Commissioner Daryl McLain

Pastor and 'porno' don't mix

McLain blasts name-calling pastor who took donations from adult entertainment owners; Maloy is sickened

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - When Pastor Mark George called the county's adult entertainment owners "porno kings" at a public meeting this past week, County Commissioner Daryl McLain bristled.

"How is it that Pastor George can thank the same people who have given generous donations to his church one day and call them 'porno kings' the next?" McLain asked Friday. "At first, I didn't believe what was happening."

McLain has nine canceled checks and "thank you notes" that verify Jim Veigle, the owner of Rachel's Men's Club in Casselberry, gave at least $2,700 in contributions to United Methodist Church of Casselberry. Veigle sent $300 checks almost monthly from September 1995 to May 1996.

Is this revelation a trick by the adult entertainment industry, desperate to hang on to its lucrative playgrounds of nudity? County Commissioner Grant Maloy warned today that it was just that. "It's sickening to see Daryl McLain throw out accusations at an honest man like Mark George," Maloy said. "Mark didn't approve of any of these gifts. He's just one of the pastors at the church."

Maloy said the gifts and donations - and now the attempts to fool everyone were "obvious attempts by the slime boys" to hold on to their businesses. "They're going to try everything to survive."

Veigle said a business is a business and that "no one is forced to come" to clubs like Rachel's. He said that the contributions were made in good faith and accepted that way.

"Look at the thank you notes from the pastors, Veigle said: 'We were truly blessed through your giving...many families would have had a small Christmas without your help...it is through gifts such as these we are able to minister to a lot of people.'"

The insignia was done free hand by a local artist. It enhances the new look of the beautifully refurbished stadium. The tournament, which features the top 10 teams in the nation in the highest division of softball in the world, continued play with seven games Saturday starting at 6 a.m. and concluding with a 9 p.m. contest. The double-elimination event concludes with two or three games on Sunday morning.

Make it clear, park advocates tell city

By Maria Orem
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - A citizens' group is disputing the intent of two proposed city ordinances relating to the development of a lakefront hotel/conference center.

City Commissioners on Monday passed Ordinance 3430 on the first of two readings. Though presented as an ordinance to clear title for Fort Mellon Park - the area designated for development - members of The Society To Preserve Fort Mellon Park say there is no mention of title in the wording. There is, however, language that allows the city to lease the property and enter into a contract with a developer to build a hotel complex.

In a meeting with Mayor Larry Dale on Friday, Doug Groseclose, chairman of the Society, asked for clarification by Monday via a letter to the city attorney.

"Why did they include language about leasing and contracting to develop the area?" Groseclose said. "How does that relate to clearing title?"

Proposed Ordinance 3432, which will be read at the Aug. 24 commission meeting, would leave it up to voters whether the land at Fort Mellon should be developed. If passed, a referendum would be placed on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Groseclose said the first ordinance as written gives the city the power to do whatever it wants and makes the referendum a moot point.

"The city tried to pass this so a referendum would not be necessary," he said.

Groseclose said the meeting was cordial and he was pleased with some minor concessions. The city will adjust some of the language to include a phrase that sets aside six acres of the park to remain in perpetuity.

Dale said the intent all along was to invest $2 to $3 million in park improvements for six acres at Fort Mellon that would include a boardwalk and two piers.

He said the first ordinance was required by the title company.

Group's opposing viewpoint

By Maria Orem
HERALD STAFF WRITER

Another group of citizens that supports the proposed project at Fort Mellon Park, has formed the Committee To Promote the Hotel and Conference Center. The Committee will hold a rally at the park Aug. 25 with free food and drinks to the public. The purpose is to raise money and inform residents of the facts before the issue goes to referendum, said Lon Howell, chairman of the group and a former city commissioner.

"We favor the conference center and we want to make sure this campaign succeeds," Howell said.

Longwood community center gets facelift

By Maria Orem
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LONGWOOD - The city's only community center will be getting a $30,000 facelift.

City commissioners voted to allocate the funds split evenly over the next two years for the needed renovations, which include a new tile floor, refurbished kitchen and bathrooms and wall repairs.

The 22-year-old building on Wilma Street is located in the heart of the historic district. It was built around an existing pavilion with walls constructed over the gazebo.

With about 1,500 square feet of space, the facility is used for recreational activities, a day camp, and social functions, said Sondra Lomax, manager of the city's parks and recreation department.

"This will give the general public a renovated building with more amenities," Lomax said.

Mayor Rusty Miles and Commissioner Annamarie Vacca initially expressed reservations over the project saying that it was a temporary fix for a building that would eventually need to be replaced by a larger facility.

Commissioner Steve Miller said the building needed attention now and the city should not wait before taking action.

Commissioner Paul Lovstrand suggested the city split the expense over the next two years.

Lomax concurred with the need for a larger facility in the near future to better meet the needs of the community. There also could be more programs for seniors in the future and a larger recreational complex with sports courts and fields and more parking, she said.

The existing floor plan does not really allow much flexibility and there is really nothing that can be done with that, she said.

Lomax said she is glad for the additional funding, which should see the community center through the next five years.

"It's a great benefit to bring the center up to the standards of the historic buildings surrounding it," she said. "This is a big step."

In the nine years she has worked for the city, Lomax said she has seen increased use particularly for social events such as weddings, graduations, birthdays, family reunions and church gatherings.

Lomax said her office wants to bring in more cultural activities such as the Blue Grass Pickers program, that is slated to perform once a month.

The center is open every day from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Construction is expected to begin within the next month.

Students opt for learning fast track with Sanford Middle magnet program

By Jeff Berkinieks
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Imagine having an entire year of college completed before you get your driver's license.

That's how it goes at Sanford Middle School where kids as young as sixth-graders are earning high school credits. In fact, eighth-graders are even taking courses such as Pre-Med.

Sanford Middle School has become the third school in the state to adopt the Pre-International Baccalaureate Magnet Program, open to students in sixth through eighth grade.

Students who successfully complete the program will be academically prepared to continue their studies in the Seminole High School International Baccalaureate or Health Academy magnet programs.

The kids at Sanford Middle say they enjoy their opportunity. The program enrolls from every corner of the county, with the provision of special bus rides to attend Sanford.

The school was rewarded for its program with a visit from Florida Governor Lawton Chiles on Thursday. Chiles visited the IB program and said he was impressed. The students he met said the governor was very nice.

Christina Prusak, Matt Fisher and Liz Scarwid are three Sanford Middle School students enrolled in the Pre-International Baccalaureate program. They will earn high school credits before leaving eighth-grade and were able to meet Florida Governor Lawton Chiles when he toured the classroom Thursday.

Woman charged with bilking elderly victims

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - A local businesswoman was arrested Thursday by state agents for bilking elderly victims of more than $90,000. Barra M. Stern, 932 Lake Destiny Dr., #E, Altamonte Springs, was charged with one count of organized fraud following a year-long investigation by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. Stern, 26, who owns Choice Property Network, is accused of calling elderly out-of-state property owners and seeking fees to advertise their property for sale in Florida. According to state investigators, through her company, Stern made false and misleading promises to 12 victims aged 72 to 86 between February 1996 and May 1997.

