Cardinals Win 10-6, Tie For 3rd And Swipe 204th Base

Flannigan Wins 5th From Sea Birds; Jax Beach Plays Here This Evening

Sanford's rickrolling Cardinals catapulted from fifth place to a two-way tie for third place with the Cocoa Indians by clobbering the Jacksonville Beach Sea Birds, 10-6, in Jax Beach last night. It was Sanford's eighth triumph in their last nine games, 12th in 16 encounters and fourth in a row. The Redbirds swiped five more bases to vault their season's total over the 200 mark to 204, only nine short of the Florida State League record established by Gainesville back in 1937.

Jim Flannigan, lanky right-hander from Tucker, Ga., lusted onto the club's offense, cutting in for hurler Paul Smith. Flannigan was credited with his fifth victory of the season against only one setback.

Tonight, the Cardinals will play host to the Sea Birds in the finale of the two-game set at the Memorial Stadium. Manager J. C. Dunn will have to take time with his hurling selection this evening weighing the possibilities of pitching his two crumples—Ernie Palmieri or Clarence Ingram.

Palmieri has been nursing an infected toe for the past three nights while Ingram has been on the shelf for the past week with a sore elbow muscle. Harry Wells might be a snook choice, but his effectiveness in the past few weeks has hit an all-time low.

Bob Sullivan, newly obtained righthander with a 4-1 record at Hamilton, Ont., this year, is due in any time. If he arrives in time, Sanford's diamond clientele will be treated to a new face and lineup.

Getting back to last night, Sanford went on a hitting binge, racking three Jax Beach flingers for 15 hits. Tommy Leonard was the offensive hero for the Redbirds last night.

In five trips to the plate, Leonard vaulted his average up from .376 to .580 with two singles, a triple and a double. Leonard blasted across three runs to crack the 100 mark, reaching 101 for the season. It was "Wahoo's" 21st double and fifth triple of the season.

Manager J. C. Dunn pounded across his 99th and 100th runs for the year with his 25th double and a single. Dunn brought his average up to .423. Bill Harris took over for the injured Bill Silverthorne in the fifth after the latter injured his hand, and blasted out two hits and swiped two bases.

CLARENCE INGRAM: Ben Bonfield hammered out his 3rd and 4th doubles of the year while collecting a single in his last game. Ingram's batting average is .343.

Bill Silverthorne had the distinction of stealing Sanford's 200th base in the 5th inning. Tony Harrison swept the 100th on June 1st against Orlando.

Daytona 1's End 7-Game Skid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Daytona Beach's slayers, first-half champions of the Florida State League, shook off a seven-game losing streak last night by unleashing a 12-hit attack on Coe for a 1-0 victory.

Manager Ed Levy led the second-place Islanders out of their slump with his 18th homer of the year and three singles. Buck Paruz and Dick Zucatta also hit home runs.

Lefty Root Miller, going the distance for the victory, had only one troublesome inning—the first when the Indians combined three hits, two walks and an error to four hits the rest of the way.

The Lakeland Pilots, winning their fourth straight, defeated Orlando 5-3 and cut the Red Hots' league lead to 4½ games.

The loss was Bill Jim Vickers' first in his last 11 decisions. He yielded 11 bases compared to 12 by Lakeland's George Beards, who won easily when it counted.

Sanford's Cardinals moved from fifth place into a tie with Cocoa in a 10-6 victory over Jacksonville Beach last night when they swiped five bases and Jim Flannigan pitched a complete game.

Contribution Nite Will Feature Dunn Vs. Aleno

Manager J. C. Dunn and Lakeland Manager Chuck Aleno, the Florida State League's leading home run hitters for the past two seasons, will meet in a special home run hitting contest before the scheduled Lakeland-Sanford game on Tuesday night, Aug. 31.

It will be Contribution Night at the Memorial Stadium. All fans will be invited to attend the Sanford game free of charge. There will be a bar on the entrance so that fans may contribute to the Cardinals, who are gradually gaining in the hole.

Chuck Aleno, C. C. Dunn
A full night of field events will precede the game for the enjoyment of the fans, especially the mothers and kiddies. According to Jim Fields, the club stands to lose over $2,000 this year at the present rate of attendance.

It is hoped by giving the fans a big show and a free game the club can obtain enough tax-free donations to cut this year's deficit.

In addition to the home run hitting contest there will be an egg throwing event, distance and accuracy throwing, plus a 60-yard dash.

Cardinals Acquire Star Righthander

Bob Sullivan, star rookie pitcher with Hamilton, Ont., has been obtained by the Sanford Cardinals from the St. Louis Cardinal Farm system. Sullivan has a nifty 6-1 record with Hamilton this year, was shuffled off to Sanford because a reported disagreement the flinger had with the Hamilton manager.

Sullivan is a righthander, standing 5-foot-10 and weighing 160 pounds. He is slated to join Sanford within the next few days.

The Sports Register

By KENT CHELAIN
The Sanford Cardinals, like every club in the league and about 99 percent of the other minor league teams, are faced with another season of winding up in the hole. Most fans might be surprised at General Manager Jim Fields' recent announcement that the Cardinals were losing money, since the club has been drawing 15 percent better than last year's Sanford Seminole Blues, who lost $7,000 last year while doubling the 1951 attendance.

According to Florida Sanford stands to lose the $1,000 guarantee money President John D. Callahan personally put up. In addition the club will lose, at its present pace, even more than the $1,000 guarantee money, unless by some miracle the attendance can reach its early season level the rest of the year.

Last night, Leeburg held a free night for the fans and had a barrel placed at the entrance in order that those fans who really wanted to keep the Lakers in Leeburg could donate money to the baseball cause. This so-called "contribution night" is nothing new this year. Lakeland has tried it twice and with good results. In one game the Pilots drew 500 fans who contributed $600. All tax free. This was the equivalent of over 1200 paid admissions, since 33 percent of all gross receipts are paid out in state and federal taxes.

With all minor league clubs operating on a veritable marginal utility, this 33 percent rule makes baseball unfeasible and a losing business. Out of 300-odd minor leagues last year, only 19 other broke even or made money. This was the report given Congress by Minor League head George Trautman.

What it all boils down to is that with the increasing costs of baseball and the non-commensurate increase in admission prices, plus the exorbitant high taxes for a non-profit business, baseball in the lower leagues are doomed unless they can be sponsored by a major league team or have the taxes abolished. Fields contends that the Federal government will receive about $4,000 in taxes from Sanford alone this year. This would more than pay off all existing taxes for the Cardinals.

"Now we are not out to make money off the baseball club," Fields asserts. "All we want to do is break even so no one will lose any money and we will still have baseball in Sanford. Of course, it would be nice to have some money left over to go to the Fernald-Laughton Hospital, just as we promised before the season."

