said to have been sent down the Gudbrands valley, south of Dombas to reinforce the defense of Otta, 20 miles from Dombas, after the Germans broke through Allied defenses at Kvam.

For the time being, at least, the reinforced Allied troops were reported to be holding off the Germans at all these points, although fighting was said to be stiff at several points.

The heaviest fighting, according to frontier reports, was along a mountain pass between Kvikne and Ulberg although a small German force had struck beyond Kvikne to Inset and was almost upon the railroad at Ulberg.

Southward, about 20 miles northeast of Dombas, the Germans made repeated thrusts in an effort to reach the railroad at Hjerking from Foldal, it was reported.

The Norwegian military attack in Stockholm asserted last night German mechanized forces, mounting the rugged peaks of the Folla valley to the east, had been unable to capture Hjerking and cut the railroad from Dombas to Trondheim.

Farther north along the rail line, about 20 miles south of the British base at Stjernen, the German drive to seize the town of Ulberg also was being stemmed by fierce allied resistance in the Kvikne mountain pass, 15 miles southeast of Kvikne, the spokesman said.

LONDON, Apr. 20. — (AP)—Damaging attacks by low-flying German bombers on the Allied troop landing bases of Molde and Andalsnes emphasized in British minds last night the belief that control of the air will be the decisive factor in the major battle which slowly is developing in central Norway.

Aware that German planes also are harrying British lines of communication and protecting the German columns moving swiftly from the south toward the garrison in Trondheim, London was gloomy after a week of indifferent news from the north.

Meanwhile, however, Britain appeared determined to plug any possible gaps on the diplomatic and economic fronts.

The most welcome item of news in this connection was the disclosure that Foreign Secretary Halifax had invited Italian Ambassador Bastianini to discuss a resumption of British-Italian trade talks.

These were broken off last February, after Britain's seizure of coal being shipped by sea from Germany to Italy. The fact that the foreign secretary had issued the invitation, however, was hailed by authoritative foreign office sources and by the press as a good omen for the improvement of "rather uncertain relations" between the two countries.

But the struggle in the north took precedence over this latest British feint toward retaining the status quo in the Mediterranean.

From Norway came reports that Allied forces in the Gudbrandsdal and Orkialme, the valleys which provide the main lines of communication between Oslo and Trondheim, were facing increased pressure.

The British were reported hanging on at Dombas, railway junction point in the Gudbrandsdal where the line from Oslo branches off to Andalsnes to the west and Trondheim to the north, and at Kvam, 35 miles farther south (reports reaching Stockholm said Kvam had been occupied by the Germans).

From the admiralty came a flat denial of what was said to be German claims that five British warships and 11 transports had been sunk or badly hit within the last 48 hours. The admiralty made a counter-claim that three German supply ships were torpedoed and sunk. The only British losses, the admiralty said, were two trawlers, the "Tannant" and "Larwood," which were lost without casualties.

(Various German reports del-not claim these losses, saying a total of 11 transports and four warships have been hit and damaged or sunk by aerial bombs in two days).

An official British statement reported 28 German transport and supply ships sunk since Apr. 2, 10 more "hit by torpedoes and probably sunk," one named the "Blaine," scuttled, and some losses due to mines suffered by the German expeditionary force "since the Nazis embarked on their Scandinavian adventure."

The war office reported, in addition to the "heavy enemy air attacks" at Molde and Andalsnes, patrol activity around Namsos, another troop landing point farther north, and said there was "nothing further to report" from Narvik, the northern port held by a German garrison.

German bombing, which had slackened over the week-end, apparently was renewed with increased energy, despite a battle between Nazi bombers and Allied fighting planes over Lake Engset near Andalsnes, in which several planes were reported to have crashed.

Sanford Seminoles Hand DeLand Red Hats 6-5 Defeat

Jeter Permits Red Hats 10 Hits; Tony Kestel Collects 3 Safeties

Orlando Senators Meet Sanford Tonight; Rick Gillespie Plays Good Game; Triples in Seventh

For eight innings Sanford looked like any other team in the Florida State League last night, but in the ninth they came from behind to score four runs and defeat the DeLand Red Hats 6-5.