The victims thought they were paying for advertising and marketing services that would reach potential buyers. FDLE officials said. Law enforcement officials said the state is seeing increased numbers of senior citizens falling prey to financial exploitation. Typical scams targeting the elderly in Florida are home improvement contractors performing substandard work while charging two or three times the going market rate. The agency is committed to combating the problem and becoming more proactive and aggressive in investigating crimes against the elderly, said Joyce Dawley, regional FDLE director. Stern was taken to the Seminole County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Prepare the harpoons as gator hunting season nears

From staff reports

Beginning Sept. 1, the hunt is on for Florida alligators. This year's harvest will give selected alligator hunters the opportunity to take five alligators each from specific harvest sites - lakes, rivers and wetlands - around the state. Locally, hunting will be permitted during the September harvest, in Lake Jesup and Lake Harney. "This year, 11,439 people applied for the 789 slots available," said Lt. Joy Hill, public information coordinator for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC). The selection process began back in June when the prospective hunters applied to the GFC for the lottery-style drawing used to pick participants. As in recent years, the harvest season this year is divided into two phases: Sept. 1 - 15 and Sept. 15 - 30. Each hunter is selected to hunt during one phase only. Applicants who have been selected are required to purchase a $250 resident alligator trapping license or a $1,000 non-resident license in order to participate. Trappers are allowed to have trapping agents to assist them in the hunt, with each agent required to purchase a $50 non-transferable trapping agent license. Trappers may use snatch hooks, snares, gigs or harpoons to take alligators, and bows and arrows or crossbows may be used if the projectile is attached to a restraining line. Firearms are prohibited. Since 1966, alligator hunters have taken approximately 25,000 alligators during the annual public water harvests. This year they will be allowed to take a maximum of 3,945 more in the month-long period.

Governor did not feel outnumbered

When Governor Lawton Chiles arrived at the Seminole County Services Building on Thursday, he knew of course he was deep in Republican territory.

He looked to his left and right and said, "I'd say we're about even. All of you are fine Republicans and I'm a Democrat. But I'm still the governor. So that makes it about even. I hope you don't feel outnumbered."

Remarkably, Chiles took the time to greet not only the volunteers who helped during the wildfires of the summer, but to mingle with other visitors and staff at the county building. Several of the aides to the commissioners were thrilled to meet Chiles and said they wouldn't be washing their hands until they went home. Chiles said he was grateful so many firemen came from 44 states and Canada to help in the crisis. "They love to fight fires," he said. "I guess smoke gets in their blood. Thank you for helping them."

The Bambino, Babe Ruth died 50 years ago on August

16. He was 53, and lost a battle to cancer. Thousands stood outside a packed St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York to say goodbye to baseball's most beloved player. One of Ruth's ex-Yankees teammates serving as a pallbearer on a hot afternoon, said he sure wished he could have a cold beer. "So does the Babe," another answered.

Frank Gifford, Kathie Lee Gifford and Madonna would be born on August 16? Cliff is 68, Kathie Lee is 45 and Madonna 40. Actress Angela Bassett, who has the nicest teeth in America, is 40 on Sunday. Singer Eydie Gorme is 68 and actress Julie Newmar is 63.

Actor Robert DeNiro is 55 on Monday and actor Sean Penn is 38. If Sean Penn had been born a day earlier he and Madonna might still be together. Think about that. Actress Maureen O'Hara is 78 and singer Bellinda Carlisle 40 on Monday.

needs in our community."

"Mark George, Pastor Nick Thompson and John Hicks knew the money and gifts (turkey, hams, stuffed bunnies, toys) were coming from myself through Puzzles and Rachel's," Veigle said. "I had personal conversations with all three."

George's signature was not on the notes - only those of Thompson and Hicks.

One of the hand-written notes to Hicks was addressed to "the crew at Puzzles....One of the fathers broke down and cried, hugging me. Your act of love in this season of love is very special. May God bless you as you have blessed others."

On another occasion, George and the pastors at United Methodist thanked Veigle for providing 100 dinners that were given to the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford.

Surprisingly, Veigle said George jumped on the "bandwagon" of Casselberry citizens trying to close down Puzzles, an after-hours night club now shut down. "George degraded me and the business," Veigle said. "He said he had quit drinking and that he wanted to stop everyone in the county from drinking."

On Tuesday night, Veigle sat but a few rows behind George at a public hearing that dealt with the adoption of a public decency ordinance that would stop clubs like Rachel's from featuring nude dancers. "George is quite the dapper one now with his hair styled, his mustache and tan" Veigle said. "Next, he's going to run for the Casselberry commission. I find him and others to be little more than hypocrites."

Veigle said his attorney was asked for a donation for The Rev. John Book's ministry. "He asked 'do you know who my clients are?' He was told 'yes, God works in mysterious ways, I'll take their money.' The attorney signed a check for $500. A week later the man brought it back and asked for cash."

There's a big stir over the adult entertainment business and an ordinance to ban nude dancing in the county. George led the Christian Coalition pledge drive to produce enough signatures to either force the County Commission to pass the ordinance or send it to the voters on a November referendum.

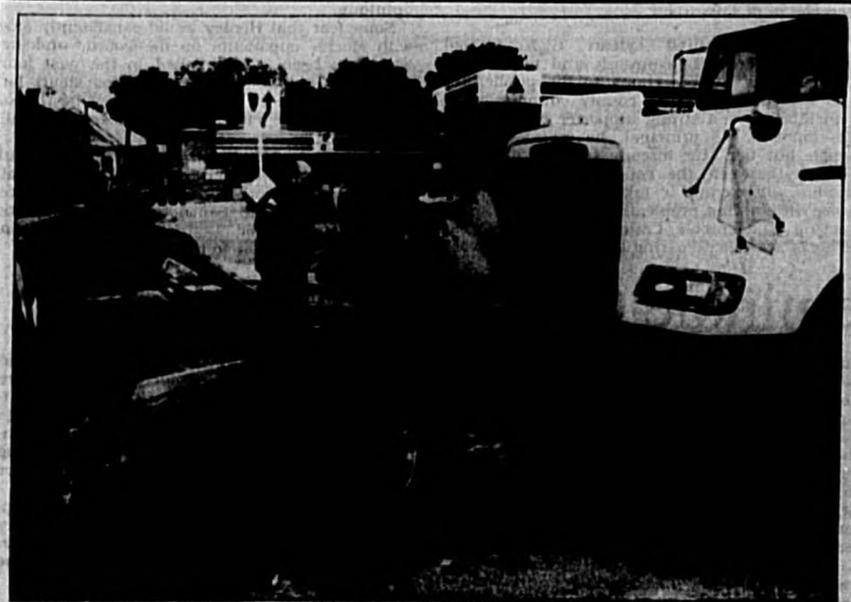

The Commission chose the latter, voting 3-2 to disapprove the ordinance. McLain believes it was the right decision, especially in lieu of what he says are underhanded activities. "What are you supposed to think when you hear the same people trying to crucify the adult entertainment business have been taking money from it?" McLain said.

George and Book were unavailable for comment.

McLain and others question just how many members there are in the Seminole County Christian Coalition. He said he recently sent a $25 check for membership but had his request denied. "They feared I would be too disruptive and ask too many questions."

"But what kind of group is it that says some people are good enough and that some aren't?" McLain asked. "These aren't good Christian values to me."

Accident sends five people to hospital

Sanford Police Department Officer Bill Crappe investigates an accident that occurred Friday afternoon in Sanford. An '89 Mazda pickup truck northbound on U.S. Highway 17-92 turned left from the turning lane in front of a flatbed truck. Five of the seven people riding in the pickup were taken to the Central Florida Regional Hospital emergency room with multiple scrapes and cuts. No one was seriously injured. Multiple charges are pending.

