

Sanford Herald... What is confidently expected to be the largest Methodist conference ever held in Florida is scheduled to get under way in Sanford next Wednesday. For the first time since the Civil War the three separate branches of this great church will meet in a united conference as a result of the decision to unite the various governing bodies to join hands in a united Methodist Church.

The Methodist Conference... More than six hundred ministers are expected to attend the five-day meeting, while lay delegates, district superintendents and church members from neighboring churches will probably swell the attendance to more than a thousand. Although Sanford has played host to several other large gatherings during the past year, this will be the largest convention ever held in this city.

Growers Receive Good Prices After January Cold Wave

By the middle of April, prices received for Florida oranges, not including Indian River, were higher than those of California and to date have continued high.

The special report was compiled and issued by H. F. Willson, who has been in charge of the Lakeland office for several seasons.

The office is operated jointly by the Agricultural Marketing Service, Fruit and vegetable division, of the federal government, and the Florida State Marketing Bureau at Jacksonville. Expenses at the office are shared equally by these two bureaus.

"The outstanding recovery from the freeze in January, as evidenced by the slight damage to the citrus trees and the relatively large amount of fruit marketed afterward at comparatively high prices," stand out as the noteworthy feature of the season just closing, the report states.

Several factors are listed as being responsible for the advantageous developments following the freeze. Weather was partially responsible, the extreme cold killing to effect citrus trees which were in a dormant state.

"Another equally, if not more important factor," the report states, "was the wholehearted cooperation of the industry and trade organizations. A shipping embargo placed into effect by the Florida Citrus Commission, followed by grade and size regulations recommended and approved by the shippers' advisory committee and the growers' administrative committee operating in accordance with the federal marketing agreement, were outstanding in the final results.

"Invaluable services were rendered by the inspection offices in carrying out the recommendations of the industry, and by the Federal surplus commodities corporation when this agency en-

School Heads To Study Problems Of Administration

DAYTONA BEACH, June 6.—Prominent educators from practically all Southern states began on Monday, June 5, a special two weeks' conference study on three important school administrative problems.

The State Department of Education and the University of Florida are co-operating in the work-conference and both Colin English, state superintendent, and President John J. Thwait of the university, will participate in certain phases of the meeting.

In general charge is Dr. Edgar L. Morphet, director of administration and finance of the state department.

Continuity of service for teachers, operation and maintenance of school buildings, are the three problems to which the conference will direct attention. Sessions of the Southern States Work-Conference will be held at the North Seabreeze school.

It was announced that the representatives from various southern states would come here at their own expense to work on their own programs. The Florida Work-Conference committee is to convene here for the two weeks period and then go to Gainesville for another four weeks term.

The advisory staff for the conference here will include a number of school administration specialists, among them Dr. H. F. Alvis, and Dr. Howard A. Lawson, Washington, D. C. John C. Powles, Madison, Wis. James L. Graham, supervisor of school plant planning, and T. Reasons Are Given For Small Amount Of Cold Damage

Five reasons why the extremely low temperatures in Florida this winter resulted in much less permanent injury than would naturally be expected were given by A. E. Nelson, assistant field manager for the California Fruit Growers Exchange, in his report following three months survey in Florida recently completed, which was received in part by The Herald recently.

The five reasons given by Mr. Nelson for Florida's ability to withstand the unseasonably cold weather are:

1. There was a high degree of dormancy due to cold weather since early December. Abnormal low rainfall increased this dormancy.
2. Inversion of temperature was common during the freeze. In many instances temperatures a few feet from the ground were from 4 to 6 degrees colder than those 10 feet in the groves.
3. The multitude of lakes, particularly the larger ones in the citrus belt, had a tendency to moderate temperature in nearby groves. Winter Haven has approximately 100 lakes within the city limits, according to Nelson.
4. Much of the orange and grapefruit crop was late-bloom, and it showed less frost damage than the earlier crop.

California said he found this hard to believe, but careful investigations showed this condition to be general throughout the State.

5. Improved fertilizer practices using some of the minor soil elements such as copper, zinc, manganese and magnesium clearly increased resistance of trees and fruit to frost. Nelson emphasized that such practices could not be expected to apply as well in California, for the Florida soils as a whole are very sandy and lack a number of the essential minor elements.

