Sanford To Refund Money To SHA Following Audit

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Sanford will be refunding nearly $20,000 to the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) as the result of an audit completed by the Sanford accounting firm of Greene & Dycus.

The audit recommends that the authority seek repayment from the city for $17,452 paid in rentals and $2,389 paid for utility costs for use of the first floor of City Hall for office space.

Since the Sanford City Hall was built with federal funds, space in it cannot legally be rented to the Sanford Housing Authority for use in its federally funded program, the audit report said.

"The costs were incurred because neither SHA nor the city was aware of the federal restrictions on use charges for facilities constructed with federal funds," the audit report said.

The report adds that the city had agreed to reimburse the money.

The utility charges represent the sums paid in advance by SHA, but unused after SHA moved its offices to the public housing project, Castle Brewer Court.

The audit report lists 12 other criticisms of the operation by the SHA of the federal Community Development Block grant (CDBG) program over a three-year period, 1978-81. The program was halted when Sanford withdrew its sponsorship last April on the recommendation of City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles.

The audit report showed that SHA received $639,893 in federal funds to purchase and rehabilitate eight houses, subsequently sold. SHA realized $134,935 from sales of properties and inventories from the program, leaving total costs of the properties, after revenues were deducted, of $504,958.

The report recommended that SHA take steps to "fully understand the provisions and requirements of all grant programs before embarking on a course of action in the future."

The program was approved by the federal government to purchase dilapidated housing, rehabilitate the housing and make it available for purchase by low-income families.

The audit report said, however, that most of the structures purchased were in such poor condition that "demolition may have been more appropriate than rehabilitation. And vacant lots were purchased for the purpose of constructing housing units, which was not the intention of the grant program."

The report said that although the grant proposal anticipated the rehabilitation of 15 properties the first year, 25 the second year and 30 the third year, only eight houses were actually done.

"Costs were... excessive because of poor judgment in the selection of houses to be rehabilitated," the report said. It said one of the houses bought for rehabilitation proved to be so deteriorated that nothing of the structure could be saved. It was torn down and rebuilt from the ground up.

The report said the cost of the original lot and structure was $6,740, while costs of materials and services to rebuild the house amounted to $15,550. There was no estimate of labor cost available. The house sold for $16,500.

Other criticisms included:

—A private telephone line was installed for the then executive director, which is considered unnecessary, for a cost of $69.

—A gas range, sink and faucet were purchased for $218 from a private individual who was related to the executive director. "These materials, purchased for the rehabilitation program, had questionable use in the program."

Bridges

Obsolete? There's An Easy Answer...

How does a "functionally obsolete" bridge become adequate without any funds allocated to repair or replace it?

It's simply removed from a long list of bridges that compete for a small source of state and federal funds set aside for bridge improvements.

The state's Department of Transportation (DOT) each year diagnoses several hundred state-maintained bridges the agency believes should be replaced for structural or functional reasons. More than a thousand other bridges are listed as in need of some kind of repair.

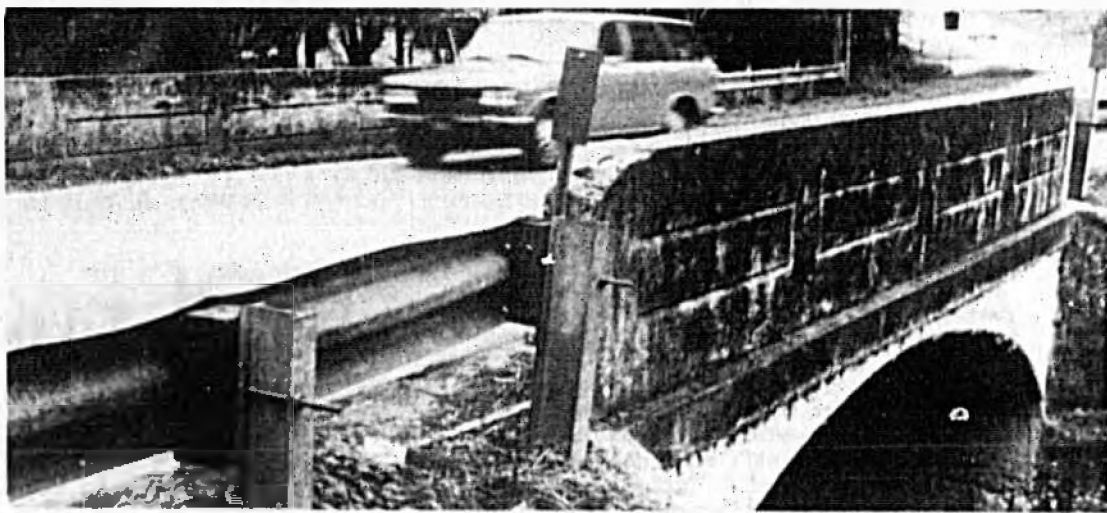

But whether proper treatment is given for the initial diagnosis boils down to a matter of money, according to Jack Roberts of the DOT office in Tallahassee.

"Being a candidate for replacement or repair and actually being replaced or repaired are two different things," Roberts said today. "Although we might say that a certain bridge should be placed on a list for repairs or replacement, there are many factors that determine whether it ever qualifies for funds. We have to develop priorities according to the available money," he said.

Such a funding priority system is evident in the case of Seminole County.

A DOT report published Feb. 2, 1981, listed seven of the county's 28 state bridges as in need of repair and three as "functionally obsolete" and due for replacement.

However, Elmer Van Cleef, district structures engineer at the DOT office in DeLand, said he knows of only two state bridges targeted for repairs and only one scheduled to be replaced in

This bridge on State Road 431 near Forest City is considered by the state's Department of Transportation to be the most unsafe state-maintained bridge in Seminole County. A dangerous reverse curve approaching the bridge creates a serious driving risk and is why the bridge is targeted for replacement — in 1983.

Seminole County. Why the discrepancy?

"I'm not familiar with the report, but it doesn't surprise me. Just because a bridge is placed on a certain list doesn't mean you have to do something," said Van Cleef.

"You have a bridge that might be eligible for funding based on their sufficiency rating. But when you take a closer look at the bridge, there may be other factors involved that don't make it a priority. Maybe the county doesn't want any change. Maybe the traffic pattern doesn't justify a change. Maybe there are other bridges that are in greater need of repair," he said.

In the case of Seminole County, Van Cleef considers the bridge on State Road 431 near Forest City as the one most deserving of funds.

"As far as bridge priorities, it's certainly at the top of the list. There's a bad reverse curve that makes it functionally obsolete. It can be unsafe, but it's not a serious situation," he said.

DOT has decided the bridge should be replaced — but not before the 1983-90 fiscal year, the earliest date funds would be available.

What about the other two state bridges in Seminole County that were classified as "functionally obsolete" and warranting replacement a year ago?

Van Cleef said he doesn't know. "I guess there have been some bridges deleted from the list since then," he said.

"We're buried in (bridge) lists. This list was put out by our Division of Planning. At the time, a certain number of bridges were placed on an inventory for repair or replacement. But whether they actually qualify for funding in another matter," he said.

Funding Cuts Are Likely For Fire Services

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

Solving the Fire Department's financial dilemma is like choosing the lesser of two evils, as far as the Seminole County Commission is concerned.

The commission would rather settle for a watered-down fire-protection program than burn a hole in the taxpayer's billfold.

But that seems to be the most realistic option available in the commission since the county's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) last week projected a $1.4 million shortfall in the amount of money that would be needed to finance the department's budget for the 1982-83 fiscal year, which begins next Oct. 1.

Existing revenue sources won't generate enough tax dollars in the near future to operate an efficient county Fire Department, the OMB said, largely because the $25,000 homestead exemption is excluding a substantial number of property owners — believed to be as many as 40 percent — from paying any taxes. Property taxes form a big chunk of the department's financing.

