CITY SUBMITS COUNTER PLAN TO BOND MEN

Meeting At City Hall Follows Request Of Finance Agents For Further Conference

Evidencing a change of heart in regard to refinancing Sanford's loaded debt, representatives of the bond houses, who last week notified Mayor Goy, after the Commissioners had turned down their first proposition, that further negotiations would be unnecessary, requested that a meeting be arranged at the City Hall this morning at which time the bond matter again was under discussion for over an hour.

The outcome of the meeting was a tentative proposition, submitted by Commissioner Spicer that the bond houses agree to exchange existing bonds at par, that certificates of indebtedness be issued for one-half the annual interest, payments on the bonded debt, and that the other half be paid semi-annually in cash. It was further suggested that the certificates of indebtedness be payable only after five years and would bear interest at the rate of four per cent.

This proposal came after nearly an hour's discussion in which the bond houses insisted upon the City's ability to pay and the Commissioners denied that more than two hundred thousand annually could be raised for the indebtedness. The representatives compared Sanford to Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood and said as their opinion that Sanford should be able to pay as much as these other cities. The Commissioners took the position that conditions were different.

Engineers Labor To Strengthen Levees

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 20.—(INS)—Although engineers believed there was no immediate danger, the weakened levee at Mound's Landing, 18 miles north of here, was being reinforced today against tons of Mississippi flood waters.

It was announced today that 300 convicts ordered from Parchman prison last night by Governor The Bilbo will not be sent to Mound's Landing because of a government regulation preventing convict labor on federal projects.

Precautions Taken To Prevent Trouble

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 20.—(INS)—Extraordinary precautions were taken today by eight companies of state militia retreating the Carter County stragglers would attempt to start a riot.

Dr. A. McWhorter, president of the American Bombing and Camouflage Association, who was forced to flee his home by a strike of 5,000 employees five weeks ago, was en route to New York for a business conference. He will later go to Baltimore to attend the meeting of the American Navy Association.

Jacksonville Flier Sets Flight Record

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20.—(INS)—A new endurance record for light aircraft was set here today by Louis Yonge, local aviator, who brought his plane, "Holly-Totey" to a landing at 11:05 P. M., after remaining aloft for 36 hours and 55 minutes. The landing was made after the fuel supply had been exhausted. The plane glided to the ground, after establishing a terrific electrical storm which made the flight's task more difficult.

2 DIE, MANY HURT IN PANIC AT BALL PARK IN GOTHAM

Sudden Rain Is Cause Of Mad Rush Toward 2 Inadequate Exits

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—Sixty-two baseball fans, many of them young boys of the free-kick-fueled, tumbled-headed type comprising a large percentage of Babe Ruth's crowd, were injured today in a stampede which followed a sudden cloudburst in the fifth inning of the Yankee-Red Sox game at the Yankee Stadium here yesterday.

Two persons, a young girl and a 60-year-old truck-driver, met instant death when the crowd, scrambling for exits in a moment of wild panic, knocked them down and crushed them against the louvers of the stadium.

Reports from Lincoln Hospital, where the injured were taken, state today that all those hurt are expected to recover, although many were suffering from fractured ribs and broken arms and legs.

The dead were Eleanor Price, 17, a student at Hunter College here, who had taken her "kid" rubber to the game, and Joseph Carter, both met instant death when they were crushed against the louvers of the stadium.

Some 50,000 persons were gathered in the huge bowl when the game was halted because of rain in the first half of the fifth and the score standing 3 to 0 in favor of the Yankees. Suddenly came a down-pouring rain, followed immediately by a deluge which poured rain in the proverbial bucketful over the stadium.

Those in the covered stands merely grumbled, but in the right field bleachers, where one of the exits had been blocked by the proximity to Babe Ruth's ballpark, there was a second of pointed indecision as the crowd came, and then a frenzied rush for the exits.

Youthful Radicals Strive To Prevent Policeman's Parade

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—A band of youthful radicals, calling themselves "the young pioneers of America" tried in vain to break up the parade of 5,000 of New York's finest yesterday.

Hoover Gets "Shiner" On His Fishing Trip

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS)—President Hoover showed up for work today with what is popularly known as a "shiner." While fishing in a mountain stream Saturday in quest of trout, the President slipped on a rock and fell, bruising his eyes on a branch protruding from the water. Despite the ministrations of Dr. Joel T. Boone, who was a member of the fishing party, it became apparent

EXPERT STATES GRAFS MISHAP WAS FINE TEST

Affirms Dirigible Has Been Vindicated As Safest Method Of Trans-Ocean Traffic

ED. NOTE.—Failure of the Graf Zeppelin to go through with its Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst trans-Atlantic flight because of engine casualties does not indicate fundamental airship faults but "actually points out the inherent safety of the dirigible," in the opinion of Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, U. S. Navy, of the Lakehurst naval air station. His views are:

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 20.—First of all it should be remembered that this effort of the Graf Zeppelin is the first and only one of six trans-Atlantic flights attempted by an airship that was not completed, most of which a wholesale engine casualty at the hands of highly skilled personnel is unrecorded in the history of airships and indeed aircraft. Summed up, this flight of the Graf Zeppelin instead of indicating fundamental airship faults, actually points out the inherent safety of this type of craft. Had any other type of carrier suffered a similar loss of four-fifths of its propulsion power the net result could not possibly have been a more successful one in any case than was the safe landing and mooring of the Graf Zeppelin at Toulon without harm to material or personnel.

