I, too, am allergic to milk. My symptoms are sneezing and congested sinuses. The only times I have been able to use milk were the last two months of my pregnancy...

DEAR READER - Lactose intolerance results from being unable to split milk sugar (lactose). That is not the same thing as milk allergy...

I want to take this opportunity to caution people against thinking that solving the much more common lactose intolerance problem will mean they will not be allergic to milk...

$500,000 Lawsuit Claims Bad Locks Aided Rape Suspect

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

An alleged rape victim who says she was attacked in front of her small son has filed a half-million-dollar damage suit in circuit court at Sanford against a jailed suspect, owners of an apartment complex, a lock manufacturer and two insurance companies.

Girtman was arrested by sheriff's detectives at the apartment complex on Jan. 14 when he allegedly tried to break into another apartment. He is being held in county jail and faces trial the week of Feb. 21 on charges of attempted burglary, possession of burglary tools and resisting an officer with violence.

The lawsuit, assigned to Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffer for trial, alleges that the apartment complex owners were negligent in failing to supply a "dead-bolt" exterior lock for the front door of the apartment and knew, or should have known, of numerous prior burglaries, attacks on tenants and other assorted criminal misconduct at the apartment complex.

Negligence is also claimed in that the apartment's exterior door lock "overlapped the bolt of the existing easy access to the bolt from the outside."

Ex-County Attorney's Firm Hired To Defend Seminole

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission has hired the law firm that employs former County Attorney Howard Marsee to protect the county's interest in a lawsuit filed by State Attorney Douglas Cheshire.

The motion to hire the law firm of Pitts, Eubanks, Ross and Rumberger was made by Republican Commissioner John Kimbrough. The motion was approved by Commission Chairman Dick Williams and County Commissioner Bill Kirchoff.

Kimbrough said the firm has experience in the type of lawsuit Cheshire has filed. The state attorney has filed a suit seeking twice the amount of office space occupied by his prosecutors at the courthouse.

Neither claims any hard and fast political philosophy. Neither plans to seek higher political office and neither plans to spend the rest of his life in public office.

Both men are married and have families. French is married for the second time and is father of five children ranging in age from a few months old to 29 years old. Kirchoff has two sons, Bill and Eric, 14 and 12 respectively.

Both are members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and both are left-handed.

The Non-Politicians: French And Kirchoff What's In A Label?

With few exceptions, Seminole County voters in 1976 in both countywide and municipal elections chose persons they perceived as non-political types over the smooth, experienced politicians to represent them in local government.

French, at 42, is a life-long Democrat and a life-long Seminole Countyman, but had not been involved in politics in any way, unless one would consider his father having been a Longwood city councilman when Bob was a youth as involvement.

Kidnaper At Bay 2nd Day; Gun Wired To Hostage

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A gunman who wired the muzzle of a sawed-off shotgun to the neck of his hostage and said he was "ready to die," remained holed up in an apartment today, awaiting word on his demand for immunity from prosecution. Anthony Kiritsis, 44, of Indianapolis, stopped negotiating with police who ringed the apartment building Tuesday night. Kiritsis, described as having had demolition training in the Army, claimed he had the third-floor apartment rigged with explosives.

Man Acquitted In Rape; Jury Raps Prosecution

A 12-member circuit court jury has acquitted a Sanford man accused of raping an 11-year-old girl and voiced displeasure over a prosecutor's courtroom presentation. After six hours of deliberation at the end of the two-day trial on Tuesday night the jurors returned a verdict of innocent for Bobby G. Stokes, 22, of Seminole Gardens Apartments, Sanford.

An 11-year-old girl had testified that Stokes was the man who raped her in her bed the night of Dec. 11 but Stokes said he'd been with friends elsewhere and had had no contact in his car in a Sanford restaurant parking lot. Stokes had been indicted by the Seminole County grand jury on a capital felony sexual battery charge. If he had been found guilty he could have received the death sentence or life imprisonment. At several points during their deliberations the jury sent notes to Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor. One note said the jury was at an impasse. "We are split. We have a hung jury."

Col. Eugene Minietta, executive director of Youth Programs, said Mrs. Sterling resigned because she felt she had "lost her credibility with Seminole County College and found it very difficult to operate in the county" after press criticism by college officials of her office procedures. He called her "loyal and dedicated."

Under a Project Diversion federal grant, Youth Programs is cooperating with SCC, Florida Technological University, Volusia Community College, Rollins College and other universities and colleges. Under the Pilot program, college students are recruited and trained to work on a one-on-one basis to rehabilitate youthful offenders who have been diverted from the courts by local police and sheriff's departments and the state's attorney. Seminole sheriff's investigators said an autopsy today was expected to determine the cause of death of a 70-year-old Midway man found by firemen Tuesday night inside his burning home. Neighbors called county firefighters at 8:30 after seeing the Main Street residence of John Day Sr. in flames and hearing screams. Firemen reached the scene five minutes later and controlled the flames that gutted the one-story, five-room frame structure. Officials said firemen found Day's body on the living room floor. Sheriff I. L. George Abney said Day had burns on his face and hands. Investigators called in a deputy state fire marshal to probe the fire. They reported the fire started in the bedroom and joined the room where Day's body was found.

been set in county court on Friday for Verne Edwin Riggall Jr., 24, and his wife, Patricia Irwin Riggall, 29, both of 6413 Ramir Road, in north Orange County. The Riggalls are accused of the Aug. 13, 1976, burglary of a residence at 112 Durango Way, south Seminole, according to court records, and of larceny of a picture, suitcase and musket replica.

In an unrelated Tuesday night fire, sheriff's deputies reported Edwin S. Losier was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital for smoke inhalation after a rental trailer sustained damage estimated at $1,000. Deputy Donald Dreggers said Robert Johnson, 44, who was the tenant in the trailer at 2810 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, attributed the blaze to a malfunctioning oil heater. County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser wants immediately available to confirm reports that the Riggalls have been suspended from their jobs pending outcome of the court cases. Courthouse officials said today Mrs. Riggall is a former employee who previously worked for both the state attorney and the circuit clerk's office.

In another accident involving a police car, state troopers arrested Richard Charles Wiley, 48, of 84 Baswood Circle, Winter Springs, on charges of driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages and fleeing and leaving the scene of an accident. Sheriff's deputies reported that Altamonte Springs police patrolman Dale Schaeffer, 28, was northbound on U.S. 17-92 south of Sanford, transporting a prisoner to the county jail, when an auto entered the highway from 318-17 and struck the right front of the police car.

Deputy R. L. Deputy R. A. Alexander said patrolman Schaeffer then pursued the hi-and-run vehicle for two miles to the south Sanford city limits where it was stopped. No injuries were reported and damage to the Altamonte Springs police car was estimated at $1,500, deputies said. Sanford police today were investigating a burglary at Officers said a selection of packaged frozen foods was also listed as missing.