In the last several years the total county Fire Department budget has increased from $1.7 million in fiscal 1977-78 to $4.6 million for fiscal 1981-82. During that period the payroll has more than doubled, from $928,789 to $2.5 million. The operating expenses have increased by $327,000, to $506,252 over the same period. And the capital-outlay budget has soared from $47,809 to $833,205 as makeshift fire stations (travel trailers) have been replaced by more permanent structures.

The commission agrees that the rising costs of fire protection have been high compared to other countywide services.

But most of the commissioners take the view that the price has been well worth it.

Even so, the commission is reluctant to justify similar increases in the near future, since they may require whopping tax increases for a reduced list of taxpayers due to the impact of the homestead exemption.

"It's not an ideal situation for us, but I'm afraid we may have to cut back capital-improvement projects or delay them a year or more because of the situation we're in," said Commission Chairman Robert Sturm.

"I don't think the overall increases of the (fire) department in recent years have been out of line. In order to maintain a high degree of professional persons, we've had to improve the salary ranges so we can compete with surrounding fire departments," he said.

"And we've still lost some good people. Firefighters in Seminole County were considerably underpaid five or six years ago. Although the costs have gone up overall, nobody can doubt that we are certainly providing much better fire protection for everyone," he added.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen, though, is one who is not entirely convinced that the Fire Department has been funded wisely in the past.

"I don't think it has come under that close scrutiny in the past. But now that it's in trouble, I think the commission will be taking a closer look at its budget request," she said.

"I question whether they should go ahead with the new fire stations at this time. I would rather see the money put into equipment instead of capital improvements. I would certainly want to cut back expenditures before it came to the point of increasing taxes. I just don't feel the need for the buildings is there at this time," she added.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said she has no problems with justifying Fire Department expenditures, but added that it's time to weigh the considerations of the taxpayers. Her feeling is: Do they want a highly professional department, manned with the best available firefighters and high-quality equipment? Or would they prefer an all-volunteer department? What are they willing to pay for?

"I think we have a very good Fire Department in Seminole County. And we've been fortunate to have developed such a good one in a short period of years," said Mrs. Glenn.

"I think the department has grown fast — but so has the population. The Fire Department is one of those departments that has to be geared to growth," she said.

Commissioner William Kirchhoff doesn't contest past Fire Department expenditures, but he offered a blunt appraisal of the current funding situation: "There has to be some belt tightening — that's all I've got to say."

Fire Department expenditures haven't been extravagant in recent years, according to Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather, but funding cutbacks appear likely, he said.

Motorcycle Crash Kills Longwood Man, 18

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Longwood man was killed and a Maitland man injured in a single-vehicle crash along Longwood Hills Road near Longwood Saturday evening.

Adam Christopher DeMino, 801 North St., died at 1:48 a.m. Sunday at Florida Hospital-Altamonte after the motorcycle on which he was a passenger crashed into a fence at 7:35 p.m. said a Florida Highway Patrol spokesman.

According to hospital officials, DeMino died as a result of head injuries received in the crash.

The motorcycle driver, Bradley Cheek, 20, of 255 Hollingwood Trail, was treated for multiple bruises and a broken wrist at the hospital and released Sunday, hospital officials said.

Cheek was charged with failure to use due care in the fatal accident, troopers said.

Saturday's crash marks the third traffic fatality in Seminole County this year.

County Is Still Growing; Has 7,088 New Residents

Seminole County has continued its growing ways since the 1980 official census.

The University of Florida's population research center at Gainesville estimates Seminole grew by 4 percent — for a total of 7,088 new residents — from April 1, 1980, the date of the official federal census, to April 1, 1981. The estimated population is used by the state government as a basis for distributing state revenue-sharing funds.

The county's new estimated population, to be used for revenue-sharing purposes beginning July 1, 1982, is 186,840, up from 179,752. The county is 310 square miles in area.

The major increase in population — 5,838 — occurred in the unincorporated areas.

Seminole's county seat, the city of Sanford, gained 598 new residents for a population increase of 2.5 percent. The total of Sanford residents in the city's 12.7 square miles is 23,774, up from 23,176 to remain Seminole County's largest city.

Altamonte Springs, meanwhile, grew to 22,782, up 3.5 percent, or 764 persons, from 22,028. The city has 12 square miles of territory.

The only city to show a loss of residents was Casselberry, where the population declined by 8 persons to 15,239 from 15,247. Casselberry's city limits encompass 6.26 square miles.

The highest growth rate in the county was seen in Seminole's fourth largest city, Winter Springs, during the 12-month period. Winter Springs, with 10.5 square miles of territory, grew 10 percent — 1,068 from 10,475 to 11,543.

Longwood, with 6 square miles of territory, added 375 new residents to increase its population by 5.7 percent from 10,029 to 10,604.

Oviedo's population rose to 3,151, an increase of 2.5 percent from 3,074. The city has 6 miles of incorporated area.

Lake Mary, the smallest city in the county in population, grew 5.7 percent, with 178 new residents, up from 2,853 to 3,029. The fourth largest city in territory, Lake Mary has 9.5 square miles.

The majority of county residents, 96,708, or 51.8 percent, live in the unincorporated areas, while 90,132 live in the incorporated areas. — DONNA ESTES Maude, currently at the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus winter quarters in DeLand, is ready to pack her trunk and move to Sanford's Central Florida Zoo if funds are raised to complete the elephant exhibit at the zoo.

Elephant Lends Hand To Zoo Fund-Raising

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Since the news got out about the financial difficulties the Central Florida Zoo is having, many individuals, businesses and groups have started fund-raising projects — and then there's Maude.

Maude, a 41-year-old circus elephant who tips the scales at 8,500 pounds, has been offered to the zoo by John Pugh, manager of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus, which has winter headquarters in DeLand. That is, if the zoo can raise the additional $15,000 needed to build a temporary building in the elephant display. Al Rozon, the zoo's executive director, says that's in addition to the $9,000 already donated toward the elephant exhibit.

"She's gentle and good around children, but not a riding elephant," Rozon said.

Maude will be the star attraction at the zoo this Saturday, which will be called Pachyderm Pound Day. The idea is to raise $5 for each pound Maude weighs.

Those making a $5 donation will receive four passes to the zoo, a frangible certificate acknowledging their one-pound share in the elephant, and a zoo lapel pin.

Radio Station WDBO, which is promoting the fund-raiser, will have a live remote broadcast during the day from the zoo. Activities will begin at 6 a.m. and continue throughout the day. The Executives band will play, and balloons will be given away by Balloon World.

"We're encouraging clubs and organizations to come out and make check presentations and be interviewed on the air about how they raised the money and how they feel about Maude and the zoo," said Rozon.

"We're making progress, but we're not out of the woods yet," he said of the zoo's money woes. "Employees' salaries have been restored, and all the people are back at work full time."

Rozon said the zoo board is still in the discussion and negotiation phase with the county from which it leases the zoo site. See HELP, Page 3A

NATION

IN BRIEF

Williams Seems Destined For Senate Expulsion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., who spoke Friday for nearly four hours against a resolution to expel him for his Abscam conviction, was to resume his defense today — the third day of his Senate trial.

Although there has been no official head count, the Senate appeared to be leaning toward making the four-term, 62-year-old senator the first since the Civil War to be expelled from Congress.

Budget Deficit Ballooning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, says President Reagan's proposed 1983 budget could lead to a deficit about 70 percent bigger than that projected by the White House.

Domenici said Sunday that in order to reduce this figure, the congressional alternative to Reagan's fiscal blueprint would likely cut defense expenditures and make tax-code changes.

Hotel Facing Charges

HOUSTON (UPI) — Officials may charge the West Chase Hilton with fire-code violations because a night desk clerk, "annoyed" by the noise, turned off an alarm that could have alerted the 10 people who died and 30 who were injured in a smoky blaze.

