Reds Aim New Drive At Ukranian Capital

Nazis Caught In Nets By Soviet Troops Along 400-Mile Front

(By Associated Press) In Russia, the triumphant Red armies struck out 36 miles to the northwest from recaptured Kharkov in a drive aimed at the ancient Ukraine capital of Kiev and piled up fresh successes along the 400-mile front. Soviet headquarters today pictured the Germans as falling back with bloody losses. Russian guerrillas were reported falling upon masses of German troops retreating from Rostov while Red columns plunged deeper into the Donets basin and others were forcing a pioneer thrust to Orel, 200 miles beyond Moscow. On the Kharkov front, Col. Gen. Philip Golikov's forces were making better than one mile an hour in pursuit of broken German units, leading military observers to believe that he might strike a lightning blow at the Konyotok junction, 150 miles northwest of Kharkov and 130 miles northeast of Kiev. By taking Konyotok Golikov would cut the Bryansk-Orel railroad and cut off both the German defense bases from Kiev. By storming into Slaviansk, to which the Germans had clung desperately, the Russians captured a railroad junction from which they could pour men on to Lvov, 74 miles south of Konyotok, and thence to the Dniester River, 80 miles away. Another blow could sweep southwest from Kharkov on Poltava, 100 miles southwest of Kiev and 55 miles from the Dniester.

A total of $1,510.50 has been raised during four days campaigning by the Salvation Army in funds to operate its relief activities and for establishment and operation of a boys' club, according to H. L. Moudy, campaign director. This amount, he stated, represents more than three times the $400 quota set for the drive. ### Solons To Offer Bill Deferring Farm Laborers

Compromise Is Still Sought On Farm Ceiling Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—A powerful bloc of more than 30 Senators today agreed to offer legislation compelling the military government of experienced farm workers and furloughing of those now in the armed forces as a means of relieving the farm manpower shortage which they said was hampering food production. Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) said two measures would be introduced soon, probably with the pledged support of more than a majority of 90 senators. Meanwhile, talk was heard today in the capital of a compromise of the sharp differences between the Administration and Congress over farm prices. Under such a setup, the government would support all farm prices at full parity and impose ceilings at not less than parity and offer subsidies or incentive payments only where parity prices failed to induce expanded production. "The tax on large incomes," he said, "runs to 88 percent already. Congress might hesitate to pass a law which would be so confiscatory, as suggested."

Congressmen Disapprove "Super-Tax"

House Ways, Means Leaders Want To Peg Salaries At Pre-War Levels

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Chairman Doughton today said the House Ways and Means Committee had taken no cognizance of the Presidential request for a wartime "super-tax" and the committee apparently would stand in approval of a bill to peg salaries above $25,000 at pre-war levels. President Roosevelt Wednesday proposed that Congress levy a 100 percent war "super-tax" on all individual income exceeding $25,000 net a year, and Robert W. Taft (R-Ohio) sponsor of the repeal of the present salary limit set at that figure promptly denounced the plan as "confiscatory." Mr. Roosevelt offered his recommendation in lieu of the limitation now established by executive order, but he said that the degree of taxes are levied to "substantially accomplish" this purpose. The suggestion was contained in a letter to chairman Robert I. Doughton (D-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee. Doughton, a committee member declared that "if we have reached the stage in American life when we begin to limit incomes, Congress should be the limiting power." "The tax on large incomes," he said, "runs to 88 percent already. Congress might hesitate to pass a law which would be so confiscatory, as suggested."

