No Bus Fatalities Occurred Recently

TAMPA, Oct. 22. (FNS)—The carrying of more than 3,000,000 passengers in buses by Florida motor bus operators in the past 9 months without one passenger fatality is a safety achievement, states Asher Frank, director of the Florida Safety Council.

"Human life is just as precious today as before the war," states Frank, "and we are proud that the bus operators, in spite of their contribution of manpower to war efforts, have maintained such a fine safety record in public transportation."

Mr. Stewart also announced that in the near future an exhibit gallery match for which spectator charges would be made, would be given for the benefit of the club. As a feature attraction two Rollins coaches will play two local golfers.

Ohio Buckeyes Lose Four Men From Backfield

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
Wide World Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22.—Paul Brown, youthful Ohio state grid coach, laid legitimate cause to mourn this fall.

The Buckeyes' crack backfield of a year ago had been graduated in the line.

Also, five top-flight freshmen stars had fumbled in the class room, including the almost legendary Horace Gillon, huge Negro whom Brown had coached at Massillon, and who was expected to furnish something like eleven-tenths of the Buckeye attack.

But Ohio high school coaches had made a promise and their promise is paying dividends to Brown, whose red-tail Buckeyes are among the early-season choices for the national championship.

When Francis Schmidt said good-bye to High Street the prep school mentors stated, in effect, they would send their stars to Columbus if one of their group got the Ohio State job. They meant Brown, of course, whose Massillon teams hadn't been beaten in a half dozen seasons.

Brown went to Columbus last year and the state prep stars have followed him. . . followed to such an extent that this year's varsity has the heaviest sophomore tinge in Buckeye history and is the youngest team in the Western Conference.

Of his squad of 43, only 3 are seniors. There are 24 sophomores and 16 juniors.

It might be added that this probably is the fastest team, as a unit, in modern Ohio State history, as well as the lightest. The 230-pound behemoths are gone because Brown wants his tackles and guards to keep up with his halfbacks. Bill Willis, sophomore tackle (and a beauty) is the only man over 200 pounds in the lineup and he exceeds that by only 50 pounds.

Italy Says Axis Bags 55 Planes

Japs Report Sinking Of 2 Destroyers; Resume Attacks On Guadalcanal Field

VICHY, Oct. 22, (AP)—Admiral Jean Darlan, broadcasting from Dakar, told inhabitants of France's west African naval base, "New dangers are hanging over you."

He arrived in Dakar today as rumors were pondered in France that the United States may attack Dakar.

In the Egyptian campaign, the Italians asserted today that 55 British planes were shot down against a loss of 11 Axis planes in a violent battle over the desert. The land front on El Alamein was quiet.

In the Southwest Pacific Japanese forces have sunk two American destroyers and resumed their attacks on the Guadalcanal airfield, but American fliers are still hitting back hard, the Navy reported last night in a communique which indicated the main battle of the Solomons is not yet joined.

It noted ominously that "large numbers" of enemy warships are still poised in the northern Solomons, apparently awaiting the signal for an anticipated all-out Jap attempt to recapture positions lost to the O'Brien's.

The Navy said the destroyers Meredith and O'Brien—two of the newest in the United States fleet—were sunk by enemy action "within the last few days."

It said reports or casualties have not been received but it is believed all of the O'Brien's personnel and most of the Meredith's were rescued.

Normal complement of each vessel is about 115 officers and crew.

There was no immediate estimate of the number of blue-jackets aboard the destroyers.

It was not revealed how the destroyers were lost—whether by sea or air action. They brought to the number of American warships and auxiliaries sunk in the Solomons campaign.

The communique revealed a continuing battle in the Solomons, particularly on Guadalcanal and it indicated that American fliers still are bearing the brunt of the fighting.

They shot down a total of 12 Jap planes Sunday and Monday and damaged two more enemy warships—two destroyers and a cruiser which was "stopped by at least one bomb hit," the communique said.

These attacks, which cost the United States only three planes, raised to at least 60 the number of Jap warships and auxiliaries sunk or damaged and to at least 32 the number of enemy planes destroyed.

The damaged cruiser was believed to have been part of one of the many enemy task forces in the Solomons waters.

