

The Telephone.

Professor Alexander Graham Bell is reported to have explained in a lecture how he came to invent the telephone as follows:

"My father invented a symbol by which deaf mutes could converse, and finally I invented an apparatus by which the vibrations of speech could be seen, and it turned out to be a telephone. It occurred to me to make a machine that would enable one to hear vibrations. I went to an aurist, and he advised me to take the human ear as my model. He supplied me with a dead man's ear, and with this ear I experimented, and upon applying the apparatus I found that the dead man's ear wrote down the vibrations.

"I arrived at the conclusion that if I could make iron vibrate on a dead man's ear I could make an instrument more delicate which would cause those vibrations to be heard and understood. I thought if I placed a delicate piece of steel over an electric magnet I could get a vibration, and thus the telephone was completed.

"The telephone arose from my attempts to teach the deaf to speak. It arose from my knowledge, not of electricity, but as a teacher of the deaf. Had I been an electrician I would not have attempted it."

Cocoanuts Make Good Fuel.

"Mine is rather a curious business," said a man who owns a small warehouse and shed down near London's docks. "I deal in coconut shells, and last year I sold more than 50,000 bags full of them as fuel.

"I buy thousands of coconut shells from stall keepers all over London, from confectioners, from coconut oil extractors, from market sweepers and others. I won't tell you the usual price, but sometimes I get them for nothing, for carting them away. In fact, I sell them at fourpence a bag, most of my customers being poor people, who mix them, when broken up, with 'slack' coal. But in scores of hotels and large houses a quantity is bought to be mixed with coals as fire lighters, for the immense amount of oil in coconut shells makes them take fire at once. Try it and see.

"I have rivals in the business in other parts of London, and some of the makers of patent fire lighters mix large quantities of the shells in their compositions."—London News.

Rats on Ships.

"Are rats destructive? Well," said a captain of a merchantman, "I once knew them to get through 55,000 worth of stuff in five days.

"Japan does an immense trade with China in cocoons, and the first time I carried such a cargo they were packed in sacks. When we got to Hongkong we found that the rats had discovered that part of a cocoon was good to eat, and the bill for their board came to 55,000. The shipowners were sued for that amount; but, the packing being considered faulty, the claim was disallowed. It was the first and last cocoon feast the rats had, for ever since Japan has packed cocoons in zinc lined cases.

"Every time a ship gets back to Liverpool a rat catcher is set to clearing out the rats, but by the time we have loaded up again the rodents are every bit as numerous. In some ports we use rat guards on the ropes, and the ship is always fumigated before taking a cargo of fruit or tea. But there is no getting rid of them entirely."—London Graphic.

Prepared For Contingencies.

"We have lots of curious 'last requests' from patients who are about to have operations performed," said a nurse in the women's surgical ward of one of the New York hospitals, "but I thought about the last word had been said on this subject one day last week when one of my patients before going to the operating room called me to her and asked me to write two postal cards to her husband so that she might sign them before the operation. One was to read, 'My dear husband, the operation was at 10 o'clock this morning, and I am getting along fine.' The other one was: 'My dear husband, the operation was at 10 o'clock this morning, and I am sorry to say I died. From your loving wife.'"—New York Times.

Her Tongue.

They were talking of figures of speech. "Have you ever noticed," said one, "how fond people are of vegetable metaphors when they are dealing with a woman? Her cheeks are 'roses,' her lips are 'cherry,' her hands are always 'lily' hands, her mouth is a 'rosebud,' her complexion is 'like a peach,' and her breath is 'fragrant as honey-suckle.'" "You've forgotten one," said the cynic. "What's that?" "Her tongue. It is a scarlet runner."—Exchange.

Consistent to the Last.

"If I was to commit suicide at sea," said Weary Walker as he shifted the hay band on his left foot, "I'd jump from the bow of the boat." "An' why not from the stern?" queried Limpy Lannigan. "If I jumped from the stern," said Weary, "I wouldn't avoid the wash!"

A Division of Purpose.

Some years ago the Yankee schooner Sally Ann, under command of Captain Spooner, was beating up the Connecticut river. Mr. Comstock, the mate, was at his station forward. According to his notion of things the schooner was getting a "leettle" too near certain mud flats which lay along the larboard shore. So aft he went to the captain and, with his hat cocked on one side, said:

"Cap'n Spooner, you're getting a leettle too close to them flats. Hadn't you better go about?"

The captain glared at him. "Mr. Comstock, jest you go for'ard and tend to your part of the skuner. I'll tend to mine."

Mr. Comstock went for'ard in high dudgeon.

"Boys," he bellowed out, "see that that er mud hook's all clear for lettin' go."

"Aye, aye, sir!"

"Let go, 'then!" he roared.

Down went the anchor, out rattled the chains, and like a flash the Sally Ann came luffing into the wind and then brought up all standing. Mr. Comstock walked aft and touched his hat.

"Well, cap'n, my part of the skuner is to anchor."—Everybody's.

Men Should Brush Their Hair More.

"Very few men brush their hair enough," said a downtown barber.

"Fact. Most lils of the scalp can be traced to that fault. You see it's this way: A man is generally in a hurry when he dresses, and he never takes time to brush his hair—simply smooths it down, generally only with a comb—and as a result dandruff is allowed to accumulate and trouble begins. Now, with a woman it's different. A woman has to carefully brush her hair at least once a day. If she didn't it would be a pretty mess. It's very length saves her, for in brushing it each day she gets out all sorts of impurities, dandruff and the like, all of which is for her own good. Now, that is the chief reason why fewer women suffer from dandruff than the unfortunate members of the opposite sex, and it is also the reason why the hair is a woman's crowning glory even if she is fair, fat and forty. So brush your hair every morning thoroughly if you want to keep in the swim."—Philadelphia Record.

Odd Contrasts in Climate.

New York is usually thought of as being directly west from London. It is, however, despite its far more rigorous climate, 900 miles nearer the equator than is the British capital. The bleak coast of Labrador is directly west of London. The same line passes the southern part of Hudson bay and Lake Winnipeg. On the other side of the continent it touches the southern extremity of Alaska and continues through the center of the Isthmus of Kamchatka and Siberia and Russia to Homburg.

It is astonishing, too, to reflect on the fact that Montreal, with its winters of extraordinary severity, is 350 miles nearer the equator than is London. Montreal, indeed, is on the same degree of latitude as Venice.

Another illustration of the unexpected in contrasts is found in a comparison of St. John's, Newfoundland, with Paris. Paris has a winter of comparative mildness, while St. John's is a region of bitter cold and fogs, with drifting icebergs along its coast. Yet St. John's is 100 miles nearer the equator. —New York Tribune.

Accepted.

"Quills has had a story accepted at last," remarked a Journalist to a colleague.

"Surely not," was the rejoinder. "Yes. He went home at 2 o'clock this morning with an awful yarn, and his wife believed it."

A Big Door.

The following is a copy of a bill posted on the wall of a country village in England: "A lecture on total abstinence will be delivered in the open air, and a collection will be made at the door to defray expenses."