If we could picture a five-motored airplane, afflicted with failure of four of its motors it is well recognized that in the inevitable event would be its descent wherever it happened to be, and without the chance of a safe landing. Even a steamer similarly afflicted could do no more than to make port and run, control and put its passengers ashore safely.

There is yet insufficient data and information available for judging the motor failures. Difficulties with one motor or even two, could be repaired in a few minutes, and the complete failure of four of five makes it appear unreasonable to ascribe any other than an entirely abnormal cause. There are no more skilled operators of the Maybach engine in the world than the crew of the Graf Zeppelin. Excellent service of this type of engine on many long previous flights including trans-oceanic and intercontinental flights.

Mother of Youth, Missing Here Since Friday, Ill At Home

The sudden disappearance of G. Garth Gray, Jr., son of Dr. Garth Gray, of "Hull" and "Pett" land, public accountant, is causing considerable concern among friends and relatives of the boy who fear that he may be sick or in a hostile condition in some strange city. Young Gray's mother, who has been quite ill since he left Sanford, is particularly worried over his disappearance.

Mr. Gray has been conducting an intense search for his son throughout the state and has enlisted the aid of the Salvation Army and other organizations in an effort to find the boy. He has been in communication with his home. Mr. Gray says that his son, who was only nineteen, has been disabled for some time, and that his only reason for pushing the search was to help the boy secure employment where he would be contented.

Mr. Gray has asked any Sanford persons who might know of his son's whereabouts, or who might discover him in some other city to notify him at once, or to ask the boy to communicate with his home. Mr. Gray says his son has brown hair and brown eyes, is 5 feet 7-1/2 inches tall, weighs about 180 pounds, and when last seen was wearing a gray suit.

STUDENTS KILL BELLY FRANKLIN, TENN., May 20.—(INS)—Funeral services were being attended today for George C. 2 Planes Are Poised For Trans-Atlantic Air Race Between America, France

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—Two airplanes, one American and the other French will begin a trans-Atlantic race to Europe tomorrow or Wednesday, indications are that the American will start.

The daring aviators who will brave the perils of the Atlantic in the quest for fame, that Charles A. Lindbergh began two years ago today are Roger Q. Williams, the American; and Jean Assolant, Rene LeFevre and Rouvenot Lott, of France.

Williams will be accompanied by Lewis Yancy, chief pilot and navigator, and Kenneth Boescker, mechanic engineer of the Wright Company.

Williams and his crew planned to hop from the airport at Teterboro, N. J. today or tomorrow in the "Green Flash," their Hellanca plane for Old Orchard, Me. They intend to hop off from Old Orchard for about the same time that the Frenchmen plan to leave Roosevelt Field, Long Island, for Paris.

The Frenchmen had planned to hop across the Atlantic in a morning, but postponed their hop because of unfavorable weather reports. Williams was to have piloted the Home from Roosevelt Field to Rome last summer, but Cesar Sabelli and Pierre Kiehl, leading lights in the project, became involved in a law suit and the race did not start.

U. S. WILLING TO SCALE DOWN BILL AGAINST BERLIN

George H. Hoopes, International News Service, WASHINGTON, May 20.—As a contribution to the settlement of Europe's reparations problem, which has been the world's chief economic stumbling block since the war, the United States Government is willing to scale down somewhat and to defer collection of a bill against Germany.

A plan already has been worked out by the Treasury and in a general way, approved. Having accepted the principle, the details must be worked out, but Owen D. Young in Paris has been authorized by the Treasury to "go along" with the other reparations plan that promises to remove the reparations bogey from the pathway of European recovery.

A note was dispatched to Paris last night after President Hoover had conferred with congressional leaders, advising that this government was prepared to make some concessions along with the reparations plan. An accord might be reached.

Under the treasury plan, it was said today that the concessions this government is willing to make, will cost the Treasury only about $20,000,000 of the total amount of claims against Germany. American claims against Germany amounting as compared with those of France, England, Belgium and Italy—approximately $250,000,000 for maintaining American troops on the Rhine after the armistice, and (2) claims by American nationals for damages inflicted by German nationals during hostilities. These latter claims are now being compiled and adjusted by the mixed claims commission. Already some $175,000,000 have been certified and paid for payment, and the work is not completed.

Work To Begin On Installation Of 2 New Motors For Graf Zeppelin

TOULON, France, May 20.—(INS)—Work was to begin today on the installation of two new motors in the trans-Atlantic dirigible "Graf Zeppelin" in order that the great ship may return to Friedrichshafen, Germany for a complete overhauling before taking off again for Lakehurst, New Jersey.

EXTRA GUARDS PROTECT LIFE OF LINDBERGH

Widespread Rumors Of Threats Against Airborne Out By Emergency Measure

By James P. Smith, International News Service, Special Correspondent, NORTH HAVEN, Me., May 20.—Widespread reports of threats made by mail against the life of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, were apparently borne out today by emergency measures to increase the already heavy guard surrounding the Morrow summer place where America's best known flier and his wealthy bride-to-be are sojourning.

