Police seek doctor's killer

NEW YORK City officials Monday were offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the capture of the killer of a pregnant pathologist found beaten to death and possibly raped in her laboratory office at historic Bellevue Hospital.

Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward assigned a team of 40 detectives to the case, and officials declared the investigation the city's No. 1 police priority.

We don't want doctors looking over their shoulders in fear, Mayor Edward Koch said at a hospital news conference with Ward and other officials. People in the hospital are frightened doctors and patients.

Minor quake rattles Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. A minor earthquake shook the Las Vegas Valley Sunday night, and hundreds of citizens called emergency services with reports of swaying buildings and heavy rattling.

A spokesman at the Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said the quake, a 2.7 on the Richter scale, was recorded in Nevada, Las Vegas and measured 1.5 on the Richter scale. It was recorded at 8:05 p.m. EDT.

Police reported no property damage. The underground Nellis Air Force Base Command post said the quake was felt at a program military base.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

FLORIDA BRIEFS

No winner in Lotto game

TALLAHASSEE — Nobody matched all six winning numbers in this week's Lotto drawing, so the grand prize jackpot estimate rises to $18 million as the Florida Lottery marks its first anniversary this week.

The lottery is still waiting to hear from one of the five New Year's Eve Lotto jackpot winning ticket holders. Four tickets — two from Largo newlyweds John and Sherry Mitrovic, one from Don Wallace of Ormond and one from Noonan E. Ross of Ocoee — have been turned in for prizes of $6.3 million each. The fifth winning ticket, sold in Lake Park, has not been turned in.

The winning Lotto numbers for this week are 2, 3, 27, 34, 40 and 47. Although no one won the $8 million Lotto jackpot, more than 284,000 winners matched three, four or five numbers to win smaller prizes.

- 149 winners matched five numbers to win $7,930.
- 11,714 winners matched four numbers to win $147.50.
- 273,474 winners matched three numbers to win $6.

Haitian refugees intercepted

MIAMI — The Coast Guard intercepted a 35-foot sailboat jammed with 193 Haitian refugees Sunday, marking the third time in three days authorities have halted boatloads of illegal immigrants trying to enter the United States.

Authorities were at a loss to explain the sudden surge. "Everyone's trying to get in. We just can't explain it," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Luis Diaz.

The Coast Guard cutter Dauntless intercepted the overcrowded boat Sunday morning about 550 miles southeast of Miami in the Windward Passage, which flows between Haiti and Cuba.

Three of the passengers were unconscious and were revived by Coast Guard crewmen, Diaz said. The cause of their illness was unknown, though Diaz said the heat and cramped conditions may have caused them to pass out.

Immigration agents interviewed the Haitians aboard the Dauntless and determined that they were "economic refugees" attempting to enter the United States without proper documents, Diaz said.

They were to be returned to Haiti aboard the Dauntless, which was due to arrive in Port Au Prince Monday, he said. By agreement with the Haitian government, Haitian refugees intercepted at sea are returned to their homeland.

HRS investigates deadly nursing home

DADE CITY — The retirement home where two elderly residents were beaten to death New Year's Day may have violated state guidelines against overcrowding, a published report said Sunday.

There were 10 residents in the four-bedroom, two-bathroom home at the time, though the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services had licensed it for seven, the Tampa Tribune reported.

HRS is investigating the Reflections I adult congregate living facility. The investigators said that while the home had problems, most were minor and none seem related to the bloodbath.

A resident, 88-year-old Henry Thomas, has been charged with two counts of first-degree murder. He is accused of beating two residents to death with his wooden cane and seriously injuring four others.

One of the slaying victims, 90-year-old Max Nickburg, was suffering from senility and had angered Thomas by taking his things, according to reports.

Thomas, Nickburg and another man shared a 9-by-10-foot room, half the size HRS requires for three.

HRS spokeswoman Elaine Fulton Jones said the investigation is standard, and that Reflections has a good reputation.

"It looks like somebody snapped and committed an act of random violence, or maybe not so random," Edward Haman, an HRS licensure attorney in Tampa.

But the case has prompted advocates for the elderly to question whether state standards go far enough, and HRS itself says it needs stronger enforcement measures for adult congregate living facilities, or ACLFs.

ACLFs serve old or incapacitated people who don't need the extensive medical care offered at nursing homes. Nursing homes operate under more and stricter rules but often charge double or triple the fees.

Mediator denies union leader walked out

KEY LARGO — The chairman of the National Mediation Board on Sunday denied claims by Eastern Airlines that a machinists union negotiator had walked out of contract talks with the carrier.

Walter Wallace, chairman of the National Mediation Board, said negotiators knew in advance that William Scherl of the International Association of Machinists would leave the talks.

"The international representative was here specifically at my request," Wallace said. "He had some other pre-arrangements to be somewhere else and the carrier knew that."

Two skydivers plunge to death

United Press International

HOMESTEAD — A skydiving instructor and his student fell about 10,000 feet to their deaths near a tomato field Sunday morning, police said.

Their names were not immediately released.

The two men, strapped together, were traveling 110-115 mph before they hit the ground about 11:30 a.m., said Lucy Fitts, a Metro-Dade County police spokeswoman.

Witnesses said they heard the pair screaming, but it was unclear whether they were shouting instructions or bemoaning their predicament. They landed on a dirt road near a tomato field south of Miami.

Police were investigating how the accident occurred.

"The controversy is whether the parachute ever opened or opened late," Fitts said.

The outing started with a pilot and five parachutists.

One skydiver was successful. Another instructor and student diving together went afterward and also landed safely. The pair that followed fell to their deaths, Fitts said.

Both pairs were strapped together in a design made for novices and their instructors. The instructor controls the parachute, Fitts said.

"The parachute was like flapping in the wind. I saw them coming down. The chute didn't open at all. I just heard them hit the ground," said Robert Rogers, who said he witnessed the incident.

The instructor worked for Skydive Inc., a Homestead skydiving business, for about a decade, Fitts said. The other man was on his first jump.

Landowners lose hidden taxbreak

United Press International

CLEARWATER — Property owners who lease to tax-exempt churches and service agencies have lost a tax break that many never knew they had.

"I don't think people have any idea what's happening," said Tampa lawyer Domenic Massari III, who represented a Clearwater church that last month won an exemption after a three-year court battle.

For years, land leased by for-profit owners to churches, schools, social services agencies and the like was taxed. Three years ago, as the result of court challenges, those properties became exempt from taxes if they were used by tax-exempt groups.

Last year, however, the Legislature reworked the law to state that the property must be "owned" by an exempt group to be tax exempt.

"That was the original intent of the law," said Ron Schultz, former Pinellas County property appraiser. It was meant to avoid situations where a large property owner leases to a non-profit group to avoid paying taxes until he sells the land.

When the new law took effect Jan. 1, the exemption was eliminated. But apparently few people knew of it to begin with.

In the last two years, the owners of only five Pinellas County lots applied for, and received, the exemptions, Schultz said. Hillsborough's former property appraiser, Bud Parker, said "only a handful" of organizations took advantage of the exemption in that county.

Representatives of several organizations contacted by the Tampa Tribune said they were unaware the exemptions ever had existed.

Massari predicted that once word gets out about the revised law, tax-exempt groups will seek to have the exemption reinstated.

He said the new law is unfair because it means churches rich enough to own their property escape taxation while less affluent churches would be saddled with the cost of taxation its landlord passes on in lease charges.

"The law isn't going to put the large Catholic Church out of business, but it is going to impact on smaller churches and social agencies," Massari said.

The Roman Catholic Church, as well as the Southern Baptist and other large denominations, have a policy of owning their properties, according to their representatives.

Early release of prisoners increasing

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida corrections officials cut the prison terms of thousands of inmates by up to two years in 1988 — and the numbers are likely to increase this year.

Gain time awarded to prisoners last year was about 70 percent higher than in 1987, the Tampa Tribune reported Sunday. With the prison population steadily increasing and the state operating under a federal order prohibiting overcrowding, officials believe even more time off will be awarded in 1989.

Even though they plan to build substantially more prison beds this year, officials believe they may have to grant up to 60 days gain time for each month served to stay under the federal cap.

"Admissions are expected to increase, capacity is expected to increase," said Bill Bales, population projection administrator for the Department of Corrections. "But our projections show we'll have to continue to give out the days."

Most of the time off is awarded under the administrative gain time program passed by Gov. Bob Martinez and the Legislature in February 1987. Under that program, all prisoners not convicted of murder, firearms, sex or drug offenses receive up to 20 days off whenever the prisons get too close to the federal population cap.

Last year, inmates had as much as 880 days shaved off their terms under that program. That is 70 percent higher than 1987, when inmates had 400 days taken off their sentences in what was expected to be a temporary program.

Thanks to gain time, Florida inmates are now serving an average of 35 percent of their sentences.

"The people of the state of Florida are amazed at what's happening with this gain time," said Rep. Doug Jamerson, D-St. Petersburg, who chairs the House corrections committee. "It's a convoluted kind of mess right now."

The program came under sharp criticism in November, when an inmate who had served eight years of a 15-year sentence was charged with killing two Dade County police officers 10 days after his release.

Officials say they have little choice but to continue cutting sentences until more prison space can be built. Martinez and other officials have said they will build as much new prison space as they can afford under this year's tight budget.

Martinez may recommend more than 8,000 new prison beds in his proposed budget. In his first two years in office, $134 million was set aside to build 8,243 new beds.

Seizures of drug money in Los Angeles top Miami

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Federal drug agents seized more than $50 million in cash from drug dealers in Los Angeles last year, topping Miami for the first time, but Miami remained the top city in the nation for drug seizures, it was reported Sunday.

Federal and local narcotics agents combined seized more than $119 million in cash in the Los Angeles area in 1988 and made about 90,000 arrests — the highest ever in the region, the Los Angeles Times said.

The Times said the total U.S. Drug Enforcement cash seizures of more than $50 million was $8 million more than the agency seized in Miami, the first time Los Angeles agents topped agents in the Florida city.

But the total volume of cocaine seized by federal and local law enforcement officials — more than 15 tons of cocaine with an estimated street value exceeding $5 million — was roughly half the amount taken in Miami, the paper said.

