After Monday's Dismissal

Sanford Could Rebound With Stronger Suit

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Even though the city of Sanford lost a bid Monday to have its condemnation suit against Seminole County kept alive, at least two city commissioners said they feel the court's dismissal of the suit on a technicality could prove to be good for the city in the long run.

City Commissioner Dave Farr, with commissioner Bob Thomas in agreement, said the city may be able to correct the defects Judge Thomas Waddell Jr. found in the Yankee Lake condemnation suit and refile with a stronger suit.

The comments were made as Farr and Thomas, along with two other commissioners, Milton Smith and John Mercer, Mercer's wife, a neighbor of Commissioner Smith, and an Evening Herald reporter traveled in the same motor home to Sanford from the hearing in Melbourne Monday. The same people traveled in the motor home to Melbourne earlier in the day. Only Mayor Bettye Smith did not travel to and from the hearing in the "King Of The Road" vehicle owned by Commissioner John Mercer and his wife, Juanny. The only consensus reached by the commissioners aboard the motor home, was that the mayor missed out on an excellent cake provided by Mrs. Mercer.

An Evening Herald reporter accompanied the commissioners after one of them was advised by the city's legal counsel that the press should be included among the group to prevent any Sunshine Law violations, since there would be two or more elected public officials traveling in the same vehicle. That commissioner contacted the Herald and informed an editor that the press would be allowed to accompany commissioners in the motor home.

While pleasantries were exchanged, no reportable public business was discussed by the elected officials on the way to the hearing. On the return trip, however, some of the commissioners did comment on the suit's dismissal.

And on that return trip, when some commis-

Huskey Offers Substitute For Yankee Lake

Price To Sanford $4.4 Million

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The City of Sanford, embroiled in a tug-of-war with Seminole County over the 2,867-acre Yankee Lake property, has been offered an alternative by realtor/developer E. Everett Huskey.

Huskey put forth a possible solution for Sanford's wastewater disposal problem in a letter hand-delivered to Mayor Bettye Smith and the city commissioners Tuesday afternoon.

He offered to sell the city 175 acres of land south of Yankee Lake between the Longwood-Markham Woods Road and the Wekiva River as a potential wastewater disposal site with a price tag of $4.4 million.

After receiving the letter and accompanying aerial photo of the site, Mayor Smith said she would be discussing the proposal with City Manager Frank Falsion, the city engineer, and others today to determine its feasibility.

"It was a bright spot in today's mail," she said. "I appreciate his offer and will contact him. I don't know if it will work out, but we'll find out."

Huskey described the agriculturally-zoned property as "almost all high and dry, very sandy, drains well and would be large enough to take care of the regional sewer plant for the city."

Huskey, who submitted a final plat for developing the property as "Rivercrest" to Seminole County two weeks ago, said he would continue with plans to develop it into 120 one-acre minimum lots unless the city expresses interest in buying it. He told the Herald he is not seeking a zoning change.

"Naturally, time is of the essence," Huskey said. "The piping could be done much more directly and certainly less expensively (than at Yankee Lake) on my 175 acres."

Huskey pointed out that the southern boundary is the abandoned 80 foot right-of-way, which runs directly west from Sanford and there is a bridge on I-4 over the abandoned right-of-way which would save the tremendous expense of jacking and boring under the interstate. He said he was certain some type of easement could be obtained to place the pipe on this right-of-way.

Huskey said his engineer, B.C. "Cal" Conklin, who coincidentally also the city's engineer, thought using the right-of-way under the bridge was a good suggestion.

The Huskey property is bounded on the east by approximately 3,000 feet on the Longwood-Markham Woods Road, on the south by the abandoned railroad track, on the north by a wooded area and homes. The Wekiva River is the western boundary. Since much of the land is very high along the banks of the Wekiva at this particular point, Huskey suggested a park might possibly be incorporated in the total tract.

Huskey said he had been following the situation between the city and the county over Yankee Lake very closely and when he heard that Judge Thomas Waddell Jr. had dismissed Sanford's suit, he thought about his 175 acres. There is also other land available in the immediate area, he said.

He said he has not discussed his proposal to the city with any of the city or county officials. He said he has not talked to Jeno Paulucci about it either because of his connection to the Yankee Lake property.

"The county got a tremendous buy when Paulucci sold them the Yankee Lake property for $7.5 million. I (as his real estate agent) had it listed for $12 million and in a matter of time I'm sure he could have sold it for that, but he was unselfish enough to go ahead and sell it."

Paulucci has filed a $28 million lawsuit against Sanford, its five commissioners and City Manager Frank Falsion for interfering with his efforts to sell Yankee Lake to Seminole County.

"I would suggest that you have your engineers and others inspect this site at your earliest possible convenience," Huskey stated in his letter. "I would be very happy to meet you on the site for a personal tour."

He also offered to furnish to the city surveys, a topography map, and other pertinent information obtained for the proposed Rivercrest development.

Store Explosion, Fire Kills 8

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, Miss. (UPI) — An explosion and fire that authorities suspect was caused by a natural gas leak destroyed a furniture and appliance store, killing eight people and injuring a man blown through the window.

"It blew the back out of the building and then the front too. There was a big mushroom cloud when it went up," fire department Capt. Mike Cole said. "We think it is a natural gas leak, but it is under investigation."

The thunderous explosion and fire that swept the Watkins Furniture and Appliance Co. was brought under control within 30 minutes Tuesday, but firefighters worked into the night searching the rubble for more victims. None were found.

The dead were burned beyond recognition and were not immediately identified. Cole said half the victims were believed to be store employees and the others were customers of the store, owned by Amos Watkins.

The injured man, Paul Edward Brown, 18, "was virtually blown through a window," Copiah County Sheriff Tommy Jackson said. "He was on fire."

'Reach For The Stars'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Reagan's State of the Union address Tuesday night:

Shuttle

Reagan paid homage to "the valor of our seven Challenger heroes" and vowed to continue the space program in their honor.

"I hope we are now ready to do what they would want us to do: Go forward, America, reach for the stars. We will never forget those brave seven," he said. "but we shall go forward."

Budget

Reagan promised a spending plan that would meet the $144 billion deficit target of Gramm-Rudman without sacrifices in defense, tax hikes or hurting the "truly less fortunate."

Tax reform

In a renewed pitch for tax reform, Reagan asked Congress "to walk this last mile together" while laying down a demand for reform "that is pro-family, pro-jobs, pro-future and pro-America."

"We cannot and will not accept tax reform that is a tax increase in disguise," he said.

Welfare

Reagan called for sweeping changes in the welfare system to offer "real and lasting emancipation" to poor Americans and ordered his Cabinet-level Domestic Policy Council to fashion a reform plan by Dec. 1.

Catastrophic illness

Reagan asked Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen to report by year's end on how the government and private insurers

Longwood Moves Funds For Land Plan Update

The Longwood City Commission has tentatively approved an amendment to the 1985-86 city budget that will, among other things, transfer $13,000 from the general services contingency fund to the Building, Planning and Zoning Department for the purpose of contracting with a planning consultant to update the city's comprehensive plan.

March 3 has been set for a public hearing and final action on the ordinance. At a special meeting on

Jan. 27, City Planner Chris Nagle told the commission he has not been able to complete work on the comprehensive land use plan during the moratorium on development, which is scheduled to run out on March 25, and proposed the hiring of a planning consultant to finish updating the plan.

The moratorium in Longwood has been in effect since Oct. 15 and as a result only $12,000 has been received from permits and application fees since the fiscal year began Oct.

1. Anticipated in the budget for this year was $175,000.

The ban was implemented and later extended at the request of Nagle, who works alone in the planning department and said he could not work on the comp plan because of the backlog of application to review.

Nagle had hoped the commission would act with more speed treating as an emergency the need for getting the 1980 plan updated before the moratorium goes into effect. Nagle said that the update is needed now so that the city's agencies and commission can have a good basis for the many decisions on developments they will be called on to make when the ban is lifted.

The Land Planning Agency has recommended the staff be authorized to solicit bids and enter into a contract with a comprehensive plan consultant.

The commission tabled the re-

No Decision On Gas Tax Formula

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

For the second time in two months, the Florida Cabinet has sent county and city officials home without a final decision ending the local option gasoline tax distribution dispute.

At a hearing in Tallahassee Tuesday, the governor and Cabinet, sitting as the Florida Administration Commission, gave local representatives until April 1 to draft an interlocal agreement setting forth how the county and its seven cities plan to divide up $6 million in six-cent gas tax proceeds.

The county is in the process of putting down on paper an agreement which will reflect a distribution formula approved by the Seminole County Council of Local Governments (CALNO) last week, said County Administrator Ken Hooper.

The Cabinet was scheduled to consider the matter Tuesday, but delayed the hearing to give local officials time to draft the interlocal agreement which will formally enact the distribution formula.

According to the formula the gas tax would be distributed according to a five-year floating formula based on the cities' transportation expenditures.

The formula was opposed by Longwood, Oviedo, Lake Mary and Casselberry, however the distribution formula is being recommended before the Cabinet because the remaining three cities which approved the plan, Altamonte Springs, Sanford and Winter Springs, represent a majority of the county's incorporated population, over 66 percent.

The county has said it would not oppose the distribution formula, provided that its share of the revenues remain fixed even if the formula is disputed

Hormel Products Stay In Stores Despite Poisoning Threats

AUSTIN, Minn. (UPI) — Grocers in the Twin Cities area said they planned to keep Hormel meat products on their shelves despite threats of product poisoning made in an anonymous letter sent to a Minneapolis TV station.

The FBI confirmed it is investigating the letter, which claimed there were workers inside the strike-torn Geo. A. Hormel & Co. plant who would poison Hormel products delivered to stores within 1,000 miles of Austin.

The threat comes after 40 incidents of package tampering reported at stores in the Twin Cities area. Bits of razor blades were found in two packages of Hormel's "Frank N' Stuff" hot dogs.

A spokeswoman for the FBI in Minneapolis confirmed they were looking into the threats, but would not comment further. The Postal Service and the Department of Agriculture and the Minnesota Department of Agriculture also were participating in the investigation. No recall of Hormel products was ordered.

Charles Manson Denied Parole

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Parole officials denied freedom for the sixth time to Charles Manson after the cult murderer read a wandering 20-page statement declaring himself equal to God, the government and the courts.

Wearing a painted swastika on his forehead at his appearance Tuesday before three parole board members at a hearing in San Quentin Prison, Manson, 51, did not specifically ask for his freedom.

"Prison is a frame of mind," he said. "I don't want out of your prison unless I can go with my brothers and sisters. I don't have anything if I don't have my family."

At another point, the bearded leader of the notorious Manson "family" said, "I could have a parole and have no soul. But I will shirk your parole and keep my soul. Now, I'd like to be taken back to my cell."

Manson originally sentenced to the gas chamber for masterminding the gory, 1969 Tate-LaBianca murders, is entitled to a parole hearing every three years. His sentence was reduced to life in prison by a 1972 California Supreme Court ruling that temporarily outlawed capital punishment.

Mom Sues Over Priest Molestation

ABBEVILLE, La. (UPI) — A youngster changed from a happy boy who believed in God to a nervous child after a priest molested him, the boy's mother testified in a civil case against the priest and the Roman Catholic Church.

Faye Gastal said Tuesday her son "didn't sleep at night (and) walked floors nervously" after he was molested by the Rev. Gilbert Gauthier, who pleaded guilty last fall to 33 counts of sexual misconduct and was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Her testimony came during the trial on a $12 million civil lawsuit she and her husband Glenn Gastal have filed against the church and Gauthier, the first of several suits against Gauthier and the church to come to trial.

Longwood Police Arrest Child Molesting Suspect

An accused child molester took time out in an alleged assault on a 14-year-old girl to turn on an electric fan giving her the opportunity to escape. He has been charged with attempted sexual battery and lewd and lascivious assault on a child.

The girl told Longwood police she was alone with the man in his home when he allegedly began assaulting her at about 8:30 p.m. Sunday. She fled to a neighbor's home and called police when the man released her to turn on the fan, a police report said.

The girl's efforts to struggle free from the man who allegedly removed some of her clothing, fondled her and hit her on the legs and hips bruising her hips, failed. But she escaped when his attention was diverted to the fan.

SPOUSE BATTERY

A 50-year-old Apopka motel resident has been charged with battery-spouse abuse, after allegedly pushing his wife into a wall when she tried to leave their room.

Evelyn Fisher of Tony's Motel,

9290 Greeland Road, reported the alleged attack to Seminole County Sheriff's deputies, and Franklin Herbert Fisher was arrested at his home at about 4:40 p.m. Monday, a sheriff's report said. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

RESISTED

A 19-year-old Sanford man who alleged struggled with a Sanford policeman who broke up a fight between a group of men at Ridgewood Arms on Palmetto Avenue at about 7 p.m. Monday, has been charged with resisting arrest with violence and affray.

Kevin Francis Dougherty of 400 Palmetto Ave., # 3, was jailed at 7:50 p.m. Tuesday and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Jesse Lee Absher, 43, of Route 2, Box 487 B, Oviedo, was arrested at 3 a.m. Tuesday after his car was seen weaving on U.S. Highway 17-92 near a Casselberry.

—Andres Robert O'Neill, 36, of 230 Loraine St., #221, Altamonte Springs, at 12:08 a.m. Tuesday after he was seen driving east in the westbound lane of the Maitland Boulevard overpass.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Jewelry, cash and silver with a total value of about $8,500 were stolen from the home of Marsha Louise Erdman, 38, of 1550 Dodd Road, Winter Park, between Jan. 29 and Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Florida Farms Are In Trouble

United Press International

About 2,000 farmers in Florida have bank foreclosures hanging over their heads in the next 18 months as the Farmers Home Administration begins this week giving them notice to repay $177 million in loans or lose their farms.

The notices they receive will be among 65,000 notices the FmHA is sending out this week to farmers across the United States who are delinquent in their payments, some of whom have not made any payments for three years.

"We are sending out two types of letters this week," said Kathleen Lawrence, U.S. deputy undersecretary of agriculture. "One will go to borrowers who are simply behind and have 30 days to respond. The other, which is sterner, will give those who have not made payments in three years or have broken their FmHA contract 30 days to make arrangements for repayment."

The majority of the Florida farms that fall will be in the northern part of the state, most experts say, where farmers produce mostly row crops like corn, soybeans, peanuts and wheat and raise beef cattle, much like farmers in the Midwest who face the same "do or die situation," one expert said.