Now Sanford is going to try this contribution night deal here in Memorial Stadium a week from Tuesday night, Aug. 31, when Lakeland plans here. But unlike the other clubs in the league, Sanford is not handling the fans an ultimatum that unless you sick in we will move. Instead, the Cardinal management is inviting all fans in free of charge to contribute to donate to the club. In addition they are going to give the fans a series of interesting field events, the kind mother and the whole family will enjoy.

There will be an egg throwing contest. A home run hitting duel between last year's RBI home run king, Chuck Aleno, and the Cardinal manager, J. C. Dunn, will be the main event. Outfield throws for distance and accuracy, plus a 60-yard dash. There will be a series of interesting field events, the kind mother and the whole family will enjoy.

Veteran Swatters Take Back Seat As Rookie Hitters Deliver

By NYU KRONHIN
AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—You can't tell the major league rookies who are a scarecrow this year. There are so many good ones.

The freshmen are making base hits rattle off walls and, in many cases, are making veterans right out of the picture.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox have been showing dash and fire with young performers in their first and second year of big league play. Tom Umpfret, rookie centerfielder, has been going so well that he forced the retirement of the great Dom DiMaggio. Umpfret, 24, from Astoria, Ore., batted .325 in his first 60 games.

The Detroit Tigers have been playing the play of shortstop Harvey Kuenn. For most of the season Kuenn has been leading the league in base hits.

Another shortstop in the limelight is Billy Hunter of the Browns. Hunter was purchased from the Brooklyn Dodger system for a reported $100,000 in cash and players.

The Yankees, who usually come up with one or more rookie hot shots, have been more than pleased with the hitting of first baseman Don Balaz and outfielder Bill Renna.

Bob (Red) Wilson has been a big help to the Chicago White Sox with his catching and batting.

The National League has displayed an even greater abundance of top notch rookies.

Jim Drennon, the fence busting outfielder for the Cincinnati Redlegs, has won several games with home runs.

National Guard Beats Robson's

Caldwell pitched a one-hitter last Wednesday night to pace National Guard to a 5-2 victory over Robson's Sporting Goods in the City Men's Softball League at Lakeland. The victory placed the Guardians in a two-way tie for fifth place.

Graves hurled two-hit ball for the losers. Meanwhile, a two-run home in the fifth inning spared FASHION-51 in a 7-5 win over Wilson-Maler in the nightcap of the twin bill. Winning pitcher Schneider closed the winning blow for the armor.

Tonight, VC-9 plays National Guard in the opening game of the Lakeland Diamond softball twin bill. Robson's will face Sal-Army in the nightcap. Sal-Army will be playing without two of its star players, Junior Metts and Hubba Hubba, who are now playing with the Sanford Junior Legion team in the Area tournament at Clearwater.

Art Rebel Named New Tampa Pilot

TAMPA (AP)—The Tampa Smokers who apparently have a lease on the Florida International League cellar for the season, came up with a new manager today.

He is Art Rebel, who previously managed the Smokers and St. Petersburg Saints.

Rebel was named to succeed Ben Chapman, former major league player, manager and coach who resigned as Smoker pilot last night.

I had a meeting with officials of the Tampa Citizens Committee and decided to give up the job and I wish the team success," Chapman said.

"I'm leaving the club without any hard feelings toward any one and wish the group success. I'm glad to offer any suggestions the Citizens Committee might want," he added.

The Citizens Committee recently took over the team from C. C. (Tom) Spicola, last of the original owners who held a team when the league was organized in 1946. The sale price reportedly was $17,500.

Chapman once managed the Philadelphia Phillies. He managed the Smokers to a pennant in 1951 and spent most of last season as coach for the Cincinnati Redlegs, returning to Tampa at the end of the season.

The committee indicated Rebel will handle the team only through the current campaign and said a big-time playing manager probably would be sought for next season.

The Smokers finished the first half of this season in the cellar and have won only two games since the last half started July 4, losing 17 out of 19 played.

Metts-Hawkins Stop St. Pete, 2-1; Play Avon Park This Afternoon

CLEARWATER (Special)—Ed McCall's ground single to center in the seventh inning scored Johnny Jones from third base and gave Sanford's high flying Junior Legion team a 2-1 victory over St. Petersburg Post 14 in the central Area Junior Legion Baseball Tournament here yesterday. It was Sanford's 10th win in 17 games played this season.

The victory advanced Sanford to the final round of the meet against Avon Park this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Should Avon Park beat Sanford, already the loser of one game in this double elimination meet, the Post 14 would take home the buntings grand earn a spot in the State Legion meet at Wausau, Wis., Aug. 3-8.

A Sanford win tomorrow would necessitate a repeat game between the two clubs Saturday afternoon.

Yesterday's setback knocked St. Petersburg out of the tourney. The Post 14 lost 63 games played to a tightly knit hurling duo between St. Petersburg's Sonny Still and Sanford's Jim Hawkins. Hawkins relieved Junior Metts with two out in the first when Metts complained of an old arm injury and proved himself capable of the job.

The Seminole County Junior Legion aggregation ousted strong Stull for a triple and two singles in the first inning, slugging a one-run lead that held up until the fifth.

Sanford's mound ace, Jim Kristoff, test against Avon Park. The Post 14 will call on Keny Warner (San) Elder, already the winner of two games in the meet.

Junior Metts and Jim Hawkins

Johnny Jones and Jim Hawkins
Jim Butler opened the game for Sanford with a single to right but was promptly erased in a one-out inning. After Ross Hummer popped to Gordon MacKenzie at second, Metts tripled to right center and scored on Hubba Hubba's hot ground single.

After four innings of drought, St. Petersburg tied it up in the fifth as Ross Lew drew a base on balls, stole second and scored when Hawkins threw wild to first on Hub Braun's sacrifice bunt.

St. Petersburg could muster only one safety off the combined effort of Hawkins and Metts. But it was Hawkins who hurled Sanford's 4-1 triumph over Vero Beach Wednesday morning—that carried the load and gained credit for the win. Hawkins struck out four and walked four.

Stull, speedball artist of the Post 14 line, was invincible except for the first and seventh innings, issuing all of Sanford's five hits in those two frames.

Jacksonville Wins Area Tournament

THE WEATHER
Fair through Tuesday except for isolated afternoon showers.

VOLUME XLIV Established 1908 SANFORD, FLORIDA MONDAY, AUG. 3, 1953 Associated Press Lease wire No. 245

The Herald today is starting three new features which we think our readers will like. The first is a daily column derived from the files of the Herald which go back to 1908. Each day we will tell our readers what went on five, ten, and 40 years ago in Sanford on the same date. Secondly, in order that readers can keep up with the rapid-breaking news each day we're going to hold open a spot on page one in which bulletins will be run just as they come off the Associated Press wires and just before the issue goes to press. The third new feature will be found on page two under the heading of "State News Roundup" in which the happenings in Florida with special emphasis on Central Florida will be presented, so you know how you like the added attractions.