The Los Angeles Police Department seized $35 million in cash, twice as much as it seized in 1987, and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department seized roughly $34 million, an increase of about 30 percent.

Officials said the record number of arrests and the staggering amount of cash seized reflect the continuing emergence of Los Angeles as one of the nation's two major cocaine distribution centers.

DEA officials in Washington said Miami remains the nation's major cocaine transshipment center, but roughly 40 percent of the cocaine now entering the United States is being shipped into the Los Angeles area.

"For all practical purposes, the two cities are equal," one official told the paper. "The price of cocaine is actually lower in Los Angeles than (in) Miami by about $2,000 a kilo, one indication there is more of the drug in L.A. than in Florida." A kilo of cocaine in Los Angeles fetches about $14,000.

Both the DEA and the Sheriff's Department reported increases in cocaine seizures from 1987 to 1988, but Los Angeles police said their seizures actually declined from 13,000 pounds in 1987 to about 10,500 pounds in 1988.

Police officials, however, said the volume was so high in both years the decline had little significance.

"The amazing thing, I think, is that in the last three years we have seized 37,000 pounds of cocaine," said Deputy Chief Glenn Levant. "In 1982, before cocaine became epidemic, we seized 359 pounds. That was big stuff in 1982. We have had a 2,800 percent increase since then."

Los Angeles police made 57,651 drug arrests, an increase of 5.4 percent over 1987, and 114 percent above the 26,966 in 1982.

The Sheriff's Department reported a 25 percent increase in its cocaine seizures for 1988 — about 6,000 pounds compared to 4,500 pounds in 1987. The department also arrested about 30,000 people on drug charges, about 40 percent of them cocaine-related.

DEA agents, meanwhile, seized about 2,000 pounds of cocaine in the Los Angeles area in 1988. In addition to the $50 million in cash seized by the agency, another $20 million in real estate and automobiles were confiscated.

POLICE BRIEFS

Inmate accused of smoking pot

LAKE MARY — An off duty Lake Mary police man looking for a trusty to wash his car at the police station Sunday instead reported finding that a trusty had been smoking marijuana at the station.

That brought a charge of possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana against John David Ste-sloff, 23, of the Seminole County Jail. Bond in that case is $1,000.

Officer David Guildford reported he smelled burning marijuana when he was looking for a trusty at about 11 a.m. He found a container of marijuana on a table at the police station. Stevaloff reportedly told Guildford he had found the pot in a storage area and had used a cigarette rolling paper he had brought from the jail to make a pot cigarette. After Stevaloff was returned to jail, Guildford said he found a marijuana smoking pipe in metal box at the police station.

Pipe bomb blows three fingers off

OVIEDO — A 41-year-old Winter Park man who lit a pipe bomb he was holding during a Civil War party in Oviedo blew three fingers off his right hand when the bomb exploded in his hand at about 7:25 p.m. Saturday.

Jim Graveley was injured at 4822 Gabriella Lane, Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported. They said Graveley told them he had more black powder at his Orlando house.

Girlfriend allegedly threatened with gun

SANFORD — A Sanford man who allegedly brandished a gun and held it to the neck of his girlfriend when he was trying to make her leave his house during an argument is charged with aggravated assault with a firearm.

LeRoy Jenkins, 40, of 1800 W. 16th St., was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies on Southwest Road, after the victim, Carolyn Jones, 29, of 72 William Clark Court, Sanford, locked him out of his house.

Before deputies arrived at about 11 a.m. Sunday, Jones told them Jenkins had knocked her down onto a bed and then pulled her to the floor by her legs. Her head hit the floor. At one point, she said, Jenkins took a handgun from a drawer and held it to her neck. She said he threatened to kill her if she didn't leave. She ran out and he followed. She ran back inside and locked Jenkins out, deputies reported. That's when they arrived and made the arrest. Bond is $5,000.

Wife allegedly battered

SANFORD — Sanford police report charging Oliver Glenn Carroll, 29, of 305 Holly Ave., Sanford, with battery-spouse abuse at his house at 3:26 a.m. Sunday.

Lillian Carroll told police her husband hit her with a broom and dragged her out of bed by her hair. She said he threatened to kill her. She left with her 4-year-old child, police said.

Several arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Steven Peter Schick, 34, of 2519 Laurel Ave, Sanford, was arrested Sunday after his car was in an accident on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary.
- Michael Alan Payton, 30, of 1505 Sparrow St., Longwood, at 10 a.m. Sunday after his car, clocked traveling 60 mph, was seen weaving on U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood.
- Ronald Lee Bucy, 24, of Orlando, at 10:38 p.m. Sunday after his motorcycle tipped over on King Street, Oviedo.
- Christophe Breen, 25, of 175 Exter Blvd., Longwood, at 12:13 a.m. today after his weaving car ran off the road in Lake Mary. He was arrested on County Road 15.

Gustafson's plan for costly changes irritates officials

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — New House Speaker Tom Gustafson's expensive plans to reorganize the lower chamber have begun to draw fire from officials facing a tight budget year.

Gustafson is moving or re-vamping the offices of 22 House committees, installing a $3.4 million computer system and greatly increasing the size of the speaker's staff, according to published reports.

Last week, he raised the possibility of creating a House communications and research office.

"He's blowing a lot of taxpayers' money when we don't have enough to do the regular business of government," complained Frank Messersmith, R-Lake Worth, House minority leader pro tempore.

"It's unnecessary, totally. It's ridiculous to move committees just to be moving committees."

Gustafson says his changes will make the House more efficient, more open to public scrutiny and will involve more rank-and-file members.

"The House was designed to operate by a small number of senior members called horses, and those horses were to make all the hard decisions and sell the lesser members on the product," he said. "That may not be in the best interest of Florida."

"It's more unpredictable when you have 120 members honestly participating, but I think you get a better set of answers."

The speaker and Senate president each have the authority to reorganize his chamber, and most make some changes, but few have ever approached the wholesale changes Gustafson has made.

Among other things, Gustafson has moved 20 of the 29 standing committees in place when he took over to new offices, and is renovating two more.

He approved $401,000 for renovations to the Appropriations Committee office, about $100,000 for changes at the Rules Committee office and about $200,000 to build a new office for the sergeant at arms, who was displaced when Gustafson moved out of the speaker pro tempore's office to make more room for his staff.

He has spent $165,891 on new carpeting, and about $14,000 more on other renovations.

Gustafson will spend $607,355 a year on salaries for his 14 staffers and two consultants, and says he may hire more. His predecessor, Jon Mills, paid his 10 employees $389,760.

New IBM computers are being installed in the Capitol and district offices of each of the 120 House members, at a cost of $3.4 million.

Gustafson says the renovations will streamline House operations and eventually prove to be worth the cost.

He said he is not concerned that his renovations may be thrown out by the next speaker.

"If my ideas are good, they'll stand the test of time," he said. "If they're not, they won't."

Cop on most-wanted list

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Legionnaires case keeps school closed

RARITAN, N.J. — A Hunterdon County school that was closed for two days last week following reports of at least one case of Legionnaires disease among school janitors was to be closed again on Monday.

Officials said they were continuing the search for the source of the disease.

Schools spokesman Willard Richardson said Sunday that the Hunterdon Central Regional High School would re-open to students and teachers on Tuesday.

Officials would use the additional day of closing to drain and refill the building's water heaters, Richardson said.

The 1,850-student school was closed Wednesday night following confirmation that an unidentified 33-year-old janitor had come down with the respiratory illness. A second janitor also fell ill, but his disease has not been determined to have been Legionnaires, Richardson said.

Reagan returns to White House

WASHINGTON — President Reagan returned to the White House Sunday, a day after undergoing minor surgery on his left finger at Walter Reed Medical Center, to face a hectic week of fond farewells.

Upon leaving Walter Reed at 1:30 p.m. EST, a casually dressed Reagan, 77, raised his bandaged left hand and waved with his right, telling reporters he felt "fine." Accompanied by his wife Nancy, Reagan traveled by motorcade to the White House, arriving 20 minutes later.

The president, who has only two remaining weeks in office, checked into the hospital Saturday for the operation by a team of orthopedic and plastic surgeons to treat a condition known as Dupuytren's contracture.

The progressive ailment, although painless, had caused a constriction of the ring finger of his left hand through a thickening of the tissue. An incision was made from the wrist to the finger to remove the diseased tissue.

Bizarre tales mark trial

FORT LAUDERDALE — One of the longest federal criminal trials in south Florida history is coming to a close after more than 250 witnesses and about 600 pieces of evidence against six members of the Outlaws motorcycle gang.

U.S. District Judge William Zloch scheduled closing arguments to begin this week. The final witnesses were called last week.

The defendants are accused of committing more than 100 crimes — including 10 murders — while operating the motorcycle club in Davie from 1970 to 1985.

During testimony which began last January, the jurors have heard several bizarre tales, including a murder with a spear gun and a gang leader who named a skull after his ex-wife.

The government contends the Outlaws made a living through prostitution, drug trafficking, extortion and conspiracy. Prosecutors have said the defendants savagely murdered girlfriends, forced them to commit prostitution and kidnapped rival gang members to show their supremacy.

Three Hell's Angels motorcycle gang members are on the list of those allegedly murdered by the Outlaws along with two former girlfriends of group members.

The major charge against the defendants is violating a racketeering statute enacted in 1970 as a mechanism to prosecute organized crime.

Defense attorneys say the Outlaws may have committed some crimes, but they were not involved in conspiracy or racketeering. Whatever the verdict, authorities say it should signal the end of a 20-year era when the Outlaws traveled through the streets of the state.

The government's case includes 51 wire-tapped phone conversations, photo albums, police reports weapons and drug and Outlaw memorabilia.

Among those charged is James "Big Jim" Nolan, 45, the leader of the south Florida chapter, who is charged with murdering the Hell's Angels and ordering the murder of one of the women. A guitarist in a prison band, Nolan says he now belongs to a Christian motorcycle club.

Iris Geoghagan, who said she was Nolan's former "No. 1 old lady," testified that Nolan broke her jaw and named a skull in his house after his ex-wife.

