SEEING BEYOND

This is Basil. Much of the time he can't see beyond his nose. But with a nose like Basil's who needs to see! Many folks have temporarily-impaired spiritual vision. But sometimes they can compensate in other ways. . . . like the man who brought his youngsters to church recently: "Myself, I'm not religious," he said, "but I sense their need for character development."
 We used to say of Basil, the moment he shakes himself he's got "twenty-twenty" vision. The same is true of many people once they sense their God-given responsibilities.

Are Angels God's "Secret Agents?"

Until recently, modern man had a hard time believing that he shares Planet Earth with invisible beings called angels. Despite the fact that throughout the centuries many have claimed to see and talk with angels, and though there are more than 300 references to angels in the Bible, most residents of the Atomic Age have taken angels with the proverbial grain of salt.

Until recently, that is. Until growing research into the field of extrasensory perception has made the spirit world seem more and more plausible. Until such reputable observers as astronauts began reporting unidentified flying objects near earth bearing striking resemblances to angelic aircraft described thousands of years ago in the Old Testament.

And until such films as "Rosemary's Baby" and "The Exorcist" exploded on the public and 20th Century skeptics suddenly found themselves surrounded by Satan-worshipping churches and curses in witchcraft and demology at well known universities.

In the midst of this growing awareness of the spiritual, which often expresses itself in a fascination with the occult and the forces evil, famous clergyman Billy Graham shed fascinating new light on the other side of the spirit world, the forces of good. . . . God's angels.

Some Taking "Him" Out Of The Hymnals

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Some Christians are taking the "Him" out of the hymnals. They say if humans were "in the image and likeness of God," then God must be both masculine and feminine. "Unfortunatly, some folks are attempting to see this as 'neuterizing' God," said the Rev. Robert Young, chaplain at Duke University. "It's more positive than that."

Oral Roberts

Q. I feel foolish confessing this, but I have an unreasonable fear of traveling by plane. How can I overcome such fear?
 A. First of all, a fear is nothing to feel self-conscious about. There's violence like we've never known before, both in accidents and out of malice. But Jesus' will for our abundant life has a lot to do with our protection.

Has Fear Of Flying

I remember once I was apprehensive about a plane trip. I've traveled a lot by plane, and I'm not usually bothered about it. But this time I had a fear down in the pit of my stomach. I was praying, and I said, "Lord, I want You to go with me and protect me on this flight." Then deep within me I heard the Lord say, "Go with your 'Why don't you just get with ME?' And I thought, 'Dear Lord, if You're going to be on board, we are OK. We are OK.' And we were."

I think of this so much now when I begin a trip, whether by plane or car or any means. And I can say, "OK, Jesus, I'm going with You. If I'm going with You, then anything bad will have to go through You to get to me." There's a verse in the Bible that says if a thief is going to rob a house, he must first blind the strong man that protects the house (Matthew 12:29). When you're relying on Jesus for your protection, anything harmful has to go through Him to get to you. You can't ask for better protection than that.

Legalized Abortion Lowers The Rate Of Maternal Deaths

THE HERALD SERVICES
WASHINGTON, D.C. — An abortion-related maternal deaths and injuries declined sharply in the United States following a 1973 Supreme Court ruling that limited the states' powers to restrict abortion, according to data recently released here.

The overall death rate from abortions — legal, illegal and spontaneous — dropped more than 40 per cent.

The effect of the Supreme Court ruling was to make legal abortions available to millions of American women who had previously been denied them. The result was that legal abortions in the United States rose from 566,000 in 1972 to 745,000 in 1973.

The death rate from legal abortions declined in the same period from 3.4 per 1,000 to 3.0 per 1,000.

The date on the decrease in abortion-related deaths was gathered in two separate studies, recently completed. One was by the Center for Disease Control of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The other was supported by a group of the National Academy of Sciences.

Both studies indicated that legalization of abortion reduced the number of illegal operations, performed under hazardous conditions, and increased the number performed by competent medical personnel under safe and sanitary conditions. In 1974, nearly 300,000 legal abortions were performed in the United States.

The findings are expected to strengthen pro-abortion forces

NFL Factions Reach 'Memorandum Of Agreement'

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

When the leaves begin turning amber and gold and the air takes on the chill nip of fall, it's time for the National Football League season to begin.

But sometimes it takes more than a mere change of seasons to change men's minds.

This year it took 13 hours of grueling labor negotiations preceded by 19^{1/2} months of uncertainty, a hard-headed federal mediator who wouldn't give in to confusion or other heads, and the frightening threat of finally losing fan interest and dollars.

It wasn't until 9 a.m. EDT Thursday, less than three days before the scheduled start of the NFL's regular season, that a strike by five NFL teams began to crumble and the pro football season emerged, at least temporarily, from potential chaos.