Mary Leah's X-cellent adventure

By Mary Leah Sutton
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

On the outside, I would appear to be the ultimate X-Files fan-I've attended several conventions, built my room into a shrine, met many members of the cast, traveled to Italy and saw the Statue of David which David Duchovny is named after, and gone X-Files paraphernalia shopping in England, Scotland and France. On one hand I wear my class ring that has X-Files printed across the top and on the other my Basketball State Championship ring that proudly displays the name "Scully" with my number 35, which happens to be Agent Dana Scully's apartment number on the show.

You might think that being immersed daily in action figures, comic books and collector cards could quench anyone's thirst for the elusive truth hidden in a television show that boastfully proclaims that such a higher meaning is out there. But it wasn't always like this, I too was once disillusioned by the conformity of productions such as Dateline and 20/20 until I discovered that the truly intriguing show and the one that challenges its viewers to accept the unexplainable in a world of infinite opportunities can be found on the Fox network. What makes the series so compelling is that it continues to maintain a high level of intellectualism while dealing with subject matter that all people at some point in their lives are fascinated by.

Despite the limitless memorablia surrounding me, I found a part of myself lacking and a void unable to be filled by any conventional means used to treat the common summertime X-Files withdrawal syndrome. Then in an act of fate the opportunity to visit Vancouver, Canada presented itself. For those unsure as to the relevance of such a significant city in which The X-Files was filmed for five years, I offer you this-think of it as the Mecca to devoted fans, the promised land, and the Garden of Agents, Mulder and Scully.

By Arthur Boehle IV
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

As I push my way through the halls everyday at school, I hear conversations about music, dating, and parties, but the one I hear the most is about cheerleaders.

Are they really airheads? Is cheerleading a sport?

Of course it's a sport. Why wouldn't it be? They work just as hard as any other athletes that I have ever seen, and then they take all the ridicule that is thrown at them.

They practice every day after school in the heat and rain. They work hard to learn new cheers, time their steps to perfection, and learn new dances for competition, then people go and say that it's not a sport.

I personally don't understand why people say it's not a sport, and I don't understand how the cheerleaders take it. If I was one of them I would have slapped whoever said that. Not only do they work hard, they also cheer on their home team in the heat, even when they are tired, and they still get made fun of.

They get called stuck up just because they like to hang out with the other cheerleaders. I have known most of the cheerleaders since I was in elementary school, some since before I could walk.

I also don't get how they are airheads since some of the smartest people I know are cheerleaders. Let's of them get straight A's. If the cheerleaders weren't so smart, then who would I copy off of in class?

So next time you see a cheerleader, don't think about how stuck up, and stupid are, but about how they work so hard and take so much.

Scully

On arriving in Vancouver, I felt as if I had stepped inside an episode because certain buildings and streets looked oddly familiar though I had never been to the city before. My parents and I rented an eleven-person white stretch limo for three hours from a company called the X-Tours. Our guide assumed I was like any other obsessed fan when we met, but it only took a short time before he realized I was much different—much more than he ever expected. In only a few minutes I basically took over the tour, rattling off locations of filming, the episodes, and characters in the shoot as we explored sites used in The X-Files. He even tried to stump me with trivia but miserably failed and ended up taking notes on facts that I knew which he said they would use on future tours.

Among the places we visited was the pub where Mulder first met Deep Throat, several filming locations from this past season's cliffhanger, the mountain which doubled for Skyland Mountain where Scully was abducted, the train station in which numerous episodes have been taped including the favorite late night meeting place for Mulder and his informants, and the building used to imitate the FBI building. But the pinnacle of my X-Files crusade was when I stepped foot into Scully's apartment and felt then that I was truly home. I received a rush caused by the aura that radiated from that room in which Mulder and Scully had shared so many conversations and exchanged several glances towards one another that suggested, at times, more than friendship.

When the excursion was over, our guide had declared me the biggest fan ever to have gone on the tour and even ranked me higher than the owner of the company. It was an experience of a lifetime that I shall never forget. Even though the show now "lights the future" in Los Angeles, its foundation will forever be in Vancouver. Flying back home I remembered our tour guide promising that for a while they would still talk about the girl who traveled across the continent to prove she was one of the biggest fans of The X-Files, but I secretly knew I would be telling the story for years to come.

Information available on new Lake Mary school

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LAKE MARY - Good schools have always been a factor in the equation of life in Lake Mary.

A new private school will soon be added to the sum.

Learning Unlimited International Schools, a not for profit private organization hopes to break ground on Lake Mary Preparatory School in October.

Founded in 1976 in Columbus, Ohio, there are presently seven LUIS campuses in the Columbus area, serving 1,000 students, and one LUIS campus in St. Maarten, Netherland Antilles, serving 300 students.

The son of the founders, Dean Alcott, and his wife, Annette, had been looking for a Central Florida location, when they discovered the opportunities available in Lake Mary.

The choice of the Lake Mary location was largely due to the recommendations of Roger Soderstrom, of Stirling International Realty, and Diane Parker, of the Lake Mary Heathrow Chamber of Commerce.

Soderstrom and Parker knew of several area residents who were looking for an alternative to the public school system.

For Alcott, the challenge was finding a site large enough to incorporate all the programs the school wants to offer. The new school will be located on Raintree Lane, next to the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

Accessible from County Road 46A, the school will be only three minutes from the new interstate-4 interchange, said Alcott.

Lake Mary Preparatory School, will begin enrollment for pre-kindergarten through 10th grade classes for the fall of 1999, will eventually house 11th and 12th grade with a full athletics program.

Founders of the school system, Alcott's parents were educators in Ohio who wanted to offer individualized curriculums for children.

Annette, who has been working with LUIS for more than 7 years, said "Our program is non-rigid traditional. We allow children to work at their own pace regardless of their chronological age."

Smaller classes allow for enrichment as well as learning. Most grades have no more than 20 students to each teacher, said Alcott. "We need to have that few in order to implement our philosophies."

The schools have no corporate or religious affiliations. The components of the program include multi-cultural orientation, critical and creative thinking, thematic studies and integration of technology in a success-oriented environment.

The initial enrollment goal for Lake Mary Preparatory School is 500, with the student population growing as grades are added. The traditional college preparatory curriculum will include advanced placement courses.

Extended day, summer programs and after-school enrichment activities will contribute to the social and emotional growth of the students, said Alcott. The athletic program will include football, swimming, soccer, gymnastics and baseball and softball at the adjacent Lake Mary Sports Complex. The plan is for the students to become involved in community activities and integrate their learning experience. "It's really going to be a community school," said Annette.

Founah Alcott, the executive director and co-founder of Learning Unlimited International Schools

An informational meeting, with Founah Alcott, the executive director and co-founder, as keynote speaker, will be held Tuesday, Aug. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Heathrow Country Club. An overview of the school, a description of the Lake Mary campus, the academic time schedule and enrollment procedures will be addressed.

For more information, or to make reservations, contact Dean Alcott at 805-0095.

Winning at all costs is filtering into high schools

SANFORD How important is it to win? On the professional level, it's everything. Money's involved.

On the college level, especially in the Division I ranks, it's pretty important too. Money's involved.

But at the high school ranks? Was anybody else sickened that a state high school program, Miami High, was placed on probation due to major rules violations last week. The school forfeited its 1988 state boys basketball title and will be ineligible for participation in the state playoffs in 1989.

At least seven basketball players were illegally recruited in some way at Miami and the boys' soccer team at the school was also found guilty of serious transgressions.