Askew Reported Eying $200-Million More Taxes

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew is considering a tentative state budget for next year that would call for $200 million in additional taxes, a top senator said today. Sen. Jack Gordon, chairman of the Senate Finance and Taxation Committee, said he had received no figures on where the boosts in spending or taxes would come. But he said that reports filtering back from aides working on the governor's budget indicated that proposed spending was $200 million over expected revenue for next year.

Blackburn Faces 2 Terms

CLEARWATER (AP) — A state attorney says he will seek twice the standard maximum sentence for reputed former Central Florida gambling boss Harlan Blackburn, convicted here on a drug charge. Blackburn was convicted by a six-member jury Tuesday of possession of marijuana with intent to sell. He was arrested last July at an Orlando motel and accused of trying to sell about 28 pounds of pot.

Following the verdict, Orange County Asst. State Atty. Gregory Wilson said the state plans to ask that Blackburn be given twice the maximum five-year sentence. Under state law, a person convicted of a two felonies within a five-year period can have his second sentence doubled, Wilson said. Blackburn is currently serving a six-month to one-year prison term for assault with intent to commit murder.

S. Bell Claims Profits Drop

ORLANDO (AP) — Southern Bell Telephone Co. has warned the Public Service Commission that services to 5.2-million Florida customers may deteriorate if the firm doesn't receive a $226.5-million rate increase. The company's level of earnings continues to fall and this "eventually could affect the quantity and quality of services we are furnishing our customers," the company's chief executive officer told the PSC Tuesday.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has adopted a measure to make Senate procedures less secret. But reformers say it doesn't go far enough. Robert Graham, D-Miami, who sponsored the bill, said that one exemption effectively gutted the measure.

Plan-Zone Job Kept Fulltime At Lake Mary

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer
The Lake Mary City Council Tuesday night in workshop agreed to continue the position of planning and zoning administrator as a full-time post at least until October, retirement time of the man currently holding the office, Francis Jenior. Several weeks ago, the city council discussed changing the post to a part-time one until new construction starts increasing again. Roger Dixon, chairman of the city's planning and zoning commission, however, told the board Wednesday night that Jenior has been of invaluable assistance to the advisory board in preparing the city's comprehensive land use plan. City Councilman Cliff Nelson said that Jenior is being kept busy full-time handling the responsibilities of his job. The council agreed to consider after Jenior's October retirement, the future of the position. Councilman Harry Terry, at the same time, said consideration should be given to eliminating the $2,000 car allowance for the office, but also said he was requesting a CETA employee to do landscaping and beautification at the city parks. Terry said U.S. Farmers Home Administration officers favor of turning an old police car over to the city hall staff when a new one is purchased. Terry said the vehicle could be used not only by Jenior, but also by City Clerk Kay Sussman, City Treasurer Myra Devine and City Planner

Chamber Tallies $8,622, May Get 700 Members

By DARRYL RICE Herald Staff Writer
As the tally of enrolled members from "blitz" day continued, the membership drive and the counting was continuing, according to Horner. "A follow-up campaign drive is now in progress to get those late-comers and others enrolled," he said. The winning sales team from the blitz was that of Wayne Albert. This captain, who is executive vice-president of Flagship U.S. Bank, also was the individual sales winner. Albert's team brought in $1,800 while his own efforts resulted in $645 for the chamber. The members of the victorious team are: Pat Register, Vic Arnett, Russell Moncrief, Lee Wheeler, Jean Meyer, Sheriff John Polk and Don Knight.

The membership drive chairman, was pleased with the blitz day turnout of workers and their enthusiasm. "I appreciate the hard work done by everyone concerned and thank the new members who have joined us at the chamber," said John Y. Mercer, president of Flagship U.S. Bank. The chambers president also had words of praise for those who helped the cause. "I want to thank the businessmen of the area. I appreciate their help with the blitz activities and their concern for the chamber's future," said Tom Hunt. The winning team, led by Wayne Albert, will choose a Florida attraction to attend as its prize for the top sales effort. The team and its spouses will be traveling in McDonald's "Big Mac" bus with all expenses covered by the chamber, according to Horner.

The team's sales, led by Howard Hodges, will be cooking hamburgers at a chamber cookout. The date of the cookout will be announced later, Horner said. "I've already made a date for tennis. And I saw him twice last year. I'd love to go down here. When you go to a college where the weather is so important, I guess you're not predisposed to a commitment to social causes." County Rejects Request For 'School House' Funds

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer
Additional paint has been peeled off the concept of the Little Red School House, Seminole County's former learning place for about 80 retarded children. The paint removers, in this case, were Seminole County Commissioners, who on Tuesday turned down a request for $5,827 to try and get the school reopened. "It wasn't life or death. I mean it wouldn't make or break us, but it would have put us on a lot more solid ground than we are right now," said Dennis Dolgner, president of the Seminole County Association for Retarded Children (SCARC). Prior to October, the Little Red School House was the learning place for about 80 retarded children, children who have since been returned to non-learning environments. Under the $250,000-a-year program, children who were excluded from the school system attended Little Red School House facilities in Casselberry and at the Sanford Airport. But then the state requirements got too tough. And county officials say parents didn't want to go through the tough qualification procedure, which involved identifying the child as a retarded. The process included verification by a trained psychologist, and parents just didn't want to go through that.

So, Dolgner didn't reapply for the state grant. The county put up about 12 per cent in "seed money," and the remainder of the quarter-million-dollar program came from state and federal funds.

The Future Of The Zoo

The Central Florida Zoo is and should be an integral part of our community. It provides residents of all ages with a place to relax, to marvel at the wonders of nature by communing with some of our animal friends.

And that is why so many Central Floridians were distressed last year at the prospect of the zoo being forced to close due to financial problems descending upon it.

The response of many area residents and organizations to the facility's plight has been gratifying and should help to keep it alive. But there still is a long way to go.

No one wants the zoo to vanish. It must at least survive, at best, prosper and grow.

The new board of directors for the Central Florida Zoo is aware of this. Members know that the zoo's future could be crucial to the state's future and will begin concentrating on turning the operation around when they convene for their first full-fledged meeting of 1977 Thursday evening.

A budget of $297,000 is being proposed — described by new board member Bob Daehn as a "pared-to-the-bone" budget. It compares to $319,000 in 1975 and $307,000 in 1976. So the belt-tightening is on. Including, according to Mr. Daehn, a moratorium on all new construction.

"You have to start somewhere when you don't have it," he explains.

This is a responsible approach. All plans for the zoo must be conceived, studied and implemented cautiously and carefully to avoid any possible recurrence of the near-financial disaster of last year. At the same time, the public must be assured that, through prudent procedural processes, a similar situation will not arise out of the blue.

Three key areas will be addressed by the zoo's board Thursday evening, according to Mr. Daehn: The need to build good, strong membership; to do something to increase attendance; and "over the long haul" to seek some sort of foundation endowment.

Up to now, Mr. Daehn notes, all the well-meaning fundraising activities can be viewed only as "stop-gap functions." Noting the occasional spurts of attendance, he suggests that the zoo "is never going to be supported by attendance alone."