HAVE PURCHASED FORTY ACRES

Party of Eastern Capitalists buy More Valuable Land

Messrs. E. H. Johnson and R. H. Gillespie of Stamford, Conn., who purchased a tract of land on the west side, on the Monroe road, last year, have recently added to their purchase, and were in the city this week inspecting their new possessions. They have organized the Monroe Lake Produce Co., and now own over forty acres of fine land, five acres being in cultivation and the remainder will be cleared within the next few weeks.

Dr. T. J. Biggs and Ernest Brown, who accompanied Messrs. Gillespie and Johnson to Sanford this year were so well pleased with the prospects that they immediately purchased ten acres on the Monroe road, and will have the same cleared immediately. The Monroe Co. propose to farm upon a large scale, and the superintendent, Fred Stalden, will arrive this week to take charge.

These gentlemen have great faith in Sanford soil, and we gladly welcome them to our midst. They are the kind of people needed to properly develop the great celery delta.

The land is part of the famous tract owned by M. M. Smith, and the sales were made through the well-known real estate firm of Murrell & Minshew.

LARGE BRUSH FACTORY

Will be The Latest Stunt for The City of Sanford

GOOD OPENING FOR ENTERPRISE

Well-Known Manufacturer Now in the City Looking for a Suitable Location

The palmetto for centuries has waved over the rich lands of Florida. Under their rustling fronds the red man built his wigwam, and in the later years the white man grubbed them up to clear his lands for cultivation. For many years the palmetto and towering palm tree had little commercial value, although in later years quite a business has been transacted in the fibre of the palmetto. It was shipped North in large quantities, being used for brushes, and the berries for medicine. The palmetto fibre is said to make the best kind of brushes and will withstand hard usage and the action of water better than any other material used for brushes.

George Lemaux, president and manager of the Indianapolis Brush & Broom Co., for a number of years has depended upon the Florida palmetto fibre for the best brushes manufactured at his large plant, and having in mind a trip to Florida this season was determined to inspect for himself the immense tracts of land that still contain the palmetto.

Mr. Lemaux was naturally attracted to Sanford first, as this city is advertised more extensively than any other city in the South. He has been here for several weeks, and after purchasing some vegetable land, like all his friends, has had time to investigate the problem of a southern distributing point from whence the fibre could be procured at a nominal cost and worked up into certain kinds of brushes to supply the trade of the United States.

The location of Sanford and its wonderful facilities for transportation appeal very strongly to Mr. Lemaux, and while his plans are not ready to be made public, it is certain that Sanford will at a later date have a large factory erected for the manufacture of palmetto fibre brushes, and a nucleus for the distribution of several other products of this nature. There is a large quantity of palmetto being burned up every day in the clearing of fields in the celery delta, the amount in Beck hammock alone being so great that Mr. Lemaux will probably devise some means in a few days to preserve this wood for future use. If all this timber, which heretofore has been considered worthless, can be utilized and become of some value, the despised palmetto will spring into prominence at once and will be hoarded instead of being wasted as it is at the present time.

SANFORD HOME MINSTRELS

Will Give a Good Performance at the Opera House

The home minstrels will give a performance in the Opera House next Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Sanford Band, with Geo. Adams as manager. The sweet singers will comprise such well known soloists as C. Edgar Hamilton, Claude Howard, Frank Grayam and Walter Beatty. The coon songs will be rendered in good shape by such end men as Messrs. Preston, Adams, Hurt, Roumillat, Stringfellow and Carruthers. J. A. Davis will act as interlocutor in his usual grace and style and everyone attending will be promised an evening of rare enjoyment. The Sanford boys have long enjoyed the reputation of being first-class minstrels and next Tuesday night's performance will be no exception to the rule. Mr. DeCottes with his usual magnanimous spirit has consented to aid in the performance and will add to the oleo with his moving pictures.

Give the boys the glad hand and assist a worthy cause at the same time.

A Card to the Public

I desire to inform my former patrons, and the public in general, that I have taken charge of the City Restaurant (in the Hines block). I believe that the experience gained by me in Jacksonville the past few months, will enable me to please my customers even better than I did when I conducted the old Central Cafe.

Although I cannot just at present give the business my personal attention, my assistant, Mrs. Hicks, will be on hand at all times, and will take great pleasure in giving the best of service to all who may call at the City Restaurant. —H. E. WISE.

SANFORD CELERY MOVING

Over Fifty Cars Go Forward During This Week

The best celery crop ever grown in Sanford is moving northward, and from now until the end of the season our city streets will be filled with loads of celery. There will be over fifty cars of celery go forward this week and all of it is bringing the best of prices. The cold weather has brought out the celery in great shape and good prices are bound to prevail from now until the close of the season.

J. E. Pace shipped four cars this week at $1.75 per crate f. o. b. Sanford. He has just closed one of the largest deals ever made in Sanford celery at one time, where-by he will ship twenty-five cars of celery that will bring over $15,000.

Mr. Pace will also ship in addition over seventy-five more cars of celery before the end of the season. He is jubilant over the prospects and is confident the crop will bring good prices until the close of the season.

Crutchfield & Woolfolk are shipping lettuce and celery, and report both crops bringing good prices. They are quoting $2 per crate, Sanford, for fancy stock celery in ten inch crates.

Chase & Co. will average over 30 cars of celery this week and several of lettuce. Both are bringing good prices and prospects are good until end of the season. Several other growers and shippers interviewed by THE HERALD representative elicited the information that celery and lettuce are bringing the best prices ever known and would continue until the close of the crop. If this statement proves true Sanford will experience one of the most prosperous seasons in the history of good crops and prices.

KILLED A MAMMOTH ALLIGATOR

Party of New Residents Have an Exciting Experience

Messrs. R. G. Frank of Petoskey, Mich., Geo. Lemaux of Indianapolis, Ind., Harry Ward of Decatur, Ind., J. E. Rock of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mr. Fish of Chicago, embarked in a launch one day this week to go up the river on a fishing trip. They had their trolls out and succeeded in yanking out a good string of fish, and were engaged in this pleasant pastime when they ran athwart a monster alligator lazily amusing himself and enjoying a siesta. The sight of this mighty leviathan was too much for Mr. Lemaux and he ordered the guide to face the enemy while he unlimbered the heavy artillery which consisted of a shotgun loaded with buckshot. The guide carried out the instructions to the letter and shutting off the power allowed the boat to drift to within a few feet of the gator. The rest of the party were seared speechless, and Harry Ward hastily scribbled a note to his family telling them how he died.

Lemaux, however, with the courage of his French ancestors surging through his veins (and gradually tooting out his finger tips) followed the guide's instructions and aimed the mountain howitzer just behind the foreleg. Shutting both eyes, and breathing a prayer for his salvation, he pulled the trigger and the mighty saurian sprang convulsively into the air with his heart cleft in twain. The rest of the crew were brought to by dashing celery toad into their faces, and the carcass was towed to shore and afterward brought to the city. The gator measured 12½ feet, and the hide will be prepared at once and the gentlemen propose to have it made up into satchels in which they will carry back the money made from their Sanford celery farms, recently purchased.