The fruit inspection services in Florida were highly praised by Mr. Nelson for their efficient work after the freeze. He also commented favorably on the fine support on the part of the industry itself.

Florida Grapefruit Exports To Britain Show Drastic Drop

LAKELAND, June 6.—Florida's export business on canned grapefruit is showing the effects of England's import licensing requirement, with only 2,061,000 pounds exported during April, compared with 8,969,000 pounds during the same month a year ago. These figures are contained in a report from the department of commerce just received by the citrus commission.

April's canned grapefruit exports are valued at $144,000, compared with $369,000 for April 1938.

Total canned grapefruit exports for ten months ending

April are higher than in 1938, however. The government's figures show 48,705,000 pounds exported during the last ten months, compared with 35,321,000 pounds for a similar period ending April 1938. Value of these exports for the last ten months is $1,917,000, compared with $1,917,000 for the same period a year ago.

Exports of fresh oranges and grapefruit also showed a drastic drop, due to the war. Oranges showed the greatest decline, from 1,325,000 boxes in April 1938 to 585,000 boxes in April this year. Only about half as many oranges have been exported during the last ten months as during the same period a year ago. The figures are 3,378,000 boxes during the last ten months, and 6,445,000 boxes for the same period a year ago. Eighty-three thousand boxes of

FDR Asks For Power To Sell To Allies

President Would Dispose Of World War Cannon Used Now In Fighting Nazi Tanks

50 Navy Planes Go To Britain

Authority Would Clear Way For Large Supplies To Allies

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today asked Congress for the power to dispose of surplus goods as well as ammunition and warplanes through a legal channel which might release those urgently needed munitions to the Allies.

Authorizing the Navy to purchase surplus goods to be made available for sale to the fighting forces of France and Britain, the President told the press he is asking authority to turn to the old gun also.

While he did not say so, it is apparent this would clear the way for the Allies to obtain large quantities of such weapons as the 75 millimeter guns the British are using extensively in fighting German tank attacks.

The United States Navy last week reported that it had received 50 surplus tanks from the British.

It is stated that they were the last of a series of 100 tanks which were sent to the British in 1939.

The tanks were surplus to the needs of the United States Army and were being sold to the British at a price of $100,000 each.

The tanks were being sold to the British as a gesture of goodwill and to help them in their fight against the Germans.

Dr. R. E. Stevens, C. C. Priests Dies Unexpectedly Of Heart Attack

Prominent Physician Was Chief Of Staff At State Hospital

Local Celery Growers Also Visited Capital On Two Weeks Trip

Dr. Ralph E. Stevens, Sr., chief physician at the State Hospital for the insane at Chattahoochee since July, 1936, died suddenly of a heart attack at the home of his sister at 631 Park Avenue last night about 10:30 p.m.

Funeral services have been scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church here.

With his family, Dr. Stevens was enroute to Havana, Cuba for the annual convention there of the Rotary International and had stopped in Sanford, where he lived and practiced medicine for a number of years, to visit his sister, Miss Rebecca Stevens, local school teacher, who was to have accompanied the party on the trip this morning.

Dr. Stevens was widely known in Florida. He had served as chief physician of the State Hospital for nearly four years and prior to the time had served at the Veterans Hospital at Bay Pines and as physician for the City of St. Petersburg.

He was a World War Veterans member and a member of the Florida National Guard here. He was president of the Chattahoochee Rotary Club and had been a member of the Florida Medical Association.

He was born in the city of Sanford, the son of Dr. Sanford Stevens, who was a member of the Florida Medical Association and a member of the Florida National Guard.

All Americans Urged To Leave Fighting Zones

Those Who Stay Must Do So At Own Risk, Embassy In London Announces Today

LONDON, June 7.—(AP)—The American Embassy today urged all Americans without urgent reasons for remaining to return home aboard the liner Washington leaving Galway, Ireland, about the middle of June because it said this might be the last opportunity until after the war. It warned those not taking advantage of this opportunity "must be prepared to remain at home."