It was more of a promise than an agreement. In essence, the Management Council and players' union were telling the players: If they would play football, the owners would give them a contract they could live with, and let bygones be bygones.

It worked. Almost immediately the New York Jets, one of the five striking teams announced they would return to practice. Three more striking teams — the Washington Redskins, Detroit Lions and New York Giants — followed suit.

And shortly before 6 p.m. EDT, the New England Patriots, who began the series of wildcat walkouts six days ago, said they would return to the practice field.

Although details of the "memorandum of agreement" never were officially announced, The Associated Press learned later Thursday they were based on a six-point proposal made after an all-night session Monday in Washington, D.C. The names were the same; that they changed were the dates.

The albatross bargaining around the necks of the NFL owners had been a contract that expired 19^{1/2} months ago, on Jan. 31, 1974. When the Management Council promised to lay before the union a new, equitable proposal by Monday, Sept. 22, the albatross was lifted.

Players will get the contract the same day that it is presented to union leadership in Chicago. From Chicago will follow an intricate timetable; the gist of it will insure the fans two weeks of football.

The "memorandum of agreement" said that the NFL Players Association and Management Council agreed to the six-point proposal as amended at the 15-hour meeting.

The first point of the original six-point proposal said the Patriots' camp would be open by Sept. 16 for practice. That date was changed to Sept. 18.

The second point said there would be no lockout or strike from Sept. 16 through Oct. 1.

Again the Sept. 16 date was changed to the 18th.

The third point said the Management Council would make a new contract proposal by Sept. 25. That date was pushed up to Sept. 22.

Prep Grid Teams Play Full Slate

By JIM HAYNES
Herald Sports Editor

High school football teams sing the same song, second week of the season, and the defeated seek victory and the undefeated try and stay that way.

Five Seminole county teams attempt to put their best foot forward with two games on tap tonight and three more following on Saturday.

Tonight it will be Boone (0-1) at Lyman (0-1) and New Smyrna Beach (1-0) at Ovidio (0-1). Saturday afternoon Bishop Moore (0-1) is at Lake Howell (0-1) and Trinity Prep (0-1) at Jacksonville Episcopal (1-0) travels to Daytona Beach to face Mainland (1-0).

The Boone-Lyman Metro Conference matchup pits a pair of winless clubs both capable of winning. Boone Coach Jesse Lzue has one of the area's premier throwers in Mark Hutsell, but the quarterback probably won't even be in the starting lineup.

"Just don't even mention his name. I don't know what I'm going to do with him," said Lane of his controversial star. Hutsell isn't injured. And he's eligible. Lane's problem with Hutsell is one of mental disposition and off field activities.

"Hmm... I all know it is going to be a pretty fair team, and if Hutsell plays, he can throw the football," said Lyman coach Dick Copeland.

Lyman has a quarterback of merit, also. Bob Burkhardt will hopefully get the Greyhound passing game untracked, something he wasn't able to do last week in an opening loss to Oak Ridge. Fumbles were Lyman's undoing.

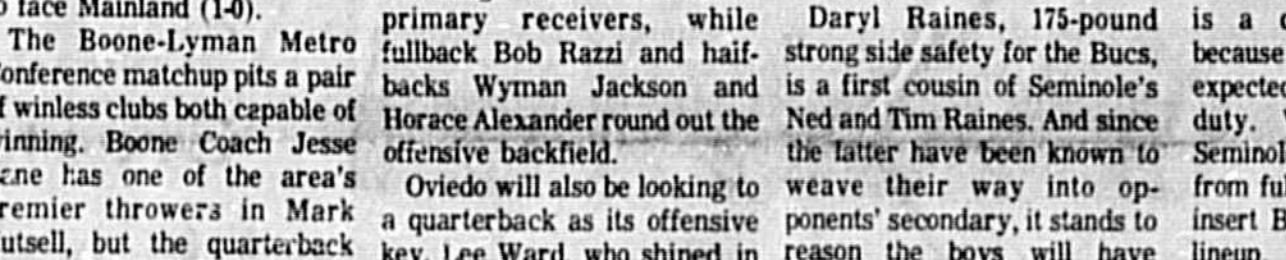

Danny Williams and Mick Manning are Burkhardt's primary receivers, while Flagger Palm Coast, might lead the state in eye-catching names. Besides the Raines name, the Buccs roster includes 175 lb. John Burch, DeWayne McClaren (son of ex-BCC coach Jack McClaren) and three starters named Daryl who each spell the name the same way.

As far as Seminole is concerned, it's not a name game. It's a scoring game, and Seminole fans are hungry for a convincing enough victory that they can be assured this year's team is for real.

Drew Bongianelli, Tim Raines is a questionable starter because of a sprained ankle, but expected to see at least limited duty. With him out, the Seminoles moved Ned Raines from fullback to halfback and insert Bill McDaniels into the lineup.