An effort is to be made to have the next legislature form a new county out of the north half of Dade.

CHRONICLE SUSPENDS

Publication After Fitful Career of Over Sixteen Years

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE THIS WEEK

Printing Plant Sold to Messenger & Baker, Who Will Conduct Job Office The Herald Publishes Its Legals

With its issue of yesterday, The Chronicle published its valedictory and will cease to be a factor in Celery City Journalism.

To those who are acquainted with the newspaper business in Sanford, the reasons for this desertion are obvious.

Yesterday marked the last issue of The Chronicle, which has been a factor in Orange county journalism for the past score years, as is evidenced by the following announcement:

Notice to the Public

I have sold The Chronicle printing plant to Jesse L. Baker and William B. Messenger, which will take effect March 1st.

All advertising up to that date is payable to me. The legal advertising will be carried out by The Sanford Herald.

I wish to thank the patrons of The Chronicle for their patronage and support while engaged in the newspaper business in Sanford.

MRS. S. M. B. OVERMAN.

During the past fourteen months the management of The Chronicle has been changed time without knowledge, though the owner, Mrs. S. M. B. Overman, has always had a proprietorship in the plant. Finally, a few weeks ago, she was compelled to assume the direct management of the business, as well as the editorship of the paper, but having other business affairs which demanded her entire attention, and being unable to profitably dispose of the business, she decided to sell the printing outfit and cease the publication of the paper.

The press and all material not valuable in the job printing business have been disposed of to the type foundry and will be shipped in a few days. With the proceeds of the old material, Messrs. Messenger and Baker announce that they will establish a job printing office in the Plaxco building. They are young men of good character, industrious and capable, and will no doubt succeed. The Herald bespeaks for them a generous patronage and welcomes them as honorable competitors.

The following announcement also appears in the last issue of The Chronicle:

We, the undersigned, purchasers of The Chronicle plant, hereby notify the public that with this issue The Chronicle will suspend publication, for the time being, at least. The old material now in the office will be shipped to the foundry and a complete new job outfit has been procured and is now on the road, and will be installed in the Plaxco building, on Magnolia avenue, about March 1st. All subscriptions not paid up to date will be collected by us, and all paid in advance will be refunded. We solicit a share of your patronage and assure you good work at fair prices.

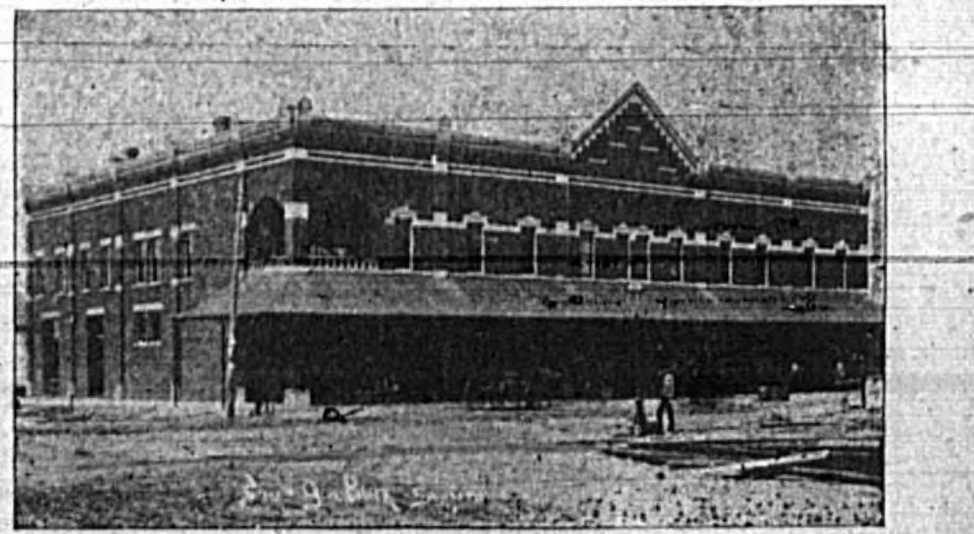

WILLIAM B. MESSENGER. JESSE L. BAKER.

In accordance with an agreement made with Mrs. S. M. B. Overman, The Herald will fulfill all contracts for legal printing and will in every way comply with the requirements of law governing that part of the business. However, it must be understood that The Herald has nothing to do with the fulfillment of other advertising or subscription contracts, otherwise than may be mutually arranged and agreed upon.

The girls, they say are a curious lot,
For they team with curiosity.
But a girl is a disagreeable girl,
When her name is Annie Mouty.

Girls, men say, are a mysterious lot,
Comprehensible just when too late:
All the same, 'tis plain case of girl
When her name is plain E. Lucy Date.

Girls, preachers say, are a religious lot,
But for them the maids are too fox;
They never heard of the unchristian girl
Whom people call Hettie Rodoxy.

Again they call 'em the "sweet gentle dear,"
'Tis a fact which compels one to grin,
When he recalls to mind the fighting girl,
Who would call herself Hettie Magin.

Some writers tell us the fair sex is weak,
But these are just like the old cynics,
They know not the strength and muscle of the girl,
Now posing as Miss Callie Stenics.

And fellows will tell of the girls they know,
Who are neither too short nor too long,
Among which are mentioned the well-informed girl
And they call her their dear Polly Gon.

These are but few of the beings in the world
Whose sole "rep" may be known by their name,
And if every case was a case like these,
'Twould be easy to praise and to blame.

Good morning! Have you noticed those great piles of vitrified brick along First street?

Washington's birthday, which anniversary was celebrated last Monday, always revives the hatchet and cherry tree story, and some writers are so unkind as to regard the story as apocryphal. But that old story about George throwing a dollar
across the Potomac, and the explanation that he was able to do so "because a dollar went farther in those days than it does now," makes me duck every time.
The supplementary explanation also that that was not much of a trick for George
to do, since he had just "chucked a sovereign across the sea" makes one look with admiration upon the "metropolitan"
press humorists.

A couple of Jacksonville traveling men were sitting in the hotel lobby over in a neighboring town the other night cussing
the powers that be for not promptly repealing the local option law, and all
"dry" towns in general came in likewise
for a vigorous scolding.

"What can a man do in a town like this?" asked one of these traveling men.
"I'd go crazy if I had to live in a town
where a man couldn't even get a drink.
It's a dull place for a man from a city to put in a night, for sure. What's the matter with going over to the public hall?
There's a magician over there giving a performance. It will be something to do until bedtime."

"I'll go on that proposition."
The hotel proprietor and the editor of the only newspaper in the town joined them and all went to the performance.

The conjuror asked him if some one would loan him a white handkerchief.

One of the traveling men handed up a big square piece of white muslin.

The magician examined the cloth for a moment, and then remarked dramatically:
"Thank heaven, there is one clean sheet in this town."

And now the publisher claims that it was the hotel bed clothes that the con-juror referred to, while the hotel keeper swears that it was the town's newspaper that was meant.