For the fifth successive day, American planes again bombed enemy supply dumps and troop positions on the northwestern shores of Guadalcanal—a strategy apparently designed to keep the Japs from getting set for a major blow.

Health Plan Is Adopted At Board Meeting

Women's Clubs Plan Public Services As Part Of All-Out War Effort

All-out endorsement of a "Health for Victory" educational program, and through condemnation of any "political trifling," with the public health service and county units was embodied in two resolutions presented to and approved by 121 women, comprising the Board of Directors of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, representing 12 districts from Jacksonville to Key West, which met yesterday morning at the Hotel Mayfair for the final program of their two day Fall session.

"Florida leads the nation in natural health advantages such as sunshine and fresh air, but in the matter of health statistics I am sorry to state, it also leads the nation as far as bad health is concerned," said Mrs. Thurston Roberts, chairman of the War Service Committee and immediate past president of the Federation, in introducing the "Health for Victory" program. Her sponsor was Mrs. A. Malcolm Smith, Tampa, chairman of the Department of Public Welfare for the Federation.

The "Health for Victory" program encompasses education in personal fitness, nutrition, sanitation, proper eating and drinking habits, safe food and water supplies, adequate housing facilities, immunization and vaccination, rodent control, adequate sewage disposal, venereal disease control, repression of prostitution and allied problems, according to Mrs. Roberts. It is to supplement anything any other agency or organization is now doing. It was emphasized.

Prominent endorsers of the program are Paul V. McNutt, Director of the Office of Defense Production, Washington; E. A. Tamm, Assistant Director of the same agency; Senator Claude Pepper; and Dr. Gilbert S. Olin, Chairman of the Division of Health and Housing of the Florida Defense Council. Senior Surgeon in the U. S. Public Health Service holding the rank of Colonel and President of the Florida Medical Association.

Sponsors of the program declared it is an opportunity to help eradicate the serious conditions growing out of problems created by the war. They said that "the sound health of both civilians and armed forces is a vital factor in the winning of every which calls for all-out effort in every field."

Because of the vast number of military camps and thousands of young men being trained in Florida, such a program is considered especially beneficial to this State.

Colorful progress against the proposed scattering of the county unit health program and return of many counties under 25,000 population to what is termed the old "politically exploited" system of health districts, was made by Mrs. Edward P. Pfaff, president of the Duval County Federation of Women's Clubs, who in the preface of this proposed change introduced an emergency resolution which was unanimously approved.

Mrs. Pfaff stated that the women's organizations of the State had worked so hard to help institute health reforms and introduced health units in rural and smaller communities that it would be very unfortunate to take them away, especially at a time when necessary health units in Florida are desperately in need of a health program. She pointed out that under present State laws, several counties could be combined in such a unit in rural areas where not enough people to maintain units in each.

Action leading to the resolution was said to have been brought about by recent announcements in the press by State Health Officer, Henry Hanson that re-establishment of health districts in counties of less than 25,000 population would be the policy of the State Board of Health from now on. Comments upon this statement, Mrs. Avery Gorton, past president of the Miami Women's Club, stated that she believed commissioners whose policy in turn had always been to cut down on revenues.

Study the Constitutional amendments to be voted upon Nov. 3. Don't leave it entirely to the other fellow to decide what the Constitution under which you must live will be.

The Key West Citizen is greatly concerned over the order freezing salaries and wages. "Now that salaries are pegged," it says, "we suppose we will have to get along on what we get."

We've been hearing a lot about the man power problem during the last few weeks, but if this situation doesn't improve pretty soon we'll be hearing more about the horse power problem.

Farmers in the southwest are importing Mexican laborers to assist with their farming operations. There is plenty of Cuban Bahaman labor near here which could be imported if sufficient labor is not available locally to harvest our crops.

If a revolution breaks out in Europe against the Yish government, it will be a bloody affair and one which even the Germans can hardly contemplate with equanimity.

Dean Akerman of the Columbia School of Journalism symposium with the American people carries the burden of leading the public, it serves the chief propaganda agent of the government, it backs the last line of type, and labors it is both censured and praised.

