Lauderdale she was handed this king-sized ticket as her vehicle became number 2,000,000 to enter the Sunshine State Parkway. The special ticket measured 24 inches by 11 inches or nine times the size of the regular toll ticket.

Services will be held at the church at the usual hours.

THE FOUR HORSEMEN

HOLLYWOOD — Spike Jones wants four girls to make a quartet—a real pint-sized quartet. He wants Jacky Willie Shoemaker, Eddie Arango, Johnny Longdon and George Tashchich to sing on his TV show. They recently made a big hit at a dinner for the Johnny's Guild, which would receive any funds raised from appearing on bandleader Jones' show.

Keeping Comfortable During Summer Heat

A LITTLE summer sense will help you ride out this summer's heat waves in a fairly comfortable manner.

Loose-fitting clothes, for example, will feel much better than tight-fitting garments. Since light colors reflect the sun, they help ward off the heat.

And I think you men will find that an absorbent undershirt will be cooler than no undershirt at all.

Balanced Diet Necessary

A balanced diet is just as important in the summer as any other time of the year. But during hot spells cold foods often are more appealing and appetizing than hot.

So, whether your meals are hot or cold, make sure they include enough milk, eggs, meat, fish and cheese. Unless your doctor cautions you against it, a little extra salt is advisable. You lose salt through perspiration. And salt is important to your body's economy.

Drink Water

Drink plenty of water, too. If you don't, you might become dehydrated.

Keep the House Cool

While an air conditioner is fine for your home, there are other ways to keep the house cool. You will need a good night's sleep, so keep the shades drawn in your bedroom throughout the day.

After the sun has set, open the windows at both the top and the bottom. If the room has windows in two walls, open one at the bottom and the other at the top.

A fan will help, too. Point it toward the open window to blow the hot air outside.

Disability Freeze

Colonel Byron R. Patton, district manager of the social security office serving Central Florida declared today that a long-disabled worker now has until the beginning of July 1958 to file an application for the "disability freeze" and still have his social security earnings record protected as of the date he actually became disabled. He said also that the law now permits a veteran to receive compensation from the Veterans Administration for service-connected disability without any reduction in the amount of his disability insurance under social security. These changes, significant to persons who have been disabled for some years and to those with service-connected disability, became effective when President Eisenhower signed P. L. 104.

The purpose of the "disability freeze" is to prevent those years during which a severe and indefinite disability keeps a person out of work from counting against him on eligibility for benefits or on the amount of his benefits. A person cannot qualify for the "freeze" unless, in addition to meeting disability requirements, he has worked for at least five years under social security and for about 1 1/2 years during the 3-year period just before his disability began.

Until the recent change in the law, a period of disability could not be determined to have begun earlier than 12 months before application for the freeze, unless the application was made before the end of June 1957. For this reason, a disabled person who failed to make his claim before the end of June, and who had become disabled before January 1, 1955, would have lost his right to have his social security record frozen because he could not possibly meet the work requirements. Moreover, without the "freeze" he might have lost future rights to any special security benefits for himself or his family, because at the time he died or becomes 65 he may not have the required work credit. The law, as now amended, gives those who were disabled before January 1, 1955, until June 30, 1958, to file an application for the disability freeze to protect their rights to old-age, survivors, or disability insurance.

The amendment relating to the disabled veterans modified the "offset" provision in the law so that a social security disability insurance benefit will not be reduced because of compensation payable to a veteran by the Veterans Administration for his service-connected disability. Colonel Patton pointed out that the offset continues to apply in cases involving veterans' pensions which are paid on account of non-service-connected disability.

feet from the ground and all shrubs to be kept trimmed to a height not to exceed three feet.

Compliance to the ordinance was contained in the section which read "Provision is made for the street superintendent to give 30 days notice to do the trimming and, if not complied with, the city may go in and do the work."

Commissioner Earl Higginbotham said that "it isn't a question of trimming—it is a question of removing."

City Manager Knowles revealed that the Sanford Police Department has been serving notice on homeowners that the ordinances of the city are being violated and requesting that they comply.

"All the shrubbery in town isn't worth the life of one child—and we've had that happen," said Commissioner Higginbotham.

City Attorney William C. Hutchison commented that "there are two ways to approach the problem—go out and start chopping or enforce the ordinance by a fine of $200 or 30 days in jail."

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners went on record "giving the Jaycees every cooperation possible, along with the Sanford Police Department and the citizens of Sanford, in the eliminating of low hanging branches, shrubbery at street corners, and along parkways. And calling on the newspapers to give prominent space in asking that these hazards be eliminated at the earliest possible date.

"We feel," the approved motion read, "that a 30-day period is ample for citizens to correct these hazardous situations."

Miss Shelby Morgan, sponsored by the Sanford Elder Club in Girls' State in Tallahassee, and Miss Nancy Richards, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, were special guests at the picnic meeting of the club which was held at the lakehouse home of Mrs. R. M. Bell last night.

Miss Richards was elected to the House of Representatives at Girls' State while Miss Morgan was chosen as secretary. Another honor won by Miss Richards was her election to the City Commission and selection as mayor of her 'imaginary city'.

Police Chief Roy G. Williams said this morning that members of his department are noting places where violations of the city ordinances occur. Reports are being made of these to the City Manager's Office, he said.

The girls' talk followed a steak dinner which was charcolbroiled in the picnic area adjoining the Ball home on Crystal Lake. Mrs. D. K. McNab presided over a short business session following the supper.

The drive to eliminate shrubbery and low hanging limbs from the parkways of the City of Sanford began Monday night when the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce presented a resolution adopted at an earlier meeting requesting that the city enact the necessary ordinance.

Mystery Witness Calls Off Plans To Face Wedler

Corrigan To Question Confessor

DELAND Fla. (U. P.) — The off-again, on-again revival of the Maryland Sheppard murder case hit one snag today but was kept alive by an attorney and a group of private investigators.

A merchant seaman who turned up as a 'mystery witness' in the case called off plans to fly here to confront Donald J. Wedler, 25, the Florida convict who claims he might have killed Mrs. Sheppard in her suburban Cleveland home in 1954.

But the seaman, Ernest J. Kofolias, 32, now in Waterloo, Iowa, stuck fast to his identification of Wedler as a bloodstained motorist who gave him a ride near the murder scene some 24 hours after the slaying. He hinted he may make the trip to Deland later.

Attorney William J. Corrigan said he would 'drive down to Deland to have a talk' with Wedler, whom he described as the 'type of man I always thought killed Marilyn Sheppard.'

Corrigan discounted statements by Cleveland officials, who dismissed Wedler's story as phony after talking to him.

A group of unofficial investigators hinted that they, too, might continue an investigation of the Sheppard murder.

