Latin America Due for Pick of Ousted Consuls

By CHARLES F. STEWART

Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Latin America probably will get the pick of the United States consular personnel which now is being sent out of the Axis-dominated part of Europe. Considering there are some 600 consular posts in those countries whose consular posts will be closed, it is not surprising that the State Department is planning to send out a large number of consuls to Latin America.

It is expected that the consuls will be sent out in the next few weeks. The State Department is planning to send out a large number of consuls to Latin America.

The trouble with us, at both ends of the line, is that we don't visit one another's countries soon enough or stay long enough to assimilate our respective national phrases—"cultures" is the technical term. It's necessary to LIVE among a people to get to KNOW them. I did, for a matter of years, among the Argentinians and I think they liked me pretty well, as I did them. Because we understood each other.

Recently I had a call from John Brown, a New York City correspondent in Buenos Aires. He had some consular jobs to handle and he wanted to know what he should do.

John's request is that a deal of our Pan-American effort is needed. I know what he means. Our business representatives are too shrewd and insensitive. The Latin and his subtlety were not mentioned. But generally, at the latter both on each by way of incomprehension.

That, too! At last we're TRYING to do it. They don't attempt to talk with us after the last 10 years.

When you're in a country, you should try to understand the people. It's not just a matter of business. It's a matter of respect. The Latin and his subtlety were not mentioned. But generally, at the latter both on each by way of incomprehension.

Dixie Division Comes Back From Trip

CAMP BLANDING, July 11.—Ten thousand infantrymen of the 1st (Dixie) Division who left June 26 for field maneuvers in the Dixie national forest, marched back into camp Friday.

The division, which had spent three weeks in the forest, was the largest unit to participate in the maneuvers since World War I.

The division was commanded by Major General William H. Arnold, who had led it on its last campaign in 1938.

The division was composed of men from Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana troops.

"I am well pleased with the way the entire exercise went off and with the outstanding work contributed by the 1st Division," said Major General Arnold.

The division will be redeployed to its permanent garrisons in the next few weeks.

The News Behind the News

What do you find in the newspaper you are holding in your hands?

On the front page, headlines; history bursting into shape before your eyes . . .

Then, on the inner pages, news you might not at first recognize as such . . . pages of advertising from your local stores. Pages of merchandise . . . an assortment of wares so varied and so complete it would take you weeks to inspect it in person!

News? Yes! Not to shake the world, perhaps, but important to matters you care about. The new dress Mary wants for the Prom (here is one illustrated — and you had no idea it would cost so little). Or Junior's new bicycle (you could not very well have guessed that the sporting-goods store was having a sale!)

Newspaper advertising saves you money — you can compare prices better than you could by store searching. It saves you time — you can see what you want to go before you start. And it saves you money — these goods are sold exactly as advertised.

To read all the news in the newspaper, you must read the news behind the news. You can find it on Page Two.

Hitler's Mistake

If there is one thing that stands out more clearly than all others in the Russo-German campaign, it is that nobody outside perhaps the opposing high command, knows anything at all about how the fight is going. Forced to rely entirely for their information upon army communiques and the handouts of the propaganda ministries, the average man has just about convinced himself that no decisive victory can possibly be won until the Germans actually reach Moscow and the Russians are in Berlin.

Nevertheless we believe it is safe to say that the Germans have definitely lost half the battle already. Their fighter planes may have destroyed already for the second time the entire Russian air force, their stukas may have made a shambles of Leningrad, Kiev and Smolensk, their armored divisions may have encircled and captured a million Red soldiers, and their breakthrough of the Stalin Line may already be complete, but two of the primary purposes of this campaign have certainly failed.

There is reason to believe that Hitler launched his attack on Russia because he believed Russian morale was low, that intrigues had sapped the vitality of the government and revolution stalked the land, that the Red armies would not fight and that the peasants themselves would flock to the banners of Hitler as one who had come to save them from the tyranny of Stalin rule. He expected another France. He has found a people as unwavering and as unified in their determination to defend their native soil as the British.

With such courage and patriotism, the Russians can lose all their battles, they can sacrifice Moscow and all their great western cities to the Germans, their government can withdraw to the Urals, and their armies can fall back almost indefinitely, spreading out the German forces thinner and thinner, lengthening their lines of communication and ever increasing their transportation problems: they can suck the Germans clear to the Pacific, until like the Japanese in China, they become lost in their own victories.

