Smith Now Plans To Eliminate 1 OF FLIGHT STOPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Plans are being made for the refueling of the army world fliers at sea if such a course becomes necessary in the projected flight from Iceland to Greenland, a message today says. Permission has been granted by Washington for Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian Trans-Atlantic flier, to accompany the Americans.

REYKJAVIK, Aug. 18.—Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the American army round-the-world flight, has decided to abandon the proposed flight from Reykjavik to Angmagssalik, on the east coast of Greenland, and with Lieut. Erik Nelson will fly instead to Fredericksdal on the southwest point of Greenland, a short distance from Cape Farewell.

The correspondent of the Associated Press, Sunday morning found Smith and Nelson studying large maps of Greenland, making measurements of distance and direction. The jump from Reykjavik to Fredericksdal will be the longest of all they have attempted in their world flight, about 825 miles. It is estimated that without stopping the airmen will be forced to fly about twelve hours.

Both Lieut. Smith and Lieut. Nelson appeared to be cheerful over the decision to go to Fredericksdal. Lieut. Smith said he was very glad that the question of a landing place had been settled and that he and Nelson would start from Reykjavik the first day weather conditions permit. While the correspondents were talking with the American fliers, Lieut. Locatelli, the Italian aviator, who reached Reykjavik today from Horta, Hornsrudd, called on Lieut. Smith and handed him a letter from the American air attaché of the embassy in Rome. The letter was twenty days old.

ON BOARD THE U. S. Cruiser, Raleigh, August 18.—After boating up and down the coast of Greenland for a week in the vicinity of Angmagssalik, the Raleigh Sunday headed for a new position lying about east, northeast of Cape Farewell, the southernmost point in Greenland, to be in readiness for the flight of the American army planes from Reykjavik to Fredericksdal, a short distance to the northwest of Cape Farewell.

The high winds and rough seas of the past few days had moderated this morning, and, so far as the weather of Greenland is amenable to general rule, there was promise of better conditions for a few days at least.

As under the previous plans there will be a string of torpedo boat destroyers and cruisers along the route of the American planes to insure their safety. Despite the increased distance of flight, to all appearances Lieut. Smith and Lieut. Nelson have a better chance to succeed than if they flew to Angmagssalik, where the ice conditions were bad and the possibility of an accident on landing was great.

Skipper Found Guilty of Driving Car While Drunk, Causing Auto Accident

Found guilty of reckless driving while intoxicated, J. B. Skipper of this city was fined $100 and costs, or on his lieu thereof to serve 30 days in the streets, by Judge J. G. Shanon, of the municipal court this morning. Skipper was charged with running broadside into a car being driven by Mrs. J. L. Miller, and in which she, her daughter, her niece, Miss Gladys Lee and Miss Ruth McClellan, were riding, the accident occurring at the corner of Oak avenue and Third street between 7:30 and 8 o'clock Saturday night.

It was learned today that the left arm of Miss Lee was badly lacerated and that several stitches had to be taken. Miss McClellan was also slightly injured. The other two occupants of the car were unhurt. Neither of the occupants of the Skipper car were injured.

According to testimony of the various witnesses, the Miller car was being driven, at the rate of about 20 miles an hour, south on Oak avenue. Skipper, who had a negro in the car, was driving

Counsel for Both Sides Believe Case Will Be Completed by End of Week When Decision Will Be Given Jury

Crowe Is Confident Of Trial's Outcome

Darrow Also Sure That Court Will Decide in Favor of His Wealthy Youthful Clients

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Endocrine glands affect the emotional life, Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, drew today from Dr. H. Douglas Singer, on cross-examination in the Franks hearing. After a lengthy examination of Dr. Singer, the court adjourned for a noon recess.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, may know their fate this week. According to the schedule it is predicted that both the state and the defense will have finished their arguments by the end of the week.

When Dr. William O. Krohn, anchor man in State's Attorney Leary's case, takes the witness stand tomorrow, the beginning of the end of the hearing will have commenced.

Unless all present plans, as announced today by Mr. Crowe and Attorney Clarence Darrow, go awry, the state attorney will be the last witness to take the chair in Judge Caverly's court.

Dr. Harold Douglas Singer, third of the state's experts to take the stand, will finish his testimony tomorrow morning. Another hour's cross-examination by Attorney Darrow, perhaps half an hour's direct examination by State's Attorney Leary, will follow.

Tell Same Story
Dr. Krohn will follow him, to tell substantially the same story, that nothing in the examination of Nathan and Richard during their stay in the custody of the state's attorney, nothing in their appearance as they have sat in court, indicates abnormality enough to classify them as victims of mental disease.

The evidence given by Dr. Krohn is expected to bring a warm battle of wits as has been seen during the trial. Throughout the hearing it has been Dr. Krohn who has sat at the right hand of the prosecuting staff, serving as director of the medical court attack and translator of scientific mysteries into courtroom English, so when he is turned over to Mr. Darrow for cross-examination Tuesday it is with the expectation of an strenuous session as has ever been staged in a court room.

The direct examination of the alienist by Assistant State's Attorney John Scarboro should be concluded by adjournment Monday, it is expected.

Same General Lines
It will follow the same general lines as have been followed during the direct examination of the three other state's alienists, Drs. Hugh T. Patrick, Archibald Church and Singer. First the question of sanity, based on the observation and examination in Mr. Crowe's office on Sunday afternoon, June 1, the day after the two slayers had confessed, and including observation of the two in court.

Second, the hypothetical questions, based on the testimony of the alienist for the defense, Dr. William A. White, William Healy, Bernard Gluck and H. S. Hulbert, and thirdly, the addition to all these facts of all the facts contained in the Bowman-Hulbert report, as a groundwork for the state's expert's conclusions.

Dr. Krohn's answer to all this will be that the slayers are mentally sound in his opinion.