Seattle to Bopchoppy. Weary filing clerks develop stumped shoulders as they labor to keep up with the avalanche of "paper work" that is the life blood of the government agency.

One might well imagine that all the questions already had been answered. But such is not the case. On one subject, official Washington seems content to remain in complete and total ignorance.

Are you an employer? How many slaves do you retain? Have you stopped kicking the janitor? Which hand do you slap the office boy with? How do you manage to stay in business? (Answer YES or NO). If your answer is YES—Explain. Don't answer NO unless you have something to say.

The New Tax Bill

You will not like the new tax bill which became the law of the land when the President signed it yesterday. By "you" we do not mean those habitual detesters of tax bills—the three or four percent at the top of the economic pile—we mean every one of you, every one who earns $600 a year or more, some 45,000,000 of you, and even the rest will pay greater so-called "painless" taxes.

There are a good many features of this new tax bill and we would never attempt to enumerate them all or explain any of them. We are neither a lawyer nor a certified public accountant. And we expect to have to hire both before we can figure out what our own tax will be. But suffice it to say that Senator LaFollette, shortly before voting for the measure, called it "the worst tax bill in history."

Right off the bat the poor devil who earns $20 a week gets soaked right on the jaw with a "Victory" tax—so-called to make it more palatable—which takes a dollar a week out of his payroll. And everyone else who earns $12 a week or more will pay a similar tax based on 5 percent of his weekly salary or wage. And the employer, whoever he happens to be, becomes the tax collector, filches the pay envelope and remits to the government.

Then when it comes time to figure up what your income tax is, you will find that the normal rate has been increased from 4 to 6 percent while the surtax is increased so that it ranges from 13 to 82 percent depending on how much you make. But there is a post war credit for all good little boys so that part of the taxes which you pay today will be returned to you after the war is over, provided there is anything left in the Treasury out of which to return it. So the picture is not quite as bad as it could be.

Nevertheless, the single man who earns a thousand dollars a year and up to now has paid $11.49 income tax, will now pay $70.60, plus a "Victory tax" of $18.80 with a post war credit of $4.70, making a total net tax of $84.70 while the man who earns a hundred thousand a year will find that he must give $60,819.80 to the government, not including his state and county taxes, and assuming that his income is derived from investments and not earned. In the latter case he gives all but $25,000 to the government.

Knowing this, the little fellow who is now making more than he ever did before in his life and is finding that as his income increases his responsibility to the government increases with it, should not complain too much. After all, there is a war to win. And if it takes all the money, all of us have, it will be much cheaper than losing it.

Haven't They Heard?

We in this country believe that in time of war equal sacrifices should be made by all people and groups alike. We believe that when terrific wartime taxes are levied, everybody should be made to pay in proportion to his capacity. We believe that when men are drafted the same proportion should be called from one town as another. We believe that when food is rationed everyone should be treated alike.

In the light of this rather common belief in this country, it is interesting to note that in Washington where the regulations which govern the rest of us are made, the full fury of the war's mighty blast has not yet been felt. President Roosevelt said recently upon his return from a nationwide tour that the rest of the country was far ahead of the Washington bureaucrats. They are far ahead in sacrifices at any rate.

And the Memphis Commercial Appeal, as if to show that food rationing has not yet made itself felt in our capital, reports on a recent dinner meeting of the field representatives of the Office of War Information where Archibald MacLellan, poet and Librarian of Congress and former head of the Office of Facts and Figures, addressed the gathering.

"Following the feast of reason that Archibald no doubt provided, the physical man seems to have required refreshment," says the Commercial Appeal. "First, he got it at a bar, where the guests got Martin, Manhattan and Daquiri cocktails, and/or Scotch highballs. Then as the old hillbilly song runs, 'They asked 'em in to dinner an' this is what they eat':"

Stuffed Tomato with Crabmeat Lumps
Russian Dressing, Stuffed Celery, Salted Nuts
Cream of Fresh Mushrooms Profiterole
Trite au Bleu, sauce Mouseline,
Pommes Amandine
Supreme of Guinea Hen with Virginia Ham,
Perigourdine
Braised Celery au Jus, Pommes Foulantes
Bouquet of Asparagus, sauce vinaigrette (plate)
Souffle au Chocolat
Sauce Vanille, Petite Fours, Demi Tasse.

