Defense Minister Weizman Quits Begin Government

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, Israel's first openly gay minister, resigned today after a week in the cabinet. Weizman, 54, said Sunday, vowing his departure was only a breathing space in his struggle against Begin's government.

The budget and the disgraced argument surrounding it are the straw that broke the camel's back," Weizman told fellow cabinet ministers after quitting over demanded cuts in the defense budget.

Hostages Still in Embassy?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Authoritative sources say there are increasing indications the 53 American hostages are still being held captive in Tehran.

Despite reports to the contrary, the three embassy officers still confined in the Iranian Foreign Ministry and the rest are believed to be in the U.S. Embassy compound, their prison since Nov. 4.

Socialists Meet Bani-Sadr

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky and two other prominent European socialist leaders met today with Iran's President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr and Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh to discuss the possibility of mediation of the Iran hostages crisis.

The socialists met with Bani-Sadr for 45 minutes before going into talks with Bani-Sadr at his office several blocks away.

Church Leaders Arrested

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Riot police armed with clubs and rifles today arrested a head of the South African Council of Churches and 51 other church leaders protesting racial discrimination in the school system.

The police surrounded the clergymen and hustled them into police vans when they tried to march on the Johannesburg's police headquarters to demand the release of a colored minister detained over the weekend.

Port-Au-Prince To Marry

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti's capital and its Roman Catholic Cathedral are swathed in color for the wedding of the nation's most eligible bachelor — President-for-Life Jean Claude "Baby Doc" Duvalier.

The cost for the festivities is expected to be more than a half million dollars in the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere and one of the world's most destitute.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Thunderstorms and tornadoes raked the Gulf Coast states, uprooting trees and downing power lines. Montana suffered a double blow as winds up to 100 mph along the eastern slopes of the Rockies hampered efforts to fight brush fires and an unseasonable snow storm buried Wisconsin under 10 inches of snow. About 18 tornadoes touched down Sunday — nearly a dozen small twisters in Florida, three in Texas, two in Mississippi and one in Alabama.

AREA HEADINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 78; overnight low: 60; yesterday's high: 85; barometric pressure: 29.74; relative humidity: 80 percent; winds: northwest at 10 m.p.h.

Altamonte Man Held In Shop Theft

By DAVID M. RAZLER Herald Staff Writer An Altamonte Springs man was arrested early this morning, charged with burglarizing a farm equipment shop, Altamonte Springs police say. David L. Weeks, 24, of 1015 Terry Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested near 12:45 p.m. by Altamonte Springs police, who say they saw him leaving the store, which had just been burglarized shortly after 6 a.m.

He was ordered held in lieu of $5,250 bail on charges of grand theft and burglary. BOATPARTS, DOOR STOLEN IN SANFORD A woman who told police she left her front door unlocked while she went away for a few days returned to find about $1,200 of her property gone.

Police say Linda Labadie, 1908 Mellonville Ave., Sanford, left her home on May 18 and returned home Friday to discover the burglary.

She reported the loss of $1,000 in boat parts, and household goods, including a television.

SCULPTURES BURGLIED Burglars who managed to open a locked door, possibly using a key, stole $935 worth of sculptures from a Casseberry shop, deputies say.

The hand-carved wooden figures were taken from Driftwood Studios, 2 N. Lake Howell Road, between Thursday and Friday, deputies say.

Sadat Proposes U.S. Establish Standby Base

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has proposed the United States permanently position F-15 fighter jets and other sophisticated weapons in his country to be turned over to American troops in the event of a Mideast crisis, the Washington Post reported Monday.

Sadat said such a move would put the United States within reasonable striking distance of Iran where 53 U.S. hostages are being held.

However, in an interview with the newspaper, he said he ruled out any chance he would allow American combat troops or a permanent U.S. base on Egyptian soil.

"Why not train my people and put your planes here?" Sadat said. "Wherever you choose to come, send your crew instead of long logistic lines of communication."

"I am not asking for American bases or American soldiers. No, no," Sadat said. "I can raise a million soldier army. I have my pilots that have astonished American officials on the Phantom (jet fighter). Don't send me any American soldiers. Send me war gear," Sadat said.

Sadat said his position should not be compared to that of the deposed Shah of Iran who built up an arsenal of U.S. weaponry. "I am supported by 99.9 percent of the population," Sadat said. "If I'm less than this, I shall leave my post. Without that support I could have never taken a decision to say that I am ready to give the United States facilities to reach the (Persian) Gulf and to rescue the American hostages. I don't think the shah enjoyed 99 percent support at any time."

Sadat was interviewed by Washington Post Co. Chairman Katherine Graham and Newsweek magazine.

45 To Skip Olympics

MALPRACTICE SUIT RESUMES TUESDAY Plaintiff's attorneys will continue to present their case against three Sanford physicians Tuesday, when a medical malpractice trial begins again in Seminole County Circuit Court after a Memorial Day break.

The trial of a suit, brought against doctors Thomas Largen, Franklin Clontz and Nicholas Fastis, all charged by heirs of the late Judith Dowling Kelly, of Sanford, with responsibility for her death, is expected to run for at least another week and a half.

Rubin and Norma Greenfield, representatives of the estate of Mrs. Kelly, who died on Sept. 10, 1977, following surgery by Clontz earlier that month, at Seminole Memorial Hospital, charge Clontz, Largen, who operated on Mrs. Kelly in August 1976, and Fastis, a consultant on Mrs. Kelly's case, committed acts of medical malpractice which led to her death.

Defense attorneys say they will show the three doctors never varied from proper medical procedure in treating Mrs. Kelly for stomach problems.

HOUSE BURGLARIZED BY CLIMBING THIEVES Thieves who managed to climb through a 14-inch by 16-inch laundry chute, made off with close to $3,000 in cash and jewelry, checks plus an undetermined amount of silver from a Maitland home last week, deputies report.

