Crowd Roared, Too

By LEON DANIEL
UPI National Reporter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Frank Gillespie, a retired train conductor from Meadville, Pa., could have been speaking for the estimated 1 million proud and elated Americans jamming nearby beaches Sunday when he said, "It makes you believe in the United States."

The roar of the crowd vied in volume with the rumble of the successful blastoff of space shuttle Columbia.

But, after waiting so patiently in his wheelchair for the launch, Jimmy Valdes, 13, was so awestruck he could only whisper, "Holy cow," when the big moment finally came.

Jimmy, who has muscular dystrophy, peered through his binoculars across the blue waters of the Indian River, his Mets baseball cap shading his solemn face from the bright sun.

Driven by his father to Florida from their home in Queens, New York, Jimmy had waited without complaint for the spectacle so awesome it rendered him virtually speechless.

"Great," he managed to murmur as the spacecraft carrying the hopes of his nation disappeared into the deep blue sky.

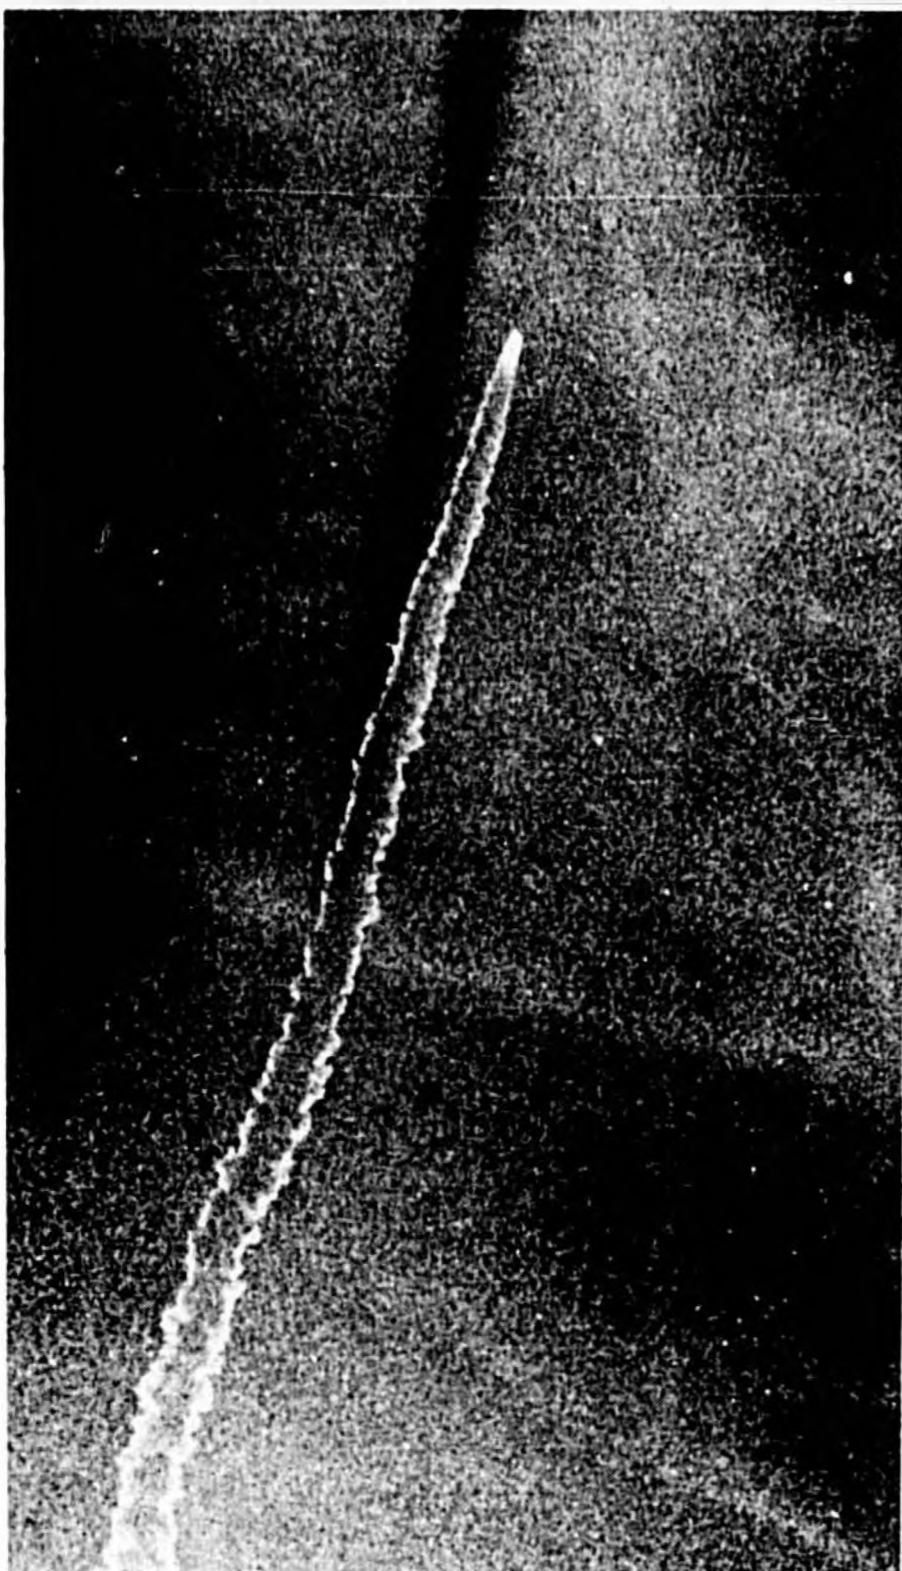

The prolonged rumble of the blastoff washed like a wave over the hordes, seeming to cleanse them of doubt and frustration.

"Doggonit, it's about time we showed somebody we could do something," said Larry Leyshon, a retired auto worker in one of the campsites where prelaunch conversation around the barbecue grills had ranged from the recent crisis in Iran to the accident at Three Mile Island.

Leyshon, who had bought gasoline at the rate of a gallon for each 8 miles for his recreational vehicle he drove from Southington, Ohio, said happily, "It was worth the sunburn and the hangover." "Don't put that in about the hangover," grinned Leyshon, whose wife stayed home.

Among the few blacks in the crowds were Tampa attorney Prince McIntosh, his wife and two children.

"I had a feeling I've never had before," said McIntosh. "I was just so happy." Douglas Stapleton, a retired butcher from Stockton on Tees in northeast England, who is touring the United States in a camper with his wife, said, "It was a wonderful thing. It was something America and all the free world wanted."

Seconds after blasting off from the Kennedy Space Center Sunday the Space Shuttle Columbia leaves a trail of flame and vapor in the sky. Astronaut Robert Crippen said 'that was one fantastic ride.' Shock waves and roar from the powerful engines were felt throughout Seminole County.

Harry Burdick, 82, a retired insurance salesman who drove alone in a camper from Ferndale, Mich., said, "That thing going up and all the cheers was the most exciting thing I've ever seen."

For Gary Cottrill, however, the blastoff signaled personal misfortune. Standing beside his van partially filled with still unsold space souvenirs, Cottrill, who had hoped to make a profit from vending at the launch, said, "I've got to get rid of this stuff or I'm stuck."

For home-bound spectators, the space agency said the ship should be visible to the unaided eye shortly after sunset or just before dawn. Depending on weather conditions and the position of the spacecraft, spokesman Rocky Rabb said "it could look like one of the brightest stars in the sky."

The Columbia was following a path that takes it over the southern half of the United States, up to 40.3 degrees north latitude. That includes such cities as Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Denver and San Francisco.

The Columbia is scheduled to fly again in September.

Excited Space Shuttle enthusiasts follow the path of Columbia as it lifted off in Sunday's successful launch. This group chose a vantage point behind the Howard Johnson's Motel in Titusville.

Despite Tile Loss

Shuttle 'Beautiful,' Landing Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The space shuttle's test pilots flew the first of America's new space freighters over their launch site today exactly 24 hours after blastoff and flight controllers said the mission should go on to a normal landing Tuesday.

"The crew's performing extremely well and the spacecraft's beautiful," said Eugene Kranz, deputy director of flight operations at mission control in Houston.

John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen, arising earlier to a country song touting "Columbia, the mean machine," passed over the Kennedy Space Center at an altitude of 172 miles on the start of their 17th orbit.

"I've got the runway and the VAB (Vehicle Assembly Building) in sight," Crippen said.

The 107-ton winged spacecraft was reported working well on its initial test flight, despite a series of little problems, including what appeared to be a leaking valve in the ship's air system. Flight director Neal Hutchinson said it was nothing to be concerned about.

He said there wasn't anything "even remotely" resembling a problem which would force the astronauts down early.

"I think it's absolutely amazing where we are," Hutchinson said. "We just don't have anything that is a real show stopper at all."

The only uncertainty raised by Sunday's spectacular, textbook-perfect launch was the state of the 30,000 heat shield tiles designed to insulate the Columbia's aluminum skin from the searing heat of re-entry into the atmosphere.

Controllers said they were not worried, however, and engineers said the missing tiles posed no threat to the return since they were needed primarily to protect against take-off heat. Analysts in mission control concluded no other, more vital tiles likely were lost.

However, special photography using high-powered groundbased Air Force telescopes was ordered to check the spacecraft. Deputy operations director Eugene Kranz said attempts would be made to inspect the ship's underside during two passes over Florida and Hawaii later today.

The Columbia is scheduled to return to Earth Tuesday on the end of its 36th orbit, gliding to a wheels down landing at 1:28 p.m. EST on a sprawling dry lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave Desert.

A live telecast from the cockpit of the shuttle as it completed its first full day in space showed flight commander Young sitting in his left seat, wearing reading glasses, running through a check of the shuttle's instrument in preparation for their critical re-entry.

The return will mark the first time a large winged vehicle has flown in the "no man's land" region between space and the dense atmosphere. Never before has a spacecraft returned to airport landing for use again.

Sanford Library Survey Completed

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Fully renovating the library in downtown Sanford would be $200,000 cheaper than building a new facility in the south end of Sanford.

That was the indication today from the three-week survey outlining various renovation options running from a low of $137,000 to a high of $700,000.

The survey, to be presented to

Seminole County commissioners at a workshop session today, lists three main options:

— Renovations on the existing space with some dressing up, modernizing rest rooms and installation of a ramp for the handicapped at $137,000.

— Renovations of the existing facility and construction of a new one-story building containing 3,000 square feet on an adjacent lot costing nearly $400,000.

— Renovations of the existing facility and construction of a two-story structure on an adjacent lot containing 6,000 square feet, $700,000.

The engineers, according to their report, indicate the current downtown Sanford library, which by itself has just under 4,000 square feet, is structurally sound for renovation.

The current downtown facility, a former post office built during World

War I, has been leased to the county by the city of Sanford for an indefinite period. They city has agreed to lease an adjoining lot to the county as well for expansion purposes.

Tuesday is the deadline for the county to apply for $50,000 in state funds to assist with renovation costs. The state money was set aside by the Legislature for Seminole County to be used for library construction.

One week ago, the commissioners received a report from another consultant, Richard L. Waters, assistant director of the Dallas, Texas public library, recommending that the current downtown branch library be shut down and a new library built at a more centrally-located site.

Waters estimated costs of constructing a new library in Sanford, containing 8,000 square feet, at $971,000.

2 Arrested In Drug Bust

It started off as a routine prowler call, but wound up with two men arrested for drug trafficking and an estimated $80,000 worth of marijuana confiscated.

Charged with trafficking in marijuana were Andrew Fitzgerald, 28, of Plymouth, Mass. and Steven C. Webb, 23, of Boynton Beach. Both were being held today in the Volusia County Jail under $52,500 bond each. A third person is being sought.

According to a Volusia County narcotics agent, the story unfolded this way: About 7 p.m. Saturday, someone noticed activity around a house at 2670 Alton Road in Deltona. The house had been rented, but the new tenants weren't expected to move in until later this week.

Suspicious, the person notified a representative of the rental agency who in turn called the sheriff's department. The report went out as a routine prowler call and deputies Jeff Harting and Andy Sennell responded.

But what they found was more than a mere prowler. They reportedly discovered Webb and Fitzgerald "trying to doctor up some pretty mangy grass," the agent said.

"We estimate they had 200-300 pounds of what looked to be pretty old stuff," he said. "They were spraying yellow food coloring and sugar water on it to try and improve its color and consistency."

U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-New York, calls on Republicans and "discerning" Democrats to support President Reagan's economic programs. Kemp spoke to 260 persons at a fund raising banquet Friday night.

