

Army, Navy, Penn State 'Up' Again

EDITORS: This is the first of eight dispatches on college football prospects.

By STEVE SWIDER
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Army, Navy and Penn State — not necessarily in that order — are favored to win the East in college football this fall.

Army has the backs. Navy has the depth and Penn State has a little bit of everything needed to go all the way with one slight reservation. The only rap the expert can pin on Penn State this early is "lack of team speed" and that may or may not be significant.

Princeton is the choice over Dartmouth in the Ivy League. Rutgers, which employs an exact scale model of Princeton's single wing system, looks like the class of the Middle Atlantic Conference. William is the power in the Little Three, Rhode Island and Connecticut in the Yankee Conference.

But among the major independents, where the true strength of the area lies, the two service academies and Penn State have the stuff to catch the eye of early season forecasters over Syracuse, Holy Cross, Pittsburgh and Boston College.

Issues In Line

It's highly possible the colorful Army-Navy game at Philadelphia on Nov. 22 will carry with it the championship of the East, though both had graduation losses that hurt.

Navy, last year's Eastern champion, lost a sizeable chunk of its "jitterbugging" line and all first string backs except crashing Ray Wellborn. But the Middles, while protesting this is a "rebuilding year," have a tough nucleus as well as reserves.

Army again is thin in reserves, particularly in the line, but also has the finest one — two, punch anywhere in All-America Bob Anderson, up for his second season, and senior halfback Pete Dawkins. Coach Red Blain will go with untried quarterback Joe Caldwell, a gamble but not exactly a new thing up at West Point.

Despite line losses, Navy is expected to put up a sturdy forward wall led by All-America tackle Bob Reiffnyder as the major question lies in the back field.

Play of Q Backs

Tom Fortescue, a dandy passer, is among the missing, which puts young Joe Tranchesi on the spot at quarterback. But Joe did well against Army and against Rice in the Cotton Bowl. For ball-toters, Eddie Erdelatz had Dick Dagampat, Roland Brandquist and Dick Zembruski along with Weill torn.

Penn State, with a re-shuffled but experienced line, puts its high hope on the best group of quarterbacks on any squad in the East. Coach Rip Edge has not one, two or three but four able signal callers and that's real dream stuff. His veterans are Al Jacki, Richie Lucas and Bob Herber. Add to them sophomore Dick Hook and there's depth aplenty for any emergency.

At Syracuse, veteran quarterback Chuck Zimmerman is the 57 man in an outfit well-fixed with returning starters among 18 lettermen — everywhere but at the ends.

May Be Tough

Holy Cross, with perhaps the East's stoutest T-quarterback in Tom Greene, is handicapped by lack of spring practice but Greene will operate behind a fine line led by guard Jim Healey. The Crusaders figure to be rough to handle.

Pittsburgh has a pair of fine quarterbacks in Bill Kaldeen and

Steelworkers Blast Anti-Labor Move

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — The United Steelworkers of America opened its convention today with a call to arms from its officers who warned anti-labor forces are out to destroy the union by turning its own members against it.

The biting tone of the report reflected the growing tension between the union and the steel industry which must reach an agreement on a new contract in about eight months.

The report suggested the 1,250,000-member union may be squaring off for a bitter battle with the steel industry next year when its current three-year contract expires.

In a report presented at the opening session of the five-day gathering, the officers said the future of the union was "seriously menaced" by an all-out attack on labor and a reversion which may have been "man-made" to strike a blow at unionism.

The report also defended the increase in dues two years ago which lashed off a revolt that for a time threatened the leadership of president David J. McDonald.

The emphasis on unity also suggested concern about some of the buckering that has plagued the higher echelon of the giant steel union.

"In two short years since the last convention in Los Angeles, horizons have darkened to a point where our very future is seriously menaced," the report said.

It charged the labor movement was the target of an all-out drive designed to force unions to accept sub-standard contracts in future negotiations.

It cited particularly what it termed "one old foe of unionism" — the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Ivan Tomiak but, with a back-breaking schedule, may be a year away from big things.

In the Ivy League, Princeton had losses in the line and at quarterback where three-year starter John Sepock left a big hole. However, the Tigers apparently have found an able quarterback replacement in Dean Lock and an inspirational tailback in Danny Sachs to push the wing advances. Also returning is fullback Fred Tyle to provide that vitally needed up-the-middle power.

This Is Talent

Bill Guody replaces Dartmouth's graduated passer, Dave Bradley. He did well on occasion last season and if coach Bob Blackman can repair his reserve strength the Big Green rates close to Princeton.

Yale is pressing a search for a quarterback to replace the graduated Dick Winerbauer and the prospects aren't bright enough to make Yale a major contender — so far. Pennsylvania has the experience it lacked in recent years and could go if Steve Sebn finds a passer. Brown, Harvard and Columbia are believed to be in this in first-class talent but Cornell, with a good line coming up, has hopes of starting the climb back toward the top.

Adage Put To Test

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Does an apple a day really keep the doctor away? Michigan State University hopes to find out. It is completing the second year of a four-year experiment with 400 students, some of whom have been eating three apples a day. The University reports "encouraging" results so far.

Nationalists Want Mainland Bombed

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Premier Chen Cheng told the nation today the war in the Formosa Strait will spread to the Chinese mainland if the Communist blockade of the Quemoy Islands is not broken soon.

21 Victims Found In Sunken Train; Toll Yet Unknown

BAYONNE, N. J. (UPI) — The head car of the Jersey Central Railroad train that plunged through an open drawbridge Monday was raised from the bottom of Newark Bay at 11:28 a. m. today, bearing on its badly smashed roof the body of a man.

its adjacent islands be besieged without taking effective methods for their reinforcement," Chen said.

The National Assembly adopted a resolution Monday requesting the United States and Nationalist armed forces to "take immediate and effective measures of bombing the mainland coastal areas and thoroughly destroy the Communist gun positions."

