Legislators Hope To Bump Casino Issue Off Ballot

Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

An attorney general candidate opposed to casino gambling has filed a petition in district court asking that the proposed Florida constitutional amendment regarding casinos be declared unconstitutional and removed from the November ballot.

The petition, filed in the First District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee by Rep. Jim Watt, R-Lake Park, states the proposed amendment violates the right of due process, equal protection and the state constitution. Joining in the petition with Watt is Rep. Dan Webster, R-Orlando.

Watt and Webster said they oppose the proposed amendment fearing it will import more crime to Florida and hurt Florida's image as a family vacation place.

The proposed amendment, placed on the fall ballot by a petition of 343,000 signatures — two-thirds from Dade and Broward counties — would allow casino gambling in counties where approved by local referendum and only in hotels of 500 "sleeping units" or more.

The proposed amendment also directs the legislature to enact laws governing casinos in the first legislative session following the amendment should it pass. The proposed amendment would approve baccarat, blackjack or twenty-one, craps, keno, poker, roulette, French roulette and slot machines. Other types games of chance could also be authorized by general law.

Watt and Webster say the proposed amendment denies residents in 61 counties the right to due process by limiting the number of counties that can hold a referendum on the issue to six. They state that the proposed amendment allows certain counties to determine if they want gambling in their area by holding an "initiative referendum." Such a referendum, they say, can only be held in charter counties, of which there are six. Since the majority of the counties in Florida are not charter counties, that therefore denies those citizens equal consideration under the proposed amendment, they say.

Seminole County's attorney, Nikki Clayton, said however, that she considered that argument weak in that the legislature can give non-charter counties the authority to hold referendums.

The difference between charter and non-charter counties is basically in the extent of local control. Counties are a political subdivision of the state and those with charters have less local control than other counties. Ms. Clayton said. Charter counties in Florida are Dade, Duval, Volusia, Broward, Sarasota and Hillsborough.

Watt and Webster also state in the suit that the proposed constitutional amendment denies citizens equal protection. In this case, the right of a citizen to receive the same consideration as everyone else. Since the proposal would limit casino's to hotels with more than 500 "sleeping units," they say that does not give those who

In Lake Mary

Speed, Curve Deadly For Motorcyclist

A 22-year-old Longwood motorcyclist died Sunday after a single vehicle accident in Lake Mary, according to Lake Mary police.

Dead is John Mason Rowsey II, 128 Continental Boulevard, Longwood. The accident occurred on Country Club Road south of Leale Lane, at about 1:45 Sunday afternoon.

According to patrolman Kreig Raffety, Rowsey was apparently driving his 1980 Kawasaki at a high rate of speed, and failed to negotiate a curve on Country Club Road.

The motorcycle left the road, hit a traffic sign, and skidded into some trees. Raffety said there were no skid marks, and estimated the motorcycle's speed at 65 m.p.h. The posted speed limit in the area of the accident is 45 m.p.h., according to the accident report.

According to the fire department rescue report, paramedics Gary and Linda Zitrower, Lake Mary, were first on the accident scene, and administered CPR in an effort to save the victim, before Lake Mary rescue arrived.

Rowsey was reported to be suffering from severe head and chest injuries, and the impact of the crash cracked his helmet. Raffety said.

Lake Mary fire department rescuers continued to administer CPR when they arrived. The victim was transported by ambulance to South Seminole Community Hospital, where he was pronounced dead, the fire department report said.

According to Lake Mary police, Rowsey was an Orange County Public Utilities employee.

Bowing To Residents' Wishes

Developers Will Move Waste Plant

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Alternate sites are being considered for Lake Mary's Wastewater Treatment Plant, to be constructed and operated by the developers of the $105 million Timacuan Golf and Country Club. Residents of the Rantoul Lane and Crystal Lake area of the city were pleased that the site will be moved away from their homes.

The plant location will be discussed again at the May 1 regular city commission meeting.

Timacuan is a 643.6-acre, 1,097-home golf and country club project, planned for an area south of County Road 46A, west of Country Club Road, east of Rantoul Lane, and north of the western edge of Crystal Lake.

Lake Mary's city commission has been working with the project developers on the planned "interim/permanent" wastewater treatment facility, as part of the city's master wastewater plan, which will eventually provide sewer service to some sections of the city. While the city is using that plan, commissioners will decide if they want to remain in partnership with the Timacuan plant, or opt to enter into a wastewater treatment agreement with the City of Sanford or Seminole County, hence the "interim-permanent" tag on the plant. The city expects to use the facility for five years while studying its options.

"The plant will not be built on Rantoul Lane," developer Dr. Hubert Earley told residents and city commissioners Friday in a public hearing at Lake Mary city hall on the development order for the project.

"We object to the issuance of the development order until the plant site is determined. I impose that objection until the plant site is official," said attorney Thomas DeWolf, who represents the North Crystal Lake Home Owners Association.

The location of the plant brought public outcry from over 100 area residents at Tuesday night's city Planning and Zoning Board meeting. They objected to the plant's proposed location, which was planned to be moved from a northern site on County Road 46A to Rantoul Lane near their homes. Earley had told the commission of the planned move of the plant site to Rantoul Lane at the April 17 commission meeting.

Homeowners' attorney Thomas DeWolf objects to the development getting a go-ahead before the waste treatment plant site is determined.

At the April 17 meeting, Earley told commissioners that the site had been moved at the request of Residential Communities of America, whose Hills of Lake Mary development is planned for 46A, near the former site.

Gun In Assassination Plot Linked To Libya

ROME (UPI) — A silencer-equipped pistol was smuggled into Italy through Libyan diplomatic channels as part of a failed plot to assassinate the U.S., Egyptian and Saudi ambassadors to Italy, the Il Messaggero newspaper reported.

The gun was to have been used by Rageb Hammouda Daghigh, who authorities said was hired by a Libyan diplomat and a former Libyan diplomat to kill U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Rabb, Egyptian Ambassador Yehia Rifast and Saudi Ambassador Khaled El Nasser Al

Torki. The investigation into the alleged plot found the silencer-equipped Walther P-38 pistol was part of an arms shipment to Libya from a German firm. Il Messaggero reported Sunday. Investigators were able to identify the gun as part of the shipment because its registration number had been engraved through a special process.

The newspaper said prosecutor Rosario Priore's investigation determined the pistol arrived in Italy through Libyan diplomatic channels.

Walkathon Expected To Triple Record

From Staff And Wire Reports

Nearly 400 walkers, many pushing baby strollers, took part in the March of Dimes WalkAmerica fundraiser in Sanford Saturday, according to Shirley Schilke, chairman of the event. She said the final tally of money raised through sponsor pledges-in not yet available, but last year nearly $6,000 was raised by 167 walkers, so she expects the total to be three times that this year.

"This year's walk was very upbeat," Mrs. Schilke said.

On Indonesia Trip

Reagan Will Skirt Human Rights Issue

HONOLULU (UPI) — Despite pleas from members of Congress and several organizations, President Reagan will not press the Indonesian government on the question of human rights abuses, an administration spokesman says.

Reagan, who has promoted his trip to Indonesia and Japan as a journey on "the winds of freedom," said Sunday while "The U.S. has a fundamental commitment to ... economic, political and social progress in East Asia ... we believe that Asian nations are the masters of their own fate.

"They must work out solutions to problems on their own according to their own particular, and often unique circumstances."

The human rights question threatened to overshadow the first visit of an American President to Indonesia since its 1975 violent annexation of the former Portuguese colony of East Timor.

Reagan will meet with President Suharto on Thursday before joining the foreign ministers meeting of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations — Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Brunei.

Spokesman Larry Speakes called allegations of corruption in the 20-year-old Suharto regime "an internal matter."

Asked how Reagan could ignore allegations from human rights and religious groups that the government had killed perhaps 100,000 East Timorese and continues to torture opponents and censor the press, Speakes replied, "I just don't have anything on that."

More than 100 congressmen from both parties wrote Reagan last week urging him "to add the plight of the people of East Timor to your agenda" and bring to bear on Suharto "the prestige and moral influence of the United States."

Arriving in Honolulu Saturday, Reagan said, "The foreign ministers we'll meet in Bali represent nations that have each in large part embraced human liberty, both political and economic."

In Bali, 11 suspected terrorists have been barred entry to Indonesia as the government tightened security in preparation for Reagan's visit, center U.S. officials said.

He leaves for the economic summit in Tokyo next Friday.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Libya Clamps Restrictions On European Diplomats

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI) — Libya, responding to a European crackdown on its diplomats, will expel some European diplomats and impose travel restrictions on those who remain, one Western diplomat said.

Word of the retaliatory diplomatic sanctions came Sunday amid reports of an impending shake-up in Moammar Khadafi's government.

The Western diplomat said European representatives were summoned to the Foreign Ministry Saturday and told of the planned expulsions and travel restrictions. He said they were told the action was being taken in retaliation for a decision by the European Community foreign ministers last week to cut the size of Libya's diplomatic and trade missions in Europe.

A Libyan television report said the heads of missions from Greece, Italy, Spain, France, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark were told Libya "rejects the measures adopted by the European Community countries."

Still No Royal Title

WINDSOR, England (UPI) — The body of the duchess of Windsor was returned to Britain for burial beside the king who renounced his throne to marry her. But Buckingham Palace indicated it would not posthumously grant her the honor she was denied in life — the title of "royal highness."

A ceremony with full military honors was held in Paris before the body of the duchess — the former Wallis Warfield Simpson — was flown to England Sunday for burial beside her husband in the royal plot at Windsor Castle.

A palace source said the letters HRH, for "her royal highness," would not be engraved on the duchess's tombstone, as some court followers had suggested.

During the duchess's life, the royal family refused her that recognition, even though her husband — the former King Edward VIII — called the refusal an insult and vowed never to live in Britain until the honor was extended to his twice-divorced American wife.

The British establishment refused to accept Simpson because of her two divorces. Edward VIII, saying he could not rule without "the woman I love," gave up his throne in 1936 to marry her.

The duchess died Thursday at her home in Paris at age 89. Her husband died in 1972. She will be buried beside him Tuesday at Frogmore, the royal burial ground at Windsor Castle.

Haiti Blames 'Agitators'

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The government, facing calls for a general strike and demands for its resignation, blamed "agitators" for a bloody clash between police and demonstrators that left as many as eight people dead.

The confrontation, the bloodiest since former President Jean-Claude Duvalier fled the country nearly three months ago, prompted calls from some opposition leaders for the resignation of Haiti's interim government. Other opposition leaders called for a general strike today.

The Interior Ministry Sunday pledged to ferret out the agitators responsible for the bloodshed and said it was shocked by opposition politicians "who immediately tried to capitalize on the deaths of those victims to call all the Haitians on a general strike or to revolt."

Police opened fire Saturday on a crowd of about 12,000 demonstrators commemorating the deaths of dozens of people killed in an April 26, 1983, massacre of opponents of Duvalier's father, Francois.

The government defended the police action, saying officers inside the fort opened fire as the crowd surged forward.

Authorities said six people were killed — three by bullets and three accidentally electrocuted by high-voltage wires knocked to the ground by the panicked crowd. Doctors at the University of the State Hospital said two more victims died of bullet wounds Saturday night and Sunday morning, pushing the total to eight.

Thatcher: No Appeasement

LONDON (UPI) — Rejecting charges she was "President Reagan's poodle," Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Britain might support more U.S. military actions against "tyrants" in the Middle East to deter terrorism.