Kemp: 'McCullum Makes Things Happen'

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-New York, called freshman Seminole County Congressman Bill McCollum a "man who makes things happen" and compared him to a "Man For All Seasons" at a gathering of McCollum supporters Friday night.

Kemp was guest speaker at a banquet held in Altamonte Springs to raise money to help pay off a $40,000 McCollum's campaign debts from last year's election.

More than 260 persons paid $100 a plate to help McCollum and to hear the six-term Republican congressman from New York who was considered for vice president of the United States.

The former Buffalo professional football player told the crowd it ought to be proud of its new GOP congressman, saying "Your congressman makes things happen in Washington."

Kemp scored the Democratic majority in the U.S. House of Representatives for failing to support President Reagan's economic programs, insisting those Democrats will be called to account for their actions by the electorate.

Telling the story of the rise of Thomas More, chancellor of England, to martyrdom, Kemp likened the Altamonte Springs Republican McCollum to More in honesty and integrity.

Much of Kemp's address was directed toward supporting the president, whom he referred to at one point as that "70-year old man."

Of the concern expressed by economists about Reagan programs, Kemp said if all the economists were laid end to end, it would be "marvelous for the American people." He said many economists are opposing Reagan's programs simply because they haven't been tried before.

"Ronald Reagan believes the people handed him the ball," said the man named most valuable player by the American Football League in 1965. Kemp said Reagan believes the American free enterprise system has not reached its potential and that the American people ultimately know what is in their best interests.

Pointing to the Carter Administration's insistence that Americans should learn to do with less, Kemp said Reagan believes in more — more fighting of inflation, more growth, more capital, more productivity.

He reminded that the United States was built into a prosperous and great nation not by the size of the country's budget, but by the industriousness of its people. "We want to rebuild the economy," he said.

"Ronald Reagan believes the potential of the nation is yet to be reached. Potential to him measured not on what has been done but what is to be done," Kemp said, adding, "The nation is yet to reach its greatest heights."

Kemp said Reagan wants to lead the nation back to a position of leadership and respect in the world. Saying this is a special time and something worthwhile is being done, the New York congressman said "I believe Reagan was called to office at this special time. I am convinced what happens is for good."

"That 70-year-old president needs your support," Kemp said.

Kemp was among those being considered as a running mate for Reagan at the GOP convention last summer. He is a co-author of legislation, endorsed by Reagan, to reduce federal income taxes.

McCullum, in introductory remarks, said he has found that most congressmen are honorable people and much like any average citizen.

"There are really a handful of exceptional individuals who stand above the crowd in leadership," he said.

McCullum said Kemp has been successful in gaining blue collar support for basic Republican principles. "He is the Republican Party's most valuable player," McCollum said.

Seconds after blasting off from the Kennedy Space Center Sunday the Space Shuttle Columbia leaves a trail of flame and vapor in the sky. Astronaut Robert Crippen said "that was one fantastic ride." Shock waves and roar from the powerful engines were felt throughout Seminole County.

from Stockton on Tees in northeast England, who is touring the United States in a camper with his wife, said, "It was a wonderful thing. It was something America and all the free world wanted."

Harry Burdick, 82, a retired insurance salesman who drove alone in a camper from Ferndale, Mich., said, "That thing going up and all the cheers was the most exciting thing I've ever seen."

For Gary Cottrill, however, the blastoff signaled personal misfortune. Standing beside his van partially filled with still unsold space souvenirs, Cottrill, who had hoped to make a profit from vending at the launch, said, "I've got to get rid of this stuff or I'm stuck."

For home-bound spectators, the space agency said the ship should be visible to the unaided eye shortly after sunset or just before dawn. Depending on weather conditions and the position of the spacecraft, spokesman Rocky Rabb said "it could look like one of the brightest stars in the sky."

The Columbia was following a path that takes it over the southern half of the United States, up to 40.3 degrees north latitude. That includes such cities as Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Denver and San Francisco.

The Columbia is scheduled to fly again in September.

Excited Space Shuttle enthusiasts follow the path of Columbia as it lifted off in Sunday's successful launch. This group chose a vantage point behind the Howard Johnson's Motel in Titusville.

Despite Tile Loss

Shuttle 'Beautiful,' Landing Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The space shuttle's test pilots flew the first of America's new space freighters over their launch site today exactly 24 hours after blastoff and flight controllers said the mission should go on to a normal landing Tuesday.

"The crew's performing extremely well and the spacecraft's beautiful," said Eugene Kranz, deputy director of flight operations at mission control in Houston.

John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen, arising earlier to a country song touting "Columbia, the mean machine," passed over the Kennedy Space Center at an altitude of 172 miles on the start of their 17th orbit.

"I've got the runway and the VAB (Vehicle Assembly Building) in sight," Crippen said.

The 107-ton winged spacecraft was reported working well on its initial test flight, despite a series of little problems, including what appeared to be a leaking valve in the ship's air system. Flight director Neal Hutchinson said it was nothing to be concerned about.

He said there wasn't anything "even remotely" resembling a problem which would force the astronauts down early.

"I think it's absolutely amazing where we are," Hutchinson said. "We just don't have anything that is a real show stopper at all."

The only uncertainty raised by Sunday's spectacular, textbook-perfect launch was the state of the 30,000 heat shield tiles designed to insulate the Columbia's aluminum skin from the searing heat of re-entry into the atmosphere.

Controllers said they were not worried, however, and engineers said the missing tiles posed no threat to the return since they were needed primarily to protect against take-off heat. Analysts in mission control concluded no other, more vital tiles likely were lost.

However, special photography using high-powered groundbased Air Force

telescopes was ordered to check the spacecraft. Deputy operations director Eugene Kranz said attempts would be made to inspect the ship's underside during two passes over Florida and Hawaii later today.

The Columbia is scheduled to return to Earth Tuesday on the end of its 36th orbit, gliding to a wheels down landing at 1:28 p.m. EST on a sprawling dry lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave Desert.

A live telecast from the cockpit of the shuttle as it completed its first full day in space showed flight commander Young sitting in his left seat, wearing reading glasses, running through a check of the shuttle's instrument in preparation for their critical re-entry.

The return will mark the first time a large winged vehicle has flown in the "no man's land" region between space and the dense atmosphere. Never before has a spacecraft returned to airport landing for use again.

Driven by his father to Florida from their home in Queens, New York, Jimmy had waited without complaint for the spectacle so awesome it rendered him virtually speechless.

"Great," he managed to murmur as the spacecraft carrying the hopes of his nation disappeared into the deep blue sky.

The prolonged rumble of the blastoff washed like a wave over the hordes, seeming to cleanse them of doubt and frustration.

"Doggonit, it's about time we showed somebody we could do something," said Larry Leyshon, a retired auto worker in one of the campsites where prelaunch conversation around the barbecue grills had ranged from the recent crisis in Iran to the accident at Three Mile Island.

Leyshon, who had bought gasoline at the rate of a gallon for each 8 miles for his recreational vehicle he drove from Southington, Ohio, said happily, "It was worth the sunburn and the hangover."

"Don't put that in about the hangover," grinned Leyshon, whose wife stayed home.

"I had a feeling I've never had before," said McIntosh. "I was just so happy."

Sanford Library Survey Completed

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Fully renovating the library in downtown Sanford would be $200,000 cheaper than building a new facility in the south end of Sanford.

That was the indication today from the three-week survey outlining various renovation options running from a low of $137,000 to a high of $700,000.

The survey, to be presented to

Seminole County commissioners at a workshop session today, lists three main options:

— Renovations on the existing space with some dressing up, modernizing rest rooms and installation of a ramp for the handicapped at $137,000.

— Renovations of the existing facility and construction of a new one-story building containing 3,000 square feet on an adjacent lot costing nearly $400,000.

— Renovations of the existing facility and construction of a two-story structure on an adjacent lot containing 6,000 square feet, $700,000.

The engineers, according to their report, indicate the current downtown Sanford library, which by itself has just under 4,000 square feet, is structurally sound for renovation.

The current downtown facility, a former post office built during World

War I, has been leased to the county by the city of Sanford for an indefinite period. They city has agreed to lease an adjoining lot to the county as well for expansion purposes.

Tuesday is the deadline for the county to apply for $50,000 in state funds to assist with renovation costs. The state money was set aside by the Legislature for Seminole County to be used for library construction.

One week ago, the commissioners received a report from another consultant, Richard L. Waters, assistant director of the Dallas, Texas public library, recommending that the current downtown branch library be shut down and a new library built at a more centrally-located site.

Waters estimated costs of constructing a new library in Sanford, containing 8,000 square feet, at $971,000.

2 Arrested In Drug Bust

It started off as a routine prowler call, but wound up with two men arrested for drug trafficking and an estimated $80,000 worth of marijuana confiscated.

Charged with trafficking in marijuana were Andrew Fitzgerald, 28, of Plymouth, Mass, and Steven C. Webb, 23, of Boynton Beach. Both were being held today in the Volusia County Jail under $52,500 bond each. A third person is being sought.

According to a Volusia County narcotics agent, the story unfolded this way:

About 7 p.m. Saturday, someone noticed activity around a house at 2670 Alton Road in Deltona. The house had been rented, but the new tenants weren't expected to move in until later this week.

Suspicious, the person notified a representative of the rental agency who in turn called the sheriff's department. The report went out as a routine prowling call and deputies Jeff Harting and Andy Sennell responded.

But what they found was more than a mere prowler. They reportedly discovered Webb and Fitzgerald "trying to doctor up some pretty mangy grass," the agent said.

"We estimate they had 200-300 pounds of what looked to be pretty old stuff," he said. "They were spraying yellow food coloring and sugar water on it to try and improve its color and consistency."

U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-New York, calls on Republicans and "discerning" Democrats to support President Reagan's economic programs. Kemp spoke to 260 persons at a fund raising banquet Friday night.

Kemp: 'McCullum Makes Things Happen'

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-New York, called freshman Seminole County Congressman Bill McCollum a "man who makes things happen" and compared him to a "Man For All Seasons" at a gathering of McCollum supporters Friday night.

Kemp was guest speaker at a banquet held in Altamonte Springs to raise money to help pay off a $40,000 McCollum's campaign debts from last year's election.

More than 260 persons paid $100 a plate to help McCollum and to hear the six-term Republican congressman from New York who was considered for vice president of the United States.

The former Buffalo professional football player told the crowd it ought to be proud of its new GOP congressman, saying "Your congressman makes things happen in Washington."

Kemp scored the Democratic majority in the U.S. House of Representatives for failing to support President Reagan's economic programs, insisting those Democrats will be called to account for their actions by the electorate.

Telling the story of the rise of Thomas More, chancellor of England, to martyrdom, Kemp likened the Altamonte Springs Republican McCollum to More in honesty and integrity.

Much of Kemp's address was directed toward supporting the president, whom he referred to at one point as that "70-year old man."

Of the concern expressed by economists about Reagan programs, Kemp said if all the economists were laid end to end, it would be "marvelous for the American people." He said many economists are opposing Reagan's programs simply because they haven't been tried before.

"Ronald Reagan believes the people handed him the ball," said the man named most valuable player by the American Football League in 1965. Kemp said Reagan believes the American free enterprise system has not reached its potential and that the American people ultimately know what is in their best interests.

Pointing to the Carter Administration's insistence that Americans should learn to do with less, Kemp said Reagan believes in more — more fighting of inflation, more growth, more capital, more productivity.

He reminded that the United States was built into a prosperous and great nation not by the size of the country's budget, but by the industriousness of its people. "We want to rebuild the economy," he said.

"Ronald Reagan believes the potential of the nation is yet to be reached. Potential to him measured not on what has been done but what is to be done," Kemp said, adding, "The nation is yet to reach its greatest heights."

Kemp said Reagan wants to lead the nation back to a position of leadership and respect in the world. Saying this is a special time and something worthwhile is being done, the New York congressman said "I believe Reagan was called to office at this special time. I am convinced what happens is for good."

"That 70-year-old president needs your support," Kemp said.

Kemp was among those being considered as a running mate for Reagan at the GOP convention last summer. He is a co-author of legislation, endorsed by Reagan, to reduce federal income taxes.

McCullum, in introductory remarks, said he has found that most congressmen are honorable people and much like any average citizen.

"There are really a handful of exceptional individuals who stand above the crowd in leadership," he said.

McCullum said Kemp has been successful in gaining blue collar support for basic Republican principles. "He is the Republican Party's most valuable player," McCollum said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Black Rioting Leaves London Ghetto Ravaged

LONDON (UPI) — Police sent light patrols today into the ghetto of Brixton ravaged by three days of black riots that left 186 bobbies injured and caused arson and looting damage on the scale of his Watts riots in 1967 and Miami's Liberty City last year.

