Military Reserve Pay Question: County Calls It Double Dipping

By DONNA ESTES

And TOM GORDANO
 Whether Seminole County must pay a county employee seeking monies deducted while he trained with the national guard may hinge on a court interpretation or a clarification by the State Legislature.

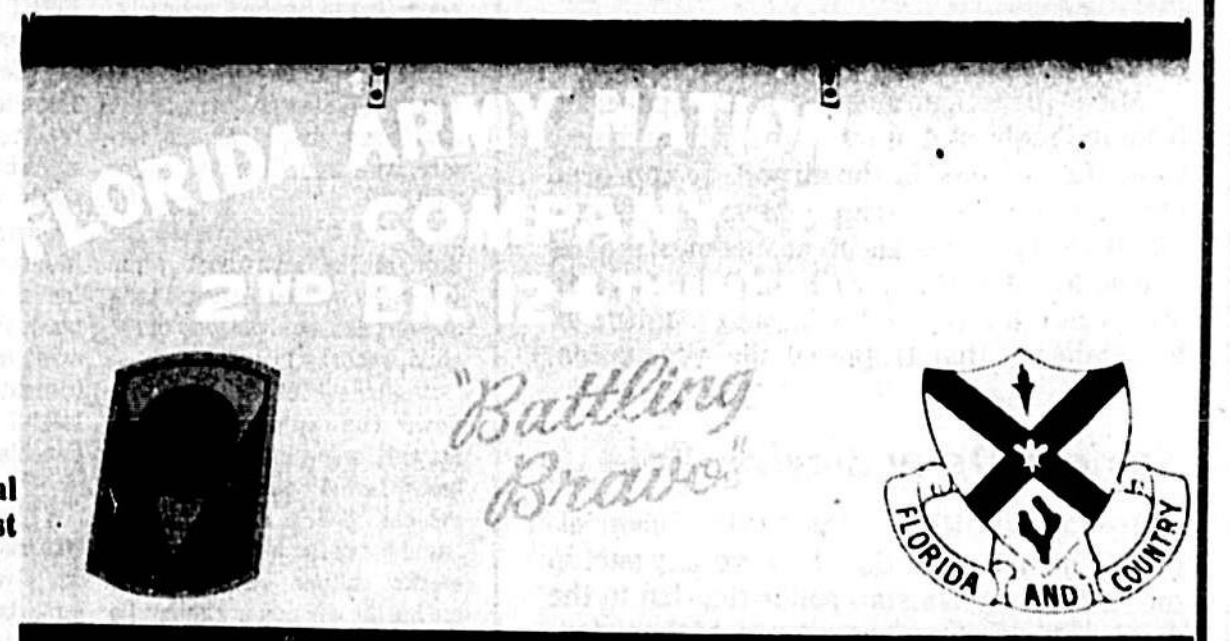

The county employee recently asked the county commission to pay him monies deducted while he was training with the national guard. The county commission, however, voted 4 to 1 to deny the request and said it will seek help through the legislative delegation to get changed a 40-year-old state law requiring state, county and city governments to pay its employees full salary during such training periods for up to 17 days.

Assistant county attorney Robert McMillan says the commission's action was based on its interpretation of a phrase in the state law which may be ambiguous enough to permit the county to deduct any part of an employee's salary paid for reserve or national guard training. That phrase, according to McMillan, is "without loss of pay." The state law refers to an employee being permitted to engage in reserve or national guard training without loss of pay.

However, McMillan said, the county commission feels paying an employee his salary, less what the reserve or national guard pays him for that training period, constitutes no loss of pay. On the other side of the issue, however, are attorneys general opinions which state a county, city or state government must pay such employees full salary during reserve or national guard training — up to 17 days a year — without regard to how much that employee may be paid by his unit.

McMillan said, however, the county is not bound by an attorney general's opinion. At least one other lawyer, Sanford City Attorney C. Vernon Mize Jr. said he feels the state directive is clear and that he is convinced a court would find it clear as well. "The intent seems clear to me that a municipality is obligated to pay an employee's full salary up to 17 days while on reserve or national guard training, regardless of how much he gets from his unit." Mize said the city of Sanford recently became interested in the issue. See RESERVE, Page 2A

Chinese Attacking Vietnam

TOKYO (UPI) — Chinese forces supported by aircraft, tanks and artillery launched a large-scale military offensive against Vietnam today, Japanese correspondents reported from Peking and Hanoi.

The reports said the attack was carried out in Lon Son, Lai Chau, Hoang Lien Son and Quang Ninh provinces on the Vietnamese side of the border. Japanese reporters said the Chinese forces penetrated up to 8 miles into Vietnamese territory.

The Chinese Communist Party confirmed the report and said the People's Liberation Army decided "to go into battle in order to punish Vietnamese for their repeated provocative actions and violence."

The party's bulletin described the action as "a systematic defensive war" and said Peking had no intention of occupying Vietnamese territory, according to Japan's Kyodo news service.

Japanese Foreign Ministry officials said Japan's embassy in Peking was unable to determine the full extent of the Chinese action, and it was not possible to contact the embassy in Hanoi.

In Washington, the State Department said it had no independent knowledge of the fighting. "We are following this," a spokesman said.

Vietnam's Premier Pham Van Dong was out of the country when the Chinese attacked. He was visiting Phnom Penh to discuss the China situation with Sang Samrin, the Cambodian rebel leader whom the Vietnamese aided in his own war last month.

A correspondent of the Japanese Communist Party newspaper "Akahata" (Red Flag) in a report from Hanoi said the Chinese launched the attack simultaneously in the four provinces at about 4:30 a.m. local time.

By noon, the report said, Chinese forces supported by aircraft, tanks and artillery were continuing the attack, with Vietnamese forces staging fierce counter-attacks. The Chinese occupied a guard post at the capital city of Dong Dang county in Long Son province and artillery attacks were under way near the provincial capital of Lon Son, the Akahata report said.

'PLANET OF FEELINGS'

It wasn't an official visitor's day Friday, but that didn't stop several from dropping in at Lydlwilde Elementary in Sanford and taking some of this planet's younger inhabitants for a trip. About 90 first-graders went to the "Planet of Feelings" — a place designed to help them learn about themselves and their many feelings, according to Ann Freeman, in charge of the program.

'Ya Doesn't Has To Call It S-E-X'

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade County School Board member Ben Sheppard Friday he'll accept an education in the public schools but only if the word "sex" isn't spelled out in the title of the course.

Sheppard, a strong opponent of sex education, thinks sex courses should be called "Human Development."

Some members of a citizens' committee established to make recommendations on the subject privately said Sheppard is afraid to "call a spade a spade." Sheppard told the committee not to refer to the program as a course in human sexuality although a high school junior publicly chastised him for his opinion. "If you don't use the word 'sexuality' in the title of the course you already are saying it is an unspeakable issue," said Miss Page.

Sheppard admitted later he was "playing politician" with the subject. "Sure we are avoiding the issue. But there are people, even on the committee, who are opposed to what we are trying to do," he said. Committee members agreed not to call the course "Human Sexuality" but did not decide on a permanent name.

Holiday Closings

The Post Office and banks in Seminole County will be closed Monday in observance of George Washington's Birthday. County offices will remain open. County city hall will close, while other offices will be open as usual.

Headstart Teacher Claims 'Discrimination, Harassment'

By DONNA ESTES

Headstart Staff Writer

A teacher in the Headstart program, Mrs. Ada Sires, has filed a letter with the Seminole County Action (SCA) Board of Directors charging "discrimination" in the administration of the program and "harassment" and "intimidation" to some employees.

All the same time, Mrs. Sires said, she was told that the program was not to be a "career ladder" but a "stepping stone" to other jobs. She said she was told that the program was not to be a "career ladder" but a "stepping stone" to other jobs. She said she was told that the program was not to be a "career ladder" but a "stepping stone" to other jobs.

William Carpenter, President of SCA, has asked Mrs. Sires and the mothers to document complaints with times, dates, places and circumstances for consideration by the board.

And John Moore, SCA vice president, has asked the complaints to be listed in.

The SCA directors, after a prolonged meeting Thursday night, heard the complaints from Mrs. Sires and the mothers made at the directors were about to adjourn.

The Headstart program is the oldest in SCA's 15 years of existence and the program was started in 1964 by SCA. No complaints have ever been filed against the program.

The Headstart program is designed to give poor children a better start in life. It is a program that is designed to give poor children a better start in life. It is a program that is designed to give poor children a better start in life.

Mrs. Sires, accompanied by four mothers of children in the Headstart program at Bostwick — Kaye Lee, Marilyn Palmer, Patricia Morris and Frances Campbell — told the board while she is dedicated to the program, she found morale at a very low ebb after many discussions with staff members.

"We have been told by our executive director (Mrs. Spencer) if we did not like what was happening in our program to get out," she said, adding, however, "Walking away from a problem does not solve it."

"It is not my idea to close Headstart, but help make it a program that we can be proud of, not one that is making enemies and hiding our heads in the sand."

"When someone wants to improve our system, the better way of members of this organization is that you are working against the poor and unfortunate people. This is pure harassment," Mrs. Sires said. "I refuse to be the victim. My intentions are devoted to returning to the original goals of Headstart — helping children, parents and community."

She listed her grievances as follows: "no retirement plan, no clear understanding of employment compensation, no representation of workers, no wage scale-no set rule, low pay — the gap is too wide between staff and administration, too much paper work-over 30 different forms — multiply this times the amount of children in each classroom; no staff meetings, unfair hiring practices, no efficient method of record keeping in office, discrimination against age, no career development — no career ladder and career advancement in program, medical records in office rarely get to doctor, harassment and intimidation to some employees, no input in supply needs, personnel policy does not apply to Headstart employees — it is interpreted and entered at administration's will." Mrs. Sires said a headstart teacher is paid about $9,000 a year. According to Mrs. Anne Jones, SCA executive director, Mrs. Spencer's salary is $14,500 annually.

Mrs. Spencer said today the crux of the problem is that Mrs. Sires sought the position of social services for the handicapped director and didn't receive it.

"When Mrs. Sires applied, she called me on the telephone and said if I didn't see it that she got the job, she would make trouble for me. It sounded like a threat to me," Mrs. Spencer said.

"Headstart has a personnel committee that interviews candidates. Three were interviewed. Mrs. Sires was one of them. Her resumes were also reviewed. The personnel committee interviewed Mrs. Sires and she was not selected. The personnel committee interviewed Mrs. Sires and she was not selected. The personnel committee interviewed Mrs. Sires and she was not selected.