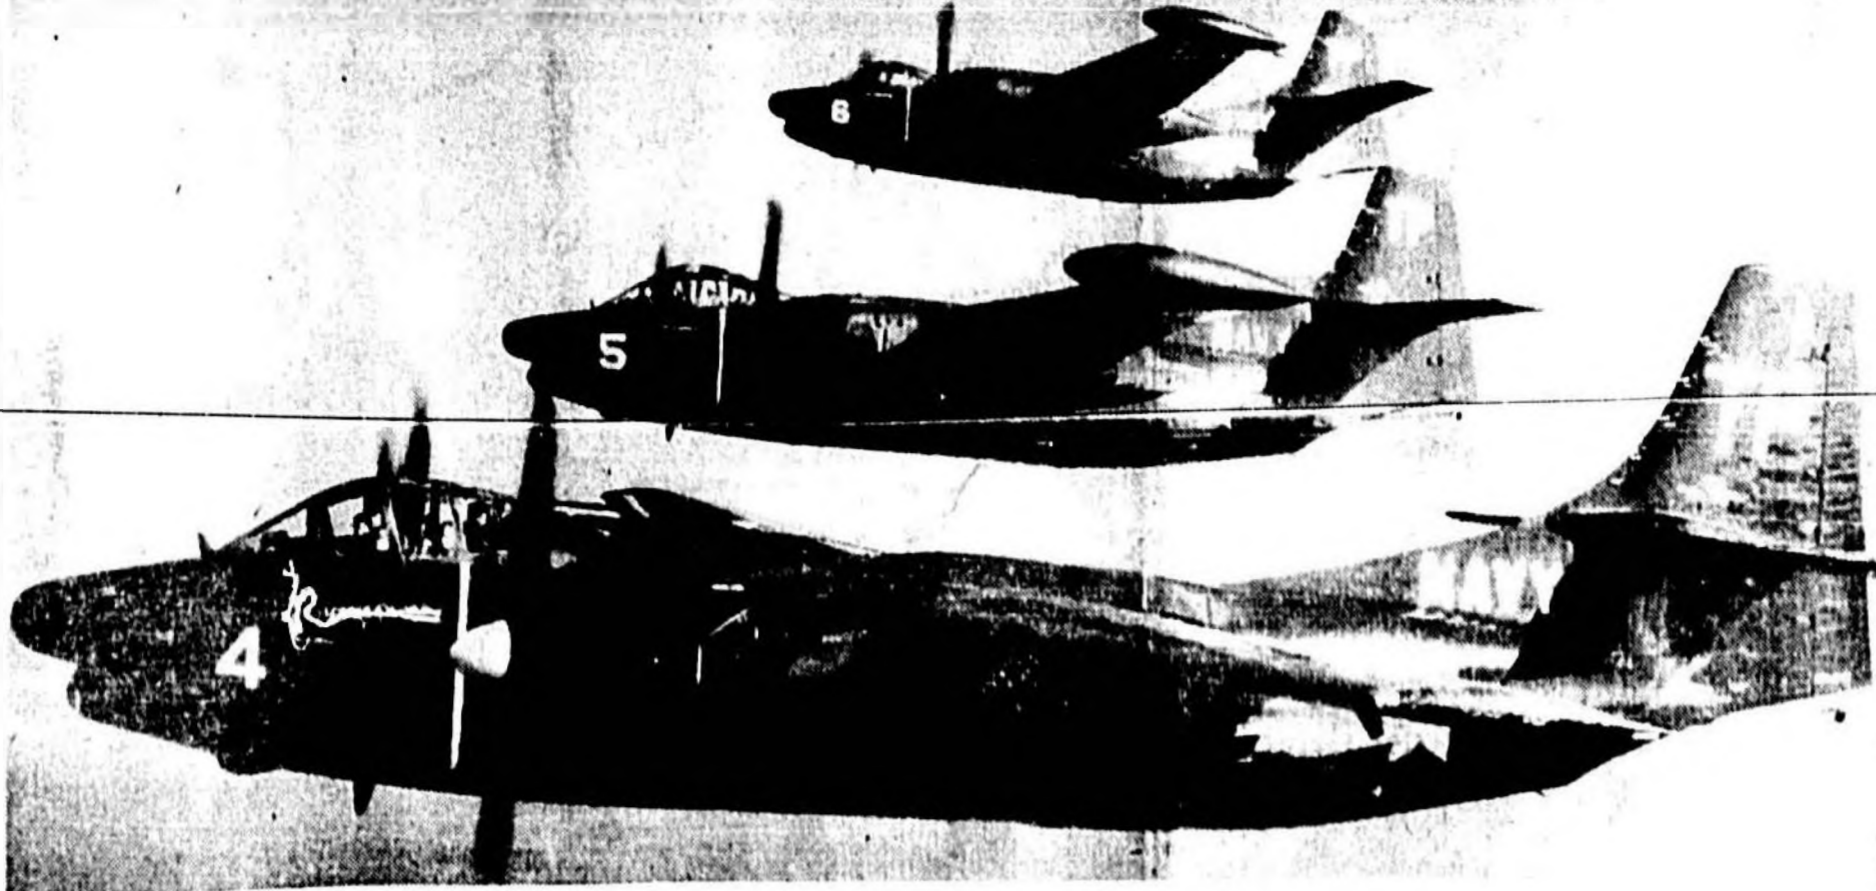

We're always happy to help out our country's servicemen in any manner possible and especially those soldiers, sailors and Marines who are far distant from their homes. However, we're a little stumped by a post card request for a letter from a soldier, Pvt. Rod M. McKee who sent a card from Monterey, Calif. Rod writes "I have heard that you print letters from soldiers in the mail. If so, could you please print the plea of this lonely soldier leaving Sanford, I haven't received a single letter. Maybe some of your readers will come to the rescue. I sure hope so. Thank a million. Gosh, private, this is a long letter, but please tell people to write to you since no address was included. If some one in Sanford who knows Pvt. McKee will tell me on his duty station, we'll sure be glad to print it."

The story is making the rounds of Sanford and is the subject of a news story by City officials in Orlando to a local businessman who parked in a freight zone and started a fire. The fire started an automatic fire truck but after an appeal to Police Chief Truck the levy was knocked down to a dollar. That still didn't satisfy the unannounced local resident who went in to see Mayor J. Rolle Davis, who said he'd see what he could do. The Saturday afternoon edition was refunded the fine. However, we don't think the Orlando officials would take kindly to the idea of anyone from this town parking in restricted zones. All of which leads to the statement that parking conditions in the nearby city of Kissimmee will be improved in this City, we think said.