A call for volunteer constables and deputies was broadcast, and North Haven justices were prepared to swear in the new officers with a minimum of red tape. It was admitted that the squad of 20 or more special policemen, at present doing duty, was to be augmented at once.

Officially, the town fathers knew "nothing about it." "Have you heard of it?" said Selectman Herman Crockett. "Must be just a rumor."

"But you and the other selectmen were at the Morrow cottage."

"Yes, but what of it?" "We discussed plans for more guards."

"Now, I tell you I know nothing about it."

"That's nobody's business. That's all." The defendants of the Lindbergh-Morrow piracy and peace were well aware today they had a job on their hands, death threats or on death threats.

2 College Students Die In Motor Wreck

LEXINGTON, Va., May 20.—(INS)—A student's motor trip in National Bridge had a tragic ending late Sunday, when an automobile laden turtle near here, colliding with Washington and Lee students and injuring four others.

The Monday morning docket facing Municipal Judge W. E. White brought only two arrests before his Honor, two of which were dismissed, one continued, and $50.00 fine being levied on the last.

Rail Stocks Soar As Court Writ Assures Enhanced Revenues

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—Railroad stocks were ready to burst through the roof today when the Supreme Court's decision in the O'Fallon Railroad case completely vacated the Interstate Commerce Commission's order and to affect a $15,000,000 victory to the railroads of the United States. The Supreme Court's decision puts two billion dollars more of gross revenue annually into the railroad coffers. The market was in the dumps a short time before the decision was ready to come over the wires. When it was known that the highest court in the land would not sanction the commerce commission's method of compiling railroad valuation, brokers crowded in to buy the railroad shares and prices shot up sharply.

RAILROADS GAIN HUGE VICTORY IN COURT DECISION

Supreme Court Order Puts 2 Billion More In Gross Revenues

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS)—The railroads won a sweeping victory in the so-called "fifteen billion dollar railroad valuation case" today when the Supreme Court overruled the Interstate Commerce Commission's method of valuing the St. Louis and O'Fallon Railroad.

Although O'Fallon is a small railroad, every system in the country is affected. Experts have estimated that there is a difference of fifteen billion dollars or more between the railroad and commission theories of valuation, involving a potential difference in freight rates of $2,000,000,000 a year.

Justice McReynolds, who read the majority opinion, said the court had one major question to decide: did the commission take into consideration reproduction cost of the O'Fallon Railroad in fixing its value?

The commission did not do this and therefore its order must be vacated, he said.

Justice McReynolds issued a word of caution in his opinion, however. He said the commission might probably value some railroads below the cost of reproduction, and the commission had failed to do this.

Senate, House Break Over Debenture Plan

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS)—First conference between representatives of the House and Senate over the new farm bill broke up today in complete disagreement over the export debenture plan.

The house conferees announced at the outset that they could not accept the provision which the Senate added to the bill over President Hoover's opposition. The Senate conferees stood by the debenture under specific instructions from the upper branch. For an hour, the two groups debated the plan, which a Democratic-insurgent coalition declared was necessary to insure economic equality for agriculture.

SHERIFF MUM ON DETAILS OF LOCAL MURDER

3 Days Have Elapsed Since Crime Discovery With Solution, If Any, Held Secret

With three days having elapsed since the finding of the badly decomposed body of T. J. Murff, local merchant, in the woods on the Paola road about five miles west of Sanford, no definite information or solution to the mystery has been forthcoming from the offices of Sheriff J. F. McClelland who has been conducting an intensive investigation into the affair.

Two arrests were made on Saturday afternoon which resulted in the lodging in jail of James A. Sands, plumber, and his wife, and J. A. Nettles, truck driver, and his wife. They are being held for questioning and have been in the County jail since late Saturday afternoon.

A preliminary hearing to have been held this afternoon was postponed until tomorrow, E. F. Heusholder, representing Mr. Sands, Millard Smith, Sands' attorney, agreeing on the delay. Several important clues which are being investigated further necessitated the postponement. No charges have been preferred as of this time against any of them and no statement has been issued by them.

According to information, Mr. Murff was known to have been on a party staged by the quartet some time Tuesday night. Near midnight Tuesday, Mr. Sands and Mr. Nettles are said to have driven to the Sands home accompanied by Mr. Murff and their wives, where the women retired. The three men then came to town and lunched at a restaurant. Mr. Murff left them later and is not known to have been seen again until the discovery of his body on Friday afternoon. It is also known that Sands and Nettles talked with officer Gleason, on duty on First Street, at about 2:30 Wednesday morning. Nothing has been gleaned from the suspects as to their complicity in the affair, no direct charges having been made which would bring statements from any of them which might be helpful.

Much speculation and many rumors are current on the streets as to the connection between Mr. Murff's disappearance and the party at which he last appeared. The sheriff's office has nothing to offer which would clarify the situation at this time until the preliminary hearing tomorrow before County Judge James G. Sharon, the matter is still unsolved.

