BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

CHRIST RAINED HUMANITY
TO THE DIGNITY OF DIVINE
SONSHIP: And the high priest said, I adjure thee by the living God that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ the Son of God. Jesus saith unto him, thou hast said,
and nothing can take me out of thine hand. Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.—Matt. 26:63, 64.

LOVE FOR SALE

We live in a city apartment.
High over a busy street.
And down at the nearest corner
Where the lines of traffic meet
Is a place that is fascinating.
With "Pet Shop" over the door
Where always a dozen puppers
Are collecting over the floor.

There are crowds around its windows
At any time of the day.
Watching those puppers caper
And tussle at their play.

A rich man, a legless, a young girl
With nose pressed flat on the glass.
A pair of uttering school girls.
A sailor boy and his lass.

They say love cannot be put in a jar.
But we know we could purchase
there.

Enough real love and affection
To bankrupt a millionaire.
It is hard to get by that window.
But we keep on pursuing it up.

For life in a city apartment
Wouldn't be fair to a pup.

The Navy has purchased two municipal airports at Miami.

Argentina appears about to declare war on Germany in spite of herself.

Sam Higleyman and Seminole County are to be congratulated upon the splendid success of the scrap rubber drive in this county.

The OPA has even frozen prices on funeral caskets. It is a little thing, but it is a step toward saving the nation.

In Lebanon, Tenn. they're using wooden tires now. Not as good as rubber tires, they are nevertheless reported as better than leather.

Carl Hanton of Fort Myers says that whatever Roosevelt and Churchill may be hatching out, it better come off the next with more than pin feathers.

If you don't like the way the British are being pushed around in Libya, by a few more tanks and stamps, kick in with some more scrap rubber, and help get more help for the British.

Major General Willis Hale who took General Tinker's place as head of the air force at Hawaii, trained at MacDill Field at Tampa
and left there with Tinker
the day after Pearl Harbor was bombed. At that time Hale was a colonel.

Did you ever hear of anyone fighting from a rattlesnake bite?
Well, hear this one: A snake bitten in a circus at Camden, N. J. was bitten by one of his rattlesnakes the other day during a show. He thought he had previously removed all the venom, but he died seven hours later in a hospital.

We notice a number of enterprising Sanford business men are getting their stores ready for a scrap rubber drive which is sure to follow the formal opening of the Sanford Air Base. Believing that the early bird catches
the worm, these men are achieving a creditable record in being ready to help the Navy, and at the same time to help themselves.

Time was when an inadequate knowledge of mathematics was the mark of a "good" bridge player. Today the Army and Navy are so much more intelligent that they have eliminated this as a possible reason for a man's lack of mathematical ability.

It is a pity that the thousands of men who are now in the
armies and navies of the world
are not given the same
educational opportunities as
the men who are not.

There is a great deal of talk about the "scrap rubber drive."
But what is the real purpose of this drive? Is it to raise money for the war effort?
Or is it to help the sanitary conditions of the country?

It is a pity that the thousands of men who are now in the
armies and navies of the world
are not given the same
educational opportunities as
the men who are not.

State Revenues

We doubt if the average citizen has fully realized yet the terrific impact which gasoline and tire rationing is bound to produce upon public revenues or what the consequences of this impact are going to be. We doubt if the average citizen knows that automobile taxes constitute 45 percent of the total revenues of the State of Florida.

Figures from the Department of Commerce reveal that throughout the United States gasoline taxes, auto licenses and motor transport taxes accounted for over one billion dollars in state revenues and that on the average this was 22 percent of all state tax revenues. However, in Florida where automobile taxes are higher than in almost any other state, this percentage is 45.

In addition to straight automobile taxes, much of which is now being reduced as tires wear out, there are personal property taxes, income taxes, and a variety of other taxes which are being drastically affected. A falling station, for instance, which normally shows a profit of 10 or 15 thousand a year and employs a score of men, will not pay the same taxes now that its business has been cut in half, or eliminated altogether.

In most states automobile taxes are used almost exclusively for the construction of highways. Originally that was their purpose in Florida. And since highways can no longer be constructed anyway unless they are designated as defense highways, such states will not be vitally affected by the reduced revenues. But in Florida the passing years since gasoline taxes were first conceived have seen these revenues diverted to a multitude of uses.