I find this in the "Phyllis," a little pamphlet edited by Fra Albertus Hubbard:

There is no prophylactic so powerful as the healthy, happy resiliency of Nature. Life is a fight against disease, and Nature has provided life shall win if given half a chance.
Life is natural; disease is abnormal.
To introduce disease into a healthy body under the plea that you are fortifying the individual against disease is the very acme of scientific stupidity.

There is nothing resists disease
equal to health—keep it, prize it, work for it, pray for it.

And when a doctor or anybody else talks to you about inoculating the beautiful body of your child with dead matter from a diseased cow, in the interest of health, tell him to go to—India, where dried grasshoppers and snake tongues are considered a cure for cholera.

It makes a big lot of difference to a man
what sort of a high sign is made to him.
Let a man shake one finger at another and there's likely to be a fight. But just let him hold up two fingers with a side-wise jerk, and you can gamble that it will be gin flazes or highballs all around,
or a couple of goblets of suds at the least.
Queer how people look at things.

This talk about the freedom of the press being abridged by the indelicaments

of the publishers of the New York World and the Indianapolis News is all rot. A newspaper has no more right to slander a person or persons than has an individual. There should be punishment for a newspaper that willingly and knowingly injures people by the circulation of untruths just as others are taken before the tribunal of justice for like offenses. There is no danger of the freedom of the press being sacrificed in this country and all editorials that set up this cry are simply intended for gallery consumption.

So far the ministers and temperance people have not descended upon Tallahassee and it is probable that there will be no singing of hymns in the corridors of the state house during the approaching legislature.

The Lenten season began for this year
of 1909 on February 24, Ash Wednesday.
Last Sunday was Quinquagesima Sunday, the Sunday before Lent, and the fifth Sunday before Easter, which falls this year upon April 11. The period of fasting and prayer is as old as the most ancient of civilizations. To trace the fasts and festivals of the world would be to trace the entire history of religion and human civilization. Where no religion exists you will find no fasts and few festivals.

Shrove Tuesday derives its name from the ancient practice of the church of confessing sins, and being shrived or shrove,
that is obtaining absolution on this day.
This year, 1909, it falls upon February 23. When Shrove Tuesday dawned all bells were set a ringing, and all abandoned themselves to various amusements.
In England to this day it is called pancake day. Shakespeare makes his clown in "Alls Well That Ends Well" speak of something being as "fit as a pancake for Shrove Tuesday."

Ash Wednesday, the actual beginning of Lent, falls this year upon February 24. The date is dependent upon that of Easter which is a movable feast. Easter always falls upon the first Sunday after the first full moon after March 21; but should Easter fall upon March 21, then the Sunday following will be Easter Sunday.

The attitude of a majority of people toward the season of Lent is that it comes as a welcome relief from the strain and strife of every day, life, and brings a restful period in which to recover bodily health and mental balance, poise and quietude. Its literal observance is not entered into very fully today,
even by those who consider themselves pretty strict church people. The spirit of the Lenten season is good and makes us think more of our brother man, more charitably disposed, and more regardful
of the amenities of our earthly existence.
It has even taken possession of those who do not give adherence to the church,
who take home to themselves the spirit of self-sacrifice, and self-restraint, which are helpful to a greater serenity of temper, of mind and of body. Thus the spirit and the ideals of the Lenten season,
if not the literal observance, find a more general acceptance now than ever before among men of the world.

I read in the fashion column of a magazine the other day that a dress reformer wanted to have placed on women
some sort of an insignia to determine whether they are attached or unattached females. Now what do you think of that?
It would stop all the fun some men get in the endeavor to find out the fact for themselves.

The prohibitionists talk wildly about the evils of liquor drinking but this is a small matter as compared with morphine and other addictions. The liquor drunkard makes such a show of himself that the evils attached to excess liquor drinking are thereby apparent to all and exaggerated most grossly. The morphine and cocaine "habitué" can usually hide his folly and intemperance for many years, just as the sensualist is enabled to do.

Did you ever realize that more than 75
per cent of those addicted to dry intoxication are doctors and the closely allied profession of dentists and druggists? The reason, of course, is easily explained by the fact that these men are enabled more easily to obtain the drug and also are often using it in their work.

It is not a very difficult matter for the alcoholic victim to quit the practice and reform himself altogether, but the morphine victim finds it impossible to break away from the habit, and few ever make a genuine reformation.

It is one of the things that even the Emmanuel Movement regards as beyond its skill; thus mental healing at least will not encourage the victim that he can be cured by practicing the ideas and methods of the promoters of the movement.

Dr. Worcester in a recent address in St.
George's church, New York city, which was largely devoted to nervous diseases, and what the Emmanuel idea could, and could not do, in the matter of curing such class of disorders made the statement that the word of a morphine user was worthless. He is not to be believed as to his infirmity. In relating a conversation with one who had asked him what help

he could get from the Emmanuel idea, the doctor stated that he had asked the morphine how long he had refrained from using morphine. The victim replied, "About a week." But his breath, his appearance, and everything about him indicated that he had not abstained
over one hour.

Such disciples of the Emmanuel movement as Dr. Worcester and Dr. McComb, limit their field of action by requiring medical diagnosis of many diseases, and declining to undertake treatment of certain kinds of cases. Those to whom this movement is mostly directed are those of indolent habits of mind and body, those whose nervous systems are ragged with the disipation of our foolishly high-pitched American life, both social and business.

Hysteria and mental depression, in spite of what objectors say, are subject to the treatment of mental and moral conditions. When it comes to morphine habits Dr. Worcester is not so confident.
"When a person addicted to morphine comes to me," he said, "I urge him to go to a sanatorium where he can have the care he needs and the protection from himself. It is rarely you can take the word of a person given to morphine."

On the other hand victims of alcoholism are comparatively easy to start right again on sobriety's path. His distinction between alcoholics and morphine as to moral conditions was a most interesting one. This new phrase of applied Christianity sensibly avoids dangerous and misleading generalizations.

As a matter of fact, it is a mental process of aiding in cures of a nervous character and has nothing in reality to do with religion. Every intelligent doctor knows the value of inspiring a hopeful mental condition in his patient's minds
as an aid to cure. All thoughtful physicians of education and experience know
the whole question better than the Em-manuelists themselves.

However, it has this value, that it brings to individuals the aid of organized effort and an association of people whose hopeful views of life aid the single person very materially by contact and helpful suggestion. In this way and through these means the movement may do much good.