Describing herself as "more like a bulldog" than a poodle, the prime minister told British Broadcasting Corp. radio the United States' bombing of Libya forced other nations to realize they must do more to combat terrorism.

In her first in-depth interview since she approved the participation of British-based U.S. fighter-bombers in the April 15 strikes, she compared appeasing terrorists to appeasing Nazi Germany in the 1930's and said that this time "it would have been jolly easy for Britain to run away."

Thatcher said the bombing served as a warning and deterrent to terrorists and nations sponsoring their activities and "have brought many, many countries up rather sharply to realize they really had not been doing enough against terrorism."

She said the bombings gave leaders promoting state-sponsored terrorism a warning that they face punishment. "That in itself is a deterrent," she said.

Coronation Celebration Ends

MBABANE, Swaziland (UPI) — Swaziland's schoolboy king ascended to the throne in feathers and leopard skins but donned a frock coat and top hat for a garden party that ended the three-day celebration of his coronation as the world's youngest monarch.

Eighteen-year-old King Mawati III skipped his coronation banquet because he was tired but appeared on the steps of his Loxitha Palace Sunday in full formal attire — frock coat, top hat and striped trousers — for a garden party that wrapped up the coronation festivities.

The king has been studying at England's exclusive Sherborn School, where he is known to friends as "Mac." Sherborn headmaster Ralph Mowat told reporters the monarch was expected back at school in June for final exams.

The king Sunday looked relaxed and healthy but appeared slightly overwhelmed by the attention afforded him as ruler of 850,000 subjects in the mountain state sandwiched between white-ruled South Africa and Marxist Mozambique.

Car Bomb Defused in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Army bomb disposal experts defused a large car bomb primed to explode at the assembly point of a Protestant parade in downtown Belfast.

Police said they rushed to the scene Sunday after receiving an anonymous telephone tip.

Bomb disposal experts managed to defuse the bomb only hours before 500 members of the Protestant Orange Order were due to assemble for a parade to church services Sunday.

British Tourist Slain At Holy Land Shrine

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A British tourist was shot and killed outside the Garden Tomb, a Christian holy site in Jerusalem's Arab sector. A government source said the slaying apparently was carried out in retaliation for the U.S. attack on Libya.

Paul Appleby, 28, of Bristol, England, was shot once in the back of the head Sunday as he stood at the gate to the Garden Tomb, two blocks north of the predominantly Arab Old City, authorities said. The Garden Tomb was closed Sunday.

No group or individual immediately claimed responsibility for the shooting.

"Police think it is an act of terrorism," Israel Radio reported.

Authorities said they could not determine if the killing was related to anti-British sentiment in the Middle East, sparked by Britain's support role in the U.S. air raid on Libya on April 15.

But a source in the office of Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek said the attack appeared to be linked to increased tension in the Middle East brought about by the U.S. air raid on Libya.

Cable Case Prompts New Look At First Amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cable television is not only giving millions of homes access to dozens of channels, but also is forcing the Supreme Court to take another look at the First Amendment.

The justices Tuesday will consider whether cable television operators have the same right to string their yards of wire as publishers have to print newspapers.

Local governments say they do not and will urge the court to sanction the increasingly monopolistic nature of cable television.

The case before the court is from Los Angeles, which is appealing a ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals striking down its auction process for awarding cable franchises.

The court ruled that because cable television is a form of expression protected by the First Amendment, cities do not have free rein to regulate it.

The high court's ruling, expected by July, will reach to the nation's 38 million cable subscribers and the 22,117 communities with the power to grant cable television franchises.

Halley's Comet Peanut-Shaped

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Data from the Giotto space probe indicates Halley's Comet is peanut-shaped and may be a fragment of a much larger object that was shattered during a cosmic collision ages ago, an astronomer said today.

"Information from the space probe Giotto will force people to form new ideas on the origin and nature of comets. A lot of our previous impressions were wrong," said University of Florida astronomer Derral Mulholland.

The most widely accepted scientific thinking proposes that Halley and other comets were formed individually from the huge dust cloud that gave birth to the sun and planets in our solar system.

Mulholland, a member of the scientific organization International Halley Watch, based his theory on data beamed from inside the tail of Halley's Comet by Giotto, which got within 400 miles of the comet's nucleus.

Mulholland recently returned from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., where he examined high-resolution photos from Giotto. The pictures show that the nucleus of Halley's Comet is shaped like a peanut.

"The shape of the nucleus strongly suggests that Halley's Comet is a chunk of a larger object that was broken up, most likely by impact," Mulholland said.

Giotto cameras showed Halley's Comet measures 5.4 miles by 9 miles. Mulholland said that shape is consistent with that of fragments of bodies that have been shattered apart. Laboratory experiments firing projectiles into rocks at very high speed indicate that objects shatter into similar shapes.

The fragment theory does not necessarily conflict with the dust cloud theory because the larger body that Halley may have shattered from could have coalesced from the solar system's primordial dust cloud, Mulholland said.

Giotto also revealed that virtually all the gas that escapes from the comet and forms its tail comes from the interior, and not off the surface, as scientists had previously thought.

"The original idea was that Halley was a large ball of ice that sublimed, or turned directly from ice to gas, from the surface layer as it heated up when its orbit took it closer to the sun," said Jerry Weinberg, a University of Florida astronomer who helped design one of Giotto's 10 experiments.

Apparently as the sun heats the comet, frozen water beneath the surface of Halley sublimates, and "spurts" out of the comet through what astronomers term "blowholes."

Mulholland said computer-enhanced photos from Giotto show "crater-like features on the surface of Halley."

One of these crater-like features is a six-tenths of a mile across and "showed some hint of a central uplift, indicating impact," Mulholland said.

"If the material that forms the tail had been sublimating regularly from the surface, the crater with the central peak would have been worn away," Mulholland said.

Weinberg said that as Giotto dove through Halley's tail it was sandblasted with dust particles travelling at 42 miles per second.

"I'm surprised it survived. I thought it would be sandblasted out of commission," he said.

Giotto performed so well on the Halley's mission that the European Space Agency is considering another cosmic rendezvous between the satellite and another comet in the 1990s.

He/She Ex-Cop Jailed

HILLSBORO, Ore. (UPI) — A woman who washed out as a police officer in Florida and has lived as a man following surgery is jailed on charges of running a coast-to-coast credit card and checking scam, officials said.

The former Linda Susan Schaefer, 26, who was booked under the name of Michael Joseph Fitzgerald, was sought in warrants from Florida, Utah and Oregon charging theft, perjury and parole violation, deputies said Sunday.

The suspect had her breasts removed and adopted male names, officials said, at one time working as a male supervisor at a juvenile facility in Utah, officials said.

Authorities believe she has used more than 30 aliases in Florida, Texas, Arizona, Utah and Oregon, deputies said.

Capt. Ozzie Carlton of the Cocoa, Fla., Police Department said the suspect was accepted as a police officer trainee in 1980 or 1981 "but she didn't make it through our probation period so we let her go."

"We had some problems with her work," he said. "She didn't handle her complaints right and we also got complaints about her."

The suspect was held in the Washington County jail in lieu of $206,000 bail, spokeswoman Sherre Calouris said.

In Utah, where she worked as a supervisor at a Cedar City juvenile facility, she is wanted under the name Robert Joseph Davis on charges of supplying minors with a controlled substance, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and assault, Calouris said.

She is accused of passing a $774 fraudulent check to buy a television set and videocassette recorder.

CIA To Sponsor Bingo Party

A free bingo game will be held by Lake Mary's Community Improvement Association Monday night, according to CIA President Charlie Webster.

"It's an introduction for what we hope will be weekly Wednesday afternoon bingo," Webster said.

Monday's bingo game will be held following a brief 7:30 p.m. CIA business meeting. A social hour featuring coffee and cookies will be held after the game.

Prizes for Monday night's game have been donated by local merchants, Webster said. The weekly Wednesday games, which are planned for the near future, will offer cash prizes. The bingo games, to be held in the new CIA Civic Center on Country Club Road north of Lake Mary Boulevard, are open to the public, according to Webster.

The CIA is a community service, non-profit organization.

Judges Shift Caseloads

Circuit judges in Seminole County will be shifting the types of cases they will hear in an annual change of workload.

Starting July 1, the judges will divvy among more judges divorces, adoptions, probate and mental health cases and two judges will switch positions. The change of caseload follows a Florida Supreme Court guideline that judges switch caseload each year to give them broad experience, according to the circuit's chief judge Clarence Johnson in Titusville.

He said the civil case load was divided up and given to judges hearing because there were more civil cases than criminal cases filed.

In July Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. will assume juvenile cases and one-third of divorces and adoptions. Mize's case load since July has been half the civil cases including half of the divorces and adoptions.

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saffi, who is handling juvenile and all of probate and mental health cases, will handle civil cases and one third of divorces and adoptions.

Circuit judges Kenneth M. Leffler and Robert B. McGregor, who share all criminal cases, will continue with the criminal cases and split the probate and mental health case load.

Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. will continue handling half the civil cases and hear one-third of the divorce and adoption workload.

In July, 1985, the judges began to split the case load at the courthouse to better handle the rising number of cases that are filed each year.

According to circuit records a total of 6,516 cases were filed in Seminole Circuit Court in 1985. Of those, 4,421 were civil cases, of which 4,128 were disposed of. In criminal court, 2,095 cases were filed and 1,756 disposed of within the year.

In 1984 the total number of cases filed — civil and criminal — were 3,488.

Another judge has been recommended by the Florida Supreme Court for the circuit but the legislature has not approved it. It is scheduled to be discussed during the current session.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A weekend storm system that ravaged the nation's midsection with killer tornadoes and relentless rain weakened as it moved east today, but officials in the Plains kept a careful watch on rivers swollen by storm runoff. Balm temperatures that set record highs at 35 locations in 13 states from Illinois to Florida Sunday also shifted into the East, while more seasonable temperatures returned to the Midwest. A line of showers and thunderstorms moved over the Plains and Mississippi Valley early today, but they were not expected to cause as much trouble as they did Saturday and Sunday. "The whole system is weakening," said National Weather Service meteorologist Bill Barlow. "There'll be thunderstorms, but they'll be few and far between." During the weekend, the storm system spun tornadoes in Texas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa, where 4-year-old girl was killed by a twister, and produced winds of up to 70 mph that caused millions of dollars in damage. Runoff from the storms, which dumped more than 2 inches of rain in northeastern Texas, prompted flood watches from South Dakota to Texas. "When something like this does happen our weather spotter keeps track of the river levels, and if the rivers do happen to take a quick rise, we get hold of our civil defense director," said Rick Deen, a dispatcher from Monona County in southwest Iowa. In east-central Texas, Highway 21 near Midway was flooded briefly Sunday, but no major damage was reported. "We had some real heavy rains," said Madison County dispatcher Dorothy McFarland.

Bank Robber Hits The First In Casselberry

At about 12:50 p.m. Friday a man armed with a handgun approached teller Ardella S. Meyer, 30, of Longwood, at The First financial center, 2501 Howell Branch Road in Casselberry.

Ms. Meyer handed over an undisclosed number of $20 bills and the bandit fled.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported that the suspect, believed to be in his 30s and apparently Spanish, is about 5-feet, 6-inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds.