We understand that several local persons are showing interest in the general auditions for new talent to be put on by Radio Station WOPZ in Orlando. Auditions will be held at the Orlando studio Aug. 10 through the 13th during afternoon from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and evenings from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Finalists selected to appear on the network coast-to-coast show will be competing with talent from three other localities in the United States. And for the winner, a trip to New York to compete in the final Sept. 3 with all expenses to be paid by the National Broadcasting Company. Vocalists are asked to bring their own accompaniment to the auditions, but no appointment is necessary. And if you don't think someone from here has a chance to win all the prizes, you're just not acquainted with the stars of this City's own Dick Aiken.

County Motorists Lose Licenses
Ten Seminole County motorists were among 923 in the State during June against whom action was taken by the driver's license division of the Department of Public Safety.
Licenses revoked were those of Ivory Brinnan, Walter Claxton Gay, Eugene Middleton Gibbs, James Louis Ledbetter, Robert Lee Middleton, Johnny B. Pearson, Joseph Herman Roberts and Allen Williams, all of Sanford, and Lee Henry Finch, Ovidio. The license of Byron Lawrence Kinball, Altamonte Springs, was returned by the parole commission.

Teachers Return
Mrs. Margaret Gohl, coordinator of instruction of Seminole County, announced today that teachers will report back to school on August 24 and classes will begin Sept. 1.
Mrs. Gohl said teachers would meet early for two weeks of County-wide, school-wide, and individual planning.

SNAAS Plane Sets New Flight Record

Seconds before the month of July expired, a North American A-1J photographic reconnaissance plane landed at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station to set a new Navy endurance record for number of hours recorded during one month on that type of aircraft. Three A-1J's are shown above flying in formation over the City. Number Six's was the former holder of the record. The completion of Six's training flight elapsed a week of ground work by Photographic Squadron Sixty Two (A-1J's) in May, just a week ago that the Squadron realized they had a chance to break the existing record of 91 hours. Through excellent team work and cooperation among the mechanics, flight instructors, plane captains and crew, a new record was set on the 17th of June. After a slighting of the cockpit at the command of Al Savage last night, the pilot, LCDR. F. F. Lawson, executive officer of A-1J's, and his co-pilot, LTJG D. M. Sullivan, emphasized that the accomplishment was the result of genuine cooperation throughout the entire Squadron. The record could not have been set without this and without the leadership of the plane captain, A. F. Mead. Mead is an Aviation Machinist Mate, First Class, and a resident of Sanford. Working tirelessly with the plane captain to establish the new record were crew members of his crew, D. F. White, ADJ and F. Hochstadt and M. D. Day, A-1J's. It is felt that the Squadron who deserve the credit. Mr. Lawson said the number of hours a plane can record during a given time is directly dependent on the efficiency of the aircraft crew and engine maintenance men. The crews are given by the mechanic overhaul each plane must undergo after a certain number of consecutive flying hours. This, this week was a positive treatment of the plane during overhaul and the crew just as quickly repairing and maintaining the engine on the pilot and crew could "take her up again."

IN THE HERALD: 5, 10, And 40 Years Ago

AUGUST 3, 1914
Mrs. S. McElrath holds the record for beautiful hydrangeas in this section, bringing in one to Lawson's store yesterday that was pronounced by critics to be one of the finest ever seen here.

Perry Swartz, 26 years of age, son of Capt. W. W. Swartz of 419 Platt St., was almost instantly killed a few minutes after midnight when he dashed into a slowly moving freight train at the point where the Atlantic Coast Line Railway crosses South Boulevard.

The Board of County Commissioners have finally decided to accept the offer of the number of rooms in the Wilbourn Bank on a strictly rental basis. The lodge room on the third floor will be used as a court room.

C. S. Brunley today assumed his duties as assistant county agent to help County Agent Charles Dawson with the program of determining whether or not growers in this section will need to import farm labor during the coming season.

Pvt. James S. Holloway, former Sanford Herald printer, now stationed in Australia, writes to say that the people in that country are very friendly, that he enjoys his duties there, but wants to return to the United States as soon as possible.

The Recreation Division of the Seminole County Defense Council will discuss plans for opening of the new USO lounge at a meeting at the City Hall Commissioners' Room Tuesday evening.

The Mayfair Inn will be operated for guests as well as ball players, it was pointed out today by Charles Marlon, New York Giants official in charge of feeding and housing members of their farm clubs, who will direct operations at the hotel.

The County Commission this morning gave tentative approval to allotting $5,000 toward the upkeep of the Seminole County Health Unit, after Director Frank Quillman, outlined the groups needs for 1948-49.
The Sanford Giants dropped a 6 to 2 tilt to the St. Augustine Saints last night in the Ancient City. Joe Schultz opened for the localites, but was driven to cover in the third inning.

The Other Benjamin

Franklin was not the only famous Benjamin of 19th century America. Another was Benjamin Thompson, a Massachusetts farm boy who became a scientist so eminent that he was elected to the British Royal Society, the highest honor of its kind in that day, and a public official so brilliant that he was made a German count. He was one of the great figures of his day but has been almost forgotten.

Born on March 26, 1753, in Woburn, Mass., Thompson became a major in the colonial army, but when the Revolution came, he joined the British. He received an appointment in the Colonial Office in London and was knighted. Then he left for Bavaria, whose ruler made him a count and his War Minister. He routed out the country's many beggars, reformed the army, popularized the cultivation of the potato with lasting benefit to Central Europe, and introduced soap kitchens.

Returning to England, he experimented on gunpowder and the laws of heat and light. He showed that heat is a form of motion. As a practical result he introduced a non-smoking and more efficient fireplace. A strange and brilliant man, Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, deserves to be better remembered.

Harmony After Strife

The world may have one less danger spot than formerly. India and Pakistan, the Mohammedan state formed out of India, have been almost at swords' points since the separation of the two states in 1947. The fundamental difficulty is religious fanaticism on both sides. India has two main religions, Hinduism and Sikhism, both fundamentally opposed to the Mohammedanism of Pakistan.

There are, however, other grounds of dispute, more easily adjusted. Pakistan feels that it does not get its due share of water from the Indus River, and there are trade and financial disagreements. These the two countries have now consented to sit down and talk over.

There is a friendliness in the mutual communications of preliminary arrangements which has been notably lacking in the two states' existence. Perhaps a ground for harmonious life side by side may be found. That would leave India's Prime Minister Nehru free to take part in the campaign against Communism in Asia.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Most ancient cities were conquered and destroyed by fire a score of times, and the inhabitants slaughtered. Men are by nature the most ruthless and cruel of all animals. But we are taught to love our enemies. The smoke of the city ascended up to heaven.—Joshua 8:20.