Demands Increase For Outlawing Of Communist Party

PARIS (UPI) — The French government was under strong pressure today to outlaw the Communist Party.

Interior Minister Emile Pelletier hinted at a move to ban the latest Red party in Western Europe after the unsuccessful attempt on the life of Information Minister Jacques Soustelle by Algerian terrorists Monday.

Pelletier accused the Communists of aiding the Algerian nationalist movement and charged the Communist newspaper, L'Humanite, with the guilty of "collusion" with the nationalists who want independence from France.

Rightwing political leaders prepared to renew demands the party, which won one-fourth of the votes in the last parliamentary election in 1956, be outlawed.

The attack on Soustelle and new coalition will permit the government to outlaw the party.

Soustelle, an advocate of stiff repressive measures against the Algerian rebels when he was governor - general, was cut on the face by flying glass when Algerian gunmen opened fire on his limousine.

Two of the attackers were killed after one of them shot and killed a passerby. One of the Algerians and four passerby were wounded in the gunplay.

To Meet Tonight

Members of the Farm Bureau and their families will meet at 7 o'clock tonight for a covered dish supper at the vocational agriculture building at Seminole High School.

Speaker will be Charles Chalmers, county forester. He will discuss the services of his office. All members and interested parties are invited to attend.

Russia Starts Campaign To Seat Red China Again

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — The Soviet Union launched a determined campaign today to seat Communist China in the 13th U. N. General Assembly session opening this afternoon. It hinted strongly it would bring up the Quemoy crisis as well.

The official Communist Party organ Pravda and the Soviet government organ Izvestia today printed twin demands the United Nations "expel the political corpse" of Nationalist China and seat Red China, Moscow dispatches reported.

Vanguard Spews, Refuses To Rise

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Vanguard bearing a 26-inch artificial satellite that might revolutionize weather forecasting if it could get into orbit, did not appear to get off the ground since the rocket for a few seconds. But it never left the ground and minutes later the launching was called off.

At first the navy announced it would push the countdown back and try again, but 15 minutes later it was announced the attempt had been "scrubbed."

There was no explanation of the first time the Vanguard had failed to get off the ground since the spectacular blowup of Vanguard 1 on Dec. 6. There did not appear to be any damage to the 12-foot rocket.

Today's scheduled firing was believed a last-chance effort for the Vanguard, which has been successful only once in six launching attempts. The Navy has plans for firing five more Vanguard's in the International Geophysical Year program, but informed sources said congressional pressure is mounting against the rocket.

Inside the new Vanguard's nose was a 21.5 - pound artificial moon that might revolutionize weather forecasting if it could get into orbit.

Apparently the only irregularity in the launching effort was the failure of the liquid oxygen vent near the top of the rocket to close. Liquid oxygen was still streaming out when flames and smoke spewed from the base.

If the new satellite could be hurled into orbit, it would become the first American moon that could be seen by a backyard star - watcher. The Navy said the third stage of the Vanguard, which would follow the satellite into orbit, would look like a dim star and "might be observed with a good pair of binoculars."

Integration At-A-Glance

Officials today pondered the problem of educating hundreds of southern public school students now on an enforced vacation because of the integration crisis.

The Charlottesville, Va., school board today files petitions in the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals for a delay in the integration of two schools whose opening has been postponed until next Monday.

In Little Rock, Ark., a total of 129 pupils have been sent home from four high schools, ordered closed by Gov. Orval Faubus. Delayed opening of a high school and an elementary school at Charlottesville has turned a total of 1,850 students out of class.

Florida Expecting No Trouble Due To Negro's Admission

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The first Negro to enter an all-white Florida school began his second day of registration without incident today, and University of Florida officials predicted his presence would be accepted "with common sense and good taste."

George Henry Starke Jr. of Orlando, a 27-year-old Air Force veteran, signed up as a freshman law student Monday. Most white students paid little attention to him.

School state officials and Negro leaders watched closely, however, for any hint of racial disturbance. Apparently there was none.

Dr. J. Wayne Britt, university president, said he was convinced that Starke is a "serious minded student interested in obtaining a legal education."

"We are sure the student body and faculty will handle the matter with common sense and good taste. We are not expecting any outward incidents, our students are mature and understand their responsibilities."

State officials accused Starke's registration calmly. Negro leaders hailed it as a sign that Florida can bypass the turmoil and strife that integration has encountered in other Southern states.

Even one of the state's most outspoken segregationists, Ku Klux Klan leader Bill Hendrix of Odessa, said integration at the college level is not as bad as integration in public schools.

Pep Rally Tonight At Grid Stadium; Scrimmage Slated

The Seminole Boosters Club is sponsoring a big pep rally tonight at the stadium to kick off the 1958 football season.

The event is scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock Jim Pizott will introduce the variety squad to the public for the first time, then he will read his charges through various drills. The first and second units will play a 15 minute scrimmage game. This will give the public the first look at football this season.

The band, pep club and cheerleaders will be on hand to lead the student body in cheers in honor of the Seminoles.

Class Cancelled

The ceramics class scheduled tonight at the recreation center has been cancelled. Classes will be held Wednesday and Thursday of this week only from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Budget Gets Ax; Service To Be Curtailed Sharply

The City Commission last night voted a two-mill tax increase on Sanford residents in an attempt to balance the budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The vote was unanimous and came after a four-hour fund-cutting session which curtailed activities of every city department for the next 12 months. Commission action raised general government revenues from nine to 11 mills.

Commissioners expressed reluctance to make any changes in the present tax structure, but after slashing some $32,000 from the revised budget, "absolutely essential" expenditures were about $60,000 more than anticipated revenue.

Based on revenue for this fiscal year, the city expects a drop of some $35,000 in money for next year. Warren E. (Pete) Knowles, city manager, said this is a "leveling off" period for municipal revenues, which hit a peak about two years ago.

Impasse Continues At Little Rock As Judge Leaves Town

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The Justice Department failed today to make any move to break the integration impasse and a U. S. district judge said the prospects for immediate federal action are so dim he is leaving Little Rock.