Since the landing in Iceland of United States Marines, the symbols and traditions of these soldiers of the sea have been coming more and more to popular attention with many persons learning for the first time what a colorful record this branch of our military service really has. Current Comment

Some men are made to suffer for their wisdom and discernment. Such was the case of the Gen. William Mitchell, who, because of his earnest advocacy of the airplane as the primary weapon of war was court-martialed and reduced to the rank of a colonel. In the light of the present military movement, it is a pity that he was not a member of the Atlantic Council, for he would have been a most valuable asset.

WHAT OUTFIT BUDDY?

ON JULY 15, 1917, the National Guard of Ohio was called into federal service. Three days later, the war department designated National Guard troops of Ohio and West Virginia to form the Thirty-seventh division.

The Buckeye division began to concentrate at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala. in August, 1917. Following its preliminary training, the division embarked for France. After its arrival in Europe, in June, 1918, it served in the Baccarat sector, Aug. 4 to Sept. 14; Meuse-Argonne offensive, Sept. 25 to Oct. 11; St. Mihiel sector, Oct. 7 to 18; on the Lys and Escaut rivers, in Flanders, Oct. 31 to Nov. 4; and in the Syngeat sector (Belgium) until the Armistice.

The Thirty-seventh advanced 30 kilometers against the foe, seized 2,845 prisoners (including 26 officers), 29 pieces of artillery, and 283 machine guns.

Ment of the division today are based at Camp Shelby, Miss. The insignia of the Buckeye division—a red circle with a white border—is adapted from the state flag of Ohio.

Japanese Army in China Isn't Too Keen to Win

By CHARLES F. STEWART, Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) - The Japanese army in China is not too keen to win, according to a report by a British official in Peking, an Englishman, long resident in this country, reported from business and sent back to his native land to spread the rest of the news. As soon as he arrived in London he was asked to go to the front line, to be presently in the head of the army. He had grown so accustomed to the conditions that he couldn't be completely unprepared to go to the front line. 2 Million Days Lost Because of Strikes

WASHINGTON, July 14 - (AP) - A total of 2,425,150 man-days of employment on vital Army defense work was lost during the first six months of the current fiscal year because of 197 strikes, an official survey revealed Sunday night.

maintain is becoming China's. Seemingly it doesn't want to win, and it is called back to Japan. Accounts generally agree that it's appreciative of its plunders, graft and rapine right where it is, and is ripe to resist being told to abandon such luxuries and return to hard work on its native soil.

Advices our state department receive indicate that Japanese troops are being moved about, under Tokyo's orders, in China itself, from places which they already are pretty well situated, to other places where they really are militarily needed.

One such case is mentioned in detail. A Japanese division near Peking, having evidently thoroughly pacified its neighborhood, was told to transfer itself to a more disturbed vicinity. It was attached immediately and the order had to be cancelled.

The presumption is that officers of the division in question, being engaged in grafting and looting to their hearts' content, exactly where they were, didn't propose to be switched elsewhere, where the pickings might not be so good, and engaged some nearby Chinese guerrillas to provide 'em with a false raid, in order to be left alone by their Tokio higher command.

In fact, it's beginning to be suspected in Washington that the Mikado's army in China is about as serious and as called back to Japan as the Chinese themselves.

Japan hopes to appease the Chinese, by setting up their puppet but ostensibly Chinese government in Nanking under Wang Ching-wei, a Chinaman himself—a Chinese Quaker. The scheme doesn't show many signs of taking effect, but even if it should, it probably wouldn't appear as the rapidly changing Japanese on the mainland. Of course, the axis wants Tokio to get China off its hands, so it feels that it's helpful in other fields. That's why Germany, Italy and Central America, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, Slovakia and Croatia recognized the Japanese-recognized Wang Ching-wei regime at Nanking.

It's recognition that apparently hasn't made much impression on the Chinese, however, and probably still less the Chinifying Japs. They've got a good thing in China, want to go on with their conquering, to make it a permanent, and don't care if they're described. From their standpoint it's better to be opulent, grafting, warily assimilated Chinese than to go back and be rice field coolies in Japan.