Taft Was In Thick Of Big Issues

WASHINGTON—Anyone who ever sat in the Senate gallery and watched Sen. Taft at work—and it made no difference whether you agreed with him—could not but think: "The people whose views he represents are lucky to have him fighting for them."

In his 15 Senate years no one worked harder or more earnestly than Taft for what he believed that the Ohio Republican. And what Taft believed represented the views of many millions of people. Not necessarily always the same people. But always many millions on any issue.

In these years, perhaps the most critical in American history, there were enormous and often bitter differences of opinion in this country—ranging from the pro-war draft and aid to Britain to the postwar problems of the United Nations, the Atlantic Pact and sending troops to Europe.

Taft was in the thick of all these issues. He was a healthy force in a Democratic society which it is to survive and escape tyranny, must depend upon the vigorous and military action with World War II and the military action with World War II and the military action with World War II.

against him. They respected him, listened to him attentively, and disagreed with him. The stand he took on some of those issues was important, but unanswered, questions of history. For example, where would this country—or the world be now if Taft had won out in his opposition to a draft in 1940—when the country had an ill-equipped army of only 275,000 and the Nazis were over-running Europe by the millions?

And what would have been the result for this country and the world if Congress had listened to Taft one year later and killed the draft just four months before Pearl Harbor?

Taft sternly denied he was an isolationist. But the effect of some of his views, if they had prevailed, would have been to isolate this country far more than it is now.

For one thing, he opposed the legislation which made this country a member of the United Nations. He was against the Atlantic Pact which put this country into a military alliance with World War II and the military action with World War II.

there not being any juvenile delinquency in this county.

Apparently, at that time several months ago, it was the general consensus that our children presented no difficulty here—perhaps they were a bit mischievous at times, but nothing really to worry about.

Well, Judge Stenstrom, in his dual capacity as juvenile judge, should know what the score is in the county concerning juvenile delinquency. The law protects the juvenile delinquent from publicity, which is all well and good as it gives a wayward youth every chance to mend his ways.

Certainly, it is bad enough for a 10-year-old boy to get himself into such trouble, but he had a boy 14 years old right along with him. This latter youth made a statement to Sheriff's office, although no charges were brought against him by that agency.

It is the same old story. Mothers and fathers again are to blame, as it is apparent by the boy's story that neither of the boys' parents were taking any pains about governing the youths' actions. Also, it was apparent the boys were like Topsy—they just grew.

Right off the bat in the statement, the boy related that he and his companion had been camping on the St. John's River for "about two days" and that upon their return to the older boy's house, his father had told him "that the law had been looking for him and he better get out of the way." Now that's a fine example of what a father should do.

The boy also relates in detail the burglary of a grocery store by the older boy, while he acted as lookout. Following the robbery, the boy continues, they opened a school door with a key and spent the night there.

Early the next morning, the statement says, they left the school house and hitch-hiked to Lake Mary and then to Orlando.

In Orlando, the statement continues, the older boy bought a 1937 Ford coupe for $110, paying $75 as the down payment. They went cruising around and finally ended up back at the younger boy's house.

"Mother and Daddy had some visitors so we slept out in the car," the statement reads.

The next day, they went cruising all over the countryside. Stolen gasoline was siphoned from trucks of a local fruit company, the statement reads, with pieces of hose stolen from back yards. Part of that night was spent sleeping in the car again until the younger boy's brother ran the older boy off.

Well anyway, both boys ended up in the hands of the law. Is it hard to see the reason why?

These boys and boys like them need help. Of course when they get as old as 19, it isn't easy to do anything about them.

However, the younger ones may be assisted through support of such endeavors as the Seminole Youth Council, which is just being organized. Marion Harmon heads a committee which is taking action on the organization's charter, while Robert Brown and Mrs. J. M. Stinchelner are serving on the group. The organization is aimed at providing a recreation center for the City's youth.

Problems of youth in the county are studied by the Children's Committee, of which Mrs. C. J. Meriwether is the president.

Both these groups are concerned with problems of our youngsters, and it should be the responsibility of the adult public to see that they get the assistance they need now and will need in the future.

Remember, the future of Sanford, this county and this country hinge on the youngsters of today.

Let's put forth our best effort in preparing these youngsters as good citizens. A future president may be in our midst. Florida has never had one.

HAL BOYLE

Length Of Dress Is Problem

NEW YORK—There is a war being waged today in which no woman can be an innocent bystander.

Girls, it's a battle you can't sidestep, unless you go around in a bathing suit. You can't skirt this issue.

"Should my new dress flap around my 14-inch shins, or should it just reach down far enough to tuck my 14-inch knees?" It's a real ticklish issue. An argument over the length of a woman's skirt is the height of nonsense to most men. But it has launched in Paris the "War Of The Fabrics," and it promises to divide women into two classes as nothing else has but the institution of marriage or the question of lobbed hair.

There has been more than a suspicion that for a number of years the famous Parisian designers got together before the advent of such new styles as "French 75's"—brandy in champagne—they were reported to have reached chummy but ironclad agreements on their present length—12 to 14 inches above street level.

She is also featuring a "Too Big Look," and I guess that means clothing that will make a fat lady feel like a little girl, and a little girl feel like yelling, "Help! Get me out of here I'm lost!"

Now Dior, after years of repentance, is leading another revolt in the opposite direction with something he calls "The Love Look." This, as nearly as I can gather, is his old "New Look" after it had been sent to the laundry and come home shrunk.

It is hard for a male non-combatant to figure out what is going on in the Parisian fashion battlefield. But, according to late frontline dispatches from lady combat reporters in this war, Dior and a needle-and-scissors ally named Dessas are making a do-or-die stand for a hemline a full 16 to 18 inches from the floor.

Schiaparelli is heading an Old Guard squad that is committed to go to any length to keep dresses at their present length—12 to 14 inches above street level.

Since an estimated 75 per cent of American women are 5-foot-3 or shorter, Patricia Porter, women's editor of the Boston Traveler, predicts a Dior victory "may bring forth a million knees that have never seen the light of day."

Is there any man unwilling to face that prospect with fortitude?

On the other hand, Dior's "Live Lines" silhouette craftily emphasizes a built-up bustline, raising even another frontline problem in the war. Nobody knows why he picked "The Live Lines" for a title instead of "The Wolf's Delight."

Although the Parisian designers, fighting at needle point, are bearing the brunt of the fashion war, it is the women of America who are doing the silent suffering. Whose army shall they call it—Dior's or Schiaparelli's?

Altitude enters in. A Dior outfit on a 5-foot-7 inch girl would fall below her knees and still give her a leggy look. On a 5-foot-2 inch girl the same dress would blast her kneecaps.