Rommel's Tankmen Advance 66 Miles In New Offensive

After German Raid On U.S.-Held Algiers Airport

German bombs rained on the Stuka El Herbi airport in Algiers after its capture by American paratroopers. ### American Formations Destroyed Beyond Hope Of Immediate Counter-Attacking

(By Associated Press) American armored formations withdrew today into the mountains below Tebessa in Algeria after receiving a severe mauling at the hands of Marshal Rommel's tankmen who occupied the towns of Sbeitla, Kasserine and Feridun in a 66-mile advance since Sunday. Forward field reports indicated American tank formations suffered a decisive defeat and that the Germans had succeeded in the crossing of the mountain range through to the point where any advance by a successful counter-attack in the near future was unlikely. The general feeling among observers at Allied headquarters in North Africa was that Rommel may have gone as far as he was able to at this stage, but he appeared comparatively free to turn his attention southward where a large communication today announced the British had reached the Mareth line after a 15-mile dash in two days. In Washington, Secretary of War Stimson said the American Forces in central Tunisia had suffered a "serious local setback" which "should not be minimized, but still less should it be exaggerated." He said reports are incomplete but the American Forces apparently have suffered rather heavy casualties in both personnel and equipment. A Nazi blitzkrieg powered by four Mark IV tanks almost immune to frontal fire, hammered without halt green American troops back close to the Algerian border last night and it was feared the Allies might have to abandon all of Central Tunisia. There, key American airfields were evacuated in the path of the German advance depriving American and British fighter squadrons, which had just gone into full scale action of invaluable forward bases from which to support the American ground forces. Ground crews only partly put the fields in shape after months of scorching work. In the forecast and bloodiest fighting of the Tunisian war, the Allies were held back 36 miles from the last Pass to the outskirts of Sbeitla since the enemy onslaught began four days ago. It was disclosed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in Africa, narrowly escaped being caught in the fighting when he was driven in a jeep through Sidi Bou Zid, southwest of Sbeitla, on an unbroken trail four feet wide and a half before German tanks crashed into the town last Sunday. The fiercest fighting of Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps were occurring the 50-ton Mark IV monsters, supplied them by Gen. Jürgen von Arnim's army of Southern Tunisia, for a supreme assault to blast open the vital mid-Tunisian road system.

Fire Chief Brings Up Necessity Of Better Equipment

Need of proper fire apparatus to combat the growing menace of fires in forest and grass areas within the county, was today pointed out by Fire Chief M. N. Cleveland. "Our department has in a number of cases, some somewhat beyond the city limits, to combat fires in homes, barns and other structures," he stated, "but due to the fact that we are undermanned, and must be able to attend to local fires at all times, we cannot get far." The burning of the home of H. Buxbaum in Paola Monday, he said, might have been avoided if checks had citizens in the vicinity possessed proper fire fighting apparatus. For use in communities such as Paola, Lake Monroe, Fern Park and others, Chief Cleveland recommended that the county secure a small fire truck capable of containing several hundred gallons of water, and having a booster pump whereby water could be pumped from nearby lakes. This truck could be kept in Sanford under fire department supervision and operated by men furnished by the county, he said. The Indian hand pump, the tank of which contains several gallons of water, and is strapped to the back of the fire fighter, are also very efficient in the hands of citizens in extinguishing all types of field, home and auto fires, Chief Cleveland added, and said that the department used a number of these constantly in fire fighting.

Jap's New Guinea Force Continues Southwest Retreat

(By Associated Press) The defeated Japanese force in the hills of New Guinea still is retreating toward the village of Mubo, 12 miles southwest of the enemy-held Port of Salamaua, Allied command announced Wednesday. The retreat was revealed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, which he announced that a heavy Allied bomber sank an 80-foot Japanese schooner off Cape Cuvier, the western tip of New Guinea Island. The Japanese were defeated by Australian troops at the Mubo area of New Guinea, which was captured by the Allies last week after a 12-day encounter in which they lost nearly 1,000 men in an attempt to take Mubo. The Japanese force, which was in retreat toward Mubo since Thursday. The London radio was quoted by the United Press in New York as broadcasting Wednesday that a cable from an Australian Headquarters Commission correspondent in New Guinea reported that a last clash with the Japs occurred only 2 1/2 miles from Mubo, with the enemy still being long back. The enemy continues his withdrawal toward Mubo, but by our forward elements," the commission said. Headquarters spokesmen said that the Japanese were being used by the Australians to smash their own forces, and that although the location of the present Japanese force was unknown, it was near Mubo than Wau. Books For The Future

Even if depraved nations kill the best people and burn the books, as Hitler has tried to do, there will remain a fair amount of civilization with which to start over again. Present-day historians seem determined to take care of that, doing a more thorough job than was done when the old Roman Empire broke down. At that time there was a literary blackout of several centuries in Europe.

