Nailing Down Your Motel Room

By Virginia Knauer Special Assistant to the President and Director Office of Consumer Affairs

What a let-down for your vacation. You've just pulled into the motel, road-weary and hungry. And the desk clerk apologetically announces there's no room for you and your family, even though you made a reservation last week. This-after a busy day of sightseeing and driving-is the last straw.

Fortunately, though, there are steps you can take to nail down your motel room for the next time. First, you should know firmed reservations. If, for that you, as a customer, do have a firm leg to stand on. The American Hotel & Motel Association says in its Code of Operating Practices: "We pledge to honor con-

reasons beyond our control, a room is not available for a guest to who we have confirmed a reservation, we will make every effort to get him or her a room at another hotel or motel in this area at a comparable rate and provide free transportation to that property."

So, you should be able to expect a motel to assist you n finding another room and retting you to it. You should ot be stranded.

You are justified, of course, in feeling that a reserved room should be held or you. AH&MA spokesmen have conceded this to me and have also said that the association is extremely concerned about this situation. Unfortunately, though, the problem is not going to go away altogether.

One reason is that persons often extend their reerved stays. Someone beearnes III. Weather is had plane flight is canceled. This can leave fewer rooms available for incoming persons with reservations. Then, too, hotels constantly live with the problem of "no shows"-t-avelers who make reservations and do not show up to claim their rooms. AH&MA records indicate that between 15% and 50% of their confirmed reservations wind up as "no shows." To protect themselves from "no shows," many motels and hotels "overbook." They confirm reservations for more rooms than they actually have available.

Here are some guidelines for you to help protect yourself on room reservationsand also to ease the situation for all travelers:

 Ask if the motel or hotel subscribes to AH&MA's Code of Operating Practices and adheres to the code. · Put your money on the line. In addition to making that reservation, send a deposit to cover the first night f your stay. . Give your time of arrival. Especially if you're arriving later than 6 p.m., alert the clerk to hold your room. . Notify the hotel about delays, Call ahead if weather or a change in plans suddenly causes a late arrival.

• Vacate your room promptly. Observe the hotel's check-out time when you leave. If an emergency keeps you beyond your reservation date, notify the room clerk as soon as possible.

The Prayer Of A Patriot

> By FRED L. NEAL, Pastor Congregational Christian Church

Text: Lamentations 5:21 "Turn thou us unto Thee, O Lord, and we shall be turned; renew our days as of old"

"The short story "A Man Without A Country" was written in 1863 by Edward Everett Hale, a Unitarian clergyman. It is the story of a young army officer, Philip Nolan, who exclaimed during his trial by a court-martial that he wished that he would never hear of the United States again. Those conducting the trial, granted Philip Nolan his wish. He was put on board ship and banished from the shores of our country. He was forbidden to receive any news concerning his native land. But before he died, he redeemed himself and begged for reconciliation with his country. Edward Everett Hale captures the depth of human emotion when he writes of Philip Nelan's agony of being a man without a country. During this time of despair, Philip Nolan suffers as only one can suffer, who has no country, not being able to say or sing with the poet;

"This land is your land, This land is my land.

From California to the New York Islands,

From the Redwood Forest to the Gulf Stream waters,

This land was made for you and me"

Hale's story caused such a sensation that many people failed to realize that it was fiction. This is now 1973 and Philip Nolan once more faces trial by court-martial. During the course of the trial he boldly declares that he wishes that he would never hear of the United States again.

Rather man being banished from our shores as a traitor, he is treated like a hero. He is welcomed as a guest speaker on college campuses across the land, swaying the minds of young people with his Anti-American views. He climaxes his career by writing a book entitled "What's Wrong with America." With the income from his speeches and the royalties from his book, he manages to make a fortune in the land that he claims he hates, and he deposits his fortune in a Swiss bank to avoid paving income tax.

I have probably overstated my case, but unfortunately there are many in our society today whose patriotism has been dulied and drugged by an overdose of socialistic anti-American propaganda.

