Reagan, Gorbachev Sign Treaty Today

By Matthew C. Guilan
And Anne Baker

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan welcomed Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to the White House today to sign a historic treaty sacking intermediate-range nuclear missiles and to open talks that could result in even more significant reductions in long-range strategic arsenals.

In an informal welcome of sorts on the eve of today's official White House ceremony, the president said his third summit with Gorbachev offers "hopes of promoting peace for our peoples and all the peoples of the Earth."

Gorbachev, expressing similar cautious optimism as he arrived at sundown Monday on his first visit to the United States, suggested the treaty-signing summit could start the superpowers down the road to nuclear disarmament.

"The visit has begun, so let's hope, May God help us," he told Secretary of State George Shultz after delivering a brief arrival statement at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

With the red hammer and sickle fluttering beside the Stars and Stripes along Pennsylvania Avenue, military fanfare on the White House south lawn awaited the start of the first Washington summit in 14 years.

Joined only by interpreters and notetakers, Reagan, 76, and Gorbachev, 56, arranged to open three days of meetings with a one-on-one session in the Oval Office before signing the Intermediate Nuclear Forces pact in the East Room.

The INF treaty, the first superpower arms accord to eliminate an entire class of nuclear weapons, provides for unprecedented reciprocal on-site inspections at missile factories to make sure neither side cheats.

Under the agreement, all U.S. and Soviet missiles with ranges of 300 to 3,000 miles would be destroyed or dismantled during a three-year period. That means about 2,500 missiles and 3,500 warheads destined for the scrap heap, assuming Reagan wins a Senate ratification fight with some of his fellow Republicans.

Several arch-conservatives have criticized the president for embracing a pact they fear is not tough enough with the government they blame for cheating on virtually all of seven previous nuclear arms accords.

In gross numbers, however, the Soviets would lose more missiles under the INF treaty — about 2,000 to roughly 350 on the American side. One key difference is that the U.S. missiles can reach the Soviet Union itself from bases in Western Europe, while most of the Soviet missiles are aimed at U.S. allies.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas lambasted the GOP right wing Monday for attacking Reagan's efforts. The 1988 presidential candidate took on the critics in his own party just days after taking on Reagan over remarks the president made faulting "ignorant" fellow Republicans opposing the treaty.

"In getting this agreement," Dole said, "Ronald Reagan has accomplished something that has eluded every other president of the nuclear age — an agreement that will reduce, not just limit the growth of, nuclear stockpiles."

Gorbachev concurred that by signing the pact after six years of negotiations, he and Reagan would be "completing work on

Commissioner Stalks Out In Huff Longwood Wrangling Brings Suit Threat

By Jane Caselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Lame duck Longwood Commissioner Harvey Smerilson stalked out of Monday night's city commission meeting and former commissioner Larry Goldberg promised to sue after other commissioners voted to bring back a controversial rezoning request for a fourth time.

When his fellow commissioners and City Attorney Michael Kramer failed to be intimidated by his insults and accusations, Smerilson, who will go out office in January, left in a huff. The commission then unanimously voted preliminary approval for an ordinance changing the future land use designation on the back portion of Lot 7, Entaminger's Farms Addition 1, to general commercial like the rest of the lot. The change will be submitted to the State Department of Community Affairs for approval after which a second public hearing and final vote will be scheduled.

The commission also gave preliminary approval to an ordinance rezoning the property, which is located at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Orange Avenue, from R-2 Residential, Single Family Duplex to C-3 Commercial, General.

Goldberg said he would file suit today against the city

Sanford Delays Pay Raise Talk

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

Further discussion on a possible 3.1 per cent cost of living raise for 350 Sanford city employees was postponed to a future work session when city commissioners decided at their workshop Monday they need more information to properly evaluate the situation.

City manager Frank Faison is recommending the cost of living adjustment, due to a 3.1 per cent increase in the consumer price index (CPI) this past fiscal year. The adjustment was not made in the city's budget this year, because at the time the budget was formulated, the CPI was insignificant, he said.

"If there were any grumbings heard from employees last year, it was because of breaking the habit of the cost of living adjustment," he told commissioners Monday.

Faison said that the raises, if approved, would be effective in February 1988 and approximately $187,204 will be required.

Discussion revolved around whether cost of living adjustments should be made yearly, or whether only merit raises should be granted. Commissioner John Mercer said he believes that in cases of "rampant inflation" a cost of living raise is needed, but otherwise he felt raises should be granted according to the employee's productivity and ability.

Mercer also said "This is not a budgeted item. Whatever we come up with, we'll have to find it in the budget."

He also explained that at this time of year, three months after the current budget was set into operation, he does not approve of granting a raise.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan agreed.

Faison pointed out that the city does award raises by merit, in addition to possible cost of living adjustments, and that city employees can receive up to a 6 per cent merit raise, after their annual reviews. Commissioner Bob Thomas spoke in favor

Two separate accidents in Seminole County Monday night left one man dead and at least seven others injured, one of them critically.

A Winter Springs man died Monday at an Altamonte Springs hospital from injuries he suffered when the car he was driving left the roadway and slammed into a palm tree. Dead is Daniel Lee Combs, 39, of 1117 Deer Run, who was driving a 1984 Peugeot east on Alaquia Road, an entrance road to the Alaquia subdivision in Longwood at about 8 p.m. when the accident occurred.

The subdivision is located off Longwood-Markham Road, southwest of Lake Mary.

Services Tax House Action Starts Today

Medical Malpractice Next On Special Session Agenda

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida House is expected to take up a bill to repeal the sales tax on services this afternoon, but Senate President Jon Vogt said today the Senate is unlikely to take any action until the House does.

Vogt said his chamber remains clearly in favor of repeal, but he is unsure now whether a majority will vote to eliminate the tax without immediately passing a replacement package.

"The majority of the Senate is for replacement. The question is, when and what do you replace it with," Vogt said.

Legislators were scheduled to convene at 1 p.m. and immediately recess so the House Finance and Tax committees can prepare a bill to repeal the tax without enacting a replacement levy, as many lawmakers have proposed.

Some business groups are demanding the services tax be repealed Jan. 1. But Gov. Martinez has agreed to an April 1 repeal. "We could live with April," he said Monday.

Speaker Jon Mills said a replacement levy is unlikely to win approval in the lower chamber until the regular session next spring.

Democratic leaders will offer an amendment on the House floor to retain the tax on a few services, including engineering, legal services for business, architecture, pet grooming and financial services. The amendment would also increase the general sales tax from the current five cents to six cents on the dollar, with half the proceeds pledged to local governments.

But House Finance and Tax Chairman Bud Gardner said the chances are so slim his amendment will pass that he has not bothered to figure how much money would be raised by retaining the tax on the selected services.

Vogt said two key Senate Republicans want immediate replacement with a penny increase in the state general sales tax. They are Appropriations Chairman Jim Scott of Fort Lauderdale and Finance and Tax Chairman Tim Deratany of Indian Lantle.

Democrats are split over the timing. Some, including Vogt, want to wait until the regular session, figuring they might be able to pass something other than just a penny sales tax hike — a broader package that would come closer to meeting the state's fiscal needs. But others are nervous, worried that

Citizens In East Concerned About Water

Final Comprehensive Plan Hearing Expected To Attract Protestors

A large crowd is expected tonight at the final public hearing on Seminole County's interim update of its comprehensive plan at 7 p.m. at the County Services Building.

Previous hearings have drawn large crowds of citizens who protested various parts of the plan. One of the most vociferous groups has been citizens from the eastern part of the county who say the plan does not address what they say is a future shortage of potable water supplies.

The group sent a letter stating its concerns, and supporting documents, to the state Department of Community Affairs, which reviewed the county plan. However, the DCA did not address the complaints.

Tom Mazza of Oviedo says representatives of the group will be at the hearing to try to get answers to their concerns.

He lists the group's concerns as a lack of plans for alternate sources of potable water; the plan's stated intent to extend urban densities into present rural areas which the group claims are in all probability unsuitable for central water and sewer; the failure of the plan to address separate county areas and problems unique to those areas; and apparent pro-development attitudes in county government.

He also charges that the county's comprehensive plan committees were prejudiced in favor of development interests, and that the county planning agency members were delinquent in filing financial disclosure statements, as required by law.

In his single-page letter notifying the county that the DCA has reviewed the updated plan, Thomas G. Pelham, DCA Secretary, made no specific reference to the comments about potable water, or other comments about the plan received from private citizens.

Pelham wrote that "Numerous private citizens and homeowner groups have provided specific comments regarding the Interim Plan."

The letter added, however, that citizen participation in compiling the plan is vital, and that "the concerns of citizens should be addressed."

The DCA letter praised the plan, in general, saying it complied with the requirements of current law, and that efforts to comply with the growth management act, which will go into effect in 1991 "are commendable."

The only suggestion offered by the DCA is to resolve disputes with the cities of Sanford and Altamonte Springs about possible overlapping of city and county water and sewer services. The DCA said such disputes should be settled to avoid costly duplication of services, and that other issues of disagreement between cities and the county should be settled through interlocal agreements.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Man Arrested After Firing Shotgun Blast Into Crowd

A 71-year-old rural Sanford man who allegedly fired two shotgun blasts into a crowd gathered at the corner of 18th Street and Mulberry Avenue, at about 10:30 p.m. Saturday, has been arrested and charged with aggravated battery.

He is said to have opened fire for no apparent reason. No one was injured, but two victims in the crowd asked that Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrest the suspect, who is said to have put down the weapon when he was told deputies had been called.

The weapon was confiscated at the scene and Willie Patterson, of 1510 W. 15th St., has been charged with aggravated battery. Sheriff's deputies reported that witnesses said there was no apparent reason for the gunplay. Patterson was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Burglaries, Thefts Reported

John B. Bowditch, 38, of Jamesville reported to sheriff's deputies that a $250 stereo was stolen from his boat at Hidden Harbor Marina, Sanford, between Nov. 5 and Sunday.

● A welder, a mower, wire, pipe fittings, and a tamper with a combined value of $3,175 were stolen from 2420 Curryville Road, Chuluota, the location of the business of Jame M. Roberts, 31, of 435 S. North Lake Blvd., Altamonte Springs. Sheriff's deputies reported the burglary occurred Friday or Saturday.

● Robert G. Jenkins, 58, of 1539 N. Carolwood Blvd., Fern Park, told sheriff's deputies he believes a woman known to him only as "Sandy," who visited his home Dec. 3, stole his .357 magnum handgun valued at $185. He noticed Saturday that the gun was gone.

● There was no sign of forced entry to the fenced compound of Dun-Rite Transmission, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, or to the car of Gary Lee Johnson, 35, of Sanford. But a sheriff's report said that a stereo, a battery, a booster, a saw, 25 cassette tapes and a miterbox, with a total value of about $1,000 were stolen from Johnson's car between Nov. 21 and Friday. A key taken from the business office is believed to have been used to unlock the car, which was inside the compound. Sheriff's deputies have the name of a possible suspect.