Frederick Newton, Misty Way, Maitland, told deputies he returned home Sunday to discover a small metal box containing $2,000 cash, $800 traveler's checks and an unknown number of silver coins missing from his dresser drawer.

Deputies say the thieves, who struck between Wednesday and Sunday, managed to force a garage door, then climb through the laundry chute to the second floor.

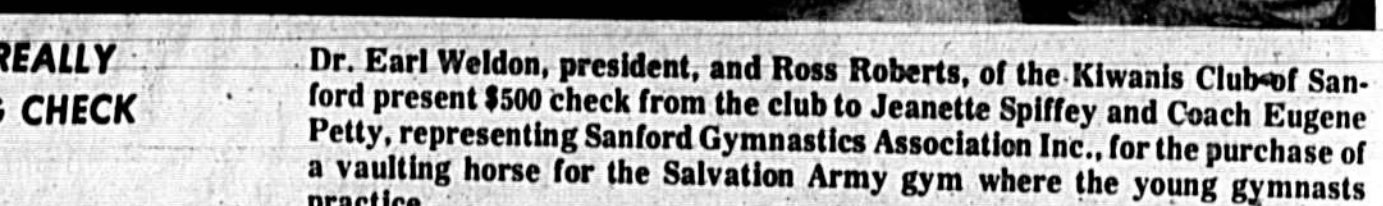

The thieves left behind other valuables, including 12 rifles, deputies say.

AIR CONDITIONER TAKEN A $600 air conditioner was stolen from a Maitland construction site this weekend, deputies say.

The air conditioner was taken from 2011 Nottingdale Road, from a garage, they report.

BURGLARS HIT CASSELLBERRY HOME Burglars, who broke into a Casselberry home this weekend, left with more than $1,000 in jewelry, deputies say.

The thieves pried open a sliding glass door at 3513 Miravale Drive, Casselberry, the home of William Sen, deputies say. They took jewelry worth more than $1,000, say deputies.

A REALLY BIG CHECK Dr. Earl Weldon, president, and Ross Roberts, of the Kiwanis Club of Sanford, presenting $500 check from the club to Jeanette Spiffey and Coach Eugene Petty, representing Sanford Gymnastics Association Inc., for the purchase of a vaulting horse for the Salvation Army gym where the young gymnasts practice.

Militants Make Threats

KWANGJU, South Korea (UPI) — South Korean troops and tanks inched toward the riot-torn provincial capital of Kwangju today in a bid to retake the vital southern city, but militants threatened to blow themselves up if the troops attacked.

A civic leader in the town, South Korea's fourth largest, estimated deaths in the nine-day anti-government disturbance at between 400 and 600. He said 4,000 to 6,000 other people were believed injured, many of whom will die soon due to lack of medical care in the besieged city.

As fears of a bloody showdown mounted, the South Korean Foreign Ministry Sunday advised about 20 American citizens and other foreign nationals in the provincial capital to evacuate.

Kwangju has been under a siege for nine days as part of an effort to choke off South Korea's worst civilian riots in 20 years. Residents suffered from short supplies of food and medical items and a giant rally was held to support the militants.

Army troops positioned on the southern and western outskirts of Kwangju moved forward a short distance during the night, torching off a series of sporadic shootings. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

At one point, troops accompanied by some tanks and armored personnel carriers advanced 1.2 miles into Kwangju in at least two locations. The troops ran up rooftops to take position. Other soldiers built machine-gun emplacements by piling up and bags. The troops also set up barbed wire barricades across the street.

NAACP Wants Commission To Study Cities' Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks plans to call on President Carter to appoint a top-level commission to consider the problems of the cities and head of Miami-style race riots.

Hooks, Health and Welfare Secretary Patricia Harris, and sociologist James Lane warned Sunday that the conditions that flared into riots in Miami last week exist in other American cities.

"There is a latent anger in black people in this country that is a result of centuries of repression and segregation," said Mrs. Harris on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program.

Nuke Protesters Prepare

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — Anti-nuclear protesters camped out today at the gates of Seabrook, one of the nation's most controversial nuclear power stations, in the third round of their Memorial Day weekend confrontation with police.

More than 1,000 anti-nuclear activists spent Saturday and Sunday skirmishing with hundreds of state and local police and New Hampshire National Guard soldiers, but failed in their announced goal of occupying the site of the Seabrook nuclear plant.

The three-day protest has resulted in at least 25 arrests and eight reported injuries.

In an effort to build the number of demonstrators, members of the Coalition for Direct Action passed out leaflets 40 miles away in Boston, urging sympathizers to show up today and "bring blocking materials."

Gov. Hugh Gallen, who kept blocking at the site, complained the "professionalism" of the police.

Major Oil Spill Averted

CAPE FEAR, N.C. (UPI) — Pumps hauled water from the Esso Portland and raised it about four feet higher in the water by dawn today, and fears of a major oil spill have abated since a hole in the tanker's hull was patched.

Workers today prepared to transfer some of the crippled tanker's 12.5 million gallons of crude oil cargo to a barge before a tug hauled the 640-foot vessel to Hampton Roads, Va., for repairs.

The barge, called the Interstate 71, could take as much as 70,000 barrels from the 300,000 barrels in the Esso Portland's hold, Coast Guard officials said only enough oil to make the ship buoyant was to be removed.

1 Dead At Violent Concert

BRUNSWICK, Maine (UPI) — One person was killed and four injured during violence that disrupted the eighth annual "Freaky Ball" rock concert. One man was charged with murder.

Apparently it got out of hand and numerous assaults were reported. Cumberland County Deputy Sheriff Tom Fahy said Sunday. "They started to go berserk, I guess."

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Death Protesters Mark Day

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A year ago Sunday, death penalty protesters stormed the office of Gov. Bob Graham, saying the execution of John Spinklink that day would open the floodgate to executions around the nation.