Kofolias said mystery writer Eric Stanley Gardner, who heads the unofficial group, telephoned him from New York to say he was interested in the seaman's story.

'He told me to sit back in my chair and try to remember every little incident,' Kofolias said.

A face-to-face meeting between Kofolias and Wedler in the Volusia County jail here with permission of Sheriff Rodney Thurby appeared to be possibly the last hope of freeing Sheppard as the murderer of his wife.

Big Interest Shown In Waterways Group

It is amazing what interest has been created all over the country in the creating of a Waterways Development of Florida committee. John Kuder, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce said this morning.

'I am receiving letters from all over the country expressing interest,' he said as he cited a letter received this morning from the American Yachtmen's Association of Annapolis, Md.

Already the two waterways organizations who have expressed interest in the development of waterways in Florida are asking that we join them to be in all of the states with a common interest.

Everette Wilkey, Managing Director of the Mississippi Valley Association with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo. has asked us to join them, said Kuder.

J. H. Coppedge, president of the Atlantic Gulf Intra-coastal Waterways Association, who is also a member of the Development of Florida Waterways committee from the Fifth District, is interested in bringing all of the organizations together for a tremendous force for the development of waterways, Kuder said.

'It's the biggest thing that could have happened in Florida,' Kuder said this morning.

The committee of six men appointed by Gov. LeRoy Collins, along with a seventh member of the group yet to be named will meet in Orlando at the Argosy Hotel on Aug. 1 at 11 a. m. for the discussion plans for the development of Florida waterways.

The movement has been spearheaded by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce to organize waterways enthusiasts of Florida with its first meeting held in Tallahassee on July 16.

Local Red Cross Offers Jr. Life Saving Course

A junior life saving course will be offered by the Seminole County Chapter, American Red Cross, beginning tomorrow night at the Municipal swimming pool, according to Mrs. F. D. Scott.

The course will be given on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9 p. m. for 10 hours including the examination, said Mrs. Scott.

Boys and girls are eligible if they are not less than 12 years old and not more than 15 years old, or from the seventh to 12th grade children, if they are in sound physical condition.

Mrs. Scott said this morning that Miss Sally Neider of DeBary will instruct the course.

Requirements for the course, it was pointed out, include: a good standing front dive with reasonable form; swim 220 yards continuously using various strokes; dive from the surface to minimum depth of six feet and swim two body lengths along the bottom; tread water for a half minute using hands beneath the surface for auxiliary support; and float one minute motionless.

The Red Cross, said Mrs. Scott, is offering the course free and the city is contributing the use of the municipal pool.

'We hope to have a good turnout for this course,' Mrs. Scott said.

Policemen Now To Find Nameless Boy's Murderer. PHILADELPHIA (U. P.) — The battered body of a nameless little boy sent to its grave today, carried by six policemen who have sworn never to give up their search for his murderer.

Capt. Warren Guthrie, chaplain at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, conducted a non-denominational service over the little casket at a funeral home, and burial was beneath a blank headstone.

Voluntary contributions from members of the city police department paid for the funeral in cooperation with the Philadelphia Funeral Directors' Assn.

Flowers surrounded the casket containing the body of the blue-eyed, brown-haired little boy who was murdered last Feb. 28. Many were sent by Philadelphians who had read about the homicide and its determination that he should not find a final resting place in potter's field.

Greatest Challenge. All funeral arrangements were made by Capt. David Roberts, head of the homicide squad, who considers the unsolved murder one of the greatest challenges ever faced by police here.

The little boy, between four and six years old, was beaten to death and his body, wrapped in a faded plaid blanket and stuffed in a cardboard box, was thrown into a vacant lot in suburban Fox Chase.

1956 Tax Roll Better Than '55

John L. Galloway, Tax Collector, in his annual report to the Board of County Commissioners, shows collections for the year 1956 of $1,004,352.15 on a Tax Roll of $1,011,317.28, which is 99.18 per cent.

This percentage of collection is slightly better than it was on the 1955 Tax Roll.

Galloway stated that a great majority of the tax payers of Seminole County paid their taxes in November taking advantage of the four per cent discount allowed. Collections last November amounted to $670,642.44 which is approximately two thirds of the entire Tax Roll.

The tax payers saved a total of $1,025.87 in discounts allowed for payments in November, December, January and February.

Galloway further stated 'this is a very fine demonstration of the part of property owners in Seminole County in showing their willingness and ability to pay their taxes when due.'

Citizens Should Fully Cooperate In Jaycee 'Operation Shrubbery'

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce has literally taken "the bull by the horns" in an aggressive program of ridding Sanford parkways of shrubbery and trees with low-hanging limbs.

"It's not going to be a project that will be completed overnight," Jaycee representatives told Sanford's Board of City Commissioners the other night. "But we're going to stick through it for as you know this is a hazard that's been here for many years."

It was evident that the local Jaycees meant business with their resolution asking the Board of Commissioners to place an ordinance on the city's books with some teeth in it for the organization's president, M. L. Raborn Jr. told the board "if you're going to enforce it make it 100 per cent or don't touch it."

The determined spirit of Sanford's young businessmen's club came on the heels of a tragedy—the loss of life when a 10-year-old youngster whisked his play vehicle into the path of an oncoming car from behind overgrown shrubbery.

"This shrubbery works two ways," one member of the Jaycees remarked at the city commission meeting. "It hides driveways from the watchful eye of the motorist and it hides the street from the playful eyes of youngsters."

Finding that the City of Sanford has the ordinance on its books, the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce members became more enthusiastic over the end results of their campaign to clear the parkways of shrubbery.

No doubt Sanford homeowners will be receiving calls and visits from the Jaycees so wrapped up in their project to save lives of youngsters they have become.

Keep Cool By Holding Temper

Of advice about keeping cool there is no end. Almost everyone fancies himself an expert on this subject. As temperatures rise, the advice flourishes in such profusion that a citizen added by the heat finds it difficult to keep up with it all.

This abundance of suggestions makes it all the more surprising that so little attention is devoted to internal temperature. For what it is worth, we submit that internal temperature—that is, temper—is the most neglected factor in how people stand the hot weather. The man who keeps his temper has won half the battle.

It's Hard To Beat Plain Old Aspirin

By HERMAN M. BERNSTEIN, M.D.

If I were to be deprived of all our wonderful modern medicines and told that I could only have one drug to use for my patients, I would choose plain old aspirin.

If I think I would pick the old reliable, acetylsalicylic acid, or just plain aspirin, one of the most widely used and cheapest drugs we have.

Not only can we use aspirin in treating so many ailments, but we can use it with perfect safety. Proof of this is demonstrated in the fact that some 13,000,000,000 five-grain aspirin tablets are consumed in the United States each year.