Testimony Continues Before Grand Jury

The 18-member grand jury investigating the Seminole County Commission's 1985 purchase of 2,867 acres at Yankee Lake from developer Jeno Paulucci heard from 10 witnesses Monday, including several Seminole County employees.

The Monday session was the third session of the grand jury.

Testimony was heard throughout the day from witnesses including:

Jerry McCollum, Seminole County engineer.

Robin Lillbridge, Seminole County construction program manager.

Cindy Wright, Seminole County deputy environmental services director.

Richard Holady, an engineer for Post, Buckley, Schuh & Jernigan, an Orlando firm that produced a master water and sewer plan for Seminole County last year.

Robert Morell, also of Post, Buckley, Schuh & Jernigan.

Catherine Cantoni, foreman of the 1986 grand jury that investigated the purchase.

Ed Austin, state attorney for the 4th Judicial Circuit (Jacksonville), was chosen by Gov. Bob Martinez as special prosecutor for the investigation into the case in July.

The grand jury is looking into allegations the county commission acted illegally in its handling of the purchase of the property for $7.5 million.

The commission bought the land, located in the northwest part of the county, for use as a multi-million dollar sewage treatment plant site.

The city of Sanford had also been negotiating with Paulucci to buy the property, but lost their chance for it after the county commission and Paulucci closed their deal.

Tax Exemption Is At Stake

Court Will Rule On State-Church Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court will step into a controversial dispute involving efforts to end the tax exempt status of the Roman Catholic Church because of its anti-abortion activities.

The court will hear arguments this term in the case brought by the Catholic Church seeking review of a ruling by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that ordered it to turn over internal documents dealing with its anti-abortion stance.

The underlying issue in the case is the whether the government should continue to grant a tax exemption to the Catholic Church amidst charges the church is involved in political and lobbying activity to end abortion.

Federal law grants religious and charitable organizations tax exemptions, but such exemptions are not allowed for groups involved in political activity such as lobbying.

If the exemption is lifted, the church, which has tens of thousands of entities in the United States, such as churches, schools and hospitals, would be forced to pay taxes and contributions to the church would no longer be tax deductible.

The Rev. Daniel Hoye, general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and its action arm, the U.S. Catholic Conference, was pleased by the court's action.

"So far, the federal courts have been insensitive to the jurisdictional objections raised by the government and the church," he said. "We are pleased that the court has decided to hear this case. ... We hope that this action signals that a favorable end to this burdensome and intrusive case is in sight. We thank the various religious bodies and organizations who have supported our cause for their many efforts on our behalf."

In other action, the court: —Agreed to hear an appeal from condemned prisoner Ralph Mills, who questioned whether his death sentence for killing another Maryland prisoner was properly applied.

—Agreed to decide in a case brought by the state of Arizona whether a suspect arrested on one set of charges may be questioned about another crime without a lawyer.

—Let stand a ruling that prevents a handicapped girl from attending school because of the high cost of medical care in a case involving a 9-year-old New York girl.

In the Catholic case, the suit was filed in federal court in New York in 1980 against the government, the U.S. Catholic Conference and the National Conference of Catholic Bishops by nine organizations, including the Abortion Rights Mobilization, a branch of the National Organization for Women, several abortion clinics and doctors and citizens.

Those bringing the suit charged the church has "engaged in a nationwide, persistent and regular pattern of intervening in elections" in favor of those against abortion and in opposition to those who favor the constitutionally protected right.

The federal court in 1981 ruled the groups could not sue the church directly because the church does not decide the tax exemption. However, the court allowed the suit against the government to continue.

The government appealed that decision to the Supreme Court, but the high court, in October 1986, chose not to become involved at that point. The case went back to the lower court.

Those bringing the suit then asked the court to order the Catholic Church to turn over extensive documents on its activities including those relating to the formulation and interpretation of the bishops' position on abortion, records relating to church officials' contacts with presidential candidates and other political candidates. Information regarding financial relationships between Catholic institutions and right-to-life organizations and information submitted to the Internal Revenue Service.

The court ordered most of the documents turned over and the church refused and was held in contempt and ordered to pay a fine of $100,000 a day beginning May 12, 1986. The order was stayed while the case is on appeal.

The church appealed, claiming those bringing the suit do not have legal standing to do so. The appeals court disagreed.

Seeking high court review, the church argued the lower court has ignored rulings by the Supreme Court on the standing question.

Martin Luther King Committee Will Meet

The Martin Luther King Celebration Committee will meet today at 7 p.m. to review plans being made for the Martin Luther King celebration on Jan. 16-17, according to committee chairman Lurene Sweeting.

Activities now in the planning stage include a youth breakfast, a "Run for Freedom", and presentations depicting various stages of the civil rights mov-ment—all to be held on Saturday, Jan. 16, Sunday, Jan. 17, a interfaith religious service will be observed and a banquet will be held that evening.

The Martin Luther Citizenship Award, and the Martin Luther King Brotherhood Award, will also be discussed at the meeting Tuesday. Committee members need to establish the criteria for those awards, Sweeting said.

Balmy Weather Is Not Crazy

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Perfect weather to get in the Christmas spirit! Have you noticed? Balmy, that's the only way to describe it - Balmy. Light winds, nice temperatures, occasional showers, and all that. Well, be happy.

We're probably going to get some heavier showers before Wednesday dawn but the temperatures will remain about the same - lows in the 60s and highs pushing 80 degrees. Skies will be cloudy but if you can see through at night, the full moon is still there somewhere.

Gonna stay this way for a couple of more days. Then it'll change. You'll be kept posted, don't worry. You know, most years there's a freeze before Christmas and it's hard to believe it won't happen again this year. Watch closely.

The Christmas season brings out all kinds of stories about Christmas trees. You can buy one on the lots for several dollars a foot, or you can go to a tree farm, cut your own, and save. Or, you can lie off to the Ocala Forest and chop your own for a couple of bucks. Folks over in Orlando (that's that bedroom community for Seminole working citizens lying to the south) erected a 60 foot tree downtown. Just had to beat the president.

Five-year-old Tommy Valente, with prompting from President and Mrs. Reagan, pressed a button on the White House south portico balcony to light the 35-foot National Christmas Tree.

The lighting Monday evening marked the start of the Pageant for Peace for the yuletide season.

...Treaty

the question which all of the peoples, all of the nations of the world have been looking to us to do."

"I wish to assure all Americans that we sincerely want better relations between our countries and peoples," the Soviet leader said Monday.

That statement may be tested by the issues that triggered the collapse of the last Reagan-Gorbachev summit, 14 months ago in Reykjavik, Iceland. Disputes over limitations on "Star Wars," the president's Strategic Defense Initiative, foiled the framework of an agreement on longer-range strategic nuclear arms.

That longer-range agreement, the next step in arms control, is a goal both leaders have espoused — and a primary focus of their five meetings this week will be to set the stage for a treaty that might even be signed in Moscow next year making a 50 percent cut in overall strategic arsenals.

A last-minute hitch over a photograph of a Soviet SS-20 missile was resolved after Gorbachev's arrival Monday, averting any delay in today's treaty-signing ceremony. The State Department said the Soviets had produced an unsatisfactory photo of the SS-20 and it was pointed out that a clear picture would be needed to define the weapon for both sides. The Soviets promised a clearer photo.

Gorbachev, wearing a dark overcoat and dark fedora, arrived with his wife, Raisa, wearing a full-length white fur coat, aboard an Aeroflot Ilushin-62 jetliner after a flight from Moscow that stopped briefly in London so the Soviet leader could meet with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Gorbachev was greeted at Andrews Air Force Base by Shultz, who later huddled with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze at the State Department to review the agenda for a summit topped by arms control but also concerned with human rights and world troubles such as Afghanistan and the Persian Gulf.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said the third superpower summit in 25 months would be of "crucial importance."

"We think that we can begin roads to a nuclear disarmament and continue on this road, and so we are optimistic and look forward to it," he said.

Reagan, lighting the National Christmas Tree behind the White House two hours after Gorbachev's arrival, said he hoped the Soviet leader was watching the yuletide festivities on television.

Lake Mary PTA Committee Seeks Playground Funds

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

A Lake Mary Elementary PTA representative said Monday he hopes to meet this week with the city manager and financial manager to see if any funds can be scraped up for much needed playground equipment for the school.

"I'd like to see a few tax dollars go into the play area," said Paul Hoyer, chairman of the school's playground committee. "I'm just hoping we can find some money that can be freed up."

The school has been turned down for grants on the federal, state and county levels for the $13,843 playground equipment project, Hoyer said. "Either the project or Lake Mary doesn't qualify for one reason or another," he said. So the school PTA is asking if the city can spare a dime.

"There are a lot of recreational needs in the city," Commissioner George Duryea told Hoyer on Thursday. "Had you brought this up during budget time, we might have been able to fund this whole thing. But at this point, we are restricted in what we can do because the budget has been approved."

Mayor Dick Fess recommended that City Manager Bob Norris and Financial Manager Madeline Minns sit down with Hoyer to discuss alternative ways of helping to fund the project. Those officials will make a formal presentation at the next commission meeting, Dec. 17.

Hoyer said the playground committee did not apply for city funds during budgeting time since it expected to receive government grant monies and thought the PTA and civic groups could handle the remaining expense alone.

Things changed when the grant applications fell flat. Committee members also discovered they should buy metal equipment, costing three times the amount it would take to construct wooden equipment themselves, because the metal pieces would not rot and need replacement at exorbitant prices.

Kindergarten and first-grade teachers at the school were "turned loose" with playground equipment catalogs, Hoyer said, to select pieces which would meet state requirements for activities that enhanced upper body mobility and hand/eye coordination. The resulting modular unit, consisting of such pieces as slides, stairs, poles, ladders and a balance beam, would cost $13,843.

A walled-in play area currently stands empty at the school of 1,100 students, with no equipment designed for the kindergarten and first-grade students. The former equipment, over 25 years old, was unusable and did not meet up to new state safety standards, Hoyer said.

Playground equipment non-compliant with state safety standards for second grade and above has been weeded out so that those students have some equipment. But the committee intends to fund $8,887 worth of additional equipment once the modular unit is in place.

"I don't think that figure is out of line, with the help of the city and the interest of local civic groups," Hoyer said of the equipment for lower grades. "Since it will be used as a city park as well, we're looking for the city to put some money into it."

The school's PTA has committed to putting $6,000 toward the modular unit and hopes to raise $3,000 more through fund-raising, Hoyer said.

He said the school hopes to have equipment for its younger students by mid-spring.

The Soviet Union began to expand its intermediate-range nuclear force in 1977 when it deployed the first SS-20 missiles in Europe. Unlike the older, fixed-base SS-4, the SS-20 is a mobile weapon. NATO's initial deployment of Pershing IIs and ground-launched cruise missiles began in Europe in late 1983.