C'mon, this is high school sports. Miami has won eight state boys basketball championships in 11 years. Hooray.

But at what cost? This year, Miami destroyed Edgewater High which, by the way, knocked Lake Howell out of the playoffs.

In 1987, the Stingrays blasted Oviedo in the finals.

Great, they have assembled the best basketball team in the state.

But look at who loses. It should be interesting to see if there's a mass exodus of Miami players before practice starts in November. Surely a bunch of mercenaries aren't going to stay at Miami just to be true to their school.

But the whole high school corruption thing goes much deeper. Miami got busted.

Who's next? Could it be someone in Central Florida, or even Seminole County?

There are few athletic directors in Seminole County who have questioned possible recruiting violations at other county and area schools. No one's been found guilty and everything has been above ground, but all you have to do is look who fills out the county rosters and compare them to where the same kids were in different situations in different years.

Over the past three years alone, there have been howls of recruiting violations from coaches in almost every sport in Seminole County. Are their protests fair?

Who knows. Everything seems to be at least partly above the table and on the level.

But when does high school sports take the same ugly turn that college sports did when it was determined there was money to be made?

Did you know that a bubble gum card company is now selling a high school all-star set?

Or that every week, local television stations air high school games of the week? That some schools have their game broadcast over the radio each week?

There's nothing wrong with that. It's a great way to publicize something that's good about high schools.

But when does it go too far? Are high schoolers playing for television cameras or college scholarships? When does the need to win go too far?

The FHAA came down hard on Miami, citing the school as flagrantly violating the rules concerning recruiting.

But not only are the legitimate kids who play for Miami penalized, so are high schoolers from all over Florida.

Anytime someone transfers from one school to another, and the rules are certainly lenient, especially with the reconstruction of Lake Brantley, the new Winter Springs High School and the Seminole Health Academy making it easy to transfer between schools.

Everybody remembers the controversy surrounding a Lake Mary athlete who transferred out of school just prior to the first day of football practice, then transferred back immediately following the completion of the regular season.

Now other coaches are saying that their programs are being raided by schools within Please see J&E, Page 2B

Team TPS sent 11 batters to the plate in the top of the first inning and hit five home runs and two triples to account for eight runs and went on to a 21-4, five-inning Run Rule victory over Reece Monuments.

Lighthouse/Worth came back from Thursday night's opening victory by downing Sierra, 27-12 in five innings, scoring 18 runs in the second inning.

Chase/Worth also won its second game, scoring 10 runs in the bottom of the first inning and withstanding a 10-run seventh inning by Sunbelt to survive, 26-24.

In Loeer's Bracket games, Backstop ousted Planet Softball, 13-8; Reece Monuments crushed Xtreme, 11-3; and Sierra outlasted Backstop 37-35.

The tournament will continue with seven more games today (Saturday), including the Winner's Bracket final (between the last two unbeaten teams) at 7 p.m. and a big Loeer's Bracket game at 9 p.m.

The tourney is scheduled to wrap-up Sunday morning with the Loeer's Bracket final at 9 a.m. and the Championship game at 11 a.m.

In highlights from Friday's games:

• Ron Hughes, Dennis Pierce and Dallas Buge hit two runs each as Steele's Hitmen edged Backstop.

Backstop had Steele's on the ropes, scoring seven runs in the top of the third inning to build an 11-5 lead.

But the Hitmen hit six home runs, including four in a row, to score 10 runs in the fourth inning to take the lead.

Backstop came back to tie the game at 15-15, but Steele's scored three runs in the sixth inning to take the lead for good.

Backstop scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning and had the tying run on first place, but a liner to short ended the game.

Todd Martin, DeWayne Nevitt (the 1997 ASA National Tournament Most Valuable Player) and J.C. Phelps hit back-to-back-to-back home runs in the first inning as Team TPS put on a show of power and defense.

Nevitt and winning pitcher Phil Jobe (from Miami), who gave up only four hits, hit two home runs each, while Martin finished the game 4-for-4 with a home run, a double, two runs scored and three RBI.

Orlando's Albert Davis hit two home runs and drove in six runs to help lead Lighthouse/Worth to its second win of the tournament.

Other leaders for Lighthouse were Scott Striebel, who finished 4-for-4 with a home run, a double and three RBI, and Robin Higginbotham, who went 3-for-4 with two home runs, a triple and five RBI.

Mark Weaver hit three home runs as Chase/Worth held off Sunbelt.

David Burch hit two home runs as Backstop eliminated Planet Softball.

Reece Monuments built a 7-0 lead after four innings and ousted Xtreme, 11-3.

The final game of the night was a barn-burner. Sierra scored at least three runs in every inning except the seventh, including an 11-run sixth, while Backstop scored 12 runs in the fifth inning, but was held scoreless in the second inning to fall short.

Darrell Beeler went 6-for-7 (including the cycle), hit two home runs (a grand slam and a three-run shot), a triple, a double, two singles and drove in nine runs to lead Sierra.

Hank Garrie went 7-for-7 with three home runs and drove in seven for the winner's

Sanford scored six runs in the top of the ninth inning to keep its hopes of repeating as Regional Champions alive.

Post 53 starting pitcher Josh Henton only gave up four hits and walked two, but East Ridge scored eight runs, only two earned, as the Sanford defense committed four errors.

Post 96 was not a whole lot better with the gloves, as it committed eight runs which led to 10 unearned runs.

Templeton came on in the fourth inning and gave up two runs on three hits over three innings before Lytle (who was the winning pitcher) hurled two shutout innings on one hit.

Frost then made his first appearance of the post-season, striking out two and walking one without allowing a hit in the ninth inning to earn the save.

Post 53 knows it will play in Sunday's semifinals no matter what happens in Saturday's game with Hartsville, Alabama Post 52 (44-7).

Hartsville also remained undefeated in Round Robin play, beating Americus (Ga.) Post 2, 8-3.

Sanford and Post 53 will both advance, with Saturday's winner playing at 1 p.m. and the loser playing at 7 p.m.

The Championship Game is set for 7:30 p.m. on Monday, with the regional winner going on to the American Legion World Series in Las Vegas.

In Group B action on Thursday, Charleston, South Carolina Recreation (28-4) stayed unbeaten, scoring two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to edge host Gallatin Post 17 (31-10), 9-5, while Hector Rosado tossed a three-hitter as Boynton, Puerto Rico Post 47 (29-8) stayed alive with a 3-1 victory over Cherryville, North Carolina Post 100 (35-18).

If Charleston wins on Saturday, they would advance as the Group winner, with Puerto Rico needing a win over Gallatin to advance.

But if Cherryville beats Charleston and Puerto Rico beats Gallatin, the two teams advancing would be decided by the least amount of runs allowed against each other, with Cherryville and Puerto Rico standing pretty good.

Providing the offense for Post 53 was Allague (2-for-6, home run, two runs, three RBI), Paulo Silva (2-for-3, double, four runs, two RBI), Frost and Troy Boushler (both 2-for-5 with two runs scored and one RBI) and Lytle (2-for-2).

Also contributing were Scott Williams (triple, run, RBI), Guy Erwin (double, run, Scott Farrell (single, run, two RBI) and Phillip Eubanks (three runs).

and from outside the jersey.

It's high school sports, that's all.

When a state tournament such as the FHSAA has to come down on a high schooler and tell him he or she is ineligible to compete in a state playoff game because of something a coach did, it's game two for.

In college or the pros, the player can choose their coach. In high school they can't.

Somebody needs to remember that.

Last Second Shot: So, the WNBA wants to unionize?