Others facing charges include Donald "Gangrene" Sears, Timothy "Tiny Tim" Duke, Michael "Moldy Mike" Cave, Frederick "Yanker" Hegney and James "Blue" Starrett.

Of the defendants, only Hegney was an active member of the club when he was arrested. The others were in jail or had dropped out of the Outlaws.

Remains sent to wrong family

United Press International

ROCHESTER, N.Y. The father of a young woman killed in the crash of Pan Am Flight 103 in Scotland said Sunday the remains returned to him last week were not those of his daughter, and a British police surgeon flew to Rochester for a meeting with the family to account for the blunder.

Monroe County, N.Y., Medical Examiner Nicholas Forbes reviewed the remains returned Thursday to the family, and confirmed there were discrepancies in the physical and dental records.

"The pathologist who used my daughter's dental chart has told us it is definitely not her," said Robert Hunt, father of Karin Hunt, 20. "We are 100 percent certain."

A police spokesman in Scotland said inquiries had been launched to determine the cause of what was "an apparent mix-up."

The Syracuse University student was flying home to suburban Rochester from London Dec. 21 when the aircraft was blown from the sky by a bomb. All 259 people on board were killed as well as 11 others on the ground in Lockerbie, Scotland.

"I do not know how this terrible thing could have happened. Maybe it is just a case of the wrong body having been shipped. Maybe another family had been given Karin," said Hunt, who lives in the Rochester suburb of Webster.

Identification of crash victims in Scotland was being done by forensic teams using documents, medical examination, X-rays, dental charts, and fingerprints. A British surgeon involved with the crash forensics flew to the United States and was expected to meet with the Hunts late Sunday, Hunt said.

"I hope the British police surgeon... will be able to give us an explanation about how the mix-up occurred," Hunt said. "It has greatly distressed us."

2 McDonald's workers killed in robbery

United Press International

WEST CHESTER, Pa. — Two employees were slain during the robbery of a McDonald's restaurant early Sunday and police arrested a suspect after being tipped off by a tow truck driver who gave him a ride and later heard his description on a police scanner.

The suspect, identified as Terrance Russo, 21, was arrested at a Wilmington, Del., bus station, where, after scuffling with police, he reportedly told officers he would have killed them if he knew they were going to arrest him, according to a police affidavit.

Authorities said they found a .38-caliber handgun, a bag containing an undetermined amount of cash and a McDonald's receipt on Russo, who was being held in Delaware pending extradition.

West Goshen Township police officers responded to the armed robbery call at the McDonald's in West Chester at 5:34 a.m., said Chester County District Attorney James MacElree.

Restaurant manager Jean Reider, 41, of Newark, Del., and employee Charles Hegarty, 46, of East Goshen, Pa., were killed in the robbery. Both victims had been shot in the head, MacElree said.

"The gravity of this offense, the horror of this offense, speaks for itself," MacElree said.

A third McDonald's employee had been about to enter the restaurant when Reider waved the unidentified worker away. The employee went to a nearby market and called police.

"That employee, however, did have the opportunity to observe the shooter," MacElree said.

MacElree said the unidentified tow truck driver, who gave Russo a ride from West Chester, Pa., to a Wilmington-area motel early Sunday, telephoned police when he heard a description of the robbery suspect over his police scanner.

Weight Loss Pill Approved for U.S. Gov't. Patent

"Lazy Way" to Lose Weight Already SHELLS U.S.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally" Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+ $3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+ $3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W246, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. 100% unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied. Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W246.

Helping control medical expenses

With medical costs projected to rise 20 percent or more countrywide next year, many Americans are taking a closer look at the way California has fostered competition among hospitals to control outlays.

According to an authoritative RAND Corporation/UCLA study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, California has provided the first real evidence that a deliberate policy of encouraging such competition can help moderate or even reverse rising expenditures. The study involved 330 of the state's short-term, general-care hospitals.

Unfortunately, hospital competition isn't able to work miracles. It has not affected an overall drop in medical costs to patients. But it has had the effect, according to the RAND Corp. study, of "dramatically reducing the rate of increase in total hospital costs and revenue."

In other words, without competition among hospitals we should be in an even sorer plight than the one we're in already.

Other states which have not adopted California's strategy of competition to contain hospital costs will be hard hit when next year's projected increases start to bite and health-care providers pass the charges on to patients still reeling from this year's double-digit rises and over-billing by doctors and hospitals.

Excess billing of Medicare patients contributes in no small measure to the nation's huge health bill. A recent survey by Citizen Action, an advocacy group with 1.7 million members nationwide, shows that 63 percent of the nation's doctors do not abide by fee schedules set for Medicare. In fact, Medicare beneficiaries paid $2.7 billion in doctor bills last year over and above the changes considered reasonable by the government.

Shocking figures released by the General Accounting Office indicate that an inordinately high percentage of hospitals practice overbilling, too.

Not surprisingly, statistics gleaned from a sampling of health plans showed the average cost of coverage rose a whopping 58 percent between 1985 and 1987.

Other factors aside from overbilling are widely believed to be contributing to skyrocketing medical fees. Among them are the aging population, with its needs for more frequent and increasingly sophisticated health care, and the multiplicity of new, often expensive, procedures now available.

Modern society's penchant for litigiousness also exacts its price: Doctors frequently stave off possible lawsuits by administering more treatment than necessary, or by referring patients to specialists to avoid charges of neglect. The high price of doctors' malpractice insurance is another burden ultimately borne by patients.

The worry price of national health care will be high on the list of priorities for the Bush administration, and the example that California has set in regard to hospital costs could become a national model from which many other states would also benefit.

But a balanced, overall attack on medical expenses must also involve the nation's physicians, particularly those who indulge in excess billing of Medicare patients. The vexing problem of affordable medical treatment cannot be solved without the cooperation of all concerned.

The sad story of Martin Van Buren

WASHINGTON — When the 1988 election was over, George Bush took note of the 152-year-old jinx he buried by winning the 1988 presidential election.

In his post-election thank-yous, the president-elect included Martin Van Buren, the incumbent vice president in 1836 who was elected to succeed Andrew Jackson after Old Hickory completed two tumultuous terms.

Between Van Buren and Bush, no incumbent vice president was able to follow the president he served into the White House. Most recently, Hubert Humphrey in 1968 and Richard Nixon in 1960 failed to break the jinx, although Nixon did make a comeback after eight years away from Washington to win the presidency.

Jinxes, like records, exist to be broken, and doubtless every politician alive who wants to be president now will stop worrying about the possibility of being tapped for the second spot on a national ticket.

But having finally equalled Van Buren's feat, Bush probably would like to forget what happened to the Red Fox of Kinderhook, as Van Buren was called.

First, he had to deal with the image of being Jackson's creature, it all began in Jackson's first term as Washington's first sex scandal.

The central figure was Peggy Eaton, a tavernkeeper's daughter who married John Eaton, Jackson's secretary of war and old friend.

Peggy had what Mrs. John C. Calhoun, the vice president's wife, and other Cabinet wives considered a shady reputation, and they refused to socialize with her. That ticked off the trigger-tempered president, who felt his own late wife had been slandered by Washington society, and who proclaimed Peggy "chaste as a virgin."

The "petticoat rebellion" escalated into a raging dispute that, with other events, ended with all but one of Cabinet members resigning and Jackson dumping Calhoun from his 1832 second term ticket in favor of Van Buren, who as secretary of state had supported the beleaguered Peggy.

"Bush would probably like to forget what happened to the Red Fox of Kinderhook."

Jackson made clear Van Buren was his man in 1836 and jammed his vice president down the throat of the young Democratic Party. Despite such cruel charges that he was no more than a "dandy" strutting about "like a crow in a gutter ... laced up in corsets such as women in town wear," Van Buren won handily.

His relationship with Jackson was such that as they rode together to the inauguration, Sen. Thomas Hart Benton observed, "For once, the rising was eclipsed by the setting sun."

In any case, Van Buren took over and within months was confronted by a full-fledged depression, the Panic of 1837, caused in part by the lending practices of state banks that were holding government funds in place of the single national bank Jackson spent much of his presidency destroying. Many banks failed and businesses as far away as England were driven to the wall.

It took Van Buren until 1840 to get the situation under control, but by that time the opposition was singing, "Van, Van, a used-up man," and William Henry Harrison, who Van Buren beat four years earlier, won what historian Stefan Lorant called "the most exuberant, exciting and nonsensical campaign in American presidential history." Van Buren, indeed, was used up.

"THIS AIRLINE HAS THE TIGHTEST SECURITY MEASURES IN THE WORLD, BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO FLY NAKED WITH NO LUGGAGE."

Meat inspection program doubtful

WASHINGTON — A pilot project to test a new federal meat inspection program supports what we have been saying all along — that the public may soon be buying tainted processed meat. Now we aren't the only ones saying it.

Meatpackers themselves are worried that dishonest competitors will abuse the new system by cutting corners and allowing unhealthy processed meat products from hogs to hamburger get into supermarkets.

That is one of dozens of unsettling possibilities outlined in an internal Agriculture Department report that sums up a North Carolina test of the proposed new inspection routine.

We have reported in the past on the Agriculture Department's dogged campaign to deregulate the meat business. In the guise of streamlining meat inspection, the USDA wants to eliminate daily scrutiny by federal on-site inspectors at meat processing plants and replace them with company-paid inspectors overseen by random visits from the USDA.

The program is expected to be implemented nationwide in the summer. The USDA has been testing it in selected cities, and the results of those tests should have thrown cold water on the USDA's idea. Instead, the bureaucracy is steaming ahead.

The closely held report obtained by our associate Stewart Harris tries to put the best face on the latest test at 115 plants near Raleigh, N.C. — a herculean feat considering the facts:

• While some plants became cleaner, conditions at 19 plants deteriorated without full-time inspection. Inspectors told us the same thing happened when the plan was tested in Chicago, although the USDA claimed the Chicago plants got cleaner. Even if, under the new system, the plants appear to be cleaner, the USDA's own report says that is not proof that the inspection plan is working. Plant employees could be on their toes when the inspector is there and then lapse into bad habits when the inspector leaves.