And, he adds, many persons are donating animals — but no one is stopping to figure how to pay for the cost of feeding them.

Points well taken.

Cruise Missile

Eleven Democratic members of Congress, including George McGovern, Edward Kennedy, Dick Clark and Les Aspin, have appealed to President Carter to halt development of long-range versions of the cruise missile in order to avoid escalating the arms race.

The Russians are seeking to include long-range cruise missiles in a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, a step which could halt the development of such missiles.

The flying generals and admirals of the Air Force and the Navy see development of the unmanned cruise missile as a threat to their established interests in continued research on manned aircraft.

But the defense budget must not be treated like a pork barrel, from which established interests are entitled to dip "goodies" according to seniority and tradition.

The purpose of defense spending is national security, nothing else.

Technology has shaped recent military history. A superpower that fails to respond to new armament technology does so at its own peril.

Cruise missiles present a difficult verification problem if subjected to arms control agreement because it is impossible to determine a cruise missile's range by external inspection.

Cruise missiles are cheaper to build and deploy and may well be just as effective as ballistic missiles and manned bombers. A mix of effective weapons is more reliable than any single type of weapon.

Such are the proper considerations that argue for continuing development of the long-range cruise missile.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — The natural gas crisis struck America a year too late to split the Federal Energy Administration.

Its experts had gravely predicted a severe natural gas shortage for the winter of 1975-76. They spent over $100,000 for pamphlets, radio messages and TV spots to instruct the nation how to survive the hard winter.

FEA officials hung their heads in embarrassment when their dire prediction failed to materialize. The wrath of Congress also fell upon the agency because of the false forebodings.

Some officials, therefore, are privately relieved that the energy crisis has finally arrived. They fell somewhat vindicated now that a spokesman, with some logic, has said that the unused messages call upon Americans to lower their thermostats to 68 degrees.

But the main reason the massive media blitz was abandoned, according to insiders, was that it offended some powerful congressmen. An urgent, angry complaint was registered with the FEA on Nov. 12, 1976, by Rep. John Dingell, D-

Around

The Clock

By NORM OSHRIN

Well, it's started: the juvenile "ha, ha, I can go faster and longer than you" season. Speed for speed's sake.

It's the speed syndrome that offers no social redeeming value; indeed, probably is counter-productive to society and its needs.

The only object, it appears, is commercial. It allows promoters to offer some kind of perverted excitement to thousands of spectators who get their kicks out of watching cars go round and round and round.

And maybe to add a little spice to the afternoon, watch one hit a retaining wall, another car, or some times even career into the spectator stands one in awhile.

The drivers not only endanger their own lives, but often those of others around them.

The rationale for such "sports" activity used to be that such tests of automobiles served as proving grounds for perfection of new equipment, machinery, parts, et al. But even that rationale has faded away — more sensible minds have concluded that the same can be accomplished on the flow of traffic on some highway.

Then why this fascination with auto racing? The only thing, it would seem obvious, that is more monotonous and grating than watching those cars circle and circle is to watch golfers prance up and down the golf course with their little clubs and white balls.

Just this past weekend we had the specter of hundreds of thousands watching the combination speed and endurance event at Daytona. How many of them were watching, hoping for one or more of the entries to become involved in a fiery crash? It's akin, through the racing season, to curiously seekers flocking around a house fire or drivers rubbernecking an auto accident.

And how about its effects on auto safety for all of us?

On the one hand, many in our society glorify and glamorize the auto racers and in the process glorify the continuing rise in road fatalities. The cause and effect relationship is not precise, but there's no doubt it exists.

Day after day, on page after page, we tend to see up these speed demons and/or freaks for all — including our younger generation — to see. And then wonder why these same young ones are found drag-racing or speeding down the highway in the family car, occasionally or purposely trying to emulate their racing heroes.

One particular example is recalled. It happened in 1962 at Indianapolis, home of the daddy of them all — the Indy 500, the mecca of auto racing.

In that year, the national driving hero was Parnelli Jones, the favorite in the 500. Starting from the pole position (reserved for the driver and car registering the fastest qualifying speed), Jones lived up to his favorite status.

He grabbed the early lead, and maintained it throughout the race. When it was over, we learned that he had traversed half the race (200 miles) without brakes. They had gone out on his auto. Everyone cheered at the man's guts and heroism. Terrific! Hoors!

He couldn't get enough publicity and became the darling of the lecture circuit immediately following the race. And, among the places he spoke — now get this — was at a couple of high schools to irresponsible youngsters always in search of a hero.

His topic: auto driving safety. In his talks, of course, he stressed that what he did on a race course should never be tried on a public thoroughfare. Now, stop and figure it out: can such youngsters looking for someone to idolize really make that distinction?

What will they remember — what Jones did or said?

'Let's Make A Deal'

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

It was like an auction. At any minute, you expected someone to yell "Sold American" or some other small country towns.

In reality, it was just the Tuesday meeting of the Seminole County Commission. And the commission and Sheriff John Polk were debating on something dear to their hearts — money.

Earlier in the day, Polk put in a bid for $5,000 of the county's money. The sheriff said he needed it to pay "unemployment compensation for former sheriff's department employees.

But commissioners ducked on the issue. Just before the meeting ended Polk came back for more.

"That's not new information," Commission Chairman Dick Williams informed the sheriff after Polk told him he needed $5,000.

Then Commissioner John Kimbrough, a shrewd bargainer from Tennessee, entered into the fray.

Polk offered his last deal. After this one, he said, he would have to pay compensation to laid-off or terminated employees of the sheriff's office.

The county must pay four times $1,800 each to replace the sheriff's office. Polk will pay the sheriff's last offer.

"The county should pay it all," the sheriff threw in. Then Kimbrough grinned, and the sheriff knew he had struck a bargain.

"Okay, Mr. Sheriff," Williams sang out. "You've got yourself a deal."

Altamonte Delays Action On Zoning

The Altamonte Springs City Commission Tuesday continued until next week a public hearing on a petition by city residents to place on the ballot the order of a 30-acre part of land, even though a court order is expected by Monday joining the city on taking action on the petition.

Circuit Court Judge Joe Cowart in a hearing a week ago ruled unconstitutional a section of the city charter permitting the people to place on referendum a zoning matter.

The controversy involves the rezoning by the city of a 30-acre parcel near Spring Oaks subdivision in apartment zoning to planned unit development (PUD).

The 643 signers to the petition requested that the zoning of the tract be changed to single family dwelling district.

A move for the second time by Commissioner Cal DeVoey to have the city commission sign procedure to initiate the rezoning.

Don Oakley 'World Oil' Sees Gas A-Plenty

It will do little for the immediate warmth of Americans shivering through the worst winter in living memory and worst fuel shortage in the country's history, but the outlook for oil and natural gas supplies in 1977 is bright, says World Oil.

A marked acceleration in U.S. drilling which began in 1974 in response to "improved oil and gas prices" is expected to continue this year, says the energy industry publication.