Tonight the Orlando Senators play here at 8:00 o'clock.

Behind three runs going into their half of the ninth, the Seminoles put on the steam to run Whitey Davis from the mound, to chase them back to the showers, and finally to collect their winning run when D'Zuro walked Jeter to force Charlie Roberts across the plate.

Manager Whitley Campbell sent Al Nixon in to pinch hit for Tony Kestel in the ninth. Kestel was playing rightfield instead of Ralph Hyder, who has an infected finger. Nixon singled sharply to chase them back to the showers, and finally to collect their winning run when D'Zuro walked Jeter to force Charlie Roberts across the plate.

Approximately 40 Boys Report For Spring Football Training

Gainesville Wins From Yearlings By Score Of 7 To 3

By ROBBY NEWMAN

The Feds started out the first week of Spring training with just limbering up exercises and handling of the ball. They have the largest group of boys of any Spring training in many a year.

The second week uniforms were issued so that they could start in the real work of blocking, tackling and punting.

Coach McLucas took the line men and showed them all of the fundamentals that the line has to know. While Gillespie had the backs showing them how to block with their shoulders and how to drive low. The Feds are rounding out fairly well, but there is still a lot that has to be done.

The third week of training began Monday so that means scrimmages is not far off. The Feds have had a little dummy scrimmage but not any of the scrimmage that they have been waiting for.

The Feds don't have quite as much experience as they could, but at least they have more than the last year's team; that means we should win a few more games, and yet you can't really tell anything until the practice begins next season.

The Feds this year seem to have the old pep and fight that we have lacked for a long time.

The boys seem to enjoy their practice and instead of bawling around and trying to get out of running out for passes or hitting the dummy easy, they are running and driving every chance they get. They practice as though they had a game next week and had to hurry to get ready for it.

For any team of any kind to succeed they have to feel just like these boys feel right now and if they feel and try all the time like they feel right now, games are played at the Ninth Street diamond.

The standings thus far are:

Orlando Nationals Hold Record For Worst Shut-Out Defeat, 18-0

By LEAGUE SERVICE BUREAU

ORLANDO, Apr. 20. — Butch Onis' Orlando Nationals suffered the worst shut-out defeat in the history of the Florida State League when Whitey Campbell's Sanford Seminoles handed them an 18 to 0 whitewash at Orlando.

Orlando thus gave up one record to grab another because the previous team of 1937 held the previous league record for having tolled up the biggest shut-out score, a 15 to 0 beating administered to the Palatka Azaleas on May 15, 1939.

And Orlando's 15 to 0 victory of 1939 broke a record that had held since the opening week of play in 1936 when the Daytona Beach Islanders thumped the St. Augustine Saints by 15 to 0 on April 25, 1936.

Gainesville whipped Palatka by an identical score on Aug. 1, 1936, and the G-Men and Islanders held the joint record through last year's Orlando victory.

House Group Pigeonholes Hatch Bill

Vote Not Announced; Chairman Sumners Refuses To Discuss Committee Decision

Act Would Hit Federal Workers

Personal Campaign Contributions Would Be Limited

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—The House Judiciary Committee today killed the Senate-approved Hatch bill to regulate political activities of state employes paid with federal funds.

The committee ordered the bill tabled, meaning it will be stuffed away in a pigeonhole. The vote was not announced and Chairman Sumners (D-Tex.) refused to discuss the matter beyond making a bare announcement.

In addition to restricting political activities of state employes paid by federal money, the measure also would have limited personal campaign contributions to $5,000.

The House amendments to exempt large groups of workers from the wage-hour law were passed May 15 to 65, in the House yesterday after being so amended and "loaded" with additional legislation that their author, Representative Barden (D-Mo.), threw up his hands in despair and abandoned them.

The Senate, which came as the culmination of a long controversy in which President Roosevelt vigorously fought the Senate plan, opened the way for consideration, beginning Saturday. Dietrich Commission, a committee of the House Judiciary Committee.

Scout Camporee Will Be Held On Friday, Saturday

Members of Seminole County patrol and troops will hold a two-day camporee on the vacant lot south of the diamond ball field on the lake front Friday and Saturday. District Commissioner Charles S. Morrison said today.