Aspirin can be used for alleviating pain. I'm sure most of you have used it many times to get rid of headaches and other minor pains.

If you have not used aspirin, chances are you have used one of the large number of pain-killing preparations which use aspirin as a major ingredient.

Aspirin is an aid in combating rheumatic diseases. It is widely used in treating rheumatoid arthritis and similar diseases.

In fact, many doctors may say aspirin is as effective in this field as ACTH and cortisone.

Aspirin also is used universally to help reduce fever. When you have a cold, your doctor generally suggests taking aspirin to bring your temperature down.

Aspirin has been around quite a while. For 100 years, it has been used to relieve pain, reduce fever and inflammation, but we still don't know much about it.

Some Research
This is another reason why I think I would choose aspirin if I could use but a single drug. In my spare time, I could do some research on it.

Frankly, aspirin still is a mystery to medical men. We know it works, but we don't know just why.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q: I have been working in a uranium mine. I wonder if there is any danger from the radioactive substance?
A: The amount of radioactivity in the ore being mined is very low. Therefore, the chances of injury to you would be slight.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"For what shall a man be profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and forfeit his life?"

Faced with the retort that "in 1953 efforts lasted about two weeks and Jaycees dropped it" their answer was—this time—we're going to see this project through!

With the sanction of the City Fathers, Jaycees have embarked on their program and for the next thirty days will be doing "everything in their power" to gain the confidence of the homeowner in the carrying out of a safety program as well as adding beauty to the city.

We believe that the Jaycees should receive one hundred per cent cooperation as they go about eliminating the hazards to both children and the motoring public.

"Operation Shrubbery" includes shrubbery and trees at blind intersections as well as dense shrubs and plants along driveways and parkways.

At the end of the thirty-day program of education—the Jaycees will report back to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners. They'll be armed with a detailed report of the shrubs and trees removed as well as the list of names and addresses where shrubbery remains to be a hazard.

This is a project that's going to take the 100 per cent cooperation of every Sanford citizen and every Sanford civic organization interested in the safety of children.

As one city commissioner said Monday night "All of the shrubbery in town isn't worth the life of one person."

This is an opportunity for local citizens to band together for the ultimate elimination of destruction of life and property because of a hazard that exists practically at every turn around the community.

It can be done and if the Jaycees receive the cooperation they deserve in spearheading a most-needed project it will be done.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Author of this week's religious column is editor of the Episcopal Church—news Magazine and has recently been chosen to be dean of St. John's Cathedral in Denver. He raises the question whether Christianity can get too "popular" and what church members should do to relate their beliefs to the real problems of the modern world.

By DR. WILLIAM S. LEA
Written For The United Press

Thoughtful Christians all over the world are concerned about the relevance of the Christian gospel as it is being proclaimed today to the real problems of the modern world.

Times the leaders seem uncertain and confused about both the general strategy of the church and the practical means by which the Christian work is to move forward. This has started many groups throughout the country to thinking about and to discussing the church's fundamental purpose.

This would seem simple enough: namely, to glorify God, to win the lost, and to sanctify the faithful. But for most people today such expressions are mere words. It becomes increasingly clear that no new verbalisms can meet the deepfelt need for a new and more relevant approach.

Christians are concerned about the church's task despite what is obviously a kind of religious revival in America. Church membership, church attendance, and church building have reached new highs.

Recalls History
The more sensitive leaders point out, however, that some of the saddest chapters in church history were written when Christianity was extremely popular and "religious" persecutions ran very high. They remind us of the days of religious persecutions or the sorry times which followed the establishment of Christianity as the official religion of the Roman Empire. They warn us of the real dangers which could follow if Christianity gets too "popular" today.

It is against such a background, and out of this concern, that the really dedicated church leaders are considering the problem of contemporary Christian strategy. There have been few clearly defined answers yet and no universally accepted principles, but there nevertheless, many hopeful signs.

Underneath the surface, not yet widely understood or accepted, is an emerging pattern which can be dimly discerned. A new and more vital set of basic principles could emerge which might spark one of the most significant advances in the church's long story of struggle, triumph, and disappointment.

Suggests Seven Steps
We suggest that there are seven steps which are necessary if this new program is to be effective and relevant to the real world in which men live today. There is nothing really new or startling about them. They may seem obvious. It is the obvious, however, which we too often miss. Here are the steps in the development of this new strategy for the Christian church:

—The Gospel must be acted out and not just proclaimed. The Abbe M'Chesne has said that "the parish church must be the show window of God's love." This means, in ordinary terms, that we must demonstrate our product if we ever expect to market it. We have to "transfer our religion from our mouths to our muscles."

—Evangelism and the church's mission begin at home. But it doesn't end there. Our emphasis must be first intensive, and then extensive. It is really easier to take the Gospel to the "heathen" in far away places than to the disillusioned friends at home who may have been inculcated with so many small doses of "Christianity" that they are immune to the real thing.

—Every layman must also be a Christian minister. This is more than the "priesthood of all believers." It grows out of the fact that the church is commissioned to continue the whole ministry of Christ in this sense, the church is "the extension of the incarnation."

Gospel For Society
—The Christian Gospel is not just for individuals but for society and culture as well. The center of interest varies from age to age. The dominating concern of our day is the problem of human relationships—between individuals, classes, races, and nations.

—The need to recognize the principle of contagion. "Christianity is more often caught than taught." This means that we do not often win converts by argument. Perhaps the process of conversion can best be started in small groups, in "cells" if you like.

—As Archbishop Temple has reminded us, God is not interested in "religion." The word "religion" is not a Biblical word as all Jesus talked about God-centered living, not about "religion." This word "religion" too often means the compartmentalization of life.

—The need to proclaim the principle of redemption. The Christian Gospel is aimed at the redemption of the whole creation, "a new heaven and a new earth," and a great society of new men in Christ. This means far more than just extricating individuals out of this evil and sinful world.

Christian evangelism can be defined only in these grand terms. It is a cosmic enterprise.

High Style
A browse through the fashion magazines these days can be a rather troubling experience for the ordinary male whose idea of a nice dress is something not too fussy that sells for about 15 dollars.

Most of the creations pictured seem to be exotic, with a capital E. The dresses give their wearers the aspect of perpetually going around corners. Many of the head coverings bear a nasty resemblance to the monstrosities that passed for hats back in the 1920s (if you remember them).

High style continues to be a mystery to the average male. He can't figure out why any woman would want to go around looking like that. His one consolation is that most women don't want to—or at least couldn't afford to if they did.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

For Thee, O Lord, hast not forsaken those who seek Thee.—(Psalm 5, 10.)

Most happy and blessed is he who, early in life, has experienced a real demonstration of God's love and mercy, through devotion and prayer—and who then, having forsaken Him, . . . Our Heavenly Father, never for an instant thereafter departs from Him and His goodness all the years of his being. . . Too few of us, unhappily, seek God and His grace until our course is almost run.