Based on an analysis of operators' plans and industry capability, it predicts 1977 drilling of 42,824 wells and 138.3 million feet of hole — up 2.2 per cent and 5.7 per cent respectively over last year's totals.

Overall, more wells should be completed in 1977 than in any year since 1964, and footage drilled should establish an 18-year record.

Compared to 1973, this year's expectations are "phenomenal," representing an increase of 63.4 per cent in wells and 82.2 per cent in footage drilled.

Internationally, there will be the same stepped-up activity. In Canada, "enlightenment" of Canadian politicians and attendant boosts in "incentives" have precipitated an unprecedented drilling boom, reports World Oil.

In Latin America, Africa, the North Sea, the Middle East and Far East — almost everywhere except Indonesia — drilling and production increases are expected.

This is good news for the short-term future — the matter of the next few years or perhaps even the next few decades. Eventually, of course, the world will begin running out of its oil and natural gas.

(Domestic drilling footages are an indication that we are having to go deeper and deeper to find the stuff in this country.)

Who? Where? Why were they subsoiled? How did it happen? Find out. As all things change us, mind travel changes us. But the changes which can be wrought by research and the mind-travel can be the most transforming of all.

There's something about a uniform, even in a country dedicated to the proposition that clothes don't make the man.

The National Association of Uniform Manufacturers happily forecasts that within a decade, 25 million Americans — two and a half times as many as today — will be wearing uniforms as symbols of their occupations.

Law enforcement officers, for example, are no longer men in blue. There is now green, brown, grey, army pink and even maroon uniforms serving as official outfits.

Hospital Housekeeping Rapped By Board Member

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

The walls need painting, the curtains hang awry, the windows need cleaning and the areas of housekeeping, engineering and maintenance.

There are light bulbs which need replacing, window ledges that need dusting and "the exterminator could visit the kitchen and dining room areas more frequently," she said.

"Visitors are a bad problem," Mrs. Shoemaker continued. "There are just too many." She said the hospital rules permit two visitors per patient at any one time, but that when she conducted a plant inspection Monday night, she saw as many as 28 visitors in one patient's room.

"This kind of crowding and thoughtlessness on the part of visitors is not conducive to a patient's health," she commented.

Mrs. Shoemaker said that security at the hospital was not as effective as it should be. She also recommended that immediate improvements be made in the emergency rooms.

Board Member Tom Blayney also complained about the shabby furniture in the emergency waiting room and said that the wheelchairs parked in the department's lobby should be removed.

"People sit in those wheelchairs while they're waiting for treatment. They could fall getting out of them or trip over them, then we'd be hit with a law suit," Blayney said.

Board Chairman Allan Keen said that after an inspection tour of the hospital Monday night and Tuesday morning, board members agreed that improvements must be made in the areas of housekeeping, engineering and maintenance.

The amount will be made good after the board next meets with Servicemaster.

Hospital Administrator Robert Besser said after the meeting that he was not sure whether the hospital's contract with Servicemaster would permit this action. He said he was checking into the details of the contract, and that he was meeting with Servicemaster officials from Atlanta today.

Servicemaster's housekeeping operation has recently come under the scrutiny of time and management consultants Naus and Newlyn, Inc., who are examining a number of the hospital's operations.

'Hustler' Wife Defiant

CINCINNATI (AP) — "We'll just sell more copies now," a defiant Althea Leasure said of Hustler magazine after a jury found it obscene and a judge sentenced her husband, publisher Larry Flynt, to a seven-to-24-year prison term.

But civil libertarians and the man who prosecuted the case — considered a major test of whether communities can dictate obscenity standards — said the outcome will have far-reaching effects. County Common Pleas Court Judge William J. Morrissey imposed a seven-to-24-year sentence and a $10,000 fine on a conviction for engaging in organized crime and a concurrent six-month sentence and $1,000 fine on the charge of pandering obscenity.

Warnke Approval Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backed by another presidential endorsement and the support of most members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Paul C. Warnke seems on the way to confirmation as the chief American arms negotiator with the Soviet Union. Warnke, President Carter's choice to head the Arms Control Disarmament Agency and to lead the U.S. delegation when Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty negotiations (SALT) resume this year, calmly fielded questions for more than three hours Tuesday.

charter study commission. In the current Sanford sanitary landfill controversy, Kirchhoff sees himself as one of the few, elected by people both within and without the city, who can see clearly both sides of the issue.

A student of history and government, Kirchhoff sees politics in its purest form as a study of how to make government work and what happens if it doesn't work in the ever-changing process.

French doesn't see himself as a minority member of the board.

"The board members have voted many ways on different issues. I hope it never gets to the point where anyone thinks I have to approve anything in a certain way because of my political party."

"Once the decisions are made, we proceed on to something else. Once an issue is ruled on, it's over," he said.

Soviet Dissident Ill, May Die If Sent To Jail

MOSCOW (AP) — A shy, red-bearded man who has paid out more than $500,000 of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's royalties to Soviet political prisoners and their families is the latest target of the Kremlin's drive against its critics at home.

The arrest last week of Alexander Ginzburg prompted an appeal by more than 200 dissidents for his release and an official expression of concern from the U.S. State Department.

The dissidents' appeal said he was suffering from pneumonia complicated by a chronic tubercular condition. Valentin Turchin, head of the Soviet branch of Amnesty International, said jail meant "certain death for a man in his condition."

The Soviet government has not even said what he is charged with, although the Literary Gazette last week accused him of illegal currency dealings.

Ginzburg served four years. After his release in 1972, he was denied permission to live in Moscow but managed to spend most of his time here with his wife, Irina, and their two small sons. His record as a political prisoner and his continuing activity in the cause of human rights barred him from steady employment, and he held a succession of temporary jobs, most of them doing manual labor.

He is a leading member of the group formed last May to monitor Soviet compliance with the human rights provisions of the Helsinki Accords signed by the United States, the Soviet Union, and 33 other nations in 1975.

Third-Ranked SCC Hosts Central Florida

Seminole Community College's basketball team appears to have found a perfect blend in numbers — and balance. The Raiders are 20-3 on the season, ranked third in the state and are something of a shoe-in for the state tournament although coach Joe Sterling reminds one of five of his team's last six games are of a divisive nature. "We haven't won it yet," he says. Tonight's home encounter against Central Florida could certainly help drive another nail in the rest of the division's coffin, though. The Ocala team will be in the Seminole gym for a 7:30 encounter which is expected to be the Raiders' seventh divisional victory, which would make it unlikely that any of the challengers — Florida JC, Lake City and Valencia — could catch the leaders. Latest weekly poll of the state's JuCo coaches show Pensacola ranked first followed by Miami-Dade South and Seminole. Manatee and Broward Central round out the top five. Seminole's obvious strength to date has been balance. It has four players averaging better than 16 points a game — Willie Williams (16.8), Robert Lewis (16.5), Bob Zipko (16.2) and Ken Atkins (16.2). Also, Sammy Williams is getting 5.7 per game while David Krazit and Karl Krueger are averaging 6.4 and 7.9. Lewis and Williams are the team's top rebouncers, getting eight and seven grabs per game. "The fact that we were playing at home didn't seem to be an advantage," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tracy after the fourth-ranked Deacons were upset 76-66 by No. 15 Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game. "We didn't really deserve any better fate," Tracy said. "We didn't put the ball in as we normally do on the fast break and 22 turnovers is just not our ball club. We just didn't play with intensity." Clemson, now 6-2 in the ACC and 18-3 over-all, didn't fare much better in the turnover department with 21 Tuesday night. Wake Forest, 7-3 in the league and 18-3 over-all, managed to cling to first place in the league as the second-place Tigers inched closer with less than a month to go before the season ends. "Now, our task is to prepare for the final days of the season," said Tracy. "We can't take long to think about that game." Clemson coach Bill Foster was pleased with the way his team repeatedly held off Deacon charges in the second half. "Their hustle and defense was good in the second half. Wake Forest is as good a man-to-man team as there is in the league, but we like to substitute," he said.