Miss Alice McGilone Weds Herman Close

Miss Alice McGilone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGilone, became the bride yesterday afternoon of Herman Lee Close of Palatka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Close of Lakeland. The wedding was solemnized in the Presbyterian Church with the Rev. E. D. Brownlee performing the ceremony. Mrs. S. F. Vernay, organist, played "Ave Maria" while the guests were assembling and J. M. Stinecoper sang "Benedictus." The traditional wedding showers were also given. Large baskets of white gladioli were massed against a background of palms and fern and white tapers burning in candleholders which were placed along the rotunda and choir rail, formed an effective setting for the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white mousseline de soie, fashioned along simple lines. Wide bands of lace formed a fitted waist line and the long, full sleeves were caught at the wrists with cuffs of lace. Her veil was of fingertip length and she carried a bouquet of white coronaria. The maid-of-honor, Miss Margaret Kader, was gowned in a blue crepe chiffon model, featuring a fitted waist, short puffed sleeves and a very full skirt. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of blue hydrangeas and pink rosebuds, tied with pink and blue satin ribbons. Mrs. McGilone, mother of the bride, chose for the occasion a navy flowered sheer dress, with which she wore a corsage of white coronaria. Mr. Close had as best man, Donald McLean, of Bartow, and ushers were Carl Cipeo, brother of the bridegroom, and Ralph Edges. Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McGilone entertained with an informal reception for the wedding party and out-of-town guests at their home on South Sanford Avenue. Mrs. McGilone was assisted in serving by Mrs. Fannie Echols, Mrs. W. R. Fort, Mrs. John Kader, Miss Margaret Kader and Miss Dorothy Kader. Mr. and Mrs. Close left late in the afternoon for a wedding trip to North Carolina. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue suit with a white collar and cuffs. Her hat was of matching ribbon and she carried white accessories. Upon their return they plan to make their home in Palatka where they both teach in the Palatka schools.

Juniors Contribute To Scholarship Fund

Mrs. J. W. Daniels presided at the regular monthly meeting of Campbell-Lossing Unit 83 of the American Legion Auxiliary on Friday evening in the Legion Hut. The meeting opened with the usual ceremony which consists of the raising of colors, pledge to the Flag, prayer for peace, observance of the thirty seconds of silence in memory of the heroic dead and the reading of the Preamble to the Constitution. It was reported by Mrs. A. R. Ford, sponsor for the Junior Auxiliary, that the Juniors had contributed to the book fund and scholarship fund of the department. The book fund sustains a lending library for rural schools of the state and the scholarship fund finances worthy students during their college years on a lend basis, which may be paid back by small monthly installments, Mrs. Ford explained. Beginning in May the Junior Unit started making monthly contributions for rehabilitation work among World War veterans at Bay Pines and Lake City hospitals. The Unit voted to place an order for 2000 poppies at the Lake City Hospital to be distributed on Poppy Day next year, which is always the Saturday before Memorial Day. Mrs. Daniels explained the reason for placing the order so early is to assure the veterans now confined the advantage of the work. It has been reported by Miss Edna Mae Jones, contact worker at Lake City, that the making of poppies has proved of definite value to the men in that it helps to divert their minds from their illnesses. July has been designated as Public Safety Month in the American Legion Auxiliary program and Mrs. Daniels introduced Joel Field, who talked on the importance of safety. He also commended William Brookshire, state highway patrolman, for his "wide knowledge and deep interest in highway patrol and public safety." There were 12 senior members and eight junior members in attendance at the meeting.

At Daytona Beach on July 4 these bathing beauties, "Miss Florida Glammour Girl" and her maid-of-honor, strolled along the beach in bathing suits and fur jackets! Combining the glamour of feminine beauty and the glamour of soft, expensive fur seemed to be a good idea as a means of expressing the city's summer elegance in a new way. "It's cooler in Daytona Beach." The girls are Miss Iva Mae Hall, left, winner of the title, "Miss Florida Glammour Girl" at a Fourth of July state-wide beauty contest at the boardwalk bandshell in Daytona Beach; and Miss Eve Dyer, right, runner-up in the contest. Miss Hall, of Lakeland, won a $150 first prize which she shared with the Lakeland Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsored her. Miss Dyer, Palatka, had been the host of maid-of-honor at the last Ravine Gardens Aralia Festival Ten of Florida's prettiest girls participated in the contest under Jaycee sponsorship.