Taxpayers, "the rationed, the sacrifices generally will be charmed to learn that a dry white wine was served with the fish, Bergundy with the meat, and appropriate liquors with cigars and cigarettes at the conclusion of the meal."

Even the OWI officials from the hinterlands were surprised at the lavishness of Washington hospitality, according to newspaper accounts of the "clinic on national sacrifice." But we have seen no reports from them on the subject.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Conceding questionnaires to fire point blank at harassed and helpless business men, big and little, has long been a favorite indoor sport with Washington bureaucrats. Crackpots and busy-bodies, once enrolled in an official letter society invariably turn to the questionnaire as their first line of defense. Not knowing the answers, they look them from the other fellow and blame him if they're wrong.

Are you an employer? How many slaves do you retain? Have you stopped kicking the janitor? Which hand do you slap the office boy with? How do you manage to stay in business? (Answer YES or NO). If your answer is YES—Explain. Don't answer NO unless you have something to say.

WASHINGTON

By JACK STINETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (GW)—AMERICAN women in (WW) and those in the uniform of the WAACs, WAVES and WAVS in particular over a 21-gun salute to Jean Knox, chief controller (major general) of the British Auxiliary Territorial Service.

The reason for a convincing soldier. There is every reason in the world why she shouldn't be. She is chic, charming and feminine. She wears her uniform as if it were something dashed off by Schiaparelli. She believes in make-up (if you have time for it) and romance (one of her many achievements has been to try to see to that ATS women get leaves at the same time as husbands and sweethearts in the armed forces).

Married at 17, after a conventional childhood in a well-to-do London suburban family, she went to the front in the home of a conventional British housewife and mother. Now, only 34 years old, she is a veteran of nearly four years in uniform and most of the course of more than 150,000 British women soldiers who do everything from waiting tables to manning the anti-aircraft guns. She's the youngest major general in the British army and although she graduated from an officer's training school comparable to that for our WAAC's at Des Moines, she has won all her promotions from captain up on merit.

She gives her salute to the housewives who are fighting the war on the home front in the ranks of the millions of nonuniformed workers. Theirs, she says is the hardest job of all.

General Knox's 13-year-old daughter, Julia, is in boarding school and her mother tells that it was Julia's insistence that finally decided her to enlist in the ATS.

Her husband, Capt. George Knox, is a flyer in the RAF. Aside from her belief in the importance of women soldiers in the home front, she can go into the firing line, there is one other point on which the blue-eyed young general, with her close-clipped bob and pompadour of curls, goes strictly serious: the value of all this to women when the war is over.

The self-discipline which women are forced to practice in this war will be an asset they can carry into peacetime life with the certainty that it will benefit future generations, she says. Women will come out of this war with a new concept of civic consciousness that may go far toward avoiding the muddled world affairs that brought all of this about.

connection with the closed shop agreements at the Tampa Shipyard.

Watson contends that the charter of the shipbuilding company, as granted by this state, does not authorize it to make closed shop agreements or other restrictive employment contracts. He filed a quo warranto action against the company and seeks information that should shed plenty of light on the subject if he succeeds in securing complete and unequivocal answers.

Watson asked how much the unions had collected in membership fees. How many working permits had they issued. How many persons granted such permits were admitted to or disapproved for union membership. How much money was collected for working permits or joining fees or other purposes and not refunded. How many applicants for jobs at the Tampa Shipyard were turned down by the unions. Who passes upon the issuance of the working permits. How the unions operate their rules of voting. How many members of the unions now have work at the Tampa defense plant.

State Senator Jack Raymond Sheldon, who represents the people in legislative halls and the unions in private practice, termed the question "most immaterial with no bearing on the closed shop contract," but said they would be answered fully to avoid delay.

Progress of the action of the Attorney General will be watched with the keenest interest, not only in Florida but throughout the nation, for the public at large also would like to know the ANSWERS.