A handful of the patrolling police in the south London district sipped tea and chatted with black youths in the Frontline — the nickname for Railton Road where the worst fighting took place, a scant 2 miles north of the British House of Commons.

But police were in force at their headquarters, fearing a fresh outbreak of the rioting that flared Friday night and turned into a weekend of looting, arson and clashes between 1,000 police and hundreds of mainly black youths hurling Molotov cocktails, stone and bricks.

The fighting started when police aided an injured black man in the street. About 100 blacks gathered and the incident developed into a running fight. In six hours Saturday night, cars, pubs, and shops were torched. Store windows were smashed and their contents looted. One officer was hit by a gasoline bomb and engulfed in flames before colleagues smothered the fire in overcoats.

The violence seemed directed at police, whom resident West Indians accuse of harassment.

Poles Buying For Easter

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — As Polish Politburo member Kazimierz Barcikowski pledged to East bloc allies that Poland's Communist Party will preserve socialism, thousands of Poles streamed to West Berlin over the weekend to buy holiday goods not available in their homeland.

Inside Poland, Poles began Holy Week observances Sunday by listening to a nationally broadcast Palm Sunday mass that urged them to pray for peace in their country after a winter of strike alerts and a nationwide warning strike that raised fears of Soviet intervention.

In East Berlin, Polish Politburo member Kazimierz Barcikowski assured the East German Communist Party that Poland's party was in control and was working to find a "political settlement" to the nation's political and economic crisis.

"Any attempt of forces hostile to socialism to dream of putting back the clock is doomed to failure," Barcikowski warned.

Hess' Son Refused Visit

BERLIN (UPI) — The son of Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's former deputy who has been jailed since 1946 in forbidding Spandau prison, says Soviet authorities vetoed a visit today to his father, who he believes is near death.

Hess, 86, sometimes called the world's loneliest man, was taken to a British military hospital April 7 from Spandau, where he began serving a life term in 1946 as "prisoner No. 7" for Nazi-era crimes.

Wolf Ruediger Hess, 43, a Munich architect, said he was told by the four wardens of the Spandau war crimes prison that Hess is allowed only one visit a month and his wife, Ilse, already applied to see him April 21.

"The American British and French governments whom I saw in the hospital in principle were in favor of letting me in, but the Russian warden said he would have to get new instructions for my visit," the son said.

Congressmen Visit Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A 15-member American congressional delegation led by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., arrived in Melbourne today on the first leg of a 10-day visit to Australia and New Zealand.

The bipartisan delegation, invited to Australia by the federal parliament, arrived aboard the presidential plane, Air Force 1.

In a prepared statement at Melbourne airport, O'Neill said the congressmen had a serious interest in the relationship between Australia and the United States.

"At a time when democratic governments face considerable international challenges, the United States Congress regards close relations with allied democracies as a high priority," he said. "As we stand on the soil of Australia — one of the world's great democracies — I assure you that we believe this effort to become better acquainted with the political leadership, and with the people of Australia, is time well spent."

Defectors In Hiding

FUERTH, West Germany (UPI) — West German officials today hid the son and grandson of the late Soviet composer giant Dmitri Shostakovich, who both defected and requested political asylum in West Germany in a stunning insult to Soviet music.

Bavarian police would say nothing beyond that conductor Maxim Shostakovich, 42, and his solo pianist son Dmitri, 19, were "somewhere in Bavaria" under West German protection.

"For obvious reasons we are keeping their location a secret," a police spokesman said.

The two offspring of one of the greatest Soviet composers of the century asked for asylum Saturday night after the last day of the Soviet Radio Symphony Orchestra's tour in West Germany.

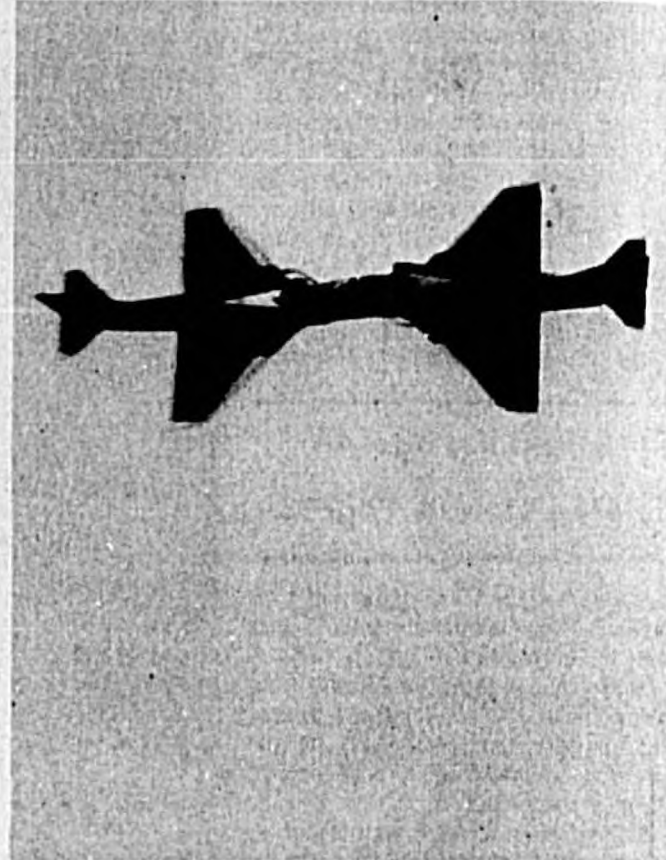

West German officials said the other orchestra members left for East Germany en route to the Soviet Union after the concert at Stradtheater, the municipal theater in the Bavarian city of Fuerth, 49 miles south of Frankfurt.

Sanford Air Show Draws Huge Crowds

For action there's nothing like the Central Florida Air Show. The Navy's "Blue Angels" show (above left) in formation, make a pass over the Sanford Airport during the two-day event held this weekend. In one crowd thriller, two of the Navy jets were caught locked in what appears to be a deadly kiss (below). A crowd estimate by the U.S. Army Golden Knights parachute team, who performed at the show, was between 12,000 and 15,000 persons on Saturday and 25,000 on Sunday. Sponsoring Sanford Rotary Clubs will not know what profit they will receive for their various charities until ticket counting is completed. # Probe Continuing Into Girl's Death

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County sheriff's officials were continuing their investigation today into the Saturday morning shooting death of a 15-year-old Lake Brantley High School girl.

The incident resulted in the death of Colleen Yvette Leaders, of 1050 Broadway St., Forest City.

Leaders was reportedly shot by a friend — Frank A. Guercioni, 17, of 813 Bill Dot Drive, also of Forest City — about 2 a.m. in what sheriff's spokesman John Spolaki said appears to have been an accident.

The shooting occurred at 122 Alma St., Mobile Manor, near Longwood when Leaders apparently walked into the path of a shot fired from a .22-caliber rifle by Guercioni, Spolaki said. Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay said the girl died as a result of massive bleeding caused by the bullet puncturing a major artery in the upper chest.

Longwood Weighs Rail Crossing Pacts

The Longwood City Commission will consider three resolutions concerning agreements with the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad for installation and maintenance of crossing control devices when it meets tonight at 7:30 at city hall.

The proposed devices would be installed by Seaboard Coast Line at the following locations and costs: Church Street, $48,800; E. Georgia Avenue, $71,300; Palmetto Avenue, $63,200. Under the proposed agreements the city would assume a 50 percent share of future adjustment and maintenance costs.

Also on the agenda for the meeting will be: — review of site plans for the Longwood Business Center showroom-warehouse on Warren Avenue and Sunshine Sports Distributors at State Road 434 and County Road 427.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: An unusual display of the Northern Lights was seen as a misty red glow in the sky over much of the nation from the Pacific Northwest to Florida late Sunday, authorities said. The National Weather Service said the glow was reported by startled residents in Oregon, California, eastern Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and reported from Tennessee to Nebraska. There were also sightings in New Mexico, Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle and as far south and east as Louisiana and Florida. The red color, which varied in intensity, was the result of magnetic disturbances high in the atmosphere, the Weather Service said. High cirrus clouds in the sky diffused and spread the color over a large area. NWS spokesman Tom Tinker in San Francisco said the glow could not have been created by a spacecraft because it was moving too slow. The Weather Service said it was rare to see the Northern Lights — also known as the Aurora Borealis — as far south as they were observed.

Casselberry To Impose $50-A-Day Dog Race Tax

Members of the Casselberry City Council are expected to approve a $50 daily tax on Seminole Greyhound Park, the city's dog-racing facility, at their regular weekly meeting tonight.

Imposed to raise revenue for the city's general fund, adoption of the tax is based on Florida Statute 550.11, a law authorizing any city or municipality with a race track to collect tax "in amount not to exceed" $50 for dog-racing and $150 for horse-racing daily.

Carroll Toler, general manager of the Seminole Greyhound Park, had little comment about the tax, admitting simply that track officials were aware of tonight's expected vote.

According to Mayor Owen Sheppard, President Paul Derives at the Seminole Park facility since it's late summer beginning has been more than cooperative with the city in every respect.

"Dog track officials are aware of the second-hearing on the tax tonight. Although there may be some principals in attendance, we don't expect any objections to come forth, said Mayor Sheppard.

"From all indications of past issues with the park, a reading and adoption of the tax by council members should be a pretty routine matter," he added.

Scheduled to open on May 4th, Seminole Greyhound Park, according to Public Relations Director Jim Haines, is designed to accommodate some 8,000 people in its racing facility.

But the $50-a-day tax will become effective immediately on the $3 million structure, he said.—SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY

Reagan Won't Take To Airwaves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, although "doing extremely well" in his recovery, will not take to the airwaves this week to promote his economic recovery program, a White House aide said today.

The official ruled out a nationwide radio "pep talk" that aides had suggested Reagan would deliver sometime this week to lobby for his spending cut and tax reduction package.

Meanwhile, the president's personal physician, Daniel Ruge, said Reagan was "up and about" this morning "and he's doing extremely well."

"He's been reading a lot and resting," Ruge said. Acting press secretary Larry Speakes also said Reagan, recuperating from a gunshot wound in the chest, was "feeling fine this morning."

Reagan arranged to meet separately today in the yellow oval room of the White House family quarters with Secretary of State Alexander Haig and then with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

Vice President George Bush will sit in on both meetings, when the two top Cabinet officers will report on their separate trips last week to the Middle East and Europe.

Speakes today reiterated the administration's hard line against compromise on the economic package, dismissing a suggestion Sunday by House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones that the White House might settle for a one-year tax cut.

"The bottom line is no one is authorized by the president to discuss compromise," said Speakes, adding that Reagan is "philosophically opposed" to a one-year tax cut.

Reagan, shot in an assassination attempt March 30, was expected to spend the week recuperating in the family quarters from the lung wound. His recovery "is a day by day" process, Speakes said, indicating it is unlikely the president will work in the Oval Office this week.

Aides said the president received a written national security report early this morning and met for a half hour with his three top White House advisers, counselor Edwin Meese, chief of staff James Baker and deputy chief Mike Deaver.

Reagan who was released Saturday from George Washington University Medical Center, awakened at 6:50 a.m. EST Sunday to watch the space shuttle launch on television.

Ruge said Reagan had a normal temperature Sunday and is now being given penicillin orally. "He's in great shape and looks great," the doctor reported.

As for Reagan resuming his official duties, one

White House official said:

"I think you can pretty much wipe out April for him doing anything. Within a month, he'll be able to do some things. This is the kind of thing you play by ear. I think the best thing is not to push him too fast."

Later this week, budget director David Stockman, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, and Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, "will report to him on the economic situation," Speakes said.

"Chances are he will want to call members of Congress to get a report on the legislative outlook," Speakes said.

Responding to questions, Speakes disagreed with House Budget chairman James Jones who said the administration appears to be ready to compromise on its economic proposals.

"I don't think we're quite ready," Speakes said. "It's still too early in the ball game to start talking about that. We think public opinion is with us."

Vice President George Bush told reporters that he expects to continue to spell Reagan at speaking commitments, and to preside at various meetings at the White House. But he also expects as Reagan's health returns, his role "will be gradually deemphasized."

Shuttle's Solid-Fuel Rockets To Get Damage Check

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The two solid-fuel rockets that helped fling the space shuttle into orbit were under tow to Port Canaveral today, but it may be awhile before they reach the Kennedy Space Center for a damage assessment.

The recovery vessels Freedom and Liberty had the job of towing the boosters from the recovery area in the Atlantic, 170 miles east of Florida, back to the Navy's Trident submarine base.