Each time the clerk shut off the alarm sounding in the hotel office, the automatic ventilation system switched back on, spreading choking black smoke and soot throughout the 18-month-old, 13-story hotel early Saturday morning.

Prime Rate Drops

NEW YORK (UPI) — Several major banks cut their prime rate today to 16 percent from 16 1/2 percent and one smaller Midwestern bank slashed its prime to 15 1/2 percent.

The moves came in the wake of Friday's Federal Reserve report showing the basic measure of the nation's money supply plunged $3 billion in the latest week.

UMB Bank & Trust Co. of New York led the move to the 11 percent level. Chase Manhattan, Morgan Guaranty and First National Bank of Chicago immediately followed.

United Missouri Bancshares cut its prime to 15 1/2 percent. Economists speculated that as a result of the sharp decline in the money supply the Fed would be able to loosen slightly its tight reins on credit which will help pave the way for lower interest rates.

Many economists also expect to see further signs of continued weakness in the economy, which would further weaken the demand for credit by business and help bring interest rates down.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Tornadoes knocked out power to thousands, uprooted trees and killed at least one person along Florida's east coast before moving out to sea today. Up to 7-inch snows, rain and subzero temperatures contributed to at least 10 more deaths in the East and Midwest. Civil defense officials in Dade County said preliminary estimates indicated tornado damage in a residential area south of Miami was about $500,000. Hundreds of cars were damaged, trees were uprooted, windows blown out and power cut off in large areas when the tornado dropped out of a line of thunderstorms Saturday. Willie Bloodworth, 63, apparently was electrocuted when he stepped in a water puddle next to a pole supporting traffic lights on U.S. 1, Miami police said. An Atlantic coast storm dumped rain from the eastern Carolinas through the mid-Atlantic coast and the coastal section of New England. Winds gusted to nearly 70 mph at Cape Hatteras, N.C. Heavy rains soaked Newark, N.J., area and were blamed for a fiery collision between a car and a fuel-oil tanker Sunday that killed two women and five girls on their way to church.

Autopsy Today On Unidentified Body

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An autopsy is scheduled to be performed today on the remains of a badly decomposed body found in a wooded area Saturday near an Interstate 4 rest area at the State Road 434 exit near Longwood.

The unidentified body was discovered at about 7:45 p.m. by 22-year-old Gregory R. Kane of Longwood as he chased a dog into the woods, Seminole County sheriff's deputies said.

Kane told deputies he was riding his bicycle north on Markham Woods Road when he saw a brown dog which appeared to be injured. Kane attempted to help the dog, but said the animal limped over the railroad tracks, heading toward I-4. Kane continued to chase the dog on foot into the wooded area and discovered the body, deputies said.

Deputies added Kane abandoned his search for the dog and notified authorities of the incident.

"From what we can tell, the body is that of an adult man," according to Dr. Sara Irgang, Assistant Seminole County Medical Examiner.

"We determined that much only from the type of clothes on the body — work clothes. But there is very little left of the body. It is not much more than a skeleton."

Deputies investigating the incident estimated that the body could have been in the wooded area for up to a month before being discovered. While an investigation is continuing, deputies said there are few leads in the case.

TREES, TUB TAKEN

Someone cut down and removed 12 large trees and an old bathtub from behind a Longwood man's home sometime between 5:30 p.m. Tuesday and 6 p.m. Sunday, sheriff's deputies said.

Daniel Allen Bower, 35, of 601 Fern Drive, told deputies someone cut down and stole the trees which are located in a wooded area near his property along with an old bathtub used for watering animals.

The bathtub is valued at about $60, deputies added.

SILVER DOLLAR JEWELRY STOLEN

Thieves broke into an Altamonte Springs man's home sometime between 5:30 p.m. Friday and 3:20 p.m. Sunday, stealing numerous items of jewelry made with silver dollars, deputies said.

Joseph Plaza, 60, of 112 Meadowfield Lane, told deputies someone entered his home by cutting the screen door, then breaking the den window.

Among those items stolen were a silver dollar necklace, a silver dollar belt buckle, two silver dollar bolo ties, a wedding ring, an ankle bracelet, a diamond, and six gold chains and crosses, deputies said.

The stolen jewelry is valued at about $1,000, deputies said.

SPEARGUNS SWIPED

Thieves broke into a Maitland man's truck and stole two spearguns and other property sometime between 2:35 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. Sunday, deputies reported.

Gerald Alan Wolfe, 20, of 205 Bedford Road, told deputies someone broke into the truck by prying open the driver's window. Once inside, the thieves removed two spearguns, two speakers, a power booster and a knife. The value of the stolen items was listed at $280, deputies said.

LONGWOOD HOME ROBBED

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home sometime between 11 a.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday and stole about $80 cash, a diamond and black onyx ring and necklace, deputies said.

Robert J. Conchelos, 38, of 206 Briarcliff Drive, told deputies the thieves entered his home through the sliding glass door and ransacked his bedroom closets and drawers before stealing the property valued at about $350.

FIVE APARTMENTS HIT

Residents of at least five apartments at the Red Lion apartment complex in Winter Park awoke Sunday morning to discover they had been robbed during the night.

According to deputies, thieves entered all five apartments through front windows and stole money, jewelry, wallets and purses from the residents as they slept.

On one incident, thieves robbed Viola Pope, 40, of $10 cash, her purse and a gold chain, deputies said.

Also, Charles G. Bennett, 29, told deputies someone stole a pair of pants containing his wallet, $10 cash, a driver's license and a credit card.

William R. Matheny, 22, told deputies someone stole $12 cash, a man's watch, a ladies' watch and a man's gold ring from his apartment. Matheny's wallet and a purse were found by deputies outside his apartment.

In addition, the thieves stole about $245 and a wallet from Brian C. Dierks, 25, and Rosemary P. Ackroyd, 24, deputies reported.

Flights Aborted Because Of Engine Icing

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Dozens of flights at airports nationwide have been aborted this winter because of engine icing similar to that believed responsible for the Jan. 13 crash of an Air Florida jet that killed 78 people, it was reported today.

The Chicago Tribune, quoting information made available at hearings of the National Transportation Safety Board last week, said at least 70 takeoffs have been aborted since Air Florida Flight 90 plunged into the Potomac River seconds after taking off from Washington National Airport in a snowstorm.

More than 30 people have testified and at least nine more were to appear before the board trying to determine the cause of the crash.

The NTSB hearing was to enter its sixth day today with an official from Boeing, manufacturer of the aircraft, on the stand.

A spokesman for United Airlines told the Tribune there have been several aborted takeoffs at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest. The Air Line Pilots Association discovered the engine icing problems while surveying 20 American Airlines planes, the Tribune said.

The incidents discovered by United involved mostly 737 aircraft and a few 727s, the Tribune said. The 737 involved in the Washington crash had been sold by United to Air Florida two years ago.

In all cases, the pilots were forced to abort takeoffs or take other action when they received false or erratic readings on cockpit instruments that monitor the amount of power their engines develop.

In testimony before the board Saturday, an industry expert said the engines on the Air Florida Boeing 737 showed no signs of having malfunctioned, although a plugged thrust sensing gauge can give false power readings.

John Gavin, an engineer for Pratt & Whitney, which makes the engines used in the Boeing 737 that crashed, said a check of the wreckage showed nothing to indicate a malfunction in either engine.

The hearing is expected to continue into at least Wednesday. The full board is not expected to issue its final report for several months.

Factors being examined in the crash are the possibilities of icing of the aircraft's wings and control surfaces and icing over of a critical engine thrust sensing gauge mounted at the center of the engine intake.

The board is also examining the possibility of a plugged sensor because an analysis of the cockpit voice recorder suggests the engines were producing just three-quarters of the power setting the tapes show the crew selected.

Gavin testified that if a sensor is plugged the thrust level shown on the primary engine monitoring gauge will be higher than the actual thrust being produced.