Foreign News Commentary

Nikita S. Khrushchev is having a lot of trouble in his attempt to re-establish what he calls unity in the Communist world.

In his recent speeches, Khrushchev has emphasized that he wants to form "a broad socialist front" to "strengthen friendly relations within the socialist camp."

What he means is that he is determined, if he can, to stop the drift away from Soviet Russian domination of other Communist countries and to restore Moscow as the authority on Marxist doctrine.

Confers With Leaders
Especially, Khrushchev wants to get President Tito of Yugoslavia back in the "socialist camp." In this attempt Khrushchev conferred in Moscow last week with Yugoslav, Bulgarian and Albanian leaders.

But Tito shows no disposition to give up any of the independence he won when he broke with the late Josef Stalin in 1948.

Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai of Red China seem well content also in continuing to assert themselves as co-equal authorities on Communist philosophy.

And now Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz of Poland has joined Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka in restating Poland's position as at least a semi-independent unit in the Communist world.

Poland, Cyrankiewicz said in a speech in Warsaw Sunday, is impelled to "follow attentively" what is happening in Yugoslavia and China.

Poland Improves Relations
Cyrankiewicz said that Poland has improved its relations with fellow Communist countries in recent months, and especially with Russia.

But he added that Poland also has improved its relations with other countries, including the United States, Britain, France, and Yugoslavia.

This may draw a retort from Khrushchev. During his tour of Czechoslovakia which ended last week Khrushchev spoke somewhat bitterly of Marshal Tito's improved relations with the United States and other non-Communist countries.

Agriculture News

If we were to pick any one month of the year and call it "education" or "information" month, then August would probably be picked—at least as far as agricultural interests in Florida are concerned. The Agricultural Extension Service, through the cooperation of the various agricultural interests, sponsors educational meetings for almost every major phase of agriculture in the state.

The first of these meetings is the annual Citrus Growers' Institute, which will be held at Camp McQuarrie in the Ocala National Forest Aug. 12-16. At the 24th Annual Citrus Institute the growers will promote doorstep delivery of tree-fresh orange juice. Presenting facts on the latest trend in chilled juice sales will be Dave Hamrick, representative of Fruit Industries, Inc., Bradenton.

Monday, Aug. 12, is registration day. The program begins at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, with welcome remarks by Bob Norris, Lake County agent. Dr. Marshall O. Watkins, director of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, also will speak.

An idea swapping session on methods of weed control will be led by Dr. E. O. Burt, assistant agronomist. Dr. W. A. Simanton, entomologist and Dr. John King, assistant entomologist. All three are with the Florida Agricultural

Other talks on Tuesday concern citrus rootstocks, Valencia production, marketing citrus, and rodent control.

Wednesday's session features talks on fertilizers, quality of citrus fruits, irrigation, and citrus diseases.

The Thursday session will stress the Medfly program, vitamin C of grapefruit, the Florida Citrus Exposition, new citrus legislation, disease and a TV picture.

Speakers will include: Agricultural Extension Service specialists, research workers from the Florida Agricultural Station at Gainesville, the citrus Experiment Station at Lake Alfred and the Florida Citrus Commission; USDA representatives; State plant board officials and industry leaders.

Some of these institutes, field days, and short course dates are: Italy Field Day, University of Florida, Aug. 12, 1957; Citrus Institute, Camp McQuarrie, Aug. 12-17, 1957; Bookkeepers Institute, Camp McQuarrie, Aug. 15-17, 1957; Poultry Institute, Camp McQuarrie, Aug. 19-24, 1957; Cattlemen's Institute, Cloverleaf 4-H Camp, Lake Placid, Aug. 20-22, 1957; Nurserymen and Growers' Short Course, University of Florida, Aug. 21-23, 1957.

(Next week a more complete report of another of these events will be featured.)

Life In Bolivia Is Delightful

By FRANCES WILSON LEAHY
Why do we like living in South America, where I have been living for nine years and my husband for some twenty more? Mainly I think it's because I'm naturally lazy. I love having all those servants—Cook, maid, houseboy, laundress, gardener, night watchman, not to mention the boy that shines the shoes once a week and the one who cleans the swimming pool. I love breakfast in bed, my morning free for golf, my afternoons for bridges. I love the concern of my servants when they think I'm going out in too light a wrap.

Bolivia, being more than ninety percent Indian, is, to me, the most picturesque of the South American countries. The women wear full brightly colored skirts and white stovepipe hats a foot or so tall, and babies in colorfully striped blankets on their backs. The Indian men wear ponchos woven of the elsewhere fabulously expensive vicuña fur, and caps with pointed tops and earflaps, knitted of bright wool in elaborate designs. Contrasts are great. Just the other day the Indians who live in a mud hut across the back fence of our very modern home were plowing their field with a team of oxen and a wooden plow, exactly as it was done in the time of Christ.

Cochabamba, where we live, is in a fertile green valley at an altitude of 8,500 feet. We blame everything that goes wrong on the altitude! Its climate is the most perfect I've ever seen, and the fruits and vegetables are abundant. There are perhaps 150 North Americans here, composed mainly of International Cooperation Administration, U.S. Military, Gulf Oil Company, missionary and Thompson-Cornwall, Inc., (the construction company for which my husband works) people. As in all communities such as this, there is a gay social life.

The adventures we've had! We witnessed a three day revolution in LaPaz (at 12,500 feet, the world's highest capital city), from our hotel room, where we could see one side fighting against the other. We've fished in Lake Titicaca, the world's most navigable lake, where the trout grow to mammoth size, and in the world famous rivers of the south of Chile. We've flown over a volcano to see the flames leaping inside. We've traveled from Antofagasta, Chile, to Cochabamba by private railroad car, complete with a "Moto" who was a wonderful cook. We've visited all the major cities in South America, and some of the most remote.

But my life isn't entirely frivolous. We have a Women's Club with altruistic projects. We furnish milk daily to the children's charity ward in the local hospital, and mattresses, sheets, pillows, etc. when needed. We donate to the girls orphanage. We publish a small newspaper, which I originated and edited for several years.

There are drawbacks, of course. Too frequently the city's generators break down and we are without electricity for days at a time, when the meat in the freezer thaws and the strawberries have to be thrown out. During the dry season we are often without water. We've had thieves break in (this was before and why we got the night watch man) and steal our silver and linens while we and the dogs slept peacefully.

Nevertheless, I enjoy meeting and entertaining the visiting bigwigs—senators, congressman, ambassadors, titled Europeans. I've accepted the "manana" attitude, and when the cleaners say they'll bring my urgently needed clothes tomorrow I don't expect them for a week or so. It doesn't matter. I love the life!