SCC Netters Top St. Johns

Seminole Community College's tennis team chalked up its fourth straight victory Tuesday, topping St. Johns River by a 7-0 margin in the first divisional test of the campaign for the winners.

SCC hosts St. Johns River Thursday at 1:30. Cox d. Wilson 6 1, 4 1; Thompson d. Frasier 3 1, 4 0; Roberts d. McCallister 5 2, 4 4; Davis d. Kaye 4 1, 4 1; Castin d. Holcomb 6 0, 6 0; Cox, Castin d. Wilson-McAlpin 6 2, 4 3; Thompson-Roberts d. Frasier-Kaye 6 0, 6 1.

Bledsoe, asked if he talks had made any progress, said: "I wouldn't want to characterize it one way or another, not at this stage."

Both sides had expressed optimism that an agreement could be reached in the near future, but in Cleveland, Browns' owner Art Modell has said the two sides are not close to agreement on a new contract as some published reports have indicated.

They also rank among the nation's leaders, with King averaging 25.4 points per game and Grundfeld leading 24.5.

In last week's NCAA statistics, King was 10th and Grundfeld 12th in scoring.

Grundfeld leads the SEC in total points with 48 in 20 games. King, meanwhile, claimed 39 rebounds in three games last week to maintain his claim as the SEC's leading rebounder. He averages 14.4 per game, two ahead of Durand Macklin of

Miller Hopes To Shake Slump At Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller, who normally is looking for his second to fourth victory of the season at this time of the year, is looking for his second payday in the $200,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic that got underway today.

"It's a matter of momentum," said Miller, who has won 11 of his 14 tournaments since he moved to the United States in 1974. He has missed the cut twice and finished 41st in four earlier tournaments this season and has won only $800.

"I'm not able to generate anything. It seems like I get off to a bad start every time, and I'm not able to get anything going. I haven't had any momentum."

"I'm not putting well at all — lousy in fact. But I don't want to use that as an excuse. I just need some momentum."

Miller's distractions are even greater. His amateur partners today were host Bob Hope, Sammy Davis Jr., and an 18-handicapper named Gerald R. Ford.

Ford, who played two rounds this week in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am immediately after leaving the office of President, is scheduled to compete four days here with Miller, Lee Elder, PGA champ Dave Stockton and Billy Casper as his competitors.

The format for this, the longest event the touring pros play all season, calls for them to play one round on each of four courses, each day with a different set of amateur partners.

Toscanini Vs. King Kong

NEW YORK (AP) — It's Toscanini and King Kong battling it out with tennis rackets.

"That's the way Bill Riordan sees the $250,000 challenge match in Puerto Rico March 5 between his two former Dead End Kids, Jimmy Connors and the Nastase.

"He reminds me of Toscanini — the complete artist performing his symphony before the crowd, hair flying, every move a picture of grace," Riordan says.

"On the other side of the net, Connors, a gorilla, grunting and snorting, blasting all out, fired by a killer instinct."

"Once they were pals. No more. They are bitter rivals." It will be hard for the average tennis aficionado to visualize a rooting interest in the match. Both Nastase and Connors are controversial figures — Nastie, the mad Romanian, baiter of umpires, line-men and the crowd, sulking, delaying, arguing, using every wily to disrupt an opponent; Connors, fiery, arrogant, highly volatile.

"The difference," insists Riordan, "is that Nastase has a touch of class. Connors has no class at all."

No one can speak more knowledgeably of these notorious court villains than Riordan, wealthy Salisbury, Md., merchant, who is the Svengali behind their tantrums and their successes.

Riordan entered tennis as promoter of the National Indoor Championships at Salisbury and later, using Nastase and Connors as a wedge, moved into competition with Lamar Hunt's WCT and the Federation's Grand Prix as ringmaster of his own so-called "Mickey Mouse circuit."

Nelson Bucs QB Coach

TAMPA (AP) — Bill Nelson, who quarterbacked Cleveland to two National Football Conference titles before retiring in 1972, has been named quarterback coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Club spokesmen said Tuesday that Nelson is expected to arrive in camp in about a week.

In 1973, Nelson was on the staff of the New England Patriots and moved to the Atlanta Falcons as offensive coordinator-quarterback coach for 1975-76 season.

He was a 10th-round draft choice of Pittsburgh in 1963 and played for the Steelers until 1967 before going to Cleveland in a trade. He twice paced the Browns to NFL Eastern Conference championships in 1968-69.

As a player, he completed 963 of 1,306 passes for 14,165 yards and 98 touchdowns.

"I'm pleased to have Bill become a member of our staff," said Coach John McKay, who coached Nelson at the University of Southern California. "He was an outstanding player for us at Southern Cal, leading our team to our first national championship in 1962. He had a fine career as an NFL quarterback and I'm sure he'll impart knowledge to our players."

Nelson said he was especially pleased to be back with McKay.

Mulloy Crushed 2 Ways

MIAMI (AP) — "I was humiliated," says Gardner Mulloy, trying at age 63 to compete with world class players and being slaughtered 6-0, 6-1 by John Whittlinger in the $50,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament here.

Mulloy, who teamed with Budge Patty 20 years ago to win the Wimbledon doubles title, got his wild-card berth into Tuesday's first round match by virtue of being host pro at the California Club.

Mulloy, 62, a 24-year-old Whittlinger, of Napa, Calif., after Whittlinger devastated him. He insisted that the Pancho Gonzalez and Frank Parker of his generation would have let up.

Whittlinger said he didn't let up because it was a pro match. "If it would have been an exhibition match, I would have had a lot more fun with it," said Whittlinger after his 38-minute thrashing. "But when I play tennis, I want to go out there and do the best job I can. And if that means beating a guy 6-0, 6-1 or 6-1, 6-1, I'm going to go out there and play my best."

"I can take this one of two ways," said Mulloy. "Either as a compliment to me, that he's afraid of me, or that I'm frustrated because he went all out. It's unfortunate because I can play better," he added. "I know I can't beat these guys, but I hate to lose. I'm a poor loser. It should have been 6-3, 6-3. I should have gone to the net."