Asked about cockpit power readings when engine anti-ice valves are off and the sensor is plugged, Gavin said:

"If you take that same condition (plugged sensor) and you do not have the anti-icing valves open, then you will get a falsely high EPR (engine pressure ratio) indication in the cockpit."

A plugged sensor could be detected, he said, by variations in readings on turbine speed, exhaust gas temperatures, and particularly on fuel flow readings.

Also discussed at length Saturday were the settings of the valves that duct hot air over the engine entryway and the critical sensor, a process designed to keep the sensor and first stage engine parts clear of ice.

The debris suggests the engine anti-icing was turned off, said Gavin. Two of four valves were found closed, one was missing and the position of the fourth could not be determined.

Reagan Winds Up Vacation, Heads Back To Budget Battle

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Few in President Reagan's entourage were enthusiastic about going back to Washington today, knowing they were trading California sunshine for budget battles.

Reagan, who spent much of the past week vacationing, was to depart for the nation's capital at mid-day.

One White House official, surveying the majestic landscape last week, admitted it would be hard to leave, "especially with what's waiting for him (Reagan) when he gets back."

What is waiting is the battle over the 1983 budget.

The president has gone to great lengths during the past few days to assure his supporters that he plans no retreat on his promised military buildup and tax cuts.

Reagan's aides indicated, however, there may be room for some face-saving compromises on defense spending — especially in light of a new estimate of the 1983 deficit by budget director David Stockman of $96.4 billion.

"Under certain circumstances," an aide said, Reagan might be willing to trim defense spending. But it would have to be accompanied by cuts in other areas as well, he said.

That is exactly what Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, was talking about Sunday when he appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

He said a congressional alternative to Reagan's budget will likely cut defense and made tax code changes to make up for a swelling federal deficit.

Reagan will have time to discuss the issue at length on Tuesday when he journeys to Capitol Hill to have lunch with Republican members of Congress.

On another point, it was announced that the president will address a joint session of the British Parliament on June 8 and spend two nights as the guest of Queen Elizabeth at Windsor Palace. Reagan will be in Europe at the time to attend a western economic summit.

The president's last full day on the Pacific coast was made memorable by a man whom Reagan pardoned when he was governor of California.

Country western star Merle Haggard entertained the Reagans and about 600 friends and news reporters under a tin roof amphitheater at a ranch near the president's spread.

As cows and horses grazed nearby, Haggard and his band filled the valley with the country twang that helped him sell about 10 million albums.

"This is a great moment for us — to have the president sitting in front of us," said Haggard.

"It is certainly the most honorable thing we have done for years," said the man who once spent time in jail for robbery and escape from prison.

Nursing Homes Faulted For Poor Mental Care

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government study concludes that mentally ill patients generally receive inadequate care in nursing homes, where many have been transferred as part of the rush to empty federal mental hospitals.

The study, "Factors Influencing the Deinstitutionalization of the Mentally Ill," said many of the homes are simply ill-equipped to care for these patients.

More than 60 percent of the nation's 1.3 million nursing home residents have serious mental impairments. Nursing homes have more mental patients than any other institution and account for 29 percent of the national bill for direct care of the mentally ill.

The two-year study was conducted by University of Denver researchers for the National Center for Health Services Research. It compared services rendered in mental hospitals vs. nursing homes.

The study said fewer mentally ill patients than physically ill patients received medicine for their physical conditions and impairments, fewer received physical therapy, and those who did "received fewer hours of therapy."

It said, "A review of the services provided reveals the chronic mentally ill receive fewer services, even though in general they were more impaired and had a greater number of dependencies of activities of daily living."

Fueled by the belief community treatment is healthier than the restrictive warehouse environment, the nation's mental hospital population dropped from 504,600 in 1963 to 215,500 in 1974, according to the National Mental Health Association.

Haitian Boat Person Walks Down Dirt Road To Poverty

MERCERY, Haiti (UPI) — The bus that ended Nael Michelle's six-month odyssey to the United States dropped him off more than a mile from his little southwestern village, at a dusty dirt road running into several acres of fields.

Straw hat in hand, he stepped over the streams running through the field, and over the barbed wire fence covered by strips of his neighbors' freshly washed clothes, and into the dirt-floored wooden shack he calls home.

The 27-year-old Nael's two children were joyous to see their father for the first time since he joined 86 other boat people headed for Miami half a year ago. Wife Yvette "was happy, but not happy."

"I was happy to see him again. But when I stopped to think, I cried in my heart. Nothing had changed. We were as poor as ever."

The couple sat on two rickety chairs before their rickety house under the shade of breadfruit and mango trees. A mother hen and her chicks scurried around their feet, pecking for worms in the soil beneath nearby banana plants. Curious children, all barefoot, some wearing only shirts, stood looking on.

Nael's friends and relatives poked fun at him for the weight he had put on the months spent in Miami's Krome North and Puerto Rico's Ft. Allen deportation camps, where he did little but eat three times a day. His left was even more incongruous in comparison with the lean, hard men around him, who are lucky to eat one meal of cornmeal and boiled yams a day.

"They made fun of me, said I had gone off on vacation and returned with just the clothes on my back."

Since he sold everything he owned to get to America, his brother hired him to help farm a little plot, paying him 80 cents a day. Others who have returned to Mercery are still without jobs.

Nael was born in the village, like his parents and their parents before them. In the past few years, Mercery's largely illiterate residents have been losing parcels of land to city folk who claim the peasants' deeds are invalid, and who have friends in the government of dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier to back them up.

Like the hundreds of people in his little village, Nael lived by taking care of cows for rich landowners and working his little plot of land. For raising another man's cow and selling it in the market for $400 he would earn perhaps $50. For working in the canefields at sugar-harvest time, he earned one dollar a day.

Everyone in Mercery has a relative or friend who has made the trip to America, searching for a better life.

Until the United States began interdicting boat people on the high seas, and deporting Haitians back at an accelerated rate, the boat people business boomed in the nearby southwestern town of Leogane. Agents for boat captains walked the streets recruiting travelers for prices ranging from $60 to $300.

Nael gave the cows he was raising back to their owners in the city. Each paid him from $10 to $20. He sold the few yards of land he owned.

He scraped up $140 which he paid to a boat captain who promptly became lost at sea, landing in Cuba twice. They spent a week on the open seas, gargling a mixture of toothpaste and seawater by their mouths when the water ran out, until they were picked up by a freighter that took them to Miami. Nael said he decided to return home after spending five months in Krome with no hope of freedom.

He feared punishment from the Haitian government, but "I was in prison in the United States. If I'm going to be mistreated, I'd rather it be in my own country."

On Jan. 7 he landed in Port-au-Prince, was handed $20 by the Red Cross and placed on a bus for the 43-mile ride back home, where neighbors asked about his ordeal.

"Some said they would have come back, too. Others said they'd have stayed in the United States, even in a prison." Nael saw the highways and modern buildings of Miami from the windows of the bus that took him to Krome, and from the windows of the jet that flew him to Haiti.

After seeing that, he says, he can never be satisfied again in his poverty-ridden village.

"I'll go back to the United States if I can," he said. "But not in a boat this time."

United Press International
Turbulent weather caused minor damage in Volusia County Sunday. A tornado touched down in De Leon Springs, west of Daytona Beach, between 3 a.m. and 3:45 a.m., forecasters said. Gunman Killed By Police MIAMI (UPI) — Despite frantic efforts to save his life by police officers he had shot at, John Thomas is dead at 79, the victim of their return fire. Investigators said Thomas had fired his handgun into the air to break up a family brawl and then turned the weapon on police.

WORLD

General Headed For Guatemalan Presidency

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Military-backed Gen. Anibal Guevara took a strong lead in early returns today in Guatemala's presidential race to determine who leads the strategic Central American nation against a growing leftist guerrilla movement.

The United States promised to pour in arms and other assistance to resist the guerrillas if the generals allowed a clean election, but there were immediate suspicions of fraud voiced by at least one opposition party.