"There is no emergency down here," Judge John E. Miller said. "We will just have to let nature take its course."

"I think haste sometimes creates more trouble than it remedies. That's just my own country idea."

Judge Miller, who handed down the original Little Rock desegregation order three years ago, said he is leaving shortly for his home at Fort Smith.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who ordered Little Rock's four schools closed Monday, apparently had nothing immediate in mind, either.

The schools entered their second day of gubernatorial closure with complete order today.

There were even fewer students around than Monday, because the school board banned all extracurricular activities, such as football, hand practice and pep squad meetings, until the closure problem is solved.

Two white boys ordered Johnny Gray, 15, and his sister Mary, 13, who are Negroes, to get off the sidewalk near Central High School today. Johnny chased the white boys off with his fist.

The Gray children were on their way to a junior high school. The white boys said they were from a junior high.

City Services Uncertain After Budget Reductions

Despite the two-mill tax increase voted last night by the Sanford City Commission, the budget for the next fiscal year is so low that we can't say specifically what the city can do," City Manager Warren (Pete) Knowles said.

In pleading against elimination of many projects, Knowles said "Improvements cost money. If the people don't want to pay, we can't give them what they want. We can give them what the nearest thing to what they want with the money we have available. A dollar will stretch just as far."

U.S., China See 'Peace' Proposals

WARSAW (UPI) — The United States and Communist China today considered each other's "substantive" proposals for peace in the Formosa Strait.

U. S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan met Monday for nearly three hours to trade terms for silencing guns on the Communist mainland and on Nationalist-held Quemoy.

Although it was their first meeting, the ambassadors got down to "substantive" proposals, a high Western source said. They will meet again Thursday.

Their task was not to achieve a final solution to the problem of the two Chinas but to spike the guns which threatened to set the entire Far East ablaze.

Both Wang — who attended 23 previous meetings in Geneva — and Beam appeared calm and slightly cheerful when they left the conference table. Neither was willing to give out any details.

Deposited In Jail

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — A few minutes after Mrs. Mabel Hajek of the Middletown Savings Bank finished reading a notice to be on the lookout for John Olson, an actual check-book arlist, in walked Olson asking to open an account.

Mrs. Hajek had another work or call police, who arrested him.

Editorials

President Stressed Talks, Not Shooting

The most hopeful aspect of President Eisenhower's speech to the nation about the Far East crisis was the stress he placed on talks that may lead to a peaceful solution. This portion of his address was in line with a widespread public feeling that every possible avenue, short of appeasement, should be explored in an effort to keep the bombardment of Quemoy from expanding into a conflict between the United States and Communist China.

The President's talk was a sober analysis of a situation which, though it is as he said "by no means desperate or hopeless," has carried the United States closer to the brink of war than at any time since 1950. His remarks were expository and persuasive; there was no attempt at oratory of the sort that seeks to stampede listeners into acceptance of a position against their better judgment. That is good.

The address would have been even more satisfactory, however, had the chief executive said more to clarify the question of how far the Communist Chinese can go without provoking U. S. military counter-action. The President said little to ease the fear that failure to restrain Chiang Kai-shek sufficiently may get us into a shooting war against our will.

If Red China's shelling of Quemoy does indeed foreshadow an attempt to gain control of the Western Pacific, this country must stand firm. But the best hope lies in the administration's avowed belief "that diplomacy can and should find a way out."

Air Control Needed

The pilot on the first American jet airliner flight across the Atlantic the other day said that it was rather a slow flight. The average speed was a mere 525 miles per hour, though the plane did hit 610 at times.

The flight was slow — at an average of 525 miles per hour! Not very long ago, an airliner cruising speed of 400 was considered very fast. And not many years hence, chances are, passenger craft will fly faster than the speed of sound.

This, coupled with the fact that planes also are increasing in number as their speed rises, points up the need for much better air traffic control. The need was underscored, also, when the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Civil Aeronautics Administration got into a public argument about who was to blame for the collision of two planes that killed 47 persons near Las Vegas last April.

The need for a greatly improved system of control is apparent. The dispute between two government agencies hints at the divided responsibility that has prevented the best use of our present system. But this discussion can end on a positive note. Congress has authorized creation of a federal agency which will be responsible for over-all regulation of air traffic. The sooner it becomes functional, the better.

Unload That Rifle

Diligent search can turn up a moral in almost any news story. No search at all is needed to find the moral in the recent item about three North Dakota boys and an "unloaded" rifle.

Two small boys were riding together on a bicycle, on their way to a movie. Another boy, a 16-year-old who dreamed of hunting antelope with his new rifle, was sighting the gun on the doorknob of a building across the street from his home. He squeezed the trigger slowly, as he had been taught to do.

But he had forgotten something else he had been taught. He had neglected to unload the rifle. Instead of the expected click, there was the appallingly loud crack of a shot. At that very moment the two lads on the bicycle passed by. The bullet killed one boy and wounded the other.

The moral, as noted above, is plain. No gun is more dangerous than the "unloaded" gun. It is a moral whose implications cannot be escaped at any time, a moral that should strike home sharply as the fall hunting season nears.

POLITICAL BOOMERANG — Watch this one bounce back in the face of the fellow who threw it. We are talking about one of the oddest bits of campaign smearing that has ever come to our attention—and we have seen some weird political devices in our day. Two weeks ago, in the final editions of the weekly papers before the Democratic primary, an advertisement appeared that was headed "Herlong For Pepper." It was signed in some of the editions by "Friends of William C. (Bill) Coleman, Jr."

In this advertisement, the "friends" of Herlong's Republican opponent tried to paint the congressman with the tar brush of Claude Pepper. The "friends" set out to prove that Herlong and Pepper always thought alike—and drew the conclusion that Syd Herlong was naturally backing Claude in his comeback try.