Third-seeded Harold Solomon of Fort Lauderdale, being tutored by Pancho Segura, easily brushed off unseeded Rolf Norbert of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

"Segura is working with me on different phases of my game," said Solomon of the teaching pro who helped Jimmy Connors perfect his game. "He's a size, and plays a little bit like I do. I just figure that he is the guy that helped Jimmy a lot and that he might be able to do something for me. It's wonderful to see him."

Sixth-ranked Jose Higueras of Spain lost 6-4, 6-2 to unseeded Butch Walts of Abertorn, Calif., and No. 7 Ricardo Cano of Argentina was upset by unseeded Cliff Letcher of Australia.

No Progress Yet In NFL Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives for the National Football League management and Players Association scheduled meetings again today in an effort to reach agreement on a new collective bargaining contract.

No progress was reported Tuesday after a four-hour meeting, the fourth time the two sides have met since Super Bowl week.

There has not been a contract in effect since Jan. 31, 1974, but pressure is on both sides to reach an agreement since a federal judge declared last week that the annual draft of college players violated anti-trust laws.

The union contends that there are at least seven issues on which the gap is wide between it and management, but says that most of the issues "are out of the union, and most of the issues, such as a pension plan, are 'out of the way.'" Terry Bledsoe, a management representative, said there may be some tentative agreements but there "is no agreement until the entire package is agreed to."

In addition to the draft, other issues cited by Garvey as being far from resolved are compensation of the NFL's Rule, the right of a veteran to cancel a trade or ask for his release when placed on waivers, the commissioner's right to discipline players for off-the-field activities not affecting the integrity of the game, press pay, the length of the season and injury protection.

Bledsoe, asked if he talks had made any progress, said: "I wouldn't want to characterize it one way or another, not at this stage."

Both sides had expressed optimism that an agreement could be reached in the near future, but in Cleveland, Browns' owner Art Modell has said the two sides are not close to agreement on a new contract as some published reports have indicated.

They also rank among the nation's leaders, with King averaging 25.4 points per game and Grundfeld leading 24.5.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Costs Going Up?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A House committee has proposed sharp increases in the charge for Florida hunting and fishing licenses in hopes of raising additional funds to pay for more game officers.

"We're taking general-revenue tax dollars to fund the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, which could fund itself up until about five years ago," said Chairman Bill Fulford, D-Orlando.

The proposal, which drew strong support from some hunter organizations, was projected to raise an additional $3 million to help fund state wildlife programs.

"There are an awful lot of violators today, and I'd say 90 per cent of them are getting away with it because there aren't enough managers," he said. "And there aren't enough managers because there isn't enough money."

He pointed out that those who would receive the primary benefits of state game programs would also pick up a bigger share of the tab.

He said the National Wildlife Federation had already recommended higher hunting-licen-

Guthrie Returns For 500 Attempt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Move over A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford, Bobby Unser and all you racing superstars. Janet Guthrie is back for another try at the Indianapolis 500, and this time she has a lot more confidence and a car that's a near cinch to make the starting field.

Car owner Rolla Vollstedt upset Villanova for the second year in a row, beating the heavily favored Wildcats 61-57 while Emory Sammons' 19 points.

Oldi Birsson scored 28 points and Cecil Rose added 22 to lead Houston to a 109-73 Southwest Conference victory over Rice. The victory was Houston's 11th 100-point effort and boosted the Cougars' record to 18-6 and their SWC mark to 8-3.

Willie Foreman scored his 20 points in the second half as his Texas A&M rallied to beat Baylor 75-57 in another SWC game as the Aggies raised their league record to 7-4.

Some other major challengers include Arnold Palmer, a five-time winner of this tournament; South African Gary Player, who is opening his American campaign for the season; Hubert Green, a former champion who has a habit of playing well here, and veteran Dave Hill.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

Basketball Shuffling Back To Buffalo Via 'New' Braves

By The Associated Press. Basketball returned to snow-bound Buffalo Tuesday night, but with a new wrinkle—some sparkling defense by the home-town Braves.

Center George Johnson, obtained from Golden State seven games ago, pulled down 17 rebounds and blocked seven shots to help the Braves stave off the Philadelphia Flyers 90-89 in the first National Basketball Association game in Buffalo in nearly two weeks.

That's the most defensive game I've seen center play for Buffalo," said Braves Coach Bob MacKinnon. "This is why we got him. He's a great shot-blocker."

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the New York Knicks whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 125-107, the Phoenix Suns stopped the Atlanta Hawks 117-104, the Denver Nuggets downed the Portland Trail Blazers 119-111, the Chicago Bulls beat the San Antonio Spurs 111-80, the Milwaukee Bucks edged the New York Nets 108-97, the Houston Rockets defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 97-81 and the Golden State Warriors beat the Washington Bullets 128-104.

Buffalo led all the way, moving ahead by as much as 17 points in the third quarter. Philadelphia closed to 88-83 with 4:40 to play but Adrian Dantley and Brian Shrum scored four points apiece as the Braves outscored the Nets 11-6 in the final minutes.

Blair MacDonald netted his second goal of the game with just 42 seconds left in regulation time, giving Indianapolis its tie with Houston.

Martinez, 4, Oilers 5. San Diego's Norm Ferguson scored two goals, helping the Mariners survive two-goal games by Edmonton's Wayne Connolly and Bill Flett to hold off the Oilers.

"I think the kids have generated something," Blues Coach Emile Francis said of the youngsters, whom he promoted last week from Kansas City of the Central Hockey League.

The New York Islanders beat the Los Angeles Kings 4-1 in the other NHL contest, while in the World Hockey Association the Winnipeg Jets downed the Quebec Nordiques 7-0, the San Diego Mariners edged the Edmonton Oilers 6-0 and the Houston Aeros tied the Indianapolis Racers 4-4.

Broa Bread Good For Dunking

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A while ago a friend of mine vacationed in Portugal with a few companions. She tells me they had many enjoyable and economical picnic-style lunches. Their usual fare: the Portuguese bread called Broa, a can or two of sardines, a wedge of cheese, a bottle of wine and sometimes pimentos and olives. She said the bread was made with cornmeal and on the solid side — great for dunking in the olive oil from the sardines.

The following recipe is a stand-in for Broa that's also good for dunking. Recipes for true Broa are few and far between but we have a couple we plan to try and if they work out well we shall pass them along.

Meanwhile you may want to test this rule.

DUNKING BREAD
6 to 7 cups flour
1 cup white cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
2 cups very warm water (120 to 130 degrees)

In the large bowl of an electric mixer thoroughly stir together 2 cups of the flour, the cornmeal, sugar, salt and undissolved yeast. Add the butter. Gradually stir in the warm water with mixer at medium speed and scraping bowl several times, beat for 2 minutes.