Massacre Charges Probed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — U.S. officials are probing charges that Salvadoran army troops massacred 110 peasants, including 75 men, women and children dragged from their huts and beheaded, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The alleged massacre took place less than a week before President Reagan certified to Congress that El Salvador's U.S.-supported ruling junta was improving its human-rights record.

Pay Hike, Water Saving Tops Sanford Agenda

The Sanford City Commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. March 22 on the requested rezoning from agriculture to medium industrial on 80 acres of property located east of Mellonville Avenue, south of Silver Lake Drive and north of Pineway.

At its 7 p.m. meeting today, the City Commission will learn that the city's Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended approval of the request. Trustee of the property is Thomas McDonald.

In other action at tonight's meeting, the commission will consider adopting an ordinance granting city employees a 4 percent cost-of-living pay raise. It is estimated the pay hike will cost the city a total of $7,047.17 for its 262 employees. The raise approved last fall, is to go into effect April 1.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles will report to commissioners that installation of water-saving devices in local residences could save the city enough water and sewer capacity at its plants to connect 188-to-792 new utility customers.

Revenues from connection fees could range from $103,400 to $435,600, Knowles said. In addition, he will report that the devices could save from $112,950 to $555,000 in expansion costs of sewer and water facilities.

The Natural Resources Group of Milford, Conn. and Boston has recommended the city sponsor the sale of water-saving gadgets to utility customers at $18 per kit. Knowles' report is part of the information the City Commission will use in basing a decision on whether to participate in the program.

New Hope For Spinal Cancer Patients

BOSTON (UPI) — A special kind of radiation is successful in treating rare cancers near the spinal cord which are usually impossible to remove surgically, doctors at Massachusetts General Hospital report.

Nine of the 10 patients treated with proton-beam radiation — beams of positively charged particles from the center of the hydrogen atom — were still alive Sunday, up to six years after beginning the treatments, the hospital said.

In an article in the current issue of the Journal of Neurosurgery, Drs. Herman D. Suit and Michael Goltein said tumors in all of the surviving patients were destroyed and have shown no signs of reappearing.

The failure rate of conventional treatment for such cancers approaches 100 percent.

The tumors are nearly impossible to remove completely with surgery because of the critical nature of the spinal cord, central nervous tissue and nearby blood vessels, Suit and Goltein said.

They said doctors cannot administer enough conventional radiation to destroy the tumor without also causing life-threatening side effects or even death. Conventional X-rays also penetrate far beyond the tumor and scatter, they said.

But they said the charged particles of a proton beam have a narrower range and can be controlled so only the tumor and area in the path of the beam receive any radiation.

Patients, who came from as far away as Oklahoma and Florida, were thus able to receive much higher doses than would have been possible with conventional radiation, the doctors said.

One patient had some memory loss, but others had only minor side effects, they said. "It is because the doses of radiation have been high, the tumors small, and the central nervous tissue spared high doses of radiation that these initially good results have been seen," said Suit, chief of the hospital's Department of Radiation Medicine.

Six of the patients in the study had chordomas, tumors that developed in the notochord. The notochord is the precedent of the spinal cord in the embryo. It disappears during fetal development, but remnants remain and in rare instances become cancerous.

Three patients had chondrosarcomas, or cartilage tumors at the top of the spine. One had a neurofibrosarcoma, a tumor arising from the nervous system. All are extremely rare, relatively small and slow-growing. They kill the patient by putting pressure on the spinal cord.

The patients received proton radiation at Harvard University's Cyclotron Laboratory in Cambridge, one of two cyclotrons in North America used for medical purposes and the only one employing protons for proton-beam radiation.

A cyclotron gives high energy to particles. Through a combination of factors, the particles move with greater force in a spiral path until they reach a level where they can give off nuclear energy on impact with a target.

Student Benefit Cutoff Triggers College Rush

United Press International

Linda Wells looked forward to being a senior this spring at St. Louis' Southwest High School. Instead, she is a freshman with her "world turned upside down" at St. Louis Community College.

She is among an estimated several thousand teenagers who are going to college early so they can slip through a federal loophole and obtain Social Security student benefits.

As part of President Reagan's budget cuts, Congress last summer — in an effort to save $10 billion — voted to phase out Social Security student benefits by 1985.

These benefits go to college students who have a parent who is dead, disabled or retired. An estimated 750,000 students, ages 18 to 22, now receive this aid, which averages $250 a month.

Upwards of 40,000 to 50,000 high school seniors had been counting on the benefit. Now, under the new legislation, they must be in college by May 1 to join the rolls.

Ms. Wells entered St. Louis Community College on Jan. 11.

"It (college) is okay, but I feel kind of out of place," she said. "Here I am 17 going to a school with all these people who are 25. All of a sudden my world is turned upside down. I was really disappointed."

Robert Kosten, a high school senior in Yakima, Wash., is preparing to enroll at Yakima Community College before the May 1 deadline.

"When my father died, it was like a promise to me that I would get the benefit," he said. "If they told me four years ago that they were going to cut them, I would have been saving money. Right now, I'm kind of stuck in a corner."

Critics, including several members of Congress, charge that the Social Security Administration dragged its feet on notification.

The administration issued leaflets, press releases and radio announcements explaining the cutoff, but mailed no notices directly to high school seniors except the regular mailing that goes to recipients of children benefits five months before their 18th birthday.

The Association of State Colleges and Universities lobbied against the legislation and has howled over the way it is being implemented.

"We think a lot of kids are going to be hurt," said John Mallon, an association vice president. "Social Security, by not notifying these kids... has fallen down on the job. It's a case of negligence."

Jim Brown, a Social Security spokesman in Washington, D.C., says the retirement system met its obligation.

"It is our responsibility to administer the law," he said. "It is our responsibility to notify. It is not our responsibility to send letters to high school seniors saying get in college by May 1 to circumvent the law."

Social Security student benefits began in 1965. Before that, a child's Social Security benefits stopped within the month of his or her 18th birthday.

A 1980 study by the General Accounting Office found that more than half the recipients of student benefits came from families with an annual income of less than $8,000 and 84 percent from families of less than $20,000 income.

Exactly how many teenagers are going to college early to obtain the benefits is unknown, but a spot check indicates it is clearly in the thousands.

Long Island's Suffolk and Nassau Community colleges have signed up more than 700. Upstate New York's Hudson Community College, has about 30. There are more than 100 at Montgomery Community College in Maryland and 30 in Grand Rapids Junior College.

Some are going to college and high school simultaneously. Others have dropped out of high school and went directly to college.

Many schools have helped pass the word and some colleges have helped students enter their respective doors by dropping the requirement for a high school diploma.

...Help The Zoo, Invest In An Elephant

"We're considering the county's offer that we be allowed to charge admission fees at the entrance gate on (U.S.) Highway 17-92. They reaffirmed their pledge that if a Senate bill sponsored by State Sen. Clark Maxwell and supported by the Seminole County delegation, allowing the County Commission up to 50 percent of the resort tax, passes, the zoo will receive a share," Rozon said. "That would also be contingent on whether a resort-tax referendum is put on the next ballot and passed here. We're looking at half of a potential $200,000 resort tax, and a fraction of that going to the zoo."

Rozon said attendance has been normal for this time of year.

The zoo will be host this month to approximately 1,500 youngsters from Orange County Head Start over a five-day period, with Orange County picking up the tab.

Some other special promotions planned at the zoo in the near future include a Van Show March 31, by Central Florida Vans Inc., and the annual Easter Egg Hunt on April 10. The egg hunt activities will begin at 10 a.m. and will be for children from toddlers to 12 years. There will be three separate age groups, with prizes and gifts from local merchants. Admission fees will be collected at the entrance gate on the highway and will include admittance to the park and zoo and the egg hunt. Eggs will be supplied.