Then comes the cross-examination by Attorney Darrow and the fireworks.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage, will make the first of the closing arguments for the state, Mr. Crowe announced today. His three hour long talk will deal with the "mountain of evidence" piled up by the state bit by bit. He will take the mountain apart, explain each part, fact by fact, and will put it together into a mountain again.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Marshall will pile up a "mountain of citations." For three hours he will read decision after decision of supreme courts all over the country in an endeavor to prove by precedent that the slayers of Robert Franks should die on the gallows.

Nebraska Capital Takes on a Gala Appearance in Anticipation Auspicious Occasion

LINCOLN, Aug. 18.—Governor Charles Bryan tonight will receive formal notification of his nomination as democratic vice-presidential candidate in the city where he has spent more than half of his life.

Banners, flags and hunting lends a gala appearance for the occasion. Political leaders of the party from all sections of the nation are here for event.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 18.—Preparations for this city's greatest celebration—the formal exercises tonight, attending the notification of Governor Bryan of his nomination for the vice presidency under the Democratic national convention—were completed last night, as the state capital assumed a holiday appearance.

The unusual Sunday quiet was disturbed only by the arrival of national committeemen, members of the notification committee, and visitors from various parts of the middle West.

Governor and Mrs. Bryan spent a quiet day, attending the First Baptist church, of which she is a member. Last night he received Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who will make the notification address, as a house guest. Another guest at the executive mansion will be Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who will arrive here tomorrow for a conference with the nominee regarding the latter's campaign itinerary, now only in a tentative form.

Stadium Is Scene
The ceremonies will be held at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium, beginning at 8 o'clock central standard time. Arrangements have been made to receive the speaker by means of a motor through the Westinghouse Electric Company's plant at Hastings. Microphones have been placed for the convenience of the speakers and a megaphone placed atop the speakers' platform, which rests in the center of the stadium, and faces the east wing, to carry the voice to every nook of the stadium. Tests of the equipment were made last night during a band concert and proved successful.

A canopy has been provided for the platform in case bad weather prevails. The forecast tonight was for fair weather with cool breezes by the time the ceremonies begin.

The program will start at 8 o'clock with a serenade of the governor's home to the family, their guests of honor and their visitors, by the Nebraska State band, the Elks' band and the American Legion Drum Corps. From 8:30 to 7 p. m., concerts will be given in different sections of the city, and after that time the three bands will unite for a concert at the stadium. At 7:30 p. m., the Ak-Sar-Ben delegation will arrive from Omaha on a special train and will march to the stadium where the only reservations for seats have been assigned to them.

Shaver to Preside
At 8 p. m. Chairman Shaver is scheduled to take charge of the program proper, which will be opened by a prayer by the Rev. A. B. Brock, pastor of the Trinity church. The audience will then be requested to sing the Star Spangled Banner, following which Senator Harrison will make the notification address. Mr. Bryan will close the program with his acceptance speech.

E. G. Smith, of Clarksburg, W. Va., personal representative of John W. Davis, the presidential nominee, was one of the early arrivals today, as was Governor J. P. Davis of Kansas.

William J. Bryan is scheduled to arrive today from Salem, Ill., the old home of the Bryan family, and will visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas A. Allen, wife of the chairman of the Nebraska Democratic state committee, former Governor Sanders, of Louisiana, arrived here last night.

Negro Carrying Moonshine In A Fruit Basket Is Caught By Police Saturday

As a result of promiscuously carrying a quart of moonshine, carefully wrapped in a peach or fruit basket, around on First Street Saturday night, R. Jackson, a negro, was arrested by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams, and charged with possession of malt, spirituous, vinous and intoxicating liquors, to be tried in municipal court today.

According to Chief Williams, he passed the negro on the street and saw the white glass bottle shining through the supposedly carefully wrapped package. He forthwith arrested Jackson and was rewarded by the finding of a full quart of "corn." Identifying "it" as intoxicating, the officer lodged his catch in jail.

When first asked by the officer where he got the package, the negro declared that he bought it from a man on a wagon, stated Chief Williams to Judge J. G. Sharon of the police court this morning. Evidently the defendant had forgotten that statement, for this morning when asked where he had bought the package, he said he had bought it from a man on a wagon, stated Chief Williams to Judge J. G. REPARATIONS MEETING BECOMES HISTORIC

President Receives Official Word On Conference Doings From Ambassador

Coolidge Cables His Appreciation

Says Outcome Is Most Important Event Of All Since Armistice

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 18.—President Coolidge was informed yesterday in a cable from Ambassador Kellogg at London that the international conference had reached an agreement on the Dawes reparation plan.

The agreement, Mr. Kellogg cabled, assured that the Dawes plan "will be put into execution at an early date."

Mr. Coolidge sent the ambassador a cable expressing his satisfaction and congratulations.

President Pleased
"Message received with great satisfaction," the president said in his reply. "I congratulate you on your skill and success. You have greatly contributed to the welfare of the world."

Definite word of the successful conclusion of the conference was received by Mr. Coolidge in his father's home where he has just started his vacation and to C. Bascom Sloop, his secretary, who will be set forth fully by Mr. Davis in one of his early speeches in the West his friends say.

Mr. Davis has told friends that there should be greater effort by the interstate commerce commission in bringing about increased efficiency of the railroads. These friends declare that his opinion is that the commission has left much to be desired in this direction.

These views and others concerning farm relief, such as readjustment of the tariff and the increase of foreign markets for farm products through American cooperation in bringing about improvement in the economic condition in Europe, will be set forth fully by Mr. Davis in one of his early speeches in the West his friends say.

Clem L. Shaver, Mr. Davis' campaign manager, telegraphed the nominee Sunday urging that he visit in the middle West in early September. Mr. Shaver, who has been at the Western headquarters in Chicago, sent a very optimistic report on the outlook there and supplemented his wire message by a telephone call.