----- Removing Roadblocks to Learning

By Leslie J. Nason, Ed. D.

Do you read an article three or four times and still cannot remember what you have read? Do you read words without gaining understanding? If so you are not alone. A Sample Survey in 1970 by the American Institute for Research found that 33% of eleventh grade students said they frequently read material over and over again without understanding it. This is unfortunate since reading is a fundamental SKILL of the learner. Not just reading words but thinking along with the reading is necessary i knowledge is to be gained. To remember what you read

Bogota Recalls Horror Of 1948 Riots

Twenty-five years have passed since Jorge Eliecer Gaitan was gunned down on a busy boulevard in Bogota.

Yet Latin Americans still recall that day, April 9, 1948, as a frightening lesson in what can happen when an angry people rise up against political oppression. The nationwide carnage that swept Colombia after the popular leader's murder took over one-quarter of a millio;; lives in a civil war that lasted 9 years.

Even today, Latin Americans measure the violence of a political demonstration against that of the "Bogotazo" when rampaging mobs destroyed most of the capital's downtown area. Thus, when the workers of Cordoba, Argentina's industrial hub, took to the streets to protest a military dictatorship in 1969, the uprising promptly was dubbed the "Cordobazo." Colombia has matured vastly since those days. Then it was worth one's life just to wear a red or blue tie, the colors of the warring Liberal and Conservative parties. Nevertheless, the 25th anniversary of Gaitan's death has set many people to thinking about the future as well as the

Although the standard of living of the poorer classes has improved since their political idol was killed two and a half decades ago, the resentments still linger.

This year the anniversary of Gaitan's death also coincides with the ending of a 16-year pact

Ms. And Miz

E. Waiton Grie, publisher and editor of The Staunton Leader, has stirred up a fuss in the newspapers' trade magazine, Editor and Publisher, over the use of "Ms" for woman. He insisted that readers are entitled to know whether a woman in a news story is married or not. That brought a tart reply that women had the same right to know as men. "Tell us," wrote a gal reporter for the Waterbury American, "is it Mr., Mrs., Miss, or Ms. Opie?"

Well, it's General Opie. That answers the question but doesn't get to the point. The point here is that "Ms." is a happy addition to the vocabulary. Long before women's lib became an agitated question, there was the problem of how to write a female and address her correctly. "Ms." is the perfect answer. Down South, the problem is a written one. So far as speaking is concerned, it's all the same. Mrs., Miss, and Ms. - they are all pronounced "Miz." - Roanoke (Va.) Times between the Conservative and Liberal parties under which they shared the government and alternated in the presidency. If nothing else, Gaitan's death and "la violencia" that followed did serve to put an end to 120 years of bitter animosity between the Liberals and Conservatives.

Issues, not political labels, now dominate Colombian politics and are expected to determine the outcome of the 1974 presidential elections.

If the people take to the streets for a second "Bogotazo" it will be to protest the cost of living or unemployment, rather than the political color of the cravat of the president or his cabinet.

In those days of political tension, however, nothing mattered except party membership. Political antagonisms cut across class lines and even family relationships and whole towns were massacred because of their political affiliation.

Many Things In Common

The poor were butchered just as senselessly as the rich.

At the time of his assassination, Gaitan was the undisputed leader of the Liberal Party. An admitted demagoge, he dreamed of overthrowing the Conservative oligarchy in power and carrying out social reforms that were advanced even by U.S. standards in 1948. Had he not died. Gaitan might have led Colombia in a social revolution that would have made Fidel Castro's Cuban experience seem like child's play. Evewitness accounts claim that Castro was in Bogota at the time of Gaitan's death. But the then little-known Castro was here to protest the Ninth Inter-American Conference attended by Secretary of State George C. Marshall. To this day, many Colombians believe Castro and his Communist cadres helped inflame the violence of the "Bogotazo."