Several fund-raising activities are planned away from the zoo. There will be a Jam Session by Frankie and Johnnie to benefit the zoo on March 28, beginning at 2 p.m. at the Trophy Lounge at Bowl America, Sanford.

The Winter Park High School DECA (Distributive Education Club of America), which has raised $700 for the zoo through student donations, has challenged other area high schools to do the same.

A challenge match between the Sanford Police Department and archery club hunters is being planned for April 17 at the Police Benevolent Association's pistol range in Sanford. Participants will be required use both bows and arrows (no crossbows allowed) and center-fire revolvers or automatics. There will be a registration fee for entrants and an admission fee for spectators. All proceeds will go to the zoo, which will also have the refreshment concession.

Boy Scout Troop 101 of Orlando will hold a "gigantic car wash" to benefit the zoo on March 13 at the Shell Service Station on State Road 436 (Seminole Boulevard) north of Curry Ford Road. Free soft drinks and french fries will be served at McDonald's for car wash customers.

The zoo's major fund-raiser, the Wild West Auction and Music Jamboree, scheduled for April 16 at the Orlando Expo Centre, has been postponed until October, Rozon said, because of an all-out effort to sell advertisements in a special Orlando newspaper zoo supplement due for publication in April.

If Rozon can't get the people to the zoo, he takes the zoo to the people. The zoo has had a petting zoo and booth at the Central Florida Fair, and volunteers took the petting-zoo animals and booth to the arts and crafts festival this past weekend at Eola Park in Orlando.

Is It Respite Or Deliverance?

An amazing thing has happened to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cartel on the way to the bank. It's been mugged by those historic ruffians, Supply and Demand. The softening world demand for oil, the increasing oil surplus, and the declining oil prices are combining into perhaps the most influential economic development of the 1980s. The impact of this unexpected turn of events is just now being perceived and is not yet fully understood.

OPEC, which is geared to produce 24 million barrels of oil a day, is now selling less than 19 million barrels — a 10-year low. Its sales declined by 16 percent last year alone and are still falling. OPEC revenues fell by as much as $30 billion since 1980. OPEC's trade surplus that exceeded $100 billion two years ago came down almost 50 percent in 1981 and could be in the red by the end of 1982. Whereas OPEC provided more than 70 percent of the non-Communist world's oil a few years ago, it now accounts for less than 50 percent.

Such a skid is a dramatic reversal from the uninterrupted price climb that started at $3-per-barrel after the Arab-Israeli war of 1973. As late as 1978, OPEC oil was selling at $12.50 a barrel. The Iranian revolution and resulting loss of 5 million barrels of crude a day ultimately drove OPEC prices to $34 a barrel, with high rollers like Libya getting as much as $40 a barrel. Such arbitrary price gouging cost American consumers more than $100 billion during the ensuing three years.

Soaring oil costs produced an economic counterforce among the oil consumers. Americans, particularly, became conservation-conscious and turned to energy alternatives. Moreover, wholly unrealistic low prices fixed on domestic oil and gasoline were removed. As a result, U.S. crude production rose 162,000 barrels per day this January over the same period in 1981, and gasoline prices, when adjusted for inflation, have declined 11 percent, or about 15 cents per gallon since March, 1981.

Even as OPEC's largest producer, Saudi Arabia, reduced oil production from 10 million barrels a day last summer to about 7 million currently, Europe's North Sea production rose by 1.5 million barrels a day and Mexico's production is expected to go as high as 5 million barrels. Meanwhile, Iran is having difficulty finding oil buyers at $30.20 a barrel, which is $4 below the asking price only three weeks ago.

Some oil economists predict the oil glut and soft demand created by world-wide conservation, by alternative energy sources, and by recession could bring an oil price collapse of more than 50 percent by 1985 or sooner; prices could drop to $15 a barrel in today's dollars.

But, inasmuch as no one three years ago could predict the current oil glut and declining prices, large doses of uncertainty must dilute any forecast about the ever-changing Middle East. Every calculation could be upset by the armed conflict between Iran and Iraq, now escalating because of Soviet aid to Iran and reinforcement to Iraq from Arab neighbors worried about the spread of Islamic revolution from Iran.

The trouble is that a kind of Parkinson's Law in petrodollars has prompted OPEC to spend its oil billions as fast and even faster than they roll in. There are new industries to be financed, huge development projects, steeped-up military spending and, in such nations as Nigeria and Venezuela, large populations demanding enormous social programs. The Saudi royal family cannot, without risk, reduce its income below that brought in by about 7 million barrels a day. According to Petroleum Intelligence Weekly, only four of OPEC's 13 members are living within their means. The rest are eating into their reserves or borrowing. Indeed, OPEC countries became net borrowers from Western banks during the third quarter of 1981 — taking more funds out than they deposited, and creating unexpected economic pressures in Japan, Europe, and the United States.

Most Americans, we assume, view OPEC's hardships with equanimity, to say the least. But OPEC's loss will not be our gain if we lapse into the sort of complacency which led Detroit to produce gas hogs until it was too late and brought the nightmare of gasoline shortages.

BERRY'S WORLD

"You think YOU'VE got it tough — my whole day is structured around nonsense."

By MARK VOGLER

Remember the Keep America Beautiful campaign?

Well, the Longwood-Winter Springs Area Chamber of Commerce has its own version, of sorts.

Litter isn't the target of the chamber's clean-up action, however.

But the 320-member group is concerned about good looks and has for several years tried to recognize area merchants who have taken steps to make the community more attractive.

The chamber recently awarded its beautification award for the month of February to Dr. Charles A. (Chip) Martin, a Winter Springs chiropractor.

Dr. Martin, an Orlando native who has practiced in Winter Springs for 20 months, recently moved his business to an attractive office at 329 State Road 434 in Winter Springs.

"It's certainly a very lovely building inside and out. It does add to the overall beauty of Winter Springs," says Catherine Ray, president of the chamber and vice president of ComBank of Seminole County.

"We think it's an added attraction to a community when someone in business goes out of their way to make a building more attractive. So every other month, we select a merchant for the beautification award. We alternate between the two cities. This month, we'll select a businessman of the month instead of a beautification award," says Mrs. Ray.

"At the end of the year, we'll select a business man of the year out of the six bi-monthly winners. It's just another way to build up a pride in the business community," she says.

The chamber, by the way, hopes to increase membership to at least 400 this year.

Dr. Martin, last month's beautification award winner, has lived in Orlando for 34 years. He specializes in the treatment of athletic, personal and on-the-job injuries.

Chamber members also recognize future businessmen in the local school system.

Lisa Lockwood, a senior of Oviedo High School, was named Business Student of the Month for February at Oviedo High School.

Lisa is in the cooperative business education program at Oviedo and works part time at "The Pass," a sporting goods store in Butler Plaza in Casselberry.

She is the photographer for the Oviedo High School newspaper and the school yearbook.

Named the Business Student of the Month for February for Lyman High School is Mike Hauser, a junior enrolled in the marketing distributive education program where he is an A and B student.

Mike was the manager of Santa's Little World at Altamonte Springs during the Christmas holidays. He is currently employed part-time at the Sarlando Travel Agency.

Who says chivalry is dead?

Seminole County Fire Chief Gary Kaiser, in a very gentleman-like move, walked from his seat to light the cigarette of County Commissioner Sandra Glenn during a recent County Commission workshop session.

What made the action so dramatic was the fact that Kaiser flipped a giant cigarette lighter to break the monotony of discussion relating to what he termed "a burning issue," consideration of increased fire department expenses.

"I've been holding this for quite a while," quipped Kaiser.

Mrs. Glenn and just about everyone in the room was caught off guard and had to chuckle.

"Call rescue, I think my nose is burning," Mrs. Glenn responded.

Debunking Energy Myths

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Everybody knows that available sources of energy have become scarce, energy cost increases are likely to escalate in the future and this country's dependence upon imported oil is a major cause of its energy problems.