After his Labor day address, the place for the delivery of which remains unsettled, Mr. Davis will begin a long trek, which will carry him well into the Western territory. He will make only a "one-night stand" during his visit to Ohio, returning here after speaking at Columbus.

At Seagriff, N. J., next Friday the nominee expects to make what his friends describe as a "twenty-minute shot" at a mass meeting of New Jersey Democrats. Before that he will speak briefly to the state Democratic executive committee at a luncheon at the home of Governor George S. Silver.

Mr. Davis spent today quietly at his home here. He attended church with Mrs. Davis in the morning and had no callers except newspaper correspondents.

The nominee declined to comment on the reparations agreement at London other than to say that the provision of articles four providing for arbitration by the league of nations in the case of any dispute as to the index figure of German wealth was but another evidence of the growing indispensability of the league.

Touching Incident Feature of Closing Session of Delegates at London Meeting

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The story of the London conference closed Saturday night with a noteworthy incident. The signing of the Dawes plan was ended, and the British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald was shaking hands all around. When he came to Chancellor Macdonald, the prime minister, still gripping the chancellor's hand, led him to where M. Herriot, the French premier was standing surrounded by friends. Without a word so the story goes, Mr. MacDonald lifted M. Herriot's right hand and joined it with that of Dr. Marx. Then he stepped back, smiling genially, while the Frenchman and the German tightened the grip and shook hands cordially.

Unqualified pleasure is expressed in all official quarters here at the success of the conference. King George and Brigadier Dawes sent messages of congratulation to the prime minister. The delegates have all left London with the exception of M. Herriot and some of his colleagues. They will return on August 30 for final formalities and the signature of the protocol, which will be signed by the British and German parliaments.

No difficulty is expected in the British or Italian parliaments. Herriot Addresses Press
M. Herriot made a long statement to the press representatives in London last night with a view, as he explained, to clarifying the conclusions of the conference to his countrymen. He thought that after a month of complex technical discussions and incidents calculated to hide essentials, unbiased Frenchmen in the interest of their country would welcome such an explanation.

The statement covered the whole recent history of the reparations problem, leading to the initiation of the Dawes plan, and its clearly intended to influence the coming debate in the French chamber. He emphasized that the Dawes scheme does not eliminate sanctions in case of bad faith. Quite the contrary, he asserted, but it leaves the governments the care of determining their procedure, should sanctions become necessary.

"We have established the international front in London in the name of Germany falling to keep her engagements," he declared.

Outlines Treaty
M. Herriot then outlined all the provisions of the Dawes treaty having to do with guarantees to the allies and therefore to France, the foremost being supervision of the German bank which will receive reparations payments by a general council, half the members of which will be foreigners, including one Frenchman. That was the first guarantee. Other guarantees were taxes, railways and industrial bonds.

With regard to taxes he said it would be inadmissible and contrary to the treaty, for a German taxpayer to pay less than a French taxpayer. The railways he regarded as one of the most important parts of the scheme, when the work of the scheme had been outlined by the French premier. He pointed out that the railway commissioners will control the entire railway operations will be in all probability a Frenchman. All these are considered important guarantees.

"Germany," continued the premier, "is subjected to the system of control and supervision of the work of the scheme, and the work of the scheme has been outlined by the French premier. He pointed out that the railway commissioners will control the entire railway operations will be in all probability a Frenchman. All these are considered important guarantees."

DAVIS GIVES OUT HIS VIEWS UPON FARM SITUATION

Relief of Farmer Can Better Be Accomplished by Using Existing Machinery Rather Than By New Creation

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Readjustment of the freight rate structure and the full use of the machinery of the department of agriculture in stimulating the cooperative marketing movement are regarded by John W. Davis as two essential steps in the relief of the agricultural industry.

In outlining his views on this question to his friends the Democratic presidential nominee has told them that he regarded the use of existing government agencies in aiding the farmer to market their own products as of more practical value than might be the setting up of new agencies under legislation recently proposed, such as the McNary-Haugen bill.

Rate Reconstruction
As to freight rate reconstruction, he has expressed the view that aid of the farmer in this direction ought to be possible without impairment of the railroads. He believes that the freight rate structure should be flexible enough to meet changing economic conditions.

Mr. Davis has told friends that there should be greater effort by the interstate commerce commission in bringing about increased efficiency of the railroads. These friends declare that his opinion is that the commission has left much to be desired in this direction.

These views and others concerning farm relief, such as readjustment of the tariff and the increase of foreign markets for farm products through American cooperation in bringing about improvement in the economic condition in Europe, will be set forth fully by Mr. Davis in one of his early speeches in the West his friends say.

Home Furnishings Are Illustrated

and inexpensive furnishings for the home were illustrated by Miss Virginia P. Moore, assistant state home demonstration agent, at the session here this week of the Farmers' and Fruit Growers' conference.

The illustration showed how a living room and bed room could be combined and be very inexpensive and artistically furnished. Dyed cloths were used for draperies, shades made of unbleached sheeting with heavy fringe, used to outline the scallop. In this was a some-made writing desk, bookcase and screen. The screen had been filled with burlap and an artistic stencil on it. A day bed which could be used during the day as a couch and at night converted into a bed. One corner of the room was given over for the baby, with little accessories for its comfort and pleasure, copies of good pictures, passe-partout and an accent of color being brought in a vase and a large bowl which had been enameled. Color harmony with flowers was also stressed.

Simple arrangement of the kitchen was stressed, showing the use of a pitcher pump and sink at a very small cost. Also a 60 gallon barrel placed at the rear of the house to catch the rain water to be piped into the kitchen where a home-made sink could be made at small cost. The importance of the right height of sink and table and arrangement of the workshop of woman was vividly brought out. Such conveniences as the home-made iceless refrigerator, home-made fireless cooker at a cost of less than $1.00, a shower bath that cost $1.15 were all excellent suggestions which many housewives attending the conference which closed today will take home and put into use.