Henry C. Frick as a successor to Senator Knox as a representative of the great state of Pennsylvania in the upper house of the United States congress would be a fitting contribution to the millionaire's club of the country. Mr. Frick, of course, would go to the senate to represent the common people and not to look after the interests of the steel trust, all appearances to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Essay on the Editor

A little boy in town was given the stunt by his father to write an essay on Editors, and here is the result:

"I don't know how newspapers come to be in the world. I don't think God does for he haint got nothing to say about them and editors in the Bible. I think the editor is one of the missing links you read of, and stayed in the bushes until after the flood; and then came out and wrote the thing up, and has been here ever since. I don't think he ever dies. I never saw a dead one and never heard of one getting licked. Our paper is a mighty good one, but the editor goes without underclothes all the winter and don't wear any socks and paw ain't paid his subscription since the paper started. I ast paw if that was why the editor had to suck the juse out of snowballs in winter and go to bed when he had a shirt waish in summer. And then paw took me out into the wood slied and lickt me awful hard. If the editor makes a mistake folks say he ought to be hung; but if a doctor makes any mistakes he buries them and people dassant say nothing because doctors can read and write latin. When the editor makes a mistake there is a lawsuit, and swearing and a big fuss; but if a doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfekt silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anybody else knowing what it means; but if the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit; but if an editor goes he gets a charge of buckshot. When the doctor gets drunk it is a case of being overcome by the heat and if he dies it is from hart trouble, when a editor gets drunk its a case of too much booze and if he dies its the Jim-Jams."—Ex.

Naming Their New Possessions

O. E. Walker, who recently purchased a ten acre lot on the corner of Beardall and Geneva avenues, will call it "Topeka Place." The name is very appropriate, as Mr. Walker lives in Topeka, Kansas. Topeka is the name for potato, and Mr. Walker has a fine crop of potatoes on the place. Doc. Castle will name his place "Castle Garden." This does not signify that it is a landing place for immigrants, although Doc would probably like to locate a good German family on the place some time in the future.

PRICE OF ORANGES ADVANCED

New York Prices Advance Steadily and Grapefruit is Wanted

[New York Packer]
New York, Feb. 22.—Prices of Florida oranges have been advancing steadily all week until at the close they were 25@40c higher than last week. Excellent fruit weather, together with much lighter receipts, have been strong factors in the market and for once in the season money is being made on Florida oranges. The supply is unequal to the demand, which has become extremely active during the last few weeks and is getting stronger all the time. The fruit is cleaning up closely from day to day. Receivers say that the superiority in quality of Florida offerings over a great portion of the California stock accounts for popularity of the former. Desirable lines of fancy fruit are selling this week $3@3.75, with good brights and russets doing $2.50@3. Fancy 126s are in good demand at $4@4.50, with some extra fancy well known brands exceeding these prices.

Reports from Florida indicate that the crop is cleaning up very rapidly. Shipments will gradually grow lighter and in two weeks at least, the season will practically be closed. Florida growers are getting more orders for fruit than they can fill. Every section of the country wants oranges from this State and is willing to pay for them. In some places growers are getting as high as $1.40 f. o. b. and wires from here of this price this week have failed to land the fruit. The season is closing in much better shape than anyone anticipated. Some receivers here wish they had bought at least 100 cars more when they could have secured them at a fair price. They would have been able to clean up under present circumstances $300 a car easily. The fruit is excellent now, better than it has been any time this season. It always gets better after January. Nearly all of it is thoroughly ripe and its edible qualities are fine. Fancy Indian Rivers have sold $3@4.50, according to size. Most of the fruit is running to small sizes and this is what the trade wants.

Fancy grapefruit is scarce, but in good demand. It is no trouble at all to get $3@4 for fine fruit, with some extra fancy exceeding these quotations. Fine russets are in request at $2.75@3.50, with bright and ordinary quiet at $2.50@2.75. The larger portion of the arrivals show only ordinary quality. There are only a few Tangerines arriving and most of them are too poor to exceed $2@3. Prime fruit would bring more. Fancy Kings are selling $4@4.50 a strap. Russets and poor stock are quiet at irregular prices. Kumquats are neglected at nominal prices.

Eagles Hold Meeting

On Monday night the new Aerie of the Order of Eagles held a preliminary meeting at the city hall. F. Viering of Gainesville, the organizer of the Aerie, after explaining the aim and history of the order, expressed his surprise at the great success he had in bringing together so many members in this city in a few days. The roll of charter members being already one hundred.

The installation of the Aerie will take place on March 16th, and it is expected that for this occasion there will be a number of Eagles from neighboring cities in attendance.

The following committees have been appointed to take care of the management on installation day:

Hall—J. D. Davison, W. H. Hand, G. W. Adams, H. H. Hill.

Entertainment—J. M. Hand, H. P. Driver, to select the other members.

Reception—W. D. Holden, J. D. Davison, J. H. Overman, C. T. Snead, D. H. Adams, George A. De Cottea.

This organization starting with such a vim right from the go, will be a great thing for Sanford, since it is assured from the beginning to be a strong and healthy society, bidding fair to grow and prosper.

The charter will be closed on the night of March 16th, and anyone wishing to join as a charter member at the reduced installation fee, can do so by calling on the secretary of the Aerie, S. Runge, at the Coca-Cola Bottling Co.'s office.

FIRST IN PEACE—FIRST IN WAR

George Washington, the Father of his country, brilliant soldier, statesman of ability, an honored Southern gentleman, and lover of his fellow-man, whose name and fame will be ever held in greatest love and reverence by the American people, was born February 22, 1732, and last Monday was the anniversary of his birth.

The successful termination of the Revolutionary War, a struggle of unexampled privation and heroism, found this mighty nation of ours finally welded into the great commonwealth of the American Republic of the United States—the freest and most splendid of all the Republics of the earth, and let us hope will live to solve rightly all of humanity's problems—particularly that of peace universally.

The work of statesmanship, now freed from the harassing duties of carrying on a great war, was directed into a greater channel of making a nation worthy of the ideas and theories of government that determined its republican form, and to make it forever possible to have the blessings of the victory for freedom, and the rights to enjoy the fruits of peaceful industry.

THE PASSING OF THE RAZORBACK

With the advent of the homeseeker and the fencing in of all the lands near Sanford where the animals were wont to roam at will, the most picturesque and the most worthless—the razorback hog—is fast receding from the landscape.

Exit the travesty on pork, and enter the fine, well-fed hogs, penned up and well fed, with a long line of ancestors and a glimpse of hams and bacon to make the mouth of the epicure moisten in anticipation.

The passing of the razorback means that in the future the Sanford farmers will raise a good breed of real hogs. No more will the controversy arise as to the owner of an offending hog, for the latter day animal will be of the domestic variety and will be so thoroughly domesticated that he will have no mind to roam.

We are now living in a more luxurious age and the razorback is not one of us. We desire a larger strip of fat and a smaller strip of lean, and the razorback has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

He performed his part faithfully while here and for his good deeds we sound his praise, although said praise will not make a very loud noise.

It is back to the woods for him and he gallops from the field as his successor waddles in.

The Herald is on sale at T. J. Miller & Son's store, and the City cigar store.

A WEEKLY PAPER IS THE BEST

We pity sincerely the reporter of the daily newspaper. Many of those engaged in collating news for the columns of the diurnal press are bright and clever fellows, deserving of a better fate. They are often at their wits' end to fabricate the necessary mental pabulum to fill up the rapacious maw of the daily which has an insatiate greed for copy.

While the daily newspaper is a necessary evil its history of the hour would not be complete if it embraced not the police court, the divorce court and other avenues of crime.