• Many inspectors wasted too much time on the road traveling between the plants they were assigned to inspect. The inspectors looked like they were running a Chinese fire drill and complained that they spent so much time behind the wheel they started passing each other on the streets between plants.

• In no time, plant managers could predict when the USDA would show up for the "surprise" inspections.

• Many federal inspectors doubt whether the plan will keep tainted meats from reaching the supermarket shelves. During the Raleigh test, 44 percent of the inspectors said the plant provided only "moderate" coverage and 16 percent characterized the coverage as "small" or "very small."

• Rodents, roaches and flies continued to be a problem at more than half the plants during the pilot. Just as alarming, there was evidence that insecticides were being misused in the plants.

Consumer advocates are particularly upset about record-keeping problems at the plants. Without full-time federal inspection, plant records are the only way to be sure that a meatpacking plant sticks to the rules. But in the Raleigh pilot, mandatory production records could not be found at 12 plants.

That's enough to turn a nation of meat eaters into vegetarians. It should be enough to put the brakes on the USDA.

What have businesswomen become?

BOSTON — As the credits rolled their way into "Working Girl," the opening shot revealed a yellow Staten Island ferry as it clugged its weary way to Manhattan. Where had I seen this boat before? Didn't this ferry make the same cameo appearance in the opening shot of "Wall Street"?

As the working girl (Melanie Griffith) started pretending to be a boss. It was deja vu all over again. Wasn't that the act that mallroom boy Michael J. Fox did in "The Secret of My Success"?

In the last year or more, there have been enough movies about how people succeed in business — sneakily — to make any self-respecting CEO reach for the antacid. For the most part, they have featured young, hungry, frustrated outsiders from Kansas, Queens or Staten Island who are closed out of the action in the Big Apple because they didn't come from the right families, the right towns or the right colleges.

These movies are new variations on the class-conscious themes of the 1930s when the working-class kid is competing with some high-society snob for true love. Back then, the outsiders were always trying to get the girl or the guy. Now, they're trying to get the company. In the Thirties, they wanted to make a marriage. In the Eighties, they want to make a deal.

But what is different about "Working Girl" and what got it a certain attention and boffo review is that it features women playing the games that mother never taught them. Both the villain AND the heroine, boss AND secretary, insider AND outsider are females, sisters under the silk.

In a sense, "Working Girl" begins where "Nine to Five" — a movie written straight out of the sisterhood-is-powerful manual of the 1970s — left off. Melanie Griffith, as Tess McGill, is desperately trying to get out of the secretarial pool. But all that the men offer her is, uh, lateral movement.

Hope springs when Tess is assigned to work for Sigourney Weaver, who plays Katharine with her good bones, breeding and business-school background. Katharine says, "Consider us a team" and Tess believes "it's like she wants to be my mentor."

The plot then thickens into a post-feminist or maybe a disillusioned-feminist flick. It becomes a story of the era when just enough women have moved up the ladder to shatter the dream of sexual solidarity.

Tess soon discovers that women can also oppress their secretaries and steal their business ideas. And the movie settles down to take a good hard look at the disappointed expectations of the Eighties. The expectation was that somehow or other when women got power they would be better than "that," better than men.

"Nine to Five" predicted that after the revolution it would be all day-care centers and solidarity. The premise of "Working Girl" is that, during the evolution, the daughters and sisters of the establishment look a lot like their fathers and brothers.

This subtle and disappointed idealism can be seen on or off the screen. It infuses a strain between women who manage and the women they manage.

For every woman who prefers working for a female there is another who feels she's gained nothing by the advancement of women except another layer of human beings over her head. The woman in management is often judged by the (male) standards of her peers and the (female) standards of her workers.

The woman who has gotten ahead is expected — often expects herself — to be more sensitive to the women who work for her and tougher than the men who work beside her. She is expected to be twice as good in every way.

Katharine, the boss as bitch, certainly fails that test. She made it into the entering class of women by being a cutthroat as any man. She's hardly a sympathetic figure. But when you get down to it, she is punished by the screenwriters, and punished brutally — stripped of her job and her man — for not being better than men.

Finally, what makes this a truly post-feminist flick is that not even the heroine really expects that women can change the system anymore. Tess just wants a chance to get in it. Indeed, she turns herself into Katharine, taking everything from her accent to her wardrobe to her boyfriend.

In the last scene of the movie, our heroine wins the symbol of success: The secretary gets a secretary. But the only progress she promises is that, as a boss, she'll get her own coffee. Solidarity forever. Hold the cream.

"In the Thirties, they wanted to make a marriage. In the Eighties, they want to make a deal."

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Monday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 3.75 Friday, was up 1.25 to 2195.54 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 395-232 among the 983 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 8,870,000 shares.

Stock prices closed higher in moderate trading Friday as institutions renewed a two-day-old buying spree and pushed a key market barometer to its highest closing level since the 1987 crash.

The Dow Jones Industrial average ended the session at 2194.29, its highest closing level since the market collapsed on October 19, 1987.

Analysts said Friday's performance was an extension of buying momentum led by institutions that drove prices sharply higher in the previous two sessions.

Dollar higher; gold lower

United Press International

The dollar was higher Monday in moderate trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold was mostly lower.

Currency traders said the foreign exchange market apparently was attempting to test the dollar's upside potential and were buying dollars until it sees coordinated intervention by the major central banks.

The West German Bundesbank intervened in Frankfurt to sell dollars but otherwise was not seen on the open market, dealers noted.

In earlier trading in Asia, the dollar strengthened against the Japanese yen in Tokyo on the first trading session after the death of Emperor Hirohito, closing at 126.08 yen, up 0.11 from 125.97 yen on Friday.

Currency dealers in Japan said trading was relatively calm in the absence of market-affecting news.

They said market players were cautious at the beginning because it was the first trading day after the death of Hirohito Saturday.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.8150 West German marks, up from 1.813 marks on Friday. The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.5485 Swiss francs, up from 1.5482 francs. In Paris, the dollar opened at 6.1945 French francs, up from Friday.

The dollar started the day in Brussels at 38.43 Belgian francs, up from 38.25 francs and opened in Italy at 1,331.50 Italian lire, up from 1,315.35.

In London, the British pound began the day at $1.7725 compared with $1.7785 on Friday.

Nissan mini van in which Quinn was riding with her family, Marah said.

The MR2 passed the van on the right side and ran onto the shoulder of the road as it clipped the side of the van, causing the van to veer out of control and into the westbound lane, Marah said. The drag racing cars did not stop.

Quinn was thrown through a window of the van and killed. "If she had been wearing a seatbelt she would have been saved," Marah said. Quinn's mother Kathy Becker, 40, stepfather Jasper Becker Jr., 54, and her brother Rafe Quinn, 10, sustained minor injuries.

Quinn was a student at Lake Highland Preparatory School in Orlando.

Police estimate the racing cars were traveling at about 60 mph, Marah said he doesn't know if the van flipped over when it was sidswiped and crossed the median into the other lane.

The police search for the two racing cars is intensive with all residential parking lots in the area being searched. If a citizen spots a suspect car, Marah said, they should note the vehicle's license tag number and call police. The owner of the car should not be approached by a citizen. Police are also asking that the drivers of both cars surrender.

Although Frenz Enterprises was properly licensed with Florida Department of Environmental Regulations, the firm was not in compliance with the Volusia ordinance, Pecci and Ard both said. The Osteen dump site has been under FDER permit for five to ten years, Pecci said.

Pecci said an employee was assigned to acquire a Volusia permit, but that task went uncompleted. A clause in the ordinance that exempts intracounty hauling created confusion about whether Frenz needed a permit to dump materials from Volusia in Osteen, he said.

Frenz Enterprises had not been fined by the county, Ard said. Representatives from Volusia County and Frenz will meet to determine how much sludge the firm has dumped at the site since the ordinance went into effect Sept. 1. Frenz will be charged the fee of 40 cents per 1,000 gallons of sludge imposed by the regulation, Ard said.

Pecci said he will determine the amount of materials dumped from haul orders before he meets with county officials.

Ard visited the site north of Maytown Road and east of Buck Horn Lane after his office received an anonymous complaint about odor.

"Odor is subjective," Pecci said. "It's a problem, and it is not a problem." Because much of Florida's population has migrated from northern urban areas, he said, they find the "musty, farm smell" offensive.

Sludge must be stabilized and certified as such before it may leave a treatment center. "As haulers, we can't be responsible for what a wastewater treatment plant is doing," Pecci said.

At the treatment plant, sludge is treated with lime to raise its pH level. The increased pH breaks down bacteria that creates noxious odors, Ard explained.

More stringent county regulations coupled with urban sprawl makes sludge disposal a dilemma for municipalities, Pecci said. Seminole County has one approved site for dumping, which Frenz has not used in over one year, he said.

Frenz Enterprises has conducted dredgework and hauling in Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and South Carolina for 17 years.

African leaders leave chemical weapons conference in protest

United Press International

PARIS — Kenya led a walkout of about 20 African and other developing countries at an international conference on chemical weapons Monday to protest a speech by South African Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha.

The walkout came one day after Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze announced the Soviet Union would begin destroying its chemical weapons stockpile this year. The United States cautiously welcomed the gesture but said Moscow still lags behind Washington in the battle to rid the world of the lethal arms.

Botha was just about to rise for his address to the delegates from 145 nations Monday when Kenyan Foreign Minister R.J. Ouko began the protest.

"Africa deeply regrets the presence of the minority racist regime of South Africa at this conference," Ouko said as about 20 African and other mainly developing countries walked out in the first such protest since the conference began Saturday.

French President Francois Mitterrand organized the chemical weapons meeting at UNESCO headquarters in Paris to strengthen a 1925 Geneva protocol prohibiting chemical warfare, and to speed up a ban on production of chemical weapons already under discussion in Geneva.

"We shall soon complete the construction of a chemical weapons elimination facility at which we shall proceed immediately to the elimination of our chemical weapons stockpiles," Shevardnadze told the conference.