New Search for Gold Well Under Way in Montana

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 16.—Quartz prospectors are roaming the Montana hills, gulches and abandoned mining camps this summer in such numbers as to arouse speculation among the early settlers as to whether the cry of "gold" again may lure hundreds into the areas where few men have ventured since the early sixties.

Free milling ore veins have long since been exploited, and in most cases abandoned by the individual prospector, to be taken over by the larger companies or operated on a small scale by miners. Gold laden sands in the creek beds where old placer camps were located have been panned and repanned, yielding millions in the early sixties until bed rock strata turned the fortune seekers to other fields. Forced to discontinue the placer mining on a large scale, the pioneer prospectors are now mining younger blood in the search for quartz, hoping to discover veins of sufficient size to warrant construction of stamp mills and reduction works.

Phantasy life is a normal experience, Dr. Sluger said, representing an instinctive emotional life in an individual. "It represents a dreaming of instinctive longings as being fulfilled," he said, "satisfying of appetites, and desires otherwise incapable of fulfillment because of the social organization."

BROTHERHOOD OF WORLD TO MAKE PEACE, SAYS HEAD

Father and Son Movement is Spreading Over World as a Recognized Institution—Organized in United States

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 16.—The Father and Son Movement, developed in America where it has become a recognized institution, is spreading over the whole world. This was indicated today in a speech by Walter W. Head of Omaha, chairman of the National Father and Son Committee of the United States and also president of the American Bankers' Association, before the World's Committee, before the World's Committee of the Y. M. C. A. "More than 20 nations," he said, "observe Father and Son Week. In the United States alone upwards of 3,000,000 fathers and sons joined in events during the past year."

The Father and Son Movement originated at a Y. M. C. A. banquet of fathers and sons at Providence, R. I., in 1907. Mr. Head stated. He said further: "Only as the fundamental principles of world brotherhood are recognized and accepted by the people of the world, can we ever hope for world peace. The men who are to direct the destiny of the nations of the world during the next generation are now the young men who are in our homes today. What greater privilege has a man than to give of himself as a companion, teacher, advisor, and as an inspiration to his son, who tomorrow steps into responsibilities the significance of which we cannot conceive."

"Every man, whether or not he bears the physical relation of father and son, should give serious consideration to his own life, the example of which always prove to be ideals for which he stands, that his an inspiration to the boy life of today in encouraging the spirit of world brotherhood."

"In the United States we believe it most appropriate to observe National Father and Son Week at that period of the year when the harvest comes. This has proven to be an opportune time not only to pay honor and respect to the millions of fathers and sons who gave their lives for the ideal of world brotherhood, but a time for the fathers an sons who survive to regenerate themselves to life for that same great objective, world brotherhood, world peace. We are, therefore planning for the observance this year to come during the week of November 9-16."

The World's Committee of the Y. M. C. A., is planning to cooperate in making the Father and Son Movement universal. Details are to be worked out by the Boys' Work Division staff, of which E. M. Robinson, former senior secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Work in America, is now secretary.

Denial of Saunders Petition is Asked By Memphis Court

(Continued on page 6) he claimed to have made as an agent for the corporation in his marginal stock operations. He contended that demand for payment of these obligations could not be met and also charged the existence of a conspiracy among stockholders of the stores company, to which the corporation owed $400,000 to gain control of the parent concern for the purpose of depressing the value of its patent holdings.

The corporation, in its answer, admitted the loans but denied liability for the obligations contracted by Saunders in his stock operations. The defendant's motion to dismiss the petition was denied by Federal Judge J. W. Ross, who referred it to the master in chancery. Examination of witnesses by the master was begun last fall and continued almost without interruption until two months ago. Meanwhile, Saunders, who founded the Piggly Wiggly business on patents and trademarks which he later sold to the corporation, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and engaged in a new chain stores enterprise under his own name. His right to the use of his name and certain equipment in his store was made the subject of litigation and the corporation procured an injunction restraining him from operating his new enterprise. This injunction was modified recently by the United States circuit court of appeals.

Office of R. S. HUNTER & BRO., Architects. (House A-78)

A HOUSE WITH GARAGE ATTACHED.

What about the garage? In building the modern home this question must be answered, and for the best results it should be given thorough consideration before the house is built. If the garage is left as an after consideration, it is often very difficult to find a satisfactory solution to this important problem. Of course, a garage can be erected on the rear of the lot after the house is built. (providing proper provision has been made for the driveway and space has been reserved for the garage) but what about convenience? Will heat be provided? Electric light, water and sewer service? The latter two are of course necessary but heating and lighting are real conveniences that are generally omitted on account of the expense. All of these objections can be overcome by attaching the garage to the house, but, here again, due consideration must be given the design, for, if the garage is simply "budded" to the house, it ruins the appearance of the latter. The architects have embodied beauty, convenience, comfort and economy for both garage and house, in the example herewith illustrated. The garage entrance is on the rear. This overcomes the objection of large doors toward the street, and permits the main entrance to the house, with vestibule and coat closet, to be provided in the front at is convenient and livable. Three bedrooms, a bath and a study are provided on the second floor. Cost about $8,400. Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-78.

Finance Hits German Radio Industry Hard

PERLIN, Aug. 16.—Another burst bubble of high hopes is the story of Germany's radio industry. When government restrictions on the sale of receiving sets were lifted last fall, a hundred or more factories sprung up. Of these, only two or three are still working, largely for exportation. The manufacturers blame the introduction of the rentenmark and the sudden end of the inflation period for the situation.

The fact that most of the 900 patents in the field are controlled by the "Telefunken" concern proved to be another snag for the young industry.

BOY PATROL AIDS POLICE. SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 16.—Boys ranging in age from 12 to 16 will form a "junior police patrol" here, according to plans sanctioned by Chief of Police K. B. Severyns. Baby Found Floating In Box on River Inn

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 16.—Clad in costly garments and with a silver chain around its little neck, a healthy girl baby was found floating in a box on the River Inn near here. Beside the infant was a note quaintly rhymed saying the child's name was Josephine, she knew no father and the mother must remain unknown. The baby was immediately adopted by a water works employe.