Spinklink, a 30-year-old California drifter convicted of killing a traveling companion in a Tallahassee motel room, died in Florida's electric chair May 28, 1979. Since then, there has been just one other execution — at Jesse Jabs in Nevada last October. And Bishop did not exhaust all of the court appeals available to avoid the death penalty.

'Upchuck' Suspect Held

MIAMI (UPI) — For months a mysterious caller plagued women patients in Miami area hospitals by dispensing unwanted medical advice.

He pretended to be a physician, was fluent in Spanish and English and always offered the same advice: he told the women to force themselves to vomit by sticking their fingers down their throats.

His calls earned him the nickname "Dr. Upchuck" and the ire of hospital officials. Authorities said they believe he may have made as many as 400 calls to 14 area hospitals.

But some diligent detective work by the telephone company and a cooperative patient put the "doctor" out of business.

"We've nailed him," Peter Ledon, Palmetto General Hospital security chief, said Sunday.

The doctor apparently is Andrew P. Carter III, a 20-year-old hardware store clerk. No charges have been filed against him, but his case will be presented to the state attorney's office on Tuesday, police said.

"He gave us a full statement on tape," said Hialeah Police Sgt. Dan Birkenstock.

Hawkins Opens Senate Bid

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Former Public Service Commission Chairman Paula Hawkins of Maitland launched her second bid for the U.S. Senate today, blasting incumbent Dick Stone as a "senile senile" owned by special interests.

Stone is the senator nobody knows, the silent senator," said Mrs. Hawkins, who will seek the Republican nomination for Democrat Stone's seat.

"But don't think he isn't working while he is in Washington. He is meeting with every special interest he can find in Ft. City and doing what he can to help them — always in return for campaign contributions," she said.

Eglin's At Peace — Not Harmony

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Peace, but not harmony, has been restored to the Eglin Air Force Base tent city where hundreds of Cuban refugees erupted in a violent, rock-throwing protest Saturday night against long delays in their release from the camp.

Air Force officials blamed the outbreak on 200 to 300 agitators among the nearly 4,400 refugees housed in the tent city. Hundreds of refugees battled Air Force security police for 45 minutes Saturday evening, hurling stones, pieces of wood and chunks of cement block. About nine people were hurt, none seriously.

Air Force police arrested 17 Cubans, who were jailed on the base on charges of assault and inciting to riot.

"There are maybe 200 to 300 active agitators inside the camp," said Capt. Roland Hahn, Air Force spokesman. "We know who they are. More important, now so do the Cubans."

"They (the Cubans) are embarrassed, upset, about the whole affair. They are doing everything they can to prevent it from happening again," Raab said.

The Air Force had reported Saturday that as many as 50 refugees scaled a 6-foot chain link fence and fled the tent city during the disturbance. All but a handful had been returned to the camp by Sunday afternoon. Raab said "if any got away, it was very, very few."

Raab said Okaloosa County sheriff's police and the FBI had been informed that "some Cuban refugees may be at large in the area," but added there was no active hunt underway. In the past, he said, a number of refugees have gone over the fence but later returned themselves in.

Raab said the only change made at the camp since the Saturday night episode was that "we have modified some of our security procedures. We have more people inside the camp on walking patrol."

Asked whether any of those under detention were suspected Castro agents or criminals, Raab said they were not, "but we may be aware of them as potential troublemakers."

Several hundred of the refugees announced Saturday night they were on a hunger strike and ripped up their meal cards, vowing they wouldn't eat until they were released. Other refugees reported Sunday that some of those housed in 15 of the 370, 30-man tents pitched on the Fort Walton Beach fairgrounds, still were refusing to eat.

The uprising touched off resentment of Americans both inside and outside the tent city.

"It was totally irresponsible," said Jack Glover, spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency. "Things like what happened tend to slow the system."

"We have done a lot for these people," said Maj. John Toner, Eglin AFB spokesman. "We have even fed them and now they are stoning our (people)."

Fort Walton Beach residents near the fair grounds site also reacted strongly.

"I've talked with a lot of neighbors and we want something done fast," said Michael Howard, who lives directly across from the tent city. "We want some real protection. We want the National Guard stationed there around the clock."

All of the 4,400 refugees in the camp have been there at least two weeks. Only about 150 a day are leaving for resettlement. About 3,000 of them are still awaiting security clearance.

"All 4,400 of them have only one question: 'Why can't I leave?' That is the sum total of their grievance," Raab said.

Sealift Captains Angered

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Angry commercial fishing boat captains worked today on a promised help-raising demonstration planned for Wednesday to protest Coast Guard seizures of their boats that participated in the Cuban refugee sealift.

About 250 boat skippers held a stormy meeting Sunday in a parking lot across from the Key West Kneel Club.

"If everybody gets together and raises enough hell, they've got to do something," said David Trujillo, owner of Key West's T and R Seafood Co.

Mike Cesaroni, mayor of Thunderbolt, Ga., near Savannah, said, "If they hit on us, we'll come back harder."

Since May 15, when President Carter's order to halt the sealift went into effect, the Coast Guard has been impounding every boat that has returned from Cuba with passengers. Prior to that date, federal officials red-tagged other craft they thought were engaged in sealift profiteering.

By midnight Sunday, the Coast Guard had seized 567 vessels for bringing undocumented aliens from Cuba to the United States. A total of 44 were impounded Sunday. They had brought 2,370 more Cubans to Key West.

Schultze: Jobless Could Rise, Recession Drop Deeper Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The recession may go deeper than the administration expects and unemployment may go higher than forecast, says President Carter's top economic adviser Charles Schultze.

Schultze said falling interest and mortgage rates will help drop "this massive bubble of inflation" below double figures sometime this summer and the rate could be 9 to 10 percent by the end of the year, compared to an annual rate of 14.4 percent for the first four months.

Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said there had been "both good and bad news — and the bad news is that things are moving down faster. No question about it. The good news is some corrective factors are working pretty quickly too."

Interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation" program Sunday, Schultze said "the economy has probably declined at a faster rate than we and other forecasters were thinking a couple of months ago ..."

"So on that basis, you'd have to say, yes, things are moving down somewhat faster and the recession would be somewhat larger than we had figured."

Answering a question, Schultze said he wasn't prepared to make an official forecast but "yes, unemployment could be somewhat higher than we had forecast, higher than 7 1/2 percent."

Speaking of inflation, Schultze said, "During the second half of this year, something like this summer, we have a very good chance of seeing inflation fall below double digits."

But he warned that the administration's oil import fee — which would raise gasoline prices 10 cents a gallon if the courts and Congress allow it to take full effect — will result in a "one-time pop-up" increase in the Consumer Price Index in the month it is announced.

The economic expert conceded the import fee and accompanying gasoline tax face strong opposition in Congress, but he said the administration is firm in its view that this is a good and desirable and necessary measure and we are doing everything we can to get it."

Schultze said he foresaw no tax cuts this year, but he said, "Once inflation is moving down ... next year, as the president has indicated, we deserve and need and should have a tax cut."

Mount St. Helens, Terrible Mystery

Were Mount St. Helens blowing its top in some remote Pacific island, instead of in the state of Washington, the natives would undoubtedly interpret it as a scolding from angry gods for their misdeeds.

But we Americans are tortured by no such primitive fears. We know volcanoes are caused by upwelling molten material from deep within the lithosphere that breaks through the weakened plates along the overriding edge of the subduction zones. We know too that 75 percent of the world's 850 active volcanoes lie within the "Ring of Fire," a zone of moving earth plates running along the west coast of the Americas and around the east coast of Asia from Siberia to New Zealand.

We know all that, and yet who is so devoid of superstition — call it imagination — as to dismiss this exploding "Act of God" as being without some meaning in a year already brimming with mishaps, trouble and disturbing portents? And who cannot with reverence view the primordial fury of this planet's fiery core, linking the present with Creation in a blast unparalleled in the recorded history of the United States?

Mount St. Helens burped and rumbled for weeks as though trying to warn the curious and heedless to beware and begone. Despite extensive scientific monitoring, this volcano blew up without immediate notice they way volcanoes are wont to do. The recent explosion was heard more than 200 miles away and the nuclear-like cloud that belched forth began scattering a blanket of ashes in an eastward sweep across the United States. Much of Washington and some areas in neighboring Idaho, Montana and Wyoming are partially paralyzed by the rain of ashes that turned day into night. A truly mindboggling thing.

We know from wide experience following other volcanic eruptions that we can expect brilliant sunrises and sunsets from the dust in the atmosphere and perhaps a temporary cooling because of the interruption with the sun's rays.

But finally we humans, looking out upon such a terrible mystery, must seek solace in reflection. Modern man is as humbled by cataclysms as were the ancient primitives — in differing ways, but no less. Almost like a biblical admonition we are bade in our puniness and with all our getting to get understanding.

The Power's On

An organization called Clean World International has been meeting in Washington, D.C., and touring some areas of this country in connection with the aims of the group.

Although the main purpose of the 25-nation body would seem to bear on reducing litter, another, perhaps more important, facet of their work has come to light.

It was reported that Denmark is converting 60 percent of its municipal wastes to energy development. Switzerland boasts a 40 percent figure in this category and The Netherlands and Sweden offer a 30 percent conversion.

The United States figure in this effort is about 1 percent. That would appear to leave us with a long way to go to catch up with our foreign counterparts.

We would applaud further, more vigorous steps in this direction.

Korea Comes To Full Stop

It seemed too good to be true — and it was. To the surprise of almost everyone following the assassination of South Korean President Park Chung Hee last October, the country, far from succumbing to a period of political chaos, has instead emerged with the sudden removal of the firm hand in which it had been held for almost 20 years and, second, appeared to be making real progress toward replacing Park's military dictatorship with a genuinely democratic system.

True, a mini-coup two months later concentrated power in the hands of a group of generals of the Park mold. But the civilian, Choi Kyu Hahn, who had succeeded Park as president, remained in office, and the drafting of a new constitution and preparations for elections went ahead.

So did pressure, largely from the urban student population, for progress on democratization. And so did unrest among workers pinched by inflation and an economic slowdown and already resentful that not enough of the benefits of the phenomenal growth of recent years had trickled down to their level.

Since the first of the year, South Korea's fragile political equilibrium had been shaken by strikes, sit-ins and, most recently, student rioting. Sargically, the military initially resisted the temptation to crack down.

It has now yielded. Nationwide martial law is in effect, jails are full and for all effective purposes the military is where it was under Park — totally subdued.

Self-government in the three decades of South Korea's existence has been a lot like Seoul traffic during the rush hour — all starts and stops, mostly the latter. One of the hall countries resulting from the inability of the Western allies and the Soviets to settle accounts after World War II, it is going to a fairly good start under a genuine Father of His Country — Syngman Rhee, a revered scholar and statesman who for decades in exile had carried the torch of Korea's independence from his Japanese occupiers.

Rhee, however, proved to be a stern and eventually hardly autocratic father. The country's recovery from the devastation of the North Korean invasion led to pressure for more political freedom and, eventually, student demonstrations strongly reminiscent of the latest unrest. Rhee was ousted in 1960 and South Korea plunged into democracy.

But not for long. A year later, a coup brought a military oligarchy to power. Eventually, Park Chung Hee emerged as the dominant figure to preside over a military dictatorship that coincided with an economic explosion.

That economic growth, appreciated by the overwhelming majority of South Koreans, was one of Park's greatest political assets, meeting criticism and pressure for greater freedom. When he finally fell, it was not to a popular uprising but as the target of a fellow officer fearful of losing his share of power.