DRUG ARRESTS
In one incident City/County Investigation Bureau agents reported the arrest of one man for the sale of counterfeit marijuana. In another case agents charged two in connection with the sale and possession of cocaine. All arrests and deals were reportedly made in the North Street area on the outskirts of Altamonte Springs.

In the first case, it took sheriff's deputies until Friday to track down the man who allegedly sold a bag of phony pot to agents on Thursday. The man, who allegedly ran from agents when they tried to arrest him immediately after the 8:15 p.m. Thursday sale, has also been charged with resisting arrest.

Preston Simpson, 26, who was reportedly identified from a photo lineup by agents was nabbed at the Altamonte Men's Club on North Street at about 4 p.m. Friday. He has been released on bond.

In the other incident, a 20-year-old Winter Park man who allegedly met agents at Disco Foods on County Road 427 at about 9 p.m. Friday and agreed to pay one-third of the cost of $30 worth of cocaine with them has been arrested. The other male suspect who allegedly met the agents and the Winter Park man on North Street and allegedly sold them three "rocks" of cocaine has also been charged with sale and possession of cocaine.

After the deal was reportedly made, the agents who were still with the Winter Park man drove on to the Gate service station on County Road 427 at State Road 436 and arrested him. The other man was arrested about 20 minutes later on North Street, an arrest report said.

Gregory Lynn McQuigly, 20, of 3913 Woodglade Cove, Winter Park, was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond and Jacques W. Durhan, 21, of 339 Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs, has been released on bond.

THREE BATTERED
A 23-year-old Sanford man allegedly hit his wife, as well as a man and woman who tried to assist her, after the wife asked the suspect to turn down his stereo at about 1 a.m. Saturday. He has been charged with battery-spouse abuse and two additional counts of battery.

The incident occurred at the home of Linda Stone of 48 Shenandoah Village, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, and under the influence:

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving

—Ricardo J. De La Cruz, 40, of Orlando, was arrested at 1:30 a.m. Saturday after his car was in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park.

—Thomas Dwight Addison, 28, of Miami Shores, at 2:06 a.m. Saturday after his vehicle failed to maintain a single lane on Dodd Road in southeast Seminole County.

—Jeffrey Frances Watkins, 35, of Orlando, at 2:40 a.m. Saturday after he was found slumped in the driver's seat of his pickup truck which was stalled on the roadside of State Road 434 at State Road 436, Altamonte

Spring.

Soviet Hypocrisy In Its Posturing

It is incredible that the Soviet Union can profess to be morally outraged by the American attack on Libya. The Soviet Union called the U.S. strike against terrorist facilities in Libya "criminal" and canceled a meeting between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and the Soviet foreign minister. Cancellation of the meeting raised speculation that Moscow may also call off a planned superpower summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Washington's response to this situation should be and appears to be, so what?

"If they do not wish to meet, so be it," State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said April 16. Mr. Kalb also noted that if either superpower is guilty of a crime in Libya, it is the Soviet Union. Speaking with reporters, Mr. Kalb said that if Moscow had heeded U.S. requests to restrain the Libyans, a cycle of violence that led to the American attack could have been avoided.

The United States, Mr. Kalb disclosed, informed the Soviet Union more than a week before the April 5 discotheque bombing in Berlin that killed an American soldier that Libya was planning to commit a terrorist act in that city.

"We urged the Soviets and East Germans to restrain the Libyans," Mr. Kalb said.

It also was the Soviet Union that armed Libya's mad leader, Moammar Khadafy, with SA-5 missiles.

Mr. Kalb said Moscow was warned that the missiles might encourage Col. Khadafy to "take risks which would force us to respond. This, in fact, turned out to be the case."

The truth, of course, is that the Soviet Union has encouraged Mr. Khadafy's terrorist attacks against Americans and others. Against this background, the Soviets cannot expect intelligent people to take seriously their condemnation on moral grounds of the U.S. strike against Libya.

It tells much about the comparative values of the two superpowers that the United States ordered its warplanes to attack terrorist bases, whereas the Soviet Union's most dramatic use of its warplanes was to shoot down a South Korean civilian airliner in 1983, killing all 269 persons aboard.

It also is significant that Secretary of State Shultz met with his Soviet counterpart a week after the Soviets downed the airliner because the United States recognizes the importance of maintaining a dialogue.

The Reagan administration is eager to proceed toward a second Reagan-Gorbachev meeting, but will not try to force the issue.

Soviet officials obviously felt they must continue posturing for a while, which at least is a more acceptable pastime than some of their other favorite activities.

In the meantime, it is a refreshing switch to listen to Moscow futilely protesting an action by the United States.

Tick Tock

Chronobiology, the New York Times informs us, is a hot topic of scientific research. It's about time.

Chronobiology, for the uninitiated, is the study of internal clocks, the physiological mechanisms that set the pace for the rhythms of life. Set to the passage of the seasons, the months and the days, their ticking influences a variety of life processes in animals and humans. For example, a biological clock, researchers report, turns the sleek grayish summer fur of the Siberian hamster into a thick white pelt in the winter.

The mysteries of biological clocks have been on our mind lately, for it's the season when nature's gears don't mesh well. Mostly the groggy musings happen about 5 a.m., at least by the digital alarm clock. Outside the window the sky is already light and the birds, whose internal clocks read midmorning, are in full chorus. Downstairs, the toddler, who a month ago had to be aroused at 7, is insistently chirping, too. At such moments, it seems the scientists have left the big questions unanswered.

Why, we wonder, when the Timex and our biological clock say night, does his so notably say day? Does a biological clock naturally run down or have we hit its snooze button once too often? As daylight-savings time approached, did it make more biological sense to ignore the clock and get up? Or was it more therapeutic to curse the politicians who won't move daylight time to the end of March and then pull the pillow over our head?

The Siberian hamster, we are sure, is a worthy creature, but, researchers, let's get on to the important issues, and soon, please.

Goldwater TV Piece Cost Reagan His 'Career'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At a Heritage Foundation dinner Tuesday night, President Reagan noted how he was warned back in 1964 "that a certain TV broadcast" he did for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "would certainly end my career."

The speech was delivered at the Republican National Convention where Goldwater became the presidential nominee. Reagan, as keynote, delivered the speech "A Time for Choosing."

"You know, come to think of it," he said, "they were right. It did end my career — at least one of them."

He referred to his acting career.

Former President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter are amazed at their daughter Amy's political activism, according to friends.

Amy, who attends Brown University, has been arrested twice for demonstrations against South Africa's apartheid policies. The Carters, friends say, are surprised that their quiet little girl, now 18, has become a crusader for causes they too believe in.

Concerns over security on presidential trips abroad have increased over the years. It's that kind of a world. Usually the White House press corps is filled with anticipation and excitement over the prospect of world travel with the president.

As they head for the Tokyo economic summit, fears of terrorism have made some of the traveling corps, including technicians and cameramen, uneasy and they are displaying some concern.

There are new restrictions, all emanating from tighter security, that will make everyone's work harder in reporting on presidential doings.

Julie Nixon is writing a book about her mother Pat that is expected to be out sometime late this year or early next year.

Although President Nixon is making a striking comeback in some ways, Mrs. Nixon has remained out of the limelight, apparently by choice, and the glare of public life no longer interests her. In fact, she was a reluctant participant in the 1968 campaign when Nixon ran for the presidency for the second time and won. She had enjoyed the intervening years as a private person when Nixon was defeated by John F. Kennedy in 1960.

So it is not likely that she will be making the rounds again with her husband as he takes to the lecture circuit and tries to put the Watergate scandal behind him.

Margaret Truman, who has written several books, has just published a biography of her mother, Bess Truman, that is loving and candid and reveals many insights of the former first lady that could only be surmised on the surface during her days in the White House.

Few knew that Mrs. Truman's father had committed suicide and the mark it left on the entire family.

Pesticides Causing Concern

Cesar Chavez says there is a "cancer cluster" at McFarland in California's Kern County where the incidence among children between the ages of 3 and 11 is 400 percent higher than the national average.

It's even worse at Valdez in Fresno County — 450 percent — and there are others. Birth defects are also a growing problem in the same areas for the same reason. And that is, Chavez says, pesticide poisoning.

Chavez, the leader of the United Farm Workers union, is leading another nationwide grape boycott. This time the key issue is the use — or misuse — of pesticides.

His union's complaints with pesticides are several. Some, known to be harmful, are being used illegally. Many others have not been adequately tested for safety. And even where there have been tests, tolerance levels are suspect.

"They can be used legally," says Chavez. "But legally means politically. It doesn't mean scientifically. All these decisions are made by politicians, not by scientists."

Application is also a problem. Drift from sprayed croplands deposits pesticides over wide areas. Workers in the fields get a double dose, but the "contiguous population" — everyone living in the area — is also exposed to the airborne poisons.

Finally, there is the residue. To do their work, pesticides must stay on the fruit. And, to make sure they do, they are applied with an oil-base adhesive.

"When it's sprayed on, it stays on," says Chavez. "The residue just sticks to the grape. You can't wash it off because of that adhesive."

The union wants the five most lethal of 27 pesticides now in widest use banned outright. One, the fungicide Captan, has been specifically implicated in birth defects and cancer. Two others, Parathion and Phosdrin, readily absorbed through the skin, are held responsible for the greatest number of pesticide poisonings and deaths among farm workers.

As it happens, support for the farm workers' position on pesticide has been recently forthcoming from Washington, including one unexpected quarter. The chemical industry is joining in efforts to tighten existing federal legislation that governs testing. Spokesmen at congressional hearings have acknowledged that exposure is now a problem affecting virtually every American.

The Environmental Protection Agency is also getting more actively involved. It now ranks pesticide control first among the nation's most urgent pollution problems.

JACK ANDERSON

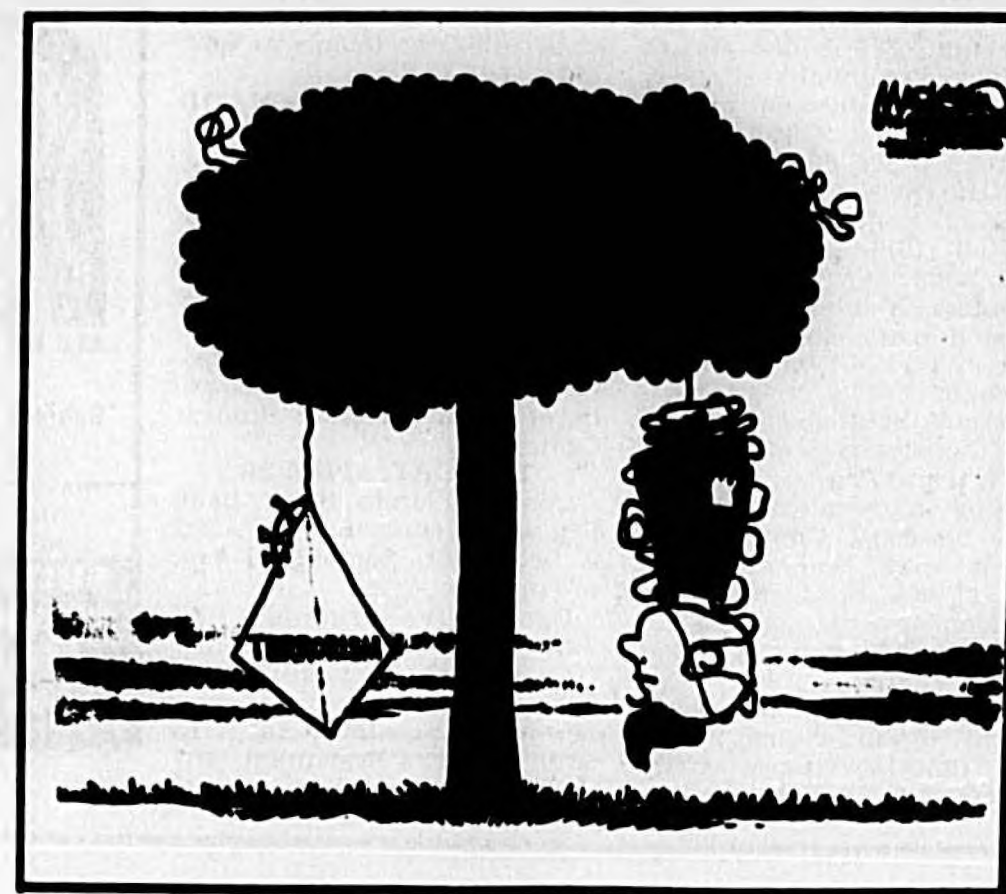

U.S. Quietly Supporting Iran

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini, not Libya's Moammar Khadafy, directs the world's most deadly terrorist network. Yet incredibly, the Reagan administration has begun a hush-hush, barely perceptible tilt toward Iran.