"If you look at the state as a whole, Florida looks pretty good when compared to, say, Iowa or other states in the Midwest," said John van Bloklund, a University of Florida professor of agricultural finance. "But if you break Florida down into a north-south dichotomy, the farmers up north look to be in much worse shape."

Van Bloklund said he expects 2,000 farm bankruptcies or sales in Florida in the next 18 months as the FmHA begins to shake out its bad loans. The majority of the failures — 80 to 90 percent — will be in north Florida.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Thunderstorms with high winds howled through Alabama and Mississippi today after overturning a motor home and downing trees and power lines, while winter returned to the central Plains with a blast of heavy snow.

Thunderstorms rumbled into Mississippi and Alabama from Texas, where the rains ended a two-month drought. More than 5 inches of rain fell Tuesday on parts of Texas. High winds Tuesday overturned a motor home on Interstate 59 in Sumter County Ala., authorities said. No injuries were reported. The winds ripped down power lines in Demopolis, Ala., blew out windows at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, and damaged a chicken house and felled trees in Jones County, Miss. Snow fell from Wyoming to Iowa, and accumulations up to a foot were expected today in some areas. "It's been snowing continuously since early this morning," Tim Neilsen, who works at a radio station in Alliance, Neb., said late Tuesday. "The roads are slick and it's hard to get around. When I get off work at 1 a.m., getting out of the parking lot will be the tough part."

Lawmakers Stage Sit-In In Whites-Only Dining Room

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — About 30 mixed-race lawmakers staged a sit-in after being refused service in a whites-only dining room of Parliament but a government minister warned integration would cause "chaos and friction."

The Rev. Allan Hendrickse, the first mixed-race minister in President Pieter Botha's Cabinet, led the sit-in Tuesday after waiters in the members' dining room refused to serve mixed-race lawmakers and removed water and salad bowls from their tables.

The conflict over the whites-only policy of the exclusive members dining room began Monday — just three days after Botha told Parliament that South Africa had "outgrown" apartheid, its strict policy of racial segregation.

Six mixed-race lawmakers went to the dining room Monday but white waiters refused to serve them. About 30 mixed-race lawmakers went to the dining room Tuesday to challenge the whites-only policy and began a sit-in when they were denied service.

White opposition lawmaker Horace van Rensburg said the dining room incident was "in total contrast to the spirit and content" of Botha's assurance that apartheid was on the way out. He vowed to boycott the restaurant until it was integrated.

But, in the white House of Assembly, Cabinet minister Frederick de Klerk, Tuesday condemned the opposition Progressive Federal Party's "concept of freedom of association" and said, "it sounds beautiful, but in South Africa it will cause chaos and friction."

Aquino's Motorcade Attacked

CONCEPCION, Philippines (UPI) — Troops attacked presidential candidate Corason Aquino's motorcade as she headed to her hometown today, firing one shot, smashing car windows and threatening occupants of one car, witnesses said.

The incident occurred after Aquino's car passed the scene and she was not involved. No one was seriously hurt. The commander of the paramilitary Philippine Constabulary troops confirmed the attack but said his men were "provoked."

The incident took place after Aquino's car passed the troops just outside Aquino's hometown of Concepcion, 55 miles north of Manila.

In Concepcion, meanwhile, Aquino addressed a cheering crowd of about 3,000 supporters who chanted "Cory, Cory" when asked who would emerge the victor in Friday's presidential election showdown between Aquino and President Ferdinand Marcos.

The motorcade to Concepcion was the last major event in the opposition campaign before Friday's vote. Campaigning is banned on Thursday.

Witnesses to the incident said six Philippine Constabulary troops halted vehicles in the motorcade, saying passengers were taking pictures of a military installation, which is prohibited.

Castro Leaves Door Open

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — President Fidel Castro, in a report to the Communist Party Congress, denounced U.S. Radio Marti but left the door open for talks to improve relations with Washington.

The 1,790 party delegates will meet today in smaller sessions to deliberate Castro's report on what the party has and has not accomplished in the five years since the last such congress.

Castro focused on foreign policy in the final part of his seven-hour address to the third party congress Tuesday. Earlier he spoke of the party's achievements of the past five years but also lashed out at inefficiency that has stifled socialist progress.

Castro criticized the Reagan administration for its policies in Central America and South Africa, but his sharpest criticism was aimed at Radio Marti's "subversive radio transmissions against our nation."

"The U.S. administration," he said, "was cynical enough to use the name of our national hero, Jose Marti."

Police Probe 3 Paris Bombings

PARIS (UPI) — Police today sought to determine if there was any link between two bombings that injured 11 people and a bomb that was discovered near the top of the Eiffel Tower and safely removed.

A bomb went off Tuesday night in a Latin Quarter book store, injuring three people and sparking a fire that took 120 firefighters more than two hours to contain.

The blast occurred less than 24 hours after a bomb stuffed in a garbage can went off outside the mall-like Galerie Claridge shopping center on the tourist-packed Avenue des Champs-Elysees. That bomb injured eight people, three of them seriously.

Soon after the Champs-Elysees bombing, an employee at the Eiffel Tower found a small bomb behind a toilet in a public restroom near the top of the 984-foot structure. Police safely defused the device, which they said was set to go off at 1 a.m. Tuesday.

If powerful enough, the bomb could have damaged transmission towers for French television and radio situated atop the Eiffel Tower.

'Worth Weight In Gold' In Disaster Probe

Shuttle Rocket Believed Found

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — NASA today zeroed in on an object on the ocean floor thought to be one of the shuttle Challenger's booster rockets, a piece of evidence "worth its weight in gold" to investigators probing history's worst space disaster.

The search for shuttle wreckage entered its second week today with recovery crews concentrating on about a dozen mysterious objects on the ocean floor that were located by sonar and analysis of radar tracking.

An object NASA believes is one of Challenger's booster rockets was located by sonar Tuesday.

The search has been hampered by murky sea and swift currents. Two "targets" NASA earlier said were a sunken helicopter and a light airplane turned out to be aircraft flying in the search area that were tracked by radar instead of sonar as the space agency first said.

So far, an estimated 12 tons of wreckage from the once proud spaceship has been recovered but the remains of the shuttle's reinforced crew module and its beamed up engine compartment have not been found.

NASA spokeswoman Sarah Keegan "categorically" denied reports the crew module had been found. She also refused comment on reports that body parts, possibly from the shuttle explosion, had been located.

Engineers believe a rupture between two solid-fuel segments in the right-side rocket booster triggered the explosion that destroyed Challenger and killed its crew. But NASA's investigation has been conducted in secrecy and the agency refuses to comment on the possible causes of the disaster.

Tuesday afternoon, videotape from a launch pad camera was inadvertently put on NASA's closed-circuit television system available to reporters that showed close-ups of two solid rocket boosters before takeoff. They apparently belonged to Challenger.

A red target was superimposed on the screen over the area of the right-side solid rocket that engineers believe ruptured during ascent. Sources have indicated the first hints of a problem may have been present at the instant of ignition but nothing apparent could be seen on the videotape.

With the search continuing in Florida, the investigation into the disaster has shifted to Washington where a presidential commission plans to hold its first meeting Thursday to begin a four-month probe.

Witness For The Defense

President Reagan's beleaguered defense buildup is picking up an unexpected ally these days. Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., one-time gadfly critic of the Pentagon and now chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is ringing alarm bells about the drastic slashes in defense spending that could be required under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Deficit Reduction Act.

When a Democrat with such impeccable liberal credentials as Les Aspin begins decrying cuts in the defense budget, it is time to sit up and take note. This is no less true if the gentleman in question has an ulterior motive or two: namely discrediting Gramm-Rudman and lobbying discreetly for a tax hike instead.

But there is no gainsaying the figures churned out by Rep. Aspin the other day in a study of what Gramm-Rudman could do to defense. "This isn't just tinkering at the edges of the defense budget," he said. "It means we are reversing the defense buildup of the last few years. We are marching down the mountain we have been marching up."

The budget numbers support this conclusion and more. By Rep. Aspin's calculations, Gramm-Rudman's mandatory deficit cutting could slash $80 billion from projected Pentagon spending by 1988. It could require a 20 percent cut in the administration's planned 1987 budget of $314.7 billion. That amounts to a cut of $65 billion.

The required reductions of the next two years could shrink defense spending by more than the 10.3 percent it grew during the last two years. Indeed, Rep. Aspin's figures show that Gramm-Rudman could force a defense budget that, by 1990, might be smaller (after adjustment for inflation) than the Carter defense budget of 1980.

Pentagon waste aside, it should be obvious that cuts of this magnitude could not possibly be absorbed without punching big holes in the nation's security. A 1987 cut of $65 billion, for example, would equal roughly 70 percent of the entire budget for the U.S. Army or 80 percent of America's commitment to NATO. Slowing down or even leveling off the Reagan buildup is one thing. Imposing the most drastic defense cuts since the end of the Korean War is something entirely different.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes dismissed Rep. Aspin's figures as a "worst-case scenario" that assumes Congress will first fail to cut spending on domestic programs by more than the proportion that Gramm-Rudman would require. But that precisely is what Rep. Aspin fears. And not without reason, if Congress's past performance is any guide.

Mr. Speakes represents a White House still publicly optimistic about holding defense spending level this year and increasing it by 3 percent in real terms in 1987 and 1988. Those are targets that Les Aspin says the administration will "miss by a mile." And so it will, unless Congress and the White House can somehow manage an antidote to imposition of Gramm-Rudman's budgetary hemlock for defense.

One antidote, of course, would be the tax hikes that Rep. Aspin and many others on Capitol Hill quietly favor, but won't push publicly without support from President Reagan. Fortunately, Mr. Reagan remains committed to constraining government and promoting economic growth, which is why he opposes a tax increase save as a desperate last resort after every possible cut has been made in the budget.

That leaves only one other alternative. Namely, for Congress and the White House to cut federal spending themselves, setting their own budgetary priorities while keeping to Gramm-Rudman's year-by-year schedule for shrinking the deficits to zero by 1991. Setting priorities rationally would mean cutting non-essential domestic programs instead of gutting the defense budget.

If that seems a euphemism for, say, abandoning the elderly and shutting down the FBI, it is worth remembering that Congress would still have roughly $1 trillion (or nearly one-quarter of the gross national product) in any given year to divide between domestic needs and national security. Somehow, that does not strike us as austerity.

Sink Or Learn To Swim With The Sharks

Sometimes we find ourselves swimming with sharks:

— One woman's boss uses his authority to get her to tell something she learned in confidence, then uses the information against her.

— A woman spends weeks laying the groundwork for a museum benefit, only to have the plans sabotaged by two other committee members.

— An officer of a large corporation is stunned at the obvious smugness of her colleagues when her plan for a financial maneuver is ruled out by the state.

Like most of us, these women were surprised to be undercut by supposed supporters. They didn't realize they were swimming in treacherous waters.

"How to Swim With Sharks," is the topic of two educators who base their advice on an ancient French primer for sponge divers. Written by Voltaire Cousteau, allegedly an obscure Frenchman who died in 1812, the English translation provides a fascinating metaphor for dealing with people.

Rosalie Perea and Sandra O'Neal, Albuquerque, N.M., public-school administrators, use it as a springboard for discussion in workshops on human relationships.

Here are a few of the rules for safely swimming in shark-infested waters, and how to apply them to our day-to-day encounters:

1. ALWAYS ASSUME ALL FISH ARE SHARKS. The advice to inexperienced sponge divers reads: "Not all sharks look like sharks, and some fish which are not sharks sometimes act like sharks. It is best to assume that an unknown species is a shark."

Says Ms. O'Neal: "We can't know people totally for a long time, so we can't assume they are always going to be supportive. 'Assumption is the mother of all screw-ups,' she loves to say. 'What we should do then, given the unknowns, is present ourselves in a non-threatening manner and be as competent as possible in unfamiliar seas.'"

2. DO NOT BLEED. Since blood is known to attract sharks, experienced sponge divers learn how not to bleed, known technically as controlling the hemostatic reaction. The absence of blood confuses sharks and they begin to question their own power over you. Ms. Perea recommends that if persons are attacked, they are better off not moaning and complaining "Poor me, I've been mistreated." "That's falling into the victim's role," she says, "and can invite attack from other sharks." Try, instead, to depersonalize the situation and not overreact or become overemotional.

3. COUNTER ANY AGGRESSION PROMPTLY. "Sharks rarely attack without warning," wrote Cousteau. "The appropriate countermove is a sharp blow to the nose." On the human scale, if you are minding your own business and sense an aggressive reaction, nip it immediately. "You can't be a doormat," says Ms. Perea, "unless you first lie down." If sharks are coming at you for a reason, you need to deal with the reason and solve it. Clearly communicate that your intention was not to infuriate.

4. DISORGANIZE AN ORGANIZED ATTACK. Sponge divers are encouraged to divert sharks from a mass attack by introducing something (another swimmer is not fair) that will set them off in a different direction or get them fighting among themselves. "With people," says Ms. O'Neal, "you need to find some way to deflect the aggression and redirect it into a positive force." She cited the words of Jesus to the crowd about to stone the woman who had committed adultery: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." That redirected their anger and the mob attack was diverted.

The school administrators also hope their workshops discourage people from becoming sharks if their own goals are thwarted or frustrated.

Nobody really wants to be a shark, but when we mistakenly consider someone threatening, we become insecure and aggressive, just like a shark.

If we develop our relationship skills instead of belligerent gills, the pool will be filled only with good-natured dolphins.

DONALD LAMBRO

Facing Budget Reality

WASHINGTON — The numbers leaking out of the Congressional Budget Office showing a 50 percent decline in the deficit over the next five years, without new taxes, radically change the economic equations in the continuing Battle of the Budget.

Moreover, the numbers provide powerful new evidence that higher tax revenues resulting from a growing economy — spurred by the 1981 tax cuts — are working to cut the deficit.

This, after all, has been the key argument made by President Reagan and the supply siders: Increased economic growth plus restraint in spending will cut the deficit down to manageable levels.

The latest CBO figures project a $178 billion deficit in fiscal 1987 — sharply down from the $210 billion in red ink projected for 1986 and the record $212 billion deficit rung up last year.

Moreover, CBO predicts future deficits will drop to $164 billion in 1988, $146 billion in 1989, $123 billion in 1990 and $107 billion in 1991. The figures were contained in preliminary CBO estimates secretly given to House and Senate Budget Committee officials last week. They will be made public, perhaps with some minor changes, on Feb. 18.