Both $25 million rockets sustained damage when they splashed down in the ocean Sunday, but a spokesman for United Technologies, their manufacturer, said it appeared the damage was not serious enough to be repaired," he said. "But no one is even thinking of (scrapping the two boosters). The booster casings seem to be in perfect condition."

Confirmation of that judgment must await the rockets' return to the space center, however, and that's a problem.

Plans called for floating the sealed, empty rocket canisters like logs up the relatively shallow Banana River to the space center. But because of damage to the boosters' guidance nozzles, the rockets could not be made watertight and had to be towed at a slant with the unsealed end protruding from the sea.

In their diagonal towing attitude, the 149-foot-long rockets would run aground in the river.

"The boosters will have to be reconfigured to a horizontal position before being taken through the locks and up the river," NASA said Sunday night in a status report.

A preliminary inspection by divers indicated the damage to the rockets' nozzles probably was

Space 'Oldtimers' Applaud Columbia's New Breakthrough

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Their lives are etched in space history — the men who engineered and rode in the rocketships that brought America into the space age and sent men to the moon more than a decade ago.

They watched excitedly with thousands of others Sunday as the launch of the space shuttle Columbia ushered in a new space age — a period that one day could make space travel routine.

They view the shuttle as a key to continued U.S. technological domination, space exploration and defense.

"Apollo for its day was perhaps as complex as the shuttle is for it's," said Dr. George M. Low, NASA administrator in 1970-71, the height of the moon launch period.

"But the shuttle will make space accessible, it's the tool that one day will make space travel an everyday thing."

Walter J. Kapryan, a retired Apollo launch operations director, said the shuttle is "critical to our space future."

"It's going to be our primary mover in science," said Kapryan. "It's going to pave the way for setting up a space station for future colonization of space. This is the culmination (of the space program)."

Apollo 9 astronaut Russell Schweickart echoed those thoughts, saying it will be unforgetable if America fails to make the commitment to make the shuttle's future strong after four test flights establish its reliability.

"If we don't take the opportunity to fulfill its potential, we're going to lose any sense of domination in world leadership, in technical capability," Schweickart said.

"This is our responsibility in this world. To move outward to challenge the frontier. This is the future for humanity. We are moving out to the larger cosmos."

Astronaut Neil Armstrong, the Apollo 11 commander who took the first "giant step for mankind" on the moon, said he's pulling for shuttle as a means to boost interplanetary exploration.

"We want to see success in this flight and the next one so it becomes a routine performance," said Armstrong. "I'd like to see continued exploration of the planets."

Did Birds Survive Launch Unaffected?

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Government biologists expect to learn today whether a colony of herons and egrets survived the sound and shock wave assault from space shuttle rockets in their nesting ground a mile from launch pad 39A.

Other birds, including nesting bald eagles and environmentally endangered brown pelicans, apparently were unharmed, said Robert C. Lee, manager of the Merritt Island National Wildlife Refuge.

The 240,000-acre refuge sits astride the Kennedy Space Center.

Biologists were unable Sunday to inspect the heron-egret nesting ground, established in a mangrove thicket since the last Saturn rocket blasted off from Cape Canaveral in 1975. NASA security measures around pad 39A following launch of the space shuttle Columbia kept them out of the area.

Ornithologists were uncertain the effect such a sound volume as that produced by Columbia's solid and liquid fuel engines would have on nesting water birds within a mile of the sound source.

A colony of brown pelicans whose nests were 18 miles from the launch pad were subjected to 102 decibels of sound during Sunday's launch but were undisturbed even though the noise level was greater than that of a low flying passing jet airliner, Lee said.

But two bald eagles, an adult and an eaglet that has just learned to fly were driven from their nest seven miles from pad 39A Sunday by 112 decibels of sound, Lee said. However, watching biologists reported there were "no flying feathers" and the eagles returned to the nest about two hours later.

"That's a good sign," Lee said.

The adult eagle at the nest was believed to be a female, Lee said. Biologists were uncertain where the male eagle was during the launch.

Lee said it appeared the eagles and nesting colonies of herons, egrets and anhingas (snake birds) seven miles from the launch pad "were bothered less by the launch they they are when we go in and do survey work."

The Legislature Babies, Marijuana And Goat Milk

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The House today approved a bill repealing a 1978 law under which certain female prison inmates are allowed to keep their babies behind bars with them.

The measure (HB 75) passed 87-28, and now goes to the Senate.

"I think it is negligence on our part if we put a child in a prison environment," said Rep. Leonard Hall, D-Callaway, in urging passage.

Rep. Arnett Girardeau, D-Jacksonville, disagreed saying: "Florida has always been singled out as a progressive state ... but if we're not careful, we're going back to the dark ages with this type of law."

Currently, six inmates at Florida Correctional Institution for Women near Ocala have received judicial approval under the law to keep their infants with them. Another four have been denied permission. Four more inmates are known to be pregnant.

The babies are cared for in a special cottage outside the prison's walls.

The House approved 106-2 and sent to the Senate legislation (HB 136) making it easier for doctors to obtain marijuana for the experimental treatment of cancer and glaucoma patients.

A 1979 law authorizes the use of marijuana to reduce the side effects of cancer chemotherapy treatment and to control glaucoma, but says the marijuana must be obtained from the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

The federal government has designated the National Cancer Institute as the source of the marijuana and the bill passed by the House conforms state law to that switch.

Doctors and patients have complained that so much red tape was involved in getting the marijuana that the law may as well not exist. The change to the cancer institute is designed to make the drug more readily available.

The House passed 79-27 and sent to senators a bill (HB 434) closing a legal loophole that has stripped the state of the power to regulate goat milk.

Also passed 67-45 and sent to the Senate was a bill (HB 125) abolishing the restrictions on the size of beer cans and bottles sold in Florida. Currently, the beer can be sold only in containers of eight, 12, 16 or 32 ounces.

NATION IN BRIEF

Scientists Say 'Red Glow' Will Appear Again Tonight

By United Press International

A major solar flare generated a rare display of Northern Lights over most of the nation late Sunday, with an eerie red glow seen as far south as the Gulf of Mexico for only the second or third time this century officials said. It may happen again tonight.

The space agency, which received reports of the glowing lights in southern California, Arizona, Texas, Louisiana and across the Southeast, said radiation from the flare Friday was having no impact on the space shuttle Columbia flight.

Subsequent solar storms could trigger another display across much of the nation tonight, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Boulder, Colo., predicted.

Although NOAA solar scientist Partick McIntosh said the red glow Sunday was seen in two-thirds to three-fourths of the nation, the lights apparently were not visible from space.

'Flying Irishman' Dead

FINDLAY, Ohio (UPI) — Michael C. Murphy, a charter member of Aviation Hall of Fame in Dayton and founder of Marathon Oil Co.'s aviation division, has died. He was 74.

Murphy, who died at St. Rita's Hospital in Lima Saturday, started his flying career in the 1920s and was known as the "Flying Irishman" while performing stunts at air shows in the 1930s.

Compromise Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says it is too early to start talking about compromising on President Reagan's embattle budget.

House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okla., said Sunday he thinks the White House is willing to compromise to get its economic plan through Congress.

Jones, who is pushing his own budget alternative in the House, previously criticized the administration's "bunker mentality" for demanding the program be approved intact.

Interferon Study Begins

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — A two-year study of interferon, a substance that impedes the growth of cancer cells, was to begin today at the Duke University Comprehensive Cancer Research Center.

A Florida man was to receive an injection of the substance the first ever given in North Carolina.

Dr. John Laszlo, a medical professor and director of clinical research for the Duke cancer center, said interferon, a natural substance secreted by cells under attack by viruses, is a "very potent protein."

Another Reagan Threat

HATBORO, Pa. (UPI) — A 42-year-old man, at least the 10th person taken into custody for allegedly threatening President Reagan during the past two weeks, is being held under $50,000 bond.

James T. McCaughey, a knitter with a local fish net company, was scheduled to be formally charged today with threatening to kill Reagan and assaulting a Secret Service agent who arrested him, authorities said.

McCaughey, of Hatboro, Pa. — a suburb of Philadelphia — was taken into custody Saturday shortly after allegedly making a telephone call to the Secret Service, threatening Reagan, a Secret Service spokesman said.

Columbia's Real Payload: The Future

The first flight of the American space shuttle is intended to show that this novel space-plane can orbit the earth and return safely. But much more is riding with it.

The debut of what NASA calls the space-transportation system signals a return of the American manned space program after a disturbing six-year hiatus. It represents a decade of post-Apollo engineering. For the rest of the 20th century, some variation of the craft will carry men and material into space. By 1994, NASA hopes to launch 500 shuttle flights — perhaps more than 40 a year. Imagining the potential rewards — scientific, military and industrial — is much like mapping the terrain of an unknown world.

Those are the stakes. But the American public has paid relatively little attention to the development of the shuttle. The project is three years behind schedule, and as much as $5 billion over budget. Testing and development sometimes had to be compressed, often with less than satisfactory result. The flaws in the 30,000 interlocking tiles used as a heat screen sometimes seemed symbolic of a project that skeptics insisted would never fly.

It certainly will not fly like anything flown before. The 122-foot space-plane looks like a vertical DC-9 with short wings, joined by three giant fuel tanks.

—Michael Collins says it looks like a cross between a Concorde and a Mack truck. Unlike Apollo, launched atop a stack of self-destructing rocket-boosters, the shuttle is meant to be reused — perhaps 100 times.

It will not be wholly reusable (President Nixon's Office of Management and Budget rejected that design as too expensive). The orbiter is meant to land intact and the rocket-boosters are designed to be recoverable. But the shuttle could reduce considerably the expense of working in space and could change forever the sense that access to space is limited. It is designed to carry 65,000 pounds into space, and to return with 35,000 pounds of cargo.

Yet all this, in a way, misses the main point. The exploration of space is essential to the technological future of the United States. In the past two decades, American space scientists and engineers have accomplished unparalleled feats — and still beyond the reach of other nations. But the United States, strange to say, has lost its sense of mission. The shuttle is in part to blame for this — some 60 per cent of the space budget has gone to it — but the indifference is wider spread. Like so much else in modern America, a decline in the ratings for space exploration allowed programs to be canceled or delayed, even as the Soviet Union continued at a frantic pace. Rockwell International, main contractor for Apollo and the shuttle, employed 28,000 in its space division a decade ago. Now there are 11,000.

The space shuttle offers the United States an opportunity to recapture and maintain its technological leadership, after a decade in which extraordinary gains were dissipated by shortsighted economies. There will be opportunities for "materials processing," the development of new alloys and crystals. A weightless environment permits development of pure pharmaceuticals. Space scientists understand that the shuttle will make it possible to orbit giant telescopes, and to make great leaps in planetary exploration. The military concerned at reports of Soviet "killer satellites," also understand the shuttle's importance. The list is endless.

And the real "payload" of the Columbia is the future.

An open meeting to discuss forming a "Self-Help" housing program in Seminole County will be sponsored by the Resources For Human Needs Committee. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 23 in the auditorium of the County Agricultural Center, 4320 South Orlando Drive, Sanford. The center is located east of Seminole Community College, off U.S. 17-92.

The purpose of the meeting is to explain the self-help housing concept and to discuss the potential for this program in Seminole County.

Self-help housing brings together six-to-10 low and moderate income families to participate in the construction of their own homes. The program allows families that ordinarily would not have an opportunity for homeownership such an opportunity. This is made possible by reducing the construction costs through the participation of the families in the actual construction.

At the present time such programs are successfully being operated in Orange and Lake Counties.

Sue Kenney, Director of Lake Community Development Inc., will attend the meeting to discuss the experience of the Lake County program in addressing the housing needs of Lake County residents.

U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Lakeland, is asking the Senate Budget Committee to allocate up to $500 million to the Coast Guard to help fight the flow of drugs being smuggled into the United States.

The additional funds, according to Chiles, would be used for Navy-type cutters, fixed-wing aircraft and short-range recovery helicopters. The equipment should be part of the overall defense buildup, he said. "It is needed during times of war to protect the nation's coastline and to support other national security objectives. "But because of years of deferred maintenance, the average age of Coast Guard cutters is about 30 years and equipment modernization is vital to enhance the Coast Guard's ability to meet its basic mission."

At the same time, Chiles contends, "The invasion of our country, particularly Florida, by drug smugglers from South America is "Another kind of war that justifies beefing up the Coast Guard and putting more of it into action against the drug invaders."

Admiral John B. Hayes, Commandant of the Coast Guard, under questioning by Sen. Chiles in a hearing recently, said of Florida's drug problem: "At any time a nation is beginning to deteriorate from within, its national security may well be threatened far more than would be the case from a threat from outside the nation. I think it (the drug problem) is a major concern with respect to national security."