That was the procedure last week and McDaniels wound up the team's top ground gainer against unseen foes, yard line markers, officials, sports writers or anyone within earshot.

The coach of 1970's Class AAA state champions, Nelson has been known to drop his knee on the sidelines and gaze skyward after his team fumbled on its own one-yard line.

Dublin Downs FTU

The score was 6-4, and FTU coach Jim Rudy would obviously preferred to have quit at intermission. At least early in the second half when he had a two-goal lead.

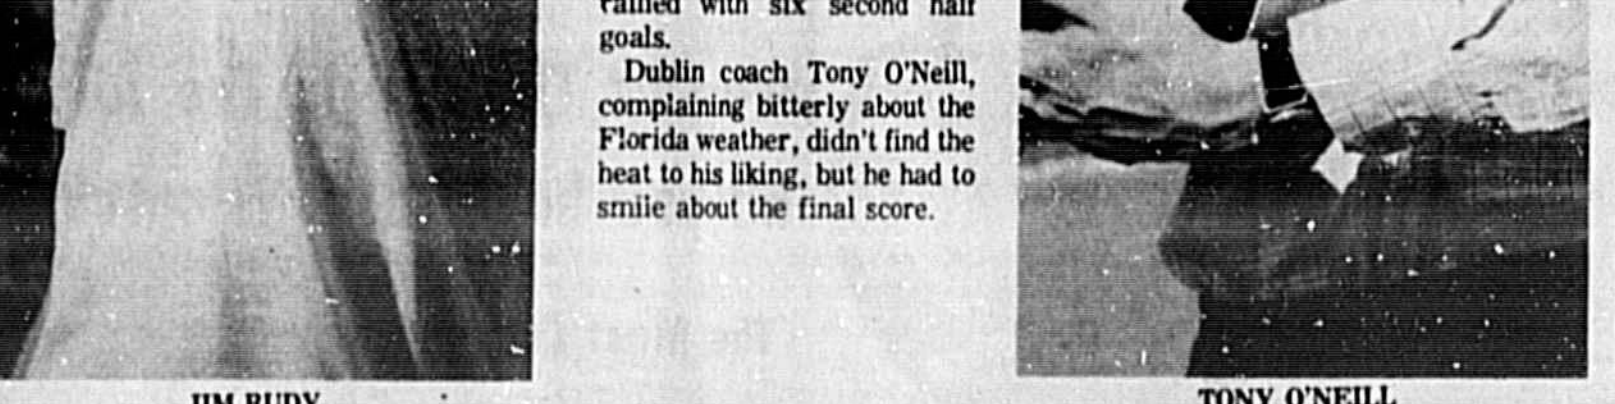

FTU led at halftime, 1-0.

The second half could only be described as "wild... simply wild" by Rudy. He's still not certain today what happened, except his Knight booters suffered a severe letdown as the Dublin team from Ireland rallied with six second half goals.

Dublin coach Tony O'Neill, complaining bitterly about the Florida weather, didn't find the heat to his liking, but he had to smile about the final score.

Florida State Hopes To Beef Up Its Defensive Play

TALLHASSEE (AP) — Seeking strength at linebacker, Mudra has inserted Walden Williams, a 21-year-old freshman who played minor league baseball, into the starting lineup. He said Aaron Carter, who was benched last week after Florida State coaches incorrectly blamed him for defensive weaknesses, will man the other linebacker position. Also elevated to the starting FSU lineup in an effort to bolster the defense were freshman tackle Willie Jones, end Dave Forrier and middle guard John Thames.

To 205-pound Jones falls the heavy responsibility of outplaying Aggie tackle Scott Farish, a 6-6, 269-pound monster. "Willie's going to have to play a great game."

But the key to Seminole success according to Mudra, is better defense.

Georgia Tech Primed For Hurricanes

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — After Georgia Tech dropped its season opener a week ago, Coach Pepper Rodgers developed a new game plan for Saturday's opponent, a Miami team making its 1975 college football debut under Coach Carl Selmer.

"You can't really say that anyone's going to have the key responsibility," Mudra said. "Certainly it's going to be a responsibility of the linebackers, but our linebacking play hasn't been real good."

Ultimatum Sounds Like Freedom Bid

DEAR ABBY: I was a divorcee with six children for nine years. Then I married a man who is 10 years my junior. My two youngest children made their home with us. (All the others were on their own.) The last two are now 17 and 18 and neither is sufficiently mature to leave home. Maybe it's my fault for not pushing them hard enough, but the fact remains that they still need me. My husband has issued an ultimatum: "Either your kids go or I do. I am tired of supporting them. My love for this man is indescribable, but I can't send my children away. How much do I owe my husband? My children? Myself?"

DEAR ABBY: In my opinion, a man who would give his wife such an ultimatum knows that she will choose her children — which is what I think he really wants.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 18 and my boyfriend is 22. We've gone together for a year. He lives 30 miles from my home and drives over to be with me about four times a week.