Jefferson Myth Is Exploded

The widespread belief that Thomas Jefferson not only maintained an intimate relationship with his house servant, but fathered five children by her and permitted four of them to be sold at auction, goes all the way back to the end of the 18th century. It is time to put the hokum to rest.

The myth has proved amazingly durable, despite the efforts to correct it of virtually every competent historian of the period. It holds that Jefferson, the great theoretician of American freedom, took as his mistress in 1787, a slave named Sally Hemmings, who was 30 years his junior. She remained with him, so the legend goes, through his two terms as president, and until his death in 1826.

Rumors of Jefferson's liaison with Hemmings cropped up from time to time, almost exclusively in early 19th century anti-American tracts published in England, and later in abolitionist newspapers eager to portray Southern statesmen as immoral cretins. It wasn't until 1974, and the best-selling book "Thomas Jefferson: An Intimate History," by UCLA historian Fawn Brodie, that the myth was embellished with feminist "insights" and presented as truth.

Brodie accepted as fact the hypothesis put forward in 1802 by James T. Callender, a wildly irresponsible pamphleteer, that Jefferson "for many years past has kept as his concubine, one of his own slaves." A question that nettles historians is why Brodie called Callender "a generally accurate reporter?"

He was a crank who wrote outrageously libelous swill, first about such Federalists as George Washington and John Adams, and then, reversing his allegiance, such Republicans as Jefferson and James Madison.

According to Callender, Washington was "a scandalous hypocrite" who "authorized the robbery and ruin of his own army" in the Revolution for his own gain. Adams, said he, was "a British spy" and "one of the most egregious fools upon the continent."

It was Callender whom the relentlessly anti-American novelist Frances Trollope used as a primary source in her 1930 diatribe against Jefferson as "an unprincipled tyrant" and "father of children by all his numerous gang of female slaves."

Now, after years of research, Sidney P. Moss, a professor emeritus of English at Southern Illinois University, has come to the conclusion that the Jefferson myth is, well, just that: A myth unsupported by fact.

Writing in the current issue of The Journal of the Early Republic, Moss says that the legend was disseminated by British writers and others whose motive was to impugn the American democratic ideal by ruining the reputation of Jefferson, its most admired advocate.

It's not the first time this sort of historical character assassination has been attempted, and it certainly won't be the last. Thanks to Moss, at least the Hemmings fantasy has been corrected and put in proper historical perspective.

'Official English' Movement Is Misguided

It's been a good year for nativists. Immigration is down because of new federal laws. Five more states have declared English their official language. And, most recently, Cuban prisoners rioted, breathing life into the argument that open borders attract human trash.

In short, resentment toward immigrants — or at least reluctance to accept more of them — appears on the rise.

Never mind that most veterans of the 1980 Mariel boatlift from Cuba, after wrenching adjustment, finally settled down to productive lives. To some Americans, the Marieltos will always be symbolized by that minority with rap sheets — tough, brutal, intent on taking advantage of their adopted land.

An organization called English First plays on these fears. It contends that immigrants in general, and not just Cuban roughnecks, scorn traditional goals.

One of English First's fund-raising letters claims, for example, that "Many immigrants these days refuse to learn English! They never become productive members of American society. They remain stuck in a linguistic and economic ghetto, many living off welfare..."

English First seeks to amend the U.S. Constitution to declare English our official language. Since that prospect seems remote, the group cheers on similar efforts in individual states.

So far, 13 states have established English as their official language. Mostly these are states free of large immigrant enclaves, such as Nebraska, Kentucky and North Dakota. Yet there are exceptions, notably California and Illinois.

No doubt about it: The "official English" movement taps a popular feeling. Over 70 percent of California voters approved the measure declaring English that state's language. More than 100,000 Colorado residents have signed petitions to hold a similar referendum next fall. Polls in Texas and Florida suggest at least 65 percent of the public favors official English in those states as well.

Something serious is obviously going on. The simple — and simple-minded — explanation favored by hysterics on the left is that the official English movement signifies resurgent American racism. Yet if that is so, why do so many Hispanics (40 percent in one Texas poll, 21 percent in Florida) also favor official English?

No, the turn toward official English is a sign of misplaced anxiety. People witness a minority of immigrants living here for years without mastering English and forget that the same thing occurred among previous waves of newcomers. They hear a few strident Hispanic "leaders" reject the ideal of a melting-pot America, and fail to appreciate that most Spanish-speaking newcomers harbor aspirations little different from earlier immigrants — aspirations which, if realized, will require their eventual assimilation.

Or the public will hear that millions of aliens have crossed the border illegally and not realize that there have been periods in U.S. history — the 1840s, the turn of the century — when new arrivals comprised an even greater portion of the population.

Declaring English our official language may be a fairly harmless exercise, but the anxiety behind it betokens trouble.

Monopoly Airlines Created

ST. LOUIS (NEA) — Although more than a dozen commercial air carriers serve Lambert International Airport here, one of them — Trans World Airlines — overwhelms all the others.

TWA carries five of every six fare-paying passengers who board planes in St. Louis. No competitor claims as much as 3 percent of the city's airline business.

It wasn't always this way. As recently as the early 1980s, TWA was chosen by slightly more than half of all St. Louis passengers, but Ozark Airlines was a strong competitor, carrying just over one-quarter of all passengers.

But a TWA-Ozark merger, approved by the U.S. Department of Transportation, last year created a near-monopoly situation not only in St. Louis but also in smaller communities throughout the Midwest.

TWA's acquisition of Ozark — like the Northwest-Republic, Delta-Western, USAir-Piedmont and other mergers — was sanctioned by the DOT in the name of advancing deregulation of the airline industry, a popular concept supported by liberals and conservatives, Republicans and Democrats.

But economist Alfred E. Kahn, who in the late 1970s was among the most outspoken proponents of ending federal control of airline rates and routes, says, "Deregulation was never supposed to mean suspension of the antitrust laws."

Government approval of every merger proposed by the industry has produced an unprecedented degree of concentration nationally (nine airlines now account for 94 percent of all passenger miles flown) and oligopolies or near-monopolies in major cities and entire regions.

As a result of its DOT-approved purchase of Republic Airlines last year, Northwest Airlines now controls 86.7 percent of the passenger market in Memphis, 81.6 percent in Minneapolis-St. Paul and 64.9 percent in Detroit.

While TWA controls 82.4 percent of the market here in St. Louis, USAir controls an even higher 84.0 percent in Pittsburgh, and Continental Airlines controls 71.5 percent at Houston International Airport.

In other cases, two carriers dominate. United Airlines and American Airlines jointly control 76.4 percent of all passenger traffic at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the nation's busiest commercial airfield.

Is Michigan's Dingell Caving In?

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Rep. John Dingell's hearing room is littered with the corporate ghosts of those who try to double-cross the consumer or gouge the Pentagon. So it was a surprise when we learned that the caustic chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee is pushing a bill opposed by every consumer group we contacted — a bill that would make it tougher for those injured by dangerous products to sue the manufacturers.

Fearing the wrath of the Michigan Democrat — the second most powerful member of the House of Representatives — congressional insiders speak about Dingell's bill reluctantly and only on background. Here is what they told our associate Stewart Harris about the bill, which is expected to reach the full committee this week.

Liberal New Mexico Democrat William Richardson is fronting for Dingell as sponsor of the bill, the Uniform Product Safety Act of 1987. It is supposed to standardize how

JEFFREY HART

Dupont Endorsed

CONCORD, New Hampshire — With the important New Hampshire primary coming up in February, the only state-wide newspaper, the Manchester Union Leader, has endorsed the Republican candidacy of Pete Dupont. This could be a major development.

New Hampshire looms large on the political landscape. In Iowa and Michigan the delegates are chosen by a process so esoteric that no one can remember what it is. In any event, the Iowa and Michigan processes ensure that small and zealous factions can play a disproportionate role and even dominate things. New Hampshire remains the first state in which real voters vote.

Nor is New Hampshire an untypical state composed only of Yankees and white steepled churches. It has large Greek and French ethnic groups. Its governor John Sununu was born in Lebanon. One of its senators, Warren Rudman, is Jewish. Its other senator, Gordon Humphrey, is not native to the state. New Hampshire is both rural (north) and industrial (south). It is not a 19th century Christmas card.

As the Republican primary approaches, the New Hampshire party is split in every direction. The very popular Governor Sununu supports Vice President Bush. Senator Rudman is for Bob Dole. Senator Humphrey backs Jack Kemp.

Now enter the Manchester Union Leader and its feisty, sophisticated editor Mrs. William Loeb. She took over the paper upon the death of her colorful husband, and is widely regarded as having improved it. The Union Leader continues to be widely read and influential, and it probably has fewer enemies today than it did a decade ago. Everyone agrees that you must read it to know what is going on in the state.

Hence the importance of its endorsement of Pete Dupont, who has been campaigning hard here and has made a fine impression.

New Hampshire has no state income tax and is flourishing economically. When Dupont says that as governor of Delaware he slashed taxes and stimulated an economic boom, New Hampshire voters feel he is one of them.

He is serious about drugs. He thinks that high school students should be drug tested before getting a driver's license.

He is the only candidate making much sense about Social Security, not an easy issue for a candidate to talk about. Everyone knows that when the "baby boom" generation retires, a much smaller workforce will be bled white to pay the bill. Dupont is actually saying so — while George Bush and others brazenly lie over national television about the viability of the system.

Dupont wants to phase out farm subsidies over a five-year period, while Bob Dole and Kansas looks as if he is going to have cardiac arrest. In our national mythology, the American farmer is a sturdy and independent fellow. In actuality, we have turned the farmers into a dependency class, as much so as anyone on welfare.

And where welfare is concerned, Dupont's proposal is, no work, no dough.

He supports SSI and would not permit Nicaragua to become a Soviet military base.

VIEWPOINT

Treaty Is Wrong Symbol

By William R. Hawkins

Many commentators have characterized the INF Treaty abolishing intermediate-range nuclear missiles as being merely "symbolic" because the class of weapons eliminated accounts for only 4 percent of U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals. The treaty does not make the world very much safer. It only symbolizes an arms control process that may lead to more substantial future reductions. Thus the treaty is only worth having because it is a positive sign.

This view is only half right. The INF Treaty is symbolic, but its value is negative. It makes the future security of the U.S. and NATO look darker, not brighter. To understand this, the treaty must be viewed in the larger strategic context rather than in isolation.

The new treaty originated with President Reagan's "zero option" proposal made November 25, 1981, at The National Press Club. It was meant to defuse the "nuclear freeze" movement in Europe that opposed deployment of U.S. intermediate range systems. It was a political ploy rather than a military strategy. The "freeze" proved a political failure, but seven years later the proposal it provoked will be signed. The president has thus been hoisted by his own petard by allowing a propaganda device to gain enough momentum to become policy.