Quick, name five WNBA players or three WNBA teams by their complete names.

Can't do it, can you?

That's one league that can't afford a strike.

Seminole contingent.

The team went 6-3 in the double elimination tournament and had victories over the Shasta (Shastaville, Ala.), Boynton Beach Vipers, Miami Blast, Barks Loveston, Palm Beach Gateway and Central Florida Diamondsbacks.

The only losses in the championship came to the Caloosa Park Rangers and the Plantation Panthers.

The Diamonds were led by the pitching of Steve Robinson (Orlando), second baseman Blair Bodenheimer (Winter Garden) and the hitting of Mahoney, a multi-sport athlete.

The team was supported by Dot Richardson who traveled back to Central Florida from Los Angeles to conduct a week of clinics for the team before it headed for Jupiter and the tournament.

"She has trained several coaches in the area on how she fields her teams," said area softball coach and team parent Tom Mahoney. "She drills the kids day in and day out on fundamentals in softball."

For Dot's Diamonds, it was a big thrill leaving from one of the best ever.

"She constantly comes home and the kids all feel like they've become personally acquainted with her," Mahoney said.

Most of the players played together last season for a team that won the national championship for their age group.

Through Mahoney and Robinson's connections, they've been able to stock the team with some of the best players for their age group in the state.

The team practiced at Merril Park before the end of the high school season, then moved over to Dr. Phillips in Orlando. Assistant coach Kathi Bodenheimer is an assistant at Dr. Phillips so the team always had a guaranteed field.

Despite the geographic diversity of the team, Mahoney said the team meshed quickly.

"Our team got along so well," he said. "I've been with many teams and I've never seen one with so much team spirit."

TEAL TALK
By Jeff Berlinicke
Assistant Sports Editor

Battle at running back has added a third contender

JACKSONVILLE Talk in the Jaguars' camp all summer is about the battle for the number one spot at running back.

James Stewart, a four-year man and former first-round pick or 1988 first-rounder Fred Taylor, the local hero from the University of Florida.

Stewart or Taylor? Taylor or Stewart?

Look out for another contender for the job.

Rookie Tavian Banks, a third-rounder from the University of Iowa, won't start right away. Jacksonville coach Tom Coughlin envisions Banks as a third-down back, a Dave Meggett-type, who can provide the Jaguars with a much needed runner out of the backfield... something they've never had in their four years.

Banks can do more than that.

In camp, he has been one of the standouts and was many of the early conditioning contests. He is an all-purpose back who has great breakaway speed. Last season, the Jaguars' longest run from scrimmage was 33 yards.

In Friday's 24-10 pre-season win over the New York Giants, Banks went 68 yards and led the team in rushing for the night.

He gives quarterback Mark Brunell an option he hasn't had and may crowd Stewart out of some serious playing time.

Banks has also become a favorite of Coughlin with his work ethic and his speed. He's a Coughlin-type player with an added dimension.

JAGUAR NOTES:

Thursday, the Jaguars added some much-needed depth to the front line with the signing of free-agent defensive end Fernando Smith. Smith spent last season with Minnesota and is expected to spell starters Reynaldo Wynn and Tony Strickland... Center Michael Croover is probably out for the season... the starting job up for grabs. Center Dave Wilk left as a free-agent for Atlanta... Jacksonville brought in troubled former Chicago lineman Alonzo Spivey as a try-out last week and he didn't last the day. Spivey missed two flights to Jacksonville and showed up unannounced. Not exactly a Coughlin-type... in case you haven't noticed, Sports Illustrated picks the Jaguars over Tampa Bay in the Super Bowl.

BUCS' BITS

Offensive woes leave Buccaneers coaches looking for solutions

TAMPA What started out as a great pre-season has suddenly turned into a disaster.

It only took one short week for Tampa Bay to revert back to the team of old, quickly turning an undisciplined pre-season record into 1-3 in only six short days.

Want to take a shot at naming the problem? That's right... offense.

Plagued by missed blocks, bad routes, dropped passes and a slew of penalties, the Bucs' offense appeared to be floundering in circles during their 14-13 loss on Thursday night to the Miami Dolphins.

With only 11 days to iron things out, Tampa Bay coach Tony Dungy said that while he wasn't exactly sure what the problem was stemming from, the solution would be to start playing these in the line-up who wouldn't get penalties or make mistakes.

This is the second week that the defense has kept the Bucs in the game despite the problems with the offensive unit as a whole.

Last Sunday's (1-13) loss to the Kansas City Chiefs was just as horrible to watch. Had backup quarterback contender and three-year veteran Scott Milanovich not hit the end zone with a bomb, the Bucs' presence in the Chief's stadium may have gone unnoticed.

In fact, Milanovich's play thus far may actually earn him the backup spot over Steve Walsh.

Back to the offense as a whole... The Bucs' starting line-up had only 54 plays Thursday in the first half with only four first downs (one on a penalty) and 10 total yards. Running back Walter Green rushed 15 63 of those yards on nine carries.

While Dolphin quarterback Dan Marino completed five-of-five in the first drive, culminating in a field goal, Diller was missing on his first sight attempt.

The timing with the receivers will come, but perhaps more important is the fact that Diller has made some poor decisions this pre-season and is holding on to the ball too long.

Diller has been getting most of the reps in practice against a scout-team defense and should have been better prepared for the Dolphins.

There is definitely a problem in the offense. Exactly what that problem is remains to be revealed. But time is running out fast.

NOTES:

The Bucs had a scare late in the fourth quarter of Thursday's game when running back Keith Abraham suffered a concussion after taking a vicious hit and was taken off the field on a stretcher.

Abraham, a rookie free agent out of Lehigh who has shown promise during the pre-season, was hit hardest by Miami Dolphins linebacker Dwight Hollister on an incomplete pass.

After the game, Abraham was walking around the locker room wearing a neck brace and not remembering much.

The NFL is experimenting with instant replay during the pre-season, using a stadium camera which is connected to the officials to review a play.

Bucs coach Tony Dungy used a challenge on the play in which Abraham was hit, when the officials initially ruled a reception and fumble that was recovered by the Dolphins.

After a review on the sideline, however, the referee upheld the challenge and ruled the play an incomplete pass.

Former Florida Gator wide receiver Jacques Green found the endzone for the first time in his NFL career on Thursday. Green took it upon himself midway through the second quarter to provide some spark for the Bucs when he returned a punt for an 81-yard touchdown.

Unfortunately, Diller made safety Danton Robinson was called for holding, nullifying the touchdown.

Dancing her way to new club

Special to the Herald

ORANGE CITY - Nancy Poe of Lake Mary can usually be found in a dance studio surrounded by little girls and boys in dance attire.

The clamor of taps, squeals and "Miss Nancy, watch this!" are some of her favorite sounds.

She has spent the last 10 years teaching tap, ballet, jazz, lyrical, acro, modeling and baton to students in the Lake Mary and surrounding areas. Now she is relocating her talents to a gymnastics and dance academy called "The Fit Club" in Orange City.

"I am so excited to make the move to such a professional and positive atmosphere," said Poe. "This is an opportunity to further my career, grow, and realize my teaching potential." She is hoping to see some of her previous students and of course, many new ones.

"Miss Nancy" was born in Alabama and moved to Central Florida when she was 12. She is a graduate of Lake Brantley High School, where she was head majorette, and also graduated from Seminole Community College. She is a former "three-time" National Baton Champion. Poe has also served as the choreographer for the UCF Flag and Baton Corps and was a featured solo twirler in the Super Bowl. She is nationally licensed to teach baton through the United States Twirling Association.