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Visitors in town include Mr. and Mrs. McFadden of Indianapolis, Ind., who are visiting Sally and Bill Warwick. They are Sally's parents.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Gene Garrison and son of Center, Texas, were guests of Ionia and Tommy Tennyson last week.

Suzie King is in the Seminole Memorial Hospital following surgery Tuesday morning. Not an emergency, so don't worry.

Bill and Betty Lemos are sporting a new yellow and white Plymouth station wagon. Drive by a lot downtown and saw the old Ford sitting rather forlorn in the sun. Brings back a lot of memories. Particularly the time that a pot of vegetable soup turned over in the front seat. Bill and Betty and their entourage will depart for northern parts the end of next week. The two oldest boys will go by train to Massachusetts. The Lemi have orders to Washington, and will be sorely missed in Sanford.

Dave and Lee Canning and four children left this morning for New England, and three weeks among the pines and mountains.

Hear that the Boat and Ski Club show for the Rotary Club is shaping up nicely. Pyramids, costumed acts, and ballet will be features of this ski show, something new in Sanford.

Sally Hutchison is leaving Wednesday by plane for New York and Connecticut. She will return to Sanford with William Jr. the fifth of August. Then the Hutchisons will go to New Smyrna Beach for the rest of the month.

Reservations are not coming in for the coffee on Friday at the R.O.Q. or the dance August ninth at the same address. Please make them—should be fun, and will save calling at the last minute.

We spend a lot of time criticizing Sanford as far as progress is concerned. In order to lure retired people to our community we must have better stores and shopping centers. This is probably the most prevalent grudge today, for everyone. Sanford has grown so fast in just a few years that it has been difficult for merchants to keep up with the demand for more and better goods. But now the slack in the rope is being pulled taut. There is very little that cannot be found in Sanford, if one looks. The Central part of Florida is booming. The effects of that boom are beginning to be felt. There is a large amount of commercial building, and plans for much construction. Sanford is no longer the sleepy little town we saw a few years ago. It is true that some old residents would prefer it to be rather vacant looking. It would be nice to park in front of the ten cent store again. But there are very few desirable communities left in this vast country.

Farm Safety Week Emphasized Today

Miss Myrtle Wilson

Home Demonstration Agent Machinery, drawings, firearms and falls make up the "big four" of fatal farm accidents. The U. S. Department of Agriculture youths accounted for 67.7% of all farm accidents in the five years 1-49-53. A. M. Pettis, farm safety leader with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, calls attention to these facts in connection with National Farm Safety Week, July 21-27.

Machinery led with 31.1% of all deaths and the tractor was the major demon among farm machines. It accounts for more than 1,000 fatalities a year, a third of which occur on highways. About a sixth of the tractor accidents involved children under 10 years of age. However, more than 50% of the victims were over 35 years old.

Drawings were next with 12.9% of the fatalities, most of which involved youths under 20 years of age. Firearms accounted for 12.2% of the deaths and here again youth paid the penalty. Thirty-seven percent of the firearm deaths occurred to people between the ages of 10 and 19 years.

In the category of falls the responsibility goes to older people, since 76% of those who died in this manner were 44 years old or over.

Pettis points out that we can't operate our farms without machinery, buy since it is the No. 1 hazard about the farm we can learn to treat it with respect. Farm youngsters encounter bodies and streams of water more than their city cousins, but if they learn to swim at an early age they should be safe. H. W. Schnell, University of Florida physical education head, says a child five or six years old is not too young to learn to swim.

Seems that every farm boy is enchanted by Dad's rifle or shotgun and all too often he is permitted to use it early in life. According to the death-rate figures, boys should be withheld from guns until they are old enough to handle them and are taught to handle them properly.

Since it's the older folks who die from falls and account for 11% of all farm fatalities, Pettis' suggestion to them is, "Watch your step".

About 125 Local Boats Found In Violation Of Safety Regulations

The United States Coast Guard is conducting inspections in the Sanford area on a regular basis, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon in Miami from the office of the Commanding Officer of the 7th Coast Guard District.

"We found roughly about 100 to 125 boats in the Sanford area in violation of Coast Guard Boat Safety regulations on our most recent inspection," said B. J. Piquetta, BM/1, during a telephone interview yesterday with The Sanford Herald.

"This is primarily a public education program," said the boats wain's mate, "and on the first offense we write up the violation and send the violator a letter stating the law and advising them that they must comply with it."

However, explained boats wain's mate Piquetta, any subsequent violation means that the boat operator is subject to a fine of $100 per life preserver. "These motor boat inspections are making boat owners more conscious of carrying safety equipment in their boats."

It was revealed late yesterday a new mobile unit center in Jacksonville to work the Sanford area. The Miami unit came to the Sanford area recently to assist in setting up the territory and getting its operations underway.

A vast majority of the boats along the inland waterways have many discrepancies in safety preparations and equipment. "We are getting an tremendous response in our water safety program," said Piquetta who was on the cruise into the Sanford area and assisted in the inspecting of the local boats.

It is expected now that Coast Guard inspections of local boats will be in Jacksonville especially for the St. Johns River inland waterway area.

However, a program of regular inspections has not yet been revealed from the office which will supervise the activities here. The Sanford Coast Guard Auxiliary, under the command of William B. Cavanaugh, commanding officer of Flotilla 4-11, has been conducting boat inspections in the Sanford area. Two weeks ago a number of boats were inspected at the Municipal ramp at the foot of Palmello Ave. Decals denoting a successful inspection were issued to a number of local boat enthusiasts.

A pamphlet, entitled "Motorboats' Minimum Legal Requirements and suggestions for Your Safety and Pleasure, which is a Coast Guard release No. CG-290, may be obtained at local sporting goods stores. This pamphlet will advise the boat owner of all requirements to bring their boats up to the standard required by the Coast Guard.

DAYTON, Ohio — Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, firm decision evident in his voice and his steadfast brown eyes, answered persistent reports that he might make a comeback by declaring he was "absolutely finished with the ring."

"They couldn't print enough money to make me fight again," vowed the surprisingly fit man who retired undefeated in April of 1954. "Believe me, once and for all, I'm done."

He said it in a way which made you believe him despite estimates that he could get the lion's share of a potential three million dollar gate for meeting current heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

He's Losing Weight "It's a laugh," said the Rock, who visited Dayton to attend the PGA golf championship. "If I take a walk or wear a turtle neck sweater or step into the gym to try to knock off some weight, right away everybody starts insisting I'm getting ready for a comeback. Well, I'm not."

Marciano has a simple explanation why he has, of late, gone back into the gym — ballooning weight.