Besides their military function in war, U.S. intermediate-range missiles served a vital symbolic function in peace. They were a higher-level commitment to NATO than the 350,000 troops America deploys to NATO. Army divisions show a readiness to fight a conventional war, but everyone knows that NATO cannot win a conventional war against Warsaw Pact forces that have a 3-1 superiority in firepower. Deterrence depends on "escalation dominance," that is, the ability to move to a higher level at which the U.S. can fight on at least equal terms. With intermediate forces eliminated, the only higher level remaining is strategic nuclear weapons.

But it would be suicidal for the U.S. to respond to a Soviet attack in Europe by launching a general nuclear exchange, and both Washington and Moscow know it. The threat is thus not credible.

Motors lobbyist Debra Insley, who subsequently curtailed her official lobbying activities and now works as an administrator in GM's governmental affairs office.

Dingell's team on this bill includes consumer advocate and chairman of the Consumer Protection and Competitiveness Subcommittee James Florio, D-N.J. Those close to Florio say he is awkward in his role as handmaiden to industry, but when he realized Dingell was going to push the bill through to the floor of the House, Florio decided to ride along to do damage control.

Another representative who can usually be counted on to defend the consumer has felt the sting of public concern over Dingell's bill. Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Ohio, found himself fending off questions from the Cleveland Plain Dealer about his participation in a Dingell hunting party to Texas this fall with industry lobbyists who were pushing the product safety bill.

Apparently Eckart was not bothered enough by the attention to back off.

Riggins, Cash Help Lady 'Noles Steal Victory

By Chris Plotter
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER PARK — For a team to commit 39 turnovers and still win, there had to be some kind of magic involved.

Seminole High didn't use any mirrors and they didn't have any sleeves to pull anything out of Monday night, but they did use sleight of hand — or hands.

The quick hands of guards Aretha Riggins and LaShon Cash and the additional feats of sorcery by Sherri Reddick and Leticia Strickland enabled the Lady 'Noles to steal a 48-42 victory from the Lady Wildcats before 81 fans at Winter Park High.

"Our guards did a good job taking the ball away and keeping Winter Park from getting the momentum," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "But we still played a pretty sloppy game. To have 39 turnovers is ridiculous."

Seminole High, 3-2, has the rest of the week off and will open play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Tuesday in its home opener against Lake Brantley.

Riggins, a junior, came up with 10 steals

WINTER PARK (42) — Woodward 7, Davis 7, DeMetz 4, Jones 30, Hill 4. Totals: 248 13-42.

Monday night to go along with 12 points while Cash, a senior, picked the Lady Wildcats' pockets for six steals and contributed eight points.

"We did a good job stealing the ball and that's probably what kept us in the game," Riggins said. "Other than that and a few last breaks and back door plays, we didn't play that well. We just need more practice time together."

Junior forward Liz Long led the Lady 'Noles with 14 points while Reddick was a force inside with 10 points and a game-high 17 rebounds. Strickland's contribution came on the defensive end as she shadowed Winter Park's Mimi Jones throughout the second half. Jones finished with a game-high 30 points, 18 of those coming in the first half.

"Leticia (Strickland) sacrificed scoring so she could concentrate on slowing down Mimi (Jones)," Steele said. "She did a good job of holding her down in the second half."

Jones scored 12 points in the opening quarter, including a pair of three-point bombs, as Winter Park built a 14-8 lead. Winter Park held the lead until late in the second quarter when Riggins and Cash got their magic act cranked up.

Cash fed Strickland for a layup and a 22-21 Seminole lead and Riggins then made a steal and converted the layup to make it 24-21. Cash scored after another Riggins steal to up the lead to 26-21 but Jones scored just before the half ended to make it 26-23.

Riggins opened the second half with another steal that resulted in two points for Reddick and Reddick added four more points to up the Seminole lead to 32-23. Riggins then went to her balancing act as she grabbed an offensive rebound and, while trying to keep from tripping over a fallen player, banked in the followup to give the Lady 'Noles their biggest lead, 34-23, with 4:30 left in the third quarter.

Winter Park, though, battled back behind three-point plays by Kim Hill and Jones and a late bucket by Jones to pull within 36-34 going into the fourth quarter.

The fourth quarter opened in disaster for the Lady Tribe as they committed 11 turnovers before even scoring a point. That enabled Winter Park to take a 40-36 lead.

Seminole got it back together, though, and reeled off 12 points in a row to steal the victory. Long began the surge with a pair of free throws. Strickland went back door and got a nice pass from Riggins for the basket that tied the score at 40-40 and Long popped in a jumper to give Seminole the lead for good.

Riggins then scored four consecutive points for a 46-40 lead with 30 seconds remaining and Cash sealed the victory with two free throws with 30 seconds left to play.

"Once we settled down and started playing, we did pretty well," Steele said. "We just have to learn to keep it under control, especially when we get the ball underneath."

Is Your Boat Safe

Is your boat safe? How do you know?

A recent issue of the United Coast Guard Safety Circular showed that 41 manufacturers of boats and outboard motors had a recall of over 12,600 units for a variety of reasons. The manufacturers ranged from Anchor Industries of Gatesville, Texas to Tidercraft of Minden, La., and included such names as Glassstream, Kawasaki Motors, Mercury Marine, Outboard Marine Corp., and Sea Sprint.

The problems involved some of the following:

1. BASIC FLOTATION — Most inboard, inboard/outdrive and jetdrive powered motorboats less than twenty feet in length are required to contain sufficient flotation so that some portion of the boat remains above the surface of the water if the boat is swamped. Boats with "Basic Flotation" problems will sink if they capsize or swamp.

2. LEVEL FLOTATION — Most outboard powered motorboats less than twenty feet in length are required to float level when they are swamped and to support a certain percentage of the weight which they are rated to carry. Boats with "Level Flotation" problems do not float level when swamped.

3. CAPACITY LABEL MISSING, MAXIMUM PERSONS CAPACITY OVERRATED, MAXIMUM WEIGHT CAPACITY OVERRATED OR HP CAPACITY OVERRATED — Almost all motorboats less than twenty feet in length are required to bear a "U.S. Coast Guard Maximum Capacity" label. If the label is missing or the values are overstated, an operator who is unfamiliar with a particular boat may carry too much weight or, in the case of outboard powered boats, too much horsepower. Some insurance companies will not insure a boat that lacks a label or bears a label with incorrect information.

Other problems related to potential steering problems arising from power steering ram malfunction, clamps on fill hoses and vent hoses damaging fuel lines, leaking fuel pumps and misrouted throttle control cables.

Inboards and sterndrives are usually outfitted with an anti-siphon device by the manufacturer. The purpose of the anti-siphon device is to prevent a fuel line that has failed from adding additional fuel to a fire. Some mechanics in the field are tampering with the anti-siphon devices on large displacement motors. As a result, the deliberate altering of the anti-siphon device can create a substantial risk of increasing the severity of a fire or explosion.

The most popular type of anti-siphon device consists of an in-line chamber which contains a metal ball and spring which act as a valve. The spring holds the ball against the inlet side of the chamber. When the engine is

Mosure: Emotional Time Team He Helped Build Goes To 4A Semifinals

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

When Seminole takes the field on Friday night in the semifinals of the state 4A playoffs at Tallahassee Godby, there will be one man in the Seminole stands whose emotion and intensity has remained instilled in most of the Seminole players: former coach Dave "Mr. Intensity" Mosure.

For Mosure, a man who might love the Seminole football team more than he loves himself, the game will be almost impossible to watch. Mosure left Seminole's budding program at the end of spring practice to go to Miami Killian, one of the state's most successful football programs.

But success was something that eluded Mosure in 1987. In his first year at Killian as offensive coordinator, Miami went 1-9. For Mosure, it was going from one extreme to another.

"Talk about a big change," Mosure said via telephone from Miami Monday night. "Leaving Seminole was the toughest thing I have ever done in my life. Watching them play and not being out there coaching them is very emotional. I can't even express in words the kind of emotion I felt and will be feeling again."

Mosure got a chance to see Seminole play for the first time this year two weeks ago when the 'Noles edged Land O Lakes, 16-6, for the Regional title. Mosure said that he got a chance to talk to players before and after the game.

"I was really glad to have a chance to see them play," Mosure, who said that he will make the 10-hour drive from Miami to Tallahassee to see his old team. "It was a great feeling to talk to the kids again. We went through a lot of adversity together. I've known a lot of them for a very long time. I watched them

BUSES TO GODBY

In case you don't want to drive to Tallahassee for Friday night's 4A semifinals football game between Seminole and Tallahassee Godby, Seminole High will be chartering several buses for the trip.

The team will leave on Friday morning at 8:15 after a pep rally. Buses will be available for both students and adults. The cost is $10 for students, and $15 for adults. The cost of the bus does not include the $1 cost for the game.

The buses will be departing at 12:15 p.m. They will depart immediately after the game and should return at about 4 a.m.

In order to ride the bus, you must make reservation by Wednesday afternoon. Call the Seminole Athletic Department at 322-4352 and ask for extension 223 or 228. Students are asked to have their field trip slips turned in by Wednesday. Cash or checks will be accepted.

grew up."

Mosure said when he got a chance to speak to the team, he could tell that they were not happy with the way they played. "Here they were, after they won their first Regional title ever, and they were already talking about next Monday's practice," Mosure said. "These kids had a mission to play on the final weekend of the season. And unless there is something unusual that happens, I don't see how they can lose."

When Mosure left, Roger Beathard took over at the helm. Several Seminole players said that the change was a tough one to make. Mosure was the epitome of emotion on the sidelines. Nobody will ever accuse Mosure of not being involved in a game.

Beathard, on the other hand, is as cool as a cucumber. But when he wants to make a point, he knows how to do it with authority.

"When Dave first left, a lot of the kids took it really hard," Beathard said. "They felt like Dave had cheated them when he left."

"It was really tough on me at first," Beathard said. "They all respected Dave as a coach and as a friend. But they have overcome it. That was just one of the many things that this team has overcome."

Both Mosure and Beathard are excellent coaches, but the change was difficult nevertheless. "We think about coach Mosure a lot," Seminole safety Leonard Lucas said. "He used to come out there and get us so fired up."

"When he left, it was a hard thing for us to go through. We were close to him," Lucas continued. "It took us awhile to get used to coach Beathard's philosophy, but we have and we have been very successful. When we are in the huddle, coach Mosure is still there with us spiritually."

"Yeah, it was real tough at first," Seminole linebacker Earnie "Sackman" Lewis, who was one of the closet players to Mosure, said. "We used to call coach Mosure 'The Man'."

"Even now, if one of us starts to slouch off, I'll say 'You wouldn't want the man to see you slacking off, would you?' Lewis continued. "Even though he isn't here, he still is in our minds."