Lecturer in Service Writes Timely Verse

CAMP UPTON, N. Y., Oct. 22 (FNS)—Don Blanding, 47-year old lecturer, poet and artist, who left his home in Ft. Pierce, Florida to join the colors as a private, this week released the following 8-line verse, which he states is intended to explain his enlistment in the army. He entitles it "Veteran's Heart," and has authorized its release to the newspapers of the state through the Florida News Service. The verse follows:

"VETERAN'S HEART"
I am weary. Yet, if Fate should say to me
"Great Soldier, rest. Dismissed. Put down your pack."
Each nerve and muscle would make urgent plea:
To listen and obey. A moment's siesta:
While sleep's insistent fingers press against my eyes
And languor's slow drugged wine

Garden Club Rose Circle Has Meeting

Carrying out the slogan "Plant for Patriotism and Produce for Victory," members of the Rose of the Sanford Garden Club Circle participated in the timely subject of the industrial progress of Florida. Each member presented a report on a particular phase of the nation's effort to make America industrially self-sufficient. Members were reminded of the important contribution Florida is making in this effort. The commercial growing of ramie and yucca for hemp, the ever-increasing cattle industry, the growing of flax for paper manufacture, the enforced stress on fire prevention program pertaining to the protection of game and wild life, decreed by Governor Holland, emphasized to indicate that Florida is "fully geared in the all-out war effort."

The Garden Club is proud to play a vital part in this emergency through education and participation, members of the club reported.

The panel discussion was led by Mrs. J. H. Colclough.

Due to the resignation of Mrs. M. J. McNair, Mrs. Julius Dingfelder, president of the meeting, Mrs. Fred R. Wilson was elected chairman; Mrs. Al Lee, vice chairman; Mrs. Julius Dingfelder, secretary and Mrs. A. M. Gordner, secretary pro tem.

Woman Has Good Position On War Manpower Board

By ADELAIDE KERR
Wide World Features Writer

Margaret Hickey holds a big shot war job no other woman has ever held before.

Chairman of the new woman's policy committee of the War Manpower Commission, she heads the first wartime committee of American women which settles important policy.

So she is my nomination for the Woman of the Month.

Miss Hickey, dark-eyed, silver-haired and smooth-skinned as a girl is a good-looking Missouri lawyer who founded and heads a St. Louis training school for business women.

She and her committee of 11 other women leaders of labor and industry have one of the toughest jobs in the war effort. They will help recruit 5,000,000 more women for war production by the end of 1943 and cooperate with the War Manpower Commission to obtain the most effective utilization of women power.

She is the Mrs. Joseph Strahinger, wife of a St. Louis lawyer.

She really looked toward her present war job during the first World War. She took a wartime typist's job and devoted her spare time to coaching pushing typists in the office.

Beauty Specialist Describes Manner Of Curling Hair

By BETTY CLARKE
Wide World Beauty Editor

When your hairdresser teaches you how to do your own hair, it's happening in New York where the trend of the times has impelled a top-flight hair stylist, Lura de Ger, to give her clients lessons in home-made curling. It may mean less business for the hairdresser, says Lura, but after all, this is wartime, and girls who work long hours at new jobs often don't have time to get professionally beautified.

So the self-service hairdressing is born. It teaches busy girls how to brush, shampoo and style their hair even to the most tedious business of producing a finger wave with the aid of water and lolly pop.

The first thing stressed is thorough brushing, with the head down, to stimulate circulation of the scalp. This should be done before and after the home shampoo.

There's a trick to giving yourself a professional-looking finger wave. Girls are taught to avoid the curls from the end of the hair and not from the scalp. Then they neatly with one hand pin, with the end of the finger tucked underneath. The curl should be pinned in even lines around the head with no loose ends waving in the breeze.

After the last pin is in place the hair is covered with a large triangle net, tied securely around the head with a knot in front. You may then go to bed in comfort, and wake up with hair that is neatly curled the next morning.

Stop.. Think Twice Before Making a LONG DISTANCE CALL!

In America's race against time, war industries and the armed forces are using the long distance telephone as never before—calls by the thousands every day.

But thousands of civilian messages—calls not related to winning the war—are placing an additional burden on long distance lines—consuming priceless telephone time. War calls that must go through quickly are threatened with delay.