Chinese Forces Are Preparing For Fray

LONDON, May 20.—(INS)—Open hostilities between President Chiang Kai-Shek and Marshal Feng-Yu-Hsiang, warlord of Central China, are imminent, dispatches from China indicated today. Marshal Feng has sent a heated reply to the ultimatum of President Chiang, which demanded an immediate explanation of Feng's blocking of the Peking-Hankow Railway and the firing upon nationalist troops in Hunan.

In his reply, Feng charges that Chiang is presently "quartering government reconstruction funds, and 'exploiting the office of president to attain personal ends.' Both sides are speeding military preparations. Feng is withdrawing his troops into Hunan and Shenai Provinces, and is reported to have blown up 13 bridges en route. Feng's army is poorly equipped but well disciplined. The Nanking government charges he is allied with the Soviet government.

The Value Of The Automobile

The recent announcement by the bureau of good roads at Washington that there are now some 1,000,000 registered automobiles in the United States comes not as a matter of surprise to those who have tried to negotiate, without serious casualties, some of the main streets of our larger cities. But when we consider that twenty years ago the automobile was regarded as something of a curiosity, it is astonishing that so many cars could have been built, much less sold and delivered.

With these 21,000,000 automobiles it is entirely possible to move by auto transportation the entire population of the United States (120,000,000) at one time. Going on the assumption that the average family consists of five members, it would seem that every family in the United States owns its own motor car. Statistics indicate, however, that only sixty percent of our families own cars, and twenty percent own two or more.

What the development of the automobile from a luxury to a necessity has meant to business, stock owners in General Motors are not alone in being able to say. It is not the maker of the automobile alone which has profited. It is the road contractor, the engine and cement factories, the oil men, those who are in a position to say what the automobile industry means. Almost every living soul who queries any kind of business whatever, can thank motor transportation for increased sales.

The bureau of good roads estimates that forty-five million persons will take to the highways this summer. When their vacation time comes, they will pack their grips and their golf clubs, round up their children and pile them all into the tonneau of the family touring car and set out. destination probably unknown, to spend two weeks or a month exploring the mountains and valleys, the river sides and the lake shores, the country districts and the city thoroughfares of our country. Over three and one-half billion (not million) dollars, it is estimated, will be spent in this manner.

Hotels and restaurants, of course, will get a large share of these dollars. But the merchants will profit too for the whole family will need something new to wear before it gets out. And curio shops, amusement places and hot dogs stands will come in for their share. In fact, most of that three and one-half billion will go to businesses other than the automobile and allied industries.

It seems that the automobile has been a wonderful benefit in more ways than one.

Have A Heart

False teeth have reached such a degree of commonplace that one is no longer horrified when an after-dinner speaker removes his plate before continuing his remarks. Glass eyes are almost equally as well known, especially among bankers. False arms, legs, and hair are familiar to everyone, while platinum plates for the skull are not unknown.

But it has remained for Dr. O. S. Gibbs of Duhonville University to win the sterling silver golf balls for the longest drive into the realm of physiological experimentation. For over six months Dr. Gibbs has been working with the species of feline and has at last succeeded, after innumerable failures in constructing a rubber heart which functioned with a reasonable degree of satisfaction, for a few minutes.

Dr. Gibbs began his experiments, it is said, while studying the effect of drugs up the circulatory system, but when considering the section apart from the heart, it was found that the latter eventually were out under the strain of the poison used and the experiment was necessarily terminated before the first effect on the veins and arteries could be ascertained.

So the rubber heart was devised upon, and a contraption was built consisting of a double action pump, with electrical equipment installed to operate it. A well built cast iron casting was selected and the work of heart substitution begun. Within five minutes the old heart had been removed and the new one installed and the study of the effect of drugs on the circulatory system was begun. The rubber heart functioned perfectly for several hours and then the cat suddenly died.

So persons suffering with endocarditis can begin to take heart. It probably will not be long until science will have reached that point of development where even the most heartless can be saved. More than likely people will soon be going around with pumps attached to the outside of their bodies very much the same as they now use car trumpets and spectacles.

OUR TARIFF RATES SAFE

The House in the Senate, upon final passage of the tariff bill, is further evidence that the tariff is safe. The bill is a masterpiece of legislation, and it is almost too comprehensive, even for a man's eyes.

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

Come, let us lay a crazy lance in rest.

Pastor Lincoln, Sec. of the Jacksonville, has joined forces with James P. Bickers of St. Petersburg to take a campaign of terror and a sturdy guard of honor. When Bickers was flung by a band of ruffians his case aroused sympathy and indignation of the state. When the Council, his friend, advised him to stick to his gun, as a continuation of the vicious elements supported the flagging Florida.

But some men are not sufficiently equipped in dignity or sense of proportion for crusading and Messrs. McKinnell and Bickers seem to be among the leftest number. Their handiwork in heretofore has been too unbounded in process in any other direction than the lightning. Their charges have been wide and wide for any other purpose than stage play. They have made a comedy of crime, a travesty of courage.

This paper regrets to learn that Governor Carlton's life was endangered from the elements on which McKinnell and Bickers were waiting their crime opera.