Dolphins Stay Afloat In East

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins may have found a defensive star in their 37-28 triumph over the New York Jets Monday night.

Rookie John Bosa, the team's No. 1 pick, played the best game of his brief pro career Monday, sacking quarterback Ken O'Brien two times, recovering a fumble, and bursting through the line to help stop Roger Vick on a fourth-down play with 2:32 left in the game. The Dolphins expected that kind of help earlier in the year, but Bosa's development was slowed by a long holdout and then by the players' strike.

The win gave the Dolphins a 6-6 record and tied them for second place in the AFC East with the Jets and Buffalo, one game back of Indianapolis. It was only the second time in seven games the Dolphins have beaten a division opponent.

Miami is now 15-3 in December since 1982, and the Dolphins have won seven straight games against the Jets in Miami. It was their first win against an AFC East foe in new Joe Robbie Stadium.

Bosa went into the game without a sack on a defense that ranked 27th in the league. The regular Dolphins had only seven sacks going into the game, but got four Monday night.

"We've been looking for big things from Bosa," Miami Coach Don Shula said. "He's getting his feet on the ground. John is going to be a good player for us."

Said Miami linebacker Mark Brown: "Bosa was all over the field, especially on the pass rush. Our defense is inconsistent, one week it's good. Maybe if the guys get to stay together over a year or so, we can do this every week."

Bosa's teammate at Boston College, Troy Stradford, rushed 30 times for 120 yards and scored on three one-yard runs. Dan Marino completed 29 of 40 passes for 293 yards and a two-yard touchdown pass to Dan Johnson, and ran for a touchdown on a bootleg from five yards out. Fuad Revez also had an 18-yard field goal for Miami.

After trailing 27-0 at the half, the Jets rallied to cut the deficit to 30-21 on a 14-yard run by Johnny Hector on the first play of the fourth quarter. But the Dolphins scored on the Marino bootleg with 8:13 left in the game.

The Jets got their final score on a 46-yard return of a Stradford fumble by Bobby Humphery. New York also scored on a 44-yard O'Brien pass to Al Toon, and an eight-yard run by holder Pat Ryan on a fake field goal.

"In the second half we wanted to show some respectability," Humphery said of the Jets, who lost to the Dolphins 45-3 in a Monday night game last year. "The offense did their job in the second half, but we couldn't stop them at all when we had to. It was an inconsistent effort. Miami was ready to play and we were just in a big hole."

O'Brien completed 18 of 25 passes for 237 yards, and Toon caught five passes for 100 yards. O'Brien was intercepted once, and Paul Lankford returned the ball 44 yards to the New York line to set up Stradford's first score. Miami fullback Ron Davenport caught a career-high 10 passes for 72 yards, while Mark Clayton had six catches for 96 yards.

The biggest problem for the Jets down the stretch will be injuries. Two more starters, linebacker Lance Mehl and defensive back Russell Carter, were lost for the rest of the season. Mehl sprained a knee and Carter separated a shoulder.

Oklahoma-Miami Meet For NCAA Championship

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oklahoma and Miami, bound for the Orange Bowl to decide the national title Jan. 1, overshadowed the re-emergence of several former national powers in the final United Press International Board of Coaches regular-season ratings.

No. 4 Syracuse, No. 8 Michigan State, No. 14 Notre Dame, No. 17 Southern California and No. 18 Pittsburgh — all past national champions that have struggled in recent seasons — head into bowl play as members of the Top 20.

Oklahoma, which has been No. 1 for all but one week this year, collected 741 of a possible 750 points and 41 of 50 first-place votes. The Sooners, 11-0, have entered bowl play among the top three teams in the nation the past four seasons.

Miami, which sealed its No. 2 position with a 20-16 victory Saturday over South Carolina, gained 701 points and eight first-place votes. The Hurricanes, 11-0, will play for the national title for the second straight year. The Hurricanes lost to Penn State 14-10 in last year's Fiesta Bowl.

Rose Retires As All-Time Hits Leader

DALLAS (UPI) — Cincinnati Manager Pete Rose chuckles at the suggestion he might play in another major-league game.

It could have happened last year. In fact, Rose says club owner Marge Schott asked him to take a few swings. He refused, and that was that. It's over, he says.

Rose has retired with more hits than any major leaguer in history. He will never have another, unless he changes his mind.

At the winter meetings Monday, Rose recalled the one time last season when Schott invited him to go to the plate.

"I haven't taken batting practice in three weeks," Rose said he told Schott. "Besides, Mike Scott, Nolan Ryan and Bob Knepper are pitching."

"You could pinch-hit," Rose recalls her saying.

"Suppose I don't have to pinch-hit?"

"You'll think of something."

Rose never thought of anything. He ended without an at-bat and the Reds finished second in the National League West, six games behind San Francisco.

Rose indicated even one swing last year would have made him $200,000 in extra salary. The figure led Rose to ask about accepting any invitations in 1988.

"Sure," he said. "Just wire the money downstairs."

WOOD ASTROS' GM

DALLAS (UPI) — Bill Wood became general manager of the Houston Astros at the winter meetings Monday, highlighting a day otherwise dominated by minor free agents.

Baseball

Wood's appointment ended a two-month vacancy at the position. Meanwhile, two free agents joined new clubs: outfielder Bob Dernier to Philadelphia and pitcher Don Schulze to Minnesota.

In addition, left-hander Bob McClure re-signed with Montreal, catcher Chris Bando rejoined Cleveland, reliever Gene Garber returned to Kansas City and outfielder Larry Herndon re-signed with Detroit. Third baseman Craig Nettles signed with Atlanta's Double-A team in Greenville of the Southern League.

Talks between Atlanta and free agent Bob Horner appeared to stall, but interest remained high in reliever Dave Righetti.

Faced with a midnight EST deadline for declaring their intentions, the Mets offered salary arbitration to utilityman Lee Mazzilli. Mazzilli, like all free agents with the option, has until Dec. 19 to decide whether to accept.

Montreal declined to offer arbitration to second baseman Vance Law, outfielder Reid Nichols and right-hander Charlie Lea, thus losing negotiating rights to them until May 1.

The Expos offered arbitration to pitchers Bryn Smith and Dennis Martinez. Detroit offered the option to left-hander Frank Tanana.

In other developments, the Mets and Baltimore completed the second trade of the meetings. In Roland Hemond's first deal since becoming Orioles general manager, New York sent right-handed reliever Doug Sisk to Baltimore for minor-league lefty Blaine Beatty and a major-league player to be named.

Sisk, 30, went 3-1 with New York with three saves in 55 relief appearances. Beatty, 23, spent 1987 in the minors.

Earlier in the day, Commissioner Peter Ueberroth called for players and owners to solve their differences without arbitration, and he defended baseball's progress in minority job hirings.

"By any objective measure," Ueberroth said in his annual address, "1987 has been a very, very productive and positive one for fairness in employment."

In the major-league draft, nine players changed organizations. The best player taken, scouts agreed, was the fifth choice, second baseman Santiago Garcia. He was taken from the Toronto organization by the Chicago White Sox and is given a decent chance to start next season.

However, Garcia, who batted .297 in 63 games for Knoxville of the Southern League, was suspended late last season for striking a teammate in the back with a bat. He was sent home to undergo psychiatric examination.

Wood, 46, succeeds Dick Wagner, who resigned under pressure Oct. 14. A member of the Houston organization for 11 years, Wood served as assistant general manager since 1985.

Leesburg Opens Greyhounds

By Chris Pister

Lyman High had three players score in double figures Monday night but the Lady Greyhounds did not have their usual defensive intensity as they dropped a 52-45 decision to Leesburg's Yellow Jackets at Lyman High.

The Lady Greyhounds, 3-4 overall, return to action tonight at home against St. Cloud. Lyman opens play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Thursday at DeLand.

"We had a few girls playing who were a little sick and they got tired quickly," Lyman coach Lisa Carlson said. "As a result, we weren't able to play our usual defensive game."

Leesburg built up a 32-23 halftime lead and led by 10 most of the second half until Lyman made a late run. The Lady Greyhounds though, ran out of gas before they could come all the way back.

Dana Garrett led the Lady Greyhounds with 12 points while Jennifer Krueger and Shari Siegrist tossed in 10 apiece. Mechelle Harden contributed seven points, Sage Morris-Webster chipped in with four and Tammy Brooks added two.

OVIDEO BOPS HORNETS

Nobody scored in double figures, but the Oviedo Lady Lions used a balanced scoring attack to swat down Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets, 39-25, Monday night at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, 2-0, is at home tonight against Orlando Luther and opens play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Thursday at Lake Howell.

"I'm not quite sure what to expect yet," Oviedo coach John Thomas said. "Having our first two games canceled hurt. We played sloppy ball tonight (28 turnovers) but I did see a lot of good things come out of it."

Bridget Jenerette led Oviedo with nine points while Jodie Switzer added eight points and nine rebounds, Suzanne Hughes tossed in eight points, Bobbie Kelley had six points and six boards and Betsy Hughes dished out four assists. Tracie Smith's 10 points led Bishop Moore.

Kentucky Takes Over No. 1 Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Playing basketball at Kentucky involves enough pressure, so Coach Eddie Sutton believes his Wildcats can handle the added burden of being ranked No. 1 in the nation.

"I've found that it doesn't matter where the Wildcats are rated — everyone comes at us with their six-shooters," Sutton said Monday after Kentucky earned the top spot in the United Press International Board of Coaches rankings.

Basketball

"We're used to facing a keyed-up team every game so I really don't think we'll feel the pressure of being top-ranked like some clubs might. I just hope we're there in early April."

The Wildcats are the third different team to be ranked No. 1 this season, Syracuse was the pre-season No. 1 and North Carolina was on top last week in the first regular-season poll.

Kentucky, 3-0, moved up on the strength of an 82-76 overtime victory against Indiana. The Wildcats, ranked fifth a week ago, collected 572 points and 27 of 42 first-place votes to easily outdistance No. 2 Arizona.

"Naturally, it's a great honor for our team and basketball program to be ranked No. 1," Sutton said.

In addition, running back Freeman McNeil suffered a hamstring injury and his status is uncertain. Three Jet defensive backs — Kerry Glenn, Lester Lyles, and Jerry Holmes — are already on injured reserve.

"Injuries are really hurting us but it is something we have to deal with," said New York Jet Coach Joe Walton. "Something just clicked for us coming out for the second half. But it was just too much to overcome."

Said Shula: "We made some costly mistakes in the second half, but we stayed in there and got that last touchdown on the board. We felt we had to have this one to stay alive."

The Dolphins also suffered a key injury when center Dwight Stephenson injured his knee. His condition was not immediately known, but he was taken off the field on a motorized cart.

Also, Revetz injured his thigh making a tackle on a kickoff return and was unable to kick off the rest of the game. He missed his first extra point of the year after the injury.

