Jacksonville Told To Make Plans For Sewage Treatment

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Dr. Abel Wolman of Baltimore recommends that Jacksonville lay plans for sewage treatment in the future but that for the present it should continue to dispose of raw sewage far offshore in the St. Johns River.

Dr. Wolman, of Johns Hopkins University, summarized his 30-page report in an hour-long appearance before City Commission, City Council and a citizens advisory group on sewers and drains.

Afterward City Commissioner Claude Smith asked Dr. Wilson T. Sower, state health officer, whether in light of the report the State Board of Health would insist on provision for treatment of any additional sewage collected from drain extensions.

Dr. Sower replied he was not able to answer categorically. He strongly opposed, however, the legislative bill City Commission has discussed introducing which would allow Jacksonville to go ahead with sewer extensions without approval of the board.

To this Mayor Hayden Burns declared "the attitude of Jacksonville is not one of having on fighting clothes" and added "I think this matter could not be decided before adjournment of the Legislature June 15, anyway."

Using his figures on estimates by City Planner George W. Simmons Jr., Dr. Wolman said a city population of 500,000 for the county is forecast, "followed by a continued rise toward 600,000 within the next 30 years."

He made these seven recommendations:

1. That sanitary sewerage services be extended to unsewered areas as now planned.
2. That the sources of pollution of the small streams within the city be located and connected to the sanitary system.
3. That detailed engineering plans, based on economic comparisons of alternate schemes, be drawn for intercepting sewers which will collect the sewage from the now numerous points of discharge and dispose of it offshore into the zones of intense mixing in the St. Johns River.
4. That concurrently with the above engineering work sites for future treatment plants be sought. When the engineering studies have progressed sufficiently to indicate the economic suitability of a site, it should be purchased at once to withhold it from industrial or commercial development.
5. That, on completion of the design work and the purchase of the construction of interceptors and outfalls be carried forward.
6. That when these works are completed, further surveys of the river be made at different seasons to determine the water quality situation in the river, in order that plans for step by step development of treatment may be started when it becomes apparent that the available capacity of the river is becoming overburdened.
7. That Jacksonville and Duval County seek ways to plan jointly the solutions for their sewerage and sewage disposal problems, in order that these solutions may be the best and most economical for the whole of the metropolitan area.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—American men are getting a name for being the world's best husbands—and among the world's poorest lovers.

This ugly rumor is based on a theory that the average European male understands a woman's heart, and an American doesn't. But more and more American wives are accepting it as true.

Well, girls, it just isn't so. It isn't likely that anywhere on the freckled earth you'll find a man who knows you as well, appreciates you more, or will love you better than here in the home of the hen-pecked hubby.

"We have overemphasized this belief that American men are not good lovers, and their wives are all frustrated," said Renzo Cesana, who wows and sometimes wows the ladies in his television and radio role, "The Continental."

Renzo, a six-foot, sophisticated realist, has made something of a study of romance in both his native Italy and his adopted land, America.

He feels that too many women have read Dr. Kinsey's clinical study of the American male and concluded the conclusion they are missing some of the finer things of life through hysterical ignorance or ineptitude.

"The European woman is as frustrated as the American woman, if not more so," he said. "But she simply doesn't get the chance to protest as loud."

Cesana left the impression he believes the women of all countries will feel frustrated—if they can find a reason.

"The American has no reason to have an inferiority complex about sex," he said. "If Dr. Kinsey polled

European men about matters of love, and they told him the truth, he would find them much less informed than American men.

"But they wouldn't tell him the truth. They would simply brag. When it comes to affairs of the heart, a European would lie to his own psychiatrist."

"The average European is sure he is a greater epicure and a greater lover than the American. He hasn't even the opportunity to work out either form or woman as the average American because he's accounted with them in the same variety and abundance."

Cesana estimated that "perhaps 75 per cent of European women are frustrated by lack of motivation in America—but don't know how to raise a holler about it, as who would listen to them anyway?"

"The European lover is supposed to be more experienced, but that's ridiculous," he remarked. "Here boy meets girl early, and the sexes get over their fear of each other very young. In Europe a man ordinarily knows nothing about the opposite sex until after he is married."

But don't American husbands take their wives for granted? Are not Europeans more romantic and gallant?

"It is the other way around," said Renzo. "In America women take men for granted. As for those little attentions that women love, the American husband probably knows more flowers to his wife in a year than the European does in a lifetime."

Well, ladies, there's the picture—this guy you're tied to may have his dapper days and his dull nights, but he's still the best bargain in the dismal male field.