To anyone who knows anything about the political relationship between Claude Pepper and Syd Herlong, this advertisement provoked the loudest and longest sort of hilarious laughter. It would be more reasonable to expect Senator McClellan to back Jimmy Hoffa for President than to see Syd Herlong out working for Claude Pepper.

Apparently, the "friends" were following the old adage that the "outs" must attack the "ins." But they seemed to forget another old political truism. "Don't use the tal bush unless you can make the tar stick." And in this case, their efforts were just plain laughable.

We hesitate to put into writing all that we think of the "friends." We might venture the opinion that the person responsible for this advertisement is not the brightest political strategist we have ever heard of. Also, that if this is the caliber opponent that Herlong will have in the November election, here is a chance to pick up an easy dollar or two—if you can find anyone who is foolish enough to bet against Herlong.

POST MORTEM — Politics is like a murder sometimes. When a fellow is dead he is dead. And before they bury the body, folks gather around and try to figure out what killed him. Sometimes the experts agree and sometimes they don't. The only thing they are sure of is that their subjects is dead.

Right now, all over Florida, the experts are trying to explain why and how Claude Pepper got beat. As would be expected, Claude himself is beating about his defeat and claiming that segregation did it. We don't pretend to pose as an expert, but we would like to add our say to the rest.

As we said last January, the experts there in anyone in Florida at the moment who could possibly have beat Senator Holland. He has done too good a job for Florida and he has been sure that the people back home have heard about it.

Even though Pepper could not have won, we do think he might have done better to have run as "Claude Pepper" and not as a hybrid of the familiar new-deal liberal Pepper and some unrecognizable new conservative type thing. People remember. You can't wash off the old spots. His record was showing. So, he should have stood his ground. He should have said, "I am who I am. You know what I have always stood for. Send me back to Washington to take up where I left off." It would have been better that way. He was due to die. The gallant die bravely. How sad to have gone down trying to compromise rather than standing firmly.

Conning The News

The fall activity program is falling into place. Soon Sanford will experience the usual winter juggling of dates and times. Last year the Chamber of Commerce inaugurated an unsuccessful (because no one took advantage of its service) Leaders scheduling meetings, public affairs and other affairs could call Camie Bruce and have their plans put on the books. This could have avoided the clash of programs. Unfortunately, very few used the service.

The Chamber of Commerce clearing house for public affairs (anything to which the public is invited), still is in existence. The Chamber is willing, but doesn't have time to promote the deal. Co-operation on the part of committees making their plans now would be appreciated.

Those men of the Mayfair Golf Association are hitting off another year of golf and fun on Saturday.

A tournament of events is scheduled for 1 p. m. The afternoon starts with a nine-hole point system team match. This completed, spectators will be treated to a driving contest, putting competition and attempts at a hole in one. A barbecue will follow, free to members and wives. At this time, new officers will be installed. Chris Overstreet will take over the gavel from John Ivey. Other officers include Hugh Greer, Dave Canning and George Nicely.

Dancing and entertainment wind up the day. Reservations may be made by calling Helen Andrew at the Country Club.

Lake Mary Boy Scouts throw a shindig Saturday night at 8 in the Boy Scout park. Indian dances, drama and comedy will give the boys a chance to demonstrate the results of a busy summer, making costumes and learning the ways of the red man.

It may happen this year. The seat left vacant by David Gatchel on the Sanford City Commission could go empty. No one has filed for election with the city clerk for this position.

The qualifications are fairly simple. To be eligible one must be a resident of the state for a year, the city for 6 months; over 21 in age, strong of constitution and able to say "no."

Applicants may file with the city clerk until midnight, Oct. 13.

Oviedo News

By MARIAN R. JONES

One of the largest affairs of the season was given Friday evening. A supper honoring the faculties of the Oviedo High School and Elementary School and their wives or husbands.

The city hall was decorated for the occasion by Mrs. James E. Brookshire, hospitality chairman. Fall leaves and flowers were used throughout the spacious room of the Memorial building.

Tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade mothers were busily engaged with the food in the kitchen, under the supervision of Mrs. Jack T. Bryant, chairman of the room mothers and twelfth grade room mother; Mrs. Douglas H. Jackson, eleventh grade room mother and Mrs. E. M. Orliff, tenth grade room mother.

Others assisting were: Mrs. J. G. Beasley, Mrs. Alva King, Mrs. Elsie Fleming, Mrs. Joe L. Mikler, Mrs. Milton Gore, Mrs. Vesta Perdarvis and Miss Elizabeth Orliff.

The Reverend George H. Carlton asked the blessing at the request of Mrs. John Lundy, president of the Oviedo P. T. A.

A number of past presidents were noted. Among these were Professor Paul Mikler, Mrs. Milton Gore, Mrs. Donn Ulrey, Mrs. James Partin, Mrs. R. W. Estes, and Mrs. J. B. Jones, Jr.

Mrs. Thomas Moon introduced the entertainment group from Cooper and Gregory Music Company of Orlando.

Glen E. Nelson, organist held the group spell-bound with his playing of the Hammond Chord Organ. Paul Heinshon kept them smiling with his narration. Following the supper the crowd gathered around for more music—and it was wonderful.

W. H. DeShazo, principal gave a short speech of welcome and introduced the members of the faculty present.

The teachers were presented gifts by Mrs. James E. Brookshire, hospitality chairman of the P.T.A.

Miss Elena Tuhy's name was omitted by error from the list of students returning to the University of Florida as a Sophomore this year. Miss Tuhy was valedictorian of her graduation class at Oviedo High School. She attended summer school at the University of Florida.

Bob Ragsdale, who was expected home Saturday evening, phoned to say he would not be able to make it yet.

Mrs. B. G. Smith has returned home after a wonderful vacation. A study course will be held at the First Baptist Church the night of Sept. 19. Mrs. Joe I. Beasley is in charge.

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church met Thursday night at the church.

Yeggs, 5 And 7, Nabbed By Police

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Two would-be safecrackers—aged 5 and 7—were rounded up by police Sunday at a branch post office where they had tried to crack a government strongbox with the use of hammers and chisels.