During the 60-day period last year when the Coast Guard doubled its forces off Florida because of the Cuban refugee operation, more marijuana was seized than during all of fiscal 1979.

Just A Routine Visit...

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service — especially that portion of it assigned to the various protective details — approaches with fervor the guarding of presidents, vice presidents, members of their families, presidential candidates and visiting dignitaries.

A near miss — such as the assassination attempt on President Reagan — is a very emotional event as well as one that is likely to end careers. Thus, many in the Secret Service do not yet want to discuss what happened on Monday outside the Washington Hilton and, even more importantly, why. But several were willing to talk provided that their names would not be used.

"For years, a number of us (in the Secret Service) have been saying that it was going to be a little routine trip that was going to do us in," said an agent who had guarded previous presidents. "The big trips, the ones out of town or out of the country, are planned down to the last detail. But I've always been worried about the little trip in familiar surroundings. And now my worst fears have come true." These views were echoed by several of his colleagues.

"Routine" and "familiar." Few words could better describe Reagan's trip to the Washington Hilton last Monday afternoon. Many organizations hold meetings, dinners and other functions at the Hilton, which is the largest convention hotel near downtown Washington. The hotel has been visited several times a month by every sitting president since its opening during the administration of Lyndon Johnson. In fact, few spots off federal property are visited more regularly by the president than the grand ballroom of the Washington Hilton.

So, presidential visits to the Hilton are nothing out of the ordinary. All reporters who have covered the White House for any length of time have stood within inches of the spot where John Hinckley fired his gun. They have waited for the president to come out of the Hilton and have shouted a question or two as he enters his car for the short ride back to the White House.

Which brings up another point: the almost cursory way in which the Secret Service has treated the Washington press. The two have contradictory jobs: That of the Secret Service is to shield the president, while that of the press is to get as close to him as possible. The Secret Service and the White House press corps have fought many a battle but in recent years have arrived at a kind of a truce based largely on routine and familiarity.

Often reporters' credentials are not checked. Rarely are they asked to open bags or to be searched for weapons. In fact, the Washington press corps — especially the regulars on the White House beat — has been virtually ignored by the Secret Service.

IRS Agents Victimize The Taxpayer

WASHINGTON — A small businessman in Portland, Maine, was stunned last June when without any warning the Internal Revenue Service seized $9,000 from his bank account.

The besieged businessman, Richard Dyke, had been the innocent victim of an embezzlement which, in turn had caused a $20,000 tax delinquency. He had received permission from IRS officials to pay off the debt in monthly installments of $2,000.

He had kept up the payments faithfully for several months. Then suddenly, the IRS descended on his bank account and grabbed $9,000 to pay off the balance of the bill.

In some ways, Dyke may have been luckier than Maurice Bishop, a Michigan businessman who had also been victimized by an embezzler and wound up owing the federal government $40,000 in taxes as a result. The IRS slapped a lien on property worth $400,000 to assure payment of the delinquency.

Bishop paid off $20,000 of the tax debt in cash; the IRS refused to release any of the cash. Even after the balance was paid off early last July, the tax bloodhounds took their sweet time getting the lien erased from court records, tying up Bishop's $400,000 worth of property for several months.

Incredibly, both the seizure of Dyke's money and the crippling lien against Bishop's property were perfectly legal under IRS regulations and the enormous discretionary authority Congress has given to the tax masters.

Reagan And Roosevelt

In the depths of the great Depression, Franklin Roosevelt's crippling polio came to have a symbolic quality.

A glamorous and wealthy man with his future before him, he had suddenly been crippled; and yet he triumphed over adversity, rose to the presidency, and told the nation that it had nothing to fear but fear itself. His famous grin, his upward tilling cigarette holder, and his bravura radio speeches reminded America of its optimistic heritage.

President Reagan's behavior from the moment he was shot is now acquiring a comparable symbolic quality.

America is today beset by problems and threats probably more dire than those of the 1930s. It has also suffered through a trauma of self-doubt. On that Monday afternoon, the dreary chorus of national self-loathing began to sound again. Senator William Bradley of New Jersey, the basketball player and Rhodes Scholar, speculated about the sickness of our society. Dan Rather seemed to believe that Al Haig was intent on a coup. All the old hysteria began to mount. Senator Kennedy orated about the sufferings of his family.

Ronald Reagan told a few jokes. He walked into the hospital under his own power. As one reporter put it felicitously, Reagan was transformed from Bonzo into the Virginian. No one ever again will claim that Reagan is a celluloid figure, a glib man who reads his lines well.

The one-liners of this wounded president will become the stuff of legend.

"Honey, I forgot to duck," he said greeting his wife and simultaneously reassuring her.

"I hope you're all Republicans," he said to the anxious surgeons.

Coming out of surgery, he alluded to W.C. Fields: "On the whole, I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

And when the doctors removed the tubes from his body, Reagan quipped: "Okay, let's do this scene over from scratch, starting at the hotel."

Instinctively, but also I think quite deliberately, Reagan was sending us all a message. America cannot be — if it will not be — defeated. With his magnificent grace under pressure, he delivered a message much like FDR's.

And it should be noticed in how many ways Reagan, once a New Dealer, has re-shaped the Republican Party in the Rooseveltian image.

During the 1930s, it was the Republican Party that stood for isolationism. Today, it is the Democrats, while the Reagan Republicans express a sense of American mission and the defense of freedom.

In the 1930s, the Rooseveltian Democrats stood for productivity and jobs, for belching smoke stacks. Today, in a reversal, it is the Republicans who stress productivity, the Democrats who talk about limits, scarcity, reduced expectations.

FDR proclaimed the United States the Arsenal of Democracy. Today, it is the Democrats, not Reagan, who attack the defense budget.

Reagan Republicans stand for an expansion of American power. Even in details it is possible to see striking comparisons: FDR was a great advocate of sea power. Reagan is proposing a dramatic increase in the U.S. Navy.

DON GRAFF

We Ask For It

There is one thing that the attempt on President Reagan's life is not:

It is not yet another brutal demonstration of a fundamental flaw in the American character. We are not as a society rotten to a violent core, despite what some among us may be inclined to read into the crime statistics — including the president whose own remarks on the subject were followed so soon by the shooting.

That shooting is not to be dismissed as an isolated incident. After all, the successful and attempted assassinations of American public figures are a matter of disturbing record. But it must be remembered that assassinations are acts of violence of a very special type. They should be seen for what they are — attacks upon fame and authority, not as expressions of a national passion for violence.

There are, however, other lessons to be found in the Reagan incident.

For one, it is a reminder that the American presidency is not only the world's most powerful position but also one of its most dangerous. And Americans themselves have done a great deal to make it so.

Any national leader is a potential assassin's target and has been throughout history. But it is an unfortunate fact that the natural vulnerability of leadership has been compounded in the United States by the hype as well as the power and prestige with which the office of the presidency has come to be invested.

We make of our presidents much more than political leaders. They are our foremost celebrities. The president has become not merely an individual temporarily holding the nation's highest office but a cult figure, a one-man media event, a public performer subjected to and for political purposes inviting a type of publicity that often seems more appropriate to the world of entertainment than that of public affairs.

It is a dimension of political leadership in America that has no real counterpart in any other country, for all that others may from time to time produce their own charismatic political personalities. The charisma does not, however, go with the office as it has increasingly done with the American presidency.

It is a situation that makes for a lot of uniquely American political color. And also for some problems that may not necessarily be uniquely American but that can acquire a unique intensity in the American context.

The larger-than-life public persona that a president acquires makes of him more than a celebrity for certain elements of the public. He becomes an excitant to the unstable personalities, those with the overheated imaginations and the twisted mentalities that turn kooks into killers.

reported Starkey's speech to his division Chiefs in September 1979: "National Office wants us in the seizure business not making installment agreements ... We're in the business for full compliance — making taxpayers pay their taxes."

Even before this blessing from on high, an eager supervisor in St. Louis had spelled it out in unmistakable terms. In February 1979, he sent a memo to his subordinates, saying: "Why aren't your revenue officers making seizures? It is painfully apparent that other districts are getting more out of their revenue officers in terms of using this enforcement tool."

The not-so-subtle hint worked wonders. A year later, the St. Louis chief noted with satisfaction: "Seizure activity has more than doubled fiscal year 1979 levels."

Despite his disclaimer, Starkey surely must have known enough about the bureaucratic mind to realize the effect of his May 20, 1980, memo. "While revenue officers must continue to have a large area of independent authority," he wrote, "they should be required to document reasons for not undertaking enforcement actions in specific cases."

The innocent taxpayer might think it should be the other way around — that the revenue officers should be required to document their reasons for taking tough action. But in the topsy-turvy world of the IRS Mamelukes, that's not the way it works.

Starkey added: "Unfortunately, the message that got through in some situations was perceived as a quota by some group managers. Obviously, this message was wrong and not national policy."

Here's how an internal IRS summary

Proud Poppa Reynolds Shows Off Lake Mary Baby

Editor's note: Lake Mary High School opens its gates to 900-1000 freshmen and sophomore Rams this fall. Here is the first of a three-part series on the school and its most exuberant Ram, Principal Don Reynolds.

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

"The Beginning of the Best."

These five words encircle a fierce and attractive looking Ram as the motto for Seminole County's sixth high school — Lake Mary — which opens this fall on Longwood-Lake Mary Road just north of Lake Mary.

This school is Don Reynolds' baby. One wouldn't be surprised to see the distinguished Lake Mary principal passing out cigars as he ushers interested spectators on one of what must be approaching 100 tours of the attractive campus.

And Reynolds is a proud father — with good reason.

"It's the first complete school the county's built since Lyman," beamed the likeable Reynolds as he ushered another interested group through the construction.

"I think it's the first time the county has had the money to do it," laughed Reynolds. "I've been around the country. It's the finest I've seen."

It's a complete school. It's made with gym, auditorium, lunchroom and everything," pointed out Reynolds.

The gymnasium is similar to Seminole Community College. It seats 2500.

"And notice this hardwood floor," said Reynolds while knocking his hand on the surface. Seminole County's last two gym floors — Lake Brantley and Lake Howell — were of a tartan surface which has resulted in injuries.

"We want to show it off," continued Reynolds. "I think people in Seminole County will be real proud of what we got here."

For Reynolds, it will be a second construction job, although it will be his first as a principal.

As an assistant principal, Reynolds was part of the building of Lake Brantley in 1971. The students went to Milwee Middle School in '71, then moved to the Brantley campus in 1972. Reynolds, 46, has been principal of Seminole High School the past eight years.

While Reynolds is especially pleased with the gym, it's the auditorium which brings a special glint to his eye.

"I want to show you something I think is beautiful," gleams Reynolds. "This is our auditorium. It seats 650 and they're all upholstered seats."

"It's just like in the moving picture theaters. It has a wheelchair area and the stage is tremendous."

"Anywhere you sit, it is acoustically perfect," explained the veteran principal.

While the school should be much appreciated by the students and teachers, Reynolds said its usefulness will not stop there.

"We want to open up our school to the public," said Reynolds. "We want everyone to benefit from this facility."

(Tomorrow, Reynolds talks about the problems of staffing and the workload for a half-staffed school.)

Johnson Bucks Philly

By United Press International

Milwaukee forward Marques Johnson plays so well so often that his coach, Don Nelson, sometimes takes him for granted.

But not Sunday — after Johnson scored 35 points and, along with Bob Lanier, keyed a fourth-period drive that gave the Bucks a 109-98 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers to even their NBA Eastern Conference semifinal series at two games apiece.

"I've been around this league a long time," said Nelson, himself a player for 14 years. "One of the all-time performances I've ever seen was Marques." Celtics 199, Bulls 103

At Chicago, Larry Bird scored 35 points, including the basket that put Boston ahead to stay with 39 seconds left, to give the Celtics a sweep of their Eastern Conference semifinal series. Boston, which finished with the best record in the NBA this season, advances to the conference finals after winning four straight games from Chicago and will meet the winner of the Milwaukee-Philadelphia series.

Kings 102, Suns 95

At Kansas City, Ernie Grunfeld scored 27 points and Scott Wedman and Reggie King added 21 each to lead the Kings. The triumph gave the Kings a surprising 3-1 lead in the Western Conference semifinal series. Game 5 will be played Wednesday night in Phoenix.