Now, obviously, a $178 billion deficit is still horrendous, but CBO's forecast shows that it's on a downward path.

The reasons are twofold: 1. Federal revenues are growing at a faster rate than government spending. 2. The $11.7 billion in automatic cuts being made this month under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced budget law will yield substantially greater savings next year and in future years.

All of this significantly changes the complexion of the entire budget debate. Where just a few weeks ago officials at the White House Office of Management and Budget were talking fearfully about $60 billion in budget cuts to meet Gramm-Rudman's 1987 deficit-reduction targets, they are now talking about cuts of $38 billion, and perhaps as low as $24 billion.

Stealth May Be Sneaky Boondoggle

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The long-awaited Stealth bomber may be turning into just another multi-billion-dollar Pentagon boondoggle. Experts familiar with the supposedly radar-undetectable aircraft say it is terribly slow, dangerously unstable and enormously expensive.

If the critics are correct, Stealth would be the most expensive mistake in military history. The program's overall cost is estimated at perhaps $80 billion; that would make it the second costliest weapon in the Pentagon's arsenal, second only to the successful Trident submarine fleet (overall cost $100 billion).

Yet such a mystique has developed around Stealth that Congress is expected to approve production funds with virtually no public debate. Designed to be invisible to Soviet radar, the plane is already invisible to the American public and most of Congress.

DON GRAFF

Why Are We Afraid?

Unless you are deeply into the arts, the name Dario Fo may not ring a bell.

He is a contemporary Italian playwright who recently visited the United States in connection with a New York production of his play "Death of an Anarchist."

He had repeatedly been denied entry to this country and was allowed in only after American writers and civil libertarians bombarded the State Department with telegrams on his behalf.

Fo is only one of many foreign notables who have been branded unwelcome in this country. Others include Graham Greene, Alberto Moravia, Doris Lessing, Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Czeslaw Milosz and Pablo Neruda. Some of those names may ring bells. The last three are winners of the Nobel Prize in literature. The list includes many more. Hundreds.

All are on it because, at one time or another and for one specific reason or another, they were found "excludable" under terms of the McCarran-Walter Act, which has governed admission of foreigners to this country since 1952. Adopted at the height of the McCarthy witch hunt over President Truman's veto, it lumps individuals of suspect political views together with psychopaths and sexual perverts. Its arbitrary application is often mystifying to the excluded.

"I do not think I am a danger," said Hortensia Allende, widow of the former president of Chile, when she was prevented from making a U.S.

speaking tour. "I am not an extremist, I am not going to throw a bomb. My bomb is making people reason."

American writers are embarrassed by this country's official hostility to foreign colleagues who have not been certified as right-thinking. Pulitzer-winning novelist William Styron has observed that in his extensive travels no country has ever subjected him to the offensive scrutiny foreigners receive from American officials.

"I think this is... one of the basic flaws of the ideological exclusion," he says, in specific reference to the trouble his friend Garcia Marquez has had with the McCarran-Walter provisions. "It submits men of good will, men who pose no possible danger to our society, to bureaucratic humiliation."

There have been several efforts to remove or at least alleviate that humiliation in recent years. The latest is being led by Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., who has introduced legislation in the House that would significantly change present law.

He makes the point that the primary objection to McCarran-Walter is not that foreigners are denied rights here. It is that Americans are being deprived of their First Amendment rights when their government decides with whom they may meet and exchange ideas in their own country.

McCarran-Walter, as Frank and other critics see it, contradicts the American tradition of free speech and the concept of an open society.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Cuomo's A Motor Mouth

Mario Cuomo is certainly not the average conservative's cup of tea, and the odds in favor of his becoming president of the United States are not all that great, but he is at least a consistently interesting, even stimulating, public figure.

There are two principal reasons for this. One is that he simply cannot resist commenting on any person, subject, or event, however trivial, that annoys him. Your average cautious politician would be delighted if he never had to say anything at all. Cuomo, on the other hand, is compulsively driven to take public issue with anyone, from a columnist to an archbishop, who criticizes him or even presumes to disagree with him. One shrewd New York politico has privately nicknamed him "Old Motor-Mouth" in fond recognition of this weakness.

Whatever thickets of unnecessary and damaging controversy this bad habit has led him into, the media are understandably grateful for it.

Cuomo debating Archbishop John O'Connor on abortion; Cuomo taking a columnist to task for alleged ethnic bias against Italian-Americans; Cuomo sharply denying there is any criminal organization called the Mafia — none of these disputes was necessary, let alone politically helpful, but the media lapped them all up. A keen and restless intellect can be as dangerous in a politician as a loaded gun in a baby's hand.

The second reason for Cuomo's consistently high interest-rating is his aggressive political style. Most politicians like to portray themselves as gentle souls, down-right fond of their opponents and anxious only to keep them from stumbling deeper into error.

Cuomo, however, has confessed to real skill in kidney-punching, and boasted of being the one who urged Geraldine Ferraro to question the sincerity of President Reagan's Christian principles during the 1984 campaign.

away at the wall of secrecy that now surrounds Stealth. Its annual budget of nearly $10 billion will be hidden deep within the Defense Department's budget. But assuming it survives Gramm-Rudman cuts, Stealth will have a large proportion of the Pentagon budget and thus be harder to disguise.

— Security: Some 30,000 engineers and technicians will be needed eventually, and they will need in-depth background checks that could cost as much as $250,000 apiece. Critics estimate the cost for security alone at almost $1.5 billion — higher than the FBI's current annual budget. Even so, experts doubt that determined spies can be stopped from infiltrating the program.

— Design: To reduce the surfaces that could bounce back radar waves, Stealth will be wedge-shaped, with neither wing nor tail flaps as stabilizers. This will make Stealth unstable in flight, especially when burdened with a nuclear payload. But the production schedule is too rushed to iron out such bugs.

— Range: Due partly to its weight, Stealth will have an estimated range of 4,250 miles, which would make it difficult to reach a target within the Soviet Union and return without refueling. But if it were to be refueled in flight, the KC-135 tankers, lacking Stealth's protection against Soviet radar, would be a dead giveaway to the Soviets. The alternative would be to send Stealth on one-way suicide runs.

— Lack of speed: Sources estimate Stealth's top speed at far less than the speed of sound, slower even than the newest commercial jetliners. It cannot fly faster because the plane's airframe would heat up from air friction, and this would give heat-seeking satellites and missiles an easily detectable target.

It is exactly these disturbing questions that aren't even being asked, let alone answered, because of the secrecy surrounding the Stealth program.

"Prizzi's Honor" A Favorite For Nomination

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Prizzi's Honor," "The Color Purple" and "Out of Africa" are the odds-on favorites going into Wednesday's nominations for the 58th annual Academy Awards.

The three biggest box-office hits of 1985 — "Back to the Future," "Rocky IV" and "Rambo: First Blood Part II" — were given little chance to win any major nominations in a movie year that failed to produce even one outstanding film that might have staged a runaway in the Oscar race.

But almost certain nominees are "Prizzi's Honor," a black comedy about a Mafia family; "The Color Purple," a slick drama about a black woman's self-discovery set in the rural South in the early 20th Century; and "Out of Africa," a period romance-adventure story set in Kenya.

Additional possibilities for best picture nominations, based on lesser awards and critics' favorites, were "Witness," "Brazil" and "Kiss of the Spider Woman."

Just as no single movie stood above the others, the best actor and actress categories also failed to produce clear-cut favorites.

A top prospect for a nomination as best actress is Whoopi Goldberg for her portrayal of a downtrodden black woman who still manages to maintain her dignity in "The Color Purple."

Other possibilities are Anne Bancroft, "Agnes of God;" Cher, "Mask;" Geraldine Page, "The Trip to Bountiful;" Meryl Streep, "Out of Africa;" Jane Fonda, "Agnes of God;" Sally Field, "Murphy's Romance;" and Mia Farrow, "The Purple Rose of Cairo."

Most likely to be nominated for best actor are William Hurt for his role as a homosexual prisoner in "Kiss of the Spider Woman."

Other prospects are Harrison Ford, "Witness;" Raul Julia, "Kiss of the Spider Woman;" Jack Nicholson, "Prizzi's Honor," and Danny Glover, "The Color Purple."

The Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences will reveal five nominees in at least 22 categories.

IN BRIEF

Congressman Assails Pentagon For New Arrow Air Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressman says it was "unconscionable" for the Pentagon to charter Miami-based Arrow Air to carry more military personnel before learning what caused an Arrow jetliner crash in December that killed 248 soldiers.

Rep. Guy Molinari, D-N.Y., said Tuesday he has proof the Arrow Air jet that went down in Canada, marking the worst U.S. military air disaster, suffered from numerous mechanical defects.

The House Armed Services subcommittee on investigations planned a hearing today on Pentagon policies and procedures for chartering private airlines. The panel was expected to hear testimony from the military transport command and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Molinari said he has obtained log books and maintenance records showing a series of problems with various systems were found on the ill-fated Arrow Air DC-8 in the weeks before it crashed. Some of the items cited were not critical to flight.

Shands Performs 5th Transplant

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Doctors at Shands Teaching Hospital completed their fifth heart transplant early today on a 46-year-old Gainesville businessman, hospital officials said.

John Kear, who was suffering from idiopathic cardiomyopathy, a severe weakening of the heart muscle tissue, is in "critical but stable condition in Shands intensive care," said Deb Feldman, a Shands spokeswoman.

Shands began their heart transplant program last August when Stephen Stewart, 34, a West Palm Beach, Fla., electrician, received a transplant. Since Stewart's operation, four other people, including Kear, have received transplants at Shands.

Layoffs Hit Eastern Attendants

MIAMI (UPI) — Layoffs took effect Tuesday for 1,010 Eastern Airlines flight attendants and the Air Line Pilots Association said it had mailed ballots to its members to authorize a Feb. 26 strike against the financially ailing carrier.

Eastern announced last month it would lay off 1,010 flight attendants and cut the salaries of the remaining 6,000 flight attendants by 20 percent. The announcement followed a 30-day cooling off period after contract negotiations with the Transport Workers Union ended without an agreement.

The layoffs, which went into effect Tuesday, involved flight attendants who had been with Eastern for two years or less.

quest at the special meeting to give the staff time to prepare an ordinance transferring the funds.

The budget amendment reflected the unexpected increase in income of $141,910 including general fund: $109,000 carry over from last year; $7,220, donations for fire equipment; $690, donations for Christmas Parade; and $3,000 received from developers for engineering fees; Police Officer's Education Fund: $6,000, fines and forfeitures; Police Confiscation Fund: $16,000, forfeitures.

The increase in expenditures totaled $192,426. Line item transfers included: $100,000 for the increase in insurance costs over the amount which had been originally budgeted; $3,000, to make up the unbudgeted difference in upgrading the city's computer system; $32,946 for overtime wages in the Fire Department; and $7,220 for fire fighting equipment.

In other business:
● The report on the Skylark Sewage Treatment Plant expansion was deleted from the agenda and a worksession with the engineer, Dyer Riddle Mills and Precourt scheduled for Feb. 10 instead.

● A new paying assessment policy was established with the formula of assessing the two adjacent property owners and the city each a third to each property owner being assessed 45 percent and the city 10 percent (the same as it was two years ago before it was changed.) The property owners can pay back their assessment over 10 years.

● Site plans for Parkway University on Lot 13 in Florida Central Park and the Pioneer Savings Bank addition at State Road 434 and Palm Springs Road were unanimously approved. The commission is looking into the legality of not approving any more site plans with septic tanks for the Florida Central Park until the developer proceeds with construction of the sewage treatment plant on site as promised.

sioners commented about the day's court hearing, the Herald reporter began taking notes. As he did, Mrs. Mercer ordered him not to take notes nor quote anyone, under threat of having him walk back to Sanford. The reporter did report on the commissioners' conversations, did ask commissioners questions, and noted their answers and conversations. Those comments and answers were reported by the Herald in Tuesday's publication.

Farr this morning complained to an editor at the Herald that he (Farr) took Mrs. Mercer's comments on note-taking as "a jest. She was jesting. I laughed and I believe the reporter himself giggled. I think he took it all out of context. Mrs. Mercer was laughing when she said it. There were five people there when she said it and they all laughed. No one took it seriously." The reporter said he personally did not take it as a jest and took Mrs. Mercer "quite seriously."

Mrs. Mercer could not be reached by press time for comment.

Among the topics discussed and reported Tuesday in the Evening Herald were Farr's positive outlook for the city in the suit despite the dismissal, and his observation that all the city "has lost is time." He said the dismissal could make a refiled suit stronger. When he asked Thomas if Thomas agreed with him and whether his (Farr's) was a positive attitude, Thomas said "yes." Farr also said the legal fees incurred in the battle, even if as much as $20,000, could be worth it if it saved the city millions in the long run.

Brown was taken to the University Medical Center in Jackson, then transferred to the Mississippi Firefighters Burn Unit at Greenville, where he was listed in critical, but stable condition.

Nancy Thaxton, a teller in a bank across the street from the furniture store, said she heard a rumbling noise, then an explosion.

"I ran out of the bank and saw fire coming out of both ends of the furniture store," she said. "Debris was everywhere."

Thaxton said a store employee — apparently Brown — was covered with flames "and some men grabbed him and put out the fire."

"I have never witnessed anything like this before and I hope I never do again," she said.

Cole said the 2-year-old metal building in downtown Crystal Springs had overhead natural gas heaters.

"The fire only took a couple of seconds to engulf the building," Cole said.

The windows of a nearby service station and doctor's office were shattered by the blast, Cole said.

Police Chief Joe Wilson said when he reached the store less than 15 minutes after the explosion, "the front and the back of the building was blown out. The west side was blown off and the whole thing was in flames. The building is just a heck of a mess."

No Guerrillas On Plane

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's failure to capture top Palestinian guerrilla leaders on a private Libyan jet intercepted by Israeli warplanes was characterized by Israeli newspapers and scholars today as a "victory for terrorists" and "a mistake."

"We did not find what we hoped to find," Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin told the Knesset, or parliament, Tuesday night.

"If it was successful it would have been extremely effective," said Tamar Prat of the Jaffee

Center for Strategic Studies in Tel Aviv. "Instead, it's a victory for the terrorists."