She also furthered her teaching career by becoming nationally licensed and certified by test through Dance Educators of America and is currently a member. She continues her dance education through annual workshops and conventions. She has studied under renown choreographers such as Frank Hatchett, Sonny Leo, Rob Schultz, Debbie Dee, Wade Robinson and Eddie Garcia.

Speaking of choreography, Poe has choreographed dances for jazz, tap, lyrical, ballet, baton and acro for recitals, shows and competitions. Her junior and senior competition teams have won her "Top Teacher Awards" in both dance and modeling and numerous first place and Top Ten Overall Awards.

In addition to all of her dance, she has been married to Michael Poe for seven years and has two sons, Robert, 3 years old and Charles, 6 weeks old. "Michael is great with the children while I am teaching. I couldn't do it without him." Michael is also a former dance teacher and competed with Nancy in modified ballroom dance.

The Fit Club, Nancy's new place of employment, is owned and operated by Todd Ellis. The 11,000-square-foot facility houses a state-of-the-art academy with gymnastic equipment and dance facility. It offers recreational, competitive and show gymnastics. Coaches Kevin Ellis, two-time Olympian Hana Ricna Heasen and Husband Loren train pre-team through optional to elite level gymnasts. All kinds of dance from pre-ballet through adult tap are offered along with karate instructed by Grand Master Neal Hummerstone. Cheerleading classes that include tumbling and jumps are also available.

Poe is the artistic director of the dance department. The Fit Club is located in Orange City, just 15 minutes from the Lake Mary area.

Although the city of Lake Mary was celebrating the anniversary of its incorporation, a quarter century in the 20th century, the entertainment was a mix of old and new. The Lake Mary High School Madrigals, led by Choral Director Alice Nilsen and accompanied by Laurel Elmore, opened the official ceremony at the amphitheater in Central Park Dressed in garb from the Middle Ages, the Madrigals sang contemporary patriotic songs, 'I Hear America Singing,' and 'God Bless America'.

Contestant search

ORLANDO - Nickelodeon is seeking kid contestants for the hit comedy game show, Figure It Out. The series combines the style of classic game shows from television's golden era with the network's own trademark meanness.

A panel of Nickelodeon stars and special guest celebrities team up to figure out the contestant's particular talent or accomplishment. The longer it takes the panelists to guess the kid's abilities, the more prizes the contestant receives.

From now until Aug. 26 kids with utterly amazing talents, off-the-wall inventions or really hooky collections can call the Contestant Hotline at (407) 224-7515.

Notice of Change of Land Use
The City of Sanford proposes to update the Future Land Use Plan Map of the Comprehensive Plan. Approximately fifty specific changes are being proposed, the vast majority of which are the result of annexed lands being added to the city limits at the request of the owners. These annexed lands must be specifically amended into the City's Plan in order for the City to exercise complete planning and zoning authority upon such lands. An additional proposed change involves a proposed hotel and conference center to be located at Ft. Mellon Park. Further, the Future Land Use Plan Map is proposed to be changed from a hand-drafted format to a digital, parcel-based format.

Interested parties may appear at the meeting and be heard regarding the transmittal of the proposed plan amendment to the City Commission. Interested persons may also submit written comments.

The proposed Future Land Use Plan Map amendment to the Comprehensive Plan can be inspected by the public at the Department of Engineering and Planning Office, Second Floor, Sanford City Hall, 500 N. Park Avenue, Sanford, Florida.

All parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard at said hearing.

ADVICE TO THE PUBLIC: If a person decides to appeal a decision made with respect to any matter considered at the above meeting or hearing, he/she may need a verbatim record of the proceedings including the testimony and evidence, which record is not provided by the City of Sanford. (FS 286.0105)

ASTRO-GRAPH

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, Aug. 16, 1998

Intimate friends have always been important to you, but this could be even more true in the year ahead. Many opportunities and adventures might come your way through close pals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Group interactions could work out well for you today, especially if they're of a social nature. Mingle with the masses instead of being a lone eagle. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not be intimidated by competitive developments today. You have reserves that those who oppose you do not.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your ability to gain knowledge is keener than usual today, especially that learned through personal experiences. What you learn will be put to constructive use.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Luck and circumstance might fit you into favorable positions today. Enter when opportunity beckons.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your strongest chances for success today could come from arrangements where you work with another for a common cause.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though your reasons for helping others won't be selfishly motivated, you are still apt to get more from the recipients than you give them today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Let affairs of the heart take priority over other conditions today. Try to plan something special in a romantic setting for you and your one-and-only.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Put it to your opponent

By Phillip Alder

BRIDGE
PHILLIP ALDER

Some experts are known as tough opponents. Whether in the bidding, on defense, or as declarer, they find moves to make life as difficult as possible for their opponents.

On this deal from the 1961 Bermuda Bowl, Peter Leventritt made an excellent defensive play against France. If you wish to test your toughness rating, cover the West and South hands. Defending against six spades, your partner leads the diamond four: five, ace, eight. What next?

Even if you don't normally use weak jump overcalls (you should!), you must after an opponent's two-over-one response. As they have the balance of points, try to disrupt them.

If West has jack-third or 10-fourth of spades and king-third of diamonds, the winning return is a diamond. Declarer will be forced to ruff in the dummy, and West's trump holding will be promoted to a trick. But is that possible? No — South needs the diamond king for his opening bid.

Instead, Leventritt switched to a low heart. This put South on the spot. To make the slam, declarer would have to play low, but that line looked silly. All South needed was reasonable breaks in the black suits. So, he won with the heart ace and cashed dummy's top spades, getting the bad news. Now declarer was stranded in the dummy with no way back to his hand except in clubs. Yet if he returned that way, he couldn't enjoy the rest of the clubs. He played off four rounds of

A quest for vision New company wants children to see, learn

By Joana Hughes
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - There is a new business in town, but its positive economic impact may not be felt for a few years to come.

On the other hand, the real life benefits are obvious every day to the hundreds of school children whose outlook on life has been made a little clearer thanks to the work of VisionQuest.

The new Jeppesen VisionQuest optical lab is doing a booming business. Not content to quietly enjoy their free time, Richard, an accountant, and Nancy Jeppesen, a physical therapist, saw retirement as an opportunity to do something productive for society.

"We wanted to positively impact a child," explains Nancy. "We wanted something doable. If a child can't see clearly they can't read and if they can't read they can't get an education, they can't graduate."

VisionQuest put its new lab to the test recently when it participated in a Back To School Fair at Sanford Middle School. With the help of 23 volunteers 950 eligible students were given vision screenings and 91 eye exams were performed.

One child was referred to an ophthalmologist. By utilizing the new lab facility 48 students received the glasses they needed that same day, just in time to start school with a new look.

And look is an important in outlook for the Jeppesens. "Self-esteem is where it's at," said Richard. Thanks to donations, VisionQuest is able to offer the children a choice of the latest styles in frames and shatterproof lenses. "The kids deserve a proper prescription and frames that fit their faces," commented Nancy. "They need to have glasses they're not embarrassed to wear."

The Jeppesens began by contacting Pearle Vision with their idea and the response was overwhelming. Pearle donated all of the exam equipment, frames and lenses necessary to go into the field and provide glasses to visually impaired individuals.

With the purchase of a plane, the Jeppesens were equipped to take their mission to countries less developed than the United States. They had even acquired a generator that runs on jet fuel for use in the field. The only thing left was to do a field test here first to make sure they were properly prepared.