Take the question of hostages, for example. The implacable Khomeini, not Khadafy, controls the fate of American hostages. Washington has been quietly conciliatory in the behind-the-scenes negotiations with Iran over the American hostages held by pro-Iranian terrorists.

This dramatic, subterranean shift in policy toward Iran goes beyond the fate of the hostages into the realm of global geopolitics. President Reagan has been convinced by his advisers (though there are still

Raids Trouble Pentagon

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Under the Reagan administration, the Pentagon has won billions of dollars to upgrade the U.S. arsenal. Yet during the Libyan crisis, fear of failure made it reluctant to act forcefully.

Why are Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger and some of the Pentagon brass — such as Adm. William Crowe, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — so reluctant to use U.S. military power?

Most Washington experts believe they fear failure on the part of the $1.5-trillion military machine they've built during the past six years.

This fear of criticism is said to have led to Weinberger's sharp denials, after the U.S. air raid on Tripoli, that the French Embassy or civilian targets were hit — or, when it was confirmed that they were, that the damage might have been done by U.S. bombs.

"That's not possible," was Weinberger's first reaction, followed by a technical explanation of the accuracy of the laser aiming system used by the attack aircraft.

When it became obvious that it was not only possible, but true, the fallback theory was offered: A downed F-111 had lost its bombs after being hit.

Finally, with the greatest reluctance, the Pentagon admitted that in the dark, amid anti-aircraft fire someone missed his intended target.

Some of Weinberger's worst fears have been coming to pass in the wake of the Libyan raid. It's reported that aiming problems prevented up to seven of the 18 F-111s from dropping their bombs.

The Pentagon boasts that the F-111 has the world's best night-fighting capability — and some on Capitol Hill are asking why we've spent hundreds of millions of dollars for this, since nearly a third of the planes couldn't complete their mission.

At the start of the U.S.-Libya military confrontation, a wary Defense Department had to be prodded into action by the White House national security advisor, Vice Adm. John Poindexter.

White House sources say that, at first, the Pentagon was totally opposed to challenging Khadafy's "line of death" in the Gulf of Sidra; it had to be directly ordered before it would fully cooperate in planning the maneuvers.

Once the decision was made to go forward, Weinberger and Secretary of State George Shultz disagreed about what the task force should do if attacked by Libyan forces. Shultz wanted a highly aggressive response, while Weinberger pushed for the most minimal response, depending on the provocation.

It's reported that, in the end, Poindexter came up with a compromise — the "doctrine of proportional response." Under this plan, Libyan military targets would be struck in escalating stages, depending on the seriousness of Libya's provocation. This became the basis for the "rules of engagement" that the Sixth Fleet fleet commander, Vice Adm. John Kelso, carried with him into the Gulf.

Immediately after the terrorist bombing of the LaBelle Club in West Berlin, the Pentagon was ready with a list of possible military targets to hit in Libya. However, sources say that Pentagon planners chose a very limited range of targets, citing their understanding of the proportional-response doctrine.

some dissenters) that an effort must be made to establish relations with Ayatollah Khomeini.

Their concern is that, without an American presence at all in Tehran, the Soviets may be tempted to occupy northern Iran during any post-Khomeini period of confusion or chaos. When we asked about the warming-up with Iran, one high-level State Department official tacitly confirmed the development by snapping testily: "We deal with the Soviet Union. We deal with Syria. So why not Iran?"

A clue to the surprising change in direction toward Iran can be detected by reading between the lines of President Reagan's hard-line denunciations of Khadafy. Reagan appears to hold Khadafy primarily responsible for the murders of Americans at the Rome and Vienna airports last December, as well as for subsequent terrorist attacks.

However, the terrorist Abu Nidal is known to have masterminded the airport attacks and may have engineered the later ones. Yet in 1983, when Iraq expelled him because it wanted better relations with the United States, Nidal went to Khomeini for help — and got it. Our sources estimate that the ayatollah has been giving Nidal about $25 million a year for his murderous ventures.

In addition, we've seen a classified U.S. intelligence report to the effect that the Rome and Vienna coordinated assaults were approved by the foreign ministers of Iran, Syria and Libya at a meeting in Tripoli on Dec. 23. The three governments' intelligence chiefs oversaw the twin operation, which was carried out by Nidal.

Finally, Nidal was spotted in East Berlin about the time of the dis-

Rural Programs At Work

By Larry Doyle

CHICAGO (UPI) — Great strides have been made in educating the public about the dangers of high blood pressure and poor diet, but rural areas lag in awareness.

Dr. Theodore Kotchen of the University of Kentucky says the remedy is simple.

"Just making people aware of the factors associated with cardiovascular disease seems to have an important effect," Kotchen said.

Kotchen and his colleagues recently reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association on a five-year study of community-based programs in two southeastern Kentucky counties.

The programs involved disseminating information at schools, community meetings and through the media, as well as providing screening for high blood pressure and nutrition counseling.

"It was reasonably simple," Kotchen said in a telephone interview. "It was a matter of education. It was a matter involving young people and having them take that home to their parents. It was a matter of things like health fairs ... it was a number of different components, all of which were quite simple and quite straightforward."

The results were dramatic, Kotchen said. Both men and women showed decreased blood pressure levels despite being five years older at the end of the study, while men in a Kentucky county without educational programs showed no improvement and women very little.

Deaths attributed to cardiovascular disease, a category that includes hypertension, dropped by 36 percent for men and 21.2 percent for women in the experimental counties, and only 8.6 percent for men and 11.6 percent for women in the control county.

This success, similar to those found in urban programs, could be easily be repeated in other rural communities using existing resources and very little additional funding, Kotchen said.

"Most communities have facilities and resources already in place to do this," Kotchen said in a telephone interview. "I would suspect this would not be a very expensive program to implement if a community were interested. But the impetus really has to come from the community itself rather than from outside."

The American Heart Association estimates 55 million Americans have blood pressure equal to or greater than 140 over 90, the generally accepted level at which pressure is recognized as too high.

Four County Teams In Region Playoffs Tuesday

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Tuesday will be both a busy and important day in Seminole County as two county baseball teams and two softball squads go to battle in regional playoffs.

●At Tinker Field in Orlando, top-ranked (4A) Lake Mary goes up against Orlando Boone at 7:30 in the 4A-5 Region playoff. The Rams come off an 11-6 victory over Lyman in the District 9 title game while Boone drubbed Colonial, 20-4, in District 10.

●At the University of Central Florida, Oviedo's Lions hope to keep their storied season alive as they host Gainesville Eastside in the 3A-3 Region Playoff at 7:30. The Lions advanced with a 3-2, eight-inning victory over St. Cloud in the District 6 final while Eastside edged Ocala Forest, 7-6, in District 5.

●At Conway Park in Orlando, Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots go up against powerful Orlando Boone in the 4A-5 Region playoff at 4:30. Brantley downed DeLand, 8-7, in District 9 while the Lady Braves knocked off Apopka, 3-2, in District 10.

●At Red Bug Park in Casselberry, Oviedo's Lady Lions go for their second consecutive region title against the winner of District 5. Oviedo won the District 6 title for the second year in a row with a 8-7 victory over Kissimmee Osceola.

Lake Mary, 29-2, goes into

Preps

Tuesday night's game ranked not only first in the state but fourth in the nation in the USA Today's Easton High School Poll. The Rams will go for a school record for victories and they have already beaten the Braves twice this season.

The Rams got another strong pitching performance from Mike Schmit who won his 13th game of the season in the district title triumph over Lyman. It was the Rams' first district title in baseball as Lake Mary was upset by Lyman in last year's title game.

Whether Schmit will pitch on three days rest is not known but coach Allen Tuttle could also go with either Neal Harris or Steve Shakar or both.

Whoever Tuttle goes with on the mound is usually going to get strong support from the offense. Schmit, a senior who also plays first base, and junior catcher Ryan Lisle combined to drive in 75 runs during the regular season while senior third baseman Mike Pinckes, junior shortstop Shane Letterio, senior outfielder Brett Molle and junior Harris all drove in 20 or more runs.

In winning the 3A-6 title, Oviedo not only won the district for the first time in Howard Mable's 10 years as head coach, but in the last season of the Orange Belt Conference. Oviedo is expected to move up to 4A in 1986-87.

The Lions have one of the top players around in junior centerfielder Mark Merchant who hit .487 during the regular season and stole 29 of 32 bases. Merchant, a switch hitter, also has some power as he drilled three homers during the regular season and another in the district championship game. It was Fran Torres' single that drove in the winning run in the win over St. Cloud.

Oviedo's pitching staff is led by a pair of right handers, Scott Bowers and Craig Duncan, who earlier in the season threw one-hitters. Jimmy Barrett was the top reliever and led the county in earned run average while Tony Bellflower is also available in relief.

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots have enjoyed the finest season in the school's history with an impressive 27-5 record. That also broke the school record of 25 victories during a season set by the Lady Patriots basketball team in 1984-85. Both this year's softball team and last season's basketball squad were coached by Renny Betris.

The Lady Patriots are at their best when they jump out to the early lead but proved Friday that they can also come from behind.

In the district final against DeLand, Brantley trailed, 6-2, going into the bottom of the fifth inning. The Patriots then rallied for six runs on RBI singles by Kim Robinson and Sherry Asplen and a grand slam homer off the bat of freshman shortstop Tracy Brandenburg.

Lake Brantley and Boone have met three times this season, all in the Lady Hawk Tournament, with Boone winning two and Brantley one.

Oviedo's Lady Lions struggled at times this season but put it all together when it counted most. Oviedo almost didn't get out of the district as they trailed Osceola, 7-5, going into the bottom of the eighth. But the Lady Lions scored three runs on a pair of dropped pop flies to pull out the win.

Oviedo, 17-7, has almost the same team that came up one win short of going to the state tournament a year ago. The entire infield is back from last year's team including third baseman Cathy Bergman, shortstop Caroline Chavis, second baseman Jessica Bradley and first baseman Dee Dee Beasley. Outfielder Mikki Eby, who got off to a slow start at the plate, has come on strong in the late going. Pitcher Jodi Switzer has not only been strong on the mound but led Seminole County in hitting with a .514 average during the regular season.