He says he loves me, but we sure do fight a lot. And everytime we have a fight, he asks me to give him all the presents back that he gave me, plus a check to cover the expense of gas for all the trips he made to see me.

Do you think we should take a vacation from each other for a while?

He wants to marry me, but I'm not sure we can get along with each other. If we do break up, should I return his gifts plus the money for his gas?

DEAR CONFUSED: A "vacation" from each other is a splendid idea. Date others and hope that he grows up in the meantime. If you break up, return his gifts and tell him the gas was on him.

DEAR ABBY: This is trivial, I suppose, but I need a "professional" answer and don't know where else to turn. I hope you can help me.

A baby boy was born illegitimately in our family. He was given up for adoption when he was a week old. The natural grandmother insists on counting this child as her "grandchild." She even included him in a family obituary!

I think she is wrong. Your comments, please. Thank you.

DEAR WONDERING: A child given up for adoption assumes the name of its adoptive parents and becomes a legal part of THEIR family. Of course the memory of the child may linger on in the mind of the natural grandparent, but he is no longer legally part of that family.

Insect Farms May Yield Food For The Future

THE HERALD SERVICES

A new book or movie just released in the United States is called "Bug." It shows people under attack by fiery cockroaches.

"Bug" could just as well be the title of a scientific treatise on ways to ease the world food shortage.

Insects are eaten by millions of people around the world. Scientists think the cultivation and consumption of various types of insects could be vastly expanded, and could contribute to meeting the nutritional needs of the hungry.

Professor Gene de Voliari, a University of Wisconsin entomologist, is one who thinks insects could be an important source of food. "There is no doubt about the quality of insects as food," he says, "but the subject has hardly been considered. A lot of insects are used for food in more primitive cultures, but not in the more civilized parts of the world."

The professor is right about the quality of insects as food, but not about where they are consumed. Toasted ants are considered a delicacy in Colombia, and are served at diplomatic receptions in Bogota. They taste a bit like salted peanuts.

Chocolate covered bees are to be found on the gourmet shelves of delicatessens and food stores in the United States. In Japan, silkworm larvae are a traditional dish.

Termites are eaten and enjoyed in dozens of countries. They reportedly have more protein than fish, less fat than prime beef, and contain about 100 calories to the ounce.

In a 1971 book, Introduction to Nutrition, Henrietta Flex wrote: "Insects constitute one of the best remaining sources of protein for the human diet and are tasty and clean."

That insects are good to eat, and good for you, is not a recent discovery. The ancient Greeks loved to eat grasshoppers, and the Romans delighted in beetle grubs. According to the Bible, John the Baptist lived in the wilderness, eating locusts and wild honey. Hebrew dietary laws, notoriously strict on food matters, listed four kinds of insects the people were permitted to eat.

Current scientific interest in insect-eating is based on their potential as a source of protein. Entomologists think such insects as spiders, beetles, crickets, termites and cicadas could be mass produced on sewage, mature and agricultural wastes. They mature and multiply rapidly, and a single "insect farm" could produce several tons of protein a day.

The product could be ground up for fertilizer, fed to animals, or consumed directly by humans. Epicurus says that once people break out of their traditional cultural attitudes, eating insects can be a delightful experience. After all, the French eat snails; the Argentinians eat baby octopus; the Peruvians are crazy about raw fish. Why not cockroaches and spiders?

A spade and club were discarded from dummy and East let a spade go.

The defense had four tricks in it. If West had thought to lead his 10 of clubs, South's contract would have collapsed. But West made what he thought was the safe lead of a spade.