Clock Without Face Or Hands Tells Time

LULLINGTON, England, Aug. 16.—A clock in a church tower here has neither face nor hands, but has given the parishioners accurate time for nearly four centuries by striking the hours on the church bell. Built in the sixteenth century by the village blacksmith, it comprises two heavy stones, a rope 30 feet long and a crude escapement. It is wound up daily by the sexton, the winding barrels being of oak, like the beams in which the iron bearings work.

(Continued on page 6) opinion made this impossible. MacDonald next pressed a request for evacuation of the Ruhr by stages, to which Herriot replied it would be impossible to promise, but, in fact, it would be granted, and he appealed for trust and confidence, explaining he was going as far as he dared without being overthrown by the chamber. MacDonald's continued efforts to shorten the Ruhr occupation led Herriot to remark that the Ruhr was outside the Dawes conference altogether and was a matter for the French, Germans and Belgians, and that if MacDonald brought pressure upon France in this extraneous matter, Herriot would insist upon an immediate discussion of the inter-allied debts. MacDonald then subsided, and the "big seven" adjourned. Argue Loan One of the points upon which Marx and Stresemann argued with MacDonald was a loan to Germany. They begged for allied assurance that this loan would be

LINCOLN SAID "You can fool all of the people some of the time, some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." When you find a man or woman who will tell you that they believe that it is a better proposition to rent a home than to own it, you may know they are one of those who are liable to be fooled all the time. There are some loan associations that do as advertised. They do make it possible to buy or build and own your own home as cheaply as to rent it. There are contractors who can on a small margin turn over a job that will give lasting satisfaction, dollar for dollar. We are one of them. Stop paying rent. Build and enjoy the comforts of your own home and its increase in property valuation. If you believe we are trying to fool you, or suggest the impossible, consult your banker. Then see us. floated before the Dawes scheme is put into operation, saying this would insure that the reichstag would endorse their acceptance, but MacDonald stated the floatation of the loan was impossible before October. As the position stands now, the Dawes plan seems to have succeeded and the Ruhr problem to have been settled, although many points are obscure, and, obviously, serious difficulties may arise in drafting the Ruhr agreement. One report tonight is that the Germans will insist on the loan being guaranteed in advance, but I believe this is exaggerated. In financial circles it is thought the loan can be floated if the Ruhr policy is final.

When I blow away a bubble, And then gladly watch it float, I forget that I have trouble. It is like a fairy's boat; But it's gone in just a minute. That Curious Device for Making Fire

It was only seventy-five years ago that a woman of the Middle-West wrote to her cousin in New York: Last winter I was told of a curious new device for making fire. It consisted of small splinters of wood with tips of some substance that bursts into flame when rubbed on a rough surface. If you can procure some of them for me, I shall be grateful.

WHAT AFTER FIFTY

A writer in the Christian Century inquires how a successful man should ask such pertinent questions as these: Should such a man largely and increasingly give of his own time to the cultivation of his own physical, mental and spiritual wellbeing and that of his family? Should he also give largely of his time and money to organizations for the betterment of society and in furthering personally other religious work? It is wise for a man of 50 during his remaining years, to sell out his business to employees of tested ability and thus give them greater opportunity for service and reward? After providing reasonably by will for wife and dependents, should such a man aim, while yet living, to administer and distribute the bulk of his estate for God and humanity, rather than to leave his means to expectant heirs, or even to his adult children? The plain implication is that in

COURTEOUS POLICE

The Chicago chief of police issues special instructions to the force to be as courteous as possible in dealing with the public. This applies particularly to traffic officers. The instructions are intended for the type of policeman who seems to think his uniform gives him a divine right to "hawl out" all the world for any violation great or small. It is impressed on the Chicago police, as it has been on the police of various other cities, that while the policeman has a legal right to arrest or warn an offender, he has no right to

An Amusing Yarn—And Something More

That Miami doctor who entertained a group of dinner guests the other night with a story of how he happened to choose the practice of medicine for his life work must have gotten much secret amusement out of the way they took his yarn. It seems they laughed and laughed. Then the next day they told it to their friends, and their friends laughed and laughed. We are going to repeat it here, and many Herald readers will laugh and laugh.—And a few Herald readers will see the allegory.

The Miami doctor, whose name must not appear here because it is unethical for doctors to advertise, told his companions around the dinner table how he happened to study medicine. He said he had never thought of being a doctor, but one day, when he was a small boy, he was fishing, intent on his cork bobbing on the water, when suddenly behind his back he heard a terrifying noise. Turning he saw an immense rattle-snake, shaking its sixteen-rattles-and-a-button in the air, ready to spring. The boy for a moment was rigid with fear when he noticed that the snake was not looking at him. Following the snake's gaze he saw it fixed upon an enormous cotton-mouth moccasin. In a moment the two snakes were in deadly combat, and the rattler killed the moccasin, receiving only a few gashes and bruises on his own head. The boy then went to the rattler, and bruising some leaves made a poultice for the snake's head. And the snake seemed so eased by the poultice, the boy decided right there and then to be a doctor.

The boy started home from the creek and the rattler followed him. Through the meadow, and the garden, up through the orchard to the kitchen, where Mandy, the old mammy, left for her cabin in a hurry as he took his guest into the kitchen. In the kitchen the rattler was given a nice bed under the stove, and a good supper. Late that night the boy and his family were awakened by a terrific racket down in the kitchen. They heard a man scream, a signal of some sort sounded, the clatter of running feet. They hurried to the kitchen, and there was the rattle-snake, holding a burglar firmly in its folds while it hung its tail out of the window and rattled for the police!