Earth Slide Resumes Its Lava-Like Flow

ST. CHARLES, Va., July 14.—(AP)—A huge earth slide which wrecked six houses last week before coming to a halt resumed its lava-like flow Sunday and crushed six more homes in the Bonny Blue mining camp. Heavy rains Saturday night softened the earth on the side of Little Black Mountain near the Virginia-Kentucky border and the creeping motion of the slide, some 200 feet wide and 2000 feet long, began shortly after midnight. Observers estimated the volume of earth and mine refuse in the new movement was several times greater than in the flow of last week.

Man Who Guards Sea Way To Iceland Is Hardbitten Officer Aboard Ship

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE, AP Feature Service Writer Back in 1901 when handsome, very serious Ernie King of Loraine, Ohio, was graduated from the Naval Academy, his lucky long recording was: "Temper? Don't fool with nitroglycerin." Now rated the toughest sea dog among the Navy's high ranking officers, 62-year-old Admiral Ernest J. King commands the United States force which guard the Atlantic all the way to Iceland. The tall, sinewy leather-faced King is no "apple polisher" for Navy brass hats. His assignment to the critical defense outpost gave a career of outstanding command performance, particularly in the aircraft and submarine services. Qualifying as a naval aviator at the age of 18 and holding a succession of air commands, King is said to have done more in perfecting the tactical value of aircraft to the fleet than any other man in the Navy. He has stressed the use of the Navy's air force as a powerful offensive—rather than defensive—weapon of the fleet. Prior to his aeronautical service, brilliant supervision of the salvage of the sunken submarine S-51 and S-4 won him the Distinguished Service Medal with Gold Star. Old Eagle-Eye Ernie, as they call him in the Navy, drives his men and himself at a hard pace. Many a junior officer has cussed him as an "unreasonable, hard-bitten, son of a sea cook." Most of them admit, however, he would be a handy man to have around if trouble were brewing. A high ranking officer, who has had considerable service with him says: "King's a pleasant gentleman ashore but a tough homie at sea. Determined and a very quick thinker in an emergency, he has what it takes to command a fleet in wartime." As commander of the patrol force (the Atlantic fleet) he directs the operations of 180 warships. The exact makeup of the Atlantic fleet is now a strictly confidential matter. Some time ago it comprised three old battleships, a few cruisers, many destroyers and speedboats and some long-range bombing planes together with other aircraft. Admiral King saw service in Eastern Atlantic waters during the World War when he was assistant chief of staff for Admiral Henry T. Mayo, command-in-chief of the United States Fleet. For that service he was awarded the coveted Navy Cross. Six feet 2 inches tall, fairly broadshouldered and slim waisted King is an imposing figure in full naval dress and a break head of decorations. He is the father of six girls and one boy. Dancing with one of his daughters, he appears as sprightly as a young coon. He likes golf but is fussy about the most minor rules of the game.

Defense Work Forges Ahead, Official Says

"Great Progress" In American Production During Past Year Is Reported

More Jolts Due Peacetime Life

Additional Labor And Machines Needed For Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson today told a Senate committee that the past year had brought "great progress" in American defense production but "for total war of the kind raging in Europe today we can never have enough munitions."

Patterson forecast increased production of the nation's normal peacetime economic machinery, adding that "far more of our machines and labor" must be placed at the service of the War and Navy Departments than at present.

President Roosevelt yesterday strongly supported War Department proposals that selected National Guardsmen be kept in service longer than a year, but abandoned at least temporarily legislation to permit use of these soldiers outside the Western Hemisphere.

The decision was announced by Senate Majority Leader Barkley, who spent the weekend on the President's yacht and yesterday participated in a two-hour White House conference with other congressional leaders. A preliminary Administration check is said to have suggested that attempts to raise the hemispheric ban would be defeated. But, Barkley said, that situation did not inspire the separation of the Western Hemisphere proposal from two other Department bills extending the term of service of draftees, guardsmen and reserve officers. The President and General Marshall, Army chief of staff, submitted the legislation to the Republican and Democratic conferees secret military date intended to substantiate Army contentions that the discharge of thousands of trainees after one year of training would weaken United States outposts in the Pacific and Atlantic.