The English historian, H. G. Wells, has been writing so many books filled with modern learning that they couldn't all be destroyed except by a comet. They will be scattered over the world so freely that, if necessary, human knowledge can be renewed from them sooner or later. And now a popular American writer is engaged in a similar enterprise. He is Will Durant, who covers less ground than Wells, but is a sort of literary brother-under-the-skin, and writes better, and is more of a philosopher. He is producing a new, monumental "Story of Civilization" on which, by the time it is finished, he will have spent 35 years. That is longer than it took Edward Gibbon to produce the famous "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" which first bridged the gap between ancient and modern culture. Mr. Durant is on his third volume and has got as far as "Caesar and Christ."

Incidentally he writes in long hand. He says he does it because the typewriter "tempts to loose writing." Many a lesser writer has noticed that.

Mixed Time

Americans, who always want to know what time it is, seem to be getting more and more mixed up about it. There is Eastern time and Central time and Mountain time and Pacific time, and daylight-saving time and war time and other times all mixed up together, with state boundaries and railroads and airplanes and radio increasing the confusion. Father Time himself must be puzzled.

It was clear enough in the old days when we simply divided the country into north-and-south slices somewhat like sections of an orange. But it is a changed world now, far more complex and sensitive to any monkeying with the electric clock.

"Sun time" was once the most satisfactory of all. Probably it is yet to farmers. But otherwise nothing now is so simple as that. The sun as a chronometer seems to have served his purpose for most people. Even the farmers, when they get into town or into the next state, or turn on the radio, are likely to get into trouble. And good old Greenwich itself, the famous English time-keeper for the world, doesn't seem to be really on the job any more as far as ordinary people are concerned.

Most European countries seem to have a simpler system. French and Italian time, for instance, have long operated in 24-hour units instead of two units of 12 hours each. It would seem very queer for Americans to have supper at 19 o'clock instead of seven, but people might get used to it.

The Shame of The Parents

Speaking recently on the subject of juvenile delinquency, which has been increasing at an alarming rate in the United States the last couple of years, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia University, said:

"I believe the chief reason why we have here in America the present widespread and very disturbing outbreak of crime and disorder on the part of our youth is that the fundamental place for the inculcation of discipline has been quite forgotten."

"Discipline should and must have its basis in the family. Therefore the home is much more important than the school or the church when it comes to 'training a child in the way that it should go.'"

Dr. Butler is right. What has happened in this country is that we have far too many homes where parents have, in the quest for personal or selfish satisfaction and aggrandizement, permitted their children to "run loose," to indulge themselves as they see fit. Too many of us seem to have forgotten that home is the place where morals and manner should be taught as a parental obligation and civic duty to the community.

The school and church both have their proper part to play in the upbringing of children. But neither of these can replace the home. Teachers and preachers cannot assume the obligations intended for parents. To try to "have them do so is a shabby evasion of a fundamental duty. The shame of a portion of our present day youth is all too frequently the shame of their parents.—Grit Ft. Pierce News Tribune.

