Jim Farley May Return To Active Political Role .

Likely to Lure Him Back

Special to Central Press .

· WASHINGTON-Washington political observers are speculating that the ouster of Henry A. Wallace from the Truman cabinet and the president's backing of Secretary of State Byrnes in the recent foreign policy controversy may bring former Democratic National Chairman - James A Farley back into the official Democratic

That possibility was raised by Farley's presence in Parts at the height of the Wallace-Byrnes cabinet crisis Reports that Farley had a prominent hand in bringing the Democratic row to a conclusion with Wallace's dismissal were given little credence in Washington. , But politicos nevertheless believed that Mr Truman's 100 per cent support of Byrnes -a conservative like Parley-may have been enough to pave the way for "Big Jim" to resume

an active political role in 1940 over the third term issue. Now that the last of the original New Deal cabinet officers is gone, some persons believe Farley may be ready to lend his strength to the Democratic cause on a national scale. Farley has maintained his thousands of party contacts throughout the country while serving as a traveling executive for a soft drink concern. He is credited with knowing more Democratic local leaders and workers in his time than anyone else

His active aid in the closely-fought congressional elections this year-and in the presidential battle ahead in 1948-conceivably have a decisive effect. What he will do to still Farley's secret.

OFFICIALS OF THE UNITED STATES and some of the Latin-American countries are growing increasingly unhappy over political developments south of the Rio Grande since the war ended.

They fear that the entire fabric developed under the late President Rooseveli's "good neighbor" policy and made more binding by the common dangers of hostility may be falling apart under the stresses of the peace.

State department experts avoid voicing their apprehension in public utterances but some of them privately evince concern. In public they note that more free elections have been held in South American countries than at any time in history, many of themas in Brazil and Argentina-for the first time in years. It is the apparent development of a cleavage between nationalistic and communistic ideologies. Between the two, democracy of the United States type apparently is being squeezed out. The experts feel that something needs to be done to restore the democratic ideal but they can't find out what is to be done. One Latin-American authority just returned from a tour of the southof the border countries claims that United States prestige has never The Communists; as in most countries, are far better organized

Says Germany Key

To Future Relations

Of Big - 4 Nations

LONDON, Oct. 22, (AP) — British Foreign Secretary

Ernest Bevin, speaking before the House of Commons, declared today that the Potsdam agreement must be fully observed or "we must have, a new agreement." in opening a two-day de-

thate on foreign policy, Bevin asserted that an agreement on the future of Germany is the key to relations among the Big Four powers. Bevin held that the British government wished to see Germany set up in such a manner as to secure the world against any German reversion to dictatorship. The foreign secretary went on to say that the Paris Peace Conference presented a trend to-ward an East-West division of the world which must be pre-vented He also stated that he was confident that such a trend could be avoided.

Meanwhile the long awaited break in the 22-day old maritime walkout came in New York City today. A contract was signed this morning between the striking engine room officers of the City and the East and Gulf coast ship owners. However, the striking deak Micers, represented by the Amtrificers, represented by the Amtrican Federation of Labor, have not reached an agreement with the operators. Major issues are still to be ironed out between strikers on both unions and the West coast shipping companies.

The government was concerned today of the possibility of another soft coal walkout. Lewis threatened to tear up the present contract with the government by Nov. 20 unless adjustments are made in the beautiful paners and the beautiful paners in ont.