Notwithstanding what "everybody knows," none of those popular beliefs is correct, according to a group of respected researchers who recently concluded a two-year study of the nation's energy prospects for the future. The report on their work, "Eight Great Energy Myths," is a provocative study that attempts to debunk a variety of widely embraced yet fallacious notions about energy production and consumption.

The study was conducted by the Energy Productivity Center of the Mellon Institute, a division of Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, under the direction of energy experts Roger W. Sant and Steven C. Carhart.

Their innovative analysis differs from most other efforts because they view the production of energy not as an end unto itself but rather as a means of providing crucial services to society — notably the comfort derived from heating and air conditioning; illumination for homes, offices and factories; and mobility offered by various forms of transportation.

"People do not need or want gas or electricity in their homes. They want comfort and convenience," the study explains. "Industry doesn't really care about using natural gas or coal. It needs... machines that operate to produce products."

If the end-use of energy is considered, "scarcity is not the problem (because) abundant options exist to meet this country's service needs," the study says. "Growing human needs and wants are met with very modest increases in fuel use."

That's because energy utilization is becoming far more efficient than in the past. For example, new light bulbs have been developed that use only one-fourth the electricity yet produce the equivalent amount of illumination of older bulbs.

Retrofitting and sophisticated construction techniques have made residential, commercial and industrial structures far more energy efficient than in the past. New cars travel almost twice as far on a gallon of gasoline as autos produced only 10 years ago.

Even assuming a healthy 3.2 percent annual rate of economic growth, a "least-cost energy strategy" would produce a slight decline in total energy consumption in 1990 and only a modest increase by the end of the century.

Increased efficiency in utilizing energy offers a means of refuting another myth — that the cost of energy will continue to rise at an increasing rate.

The Carnegie-Mellon study assumes that the price of gasoline will increase by 46 percent — plus inflation.

Qaddafi: 'A Combination Of Contraries'

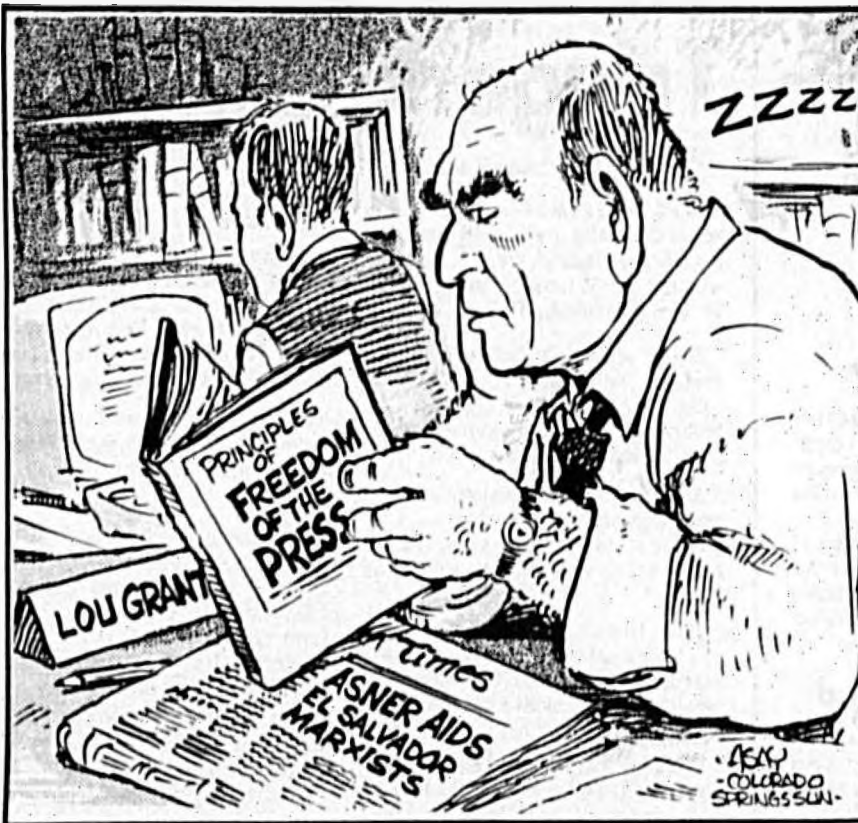

WASHINGTON — The CIA has now confirmed that Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi was the target of an assassination by his own army late last year, as I first reported two months ago.

Intelligence sources say there have been six previous attempts on Qaddafi's life over the past decade in which he was wounded — in the arm, shoulder, stomach and legs. But he was not seriously hurt.

Interestingly, the latest attempt came amid increasing evidence that the 39-year-old dictator has given his blessing to the development of a personality cult, like Stalin and Mao Tse-tung before him. Where previously he was referred to merely by his military rank of colonel, the Libyan media now fawn on him as "the commander," "the leader" and even "the greatest intellectual of the country."

Not bad for someone who began life in a Bedouin camp in the Libyan desert. But even his worst enemies would not deny that Muammar Qaddafi is a very remarkable man.

I have followed Qaddafi's career from the start. He has always been a pan-Islamic missionary of messianic proportions. Until recently, he affected an image of self-effacing simplicity, a sort of "first among equals." When I first interviewed him, he received me

JEFFREY HART

GOP's Secret Weapon

As the weeks go by, we will naturally be hearing more and more about the 1982 congressional elections, reading varied projections about the likely results, hearing speculation about the political spin-off of Reaganomics.

But the Republican Party now has an advantage that cannot be measured in polls today, and which will become increasingly evident as the actual voting draws nearer.

The intellectual initiative has passed to the Republicans, and they now have the younger and the more able and energetic candidates.

From 1932 until 1968, the Democrats set the national agenda and the Republicans responded to it. The Republicans differed here and there, they recommended modifications and greater efficiencies, but both parties were talking about issues raised by the Democrats.

Harvard historian Louis Hartz aptly compared the two parties to the sun and the moon. The Democratic sun gave off the light and the Republican moon reflected it.

That's been completely reversed now. The Reagan administration came to power with a generation of innovative, conservative political and economic theory behind it. It is Reagan who sets the national agenda, and the Democrats who respond to it. Thus, no one doubts that we must cut back on the public sector and on a mushrooming social budget. The whole argument concerns how much.

And of course the younger and abler candidates are flocking to the party that has the intellectual initiative. That is where the action is. The Democrats represent a holding action.

In a recent column I discussed the senatorial candidacy of Republican Jeffrey Bell in New Jersey. Bell, in his 30s, is a veteran political professional. From his college days at Columbia, he practically breathed the kind of conservatism that Reagan espouses and that dominates the political discussion. In 1976, Bell knocked off me-too Republican Clifford Case, and Bell stands a good chance of going to the Senate this year.

Another example: In neighboring Philadelphia, another bright young Republican, Michael Marino, is running for Congress in the First Congressional District. You probably haven't heard of Michael Marino, but you will, and he is a sign of the times.

A graduate of Haverford College, Marino will be 25 this March. He's been to law school, and he's worked for Solomon Brothers on Wall Street. In the summer of 1980, he reflected on Jimmy Carter's performance and decided that we could do a lot better.

He decided that we could do a lot better in the First District of Philadelphia, too. The seat was then held by Ozzie Meyers, a Democrat. Meyers was convicted in the Abscam scandal. Today's First District is actually an amalgam of two previous districts. The seat in the other district was held by Ray Lederer, a Democrat. He was convicted in Abscam, too.

Michael Marino was born and raised in this Philadelphia neighborhood, which is traditionally Democratic. His grandfather was a Democrat, and the Marino campaign headquarters is in the grandparents' house.

But Marino, though a Republican, believes in the grandfather's ideas. He contends that we are overtaxed and that this is ruining the cities and especially the older neighborhoods. He espouses traditional local and family values.