William J. Haney, recent Republican candidate for governor of Florida, has been made a director of the Bankers' National Life Insurance Company. Mr. Haney seems to have established a precedent that when good Republicans do, politically they go into the insurance business.

For better or worse, the most interesting personality in the Florida Legislature today is Senator Edgar Whigham of Duval County. Fascinating of mind, elegant of speech, capable of a measure of boldness, the confidence in the belly of his hand. When a man like Whigham can do it, what will the forces of evil be accomplishing? What he can do if he is not stopped.

It is not in his mind to deny that he is a politician, but he is a politician of the new political era in Florida. The two party political struggle which has been dying, he can outlive it if he will.

As in every respect in the Tampa Tribune, editorial, defense of Florida's constitutional provisions against inheritance and income taxes, its single flaw is the contention that the abrogation of these provisions would be an act of bad faith. To prohibit a thing in perpetuity, as income and inheritance taxes were prohibited here, is morally beyond the right of one era to another. The people of Florida are sovereign and their sovereignty is continuous.

We need only to have looked at the program of our potentialities, reported President Hoover's Committee on Recent Economic Changes. Economically, we have a boundless field before us; there are new wants which will make way for new wants, and that as they are satisfied, the picture of infinite economic prosperity for America is painted only by the ability of Americans property to improve and distribute their economic capabilities and to translate their economic income into cultural and spiritual equivalents.

AFTER HIT-AND-RUN DRIVERS

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

A bill in the Florida legislature that would impose a fine or imprisonment upon the "hit-and-run" automobile driver is deserving of unanimous commendation. Multiplication of motor vehicles everywhere has given cause for an increasing number of accidents, and it is shameful to say that the lists so frequently include reports of persons and property being struck and then left "on a run" by the parties causing the trouble. Senator Young proposed to change from a misdemeanor to a felony the offense of striking down a person or property.

In the senate Monday the Young bill was passed unanimously. It would mean something to motorists. Too often in the past the "hit-and-run" driver has been directly responsible for serious accidents on the roads and streets and succeeded in getting away and avoiding any penalty for their misconduct. It took quite a while for the public to realize that there were many drivers either such arrogant cowards or so hardened individuals as to confess to suffering they had caused with out attempt to ameliorate it. The idea is revolting to the majority; it was hard to believe that a driver could crash into a car and leave victims lying on the roadside to their fate, without even an effort to help them. But over and over again such a story is told. A car crashes into a full and vivid demonstration of the trouble wrought in view, and dashes on. A few jail sentences would prove a valuable lesson to the motoring public when the identification of the "hit-and-run" driver is established.

Some men are not sufficiently equipped in dignity or sense of proportion for crusading and Messrs. McKinnell and Bickers seem to be among the leftest number. Their handiwork in heretofore has been too unbounded in process in any other direction than the lightning. Their charges have been wide and wide for any other purpose than stage play. They have made a comedy of crime, a travesty of courage.

SALT VS. FRESH WATER

DELAND NEWS

Senators county's delegation in the house of representatives, so it is understood, are sponsors of a bill which would declare the St. Johns river salt water from its mouth in Lake Hartney. It has been the law the St. Johns river, as far as the fishing is concerned, would be under the rules and regulations as set forth in salt water river and laws of the state. This would undoubtedly be a chosen reason on salt water fish which are not found in the rivers from Avila south. The bill would be a permanent one. At the present time, St. Johns river has been declared to be salt water up to the Volusia side of Lake George. It was proposed to change the law and have the supposed "salt water" back where it belongs, as north of Deland.

Now the people of this section are vitally interested in this legislation. They have fought for years to preserve for themselves and posterity the greatest black bass fishing in the world. They have seen year after year, the supply of bass diminished. They have seen, moreover, attracted to this section by stories of past successes with rod and reel, returned to their respective homes empty-handed and disappointed.

"THE SINGING BELLS"

INDIANAPOLIS STAR

The anticipation of thousands of Indianapolis citizens will be realized next Sunday afternoon in the first concert of the Scottish Lute choir, the singing body in the tower of the order's imposing cathedral. In a program marked by reverence and simplicity, the bells will respond to the artist's call of Antoinette, the noted Belgian contralto, who came to Indianapolis to give semi-weekly concerts during the month. This rare treat is made possible through the generosity of Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur R. Baxter, donors of the cathedral.

With the exception of the cathedral itself, one of the most striking bits of architecture in the entire world, nothing has created more public interest than the building of the magnificent structure will be largely for the gratification of the membership. The bells, however, form a connecting link with the public, carrying their usual beauties to all within range.

It is fitting that the first notes should sound on the hazy air of a Sunday afternoon in May, and that the first to respond to the master's touch, will be the huge five-and-a-half-ton bell dedicated "to the glory of the grand architect of the universe."

The country has heard much of the nation's first work on the local cathedral organ, chiefly of the bells in the Bok high sanctuary tower in Florida, dedicated in the presence of President Coolidge. Under Indianapolis folk need only to inquire of public school pupils to learn more of the history and the development of the bells during a period of four centuries. The cathedral has formed an important part of the study in the last year, and they have the background for the

SENTIMENT WITH CARLTON

DAYTONA BEACH HERALD

Riding the crest of a rapidly crystallized tide of sentiment that is State-wide in scope and almost unfeeling in depth and strength the first of the Administration's series of tax reform bills has cleared the House and is moving on to the Senate backed by a vote of sufficient magnitude to impress all who are not actually blind to the wishes of the people. Support thrown to the first of the Governor's bills which are aimed at reforming the State's taxing system, has been accepted in well informed quarters as an indication of victory for the one time to follow in the path blazed through the house by the first one offered.