Most government officials refused to comment on the incident, but newspapers, scholars and former intelligence officials characterized the interception of the wrong plane as an embarrassment and a disappointment.

Israeli warplanes intercepted the American-made Gulfstream jet over the Mediterranean Tuesday and forced it to land at an air base in northern Israel.

by one or more of the cities in the future.

Under CALNO's proposal, the county would receive a 63.6 percent of the gas tax revenues. The cities' share, 36.4 percent, would change from year to year based on the five most recent years of transportation expenditures.

The county had originally adopted a formula which would freeze the total revenues for 30 years and distribute the proceeds based on a two-tiered formula. Altamonte Springs appealed the matter to the Cabinet, saying the entire six cents should be based on the floating formula.

Rather than make a ruling at its Jan. 7 hearing, the Cabinet told the county and cities to reach agree on a new formula by Feb. 4.

Reagan directed Treasury Secretary James Baker to determine whether the industrialized nations of the world should meet to discuss ways to stabilize an international monetary system wracked by "wild currency swings."

Defense

Reagan placed his military buildup off-limits to congressional budget cutters and ruled out the use of higher taxes to ease the pain of deficit reduction.

"The threat from Soviet forces — conventional and strategic — from the Soviet drive for domination, from the increase in espionage and state terror remains great," he said.

Marshall Plan, Scaletta Hand Slip Seminoles

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
LONGWOOD — Call it the "Marshall Plan" with a big hand from Scaletta. That's what the resilient Lyman Greyhounds used Tuesday night to draw even in the Seminole Athletic Conference with arch-rival Seminole.

Senior forward Brett Marshall tossed in 28 points and senior guard T.J. Scaletta handed out 18 assists and converted 11 of 13 free throws — twice coming through with the game on the line — as Lyman nipped the Tribe, 85-82, in double overtime before 351 fans at Lyman High School.

The victory was the ninth in succession for coach Tom Lawrence's Hounds who have that treasured ability of finding a way to win. They are 17-3 overall, many found along the comeback route. Coach Bill Klein's Seminoles lost their second in a row to fall to 11-5. Both are 5-1 in the SAC with four games to play. Lake Mary, which beat Lake Howell Tuesday, is 4-2.

Marshall, a 6-3 swingman, blitzed the porous Tribe defense at will. He scored from the wing, he scored from the baseline and he scored on a brilliant series of moves down the point.

"I got good picks from (Ralph) Philpott and (Craig) Radzak," Marshall said about the point moves. "It was open all night."

Klein agreed. "In a close game, the best fundamental team wins," he said. "That was Lyman. We played fundamentally poor defense. No one came over to cover when he (Marshall) went down the middle or the baseline."

Scaletta, meanwhile, frustrated the 'Noles with his pressure play and his accuracy at the foul line. Seminole, on the strength of reserve forward Joe Holden's 10 points, built a nine-point lead in the first half and a five-point edge with just 2:06 to play but Scaletta, Marshall and 6-5 center Ralph Philpott, who finished with 16 points and 10 boards, wouldn't let the 'Hounds' streak limp away.

"I thought we were in trouble when we missed those three one and ones in the fourth quarter," Lawrence said. "But Marshall really played well. He's not fast but he's got a real quick first step."

Seminole seemed to be in step in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter. Lyman had taken a 64-60 lead when Radzak beat Seminole's press for a layup with 5:30 to play.

Lyman, nevertheless, went the next 3:44 without a score, missing three frontends of one and ones in the process.

The Tribe, which upended Lyman by three points at home, received stellar clutch performances by Mike Wright and Rod Henderson during its nine-point spree.

Wright, who doled out eight assists, started the surge with a free throw and Henderson, who finished with 18 points, 14 rebounds and six steals, swiped the ball and scored to pare the lead to one.

After Lyman missed two more free throws, Wright scored on a rebound, Henderson stole the ball at midcourt and broke away for a dunk. Wright grabbed an offensive board and stuck it back for a 69-64 edge.

Lyman, though, called a timeout and regrouped. Scaletta hit a jumper with 1:46 to play and Marshall bombed from the wing after a Tribe turnover to cut the deficit to 69-68.

3-D Lady Greyhounds Breeze By Tribe, 68-57

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
LONGWOOD — Lyman High's Lady Greyhounds proved Tuesday night that they are more than a one-dimensional team.

Senior forward Kim Forsyth had her usual dominating game on the inside but she had plenty of help from senior forward Denise Stevens and senior guard LaTanya Johnson in leading the Lady Greyhounds to a 68-57 thumping of Seminole High's Lady Seminoles in Seminole Athletic Conference play before 81 fans at Lyman High.

Forsyth pumped in a team-high 27 points but she sat out much of the third quarter with four fouls. But Stevens, who had a career-high 20 points, and Johnson, who poured in 19, picked up the slack as Lyman added to its lead with Forsyth on the bench.

"I thought the girls hung in real well when Kim (Forsyth) was out," Lyman coach Dick Copeland said. "LaTanya (Johnson) handled the ball really well for us and Denise (Stevens) was all hustle. I'll take them like that any time."

Lyman, already out of contention for the conference title, played the role of spoilers Tuesday night as it knocked Seminole out of the race as well. The Lady Tribe now stands at 3-3 in the SAC, three games behind Lake Mary (6-0).

Seminole's overall record now stands at 12-6 going into Thursday night's SAC home game against Lake Brantley.

The Lady Greyhounds ran their overall record to 12-4 and they also stand at 3-3 in the SAC. Lyman returns to action Friday at home when it will try to avenge an earlier loss to Lake Howell.

For Seminole Tuesday night, Catherine "Kitty" Anderson continued to tear up the inside as she popped in a game-high 29 points including 9 of 11 from the free throw line. Anderson, though, did not have as much support as Forsyth as the only other Lady Seminole to score in double figures was Temika Alexander with 13. Anderson also grabbed 15 rebounds while Alexander had five assists and five steals.

"Our rebounding was awful tonight," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "And we had no defense down low when Lyman posted up. Nobody would step in front of Forsyth. I called timeout and told them to step in front, but they went back out and got behind her again."

Seminole raced to a 10-6 lead in the early going Tuesday night but Lyman came back behind eight points by Forsyth for a 14-13 lead after one quarter. Seminole stayed within three, 22-19, when the Lady Greyhounds exploded midway through the second quarter. Forsyth and Stevens hit consecutive layups and Johnson added four straight points as Lyman built a 30-19 lead with 3:09 left in the half. Lyman led by 12, 37-25, at halftime.

Behind Anderson inside and Alexander outside, Seminole worked its way back in the third period. With Lyman holding a 43-33 lead, Seminole ran off five straight points to pull within 43-38, with four minutes left in the quarter.

Forsyth picked up her fourth foul with 3:24 left in the period and, after Forsyth departed, Anderson hit a three-point play to make it 43-40. Anderson came back to hit two free throws with 2:52 left in the corner as the Lady Tribe pulled within one, 43-42.

Johnson then took control for the Lady Greyhounds. After hitting a pair of free throws, the senior guard dribbled through Seminole's full-court pressure and banked one home for a 47-42 Lyman lead. Johnson hit another bank shot to make it

Raiders, Daytona To Battle Tonight

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Four games and three teams. That's what the Mid-Florida Conference basketball race has come down to for coach Bill Payne and his Seminole Community College Raiders.

Tonight at 7:30, two of those contending teams — Seminole and Daytona Beach — play a pivotal game in the conference race at Daytona Beach Community College, Florida Junior, the third factor, travels to Orlando to face doormat Valencia.

There are differing opinions as to whom is in the best position. SCC is 8-2 and tied for Florida Junior for first place. Daytona is 7-3 and one game behind.

"I think Daytona is sitting in the best spot," FJC coach Buster Harvey said. "Anything you have the two biggest games at home, you have to like your chances."

Coach Ray Ridenour's Scots travel to St. John's River Saturday before returning home for Florida Junior next Wednesday and Lake City a week from Saturday.

The Scots need to win all four, which would ensure them of a tie — possibly three ways — which would force a playoff for the conference title and an automatic bid for the state tournament. The rest of the conference plays a qualifying tournament, with the survivors earning the other state berth.

"I don't know who has the best chance," SCC coach Bill Payne said. "I'm just worried about Wednesday night but Daytona has the homecourt advantage."

The Raiders host Lake City Saturday and St. John's River next Wednesday. They conclude the season a week from Saturday against Valencia.

A victory tonight would probably guarantee a share of the title. Combine it with a Daytona upset of FJC next Wednesday and fourth-year coach Payne would earn his first trip to the elite eight — providing the Raiders with the rest.

"I still think it's going to come down to a three-way tie," Payne said.

The Stars, who SCC upset last Saturday, shouldn't have any trouble with Valencia tonight but they host tough Santa Fe next Wednesday before the big Saturday showdown with Daytona. The Stars close out at home against St. John's River.

"Seminole is in good shape," Daytona assistant Roger Dorio

said. "Especially, if they win Wednesday."

Daytona, which features three Sanford cagers — Willie Mitchell, Fred Miller and Darryl Merthie — would like to atone for a loss at the SCC Health Center along with moving into a tie for first place.

The Raiders, 21-5 overall, turned in their best defensive performance of the year in Saturday's 72-57 conquest of FJC. They did it without point guard David Gallagher and forward Claude Jackson, both hobbled with sprained ankles. Payne said both are again doubtful for tonight.

SCC offset their absence and the void of three reserves benched for missing practice by playing great team defense and a patient offense which was keyed by center Vance Hall's 28 points and guard Tony Roberts' 17 assists and 14 points.

All three — Eftem Brooks, James Morris and Carl Hackworth — will return to uniform tonight.

Rowdiness In The Arena Lamebrain Fans Endanger, Humiliate Players

(Today's article is the last of a two-part series entitled "Rowdiness In The Arena.")

The recent "fan involvement" at the Lake Howell-Lake Brantley boys' basketball game of last Friday evening brings to mind a similar intrusion of a fan at an NFL football game in the early 70's.

Friday's "involvement" at Lake Brantley High School consisted of overexuberant parents and students from both schools charging onto the floor following a confrontation between two players.

Both coaches — Lake Brantley's Steve Jucker and Lake Howell's Greg Robinson — were upset with the circumstances as one might expect.

Here's how it started. During the heated Seminole Athletic Conference game, two players became entangled. A foul was called. One player thought it was a poor call. He pushed the other as they were becoming untangled. He was given a technical foul by the official. Another player moved in to separate the two.

"And then people just started coming down out of the stands," Jucker said of the five- to 10-minute chaos.

"It was totally uncalled for," Robinson said. "One parent stuck his finger right in one of my player's face and threatened him. Three others blindsided one of my players."

Jucker, who viewed the videotape, said a couple "sucker" punches were thrown and one lady was swinging a program. "The refs could have called the game tighter because Lake Howell was behind and they were aggressively pressing," Jucker said. "Otherwise, I was satisfied with the officiating. The problem could have been handled. It was ridiculous for anyone to come onto the floor."

Sam Cook
SPORTS
EDITOR

Friday's problem followed one lesser disgraceful fan behavior Thursday night at Lake Howell High School between the girls' basketball teams of Lake Brantley and Lake Howell. No one came onto the floor and began fighting but there were some ugly things said and two people were excused from the gymnasium.

Sure, there is an intense rivalry between the schools, but should it evolve into exchanging of vulgarities and swing fists?

It is the job of the officials, coaches and school administrators to keep order when chaotic situations develop in the athletic arena.

From past experience, I've watched a few basketball games in my time and I've never seen a time when officials, coaches or administrators need the help of an uninvited mob.

Parents can be disgusting people when their child is involved in an athletic contest. They sometimes forget they are supposed set the mature example not violate it.

Their jaded viewpoint of the game is hardly conducive to sanity. One or two wrong whistles by an official or an act of too much aggression on the part of an opposing player changes that

Second-Half Explosions Propel Lady Rams, Brantley To District Wins

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
After being relatively quiet in the first half, both Lake Mary's Lady Rams and Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots went on second-half blitzkreigs Tuesday night en route to first-round victories in the District 3 Tournament.

At Lake Mary High, the Lady Rams led Winter Park just 2-1 at halftime but struck for three goals in a five-minute span early in the second half and cruised to a 5-1 victory.

At Lake Brantley High, the Lady Patriots led Oviedo's Lady Lions, 2-0, at halftime and came out blazing in the second half with three goals en route to a 5-0 triumph.

Lake Brantley, seeded second in the district, takes on third-seeded Lake Mary Thursday night at 7 in a semifinal game at Lake Brantley High.

"We were a little lackluster and Winter Park came out real hard," Lake Mary coach Bill Eissele said. "Laura Hellegaard (goalkeeper) made a bunch of good saves at the beginning of the game to keep us from getting behind early."

Lake Mary broke the scoreless tie 18 minutes into the match when freshman Donna Rohr scored the first of three goals on an assist from junior Kelley Broen. The Lady Rams made it 2-0 four minutes later when Broen scored on a through ball from Vickie Warner.

Winter Park, though, came back with five minutes left in the half to trim the lead to 2-1 on a breakaway goal by Julie Peters.

"I told the girls how disappointed I was in their effort in the first half," Eissele said. "And they came out and put it together in the second half."

Lake Mary moved out to a 3-1 lead 10 minutes in the second half when Rohr scored her second goal on an assist from Michelle Mattingly. The Lady Rams struck again 41 seconds later when Rohr scored on an assist from Warner. Lake Mary wrapped up the victory five minutes later when Broen scored her second goal on an assist from Michelle Padilla.

Defensively, Eissele said Hellegaard (12 saves) kept the Lady Rams in the game early until the defense tightened up in the second half. Marjan Stonerock, Dorrie Ehlers, Marcie

Maiolini Smells Overconfidence In Tribe Split

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

Sometimes a little too much success at once can hurt rather than help a team. After a big win over Lake Howell Friday, the 'Noles came out overconfident Tuesday.

That's what Seminole wrestling coach Glenn Maiolini told his grapplers after a split with the Evans Trojans and the Edgewater Eagles in a tri-match at Orlando Edgewater High Tuesday night.

"We really stunk up the place," Maiolini said. "Just when I thought everything was coming together, my kids decide to give up. We really wrestled poorly tonight."

The Seminoles defeated the Eagles, 40-27, but couldn't get two crucial wins to get past the Trojans who nipped the Tribe 36-30.