The Dolphins held the Jets to 40 yards rushing.

running, suction from the fuel pump pulls the ball to the middle and wider section of the chamber and fuel flows around the ball and into the carburetor. However, when fuel flow rates are high, particularly on 400 cubic inch and larger engines, the ball gets sucked into the outlet end of the valve chamber and cuts off fuel flow to the engine.

The correct solution to this type of engine failure is to install a larger diameter fuel hose and a larger diameter anti-siphon device or an electric stop valve. Removal of an anti-siphon device is like adding fuel to a fire. In some cases, removal of the anti-siphon device is a violation of Federal regulations.

Boaters Tip: On some motors with electric starting, the battery acts as a voltage limiter. Some boat owners who discover that their battery is dead are disconnecting the battery from the system and pull-starting the engine. They end up with more damage to their engine than just a dead battery.

Have a safe boating day.

Lewis Pours In 35, Sets Howell Record

By Chris Pister

Tammy Johnson finished her prep career at Lake Howell as the school's most prolific scorer. She averaged over 20 points per game as a senior including a school-record high game of 33 points.

Johnson, now a starter at Seminole Community College, saw one of her records eclipsed by another Tammy Monday night. Senior guard Tammy Lewis poured in a school-record 35 points as the Lady Silver Hawks ripped Orlando Colonial, 83-62, at Orlando.

Lewis also is threatening Johnson's single season scoring record as Lewis is averaging well over 20-points per game thus far. The Lady Hawks now stand at 5-1 overall and return to action tonight at home against Lake Highland Prep. Lake Howell opens Seminole Athletic Conference play Thursday at home against Oviedo.

"Tammy (Lewis) scored from just about everywhere tonight," Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey said. "And she did it all in only three quarters. She played less than a minute of the fourth quarter."

Lewis, who also added 13 steals for the Lady Hawks, shot 13 of 23 from the floor and 8 of 12 from the free throw line.

Jennifer Brown contributed 12 points for the Lady Hawks while Kelley Grider, in her first game back from a broken finger, added eight points and Carey Manuel, Carolyn Kuhl and Lisa Nuxol each had seven rebounds. Brooke Burns contributed six points and four assists.

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots were a frigid 29 percent (20 of 68) from the floor Monday night in a 69-57 defeat at the hands of Evans' Lady Trojans at Orlando Evans High.

Brantley, 0-3, opens its SAC slate Thursday at Lake Mary. Evans improved to 2-1.

Tracy Brandenburg had 17 points to lead the Lady Patriots while Julie Billmyer tossed in 11 and Jennifer Tufford added nine. Brandenburg and Julie Billmyer also had five steals each and Barb Billmyer had four steals. Kim Gunderson had 14 rebounds and Julie Billmyer snatched nine boards.

"We played a lot better than in either of the tournament games," Lake Brantley coach Cindy Frank said. "We just shot awful from the floor. As soon as we start putting the ball in the hole it will be a totally different ballgame."

Having a strong and disciplined attitude is something that took several years for Mosure to instill. Mosure said that one of the big problems with his Miami team was its attitude. "They thought that just because they were successful in the past they didn't have to work," Mosure said. "And that just isn't the case. The kids at Seminole all have their heads screwed on straight. It took us a long time to get the attitudes right, and they have done an excellent job."

Mosure said that he knew that Seminole would do well even when he left. "I told the kids when I left that they would be in the playoffs," Mosure said. "Roger (Beathard) and the rest of the coaching staff is excellent. It was no shock to me to see them doing so well.

"They want to show the rest of the state what Seminole football is all about," Mosure continued. "It's kind of funny. The people down here don't have much respect for Central Florida football, and they really should."

Seminole running backs Jerod Jones and Curtis Rudolph, who made the difference in last week's 24-3 Section 2 win over Satellite Beach both said that while Mosure's departure was unexpected, the team knew that the team would still be successful. "We all met together after coach Mosure left," Jones recalled. "We said that we were still going to win. The attitude that he put in us is still there, though."

"We respected coach Mosure very much," Rudolph said. "Coach Beathard has a totally different style."

Lake Mary senior defender Rod Bitterling clears a ball down field. The Rams open play in the Seminole Athletic Conference tonight at home against Seminole High. Lake Mary is 1-1 on the season while Seminole is 2-1.

SAC Soccer Action Heats Up

Soccer

Lake Mary's Rams and Lyman's Greyhounds, the two veteran soccer teams in Seminole County, will begin to see how the rest of the Seminole Athletic Conference stacks up tonight. Lake Mary, 1-1 overall, hosts Seminole High while Lyman, 2-0, is at Lake Howell. All SAC soccer matches begin with junior varsity at 5:45 with varsity at 7:30.

The Rams return a good many of the players from last year's squad which took second in the state in Class 4A. So far this year, Lake Mary has a win over Melbourne, a loss to Winter Park and a tie against Seabreeze — all playoff teams a year ago.

Among the top returning players for the Rams are senior forwards Ernie Broenne and Frank Baranowski, senior goalkeeper Pete McNally, senior forward-midfielder Lee Alexander, junior forward-midfielder Jon Brooks, senior defender Scott Schmitt and junior forward Manny Roldan.

Seminole High has gotten off to a 2-1 start under second-year coach Carlos Merlino but is 0-1 in the SAC after a loss to Oviedo last week. Darren Forde is the top scoring threat for the Tribe while Chuck Roll has also played well along with goalkeeper Chris Bowlin.

Lyman High has rode its experience, 10 seniors in the starting lineup, to a 2-0 record thus far in '87 including an SAC victory over Lake Brantley last week.

Among the top performers for the Hounds are Greg Bailey, Tom Seils, Shafer Bowers, JoJo House and goalkeeper Kelly Walden.

"Last year, I had a team of mostly inexperienced players," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "Now we have 10 seniors starting so we should have a real good season. I see us and Lake Mary as being the top two teams probably in the entire Central Florida area."

Lake Howell, 0-2 thus far, has only six seniors on its team as first-year coach Bill Stevens will try to rebuild the team that won the SAC last season. Among the top returning players for the Silver Hawks are Erik Hird, Matt Yearick and goalkeeper Joey Schulman.

Also in Seminole Athletic Conference action tonight, Oviedo puts its 3-0 record on the line as it hosts Lake Brantley's Patriots. The Lions, 1-0 in the SAC, have been impressive the early going of the season led by Duncan Jones, Derek Bates, Rob Seltzer and goalkeeper John Hittman.

Lake Brantley is 0-2 in the early going of the season and 0-1 in the conference. Like Lake Howell, Brantley lost a number of seniors off last year's squad. Leading the Patriots in '87 are Scott Kirk, Bill Langston and Pablo Garzon.

Along with the three Seminole Athletic Conference soccer matches, there are nine other Seminole County sporting events on tap tonight:

● In boys basketball action, Lake Mary's Rams host Wymore Career Education Center; Lake Brantley entertains Winter Park and Oviedo is at Mount Dora.

Lake Mary, 1-0, won its opener on Friday against Fort Pierce Central when it shot 25 of 27 from the free throw line. Terry "The Cat" Miller, Cory Prom and Lake Howell transfer Alonzo Robinson are the catalysts for the Rams.

Lake Brantley takes a 2-0 record into tonight's action with victories over Orlando Dr. Phillips and Orlando Boone. The Patriots have received solid performances from Doug Lawson, Joe Nolfi, Darren Leva, Bo Pumpkin, Trey White and David Bacchus in the early going.

Oviedo, 1-0, opened the season Friday with a rout of Eustis in which Garth Bolton (19 points), Steve Kandell (15), Brian Wilson (13) and Dwight Everett (13) all reached double figures.

● In girls basketball action, Orlando Luther is at Oviedo; Lake Highland Prep goes to Lake Howell and St. Cloud is at Lyman. Oviedo takes a 2-0 record into tonight's action which Lake Howell is 3-1 and Lyman 3-3.

● In women's basketball, Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders look to snap a three-game losing streak at Brevard Community College in Titusville. SCC opened the season with four victories but has since lost to Polk, Miami-Dade North and Palm Beach.

● On the wrestling mat tonight, Lyman High goes to Cocoa Beach and Lake Howell is at DeLand.

Huddleston Hat Trick Lifts Lyman

By Chris Flister Herald Sports Writer

Randi Huddleston has always been a steady player for Lyman's Lady Greyhounds but she has not been in the spotlight much the past few years mainly because the Lyman team always featured some of the best players in the state.

With the graduation of most of the elite players, though, Huddleston has been thrust into a leadership role in 1987-88. And she has handled that responsibility impressively thus far.

Huddleston, a senior, scored three goals and assisted on another Monday night as the Lady Greyhounds blanked DeLand's Lady Bulldogs, 5-0, in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Lyman High.

"Randi (Huddleston) has done an outstanding job taking over as a team leader," Lyman coach Laura Rountree said. "She and Bonni (Steeves) are our two captains and they have really done a good job for us so far."

Lyman ran its record to 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the SAC. The Lady Greyhounds return to action Wednesday at home against Lake Howell.

Huddleston scored an unassisted goal to break the ice Monday night and Steeves then got the assist on a goal by freshman Tracy Sher for a 2-0 lead. Sher's second goal, with Huddleston assisting, made it 3-0.

Still in the first half, Huddleston pumped in her second goal on an assist from Beth Robinson and Sher got the assist as Huddleston completed her hat trick for a 5-0 halftime advantage.

Lyman controlled most of the second half but DeLand's defense held tough, although the Lady Bulldogs could muster very little on the offensive end. Lyman took 40 shots on goal compared to DeLand's six. Lyman keeper Becky Carr made four saves in recording the shutout. Rountree also said Pam Wise and Jennifer McAvoy had strong performances for the Lady Greyhounds.

"We played a real strong game once we got rolling," Rountree said. "Once we scored the first goal it boosted our confidence. DeLand, though, showed a lot of improvement since the first time we played them this season."

RAMS THRASH LEESBURG
Donna Rohr tied a school record with five goals as Lake Mary's Lady Rams destroyed Leesburg's Yellow Jackets, 15-0, Monday night at Leesburg.

The Lady Rams, 6-1 overall, return to Seminole Athletic Conference action Wednesday at Seminole High. Lake Mary is 1-0 in the conference.

Michelle Mattingly added three goals for Lake Mary while notching one goal apiece were Chrissie Snow, Jamie Dombchik, Charlie Buckles, Debbie Hutchings, Amy Alexander, Courtney Schlicht and Dana Hoover.

Lake Mary took 63 shots on goal compared to only one for Leesburg, which is in its first year of girls soccer. Lake Mary goalkeeper Kris Boticello picked up the shutout without having to make a save.

Stocks Open Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 45.43 Monday, was up 13.42 to 1825.59 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 612-311 among the 1,385 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 21,406,000 shares.

A surging blue-chip sector pulled stock prices higher Monday in moderate trading, but analysts emphasized that the rally did not reflect the state of the overall market.