Lake Mary's Ryan Lisle takes a healthy cut in the district tournament game against Mainland. Lisle and the Rams go to Tinker Field in Orlando Tuesday night at 7:30 to play Boone's Braves. Lake Mary, 29-2, defeated Lyman for the district crown, avenging last season's defeat in the finals.

Sixers Finally Hit Their Stride

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — To hear Charles Barkley tell it, it took five playoff games for the Philadelphia 76ers to hit their stride.

After Sunday's 134-109 victory in the fifth and deciding game of their playoff series against the Washington Bullets, they hope to keep stride when they face the Milwaukee Bucks in a best-of-seven, second-round series.

"It's about time we played as well as we're capable of," said Barkley, who had 19 points, 15 rebounds and 12 assists against Washington. "We should have won this series in three or four games, so now we've got to go out and work hard."

Philadelphia, which was 1-5 against the Bucks in the regular season, will play at Milwaukee Tuesday and Thursday nights before the series moves back to the Spectrum.

It will be rookie Terry Catledge's first playoff trip to the Midwest, but Philadelphia would not be making the journey without him.

Catledge, starting at center in place of the injured Moses Malone, scored 27 points against Washington, 21 in the first half, as the 76ers jumped to a 40-22 lead at the end of the first quarter and let the Bullets get no closer than 12 points thereafter.

"It was a do-or-die situation," said Catledge, Philadelphia's first-round draft pick last year. "I tried to take it inside every chance I got. They were double-teaming Charles and (Washington center) Manute (Bol) was helping out, so I was sneaking inside."

"I've been starting at center the last 12 games, and this is as much confidence as I've had."

Barkley said Catledge's contribution could not have come at a better time, since Malone will miss the remainder of the playoffs with a fracture of the orbit bone around his right eye.

NBA Playoffs

Catledge helped the 76ers get 42 points on 32 fast-break opportunities as Philadelphia literally ran past the Bullets.

"They played the full 48 minutes with just great all-out intensity, and deserved the victory," said Washington's Cliff Robinson, who led all scorers with 30 points. "We didn't play all that bad, it was just that they were so good."

"It was not just the play of Catledge. Their whole team played great. We knew that Barkley had the ability to rebound and fly up the floor with it, but he hurt us today with it. We were chasing him all afternoon."

In all, seven Philadelphia players scored in double figures, as Maurice Cheeks had 24 points, Julius Erving 19, Sedale Threatt 14, Greg Stokes 12 and Bobby Jones 10.

"They played extremely well and we came out flat," said Washington coach Kevin Loughery. "We dug ourselves such a big hole in the early going that we just could not get over the hump."

Cheeks left the game with 6:51 left when he sprained his right ankle after colliding with Barkley and Washington's Dudley Bradley, and did not return.

Philadelphia coach Matt Guokas said Cheeks' condition would not be determined until he is examined today but Cheeks expects to be ready for the Bucks.

LAKERS DUMP MAVS
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Dallas Mavericks go as Mark Aguirre and Sam Perkins go. Sunday, the Mavericks went to pieces.

Philadelphia's Charles Barkley goes bol-ing Sunday in the decisive game of the opening round playoffs. Philadelphia goes on to battle the Milwaukee Bucks who dispatched the Sixers to a 134-109 victory over the Bullets New Jersey Nets in three straight.

"Our forwards did a helluva job guarding them," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said after Aguirre and Perkins shot a combined 8-for-30 and the defending NBA champion Lakers thrashed the Mavericks 130-116 in the first game of a best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series.

"It wasn't until the game was decided that they felt free to shoot or drive."

For the Lakers, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar shot and Magic Johnson scored 28 points and Johnson recorded 14 assists.

Celtics Stymie Hawks, Wilkins

BOSTON (UPI) — The Atlanta Hawks are accustomed to losing to the Boston Celtics. Their playoff surprise was Dominique Wilkins losing his shot.

The NBA scoring champion finished with only 13 points Sunday as the Hawks fell 103-91 in the opening game of their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

"I just couldn't find my shot," Wilkins lamented after Atlanta's season mark against the Celtics fell to 0-7. "I had good shots, and they just weren't falling for me. That doesn't happen too often."

The 6-foot-8 forward, who hit only 4 of 15 shots from the floor, averaged 30.3 during the regular season, and scored 50 points in a first-round playoff game against the Detroit Pistons.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be played Tuesday night at Boston Garden.

Boston forward Kevin McHale, named last week to the NBA coaches All-Defensive first team, effectively denied the ball to Wilkins, who was double-teamed on nearly every possession.

"He's 6-10 and has those long arms," Wilkins said of McHale. "It's tough going over him, so I just try to get around him. But as a team, they pack the lane in real well and kept sending a guard or their fifth man over on me. They were ready."

McHale was also Boston's top offensive player, scoring a game-high 24 points, including 6 during a 14-0 third-quarter surge when Boston took control. The Celtics built a 63-67 lead early in the fourth quarter, and Atlanta got no closer than 13 thereafter.

Leading 53-46 at the half, Boston outscored Atlanta 34-17 in the third quarter, McHale netting 13 on a variety of hooks, post-up moves and a pair of foul shots. Dennis Johnson added 10 points, all on 10- to 16-foot jumpers.

"The Celtics hit 68 percent of their shots from the floor during the quarter, and Atlanta managed to convert only 28 percent of its attempts."

After a Kevin White tip-in drew Atlanta to 88-86 at 5:08, Bird started the 14-0 run with a spinning reverse layup at 4:50 and finished it with a mid-break stuff at 3:18.

Atlanta's scoring was paced by White with 18. Two Celtics added 11.

For Boston, which did not trail, Danny Ainge scored 17, and Robert Parish, Johnson and Larry Bird each scored 10.

The Celtics won the best home team in NBA history this season.

Bucs Don't Figure To Side-Step Jackson

By Ira Kaufman
UPI Sports Writer

TAMPA (UPI) — Two of the premier runners in NFL history — Tony Dorsett and Earl Campbell — have side-stepped the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on draft day.

On two occasions when the Bucs had No. 1 picks, they passed over Dorsett (1977) and left a chance at Campbell (1978) by trading their pick to Houston.

Now, for the fifth time in their 11-year existence, the Buccaneers have the dubious right to select first and Auburn running back Bo Jackson will be their choice Tuesday, barring a multiplayer deal. With four of the first 40 selections, Tampa Bay is hoping to earn respectability after a 2-14 disaster in Coach Leeman Bennett's first season with the Bucs.

In 1976, Tampa Bay used the first draft pick in franchise history to select defensive end Lee Roy Selmon, who went on to earn six Pro Bowl berths. After an 0-14 season, the Buccaneers again had the first choice in '77 and decided on Southern Cal fullback Ricky Bell, bypassing Dorsett.

A 2-13 sophomore season led to another No. 1 pick in the '78 draft, but Tampa Bay reconsidered that selection to Houston for tight end Jimmie Oles and four draft choices. The Oilers went on to select Campbell while the Buccaneers ended up with quarterback Doug Williams, linebacker Brett Morita, defensive end Reggie Lewis and quarterback Chuck Frazier. The last three players in that deal combined for zero starts in a Buccaneer uniform.

NFL Draft

"This is the most important draft in Buccaneer history," says owner Hugh Culverhouse. "and I've never taken an active role in club operations as I have now. I'd like for people to look back on this draft a few years from now and say Tampa Bay had an opportunity to turn a team completely around and took advantage of it."

While Selmon, linebacker Hugh Green and guard Sean Farrell were quality first-round picks, the Buccaneers have a knack of wasting their top choice.

TAMPA (UPI) — A chronological review of Tampa Bay's draft history:
1976 — QB Lee Roy Selmon, a six-time Pro Bowl selection, taken with the first pick of the draft. WR: Newberry Stewart (19), C Steve Wilton (1), QB Curtis Jordan (1), RB Jimmy Swinton (1), LB Steve Mungler (1).
1977 — QB Ricky Bell, a 1,000-yard runner in 1976 who died two years later from a brain tumor. RB: Jimmie Oles (1), WR: Tony Stewart (1), QB Curtis Jordan (1), C Steve Wilton (1), QB Curtis Jordan (1), RB Jimmy Swinton (1), LB Steve Mungler (1).
1978 — Traded No. 1 pick in the draft to Houston for TE Jimmie Oles and four draft choices. Houston takes QB Earl Campbell while Buccaneers select QB Doug Williams with the Oilers' first-round pick. Misses: QB Brett Morris (1).

1979 — In a '79 deal, Tampa Bay traded its first pick in 1979 to Chicago for DE Willie Chambers. The Bucs draft DE Ben Hampton. WR: DT Dave Logan (1), Misses: WR Gordon Jones (1), DE Reggie Lewis (1) and B Block (1).

1980 — Miss: WR Steve Watson (1), LB Sam Brantley (1), WR Gerald Carter (1), LB Andy Hastings (1).

1981 — Miss: LB Hugh Green (1), RB James Wilder (1).

1982 — After selecting QB Sean Farrell in the third round, Tampa Bay trades its No. 1 pick to Chicago for right to move up and choose QB Quarterback who makes first team starts in a Buccaneer uniform. Miss: Forrest, LB Jeff Smith (1).

1983 — Bucs use Tampa Bay's pick to select WR Reggie Gann. Miss: QB Dan Marino (1). In a deal made, the Buccaneers deal the seventh No. 1 pick in the draft for Cleveland QB Jack Thompson. Tampa Bay trades and New England uses it for WR Irving Fryar. Miss: T Sam Minter (1), LB Chris Weinman (1).

1984 — Tampa Bay picks QB Dan Marino with eighth choice of first round.

Upstart Rangers Knock Off Caps Whalers Edge Canadiens, 1-0, Force Seventh Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now one upstart can rest, and wait to see if it will oppose another in the next round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The New York Rangers completed their second knockout of a regular-season heavyweight Sunday night with a 2-1 victory over the Washington Capitals. The Rangers eliminated the regular-season Patrick Division champion Philadelphia Flyers in the first round.

New York will face either the equally surprising Hartford Whalers or the Montreal Canadiens in the next round. Hartford beat Montreal 1-0 to reduce their series to a winner-take-all Game 7 in Montreal's Forum Tuesday night. Hartford has already shocked the first-place Quebec Nordiques.

In the Campbell Conference, upstart Calgary can eliminate two-time defending champion Edmonton by winning at home tonight. The Flames lead the series 3-2, and a seventh game, if necessary, will be at Edmonton.

NHL Playoffs

Also, Toronto, still another playoff surprise, must win at home to prolong its Norris Division final. The St. Louis Blues lead the series 3-2, and have the home game if it proves necessary.

In the Rangers game, Pierre Larouche backed John Vanbiesbroeck's goaltending heroics with two goals to help New York capture its first Patrick Division title.

"What can you say about him, Pierre Larouche?" asked Rangers captain Don Maloney. "Because of him, it's 1979 all over again." Maloney was referring to the Rangers' trip to the Stanley Cup finals.

Larouche missed the first 48 games while exiled to the minors this season before returning to give the offense-starved Rangers a lift. Both of his goals in the clincher resulted from his scorer's touch around the net. "Ever since Pierre got back, we have the feeling we can score goals," Rangers forward Bob Brooke said. It's nothing he brought physically or verbally, it's something that surrounds him, and that's why he can't explain it better than he did.