"Speaking on behalf of my country's leadership, I would like to state from this high rostrum that the Soviet Union... will begin in 1989 the elimination of its chemical weapon stockpiles at a facility built for that purpose," the Soviet envoy said.

Secretary of State George Shultz, who met Shevardnadze for some 90 minutes Sunday to discuss the lethal weapons, said: "We welcome that (Soviet) statement."

But he added, "I think it's worth noting that while they are building a plant to destroy chemical weapons, we have a plant in being."

"So this is something that prospectively they will do when their plant is completed," Shultz told a news conference. "We are proceeding to destroy the unitary stocks as we build much safer binary stocks."

He said the United States had "invited people to come and see" the U.S. plant where "unitary" chemical weapons — toxic by themselves — already are being destroyed. Binary weapons become toxic when two safe chemicals are combined.

The Soviet Union officially admits to 50,000 tons of chemical weapons in its arsenal of 19 varieties of chemical weapons, and says it is approximately the same as the U.S. stockpile. It has dismissed as "fantastic" Western estimates of 300,000 tons of chemical weapons.

Shultz also said the Soviets had promised to investigate U.S. allegations Libya is building a chemical weapons plant in Rabta, 35 miles southwest of Tripoli. Libya maintains the plant is to make pharmaceuticals.

Shultz said the U.S. delegation made a 10-minute presentation to Shevardnadze and his delegation of material "not designed to be some sort of conclusive and detailed examination, obviously, but to make it clear that this is a very serious proposition."

"He (Shevardnadze) has said — and I believe — that he and his colleagues will look into the matter and that is what we wanted," Shultz said. "I was quite gratified by his response."

Tripoli radio, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp., said foreign journalists were allowed to visit "the Al-Rabta factory for medicines" Saturday night, where they "walked around the factory and saw at close hand that it is a factory for producing medicines and pharmaceutical exports."

But Western reporters said that while they were taken to the plant site, they never were allowed to get closer than about a half-mile.

In a CBS interview Sunday, Libyan Foreign Minister Jadallah Azzouz Talhi was asked why a busload of reporters was taken to the site in darkness and responded only, "We're not hiding something."

Talhi told CBS's "Face the Nation" that "producing chemical weapons is not in our plan."

Shevardnadze told the conference Sunday his nation would begin destroying chemical weapons "even before" the conclusion of the 40-nation Geneva disarmament conference, where negotiators have been discussing a treaty banning chemical weapons for the past 11 years.

Shevardnadze also told the conference the Soviet Union would accept the principle of on-site inspections of chemical weapons facilities.

said under an agreement with River Country officials, an escrow account, containing a "sizeable amount" of money, has been established to pay wages due former employees and creditors. The account is said to have $30,000.

Bennett said Walter Bowen, River Country president, would be responsible for disbursing the money after the purchase has been concluded. Several employees left in October, saying they had not been paid. They filed liens against the station, although the liens were released about a month later. Bennett said some of the money in the escrow account was released to pay some wages due.

One large debt is being paid off with advertising time, Bennett said. River Country owed Winn-Dixie stores $8,771 from a discount certificate promotion, the "69-cent Dollar." Bennett said the station will broadcast 30-second commercials, valued at a total of $17,950, until mid-April to satisfy the debt.

Bennett said it is his and his wife's goal to change the reputation of the station in Sanford and the county. He said the station has already raised enough food to feed more than 100 families during the Christmas holidays and regularly broadcasts school news.

He said the community seems to be responding because station advertising has tripled in the past six weeks.

"We're trying to be honest with people and say 'Look, we're sorry it got messed up, but we'll make it right,'" Bennett said.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Knicks embarrass Clippers

Taking on first-place teams on their own court is tough enough. When you're the Los Angeles Clippers or San Antonio Spurs, it can be downright embarrassing.

The New York Knicks, leading the Atlantic Division, handed the Clippers their fifth straight loss, 134-100. The Knicks improved to 14-1 at home while the Clippers dropped to 2-18 on the road.

At Inglewood, Calif., the league champion Los Angeles Lakers, the only visiting team to win at New York this year, also cruised to a rout, dumping the Spurs 126-96.

At New York, Johnny Newman and Patrick Ewing each scored 26 points to power the Knicks. Gerald Wilkins added 15 points, Mark Jackson had 14 points and 10 assists and Charles Oakley collected 12 points and 17 rebounds for the Knicks.

"This game was a confidence-builder for everyone," Newman said. "We have the type of team where everyone can score."

Ten Knicks scored on the night, including seldom-used Greg Butler and Pete Myers, who were part of a 13-0 closing burst that gave the Knicks a 34-point lead down the stretch.

GOLF

Jones wins PGA opener

CARLSBAD, Calif. — Steve Jones said Sunday he hasn't reached the point where he'll predict a victory in a PGA Tour event.

"You want to win, but you don't win very often out here," Jones said after he birdied six holes en route to a 3-under par 69 and a three-stroke triumph in the $750,000 Tournament of Champions. "So you take it with a grain of salt."

"To say, 'I'm going to win this week,' it's hard to do. I don't think you can do that with the caliber of players we have here."

Jones, whose lone previous triumph in six years on the Tour was the 1988 AT&T, finished with a four-day total of 9-under 279.

David Frost and Jay Haas, who each began the round four strokes behind Jones, shot 68s and tied for second. Frost had six birdies and Haas four.

"I knew with the guys playing well behind me, I had to play well and go for it," Jones said. "To win, it's gotta be your day. It was my day."

SOCCER

Sockers pound Lazars, 6-2

SAN DIEGO — Branko Segota and Zoran Karic each scored a pair of goals Sunday night for the San Diego Sockers, who scored the last five goals to notch a 6-2 Major Indoor Soccer League triumph over the Los Angeles Lazars.

With Los Angeles ahead 2-1, Brian Quinn tied the score at 12:22 of the second quarter to begin San Diego's five-goal spree.

Segota also had two assists for the Sockers, whose other goal came off the boot of Ralph Black.

Los Angeles got goals from Hector Marinaro and Michael Collins.

HOCKEY

Blackhawks edge Islanders

Old ways sure are hard to change, and the New York Islanders are finding out the hard way.

Denis Savard scored two goals from close range in the second period Sunday night to pace the Chicago Blackhawks to a 3-2 victory over the Islanders in a game between the two teams with the worst records in the NHL.

"We had our chances and we didn't get away with it," said Islander Coach Al Arbour, whose club is the worst in the league at 11-27-2. "We are reverting back to our old ways."

Greg Gilbert and David Volek scored for New York, which dropped to 3-15-2 on the road. The Islanders could not manage a goal on nine power plays.

In other games, Boston topped Quebec 4-2, Edmonton routed Calgary 6-0 and Los Angeles and Winnipeg played to a 4-4 tie.

Big battle: Bengals-49ers

Cincy shuts down Buffalo, 21-10

United Press International

CINCINNATI — Rookie Ickey Woods ran for two short touchdowns Sunday and Cincinnati's maligned defense stiffened in the second half to help the Bengals shuffle to their second Super Bowl with a 21-10 AFC title game triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

The Bengals, who finished last in the AFC Central in 1987, will play the winner of the NFC championship game between the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers in the Jan. 22 Super Bowl at Miami. Cincinnati, 4-11 last season and 12-4 this year, lost to San Francisco six years ago in the championship game.

This year's turnaround mirrored the one in 1981, when the Bengals finished last in 1980, then went to the Super Bowl.

San Fran blasts Chicago, 28-3

United Press International

CHICAGO — The San Francisco 49ers Sunday moved into position to become the first team to win three Super Bowls this decade, thanks to the quarterback who guided them to the first two. Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes on a day when the Windy City lived up to its name and the 49ers breezed to a 28-3 NFC title game victory over the Chicago Bears.

Winds that registered 29 mph at halftime did not stop Montana from hooking up with Jerry Rice on two scoring passes to help San Francisco advance to the Jan. 22 Super Bowl in Miami against Cincinnati. The Bengals defeated the Buffalo Bills 21-10 earlier in the AFC champion-

Raiders gun down Pioneers

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Raiders of Seminole Community College placed five men in double figures as they finished the non-conference part of their schedule with a 77-63 defeat of the visiting Pioneers of Indian River Community College in the nightcap of a doubleheader before 201 fans at the SCC Health Center.

The Raiders now 14-5 on the season get back into Mid-Florida Conference play with a pair of road trips this week. Wednesday the Raiders travel to Palatka to take on the Vikings of St. John's River Community College and Saturday they travel to Lake City to take on the long time rival Timberwolves of Lake City Community College. Indian River falls to 10-8 on the season.

Terry Acox turned in a masterful performance for the Raiders as he scored 23 points on 10 of 12 shooting from the floor, grabbed 10 rebounds, had three steals, one slam dunk, and one blocked shot. Also playing well for Seminole was Vincent Emerson with 16 points and three steals, and Terrell Barnes, William "Wimpy" Woods, and Robert Thomas, all with 10 points.

Woods had seven assists and five rebounds; Barnes five assists, six rebounds, and two steals; and Thomas five assists. The Pioneers were led by Doug Mason with 14 points. Also in double figures were Tom Morgan with 13 points and Steve Walker with 10. Walker also led in assists with four and Herbie Baker led in rebounds with five.

Seminole jumped out to a 4-0 lead after three minutes on two free throws by Woods and a basket by Acox before IRCC tied it on baskets by Morgan and 6'8" Chris Saunier. But SCC retook the lead for good on a slam dunk by Acox off a pass from Woods. Robert Ricciardelli scored on a pass from Emerson and Acox then scored the Raiders' next nine points, the last three on a 3-point shot, as Seminole jumped out to a 17-11 lead. Emerson then scored four unanswered points as SCC took a 21-11 lead with 9:51 to play in the half.

SCC continued to play well and took a 33-18 lead with 3:43 left in the half as Barnes scored four, Thomas three, Woods three, and Emerson two points. Morgan scored three for IRCC during the run.

But IRCC outscored the Raiders 13-5 the rest of the game.

Lady Greyhounds knock off Leto, 1-0

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

Lyman's Lady Greyhounds have taken some hefty beatings this season at the hands of some of the state's most powerful girls soccer teams.