WEEKLY NEWS COLUMN

NO INNER TUBES — INSTRUCTIONS—I wrote a story some time ago concerning the fact that Mr. McGary, a practical businessman of Tulsa, Oklahoma, had come to the conclusion that tires could be used without an inner tube, thereby saving hundreds of thousands of tons of rubber. I also stated that I was making a test of this for myself. I have now had one on my car without an inner tube in it for over two months and have had no trouble with it. This tire is not a tire made specially for that purpose. I simply took the inner tube out of one of my old tires and had it put on the wheel. I also said at that time that I would give further instructions later. These I am giving now and suggest that if anyone cares to try this that they take it to an expert tire man and let him make the necessary preparation because the preparation for this is important. The procedure is as follows:

1. Remove casing and tube from rim. Inspect inside of casing and seal. If any cracks are found, they should be repaired. 2. Apply sealant to the inside of the casing and seal. 3. Apply sealant to the inside of the casing and seal.

The Flynn case, that is the Hollywood one, is closed but Mr. F. will learn that "You may break, you may crush the vase, if you will, but the odor of the rose will cling to it still."

They had a hair-pulling dog hair—on Capitol Hill recently because a congressman's pooch became lost and he wanted all sorts of legislation for dog protection. From that they reached the innaprop stage, referring to two-legged curs and ending in the conclusion that at best congressmen led a dog's life.

A New Orleans man escaped unhurt from an auto wreck, turned around to see what it was all about and was killed by another car. Let us see, wasn't Mr. L. who flat turned to "rubber" and then became a pillow of salt?

Says Ike: "Seems to me them fellers is in a terrible hurry to advised how that should be done or could be done because these people are employed by department heads and any law that we may pass would be an infringement upon the prerogatives and powers of the Executive branch and therefore would be unconstitutional. There is one way that we have left open to us. All appropriation bills originate in the House. The House can put any limitation upon any appropriation that they so desire. In some instances the House has added an amendment to an appropriation bill providing "that no part of any appropriation contained in this act shall be used to pay the compensation of Mr. Black Blank."

This accomplishes the result because they cannot pay them out of the appropriation out we soon found them bobbing up in another department. I maintain that if we are not going to take action on these people whose names are submitted by this committee then we have no business appropriating any more money for the activities of the committee. On Monday, February 1st, Congressman Dies, Chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities, gave a two-hour report to the House and submitted the names of forty-one prominent employees in various departments of the government who were being investigated.

Most of us thought that the silent citizen of the sea, the chambered nautilus, was mighty useless though it did inspire Oliver Wendell Holmes to write a poem about it. Now comes the American Weekly, a syndicated supplement for Sunday papers, quoting Henry Frampton, erstwhile Miami newspaper man, as saying that it gave the idea for the submarine. The little shell has within it several chambers by means of which, by ejecting or taking on seawater, it can rise to the surface or submerge to sea-bottom.

U. S. Army Plans Further Steps To Conserve Foods

ORLANDO, Feb. 12. (Special)—With point rationing soon to go into effect for the civilian population, the United States Army is planning further steps toward food conservation within the service, to augment its present measures already in force against food shortages. The Army's current rationing system was started back in the days when coffee, sugar and butter still flowed over store counters. But before the average citizen was aware of the necessity for such conservation. However, through the abundant use of foods not under rationing and the keeping of a strict check on whatever scarce items are used, the Army has been able to provide a surprisingly good menu for the soldiers. Utilizing these same practices, Army "chow" will continue to be of the same high quality in the future. "Butter?" Sgt. C. J. Hocker, a man of seven years Army mess experience, said, "We serve it at only one meal a day—breakfast. You see, we have a strict allotment of five pounds for each 100 men in a three-day period. And that has to cover both cooking and table use too."

So that you may keep that Fashion Look. Keep your clothes smartly cleaned. That's good economy today. Lower new clothes when you are all buying.

considered. Sgt. Hocker and Lt. Daniel have been providing excellent nutritious meals that would delight both the food connoisseur and the dietitian. The current and most pressing shortage—meat—is being combated by the insertion of meatless meals at regular intervals on the menu. Bones and other seemingly useless scraps are converted into delicious soups, gravies and other dishes. There need be no doubt—the Army is working hand in hand with the civilian to help lick the Axis by conservation.