"I think we would have won with the game plan we had," Washington forward Craig Laughlin said. "We just didn't execute, and they did. That's the worst feeling about this. Knowing that this team had the best shot in my career and we didn't do what we know we can."

"Maybe next year we're not gonna get that chance. You only get so many chances, and this was the year the Philadelphia lost and the Hartford won."

Vanbiesbroeck made several sparkling saves to record his 38th victory of the season, tying the franchise record set by Eddie Giacomin in 1967-68.

Jean Perron. "On Tuesday, we'll just have to find a way to beat Liut."

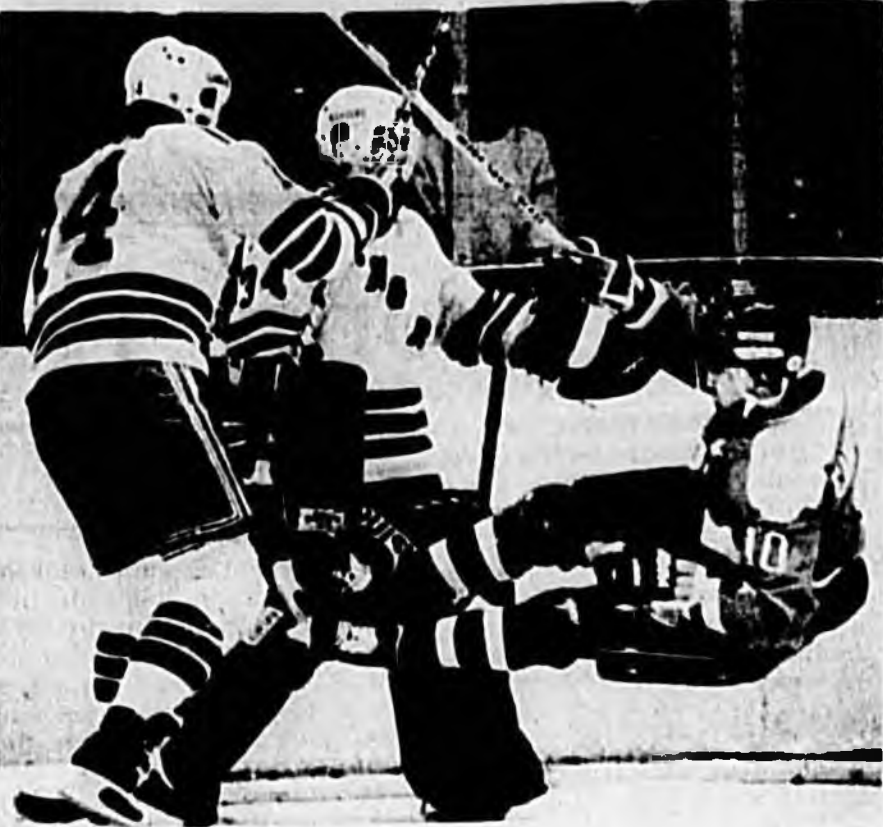

Montreal goalie Patrick Roy was pulled with 31 seconds left, but the Canadiens could not get the equalizer. Montreal outshot Hartford, 32-17.

Liut, who recorded his second career playoff shutout, made his best stop with 10:28 left in the game. Claude Lemieux broke in alone and had Liut down, but fired a high shot that the goalie thwarted with a brilliant pad save.

"We've been living with elimination since the last month of the season, and we won all of the big games we had to win just to make the playoffs," Liut said.

Dineen's sixth playoff goal provided Hartford with a 1-0 lead at 7:30 of the second period. Dave Babych started the play by clearing the puck around the boards into the Montreal zone.

The puck got away from Roy and rolled to John Anderson, who centered to Dineen. With Craig Ludwig draped over him, Dineen redirected the pass in motion high over Roy's shoulder. "Dineen was just in the right place at the right time," Perron said.

"We're happy to still be playing," said Hartford captain Ron Francis. "We haven't shied away from big games all year. So Montreal has to be worried."

Mets Sweep Cardinals, Extend Win Streak To Nine

United Press International

A win is a win, whether it comes in April or September. Especially when it comes against your chief divisional rival.

The New York Mets, who lost the National League East title last season to the Cardinals by three games, stormed into St. Louis' Busch Stadium this weekend and swept a four-game series to extend their winning streak to nine.

"It's nice to have," Mets manager Davey Johnson said after Sunday's 5-3 victory. "We've had some tough times here in this park. It proves to St. Louis we can beat them here."

"Last year, they gave everyone in the league a tough time, and we need to do well against them."

While the Mets are coasting along with their best start ever — 11-3 — the Cardinals are playing horrendous ball. They have lost seven straight after starting the season 7-1.

"I'd have liked to win four straight," Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog said. "But I don't know if we can beat anybody the way we're playing."

New York received another well-pledged game Sunday, this one from newcomer Bob Ojeda. The left-hander, whose acquisition from Boston solidified an already strong staff, earned the victory by going the distance for the first time this year.

Ojeda is new to the Mets and the National League, but he is fully aware of what beating the Cardinals means.

"It's a battle against someone you're going to have to beat in order to win the division," Ojeda said. "They got a great ballclub and won it last year, but we've got a great ballclub this year. It's going to be a battle for the No. 1 spot. The difference today was our offense came through in the clutch."

The Mets scored three runs in the fourth inning to take a 3-1 lead. Kevin Mitchell hit his first career home run to lead off the inning. With one out, Keith Hernandez singled. Gary Carter hit a grounder to shortstop, but Ozzie Smith threw the ball over Tom Herr's head at second base for an error, putting runners at second and third. Hernandez scored on a Darryl Strawberry groundout, and Carter came home on a George Foster single.

New York beat Cardinals ace John Tudor, 3-1, who had his 18-game winning streak at Busch Stadium and his 14-game regular-season winning streak snapped.

Pirates 13, Phillies 5
At Pittsburgh, Bill Almon homered for the second straight game and drove in four runs to lead the Pirates over the error-plagued Phillies. Mike Bielecki, 1-0, registered the victory. Pittsburgh sent 10 batters to the plate in the bottom of the second off loser Steve Carlton, 1-3, to break open the game.

Cubs 12, Expos 10
At Chicago, Jody Davis hit two home runs, including a grand slam, and Steve Christmas hit a two-run double in a five-run eighth inning to spark the Cubs. Ray Fontenot, 1-0, picked up the victory in relief. Jay Baller notched his second save. Jeff Reardon, 2-2, took the loss.

Astros 6, Reds 0
At Houston, Bob Knepper threw a four-hitter for his fourth victory without a loss to lead the Astros. Knepper walked two and struck out four. Houston took advantage of four Cincinnati errors to score three unearned runs in the first two innings off starter John Denny, 1-2.

Padres 6, Giants 4
At San Diego, Tony Gwynn hit two home runs for the first time in his career to boost the Padres. Dave Dravecky, who led the major leagues in ERA with 0.31 entering the game, raised his record to 2-1 but needed help in the eighth from Rich Gossage, who recorded his second save. Loser Mike Krukow fell to 3-1.

Dodgers 7, Braves 4
At Los Angeles, Bill Russell singled home two runs and scored another to lead a 13-hit attack and propel the Los Angeles Dodgers. Jerry Reuss, 1-0, scattered nine hits in seven innings for the victory. Tom Niedenfuer pitched two innings for his second save. Zane Smith, 1-2, was the loser.

Witt Shuts Down Brewers, 6-2

United Press International

The Texas Rangers made two player development gambles this spring, and one of them appears to be working.

In one, they invited criticism by rushing right-hander Bobby Witt to the majors with only 11 games of minor-league experience. In the other, they named slugger Pete Incaviglia their starting right fielder, fresh from college.

So far, Incaviglia is struggling with a .155 average, but Witt showed skill and toughness Sunday in pitching the Rangers to a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Witt overcame a hand blister to set a club record with 11 strikeouts by a rookie pitcher. He allowed only three hits over seven innings. Don Slaught hit a two-run homer, his third home run in three days, and Pete O'Brien delivered a two-run double to pace the Rangers' offense.

"Witt showed me a lot today," Rangers Bobby Valentine said. "He gutted it out, and put on an outstanding performance. He probably could have finished the game, but with the blister and the number of pitches he had thrown, I wanted him out."

Witt, 2-0, collected his 21st strikeout of Brewers batters in two games this year, and reduced his ERA to 3.80. He has 27 strikeouts for the year in 21.1 innings. Juan Nieves, 0-1, suffered the loss for Milwaukee. He allowed six hits in 6 2-3 innings, and three earned runs.

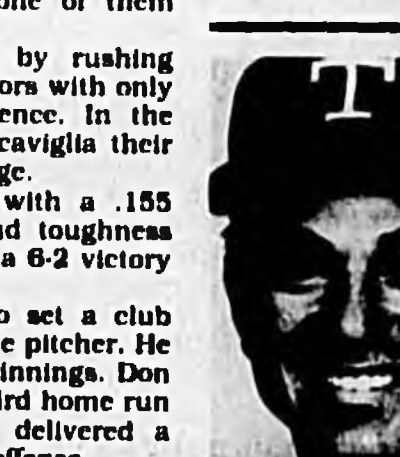

Milwaukee took a 1-0 lead in the second on a single by Jim Gantner and walks to Paul Householder, Charlie Moore and Paul Molitor.

"There's a point where things are going real well and you are in a groove, and then something happens and you get out of that groove," Witt said. "I think that's what happened to me in the second inning. When I got into that jam, I just had to think about what I was doing wrong, and stay within myself to pitch the way I know I can."

"I thought we had him at that point, but he came back strong," said Brewers manager George Bamberger. "He has a good, strong arm."

Bliss Jays 6, Orioles 0
At Baltimore, rookie Cecil Fielder blasted a two-run homer, and George Bell and Rance Mulliniks added solo shots to support the nine-hit pitching of Jim Clancy, 2-1. The shutout was the eighth of Clancy's nine-year career and his first since 1983. Ken Dixon, 2-1, took the loss.

A.L. Baseball

Bobby Valentine

Reggie Jackson

Indians 9, Yankees 7
At New York, Brett Butler laced a two-run double to cap a four-run eighth that lifted the Indians. Scott Bailes, the third of four Cleveland pitchers, improved to 3-1 with two-thirds of an inning in relief. Rich Yett worked two innings for his first save. Dave Righetti, 2-1, took the loss.

Angels 6, Twins 7
At Minneapolis, Ruppert Jones hit a two-run homer, and Reggie Jackson had three hits and two RBI to lead a 14-hit attack that carried the Angels. Rookie T.R. Bryden, 2-0, won for the second straight day in relief. Roy Smith, the third of four Minnesota pitchers, fell to 0-2.

Tigers 6, White Sox 1
At Detroit, Lou Whitaker's two-run triple with one out in the sixth spoiled a strong performance by Chicago rookie Joel Davis and ended the White Sox's four-game winning streak. Jack Morris, 3-2, notched his first complete game of the season. Ron Kittle homered for Chicago.

A's 1, Mariners 0
At Baltimore, rookie Cecil Fielder blasted a two-run homer, and George Bell and Rance Mulliniks added solo shots to support the nine-hit pitching of Jim Clancy, 2-1. The shutout was the eighth of Clancy's nine-year career and his first since 1983. Ken Dixon, 2-1, took the loss.