The weekly newspaper is the thing. It contains a careful resume of the week. The roses are shorn of their thorns and only the flowers remain to exhale their perfumes like incense on the Sabbath day.

THE HERALD has been philosophical, it has looked upon the humorous side of affairs and tried to extract all the rational enjoyment there is in this life. The sombre reverse side of the coin that passes current has found no reflection here.

It is the ne plus ultra of journalism. And paramount to all other aims and objects THE HERALD has labored zealously for the upbuilding of Sanford.

And paramount to all other aims and objects THE HERALD has labored zealously for the upbuilding of Sanford. Our devotion to her cause has never flagged.

One of the visitors to Sanford last week made the remark that he found Sanford to be much better as a winter resort than any other place in Florida and he had tried them all.

Every year finds the number of tourists increased and with the good hotel accommodations, the fishing and hunting our city is proving a great attraction.

Sanford is the mecca for all classes and the tourists are among the best who visit the state.

A cold wave struck Amos Puterbaugh's household last week when his wife sued him for divorce because Amos bought his hired girl a new glass eye.

Aunt Jane Stucky has had a new wire clothesline put up between her kitchen and woodshed. She used it for the first time yesterday and seemed much pleased.

Two joints of stovepipe are much needed in the colored church, and the congregation will be asked by Rev. Deuteronomy Jones next Sunday to chip in when the hat is passed around. It's time something was done, as the religious stamina of a congregation is much weakened by a smoking stove and pipe.

The accomplished daughter of Mose Stuckey, who has just graduated from the Southport veterinary college, is home and will open an office in Bill Stoner's livery stable. Yesterday she treated Bill's sorrel mare for congested vermifuge appendix and removed two bunions from Preacher McSwatt's wife's feet.

Desdemona Smoot received her new store teeth yesterday, and will recite a poem tomorrow night at a meeting of the Colloquial Dames.

Sister Eph Bunker tried her new bathtub last Sunday. She weighs 250 pounds, and when she got in the tub most of the water got out and ran through the floor on to the kitchen stove into a kettle of soup. It was quite laughable, but it nearly spoiled the soup.

Col. Bill Horkenspit occupied Jason Snodgrass' pew last Sunday, and seemed much concerned over Preacher Bunker's discourse. When the preacher spoke of the rich man and Lazarus, Bill got up twice and hollered, "them's my sentiments, by gosh," and everybody felt sure that he'd go forward to the mourners' bench, but Bill calmed down, and the first thing they knew he was fast asleep and snoring to beat the band, and didn't wake up till the doxology was sung. Some think there's a cussed blind tiger in this vicinity.

ADVERTISING AGENTS INVITED

Press Gathering May Endorse Project For Central Jacksonville Office

Invitations reached Percy P. Vyle of the Jacksonville Advertising Agency and H. Burhans of the Burhans Advertising Agency yesterday from the executive committee meeting of the Florida Press Association held in Tampa on the evening of February 17, says the Sunday Times-Union, to attend the coming convention of the Press Association at St. Augustine, March 30 and 31.

The question of rates for advertising in cities creates much confusion and leads to serious loss of possible business to the papers themselves. The question of establishing uniformly graduated rates at an absolutely fixed price to all-comers has been agitated by Mr. Vyle since last November at which time circulars were mailed to all the State papers requesting that the matter be taken into serious consideration by the business managers.

State Press Association Secretary Col. T. J. Appleyard, endorsed the movement and promised to put it on the program for consideration of the executive committee with the result now seen.

Many of the out-of-town papers have already endorsed the flat rate—One rate to all-comers, and commissions only to recognized advertising agencies. Among them being the Sanford Herald, DeLand News, Key West Citizen, Tallahassee True-Democrat, such action being in keeping with the regulations of all newspapers in more important centers.

And, Now, All Be Good

Sanford has been seriously threatened with an inundation of typographical artists this week, and The Herald rooms at night have much resembled an apartment house, these unfortunate, but good-hearted disciples of newspaperdom, always finding a ready helping hand at these quarters.

While our rooms are not fully equipped with all the modern inconveniences—hot and cold baths and other incidentals, etc.—still these typographical tourists are always glad to "carry the banner" in these quarters. We have already lodged six this week, and we hereby give due notice to future applicants that our rooms are now all occupied and standing room is at a premium.

MISSIONS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

A "Birthday Offering" at the Sanford Methodist School

[Editorial in Methodist Christian Advocate] We were happy to be present last Sunday at the Sunday school exercises of the Methodist Sunday school of Sanford. It was their regular monthly Missionary Sunday. So remarkable was the spirit of those present and the large contribution made as to impel us to speak of it editorially. The whole sum collected was fifty dollars and nine cents ($50.09). This is the largest offering which has come under our observation, made by any Sunday school in Florida for Missions on any given Sunday.

We are sure many are asking: "How did they do it?" That is what we will tell you. It was their day for making a Birthday offering. Each pupil was requested to make an offering of one cent for each year of his age. The officers and teachers were requested to give one dollar apiece. With thorough advertising and enthusiasm developed by a study of the subject of missions these financial results were accomplished. This Birthday offering we understand is to be made annually, and it is to be a feature in that Sunday school.

We do not commend "Bargain Counter" methods of doing church work. We see nothing in the "Birthday Anniversary" but what we can heartily endorse. Each year certainly represents to us all blessings manifold. We deem it meet that some small token of appreciation ought to be given to our gracious Heavenly Father for his goodness to us. And how more acceptably can we give to God than by giving His best gift, a knowledge of Jesus, our Lord, to those who know Him not? Let us teach our little ones to show their love by their gifts and sacrifice.

We are sure that an extract from the Secretary's book will be interesting, so we give the report below by classes:

	Present	On Roll	Collection
All-Brights	17	10	$14.10
Truth Glensers	11	13	4.03
Cheerful Workers	9	8	13.00
Sunglasses	9	8	2.00
Willing Workers	14	17	2.70
Youthful Reapers	3	9	1.50
Bright Jewels	6	12	1.00
Our Little People	20	40	9.13
Teachers	0	8
Total	109	147	$50.09

We invite you to study this report. Each class is named thus stimulating the class spirit. What is of real interest is reported (who cares whether it be cloudy or fair, or the number of the song sung, or how long the superintendent talked). With no intention of making an invidious comparison, for we believe it would be hard to decide which class did the best, we call attention to the report of the first and the last classes, the "All Brights" and "Our Little People." The "All Brights" are a class of youths and young men. Notice that they had one more present than they have regularly enrolled, and that they gave more than any other class. That class of young men is being trained in habits of liberality and of regularity in church attendance. Notice now the report of the last class, "Our Little People." Twenty-nine sweet little babies gave practically 31 1/2 cents apiece, of course including the teacher's dollar. This is more on one Sunday than the average adult church member gives in a whole year for Foreign Missions. Verily, "A little child shall lead them." Let us thank God and take courage because of what this Sunday school is doing to hasten the Kingdom, and let us all go and do likewise.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Items of Interest Concerning Society People.