With 45 percent of the State's 67 million dollar income derived from automobile taxes of one kind or another, it naturally follows that many necessary functions and institutions must suffer from any loss in these taxes. It is not likely that all of this 45 percent will be lost no matter how long the war lasts, but on the other hand it is conceivable that other revenues will suffer too, as racetracks, for instance, are affected by curtailed motoring.

Common sense dictates that public officials from the smallest county to the highest government officials should exercise every possible care in seeing to it that all public funds are husbanded to the last cent, that nothing is wasted and that all unnecessary expenses are eliminated. At the same time plans will have to be made for new forms of taxation.

The Lord Made The World Fireproof

Sometimes when I feel, in these dark days, that our civilization is at least coming to its tragic end, I recall how my father long ago used to comfort me in the troubled times of my childhood. "Don't worry too much, son," he would say. "When the Lord gave man matches to play with, he first made the world fireproof."

The world is coming to an end, says the pessimist. These are the worst of all possible times. Yet, if we rattle back through the pages of history, we find that every age was considered the worst of all possible ages.

Times apparently have always been hard and difficult and dangerous in this world of ours. Are you worried, for instance, about the staggering load of taxes you are carrying? An ancient clay tablet in the British Museum records the story of a man, more than forty centuries ago, who tried in desperation to shield his income tax.

Does the threat of inflation bother you? Of course it does. But it's nothing new. They had inflation as long ago as 415 B.C. in old Greece, at the time of the war between Athens and Corinth. The Athenians hoarded their sound, solid silver "owls" and hid them away in pots in the walls—that's why our numismatists have been able to gather such magnificent collections of Greek coins.

In Egypt, in the inflation of 333 A.D., money was so devalued that a $500 home finally required a mortgage of $1,000,000 for security, and wheat cost $2,500 a bushel. We in America, in our early pioneer days even had an inflation in Indian wampum! But, with all this, the world didn't come to an end.

Listen to this: "It is a gloomy moment of history. Never has there been so much grave and deep apprehension. The resources of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, and of our own troubles no man can see the end. That sounds familiar, doesn't it? But it isn't from a recent newspaper—it's quoted from an editorial written in 1867!"

You see—civilization is always coming to an end, yet it never does.—Wilfred Funk, Your Life Magazine.

The Last Straw

President Benjamin Harrison appointed many of his relatives to various government offices. One day a westerner, with a cowboy hat, breezed into the office of his secretary, threw his hat on the floor, and inquired, "Where's Ben?"

"You will have to wait a couple of hours," the secretary replied, "as he is engaged with the committee of foreign relations."

"Great gosh!" the westerner exclaimed. "Has he got foreign relations, too?"

And with that he picked up his 10-gallon hat and departed, never to return.—Contributed.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR SOLDIER?

By MRS. ERNEST HOUSSOLDER

Hey Soldiers! Hey Home-folks! Last week we spoke of Churchill's historic speech of June 18, 1940, in which he spoke of the desperate plight of France and the impending invasion of England.

One week later, June 25, 1940, France surrendered to the Axis. Capitulation! and after France had said she would accept nothing but an honorable peace.

Perhaps we are wrong but we believe that it helps our future, to stop now and then for a little glance at the past.

On the night of that fateful June 25, 1940, we could not sleep. The events of the day had held such ominous portent. For England, for America, for our children. Early the next morning we took the car and drove out to a little lake we know and love.

There we wrote our impression of the fall of France.

"The lake was a veil of tulle this morning edged with soft apoplex of invertebrate shadows, reflections in the water? Now at 10:00 A. M. all color is gone. The water pictures have disappeared beneath a glaring sheet of scorching brilliance and the lake is a burning mirror who knew the sun? The sun is a scorching shaft against the sky."

So much France to see under the brilliance of a scorching sun? France is a scorching shaft against the sky."

So much France to see under the brilliance of a scorching sun? France is a scorching shaft against the sky."

So much France to see under the brilliance of a scorching sun? France is a scorching shaft against the sky."

So much France to see under the brilliance of a scorching sun? France is a scorching shaft against the sky."

HELP SAVE 85,000 TONS OF RUBBER

It has been estimated that if all cars had their wheels balanced, it would save 85,000 tons of rubber a year. Unbalanced wheels literally grind the rubber off the tread—destroying driving safety. Remedy these conditions by having all wheels balanced on your car.