"I was up to 225 pounds!" he grinned. "Boy, I was getting so fat I couldn't bend over to tie my shoelaces. So I went to a gym in Miami Beach, where I'm living now, and took off 10 pounds. I'm down to 215 pounds now and feel real good."

The last time he fought, when he knocked out Archie Moore in September of 1953, he weighed 196 pounds. Right now, except for the suspicion of a spare tire in the belt area, he looks fit and hard.

Playing Golf Now "I'm playing a lot of golf now," he said in his last, clipped manner of speaking. "Understand, I'm not

Club Members Will See Film On Water Skiing At Meeting

The Sanford Boat and Ski Club will hold its regular business meeting tomorrow night at the Sanford Civic Center building in Fort Mellon Park beginning at 8 o'clock.

On the program will be a 16 mm. film called "Water Skiing in Florida", complete with sound. Members of the club say that the film is an outstanding and interesting one that will entertain and instruct members of the group.

Also slated for discussion will be the probable cruise for Sunday to SeLeon Springs. Details of the cruise are not available and will probably not be set until meeting tomorrow night.

6 Major League Managers Sitting On 'Hot Seat'

NEW YORK — Half a dozen major league managers are sitting squarely on the "hot seat" knowing their jobs for 1958 depend on whether or not they can rally their clubs for that final, down-the-stretch drive.

The six pilchets whose jobs are at stake are Fred Haney of the Braves, Fred Hutchinson of the Cardinals, Bob Scheffing of the Cubs, Kerby Farrell of the Indians, Jack Tighe of the Tigers and Lou Boudreau of the Athletics.

Haney was given the Milwaukee job with the expectancy he would win the National League pennant. He missed last year when it appeared he had the title in his grasp and if the Braves fall again this year, the Milwaukee front office won't wait around for a third strike.

Hutchinson's Tactics Criticized recently of considerable criticism from Cardinal officials over his handling of the St. Louis pitching staff. This could be his last season with the Redbirds and if it is, the chances are veteran shortstop Alvin Dark will be named his successor.

Scheffing inherited a thankless job when he succeeded Stan Hack as manager of the Indians this season and even the front office didn't expect a first division finish. But 29 victories in 96 games so far do not enhance Scheffing's chances of being signed again for next year, and already there have been reports that Chuck Dressen, Charlie Grimm, or Charlie Root might take over the reins next season.

Over in the American League the Indians hired Farrell last winter following Al Lopez's departure only after they were unable to obtain several other candidates. Cleveland finished second last year and didn't argue with Lopez too much when he wanted out. Now, the Indians are fourth and Farrell's future doesn't look especially bright.

If the ax does fall on Farrell at the close of the season, look for General Manager Hank Greenberg to make another pitch for Marty Marion as manager. Eddie Stanky, now a coach with Cleveland, also would be a possibility.

Gordon To Tigers The new Detroit owners make no bones about the fact that they confidently expected the Tigers to wind up among the first four this year. They still have a chance to do so, but if they don't, Tighe could become the fall guy. And if he is let out, Joe Gordon might be brought in as manager.

There are also signs that the paying public in Kansas City is growing a bit impatient with their seventh-place club.

Both the Kansas City fans and the front office has reason to suppose the Athletics could climb as high as sixth, and possibly even fifth, as a result of all those deals with the Yankees. But the A's appear to have all they can do to eat out Washington for seventh place and that doesn't bode well for Boudreau.

much good and I feel happy when I break a hundred. But I feel like my games' getting better."

And any fighting he does from now on, he vowed, will be strictly of the fairway variety.

"Anybody who has tried to come back just hasn't had the same feeling and the records show very little success," he analyzed. "I haven't talked to Ray Robinson about it, but I'd like to know how he felt."

Marciano has under consideration "three or four big offers" after listening to a million. "Within two months he expects to have something new going for him. "But I'll say it again," he concluded. "It won't be boxing."

Club To Present Water Show For Rotarians

Jaycee Fishing Rodeo Tentatively Set For Aug. 28

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce annual fishing rodeo has been tentatively set for Aug. 28, according to an announcement made by Glenn McCall, Fishing Rodeo Chairman, in the latest edition of the Jaycee Journal.

The Jaycee Fishing Rodeo is one of the outstanding projects of the local young businessmen's group staged each year for the youngsters of Seminole County.

The number of children participating in the fishing rodeo each year has been steadily increasing due to the enthusiasm and interest shown by members of the Jaycees.

The project requires weeks of preparation in getting boats, fish-

The Sanford Rotary Club is in for one of its greatest treats when the Sanford Boat and Ski Club presents a water show for its members on August 25 at the noon luncheon meeting.

Dr. A. W. Woodall, Commodore of the local Boat and Ski Club said late yesterday that "we've got a pretty good show lined up for the Rotary Club."

Already members of the local boat and ski group have put in many hours of practice perfecting such water stunts as a pyramid performed on skis, a shoe ski exhibition, a bare foot skiing act on a boat paddle, a clown act on skis, a child on skis, a father and son ski stunt, skiing on saucers, and a 360 degree "turn-around" on skis. In addition to these ski performances, Rotarians will also see a water ballet on skis performed by a bevy of beautiful young ladies.

Dr. Woodall, in describing the program that is being prepared and practiced for Sanford Rotary Club members, said "we're always looking for new members for our organization, and this is just an example of the many fine events that we get together to enjoy."

Mrs. Johnny Padgett and Mrs. Darwin Bruce are co-chairmen of the event that will take many more afternoons of practice to perfect. Mrs. Padgett said yesterday afternoon that the Boat and Ski Club members get together usually on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons for practice sessions. "As a matter of fact," she said, "we get together whenever we can for we enjoy these water sports so much."

The Commodore of the Boat and Ski Club said that there will be 12 or 14 in the water show staged for the Rotary Club and everyone of us "look forward to the show being an outstanding success."

Among those taking part in the event will be Gerald Behrens, Claudette Behrens, Johnny and "Boots" Padgett, Don Smith, Mr. and Darwin Bruce and their son and daughter, Buster and Debbie, Leon Taylor and his son Rickie.

Mrs. Padgett said that there are others who will take part in the show, especially those who will man the boats to pull skiers.

Businessmen Reach For Tranquilizers

By ROBERT SHORTEL United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, N. J. — So you're 30 years old and don't like your job.

They've found it exasperating to anticipate Joe Smith's whims and fancies.

Many economists looked for heavy consumer spending this year on cars and other durable goods. Instead, Joe Smith has been spending more than ever before for services of all kinds — maid service, taxi rides, laundry and vacations.

Some companies have made a fortune by guessing right or by being lucky enough to have the right product in the right place at the right time — like the New York wholesaler who had a warehouse full of coonskin caps when the Davy Crockett craze hit the nation.