POINTS PURELY PERSONAL

How Celery City Vanity Fair While Away the Golden Hours—Social Gossip.

NO one seems to be caring about Lent this year. Here we are just in the beginning of the quiet season, and you do not hear any groans. The past week was a busy time with its dances, cake walks, weddings, musical receptions and parties, and after this "spurt" the gay ones appear to be ready to settle down to the forty days' rest and meditation.

The last week was something like the Sanford of other years. There was something doing socially every day, and many dress suits were pressed—many evening gowns overhauled—many times, two or three entertainments for the same evening, in addition to the many theatrical parties. Lent for Sanford people, and her tourist guests, holds no terror, and the season will go on, and merriment and gaiety reign supreme.

Bridge Party

Mrs. Forrest Lake entertained at bridge last Friday afternoon. There were four tables of bridge, and the games were filled with pleasurable excitement. Miss Winchester won the first prize, a beautiful hand-painted china plate, Mrs. H. P. Driver won the second prize, a dainty hand-painted candlestick holder.

Elaborate refreshments were served, and Mrs. Lake's reputation as a hostess was fully sustained.

Among those present were Mrs. Derry, Mrs. Driver, Mrs. Keelor, Miss Keelor, Miss Winchester, Miss Schumpert, Mrs. Puleston, Mrs. Compropt, Miss Caldwell, Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. Holst, Mrs. Maxwell, Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Miss Morrison, Mrs. King, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Brown.

Washington Birthday Party

Generally speaking Sanford did not observe the natal day of the great Washington to any extent. It remained for Mrs. B. W. Herndon to impress the occasion upon the minds of a large number of guests who assembled at her home last Monday afternoon pursuant to a dainty invitation painted in regular hatchet and George Washington style.

Mrs. Herndon met the guests in the reception hall and escorted them to the tables where progressive euchre was indulged in for several hours. The parlors were beautifully draped, the windows with large flags and the chandeliers and mantles with small flags and red, white and blue effects. In the dining room the same color scheme was carried out. Hanging from the chandelier was a large American eagle in silver, with pinions stretched over the table. In the center of the table was a small tree the branches of which bore candied cherries and looked enticing enough to cause any youngster to cut it down with a hatchet.

Mrs. D. L. Thrasher and Mrs. B. F. Whitner dressed in colonial style presided at the luncheon table and dispensed delicious punch and fruit and lobster salad at intervals during the games.

The guests of honor were Mrs. F. E. Lane and Miss Guernsey.

Miss Parramore won the first prize, a beautiful hand painted china bowl. Mrs. Puleston and Mrs. Gonzalez were even for the booby prize and in the drawing, Mrs. Puleston won receiving a little red hatchet.

The affair was one of the most delightful of the many social successes that have marked Sanford's winter season and aside from the social aspect demonstrated the patriotism of Mrs. Herndon to so faithfully portray and befittingly celebrate Washington's birthday.

Among those present were:

In Honor of Miss Parramore

Mrs. Deane Turner gave a bridge luncheon at her home last Tuesday, in honor of Miss Annie Parramore of Jacksonville.

Bridge luncheon, always delightful affairs, was made more popular by Mrs. Turner, and a dainty luncheon added zest to the games that followed.

Mrs. Keelor was the lucky one for first prize, receiving a hand-painted bon-bon dish. Miss Parramore received the guest prize, a dainty fan.

Those present were Mrs. Keelor, Miss Keelor, Miss Schumpert, Mrs. Driver, Mrs. Lanneau, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Derry, Mrs. Stryker, Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Keely, Miss Parramore and Mrs. Robinson.

Musical At High School

One of the events of the season was the musicale given by the Irving Literary Society at the High School Auditorium on last Monday evening.

The program numbered some very fine selections and demonstrated the scope and musical ability of those taking part. 'Tis seldom that a high school of a city double the size of Sanford contains so many musicians among the pupils and the musicale on Monday night was a revelation to the large number of people present.

The program below demonstrates that the musical education of the High School pupils has not been neglected:

"Invocation"	Milo Deyo
Duet, "King of the Carnival"	Martha Fox
"Soldier's Farewell"	Hoskins Jones and Blanche Johns
"Remembrance"	Charles Reber
"He Was a Prince"	Frank Lynes
"Carrissima" Flute Solo	Arthur A. Penn
"Music On The Water"	A. P. Wyman
Duet	Clarence Mahoney and Leon Ringnet
"Mary"	Saidee Williams and Ruth Mettinger
Mazurka	Miss Herrick
"Afterwards"	Ruth Abbott
	Cornet Solo
	John W. Mullen
	Miss Stumon

Cake Walk At Sanford House

The waiters and hotel help of the Sanford House gave a cake walk on Monday night. A large crowd witnessed the event and it was enjoyed by every one. The cake walks given by the colored employees of the Florida hotels are becoming very popular and these affairs always afford much amusement for the guests of the hotels and the people who attend. Those who attended the cake walk at the Sanford House were amply repaid as there was great doings in "colored sassety" and the gyrations of the participants were all that could be desired.

Birthday Party

Little May Thrasher was nine years of age on Thursday and in order to properly observe this momentous event gave her little friends a party. Quite a number responded to the invitation as May in spite of her tender years has gained quite a reputation as a hostess. The little folks enjoyed this occasion to the fullest extent with games and amusements of various kinds. Dainty refreshments were served and the children departed wishing Miss May many many more happy birthdays.

Launch Party

Col. Andrew Johnson gave a launch party on Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. E. Gelston Columbia, S. C., and Miss Annie Arey of Salisbury, N. C., the guests of Miss Biggers. The trip over to Enterprise was enjoyed by the party to the fullest and the trip voted a grand success.

Those participating were Mrs. Gelston, Miss Arey, Miss Biggers and Mrs. Biggers and Messrs. Andre Johnson, LaRue Johnson and Mr. Seaton of Jacksonville.

At Five Hundred

Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Jr., gave a progressive five hundred party at her beautiful home on Second street last Thursday. So many guests were present that seven tables were filled with the players and the occasion was one long to be remembered. The rooms were artistically decorated in hearts and the problem of guessing their number was one of the features of the afternoon. On this Mrs. J. W. Dickens was nearest to the total number and was rewarded accordingly. Miss Winchester carried off first honors in the progressive five hundred.

Dainty refreshments aided in the enjoyment of the occasion.

PURCHASED PASTIME THEATRE

Will be Greatly Augmented by New Material

Hon. Geo. De Cottes has purchased the Pastime Theatre, and hereafter this well-known place of amusement will be in charge of A. A. Preston. The vaudeville attractions, which were objectionable to many of the patrons, will be eliminated, and only the moving pictures and illustrated songs will be given. The new management will have three reels of new pictures every day, instead of two, and for the benefit of tourists who come in on the boat, a reel will be shown at 11 o'clock every morning. The same hours for the afternoon and evening performances will be observed, and a fine electric piano will be installed, adding greatly to the popularity of the Pastime, a good, clean amusement place where you can take your family and enjoy an hour.