Add 1 cup of the remaining flour. Beat at high speed, scraping bowl several times, for 2 minutes. Stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on a lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic — 8 to 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl; turn to a greasy top. Cover; let rise in a warm (about 80 degrees), draft-free place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough; divide in half. Lightly sprinkle a board with extra white cornmeal; turn out a portion of the dough onto the cornmeal; shape into a smooth round ball, turning so top is covered with cornmeal. Repeat with the other half of the dough. Cover; let rise as previously until doubled — about 1 hour.

Brush the loaves with a little milk. With a sharp knife or a razor blade, cut a deep cross on top of each loaf. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool.

'Grits Souffle' Special In Carter White House?

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When President Carter plays host at the White House, two women I know are hoping he will include some dishes from their cookbook, like baked grits souffle or peanut butter chicken.

The book, "Atlanta Natives' Favorite Recipes," was compiled and illustrated by Atlanta's Frances Arrington Elyea and Laura Dorsey Rains.

The book is an intriguing assortment of formulas for southern favorites contributed by men and women born and brought up in Atlanta. It was compiled by Ms. Elyea, and Ms. Rains illustrated the book with scenes of old Atlanta homes and public landmarks.

The recipes range from old-fashioned beaten biscuits, which reminded me of my own childhood in Virginia, to a ribsticking corn chowder laced with sherry, crowned chestnuts, and a lavish, hot chicken salad dressed up with mushrooms, almonds and half-a-dozen other ingredients.

"We know that some of President Carter's favorites are included in this book," said Ms. Elyea, "because we talked to his aunt, Emily Dolvin, who is a sister of Miss Lillian."

With President Carter's preferences in mind, I selected this recipe for baked grits souffle from the book.

1 1/2 cups instant grits
4 1/2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
2 (10 1/2-ounce) cans mushroom soup
6 eggs well beaten
2 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese

Williams: We Must Face 'Consolidation'

DICK WILLIAMS

County Commission Chairman Dick Williams said a low-key sales pitch at the Altamonte-Casselberry Chamber of Commerce general membership luncheon meeting Wednesday for limited or full-scale consolidation of the county's multiple jurisdictions.

In a "State of the County" message, Williams used visual aids to detail the county's economic and governmental position, before saying that "presenting the most frustration and delay is duplication of services from separate governmental units with multiple jurisdictions."

"It's a tremendous problem," he said, adding it takes an excessive number of people among the various local governmental units to administer programs. On the county level, Williams said, an "outstanding" management team has been recruited and hand-picked.

He said to unclog the problem of multiple jurisdictions is going to take "gutsy decisions" and that consolidation of services and functions or complete consolidation of governments is "going to have to be looked at and faced."

"For the first time we have an opportunity to plan and act now to anticipate and make the future happen rather than reacting as we have in the past," Williams said.

compared with 141 per cent in the Orange-Seminole-Osceola area and per capita sales locally have increased by 154 per cent compared with the other two counties 83 per cent, Williams said per capita sales is less here than in the region.

He said the statistics made it obvious that Seminole residents are doing a good portion of their buying outside the county.

"Seminole County is not yet where it wants to be economically," Williams said. "However, the average income in Seminole County is higher than any other county in Central Florida except Brevard."

'The State Of The County'

Williams said cooperation between the county and local governments is being increased and expanded, citing as one example renewed activity in the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

"The county commission is unified and headed in the same direction," he said.

During a brief question-and-answer period, Williams said there are several governmental agencies working to attract new industry, naming the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA), the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA), and the Sanford Airport Authority.

But, he said, the real problem is that so many groups are acting separately and unilaterally.

Fry Walnuts For 'Sensational' Snack

One Saturday my friend Margaret Spader, a part-time teacher of Chinese cooking and one of the best food researchers in this country, came to dinner. She brought with her a jar of Chinese fried walnuts she had just made. They were new to me and other guests (all in the food field) as well as to me. One taste of that sensationally good tidbit and we had to know where the recipe came from.

"It's in 'The Good Housekeeping Cookbook,'" Margaret said. "One of Mildred Ying's contributions."

Mildred is associate food director of 'The Good Housekeeping Institute at Good Housekeeping magazine and a marvelously gifted person. Born and raised in China, she came to America when she was college-age to take a degree in home economics. She has a cozy knowledge of both Chinese and American cuisines because she has always drawn on both in preparing meals for her engineer husband, Stephen, and for their two sons, Chris and David, while the boys were growing up.

These days, with Chris and David away at universities, Mildred usually gets dinner only for Stephen and herself — and still varies her cooking. "When Steve sets the table," Mildred says, "he always asks me whether we'll need forks and knives or chopsticks."

When I asked Mildred how fried walnuts were served in China she said, "As a snack. Just a few peanuts might be passed with a drink in the United States, the walnuts might be offered with a cup of tea in China. Some time ago we started serving the walnuts when Good Housekeeping gave afternoon parties and they became so popular that now we always have them on the buffet table. Guests keep asking for the recipe."

When the recipe is followed at Good Housekeeping, walnuts in varied-size pieces, just as they come in 1-pound see-through bags, are used. But you may want to use only walnut halves, as Margaret Spader did when she brought the snack to my house. You can buy walnuts in the shell, crack them yourself and pick out the halves. Here you may be interested in a cracking method demonstrated by Nolan Taylor, a candymaker (non-professional) in Oregon, when he was interviewed recently by 'The Oswego Review.' "He placed a walnut on a steady flat surface, point up, tapped it lightly with a hammer and out came perfect halves."

MILDRED YING'S FRIED WALNUTS
4 cups California walnuts
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1. In large saucepan over high heat, heat 6 cups water to boiling; add walnuts and rinse to boiling; cook 1 minute. Reheat under running hot water; drain.
2. In large bowl, in sugar, toss walnuts.
3. Meanwhile, in electric skillet, heat about 1 inch salad oil to 350 degrees. With slotted spoon, add about half of walnuts to oil; fry 3 minutes or until golden, stirring often.
4. With slotted spoon, place walnuts in coarse sieve over bowl to drain; sprinkle with salt; toss lightly to keep walnuts from sticking together. Transfer to waxed paper to cool. Fry remaining walnuts. Store in tightly covered container. Makes 4 cups. From "The Good Housekeeping Cookbook" edited by Zoe Coulson (Good Housekeeping Books).

Aero-Services Manager Reports To Panel Airport FBO Shows Sales Gains

AERO-SERVICES MANAGER MEL LYONS

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

Figures for fuel sales, flight training and aircraft sales at Sanford-Central Florida Airport showed healthy increases since December of last year, according to Aero-Services Manager Mel Lyons.

And the airport terminal will have a new restaurant operating by August, Airport Manager J. S. Cleveland told the SAA board of directors. The restaurant will be managed by Jerry's Catering Inc. of Miami.

Mel Lyons, general manager of Aero-Services Inc., the airport's fixed-base operator (FBO) provided the glowing statistics. Lyons is part of a management team that took control of Aero last December.

"In all areas, we're moving along," Lyons told the SAA board of directors.

He reported a December-to-January increase of 60 per cent in flight training and a 20 per cent increase in fuel sales. "February's fuel sales are already ahead of sales for last February," Lyons said.