The camporee was previously scheduled two weeks ago but inclement weather forced the postponement until this coming weekend.

The scouts and patrols from all over the county will take part in competitive matches during the two days. The highlights of which will be a big bonfire on Friday night around which the scouts will gather for various demonstrations.

Among the features in which the scouts will take part are a knowledge contest, a fire drill, a water polo match, and a water polo match.

The events, later in the week, will be a tent city in their vivacious area and each tent will be appropriately designated by patrol emblem.

The patrol, enthusiastically participating in this camporee will be eligible to take part in the Camporee of the Central Florida Council of Boy Scouts to be held at Camp Weir on Friday and Saturday, May 11-12.

Rev. J. J. Brown, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in the cemetery at 3:30 p. m.

SOME GUN, EH, MESSIEURS?

Residents Urged To Brighten Home For "Better Homes Week"

Suggestions for plantings to beautify the home were made today by Mrs. Vera D. Andrews, home demonstration agent, who is heading the local observance of Better Homes Week, set aside several years ago to stimulate the ornamental tree and shrub cultivation of the home.

"Differences in working hours and in space available make sharp contrast in what is likely to be most practical in beautifying homes in towns and in the country. In town, space may be limited, but long summer evenings allow time for attention to the ornamental trees and shrubs from the least space. On the farm, rush seasons in the fields mean long hours and little leisure at the very time flower gardens should be most in need of weeding, cultivating and watering. But grounds around the farm home are usually ample for more of the ornamental trees and shrubs than those of the town dweller," Mrs. Andrews said.

Permit Granted For New Home In Sanford Heights

A building permit was issued by Building Inspector Grady L. Duncan at the City Hall yesterday for the construction of a one-story frame bungalow in Sanford Heights on West Twentieth Street at an estimated cost of $3,000. The permit was issued to E. E. Ashdown, local contractor.

Mr. Ashdown also was granted a permit to remodel the home of J. J. Duran on West First Street between Mangrove and Ochsner Avenue at an estimated cost of $750, while C. H. Stafford was granted permission to erect a frame garage at his home on Summerlin Avenue.

The permit issued yesterday covered the total of the building permits during the month of April to $60,170, the highest figure in several years. The three permits issued on the last day of the month also brought the total of the permits issued for the first four months of 1940 to a high of $24,000.

Tornadoes Kill Many In Midwest

Heavy Rain, Hail Cause Much Damage To Crops In South; Wind Uproots Trees

By Associated Press
Tornado winds ripping across sections of southern Illinois, southeast Missouri, and Arkansas and a cloudburst in east Texas killed at least 13, injured many, and caused thousands of dollars of damage last night.

At least three were killed, and an unestimated number injured in Missouri and Illinois. A father and a son were killed when winds demolished their home at Richland, Tex. A child was torn from its mother's arms by a flood and drowned when a cloudburst washed the family from beneath a culvert where it had taken refuge.

A heavy rain and hail accompanied swirling winds near Benton, Ark., as a tornado cut a swath through a sparsely settled rural section.

Dawes Says Next President Must Battle Spenders

Ex-Vice President Outlines Plan To Balance Budget

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes said last night the next president of the United States would have to fight "the largest army of government spenders, wasters and patronage-dispensing politicians" in history to save the nation from bankruptcy and ruin.

The Chicago banker, who was the government's first budget director and served as vice president in the Coolidge administration, outlined a comprehensive plan of balancing the federal budget in an address prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Speaking with some of the directness that won him the nickname of "Hell 'n' Maria" in World War days, Dawes charged that President Roosevelt's action in abolishing the federal co-ordinating service in 1933 was one of the chief causes "of the present condition of chaos in the business of our government."

His plan to balance the budget, he said, was the same which President Harding had put into effect in 1921. At that time, when the budget system was also instituted, he continued, Harding created and operated a system of executive control and co-ordination over governmental departments.

Dawes said that "under this new system and presidential leadership during the whole fiscal year of 1933 was one of the chief causes of the present condition of chaos in the business of our government."

Celery Is Most Expensive Crop In Everglades

It costs more to grow and market celery than it does any other vegetable crop in the Florida Everglades, according to R. H. Howard, economist with the State Agricultural Extension Service.