Spurs 114, Rockets 112

At Houston, George Gervin scored 33

points and San Antonio survived a last-second dunk attempt by Houston's Robert Reid to pull even in their Western Conference semifinal series at 2-2. The series resumes Tuesday night in Houston. The Spurs regained the home court advantage in the best-of-seven series, but it took Mark Olberding's 12-foot baseline shot with 40 seconds remaining to hold off a frantic Houston rally in the final four minutes.

Sophomore Jinx Ends, Sutcliffe Shackles Astros

By United Press International

Rick Sutcliffe, a former Rookie of the Year who suffered a severe case of the Sophomore Jinx, made a vow during spring training.

"Somewhere along the line I'm gonna be in the Dodgers' starting rotation," he said. "Sooner or later, your time comes."

For Sutcliffe, the time was sooner. The right-hander, pressed into duty because of injuries to the Los Angeles staff, allowed six hits over 7 1/3 innings Sunday to lead the Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

The victory completed a sweep of a season-opening, three-game series against the team that edged out the Dodgers last year for the National League West. If Sutcliffe continues his comeback, the result could be different this year.

"There was one point last year when I really feared for my career," Sutcliffe said. "I'm really happy — it's been a long time since I've had a win."

Ken Landreaux, acquired from Minnesota, a belted a two-run homer and Bill Russell had three hits.

"It's (the sweep) really going to give our team momentum and put pressure on other teams in the division," said Landreaux.

Astro Manager Bill Virdon certainly wasn't pleased with the result of the series.

"We played well, but we didn't get too much protection from the middle of the infield," he said.

Mets 2, Cubs 1

At Chicago, pinch hitter Mike Cabbage's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning drove in Hubie Brooks, who had tripled off Rawly Eastwick, 0-1. Neil Allen, who walked in the tying run in the eighth, got the victory.

Pirates 3, Expos 2

At Pittsburgh, Dave Parker and Jason Thompson hit back-to-back homers in the fourth inning against Ray Burris, 0-1. Rick Rhoden, 1-0, earned the victory and Enrique Romo picked up the save.

Sanford's Tim Raines rapped a triple and a single for Montreal, driving in one run. Raines is 3-for-8 for a .375 batting average this year. He has stolen one base.

Braves 2, Reds 2

At Atlanta, Dale Murphy singled home pinch runner Jerry Royster with one out in the eighth to cap a Braves' comeback. Glenn Hubbard had doubled in the first run of the eighth. Reliever Larry Bradford, 1-0, was the winner with Rick Mahler picking up a save.

Cardinals 7, Phillies 3

At St. Louis, Garry Templeton's second triple of the game highlighted a three-run fifth that supported the Cardinals' two major off-season pitching acquisitions, Larry Sorensen and Bruce Suttler.

Rick Sutcliffe

Giants 7, Padres 6
At San Francisco, Mike Ivie singled in Larry Herndon from second base with two out in the 14th. Rookie Fred Breining, who pitched two scoreless innings, notched his first major-league victory.

Carew Steals Home To Spark Win

By United Press International

Throughout his major-league playing career, Maury Wills lived by the stolen base. On Sunday, the manager of the Seattle Mariners was done in by it.

Rod Carew, a master of the art of stealing home, accomplished that feat for the 17th time in his career and scored the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning to spark the California Angels to an 8-6 victory over the Mariners at Seattle.

A's 1, Twins 0
Steve McCatty became the fourth A's pitcher in a row to record a complete game victory when he stopped the Twins on three hits at Bloomington, Minn.

Royals 4, Orioles 2

Clint Hurdle smashed a two-run homer and U.L. Washington and Hal McRae added run-scoring singles to spark the Royals' victory at Baltimore.

Rangers 6, Yankees 4

Al Oliver and Mickey Rivers each singled in two runs to lead the Rangers over the Yankees at New York.

Red Sox 5, White Sox 4
Jim Rice blasted a grand slam in the bottom of the eighth inning at Boston to cap a five-run, two-out rally that gave the Red Sox their victory.

Brewers 6, Indians 1

Ben Oglivie and Ted Simmons belted two-run homers and injury-plagued Jim Slaton registered his first victory since May of last season in leading the Brewers to victory at Cleveland.

Blue Jays 6, Tigers 2

John Mayberry hit a three-run homer with two out in the sixth inning to break open a tight game and lift the Blue Jays to victory at Detroit.

Raiders Remain Hot, Face Valencia Tuesday

By SCOTT SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

Florida's hottest junior college baseball team remains on fire Saturday as Seminole Community College's Raiders whipped Florida Junior College 7-3 Saturday at SCC.

The victory was the 10th in a row in Division II play. The Raiders are atop the race with a 10-3 record with just three games to play in the division.

Second place Valencia (8-4) comes to SCC Tuesday for a pivotal 3 p.m. clash. The Raiders have whipped their arch rivals two of three meetings this year.

Saturday, Seminole received six sparkling innings from right-hander Steve Birchmeier in the victory over FJC.

Seminole trailed 1-0 when Tony Beal singled to right with one out in the first inning.

The ball got by the right fielder and Beal raced to third. Beal scored when Sal Scalzo grounded out to short.

The Raiders batted around in the third scoring five runs on five hits. Beal led off the inning with a double and scored on a single by Scalzo.

Vince Riva drew a base on balls while Jim Mee singled to load the bases.

Bob McCullough tied the game at three with a one run single. Tom Clarke opened the game up delivering a two run double. Jeff O'Dell followed with sacrifice fly to score McCullough and give the Raider's a 6-3 lead.

Riva closed the scoring for the day with a solo homer in the fourth, giving Birchmeier the victory.

Beal, Riva, Mee and McCullough each had two hits apiece.

On Sunday, the Raiders journeyed to Melbourne to take on the Minnesota Twins' Class A ballclub Wisconsin Rapids.

Left-hander Darrell Jackson, who is attempting to come back after alcoholic rehabilitation, was the starter for Rapids.

"He pitched pretty well," said Pantellas about the small lefty's comeback bid.

Jackson's team flattened the Raiders 11-2, but it was a 2-1 SCC edge when Pantellas pulled the starters in the fifth inning.

"Brian Murray and Pete Kutsukos pitched real well for us," said a satisfied Pantellas.

Longest Reigning Boxing Champ Louis Dies At 66

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Joe Louis, the legendary "Brown Bomber" who won America's heart by knocking out Nazi Germany's hero Max Schmeling on the eve of World War II and held the heavyweight crown for the longest reign in boxing history, died Sunday of cardiac arrest. He was 66.

Louis, who four months ago received a pacemaker, collapsed at his home early Sunday and was pronounced dead at Desert Springs Hospital 20 minutes later.

Just 14 hours before his death, Louis had watched from a wheelchair at ringside as Larry Holmes successfully defended his World Boxing Council heavyweight title against Trevor Berbick at Caesars Palace.

Louis had been making periodic visits to Dr. Michael DeBakey in Houston, Texas, since 1977, when an arterial graft was performed on him to correct an aneurysm, and four months ago he received a pacemaker.

Despite his medical problems, Louis appeared in good spirits at the fight Saturday night. He shook hands with other celebrities and waved to the 4,000 fans who stood and cheered as he was introduced prior to the bout.

Louis' wife, Martha, and his three children — Joe, Joyce and Kim — were with him when he collapsed as he made his way to the bathroom.

"Sooner or later, we all have to go,"

said his wife. "Joe lived a wonderful life and I've devoted my last 23 years to him."

When the announcement of Louis' death was announced at Tiger Stadium in his childhood home of Detroit, the baseball game was halted for a moment of silence.

John Condon, the head of Madison Square Garden boxing, said the world of boxing had lost one of its great ones.

"We lost a good piece of the foundation," Condon said. "He was Mr. Boxing."

The highlight of Louis' sparkling boxing career came in New York on June 22, 1938, as more than 70,000 people jammed Yankee Stadium on a hot and humid night to watch a rematch bout between Louis and Schmeling.

In their first bout two years before, Schmeling, a heavy underdog, had humiliated Louis for 12 rounds before knocking him out. Louis was not the champion the first time the two met, but he since had knocked out James Braddock for the title.

In the rematch, Louis exploded from his corner at the opening bell and battered Schmeling mercilessly. Just 2:04 into the fight, Schmeling dropped to the canvas for the second time and did not rise.

For Louis, it was a personal triumph. For America, it was a night that transcended sports and became permanently etched in the minds of millions. As the ominous rumblings of the pre-World War II years grew louder, Schmeling had become the embodiment of Nazi Germany. Louis was America's hero.

Louis held the title longer than any man in history, successfully defending his crown 25 times spanning 11 years, eight months and eight days from 1937 to 1950. He won 68 of 71 professional bouts, 54 by knockouts.

Born Joseph Louis Barrow on May 13, 1914, the son of an Alabama sharecropper whose family moved to Detroit when he was in elementary school, Louis won the world heavyweight title June 22, 1937, when he knocked out Braddock. "The Cinderella Man," in eight rounds at Chicago's Comiskey Park. In 1949, he retired as champion — undefeated.

Unfortunately, he did not stay retired.

In 1950, Louis was beaten on points by Ezzard Charles in 15 rounds at Yankee Stadium in an unsuccessful attempt to regain the title. Thirteen months later, Louis, then a shell of the boxing legend he had once been, was matched against powerful Rocky Marciano. Marciano destroyed Louis in eight rounds.

The former champion's remains will lay in state Thursday at Caesars Palace and Louis will be buried Friday at a still undetermined site.

Berbick Uses Head, Holmes Uses It Better

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Three days before his heavyweight championship fight against Larry Holmes, Canadian champion Trevor Berbick said Holmes could be beaten. "If I fight smart and use my head."

Well, Berbick used his head alright. But he used the region bordered by his jaw, hairline and ears mostly to stop the piston-like left jabs of Holmes as the champion scored a unanimous 15-round decision over Berbick to retain his World Boxing Council title Saturday night at Caesars Palace.

Today, as Berbick rested at his home in Halifax, Nova Scotia, he had two things with him that he didn't have before the fight: respect and a sore face. For while Holmes successfully defended his crown for the ninth time, his string of eight consecutive knockouts in title defenses was stopped by the brawling and iron-tough Berbick.

"This showed you can't take anyone lightly," said a weary Holmes. "He took everything I had and then some. I thought it would end in eight rounds but he just wouldn't go down. Other fighters can't take the punches he took."

Berbick, alightly bruised around the right eye and with his whole face alightly swollen, said he hoped he had proven his point that he was a capable fighter.

"Larry hits extremely hard but I saw all the punches coming and that makes a big difference," said Berbick. "If I didn't see a few of those punches coming I would have been out. No question about that. But I was never hurt bad."

Berbick was a 50-to-1 underdog but gave Holmes all he could handle. It was the first title defense for Holmes since October 2 of last year, when he stopped Muhammad Ali in 11 rounds.

Caponi 'Steams' To Raleigh Win

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Donna Caponi had three-foot putts on the 14th and 15th holes Sunday that would have maintained her lead in the $125,000 LPGA event in Raleigh.

She missed both of them and suddenly found herself in a tie with Cathy Sherk.

"I was steamed," Caponi said later. "Have you ever seen a mad Italian?"

Despite missing the two short putts, Caponi said she was determined not to allow the setback to affect the remainder of her round.

"I was mad, but I wasn't so mad that I was going to blow the tournament," said Caponi, who went into the final day of play with a two-stroke lead.

Both Caponi and Sherk, who missed the cut in two of her last three tournaments, parred the 16th hole. Caponi then sank a seven-foot birdie putt on the par 5, 17th hole to go one stroke ahead and preserved her second victory this year with a six-foot par putt on the 18th hole.

MASTERFUL

Tom Terrific Pockets Augusta, Looks To Open

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Most golfers would be content to sit back and bask in the glory of having just won the Masters, but not Tom Watson. He's already talking about winning a U.S. Open.

"I want to win the U.S. Open very badly," he said after adding a second Masters championship to his collection Sunday with a two-stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller. "But I can't make that happen. I have to go in there (Merion, Pa., June 18-21) and let it happen."

Although he now has five major championships — the two Masters and three British Opens — among the 26 professional tournaments he has won the past seven years, Watson admits it bugs him a bit that he hasn't won either a U.S. Open or PGA Championship.

"The major championships are the prize plums," he said. "I agree with Jack (who has won 19 majors) that that's where the real test of golf is — the Masters, the U.S. Open, the British Open, the PGA."

Watson's interest in the major championships brought up the annual question of whether he, now the lone candidate, can win all four this year.

"That's a million to one shot," said Watson.

Watson, who won 22 tournaments and nearly $1.7 million in official money the previous four years, was winless for '81 coming into the Masters and even now, although the $80,000 prize at Augusta vaulted him into fourth place on this year's money list, he insists his game is "not in top form."