Aero President Gerald Sullivan explained Aero's plans for upgrading the facilities at the airport terminal. Plans include a pilots' lounge and moving Aero's offices from the western to eastern side of the building.

Lyons told the board that Aero is beginning an advertising campaign this month to increase the number of flight training students.

Twenty-five students now take flying lessons at the airport.

There has also been an increase in aircraft sales, Lyons said. Aero has recently enlisted the services of a national aircraft listing service. In addition, "We were just approved for a line of credit of $150,000 with Cessna for new planes."

The general manager said Aero has begun a direct mail advertising campaign to all single-engine aircraft owners in the Sanford-Orlando area promoting the airport's storage, hanger and maintenance facilities.

The campaign has already attracted several new customers, possibly due to recent price increases at Orlando's Herndon Airport, said Lyons.

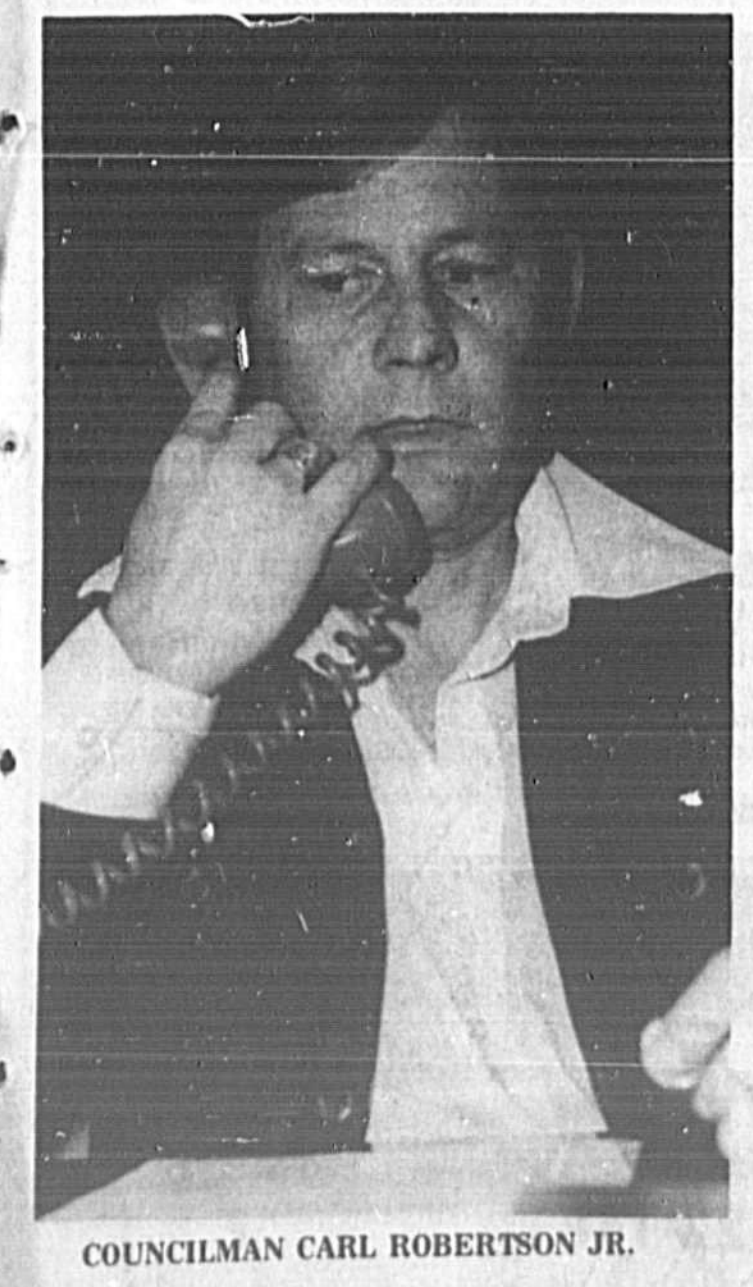

The SAA board approved a month-to-month lease to Aero-Services for the eastern half of Hangar No. 4 for storing corporate aircraft.

The lease, at an annual rate of $8,400, will begin March 1. The facility could house six to eight corporate aircraft, according to airport manager Cleveland.

In other business, Cleveland reported the annual Sanford Air Show will take place April 3-4.

COUNCILMAN CARL ROBERTSON JR.

'The Non-Politicians' Casselberry's Robertson: He's Learning The Ropes

(Second in a series)

Among the first things a non-politician — one inexperienced in the ways of government — learns upon assuming office is that not all information available to officials on any given issue is — or can be — available to the citizens at large. And the second thing he learns is that nothing of any consequence can be accomplished with the rapidity that the man on the street thinks it can.

Carl Robertson Jr., 43, elected to the Casselberry City Council in his first foray into the political arena in December, has been in office four weeks and is learning fast.

"When I ran I didn't feel I could be critical of those in office, because I wasn't in their position. Now that I am on the council I am more informed and know that the citizens are getting only half the information. So, it is hard for citizens to understand how we make the decisions we do," Robertson said.

"It is impossible to give the public all the information we have," he said, referring to the recent award of the city's hospitalization insurance and a change in the employee's insurance coverage.

Displaying a thick stack of documents, showing the in-depth evaluation of bids and coverage and the complicated process involved, Robertson said it not only would not be possible to make all the documents available to individual citizens, but many would not understand the details.

The city council had an insurance adviser work up the information for them.

The documents are available at city hall for those wishing to inspect them.

Robertson ran his campaign on a simple platform stating his opposition to the proposed new city charter and pledging to work toward prevention of increases in property taxes, instituted last year, and to decrease or abolish that tax, if possible.

One of Robertson's colleagues on the council, noting the increased costs of the hospitalization insurance this year, as one example — costs are up $8,000 over a year ago — said the city may find itself in the position of having a tax increase rather than a reduction this year if it isn't careful.

Robertson said, "It concerns me what the property tax level will be 15 years from now. The tax must be estimated, cut or at the least the line held.

"We must use all our resources to get additional revenue for the city. We must look into getting federal grants for Casselberry."

"Another of my goals is to lower the utility taxes to eight per cent," he said.

"I'm learning more by listening than talking," he said, adding that most people are willing to tell their side of the story and one can find how sincere the person talking is simply by listening.

Robertson, a resident of Casselberry for the past two years, doesn't think the job of city councilman will frustrate him. He retired five years ago from the Air Force as a technical Sergeant after 20 years service.

"My military career taught me patience and fortitude," he says. He has no "great ambition to be governor" or going further in politics. "But I like being in government. I love the challenge and the opportunity to meet a lot of people," he said.

Describing himself as a conservative and a registered Democrat, Robertson says he believes the non-partisan designation of city officials is "correct and should be continued."

THOSE WINNING SMILES

Tiffany Cochran (below) of Forest City was all smiles, too, as she held her prize and was hugged by contest director Dr. William Moats of Casselberry who started the smile and poster contests three years ago. Complete winner list, Page 2-A.