The doctor's story ended there, and it is time to laugh. But analyzing his story a bit; that's the way rattle-snakes do, both the reptile kind and the human variety. The boy applying the bruised herb to its smashed head is, now the doctor doing the same kind office for other vipers who have been up against cotton-mouth moccasins and things!

Sometimes it's a big rattler, sometimes a nasty little adder, sometimes merely a slithering garden snake; and the doctor saves their lives, or keeps them in good condition for their jobs or their pleasures. And do they follow him home and protect him against danger?

Not knowing the doctor who told the yarn, we have no chance to draw our conclusions as to what he has met in his practice in the way of gratitude, or what he has done for people who belong in the reptilian category. We don't even know if he saw anything more in his story than a bit of after-dinner persiflage to make his companions merry. Whatever his intention, he certainly has painted a picture that a good doctor must be able to interpret with understanding.

The Coolidge Speech. Harding Not Mentioned. 10 Good Words. 13 "Socialistic." BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

YOU NOTICE the shortness of Coolidge sentences, compared with those of Mr. Davis. These, ten words, "I propose to do my duty as best I can," could not be improved by any "round periods." If those ten words and nothing else of the Coolidge talk had been sent on the radio, it would have been a better campaign document than eight columns "loaded" which is like a feeding a meal for a whale to a minnow.

THIRTEEN OTHER words from the Coolidge speech, if they had been in a La Follette speech, would have been called "socialism" by the prosperous. Talking of those that pay large income taxes Coolidge said: "They can take care of themselves, whatever happens, as the rich always can."

A PRESIDENT writing a long message should hire a good copy reader, like Clarke of the old Sun, or Walter Howe of New York's Daily Mirror, and get him to cut away everything but four hundred words for the radio. That would be a real campaign document.

SOME ARE amazed because President Coolidge's speech does not once mention the name of Harding. But that means little. W. W. Harper, of No. 114 North Hope street, Los Angeles, says that the word "immortal" appears in the Bible only once, 17th verse, first chapter of First Timothy. Yet the whole importance of the Bible is in the word "immortal."

THE COOLIDGE speech from end to end shows confidences that can't be mistaken. His statement about finances cannot be brushed away with any argument worth while. The Democratic party in 1921 had piled up a gigantic debt, more than twenty-four billions, billions of it in short time obligations, which would have puzzled anybody but Mellon.

UNITED STATES bonds were below par, when the Republicans took hold. They are above par now. Taxes were higher, they have been reduced. And there were five million people looking for jobs.

THAT OF COURSE, doesn't prove that the Democrats couldn't improve them more in the next four years.

MR. HILLES tells the President that New York will be Republican. If we were completely informed on the aftereffects of the Democratic convention in New York City, he would do more than tell the President. He would bet on it.

NEW YORK will turn in a Presidential vote this Fall that will surprise its oldest inhabitants.

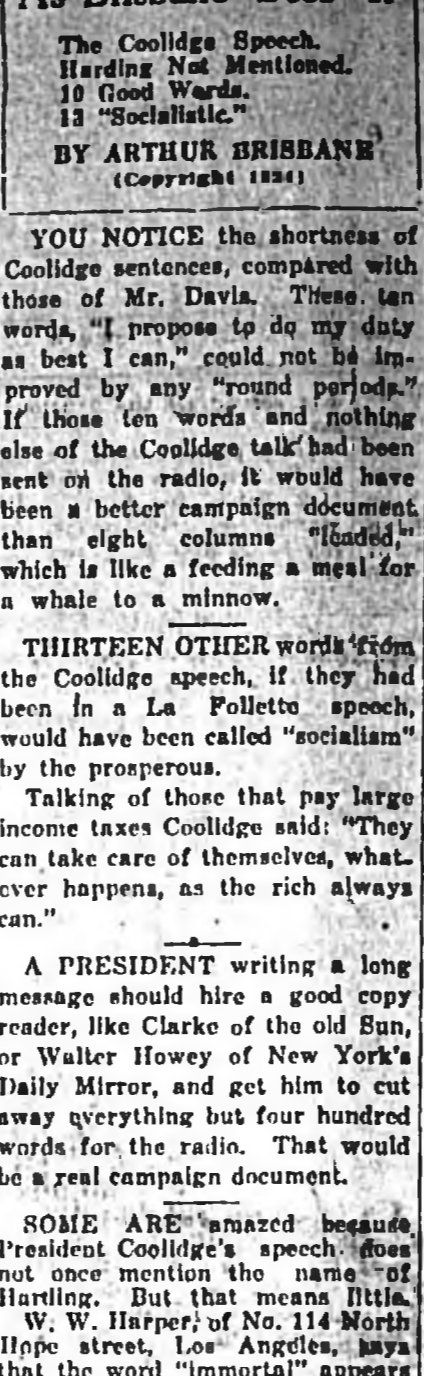

LIEUTENANT Donald Phillips flew 1,300 miles from Texas to Ohio. You may say, "That's nothing, everybody does it." But notice the size of his flying machine, called "Alouette," spread of wings 18 feet, total weight, including motor, 480 pounds.

That machine does 20 miles on a gallon of gas, goes 105 miles an hour and could take a traveling man from New York to Chicago in 9 hours, across the continent in 39 hours. "Alouette" could be stored on an "upper shelf" of a garage, the earth car below, flying car above.

Next width will be cut from the wings, weight taken from the engine, speed more than doubled. And the individual transportation problem solved.

WHAT DOES the public think of expert testimony, alienists, psychiatrists, contemplating the Loeb-Leopold trial? "Scientific method" paid by the parent, the young imponderable, abnormal victims of defective brain development. "Experts," hired by the State, declare the young murderers sane, responsible for their acts, not abnormal except as all murderers are abnormal.

OH, WHAT A RELIEF

POLLYANNA IN THE BARBER SHOP

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE

The barber shop has long held a solid and peculiar place in the American scene. As a social center in the small towns from which most great Americans originally came it was second in importance only to the old-fashioned livery stable.