Trainers Wary Of Big Field At Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Howard Crowell, trainer of front-running Groovy, is delighted the starting field of the Kentucky Derby might number the maximum 20 horses rather than the anticipated 15 or 16.

"I hope it does fill up," Crowell said gleefully. "We're not going to have to pass anybody; we'll be in front."

Trainers with Derby horses who run from off the pace were unhappy to hear owners were considering sending Ensign Rhythm, Royal Doulton and Mr. Classic to Churchill Downs for the 112th Run for the Roses Saturday. A big field can result in rally-killing traffic jams.

"Any time there's light traffic, you feel better," said Phil Gleaves, whose colt Wise Times came from the back of the pack to win the Lexington Stakes and a start in the Derby.

Robert Brennan and Carlos Garcia, owner and trainer respectively of Garden State Stakes winner Fobby Forbes, were not happy about the news, either.

Should owners of more than 20 horses show up Thursday to pay the $10,000 entry fees, the actual starters would be determined by highest earnings in graded stakes.

Application of that rule would eliminate Fobby Forbes, who has been at Churchill since last Thursday, since all of his $263,400 in career earnings come only from non-graded stakes races.

Racing secretary Jerry Botts said representatives of Lucille Weber's Royal Doulton and Lushland Farm's Ensign Rhythm called his office Saturday to inquire about entry fees, stable space and the like. Both callers told Botts decisions probably would be made some time today.

Botts said he had not heard from Murray Garren, owner and trainer of Mr. Classic, but Garren said in New York Sunday he was considering the Derby.

"I haven't made up my mind," Garren said. "I won't know for a day or two. There's no rush."

"My vet wants to go. As for me, I'm not sure. I was very disappointed in his race Friday. I thought he was a living clinch."

Mr. Classic, the 4-5 favorite, was beaten four lengths by Royal Doulton in a 1 1/8-mile allowance at Aqueduct last Friday.

Neither horse has been particularly successful this year.

Mr. Classic is 2-6-3 with earnings of $248,161 in 26 career starts, but is just 1-1-1 with $38,775 in purse money in 11 starts this season.

For his career, Royal Doulton is 3-2-1 in 13 starts with earnings of $90,000.

January, Littler Win Second Legends Title

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — The philosophy among those who stage the Legends of Golf is that the tournament makes a better show if there are some particularly strong teams battling for the title.

"You can handicap a horse race," said Don January, "but you can't handicap a golf tournament."

And for the last two years, the best team of all has been January and his partner, Gene Littler.

They combined Sunday to win their second straight Legends crown, firing a final round 64 for a 72-hole total of 25-under 255.

That was good for a two-shot victory over the fast-closing team of Jim Ferree and Charles Sifford. Littler and January won for the second straight year, becoming the first repeat champions in the tournament's nine-year history.

Although the Legends was the first of the seniors tournament and is still looked upon chiefly as a reunion for the game's great names, the competition has gotten almost as fierce as on the regular tour.

"About three years ago," said January, "a lot of the players got together and talked to (tournament chief) Fred Raphael. We love the nostalgia of the Legends, but still have to have competition. And competition is best when you put two good players together rather than one good and one not so good.

"It is hard to put one old and one young, or one good and one halfway good and make anything even."

"So we suggested we put about eight strong teams together. And the proof is in the pudding. It works."

"Last year we had six teams come to the last hole with a chance to win. And it was close this year, too."

"I know one thing. I've got my partner, and I'll let everybody else try to get their's."

Sifford and Ferree made it close with a final round 62 Sunday, closing within a shot of the lead before Littler made a critical 20-foot birdie putt at the tough, par-4 15th.

Another shot back at 22-under 158 was the team of Lee Elder-Chi Chi Rodriguez while the team of Peter Thomson-Harold Henning, Mike Fetchick-Bob Toaki and Arnold Palmer-Gary Player were at 161.

Palmer and Player posted an unspectacular 70 on opening day, but birdied one out of every three holes for the rest of the tournament.

The Littler-January team, however, was steady all week.

"Don could still play on the regular tour," said Littler.

Nystrom Wins Monte Carlo Title Over New Father Noah, 6-3, 6-2

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Joakim Nystrom owes his victory over Yannick Noah Sunday in part to a baby girl.

Nystrom took a 6-3, 6-2 victory in the final of the $405,000 Monte Carlo Open after Noah learned his wife, Celia, gave birth to their second child, a girl, at New York.

"I've already forgotten the match," said the 25-year-old Noah after the match. "My mind wasn't there today. I was on the telephone all night. I had a little girl, that's the important thing."

Nystrom gained his fourth title this season after triumphs at Toronto, La Quinta, Calif., where he also defeated Noah in the final, and Rotterdam.

Nystrom, 22, took the $58,500 winner's prize with a nearly flawless performance. Stationing himself at the baseline and making few unforced errors, Nystrom needed only one hour, 35 minutes to complete the victory.

The final was delayed 90 minutes by rain that had fallen on and off all week on the clay courts of the Monte Carlo Country Club. Organizers reduced the final to a best-of-three sets from best-of-five to ensure it would be completed.

Both finalists were drained from playing two matches each Saturday, as postponements due to rain forced organizers to schedule both the quarterfinals and semifinals Saturday.

18,000 Usher In Sunday Racing

HIALEAH, (UPI) — More than 18,000 fans came to Hialeah Park to usher in a "new era" of horse racing in Florida, where Sunday racing has become reality after an 11-year battle with the legislature.

Sunday was the first day of Sunday racing in the 61 years horses have run in the state. The bill allowing Sunday racing was passed last week and signed by Gov. Bob Graham Thursday.

Tracks can be open only six days a week, and Hialeah will be closed Thursdays.

Hialeah let patrons in free Sunday and had roaming Latin bands and a tent featuring Latin food. Many patrons came to Hialeah for the first time more out of curiosity than to bet, as the handle of $1.74 million showed.

Usually, the handle averages $100 per patron.

"I think it's kind of a new era," Hialeah President John J. Brunetti said. "I think this is the beginning of a lot of new things that are going to happen to us. (Sunday racing) is new. It's a different kind of people and that's very exciting."

One first-timer in attendance was Robert Rosen of North Miami Beach.

"This is my first day at Hialeah ever," Rosen said. We (he and his wife) came for the Sunday racing. It's a little different than the usual day at the beach. It's exciting, especially when you have a horse coming down the stretch and you have money on him."

Triple Play Aids Dan's Victory

In Pinto Baseball action last week at Five Points, Dan's Restaurant came away with a 19-10 victory over Burger's Boys. The win leaves Dan's record unblemished.

Leading the way offensively for Dan's were Scott Jones and Matt Knox, both hitting a triple and a home run to drive in three runs each. Chris Kapelka also added a double and a triple to drive in three more runs.

In the fourth inning Knox came up with the defensive play of the game, playing at the shortstop position, with runners on first and second he caught a hard hit line drive flipped to second baseman who fired to first for a perfect 6-4-3 triple play to end Burger's Boys threat.

Senior Dodgers Win First Half

In Altamonte Little League action last week in the Senior Division it was the Dodgers taking on the Cardinals and coming away with a 4-3 win.

Aaron Istaitia and Shane Stufletta combined to throw a one hitter and keep any serious threat from the Cardinals from materializing.

Mitch Shatto led the way offensively for the Dodger's with two singles, while Pat Dukas brought in two runs with a single in the fifth to give the Dodgers their insurance runs for the victory. The win makes the Dodgers the champions of the first half in their division.

Strange Outlasts Peete At Houston

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (UPI) — Curtis Strange, seeking to regain the form that made him the PGA's leading money-winner in 1985, believes his playoff victory over Calvin Peete in the $500,000 Houston Open is just what he needed.

Strange, who entered Sunday's final round trailing Peete, Tom Watson and Jay Haas by 3 strokes, fired a 6-under-par 66 to finish regulation play tied with Peete at 14-under-par 274.

Strange and Peete were even through two playoff holes before Strange sank a 30-foot putt on the 18th hole to pick up the $90,000 first prize.

"I think I put a lot of heat on myself after 1985," said Strange, who earned a tour-record $542,321 last year. "This win took the heat off. This relaxes me tremendously."

It was Strange's ninth career victory and his third in five playoffs.

Peete, who either shared or held the tournament lead from the opening round, earned $54,000. It was the first time he has been in a playoff.

"That didn't affect me," Peete said. "I felt I played good ... I have no complaints. Curtis just played better. I missed a few chances coming in. Playing against any top player, you can't beat them with pars."

Bradley Nets $30,000

ST. PETERSBURG, (UPI) — Pat Bradley's early putts got Janet Coles thinking Sunday. Her final putt left Coles blinking.

When Bradley approached her 25-foot putt for birdie at the par-5 18th hole of the $200,000 S&H Classic, she was tied for the lead with Coles at 15-under-par. With Coles just eight feet away and waiting for her fourth shot, Bradley would have settled for a playoff.

Instead, she earned a $30,000 payoff.

With a hushed gallery enjoying the one-on-one drama, Bradley thrust her right fist into the air after rolling in the pressure putt for a 65 to finish at 16-under-par 272, tying Alice Miller's tournament record set last year. Coles, who began the day at 12-under, leading Bradley by three shots, appeared shaken by Bradley's long birdie, and then putted tentatively. The ball rolled off to the left, and Bradley had her 18th career triumph.

Soviet Gymnasts Dominate

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Sunday was no different than Saturday for the United States gymnastics team — just a little more convincing.

On the first day of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. dual meet, the nations' first since 1983, the Soviet women's national team beat their American counterparts 196.8 to 194.7.

Sunday, the Russian men won by an overwhelming score of 294.80 to 291.75 and swept the top five spots in the all-around standings.

The Soviet men brought their entire world-championship team to the McDonald's Challenge dual meet at the Worcester Centrum.

Ken Steeves, Timacuan's project planner, to residents Friday afternoon that the plant is now being considered for a third site, about 1,000 feet west of the original northern location.

The new suggested site is wedged between Timacuan's planned offices and town homes, with Oakland Cemetery to the north and Timacuan property to the south.

The city commission will discuss deciding on the plant location during their May 1 regular meeting, while soil testing is done at the newest proposed site to determine if the ground will allow for proper drainage. City officials said the city engineer prefers the original northern site on 46A, but have not completed a study of the latest site suggestion.

"We're happy but we still want to see it brought to conclusion, DeWolf said after the Friday meeting. "Its going the way I hoped it would, and they've moved it to an internal location," but repeated his group's objection to the Rantoul Lane site until the plant location is official.

Commissioners received two letters in support of the Timacuan project. Some residents said at the Tuesday P&Z meeting that they objected to the entire project, not just the plant location. Those objections were on the density of development in the project.

One resident wrote the Rantoul Lane site would "devalue our property and we highly object" to that location, but "we do not oppose the Timacuan project. It can only improve and enhance our entire area."

Another resident wrote, "We are gravely concerned about the Timacuan zoning issue and hope you will see fit to approve the development. We have the utmost confidence in the owner and the developer that they will present a universally acceptable for the... plant. We feel this project will be a definite asset to our city."

own hotels with less than 500 sleeping units equal consideration when the decision is made as to where the casinos can go.

"What relationship is there between the number of sleeping units and whether a hotel should be permitted to operate a casino," they ask in the petition. "Even more fundamental is what relationship is there between a hotel and a casino? What public purpose is served by creating a relationship between the size of a hotel and the right to have a casino?" they ask in the petition.