"We regressed drastically tonight," Maiolini said about the way his wrestlers performed against the Trojans. "We went out there and wrestled like JV kids tonight. I don't know what to do, but I got my message across to the team when we got back to the school."

The split with the two Orange County schools left the 'Noles at 6-8 on the season. They will travel to Leesburg this Thursday to meet the Yellow Jackets in their last dual meet before the District Championships next weekend.

There was a little light at the end of the tunnel for the Seminoles as the always reliable Turner brothers came through with two wins apiece in their quest for the tri-meet sweep.

"They (the Turners) were the only bright spot of the night," Maiolini said. "They're probably the most consistent wrestlers I've ever coached. They're looking awfully good at the right time."

Tracy Turner, who wrestled at 149 pounds Tuesday night, dominated Tedd Vann and walked off the mat with a 8-0 shutout. In his second match, Turner disposed of Pete Gibbons by pinning him in a short 1:59.

"Tracy looked a lot stronger than he has tonight," Maiolini said. "He's putting things together now."

Troy Turner, who is undefeated at 159 with a 18-0 record, had an easy time against the Eagles as he received a forfeit. His second match was almost as easy as he pinned Robert Mott in 1:31.

"There's not much you can say about Troy," Maiolini said. "He's Mr. Everything to our program."

The only other winners for the Seminoles in the matchup with the Eagles won by forfeit. Among them included Sheraton Mays at 116, Shane Jarrells at 189, Randy Bryant at 224 and Derrick Butler at heavyweight.

"Edgewater was at a real disadvantage," Maiolini said. "They had to forfeit a lot of weight classes. We got our butts whipped in the matches we wrestled. We should have won at least two or three of those matches."

Against the Trojans, the Seminoles fared just as well as they did against Edgewater. The only wins they received, like the match with the Eagles, were forfeits.

"They really showed their inexperience tonight," Maiolini said of his squad. "They don't do that very often and they're still very young, but we just sat back and let them (Evans) tear us up."

Winning by forfeit for the Tribe was Bryant, Kevin Nathan at 123 and Cecil Scarborough at 130.

In wrestling action tonight, Lake Mary hosts Winter Park and Lake Howell travels to Apopka.

Leering Gorgeous Gino Found Dead

DALLAS (UPI) — Charles Wolfe, a swarthy, leering wrestler fans loved to hate, was found dead at his home Tuesday, authorities said.

The 29-year-old wrestled under the name of Gorgeous Gino Hernandez, the Handsome Halfbreed from Highland Park. Highland Park is an incorporated city surrounded by Dallas.

A field agent for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office said pathologists would determine the cause of death Wednesday.

Wolfe's last match was Monday, a week ago, in Fort Worth.

Winter Rule: Dress Warmly

Well, we are right "Smack Dab" in the middle of winter. Bad news for most avid tennis players. Most of us really don't like to play in cool or cold weather.

Tennis players usually don't like playing in the wind much either. Even though we have the type of climate here in Central Florida that anyone north of Valdosta would kill for, it's still often uncomfortable for those that have lived here for a long time.

I guess we get spoiled — when you think about it we only have 30 or so days a year that are cold and windy enough to be really uncomfortable out there on the tennis courts.

There is no real reason not to go on out and play even if the temperature is in the 40's with a nice northeast wind making it a lot colder. It simply comes down to how much you really want to play and making some necessary adjustments.

To begin with, you will need to dress somewhat differently for winter tennis than at other times. A wool hat or cap that covers the ears is nice. Gloves are worn by some people. This helps and does not really hurt your strokes that much if they are of the golf-glove variety and are snug fitting.

Larry Castle

Some people even use socks over their hands. (Cut a hole in the toes of one sock so you can grip your racket.)

Of course you need a warm-up suit, something to break the wind. A really heavy or bulky one is not necessary. In fact, it would just be restricting and could make you colder because of the lack of movement. It's better to wear layered clothing.

I find that two shirts, a sweater and then a nylon windbreaker works well for me. The layers of clothing trap the warmth from your body and the lightweight outer garment breaks the cold wind. You'll be able to move and stay warm at the same time.

Remember that used tennis balls will lose pressure in cold weather. You should try to use new balls every time you play. Also, racket strings tend to lose a little tension in cooler weather. Be on the lookout for this and keep your racket out of the trunk of the car or the garage.

Take more time to warm up and to stretch before a cold weather match. It takes those old muscles longer to get stretched out and loosened up in winter than in summer.

Play quickly; do not spend a lot of time during change-over or between points. Don't give yourself time to get cold. Save the chatting until after the match.

Don't forget you are still losing body fluid even though it's cold, so don't forget to take in an adequate amount of liquids during, before and after your play.

Lastly, take heart. This cool weather only last a little while and before you know it we'll all be complaining about the heat.

...Arena

normally rational-thinking Dr. Jekyll into deranged Mr. Hyde.

This creates a very volatile situation. A riot could have ensued at Lake Brantley High Friday night. Many people could have been injured. If you think that is an exaggeration, Kissimmee Osceola and Tampa Jesuit once played a tournament playoff basketball game in an empty gym several years. This was arranged by the Florida High School Activities Association because the fans couldn't get along the night before in a packed arena.

When irate parents and students oppose one another as they did Friday night, the casualty rate can be very high. Mob fights are not fair fights. There are too many cheap shots. Someone blindsided could lose an eye.

Would you like to be responsible for the termination of a young athlete's playing career?

The first time I saw someone race into a competitive arena was in the early 70s. I was watching the Baltimore Colts on television. Some misguided individual thought it would be cute to race onto the field during a timeout.

When this happened, it took the security guards by surprise. They, of course, didn't think anyone would be deranged enough to race onto a football during the game or a timeout.

The young man apparently intended no malice, he just wanted to meet one of the players, probably slap him on the back, congratulate him on a nice play, hoot at the TV exposure and then race away hoping to elude the guards.

He never had a chance. Once he reached midfield, Mike Curtis, an All-Pro linebacker in those days, reacted as if Gale Sayers was running a trap play up the middle. He took one or two steps toward the individual and promptly leveled him with a forearm sliver.

The crowd went wild. And so, I'm sure, did the TV audience. When Curtis knocked this lambrain on his butt, it let it be known for one and all that this was an athletic arena and outsiders are not to enter. And they would be dealt with accordingly if they invaded.

The cheers erupted as the guards dragged/helped the lambrain from the field. They weren't for the lambrain either. They were for Mike Curtis.

It's too bad those "invaders" at Lake Brantley couldn't have witnessed the Curtis-Lambrain Act before they rushed onto the floor Friday night.

Where do these people get off? If you tried to do that at a professional game, you'd be in jail before someone like Curtis could get to you. The playing surface is sacred ground and it doesn't need any frenzied "has-been" jocks or "never-was" athletes out there flexing their muscles.

One wonders what possesses parents or students to advance onto private domain? The only thing I can figure is they felt a loved one was in danger. They may have feared for the safety of a son, daughter or friend. They reacted instinctively, hurriedly to protect that loved one.

They also acted incorrectly, too. There are teammates and the aforementioned officials, coaches and administrators to protect the players. They don't need your help. Most players in any shape and can probably fend for themselves anyway.

And, most allegations in the athletic arena are brief and forgotten once the play or game is over. How many times have you seen two players square off and exchange words in the heat of the moment? It's part of the game. After the exchange is forgotten, written off as competitive sparks.

The problems arise when the parents or students develop the same competitive fires in the stands. Unlike the players, however, they have no release mechanism. They cannot sprint down the floor to blow off their tension. They are like a boiling radiator with no way to dislodge the cap.

The water spilled over the floor Friday night. No doubt there were some people down there just to see what was going on. No doubt there were some people down there with good intentions.

But what about the rest of you? Like the others, you didn't belong. What was your motive? Were you going to punch a teenage basketball player? Do you think that would help the situation?

As usual, the forgotten souls here are the players. It's their game and the intervention of the others took that game away from them. Took it away from youngsters who work diligently practicing to hone their skills.

They work and work and work for that two-hour period once or twice a week when they get their turn in the spotlight.

Why do they do it? Self-satisfaction is part of it. But a lot of them do it because they want their parents to be proud of them. They do it for you.

Parents sometimes don't realize how much it means just for them to attend the game. I've seen many an athlete searching the stands for that support. The drive to excel gets an extra boost when they spot it.

But how do you think that son felt when that parent shouted a vulgarly at some girl at Lake Howell or charged on the floor after some boy at Lake Brantley?

"I don't blame the kids for the way they reacted," Robinson said. "How would you react with 400 people charging out of the stands at you?"

While the physical pain inflicted by these lambrains could definitely do an athletic harm, the psychological scar could be much more damaging.

There was a perfect example of this in a movie called "The Great Santini." Robert Duvall played the part of a pilot, a lifer in the military. He was a very gung-ho and competitive individual who attempted to live out his past athletic accomplishments through his son.

During one game, his son and another basketball player exchanged a few elbows. Duvall, upset that his son didn't punish the opposing player enough, went down to the sideline and demanded that his son "get" the other player.

Adhering to his father's instructions, he undercut the other player while he was shooting a layup. The opponent had to be helped off the floor. Duvall reacted with glee. Mission accomplished.

The viewing audience and the people within the gym shared the humiliation of the son. The shame brought on by the needless parental intervention, forcing the issue.

The same humiliation felt by your daughter at Lake Howell Thursday night. The same shame felt by your son Friday night at Lake Brantley.

Lyman Keeps Routine — Howell Wins Marathon

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
While Lyman was wrapping up another routine rout Tuesday night at Lyman High, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks and Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets were just getting started at Lake Howell High.

Top-ranked and top-seeded Lyman totally dominated Seminole High's Lady Seminoles as the Lady Greyhounds won their 42nd in a row, 7-0.

Meanwhile, Lake Howell and Bishop Moore battled to a 4-4 tie at the end of regulation. After two 10-minute overtime periods, it was still tied. Two five-minute sudden death overtime periods passed and it was still deadlocked.

The teams then went into penalty kicks and it was Lake Howell that converted 2 of 4 shots to pull out a 5-4 victory in the first round of the District 3 Tournament.

Lake Howell, the fourth-seed, will take on Lyman Thursday night at 7 in a semifinal match at Lyman High.

The Lady Greyhounds took control of the match from the kickoff and assaulted the Seminole goal from start to finish. Lyman took 31 shots on goal to just one for Seminole and that one wasn't close.

"Most anytime when you control the ball on your half the midfielders are pretty much dominating the game," Lyman coach Tom Barnes said.

Seminole goalkeeper Sherri Rumlir, who had 24 saves, kept the Lady Greyhounds shutout for 15 minutes until Sheila Mandy scored on a breakaway. Mandy came back five minutes later on another one-on-one and put it past Rumlir for a 2-0 lead.

Lyman made it 3-0 with 13 minutes left in the first half when Randi Huddleston scored on an assist from Mandy.

Soccer

Lyman made it 4-0 with 10 minutes left in the half on an unassisted goal by Alyson Barnes. A Seminole defender tried to clear the ball with a header but, as soon as it hit the ground, Barnes one-timed it from 20-yards out into the upper left corner of the net.

Dawn Boyesen got the second half rolling as she scored with six minutes gone on another assist by Mandy. Mandy then completed her hat trick for a 6-0 lead and Barnes scored her second goal, this one on an assist from Huddleston, to make the final 7-0.

110 MINUTES LATER
Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks and Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets played for 110 minutes Tuesday night but the game had to go to penalty kicks to be decided. In the shootout, Melissa Mearns and Kristin Reesman converted their PKs while only Kris Geltz could put one in for Bishop Moore and the result was a 5-4 victory for the Lady Hawks.

"Anyone that was there got their money's worth," Lake Howell coach Art Raynor said.

"There was a lot of scoring and the play went in both directions."

For Lake Howell, it was the first ever playoff victory for the girls soccer squad.

"We have one day inbetween before we play Lyman and the girls have a chance to enjoy what they did tonight," Raynor said. "They were overjoyed."

In regulation, a pair of freshmen lit up the scoreboard for the Lady Hawks as Nicole Compton scored three times and Tori Campbell once. After a 2-2 halftime tie, Lake Howell scored two consecutive goals in the second half for a 4-2 lead but Bishop Moore came back strong to tie it at 4-4 at the end of regulation.

Lazar and Jolie Hoffman were the defensive leaders while Eisele said Warner, moved from defender to midfield, did an outstanding job.

SCHROTH BOOTS PAIR
Junior right wing Michelle Schroth turned in her best performance of the season as she scored a pair of goals in leading Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots past Oviedo's Lady Lions Tuesday night.

Schroth got Brantley going as she scored the game's first goal on an assist from Colleen Lievertz. Cara Marten followed with a goal that made it 2-0 but Brantley could not add to its lead the remainder of the first half.

The Lady Patriots sewed up the win with three second half goals. The first was scored by Schroth on Marten's assist while Debbie Bray and Lievertz, also scored in the second 40 minutes. Lake Brantley dominated the game as it took 37 shots on goal to Oviedo's three and it was the midfielders that controlled most of the game. Those midfielders for the Lady Patriots include Jennifer Josephs, Michelle Herbst, Schroth and Kristin Thole.

"The girls played together and moved the ball around really well tonight," Lake Brantley coach Larry Kaskey said. "It should be a good game Thursday night. If we're careless, they (Lake Mary) can beat us. We have to concentrate a lot."

Wolf FTs Lift Heels

United Press International
North Carolina is reasserting the Atlantic Coast Conference dominance it lost to Georgia Tech last year.

The No. 1 Tar Heels, with Joe Wolf making 4 free throws in the closing minute of overtime Tuesday night, posted a 78-77 triumph over the No. 2 Yellow Jackets.

"We just had a tremendous second half," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said. "We did the things we had to do to catch up and win."

"Things looked bad for us at one time when we were 13 points down. But we never faltered. We never thought of the rankings, at least I didn't, and I'll bet Tech didn't either."

Last year, Georgia Tech met North Carolina three times and won all three meetings. This season the Tar Heels are 2-0 against the Yellow Jackets.

"I can't think of anything negative about this game," Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins said. "Two great teams played a great ball game."

"We'd rather have had a win, but the effort and play of our team was tremendous. I feel great about the way they played. It was too bad they couldn't win, but they got tired down the stretch."