Emotional Difficulty
Those suffering from NCA may become further alarmed at these tests, and very hard to convince that there is nothing wrong with their hearts. Most often an emotional difficulty is at fault. Sometimes, an understanding talk with the physician on the problems that may exist will help to clear up the disease faster than any prescriptions or pills.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
P. H.: How can I avoid ingrown hairs on my face? They seem to come back again and again.

Answer: The use of an electric razor is sometimes of help; it cuts off the hairs squarely. Always try to shave in one direction to decrease the irritation. The difficulty is also avoided by not shaving for a while and letting the hair grow long.

Nerves Can Cause Heart Signs
In those suffering from it. A complete physical examination, including an electrocardiogram and other tests of the heart, all prove to be basically normal in this disease. A physician will usually make all these tests to determine that they are normal before blaming the person's discomfort on nervousness.

Numerous Complaints
The symptoms are breathlessness, rapid beating of the heart and nervousness. There is also pain on the left side of the chest and a tired feeling. The patient has difficulty in eating, spells of dizziness, and fainting attacks. His complaints are so numerous and without conformity that no one heart condition could explain all of them. The diagnosis is made on the basis of the symptoms and lack of any physical findings.

It is believed that worry and anxiety are the primary causes of neuro-circulatory asthma. This anxiety is very difficult to dispel.

U.S. Debt Limit Battle Late Bulletins

NEW YORK—The battle over raising the federal debt limit dramatizes today the growth of all forms of debt in recent years. Never have so many Americans owed so much.

Private debt has doubled in the last six years. The federal debt today is 9 1/2 billion dollars higher than a year ago. All agree it will climb higher before the year is over, no matter what Congress decides about lifting the legal limit on it.

State and municipal governments last year issued a record four billion dollars worth of new securities. In the first half of this year they were going into debt at an even faster clip. In the last seven years state and local governments have issued $27 billion dollars. The total now tops 27 billion dollars.

Corporations owed about $3 billion dollars when World War II broke out. Now they owe $15 billion dollars. Money inflation has boosted that debt to about 200 billion dollars.

The debts owed by individuals and unincorporated businesses are now estimated around 150 billion dollars.

Consumer credit (one easily visible form of individual debt) has swelled to just under 27 billion dollars, with buying on the installment credit—accounting for more than 20 billion dollars—of it.

Mortgage lenders estimate that about 10 million mortgages are held by home owners. Airdropped by the earning capacity of individuals. This huge debt total of government, business and individuals is being carried neatly at the moment by the wave of prosperity, still unbroken.

It is into this picture of total debt that the controversy over lifting the federal debt limit is thrust. By a 1941 law the U. S. Treasury can't go into debt for more than 275 billion dollars. Its current indebtedness is more than 272 1/2 billion dollars.

This is climbing. In this month, the first of its new fiscal year, Treasury collections fell about two billion dollars below receipts. It has a cash balance of a little less than nine billion dollars.

Some argue that the Treasury could stay within the 275 limit by borrowing the 2 1/2 billion more that the law allows and let its cash drop to three billion dollars.

Treasury Secretary Acheson, however, says it isn't safe to have less than six billion dollars in its jeans at any one time. Too many unexpected things could happen.

Chief economist of the Treasury would "encourage extravagance." Opponents of lifting the ceiling argue that if Congress refuses to do so it would give the speedy economy-minded administration all the more incentive to seek new ways of eliminating waste.

CHAMBER CHATTER

New and revised material now available in the Chamber office to be used especially in answering routine inquiries include mimeographed sheets on "Statistical Information," "Historical Sketch of Sanford," and a piece written especially for the purpose of attracting persons contemplating retirement to Florida. This material is inserted into the recently published folders and other attractive promotional material mailed every day to all sections of the Chamber.

City and county maps folder are being drawn up at the present time. If anyone has any suggestions for improvement over the last map or any correction of errors, send your name and address to the Chamber office.

New statistical data recently collected by the Chamber's Research Center ending June 30, show the following percentages of increase over the same quarter last year: Building Permits, 22.6 percent; Electric Consumers, 7.7 percent; Water Meters, 2.0 percent; Telephone Accounts, 8.1 percent. Even though this is usually our slack season these figures certainly prove that we are definitely on the upgrade, as far as growth and development is concerned.

Even though the first half of the year produces fewer inquiries concerning our section of the State, we have received more than 600 letters and cards wanting information about Sanford and Seminole County. Inquiries came from all 48 states except Alaska and Hawaii. The greater portion of the letters came from New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and a tie between Illinois and Virginia, in the foregoing order. One hundred and six of these people were desirous of relocating and obtaining full employment here. 52 were planning to retire, and 23 were looking for a condition of semi-retirement. The rest were prospective tourists and vacationers.

A Chamber of Commerce, just like a city, is composed of people. They are the moving or vitalizing factor in its being. And a Chamber of Commerce, also like a city, reflects the activity and the temperament of its compositors—their personalities, likes and dislikes. In short a live, active and progressive Chamber of Commerce, reflects an aggressive, wide-awake citizenry, who is willing to assume its part in any undertaking for the civic, commercial, and industrial betterment of the community. This little choice bit of verse, the author of which is unknown, certainly "hits the nail on the head" and brings forth a mountain of truth from its rhythmic lines.

Cities are what men make them. Wherever those cities may be. Whether out on the desolate desert, or set by the surging sea. Though they cleave to the breasts of mountains broad, Or nestle in the folds of a bay, Cities are what men make them. On the land that is given of God.

Cities are what men make them. What men demand they shall be. Shuttled, sloven, sleepy, Progressive, beautiful, free. If the hearts of the builders are noble, In one with the day and the need, They build into grandeur and greatness. For thus it was ever decreed.

Marion Harmon, the general program director of the local radio station, and incidentally, chairman of the Chamber's Recreation and Entertainment Committee, has hit pay dirt again in his efforts to obtain large scale publicity for Sanford.

A recent production of the Personal Program Service which is distributed to more than 1200 radio stations throughout the United States gives quite a plug to one of the local programs on WFTL. Under a sub-heading entitled MINOR MUSIC, the script comments freely on the Children's Classic Hour ascribed as a program started back in 1949 by J. Marion Harmon to offset or supplement the craze for live and jazz among the young people.

Description of the type programs that are presented weekly by Dorothy Holloway and Colleen Engstrom together with their juvenile guest artists that appear from time to time is concluded with this observation: "I think that's a good way to get to know and love good music. I imagine those young people in Sanford, Florida, aren't going to be afraid of music when they grow up."

40 Million People Saw Birth Of Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NORWALK, Conn., July 10.—On a recent evening, 40 million people attended the birth of a television star. Mary Martin, runner-up in the 1953 national needlepoint contest.

The occasion was a $500,000, two-hour, two-network commemo-rative ho-down employing a brilliant cluster of Broadway, Hollywood and television talent.