If the purpose of the proposed amendment is to increase state revenue, they said in the petition, then it is "unreasonable and unrelated..." to the purpose of the amendment to tie it to hotel size.

There are no hotels of that size in Seminole County but there are more in the Orlando area than any other part of the state, according to the League of Women Voters of Florida.

The representatives also state the proposed amendment violates an article of the Florida Constitution.

"That portion of the Constitution requires that a constitutional amendment be complete within itself and not require any further action. However, this casino gambling amendment would require further action — initiative referendum," they wrote.

The legislature, according to the amendment, would have 60 days in which to develop regulations on casinos in a session following the passage, Watt said. They also question what would happen if the referendum passed, followed by concomitant laws passed by the legislature, but was then vetoed by the governor. They say the amendment does not address that situation.

Arsonists Blamed For Apartment Fire

Arsonists are responsible for the three alarm blaze on Thursday that gutted a three-story, 24-unit apartment building under construction on Greenwood Boulevard, near Lake Mary, Seminole County fire investigators said today.

Although the exact cause of the blaze has yet to be determined, burn patterns on what remains of the structure and eyewitness accounts have led investigators "to rule out everything other than it being deliberately set," according to fire investigator Bob Christian. He said there are no suspects in the case.

Investigators are continuing their deliberations regarding the fire's cause as well as their interviews with possible witnesses to the incident, Christian said.

The fire to the half finished structure was reported at 9:52 p.m. Thursday and responded to by approximately 30 firefighters from Seminole County, Longwood and Lake Mary. The blaze burned into the early morning hours of Friday and firefighters' efforts were complicated by the numerous fires it sparked to nearby brush.

The apartment was one of 10 being erected at the site by the Del American Corp. of Casselberry.

"Everyone's attitude was great. The route was excellent and some participants came from Orlando because they liked our route better. The city police did a marvelous job seeing that the walkers were okay and the "poop-out" van provided by French's Vans picked up those who couldn't make the whole route."

Following the walkathon, walkers gathered in the shade to talk and consume sandwiches provided by McDonald's and drinks from Velda Farms, she said.

Walkers in Sanford's 10-mile WalkAmerica joined the millions who walked nationwide Saturday to raise a record $37 million for the March of Dimes struggle against birth defects.

The March of Dimes estimated 2 million people participated in the annual "WalkAmerica" Sunday in 1,200 towns and cities.

March of Dimes spokeswoman Mary Schmitz said the walkathons each averaged 33 kilometers or 20.5 miles and took place in every state.

She said the activities raised about $37 million, based on the participants' pledge sheets. Last year's WalkAmerica raised about $33 million for the March of Dimes Birth Defect Foundation.

The walkathon, in which participants sign up at schools and offices and find sponsors who agree to donate for each kilometer walked, began in 1971.

New York organizers said they hoped to collect up to $2.2 million from a 30-kilometer walkathon that attracted 25,000.

The March of Dimes was established in 1938 to fight polio or what was then called infantile paralysis. But in 1958 with the near eradication of the disease through vaccination, the group concentrated on preventing birth defects.

The organization took its name from the hundreds of people, primarily women, who went door-to-door collecting dimes to help polio research.

Broderick Crawford Dies

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Broderick Crawford, a heavyweight tough guy who played the no-nonsense Chief Matthews on the television series "Highway Patrol" and won an Oscar for the movie "All the King's Men," died Saturday. He was 74.

Crawford died at Eisenhower Medical Center at 1:40 p.m. of complications from previous strokes, hospital spokesman Mike McFadden said. He was admitted to the hospital April 5.

His wife, Mary Alice, was at the hospital when he died with his sons Kelly and Chris and their mother, Kay Crawford.

Crawford probably was best remembered for barking "ten-four, ten-four" into his police car radio on the prototype 1950s police drama series, in which he typically went to a highway crime scene and eventually cracked the case by trapping the suspect in a car chase.

The actor, who usually carried about 220 pounds on his 6-foot-2 frame, was born Dec. 9, 1911, in Philadelphia, into a show business family. His mother was the noted actress Helen Broderick and his father was vaudevilian Lester Crawford.

'Real' Americans Look Like Just About Anyone

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "100 Percent American," the American of Oriental descent who complained that within five minutes of being introduced to a Caucasian, he was asked, "What are you?" You replied that it was rude to ask personal questions at any time, but because the average Caucasian doesn't know a Chinese from a Japanese, Cambodian, Vietnamese, Korean or a Thai, the question seemed reasonable — but it was still rude.

Rude? I disagree. Inquiries about a person's roots are not necessarily rude. It shows a sincere interest in their heritage.

The Orient is a rich and diverse geography. The face of an Oriental reveals his heritage. His looks tell of a passage through villages, cultures and languages — but which ones? His story is probably quite fascinating. I don't think it's rude to observe that such a face has a rich ancestry. I think it's a positive component of international understanding.

AN AMERICAN NAMED FINN
DEAR AMERICAN: My mail was heavy on this one. Without exception, all writers of Oriental descent reacted being asked, "What are you?" shortly after being introduced.

A typical letter:
DEAR ABBY: I, too, am 100 percent American, and because I am of Asian ancestry. I am often asked, "What are you?" It's not the personal nature of this question that bothers me, it's the question itself. This query seems to question my very humanity. "What am I?" Why, I'm a person like everyone else!

Dear Abby

Another question I am frequently asked is, "Where did you come from?" This would be an innocent question when one Caucasian asks it of another, but when it is asked of an Asian, it takes on a different tone. I suppose I am expected to say that I am from faraway China or Japan. When I reply, "I'm from right here — Portland, Oregon!" they are invariably surprised. Why? Because they find it hard to believe that an Asian-looking person is actually a native, true-blue, 100 percent American — and not a recently arrived immigrant from some foreign country.

Many people have the false impression that all "real" Americans must be white (or at least black). I don't speak with a foreign accent, my dress is typically American, but because I am not the "right" color, many people automatically assume that I am not American.

Being white is not a prerequisite for being a real American. This country started out as an empty land, and all the races that are represented here now (yes, even the American Indian) came from other parts of the world. We are all Americans, regardless of our ancestors' origins.

Americans come in all shapes, sizes and colors, and I, for one, think it's high time everyone realized it.

A REAL AMERICAN

DEAR ABBY: Why do people resent being asked what they are? The Irish are so proud of being Irish, they tell you before you even ask. Tip O'Neill has never tried to hide his Irish ancestry.

JIMMY
DEAR JIMMY: For Tip O'Neill to "hide" his Irish ancestry would be like trying to smuggle down past a roaster.

DEAR ABBY: I am another "100 Percent American" of Oriental heritage, but I was born in the United States of America.

When I am asked (by Caucasians), "Where are you from?" I always reply, "Texas." TERSE IN TEXAS

Museum Open House To Feature Collections Of Modern, Antique Dolls

One of the highlights of the "Open House" at the Seminole County Historical Museum, open from 1-4 p.m. May 4, will be an exhibit of both antique and modern collectible dolls.

Dolls of some kind have been in existence for as long as there have been people to love them. The materials from which they have been made have varied greatly with the culture and purpose.

Doll collecting as a hobby began its rise in the early 1930s.

Today there are over 450,000 collectors and according to Helen Carr, a local doll re-producer, a surprising number of collectors are men.

Kate Nash, a newcomer to doll collecting, is interested in historical character dolls, story book dolls and celebrity dolls. Her modern dolls along with a collection of antique dolls belonging to two local collectors will be on display at the open house. A demonstration in the modern method of reproducing dolls will be given by Helen Carr, a local Doll Artisan Guild teacher. Admission to the open house is free.

Other entertainment for the afternoon will include special maypole dances by the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole and the School of Dance Arts.

E. B. Stowe, well-known local artist, will be present during the afternoon to tell visitors about the picture he painted especially for the museum.

Salt And Sodium Viva La Difference

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Please tell me the difference between salt and sodium. They are often listed together as the same ingredient.

DEAR READER — Sodium is a mineral that is very common in our environment. It is attached to many compounds. When sodium combines with chloride, it forms salt (sodium chloride). Salt is often dangerous for people with heart disease and high blood pressure because, when eaten, it can stay in the body, hold water and cause fluid buildup. During digestion, sodium is often split off from other compounds; it then combines with chloride in the body and forms salt. Therefore, patients on low-salt diets must be cautious about eating any sodium-containing substance. For practical purposes, any food that contains sodium can produce unwanted salt in the body. Many manufacturers list sodium, rather than sodium chloride, on food labels. If you must avoid salt in your diet, avoid sodium as well as sodium chloride.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it all right for a baby never to have water to drink? About five months ago a friend had a baby; she never gives it water. She feels that the formula is liquid enough and that he needs nothing more to drink. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Your friend is correct that infants do not need water. Breast milk or properly prepared formula supplies a baby's water requirements. There are exceptions to this rule. In a very hot climate, babies may need small amounts of additional water (two to four ounces); also, infants who appear to demand more feedings can often be satisfied with little "in-between snacks" of water.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had very painful neck muscle spasms that get worse as I get older. What causes them and what can I do to help them, aside from applying heat and taking Tylenol?

DEAR READER — Spasms of the neck muscles have many causes, including injury, arthritis of the upper spine and stress. Ask your physician to help you identify the particular cause in your case. Although heat and Tylenol are acceptable methods of treating the condition, there may be more appropriate and useful ways to relieve your symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there any procedure for ridding myself of the most unsightly and worst mistake of my life — a tattoo? DEAR READER — Many people, for one reason or another, allow themselves to be tattooed. Often they regret the decision — particularly if the tattoo is the name of someone they would just as soon forget. Plastic surgeons are quite skillful at removing most tattoos. See one.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North's two-diamond cue-bid described a weak two-suited hand. When it is used immediately over a natural minor suit opening bid, ideally it should show five cards in both majors. Despite the irregularity of North's bid, the result should have been satisfactory. Unfortunately declarer slipped.

West led a trump. Seeing an opportunity to eliminate a quick diamond loser, declarer won the heart jack in dummy and played a club. West took South's king with his ace and continued with a second heart. Only now did declarer go after the spade suit. But when West won the spade king and played a diamond, South could not muster enough tricks to make his contract. Ruffing a minor suit loser would enable him to get to dummy so that he could ruff out one spade.

but returning to dummy a second time uses up the last trump entry. Although he could then ruff one more spade, setting up that suit, there was no way to get back there to enjoy those tricks.

The solution is now obvious. To make 10 tricks, declarer must establish the spade suit by leading a spade immediately at trick two. Now West's second heart lead is won in dummy and a spade is ruffed. With two trump entries left in dummy, declarer can get back to trump another spade and return again to cash three good spade tricks.

In his greedy rush to rid dummy of a diamond loser, declarer failed to plan the play to give himself a reasonable chance to make the contract. None of us would make that mistake, would we?

lately. Monitor it closely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before the day is out you are likely to feel a need for companionship. Make plans yourself instead of waiting for something to develop.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll feel better about yourself today if you do something productive, rather than just wasting your time. Be industrious instead of being an idler.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Blended in proper proportion, business and pleasure could make a profitable mix today. Socialize with those who share similar commercial interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not be hesitant to tackle assignments today. You might start out a bit sluggish, but you'll get stronger as you near the finish line.