Trade Breaks It Up Bit By Bit

By JAMES CARY Herald Services

WASHINGTON - A four-year-old U.S. drive to thaw relations with Communist Europe is beginning to pay off. Trade has doubled from $450 million annually to $800 million and is expected to jump to $1.6 billion by 1976. There is also an expanding range of new political and cultural contacts. From Poland and Czechoslovakia in the north, through the central states of Hungary and Romania, to Yugoslavia and Bulgaria in the south the ice of the cold war is cracking.

Only in tiny, tough-talking Albania has there been no visible progress. U.S. officials readily acknowledge the forward movement has been far from spectacular, largely compounded of small dramatic development between the United States and the two Communist giants - the Soviet Union and China. Furthermore, what progress there has been could easily

Hang One On Bow Ties Are Once Again Vogue

By DICK FARRELI Herald Services

Will your beau tie one on today? Before jumping to conclusions, the question is, will he don a bold new bow tie? If he is a contemporary the easer. Chances are the answer is yes, for bow ties are the current fad in men's clothing. The ties, coming in a wide variety of colors and patterns, are going like hotcakes. "We have noticed his interest in them since Christmas."

said Marvin Broderson, buyer for a men's furnishings store. "Our first shipment was a complete sellout." Archie Crossland, co-owner of a men's store, echoes similar feelings. "Bow ties are the hottes! thing in the industry." In a two-day period, his store went through an even dozen.

"We had thought polka dots would be the big seller," Crossland explained. "But the ones going the fastest are those in paisley, checks and broad stripes." Surprising to some, most popular models are those you tie yourself.

WASHINGTON (NEA)

No one can guarrel with the quest for new freedoms in our society, especially in areas of life where they may have been long denied. But the trend is carrying with it the perilous illusion that freedom means, among other things, the near-total escape from monotonous, repetitive, routine effort. The celebrated rebellion of automobile assembly-line workers at Lordstown, Ohio, has dramatized this notion. So has the refusal of many young people to take jobs in enterprises demanding disciplined routines-or even to take any work at all.

There is no way to talk about this matter without dwelling on things that are obvious. This is the case because, despite their obviousness, many in America and in Western society appear to be denying the reality. The reality, of course, is two-fold. Life itself has in herently routine, repetitive, and, if you wish to so regard them, boring aspects. On top of that, the whole structure of modern mass-production industry (one might say business in the large) is founded on deliberately tailored repetitive performance.

Now, we've all heard about the valiant efforts of some companies to shuffle people around, to introduce refreshing variation, etc. Admirable. But fundamentally, if innocently, deceptive.

An assembly line is still an assembly line, and it is not a particularly exciting place to be even for a day. Driving a bus is not only routine, but in today's crushing congestion is a daily aggravation. Collecting, sorting and distributing mail is never going to take on the flavor of a trip to Florida. One could go on endlessly.

All aside from job endeavors, the repetitive elements of the daily living cycle are also obvious and inescapable, unless one chooses to give himself to personal disorgan ization - meaning dishevelment, uncleanliness, slothful habit, mental disarray, and real risk to health and wellbeing. This is not "freedom," but a sort of crippling disorientation, a calculated disservice to oneself as well as to other humans in the larger social frame.

If many today are in revolt against the two kinds of reality here set forth, it can only be said that their rebellion is sure to fail-because they are in revolt against themselves

The inevitable monitony of parts of the daily living cycle is, if practiced, of course r. id. But to turn away from it in any full sense is to surrender, to acknowledge an incapacity for living. The scraps of "freedom" gained from a rejection can exact a horrible price in disease. crude underdevelopment as a human being, and, ultimately, futility. Freedom to do what?

GLOBAL VIEW

Upkeep Lack Rots U.S. Foreign Aid By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA A new study on the effectiveness of U.S. military aid to the Philippines demonstrates one major weakness of American assistance programs throughout the world We fund major projects, involving billions of dollars worldwide in buildings, docks, materials and equipment Then we do not insure that the countries receiving this assistance receive the technical training to maintain and operate it properly. Worse yet, we do not insist that the local government provide the organization, the fund and the materials necessary to maintain what we've given at such cost in proper working order.