Now for a peek at the other side of the coin. Renzo is billed as "The World's Greatest Lover." What is

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A FARMER who lived many miles from town called a doctor in a frenzy at 2 A. M. and said, "Please come at once. My cat is desperately sick." The doctor protested that he didn't know the way. "Just follow Route 19," said the farmer.

"I'll head a red lantern at my gate so you'll know which farm is mine." The poor doctor wearily got into his clothes, and drove out Route 19, but after riding back and forth on it until daylight could find no sign of a red lantern. Back in his office, he called the farmer immediately. "It's quite all right, Doc," consoled the farmer. "My kid got better after I hung up the phone, so I didn't bother to put out the lantern."

Rural Common Sense

By SPUDS JOHNSON

With the coming of high-yielding hybrids, closer spacing, improved fertilization, and other crops have been major factors in Florida's greatly improved corn production.

Like everyone else, farmers and farm boys are interested in competition and take pleasure in competing with each other. Corn-growing contests have provided hundreds of Florida farmers and farm boys with a chance to show their own ability and also because they want to produce as high yields of good quality corn as possible.

Of course, one must have a good hybrid and follow proven fertilization and production practices to raise a good crop of corn, but those are just the things that an ever-increasing number of farmers and farm boys have been doing during the past few years. Contests, sponsored by civic and agricultural organizations, newspapers, and other groups, have emphasized that good corn crops can be produced, and numerous farmers have taken their cue from such events.

Agronomist Russell Henderson of the University of Florida Agricultural Extension Service points out that Florida's average yield per acre has risen 50 percent during the past decade, and he gives large credit to the contests sponsored by public-spirited groups and agencies for this very favorable development in Florida agriculture.

Attendance Jump May Force Boost In School Funds

Figures Indicate 8.2 Percent Increase

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida House today virtually killed a bill which would consolidate nearly all state tax collection under a new Department of Revenue. House members first struck down by a vote of 60-32 a tax consolidation plan favored by Gov. McCarty over one that would turn the tax gathering authority over to the comptroller. Their move left the bill open for rewriting on the floor to put the collection all under the comptroller, but sponsors of the original measure showed they would rather have the bill killed entirely than be rewritten. So they put through, by 49-11 vote, a motion to postpone further consideration of the measure until June 5. This is virtually impossible to get the measure passed since little if anything accomplished on the closing day of the session. The action leaves the way open for consideration of a constitutional amendment proposal to create the new cabinet position of collector of revenue.

Nurse's Body Found; Suicide Is Indicated

MIAMI (AP)—The body of a 24-year-old New York nurse was found in her car Wednesday on a desolate Southwest Dade (Miami County) road. Deputy Sheriff John P. Berdeaus identified her from a key ring in the car as Edith M. Connors and said she apparently had committed suicide by taking poison. Dr. Ben Sheppard, medical adviser to the sheriff's office, reported she died from a "corrosive poison." Miss Connors was a 1950 graduate of the Mary Immaculate Hospital School of Nursing at Jamaica, N. Y., and had worked at several Greater Miami hospitals since then, he said.

Grim Statistics Of Highway Toll Related To JCs

Jim Wilder, Orlando safety education director of the State Highway Patrol, and State Trooper R. D. Harrison combined to describe the grim facts of alarming increase in highway deaths at the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Yacht Club today.

"In just 30 years the automobile has claimed over a million lives," Mr. Wilder stated, "while in the 175-year history of our nation less than one million men have been killed in all the wars combined."

"We are failing to place proper significance on the danger to our lives while driving," he continued. "While we are worrying about our boys going to Korea, we fail to realize that 30 people are injured on the highways to every one soldier hurt fighting in Korea. And by the same measure, 30 motorists and pedestrians are killed for every one in Korea."

"Clinging more statistics," Mr. Wilder went on, "every 20 seconds there is an accident in this nation and every 15 minutes there is a death on the highway. There is no guarantee that we will not have an accident every minute we get into our automobiles. And since every minute there is an accident, our premium rates go up on automobile insurance we must band together to try to eliminate the causes of these accidents."

He pointed out that speed was the No. 1 cause of accidents and next to it was careless driving. "That extra second or minute you save by passing on a hill may cost you your lives. It is not worth it."

"We must practice more caution and take that extra second. We must teach our children safety in walking and driving. Take a personal interest in teaching them right from wrong."

State Trooper Harrison then sounded a note of local warning. "One of our businessmen came to me the other day and told me of an instance where children riding bicycles were almost killed when they ran a red light and crossed over in front of his car," Mr. Harrison stated.

"We have already had one death this year caused by a child riding a bicycle improperly. It is our job as parents of these children and the job of civic groups to take time and talk and teach these children the proper way to ride bikes on our streets and highways. They should be made to read the state drivers' license manual so they know how to operate."