"I made up for it with determined play," he said. "Winning the Masters is better the second time around. I was so nervous, I felt I was going to jump out of my skin."

Two days earlier, Watson didn't figure he had much of a chance to catch Nicklaus, who then led him and three others by a seemingly commanding four-stroke margin.

It was Watson's contention at that point that "four strokes are hard to make up anytime, but especially against Jack Nicklaus because he doesn't make very many mistakes."

However, Watson outshot Nicklaus 71-75 in Saturday's third round to take a one-stroke lead and it was Nicklaus' turn to try to catch up Sunday.

"Inside, I'll feel this was a majors I should have won," said Nicklaus, the reigning titlist in both the U.S. Open and PGA Championship. "I gave it away in the last two rounds, but you can't take anything away from Tom."

Nicklaus appeared to be making a last-minute bid when he birdied the 15th and 16th holes Sunday to close to that final two-stroke margin. Watson had to be a bit uneasy at that point since he bogeyed 17 on Friday and double-bogeyed the par 4 hole Saturday when he had trouble getting out of a sand trap.

'Don't Give Up' Watson Tells Weekend Hackers

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Tom Watson, the new Masters champ, has an encouraging piece of intelligence he'd like to pass along to all you weekend hackers who keep making mistakes. So does he. Sometimes as many as five in a single round the way he did Sunday. But he has a solution sure to thrill you: Don't give up.

The 31-year-old Kansas City red-head didn't — even though he was four shots in back of mighty Jack Nicklaus at the halfway mark of competition and after it was all over, he had the enormous satisfaction of being rewarded with the $80,000 first prize for his two-stroke victory. Plus his second green jacket in four years.

"And this time it fit me," laughed Watson, who was presented with one that looked more like a tent on him after winning his first Masters title in

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

1977.

To all intents and purposes, Nicklaus seemed to have a lock on this year's Masters at the end of 36 holes. With the lead he had and the way he was playing, practically everybody was conceding him his sixth title here and his 20th major championship.

But hold the phone. By the end of the third round, Watson had moved in front, one shot ahead of Nicklaus and with Greg Norman, the young blond Australian invader, only two strokes off the lead and showing no sign of deferring to his elders, some question arose as to the outcome.

Watson did a little thinking overnight. He wasn't paired with Nicklaus for Sunday's final round due to the archaic system they employ here of teaming the leader with the third-place player for the final 18 holes, but he had a pretty good idea that Nicklaus would be the one he'd have to beat in order to win. And he was right, even though on-charging Johnny Miller came up with seven birdies for an eye-popping 68 that tied him for second place with Big Jack.

"I just told myself the No. 1 thing I had to do was not make two mistakes in a row," said Watson.

He was determined not to, and he failed, yet he still wound up with a final round 71 for a 280 total that gave him the title.

IN BRIEF

Sanford Pee Wee Tryouts Tuesday, Thursday At Chase

Tryouts for the Sanford Pee Wee League will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday at Chase Park on Celery Avenue in Sanford.

The league is for 8- and 9-year-olds and will begin play the first week of May.

To be eligible for the league, a youngster must turn 8 before Aug. 1, 1981, and must not turn 10 before Aug. 1, 1981.

Youngsters may pre-register today or Tuesday at any Sanford Recreation Department office or may sign up at the field prior to tryouts.

There is a $5.00 player participation fee for those picked to a team. Those who sign up early and try out Tuesday and Thursday are placed on teams before any late signups in case more boys sign up than there are openings on the teams.

Longwood Signups Due

Anyone or any teams wishing to play in the Longwood Softball League, please come by Longwood City Hall, or call Tina Anderson at 831-0555. The women's league will be starting during the fourth week in April. Registration must be taken care of by April 17.

Rangers Tumble Kings 6-3

By United Press International

New York Ranger Coach Craig Patrick was like a safecracker turning the tumblers and waiting for the right combination to open the door.

He heard a very loud "click" Sunday night.

Tom Laidlaw, Anders Hedberg and Ron Duguay scored during the third period to break a 3-3 tie and give the New York Rangers a 6-3 victory over Los Angeles, eliminating the Kings from the preliminary round of the NHL play-offs in four games.

The Rangers, 13th overall in the regular season, upset the Kings, who finished fourth with 99 points and for much of the season led the Norris division and the Montreal Canadiens.

In And Around Sanford

SISTER Backs 'Clock,' Clean-Up

SISTERS (Sanford's Interested Sarah's To Encourage Rejuvenation) held their regular luncheon meeting at noon at the Holiday Inn. Vivian Buck, president, led the 21 members in the business meeting.

Members discussed the merits of their support of two possible civic projects: 1. The efforts of Jim Talmadge regarding the moving of the clock from the present site at the Elks Lodge on East Second Street, to its former location on First Street and Park Avenue; and 2. the clean-up and beautification of the little lake behind the Henry S. Sanford Museum and Library.

Before a final decision can be made by the members, a committee will contact City Manager Warren E. "Pete" Knowles for further information on these plans.

There will be an election of new officers for 1981-82 at the next meeting.

Members of the Pilot Club of Sanford met at the Holiday Inn in Sanford for their monthly Program Meeting. Doris Stein, program chairman of the month, introduced her guests, Dr. Thomas Yandell and his wife, Bea.

Dr. Yandell, the guest speaker from the Sanford Pain Control Clinic, 2017 S. French Ave., spoke to the group about the use of acupuncture, weight control and proper nutrition in controlling pain.

His talk was very informative and interesting, and included a demonstration of the use of the acupuncture needles and laser beams.

It is always good to hear about friends that we haven't seen in quite a while, whether they are just home for a visit, or still living in town.

For instance, Patty and David Gatchell spent a couple of days in town last week, which always makes Patty's mother, Mrs. John Hodge, happy.

Patty and David have lived in Lake Wales for a number of years, but Sanford is still "home" to both of them.

David is vice president and general manager of the Mountain Lake Corporation of Lake Wales, and Patty is the legal assistant in a large law firm there. They love it in Lake Wales, but they agree that it's always good to be back home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Beverly) Plumlee and daughter, Leslie, have returned to their home in Atlanta, Ga. after spending several days with Beverly's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Gradick.

Needless to say, Myrtle was delighted to have her family with her for a few days, especially granddaughter, Leslie, who had just graduated from college before the trip to Sanford.

Beverly said she hopes her next visit will allow her enough time to visit with some of her friends.

One of our Sanfordites who isn't seen too much by many of her old friends, due to the nature of her job, is Denise Caruthers.

Denise is a young lady with an unusual job. She is a licensed security guard for the Wackenhut Corporation and has recently received government security clearance which will allow her to take security jobs on government or military installations.

According to Denise, the work is interesting, varied, challenging — and sometimes boring.

Some of her duties include escorting female mental patients to the state hospital at MacClenny, acting as security-receptionist to screen applicants at one business, while she checks automobiles and drivers credentials at another place of business.

She also has the after business hour job of making the hourly rounds of empty office buildings, checking each door and corridor.

At times she finds this phase of her work a little tedious and boring. During these night watches, she finds reading and doing needlepoint between the hourly checking-rounds helps keep her alert and makes the time pass faster.

Denise plans to return to college this summer and continue her studies for para-legal services. She can continue her security job while attending school, with very little change of her present schedule.

She said she would eventually like to go into the investigative side of security work.

Dream Castles Not To Live In

DEAR ABBY: I am 68 years old and have had terrible luck with husbands. Three of them died on me. Abby, I have a crush on my lawyer. He is 61 and a bachelor. I have had this crush on him for nearly eight years. I've never gone out with him but I see him in his office when I have legal work for him to do. Whenever I see him, he is very nice to me and calls me by my first name. I brought him some brownies once, and he said they were the best he ever had. I hinted that I was also a very good cook and would like to prove it to him sometime, but he just smiled and didn't say anything. I sent him a valentine but didn't have the nerve to sign it.

Maybe I'm just a foolish old lady to even think this man would have any interest in me, but I get so much pleasure just thinking about him. Abby, is there any harm in dreaming? It took me 25 years to get over George Brent.

DEAR ELSIE: There's no harm in dreaming. Dream castles are fun to build, so long as you don't try to live in them.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I would like to share my own experience with PROBLEM CHILD, whose parents' fighting keeps him awake.

I had the same problem with my own parents 35 years ago. In a few months we will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and I hope they will hold off fighting until after the guests leave. It took me a long time to realize how wonderful my parents are in every other way. They have been very loving to their children and grandchildren (if not to each other); prouder parents do not exist. They are generous far beyond their modest means.

It may be hard to understand, Abby, but beneath their quarreling lie hearts of gold.

LOVING SON
DEAR SON: That you are able to accept this one unpleasant part of your parents' behavior while appreciating to the full their more admirable qualities says a great deal for your maturity and understanding.

DEAR ABBY: I was very upset by the letter in your column from the young man who has Herpes Simplex. From his letter, one would assume that only "loose" women have this disease. Well, I'm a "nice" girl who has it.

I have been with only one man in my life, and he's my husband. I didn't have sexual relations until I was 20. I'm 28 now and have two children. My husband is not the kind to sleep around, so I'm sure he didn't bring it home to me.

Please print this, Abby. There are other "nice" women who have Herpes Simplex who may resent being told they have a venereal disease.

A NICE GIRL
DEAR NICE GIRL: You undoubtedly have Herpes Simplex 1. Herpes Simplex 2 (which is a venereal disease) is vastly different from Herpes Simplex 1 — a virus that causes cold sores or fever blisters. They are two different diseases caused by two different viruses. It is unfortunate that they bear the same name with only a number to differentiate them.

DEAR ABBY: May I address this to victims of so-called "Male menopause?" I was one, and I beg you to learn from my experience. Don't give in. The price is much too high. I'm recently divorced (one month) because I thought it was possible to recapture my youth by "falling in love" with a girl 20 years my wife's junior. It wasn't love, it was a case of male menopause, and now all that remains is a destroyed 19-year marriage and four badly hurt people — two fine teen-agers, my ex-wife and me.

I tried to relieve the excitement I knew 25 years ago. For a brief moment, I did. But it didn't last, and now I realize the value of what I foolishly threw away.

To you men over 45 who go in for one-night stands: Accept them for what they are, and don't try to fantasize that they are a lasting love relationship. They aren't. I made the mistake of trying to build a one-night stand with a 19-year-old girl into a lasting love affair. It couldn't be done. I made a fool of myself and I broke the heart of my wonderful, intelligent, caring, warm, 39-year-old wife. I must have been crazy.

FRANK
DEAR FRANK: Thanks for a good — and frank — letter.

Persistent Cough Defies Treatment

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past three years I've been coughing. I never have any phlegm or mucus. I am 57 years old, have never smoked. I've seen several doctors concerning this, including an allergy specialist. Prior to that I had a lung specialist who even looked into my lungs. Nothing has been found to cause the cough. Any medicines I have taken have been fruitless. It seems that the cough gets worse in the evenings. Do you have any suggestions? I need something done about this.

To Treat It, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor put me in the hospital for an angioogram. It showed that 80 percent of the right carotid artery was occluded right at the bifurcation, his words, "a significant lesion."

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, April 14, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 14, 1981 Lessons which you have learned from past experiences will be wisely used this coming year. It is not likely you'll be a repeater of old mistakes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Speculative or bold enterprises could hold a special appeal for you today. Personal gains are possible, but you may have to take a calculated risk.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Spend time today on projects in which you can truly take well-performed will enhance your feelings of self-worth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're very capable at managing your interests today, as well as those of others. Chances to demonstrate your skills are likely to come up in each area.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

This is likely to be a busy day, yet you'll still make time available to persons who need your help or counsel. Your compassion is admirable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could become involved in something today similar to a situation you successfully handled in the past. What worked then should work now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Business or investment propositions brought to you today could have real potential. Don't impulsively jump into anything, but if they sound interesting take a hard look.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your logic and intuition are finely attuned today, especially in commercial areas. Put them to work properly and it should spell profit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Persons in positions of power are prepared to back you today. They know if you make a promise it can be relied upon. Watch your commitments carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The aspects continue to look very favorable where your material needs are concerned. Strike while the iron is hot in situations which hold promise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Put your imagination to work today and you should be able to figure out ways to advance

Airport Landing Opens New Era Of Space Travel

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Test pilots John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen flew America's revolutionary space shuttle Columbia today to the first airport landing from orbit, opening a new era of space travel.

The astronauts relied on Columbia's computers to guide them through the tenuous space-air boundary never before penetrated from above by a winged vehicle.