As a result, in country after country at one time or another millions of dollars worth of tractors have rusted away for lack of repairs. Millions in equipment has deteriorated because the warehouses in the receiving countries have been improperly maintained. Docks and wharves built at great expense to the U.S. taxpayer have become unusable from neglect. Food and othe commodities have spoiled from improper storage. Mil lions in weapons have been lost because they've been used to the point of no repair without periodic checks or have been abused in use by military units with insufficient technical knowledge

For all this there is no excuse. This reporter, in a tour of military duty some years back, discovered to his horror the great losses this country was suffering through such neglect in one Asian land, and thereupon proposed that every country receiving American military aid sign a binding agreement to provide for adequate maintenance and repair. This proposal was accepted and written into the regulations. That was years ago

Now it seems that spot checks in a number of countries show that these regulations are not being followed. The result is that a considerable amount of our aid money is being needlessly wasted. Our allies are not achieving the necessary or expected military and economic gains. Underdeveloped countries are not making the progress necessary to bring their peoples out of miserable poverty.

It is impossible to estimate just how much this waste costs in dollars, in human misery and in weakened national defenses among those we believe we are help ing. In some cases known to this reporter the effects of millions of dollars worth of aid have been completely nullified in just one small land. Over the years, this waste conservatively must amount to billions of dollars. Here is an area where there must be more congressional investigation and more self study by the Pentagon and the Nixon administration.

O'Malley Allies Vow Fight To Halt Insurance Hike

By TOM RAUM Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) Senate allies of Insurance Commissioner Tom O'Malley are confident they can resurrect his proposal to block a July 1 automobile insurance cost increase from the ashes of a House committee defeat.

The Senate today votes on a slightly modified version of the same O'Malley proposal which went down earlier this session in the House Insurance Com-

The bill by Senate President Mallory Horne and Sen. Lew Brantely, D-Jacksonville, repeals the law that ups the level of mandatory insurance coverages on July 1.

Currently Florida motorists must supplement their no-fault insurance policies with liability insurance protecting them against judgements of up to $10,000 per person, $20,000 total per accident and $5,000 property damage. But this goes up to $25,000-$25,000-$5,000 for the same coverages unless the law is repealed O'Malley claims the increase will result in cost hikes of up to $25-a-year for many Florida motorists.

The Sanford Herald

The bill passed the Senate originally but died in the House committee. But the Senate sponsors changed a few words and introduced it again. Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-

Miami, author of the original measure increasing liability levels, says he'll fight the bill on the Senate floor. He claims the added protection is necessary because of skyrockeling hospital costs. Meanwhile, Senate budget writers have gone back to the drawing board to pare $80 million from their first draft of the 1973-74 state budget, postponning a vote on the important appropriations bill in the Senate, "I'm very disappointed about this, to say the least," said Senate Ways and Means Committee Chairman Robert Saunders, D-Gainesville, after he refused to accept the reports of three subcommittees Thursday,

Church Of Christ CHURCH OF CHRIST 600 Palm Springs Dr Altamonte Springs 9.45 a.m. James P. Needham 11 00 a.m. Bible Study

You wonder how it got there . . . a sapling far from the forest. And grew . alone, untended, little-noticed. And flourished to stand like a sentinel against the horizon

Maybe a tree understands, as sometimes man does not, the secret of God. We are never alone! What we need He has provided. What we are to become He has designed. The beauty and majesty and grace that can emanate from one object, one creature, He has envisioned and made real ... for all to share. There is no loner.

But when we feel alone, then, more than ever, we are drawn to God and His Church. In faith, in friendship with others who believe, in service to those who need our affection and care-we discover how deeply and satisfyingly we belong.