Plans Made For Drive To Raise $75,000

Cowan Is Optimistic For Success Of Day

Everything is shaping up fine for next Tuesday's "R" Day, declared Ralph Cowan, president of Sanford Industries, Inc., in an optimistic statement released today by the leader of the Sanford industrial movement.

"Everyone in the committee has contacted so far has demonstrated a genuine desire to help out," Mr. Cowan declared. "Thus far, the committee has not had a single refusal by any resident of Sanford whose aid has been requested."

Mr. Cowan added that prospects are exceedingly bright for a successful drive to raise $75,000 which will be used to aid in attracting industry to the city.

As yet no site has been selected for the breakfast Tuesday morning at 8:00 o'clock which will kick off the drive. J. Bradley Odham, chairman of the Sanford Industrial Board, is expected to make an announcement tomorrow as to where the breakfast will be held.

In the meantime, the first in a series of fund-raising drives by Sanford Industries started operation yesterday. The firm owned by John Pietro located in the Kent Building started production of men's robes and men's and boy's pajamas yesterday with an initial staff of 20 employees.

Within the next two weeks, Mr. Pietro stated he expects to increase the number of workers to 50. Employees were obtained through the Florida State Employment Office where applications for employment in other industries which may locate here continue to flow in.

Guest House Burns At Col. W. E. Baker's

Col. W. E. Baker of Lake Mary was wondering today how best to break the news to his hospitalized mother that the house she had occupied prior to her confinement burned down yesterday destroying irreplaceable mementos of her seven children, several of whom had served in the armed forces during World War II.

Shortly before noon, foresters at the Longwood Tower sighted smoke and thinking there might be a forest fire, investigated. They found the guest house on Col. Baker's property in flames and although they and nearby residents including Frank Evans sprayed water into the blaze, they were unsuccessful in saving the building.

Col. Baker was in Orlando visiting his mother when the fire broke out and reached home at the height of the conflagration. He said today he has no idea of the cause since the home was temporarily unoccupied and all electrical fixtures except the refrigerator were unplugged.

The structure was insured for $20,000, but Col. Baker estimated today it would cost $40,000 to replace.

Flood Control Funds Asked By Florida Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate group today heard requests for Florida water project funds including five million dollars for flood control in Central and South Florida.

A PROGRESSIVE STEP

Purchase Of New Equipment By Sanford Told In Big Magazine

The following article written by Sanford's City Manager Thomas L. Lemon was published in the May edition of The American City Magazine, a publication issued monthly by the American City Magazine Corporation of New York City.

Mr. Lemon pointed out how a city with 15,000 population was able to get 31 new automotive equipment units in a single order, and how the bids were evaluated and selections made.

"You can't run a first-class city with second-class equipment, and the city administration of Sanford, Fla. has set about to supply itself with new, first-class rolling stock for most of its departments.

"The forward step took place after the City Commission had received data, carefully tabulated, showing that over $2,000,000 had been spent for parts alone over the last 12 months to keep the present fleet of equipment moving in addition, over 4000 man hours were consumed in repairing the equipment. This does not take into account the loss of man hours on the job and the delay in work that these breakdowns caused.

The new equipment that the city has acquired includes the following items:

Three 3-ton pickup trucks.
Three 3-ton pickup trucks.
Three 1-ton pickup trucks.
Three 1-ton trucks with hydraulic dump bodies.
Three 2 1/2-ton dump trucks.
One 60-gallon bathtubs with motor on a new chassis.
One aggregate spreader.
One bulldozer and grader.
One refuse truck with a Gar Wood pumper-type body.
One new truck chassis for a Gar Wood pumper-type body.
In purchasing this equipment we weighed several factors before making a final decision.

Of prime concern was, first, the ability of bidder's product to meet city job requirements, third, standardization to avoid the expense of sold, "orphan" equipment at our hands, and fourth, consideration was given to the lowest price.

All bids were thoroughly checked, evaluated, and tabulated by the city engineer, Robert M. Angus and Associates of Jacksonville, Fla. for engineering and sound advice as to factors pertaining to power, load capacities, and motor life.

Frances Moore Wins Honors At Leesburg

Frances "Hoots" Moore, 29-year-old curvaceous blonde representing the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce, shared second place honors in Lake County's annual Watermelon Festival beauty contest last night in Leesburg.

Pretty Sally Ardrey, 18-year-old brunette from Sarasota, was crowned queen of the Lake County annual tribute to its million-dollar watermelon crop by placing second among a field of 23 beauties. "Hoots" was honored as being selected as one of the two maids of honor.

Winona Houtter, 17-year-old of Ocala was the second maid of honor.