The Tar Heels, 23-1 overall and 7-1 in the ACC, trailed 59-46 with 11:56 left in regulation. Wolf produced the first 6 points in a 9-0 North Carolina run and the Tar Heels tied the score on a turnaround jumper by Brad Daugherty with 55 seconds left in regulation. Neither team was able to score again before overtime.

Daugherty, a 7-foot senior who had 22 points, got the first basket of overtime. Wolf sank 2 free throws with 46 seconds remaining to give the Tar Heels a 76-72 edge.

In another game involving a ranked team, No. 14 Texas-El Paso scored a 64-49 victory over Oregon State.

In other games, it was: Fordham 93, Manhattan 57; Harvard 62, Dartmouth 54; Pennsylvania 67, Princeton 47; Villanova 67, Boston College 57; and DePaul 73, Evansville 41.

Cook Of The Week

Gourmet Delights In Guests Feeling At Home

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

With a song in his heart and magic in his fingertips, our Cook of the Week is an all-around gracious host and delights in making his guests feel at home while they enjoy his culinary masterpieces. Ture Larson, of Altamonte Springs, is a charming gentleman whose efforts in the kitchen may well be the envy of many of our finest cooks.

Ture, (pronounced Too-ree) whose Scandinavian background has contributed to his cooking talents, says, "I don't really have a specialty. I try to be special in whatever I do. If you're going to prepare a meal, you just can't deal with the meat entree and forget the rest. Every detail of entertaining is important, from how your house looks when your guests come through the front door, to that first appetizer and how you serve it, to the facial expressions you give (you're happy that they're there), and how you set the table. If you do a good job, your guests are going to be delighted. It pleases me when people like what I do for them, because I love people and I love to work with people."

Ture credits his very disciplined upbringing to the high expectations he places on himself and other people. "I was reared in discipline," says Ture, "and I have tried to put all the ideas as to how I have been trained together into all the things I do, and it works."

Our Cook is certainly a perfectionist in all phases of his life and it is evident in the comfortable surroundings of his meticulously kept home, tastefully furnished for entertaining in a grand manner. Rumor has it that a recent holiday gathering at Ture's home featured a delicious array of comestibles that were served to his guests with just the right touch of elegance, and everyone had a lovely time.

The youngest of three sons, Ture was raised in a Swedish community in Moline and attended Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois where he was offered a piano scholarship. "I was always involved in as many musical activities as I could be," says Ture. A music major in performance and education, Ture is a certified music teacher and holds a Master's Degree from Drake University. He taught music in the public school system for 20 years. "I have retired from that," says Ture, "and am now into full time church music." Ture has served in churches in Moline, Rockford, and Freeport, Illinois and is presently the music director at the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford.

Totally dedicated to his church and his music, Ture enjoys directing the choirs, both adult and children's. His talents also include creating choral compositions, and teaching piano and organ. Ture says, "More important to me than cooking, as much as I thoroughly enjoy it, is my work at the church, because I am very excited about my Lord, and when one is committed to the church it can have a tremendous meaning. My life would be empty without the church. Being a single person, you can't have company all the time and people do make me happy." Ture says he has sensed the rewards of giving rather than receiving, and therefore delights in working with people and entertaining in his home.

As a bachelor, Ture has had the opportunity to do some extensive traveling and has visited some 46 countries. With an eye toward decorating and enjoying the company of guests in his home, Ture often purchases beautiful serving pieces and objects d'art from foreign countries. "When I go to these countries and I see things," says Ture, "I think, 'well I want that for the living room wall, or I have a place for that.' And because I like to do a lot of entertaining, I will pick out linens from various countries, or a set of dishes and so on."

Ture showers praise on his parents for their role in making his childhood a happy one. "I owe a lot to my parents," says Ture. "My father is 90 years old and my mother is 85, and they have a 13-room house with 3 baths that they maintain to this day. And my mother still cooks 21 meals a week. In our home we were very close, and we did lots of things together. We always vacationed together, and we always worked in the kitchen together. There wasn't any labeling that because we were three boys we didn't do things in the kitchen, so we all had a hand in everything. We all got out fingers in the dough."

A truly remarkable individual, Ture has experienced a diversified lifestyle and is happy to have been able to combine his music with his culinary works here in Florida. "These things are important to me," he says. "We have been able to have brunches at the church, and if we have 4 or 400, it makes no difference. It's been a unifying factor for the church, and I have volunteered to help."

Besides being responsible for all the music in the church, our multi-talented cook was also a violinist in his college orchestra, played in the summer symphony in Rockford, Ill., and was a bandsman in the U.S. Army.

Ture's summers were free and well planned while he was teaching for 20 years, so "I've never been bored," he says. "I have traveled around the world and repeated some of the places that were important to me. Switzerland is wonderful, and so is Italy, but India is marvelous. Being interested in food and cooking, I have always tried to go to unique places in my travels. In India, you have to try Tandoori Chicken which is highly seasoned. The most exciting city in all my travels, hotel-wise as well as the restaurants, was the city of Hong Kong. Their style and grace is wonderful."

Although Ture's cooking experiences began in his mother's kitchen, he has added to that by dining in other people's homes and sharing recipes. He is not opposed to asking his hostess for her recipe if it is an especially tasty dish. "Most people are flattered when they are asked for a recipe," says Ture.

No matter where Ture has been in his lifetime, he has always managed to be in on the cooking. Whether it was a church function or a faculty reception, he was always there to coordinate the refreshments. "I'm still learning, and I love to learn," says Ture, referring to his collection of cook books. "Vegetables are difficult to come up with in a creative way, so I have about 4 or 5 vegetable cook books. How many different ways can you work with peas?" he laughs.

Every day is an adventure to Ture and his enthusiasm is projected in his words and deeds. In addition to his tempting recipes, Ture has contributed a list of some very helpful hints, to wit:

- Green peppers will stay fresh for a longer time if you remove the seeds before storing them in the refrigerator vegetable compartment.

- Give canned fruit cocktail a special zip by draining and adding 7-Up.

- To remove some of the yolk that slipped into the egg white when separating, dip cloth in water — you'll get it out.

- Use cornstarch, instead of flour to thicken gravy — smoother texture.

DANISH COFFEE CAKE

Crust:
1 cup flour
½ cup margarine
2 tablespoons water
Cut butter into flour, sprinkle with water, mix with fork. Shape into ball and divide into halves. Place on greased cookie sheet and pat into 2 oblong 12x3 inch strips.

Topping:
½ cup margarine
1 cup water
1 tablespoon almond flavoring
1 cup flour
3 eggs
Mix butter and water in saucepan, bring to boil, remove from heat and add almond flavoring. Beat in flour quickly with spoon to avoid lumps. When smooth, add 1 egg at a time, beating between each. Divide mixture in half and spread over pastry strips. Bake at 350° for 1 hour. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and sliced almonds.

SEAFOOD COQUILLE

1 pound scallops
3 tablespoons snipped scallions
½ cup butter or margarine
1 pound small cooked shrimp
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups sour cream

1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash of Tabasco sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom pieces, drained
12 baking shells
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Put scallops in a saucepan and cover with water. Bring water to boil and simmer scallops for 4-5 minutes or until they are firm. Drain. Saute scallions in skillet with butter, adding the flour and blending well. Add shrimp, scallops and sour cream; blend well over low heat. Stir in seasonings and then the mushrooms. Spoon into individual shells; sprinkle with bread crumbs and cheese. Put shells on a cookie sheet and place under the broiler until the cheese browns. Garnish with sprig of parsley and a small carrot curl. Serves 12.

NOTE: Ture serves this elegant appetizer on real individual sea shells which can be purchased in any food specialty shop in the area. If you wish, you may substitute single-serving size ramekins or custard cups.

SWEDISH MEATBALLS

2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
½ cup minced onion
4 tablespoons butter
1½ pounds ground beef
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon concentrated meat extract
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
Few grains pepper
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Soak bread crumbs in milk until softened. Add onion to 1 tablespoon butter in small saucepan and cook slowly 3 minutes. Mix softened bread, cooked onion and meat. Add eggs, salt, pepper, nutmeg and paprika. Mix thoroughly until very smooth and light. Shape meat into small balls, dusting the hands with flour while shaping the balls. Melt remaining 3 tablespoons butter in large frying pan. Add meat balls and fry until golden brown all over. Remove from pan and add meat extract and 3 tablespoons flour. Stir until well blended. Add water and a few grains pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Reduce heat to very low and cook 5 minutes. Stir in sour cream, a rounded tablespoon at a time, stirring until thoroughly blended after each addition of sour cream. Return meatballs to gravy, cover pan and simmer very gently 10 minutes. Serve in deep casserole. Sprinkle with minced parsley. Yield: 70-80 meatballs.

2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 jar (2 oz.) pimientos, drained and chopped
 1 package (6 oz.) frozen king crab meat, thawed, drained and cut up
 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
 1/4 cup snipped parsley
 Sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Stir over hot water until dissolved. Beat into cream cheese until smooth. Stir in next 5 ingredients and 2 tablespoons parsley. Pour into 3-cup ring mold. Chill 4 hours. Garnish with remaining parsley in center. Serve with crackers.

ANGEL PIE
 6 egg whites
 Dash of salt
 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
 1 teaspoon vinegar
 2 cups sugar
 Beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt, cream of tartar and vinegar. Add sugar. 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff. Pour into two 9-inch pie plates. Place meringue in 450° preheated oven, turning off heat immediately! Let meringue stay in the oven at least 2 hours or overnight.

Filling:
 6 egg yolks, slightly beaten
 Juice of 1 lemon
 Grated rind of 1 lemon
 1/4 cup sugar
 Cook until thick. Cool, then fold in 1 1/2 cups whipping cream, whipped. Divide evenly in the two pie plates (meringue). Sprinkle with coconut. Chill at least two hours.

CRANBERRY-STUFFED CORNISH HENS
 2 1/2 cup chopped cranberries
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1 teaspoon shredded orange peel
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 3 cups toasted raisin bread, cubed
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
 4 teaspoons orange juice
 4 1-1/2 pound Cornish game hens
 Salt

Cooking oil
 1/4 cup orange juice
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

In a bowl, combine chopped cranberries, sugar, orange peel, the 1/2 teaspoon salt and cinnamon. Add raisin bread cubes; sprinkle with 2 tablespoons melted butter and the 4 teaspoons orange juice. Toss lightly to mix.

Season cavities of hens lightly with salt. Lightly stuff birds with cranberry mixture. Pull neck skin to back of each bird and fasten securely with a small skewer. Tie legs to tail. Twist wing tips under back. Place Cornish game hens, breast side up on a rack in shallow roasting pan. Brush hens with cooking oil; cover loosely with foil. Roast at 375° for 35 minutes.

Combine the 1/4 cup orange juice and 2 tablespoons melted butter. Uncover birds; baste with orange juice mixture. Roast, uncovered, until done, about 1 hour longer. Baste once or twice with orange juice mixture. Garnish the birds with parsley and an orange twist just before serving. Serves 4.

Cajun Cooking Reflects Style Of 'Makin' Do'

Cajun is in! But what exactly is Cajun cooking? It is a unique flavor and style of cooking that originated in Southern Louisiana with the Cajuns, who are French-Canadians. The cooking reflects a life style of "making do" with what's on hand. Ingredients are not the finest, example: rice, less tender cuts of meat, a stewing hen, onions, pepper (cayenne), and garlic, and local seafood such as crawfish and shrimp. Soups, stews and casseroles are a major portion of this cooking style.

Cajun seasoning can be purchased in most specialty food stores or you can prepare your own blend with the following recipe.

CAJUN SEASONING
 3 tablespoons salt
 3 tablespoons paprika
 1 1/2 tablespoons cayenne
 1 tablespoon black pepper
 1 tablespoon garlic powder
 1 tablespoon onion powder
 1 1/2 tablespoons ground thyme
 Mix ingredients, and store in air-tight container.

Can be used in recipes calling for a cajun seasoning or sprinkled on eggs, vegetables or meats.

Monday night supper is traditionally red beans and rice. This inexpensive meal is good anytime and easily done with the microwave oven. Rice is served at almost every Cajun family meal.

RED BEANS, SAUSAGE AND RICE

1 lb. dried red kidney beans
 Water
 4 oz. salt pork, cut into pieces
 2 bay leaves
 1 large onion, chopped
 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
 2 teaspoons Cajun seasoning
 2 teaspoon salt
 1 lb. fully-cooked smoked sausage, sliced
 Combine beans and sufficient water to cover 1 inch above beans in a 3 quart microwave safe casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 10-12 minutes or until boiling. Let stand covered, one hour to soften beans. Drain liquid into measure and add water to make 7 cups. Add to the beans with the salt pork, bay leaves, onion and basil.

Midge Mycoff

Cover. Microwave on 100% power, 15-18 minutes or until boiling, reduce power to 50% and continue to cook 45-60 minutes or until beans are tender. Mash beans slightly with a potato masher or remove about 2 cups of bean mixture and place in blender or food processor. Process until smooth. Return to beans in casserole. Add seasoning, salt, and sausage. Stir. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes or until heated through. Serve in bowls with rice. Makes about 8 servings.

To prepare microwave rice:
 2 cups water
 1 cup rice
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine water, rice, and salt in a 2 quart casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes or until mixture boils, reduce power to 50% and continue to microwave for 13-15 minutes or until rice is tender. Fluff with a fork. Let stand covered for about 5 minutes.

Jambalaya is any mixture of rice, meat, poultry, seafood, vegetables or eggs. This particular microwave version has chicken and sausage.

JAMBALAYA
 3-3 1/2 lb. frying chicken, cut up
 2 cloves garlic, minced
 1 large onion, chopped
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1/2 cup chopped celery
 1 teaspoon Cajun seasoning
 3/4 cup uncooked rice
 1 1/2 cups water
 8 ozs. smoked sausage, sliced
 Arrange chicken, skin-side-up in a 12x8 inch microwave safe baking dish. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 25-30 minutes or until tender. Set chicken aside to cool. Transfer some of the drippings to a 2 quart casserole. Add garlic, onion, green pepper and celery. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Cut up cooked chicken and add to the vegetables along with remaining ingredients; stir to combine. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 9 to 10 minutes or until rice is tender stirring once or twice. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes about 8 servings.

Pecans are considered gourmet in some parts of our country, but in Southern Louisiana they are grown in most back yards; therefore, they are common place in desserts.

This pecan topping is good on bread pudding or ice cream.