Their 104-ton prototype space freighter dropped out of orbit with a braking blast from its main maneuvering engines over the Indian Ocean and sliced into the upper fringes of the atmosphere at 25 times the speed of sound. Its blunt, insulated underbody felt the full, fiery brunt of the slowing forces of the atmosphere.

The shuttle crossed over the California coast line more than 100,000 feet high and going more than six times the speed of sound. It then glided over Southern California and, dropping rapidly, put down on a broad dry lake bed in the Mojave Desert.

It was a spectacular end to America's first manned spaceflight in nearly six years.

Successful completion of the 36-orbit maiden test flight of the 104-ton prototype space freighter gave the nation's space program a major boost and set the stage for routine flights to and from orbit within a few years.

Before closing the Columbia's payload bay doors for the trip home, the astronauts sent back yet another television show, using a camera peering through the open cargo bay to show the Earth 166 miles below.

At the same time the pilots were busy putting on the gold pressure suits that would protect them in case they had to eject from the spacecraft after it had descended to 100,000 feet or lower.

The crewmen began their day at 3:17 a.m. — about 40 minutes early — and immediately faced a new problem — a heating difficulty with one of three turbines used to power the ship's hydraulic system. The concern was that if it got too cold it might be difficult to start. Mission control said there were indications, however, the temperature was stabilizing.

Even though the astronauts were already up and at work, controllers radioed up a humorous wake-up song that among other things, said it was "time for a big splashdown today."

"We'd like you to scratch out the splashdown and insert touchdown," communicator Dan Brandenstein said.

"We sure appreciate that," replied Crippen.

After a brief welcome at Edwards Air Force Base, the astronauts were to be flown to Houston tonight for five to eight days of intensive debriefing.

Never before have astronauts attempted to fly a space ship from orbit to an airport landing. All previous manned spacecraft, American and Russian, used parachutes to make the final descent through the more dense regions of the atmosphere.

The future of the nation's space program rested on the outcome of the 54-hour mission. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Defense are counting on the Columbia and three sister ships to haul hundreds of satellites into orbit over the next decade.

The project, 2½ years behind schedule, represents a $9.9 billion, nine-year investment. The shuttle's unique capability of being flown again and again is expected to reduce the cost of space operations and give the United States greater versatility in orbit.

The Columbia is scheduled to be flown piggyback on a 747 jumbo jet back to the Kennedy Space Center next week to be readied for its second orbital flight in September. A third test flight is scheduled for January.

After a final test flight next spring, the Columbia is expected to be declared ready for routine satellite launching missions with landings at a new 3-mile runway at the Kennedy Space Center launch site.

Donald K. Slayton, one of the original Mercury astronauts and now manager of the orbital test program, said the most critical part of the return from space was the area between 115,000 and 82,000 feet when the shuttle slows from five to two times the speed of sound.

In this area, the atmosphere is too thin for the Columbia's airplane control surfaces to maintain full stability so small rockets were required to help keep the ship in the right position.

Also critical was the initial re-entry into the atmosphere, from an altitude of about 400,000 feet to 230,000 feet. It was in this region where the shuttle, with its nose pointed up with its broad underside plowing into the thin upper reaches of atmosphere, expected the highest temperatures.

Re-entry heat up to about 2,600 degrees Fahrenheit was expected on some portions of the 122-foot-long spaceship.

More than 30,000 ceramic tiles blanket the Columbia to insulate it from the fire of reentry. The discovery shortly after launch Sunday that 18 tiles or tile pieces were missing from aft engine ports raised concern about the state of tiles the astronauts could not see.

The tiles visibly missing were not needed for re-entry, but engineers said loss of even one tile in a critical area could be catastrophic.

Young and Crippen were told all along not to worry about the tiles.

Sanford Singer Serenades Shuttle

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

If you had told Roy McCall a few weeks ago that he would be singing to our shuttle heroes in space, he probably would have laughed.

But the 22-year-old singer-guitarist isn't laughing now. Because early Monday morning about 4:00 (central standard time), millions of people listened with more than just idle curiosity as young McCall made his recording debut with "Blast-Off Columbia"—in space!

Now, who would ever think to record a song about the shuttle, send it off to NASA, and hope for the best?

According to McCall, his producer, Glenn Hamman — in Maitland did.

"Jerry Rucker of Geneva is a technician at Martin Marietta and he wrote the song and showed it to Harry D. Cupp . . . Cupp used to be a disc jockey," McCall said.

"Cupp told Glenn about it and Glenn called me to see if I'd be interested in doing something like this. I told him 'yeah' and there I was recording the song in BJ Studios," he continued.

Ringed with themes of patriotism and love for the American heritage, "Blast-Off Columbia" is a lively country western tune lightly spiced with pop.

It begins, "Well, many, many hours went into this thing . . . A job well-done by the shuttle-space team." Although the patriotic message is unmistakable, the delightful touch of humor, no doubt, made "Blast-Off Columbia" such a blast in space.

In the traditional style of bluegrass and country western, McCall interjects his own sense of humor between the lines of his 2 minute, 49 second recording.

At one point, he tells the astronauts, "Don't hit any fence posts on the way up, boys!"

And for the little country boy from Alexandria, Virginia, life just hasn't been quite the same since.

The phone calls are still coming all over the nation from people who want to speak to the "Man who sings the space shuttle song."

"A nice man from Helena, Montana called to say he really liked the song and that made me feel good. It's history in the making, you know? And I'm real glad to be a part of it," said McCall.

McCall, an only child, said he called his Mom in Virginia to see if the folks back home heard it. McCall's mother, a Red Cross employee, said she hasn't had a moment's peace since the record was played.

"But she loves it! She's so proud of me and everybody at home is too . . . I only hope my old Minister of Music David Hotel got a chance to hear it. I know he'd be so proud," McCall commented.

Making the recording and sending it off to NASA was quite a long shot. But McCall and Hamman sent it. Hugh Harrison, the Public Relations man at NASA sent it to Houston, and the rest is history.

Astronauts Young and Crippen heard "Blast-Off Columbia" before they took flight, but the debut in space came as a total surprise to McCall.

Scheduled to leave on a national tour during the first week in May, McCall promises he'll be returning to Sanford. He wants to make it right here at home, he says.

"Be sure and tell 'em how the song ends. We just want people to remember how blessed we are to be living in America, despite everything," said McCall.

"Blast-Off Columbia" closes, "Thanks to God in all His loving grace . . . American is still NUMBER 1 in space."

Cuts May Kill County Migrant Health Care

By DONNA ESTES
Health Staff Writer

Reagan administration plans to cut by 25 percent funding for health care services for the poor and to turn administration of the remaining funds over to the states could destroy migrant health care in Seminole County.

Bill Schomberg, director of the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center which operates clinics in Sanford and Oviedo for migrants, rural poor, seasonal farm workers and their families, said together the proposed actions could kill the programs locally.

Schomberg said the center has been receiving about $500,000 annually in funding directly from the federal government to provide the services.

Under the new federal plan, the migrant units would come under the control of the state.

"These programs were under state control before and it just didn't work," Schomberg said. The migrant care was quickly returned to federal control, he added.

"Currently there is one federal office for the entire southeast region for the program. If the state takes it over under a federal block grant, the state will have to put in a whole new administrative level," he said. "And we don't have any clout with the state," he said.

Schomberg said the administration wants to lump all federally supported health programs together, determine the amount of federal funds currently provided to these programs as a group and then to cut that total by 25 percent.

He said those workers and families eligible to receive treatment from the migrant clinics are receiving the whole range of treatment.

"We can provide everything, except x-rays, that can be provided in a doctor's office," he said.

Last year the clinics recorded 8,500 patient visits. Those receiving the services are persons whose income is too high for them to qualify for county welfare services, but not above the poverty level.

Although the local program had some difficulty with the federal government last year, Schomberg said those problems have now all been worked out.

Schomberg said the federal proposal will not, in his opinion, save money.

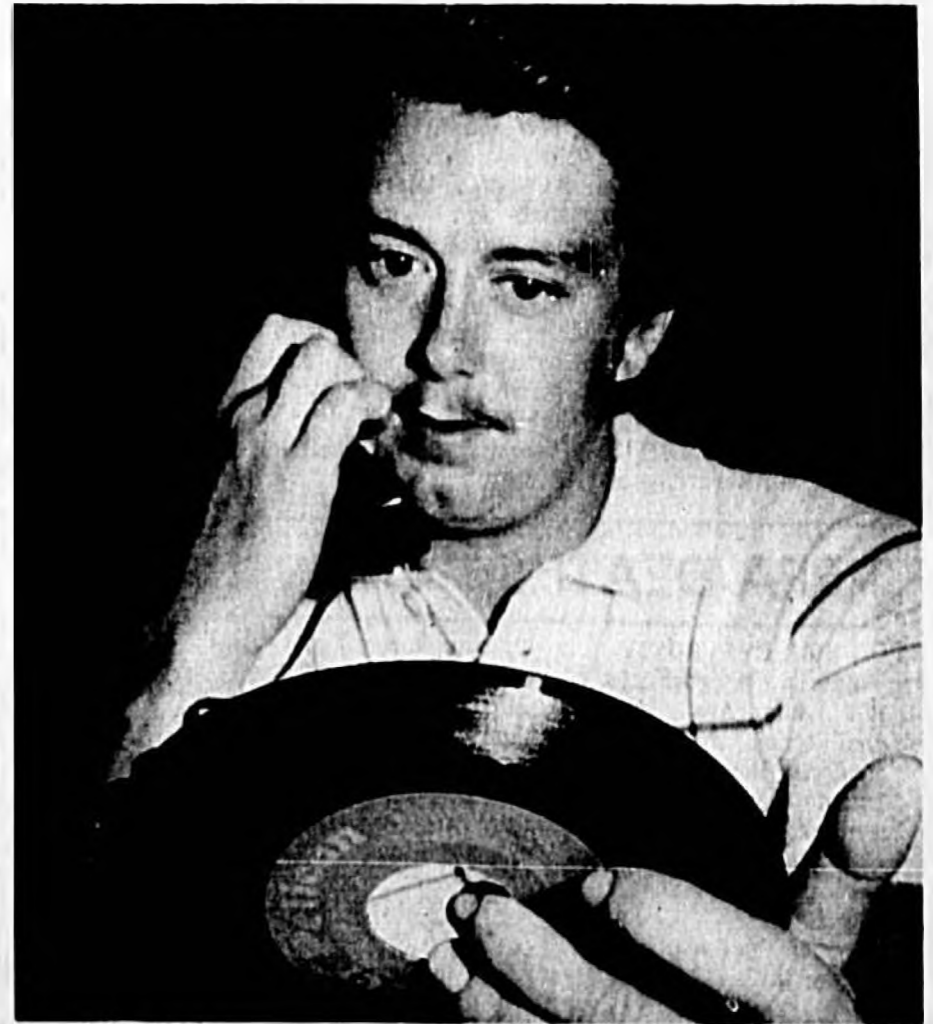

"If they do not have the clinics to go to, they will wait until they are seriously ill and go to the hospital emergency room which costs much more," he said. — DONNA ESTES

FATAL CRASH

Sanford police officer Carey Herndon surveys the wreckage following an 8:50 a.m. accident today which resulted in the death of 64-year-old Ruth Boye of 2810 Magnolia Ave., Sanford. Boye was pronounced dead at Seminole Memorial Hospital at 10:34 a.m. The accident occurred on Sanford Avenue near the intersection with E. 29th Street when Boye, riding a three-wheeled bicycle, turned into the path of a Jeep pickup truck driven by Guy Timothy Blythe, 19, of 1300 Douglas St., Sanford. No charges have been filed.

Roy McCall, singer of "Blast-Off Columbia," is still spinning from his skyrocketing fame following the record's debut in space. Crippen and Young listened to the tune about 4:00 a.m. Monday.

Frogs May Leap For Mankind

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Scientists say frogs could make a flying leap for mankind on future space shuttle flights.

George W. Nace, a biologist and director of the University of Michigan's Amphibian Facility, said scientists hope to use the frogs to test the effects of weightlessness on reproduction.

The experiments could be another giant leap for mankind, he said tongue in cheek.

Nace said scientists would carry the frogs into orbit, inseminate their eggs in a laboratory dish and observe the development of the embryos.

The outcome will have a direct bearing on whether humans will be able to reproduce healthy babies in zero gravity during extended periods in space, Nace said.

"If the lack of gravity in space causes abnormal results in these biological processes, we want to know what they are and learn how to prevent them before humans get around to producing space babies," Nace said.

Nace said his proposed experiment has received support from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and is tentatively scheduled for 1984 or 1985, on a shuttle flight officials plan to devote almost entirely to biological studies.