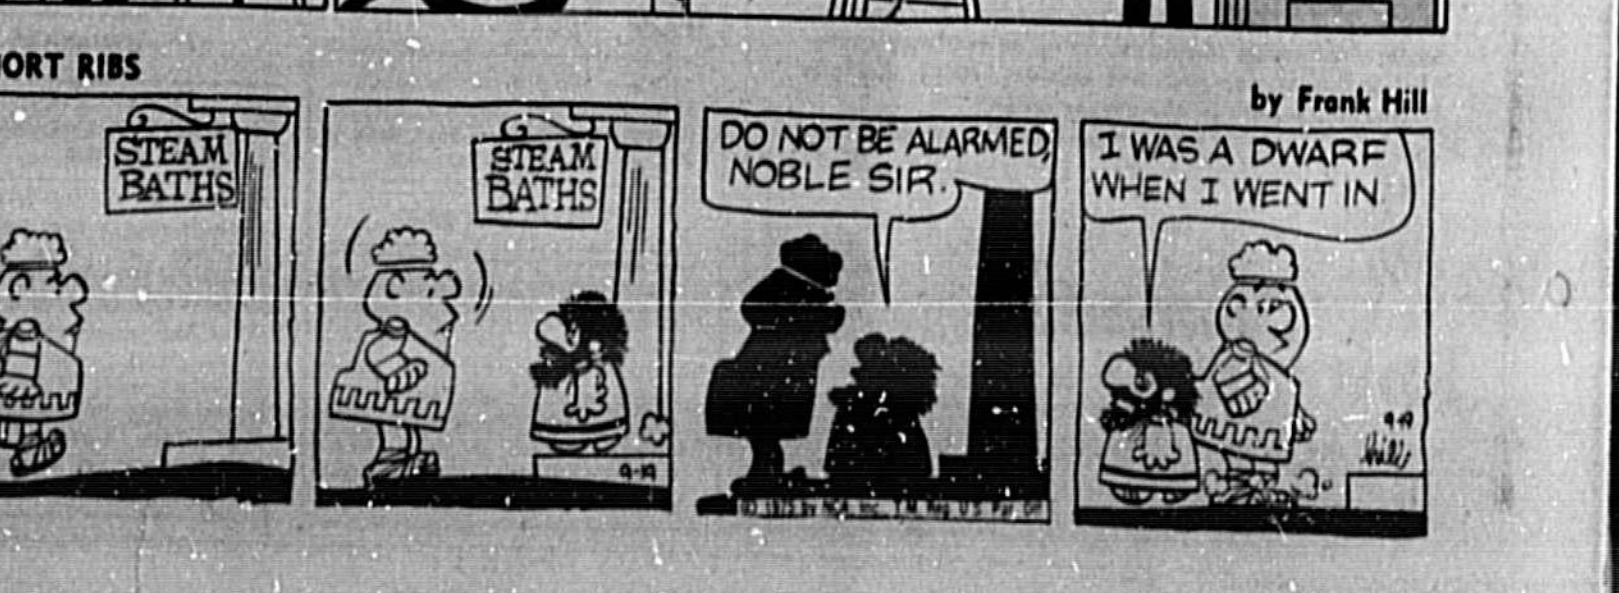

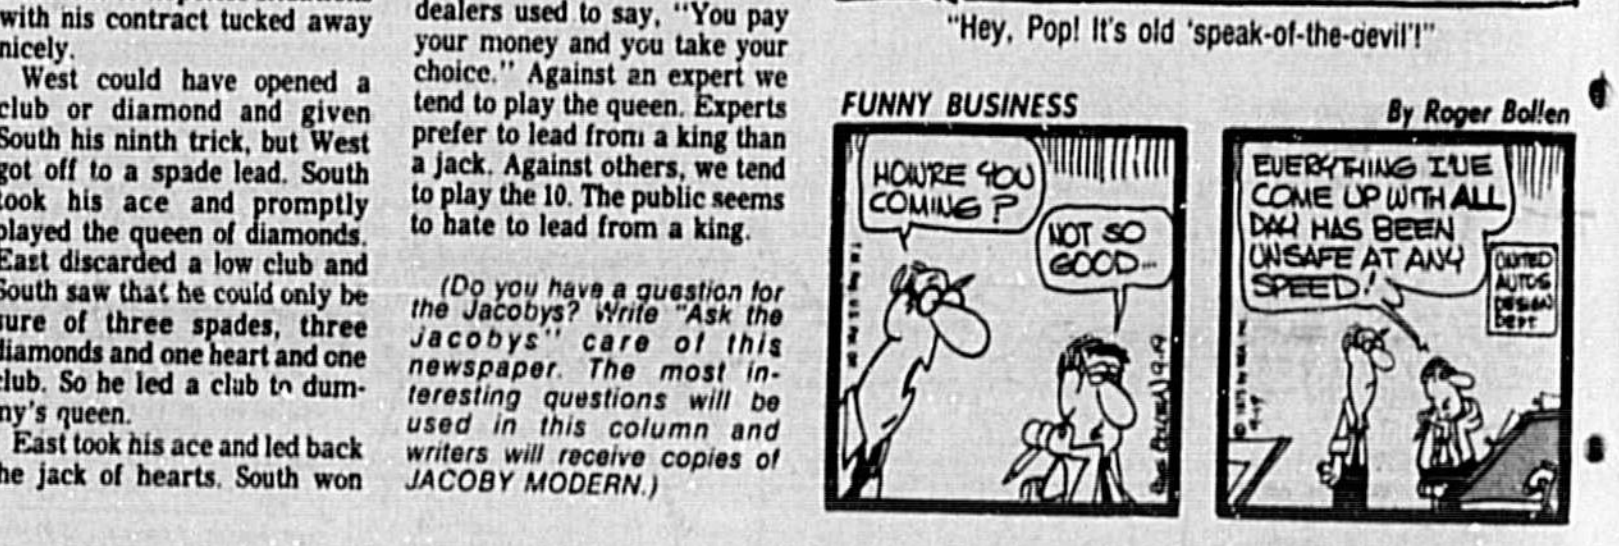

South won with the ace, led a diamond to dummy's king and claimed the balance since East had been squeezed out of his hopper in one black suit.