Iranians Trained In U.S. After Hostages

WASHINGTON — Confidential Pentagon documents show that hundreds of Iranians were still getting military training in the United States more than five months after the U.S. hostages were seized in Tehran — in spite of a three-week ban on the aborted rescue mission.

The presence of Iranian military trainees was made public when they finally sent home in April after President Carter broke diplomatic relations with Iran. But the extent of the training program was carefully withheld from the public. The secrecy raises questions about the Carter administration's strangely ambiguous handling of the Iranian crisis.

One Defense Department report dated March 1980, notes that, as of that month, 213 Iranian nationals were attending Air Force and Navy schools. Another 218 Iranian midshipmen were attending U.S. universities, and 109 Iranian civilians were enrolled in ROTC units at various U.S. high schools and colleges.

Of the Iranians attending Air Force and Navy schools, the Pentagon documents state: "The majority of these students were enrolled in pilot and navigator training. Thus, less than a month before the

The report on the numbers of crimes committed by Seminole County youths released last year contains nothing but statistics — no explanation, no solution, no alternative. Circuit Judge Dornick says this is by design. The Seminole Youth Planning Council is still at least a year off from offering any kind of conclusion. Now it is just trying to gather enough data to do a first annual plan to serve county youth will be based on something more than guesswork.

Sally and the organization he heads are working towards what they believe will be one of the first fully researched reports on the problem minors actually face in Seminole, both those who break the law and those left dependent on the government for services which normally might come from the family.

Right now, no one is doing any planning, he says, people are just rushing out to offer solutions without understanding the problem they are trying to solve.

One of the things Sally and the researchers discovered working on the survey are problems with Health and Rehabilitative Services records. Throughout the report, breaking down juvenile crimes by age, sex, race and community, there are categories for "other," data which was lost or never filed by the people responsible for writing reports on each child in trouble.

Eighty of about 1,200 cards were missing from the study. Each minor handed by HRS is supposed to get a "master card." Apparently a number of them, who might be in need of or undergoing some kind of punishment or therapy, just seem to be missing from the files.

Other cards are missing basic information, enough cards that some data in the report had to be labeled questionable by its authors.

Sally, who since 1974 has been involved with family and youth court matters, says he was happily surprised to realize only 1,200 children faced the court system last year. "It feels like 12,000" to people who work in the juvenile justice system, he said.

What Reagan Will Do

In the May issue of "Fortune" magazine, Donald D. Holt indulges in a bit of informed speculation about what Reagan would really do as president.

Holt bases his forecast on Reagan's record as a governor, on interviews with Reagan and his current aides, and on public statements by the candidate. Holt's conclusions are on the whole persuasive; and, as one who worked with Reagan during his 1968 presidential bid, I would like to comment on them.

Holt believes that Reagan, a former New Dealer, would begin his administration with 100 days of furious activity, attempting major reforms and changes of policy direction right at the start.

What would be the substance of the major Reagan initiatives? Reagan is not a fiscal pickpocket or a pincher-and-squeezer. He thinks of cost-cutting as a chief executive officer would: major reductions in force, consolidation of function, elimination of whole departments.

In his first 48 hours, Reagan would, Holt thinks, freeze all federal hiring by executive order. Next, he would send to Congress a tax package based on Kemp-Roth, which would cut personal tax rates by 30 percent over a three-year period; would be a new design; would deploy the neutron warhead in Europe; would start to dismantle the Departments of Energy and Education; would send up legislation transferring federal welfare programs to the states; and would request a substantial defense appropriation augmenting the Carter budget for Fiscal Year 1981.

Based on Reagan's record, Holt views him as a pragmatic conservative who is not wedded to this or that detail but who is committed to an overall policy direction. Reagan has always been ready to negotiate an issue and has sometimes changed his mind. He would also depend for implementing his programs on experienced Washington hands who know how to deal with Congress.

The only question concerns toughness. Reagan is a very nice, even gentle person; he dislikes giving personal pain. That's not a bad thing, however, is going to involve a reach crunch.

Rutherford Races To Third Indy 500 Title

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The 1980 Indianapolis 500 may be remembered as the year of the "turtle" but in the end, it was the rabbit who came away with the coveted first prize.

Pole-sitter Johnny Rutherford won his third Indy title in the 6th annual racing spectacle, overcoming 13 yellow flags in his Pensull Chaparral to claim a prize estimated at around $250,000.

His average speed was only 142.83 miles per hour, the slowest in 18 years, but it was good enough for a comfortable win over second-place Tom Sneva.

Sneva and third-place finisher Gary Bettenhausen came from the last and next-to-last places on the starting grid, respectively, in the 3-hour, 20-minute race witnessed by more than 300,000 fans.

While they were working their way up through the repeated caution flags, such front-row drivers as former champions Mario Andretti and Bobby Unser were forced out because of engine problems.

The two Roger Penske teamsters were among 10 different leaders of the race held on a sand-drenched, warm afternoon.

Rutherford, who won in 1974 and 1976 and had earned the pole with a qualifying speed of 182.250 mph, said he had few problems with his "ground effects" Chaparral.

"Things ran pretty much as we expected except for the middle of the race," said the 32-year-old Fort Worth, Texas native. "I (the car) does the job I ask of it. It may be two or three years ahead of its time."

A key decision by Rutherford's crew also led to the victory.

He brought his Chaparral Corvair on lap 169, allowing defending champ Rick Mears to take the lead. After a 17th-second pit stop, Rutherford was out, knowing Mears would have to follow him into the pits.

Mears came in nine laps later what he hoped to be his last stop. But tire trouble on the 183rd lap forced a second costly stop, dooming Mears to a fifth-place finish.

Former champ Gordon Johncock was fourth. Pancho Carter was sixth, Danny Evans seventh and Tom Bigelow eighth as a total of 13 drivers were still running when Rutherford received the checkered flag.