Roosevelt did not win 100 percent support from the group, but he persuaded the leaders to begin working on service extension legislation without delay. He took this stand in the face of blunt warnings that he faces defeat in both chambers. The conferees believe that a compromise measure was not discussed. Experts pointed out, however, that the service extension bill would have less opposition than involved would not eventually become part of an expeditionary force.

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—Merchant shipping losses of 79 ships totaling 836,524 tons were announced today by the Admiralty. The tonnage, which included British, Allied and neutral losses, was less than for any month since July 1940, with the exception of last December, and January.

Canada Prohibits Night Gas Sales

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Canada announced today prohibition of the sale, delivery and distribution of gasoline from 10 p. m. to 7 a. m. in all provinces for all of Canada.

Netherlands East Indies Welcomes 96 Percent of the Quota

The Netherlands East Indies welcomed 96 percent of the quota for rubber exports to the United States.

Blackout Out New York Harbor

Coast Guardsmen remove the normal 800 candlepower light on a buoy and replace it with a ten candlepower one as part of the blackout test of New York Harbor. The ten candlepower light can barely be seen from a half-mile distance and is invisible from the air. In wartime, buoys would be blacked out entirely.

Papworth Again Named To Head Market's Board

H. M. Papworth, who has served as chairman of the advisory board of the Sanford State Market since its organization with the exception of one year, was unanimously re-elected to head the board for the coming year at a meeting held at the market last night. H. J. Lehman, manager, reported today. Mr. Papworth was introduced at the State market convention in Jacksonville last week as the oldest and first chairman of any advisory committee in the State market system. The chairman has served the Sanford market, oldest in the state, continuously except for 1939, when John Melich, Sr., was head of the advisory group.

W. A. Lefler and Gus Schmal, whose term of office had expired, were re-elected members of the advisory committee. Committee members approved a request of Harry Tooker for coloring rooms and ventilators at the citrus packing house at the market, providing the cost did not exceed $400.

A committee composed of Mr. Lehman, and Alex Johnson reported that they had interviewed dealers concerning the uniform commission to be charged for buying and handling produce on commission. Dealers said they would call a meeting at the market next season and agree upon a uniform rate and would give a report to the committee for consideration and approval.

It was decided that "buyers' cards" would be printed on stiff cardboard, advertising the market on one side and having columns and lines for the convenience of the trader to list articles bought on the reverse side. These cards will be given to traders as they enter the market.

Mr. Lehman reported that the roof of the market restaurant needed repairing, and that the rain would ruin the building unless it were fixed. The manager was instructed to take steps to repair the roof.

A report on the market meeting in Jacksonville was given by Mr. Papworth. A law approved by the recent legislature to increase and limit dealers and buyers was discussed by board members.

ARMY AWARDS CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The War Department awarded yesterday a $248,346 contract to the Army Construction Company, West Palm Beach, for paving runways and taxi strips, drainage facilities and underground ducts at the West Palm Beach airport.

The Netherlands East Indies welcomed 96 percent of the quota for rubber exports to the United States.

Roosevelt Asks Legislation To Save Power

President Requests Daylight Saving Time For Part Of South, Southeast

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for legislation to provide daylight saving time "upon such a regional or national basis, and for such part, or all, of the year, as he might deem necessary in the interest of our national defense."

Roosevelt in letters to eight Southern governors, including the Governors of Alabama, Florida and Georgia, pointed out that the nation is "faced with a serious power shortage that is impeding the national defense program." The power shortage is particularly acute in the southeast the President said.

Great Britain, denying yesterday that she was taking advantage of American lease-lend aid to promote her own export trade, asserted that she had cut her exports to the home.

The British Embassy issued a statement in reply to criticism in Congress and elsewhere. Representative O'Connor, Democrat, Montana, had asserted American exporters had complained that the British were selling American steel and other lease-lend goods to Latin America. He called for an investigation of such "double-dealing."

The embassy said it would not be in the interest of Americans for Great Britain to abandon its export trade entirely. By exporting, the statement explained, Britain earns foreign exchange to help pay her way and thus her dependence upon lease-lend aid is reduced. It added, however, that the lease-lend program makes Britain less dependent upon exports and these are fast being reduced as standing orders are filled.