The youngsters had smashed the dial of the strongbox and scattered hundreds of letters around the post office, police said. The two were found by Patrolmen Patrick Antonaccio and Anthony Jennings in the post office at Harmon and Grand Streets.

The case was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Joke 'Backfires' On Lieutenant

DARLINGTON, England (UPI)—Lt. Thomas Hiney, 22, decided to say farewell to his army friends by tossing a cardboard grenade at them from the train that was returning him to civilian life.

But Hiney didn't know about train windows.

When the train started moving out Hiney went into the men's room, lit a "thunderflash" cardboard grenade used in war games and turned to the window to throw it out.

The window stuck.

The lieutenant panicked. He dropped the fizzing bomb on the floor and fled into the corridor. Space wrecked the wash basin, shattered the lights and blew the door off its hinges.

A court Tuesday fined the ex-lieutenant $28 and ordered him to pay $78.40 damages.

The job is of three years duration. At the end of this time, commissioners either quietly retire to nurse their wounds or go on to even more punishing political jobs.

Should no one file, the city commission would have to appoint someone to fill the chair which Gatchel leaves Jan. 1. The appointees would serve until the next November election.

It is easy to see why there has been so little enthusiasm for the position. The city leaders hold meetings that last for hours, fight against taxation to keep from being attacked physically and are rewarded for their efforts by criticism and slanderous remarks.

But, (there are always but), Sanford has many competent men who could help the city by serving as a commissioner. Those who are qualified should take this golden opportunity to rectify conditions that have drawn their criticisms. Who will step forward?

Tall tales of fishermen become legends when they bring home the big one. Last Friday night the waters of Lake Adair in Altamonte yielded up a Beemoth bass to write home about.

Cal Jardine caught the 14-pounder on a jigger pole. The bass measured over 20 inches, and is a record for Cal and companion, Senny Osakawicz. They both had to take the credit. Cal hooked it, but Senny had to help him land it.

The two men plan to return to Lake Adair. They say there's still another in the murky waters—big enough to take this one for bait.

Today's Marshal Far Cry From Famed Gun-Slinger

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The federal marshals mustered for school integration duty at Little Rock, Ark., are a far cry from the hard-riding, gun-slinging, town-levelling lawmen depicted in TV westerns.

Today's U. S. marshal carries a gun, but it's usually a small .38 caliber revolver discreetly hidden beneath the coat of his dark blue business suit.

He does a lot of hard riding—an average of 20,000 miles a year—but it's on a train or in an automobile, escorting federal prisoners to the penitentiary.

Once in a great while, a modern marshal may have to shoot it out with a bad man who resists arrest. But most of his time is spent in mundane duties—serving processes, keeping order in courtrooms, crying "okey" when the judge mounts the bench, and acting as paymaster and chaperone for federal jurors.

Officer of Court

However unglamorous his daily work has become, the U. S. marshal still occupies a special place in law enforcement. He is, in a unique sense, an "officer of the court." When a judge sends him forth to carry out an order, enforce an injunction, serve a warrant or make an arrest, he goes armed with the full majesty of federal authority.

The office of a marshal has an ancient and distinguished history, it originated in England, during the era of the Plantagenet kings, when each royal court was staffed with a functionary known as "the marshal of the king's horse." His job was to "summon" prisoners to court—usually by hauling them in physically.

Colonial America had marshals and "protest marshals" with similar duties. When the first U.S. Congress met in 1789, it enacted a statute—little changed to this day—authorizing the appointment of a marshal for each federal circuit.

In 1870, Congress gave federal marshals the job of trying to bring some kind of law and order to the frontier territories of the West, where no state governments existed and where local law enforcement was spotty. Marshals were armed with all of the powers of local sheriffs.

Hospital Auxiliary Plans Card Party

Plans for a Pink Lady card party were enthusiastically discussed on Friday morning when a committee of Seminole Memorial Hospital Auxiliary members met at the home of Mrs. J. M. Tully Jr. Program and profits chairman, Mrs. W. H. Folk and Mrs. Tully, co-chairmen for the fall party, the group formulated plans for prizes, refreshments and card play to make the event a complete success.

The Civic Center will be the setting for the event which will take place on October 10. Bridge, amata or samba may be enjoyed any time between 2 and 8 p. m. in the afternoon and from 8 p. m. until midnight. A prize will be awarded to the high player at each table and refreshments will be served buffet style. A door prize will be given.

Reservations can be made with appointed persons at various points in the county and DeBary. Reservations will be limited. Those desiring to attend are urged to make their plans early. Proceeds from the party will be used in securing needed hospital equipment.

Those attending the meeting on Friday and working towards the forthcoming event included Mrs. Folk and Mrs. Tully, co-chairmen; Mrs. R. N. Blackwelder, secretary; Mrs. Robert Shedd, arrangements; Mrs. H. C. Reavick, prizes; Mrs. W. J. Tull, reservations; Mrs. G. J. Kesslich, refreshments; and Mrs. George Eick, publicity.

Those making the cruise were: vice commodore, Dick Hart, cruise chairman, Tom Askew and wife, Meriam, Frank and Lou Woodruff and son Tex, Mr. and Mrs. Max Farney and guest Carolyn Haugh, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Powell, Peggy and John Russell, Edna and Verne McGillis, Jim and Norma Young and daughter Donna and guest Mrs. Linda Williams, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Harvey and daughter Evelyn Roy, Lucky Payne and Leon Taylor.

Next event will be a cruise to Ponce DeLeon Springs with members of the Winter Haven club as guests.

A picnic lunch was enjoyed by the members at the facilities of the Winter Haven Club area, on Lake Cannon.

The Sanford Boat and Ski Club trailed to Winter Haven and cruised through the Chain of Lakes Sunday. On arrival the club was pleased and surprised to find a welcoming committee on hand from the Winter Haven Boat and Ski Club with hot coffee and doughnuts. The committee was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen-bain (cruise masters), Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goshorn, Mr. J. B. Anderson and Mr. Howard Herchel.