BUTTER PECAN TOPPING
 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
 1/2 tablespoon cornstarch
 2 tablespoons milk
 1 tablespoon light corn syrup
 2 tablespoons butter
 1/4 cup finely chopped pecans
 Combine brown sugar and cornstarch in a 1 quart batter bowl. Mix in milk and corn syrup until smooth. Add butter. Microwave on 100% power, 2-3 minutes or until mixture boils and slightly thickens stirring once or twice. Stir in pecans. Cool to desired thickness. Spoon over cake or other desserts.

Bread pudding, good plain or with lemon sauce or pecan topping. It is a common homey dessert that uses day old bread.

RAISIN BREAD PUDDING
 1/4 cup butter
 5 slices day-old-bread
 1 1/2 cups half and half
 3 eggs, slightly beaten
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 cup raisins
 Cinnamon

Microwave butter on 100% power in a 2 quart batter bowl 45-60 seconds or until melted. Cube bread and add to the melted butter. Stir in cream. Microwave on 100% power 3 1/2-4 minutes or until steaming hot. Beat together eggs, sugar, and vanilla. Blend a little of hot mixture into eggs. Return to hot mixture, blending well. Stir in raisins. Pour into a 1 quart casserole. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Microwave on 70% power 5-6 minutes. Serve warm.

Men Guilty As Women Hiding Signs Of Age

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to address this letter to "Splitting Hairs In Florida," who wrote to you recently complaining about middle-aged men who let their hair grow long in order to wrap it around their heads to cover their bald spots. She said they looked ridiculous.

Well, I'm a man who has started to part my hair lower in an effort to cover a receding hairline. However, I have never found it necessary to cover my face with makeup, dye my hair, wear false eyelashes, girdles, bras with falsies, or use any other forms of deception that woman have resorted to for centuries.

I reluctantly changed my hairstyle at the insistence of a woman I was dating at the time because she wanted me to have more youthful appearance. In our society, which, on the desirability scale, equates growing old with contracting leprosy, one must do whatever is necessary to create the illusion of youth.

Unless "Splitting Hairs" has never resorted to trying to improve her appearance in the ways I have described, I believe she owes an apology to men who try to cover their baldness.

I feel much better getting this off my chest—Where I do not have the same problem I have on my head.

PETE IN DAYTONA BEACH
DEAR PETE: Read on for a different view of baldness:

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 30-year-old man who's very thin on top. Recently, a friend (bald) talked me into purchasing a hairpiece for $300.

Before I bought the hairpiece, a young woman flipped over me, but after she saw me with that $300 mistake on my head, she wanted nothing to do with me. I am the same man with or without the hairpiece.

Please, bald men everywhere, rise up and be yourselves! You will save yourselves a lot of money and bother. And if a lady doesn't like you the way you are, that's her problem.

COMPLETE IN LOUISVILLE, KY.

DEAR ABBY: It is not often that I am moved to respond to an item in your column, but I am today. It is with reference to the "stepparent" controversy. I agree with Mrs. R., who indicates that a new mate does not automatically become a step parent. My question to you, Abby, is what is your frame of reference?

My ex-husband's wife (same age as one of my children) in no way is considered the step-mother of my grown adult children. If I were to remarry, my husband in no way would be considered any kind of parent by my kids; he would be my husband—period.

What constitutes a parent? Marriage to one? I really doubt that. If the kids, after developing a relationship, wish to consider the person a "parent" (assuming, of course, that each of us is entitled to one mother and one father and, therefore, a stepparent can exist only when one has lost one's natural parent), the giving of the gift of the title "parent" should be considered a gift of love—and not one of etiquette.

N.Y. FAN
DEAR FAN: My frame of reference is the dictionary. According to Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, a parent is by definition "one that begets or brings forth offspring." And a stepparent is "the spouse of one's mother or father by a subsequent marriage."

Whether one deserves the "title" of parent (step or otherwise) is not the issue. What should be and what is may be at odds, but the fact remains, what is, is.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a tough one. I'm 26 and am getting married in the spring. My problem concerns a girlhood friend named "Nora". I want very much for her to attend my wedding and reception. Nora has been going with a creep for the last four years (I'll call him Scott), and my fiance and I do not want him at our wedding.

It all goes back to when Nora first met Scott. She fell head over heels in love with him and the four of us used to be together constantly. Well, Scott kept making passes at me, which created some bad feelings between him and my fiance. I never told Nora what kind of creep Scott was, hoping she'd catch on and dump him. (She never did.) Over the years our foursome kind of drifted, but I still consider Nora one my closest friends.

How can I invite her to my wedding without letting her bring Scott? (I wouldn't want to go to a wedding without my fiance.) Would it be tacky to invite her to my wedding without letting her bring Scott? She would wonder why, and I just couldn't tell her about happened four years ago. Maybe he's changed, but my fiance and I still can't stand him. Help me, please.

BAFFLED BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BAFFLED: If you want Nora—and apparently you do or you wouldn't be agonizing over this dilemma—hold your nose and make Scott welcome. Even though you can't stand him, I think that decision would be easier to live with than the alternative.

Some 'Old Wives' Weren't So Dumb

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had a prostate infection for the last year. I've been seen by a urologist and he's been treating me with all kinds of medicine, but it keeps coming back. Will I have this the rest of all my life?

DEAR READER — Prostate infections can be troublesome and resistant to treatment. You might have a prostatic stone that is forming a focus of infection.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on THE PROSTATE GLAND. Other readers who want a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this newspaper to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My bowels don't move very much and I have to strain a lot. I take Metamucil and eat bran cereal, fruits and vegetables. Hope you can help me. I'm 82.

DEAR READER — Like thinning and graying hair, bowel malfunction seems to be an inevitable consequence of aging. Try using a combination stool-softener/laxative (like PeriColace), this, plus bran and fiber, may get things going.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In a recent column, you recommended eating gelatin to strengthen nails. I'm certainly surprised that you would repeat that old wives' tale as though it might be factual. Even if protein would help nails, which is unlikely, a single ounce of red meat gives you more than a package of dry gelatin.

DEAR READER — True, true. But it sometimes works, and it's inexpensive. In some cases, it turns out that those "old wives" weren't so dumb after all. But for heaven's sake, don't eat the gelatin dry; mix it with water or a little fruit juice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have uric acid. My doctor put me on Zylprim. He had me take 100 mg. for one week, the 200 mg. the second week and 300 mg. the third week. Will you please explain why?

DEAR READER — The manufacturer of Zylprim recommends that patients be started on 100 mg. a day and that the dosage be raised each week by 100 mg. until the blood uric acid falls or a maximum dosage (800 mg. a day) is achieved. In my experience, 300 mg. is usually enough to do the trick, and for an average adult, I usually start with that dose. I think that your doctor is simply being cautious by adhering to the drug company's suggestion.

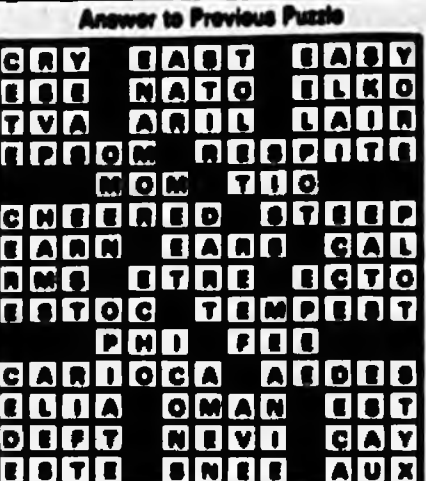

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

There will never be a precise rule about when to play in three no-trump rather than in a 4-4 major suit fit. In today's deal, because of his doubleton ace of clubs, North went right to four spades when South invited game with two no-trump. Perhaps with three clubs and one fewer heart, North would have been right to select three no-trump. Once in four spades, South had to give it his best shot.

West cashed three high hearts and shifted to a club. Declarer won the club in his hand, started to play the spade jack, and then stopped. He thought, "What if West has a singleton king of spades? Then when he covers my jack, he will establish a trick for East. I'd better protect against that by leading a low spade to dummy's queen."

When the sight appeared from East, declarer had a sinking feeling. But back he came to his ace of diamonds and now led the spade jack. It did not matter whether West covered now or later — he was sure to get a trump trick. Why was declarer's play wrong?

Either defender might have four spades, but there is only one spade combination in which West holds the spade king alone. But East could have either the singleton eight or the nine (two combinations). By leading the spade jack or 10 originally, declarer can win against those two possibilities while the low spade prevails only against one possibility (West with a singleton king). Of course, most of the time it won't matter. But good bridge means providing for the times when it does matter.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 6, 1986

In the year ahead, there will be a series of small financial opportunities that will make it possible for you to accumulate a rather large surplus. What you build will be built a block at a time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your most appealing qualities will be emphasized today and be very evident to others. They'll be especially noticed by members of the opposite gender. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lady Luck is your staunchest ally today, but you might not even be aware of her influence. What she does for you will be done in secret.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When conversing with pals today, you'll pick up a good idea that you can file away for future reference. It'll come in two parts from two sources, but have only one application.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Assume a more assertive role in a situation today that is important to your career. Don't let others edge you out of a controlling position.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll be the recipient of some good news today. It will come from a distance and be from someone you really like.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Make yourself available today if a family member needs your help in sorting out problems. True joy will be derived from aiding a loved one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Cupid might single you out for special attention today to make sure that everything runs harmoniously for you and yours in the romance department.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to allocate some time today to a productive project that you think of as more fun than work. Express your creativity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This can be a pleasurable day for you if you let yourself go. Your cheerful outlook will then serve to lift the spirits of your companions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could be more fortunate than usual today in transactions with family members or in-laws. They'll be the givers now; you'll be the giver later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) To sway others to your way of thinking today, use the soft sell instead of coming on strong. If you want someone's attention, whisper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're now entering a brief cycle where your possibilities for personal gain are enhanced. Use your mental abilities to make the increases meaningful.

Exercise Good Sense, Socialize After Workout

There are ways to meet compatible people other than at bars. Especially not at bars.

Except if you're talking about the weight or universal machine bars that are pushed up and out and forward in health clubs and spas. Not to mention the waist-height wall bars that are making health-minded people of both sexes stretch their legs as well as their minds in preparation for other exercises.

Health clubs have become the social spots of the 80's. People one meets in these places have something in common. They are interested in feeling good and staying trim.

Once this common ground has been broken, chances are that these people go together well after the workout, too. This, in good common sense, dictates a get-together. With an invitation for a light dinner and gathering at your home, passing acquaintances at the health club are sure to evolve into friendships.

Sure to please is a menu that is as good to the appetite as it is to the body. First is the Perrier chilled on ice to break the ice. Friends can even drink straight from the little green bottle to set a casual tone to the party. Calorie-free, salt-free and nothing artificial are probably regular "buzz words" for this group, so Perrier and the new Perrier With A Twist of lime, orange or lemon will fit right in. For those who wish to partake, a splash of white wine in the sparkling Perrier makes a cooling spritzer.

The main food attraction should be delicious, different and healthful. Nasi Goreng is a perfect choice. Translated literally, the Southeast Asian name simply means fried rice. But that's an extreme understatement. Indeed, rice is the basis of the dish, as it is in many appetizing ones, but in this case it's what is added that adds the drama.

The tender, sweet, succulent meat of African rock lobster tails gives unusual character to this version of Nasi Goreng. The delicious seafood is everybody's choice when eating out; when served at home it is exciting and unforgettable. Stretched with the rice, chicken and vegetables in the recipe, one and a half pounds of rock lobster meat serves six people handily.

The African rock lobster and other ingredients in the dish are nutritious as well as delicious. Rice, of course, is an excellent source of complex carbohydrates, the recognized energy source for muscles and a good workout.

Since this is a meal-in-a-dish, very little is needed to complete the menu. Nasi Goreng is a dip-into full meal and the only suggestion is to make enough to accommodate the crowd. Make the dish beforehand; it only profits. Heat for about 15 minutes before serving time.

Fitness buffs are not above a small indulgence once in a while, which is the reason for the delightful climax of this meal. The Blueberry Lindt Chocolate Tart is made with the famous Lindt Chocolate of Switzerland. If Rudolf Lindt, who first created this fine chocolate in 1879, was around to sample this dessert he probably would proclaim it a chef d'oeuvre.

The smooth chocolate mousse is crowned with fiber-rich blueberries. Nowadays, people can satisfy their blueberry hunger all year around, thanks to the dry-pack frozen blueberries that are so easily available in supermarkets. They are the ones used in this recipe; in season, the dessert can be made with fresh. This is a dessert for all seasons. At this party, guests can be told that blueberries are rich in Vitamins A and C, which will make them enjoy the dessert while eating for their health.

Word of mouth will quickly have this gathering talked about in gyms all over.

ROCK LOBSTER NASI GORENG
1 1/2 pounds of frozen African rock lobster tails

1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup diced, cooked chicken
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
3 cups cooked rice, chilled or cooled
1 egg, beaten

Parboil rock lobster tails by dropping into boiled salted water. When water reboils, drain and drench with cold water. Remove rock lobster meat from shells in one piece; cut crosswise into medallions, 1/2 inch thick.