"Once again, it's the market against the Dow," said Larry Wachtel, a market analyst with Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. "But as far as I'm concerned, 30 blue-chip stocks do not make a market. This is not a rally. It's kind of a fake-out rally."

"The market is really not doing much of anything," said Ralph Acampora, director of technical research at Kidder, Peabody & Co. "Basically, (the Dow advance) is a pop in the blue chips. It looks good on the surface, but it is not across the board. It's just not broad enough to sustain itself."

Combs, according to Florida Highway Patrol investigators, apparently was driving too fast and he lost control of the car. It slid along the road and slammed into the tree.

The FHP said Combs was driving the car at least 50 mph in a 25 mph zone at the time. A FHP spokeswoman said the speed of the car was considered as the leading cause of the accident.

Combs was taken to Florida Hospital-Altamonte. He died as a result of massive head injuries, according to a spokesman.

The FHP said Combs was traveling alone and not wearing a seatbelt when the accident occurred.

It is not known yet if the accident is alcohol related, said the FHP spokeswoman, but tests will be made during an autopsy

Dollar Drifts Lower, Gold Heads Higher

The dollar opened slightly lower today on most major world money markets in trading dealers said was slowed by the U.S.-Soviet summit in Washington and an upcoming OPEC meeting. Gold was higher.

A money analyst in London said trading was hindered by several "inhibitory influences," including the Washington summit and Wednesday's scheduled meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Traders in Zurich said the dollar had been "pushed up late Monday by buying in Europe, and that continued in the United States, with the market believing American trade figures this Thursday will show improvements."

In the Far East, the dollar gained slightly against the Japanese yen in moderate trading, closing at 132.78 yen, up 0.15 from Monday's close of 132.63 yen.

The Milan market was closed for Italy's immaculate Conception holiday.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly lower against key foreign currencies in what traders described as listless trading.

In London, the pound because of the commission's action and would be requesting a copy of the city's tapes of meetings on the issue.

Commissioners voted 3-2 on Nov. 16 "based on the legal precedent set by the court system that the request be sent back to the starting point and follow the route set forth in the city of Longwood" going with Smerilson's opinion rather than the city attorney's legal advice.

At Monday night's meeting Stephen R. Gold of HDS Consultants, representing the developer, asked the commission to reconsider since the rezoning request should not have been a dead issue when the commission voted split 2-2 on Oct. 19 because the city's own code says when there is a tie vote the issue should be deferred to the next meeting.

Smerilson has opposed the rezoning citing Roberts Rules of Order, which the commission has not adopted, and an Orange County case in which there was a 2-2 vote and the court held if Roberts Rules of Order has not been adopted common accepted parliamentary procedures must be followed. He said that on most defeated issues the majority side could bring for reconsideration but when there is no majority the issue is dead.

Smerilson said Monday night, "I believe the whole thing stinks, this is the extension of an already dead issue bringing it back for a fourth time. He demanded the commission 'go out and get a real attorney and bring Paul Gugelman in for his opinion.'"

Mayor Ed Myers said he had also talked to Gugelman, a lawyer who served on an interim basis before Kramer was hired and is also defending the city in a court case, but did not get the same impression on the atorney's opinion on the issue that Smerilson did.

Kramer said he had also talked to Gugelman, but had not changed his opinion that the 2-2 vote did not make the ordinance a dead issue. Because of Kramer's ruling the commission voting 3-1 to table it until Nov. 16 when Myers would be back in town and could vote.

Smerilson asked Monday night, "What does our city attorney have to gain from bringing this back four times?"

Kramer retorted, "I would like to know why Commissioner Smerilson wants to keep it from getting passed."

Smerilson said to Commissioner Dave Gunter, "I'm tired of you bringing up one page of the code out of context. I have nothing to gain one way or another, but I'm not so sure others don't. Bringing this up for a fourth time would set a precedent."

Smerilson had at a previous meeting questioned whether Gunter had a conflict of interest because his business is located in a building owned by the owner of the property in question. After quizzing Gunter at a meeting, Kramer ruled there was no conflict.

Myers said he had first voted against the rezoning request, but found he had been misinformed by opponents and voted to bring it back, but the next time it came up he was out of state. "When I came back, I didn't have time to go through the work. Due to what Smerilson said, I voted against considering it again. Then I came in and read the ordinance for myself and found it was not a dead issue so I'm ready to vote tonight."

Deputy Mayor June Lormann, who has also seen-sawed on the issue, said, "I'd like to vote on it, too."

adjustment is needed, and that "I feel we let our employees down last year."

Faison said that his secretaries would compile all information on city employee pay rates, but that it would take some time, since at this time, the system is not on computer. He said that he would bring the information to a future workshop, probably in January.

Mercer and McClanahan agreed that they wanted to see more information about city employee's pay rates both now, and before the current budget was set in motion, before they would agree to any kind of decision on a cost of living raise.

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein said that he had tried to go over those figures with Kim Smith, city administrative director, and that "it's very complicated." He added that he does think a cost of living

...Tax

Repeal as of Jan. 1 would force lawmakers to adjust spending during the special session, something Mills said he was reluctant to attempt.

The services tax was enacted last spring to provide for the state's growth needs through the next year. The levy extends the five percent general sales tax on goods to an array of consumer and business services.

The tax touched off an uproar among the affected industries and opinion polls have shown overwhelming public opposition. Martinez originally strongly supported the tax, but switched positions when his standing in the opinion polls began to suffer. The governor tried to force the Legislature to repeal the tax in two special sessions that stretched for nearly a month earlier this fall. Vogt and Mills tried to win public support in a statewide series of public hearings, but acknowledged they had failed last week.

Meanwhile, some legislators hope to address the medical malpractice insurance availability crisis that has forced some hospitals to restrict emergency services, and legislative leaders said another special session on the topic was possible next week.

A growing area code is like a good stock.

Eventually it will split.

Introducing Area Code 407. Beginning April 16, 1988.

Business is booming in Florida, and this growth means expanded communications needs for many of our customers. To provide for these opportunities, Southern Bell is creating a new area code—407—for the area north of the Broward/Palm Beach line to just north of Orlando.

By creating this new area code we will be able to provide new telephone numbers well into the next century. If you live or work within this new area code, you might want to begin changing your stationery, checks and business cards during the next few months to reflect the change. (Your telephone number will not change, only the area code.)

This may be helpful information for your customers and others who might call your business after April 16.

Bouquets And Brickbats Are Tossed Abby's Way

DEAR READERS: "Carole R. in Itasca, Ill.," recently criticized me for trying to help my readers too much, and entertain them too little. She warned: "If you become just another column of safety tips, you might bore your readers to the point where they won't read you."

I thanked Carole for the nudge, and invited my readers to let me know what they liked—and didn't like—about my column.

Well, here's the good, the bad and the ugly:

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading you in The Houston Post for 25 years and think you provide genuinely intelligent answers to some strange and also common problems. I like the way you allow other people to state their views, even when they disagree with you. I skip the long reprints and tearjerkers, because I've read them before. I dislike: repetitive tirades against smokers and people who don't write thank-you notes.

I enjoy the letters from selfish jerks, bigots and busybodies, and I love the way you tell them off!

CATHY MEYER, HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: If "Carole" wants entertainment, let her read the comics or watch "Hee Haw," but please don't change your column. I have been helped many times by your insight and suggestions. People may stop reading it if they are bored, but they will surely stop writing to you if they think their plea for help, or their sharing of a moving experience, will be used for entertainment.

NORMA F. FOOZE, FRESNO

DEAR ABBY: I agree completely with "Carole." When I see a column full of dry and lengthy facts and tips, I never read it. And I never read your columns when they have poems, or debates about who authored a poem. Nor do I care about round-robin letters, or someone's pet peeve about the English language. Your feature is an advice column, not a literary forum.

S.K. FROM BAKERSFIELD

DEAR ABBY: You ask, "What don't you like about my column?" Nothing! What do you like about my column? Everything!

I like your writing style. I respect your judgment and I love your wit. I appreciate your good old-fashioned horse sense and I trust your advice. Don't change a thing. I read The Seattle Times mainly for "Dear Abby."

WILLIAM B. HOLBERG, SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: Our family agrees that you are going overboard with health, safety and better living tips. We get plenty of those elsewhere. Your column is getting boring. Please stick to the human events format that we have enjoyed for years in the Los Angeles Times.

T.R. OLANDER AND FAMILY

DEAR ABBY: "Carole R. of Itasca, Ill.," doesn't speak for me or the majority of your readers. Your column has never bored me. As a teacher for 30 years, I've heard your columns discussed repeatedly among my colleagues and students. Your caring and good sense come through, whether you're giving help or entertaining. And I dearly love your excellent recipes! I appreciate the versatility of your columns. You've become a real friend over the years.

ARLINE VOTOUR IN VIRGINIA

DEAR ABBY: You would do well to listen to "Carole R." I am completely turned off with all your safety tips and "help" columns. I just like to be entertained.

RUTH NEWTON, NEWARK, DEL.

DEAR ABBY: If I see one more letter reminding people to tie up their dogs, visit poor old grandma in the nursing home, or a rerun of Fire Prevention Seek or "Please, God, I'm Only 17," I will barf. Thank you.

Billy Boy's is popular ice cream and chili dog parlor in downtown Sanford.

Billy Boy's Is Famous For Coney Chili Dogs

While you're doing your Christmas shopping or parade watching in Downtown Sanford, take a refreshment break at Billy Boy's popular ice cream and chili dog parlor. Feed the family for less and feel like a kid again.

Billy Boy's, which recently celebrated its first anniversary at 401 E. First St., across from the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, is the home of Billy Boy's Famous Coney Island Style Chili Dog and other fun fast foods — all at reasonable prices.

More and more people — secretaries, officials, neighborhood children, and newcomers who have moved here from all over the country — are all discovering Billy Boy's chili dogs. The fact that Billy Boy's sells 1400 chili dogs a week verifies the slogan that "You can't eat just one."

"When you eat one you've got to have the second, third and fourth," said owner Bill Richards. They also serve hamburgers, tacos, nachos, popcorn and the latest addition to the menu is an egg with ham or sausage on an English muffin for breakfast.

Semi-retired Bill and his wife, Mary, came to Sanford from Ohio where they owned a chain of eateries. Famous for his old-fashioned Coney chili dogs, Bill has been in the restaurant business all of his life. He brought his recipe with him and when he discovered there wasn't any place here serving the kind of chili dogs sold up north, he decided to open one.

In addition to Billy Boy's popular Coney Chili Dog, you can get them served just plain, with mustard, cole slaw or sauerkraut.

Billy Boy's also sells root beer by the cup or by the half-gallon. In addition to cones, Billy Boy's also serves delicious soft ice cream in sundaes, banana splits, floats, shakes and malts.

They are open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and Sunday noon to 8 p.m. Phone orders are accepted, just call 321-0833 and your order will be ready for you to pick up.