Ask the Jacobys

A Colorado reader asks, "Your one no-trump opening is raised to three. The five of spades is led. Dummy holds queen-10, you hold ace-nine. Which spade do you play from dummy?"

As the old three-card monte dealers used to say, "You pay your money and you take your choice." Against an expert we tend to play the queen. Experts prefer to lead from a king than a jack. Against others, we tend to play the 10. The public seems to hate to lead from a king.

World's Brighter For Bean Family

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — The world is a little brighter for the Bean family — Dewey, Marcia and their three little daughters including 20-day-old Shannon Lynn — today.

At least there is food in the house and they are no longer hungry and Dewey is home from the hospital.

Because of the efforts of landlady Mrs. Anne Wickliffe, Rev. Lucas Grile, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Casseberry City Clerk Mary Hawthorne and a lot of people who would rather remain anonymous, the family's immediate problems — mostly food and clothing — have been solved.

But, the longer range problems — $200 back rent and a $100 power bill — two months — still remain there. Dewey doesn't know when he will be able to return to work after a suspected heart attack this week.

Even though the cupboards in the family's 1411 Huntington Drive mobile home were empty the first of the week, they are now stocked. There will be food for awhile.

The food stamp office, with assistance from the Florida Division of Family Services (DFS), certified the family for food stamp assistance Friday and the stamps will probably be available Monday.

"What they need now is cash," said Rev. Grile, a rather outspoken and kindly man, known around Casseberry as a minister who gets things done.

"It didn't take much to see that this family has been struggling for a long time and had about reached the end of its rope. They were trying to make it on their own," the minister said.

He took Marcia Bean to the Division of Family Services office Friday, seeking a permanent solution, assistance until the family can help itself again. What he was looking for was cash to pay the rent and the power bill.

Instead, Mr. and Mrs. Bean were told of the rules — documents have to be presented showing that Bean does have a medical problem.