Miss Martin, in her first real TV appearance, acted a bit and danced magnificently in a shapeless woolen shroud with which she caricatured 50 years of fashion. Then, in company with Ethel Merman, she sang her heart out in a series of nostalgic songs, leaping from millions of television screens into more millions of hearts.

"And it will be a long time before I do anything like THAT again," she remarked, obviously rehearsing 14 hours a day for two weeks. Then, poet! And all those cameras and mechanical things, and people moving around, and pushing things right up in your face and expecting you to go right on!

Enough time has elapsed since Mary Martin's emergence as a television star for her to sit back and take a relaxed look. She seems mildly pleased about all the excitement but regards the whole thing in a definitely impersonal way. In a tetter totter beach chair, tanned bare legs high in the summer sun on her Connecticut estate, she contentedly puffed a cigarette.

Miss Martin is a specialist in this area, having been born there separate and distinct times on the legitimate stage. She also was the central figure in a Hollywood paragon of the steller process.

"It has been very nice," she conceded. "Such mad! And people just come up and say the most pleasant things. Truck drivers without teeth and motorists yell at me from the next car on the Merritt Parkway. Some pressure are building up. I people with me to do six or nine shows a year."

"That's not what I want," she said. "I want to be a television star once in a while when it's something I like, but nothing else. It scares me. It'll be a long time before I'll do it again. It turns out, is what she has loved since she was five years old. The stage. With television offers piling in, her brown eyes are fixed on the script of a dramatic play, "Kind Sir," set for fall production. She'll costar with Charles Boyer.

Until then, she's summing up at home as Mrs. Richard Holliday, mother and assistant superintendent of the major remodeling job now in progress on the Halliday's 200 year old farm house.

She's a remarkably untricked off-stage personality. The Hallidays at home show no evidence that money is one of the most valuable things in the world. Properties in show business, Mary looks barefoot and garden in the best of shorts and halter occasionally yelling that she's stepped on a hornet. Husband Richard bustles about in slacks and sports shirt consulting with carpenters and painters. "I've seen a dog on the Heller obediently spends morning with a tutor in the shade of a big tree, making up schoolwork lost during a recent three-month auto trip through Europe with her parents.

Excitement runs high in the family, however. But not because of Mary's sensational splash into television. To hear her tell it, you'd think the biggest thing that ever happened to her was taking second place in that needlepoint contest with a four-by-six-inch cloth 3 1/2 years ago in complete. Another wild enthusiasm is a white and gold door frame she and Holliday picked up in Sicily years ago. Mary still loves it being re-constructed, with attention to previously concealed hand-hewn beams and random wood floor boards.

She's a tremendously sentimental person. "The rug," which Richard designed and she worked, is a silken fabric of their life together, with the pett point design depicting their married life 14 years ago, their home, favorite pets, trees and burning points. One corner of the estate in which

Leonardo da Vinci's Masterpiece Restored To Its Original Beauty

MILAN, Italy.—The Last Supper, Leonardo da Vinci's ageless masterpiece, has been restored to its original beauty.

It had been fading so that it was almost impossible to see the faces of the apostles and the background. It had been faded so that it was almost impossible to see the faces of the apostles and the background.

Prof. Mauro Pellicani, Italy's great restorer of paintings, recently completed five years of painstaking work to bring the lost colors back.

A government commission took a look and expressed full confidence in the work. "It is a wonderful work," it said.

In a few months the priceless mural will have a new, formal unveiling.

The new work of restoration eliminates almost two years of efforts to preserve the cracking, fading masterpiece. At the latest and most scientific treatment consists mostly of getting rid of the four centuries of retouching, to reveal the masterpiece as Da Vinci created it.

"The Last Supper" was painted on the wall of the monastery of Santa Maria delle Grazie from 1495 to 1498. Even before the end of the century it began to show damage.

One reason was that it was a fresco rather than a normal fresco. Frescoes, painted on damp walls, are made of a mixture of lime and sand and water.

Da Vinci's tempera is a painting in which albumen is used as a binder. The colors do not penetrate into the wall but are on the surface. They soon began to crack and fade.

Further, the use of oil painting was the danger of the fresco. Most of the fresco had been washed and the oil painting had been removed. The fresco had been washed and the oil painting had been removed.

Prior to the 19th century several new restorations had attempted restoration of the masterpiece. Most of them, however, had been washed and the oil painting had been removed.

The first real attempt to get down to the original fresco was undertaken in the last half of the century when the artist's work was removed from the wall. It was found that the fresco had been washed and the oil painting had been removed.

It was the process of restoration which Pellicani took upon himself. A far more extensive work than five years ago.

He painstakingly removed the oil painting and the fresco was found to be in a state of ruin. He painstakingly removed the oil painting and the fresco was found to be in a state of ruin.

Eisenhower's Crusade Reaches Sixth Month Of Controversies

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
 WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's "great crusade" is six months old now, six months of advances—and retreats—which always mark the twisting pathway of any administration.

Here in Washington you can get an argument either way as to whether Eisenhower and his team have done little or a lot since they took over Jan. 20.

Democrats pop up here and there to say it's a "do nothing" administration and another "do nothing" Congress. Eisenhower himself says the record of the last six months is one of real achievement and that it represents only a mere beginning.

The President, moreover, shows signs that he now may attempt to lead rather than nudge Congress into action on major measures. The way he jumped into the battle for continuation of the excess profits tax on corporations this month might be one of the most significant events of this break-in period.

Definitely there have been accomplishments. A start has been made toward economy, although the budget still is far out of balance and a general tax cut not yet in sight. Government is being reorganized, thousands of workers are being dropped, a clean up of what Eisenhower called "the mess in Washington" is under way.

Health, education and welfare activities have been promoted to departmental rank, under a Cabinet officer, something President Truman failed to accomplish. Steps have been taken against racial segregation, in fulfillment of campaign pledges.

Just as definitely there has been some stumbling, over appointment program and policy, as the first Republican administration in 20 years left its way along strange trails. Right at the start, for example, there was that ever-over Secretary of Defense Wilson and his vast holdings of General Motors stock.

Here of late, circumstances have forced the administration to hedge for a time at least on two major campaign promises—to give the country a "sound dollar" and a sound agriculture free of government fetters.

The new regime did begin to put a hard dollar policy into operation by tightening credit and upping interest rates. Then the government started running deep in the red, far beyond anybody had expected. It had to borrow on a big scale and the monetary brakes began to bind.

So, inflationary though it was, the administration pumped out more money through the federal reserve system rather than run the risk of forcing on the nation a bigger dose of deflation than it could swallow easily.

Similarly, drought in the Southwest and mounting surpluses that depressed prices have created a sort of emergency farm situation requiring more government attention rather than less.