Sanford Man Shot In Fight Over Son

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man was shot in the chest and neck during a dispute early Saturday over his 5-year-old son.

Arrested for aggravated battery was Norbert Lowell Thomas, 27, of 57 Master Cove Apartments in Sanford. The victim was identified as Jackie Stewart, 30, of 305 E. First St., according to Sanford police Lt. Johnnie Parker.

The incident began about 5:30 a.m. when Stewart went to the apartment shared by his former wife and Thomas, police said.

Stewart tried kicking in the door of the apartment while yelling he wanted his son. Linda Stewart has legal custody of the child, records indicate.

Unsuccessful at breaking down the apartment door, Stewart went to Thomas' car and started vandalizing the vehicle, police said. Thomas came out of the apartment with a .22 caliber revolver and during the ensuing argument he fired twice, Parker said.

Stewart is listed in stable condition at Seminole Memorial Hospital. Thomas is being held at the Seminole County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

AUTOPSY RESULT
Autopsy results indicate a migrant worker whose body was found at a landfill at Osceola Airfield died accidentally.

Roberto Molinero, 30, a native of Mexico, was found Feb. 7 by a bulldozer operator who was leveling refuse at the site. Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay reported the man bled to death when his arm was severed by a trash compacting machine.

Garay said indications are Molinero fell asleep in a large bin at the Altamonte Springs trash transfer station and his arm was severed while the contents of the bin were being loaded on a truck for the Osceola site.

MAN ROBBED
A Sanford man told police he was assaulted and robbed of $50 while walking in an alley at 2 a.m. Saturday.

Eugene Irving, 52, of 813 Hickory Ave., reported he was walking in an alleyway between Sanford and Cypress avenues when he was attacked by a lone man. During the struggle, the attacker took the cash from Irving and ran from the area, according to records.

MOPED STOLEN
A moped valued at $600 was stolen from the front yard of a Sanford home at 705 Avocado Ave. Roxane Kandall, 19, of 705 W. Second St., Sanford, told police the moped was stolen between 10 p.m. and 10:20 p.m. on Thursday.

MAN ARRESTED
A Geneva man has been arrested for grand larceny. Records indicate Sharon Collins, 30, was at the hospital when her home, at State Road 426 off Old Mims Road, was burglarized.

TRAILER TAKEN
A two-axle trailer worth $1,000 was stolen from a job site at the Forsyth subdivision near Forest City. Johnnie McGee, 38, of Altamonte Springs told sheriff's deputies the trailer was stolen sometime between Tuesday and Thursday.

APPLIANCES STOLEN
A Chuluota home was burglarized and more than $1,000 in new appliances were stolen.

TAPETAKEN
A tape recorder worth $200 was stolen from a car parked at a rural Sanford residence. Keeney Mitchell, 30, of 2061 Brisson Ave., reported the recorder stolen from his unlocked car, records indicate.

HIDE 'N STEAL
Thieves concealed themselves inside the Prairie Lake Baptist Church and then stole $200 in merchandise when everyone had departed.

PALM TREE HEIST
A total of $300 in merchandise including an eight-foot tall palm tree was stolen from a Sanford residence. Brigitte Andres, 40, of 101 Sandra Blvd., told police she found the front door of her home unlocked when she arrived at 4:30 p.m. on Monday. Also stolen were a digital clock, a picture made from wood and six bottles of liquor, according to records.

WORLD IN BRIEF

882 Yanks Evacuated By Jet From Iran Turmoil

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — A United States jumbo jet finally took off today after a six-hour delay in the last mass exodus of thousands of foreigners trapped in Iran.

Many passengers were still recovering from the night of gunfire at the U.S. embassy when they arrived at the airport. It appeared that nervous and trigger-happy Islamic marshals were blasting off at shadows, fearful of another attempt by extremists to stage an attack similar to the Wednesday capture of the embassy that triggered the evacuation.

Soviets Deny Slaying Role

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union officially denied today that it played any part in the raid by Afghanistans police that led to the death of the U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan, the Tass news agency said. U.S. complaints about the Soviets' "callous disregard" for Ambassador Adolph Dub's life were based on a "falsification of facts," Tass said.

Dayan: A Clinching Summit

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan says even if next week's ministerial-level talks at Camp David are a "dazzling success," a summit meeting will be needed to clinch a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel. Israel will raise the problems of the Sinai oil and of U.S. aid in redeploying Israeli troops besides tackling the outstanding issues that have held up an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, Dayan said in a television interview Friday.

Brown Talking With Egyptians

CAIRO (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who pledged increased material, military and diplomatic support to Egypt, today opened talks with government leaders on Cairo's military requirements and regional security following the upheaval in Iran.

Guyana Victims Drank Cyanide

ATLANTA (UPI) — Guyanese Dr. Leslie Maloo, said Friday night about 700 of the 900 People's Temple mass suicide victims drank a cyanide-laced sweet drink "under duress" — and that those who drank willingly probably did not realize what was happening.

Valentine Statue Stolen

TERNI, Italy, (UPI) — Thieves have taken the jeweled head of a statue of St. Valentine in his hometown church 24 hours after his feast day. Police said the thieves broke into St. Valentine's cathedral Thursday and broke off the head of a bronze statue of the saint whom folk tradition has turned into the protector of lovers.

"The personnel committee made its recommendation to the parent council. Seven parents were there. Two voted for Mrs. Sires and five for the woman who was selected," Mrs. Spenser said. "The position pays $9,200 annually. Prior to the vote, Mrs. Spenser said, Mrs. Sires had called other Headstart centers and requested employees there to lobby parents to support her for the job. She said the night of the parent's meeting the two mothers who voted for Mrs. Sires were urging others as they arrived for the meeting to vote for Mrs. Sires. "The parents were brainwashed," Mrs. Spenser said. "They thought, Mrs. Sires should be hired." Mrs. Spenser said there is some truth in some of the charges made by Mrs. Sires in her letter to the board of directors. "There is no money for a pension program. Everything is being taken out of cost. The whole thing is a plotted thing. She promised if I did not see it, she would have trouble." Mrs. Lee, one of the mothers, said Mrs. Sires is determined to support her for the job. "During the summer months she cannot even collect unemployment compensation. We love her as a teacher," Mrs. Lee said.

...Reserve Pay

because City Manager Warren E. Knowles, having read how the county commission voted, asked for an advisory opinion.

The county and the city of Sanford have not been complying with the law and have in the past deducted from employee salaries any amount paid to that employee by the reserve or national guard unit for training.

Mise said after researching the matter he advised the city manager to suggest the city commission revise its policy and comply with the state directive by giving full pay to reserve or national guard personnel for time spent during training, regardless of what their unit pays them. The city commission as its last meeting unanimously followed that advice.

Two city employees are now asking the city to pay back monies deducted during their reserve training over the past few years. Mise said he is still researching the material to determine if the city must do so, or just pay them for monies deducted last year and comply in the future. The county commission, however, remains adamant in its position and some commissioners said it's because they see it as a dual pay. The poll of the other six Seminole County cities disclosed all of those municipalities currently have ordinances requiring their employees be paid full salaries during reserve or national guard training for up to 17 days a year, regardless of how much they're paid by their unit. During discussions while county commissioners were making their decision to stick with the personnel policy, Commissioner Sandra Glenn asked County Attorney Nikki Clayton what state law requires of private industries regarding payment to employees under these circumstances.

Mrs. Clayton said state law does not speak to the responsibilities of private industry and payment to employees of those times. County Commission Chairman Bob French, the only commissioner who voted against standing with current county policy, said he felt those employees serving training periods with the military reserve or the national guard deserve the additional compensation.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff contends, however, paying an employee his full pay while he is away from his job on training sessions and receiving state or federal compensation, constitutes a form of "double dipping."

He said construing the law in the fashion several attorneys general have, could very well work to the disadvantage of persons who serve in the reserve or national guard. "If two equally qualified persons are seeking a position in a governmental agency, the one requiring the additional payment for military training sessions might be passed over in favor of economy."

Kirchhoff said the law should be looked at in terms of the period in which it was passed by the Florida legislature — the late 1940s, pre-World War II days, when the nation had only a skeleton military force, the effort was to build up the military as the upcoming military crisis was being foreseen. "The same situation does not exist today," he said.

In addition, he said, the cost of such a policy to government was low compared to the conceivably high cost today. "It could conceivably cost the local government a great deal of money today," Kirchhoff said.

At issue, national guard official point out, is the concept that private industry or any employer, in an effort to encourage employees to join the guard — thereby establishing a strong national defense — should make certain concessions.

Federal law, for example, prohibits an employer from penalizing anyone for joining a reserve military unit. National guard officials say it is that same spirit which brought the state of Florida to pass many years ago the law requiring city, state and county employees to pay full salaries to personnel for military training time away from their jobs, despite how much the military pays them for that period.

Senate Ethics Panel Missing Key Ingredient: No One Wants To Join

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Late last summer, Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., desperately needed to get the Senate Ethics Committee together to finish the investigation of South Korean influence buying on Capitol Hill.

Among those he called to make a personal appeal for attendance was Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., the senior Democratic member who simply stopped attending ethics meetings several months before.

"I wouldn't even come if it were in Warren's ribcuff," reportedly told Stevenson, "but I wish you luck." Ribicoff did drop in on December to cast the lone "no" vote in the committee's 41 decision to launch formal disciplinary proceedings against Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., for financial wrongdoing.

But he has made no secret of his desire for the job and is, for all practical purposes, off the committee. "I can't reveal in public company," Baker said.

Schmitt said he thinks Baker now has found two Republicans but, "he has not made me privy to the names." Current rules require one of the Republican vacancies to be filled by a member with at least 12 years of service, but there are only six GOP senators, including Tower, who Striking New Orleans Cops March; Mardi Gras Canceled?

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Striking policemen marched past rifle-toting National Guardsmen and trashcan bonfires today in the second police walkout in eight days — a walkout that could cripple the city's economy by cancellation of Mardi Gras.

Guard services and gun shops reported a heavy increase in business, but police spokesmen said more than 100 state troopers from around Louisiana joined the few remaining city police and maintained effective patrol. Two homicides were reported and police said crime was up slightly from a normal night.