If Italy should enter the war, it pointed out that virtually the only means left for reaching America would be by the ship from Lisbon. The embassy officials said the scheduled use of the Washington at Genoa had been cancelled.

The State Department yesterday drastically revised passport regulations for travel within the American continent, stating that in view of the critical international situation, closer supervision of aliens was required.

Beginning July 1, the department said, citizens of Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, Panama, Bermuda, and the Dominican Republic desiring to enter the United States must have passports from their native governments and visas from the United States.

Neither passports nor visas are now required. Similarly, United States citizens visiting those countries have not heretofore been required to have American passports.

Several smaller places were named in the order, including St. Lucia and Montserrat. French islands off the Newfoundland coast and British, French and Dutch possessions in the West Indies, British, French and Netherlands possessions in the West Indies, British, French and Netherlands possessions in the West Indies, British, French and Netherlands possessions in the West Indies.

Somme Line Holds While Allies Wreak New Havoc With Nazi Tank Columns

GERMANS PRESS MIGHTY OFFENSIVE IN FRANCE

Here is the theater of war in France as the many pushes its double-thrust action in an effort to hit the Allies and bring France to her knees.

French Report Cannon-Equipped Airplanes Destroy Over 400 German Tanks

Fighting Hand To Hand Is Reported

French planes equipped with cannon destroyed more than 400 German tanks in the 3-day-old battle for Paris as the Nazi high command asserted in a brief communique that the Weygand Line was broken through on the "entire front."

Meanwhile, the ominous hint of Italy's imminent entrance into the war came when an Italian line in New York reported all Italian ships on the high seas had been ordered to leave neutral ports and all sailings were cancelled. Asked if it meant war, the line manager said "I don't know, but it looks like it."

The French said the 800-mile front is being held firmly against the fury of the German onslaught and that French and British planes have destroyed 400 tanks.

Polius were reported fighting fiercely with rifles, bayonets and hand grenades.

Scottish highlanders supporting their French comrades in the lower Somme battled in their shirt sleeves in the still-line heat.

London military quarters reported the situation along the Somme-Aisne Line "is not too bad—in fact it's pretty good."

Authorized Nazis in Berlin proclaimed Germany's war aims in blunt terms: annihilation of France and annihilation of England and Luxembourg.

The French government radio reported two-thirds of the Nazi air force's famous dive-bombing units have been destroyed.

Aside from an official Nazi communique claiming breakthrough through the Weygand Line—a statement unsupported by details, Berlin acknowledged the German invasion was meeting the stiffest resistance.

It gave three reasons:

The French were not taken by surprise.

The new "quicksand" defense strategy devised by Weygand presents a "real problem" to the Hitlerian juggernaut.

The French are using far heavier arms "than the invaders might expect."

The Germans bombed central France and the English coast. There were but few casualties. The British bombed German supply lines.

British bombing planes, attempting to stem the German Blitzkrieg along the Somme, were sweeping deep behind the Nazi advance lines and heavily bombing military objectives in the valley and other parts of the Reich, the Air Ministry reported yesterday.

Medium and heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force struck smashing blows at German troop concentrations and harassed enemy movements behind the fighting front, the Ministry said while British coastal command planes bombed and machine-gunned oil tanks at the German-occupied Belgium City of Ghent early yesterday.

The attacks were reported after German planes had raked a 250-mile stretch of the English coast, seeking to knock out aircraft from which BAE planes were attacking the German Army of the Somme. The Nazi raids were described officially as the first "business" attack of the war on the coast.

Greatest activity of the British planes, which were said to have shot down six enemy craft with but one loss to themselves, was directed against German lines of communication between the coast and the front.

Red Cross Has Raised $176,320 On 2nd Quota

Attendance At Mid-Night Benefit Show Saturday Is Urged

The local chapter of the American Red Cross has today received $176,320 on its second quota of $1200 for the relief of war refugees in the war-torn countries of Europe.

Mrs. James G. Sharon, Jr., chairman of the local chapter, said today in making the appeal to the residence of Seminole County for the support of the benefit midnight show at the Ritz Theatre Saturday night, "War Clouds Over Europe."