WAR QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

1. Q. Why have shoes been rationed?

A. Wartime demands for leather and manpower have slowed down the production of civilian shoes. More of the remaining supply is needed for our armed forces.

2. Q. How will shoe rationing relieve the strain of reduced production?

A. Shoe rationing will divide the supply fairly and will enable merchants to maintain reasonably adequate and balanced stocks.

3. Q. How do I buy shoes under the ration order?

A. Between Feb. 9 and June 15, 1943, you give your shoe merchant stamp No. 17 from War Ration Book One (the Sugar Book). This stamp will enable you to buy one pair of shoes between now and June 15.

4. Q. Can anyone else buy a pair of shoes with my stamp No. 17?

A. Only people who are related to you by blood, marriage, or adoption and living with you in your household. The stamps belonging to a family household can be used within the family as that household thinks best.

5. Q. Are all kinds of shoes rationed?

A. The ration order covers unisex shoes made in whole or in part of leather, or with rubber soles, including all ordinary types and hard-soled moccasins, casual, play, platform, and rubber soled athletic shoes.

6. What kinds of shoes are not rationed?

A. Waterproof rubber footwear—including rubber articles, lumberman's overs, galfers, work, storm, and dress rubbers, clogs and toe rubbers. (Ration Order No. 6 already covers nine types of men's rubber boots and rubber work shoes.) Soft and hard-soled house and boudoir slippers—including scuffs, mules, dorays, rompers, operas, and soft-soled moccasins.

Soft-soled infants' shoes and ballet slippers.

7. Q. Are shoe repairs rationed?

A. No, shoe repairs are not rationed.

8. Q. How many pairs of shoes does the new ration regulation allow each person?

A. In general, each person will be allowed one pair between Feb. 9 and June 15, 1943. Future allotments will be announced later.

9. Q. Suppose some special circumstances make it necessary for a person to buy more than one pair of shoes between now and June 15?

A. If your health or occupational needs are involved, state your need in writing to your War Price & Rationing Board. If your need is real, your Board will issue you a special certificate of need. Shabby shoes or shoes that can be repaired must be considered adequate for your use.

Seminole Cagers Down Both Tavares And Eustis Quints

Two victories, one over Tavares yesterday afternoon, 17 to 31, and one over Eustis High School in the evening, 31 to 18, were scored by the Seminole High School basketball team in their invasion of Lake County.

Warren Daniels set the pace for the Sanford quint by scoring 19 points in the Tavares game. Pennington, Lee and Fleming returned most of the other points into the basket.

In the Eustis game, Daniels again appointed himself chairman of the point rationing board by gaining 9 points. Pete Brock got a priority on 7 points in the basket, and Bill Fleming got 6.

Altogether, it was a lovely basketball day for the Seminole quint, and according to Coach Macks they were in no danger of losing at any time in either game. He praised the ability however, of the two Tavares forwards, Doss and Pace who played a fine game, and between them scored 25 points of the 31 total.

YORK Feb. 14.—What's all this kuff about there being a second contender in our one? Ever since that light chocolate jutting Beau Jack reached these parts he has been tabbed as a contender as a young and fresh copy of the original Henry Armstrong.

Like Zimmerman, Hank, Beau Jack does seem able to go further and faster under the same ration of punches than the average citizen. He's a little bit of perpetual motion, but not sure.

Jack, the world lightweight champion by courtesy of the New York commission, hops about like a nervous jumping-jack. He sometimes seems to spring after a toe. And he throws punches from any angle every position. Armstrong did that, too, but Henry's punches were shorter ones from in close, while Jack swings from a distance.

Beau lands a lot of blows because his victim hardly knows in which direction to defend himself, but he misses many.

Although Jack won the decision, Fritz Zivic gave him a masterful lesson in scientific defense in their match the other night. Before that, a weazy, defensive Alie Stok made Jack miss more than 25 blows in a single round, according to one count.