'Mentally Fit' For Trial

CHICAGO (UPI) — Court psychiatrist Dr. Robert Reifman reported Friday to Cook County Circuit Judge Louis B. Garippo that John Wayne Gacy, suspected of killing as many as 32 teen-age boys and young men, "...is mentally fit to stand trial and to understand the charges against him." The judge must still hear the findings of private psychiatrists hired by the defense before making a final determination of Gacy's mental ability.

Tennessee Commutations

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Gov. Lamar Alexander has decided to go along with sentence reductions his ousted predecessor, Ray Blanton, ordered for 11 convicts but said he will continue to block 16 other commutations approved by Blanton. "No subject in recent memory has so outraged Tennesseans as the wholesale and apparently political use of the power of clemency, but I am convinced that most Tennesseans know there are circumstances in which clemency is fair and justified," Alexander said Friday.

Snow, Ice Bury Nation

Sub-zero temperatures iced sections of the nation from the Plains to New England today and snow, sleet and freezing rain struck the Southwest. The few skiers who went to Vermont "are spending more time inside around the fireplace with hot cocoa and coffee," said Mrs. Lucy McCullough at the Catamount Family Center in Williston.

Solar Flares Bugging Radios

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration says sporadic outages in radio frequencies and minor magnetic storms can be expected because of a series of solar flares expected to last another week. Lt. Steven Tullis, duty forecaster at the joint NOAA-Air Force Space Environment Services Center, said the outbreak of flares on the solar surface would cause short-wave radio blackouts and occasional outages in the very high-frequency radio spectrum.

By DORIS DIETRICH

Buzzing off. I have related things to people for as long as I can remember. Certain flowers remind me of certain people—and diets for foods. These associations can be a lot of fun.

Last week the menu called for asparagus casserole. While I was preparing the luscious concoction, I thought of how deliciously fattening it was—and my Uncle Buzz.

I shuddered some hard-cooked eggs to garnish the casserole after using some egg rounds in the thick creamy sauce. Hard-cooked eggs and Uncle Buzz always bring back memories.

I was a tiny thing when Uncle Buzz left home to attend Auburn University. It seems like I recall something about playing football. Now, I don't know much about Uncle Buzz's athletic abilities, but I heard many tales about his being a sport, especially where pretty girls were concerned.

A new girl had moved into the neighborhood after Uncle Buzz left home. So during spring break, he met Kitty to the tune of what looked like love at first sight.

It was Easter Sunday when Buzz announced to my grandmother that Kitty had invited him to supper.

Family members began whispering. In those days, it seems a girl did not ask a fellow to supper unless she had some sort of intentions.

Along about dark Buzz strolled up the street toward Kitty's house—wearing a coat and tie—and a smile. It wasn't long before he returned without wearing his smile.

Disappointment. He blurted out the sad tale to Grandmother, about the disastrous dinner.

What had Kitty fed him? Eggs-La-Goldenrod. What's that?

Buzz explained that the dish was "boiled eggs in white gravy over store bought bread and that's all they had for supper."

How dreadful. This light snack called "supper" was unpardonable to Buzz. Why, every well bred Southern girl knows that the way to win a man's heart is through his stomach.

"Poor Kitty." Her purr was smooth enough, and she may have been soft and cuddly, but obviously, she didn't pull the right heart strings. Buzz was a big, overgrown, lovable boy who was accustomed to plenty of vittles, including hot, homemade bread three times a day—to say the least of those yummy desserts.

So Buzz buzzed on back to Auburn—feeling rejected or insulted over the Sunday repast. The Egg-La-Goldenrod dissolved—or just plain ended—whatever romantic intentions were involved—on Buzz' part, that is.

I can still see the family heads in a huddle saying, "Did you ever?" and answering, "No, I never!"

Poor Kitty. She and her family were ripped up one side and down the other over the so-called social graces of the day. And imagine! They were from Atlanta, headquarters for Southern culture.

But all was forgotten when the family discovered that Kitty had lived in the South only a short time. She was really a Californian.

Phew! Thank goodness that no true Southerner never would...

Iran Marches Backward

Although the Ayatollah Khomeini may not succeed in dragging Iran all the way back to the 7th century, as he hopes, he has plenty of precedent in other parts of the world for pushing it back as far as the 19th.

In Britain, legions of strikers are paralyzing the country, modern counterparts of the Luddites of the early Industrial Revolution, who smashed machinery because they feared what it might do to their jobs.

The Ayatollah showed fully as much flair as his backward-marching counterparts in the U.S. and the U.S. But, now that all those screaming, fist-shaking children of the Iranian middle class have had their day in the streets of Teheran, what comes next? What will the Ayatollah do for technicians to pump his oil, the only real source of hard currency for the country?

Distressing as they are, these figures do not make an unassailable case for either President Carter's proposed hospital cost containment bill or state versions of it.

This is another of those issues in which the problem is more obvious than the solution.

Mr. Carter's approach to restraining the rise of hospital costs amounts to a form of price control, an endeavor with a most unimpressive track record.

And yet, something must be done. Hospital economics are simply too insulated from the normal competitive pressures that restrain costs elsewhere in the economy.

With fully 90 percent of all hospital bills paid on a cost-incurred basis by third-party insurers or government health care programs, it's obvious that hospitals lack sufficient incentive to control their own costs.

California Gov. Brown's task force on health care costs has recommended that insurers begin negotiating directly with hospitals to "revitalize patient care and to improve the economic discipline on hospital administrators."

Government-financed health care programs might also find this an attractive alternative to the rigidity and bureaucracy inherent in the price-control approach.

Employers, who pay a sizable portion of group health care insurance premiums for their employees, can help by pressuring local hospitals and health planning districts to reduce wasteful duplication of services.

Government at every level might make a valuable contribution by reducing the avalanche of paperwork attributable to nitpicking regulations the net result of which is to increase, not decrease, hospital costs.

But the key to curbing the hospital cost spiral without the imposition of direct government controls remains in the hands of hospital administrators.

The voluntary cost-cutting measures they advocate must begin soon to bear fruit. If not, the regulators and the bureaucrats will be waiting, controls in hand, to take over.

Politics

In past years, the federal government allowed federally subsidized workers to work in the offices of local politicians so long as they didn't engage in political activity.

But now, officials of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Program have acknowledged that the policy is faulty.

Politicians and political activity cannot be separated. New CETA rules do not allow subsidized workers in political offices.

City employees affected by the order will be transferred to other jobs.

Some of those employed as aides to county supervisors, on the other hand, will be shifted to regular county payroll.

Either answer is acceptable to CETA.

County residents should object, however, to the implication that they should support political activity and train novice politicians with their tax dollars.

BUSINESS WORLD

Venture $$$ Available

By LAROY POPE UPI Business Writer NEW YORK (UPI)—Venture capital is never easier to find but it is available for a company with real growth potential.

"Many small businessmen simply don't know that venture capital is available," says Prof. John McKiernan, director of the Boston College Management Institute.

McKiernan is author of a new book, "Planning and Financing Your New Business: A Guide to Venture Capital" (Technology Management, Inc., Boston).

The principal source of venture capital, he says, is the small business investment companies organized under the SBA Act of 1969.

These companies can get government financing averages of up to $3 for every dollar they put up time. Today, they are relatively good shape.

Meanwhile, U.S. officials solemnly tell us we shall face shortages here at home.

Bob Tyrrell, the good humored editor of "The American Spectator" put the problem this way in his current issue: "Iran is one of the all-time greats of the Carter presidency as it does the prodigious advances that can be wrought in human liberty when McGovernite liberalism works in concert with the KGB."

Though his tongue was at least partly in his cheek, there is a traceable line of blunders in the U.S. approach to the Iran problem and the world stage.

Much of the problem can be traced to Congress which, a few short years ago, was all too willing to listen to the siren songs of the American left demanding purges of the CIA and other intelligence gathering services, as if they were evil personified.

Bureaucrats Censor Voice Of America

WASHINGTON—The Voice of America is supposed to provide accurate, unbiased news to listeners in countries where government censorship turns news reports into propaganda.

But there is increasing evidence that the Voice is itself being censored for propaganda purposes—a situation that will ultimately destroy its effectiveness.

Six months ago we reported that the Voice had censored out of a broadcast to the Soviet orbit a reference to the World War II massacre of thousands of Polish officers by Soviet troops.

The official explanation was that the deletion was simply an error of editorial judgment, but our associate Howard Rosenberg has obtained written evidence that belies the official claim.

The Katyn Forest massacre in 1940 has been a source of embarrassment to the Soviet government for years. The Russians blamed the atrocity on the Germans, but most objective observers refused to buy this line.

The evidence of Soviet guilt was overwhelming to any but a blind apostle of the Kremlin. It was a matter of fact.

Mention of the Katyn Forest massacre is taboo behind the Iron Curtain. But last April at a writers congress, Polish poet Andrzej Braun had the temerity to speak up about state censorship and mentioned the Katyn Forest cover-up as a case in point.

Who Is To Judge?

For quite a few years now, Mexico has had one export specialty: People.

One of the highest birthrates in the world, an underdeveloped economy and high unemployment have compelled masses of its very poor to seek a future elsewhere—in the United States.

They are not yet present in their most advanced forms. Many of the suddenly proliferating robots are little more than dressing-up dresses fit only for the mechanical amusements of hobbyists.

Like the jacksals of yesterday's Egypt, they are nothing but remotely controlled extensions of their handlers.

Five years ago robots were still novelties, but last year, when the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers held an automation contest, it was deluged with 5,000 entries.

And, indeed, many of the newly arrived robots are quite remarkable. Already some of them resemble human beings, and one has been a judge at a nude beauty contest.

At New York's Bellevue Hospital, moreover, a robot is being used as a substitute psychiatrist in the counseling of some mental patients.

Then there is Sally, a Quasar Industry's production designed to roam the aisles of department stores and announce the merchandise specials. "We have a sale on men's raincoats. beep-beep." She (or it) has a vocabulary capacity of 4,000 words never takes a coffee break in the ladies room.

And how about the mailman robot at the State Farm Insurance company in Jacksonville, Fla.? It uses electronic sensors to follow an invisible line of fluorescent paint in the carpet—and delivers each day's post to more than 759 employees, at 21 stations, in State Farm's $23,000,000 headquarters.

It's Time To Get Ready For The Robot Invasion

By TOM TIEDE Special to the Herald WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (NEA) - It apparently began in ancient Egypt. Some priests of the time used to speak to their flocks through the articulated heads of jacksals.