The total of 56 minutes and 19 seconds of yellow lights, along with the lowered 1000 boost for turbocharged engines — which was down to 15 inches of manifold pressure from the unlimited boost allowed a few years ago — combined for the lowest average speed since Roger Ward's 140.283 mph in 1962.

While Rutherford celebrated the victory, others were not pleased with the deliberate pace of the race. Four-time winner A.J. Foyt, the last driver to go out on the 172nd lap who wound up 14th, blasted the slow pace.

"The cars were running like turtles with 48-inch boots," Foyt said. "This is ridiculous. You can't wait for a long time for the worst mishap of the day did involve two rookies, Bill Whittington and Dick Ferguson. Whittington, who along with his brother Don won the 1973 24-hour LeMans race, suffered an ankle fracture when he hit Ferguson's car on the 10th lap. Ferguson suffered a fractured skull on the 10th lap.

Graham Outduels Watson At Dublin

DUBLIN, Ohio (UPI)—David Graham made the set of clubs he used to win the 1960 Memorial Tournament Sunday, winning the PGA Championship last year, made David

Graham, who turned 34 Friday, outduels the PGA tour's hottest gun — defending champion Tom Watson — around the stretch Sunday to capture the fifth Memorial and its $55,000 first prize.

Graham, who also designs and makes clubs, rolled in a 20-foot downhill putt on the final hole to snap a deadlock with Watson, who has already won five tour events this year and, with the addition of Sunday's $32,400 second-place prize, has amassed $54,125.

Graham's 2-under-par 70 in the final round on the treacherous Muirfield Village Golf Course gave him a 72-hole score of 280, breaking by one stroke the tournament record previously held by host Jack Nicklaus. Watson finished with a 71.

"Winning the PGA changed me as a person," said Graham, referring to his sudden-death victory over Ben Crenshaw last summer at Oakland Hills.

"The PGA made me realize maybe I was underestimating myself. I didn't win that with shocking. I won it with composure. Now I'm more relaxed."

Graham, five-under at the time and playing in the same group as Watson, then rolled in a 20-foot eagle putt right in front of the three-line player of the year. And, when Watson bogeyed the 17th with a threeputt, it set up the dramatic final hole.

Both hit their second shots to the back of the green. After playing partner Bob Gilder missed his putt, also from above the pin, Graham calmly rolled his in. Watson missed and it was all over.

"I didn't lose this golf tournament," said Watson. "David won. He is a very deserving champion. Anytime you go 3-under-par the last four holes when you have a chance to win, you're getting your ball."

Gilder, who led by one shot going into the final round, bogeyed the first hole and triple-bogeyed the second and sank to a 10-over 82, dropping him all the way to a tie for 15th place.

Young Corning Champ
CORNING, N.Y. (UPI)—She shot her worst round of the tournament, a 2-over-par 74, but Donna Caponi Young said she had nothing to be ashamed of.

"I have nothing to be embarrassed about," said Young, who managed to hang on for a two-stroke victory Sunday over surprising rookie Myra Van Housen in the $100,000 LPGA Corning Classic. "I played great for three days."

Her first 13 holes, however, included two bogeys and a double-bogey.

Young, 35, who finished with a 7-under-par 281, was confident she'd win the 72-hole event after she parred the very first hole — a 60-yard, par-4 dogleg right which she had bogeyed twice and double-bogeyed once in her previous three rounds.

"I said to myself I I parred that one, I'd win," she said.

Troy State Drops Mocs
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—Mike Ruller and Anthony Pelliccione hit a pair of home runs Sunday to lead Troy State 6-3 to victory over Florida Southern in the second round of the NCAA Division II baseball championship.

Troy State, 20-11, will play New Haven University of Connecticut Monday in the third round. Florida Southern, which was eliminated from the tournament with the loss, dropped to 45-1.

Ruller, a junior outfielder, knocked in his home run in the second inning and the Trojans took the lead for good on Pelliccione's homer in the third.

Woman's Club Hosts FFWC District II Workshop

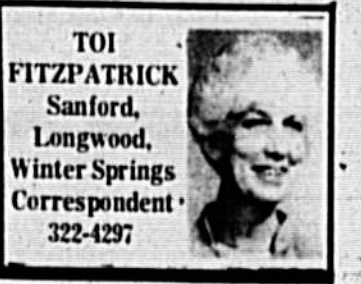

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs (FFWC) District VII Workshop was held at the Sanford Woman's Club Thursday, from 9:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. There were 150 clubwomen who attended this workshop.

This is a meeting of the presidents and delegates from the 34 clubs, 22 senior and 12 junior, from District VII.

The club was also presented the newly elected members a chance to meet with other club leaders and plan their club activities for the upcoming year.

Mrs. Leland Giddens, past District VII Director, presented the gavel to Mrs. M.E. (Vida) Smith, the District VII Director for 1980-82, from Sanford, who conducted the business meeting.

During the morning, there were three mini buzz sessions: one by Giddens, another by Mrs. Leslie Pence, Jr., District Director of Junior projects who had a pot pourri session, and Mrs. Walter Gielow, president of the Sanford club, conducted one on "How to Select a CIP Project."

Numerous awards were made for outstanding achievements in the many areas covered by the club activities of these women.

Among the awards the club received was a citation presented by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to the Woman's Club of Sanford for the best FFWC Promoter Awards Program during 1978-80. The citation was signed by the FFWC president, Mrs. A.M. Quint.

The club was also presented a decorative $25 money from Mrs. Giddens for the best "communications" in the district.

standing centerpiece of beautiful roses at the head table, given by Mrs. Gielow, were presented to Mrs. Smith. A luncheon was catered and served by Mrs. Richard Fowler, newly elected president of the Sanford Woman's Club, and the Board of Managers who were the hostesses for this meeting.