The Herald is pleased with the manner in which the lower branch of the Assembly, Messrs. H. P. Perry and Lee S. Dey, threw their support to the bill. This was in keeping with the expressed wishes of their constituents and in its final analysis represents the only plan whereby our government continues as an instrument for, and of, the people, the only type that is Jeffersonian in nature and in fact.

We have listened in the ranks of the opposition over many weary weeks yet in all the argument that has been advanced we have seen a tinge of disgruntled bitterness or selfish motives, neither of which should have any place in a broad scheme for State development. None of us realize better than the Governor the precarious position of the State in this respect and it is foolish to

SCHOOLS AND SCHOOLMEN

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS-JOURNAL

An encouraging feature of proposed legislation for the betterment of our school system in Florida is the indicated tendency toward enlisting trained personnel in school government and finance. Messengers now pending are based on findings of the recent school survey. There is to be a bill to provide an expert to supervise school architecture; there is to be a bill to provide an expert to supervise school finance; there is to be a bill to provide an expert to supervise school maintenance.

The idea of enrolling men in these important undertakings who have included in each work which he should do in the school government. It has been the custom in America to have a school board to select trustees or directors, but in some cases of all classes of citizens except from experienced school principals and teachers. In practically every case the school board is an advisory body, and in many cases it is a mere rubber stamp.

The trouble with our school system is that it is not being run as a business. It is being run as a hobby. It is being run as a charity. It is being run as a joke. It is being run as a farce. It is being run as a tragedy. It is being run as a comedy. It is being run as a farce. It is being run as a tragedy. It is being run as a comedy.

HE COULDN'T Desert His Wife's Dower Rights

A man deserted his wife and died in a distant city, two years later. When his identity became known, an investigation disclosed that he had operated extensively in real estate, buying and selling in his own name property worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

For obvious reasons he had concealed this fact from his wife. The wife through counsel subsequently recovered her dower claim, and the numerous owners and lenders of thousands of dollars.

Special music was rendered by the choir. At the evening hour, our Baptist friends joined in a number of old songs. Brother Mathison stated that the way should be a happy one rather than sad, declaring that "the happiest of all memories are the old home and mother." He concluded by declaring that "our mothers themselves both here and there would have us smile rather than weep." Among the songs which were rendered were: "Old Folks at Home, Silvery Threads among the Gold, Home Sweet Home, Nearer My God to Thee, The Old Time Religion, When You and I Were Young Maggie, My Old Kentucky Home and We're Bound for the Promised Land."

The children gave "Guess Who," "My Mother's Rosary" and "Baby Shoes" as chorus songs. Lullabies gave the little ones their due place in the home pictures of the evening. Among those were "Go to Sleep My Baby," and "Dollies Lullaby." The orchestra gave several numbers and solos were rendered.

Schools Should Offer Courses for Singers

Doris Daniels Antoinette Halstead

Because They Do Not, Talent is Wasted

New York City.—Many women who have good voices, know music and might have earned a profitable living as singers, are working as stenographers and bookkeepers simply because they were never given the opportunity to learn the technical principles of singing.

This is the statement of Antoinette Halstead, who with Doris Daniels, makes up one of Broadway's most popular duet specialties.

"Every industrial and business school should have a singing course in its curriculum, and teach it in the same business-like manner that they teach book-keeping or manufacturing," says Miss Halstead. "A girl who is musically inclined has the right to demand from her community's educational system the same technical training that is given the girl who is good at figures or dress designing.

Learn Fundamentals

"When children enter school, they should be taught the fundamentals of music instead of simply singing patriotic songs for ten minutes in the morning. The teaching of music should be given the same status as the teaching of mathematics, instead of being thrown in with the first drill."

"Jeanette, I Dream of Lilac Time," by Nathaniel Shilkret, is one of the outstanding contributions to musical advancement. It opens up an entirely new field in musical interpretation of motion pictures, and it marks the first all-American interpreted picture. This should have been accomplished long ago, but so few of our musicians have the proper training and background."

Miss Halstead secured her own training in Rome, New York, where she was a choir organist. Miss Daniels, born in Council Bluffs, Iowa, has studied in Italy and has sung in opera in Milan.

Actors Strike This Summer Is Seen As Producers' Menace

Warner Brothers Hear That Action Is Being Contemplated Soon

(Copyright 1936 By International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—K Midsummer may find the motion picture business—America's fifth largest industry—paralyzed by a general strike of actors.

This prediction was made yesterday by International News Service today by Albert Warner, general manager of the Warner Brothers Company, one of the largest producing organizations in the motion picture field.

The strike, according to Warner, will be precipitated by the desire of the Actor's Equity Association to compel the producers of motion pictures to employ only equity actors and to enter into an agreement with the actors similar to the working treaty in force between stage producers and the men and women who enact their plays.