Ever since then mankind has been alternately awed and alarmed by the prospect of things that pose as people, which is to say: robots.

Now the prospect is becoming reality. The jacksals of old have been transformed into computerized machines that not only talk, but walk, work, think and remember. The robots are here. Their names are Waldo, Gronk, Grivit, Rodney, etc., and—if you haven't noticed—they are beginning to surround us.

They are not yet present in their most advanced forms. Many of the suddenly proliferating robots are little more than dressing-up dresses fit only for the mechanical amusements of hobbyists.

Teaching Voters To Punch Holes Should Be A Cinch

If Seminole County Commissioners opt to go with the computer method of voting beginning with the elections next year, it may not cost the county anything initially.

The molded plastic and aluminum votomatic office conference room cost $360 each while voting machines, like those now in use, cost $2,500 each.

A minimum of 400 votomatics would cost about $1,000. If the county can sell the 178 voting machines it now owns for $900 each, they will wind up making a few dollars on the switch.

Jeff Etchberger, the county's director of the office of management, analysis and evaluation, (OMAE) said problems with the system in other areas have occurred when the computer necessary to tally the votes from computer cards broke down.

"We'll have to have a back-up system," Etchberger said.

The votomatic can be collapsed into a carrying case the size of a large attache case—34 inches by 24 inches. "Each case has its own lock, nothing to rust or break unless totally abused and no moving parts to melt," Etchberger said. The votomatics would require no maintenance.

One of the reasons the county is looking at an alternate method from the voting machines for 1980 elections was the foul-up in the machines in the September primary election when rubber bumpers in voting machine locks melted, jamming the locks and putting machines out of operation, resulting in a flood of complaints.

It would seem if voters could be operated a voting machine, training them to punch holes with a stylus ought to be a cinch.

Harry Stewart, who left the county's permanent employ last fall to accept a job in another county, is still working for Seminole at the rate of $38 per hour finishing up work on cases he was involved in when he left.

When Stewart's $1,800 bill for the month of January came before county commissioners for payment approval this week, Commissioner Bob Stewart asked how long the monthly bills would continue, considering the county has another attorney and an assistant attorney in its employ now.

The response was that the bills will continue until Stewart concludes the cases he's working on.

Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew this week delayed a hearing in the suit filed by Robert Deane of Longwood seeking to oust from Seminole County Commission Larry Goldberg. Deane contends in the suit that Goldberg vacated his commission post when he moved out of his commission district.

RAPE Program $?

At a recent meeting of our Xi Epsilon Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, Mrs. Betty Smith gave a presentation concerning the Seminole County Rape Program.

Needless to say, we are most concerned. As I'm sure the city and County Commission must be too, with the education of people (men, women and children) about how this violent criminal act can be dealt with and hopefully prevented.

During the question and answer segment of the program following her presentation, we were appalled to learn that there are no funds appropriated, either locally or on any other level for the Rape Program.

We were also distressed to learn, through our questioning of Mrs. Smith, that she is called 24 hours of every day, plus the fact that she is often called upon to provide food, clothing, lodging and transportation in the case of runaways and other unfortunate victims.

I am writing to the city and county commissions to see what can be done to provide some funding for this very important program. Your child or loved one could be next, you know. Rape is such a violent and insidious thing! It's aftermath lingers with the unfortunate victims—unless the victim is murdered in the attack—then the heartache lingers with the family.

We are all aware that rape is a crime of violence and not just! This Volunteer Rape Program needs funds desperately for helping those hapless victims—funds to provide training and facilities for more volunteers and funds for a 24-hour Rape Hotline. Mrs. Smith, who is a lady who was raped by her husband, has been a volunteer for the Rape Program.

There are three funds available from city, county, state and federal agencies? I'm sure there are!

I know this is the year of the austere budget—but if we can deal with blind mosquitoes, etc., surely we can do something in this area!

Giving Thanks

I hope this letter of appreciation will in some small way, express some of my thanks to Joan Madison for the lovely article she wrote for "The Sanford Herald," in regards to my entering the field of optometry in the Sanford area. I have received many phone calls, as well as having many patients come to the office as a result of the story.

I sincerely hope the article will encourage other women to enter the field of optometry. I have found it to be a very rewarding, as well as challenging field. My sincere thanks.

There is more to citizenship than residing within the territorial boundaries of a nation. In order to exercise our rights responsibly, we, the people, must be informed.

One way to gain information about our government is through the news media. However, that is not enough. There is the need to gain information and give information through face-to-face exchanges.

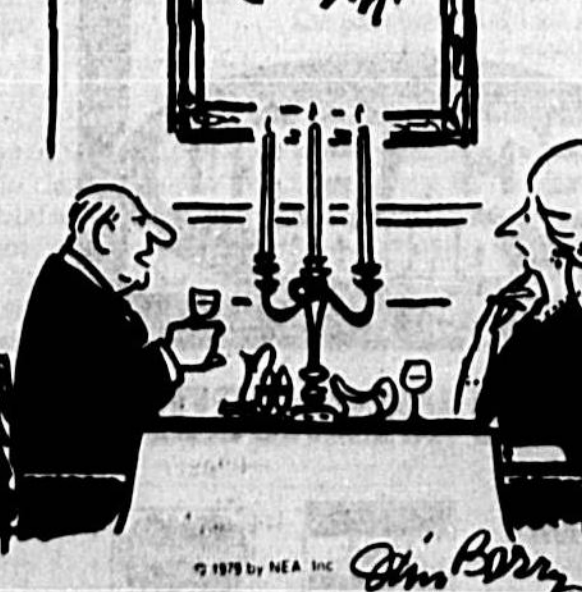

All too often government meetings are dull affairs attended by a handful of people. Most of them are there for a specific item on that evening's agenda. They may not have attended a meeting before and may not attend another meeting again.

During recent city elections in Sanford, one public official noted the new faces in the audience at city commission meetings. They were the candidates for office. The official noted they had attended few, if any, meetings prior to filing for office.

He expressed the hope they would continue to attend meetings after the election. Few have.

It seems to be a forgotten idea, that citizens can voice their concerns directly to their elected officials either through personal contact or at public hearing. It is hoped Farr will continue with his weekly meetings. However, it is a sad commentary on local citizen involvement that such meetings are necessary, in our system of government, the buck does not stop with the elected officials, but with those who elect them.

Working Filling Retirement 'Vacuum'

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The enormity of paper work, government interference and the rapid rise in the cost of malpractice insurance is driving older doctors who have passed their peak into something other than the private practice of medicine, says Dr. William O. Fowler of Orlando.

His response to the problems, after practicing medicine in Florida for 40 years was retirement. "Retirement was about to drive me nuts," he said. The need for activity in his chosen profession sent him back to work this time for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and ultimately to help Seminole County as acting health director on Oct. 1.

"When you've been working in medicine all your life and quit, what's going to fill the vacuum?" he asked. He's contemplated returning to the practice of medicine, but he's held that in abeyance and he really is not considering the possibility of becoming Seminole County's full time health director. "What is needed here to provide adequate coverage is a young man who anticipates longevity with the department rather than someone who will use it as a stepping stone to private practice or retirement. I'm trying to get the program on its feet and hope someone else will take it over," Dr. Fowler said.

The 70-year-old chest surgeon is a North Carolina native, received his undergraduate education at Vermont Military Institute, graduated from Harvard Medical School and received his specialty training at Boston City Hospital as a resident. He then spent three years in the Navy Medical Corp. In December, 1977 he came to Florida to become chief surgeon and assistant administrator at the old tuberculosis sanitarium in Orlando. He went into private practice in Orlando in 1946.

The old sanitarium is the Sunland Training Center in Orlando now. "We cured all the patients and the TB sanitarium was closed in the middle '50's," he said. "There were four TB sanitariums in the state when he went to work in the field. Now there is only one and it's at Lantana," he said.

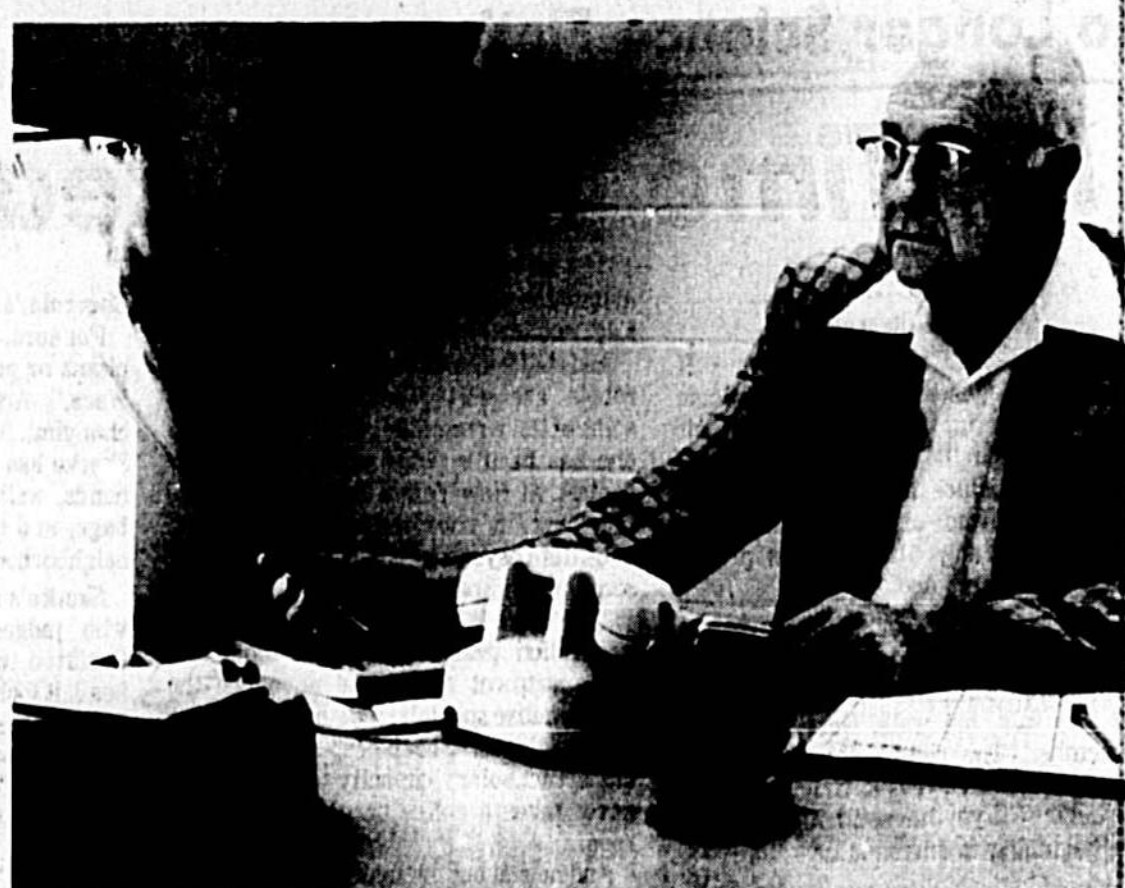

"The treatment of TB has changed so drastically, it has rapidly fallen into the main line of medicine," Dr. Fowler said. He said TB can be latent for long periods of time without those with the disease even knowing it. "When Eleanor Roosevelt died, they found she had TB and didn't know it," he said.