Among those attending were Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, Sanford, and Mrs. A.T. McKay, Orlando, both past presidents of the FFWC, 17 FFWC chairman; five FFWC chairmen; and delegates and club presidents in the district.

Approximately 22 members of the Episcopium Sigma Omicron met at the home of Mrs. Estelle Davis in Sanford.

Mrs. Phillip "Bunny" Logan gave a review of the book, "SISSY" by Ralph Martin. This is a story of Eleanor Roosevelt who was the editor and publisher of a Washington newspaper.

The ESO has received recognition from the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs for its large print books for the Sanford Branch of the Seminole County Library.

They now have three of these books on order and will make a formal presentation to the library when they arrive.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. Allison George, the incoming chairperson, presented Mrs. Logan with a gardenia and a tennis player figurine made out of pewter, in appreciation of the leadership she has given the ESO while chairman.

Mrs. George Johnson, co-hostess, assisted Mrs. Davis with the preparation and serving of the refreshments.

Mr. W.U. "Bill" Class and wife Jackie, just returned from a trip to Pompano to visit her mother, Mrs. Billy Stanick.

The riots in Miami were at their height while they were there and the authorities were advising the Pompano residents not to go into Dade County after dark, even though the curfew was in effect in Miami, not in all of Dade County. There were no problems in Pompano.

The Seminole County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at the Sanford Garden Club in Sanford at 10 a.m. May 27. There will be a covered dish luncheon. The members of the Sanford Garden Club will be the hostesses for the day.

Everyone will have another opportunity to enjoy "The Gospel Truth." The Sanford Seminole Ballet Guild is giving a benefit performance Friday, at 8 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

Admission will be $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. All proceeds will go to the Donald McDonald House in Gainesville.

Move Over; World's Worst Job Is Being A Stepmother

DEAR ABBY: I was married Jim last year. I am a divorcee with a daughter, 10 and a son, 7. Jim was also divorced, with two sons, 9 and 12. Jim's ex-wife has remarried and his children live with their mother, but we have them on weekends and school vacations.

Abby, being a stepmother presents so many problems, I don't know where to begin. First there's the problem of discipline. I've always been very strict with my own children, but when I married Jim, I wanted so much for his children to like me. I started off treating them more like a mother." Let me amend that. The toughest job in the world is being a stepmother!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a 12-year-old son and a 10-year-old daughter. My husband works for a company that has a lot of overtime pay. I'm a stay-at-home mom. I'm a stepmother. I'm a stepmother. I'm a stepmother.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing a paper on modern marriage and need your input. Judging from the letters you get, what would you say is the most common complaint women have about their husbands? Also, what is the most common complaint men have about their wives?

DEAR MADISON: The wives' most common complaint is "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

The husbands' "She nags me."

DEAR ABBY: I am writing a paper on modern marriage and need your input. Judging from the letters you get, what would you say is the most common complaint women have about their husbands? Also, what is the most common complaint men have about their wives?

Sesame Park Slated

LANGHOREN, Pa. (UPI) — The creators of the television program Sesame Street, who believe learning should be painless and fun, are using this philosophy in another form of children's entertainment — the amusement park.

Children's Television Workshop is hiding lessons throughout an innovative play park, called Sesame Place, scheduled to open in mid-July in Langhorne, Bucks County, Pa.

Unlike conventional amusement parks, roller coasters and merry-go-rounds will be missing from Sesame Place, which instead will have a pavilion filled with direct educational computer games.

Scattered about the 1.5-acre park will also be 60 outdoor play pieces for jumping, crawling, climbing, driving, balancing and bouncing, as well as hands-on science exhibits of gears, pulleys, windmills, water pumps and water wheels.

"It's the same theme they use on Sesame Street," says Sandra Harris, Sesame Place manager of educational programs. "You take something educational and give it in a form of entertainment."

County To Examine 6 'Disadvantaged Communities'

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission today unanimously approved plans for sending a state grant to upgrade information about six neighborhoods in the county which have been defined as disadvantaged communities.

The Department of County Development is recommending that the grant be used to hire two graduate students in planning who will gather information on the target areas and who will identify resources available to the target communities, according to County Planner Woody Price.

The resources, Price said, are in the form of grants, loans and foundation gifts that the county may not have used in the past.

The target communities have been designated as Neighborhood Strategy Areas in the county's Community Development Block Grant Program. They are: Bookertown, a small rural community consisting of approximately 118 dwelling units; Lockhart's, a small unincorporated community just west of Sanford consisting of approximately 226 dwelling units; Midway, a community east of Sanford consisting of approximately 630 dwelling units; Winwood, a community of approximately 350 dwelling units which is in the vicinity of State Road 436 and County 427 and which is contiguous to the City of Altamonte Springs; Jamestown, a community southeast of Oviedo on State Road 426 consisting of approximately 69 dwelling units, and Johnson Hill, a community on the eastern side of Oviedo, part of which is in the city and part in the unincorporated area to the east consisting of approximately 287 dwelling units. These areas are populated predominantly by low income blacks.

Price said less than $6,000 will be spent on the project. The funds, he said, have already been granted from the Local Government Comprehensive Planning Act Financial Assistance Fund of the state of Florida.

"The benefit of the program," Price said, "is that it will be the first time we will be able to thoroughly assess communities' needs and capabilities in those areas."

"And as situations arise, we'll have a better idea how we can best take care of it."

Price said the graduate students will be gathering data on such things as water and sewer service, roads and pavement, drainage conditions, street lighting, school facilities, solid waste disposal, police and fire protection and housing problems among other things.

"He said information gathered will not be of a personal nature."

He emphasized that the program will involve "a high level of local citizen participation."

"The program will allow us to take a more anticipatory posture," he added, "and less of a reactionary one."