The latter, with its long, dim vista of stalls, its raffish hangings, its lithograph of Maud S. doing the mile in 2:08 1/2, its proprietor with his air of a milder Simon Legree and his aureole of having once been connected with a circus, stood, of course, quite by itself. The town's life—its drama and romance largely revolved around it.

Its ancient hacks carried wedding parties and funerals and met the 12:30 and strangers from afar. The traveling man "from the city" came here for a "rig" ere sullying forth to take orders and break the heart of some farmer's daughter. Long after honest folks were asleep young bloods came clattering in, horses panting and flecked with foam, from goodness knows what adventures. What tales of young romance could not its spindly one-seaters have told—half the town's courting had been done on buggy rides.

The barber shop was no less imbedded in the local life, though its field was more circumscribed. In the nature of things it was essentially masculine—for how should ladies have hair-cut and shaves?—and in an aggressive, exclusive, even unregenerate sense. If there, if nowhere else, the enfranchised maid, his ears soothed by the steady scrape of stool on bristly cheeks, could unobtrusively hear the rosate pages of "The Police Gazette," that was "barber shop harmonies" but those which men alone, having duly worshipped at Bacchus's shrine, find pleasure in braving at the high soaring and patient moon? Papers too lurid in color, too Boettian in their burlesque for the gentler taste, found here their resting place and home.

The livery stable has gone—driven out by the mechanistic garage and the banal "filling station." What, we may ask, is now to become of this lesser social shrine, descended on, as it now is, not merely by droves of the opposite sex, but by precisely those pink-and-white, immature layers of it which heretofore were cloistered at the opposite pole? Fancy Rip Van Winkle shuffling back after a ten years' sleep to the faintly but fondly remembered red-white-and-blue pole, to find the wellworn chairs held down by misses' in their teens, while Daisy and Maizie and Pearl arms about one another's waists, fresh from their marshmallow sundae at the corner drug store, demand in their treble accents, "Who's next?"

There is pathos here for those who revere the past; thrills of authentic, if minor tragedy. It is, for example, near closing time of a Saturday night. Main Street is lined with farmers' automobiles. Man after man hurries hopefully up to Jerry's place for the weekly clean-up, stares for an instant and disconsolately retreats. For Jerry is busy. A "skirt," as they would have said in the old days, is in the chair. Some final touch, some esthetic twist, is being put on her "bob." Far from offending the knight of the shears, the challenging task seems to call forth all that he has of craftsmanship and artistic feeling. He turns his head now this way, now that, whirls the chair about, stoops, stands on tiptoe—he might be a painter hungry to catch the dripping wings of a sunset, an astronomer plotting the parallax of a new star.

Shaves are being missed here, but there's something more than that. An ancient institution is passing, swept down the tide of change. Jerry himself is different. He never used to bother like that. What is to become of the old haunt—of that facade of gilt-lettered shaving mugs, the pink papers with their sturdy demure in lights, the warm scent of bay rum and shaving soap, the pungent repartee? Something more than a parcel of disappointed villagers is rattling that doorknob. A new generation is knocking at the door.

SUCCESS OF THE AIR MAIL

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE

The transcontinental air mail in the first month of operation has made good. Delays, interruptions, accidents, various shortcomings might reasonably have been expected in a pioneer enterprise of this magnitude, yet there has been no serious misadventure and the planes have held to their timetables with great regularity.

Even though the service should not, after a longer trial, pay its way in full the encouragement its example affords to aviation warrants its continuation. If America is to be "first in the air," whether in war or peace, the field for aviators, designers and manufacturers must be enlarged. They have had little enough stimulation through governmental or public support. Air supremacy is essential to the defense of this country. The air mail and other developments of the air resources of the United States bear a direct relation to the preparedness essential to the nation.

MRS. TOM MOORE ENTERTAINS WITH SHOWER FOR MISS CARRIE STANLEY

Mrs. Tom Moore delightfully entertained with a miscellaneous shower Friday night honoring Miss Carrie Stanley, a bride-elect of early fall.

The color scheme of pink and white was artistically carried out with pink and white crepe streamers arranged with potted ferns in the spacious living room so well adapted for gatherings of this kind. Lovers' wreath in large baskets and vases added a dainty touch to the rooms.

During the evening much merriment was caused by the contests that the guests entered into. Clothes pins were given each guest with a small piece of crepe paper and they were told to dress either in a bride or groom fashion. Miss Jeanette Laing dressed the best bride and Mrs. Ellsworth Hayes the best groom, both being presented with dolls as prizes.

A word contest using the names "Stanley-Santman" caused much excitement. Miss Essie Whittle was the winner and was given a doll.

After writing matrimonial advice for the bride, the charming hostess served white brick cream and blocked cake fed in pink.

The guest list included about 30 of Miss Stanley's most intimate friends who wished her every marital happiness and gave her lovely gifts as a token of their friendship.

Opening of New Coral Gables Section Offers New Opportunity for Investment

THE newest addition to Coral Gables, and one of the most significant developments of the great 1924 program, is announced in the first offering of plots in the Flagler Street section. It is important not only in the fact that it marks new and enlarged boundaries for Miami's Master Suburb—not only another fine Coral Gables entrance beautify the western part of Miami's leading business street—but also for the reason that the new addition brings Coral Gables one-half mile nearer to the heart of the city.

Street, will be developed with the same high-grade features which it possesses in other sections. It will be 100 feet in width and will continue the white way for its entire length, and sidewalks and watermains are to be laid. In the matter of electricity, water, phones and other utilities it will enjoy the same service as all of the other parts of Coral Gables. Adjoining the fine Douglas section, which it does on the north, with all of the exceptional features which the latter will possess, the Flagler Street section is destined to be both popular and desirable with the buying public.