Dr. Fowler said he has done chest surgery and seen tuberculosis patients as long as he has been Florida. "The incidence and rate is stable today," he said.

Private practice was much different 30 years ago than it is today, he said, adding private practice of medicine is most rewarding in terms of satisfaction.

There are not as many family practitioners today as there once were. "The family doctor can't know it all, so he has to refer patients to specialists. A specialist has to be a good general practitioner first. He has to know the whole organism to be a good specialist," he said.

Dr. Fowler said the position of health director is also satisfying. "Everyone likes administration of some type. The director also runs clinics, seeing patients and making medical decisions." The area has changed a great deal during Dr. Fowler's 40 years here. "I don't like the traffic jams, of course," he said. "The growth of the economy has been beneficial, however, it used to be the economy was dependent upon agriculture and tourism, but with diversification has come stability.

"As stresses come in the old days and dampen the economy, a practice's growth was dampened with it," he said.

Does he have any suggestions for changes or improvements in the operation of the health department?

"In five months there is not time to weed out the good and bad parts and formulate an adequate opinion," Dr. Fowler said.

He said he will give more time to the health department now that medical clinics are to be re-established.

Dr. Fowler spends at least an hour daily reading medical journals to keep up with what is happening now in the practice of medicine. "Textbooks are out of date when they get to you," he said.

Music Fest Law Back For Study

An ordinance to control outdoor music festivals, worked on by county staff for several months and the subject of at least two county commission workshops in recent weeks, has been sent back to the drawing boards by commissioners for additional refinements.

The action was taken after Sheriff John Pugh warned it would be impossible to enforce provisions calling for a certain number of nurses, doctors and sheriff's deputies, based on the size of the crowd attending.

In addition, Assistant County Attorney Robert McMillan said a notice to be printed on tickets to events automatically waiving attendees' rights concerning searches would not stand in court.

McMillan said, however, a sign posted at the entrance to outdoor music festivals concerning searches could be used to deny persons entrance to events if they refused to be searched.

Commissioner Dick Williams urged county staff to determine whether the outdoor festivals could be limited to areas zoned commercial or industrial and banned in agricultural areas.

Pugh, who said he would be happy to see rock festivals banned, told the board of the experiences of law enforcement during the Bithlo rock festivals several years ago. He said that there would be no way to restrict attendance to a given number and no way to enforce search for drugs when persons enter the festival site.

"It would have been suicide to send a uniformed police officer into the Bithlo festival," he said, adding even though two court injunctions had been issued banning the festival it went forward anyway.

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Sanford Chamber Drive: 157 Signed Up So Far

When the dust settled, 157 members had been signed up in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce membership drive with Mary Mize named top saleswoman according to drive chairman Wayne Albert.

Mrs. Mize signed up 16 members and together 10 other salesmen will be treated to a dinner by the less-successful participants in the drive.

Runners-up were: Ralph Pezold, 14; Sonny Raborn, 13; John Higgins, 9; Debbie Garland, Robert O'Neil, John Mercer, Earl Weldon and Frank Mebane, all tied with 6, and Shirley Huaman and Shirley Mills with 5 each.

The date for the dinner is contingent on the availability of the "Big Mac" bus which will take the diners to an unannounced location.

The drive brought the total membership up to 525, which is short of the goal of 1,000. A follow-up effort next week to reach those missed during the drive is expected to bring the total up to exceed the 538 members on the roll at the end of last year.

SCC Board Accepts Bids

By LEONARD KRANSDORF Herald Staff Writer

A variety of bids from sewing machines and calculators to a new track surface has been accepted by the Seminole Community College (SCC) Board of Trustees.

The bid of $28,990 from Base Paving and Construction Company of Sanford was accepted for the resurfacing of the track at the community college. This was the second time the project was bid; no bids were received earlier.

Resurfacing of the quarter-mile track is expected to begin within 30 days and be completed within a month.

Other bids were received by Joseph Schlichtel of Maitland, $27,500; SPECO Company of Orlando, $31,800 and Owners Warranty Specialty Co. of Oviedo, $29,400.

Although Mr. Schlichtel had the lowest bid, R.T. Milwee, assistant to the SCC president, recommended against the bid noting a bid bond of five percent had not been submitted as outlined in the specifications.

The bid bond means if the bidder is accepted for a project but fails to carry through on that project the five percent is forfeited.

The trustees also accepted, by a 3-2 vote, the bid of Business Equipment Center of Orlando for 30 calculators.

The bid was requested on two types of calculators and the bid for the first set of 26 Business Equipment Center had a bid of $5,707 and for the second set had a bid of $878.

Three other companies submitted bids including Moore Company of Orlando (just for the second set) $1,972.16; Office Equipment Center of Orlando $6912.14 and SJS Business Machines of Sanford $5,195 and $790.

SJS originally had the low bid but when the cost of the maintenance contract was figured into the bid, Business Equipment ended up with the lowest bid.

The low bid of $4,084 was unanimously accepted for card catalog units for the library. Six bids were sent out for the card catalog but Newton was the only company which responded.

The trustees then agreed to re-bid shelving for the library. In this area two bids were received from Newton, $8,811.39 and Interstate School Supplies $14,234.50.

The board unanimously accepted the low bid of Kee's Sewing Machine of Orlando for two different types of sewing machines. The bids were for $79 and $674. The high bid for the machine, $629 and $729, was submitted by National Sewing Machine of Orlando.

For another sewing machine the bid of $574 was accepted from Don's Sewing Machine of Rockledge. The high bid of $699 was received from National Sewing Machines.

National Sewing Machine was the low bidder on various other Sewing Supplies including a buttonhole, $5,400; Two-needle machine, $1,450; Interlock Machine, $1,500; Two blindstitch machines, $1,400; two straightstitch machines, $2,704; a tacker, $1,295; a serger $1,350; a long bed machine $2,200; an auto steamer $720; an auto gun-steamer $90; a straight gun $1,095 and a round knife $650.

The trustees also accepted the low bids on several pieces of darkroom equipment to be used in the criminal justice department.

Two print washers were purchased for $308 from Image of Sarasota, and seven enlargers were purchased for $1,632, two safe lights for $280 and one dust projector for $2,533, all from Image of Sarasota.

The trustees also accepted the low bid of $54,714.84 from Interstate School Supplies of Jacksonville for several pieces of equipment for the language lab.

There were 15 items for which bids were asked and Interstate and Mid-Florida Electronics of Winter Park were the only two with bids on all items. Mid-Florida's bid was $61,195.

Low bids also were accepted on several pieces of upholstery equipment.

The low bid of $407 for one hand saw was accepted from W.W. Granger of Orlando. The high bid was $717 from Interstate School Supplies of Jacksonville.

Grave Humphries of Orange Park submitted the low bid of $356 for two portable ovens and $154 for one turntable. Interstate submitted the high bid on both items, $411 and $160.52 respectively.

Interstate had the low bid of $1,961.88 for a lift.

Scars Contract Sales of Orlando had the low bid of $337 for one table saw and $1,619.45 for a tool set. The high bid for the table saw was $875.67 from Interstate Supplies and no other bids were received for the tool set.

The final bid was for carpeting for the first and second floors of the science building. Steven Lawrence of Winter Park had the low bid of $17,988.25.

The trustees also approved the list of 349 members of the 34 advisory committees for the vocational department at the college.

The 229 current and 120 new members are business and industry leaders from Seminole County. They meet at least once a year and make recommendations regarding different areas of the vocational department.

The trustees agreed to renew their lease with the Executive Point Building. The college rents three suites from the building for classrooms for vocational programs. The rental fee is $3,855 which covers a term which runs about three months. Another $992.81 is paid for one class for adult education. The building is located at the intersection of State Road 436 and I-4.

Oviedo Dance: A Giant Step Into Past

By JANE CARROLL
Herald Staff Writer

"The greatest thing about the back blow is that they are having a March 9 dance which will kick off three days of conventional festivities commemorating the founding of the City of Oviedo.

Highlight of the Friday night dance will be the crowning of the coronation King and Queen at 10 p.m. at Oviedo High School. The dance for the night, which will last from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., will be "Jeany's Landing" returning to the early days when dance couples danced at Jeany's Landing where the commission opened to the outside world.

There will be something in dance inside for everyone. The first part of the dance will be devoted to country music and square dancing and University of Central Florida Professor David Dean is putting together a band for the occasion. Beginning at 9 p.m. the Seminole County Band from 500 will take the dancing crowd to the dance. The band director is James Hamilton and he is invited to come dressed in costumes from one of the various periods of the past 149 years.

The band will play from five o'clock to midnight by the Central Commission for their service to the community. They include C. Lee, Frank Wheeler, Bill Martin, Dale Adkins and C.E. Clark. One of three prominent Oviedo citizens will be chosen to crown the king and queen.

The Coronation Queen will be chosen on the basis of a penny a vote. To enter, contestants must be 16 years or older, be female and have an Oviedo mailing address. Minors must be accompanied by a parent or guardian to help with the contest and vote.

Money from the contest will go to help defray the cost of the dance, according to dance chairman Margaret Regalado. "Dancers must not be heavy eaters," she stressed, "and all ages are welcome." Progressive entrance may cost $10. Tickets for the dance are $1 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and children.

Hot dogs, beverages and coffee will be served during the dance by the members of the Oviedo Future Homemakers of America Chapter in raise funds for their trip to the state convention.

The Coronation Parade will be held Saturday beginning at 9:30 a.m. at North Street. It will move east on Broadway, north on Division Street, west on Geneva Avenue, west on Broadway to North Lake, turning east on to King Street departing at the Oviedo Women's Clubhouse.