The equity association, according to information in Warner's possession, plans to issue an ultimatum to the film producer some time early in June.

This ultimatum will constitute a demand that the producers meet equity requirements in the employment of actors and other matters pertaining to the production of motion pictures—something which the producers have steadfastly refused to do ever since the movies assumed a position of importance in the entertainment world.

The producers, Warren said, will refuse to comply with the equity demands and the result will be that equity will order a walkout.

"I can't see what we shall do in the event of a strike," Warner said "but you can rest assured that neither the Warner Brothers nor other producers will meet the equity demands. We are strongly in favor of 'open shop' conditions in the film industry."

A likelihood of the strike, being a long drawn out affair with neither side willing to give in is seen in the fact that equity now occupies a stronger position in the film industry than ever before. The advent of talking pictures is responsible for this state of affairs, it is said.

With the increasing popularity of sound pictures, legitimate actors of the Broadway stage have been lured to the "talkies" in ever increasing numbers. At the present time, it is estimated, there are fully 2,500 former stage players in the movie ranks.

The great majority of these movie recruits are equity members steeped in equity principles and it is assumed that they will "stand behind" their union in the event of a strike.

A number of years ago, equity attempted to induce film players to join its ranks, but the producer, broke up the movement.

Presbyterians To Enjoy Hospitality During June Meetings

WINTER PARK, Fla., May 20.—Young people of the Presbyterian Church of Florida are to enjoy the facilities of Rollins College for a period of eighteen days in June according to an announcement made today by President Hamilton Holt who said that the Seventh Presbyterian Young People's Conference would convene at Rollins on June 15 and continue through the 28th.

The 15th will be preceded, June 11-17 by the First Florida Presbyterian Conference for pastors, whose delegates will be limited to the ages of 16, 18, and 17.

President Holt said that Mr. A. J. Coshley, Director of Religious Education for the Synod of Florida would be in charge of these conferences and that the buildings, library, and the water sports facilities of Rollins College would be loaned to the young Presbyterians for their annual gathering.

Among the leaders who will be present to conduct courses in Christian education are the Rev. J. Mercer Blain of Hangehore, China, Dr. E. D. Brownlee of Sanford, Rev. E. N. DADDY BROWNING FACES TROUBLE BY FORMER WIFE

"Peaches" Threatens To "Gum" Sale Of Ex-Spouse's Property

NEW YORK, May 20.—"Peaches" Browning, the separated wife of the famous "elderly man," Edward W. ("Daddy") Browning, had ruffled up her elderly ex-husband no little today. For, it was borne home to him, she will insist upon getting her share of his millions.

No sooner had "Daddy" announced that he plans to sell some $6,000,000 worth of his real estate holdings than her lawyer, Daniel F. Cahalan, got busy. He declared today that "Daddy" still owes "Peaches" her dower rights, suit for which is pending, and that whoever buys Browning's 60 per cent of property will be liable to pay "Peaches" one-third of the income on the places for the rest of her life.

"She'll not get any one-third of my property," declared "Daddy" with some heat today. He declined to comment on a new report that he had made "Peaches" a compromise dower offer of $400,000 and that she had indignantly refused it.

Sale of the property, "Daddy" said, is part of a move to transform his entire estate, which he estimated at $35,000,000 into cash, most of which he will leave to establish an Edward W. Browning foundation for charity.

He denied that purchasers of the parcels of property he will offer at auction June 11 at Madison Square Garden have any little complications to fear from "Peaches' threat.

Discussing his foundation for charity, Browning said he has already arranged for $12,000,000 to be used to establish "sunshine playrooms," plentifully equipped with toys, in hospitals and homes all over the country.

EXTRA GUARDS PROTECT LIFE OF LINDBERGH

As official spokesmen for the village, Selectmen Leon Stone, Herman Crockett and George F. Lewis called at the Morrow cottage.

They have a message at last to the neighborhood. They have discussed the plans of the special police force.

Lindbergh and the Morrows yesterday elected to stay indoors during the cold rain. Just as darkness set in, with the rain still falling in torrents, the Morrow beach wagon with Anne at the wheel swung out past the garage at the Morrow estate. One photographer trailed the party for four miles but all attempts to get abreast of the beach wagon failed, Anne outwitting the pursuing automobile.

The chase ended at the dead-end in front of the home of the superintendent of the Morrow estate.

Nearly 100 persons stood in the rain for an hour outside the community church here at each service on Sunday hoping to catch a glimpse of Lindy and Anne. It was, understood, however, that both heard the church services by radio.

The "official spokesmen" of the Morrows appeared in the role of a very mysterious character. No one knew his name, his occupation or his connection with the Morrow family. He met the newspapermen and women, informed them that the Morrow family disliked the siege made by the photographers and wanted to know what was wanted. The "official spokesman" later telephoned to the village that "there would be no pictures."

Speculation as to whether the marriage of Lindbergh and Miss Morrow would take place here was still underway today, but no application for a license, as far as could be learned, had been made at the town clerk's office. Some still support the theory that the Morrows had been flown here from New York by Lindbergh, in his amphibian plane, and would stay here until the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J., was put into shape for the wedding. But one guess seemed as good as another.