Lena Burden, 716 Meadow St., hitches a ride across the pool with her pet goose, Baby. The 3-year-old goose has been swimming with the family for only a few weeks but seems to enjoy the company. "He'll pull you across the pool," said Mrs. Burden. "You don't have to swim." The Burdens also have chickens and Baby helps with the egg gathering, said Mrs. Burden. He follows her into the hen house and brings out any eggs she happens to miss.

Official Presents Bleak Outlook On Road Construction

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The future of road construction in Florida looked bleak today as state Department of Transportation District Engineer Bill Benedict reported that construction costs are running double anticipated revenues.

Gov. Bob Graham believes he has a solution to the problem — increased taxes. Neither the taxes nor the method of allocating the resulting revenues may sit well with Seminole County citizens and officials.

Benedict displayed graphs and charts showing the anticipated decline in gas tax revenues because of conservation and the increase in road construction costs from inflation at a meeting of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's roads and bridges committee.

He showed that road construction which cost $100 in 1967 will cost $557 in 1982. Because of declining revenues and increased costs, Benedict said some road projects have been delayed several years.

He cited as an example the planned six-lane State Road 436 from Boston Avenue to Douglas Road and the modifications to the 436-Interstate 4 interchange, originally scheduled for the 1980-81 year. It now has been rescheduled to the 1982-83 year. Construction costs from the delay will accelerate from $2.7 million to $4.3 million, Benedict said.

Governor Graham is recommending that the Legislature, during its current session ending June 6, implement the following program to increase revenues for the state Department of Transportation:

—Allocate $25 million from general revenue to strengthen the economy of the state and conserve energy.

—Of the $25 million, $8.5 million would be used for transportation system efficiency measures, such as turning lanes, synchronized signal systems, high occupancy vehicle lanes (HOV), one-way street pairs and park and ride lots.

—Direct new revenues to be used to establish a revolving fund to make large-scale purchases of buses and $7 million would be used for transportation improvements to aid economic development by building access roads for new industry.

—Direct new revenues to preserve the highway system through maintenance, repair and reconstruction programs.

—Increase revenues by doubling the motor vehicle license fees on heavy truck-trailers and tying these taxes to future increases in road construction prices. Revenue from this source — an estimated $17.2 million — would be placed in the state transportation trust fund in 1980-81.

Benedict said a recent state study shows that large trucks are not paying their proportionate share of the cost. He said in the 12 southern states the average license fee is $175 while Florida truckers are paying $400.

—Levy a motor fuel use tax on certain privately owned vehicles, primarily trucks and buses which operate on Florida's highways yet do not purchase taxable fuel within the state equal to the amount of fuel consumed while using local highways.

Benedict said currently 44 states have this kind of tax. He cited the method used to allocate to Seminole County $112,234 would be allocated to the seven cities of Seminole County and $48,935 would be allocated to the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) for Seminole County.

The MPO is an organization whose members are appointed by the governor from locally elected officials. The composition of the MPO is according to population. Orlando-Orange County currently dominates the MPO.

In answer to a question, Benedict said it is possible the funds allocated to the MPO for Seminole County could be diverted by MPO to Orange County or other out-of-Seminole County projects.

Iran Assembly To Ask Ransom?

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — On the eve of the opening of Iran's new parliament, the newspaper of the leading Islamic Republic Party hinted today the assembly would vote to demand compensation from the United States for the release of the 53 American hostages.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has charged the parliament, or Majlis, with deciding the fate of the hostages and the Islamic Republic newspaper also said, "But, would the Majlis be prepared to free these spies (hostages) without putting them on trial?"

Arriving in Athens, Greece, from a fact-finding mission to Iran, Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky today warned the United States additional international pressure against Iran only would prolong the 205-day crisis.

The Islamic Republic, official newspaper of the Islamic Republic Party, which holds a majority of the seats in the parliament, said the Majlis would demand compensation for 25 years of American domination and all-round destruction of Iran.

"Of course, the amount of such compensation and other conditions must be set by the Majlis," the newspaper said.

PROUD TO FLY THE FLAG

Eat More Calories To Increase Weight

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — So frequently I read about reducing. What I want to know is how can I put on weight? I'm 85 and I weigh 110 pounds. When I was 45 years old I weighed more than 140. My doctor had me in a hospital for a week to check on my weight loss. At the end of testing, he found nothing wrong with me. What do I have to do to put on weight?

DEAR READER — The same laws apply to putting on weight as apply to losing weight. Simply stated, you probably need to consume more calories than you're getting in your diet.

Once calorie-containing food is swallowed, there are only certain things that can happen to it. One is that it may not be absorbed. You see this with people who have diseases that interfere with absorption and cause diarrhea-type illnesses. That can be one explanation for a person eating a normal diet and not gaining weight.

The second is that absorption may be normal and you get all of the calories into the body but you lose the calories through the urine. This occurs in a diabetic who's losing sugar in the urine. That's why an advanced diabetic may lose weight whereas an early diabetic may be overweight.

But if you absorb all the calories in your food and you are not losing them through the urine, then the body has to process them. It can use the calories to maintain your body tissues such as your muscle mass and to form new enzymes and hormones if they're needed for the body. If you consume enough calories and proteins for this purpose, then you should not lose weight. If you eat more calories than you need for this purpose, these calories will be stored as fat and you will start to develop fat deposits on the

South Korean Commandos Recapture Rebellious City

KWANGJU, South Korea (UPI) — Elite commandos backed by tanks and armored vehicles recaptured the provincial capital of Kwangju today in fierce fighting that ended South Korea's most violent insurrection since the Korean War. Official sources said 13 rebels and four troops were killed.

Officials had earlier said only one soldier was killed in the operation. It was believed that the three other deaths were the result of the fighting.

The latest death toll reported by official sources brings to 144 the number of people confirmed killed in the uprising during which militant students and citizens controlled the city of 800,000 people for nine days.