After refreshments, Leon Taylor, temporary cruise master in the absence of Joe Nicholas, led the cruise directly to Lake Elzire where the boats anchored and watched the Cypress Gardens Ski Show. On completion of the show the boats reassembled and started the cruise through several of the lakes that form the Chain of Lakes. The lakes are connected by channels.

Skillet Supper Has Japanese Origin

More and more Sanford people are enjoying dishes from foreign countries. They seem to be especially useful when planning a party or an informal gathering.

Sukiyaki is a quick diet of Japanese origin that lends itself to table-top cooking. Part of its beauty is in the preparation, so bring the ingredients, in colorful array, on a platter or chop plate and let everyone enjoy watching.

When serving sukiyaki start the meal with a clear soup and end with a sweetened soy sauce dip. But be sure to serve the main course with a healthy cooked rice and beer—a beverage that is more appropriate than you may think.

Japan and other Oriental countries, beer is a long-established favorite to complement the subtly seasoned foods.

Sukiyaki
1 pound round steak
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 medium onions, sliced
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 green onions or scallions, sliced
4 stalks celery, sliced
1/2 pound fresh spinach, chopped
1 can (8 ounce) bamboo shoots
1/2 cup beef consommé
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

Cut meat cross-grain into paper-thin slices. Heat olive oil in skillet. Add meat and sauté until browned. Add vegetables, cover and sauté about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour in combined beef consommé, soy sauce, sugar and monosodium glutamate. Mix well. Cook uncovered over low heat 15 minutes, or until vegetables are just tender. Accompany with freshly cooked rice and light refreshing beer. Yield: 6 servings.

Osteen HDC Meets
Osteen Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Robert Williams recently.

Mrs. Clarence Snyder and Mrs. Guy Boyd were appointed on the organizing committee.

Next year's program was discussed. Food and clothing will be the main subjects.

Mrs. Harold E. Smith, agent, talked of the new fabrics on the market and the use of many fabrics. She showed samples of rug, explaining the good features of each and also the proper laundering of rugs. The making of pictures from various materials was discussed.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

THIRTY AND SATISFACTION
When using low temperature to cook meat, here are some of the dividends you'll receive: more uniformly cooked meat; juicier and more tender meat; and more easily carved meat. Make the test yourself. You'll also find that meat cooked at a low temperature will require less watching during the cooking period.

"We know what'll be new as soon as the manufacturer does," said Ralph Adler, vice president of the D. G. Williams Co. His firm, which his wife, Dorothy, headed until her death Aug. 31, has an interest in Mrs. Bronsman's and acts as her sales agent and distributor.

Keeping dummies in style calls for trips to Europe to see what fashion leaders there are doing, and a constant check with American designers and retailers, she said.

Scientist Challenges Link Between Cigaret, Cancer

By EDGAR SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—According to Dr. Howard A. Fisher, you can take the statistics which are said to show cigarette smoking can cause lung cancer and make just as good a case for a supposition that inhaling cigarette smoke will help prevent lung cancer.

Dr. Fisher is a respected critic of world science. He is professor of genetics at Cambridge University and often is called "the father of modern statistics." His view, repeatedly stated in the statistics show only a "casual link" between cigarette smoking and lung cancer but fall far short of showing one causes the other.

Newly challenged by scientists who believe "cause" has been statistically proven, he has now returned to the argument. His scientific opponents should also believe "the scientific of drawing smoke in both into the lungs" has a "probable effect," he said, since the same statistics show smokers among lung cancer patients are less likely to be in habits than healthy smokers.

He further stated:

"It is believed that it is, however, to run the risk of falling to cigarette, and therefore, falling to prevent other and more genuine causes," he continued.

For instance, what are the hereditary influences on both the development of cigarette smoking and of lung cancer in any given individual? It is an unanswerable question of the present stage of knowledge. But the control of genetics controls ancestral genes control the individual's susceptibility for the relationship of cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Has New Statistics

Those statistics showed the identical twins were very much alike in their smoking habits, whereas fraternal twins were not. Dr. Fisher's opponents assailed this argument on the ground that fraternal twins influence one another more than fraternal twins. Parents dressed them alike; their social contacts was impressed upon them at every turn.

To that, Dr. Fisher has now replied with a new set of statistics—on 33 identical twins and 18 fraternal twins (of the identicals) were alike in smoking habits and were unlike of the fraternal, and were alike and were unlike. This, he said, merely "confirmed" his previous statistics. Then he added his kicker.

Of the 33 identical twins, 27 had been separated soon after birth and had not been reared together. Nevertheless, 21 of the 27 were alike in their smoking habits.

In a previous round of the argument, Dr. Fisher had used some statistics on identical twins as opposed to "fraternal" twins. Identical twins are the same fertilized egg and their central patterns are identical, but fraternal twins develop from separate eggs and they can be as unlike in heredity as brothers reared from separate births.

Counterfeit King Offering Formula On Making Money

GENEVA, Italy. — (UPI) — The "King of Italian Counterfeits," 70-year-old Attilio Folliani, has offered the Bank of Italy his formula for making paper money. He gave his formula to just as good as the government's — and cheaper.

Folliani made his formula for a long time in jail. Folliani said he achieved a relative immunity from prison by offering to make paper money for the government.

Folliani is proud of his creative work — the bills of various denominations, dollars, pounds, marks and several types of coins.

As long ago as 1948, Bank of Italy experts recommended him on his invention, declaring that his work was the most nearly perfect counterfeit they had ever seen.

That was just before the "King of Counterfeits" received a 10-year jail sentence which he is still serving.

He says he intends to go straight when he completes his term and that all he wants for his invention is "just enough to live on a small pension to live in dignity until the next hour of my life."

338-Pound Woman Reduces; Marriage Ends With 'Trim'

PARIS, England. — (UPI) — Paula Reed had no dates because she weighed 338 pounds.