GRAFF'S MISHAP WAS FINE TEST

That the Graf Zeppelin with only one motor remaining in operation was able to remain under sufficient control to select a suitable port and land without harm, unmistakably points out a fundamental factor of safety in point in the airship. Of course great praise is due Dr. Eckner and his crew for making the most of his available resources and to the French who rendered such timely and efficient response to the situation.

That the ship was in a serious predicament is not disputed but it appears that at least some of the sensational reports of its plight are exaggerated. For example, reports contain a statement of a "drift" of 45 degrees. Airships do not list. Undoubtedly a "drift" of 45 degrees was meant but it is not at all uncommon for airships and airships to be off-set from their headings by such amounts. Furthermore, angles of inclination such a large airship takes in landing are generally overestimated by the casual observer.

Along this line there sometimes appear statements to the effect that airships simply because of their greater area are more at the mercy of the wind in flight than are the much smaller airplanes. This is more or less popular misconception on the part of those who have not looked into the situation closely. The influence of wind currents on aircraft is a simple mathematical relation dependent upon the relative speeds and directions of the aircraft and their current. An airship and an airplane each flying on the same aircraft at the same "air speed" would each be affected by the same amount. The leviathan and a motorboat each running at the same speed in an ocean current would have their courses and speeds over the ground influenced to the same degree.

An airplane cruising at the same low speed in the same direction as the Graf Zeppelin would have drifted the same amount as the ship, except, of course that it is utterly impossible for an airplane to remain aloft at such a low speed. Whatever may have been the cause of the motor mishap...

"DON'T ABUSE CREDIT"

"IT'S PRIVILEGES ARE PRICELESS"

"Your're off to a good start my boy, your name is good with any merchant in town, they know you'll pay your bills. See that it is always kept so; the privileges of credit are priceless and there is no telling when you are going to need it and need it bad."

Good advice from a man who knows. He knows that the man who does not pay his bills when due, robs himself of the credit privilege, ruins his reputation and eventually loses his own self respect.

Your grocer and doctor, furniture, hardware dealer must be paid, for they too, have bills to pay, like you. The garoline for your car must be paid for by the service station dealer—what is he going to do if YOU don't pay him? And so it goes with an endless number of commodities . . . drugs when you are sick, tires for your car—just what would you do without credit?

Be certain to guard your credit privileges jealously . . . there may be a time when you'll need credit urgently.

COSMOPOLITAN CORN

THE word "corn," specifically applied in this country, refers to "Indian corn" or maize. It is native to tropical America and was used as food by the Indians centuries before the era of Columbus, and probably even by the civilization which antedated the Red Man.

In the early days of the English colonies, corn was not confined to yellow and white ears, with an occasional red variation, as it is today. Though yellow and white were even then the most common, they were interspersed with red, blue, olive, greenish, black, variegated, speckled and striped ears. Today its consumption has become so universal in this country that this grain can fairly be called cosmopolitan, and practically all of it is packed in sanitary enamel lined cans.

Corn is lower in protein than wheat and oats, but it is fully equal in that respect to other grains and it surpasses many in the proportion of fat and oil. The starch of corn, its main food component, is of excellent quality, and it lends itself to combinations with so many other foods that it has been called by many first-aid to the housewife.

With Meats and Fish

There are many combinations, for instance, of corn with meat and fish. Here are some recipes which will undoubtedly suggest more:

Corn Chowder: Dice and fry one-fourth pound bacon; add one small onion and one green pepper, sliced, and continue sautéing until brown. Add four cups of diced boiled potatoes, and allow them to fry until slightly browned. Add one 1/2 can of corn, five cups milk, two and one-fourth teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, bring to scalding, and serve. This recipe will make sufficient chowder for ten people.

Hamburg and Corn Scramble: Sauté one medium chopped onion in two tablespoons butter a few minutes, add three-quarters of a pound of Hamburg steak, and stir until well browned. Add one 1/2 can of corn, two teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and heat. This will serve eight.

Corn and Salmon Pudding: Mix one 1/2 can of corn, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one small can of salmon and one tablespoon heavy cream or evaporated milk in the foregoing order, being careful not to break up the salmon too finely. Bake in a buttered baking dish in a moderate oven (350° F.) thirty minutes. This, too, will serve eight.

With Fresh Vegetables

Canned corn combines excellently with fresh vegetables that are in season. Here are some sample recipes:

Escalloped Corn and Eggplant: Sauté one medium chopped green pepper, two eggplant chopped plantains and one-half a medium eggplant, diced (about three cups) in three tablespoons butter until slightly browned. Add one 1/2 can of corn, one cup of thin cream or rich milk, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, and pour into buttered casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs, and bake, covered. Remove cover at last to brown the crumbs. This recipe will serve from six to eight.

Crustless Corn Supper: Simmer one 1/2 can of corn, one-half cup celery, a slice of onion and two cups of water together for twenty minutes. Rub through a strainer into two cups of thin white sauce, and season lightly. Just before serving add one slightly beaten egg mixed with one cup of cream, and heat in a double boiler. Serve in shallow egg with a quantity of whipped cream on top. Serves eight.