As a consequence, acreage limitations and production quotas will be imposed on a number of crops, perhaps more widely than in any year in history—and by a secretary of agriculture who is a critic of farm restrictions.

In Congress part of the Eisenhower program, such as the tidelands oil bill, has passed. More is on the way through the mill. But important items once labeled "must" for this session now are being put over until 1954, a year in which Congress will be concerned with elections.

Measures like Hawaiian statehood, Taft-Hartley labor law amendments, social security expansion, all have been sidetracked for this session.

Certainly there have been nothing

PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, who owns a farm in Pennsylvania, swaps notes with Jim Dillon, of Jones, La., president of the Future Farmers of America, during a visit to the White House. like the bold, spectacular legislative adventures of the early months of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal but neither has Eisenhower had a big majority in Congress and finger snapping control over it.

Furthermore, the administration took on the tough, complicated task of combing over the entire Truman budget and drafting a new one of its own, a process which necessarily has slowed the legislative pace and administrative processes.

In a sense, and particularly in the field of foreign affairs, the very lack of startling changes from one administration to another may in itself be an accomplishment.

There are those who say the best thing the Eisenhower regime has done in foreign relations is demonstrate to the world there can be a continuity and consistency in U. S. foreign policy, even though there has been a break in the political dynasty.

That doesn't mean Eisenhower has completely embraced the Democratic Party's foreign policy. It does signify that, with some shifts in emphasis, he is continuing a policy whose basic principles have lain down on a bipartisan basis, with Republican help.

Rejecting appeasement, Eisenhower has set a supreme goal of "peace and security for ourselves and for our friends."

In Korea, sick prisoners were exchanged and an armistice came almost within reach, although there were those who questioned whether Korea's President Syngman Rhee was handled with maximum effectiveness.

The Kremlin talked and restored in more conciliatory fashion. Secretary of State Dulles said American firmness was paying off.

But there was another factor, too. That was the death of Marshal Stalin an event which might turn out to be the most important single happening anywhere during the first six months of the Eisenhower administration.

In the related field of U. S. defense policy the break with the past is more sharply defined than in foreign affairs.

Instead of aiming at maximum strength to be reached at a time of expected maximum danger, the Eisenhower policy is to stretch readiness over what he says is "an age of peril" that may last on and on.

To help carry out his theory, Eisenhower has been installing an entirely new command in the Pentagon—both civilian and military. Along with this has come r paring down of the enormous defense budget, to the accompaniment of cutbacks, from Democrats especially, at a five billion dollar slash in Air Force funds.

Eisenhower marked up one of his big victories in Congress when the House backed him with votes on the Air Force cut.

An even bigger victory was passage of the excess profits tax bill. Blocked for weeks by the House Ways and Means Committee, the bill finally was blasted loose by heavy administration pressure.

The Eisenhower stand on the tax measure seems to parallel to some degree an apparently stiffening attitude within the administration toward Ben McCarthy (R-Wis.).

There still is studied effort to avoid personal clashes. Nevertheless, there are hints the administration may be getting ready to draw a line and say McCarthy must not cross.

Eisenhower personally took a roundhouse swing at J. B. Matthews for a magazine article charging the protestant clergy is contaminated with Communism. Matthews, now resigned, was McCarthy's hand-picked chief of staff of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

And thus far, McCarthy has been balked in his effort to question William P. Bundy, an official of the Central Intelligence Agency. Under all the strain of finding with difficulties at home and abroad, the chief executive seems to be holding up well. He had a cold for a couple of days and a stomach upset for a brief time. Otherwise this new political life has been set into a somewhat regular pattern.

Republican-Controlled 83rd Congress Writes Finis To Mixed Record

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON (AP)—At the stroke of midnight, the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress wrote finis to a mixed record of action and inaction in helping President Eisenhower fulfill his campaign pledges.

This first session—the first Congress in two decades to be Republican-controlled while a Republican was in the White House—made a firm start toward ending away from the Democratic party's New Deal and "Fair Deal" philosophies.

Nation's Lawmakers Leave Behind Imposing List Of Hot Potatoes To Be Taken Up In January

long hours they put in. There was no hint in the letters of any change over his biggest legislative mistake, a plea to boost the statutory debt limit.

A special session in October or November was obviously in prospect. But Eisenhower said in his letters to the members of Congress: "I look forward to seeing all of you again in January."

Official windup time for the Senate was midnight local time. Actually it ran 30 minutes longer, but the adjournment resolution made midnight the final hour.

The end didn't come in the House before an angry debate over a resolution to open the way for members of Congress to give their "own" pay raise.

The final report was broken when the Senate made a day to have demand for a bill out of an appropriation bill $70 million dollars which had been earmarked for the war surplus program.

The outlook is that despite the odds there will be a whopping $2,000,000,000 deficit at the close of the fiscal year.

Somertime

Turtle eggs are delicious creamed or in pancakes or made into soup, and they're better still left to grow into turtles. But, according to a story in the Lake Worth Leader, what they do to a car paint job is unprintable. For several successive mornings, a motorist of that city found his car was dripping embryonic turtles. Lake Worth police are now on the alert for teenagers throwing turtle eggs. Incidentally, it's quite against the law for anybody to disturb a nesting turtle or to have turtle eggs in one's possession.

POWs Near Freedom; Dulles Reaches Seoul

Big Trades Start At 7:00 Tonight Sanford Time
By GEORGE A. MCARTHUR
SANFORD, Fla., Aug. 3 (AP)—Allied war prisoners—70 of them Americans—come home to freedom in a few hours, opening the happiest moment in the Korean War "operation big switch."

KOREAN BRIEFS
MUNSAN (AP)—The weatherman could offer only a gloomy forecast for tomorrow's start of "Operation Big Switch"—the exchange of prisoners of war.

Puzzle time—Invite one of your friends to write down any figure, containing any number of digits—five or seven is a handy size. He's NOT to tell you the number. Now have him add up the digits in the number "crosswise." For example, if he had chosen 52412, the addition would produce 22. He's got to tell you that number. Instead ask him to subtract it secretly from the original 52412 number. In our example that leaves 52190. Tell your friend to continue keeping minus. Now ask him to strike out any digit in the result, except a zero. Then have him read aloud to you what is left. Suppose he struck out the seven, he'd read 52190. You add up those digits crosswise and see how much you'd have to add to their sum to make a multiple of nine. In this case it's seven. The remainder, if you're stymied for the reason watch for the explanation tomorrow.

Thoughts While Shaving—These mornings before we start to scrape the razor across the bristles, we go through the ritual of closely examining our shaving mirror. Terry Somertime are all sporting the splices of measles and if memory serves us correct, we've never had the measles in this area. Just like six years ago when the Somertimes and the kids came down with chickenpox during the Christmas period and we turned out the sports page at home during the period of quarantine.