Jay Smar, parade chairman, assisted by his wife, Polly, has lined up 11 floats for the parade. The floats will include a float for the Oviedo High School, Oviedo High School and Oviedo High Training Center and the Oviedo Shopping Center. All floats will be decorated with streamers and bunting. The parade will start at 9:30 a.m. at North Street and will end at 4 p.m. at the Oviedo Women's Club with a picnic for the "float day in the country" behind St. Leo's Lutheran Church just west of Oviedo on St. Leo. The parade will end at Oviedo with a picnic at the Oviedo Women's Club, pony rides and hot dogs.

Area artists interested in exhibiting their works should contact the exhibit chairman at 388-5516.

An Oviedo community church service will be held at the Oviedo High School at 11 a.m. with all ministers who served in Oviedo invited as special guests. A community picnic will be at 12:30 p.m. on the high school grounds. Those attending are asked to bring their own picnic basket and to join in the old-fashioned fund picnic.

A coronation program beginning at 2 p.m. will crown the coronation king and queen by state and local dignitaries as performed by the Oviedo Band and the Oviedo Future Homemakers of America. The Oviedo Future Homemakers of America will be the hostesses and the Oviedo community will be the guests. Mrs. Rita Swanson, president of the Oviedo Future Homemakers of America, will be the guest of honor.

Irrigation Costing Farmers. KANSAS FARMER Roger Leonard faces irrigation cost squeeze typical of many American Agriculture Movement farmers looking for higher crop prices. "When the fuel costs went up, the price of the commodity went down," he said. Prices rose again last year from depressed 1977 levels and "now we're stabilized at a money-losing situation," he said. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has made a small gesture directed toward irrigating their cropland protesting farmers who face greater than the prices they receive for crops.

They Were Living In Filth...

By JOAN MADISON Herald Correspondent

They were living in filth...the 85-year-old woman and her 103-year-old husband.

In the kitchen of their 40-year-old Altamonte Springs home stood stacks of dishes, unwashed for many months, and pots with a build-up of crud. Spilling out of the kitchen onto the dining area were egg shells, citrus rinds and garbage of all sorts.

Discarded bottles—catsup, mayonnaise, soda—were piled high on the refrigerator and cabinets. The top of the kitchen table hadn't been seen in years. A pet-balled stove in the middle of the living room was not used from piles scattered about the room. Particles of wood were embedded in the carpeting that the carpet appeared to be ground.

Dirty clothes were everywhere it seems. Enter on the scene four homemakers from the Bay Area Home Health Services, Inc. of Sanford. They were funded through CETA by the County Commissioners to provide homemaker service to indigents.

Quarry-wounded persons would have thrown up their hands and run in the opposite direction, but these "angels of mercy" were undaunted. They rolled up their sleeves and went to work...at first having to resist protests by the elderly man who didn't want them to throw anything away. "It's so hard to get it and when you get it, you hold to it..." he told them.

After four hours of diligent work, the house looked almost livable. The stacks of dirty laundry disappeared. Junk-bags and bags of it—was thrown away. Dishes were washed and stacked neatly in the cabinets. A clean tablecloth actually graced the table.

The elderly woman was bathed and smelled good again. Earlier she had been taken to the clinic by Anne Reich, RVN, who is director of medical services for the Seminole County office of Bay Area Home Health Services. She was found to be in need of medical care and her perscriptions were filled for her. How did the newly employed homemakers feel at the end of their work day?

"I feel like I've accomplished something. I know I have," said Sarah Taylor of her first assignment. "I'm tired" said Linda Bradley, "but it's all worth it...to see the expression on her face (the elderly woman)."

"I always ask the Lord to let me help someone," said Josephine Barriner, whose wish was certainly answered. "I like to go to homes to help people."

Teresa Henderson, recovering from the shock of discovering a dead rat while cleaning, also felt good about her accomplishments.

"This was probably the most severe case the homemaker service will have to encounter," says Administrator Robert Walko, who was at the scene helping the homemakers.

Five women have been hired — funded by CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act)—to work for a period of one year as homemakers. Basically, they will perform services necessary for a safe, clean, pleasant home, and personal care of the incapacitated person.

"We will take care of people regardless of their ability to pay," says Walko. "If they can afford something, we will ask them for what they can afford. Funds we get this way will enable us to send a registered nurse out, or skilled workers, for the medically indigent."

"There's a difference between medically indigent and indigent as such," he elaborates. "You will find people in nice homes medically indigent because of a recent illness, or a prolonged illness, like cancer.

"They may owe 10 back payments on their home, and

First Teacher's Aide Has Kept 'Her Cool' In School

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

Most people find it hard to cope with one or two teenagers, but Marge McCoy keeps her cool, completely surrounded by them, from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

A confidential secretary to Carlton Henley, principal at Lyman High School, Longwood, Marge smiled as she recalled some of the excuses offered by students for their absences. "In fact, we now accept only phone calls from parents, instead of a written excuse," she said.

Marge got her indoctrination into the school system when she was president of the Lyman PTA for several years.

"In 1961, the principal at the old Lyman school if I would become a teacher's aide, in an experimental program. When I first started here, there were just the basic subjects. Now, there's something for every student, regardless of his interests. Lots of students aren't oriented for college and they want to work. We offer the work program where students can work a half-day and go to school a half-day.

This is great experience," she said.

It was in the late '60's that students became more unruly, resenting authority, according to Marge. The dress codes were lax, he had to see the overall picture. He has stimulated many programs here, especially the athletic program.

"But that's all changed now. Everything seems to be turning around. The students take pride in their appearance, hair cuts are back in style and they are much more serious about their work. Now they are setting a higher goal for themselves and really trying to obtain it," Marge said.

One day stands out sharply in Marge's memory, and that was the day President Kennedy was assassinated. "After we got the word in the office, we debated whether to tell the entire school. We decided to tell one of the top English classes, to get their reaction. Well, their reaction was so traumatic that we made the announcement. Most of the students really admired the man and related to him," she recalled.

Principal Henley had this to say about Marge: "I've worked with her for 16 years and have always found her dedicated and conscientious. She is thoroughly competent in her work and has served Lyman High School well all these years."

Mrs. Neiman: 'Was Never So Shocked In My Life'

Does the name Elizabeth (Betty) Neiman sound familiar? It should because Mrs. Neiman is assistant principal at the Woodlands, or is it, the assistant principal at the Woodlands was Mrs. Neiman? Confused?

MARSHA WAT Longwood Correspondent 334-8700

On Feb. 15, Elizabeth Neiman became Mrs. Linton Waterhouse. The ceremony was performed at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Maitland.

Elizabeth Neiman attended her mother as maid of honor with Stephen Waterhouse of Nashville, Tenn. serving as his father's best man.

Special out-of-town guests included Peggy Waterhouse of Davenport; John Neiman of Aspen; and David and Tracy Neiman of Ft. Lauderdale.

"Friday (Feb. 9) night I was never so shocked in all my life. When we walked into the Royal Arnie club house and found all our family, friends and co-workers ready for a party, we were absolutely flabbergasted."

These words were spoken by Elizabeth Neiman.

"I joined just to keep my girlfriends' mother happy, and started 30 years of service to the organization I now head and love."

"I was very well received in Hawaii and was briefed by our MIA (Missing In Action) Recovery Team. The United States has an agreement with the Far East countries that when there is a lead on my US service man, or his remains, we are allowed to enter that country and follow up on the lead," says Mrs. McDermott.

Mrs. McDermott from Concord, New Hampshire, has traveled to 24 states, as well as Japan, Guam, Taiwan, and the Panama Canal Zone, since she took office in Sept. 1978.

"I was very well received in Hawaii and was briefed by our MIA (Missing In Action) Recovery Team. The United States has an agreement with the Far East countries that when there is a lead on my US service man, or his remains, we are allowed to enter that country and follow up on the lead," says Mrs. McDermott.

Mrs. McDermott arrived in Orlando from Minnesota. "It was so warm here I was tempted to go swimming," Mrs. McDermott said, laughing.

Founder's Day Set

Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority will observe its third Annual Founder's Day Program on Sunday, Feb. 18, at 4 p.m. at the Westside Free Will Holiness Church, Eighth Street and Malberry Avenue.

The speaker for the occasion is Sister Norma B. White, Past Regional Director of the South Atlantic Region and Curriculum Co-ordinator for Music for Duval County Public Schools, Jacksonville.

The program will feature participation of prominent leaders from the community and the Jones High School Choir from Orlando, under the direction of Sister Edna Hargrett.

The public is invited.

School Volunteer Week Students Ask: When Will You Run For President?

By JOAN MADISON Herald Correspondent

During School Volunteer Week, legislators, county commissioners and school board members got an insight into the school system as they worked at schools throughout the county — some for a few hours; some for the day.

REPRESENTATIVE BOBBY BRANTLEY IN CLASSROOM

And some stayed longer than planned. Representative Bobby Brantley of the Florida House of Representatives was one of them.

The students at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford were so responsive to Brantley's presentation, he couldn't get away. He stayed on to answer their many questions. Also, he had planned to speak to three classes — he spoke to seven.

And he enjoyed every minute of it.

"I was impressed with their knowledge of the state government, and the constitution," noted Brantley.

He was also impressed with the quality of the students' questions. The queried him on the ERA, President Carter, and his feelings on women presidents. They wondered how he felt about states revoking the 15 MPH speed limit, and they wanted his views on voting party versus person.

Brantley, explaining how bills get started, cited legislation that originated in classrooms. "You have good suggestions and good input. We'd like to hear from you," he told the class.

A doubtful young fellow raised his hand and asked, "Would you really listen to us?" Brantley assured him that if he had a valid complaint or area of concern, any legislator would listen to him.

Brantley encountered the same young fellow in another classroom later that afternoon and again he eagerly raised his hand. "Would you REALLY listen to us?" he asked.

"I could see the wheels in his head churning," said the legislator, fondly. "And I expect him to come up with something."

Apparently acutely aware of his responsibility as a model of behavior to the students, Brantley talked of the "dedicated and sincere people in politics" and urged the students to try to "think of a goal you would like to achieve" and "keep expanding on it."

"I don't know if they learned anything," reflects Brantley, smiling, "but I learned a lot. I came out with a little better understanding of what teachers go through."

After the legislative session is over, Brantley, who has visited the political science classes at Lake Brantley High School several times, plans to go back into the classroom "to talk about some of the things that went on during the session."