The Flagler Street section consists of approximately one hundred acres and includes land on both sides of Douglas Road. A fine entrance, designed by Denman Fink, who has created all of Coral Gables' noble entrances, will be built just east of Douglas Road on Flagler Street. The entrance will mark the beginning of Ponce de Leon Boulevard, which will be the main thoroughfare of the section. This fine paved boulevard will be 100 feet wide, and will be the continuation of the present main thoroughfare north and south through the Douglas section and the business section. It will extend all the way from Flagler Street to Coral Way, linking up the eastern sections of Coral Gables, and upon it are now being erected, or to be erected, many of the most important buildings and institutions of the suburb.

The development work in the new section will begin at once, and, with the fine new entrance will be completed before the winter season.

This new Coral Gables section will be doubly attractive to the investing public. The manifold attractions of Coral Gables' great development are here united and merged with the tremendous increases which all West Flagler Street property has enjoyed during the last two years. The combination offers splendid advantages for investors and especially for early buyers.

Ponce de Leon Boulevard, along its entire length to Flagler

Flagler Street section plots are priced at $1,450 upward. Maps and plots are now ready at the Coral Gables office, and deluxe pullman buses are ready to bring you to Coral Gables to take advantage of this opportunity.

TEXAS GOLFERS FIND A WAY TO PLAY AT NIGHT

Four Expert Players Use Big Flashlights to Follow Balls Through Darkness

The Houston, Texas, Country Club has found a way to play golf after nightfall. The problem of darkness has been solved by the use of flashlights and Houston's enthusiasts now can play golf twenty-four hours a day.

Four expert players—Tommy B. Cochran and W. C. Hunt, from the amateur ranks; and Willie Maguire and John Bredemus, professionals—demonstrated the possibilities of a thrilling night match over the 18-hole course, the pro team winning three up.

Two flashlights were used throughout, one trained on the ball and the other held over the balling green at the next hole. In every tee shot there was a black void to be played across. The player could see the ball and the distant beam of light which marked his destination but had to call on his golfing intuition to know how much power to put behind the driver. The only variation from standard rules was that a lost ball could be replaced without penalty. But three balls were lost. Each player had a number and the name number was painted on his ball.

Maguire had the best individual score, with a 74. For the course a 72. A gallery of 300 followed the match, which had been intended as a demonstration of the practicability of luminous balls. The luminous balls, however, failed to live up to expectations and the flashlight idea was evolved upon the spur of the moment and was successful.

SCHOOLS OF THIS NATION DECLARED TO BE PATRIOTIC

Milton Fairchild Describes Them as Safe from Disloyalty; Need Not Worry About School Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—There is no necessity for the general public to become excited about unpatriotic propaganda seeping into the schools of the United States, Milton Fairchild, chairman of the Character Education Institute, said recently in a reply to a letter sent out by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Cook warned state regents of her organization against the "activities of those who are knowingly and deliberately disloyal to our government and our political institutions," but Mr. Fairchild asserted that the school authorities were competent to handle the situation and that it was impossible for disloyal activities or propaganda to get a start in the schools.

"The boards of education," he citizens superintendents and supervisors over the body of teachers, "are made up of trustworthy men."

In her letter Mrs. Cook said the "Youth Movement" aimed at the heart of "our most sacred and moral foundations and will, if promulgated in our secondary schools and colleges, aim to destroy the moral fibre of our girls and boys."

Mr. Fairchild, in his answer, sets forth that he personally interviewed Mrs. Cook and others, asking for the sources of their information. These had been given, but upon investigation they were found to "have no reliable detailed information."

The Character Education Institute, made up of educators and state superintendents of education, Mr. Fairchild explained, had expended $300,000 in research and planning work during the past ten years and in perfecting the children's morality code and the "Five Point Plan," under which clubs of patriotic citizens are supported.

Nile Dam Builders Campaign Will Help in Race Against Flood

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 16.—British engineers who are fast completing the world's biggest dam on the Blue Nile in the Sudan, have triumphed in a six months' race against the Nile floods. The chief object of the dam is to raise the level of the water at this spot to a height at which it will flow through canals to irrigate a tract of more than 8,000 acres of land. The annual floods, which reach their highest in mid-July, threatened to nullify the work of the engineers. Faced with this fact they have pushed the operations with an army of 19,000 workmen for the past six months before winning a victory which was in doubt at the last minute.

Seminole Indians To Go To Capital for Celebration

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 16.—Arrangements are being made to bring to the state capital descendants of Florida's original inhabitants, the Seminole Indians, now reduced to a more handful. Tribal dances, customs and modes of life will be a feature of the big state exposition, it is announced.

Only about 500 Seminoles remain in the state today, according to W. Stanley Hanson, of Fort Myers, an authority on Indian life and active in bringing a complete Indian village to the centennial. One-third of these are Muscogees, otherwise known as Cow Creeks, who live in the district east and north of Lake Okechobee, says Mr. Hanson. The remainder are Miccosukees living near Fort Lauderdale, Miami the lower Everglades and Big Cypress swamp.

Each group speaks the language of his tribe and are scarcely understandable by the other without resort to "Pidgin English." It is said. Many are well educated and are excellent farmers but still adhere in many respects to the customs which ante-date the formation of the state.

The two bloody Seminole wars, the first seven years long which ended in the capture of Chief Osceola; deportation to Indian lands west of the Mississippi; disease and the march of civilization have reduced the Seminoles from the tens of thousands that lived here when Ponce de Leon came. Many citizens of this state know little of the red men whose name is so closely linked to their state's history. The village at the centennial will therefore be a most illuminating exhibit, it is expected.

Aspiration to Florida breeders as well.

The exhibits committee is receiving the co-operation of all county agents, of the faculty of the University of Florida and state officials. Mr. Mackintosh says. The forestry section and the commission on shell fish also promise extensive showings, while Florida's grain, fruits and truck will be well represented by counties and individuals.

Many a lawyer who is great at breaking wills finds that he can't enforce his own at home.—Des Moines Register.