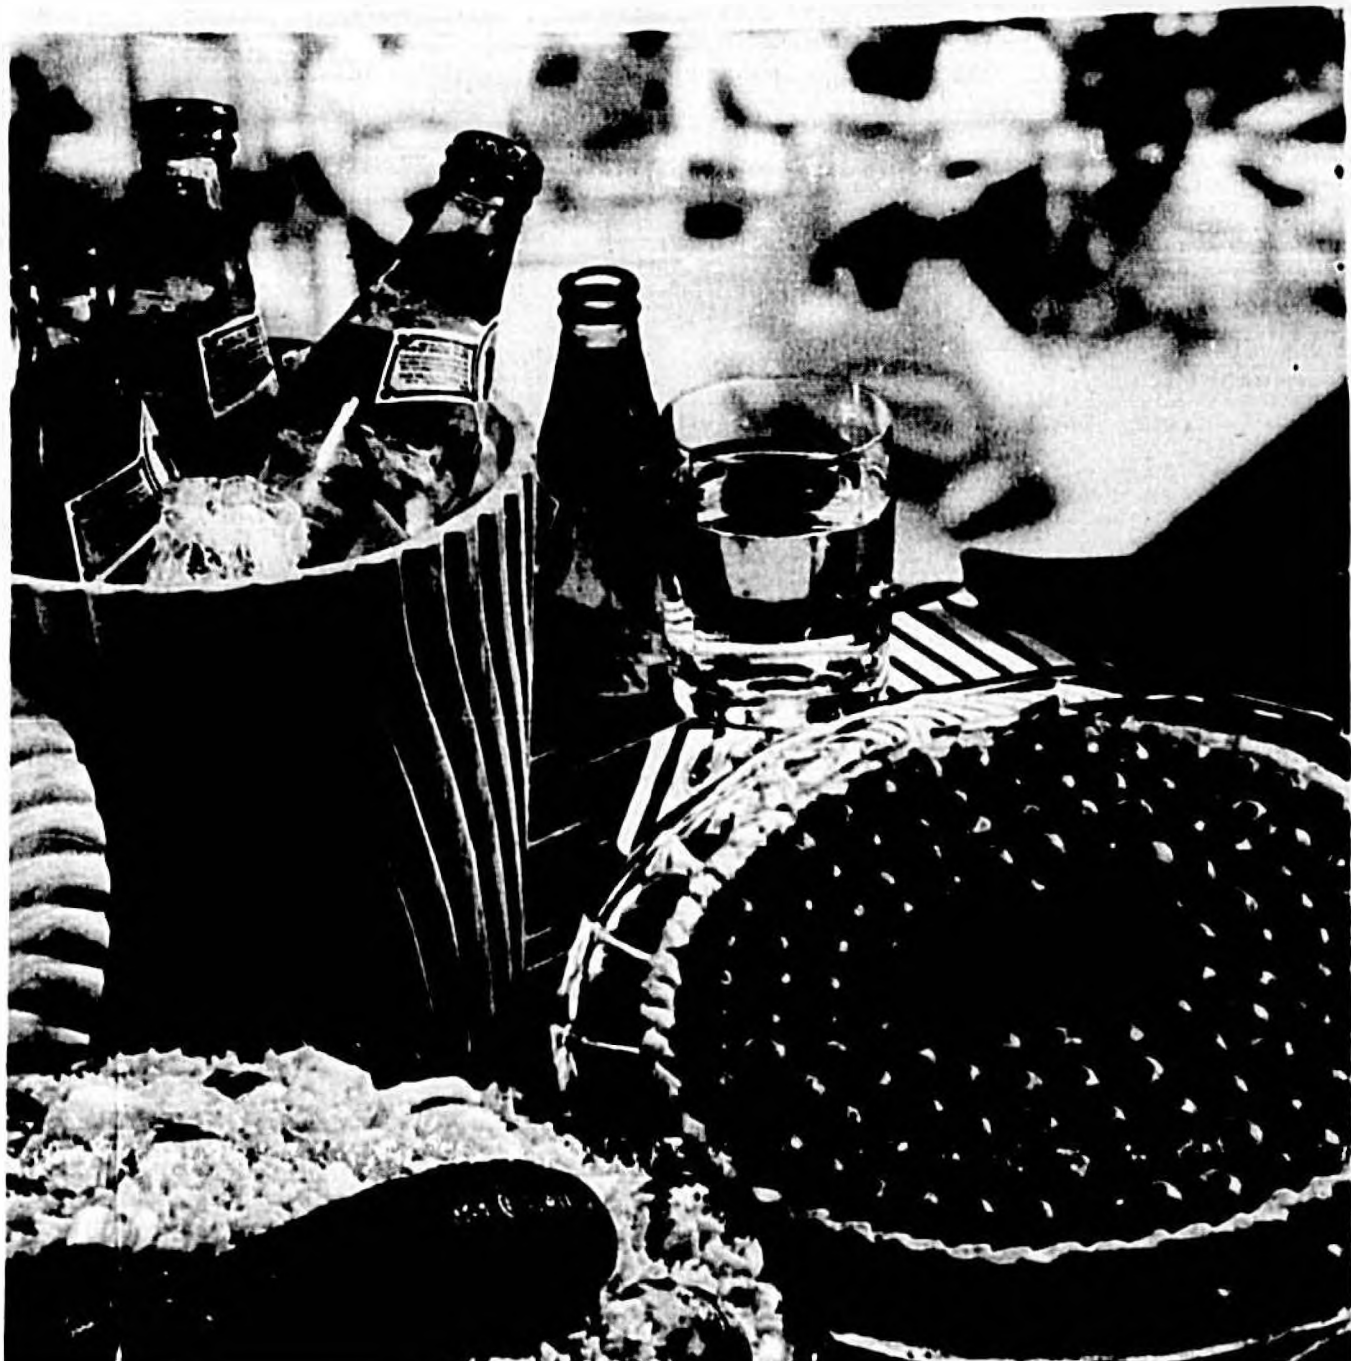

Heat oil in large skillet; cook onion until soft, but not brown. Add curry powder, salt, sugar; stir to mix. Add chicken and water chestnuts; saute, stirring constantly, until rice is heated through. Reduce heat; add egg. Stir just until egg is set. Serve in large heated bowls with sambals or condiments such as mango chutney, mixed nuts, tomato wedges and sliced cucumbers. Makes 6 servings.

BLUEBERRY CHOCOLATE TART

2 bars (3 oz. ea.) Lindt Surfing dark chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs, separated
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons dark rum or 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon strong brewed coffee

1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 prebaked 9-inch pastry tart shell
1 pint (2 cups) fresh or dry-pack frozen blueberries
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 teaspoons water
Lindt Chocolate Thins, for garnish

To prepare chocolate mousse filling, in top of double boiler, over low heat, melt chocolate and butter; cool 30 minutes. Beat egg whites until stiff. In large bowl, beat egg yolks with sugar until light and fluffy.

The tender, sweet, succulent meat of African rock lobster tails gives unusual character to this version of Nasi Goreng. This smooth chocolate mousse is crowned with fiber-rich blueberries.

Blend rum and coffee into yolk mixture. Gently fold chocolate mixture, then beaten egg whites and whipped cream in yolk mixture — just to blend. Spread chocolate mousse filling evenly in bottom of 9-inch tart shell. Chill at least 2 hours.

Shortly before serving, arrange blueberries over top of tart.

Blend corn syrup and water. Brush over top of blueberries (or glaze with melted apple jelly). Garnish tart with chocolate Thins. Makes 8-10 servings.

ORANGE FISH OLE

2 tablespoons safflower oil
1 cup sweet red or green pepper, cut in strips the size of match sticks
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes
1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 pound flounder or sole fillets
1 cup orange sections (about 2 oranges)

In a large skillet, heat safflower oil until hot. Add sweet pepper, onion and garlic. Saute until onion is transparent, about 3 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine orange juice and cornstarch. Add to skillet along with cumin, red pepper flakes and salt. Cook and stir over medium heat until sauce thickens, about 3 minutes. Add fish fillets. Simmer, covered, until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 5 minutes.

Stir in orange sections. Cook until hot, about 1 minute. Serve with steamed rice, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 portions.

How Do Bahamians Survive Junkanoo?

To Hear Them Tell It, The Secret Is In The Food They Eat

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Few groups stand up better to the stress and strain of celebration than Bahamians at Junkanoo time. To hear them tell it, the secret is in the food they eat.

This wild swirling carnival, most notable for its love affair with ear-shredding noise, is a test for even the most resilient of stomachs. That's why the islanders have developed a rather exotic menu to prepare them for hour after hour of drinking and dancing in the streets.

Before every Junkanoo party, the careful Bahamian is likely to sit down to a heaping platter of boiled fish and grits.

"The dish staves off the pain caused by overdoing," observed

Peter Furzer, general manager of the Paradise Island Resort and Casino, which serves boiled fish in three of its 12 restaurants. "The grits act as a stomach buffer."

Bahamians celebrate the holidays with a full week of parties highlighted by two Junkanoo blowouts rivaling Mardi Gras in New Orleans or Carnival in Rio. The first, with a nod to the islands' English roots, is held on Boxing Day (Dec. 26), while the second is held New Year's Day.

The locals love to ring in the new. They apparently love to beat it in as well, trading any bell that approaches pleasantly for a pair of hollow sticks, ancient auto parts or rusty tin cans.

Noise level at the center of Junkanoo is rivaled only by the swirling color of dancers wearing elaborate headpieces that take all year to fashion.

The origin of Junkanoo is shrouded in history and legend. Yet most historians agree it can be traced back to the dance, music and mask traditions of West Africa — to the ancient harvest feasts of tribes along the Ivory and Gold coasts.

Junkanoo was imported with slavery to the Carolinas, the Caribbean and the Bahamas. Though it never really caught on in the Deep South, it was celebrated throughout the West Indies.

BOILED FISH AND GRITS
4 6-ounce grouper or whitefish fillets
1 medium onion

2 potatoes, diced
6 slices bacon, diced
Juice of 2 limes
2 ounces butter
Salt and pepper to taste

2 cups grits
3 cups water
5 ounces butter
Salt

Place salted and peppered filets in pan, top with diced onions, potatoes, bacon and lime juice. Steam for 3 to 4 minutes, then add water to slightly cover the fish. Let simmer on low heat for 10 minutes.

Add grits to boiling water with butter and salt, then cook until done. Regular grits require 30 minutes, while most quick grits are ready in 7 to 10 minutes. Serves 4.

MINCED LOBSTER

3 1/2 pounds cooked lobster, shredded
2 ounces pork fat
2 ounces oil
6 ounces chopped onion
4 ounces chopped sweet pepper
4 ounces chopped celery
4 ounces chopped fresh tomato
2 ounces brandy
3 ounces tomato paste
Thyme, salt, hot pepper or Tabasco to taste

Cut pork into 1/4-inch dice and fry in oil until brown. Add onion, sweet pepper, celery, thyme and tomato. Lightly brown, then add the brandy and tomato paste.

Add the shredded lobster and additional seasoning as desired. Cook for 5 to 7 minutes. Serve with fresh plantains. Serves 8.

PEAS AND RICE

3 ounces pork fat
2 ounces oil
3 ounces celery
3 ounces onion
3 ounces sweet pepper
6 ounces tomato paste
12 ounces pigeon peas
1 quart water
Salt, pepper and thymeked rice

Cut the pork fat and vegetables into a 1/4-inch dice and fry the pork in the oil until brown. Add the vegetables and cook for 3 minutes. Add the tomato paste, peas, thyme, water and seasoning.

Bring to a boil and add the rice. Cook under cover for about 20 minutes, until rice is done. (If pigeon peas are unavailable, regular kidney beans can be substituted.) Serves 8.

Pate Tasting A Unique Party Idea

If you think pate is just chopped liver, you're wrong. Today, pates are a popular menu item in chic restaurants and for business and home entertaining.

While the traditional pate is a goose liver spread that is served on toast points or crackers, culinary experimentation and creativity have yielded pates that feature a variety of ingredients, such as vegetables, seafood and nuts. California pistachios are an ideal ingredient for pates because of their mild, subtle flavor and rich green color. They also add eye appeal as a festive garnish to pates and other foods.

Prepare a sampling of several pates and you will have a pate tasting party that will be an entertaining sensation. Serve one of seafood, vegetables and/or liver.

Keep the wines — an important accompaniment for pates — flowing.

CALIFORNIA PISTACHIO LIVER PATE

1 pound fresh chicken livers
1 cup milk
1 cup sweet butter, divided
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1 cup chopped green onions
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon each ground allspice and bottled hot pepper sauce
1/2 cup finely chopped shelled natural pistachios, divided
Salt

Trim white veins and membrane from liver; soak in milk 1 hour. Drain well. Saute livers in 1/4 cup butter about 5 minutes or until well-done. Remove liver to bowl and add sherry; set aside. Saute green onions and garlic in same skillet about 3 minutes or until softened. Puree liver and green onion mixture in food processor or grind finely in food grinder.

Add remaining butter and heat until light and creamy; add liver mixture and mix well. Reserve 1 tablespoon pistachios; fold remaining pistachios into liver mixture. Salt to taste. Spoon into crock and refrigerate, covered, until ready to serve. Garnish top with reserved pistachios. Makes about 2 cups. Recipe can be halved.

Serving Tip: Pistachio Liver Pate is excellent served with slices of baguette or French bread.

CALIFORNIA PISTACHIO POTTED SHRIMP

1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons minced celery
2 tablespoons minced parsley, divided
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons Papillon White wine
1/2 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1/4 teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce
1/2 cup chopped shelled natural pistachios, divided
1/2 cup cooked coarsely chopped pink shrimp
Blend cream cheese, celery, 1 tablespoon parsley, onion, wine and seasonings. Reserve 1 tablespoon pistachios for garnish; add remaining pistachios and shrimp to cream cheese mixture and mix well. Pack into 2 1/2 cup crock; refrigerate, covered, until firm. Garnish with reserved parsley and pistachios before serving. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Serving Tip: Serve with assorted crackers and raw vegetables. Use to spread on canapes; garnish with thinly sliced cucumbers, olives or pimiento slices and watercress or parsley sprigs. Use to stuff celery stalks, sliced cucumber or summer squash. Chinese pea pods, pieces of green, red or yellow peppers or hollowed out cherry tomatoes.

CALIFORNIA PISTACHIO ROLL-UPS

1/2 cup finely chopped shelled natural pistachios
1/2 cup each grated Cheddar cheese and Parmesan cheese
2 sheets (10-inch square) frozen puff pastry dough, thawed*

1/4 cup melted butter
Combine pistachios and cheeses. Place 1 sheet puff pastry on flat surface. Brush with melted butter; cut in half. Sprinkle with pistachio mixture on each half leaving 1-inch strip along one lengthwise edge. Roll jelly-roll fashion. From lengthwise edge with pistachio mixture. Roll tightly; seal edge. Cut into 1-inch pieces; place cut side up on ungreased baking sheet. Repeat with second sheet puff pastry. Lightly brush tops with butter. Bake at 425°F. 12-15 minutes or until puffy and lightly browned. Makes 40 appetizers.

*If necessary, roll thawed puff pastry into a 10-inch square.

An array of pates is made even more tempting when served on Villeroy & Boch china. Sauce boats and soup cups are ideal stand-ins for traditional molds and crocks.

SUPER BONUS SPECIALS

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

- 1 Pick up 100 Super Bonus Certificates at our check-out counter.
- 2 You get a Super Bonus Stamp on every $1.00 you spend. Place 10 Super Bonus Stamps on each certificate.
- 3 When you check out, present one filled Super Bonus Certificate for each $1.00 purchase. Use it as you see fit.