The most frequently asked question of Brantley? "When will you run for president?"

'Never Expect To See Him On Sundays' Re-Run Asked

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago you had some advice in your column for a woman who was in love with a married man. It started out, "Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays."

I cut it out and stuck it in a book it was, and it's driving me crazy. (My husband is a college professor and we have at least 10,000 books in our library.)

I need that letter to show to my daughter who is in love with a married man. Can you locate it and print it again, please?

L. IN NEW HAVEN

Dear Abby

you out in public, but he prepared to entertain HIM at your place. He may bring a bottle or the steaks occasionally, but in actual dollars and cents you will spend more on him than he'll spend on you.

Never depend on him in times of personal crisis.

Don't believe him when he tells you his wife is a shrew, cold, nasty, too fat, (or too thin) and she hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him — even if she catches him. The knows you are not his first, and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you.

However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, cosmetics, and find another married man whose wife is a shrew, cold, nasty, too fat (or too thin) and hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Why not say, "Please don't take up MY valuable time." It's your honest.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to I ALREADY BELIEVE, who wanted to know how to get rid of religious hucksters. But you were too gentle when you said, "Tell them you don't want to take up their valuable time."

Abby, their time is not wasted trying to get converts. It's part of their religious program to spend their time that way.

Why not say, "Please don't take up MY valuable time." It's your honest.

Let Crickets do the cleaning

Is your home not as clean as you would like it to be? If so, call Crickets. They have a team of women trained before they ever go on a job, who clean your house from top to bottom. If it's not clean, it's not Crickets. And it only takes a day.

And Windows! They thoroughly wash the screens, the window frames and the glass door tracks. In every room they start at the ceiling, the light fixtures and then work down — washing walls, baseboards, door frames and above the doors. They literally go over your entire house with a toothbrush and move all furniture that is movable.

Floors do not "doe" them. They handle all types — slate, terrazzo, quarry tile or ceramic. Cost depends on size and condition of your house. Crickets stresses her service is not a maid service, but heavy house cleaning.

Crickets guarantees you will be happy with their work, but urges you to place your call with waiting lists filling rapidly at this time of year. Call Crickets for free estimate at Sanford 323-2856 or Orlando area 322-1877. Crickets is licensed, bonded and a member in good standing with the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Remember, Crickets is cleaning up from Daytona to Disney!

Garden Clubbers Put Love Into Action

The South Seminole Garden Club put LOVE into action as they held a Valentine Party for residents at the Better Living Center at 811 Beech Street. The 17 residents were treated to homemade cookies, cranberry punch, Valentine baskets with candy, little gift packs, and most important of all, someone's time, attention, and friendship. They had a great time playing Bingo, too.

"It is a joy to give a little bit of enjoyment to someone else," Mrs. E.L. (Linda) Buffaloe, president of the club said. "We all will be getting older sometime and you never know what may happen to us," Mrs. Buffaloe remarked.

Other members who hosted the party were Mrs. Ralph (Lena) Hammond, Mrs. Kenneth (Emiley) Green, Mrs. Mildred Loving, Mrs. G. G. Broer, Mr. and Mrs. William Burkhead, Mr. and Mrs. William Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. William Dailley, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillie, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Dow, Helen Goodson, and Mrs. Fred Grooms.

FORGET IT, FRIEND!

H! ARE YOU FROM NEW YORK? HERE'S A FLOWER! HERE'S A HUG!

LISTEN, I'M TRYING TO CATCH A FLIGHT! I'M NOT INTERESTED IN A FLOWER OR A HUG!

MOMIE? OH, NO, SIR, I'M NOT A MOTHER!

LOOK, I DON'T CARE WHAT YOU'RE FROM!

I'M NOT REALLY FROM A CITY, SIR. I'M JUST TRYING TO HELP OUT DAD.

DAD, I FORGOT IT.

HE JUST GOT LAID OFF, SO THE WHOLE FAMILY'S PITCHING IN TO MAKE THE AIRPORT.

'FAMILY' HUH? WHAT'S SO SPECIAL ABOUT FAMILY?

UH, I FORGOT WHAT IT'S CALLED. THERE'S JUST ME, MY TWO SISTERS, AND MY PARENTS.

A NUCLEAR FAMILY?

THAT'S IT! BUT IT'S NOT LIKE HERE, NEARLY AS OR ANYTHING.

Prince Valiant

OUR STORY: PRINCE ARN WANDERS EVER CLOSER TO WONDERSHOLA. HE IS NOT IN ANY HURRY, THOUGH EACH MORNING IS COLDER. THE FOREST BURSTS INTO GLORIOUS AUTUMN COLORS, YELLOW, GOLD AND SCARLET.

HIS WANDERING COMES TO AN END. HE WOULD LOVE TO RETURN TO CAMELOT, BUT WILL ANY SHIPS SET SAIL FOR BRITAIN THIS LATE IN THE SEASON? FIVE? SAYS AGUAR, 'SEVERAL WILL TRY TO REACH ITALY BEFORE THE WINTER STORMS MAKE THE TRIP IMPOSSIBLE.'

ARN THINKS THE WEATHER HAS BECOME IMPOSSIBLE, BUT THE VIKING BEAMER ASSURE HIM IT MIGHT BE WORTH AT LEAST IT IS FROM THE RIGHT DIRECTION FOR THE NORTH SEA CROSSING.

THE CHANNEL, TOO, IS ROUGH AND A LANDING IS MADE ON A SANDY BEACH SO REPAIRS CAN BE MADE. THE NATIVES BRING THEIR WIVES TO GREET AND ARN BUYS A PAIR OF GOOD HORSES. LEAVES HIS SERRAFINO COMPANION, AND STARTS FOR CAMELOT OVERLAND.

IT IS A LONELY JOURNEY. THE VILLAGES ARE FEW AND FAR BETWEEN AND WINTER WILL COME BEFORE HE REACHES CAMELOT.

A FEW DAYS LATER A WARRIOR CHALLENGES HIM. 'I AM SIR EDWIN FITZTHUMBERT ON MY WAY TO WIN HONOR IN THE WINTER GAMES AT CAMELOT. SHALL WE TRAVEL IN COMPANY?'

--A SIMPLE DEVICE, MAKING HIM MASTER OF THE CITY'S ROOFTOPS!

ONLY SOMEONE WITH SPIDER-MAN'S POWERS COULD HAVE ROBBED THE TRAD CENTER.

AND I KNOW I DIDN'T DO IT! OR--DID I WALK IN MY SLEEP?

JUST ONE WAY TO FIND OUT? I'LL STAY AWAKE ALL NIGHT AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS!

NOISE LATER...

ONLY 3 AM! MAYBE IF I DO SOME EXERCISE--

BETTER TAKE IT EASY OR I'LL WAKE THE WHOLE BUILDING!

A LITTLE WEB-SWINGING WOULD PEP ME UP!

BUT NO WAY! NOT TONIGHT!

FINALLY... NOW, IF SPIDEY MADE THE SCENE LAST NIGHT, I'LL KNOW IT WASN'T ME!

--AND NOW, THE WEATHER--

NO MENTION OF HIM! I DIDN'T PROVE A THING!

BY NOW, THE WALL-CRAWLER WILL BE CONFUSED-- UNCERTAIN!

SO, IT'S TIME TO STRIKE AGAIN!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
We hear a lot about our great American heritage. I would like to share my idea with you. Instead of starting my 10-year-old daughter a hope chest, I have started her a "Kinfolk Chest."
It is a personal item that belonged to her kin, some who are living and some who are not.
The items are all inexpensive but will mean a lot to my daughter's future grandchildren.
There is a story that goes with the item I write it down.
I am working on a family tree to add to her collection. When my daughter is older she will enjoy "showing and telling" her grandchildren about the collection.
The main idea is to collect items while your kinfolk are still with you. They will be happy to contribute.
A kinfolk chest is like touching the past.

Fantastic!
One can go down memory lane with such mementos.
Brings back a bit of nostalgia!

Some of the items included are pipes, pocket knives, crocheting, embroidery work, etc.
Each item is labeled as to ownership and date. Also if Here's a goody thing!

For the gals who wear copper chain bracelets, wet the bracelet and rub with a little toothpaste. Let it remain on it a few minutes. Rinse well and rub with a polishing cloth. The toothpaste makes them look like new.

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a little system I invented that works out well for me.

In the back of my recipe box I keep a record of my favorite people's likes and dislikes. For example, Tom Smith hates mushrooms, likes his steak rare, favorite dessert is apple pie.

You'd be surprised how much information you can gather in general conversation during an evening out.
Now when you are ready to have that dinner party, won't Tom Smith be surprised to see all his favorite foods on the table!

DEAR HELOISE:
When making dry rice cereal treats it's quite pretty to add a little food coloring when stirring in the marshmallows. And your children will love you and the treats more than ever.

If you have to use a pan with handles that you are not sure will withstand oven heat, just wrap the handles well with heavy aluminum foil.
Lena Adams

If you don't have heavy aluminum foil on hand, use the regular aluminum foil doubled.

Dear Heloise:
Working wives and mothers should like this one!
Instead of making chocolate chip cookies, divide the recipe on the package in half for an eight-by-eight or nine-by-nine pan and make bars. Grease the pan thoroughly.
For a whole recipe use a nine-by-thirteen-inch pan.
No cookie sheets, no waiting for ten or twelve minutes between batches.
Check for doneness like for brownies.
I do this for many drop-cookie recipes and my husband loves them.

Police Want To Know

Which Room Was Eric Slain In?

By DENNIS FEOLA

Herald Staff Writer
Seminole County Sheriff John Polk today predicted the investigation into the shooting death of 13-year-old Michael Eric Smith will take from seven to 10 days to complete.

The child was shot Feb. 15 reportedly by the 13-year-old son of the couple who was babysitting the child.

"We don't want to rush through it and do it slipshod," Polk said of the investigation. He also said the age of the youth who fired the shot was being taken into consideration. "He must still be in shock," Polk said of the 13-year-old.

Polk said the investigation is focusing on the circumstances surrounding the shooting which remain unclear.

For example, Polk said, there have been two stories on where the shooting occurred. The sheriff said the youth has indicated to investigators the shooting occurred in the master bedroom of the trailer home in Sanford.

However, the youth's father, Jesse Lee, reported finding the child in the bathroom just off the master bedroom immediately after the shot was fired.