Increasing Their Efficiency

The Sanford Machine and Foundry Works have added to their plant a complete outfit for repairing automobiles of all kinds. This will be found of great convenience to the many people in Sanford who have automobiles, and it is no longer necessary to go to Orlando with machines for repairs.

ST. FRANCIS HOME DESTROYED

Magnificent Residence Was Burned on Sunday Morning

Early Sunday morning the magnificent home of Mr. John E. Harris at St. Francis was completely destroyed by fire.

The family was awakened by Miss Laura Francis Harris, who discovered the blaze in the two-story laundry house, which was then burning fiercely in the rear.

Members of the family immediately put fire extinguishers in use, but the fire could not be checked and soon spread rapidly. Seeing that there was no chance to save the home, articles of clothing, silverware, etc., were carried from the house, the smoke then being so thick that it was almost impossible to enter the house.

The loss was total, with some insurance.

Sanford On the Hustle

Sanford is on the hustle these days. Celery is beginning to move in car-load lots; strawberry shipments are giving satisfactory returns; land buyers are numerous; a driving club is to be organized; golf links are to be laid out; the Clyde Line is making extensive improvements, and a number of minor enterprises add their quota of industrial harmony to the busy hum in our sister city.—Orlando Sentinel.

Stop Agitation of Crum Matter

To the Editor of The Herald:
In its Saturday issue the Atlanta Independent, a negro paper edited by B. J. Davis, comes out squarely against further agitation of the Crum episode in Congress and declares that the appointment of negroes to Federal offices in the South is not a help but a decided hindrance to the best interests of the colored race.

Of all that has been said or written on the Crum matter nothing is more notable than this editorial. It is a new light of common sense and real patriotism thrown from rather an unexpected angle on the question of negro office-holding. It accepts Mr. Taft's position that in the South federal appointments should be made with a view of showing this section that the administration has genuine regard for it. The position is an advanced one from the standpoint of the Independent and shows that this Journal has the real welfare of the colored people at heart. Following is the editorial in part: "The Independent loves the race, and is satisfied with its racial distinction. We are willing to go any reasonable length, or make any sane sacrifice to preserve intact our manhood rights, but there is such a philosophy as paying too dear for your whistle."

There is as much wisdom in recognizing an actual condition, and fitting yourself in your immediate environs as there is in recognizing a cardinal principle of justice and fighting for its triumph. It is obvious, and we do not feel that the proposition will admit of controversy, that the race and the country have had enough of the 'Crum episode' and is now being gagged with an overdose of principle (?) "It matters not whether Senator Tillman is right or wrong, or whether a fundamental principle involving the manhood rights of the race is an issue, the effort has been overdone, and the white man has some rights in the premises in common with his colored neighbor, that deserve consideration, and it is high time that the President, the Crums and the 'principle' defenders were recognizing the actual conditions and looking the facts in the face. It is manly to stand up and fight for principle when victory will be real, but recklessness to lose your life in a futile effort to achieve a victory that in the end will only be realized in theory."

"If the fealty of the party to its negro members is involved in the 'Crum episode,' the party has proved its sincerity beyond cavil, and ought to be relieved of further embarrassment. If the principle involving the right of the negro to participate in government affairs in common with every other element of population, was up for settlement, the issue has been constructively settled in our favor by Dr. Crum's long tenure of service in the very position involved, and the country ought to be given a rest. The negro and the Republican party are hard up against the South's intense race prejudice, and we had as well meet the issue squarely, and admit that there is enough merit in the Southern white man's contention to give the question the most humane and reasonable consideration. The effort of the Republican party to thrust the negro office-holder on the South, against its expressed will, has not availed either the party or the negro anything, and it is about time to change our policy and treat the white man's prejudice from another angle. The effort has not stopped with intensifying the white man's prejudice against the race, but its persistency has lessened the negro's usefulness and opportunities in every other field of human endeavor among the people he must prove his worth to, or by his failure demonstrate that he was at his best as a slave.

The principle involving the right of the black man to hold office can be preserved inviolate without destroying every other helpful element of his existence, both in the economic and industrial equation of our national life. The principle ought to be exercised in those communities where its practice meets the least opposition.

The white man, taken as a part, or as a whole, in our national life or in the South, constitutes in a most eminent degree, the brains, wealth and character of every community, and it is hardly reasonable to expect him to yield without a struggle to any invasion of his right to control by any admittedly inferior element. The white man has the same right to oppose Dr. Crum that we have to support him. We support him because he is a negro, and Senator Tillman opposes him for the self-same reason. Our chief argument in support of confirmation is 'His defeat will be a constructive denial of the right of the race to hold office,' and for the 'naked' reason that Crum is a negro we insist upon his confirmation. Senator Tillman, on the other hand, insists with equal logic for the reason that he is a negro that he ought to be denied the right in common with all negroes, and thus the issue is made up. Well, the white man constitutes about 60 per cent of the people of the South, 75 per cent of the morals and intellect and 95 per cent of the wealth, and from his standpoint it seems hardly fair and just that 40 per cent of the people, 25 per cent of the respectability and five per cent of the wealth should direct the affairs of government or participate substantially against the will of the wealth, respectability and the character of the community involved.

"The negro may beat the devil around the stump as much as he pleases; he may bask in the beautiful theory of his manhood rights, but there is no getting away from the real condition he is up against—the white man's prejudice—and the wisest and most helpful way to study this element of our political economy is to reverse positions with his white neighbor and theorize what he would do if in their places under the same circumstances and conditions." —S. M. M.

WHAT THE GROWERS ARE DOING

Sanford Growers Are in the Midst of the Busy Season

The Florida Fruit and Produce News in making a summary of the vegetable and fruit shipments of this section, together with what the growers and shippers are doing, has the following to say relative to Orange county:

Celery growers at Sanford are in the midst of their busy season. Celery being the main thing about here, everybody is more or less interested in the crop. The recent cold snap just put the right crispness in it, and did more good than harm.

Among the celery men Joe Cameron has ten acres from which he will begin to ship very shortly. He also has six acres of lettuce that will begin to go forward early next week.

T. P. Compropt is another of Sanford's successful celery growers who is not complaining of hard times. J. S. Moore is another successful celery grower who has made money enough to open a store on Celery Avenue.

J. L. Wright has one acre in lettuce, three in celery and four in potatoes and beans.

H. R. and Ed Stevens have two acres in cabbage, one in lettuce and five in a variety of spring vegetables.

"D. G. Moore expects to plant ten acres in spring vegetables of various kinds.

Enery & Cooper of Richmond, Ind., have five acres which they are farming here, and Levi Binford, from the same place, has five acres which he will plant in beans and potatoes.

Henry Stevenson of DeLand has ten acres here which he will plant to tomatoes.

J. S. Moore of Oviedo expects to move to Sanford soon to grow celery.

About 4,000 boxes of oranges are yet to be shipped from Ocoee, belonging to D. O. Maguire, W. P. Blakeley, E. O. Sims and T. N. Butler.

There are about 5,000 boxes of late oranges yet to be shipped from Tildenville.