More Leisure Sought In the year the economists thought Joe Smith would be plunking down for refrigerators and such like, he is buying outdoor grills, billiard sets, swimming pools and other items enabling him to better enjoy his leisure time.

Don't Like Your Job--Quit!

By ROBERT KEANE United Press Staff Correspondent NEWARK, N. J. — So you're 30 years old and don't like your job.

That is the advice of Carol M. Shanks, who gave up a career as a law professor at the age of 32.

Today he is the $250,000-a-year president of the Prudential Insurance Co.

"You've got to like what you're doing," Shanks said in an interview at his office here. "And if you don't you're never too old to change — provided, that is, you aren't just hopping around."

Gave Up Teaching Shanks himself was 10 years married, with two small children, when he decided in 1931 that teaching was not for him.

He moved to a Manhattan law firm but again was disappointed. Finally, in 1932, he moved across the Hudson River to Newark and found at Prudential what he sought. By 1948 he was president of the company.

Now 58, the soft-spoken president says, "Many men leave school and pick what seems a 'glamorous' field. Maybe advertising. Then they find out they're not suited for it."

"Insurance, I imagine, doesn't strike too many young people as glamorous. But for many of us it was the right field. And for a few — even in this building, I suppose — it wasn't. They'd be wise to switch."

How about the man who starts in the right field and wants to advance?

Be Notified "I think if I had one thing to tell a man like that," Shanks said, it would be to always take the disagreeable jobs . . . it's not that the man who avoids disagreeable work will necessarily get fired. He probably won't. But he won't advance either."

"But when an opening comes, when you need a branch manager, you look to the man you've come to depend on, the man you couldn't help but notice," Shanks said.

Shanks believes career opportunities are better today than ever.

"But if you turn the wrong way in the beginning, don't feel you have to stay that way."

"A friend of mine just changed jobs at 37. You're never too old."

Hardest Dairy Farm Chore Becomes One Of Easiest With New Mechanical Helper!

By IRA MILLER Farm Electrification Bureau

Mechanical barn cleaners are on their way, but have not arrived as yet on nearly all of the farms in those areas which can use effectively. Such areas cover most of the country, with exceptions found in many warm climates where cows are stabled only at milking time and where high pressure hoses are used for cleaning purposes.

Regardless of the type used, some kind of mechanical cleaner is essential to the busy farmer who wants to save time and effort. The hardest job on a dairy farm is manure removal. On many farms the barn cleaner is used every day of the year, frequently twice daily.

Acceptance of the barn or gutter cleaner has not been as rapid as many agricultural engineers had hoped. This is not surprising, however, because most new devices are offered slow to "catch on."

It has taken time to develop cleaners to fit all barns. Present types now can be used in single or double gutter barns, as well as in barns which may have three gutters or which are of L-shaped construction.

A recent survey of more than 600 dairy farms with herds ranging from 10 to 100 cows, shows that time spent in cleaning barns by hand runs from 20 minutes to more than 2 hours daily. The average time required for this chore, without barn cleaners, was 54.2 minutes. When cleaners were installed the time was reduced to an average of 12.3 minutes.

The on-the-farm pictures below provide an idea of the versatility of the modern barn cleaner. In the upper left we see the dumping end of separate cleaners installed in each gutter of a 2-gutter barn. Manure is removed from the barn and dropped into a waiting spreader. The lower left picture shows a newly built barn in which a barn cleaner has been installed — as will be noted in the picture at the upper right. The picture at the lower right shows the installation of a conveyor which carries manure from the barn cleaner in a ground level barn to a spreader.

How about the man who starts in the right field and wants to advance?

Bureau Will Use Blunter Language In Storm Warnings

MIAMI — The Miami weather bureau says it will use "blunter language" in its warnings about hurricanes.

Chief Forecaster Gordon Dunn reported Tuesday that a week-long inspection of the cities on Florida's East Coast has convinced him many residents are not taking the threat of hurricanes seriously enough.

Unless they snap out of it, he said, they may find themselves victims of "disaster by indifference" in a tragedy similar to that which Hurricane Audrey brought to Louisiana last month.

"The warnings are going to be blunter than ever, and there'll be no reason for anybody to say our warnings were not sufficiently strong to make people respond to danger," Dunn said.

"There still is that feeling of public indifference. After all, Florida hasn't had a storm in a number of years and it's hard to realize danger at this time."

"The Cameron, La., episode, however, has done a lot to shock people into realizing what could happen. We're hoping this feeling will last."

BARBEQUE BAN URGED DETROIT — A "treatment instead of a treat" was the way Councilman Eugene I. Van Antwerp described outdoor barbecue pits Tuesday, Van Antwerp told the Smoke Abatement Department.

He urged the city to ban the pits because "burning food smells the same," whether it's dished up by an amateur chef or the city disposal plant.

Thomas A. Edison's claim to being sole inventor of the incandescent lamp was upheld by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

ordinances to enable the trimming and cutting of shrubbery now growing on all portions of city owned property and right-of-way areas adjacent to all streets, avenues and roadways which constitute a hazard by obstructing the view of motorists.

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners at its Monday night meeting offered cooperation to the Jaycees. A 30-day period in which educational programs and publicity would reach homeowners was planned and put into effect.

At the end of the 30 days a report would be made by the Jaycees to the Board of City Commissioners relative to what had been accomplished and what further needed to be done.

The Bible I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart.—(Psalm 9, 1) Thanking God for His abundant, bountiful blessings is not a matter of a formal few moments or even of hours. It is thanking Him every moment that we breathe, by every thought and act and word—it is by living each moment as we know in our hearts He wants us to live: filled with consciousness of His presence within us. That is thanking Him with a whole heart.

Citrus Coolers Fun to Fix

Summer refreshment should leave the broiler cool, too, and not entail much preparation. Thanks to Florida, which produces more than half its huge vitamin C-rich orange and grapefruit crops, this is possible. Convenient canned Florida orange, grapefruit, and blended orange and grapefruit juices are available now at new low prices. Stock up, and when guests drop in, take the economical cans of juice, an ice bucket and tall frosted glasses to the porch. Let everyone fix his own citrus cooler, adding garnishes, soda water or gingerale to taste. To treat the glasses, dip in unseasoned egg white, and then in granulated sugar. Here are two coolers suggestions:

Grapefruit Whitecaps: 2 1/2 cups canned Florida grapefruit juice, 1 egg white, 2 tablespoons sugar, Nutmeg. Four chilled juice into tall glasses. Beat egg white until stiff, beat in sugar gradually. Put spoonful in each glass; sprinkle with nutmeg. YIELD: 4 servings. Citrus Soda: For each soda, combine 1/2 cup chilled Florida orange, or blended orange and grapefruit juice with 1/4 cup chilled gingerale in a tall glass. Add a large scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Sheriff Says Will Enforce State's Speed Laws Rigidly

I am going to enforce the state speed laws in Seminole County rigidly, said Sheriff J. L. Hobby this morning as Gov. LeRoy Collins called on the highway patrol and law enforcement officers to "diligently enforce Florida's new 65-mile-an-hour maximum speed law."