Using the migrant camps in Apopka as a testing ground the Jeppesens took their equipment and volunteers into the field. What they were not prepared for was the realization of the number of children and adults right in their own backyard in need of corrective lenses, but without the resources to get them.

From there the Jeppesens participated with Stetson University in a program involving high school age children of migrant workers. Stetson's program was designed to try to catch up the education of these children. VisionQuest provided vision exams and the needed glasses for the students. A shocking 47 percent needed glasses.

"We didn't think there was a need in America," said Richard. "Now all our efforts are focused on our own (American) kids."

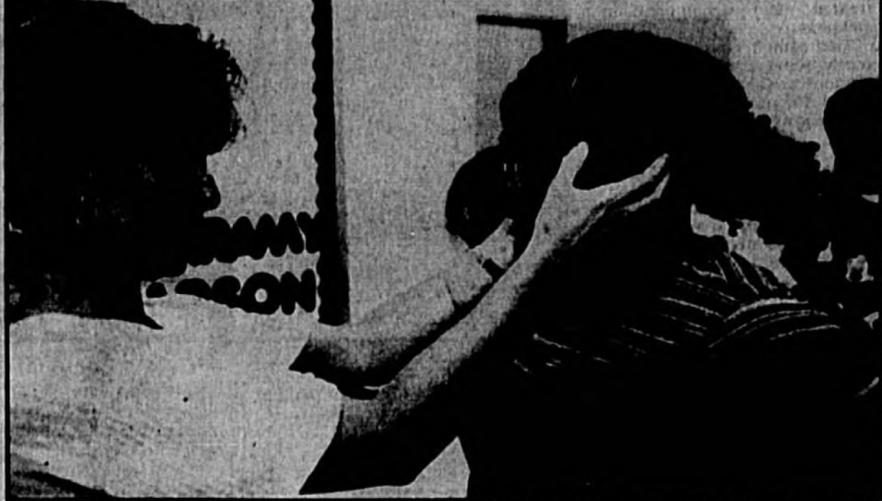

According to Nancy, one in four children are born with vision problems, one in six serious enough to affect learning, and one in four children in Florida live below the poverty line.

The next challenge was to identify children in low income families in need of glasses. The Jeppesens turned to the schools. Programs were already in place through the school systems to do vision screenings. Through school counselors students in the Free or Reduced Lunch Program in need of follow up vision care could be referred to VisionQuest.

With the school screenings, notes are sent home if a follow-up exam is necessary. In homes where finances are already a problem these notes may be disregarded. As Nancy points out, if it's a choice between groceries for the family or glasses for one child, what is a parent to do? And many times the child is not complaining. After all they have seen poorly all their lives and may not realize it can be any different.

The Jeppesens contacted the Central Florida Optometric Association for local optometrists willing to do exams in their offices free of charge for the eligible children. Doctors, too numerous to name but without whom the program would not exist, willingly came forward to help.

Sharon Everett (above, left), a volunteer with VisionQuest, fits Richard Smith, a student who attended the Back-to-School fair at Sanford Middle

It disturbed the Jeppesens that there were still some eligible children VisionQuest could not provide glasses for, so they sought more help. It arrived in the form of pallets of lenses from companies like Pearle Vision and Sola, and frames from Wellington International.

Being an accountant, Richard is acutely aware of the dollar amount the program makes. A good education will increase the individual's employment possibilities. "How many will become tax makers instead of tax takers," adds Richard.

"These students are intelligent. They have talent and ability. We give them the chance." Many of the students will avoid being discipline problems, dropouts and potential criminals. Society will benefit from the great gifts these children possess.

A high school student considering dropping out was able to bring up his grades, graduate and work for Sears in the maintenance department. He has plans to attend Valencia Community College.

Statistics the Jeppesens have collected indicate the program is a total success. Nancy can quote figures such as 76 percent of the children receiving glasses raised their reading or math grades a minimum of one letter grade within a short period of time and teachers report an improved attitude towards school work and better behavior from the students.

The real rewards of the program are the kind you can't calculate on paper. The Jeppesens have recorded them in their hearts and in the memories of children who begin the exam process solemnly and end it with smiles and amazement at all the details of the world around them that they simply could not see before. One young man with very poor vision was wearing broken glasses held together with rubber bands. His family did not have the money to replace them. Along with his new glasses, a smile has now become part of his daily attire.

The program was expanded from Orange County to Seminole County and now, with the help of a state grant the program, going into its fourth year, has expanded to 10 counties. VisionQuest holds a

Hyperbaric chambers used in wound treatment at Central Florida Regional

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

SANFORD - Remember Lloyd Bridges, on the television show Sea Quest, or even David Hasselhoff on Baywatch?

Both of these programs deal with diving and both of these actors have spent time in hyperbaric chambers, being treated for decompression sickness.

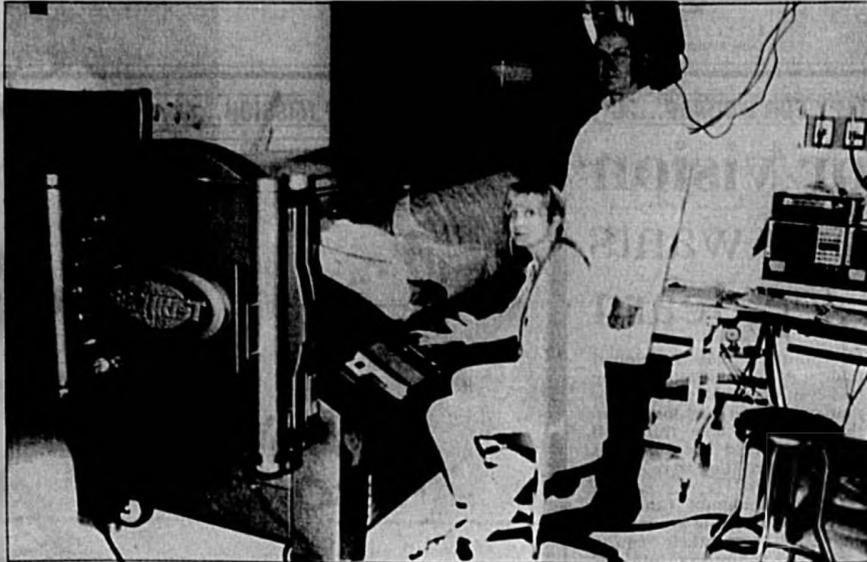

That same technology is currently being used right here in Sanford at Central Florida Regional Hospital, but in different ways than you would think.

The hospital is celebrating its first year of offering hyperbaric oxygen therapy to the Central Florida area. The unit opened last August.

Initially used to treat the "bends" divers experience after nitrogen bubbles enter the blood stream, hyperbaric oxygen therapy (HBO, for short; not to be confused with Home Box Office, according to Russel K. Shaw, M.D.) has been expanded to treat a number of other illnesses and conditions associated with healing chronic wounds.

HBO delivers 100 percent oxygen in a single patient acrylic chamber at two atmospheres, similar to being under water.

Shaw, a general surgeon who has been with the hospital for more than 25 years, said the pressurized cylinder allows oxygen to enter the bloodstream at hundreds of times the normal concentration, creating the perfect conditions for angiogenesis, or growth of new capillaries.

Increased blood supply to a wound means tissue will grow better, hastening the healing process.

"You can actually see the difference in healing," said Shaw, who has expanded his practice to incorporate wound care and HBO therapy.