But after she lost 100 pounds, she was able to get a date. Her marriage ended with "trim."

Paula Reed, 33, of London, had been married for 10 years. Her husband, John Reed, 35, had been married for 10 years. They had three children.

Lake Mary News

By Edie Jane Knech

Don't forget the Boy Scout pageant Saturday night at the Scout Park next to the Nazarene Church. Don Coleman, Scoutmaster, has been putting in long hours with the boys. Lake Mary and the Chamber of Commerce who sponsor the group should be proud and pleased with the boys, their leaders, and all those who have made this group number one.

P.T.A. officers and committees will soon be ready for the first meeting of the year. All parents and friends of the school are invited to take part in the activities. Mrs. Maxine Hopkins is president for the coming year.

Sunday the Jr. Hi and St. Hi Wintersville Fellowship will again be joined in the local Presbyterian Church. Some the Jr. Hi will be organized. Other activities are planned for each group in the church family.

Mrs. Abbie Fisher has returned to her home on Lake View Ave. after several weeks illness in the Sanford Hospital.

The Wilsons and the Knechs spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harty. Mary (Knech) is leaving for college this week. Many of you have been asking about the success of the Happy Morning Kindergarten. Well, all I can say is that I don't know who is having the most fun, the children or I. I have almost a full house and we enjoy each minute of the morning. The children are pleased with each little thing they receive. It is a fun and rewarding experience on my part.

Mrs. John Salberry and daughter Gail are spending some time with her mother Mrs. R. H. Hubanks, while John is in the Army. It seems wonderful to have Young Gail back home. John says he will be home in a few days. Please call me with your news and don't forget to call the telephone. I will call you after 5:00 P.M.

The seventh annual Florida Business Week Conference will be held in Daytona Beach Sept. 29-31. Conducted by the extension division of Florida, the conference will focus attention on problems faced by Florida business men. The conference will meet at the Casa Linda Hotel.

The Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association convention Sept. 25-27 will be held at the Ritz Hotel in Jacksonville. The convention will be held Sept. 24-26 at the Hotel Poinsett in Jacksonville.

A Sanford city ordinance states that all buildings must obtain a city license and register at the City Manager's office. Violations are increasing.

The Seminole Hotel, Jacksonville, will house the seventh annual North Florida Championship Bridge Tournament Oct. 2-12. Mrs. Poinsett and trophies will go to winners. The tournament is sponsored by the Jacksonville Duplicate Bridge Club. Directors are Paul Kemmlinger and James Milligan.

The Florida Cities Commission meets tomorrow in Lakeland to present proposals that will benefit the entire citrus industry. General Manager Homer E. Hicks said the industry will have about 100,000 acres of citrus groves and 100,000 acres of citrus groves. The program is to be in Tallahassee.

Temperature Affects Takeoff Of Jets

WASHINGTON. — (UPI) — The common thermometer will be a vital instrument in the commercial jet age.

The higher the temperature, the longer the takeoff length needed by a heavily-loaded jetliner.

All aircraft are affected by hot weather. Warm air has less lift than cold air, even today's jet-propelled airliners. Watch passengers overheat in the summer. But the jets are affected even more, for two reasons:

— Their supersonic wings sacrifice some lift for speed and stability at high altitudes.

— Turbine engines lose three per cent of their power for every 1-degree rise in temperature above 59 degrees Fahrenheit (A piston engine loses only one per cent).

This power loss, combined with hot weather, means all weather conditions, regardless of load and flight distance.

It also is why some jet flights will be limited in payload and length until airport runways are lengthened to provide for safe takeoffs under all weather conditions.

Mule Defeats Man In Mule Day Race

REASON, N.C. — (UPI) — Endorsement winner Paul (Haddock) Simpson says he failed to win a mule because the course was too short.

Simpson, 34, who for years has been training and walking the long distance, took on the long-distance competitor in Reason's annual "Mule Day" celebration Saturday.

He was to have raced the mule in a 10-mile race, but the mule was too fast for him. Simpson, wearing shorts and running shoes, started along slowly. The mule, however, showing little interest in the proceedings, started off at a trot and was soon galloping.

At the end of the 10-mile course, the mule had a 15-minute edge over Simpson, who was just getting warmed up to walking.

"It wasn't a long enough race," Haddock snapped. Simpson had walked the course from 10 miles to 100 miles.

It was Simpson's second loss of the annual "Mule Day" celebration. Simpson said he was to have raced the mule in a 10-mile race, but the mule was too fast for him.

Quemoy Attack, Threat To Hurt China UN Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Chinese Communist attacks on the Quemoy Islands and threats to invade Formosa have lessened Peiping's chances of winning a seat in the United Nations at this session, diplomatic sources said today.

Russia is expected to raise a formal demand today for seating Red China in the United Nations, but Western diplomats predicted the vote would go heavily against the Soviet attempt.

The Russian move was expected to be made in the General Committee of which Russia is a member. The committee is to approve items for full debate and allocate them for preliminary consideration to the various standing committees.

Runs Till Christmas The General Committee will review item by item the 700 odd questions proposed for debate in the current assembly session which will run almost until Christmas.

No important battle was expected until the committee takes up an Indian proposal for a full assembly debate on the question of representation of China in the United Nations.

General Assembly voted 48-27 against action on the question of Peiping's membership.

A similar vote was expected this year, although the Soviet Union and Communist China have kept up a steady stream of broadcasts demanding Peiping's admission.

But U. S. warnings against planned Communist aggression may have offset this propaganda.

The Quemoy-Formosa issue has not yet been proposed for assembly discussion. The United States believes the time is inappropriate to bring the question here, but Russian propaganda outlets have hinted broadly the Soviet Union will raise it in the assembly.

Government Plays 'Waiting Game' In Little Rock Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eisenhower administration played the game of "wait-and-see" with Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus today in hopes pressure from the people of Little Rock, not the federal government, would open the doors of Central High School.