Marshall Tells Need Of Extended Service

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, was disclosed today to have told Congress that specially trained Army units in the defense program should have occupied Iceland, but were prevented from doing so because of difficulties presented by the one year draft service rule.

Marshall made the statement in testimony before a Senate Military Committee, in support of legislation which would permit the retention in active service of selected and national guardsmen longer than one year.

Unless the present one year limit is removed, Marshall said, "our present trained forces will largely melt away."

War Is Preferable To Surrender, Knox Says

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox urged Monday a policy of aiding Britain "at whatever cost to ourselves," asserting "a war of defense against Nazism would be infinitely preferable to a permanent office for the surrender to Hitlerism."

In an interview marking the end of a year in the cabinet, Knox observes that "no sane man wants war" but added: "It happens to belong to a school of thinkers who regard as imperative a policy of aiding Britain at whatever cost to ourselves, to promote both our present security and future national welfare."

City Seeks To Cut Out 'Blind Corners'

Sanford residents were asked today by Mayor W. C. Hill to cooperate in trimming high shrubbery to eliminate "blind corners," cited as the cause of a number of accidents in the City limits. The City Commission, at its regular meeting at the City Hall last night, discussed the blind corner hazard, and considered an ordinance against shrubbery over 36 inches high on street corners. Mayor Hill said it was decided later, however, to ask for the public's co-operation in trimming high shrubs in places of the family and also those men who have been married recently. A letter from the national headquarters of Selective Service in Washington to the local board stated today:

Three Regiments Of Enemy Troops Destroyed In South, U. S. S. R. Asserts

German Command Reports Progress

Churchill Says Pact Means Soviet And Britain Are Allies

By Associated Press
Russia's Red Armies, striking back on the central front guarding Smolensk and Moscow, were reported today to have launched a major offensive along the Dnepr River, stormed across that vital defense stream at several points and driven the Germans back 19 miles.

In the south too, a Soviet war bulletin asserted Russian troops had won a victory with the annihilation of two German-Rumanian artillery regiments and an infantry regiment driving toward Kiev.

The Nazi High Command again used only a single sentence to describe the mammoth conflict—"Operations in the east are steadily progressing."

In contrast to the Russian claims DNR, official German news agency, asserted Soviet attempts to maintain a defense front in the Dvina, and Dnepr River sectors had been smashed and that the push toward Leningrad was proceeding despite Soviet efforts to bolster their line by hasty reinforcements.

In London, Prime Minister Churchill told Parliament the new British-Russian pact for joint war against Germany was "an alliance," and that the Russian and British peoples now were allies—but that the agreement does not mean Britain identifies itself with the "Communist creed."

The Soviet command reported earlier today that German troops were being cut down in great numbers in violent fighting in the northwest and south-west, but for the first time avoid mention of any town in the battle areas.

The omission—which observed the extent of the German advance, if any—strongly suggested Red reverses.

The Nazis previously had claimed much progress in driving toward Kiev along the southwestern front; Moscow at the center and Leningrad to the northwest.

Moscow's early morning communique, which followed official statements of yesterday that up to that time there had been no substantial change in the Red positions, declared that Russian forces in some areas were counter-attacking repeatedly.

The general impression given was of a desperate, bitter defense, fought in the west and all the Russian terminology was similarly uncomplimentary—the destruction of 100 Nazi tanks, along with a great number of other vehicles, was claimed by the Soviet command.

In the southwest, capture of many cannons, machineguns and automobiles was reported, along with "defeat" for German units of 300 men.

As to the northwest theater no detail whatever was given. In operations at sea, however, the Russians reported an unequalled success: They declared that two German destroyers, 13 loaded troop transports and a tank-laden barge were sunk and that 18 other transports and an additional destroyer were left afloat.

This was accomplished, it was added, by the Baltic squadron of the Red fleet, by naval aviation and by coast artillery without aid of any sort to the attacking Russians. The implication was that the action occurred off the coast of Estonia.

The German High Command said only the "through operations" against the Stalin Line were going forward on schedule and that the Finnish allies were striking at Leningrad's northern defenses with twin columns moving on either side of Lake Ladoga to supplement the German thrust toward that city from the southwest.