"The entire Seminole County Sheriff's Department will be patrolling the county highways to see that motorists comply with the new speed regulations," said Hobby.

"We know from experience," the governor said, "that speed is our greatest cause of serious accidents and our greatest killer, and we are determined to save lives by a rigid enforcement of the new law."

Collins said the law, passed by the recent Legislature, "gives to our enforcement officials and to our drivers a specific rule of law which must be obeyed under all circumstances. Any driver who is proceeding at a rate in excess of these limits is violating the law and is subject to arrest and conviction for unlawful speeding."

Oviedo Scouts Preparing For Trip To Philmont Ranch

Four Oviedo Boy Scouts are getting ready to take off tomorrow for the "old west" and a 21-day tour that will take them to one of the famous camp sites in New Mexico.

Jerry Ulrey and Wes Evans, Life Scouts and Benjie Wainright and Eric Pearson, Star Scouts, all members of Troop 243 of Oviedo, leave tomorrow for the famous Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M.

"We are interested in our waterways," John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, told the Coffee Club this morning as they met at Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant in the Valdez Hotel.

"We think that our waterways are the answer for the movement of cargo that will develop Central Florida," he said and he described one area that was developed from wasteland into the present day investment of $1,000,000 a day.

"We are not opposing the railroads," Krider commented as he spoke to more than 50 Chamber of Commerce members and their guests. "Water and railroads work hand in hand," he said, "for when water cargo comes in railroads increase in some instances as high as 50 per cent."

This 100 year dream means that less than 30 miles will be opened to the Atlantic, Krider told the Coffee Club group.

Hearing On School Budget Postponed Until Saturday

The Seminole County Board of Education's public hearing on the 1957-58 budget has been postponed until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, said H. T. Milvere, Superintendent of Public Instruction this morning.

The public hearing was originally scheduled for Friday morning but due to the absence from the city of two members of the board who are on vacation and one member on an emergency, "we found it necessary to postpone the hearing until the following morning," said Milvere.

Charlie Morrison emceed the program this morning as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. Morrison introduced Captain Lionel A. Arthur, Commanding Officer of the Sanford Naval Air Station; Adm. Manager of the Family Loan Co.; Earl Christensen, plant manager of Southern Bell Telephone Co. in Sanford.

He told the group, "we now have as much tonnage on the waterway as they have from Jacksonville to Miami so just imagine what would happen if we complete the waterway which was approved in 1912 but to which no money was appropriated."

to the night my father-in-law's barn caught fire. My husband was just recovering from pneumonia. As I stood in the hallway, talking with my mother-in-law, and brother-in-law, he looked out the window and said: "My gosh, the barn is on fire!"

The fire truck had a flat tire when they went for it. However, help came from everywhere, even to the extent of a good neighbor sending a truck full of darkness. Everyone worked valiantly, but the barn was far beyond saving. However, it was good help; who saved the mules and livestock.

That truck was instrumental in saving a great deal of property though and should be given credit for same.

Program To Protect FBI Files Proposed

Prompt Action Sought

LONDON — A special committee of the American Bar Assn. today assailed recent Supreme Court decision pertaining to communism and called for prompt congressional action "to overcome their effect."

The committee, headed by ex-Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland, proposed a legislative program to protect the confidential files of the FBI and tighten up the Smith anti-subversive act.

"It is traditional and right that our courts are zealous in protecting individual rights," the O'Connor report said.

"It is equally necessary that the executive and legislative branches take effective action to guide our country in defense against communist infiltration and aggression.

"If the courts lean too far backwards in the maintenance of theoretical individual rights, it may be that we have tied the hands of our country and have rendered it incapable of carrying out the first law of mankind—the law of self-preservation."

O'Connor told newsmen that experts are already drafting a bill for Congress which would revoke the Supreme Court's interpretation of immunity before congressional committees.

The report was presented to the ABA's policy-making House of delegates at the association's London convention today.

It said the committee believes that legislation to overcome the effects of the recent Supreme Court decisions—ordering new trials for convicted Communists—would "be in the public interest."

Earlier today, General Counsel Elisha Hanson of the American Newspaper Publishers' Assn. had appealed to the ABA to help newsmen give "proper" coverage to court trials.

Jaycees Ready Letters To Property Holders

Letters are being mailed by the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce for mailing to all of Sanford's property holders requesting their cooperation in the clearing of shrubbery from Sanford's parkways.

The letters will be dated July 29 and mailed next Monday through the cooperation of the Sanford City Manager's office to the mailing list of property holders.

In the same action, the Board of Commissioners set a 30-day period during which time shrubs and limbs might be removed voluntarily. At the end of this period, Jaycees President M. L. Raborn

New Radio Tower At County Jail Nears Completion

The radio tower under construction at the Seminole County Jail is nearing completion with only ten more feet to add to the steel structure.

The tower, 150 feet tall, will also have an antenna measuring about 10 feet.

Already new radio equipment is arriving daily to be installed in offices at the Seminole County Jail, Sheriff J. L. Hobby stated.

"We expect that the new radio system will be in full operation within about 10 days," the Sheriff said this morning.

Yesterday, Sheriff's Department deputies were familiarizing themselves with the new "black-master" portable transmitters and receivers which will be used for deputy-to-car and deputy to station contact.

The transmitter is expected to arrive immediately along with 10 mobile units to be placed in deputies cars and in patrol cars of outlying communities as well as that of the constable.

Portable units, costing $432 each, will be paid for by the constable and the communities using them.

"Some of the equipment we are using in our present radio system is out of date," the Sheriff said. As a matter of fact, he said, some of the equipment is the original purchased and put into use.

Sheriff Hobby explained that repairs and upkeep of the old equipment is expensive.

The Civil Defense Administration will pay for 50 per cent of the bid price of the equipment being installed and the old equipment being taken out has been sold to Radio Corporation of America as a trade-in on the new system.

At the most, the Seminole County Sheriff said, the cost to Seminole County will be between $1,500 and $2,000.

Sheriff Reports Quiet 24 Hours

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department experienced a quiet 24 hours, reported Sheriff Luther Hobby this morning.

One complaint about an alligator on the loose in the south end of the county was investigated but none was found.

The other complaint was in regard to vandalism along 17-92 south of Sanford being reported, Sheriff's deputies found that other peoples' property was being tampered with but no arrests made.

Completing the minutiae report were gasoline tickets and one radio log—but it sure was hot, said Sheriff Hobby.