After the Eisenhower-Rogers meeting, the White House made it clear that the President would not invite Faubus to another face-to-face conference. One meeting at Newport a year ago was fruitless.

Rogers, in a statement following his meeting with the President, said it "seems inconceivable that a state or community would rather close its public schools than comply with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States."

Students Reveal Race Issue Views

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Nearly 2,500 students from Little Rock's four public high schools are still idle more than two weeks after the fall term was supposed to start.

How do students feel about the extended "vacation?" Wendell Ross, senior and president of the Central High School student body, said: "I really hate it that school has been closed. Not because of segregation or integration, but because I love Central High."

Ross, the youngest ordained minister in the Southern Baptist Convention, said he had "no objections to going to school with Negroes if that would get the schools open. It looks like neither the Supreme Court nor the governor has considered our feelings at all."

Marilyn Jones, a junior at Central, said: "I would just as soon go to school with Negroes as to have the school closed. Most of the kids I'm with feel the same way."

Wanda Crouch, a junior at Central, said: "I think the closing was okay. I don't think the Negroes should go to our school. It should be reopened as a private school even if it means we pay extra tuition."

Gary Robinson, a junior at Central, said: "I'd rather they'd open the school. I prefer not to go to school with niggers, but I'd rather go to school with them than not get an education."

Jim Rule, 16, a football player at Hall, said: "I want to go to school. I want to learn. But I wouldn't say I am willing to go to school with Negroes."

Fred Jolly, a senior at Central, said: "I didn't mind the school being closed but I think it should be opened as soon as possible as a private school. Integration wouldn't work too well. Public opinion is against it."

James Waddington, a Central senior, said: "I'm behind Faubus and I don't want to go to school with Negroes. I would rather switch schools than go if Negroes are going to be there."

The body of the engineer, Lloyd Wilburn, 63, found shortly after the wreck, was to undergo further tests to determine definitely whether he was dying when the train missed the signals. An autopsy Tuesday indicated he had a heart attack.

Still a deep mystery was why the fireman who is required to ride beside the engineer and double-check him by calling out all signals seen along the track, did not take over if Wilburn suffered a seizure.

Negro citizens of Sanford and Seminole County will honor Dr. George Henry Starke on Sunday, which has been proclaimed as "The George H. Starke Day."

A program honoring the doctor for his 31 years of professional, medical, civic and religious services to the city and county will be presented at 3 p. m. in the auditorium of Groves High School, West 13th St.

Speakers will be Dr. Richard V. Moore, president of Bethune-Cookman College. A plaque will be presented during the ceremony.

Special invitations have been sent to city and county officials. White and Negro citizens alike are invited to attend the program honoring Dr. Starke.

Arrangements are under the direction of W. L. Hamilton, principal of the Midway School.

Benefit payments to the unemployed in Sanford rose $3,950 during August, according to a report from the Florida Industrial Commission.

Total payments in Sanford mounted to $14,961.

In other parts of the state, unemployment benefit payments declined $1,044. The drop was attributed to better business conditions and the number of unemployed workers who have exhausted their right to collect compensation.

While 17 Florida State Employment offices reported decreases, 11, including Sanford, reported payments were higher than the July figure. Total payments in August were $29,972 above the $27,978 for August, 1957.

Judge Says Mixing Must Be Effective In Next Semester

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI)—Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan today directed the Arlington County School Board to admit four Negro pupils to all-white schools at the beginning of the next semester in January.

Bryan upheld the board's rejection of the applications of 26 other Negroes for transfer to white schools. But he said refusal of the applications of the remaining four "is not justified in the evidence."

Bryan announced his decision in a 15-page "findings of fact." He said his formal decree would be handed down in 10 days or more, "carrying the effective date into October."

"In the judgment of the court it would be unwise to make the transfers at late as that in the term," he said. "The decree, therefore, will be made effective at the commencement of the next semester, January 1959."

Speed Not Essential "This short deferment will not be hurtful," the judge said. "Indeed, if the basic problem can be solved by time, the price is not too dear."

This slow-down on the issue of racial integration in the Washington suburb apparently was postponed for almost four months. It had appeared originally that Arlington County would be the scene of the first test of Virginia's "massive resistance" laws to desegregation.

His ruling contained criticism of the Virginia pupil placement law, which he attacked a year ago when he ordered the Arlington board to admit seven Negroes to white schools. That order was postponed by appeal and the number of Negro applicants grew to 30.

Sanford Will Host Elks' Convention Sanford has been chosen for the annual fall conference of the Florida State Elks Association, Sept. 20-21.

LOOKING AHEAD—Commander William H. Anderson, skipper of the atomic-powered submarine Nautilus, said that the ice-covered Arctic Ocean could be used for fast commercial shipping when nuclear cargo submarines are built in the future.

Sub Missile On Target; Silence, Death Combined

POINT MUGG, Calif. (UPI)—Stealth and atomic destruction were combined today in a Navy weapons system capable of flying devastation 1,000 miles inland from a submarine.

The newest weapon in the Navy's atomic age arsenal was tested Tuesday when the submarine USS Grayback surfaced off the California coast and fired a Regulus II controlled missile 200 miles.

It was the first time the stubby-winged Regulus II, a 57-foot, turbojet-powered weapon capable of flying more than 1,000 miles at twice the speed of sound, had been fired from a submarine.

The sleek Grayback surfaced near the Point Mugu naval air missile test center, disgorged the missile from one of two forward carrying pods, and swung it into position on a swiveling launcher.

The Regulus II, essentially a remote-controlled jet aircraft, roared aloft assisted by a jet booster and trailing a wake of smoke, flew seaward.

It was turned inland and under "positive control" on the ground and by accompanying chase planes winged toward Edwards Air Force Base, 100 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

The missile made a "controlled wheels-up landing" at Edwards, caught fire and burned. Spokesmen blamed destruction of the craft on failure of "precise recovery gear."

In war, there would be no need of landing the Regulus on its tricycle gear. It could slam into its target from 60,000 feet above or bodge-hop to the target.