On Saturday, Lyman traveled to Tampa and dealt out some punishment of its own. Tammy Fulsang scored a pair of goals and the Lady Greyhounds played superb defense en route to an impressive 3-0 victory over a team that was looking to crack into the state's top 10. Leto's Lady Falcons.

"Our defense and (goalkeeper) Becky Carr played an excellent game," Lyman coach Laura Rountree said. "It was pretty even in time of possession, but we were able to finish off three of our chances."

The win lifted the Lady Greyhounds to 8-6-2 overall and gives them some momentum going into Wednesday's big matchup at No. 2 ranked Lake Brantley Leto, which had knocked off No. 4 St. Petersburg Seminole earlier in the week, now stands at 7-3-1.

Lyman, which had made the trip to Tampa the last two years and came away on the losing end, took a 1-0 lead in the first half on an unassisted goal by Fulsang. Midway through the second half, Lyman made it 2-0 on an unassisted goal by Kerry Musante and the Lady Greyhounds sealed the victory with three minutes remaining on Fulsang's goal off Tracy Sher's assist.

Leto outshot Lyman for the game 19-10, but Carr (eight saves) and the Lady Greyhounds' defense came through with the shutout.

In other girls soccer action on Saturday, Winter Park slipped by Lake Howell, 1-0, and Bishop Moore blanked Orlando Boone, 2-0.

Winter Park, 10-4-1, topped Lake Howell (11-5) despite being outshot 20-10. Brenda Goldberg scored the lone goal of the game for the Lady Wildcats.

Amy Gelft scored both goals for Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets, who improved to 13-4-1 for the season. Karen Butz and Allison Hague picked up the assists.

Seminole High's girls soccer team picked up its sixth win of the season on Saturday with a 4-0 win over Orlando Oak Ridge. Shannon Sundvall scored twice with Jennifer Merriweather and Jennifer Lindamood getting assists on the second score. Lindamood scored on a breakaway to make it 3-0 and Heather Brown accounted for the final score on a beautiful free kick from 35 yards out with just four seconds remaining.

Lake Howell's Kavan Howell battles a Colonial player for possession in action earlier this season. After a disappointing week in which they were led by Lake Brantley and Dr. Phillips, the Silver Hawks look to rebound this week as they host DeLand on Tuesday and Lyman on Thursday.

Pursuers chase Rams

From staff reports

While the pursuer figures to stay out front, the pursuers will look to solidify their positions this week in Seminole Athletic Conference boys soccer action.

Lake Mary's Rams should keep their one-game lead in the SAC this week while Lyman, Oviedo and Lake Howell will all look to keep their chances of contending for the crown alive.

Lake Mary leads the way with a 5-0-1 SAC mark and is 12-1-2 overall. The only SAC game for the Rams this week is Thursday at home against Seminole, a team they beat 5-0 earlier in the year. Lake Mary has two big nonconference matches, though, as it goes to Bishop Moore on Tuesday and hosts Clearwater Central Catholic Saturday.

Lyman, which played Lake Mary to a 1-1 tie last week, stands at 3-1-2 in the league and 6-4-3 overall. The Greyhounds have a big week ahead of them as they host Lake Brantley Tuesday and go to Lake Howell Thursday.

The Hawks played some of their best soccer of the year this past week in tying then No. 1 ranked Lake Mary, defeating Seminole 14-0 and tying No. 10 ranked Winter Park (0-0). Lyman's veteran players, led by JoJo House, Troy Hamilton and Bernard Harden on offense and Kelly Walden in the goal, have been coming through with clutch performances while its young players are developing well.

Oviedo stands at 10-5 overall and 4-2 in the conference and the Lions need to win their two SAC games this week to stay in the running. Oviedo plays at Seminole on Tuesday, then hosts Lake Brantley Thursday.

Last week, Oviedo lost its only conference game, 2-0 to Lake Mary, but played well in non-conference wins over Edgewater (2-0) and Deltona (6-0).

Lake Howell had one of its worst weeks of the season last week as it was tied by Lake Brantley (1-1) and Orlando Dr. Phillips (0-0). The Silver Hawks now stand at 3-2-1 in the conference and 7-3-2 overall. This week will determine the Hawks' chances of staying alive in the SAC as they host DeLand on Tuesday, then battle Lyman in a key game on Thursday.

Lake Brantley is out of the running in the SAC, 1-3-2, but the Patriots are starting to come around and could be the darkhorse when the district tournament rolls around. The Patriots had their best week to date last week with a 1-1 tie against Lake Howell and a 1-0 victory over DeLand.

RAVNDAL HONORED

Lake Mary High senior defender Eric Ravndal has been selected to the prestigious Gatorade Circle of Champions after being chosen as the 1989 Gatorade Circle of Champions Florida High School Player of the Year.

As a state winner, Ravndal qualifies for consideration as one of eight regional and national player of the year awards. Previous national soccer award winners include Kevin Hundelt (MISL's Kansas City Comets), John Gwin (Duke University) and Lyle Yorks (University of Virginia).

Ravndal was also selected to the NSCAA All-South team and was voted by the coaches as Most Valuable Defensive Player in the Pizza Hut Invitational.

Jesuit topples Lake Mary

From staff reports

With the amount of injuries building up and the grueling schedule they were playing, Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle figured it was inevitable the Rams would get knocked off their No. 1 perch.

The inevitable occurred Saturday afternoon as the hobbled Rams limped into Tampa and were dealt a 3-1 loss at the hands of the Jesuit Tigers.

"With all of our injuries I thought we were living on borrowed time," McCorkle said. "Since it wasn't a conference game, I decided to sit some of our injured players and let them have some time off to heal. And Jesuit is too good of a team to play when you're not at your best."

Jesuit came out blazing in Saturday's game and put three goals on the board in the opening half, building an insurmountable advantage. The first score was a bit of an odd occurrence as, with a strong wind at his back, Jesuit's Brendan Dillman took a throw in from near midfield and it ended up going into the goal.

The first score came six minutes into the game and the Tigers took a 2-0 lead at the midway point of the first half. A Lake Mary defender was trying to dribble out of trouble when he was stripped by Dillman who centered the ball to Lance Kane and Kane nailed in the shot.

The backbreaker for the Rams came with just one minute left in the half when Dillman took another long throw in and Jon Gowdy headed it in to give the Tigers a 3-0 lead.

Lake Mary played better in the second half, but could not make up the first-half deficit. The Rams' lone score came with 20 minutes remaining when Eric Ravndal ripped in a free kick from 35 yards out.

In junior varsity action on Saturday, Lake Mary improved to 7-1-1 for the season with a 2-0 victory over the Jesuit JV. Eric Shuemake and John Zisman scored the goals for coach Steve Lyons' team. Leading the defensive effort for the Rams were Shawn Starbuck, Matt Buckmaster, Greg Robinson and goalkeeper Greg Eaton.

Lyman blitzes Hornets

By MARK BLYTHE Herald sports writer

Sage Morris-Webster scored a game-high 14 points with Jennifer Kruger netting 11 to lead the Lyman Lady Greyhounds to a 52-35 victory over Bishop Moore Friday night in prep girls action at Lyman High School.

Lyman improved to 2-10 and will return to action Monday at Spruce Creek. Bishop Moore fell to 10-4 for the season.

Dana Garrett added nine points in the victory with Carol Colley contributing eight. Diane Smith led the Lady Hornets with nine points with Kim Coil and Tracy Tocco chipping in eight each.

Lyman jumped out quick and took a 15-3 lead at the end of the opening quarter before Bishop Moore cut the lead to 26-17 at halftime.

The Lady Hornets managed to clip the lead to 33-25 at the end of the third period. The Lady Greyhounds, though, came up with a 19-2 surge in the final period to ice the game.

A group of Lyman players battle Seminole's Koscia Kennon for possession in action last week. After losing to Seminole High, Lyman rebounded with its best effort of the season on Saturday, a 52-35 victory over Orlando Bishop Moore.

50-46 victory over Luther Saturday night in action at Luther High School.

The Lady Silver Hawks improved to 9-7 and will return to action Tuesday at DeLand. Luther fell to 6-6 on the season. Lewis and Winston led the way as each netted 10 points. Becky Miller added eight points with Jennifer Brown and Sarina Winston adding six apiece. Michelle Duda led Luther with 11 points, including three three-point field goals, with Amy Duda adding eight.

the half but Barnes hit Thomas in the corner and he nailed the jumper to make the score 38-31 at halftime.

SCC pushed the lead back to ten, 47-37, with 15:25 to play as Emerson scored six points and Thomas nailed a 3-pointer to offset two jumpers by Mason and a basket by Morgan for IRCC.

Woods pushed the lead to 11, 52-41, with 14:30 left when he threw in a long 3-pointer. The Raiders then took their biggest lead of the night, 15, at 6:45 with 10:45 to play as Barnes scored four points and Acox three, but IRCC was not ready to quit just yet and outscored SCC 9-0 to close the gap to 60-54 with 8:45 left in the contest. Morgan scored four of the nine points during the run.

But that was as close as the Pioneers were to get as SCC outscored IRCC 17-9 the rest of the way as the Raiders went to their inside game with Acox scoring seven, Richard Brown all five of his points after getting in early foul trouble, Emerson four, and Barnes adding one free throw. Baker scored five of IRCC's last nine points, as Seminole cruised to its fourth straight win and third straight in as many nights since returning from the holidays.

Manatee lances Lady Raiders

By DEAN SMITH Herald correspondent

SANFORD — The Lady Lancers of Manatee Community College outscored the Lady Raiders of Seminole Community College 52-29 over the last 25 minutes of the game Saturday to post a 63-52 victory in the first game of a men's and women's doubleheader before 101 fans at the Seminole Community College Health and Physical Education Center.

The loss drops the Lady Raiders to 4-11 on the season while Manatee improves to 10-5. The next action for SCC is Tuesday night when they play host to the Lady Titans of Brevard Community College. Game time is 7 p.m.

Seminole was led by sophomore guard Kathy Cleveland with 15 points. Freshman forward Kelley Grider was the only other Lady Raider in double figures with 12. Freshman forward Dana Carr was the leading rebounder with 11 while Cleveland also led in assists with two.