To help keep lines clear for vital war communications—to give war industries and the military forces the telephone time they must have—America is depending on every long distance telephone user to voluntarily sacrifice his unnecessary calls.

There is urgent need now for a special effort to avoid making "long haul" calls. The greater the distance you talk the greater the possibility of delaying vital war calls, because the "long haul" lines are the most heavily crowded with war business.

Gators Back At Gainesville Training To Meet Pennsylvania

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 22. (Special)—Florida's Fighting Gators back in Gainesville after a 15 to 3 loss to Villanova in Philadelphia are hard at work with Pennsylvania still on their minds. It's not a team this time but the men whom they hope to battle up in their Southeastern Conference clash with Mississippi State Saturday afternoon on Florida Field. The game will come to a climax in the University's annual Homecoming program.

That one man is Florida Black, a back who has been the star of the team who last year ran Mississippi State to a 6 to 0 victory over the Gators.

The score came in the fourth quarter when Black returned a Florida punt to the Villanova 43 yard line and scored on a 10 yard run. He also kicked a 30 yard field goal to give the Gators a 22 to 0 lead.

In his first game with Mississippi State Florida lost, 12 to 0, and Black was the star in another. The present series has an unbeaten record that dates back to 1928. During all that time the

Air Force Head Will Meet With School Leaders

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 22. (Special)—Major Francis Parkman, staff member of the army and air force headquarters in Washington, will meet with school principals of Florida Saturday morning to discuss the formation of the High School Victory Corps, the national organization of war veterans.

Major Parkman is one of 11 on the national advisory committee which developed the Victory Corps plan this summer. The discussion will conclude a two-day all-principals conference at the University of Florida sponsored by the Florida Education Association. The National Office of Education will be represented by John Lund who is visiting educational leaders throughout the country in company with Major Parkman to stimulate national organization of the Victory Corps.

The two Victory Corps leaders are coming to Florida at the request of State Superintendent Colin English. A report will be made to the conference by Superintendent English Friday afternoon on the Washington Institute held last week by the Office of Education to gear the national school program to the war effort.

Speakers at the Florida conference also include Howell West, director of the Florida Victory Corps, and W. B. Treloar, Daytona Beach, Administrative Director of the organization. Nazi Army Suffers New Set-Back In Stalingrad Fight

Reds Take Offensive And Seize Major Position In Don-Volga Corridor

On the Soviet front today, Hitler's armies suffered further new setbacks in the 60-day-old siege of Stalingrad as the Russians announced they broke up a tank-led assault on the northwest factory district, where the fate of the city will be decided, captured a major position in the Don-Volga river corridor and seized the initiative inside the city.

The fourth straight day since the last Soviet retreat, German headquarters acknowledged the Reds were counter-attacking in Stalingrad and sought to distract attention from the bloody graveyard of Nazi hopes by emphasizing gains in the Caucasus region.

Russian troops tore into the German tanks above and below Stalingrad yesterday, capturing two lines of trenches to the northwest and wiping out a Nazi unit to the south, while 12 tanks and a battalion (1000 men) of shock troops were annihilated inside the city, the high command reported.

In the Stalingrad area our tanks, the Thursday night dispatches which told of winter setting heavily over the Volga and Caucasus fronts, with snow, rain and blizzards impeding operations.

The Red army was reported having gains in the German lines on both sides of the weakening Nazi attack, which was reported to have been repulsed.

Marshall Semenov, Timoshenko's reinforced and rejuvenated relief force toward Stalingrad from the northwest appeared to be gathering momentum steadily. The communists said Soviet troops by a counter blow broke into the German positions and after fierce fighting took two lines of trenches.

More than 200 German dead were left on the battlefield, and the Russians took three field guns, five machine guns, 26 automatic rifles, and a store of ammunition, in another sector northwest of Stalingrad fighting raged in the area of a height, German and Russian troops attacked, driving down under cover of a howitzer barrage, had crunched through the second line of German defenses and captured a height commanding a broad sweep of the city's northwesterly approaches.

As the war in Russia went into its 17th month, the high command reported that in the area of one Stalingrad factory, German attacked, hand-to-hand fighting developed, and a dozen handbombs were destroyed and a battalion of perhaps 1000 shock troops were exterminated.