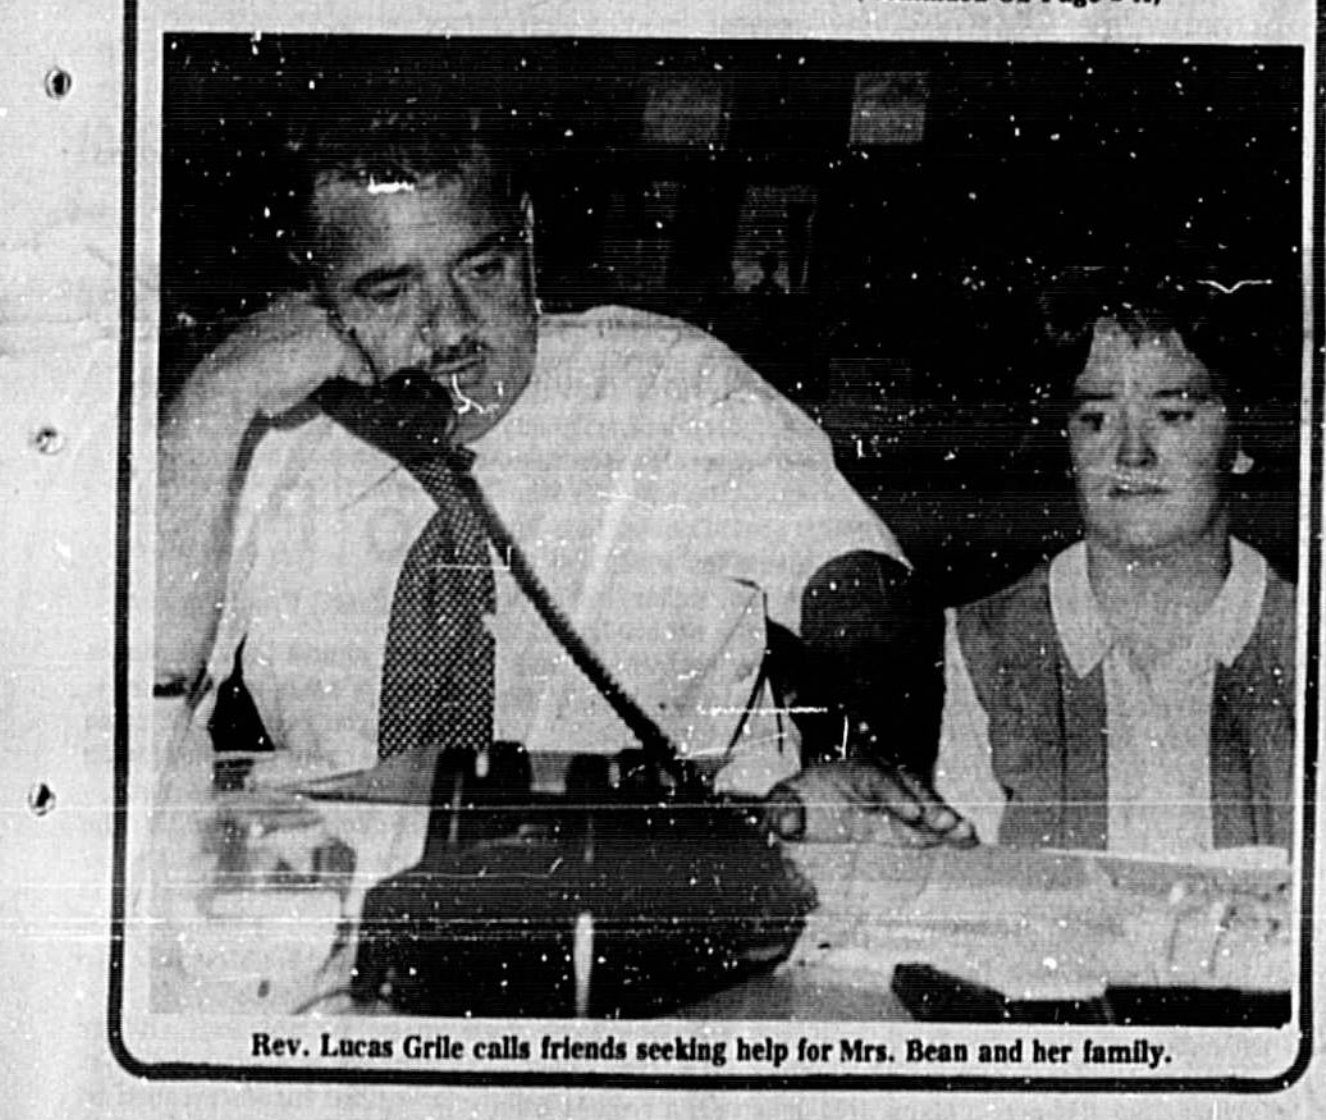

Then an investigation must be made to determine if the family qualifies under the incapacity section of the state welfare laws. It is easier for a family to get financial assistance if it seems, and DFS admits, if the father has deserted his wife and children, which Bean had not.

Rather, Bean had been working 12 to 14 hours daily at a local service station, sometimes with food to eat during a break in the long day's labor but usually without.

In his view, it was more important that his three daughters, including a new baby less than three weeks old, have something to eat.

Marcia says her husband was having dizzy spells when he was rushed to Florida Hospital North and later transferred to the larger Orlando facility early in the week with a suspected heart attack. He was hospitalized four days — three in the intensive care unit.

Two Faces Of Patty Seen After Capture

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In her first two days of captivity, Patricia Hearst has shown two different faces.

She was Tania, the 21-year-old radical fugitive, arrested with a loaded gun in her purse, who told a matron booking her into jail that her occupation was "urban guerrilla."

And she was newspaper heiress Patricia Campbell Hearst, who laid her head on the shoulder of a father she had once reviled as a pig and said "Where else?" when he asked if she wanted to come home.

She was the self-proclaimed revolutionary, subject to a possible life sentence if convicted of bank robbery and other charges, who through her attorney sent "greetings and love to all the brothers and sisters out there."

And she was the pale, slender victim of a kidnapping 18 months ago who told a fellow inmate she was glad to hear her mother say she still loved her, a defendant who offered no objection when her attorney said she would plead innocent to the charges against her.

The woman who at the peak of her revolutionary ardor had vowed, "They'll have to kill me before I go back, there is no surrender," offered no resistance when agents arrested her Thursday. They said she made no move to reach a loaded .38 caliber pistol in her purse and told them of two carbines in a nearby closet.

"I asked her if she was glad it was over," said Tim Casey, the police inspector who made the arrest.

Her public utterances since then have been limited to brief replies to a judge's ritual questions establishing her name, age and attorney's name.

Manslaughter Verdict Returned

Mrs. Kiley Found Guilty

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A circuit court jury returned a guilty verdict of manslaughter Friday afternoon for Mrs. Betty Jean Kiley, 41, of Sanford, after deliberating 13 hours over a 10-day span.

"You undoubtedly will be shaking slightly as she wiped tears from her eyes, was surrounded by friends and relatives as she left the courtroom following the three-day trial.

Mrs. Kiley, her hands shaking slightly as she wiped tears from her eyes, was surrounded by friends and relatives as she left the courtroom following the three-day trial.

Mrs. Kiley had been accused of first-degree murder in the June 7 slaying of her 46-year-old husband, Thomas H. Kiley, at his 3114 Rudder Circle, Sanford Airport, home.

During deliberations Thursday and Friday, the jury returned to the courtroom to hear court reporter Norman Robbin read testimony from police officers and a chemist.