Manatee placed three women in double figures paced by Deonne Leowe with 21. Also in doubles were Toni Yon with 15, and Stephanie Dumas with 10. Leowe also grabbed a game high 12 rebounds.

The game started slowly for both clubs as the Lady Lancers led 6-0 after nearly four minutes of play. Cleveland finally got SCC on the board with 16:20 to go in the first half when she made a 12 foot jumper. After a free throw by Dumas made the score 7-2, SCC scored the eight points to take a 10-7 lead. A.J. Jackson scored on a rebound, Grider hit a jumper and a layup and Cleveland hit a jumper to complete the run. Yon made a 3-pointer and a jumper to put MCC back ahead 12-10 with 9:55 to play in the half.

But, over the next 5:05 of the half, SCC's strong and aggressive 3-2 zone defense totally confused the Lady Lancers and allowed the Lady Raiders to outscore MCC, 13-0, to take a 23-12 lead with 4:50 to play in the half.

Grider hit another jump shot to start the run, Cleveland got a layup after a steal and Shari Siegrest hit one of two free throw attempts. Susan Asplen then scored on a beautiful pass from Siegrest, and Siegrest hit another free throw. Stephanie Crawford hit a free throw and then a layup, and Asplen finished the run with a layup off a feed from Cheryl Pierce.

But MCC awoke from the doldrums and scored 16 of the last 18 points of the half to take a 28-25 lead at halftime.

Seminole kept the game close most of the second half, tying the game at 30-30 when Cleveland made a 3-point shot with 18:45 to play. But MCC scored the next six points and the Lady Raiders would get no closer than four points the rest of the contest.

SCC had a chance to make a game of it with the score 40-34 and 14:42 to play. An intentional foul was called on a Manatee player and a technical foul was assessed to the Lancer coach as well. But the Lady Raiders missed all four free throw attempts and the ensuing throw in was intercepted and Leowe made two free throws for Manatee to make the score 42-34 with 13:55 left.

The Lady Lancers outscored the Lady Raiders 21-18 the rest of the way to win their tenth game of the season.

Home, warm home

When this couple retired, they plugged into the sun

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald correspondent

LAKE MARY — Tom and Rosella Bonham wanted to save energy when they designed the house in which they would retire. They also wanted to save money.

Tom was employed as an electrical engineer with Westinghouse when he first began researching alternative energy sources almost two decades ago.

"He read and saved everything he could on solar energy," Rosella said. "When we moved down from Delaware in 1982, he had eight big boxes of materials."

When one first approaches the Bonham's home, it looks not much different than the others along the quiet neighborhood's unpaved street. On the roof, however, are several photovoltaic panels to collect the sun's rays and convert them into electric power.

"We wanted a traditional-looking house," Tom said. "Some other energy-efficient designs, like geodesic domes, are limited in their room configuration possibilities. With this house, we could have standard features."

They designed the house to their exact specifications, including a huge walk-in pantry in the kitchen and a cedar closet in the bedroom.

It is the construction of the building that makes it so energy conservative, Rosella proudly shows off a thick photo album crammed with a step-by-step photo account of the whole process, from groundbreaking to housewarming.

"When we first transferred here (before Tom retired), we didn't plan to retire in this area, but we fell in love with Central Florida," Rosella said. "We spent every weekend searching for a piece of land that sat squarely facing north, east south and west. It took a while before we found this one."

Solar panels must be placed on the south side of the house so they can collect the maximum amount of energy, Rosella said.

Contrary to what one might expect, they had little trouble finding a bank to loan them the money for construction of what was a somewhat experimental structure. The lending institution's biggest concern was the lack of paving on the street.

"And the city of Lake Mary was very kind," Rosella said. "They didn't give us any problems with the permits."

Central to the efficiency of the house's cooling and heating is a double foundation. First, a layer of concrete was poured, then red bricks were set down to support a layer of corrugated steel and wire, which was covered by another layer of concrete. On this surface the house was built.

The double foundation and a similar construction in the house's center wall traps the heat in the winter when the ground is warmer. The process acts in reverse in the summer.

Insulation is installed directly below the stucco, closer to the outside than in standard houses. A layer of insulation also lines the roof. With an R-value of 32, the resistance to conductive heat flow is so great that the turbine that was installed to cool the attic is not needed. ("R-value" refers to the resistance of conductive heat flow through a material.)

A two-ton air conditioning unit is all that is needed to keep the 2,100-square-foot house at a cool 72°F even on the hottest days. It is heated with a liquid propane-powered unit.

"The first winter we were here," Rosella recalled, "was very cold. Outside it was in the 20s, but even with the windows open at night, it never dropped below 68° in the house."

All the lights and cooling fans are operated by solar power. The Bonhams hope that one day soon they will be able to afford to purchase an inverter. That will allow them to convert the DC power produced by their solar panels into the AC power. The latter type of power is required to run such appliances such as the Bonhams' television and freezer, in which Rosella stores what she makes of what Tom grows in his garden.

The inverter is expensive, the Bonhams say, and the government has taken away tax incentives to people installing such unconventional energy devices.

When the Bonhams built their home four years ago, they received a 40 percent tax credit on their purchase.

"I don't know why the government took that incentive away," Rosella complained. "It makes it so much more difficult for people to have this sort of thing." The solar method of producing electricity is not without its drawbacks, Rosella tells a story about the time when she had invited her women's club to have their meeting at the house.

"I was so proud, I had to turn on every light in the place to show them. All of a sudden the lights just went out. I had overloaded the system. The meeting was adjourned early," she laughed.

The house's water supply, from an ground well, is filtered through an experimental system designed by Ellis Teer, of Teer Laboratories in Lake Mary. The system is a sort of catalytic converter that vents hydrogen sulfates and allows the free iron to settle at the bottom of the tank. The result is clear, sweet-tasting water.

Tom, a master gardener, has connected the pipes from the house to his vegetable garden. This way, when the pressure rises to bring water to the house, it also turns on the sprinklers embedded between the plants.

Rows of pineapples, strawberries, brussels sprouts and zucchini are nestled into a raised garden in the backyard. Orange trees are clustered around the property. Three blueberry bushes await their season on the side of the house. In the front yard, three apple trees are beginning to bloom.

Rosella eats much of the harvest as well as making jams, jellies and marmalades. She also makes breads and cakes. Nothing goes to waste.

The Bonhams' energy bill is usually less than $100 a month, nearly half what one would expect for a house as large as theirs.

"And when you're on a fixed income you need that kind of savings," Rosella said.

Insulation requires knowledge, not skill

By Reader's Digest
Written for UPI

Surfaces that separate living areas from unheated spaces such as an attic or from the outdoors, should be insulated from winter's cold.

Most insulation jobs require no special skills and can be completed over a weekend. Insulating a finished wall, however, is best left to professionals, since the insulation must be blown into the wall.

Here are instructions for insulating attics, basements and crawl spaces: (Caution: When working with insulation, wear safety glasses, a breathing mask and gloves. Consider wearing a hard hat.)

Unfinished attics

The attic is usually the simplest and most cost-effective space to insulate. You can use loose fill to insulate an attic floor, but bats (pre-cut 4- or 8-foot strips of insulation) or blankets (continuous rolls of insulation) are probably a better choice. They're easier to work with and come with a vapor barrier already in place.

Be sure to buy bats or blankets with the appropriate R-value (insulation value) for your area. In extremely cold areas, See Insulation, Page 5B

There's more to landscaping than looks

Success of landscape plantings depends greatly on site analysis and plant selection.

The long-term value of a landscape plant depends on how well it performs in the planting site. Planting site characteristics such as amount of sun or shade, salt spray, exposure, water drainage and soil type must be determined before plants are selected.

The light characteristics of a planting site can be full sun, half day full sun, indirect light, broken shade, full shade or any light level in between. One can select ornamental plants that will grow in almost any sun or shade level around the home.

Amount of light affects rate of photosynthesis, plant water loss, degree of sun scald, and ability to tolerate dry soils and winds. Most plants grown in shade require less irrigation than plants grown in full sun. Plants protected by trees are less subject to cold injury than those in exposed locations because the arboreal canopy reduces the radiant heat lost by these plants.

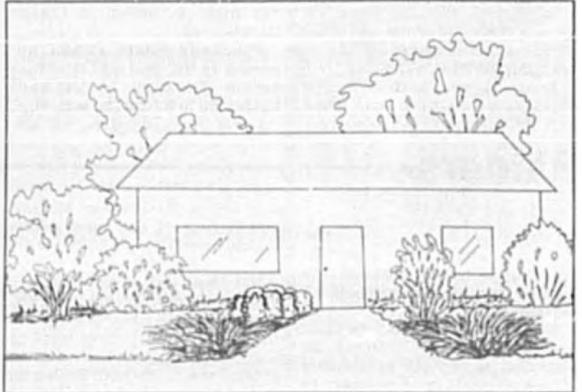

Shade during the early morning slows the rate of thaw and can reduce the amount of cold damage.

Plant tolerance of salt water and salt spray is of particular concern to homeowners living in Florida's coastal areas. Plants can be selected that are well-adapted to soils and exposures of coastal areas.

Poor soil drainage may cause roots of some plants to rot while other plants are adapted to wet areas. However, plants recommended for wet areas and produced in a well-drained nursery, soil may not be able to withstand the rapid transition. The best solution is to correct the drainage problem by altering surface or subsurface drainage patterns with tiles, land forms, etc.

A soil test should be completed before landscape plants are selected. Select plants that are adapted to the existing soil type rather than amending or changing soil conditions to suit a particular type of plant.

Soil tests are conducted for

A plant's viability in growth conditions should enter into landscaping decisions as much as its appearance.

$1.50 for individuals 9 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Thursdays at the Seminole County Agricultural Center, 250 W. County Home Road, across from Flea World off U.S. Highway 17-92. Soil may be dropped off for testing Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Many factors can alter urination

DEAR DR. GOTT: Sometimes I feel as if I have to urinate all the time, but can't. Other times I have to go about every half-hour. Could this be due to the Seldane I take for allergies, or the lactase/renin tablets I take to help digest lactose? I'm male and only 34.