Germany's Main Offensive Starts North Of Kharkov

Nazis Attempt To Cut Communications In Preparation For Drive On Caucasus

(By Associated Press)
Germany's main offensive today is reported under way in the Kursk area, today south of Moscow and north of Kharkov, where the Nazis appeared to be attempting a wide move to cut communications between Russia's central and southern fronts to prepare for a drive into the Caucasus.

German troops were reported crossing the Tchernaya valley, and infiltration to one Sevastopol, hill was reported by Berlin, claiming the capture of 10,000 Russians between June 1-25.

Although the Russians were reported earlier to have recaptured several strategic points in counter-attacks near Kopyansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, the early morning communiqué revealed that the critical phase of Ukraine operations now has shifted north. It said that the Kursk direction, fighting started with German fascist troops who went over to the offensive.

Sevastopol, bombed and shelled, was apparently under German attack. The communiqué said that "yesterday (Sunday) after powerful artillery and air preparation, large enemy forces attacked. Only in one sector did they succeed in pushing our troops back. On other sectors the enemy was repelled with heavy losses."

The heaviest fighting had been reported in the area of the city of Sevastopol, the fall of which would mean the fate of the city in German hands.

Invaders Rout Chinese Unit, Tokyo Claims

Japs Report Three- Pronged Offensive Forces Defenders Of Shansi To Flee

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 29. (AP) Allied forces in their longest attack on the Japanese base at IAE and Salamaua, in northeast New Guinea, have passed today today Allied headquarters announced.

In China, strong Japanese forces in a three-pronged offensive today smashed the Chinese back on a 40-mile front on the border of southern Shansi, and captured the province, Tokyo announced. The Chinese 27th army was disorganized and compelled to flee, Tokyo claimed.

The Japanese failed to reach one of their major objectives in east China, the Tungsten fields of Kiangsu, the Chinese reported today. Devastating blows were struck by Chinese bombers.

Pilots of China's fledgling air force, flying under the tutelage of American volunteer aviators, in their first offensive activity in nearly five years of war, have sunk two Japanese warships on the Yangtze and inflicted enormous losses upon enemy ground forces in eastern Kiangsu, the Chinese reported Sunday.

Elaborating an earlier report, an announcement of these blows, the official Chinese news agency said Chinese airmen sent the two warships to the bottom last Sunday at Sinti, 65 miles south-west of Hankow in Hupeh province.

Then following up this attack, Chinese bombers rained explosives on Japanese positions in eastern Kiangsu, inflicting heavy losses.

Winging back to their base, the Chinese blasted a heavy enemy concentration at the Liangchiou river crossing 10 miles south-west of Yangchiou, Kiangsi capital, and blew up pontoon bridges across a tributary of the River. Central News said more than 200 Japanese were blown to pieces.

The Chinese, who up to now have been having to take Japan's indiscriminate air attacks with out striking back, saw their own growing air force fulfillment of United States pledges of aid in the air against the Japanese.

British Follow Bremen Blasts With Other Raids

LONDON, June 29. (AP)—The RAF bombed a submarine base at St. Nazaire and the occupied French coast in a follow-up raid of the Bremen attacks although only an average number of planes took part. One was lost. Other squadrons attacked Nazi airfields and railways in northern France. Scout planes reported Bremen is a mass of charred ruins. The British admit the damaging of the Canterbury Cathedral in Nazi reprisal raid.

The RAF rekindled the smoldering fires of devastated Bremen overnight in the second massive assault within three days upon that sprawling ground or submarine sprawling the Atlantic and Sunday the word in London was: "There can't be much left of Bremen."

The Air Ministry, without disclosing just how many planes participated in this return raid upon Germany's second largest port, said it was made by a "strong force," the same phrase used to describe obliteration raids by more than 1,000 bombers Thursday night against Bremen and earlier against Cologne and Essen.

New Big fires were added to those still burning from the last attack Thursday night. The Ministry said of the 95th RAF assault of the war upon the once-thriving German port and ship-building center.

The night-raiding British bombers, mostly American-made and RAF-Manned Bombers, blasted other places in North-west Germany, air fields and war plants of inland and coastal targets. The London Airplane, in Britain, came in for a particularly violent attack. One enemy ship was bombed and left aflame off Cherbourg.