Shaw said diabetes patients, who often have problems with healing wounds and poor circulation in their feet, are prime candidates for HBO therapy.

In a case where a diabetes patient has had to have a toe or foot amputated, HBO therapy is often used to aid in the healing process, beyond the wound care procedures in current use.

"You tie the three together," Shaw said, surgery, HBO therapy and wound care. "This offers one more way to getting that little edge. Some times that's all you need to get someone over the hump to healing."

There are 14 conditions that Medicare approves for treatment, said Shaw. These include burns, crush injuries, carbon monoxide poisoning, gas gangrene, bone infections and gas embolisms. Some private insurance companies also cover the treatment of smoke inhalation and brown recluse spider bites. Shaw said there is protocol treatment of decompression, but the hospital has yet to use the chambers to treat divers.

One of the most exciting uses is not yet approved, and Shaw said it could be before heart attack patients will benefit from HBO therapy. Shaw said Duke University is doing research on treating heart attack patients prior to surgery. He said the HBO therapy decrease the tissue loss caused by a heart attack. Shaw thinks that HBO therapy will be standard treatment in five to 10 years.

While HBO therapy does not work in all cases, CFRH has had great success with the program.

Patients undergo anywhere from 10 to 60 hours of HBO therapy, five days a week, for an average of 90 minutes per session. The chambers are equipped with numerous monitoring devices and patients may sleep, read or watch television or videos during the treatment. Most are treated on an outpatient basis.

There is little discomfort in the treatment, Shaw said. Mostly, patients complain of the pressure to the eardrum, similar to flying, or diving. Shaw said in extreme cases, an ear, nose and throat surgeon will install small tubes in the patient's ears. Then they go 'down' fine."

Jo Ellen Lyle, R.N., clinical coordinator for the Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy unit at Central Florida Regional Hospital, and Russel K. Shaw, M.D., monitor a patient under going therapy in a hyperbaric chamber.

Operations once spread over several locations have been combined at the new lab. With the joint resources of grants and donations the new facility has offices and warehouse storage and, best of all, the state-of-the-art computer operated machinery necessary for producing the glasses on site. The Jeppesens thank companies including AT&T, NationsBank and SunTrust to name only a few. Grant money has allowed the Jeppesens to hire a minimal staff for record keeping and two opticians. They are still in need of the funds to hire a secretary.

The plane, by the way, is for sale. In the mean time it is available for other uses. VisionQuest could work in conjunction with religious organizations to provide vision services in the field.

Jeppesen VisionQuest is a public nonprofit charity. The Jeppesens are grateful to the many companies and volunteers that have come forward to help in so many ways. As the program expands the Jeppesens foresee providing glasses for every child in need in the state of Florida, but the vision does not stop there. Nancy and Richard believe VisionQuest is a program that can work in every state and that no child in America should be denied a bright view of the future because of financial difficulties.

"It has brought us such joy," remarks Richard. "These children live in our community. They are part of our society." He encourages any company or individual looking for a hands on way to make a difference to join the Quest. "We have the vehicle, just climb aboard."

Mountain TOP Mission

Youths and their advisors of the First United Methodist Church in Sanford take one last look at Camp Overton in Tennessee where they spent more than a week as youth missionaries helping the impoverished Appalachian mountain folk repair and clean their dwellings as well as the countryside.

Youth missionaries descend the hills with joyful hearts

For 13 youths from the First United Methodist Church attending the summer Mountain TOP (Tennessee Outreach Project) at Rock Island, Tenn., the experience was "great, great, great," says Bruce Moser.

Annually, youths from around the nation visit this impoverished area as young missionaries to help the gentle Appalachian residents paint and repair their weather-beaten dwellings and clean up the rolling countryside.

The youths departed Sanford on the 10-day trip in two vans with one pulling a trailer filled with borrowed tools and supplies from the church congregation. They stopped and visited churches along the way and finally reached their destination eager to begin their missionary work.

Bruce said about 150 youths were in attendance and this assemblage was divided into groups of six, called Youth Renewal Groups (YRGs), each with a leader. The youths were assigned their jobs daily and "you get real, real close to the YRGs," Bruce said.

The happy campers left the camp site daily about 9 a.m. to go to their jobs and returned about 4:30 p.m. In the evening, they had dinner, a worship session, singing, games and sharing with the entire small communities participating. There were no televisions, radios nor air conditioning, but the young people didn't seem to notice. They were engrossed with each other. The youths also helped serve in the dining hall at their camp.

Sarah Pogram said it was hot up there but she didn't seem to miss the amenities of home too much. "It was great," she said.

The Friday before leaving for home, the youths gathered around a big camp fire under the stars with musical instruments and full hearts. Bruce said they took turns talking about themselves and the changes they experienced. "We didn't want to leave. You can't really explain the experience. It really changes you," he said. "You're really close to God up there."

Advisor Linda Howard said, "It was awesome!" The youths have already started making plans for next summer. "The whole package is the greatest experience of the whole year," Bruce said. In order to make the trip they hold fund-raisers during the year to help supplement the $300.00 per person cost.

Before leaving on their mission, the youths held a retreat at the home of Patricia and Lee Rowell with advisor Kathy Santos (who also attended Mountain TOP) leading the prep session. Upon returning the group held another retreat at the home of Mike Bedell, the third advisor who also attended the youth mission.

The retreat is like "coming down the mountain," Bruce said, "and bringing the mountain into the valley."

Local legend celebrates 75th birthday

It's not every day a person celebrates a 75th birthday. Vernon Fedderson's 75th birthday was on an historic weekend. On Friday, Aug. 7, the City of Lake Mary turned 25 years old and celebrated the anniversary with a big bash on Saturday, Aug. 8. Vern's party was Sunday, Aug. 9. This weekend was also the 25th anniversary of the Lake Mary Rotary Club.

Dozens of family and friends showed up to celebrate the occasion with Vern. They gave glowing testimonials, but they also told some funny and memorable stories about Vern. His daughter, Diane, said she learned "I wasn't good in my fishing with her father. He was 99 fishing lessons," she said, and the first 98 are rowing the boat.

Like many Floridians, Vern originally came from somewhere else. He was born in Center, Neb., but spent his formative years in Iowa. The son of a Lutheran teacher, Vern had seven brothers and sisters. In December 1940, at 17, he joined the Navy. He would spend the next 20 years in the Navy. He saw places like French Morocco and Beirut when it was still a beautiful city.

He was in the Heavy Attack squadron and not long before his retirement, he was transferred to Sanford. When he retired, he decided to stay. He moved to Lake Mary in 1963. His jobs after retiring included working at the post office, running Scholl's Fish Camp in Sanford and selling insurance.

His volunteer jobs have been numerous. Vern has been a member of the Lake Mary Rotary for 25 years. He received an award from Rotary for Outstanding Service for 1987-1988. He is also a Paul Harris Fellow in Rotary. In the 25 years Vern has been a member, he has never missed a meeting. That's 1,250 meetings.

The Lake Mary Rotary chartered the Community Improvement Association in 1976. Their goal, to build a community building for the organizations of the city. Vern joined the CIA in its infancy and has been with it for 22 years. He managed the Community Building from 1985 until 1990. The CIA honored Vern with the Harry Terry Award for 1987. Vern has served as the President of Rotary and of the CIA.

Vern was also on the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce for many years. In 1991, he was named Citizen of the Year by the Chamber.

In addition to his outstanding service as a volunteer, Vern has also been a wonderful husband, a fine father and an