Planning out that the Red Cross hopes to raise most of its second quota of $1200 through this benefit performance, Mrs. Sharon said that it is given through the courtesy and the cooperation of the Sparks Theatres and Charles Morrison, manager of the local theatre. "Every penny of the money paid by those who see this show will be given to the Red Cross," Mrs. Sharon said. "The entire cost of the performance will be paid by the theatre."

Members of the High School group and the local chapter will sell the tickets to the performance.

The film is a particularly timely one and many of the scenes in the British made film were taken in the sections of England that are now being fortified against possible invasion from across the channel.

The story in brief is as follows:

Recent disappearance of two bombing planes on their test flight, results in Major Henderson of Scotland Yard being assigned to investigate the mystery. Meanwhile, another new model is ready to take the air. Tony McVana, the company check pilot, is anxious to be on the job. Another pilot, however, is sent up, and Jenny, the factory owner's confidante, is mysteriously handicapped by instructions about the company. Tony Jenkins tells Tony that he should be discouraged at his present job, he can find his own.

End, a considerable description is given of the entire performance. When I have finished, I have seen the film. It is a very good one and I have seen it. It is a very good one and I have seen it.

State Asks WPA To Begin Work On Livestock Market

Funds are available for the State share of the WPA project for the construction of a livestock auction market in connection with the present facilities at the State Farmers' Wholesale Market and the agriculture department is anxious for the work to begin.

The district office of the WPA was advised in a letter from William L. Wilson, State director of markets, according to H. J. Lehman, local market manager.

A copy of the letter which was sent to J. M. Grogins, district WPA supervisor, by the State Market Director is as follows:

"We would like to have the construction of the Sanford Livestock Market commence at once since funds are now available and we are anxious for the work to begin. Please let us know what you want out of this office."

Restrictions On Securities Is Now Forbidden

Action Is Designed To Block Sale Of Confiscated Wealth

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—The Government clamped restrictions today in an order designed to block the sale of such wealth seized from owners in Europe's invaded countries.

Treasury officials said they were acting to prevent the "dumping" in this country's markets of securities that may have been seized from "rightful owners" in Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Luxembourg.

They said they had no information as to whether Germany had confiscated any securities in the invaded countries or was trying to peddle them here, but they decided to take precautionary measures.

Representatives Attend Informal Orlando Meeting

Representative E. E. Brady and John G. Leonardy attended the informal meeting in Orlando yesterday of members who have been nominated to serve in the 1941 session of the Florida Legislature.

Representative John S. Burks of Pasco county, frequently mentioned as a candidate for Speaker of the 1941 Legislature, said yesterday he would not continue in the race and that he would support Representative F. E. Harrell of Hamilton county.

Burks' statement cut to four the number of persons in the race. Representative George E. Holt of Duval and Representative L. C. Ledy of Orange withdrew Wednesday night and said they would support Representative Dan McCarthy of St. Johns.

Other candidates are Representative Raymond Sheldon of Hillsborough and Representative W. F. Crockett of Dixie.

Nominations for the 1941 Legislature will meet in Tallahassee July 20 to make their selection of a Speaker.

Burks said he would support Harrell because the Hamilton county seat will be in Harrell's home town in service with few consecutive sessions behind him.

Next Sunday To Be Sanford Day At The Mead Botanical Gardens

When ground was broken two years ago on the Mead Botanical Garden, the 44-acre tract consisted of a dense jungle, a 20-acre swamp and an abandoned city dump. The undergrowth in many places was so heavy that a trail less than a city block in length required an entire day to cut. High top-boots were necessary equipment for penetration, and each footstep had to be chosen carefully, because of the swampy character of the ground.

A crew of 75 men set to work, drained the swamp, cut trails and cleared undergrowth. But the trails were not cut and the undergrowth cleared in such a way as to preserve the natural beauty of a Florida jungle. There are bay trees, wild magnolias, native holly and native oaks. There are colorful ferns and tree shrubs and many birds nesting in the protection of a garden sanctuary. There are many varieties of wild flowers and widely varied trees.

But the Mead Botanical Garden has more to offer than the wild and lovely beauty of a natural Florida wilderness. Along the trails are particularly lovely spots where many rare and beautiful plants are growing. There are many varieties of wild flowers and widely varied trees.