The selection of Miss Ardrey over Mrs. Moore was a complete surprise to many of the spectators and the Seminole Jaycees, since "Hoots" took third in the Miss Florida beauty contest at Daytona Beach recently while Miss Ardrey was fifth ranking.

Auto Industry Is Facing Layoffs In Labor Dispute

By F. GLENN ENGLE

DETROIT (AP)—Layoffs engulfed at least 150,000 more auto workers today as half a dozen major manufacturers reported their loss of parts checked off by supplier strikes.

Ford, Chrysler, Studebaker, Oldsmobile, Nash and International Harvester all figured in the much-rumored production cuts.

They attributed their moves to three supplier strikes at Ford's Canton, O., forge plant, at Borg Warner's Warner Gear Division plant at Muncie, Ind. and at the Studebaker car body stamping plant here.

This was the situation.

Ford laid off an undetermined number of employees at its big Rouge plant in neighboring Dearborn yesterday and said that was the start of layoffs which will idle 80,000 employees across the nation as the Detroit days' lock-out party and a month-long leap at its key Canton plant had cut off its only source of forgings for cars and trucks.

Chrysler cut 2000 employees home from its Chrysler, De Soto and Dodge assembly plants here yesterday. It said a jurisdictional dispute at its Big Horn plant had cut the output of car bodies. About 8,000 Ford workers were idle.

Studebaker, Willys, Nash and International Harvester all said they were laying off a month's worth of workers. Studebaker announced last night it was cutting from three shifts to one shift operations next Monday because of a lack of transmissions normally supplied by Warner Gear. Other 3000 workers with automatic transmissions will be assembled, the company said. It also announced a second round of layoffs.

Studebaker's 2000 workers might be affected.

Willys halted all car production and completed the layoff of 8000 workers yesterday for a lack of transmissions. Another 3000 employees in non-auto divisions were kept on the job.

International Harvester has laid off more than 3000 production workers at Springfield, O., for the same reason.

The Warner plant has been idle since Monday.

Conference May Lead To Talks With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Mayer will meet soon to thresh out Allied problems and discuss a possible high-level meeting with the Russians on East-West tensions.

The decision for the West's Big Three to confer was announced simultaneously in London, Washington and in Paris.

The place and date have not yet been fixed but Churchill has suggested Bermuda. This appears preferable to Eisenhower and Mayer. The probable time is soon after the middle of June.

In a statement, President Eisenhower described the "primary purpose" of the U. S. British French meeting as further to develop common viewpoints with the friends on the many problems that must be solved cooperatively so that the cause of world peace may be advanced.

There was a disposition in government quarters here to stress that the Western powers have many problems among themselves to warrant the meeting and to minimize talk in public about a possible Big Four session.

But Premier Mayer told the French National Assembly in Paris the approaching meeting would discuss the feasibility of a Big Four conference—meaning a meeting with the Russians.

Mayer said also that France was ready to give unreserved consideration to any proposals the Soviet Union may make on the question of world disarmament.

Churchill long has been inclined to the view that a high level meeting with the Russians might be productive of some betterment in the world situation.

White House Press Secretary James Hagar was asked directly at a news conference whether the Big Three session might develop later into a big four meeting with Russia.

Hagar declined to comment on that.

Told that Churchill had expressed hope that the Big Three meeting would lead to a conference at which Russia would be included, Hagar simply read Eisenhower's statement and said he was not authorized to say more.

Old Coins Are Put On Exhibition In State Bank Lobby

An exhibition in the lobby of the Florida State Bank this week is a coin collection belonging to the late L. W. Scott, father of the community Church in Lake Mary.

The Rev. Scott started his collection about 20 years ago while a resident of the Western New York area. When he came to Florida in 1951, he disposed of most of his coins but retained his favorites.

He said that because several local persons had shown interest in the display, he would be at the bank Saturday morning from 11:00 to 12:00 o'clock to answer any questions the curious might have. He also will have two boards which contain most American coins, except for the gold type, which have been issued since the Pine Tree shilling came into use back in the colonial days.

The Rev. Scott has arranged his coins so that in most instances the front and back of each are shown. He said the pieces are not valuable in themselves, but an effort was made to show all the types.

On exhibit are the half cent, large cent, two and three cent varieties. There are many types of dimes, twenty cent pieces, and quarters including the Victorian quarter which is relatively rare.

His one cent display shows all but four of the large size and all but one of the small.

The Lake Mary resident right now is avidly seeking some Confederate pieces which are hard to find.

Only a small portion of his collection is on display. At his home he has a complete series of Victorian coins. The Rev. Scott pointed out the Vatican has its own issue of money, a fact which is not known to most persons.