In addition, Polk said, there is some confusion as to whether the child was lying down or standing when he was shot. Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay said autopsy results indicate the child was standing or bending over when he was struck in the neck with the bullet.

Polk also confirmed that who loaded the .30 caliber rifle and when it was loaded remains a major unclear point.

Lee told investigators his son was in the room with the child only seconds before the shot was fired. He said his son did not have time to load the rifle.

"Apparently, it had to have been loaded; he would not have time to load the gun," Lee said. "They were just playing around," he said of the shooting.

The shooting occurred at 12:30 p.m. at the Lee home at Pinecrest Trailer Park at Magnolia Avenue near Sanford.

Lee said the Smith child had excused himself during the noon meal to go to the bathroom. Polk said the 13-year-old was sent by his parents to bring the child back to the table.

On Friday, investigators subpoenaed the 13-year-old's school records after officials at the Liberty Christian School in Sanford refused to release them without a court order.

Lee said his son was home the day of the shooting because of classroom problems.

The Smith child, who was buried Friday, is the son of Mrs. Steven Sanford, 407 Crystal Lake Drive in Lake Mary.

3rd Appeal Loss For Longwood

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

For the third time in 29 months, the city of Longwood has lost its battle with the state of Florida to avoid payment of $3,200 the state granted in unemployment compensation to the city's former public works director Ralph Fisher.

The city has maintained Fisher was properly fired and not entitled to unemployment compensation.

An appeals referee, D. M. Foabe of the state unemployment compensation division in a decision issued Friday, said evidence submitted by the city was "insufficient" to overturn the decision of two previous referees granting the payment.

That doesn't necessarily mean the city of Longwood will ever have to reimburse the state for the $3,200, said Bill Miley, administrator of the contributions section of the state unemployment office, today.

"There is no teeth in the law by which we can force payment," Miley said, adding that bills granting authority to the state to attach state revenue sharing money of governmental bodies refusing reimbursement have been in committee since 1976.

Strong lobbying efforts by the Florida League of Cities and other agencies representing cities.

Meanwhile, Mayor June Lorman declined comment on whether the city will continue efforts to avoid the payment or whether the issue will be discussed at the city commission at 7:30 p.m. today.

"I have no comment," she said. "I will be discussing this with the city attorney." City Attorney Ned N. Julian Jr., who had represented the city throughout the fight, told The Herald last week that the city would pay the claim to the state once the appeal process is over.

"There's not a whole lot we can do when it comes to public state employers," Miley said. "We will just keep on writing them and requesting payment. We could file a tax lien in the circuit in Seminole County, but that doesn't mean the city has to pay."

Fisher, on learning today the state has upheld his collecting unemployment compensation by the city council in September, 1976 through July, 1977, said the appeals decision "restores my faith in the state."

"It appeared for awhile the state was going to permit Longwood to appeal as long as many times as necessary for it to win," he said.

Fisher did not appear at the last referee's hearing on Feb. 6. He appeared with legal counsel at two previous hearings.

Fisher was fired by the city

Vietnam: 3,500 Chinese Killed

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam said today its forces killed huge numbers of Chinese invaders in battles on town streets and in jungles.

Radio Hanoi, in a broadcast monitored in Bangkok, said that in two days of fighting Vietnamese troops killed 3,500 Chinese soldiers, destroyed 10 tanks and routed 13 Chinese battalions.

China's invasion force has stopped six miles deep in Vietnamese territory, but military analysts said they were unsure if Peking ordered its troops to halt or if the attack was thrown back by Vietnamese defenders.

In a related development, a Vietnamese official in Bangkok indicated his nation would not call for direct Soviet intervention but said Vietnam appreciates Russia's moral support, including a demand the Chinese withdraw "before it's too late."

Intelligence officers said the 3-day-old invasion had left Chinese forces in control of two district capitals and scores of small villages, as the Peking troops pushed six miles into Vietnam on highways and trails across the 400-mile frontier.

They said today's fighting included air strikes by both sides in the battle areas.

Radio Hanoi said 1,000 Chinese were killed in street fighting in the tiny province capital of Lao Cai, only a half mile inside Vietnam across the Red River from China and 184 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The radio said all reports covered Saturday and Sunday. Hanoi claimed to have halted the invasion, but it appeared the Chinese halted their own drive even before Moscow warned it would honor the terms of its military pact signed last November with Hanoi.

A two-paragraph statement from the Kremlin said, "Those who decide the policy in Peking should stop before it is too late."

In Bangkok, Thailand, Western intelligence specialists said the possibility of Soviet intervention in the China-Vietnam war could not be ruled out.

"The Soviet Union has a small fleet of warships in the South China Sea near the Paracel Island held by China, but claimed by Vietnam. There also have been reports that Soviet troops on the Chinese border have been alerted."

But the Soviet government statement Sunday stopped short of saying what it would do if China continued its military push into Vietnam, which has a mutual protection treaty with the U.S.S.R.

The treaty, signed Nov. 3, calls for "mutual consultations" if either party is menaced by outside aggression and for "appropriate effective measures" to ensure peace and security.

"The Soviet Union will honor its obligations under the treaty of friendship and cooperation between the Soviet Union and the Socialist Republic of Vietnam," the government said in an announcement.

"Those who decide the policy in Peking should stop before it is too late," the Soviet statement said as reported by the official Tass news agency.

"All the Chinese people, like other people, need peace and not war. All responsibility for the consequences of continuing the aggression by Peking against Vietnam will be borne by the present Chinese leadership."

The statement accused Peking of "a grossly irresponsible attitude to the destinies of peace," and noted "the criminal ease with which the Chinese leadership turns to arms."

An hour after Tass reported the government statement it said Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was in consultation with Nguyen Han Kien, the Vietnamese ambassador to Moscow.

One Soviet news commentator made an obvious reference to the emerging relations between the United States and China and the role it might have played in the attack on Vietnam.

"Now the adventure has begun. It began very soon after the so-called normalization of Sino-American relations, after (Chinese Vice Premier) Tung Hsiao-ping's visit to the United States and Tokyo, where he said it would be necessary to teach Vietnam a lesson," the commentator said.

Khomeini Warns 'Satanic' Reds

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran, faced with rising left-wing opposition to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, today warned that it would ruthlessly crush "satanic" anti-Islamic internal factions, apparently including the Communists.

Khomeini issued a blunt warning to the nation that a "very sensitive" situation still prevailed and "satanic elements who are worse than the shah were still trying to create problems."

In an apparent reference to left-wing radicals and Communists he said, "I won't tolerate anyone who is anti-Islamic. We will crush them."

Blue Cross Policy Change Has Little Effect On SMH

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

A decision by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida not to pay for a routine battery of tests many hospitals require when admitting patients will have little if any effect on Seminole Memorial Hospital, according to Charles Bentley, hospital administrator.

Blue Cross has announced it was abandoning its longstanding policy of paying for routine admission tests as part of an effort to cut down on costs and possible abuse.

"It's like anything else; it's a cost containment program," said George Dyer, assistant communications director for Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Florida.

Dyer explained Blue Cross launched a program to try and reduce unnecessary medical expenses in 1977 called the Medical Necessity Program. That program reviewed medical tests and procedures nationwide trying to eliminate outmoded procedures, according to Dyer.

"This is just an extension of that program begun in 1977," said Dyer.

Blue Cross agrees with the Blue Cross move. He noted a large number of tests are not required for every hospital admission.

"I don't think this will affect our hospital, because we haven't required a large battery of admission tests to begin with," said Bentley.

Seminole Memorial Hospital requires two basic admission tests, according to Bentley. Those tests are the complete blood cell count (CBC) and an urinalysis.

"I think admission tests ought to be held to a minimum and when you're down to a CBC and a urinalysis, you're down to the minimum," said Bentley.

Seminole also requires an EKG examination for patients over 40 entering surgery, according to Bentley. However, that test will be covered by Blue Cross, because it is not a standard test for all patients being admitted to the hospital, according to Bentley, and it has bearing on the condition of the individual patient.

"If I understand the Blue Cross position, it's not a standard test for all patients being admitted to the hospital, according to Bentley, and it has bearing on the condition of the individual patient."

You Are The Light Of My Life...?

LONDON (UPI) — A Scottish scientist has come up with a birth control device — an electronic lens that flashes a red or green light to indicate when it is safe to have sex with the woman wearing it. London's Daily Express newspaper reported today that Dr. Hugh Simpson has developed a lens containing a mini-computer that keeps track of a woman's ovulation.

Airport, Road Travel Stopped Surprise Snow Paralyzes D.C., N.Y.

By United Press International
A heavy snowstorm whipped the East today, paralyzing Washington and New York with heavy snow, closing major airports and halting land travel. Another band of heavy snow hit the South from Louisiana to the Carolinas.

Heavy snow piled in hundreds of miles that halted virtually all land and closed hundreds of schools and businesses.

The storm all but shut down the Washington area, closing roads and airports and disrupting plans of hundreds for special Washington's Birthday sales. Up to 14 inches of snow was forecast for the capital city.

Travelers were hit and misery greeted thousands as a heavy snowfall in downtown of the highway closed down the streets. Many started to complain about the snow, but at 8 a.m., a heavy snowstorm hit 10 miles from downtown and all the road were closed.

Both Washington National and Dulles International airports were closed. A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said snow would trigger heavy snow.

Baltimore-Washington International Airport also was closed. Police in several Washington area jurisdictions reported they had no many patrol cars stuck in the snow as they had paralyzing the streets.

Most schools across Maryland cancelled classes — which had been scheduled for the Washington's Birthday holiday to make up for previous days missed due to bad weather.

The heavy snow took New York Metropolitan area by surprise. The National Weather Service had forecast only the light snow of snow but instead it pelted the area with 10 to 12 inches of snow could fall before the storm moved out to sea.

All 200 cars, 2 buses of snow had fallen in Central Park. Four hundred cars were stuck in the snow in the park.

Newark International Airport in New Jersey shut down while crews cleared the runways. Kennedy and LaGuardia airports in New York City remained open.

Several Flights North Canceled

MIAMI (UPI) — The winter storm that swept through the southeast has backed up airline passengers in Florida, forcing Eastern Airlines to cancel several northbound flights today.

Eastern spokesman Jim Christian said "We've urged our customers in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and three New York airports for the rest of the day. Providence, Hartford and Boston we're going to keep operating if we can until 6 p.m.," a spokesman said.

"And would you please stop humming 'Winter Wonderland'?"