Officers, who responded after a woman telephoned police headquarters at 4:09 a.m. June 7 and said she'd shot her husband, found Kiley's body on a couch in the living room of the dwelling.

Seminole County Medical Dr. G. V. Garay testified that Kiley was killed by a single bullet in the right temple and that there were powder burns on the body indicating the shot was fired from close range.

Police said Mrs. Kiley, after being warned of her rights, told them "I killed him. I've been wanting him dead."

There was testimony also that she directed investigators to a closet in a bedroom where the couple's two sons were sleeping. Police found a 22 rifle in the closet. The rifle contained a fired cartridge casing.

The death bullet was mutilated so badly that the prosecution told the jury "we can only say it came from a gun like this (the rifle)."

Mrs. Kiley's younger son and daughter testified for the defense of domestic fights in which Kiley beat his wife and had threatened to kill her.

Steven R. Kiley, the couple's eldest son, was called to the witness stand by Figgatt as a state's witness.

He testified that about four weeks before the trial he was riding in an auto with his mother and relatives. He said they had discussed the pending trial but that his mother "kept talking under her breath. She said it was an accident."

Mrs. Kiley didn't testify in the trial.

No date has been set for sentencing Mrs. Kiley.

Judge Woodson told defense attorneys they would be notified of the date of sentencing when the state parole and probation commission completes the PSI.

Under Florida law, a person convicted of a felony must have no record of prior criminal convictions.

Zoo Hours Change

The Central Florida Zoo here in Sanford will be closed every Monday and additional construction plans have been halted because of economic reasons and a lack of attendance.

Al Rozon, director of the zoo, said Friday the new hours are a "seasonal change" during the winter months, which means a six-day week from Labor Day through February.

The zoo will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Rozon said the facility will resume its seven day operation on the first day of March, 1976, through Labor Day.

He said the change will give his 13-member staff a day off and allow for maintenance and service work. He said he lost nine volunteers and 11 CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) workers after schools reopened.

Due to lack of construction monies, Rozon said he has had to hold off on expansion plans and temporarily terminate the $29,000 Woodlands Life Cell, a project which would house small mammals, including raccoons and opossums.

Rozon explained he also will be revising priorities and allocations with the Zoological Society's $100,000 private operating grant.

Vogt Named To Post

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

State Senate President Dempsey Barron has appointed Senator John Vogt to the Senate Education Committee, officials announced today.

Vogt, a Cocoa Beach Democrat who represents Brevard and Seminole Counties, says he was asked for the appointment because of the huge number of tax dollars spent yearly on education.

About 60 per cent of the state's general budget yearly is allocated to education.

Though Vogt says the Natural Resources Committee was his "first love," he is fast developing an even bigger interest in Florida's educational system.

He plans to do the same thing for Seminole and Brevard.

"I will protect the counties," the senator said.

Vogt is no stranger to education. He was introduced under fire this year when parents boycotted Roseland Elementary School.

'Cash Only' Policy A Sure Safeguard

By AUDIE MURPHY

The best way for a merchant to avoid getting burned by a worthless check is to accept cash only, according to the experts.

But they concede that for all merchants to revert to cash right away would be impractical, so these experts offer some basic advice when accepting checks: know as much as possible about the person from whom you're accepting the check.

At a recent news conference about a new bad check law, Orange-Osceola State Attorney Robert Egan said merchants in the future might have to start relying more on cash transactions.

Egan said if merchants must take checks they should obtain as much information about the individual as possible.

Basic identification such as driver's licenses, credit cards, voter registration card, etc., should be supplemented by photographs and a thumbprint on the check.

Another advocate of the fingerprint kit is William Heffernan, a prosecutor in Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Abbott Herring's office.

Heffernan also warns individuals who accept checks for contracted work to have the check made out at the time of the agreement is reached — and

"We have people that come into town on Friday, open an account with $50, take the starter set of checks the bank gives them and write checks for several hundreds, or thousands, of dollars. On the weekend, the banks are closed, so the merchants can't call them."

—Prosecutor William Heffernan

before the work is completed. Heffernan says it is more difficult to prosecute a case involving payment for "past services."

Because of the growing problem of worthless checks in the Central Florida area, merchants, banks, chambers of commerce and law enforcement agencies are cooperating in fighting the problem.

Banks, for instance, are imprinting opening dates of the account on each check in code. If the account is brand new, the merchant might have reason to be extra careful.

Heffernan said, "We have legal requirements. — Have personal checks endorsed in your presence and initial immediately. If they're already endorsed, have them signed again. — Be doubly cautious on weekends and holidays. — Check with the bank about large amounts. — Be cautious of new accounts. — Use approved stamp and decal. — These are some of the common-sense approaches to the bad check problem. — Another item to watch for is the date. Since a check is merely a promise to pay, the date is critically important. — Heffernan advises to avoid pre-dated and post-dated checks.