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: Urinary urgency and frequency have many causes, ranging from the body's normal periodic tendency to excrete excess fluid to the effects of drugs, especially kidney stimulants (diuretics).

To begin with, the kidney's ability to excrete water depends on the amount of blood circulated through these organs. When we lie down, more blood reaches the kidneys and more urine is formed. This fact may explain why, as we age, we tend to urinate more at night.

Also, since the fluid lost in perspiration is not available to the kidneys for excretion, we form less urine in hot weather — unless, of course, we drink more liquid to make up the balance.

Urinary infections cause frequency of urination — and, often, burning.

Diabetes can cause increased urine flow because when the body is forced to excrete sugar, it must do so by increasing the excretion of water.

In addition, alcohol will increase urine formation because the substance interferes with anti-diuretic hormone, a natural compound that prevents the body from losing fluid.

Finally, diuretics stimulate the kidneys to extract more liquid from the blood reaching them. These medicines increase urine flow. Caffeine is a mild diuretic; hence, many people experience urinary frequency if they consume coffee, tea or cola — irrespective of the amount of fluid in these beverages. Seldane, an antihistamine, has been reported to cause frequent urination in some people. Drugs, such as lactase/renin combinations to aid digestion, do not ordinarily affect urine formation.

You should have a medical examination to determine the cause of your symptoms. You need to be checked for diabetes, infection and other conditions that stimulate urine flow. If everything checks out, you may choose to reduce fluid consumption, particularly alcoholic beverages and caffeine-containing drinks.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My podiatrist removed an ingrown toenail on my big toe. Then he said he would like to do a permanent procedure in which a chemical called phenol is injected to make the nail grow straight. It sounds good but is it safe?

DEAR READER: I don't know.

Phenol is highly irritating to living tissue and certainly could alter the growing portion of the nail. I am unaware of any serious side effects of phenol used in this manner, but even without the substance, removal of the ingrown part of the toenail usually produces a satisfactory result.

Home may not be best for retarded kids

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Judy in West Virginia" who cared for Maria, her 10-year-old blind and retarded child at home. Judy is to be commended for having lasted so long. She needs to recognize that she is not equipped to spend every waking hour caring for her child—however well-loved.

Her decision concerning whether or not to place Maria in a facility should not depend on what her relatives think. Such critics are ignorant of the toll caring for a multi-handicapped child at home takes on the child and the entire family.

Facilities for the mentally retarded are able to give 24-hour supervision and care, help the child socialize at her own pace and level, and train her in some basic skills. However much Judy tries, her closeness to her child as well as the guilt trip imposed by the relatives renders her unable to do these things effectively.

ADVICE

The federal government sponsors a program to enable the mentally retarded person to reach his/her maximum potential. The ICF/MR program (Intermediate Care Facility for the Mentally Retarded) is usually supervised and sometimes managed by the state. There is some governmental subsidy, which varies from state to state. Information is usually available from the regional mental health center. If not, Judy should write to the Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, D.C.

Judy has done all she can. Now it's time for her to give that responsibility to the specialists. At first it may be very hard and leave a terrible void, but for the child's sake, it's better at 10, rather than 20 years later when health or other problems occur.

My husband and I placed Sherry, our retarded teenager, in such a facility after much deliberation by us, and criticism for relatives. I thought I would not survive the experience. I found fault with everything and everyone until I realized that after the initial shock of separation, Sherry was better controlled and, believe it or not, happier there than she had been at home. Now, eight years later, I could kick myself for having waited so long because of my own pride and the interference of relatives.

Good luck to Judy!

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 10, 1989

Both friends and casual acquaintances will play important roles in your affairs in the year ahead. Your greatest successes are likely to come through people you know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you have the capability to scale rather heady heights if you have the inclinations to do so. Even when confronted with obstacles, you'll remain sure-footed. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's your second nature to be charitable to people you like and today this quality will be accentuated, but only to those you'll feel are truly deserving.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Bridges can be rebuilt today with a friend with whom you've been having disagreements. Start taking some positive measures to wipe the old slate clean.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A harvest is at hand and you should have an opportunity at this time to reap rewards in areas where you have paid your dues with hard work and diligence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A seemingly complex problem can be resolved today if you base your conclusions on similar experiences in the past. The solution is already in your head.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not be discouraged if you have been unable to fulfill your present ambitions. Changes are astringent that could suddenly turn your disappointments into substantial victories.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In an important involvement today consider what must be done in order to be fair to everyone concerned. Making the right decisions from this premise won't be difficult.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your greatest asset today is your ability to solve problems that others find difficult. Before the day is out, your special talents are apt to be requested.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A friendly get-together with an old pal may take on additional significance today. There is a mutual interest that can be beneficially joined.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Encourage the family to pull together today on both small and large tasks that need attention. After they are finalized, all can share pride in what was collectively achieved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Focus on your priorities today, not your probabilities. Several important objectives can be achieved simultaneously if you attack them methodically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your mate hasn't been getting proper mileage out of the family budget lately, it could be a signal for you to step in and take control. You should be effective in this area.

R-values of up to R-49 are recommended for unheated attics. (If you're using loose fill, you'll need to buy enough to achieve the recommended R-value.)

Here's how to go about putting in the insulation.

1. Determine the square footage of insulation needed by multiplying the length of the attic floor by its width. Buy insulation that is the correct width to fit snugly between joists.

2. Use plywood for temporary flooring and hang one or more work lights. Start laying the blankets or batts, vapor barrier side down, at the outer edges of the attic and work toward the center. Make sure each batt butts tightly against the next. To cut a batt or a blanket, set it on a board, compress it with a 2-by-4 and cut it with a serrated knife.

3. Compress insulation to fit underneath wiring; leave a 3-inch space around a recessed lighting fixture or a motor-driven device. Adequate air flow above attic insulation is essential to prevent condensation, so don't block the eave vents.

4. If you choose to use loose fill insulation, first install a vapor barrier by laying strips of 6-mil-thick polyethylene in the spaces between joists. Cut the strips three or four inches wider than the spaces, staple them to the sides of the joists, then pour in loose fill to desired thickness.

If your attic has a finished floor, install the insulation on the ceiling. Fit batts—vapor barriers facing you—between rafters and staple the outer edges of the vapor barrier to the rafters at 6-inch intervals. Allow at least 1 inch of space between the batts and the roof for ventilation.

Basements, crawl spaces

1. In unheated spaces, fit batts or blankets, vapor barrier side up, between overhead joists. Then staple wire mesh to the joists to secure the insulation.

2. In a heated basement, install a framework of furring strips or studs on the walls. Fit the insulation, vapor barriers facing you, between the studs or furring. Staple the insulation in place. Cut pieces of insulation to fit the headers (the strips of wood to which the joists are attached).

3. To insulate a heated crawl space, lay a 6-mil-thick polyethylene sheet over the entire floor area. Fit strips of insulation against the headers.

Using furring strips, nail lengths of unfaced insulation to the sill (the bottom of the header); the insulation should extend 2 feet along the ground over the polyethylene. Use rocks or bricks to anchor the insulation.

Magazine breaks aging stereotypes

United Press International

Modern Maturity, the most widely circulated magazine in America, is not one that dishes up exposes on the stars. Sent to some 18 million homes bi-monthly, this official publication of the American Association of Retired Persons is more apt to detail cholesterol counts.

It's these kind of tips that the latest growing segment of the population wants to hear. With fitness and proper diet fueling longevity, there are now 51.4 million people in this country 55 and over, or 21 percent of the population.

Subscriptions to Modern Maturity are available to those who join AARP, which despite its name is not limited to retired persons. The only requirement for joining is that you've hit your 50th birthday. Horace Dreets, executive director of AARP, calls the magazine a "flagship" of the organization.

Modern Maturity takes on tremendous importance as an educational tool that every member sees," he says. "For years it has been a welcome friend. In fact, to many it is the No. 1 benefit for joining."

Modern Maturity was first published in 1958, the year AARP was founded by Ethel Percy Andrus, a retired California school principal. In recent years, the magazine has occupied a pioneering role in smashing stereotypes about aging.

You won't find hunched-over grannies lamenting their stiff joints on its pages. The people in ads and articles are active, dynamic and productive.

Advertisers who don't comply with that image are turned away, or some 40 percent of those who apply. Magazine costs are paid for from AARP's general revenues, which include the $5 annual dues multiplied by more than 18 million.

"So we are in the enviable position of being able to say no to advertisers," says Dreets. He's talking about saying no to a sizable chunk of cash. A one-page, four-color ad in Modern Maturity runs $172,000.

Teresa Drury leads the efforts to censor and shape the advertising flavor of the magazine. Drury serves as advertising standards director from her base in Lakewood, Calif., where the magazine is published.

"One of the missions of AARP is to improve the image of aging, and here we had ads for adult diapers with headlines 'does your bladder leak?' And we suddenly said, 'whoa, wait a minute, if we're going to improve the image of aging, we've got to start at home,'" says Drury, 51, a former talk show host.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Some years ago I was invited to participate in a bridge-tips competition that was open to selected journalists and sponsored by Bols Royal Distilleries. The competition has been held several times since then, with different columnists and writers invited to participate. Although these "tips" can be esoteric, this week we'll look at those from 1988 that have practical value for any player.

Today's declarer ducked the first spade trick but had to take the continuation with his ace. Since he had only eight top tricks, he went to dummy with the ace of clubs and led the jack of hearts. He hoped that East might hold the ace of hearts and decide to play low. That hope was laid to rest when West won the heart ace and rattled off enough spades to set the contract. Here is the tip from Patrick Jourdain, editor of the International Bridge Press Association Bulletin, to help in such situations: With eight winners and five losers in three no-trump, play off your long suit early.

Look what happens when declarer plays off five diamond tricks after winning the ace of spades. West follows to two rounds of the suit and discards his two small hearts without pain, but on the fifth diamond there will surely come a pause. If he throws a club, South can cash out four club tricks. If he lets a spade go, declarer can force out the ace of hearts without fear. Even if the layout of the cards is different, playing out the winners can do no harm and may do great good.