Beau Jack comes in comparatively wide open. He's easy to hit. Armstrong kept moving, he kept his head down and his arms up, and protected himself. Jack gets hit with punches that Henry would have caught on his gloves.

Armstrong owned a better boxing head. He placed his punches with more accuracy, and knew he lives he hit twice as hard with either hand as does Beau Jack.

As one critic of boxing styles put it, Jack "wins on endurance, throwing wild punches and climbing all over you."

Armstrong arched his shoulders to be moved by swaying about. He could get you good with a short punch. Hank was adept at slipping punches, he'd slip one and hit you.

If Henry has retained as much of his old time stamina as Pacific Coast reports, he is liable to give a rough Jack a lesson when and if they tangle here.

But all this is just to say that this passing can't see an Armstrong-carbon copy in Jack. It just seems to get on your nerves who is quite a satisfaction. He's come a long way in a short time, from Negro battler, 1914, in Georgia to the lightweight championship in little more than two years. He is still young, and can't be expected to show the tricks of the trade that the veteran triple-champ did.

Jack let it be known that origin trainer. He is always in shape. He has plenty of courage, and he's a puncher and can deliver high punches, and he's got speed and lightning changes will find him hard to take.

There was a lot of talk about Beau Jack's record. He's got 125 straight wins, 110 of them by knockout. He's got 110 of them by knockout. He's got 110 of them by knockout.

Baseball Leaders Were Optimistic In February, 1918

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Baseball officials who view the approaching season with optimism might ponder the statistics of the Western League of February, 1918, in which the league produced a big year for baseball in spite of the war. The Western League and all the minor leagues except the International League were closed before Labor Day that year. When the casualty list started coming in, baseball had almost gone out.

But the Texas League came into existence, although they didn't start until after the war. The Western League had a record of 100 wins and 100 losses, a record that has never been equaled. The league was organized in 1917, and it was the only league to survive the war.

The average age of the players in the Western League was 25. The average age of the players in the major leagues was 27. The average age of the players in the minor leagues was 24.

The Western League was the only league to have a player who was 20 years old and had never played in a major league. The player was named "Lefty" Williams, and he was from San Francisco.

Red Armies Drive To Point 25 Miles North Of Tanagerog

In North, Russians Storm Onward At Rapid Clip Toward Nazi Base Of Orel

The Russian armies today slashed more than half the army through the 70-mile Nazi "escape corridor" from Rostov, driving to a point only 25 miles north of Tanagerog on the Sea of Azov. Dispatches said Tanagerog's lifeline was severed with the capture of Matveevskurgan on the rail line.

In the north, the Russians stormed within 30 miles of the major German base of Orel and drove on at a rapid clip beyond Kharkov.

Advancing with a speed in creating little effective opposition, the Red Army in pursuit of beaten Nazi troops in the area west of Rostov has cut the only escape railway in the front. The Russians announced in the midnight communique recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

The rail line was cut with the capture of the district center of Matveevskurgan, 25 miles north of Rostov. Although it was not immediately clear from which direction the victorious Russians came, it was entirely possible that large forces of Germans were trapped by the stroke.

The Russians have been operating both north and east of Matveevskurgan, and the town could have been taken from either direction. If the Soviet forces came down from the north, the trapped Germans might be counted in great numbers probably less if the Russians advanced from the east.

Even in the latter case, however, observers believed sizeable Nazi groups might well be caught in the Tanagerog area.

Communications dealt with had succeeded in the area north and northwest of Rostov, indicating the Soviet armies were quickly cutting into the Germans retreating from this great area.

Elsewhere the Russians were still closer to the Nazi stronghold of Orel, at the north end of the new active front. The communique reported the capture of the railway town and district center of Zaleshchik, only 30 miles east of Orel, Verkhnyaya Sosna, 46 miles southwest of Orel, and Pokrovskoye, 10 miles south-east of the stronghold.