Soviet Policies Protested In Front Of Russian Embassy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ukrainian ethnics, Afghan refugees, Soviet Jews and a long line of others are freely speaking, writing and assembling American style this week to protest Kremlin policies in front of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"Wanted," blared the full-page advertisement in The Washington Times Monday that featured a photograph of a grim-faced Gorbachev. "(For) the murders... (of) more than 2 million Afghans."

The ad was placed by the Committee for a Free Afghanistan, one of several groups exercising their legal right to protest during this week's summit against the 1979 Soviet invasion and continued occupation of Afghanistan.

Gunfire Heard In Doomed Jet

TEMPLETON, Calif. (UPI) — The pilot of a jetliner that crashed and killed all 44 people aboard cried, "Gunfire!" in his last transmission, and the FBI searched today for evidence of "criminal activity" that may have caused the disaster.

Pacific Southwest Airlines Flight 1771, en route from Los Angeles to San Francisco, plummeted "like a rock" into a hillside and disintegrated in a fireball Monday with a crew of five and 39 passengers, including the president of Chevron USA Inc. and three other executives of the oil company, officials said.

Gunman Dead After Killing Five In Shooting Spree

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A 22-year-old man armed with a rifle went on a shooting rampage after a heated argument with an acquaintance at a federal building today, killing eight office workers and wounding five before plunging to his death from an upper-floor window, police said.

The number of victims equalled Australia's previous mass murder tally of eight people gunned down by a deranged man in the streets of Melbourne on Aug. 10.

With the gunman, nine people died in the shooting rampage today. Police at the scene had earlier put the death toll at 13 including the gunman, but four victims found in an elevator had escaped unharmed.

Pilot Captured In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Sandinista forces downed a plane near the Costa Rican border and captured its American pilot, who the government said was linked to the U.S.-backed Contras, official Sandinista radio said today.

The radio identified the pilot as James Jordan Denby.

Radio Sandino, the official voice of the ruling Sandinista party, said the plane was downed near San Juan del Sur, on the Atlantic Coast south of Managua and near the border with Costa Rica. The radio did not say when or how the airplane was downed.

Agent: Inmates Knew What They Wanted

ATLANTA (UPI) — An FBI negotiator said Cuban inmates who held the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary for 12 days knew exactly what they wanted and put agents through "the most complex hostage negotiations" in the agency's history.

"The worst mistake we could have made was to underestimate their intelligence," Atlanta FBI special agent Diader Rosario told a news conference Monday.

"They were very intelligent and knew exactly what they wanted and exactly where they wanted to go."

The White House disclosed Monday that President Reagan signed a proclamation and executive order Nov. 24, the day after the Atlanta uprising began, that authorized the use of federal troops to quell the rebellion.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the documents were signed by Reagan at the time to prepare for "possible contingencies." The executive law authorized the defense secretary to use "units and members of the armed forces" as necessary to suppress violence at the prison and restore order.

Military personnel were sent to Atlanta to advise Justice Department officials and others, but no assault on the prison was attempted.

Rosario and Pedro Toledo of the FBI's San Juan, Puerto Rico, office represented the government in negotiations with the Cubans during what Weldon Kennedy, the FBI special agent in charge of the Atlanta office, called "the most complex hostage negotiations we ever handled."

Rosario said the negotiations began with a plea from detainee negotiators that all their compatriots be freed immediately and ended more than a week later with an agreement that satisfied both parties.

"They spoke well and gave us a run for our money," Rosario said. "Both parties were getting tired and both were getting worn down."

Meanwhile, advocates for the Cubans who remain in U.S. jails said they hope the government will honor an agreement to review the Cubans' cases and free those who have served their sentences.

"I certainly hope these people are given the type hearing I feel they're entitled to and that they have legal representation on an individual basis," said U.S. District Judge Marvin Shoob of Atlanta.

"I am hopeful they will be given a hearing that more closely resembles an ordinary due process trial rather than merely another interrogation," Shoob told UPI Monday.

The detainees in Atlanta and Oakdale, La., who staged an 8-day uprising, arrived in the United States in the 1980 "Freedom Flotilla" from Cuba's port of Mariel and were jailed for crimes committed in the United States or were considered dangerous because of mental conditions or previous criminal records.

Shoob said most of the detainees in both federal prisons had served their time for crimes committed in this country and should have been released.

An agreement, reached Dec. 4 with 1,104 detainees who seized the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary and nearly 100 hostages does not clarify whether some of the detainees will be deported to Cuba, according to Carla Dudeck of the Coalition to Support the Cuban Detainees.

"There are several questions when you read the agreement," said Dudeck. "We want to know if the people who have been approved for release under the old review plan have any guarantee they won't be deported."

Justice Department spokesman Patrick Korten insisted that government officials "never agreed to be barred from deporting some of the Cubans. That is a point we would not budge on."

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service reviewed some of the Cubans' cases under a plan launched in June and a handful of the detainees were released. Others were promised freedom under the plan, but Dudeck and Shoob said the plan did not offer due process and as a result hundreds of detainees were unfairly denied release.

Planning Board Denies Casso's Request

A request to rezone property at 1118 Park Ave. from single family (SR-1) to restricted commercial (RC-1), has been denied by the Sanford Planning and Zoning commission.

Joseph W. Casso, owner of the property had wanted to use the property to lease or sell professional offices.

The commission has also granted one request to rezone property and has considered three site plans for other properties.

Casso told commissioners that the property had been vacant for two or three years, and had been vandalized several times. He wanted to put doctor or dentist offices on the site. Residents of the area opposed Casso's request, saying the area is already too congested due to a shopping center, a day care center, and a bus stop. They said the area already does not have enough parking.

P&Z commissioners unanimously denied Casso's request.

Property at 705 S. Airport Blvd. has been approved for rezoning from agricultural (AD) to medium industrial (MI-2). Commissioners unanimously approved that request.

Bob Seigler, representative of the property owner, George Martin, before the commissioners. Seigler pointed out that other land all around the area is already zoned for industrial use and that the parcel at 705 S. Airport Blvd. was therefore zoned "inappropriately."

The site plan for a car lot at 190 Persimmon Ave. has been given conditional approval. Kevin and Sharon Sullivan are the owners.

The site plan consideration was tabled at a P&Z meeting Nov. 5, due to lack of representation.

However, they did approve the site plan this time, provided that the area used for detailing cars be moved to the front of the facility, and that the front area be paved more.

The commission tabled a site plan for Enaley Corporation, a paving contractor, located at 408 Holly Av., a general commercial (GC-2) zone, until the corporation and the city could come to more agreeable terms on the drainage system. Kim Townsend, representing the owner, Joe Brooks, said the company had designed a drainage system leading into an alley. But, city engineers may want the drainage system to empty into a drainage system on Holly Ave.

Finally, conditional approval has been given for a site plan for two duplexes located at 1324 Hickory Ave., a multiple family zone (MR-1). The commission requires the owner Norman Hastin, to provide further engineering for retention areas on the property.

Mixed Chromosomes Cause Fatal Defects

DEAR DR. GOTT - What is trisomy-13? My daughter's first-born died of this two days after he was born.

DEAR READER - Each normal human being is born with a genetic code consisting of 46 chromosomes: 22 pairs of a autosomal (non-sex) chromosomes and two sex chromosomes.

The chromosomes, tiny threads of twisted DNA, can be isolated from cells, counted and examined. They are numbered by size. Thus, genetic abnormalities can be diagnosed by chromosome analysis.

In some badly deformed babies, one chromosome may be missing (monosomy), fragmented or out of position. In others, an extra chromosome is present (trisomy). There are three primary forms of trisomy:

(1) Down's syndrome: This is due to an extra chromosome on the 21st pair. Now called trisomy-21, the condition is associated with mental retardation and congenital abnormalities that give the baby an Oriental look, hence the antiquated term "mongolism."

(2) Edward syndrome is trisomy-18, an extra chromosome on the 18th pair, producing retardation and deformity.

(3) Trisomy-13 is associated with congenital head and hand malformations. It occurs in one out of every 5,000 to 10,000 births. Two-thirds of the children die before the age of 6 months. The congenital defects can be severe, as can the degree of mental retardation. There is no treatment.

I am sorry to hear that your grandchild died. I am certain that your daughter and son-in-law will choose to have genetic counseling before having more children. Such attention by a specialist will help them to understand the statistical probability of having another genetically impaired baby.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My husband has had a splintered rib for several years. Will it get worse if he keeps roughhousing with the guys at work?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Today's hand once again demonstrates that defense is the hardest part of the game. A defender is handicapped since he must imagine what cards are in his partner's hand, with a view to winning the most tricks for his side, there are principles of play that have been developed through the years to guide defenders in taking the most tricks. For example, it's unwise to underlead an ace, since you may now have lost the opportunity to capture a high honor with the ace. When your aces capture honors, you promote your lower cards to winning rank. The rules all of us have learned are good, but the highest drama of bridge occurs when the only way to break a contract is to violate a rule. Watch the play of defender West.

Against four spades, he led the king of diamonds. Although it would be safe to play a second diamond, there was no advantage to be gained. East might have nothing of value, but he would need to hold a trick somewhere for there to be any chance of setting the hand. West decided to play for the possibility that East had either the king or the 10 of hearts and the king of clubs. So at at trick two West led a low heart away from his ace. South won the king, but eventually he had to take the club finesse. East took the club king and returned a heart to let West take two heart tricks and set the contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Oool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
DECEMBER 9, 1987

In the year ahead you will become involved in a new project or venture that has potential, but only if you have the right type of people in it with you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility that you might repeat a procedure today that previously created a lot of complications. If you do, you'll have only yourself to blame for the results. Major changes are ahead for Sagittarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extremely careful to whom you delegate authority today. If you make a poor choice, this person could do something in your name that may make you look bad.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't make a major judgment impulsively today. Your decisions will have a direct effect on an associate who is not present.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure at this time that you are keeping pace with the responsibilities your boss has given you. If you fall behind, there could be problems on the horizon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you hope to keep your budget intact today, you are going to have to make a concerted effort to subdue extravagant tendencies. Shop around until you find the best bargain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It will prove unwise at this time to keep postponing a domestic issue of importance that needs attending to now. Beard the lion in his den.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't try to overpower associates or companions with your ideas today. If they're not buying, pressuring them will serve to change their minds.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Work with funds that you already have tucked away in your bank account. Don't spend extravagantly in hopes you'll be able to cover it later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may change course too often today to satisfy the demands of others. Unfortunately, neither you nor they are likely to be pleased.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be the source of your own undoing today if you operate in an impulsive, erratic manner. Think ahead and plan your steps carefully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to involve yourself in activities today that are beyond your reach financially. Remember - the piper eventually must be paid.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep your assertiveness in check today if you want others to cooperate with aims that are important to you. They'll desert your cause if you are too demanding.