In spite of that fact, however, the acreage planted to celery in the Everglades has risen 150 acres during the 1936-37 season to 1,000 acres now. Howard says that the cost of celery is $23.14 per acre, 5 cents per crate for grading and packing, 10 cents for crates, 8 for pre-cooling, 6 for selling, and 2 cents for miscellaneous costs.

Howard's study covered the crop years 1937-38 and 1938-39. He found that costs of production were higher the second year, and that returns from the crop were considerably lower. Most of the celery is sold f.o.b. the packinghouses.

Installation Of Officers Held By Junior Chamber

Rev. W. P. Brooks Speaks On Church In Community Life

Installation of officers for 1940 was held last night by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its regular weekly dinner meeting at the Mayfair Hotel at which time the Rev. W. P. Brooks addressed the group on "Contributions of the Church to Progress of the Community."

Officers installed were: Henry Witte, Jr., president; Richard Deas, first vice-president; Joe O'Connor, second vice-president; Frank Bauer, treasurer; and Edward J. Nelson, secretary.

Elected to the board of directors were: Charles Betts, Bob Clark, Eloy Delgado, and C. K. Carter.

Rev. Brooks said that a community without churches would not last five years. The Church, he explained, is one of the most beneficial factors in any community, not only from a cultural standpoint, but from every other standpoint as well. It is the center of community life, he asserted.

It was announced that there will be a meeting of the board of directors tomorrow night at the home of Henry Witte.

Reverses Suffered In North As Nazi Columns Tighten Hold On Norway

Chamberlain To Speak Tomorrow

Germans Rain New Blows On British Navy Squadrons

Peril to the security of their flanks in northern and southern Europe had Allied war leaders plainly worried today.

The menace in the north, where fast German columns apparently have clamped a stranglehold on central Norway, was acknowledged by a British military spokesman. He admitted Nazi advances put the Allies in a "dangerous and very obscure" position.

The British war office said British troops had withdrawn to "prepared positions" after assisting the Germans in the Dombas area. They said the situation at Narvik was "unchanged," at Narvik "satisfactory."

The threat in the south was that Italy might throw her power into the Nazi scales. Britain, as a precaution, ordered suspension of merchant shipping through the Mediterranean.

In Paris, a foreign ministry spokesman said the Italian attitude toward the Allies "has become definitely alarming" in the past two days.

Chamberlain said he would make public a statement on Norwegian developments tomorrow.

Germany rained new blows on the British navy. The high command said "flotilla" sank a British cruiser, a destroyer, five transports, and heavily damaged another cruiser, and five other transports. The British merely said "desultory bombing" was continuing at the Narvik and Steinkjer areas.

A German communique said "at Trondheim fighting still went on yesterday." This was regarded in Berlin as meaning Allied resistance was still formidable in some areas.

The Germans said the Allies lost 11 planes in an attack on Stavanger, and one in a raid on the Oslo airport. The British acknowledged the loss of seven planes, but said "heavy damage" was inflicted in forays last night at two cities and Aalborg, Denmark.

The Germans also reported the capture of 4,000 prisoners. Swedish reports said Norwegian troops still were occupying positions north of Storen.

STOCKHOLM, May 1.—Allied forces last night battled along the Gudbrands valley of central Norway to escape being driven back to the seacoast by sledgehammer German drives which were reported to have linked Oslo to Trondheim and closed a steel vise on two Allied bases. Germany's motorized war machine, pounding ahead with tremendous strides, appeared on the basis of German claims to be operating the "blitzkrieg" tactics which carried it across Poland like an avalanche.

British, French and Norwegian troops fought stubbornly within a rugged triangle reaching out north and west of Dombas and Dombas and Storen to the north near Trondheim had been "hopelessly" caught in the Nazi edifice.

There was almost a complete lack of Allied claims and in some instances, it was admitted efforts to stem the Nazi tide had been futile.

British and Norwegian military spokesmen admitted last night Dombas and Storen might have fallen and that the German southern force might have succeeded in breaking through to a junction with the Trondheim Nazis.

If Germany's claims were true, strong British, French and (Continued on Page Six)