'Bizarro' Budget Politics

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The television program "Saturday Night Live" has a recurring skit called "The Bizarro World." Everything in this mythical world is exactly the same as on earth — except reversed. Right is wrong, up is down, yes is no.

The responses of administration officials and Democratic congressional leaders to the president's fiscal 1983 budget might lead observers to believe that they had stepped into this "Bizarro World." What is being said is all very familiar; but it is being said by the wrong people.

The budget debate has followed the same pattern nearly every year for as long as most people can remember: The Republicans express outrage at the amount of red ink, while the Democrats reply that deficit spending is not all that unhealthy for the economy, that this particular deficit is not as bad as it looks and that the problem is not their fault anyway.

(Republicans blame the unbalanced budgets of their own party's presidents on the excesses of the Democratic-controlled Congress.)

Those arguments are being heard again this year with regard to the Reagan budget. The only difference is that this time the Democrats are decrying the deficit while the Republicans and their conservative economists are saying that things are not so grim.

One of those economists is Paul Craig Roberts, a leading supply-sider and architect of Reaganomics. Roberts remains high in the administration's economic councils although he recently resigned as assistant secretary of the treasury for economic policy to assume a professorship at Georgetown University.

"The proper measure of a deficit is not absolute size," says Roberts. "Its proper measure is in terms of the size of the economy and the size of the savings pool available to finance it."

Administration spokesmen such as Roberts argue that the projected deficits for fiscal 1982 and 1983 are not really that large when figured as a percentage of the gross national product.

"The deficits in 1974 and 1975 were really much larger than any of the deficits we are projecting through 1986," says Roberts.

Administration officials project that this year's $118 billion deficit (including the so-called "off-budget items") will amount to 3.8 percent of the GNP. They forecast that the deficit will decline to 2.7 percent of the GNP in fiscal 1983, 2.2 percent in fiscal 1984 and 1.7 percent in fiscal 1985.

The $53 billion deficit in fiscal 1974 was 3.8 percent of the GNP, and the $73 billion deficit in fiscal 1975 was 4.5 percent.

The Reaganites are also arguing that the projected deficits are not really their fault.

prior to the revolution that brought him to power.

— Qaddafi likes to keep in touch with the people. In the early years of his rule, according to one intelligence report, he "used to wander through the streets and marketplaces incognito in order to see and hear what was being said." He also used to drop in unannounced at government offices to check up on the bureaucrats.

— The Libyan strongman exercises close control over the media. If he dislikes a program being broadcast, he will telephone the station personally and order it cut off the air. He also proofreads certain newspaper stories to make sure they meet with his approval.

— Never one to stand on diplomatic ceremony, Qaddafi has been known to telephone other Arab leaders at odd hours, and he has shown up in foreign countries without advance notice — sometimes without even privately informing his hosts.

— He is inclined to periods of silence and self-imposed isolation, disappearing from the public for long periods of time and staying in isolation in the desert," according to an Israeli intelligence profile. Though often spontaneous to the point of impulsiveness, and prone to outbursts of anger, Qaddafi is also capable of analyzing political events logically and acting according to long-range plans. These contradictions suggest that he may be a manic depressive.

— Qaddafi is a man of moods. He is extremely sensitive and his feelings are easily hurt. He often suffers periods of depression.

— Qaddafi is an extremist, seeing things as either black or white. "His outlook is egocentric," one intelligence analysis concludes. "He examines reality in the light of his own narrow appreciation. These traits explain his attachment to and unwavering belief in his simplistic socialist philosophy and his readiness to fight for it to the bitter end without recognizing limitations."

— Although he hates foreigners generally and avoids contact with them when possible, Qaddafi can on occasion be warm, pleasant and sympathetic to strangers.

CASH IT OR LOSE IT: Strange as it may seem, thousands of checks issued by the federal government go uncashed. Whether they're lost, destroyed or simply forgotten, the Treasury has no way of knowing. So now, for the first time in 25 years, the government is planning to put a one-year time limit on its checks. The Treasury is also thinking of charging agencies when the checks it sends out for them are actually cashed, instead of at time of issue. The amount of outstanding Treasury checks, incidentally, stood at $1.4 billion as of last Jan. 31.

Was FACA Vote Slight Just An Oversight?

There is a 30-year-old organization in this state called the Florida Athletic Coaches Association. Its mouthpiece is the magazine the "Florida Coach."

For as long as Zeke Kinney, basketball coach at Colonial High, can remember the FACA has picked the prep basketball players to participate in the summer all-star game between the North and the South in Gainesville.

This occurs the night before the North-South football game and is a big deal in a young athlete's life for two reasons. If the young prep star hasn't been chosen by a school, it is a place to showcase his talents. If he has decided on a school, it is an honor to be chosen one of the elite in the state. Only seniors are eligible.

About 37 schools make up the five counties (Lake, Osceola, Volusia, Seminole and Orange) that are involved in the FACA in this area. The dues are $25 per year.

Last Monday the FACA met to pick its Players of the Year and its two representatives for the all-star game. Bishop Moore's fine forward Greg Mullee was named player of the Year and Colonial's 6-9 center Barry Sullivan was second. Colonial's Greg Way was third, Luther's David Visscher was fourth and David Gallagher of Edgewater was fifth.

Mullee and Sullivan will represent this area in the all-star game.

Only 14 coaches attended the meeting. This is hardly the correct number to choose two all-star representatives. As you can see, three of the top five were Metro players. One (Mullee) was an Orange Belt player and Visscher had a good year for LA Luther.

Where were the Five Star players? Better yet, where were the Five Star coaches. That's what Seminole High's Bill Payne would like to know. He was the only one there.

"What's frustrating is that we're (Five Star Conference) never going to get a guy in the all-star game if these guys don't show up," said Payne. "We've had two guys in the game in the last six years."

And, it doesn't take a genius to figure out where those two cagers went to school. Seminole's Ruben Cotton and Bruce McCray were the two all-stars. Payne, by the way, coached the game a couple of years ago. Mainland's Sam Henry made it the same year.

Kenney was the first to agree. "I doubt if they would have gotten a representative without some more of them being there," he said. "The problem you run into is that the Metro coaches might only see a kid like "Pop"

Sam Cook

Lemon or (David) Visscher once.

"I'm not going to vote for him over a guy like Mullee who I've seen four times and know what he can do," said Kenney.

Does the Five Star have any players worthy of all-star status? Payne thinks so.

"Well, Lyman has three pretty good ones (Lemon, Eric French and William Scott)," pointed out Payne. "And I'd say Spruce Creek has one (Jimmy Payton)."

He could have gone on but he didn't. Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Deland, Seabreeze and Lyman could have all nominated players. And, if they didn't nominate players, they should have been there to lend support to the good ones like Lemon and Payton that had a chance to be in the top two.

At least that's what Solomon Lemon thinks.

"Pop (Lemon) worked hard to raise over $300 to go to a camp this summer," said S. Lemon, father of Pop.

Where was Tom Lawrence?

"I guess I might have heard about the meeting," Lawrence said. "Edgar Scott said something about it to me before our (district title) game."

"I'm sorry it happened, but I think the sportwriters should pick the all-stars for that game anyway."

It wouldn't have mattered if Lawrence had attended or not. He isn't a member of the FACA and wouldn't have been allowed to vote. Neither is Greg Robinson of Lake Howell.

Lawrence also said he would have gone to the meeting if he hadn't forgotten about it. "You can go and pay your dues the night of the meeting and still vote," the Lyman skipper said. "It comes at a bad time of the year right after the district tournament. There are just too many things going on. I just sent out 50 letters on Lemon, Scott and French to colleges."

Lawrence pointed out that 16 or 17 kids in the last eight years have received college scholarships that have attended Lyman.

Regardless, Payne has a good point that the coaches should be there. The Metro had seven of the eight there. It would have been unanimous if Winter Park's Bill Glendenin hadn't had an emergency in the family.

The Orange belt had three. Groveland's Randy Powell was there and he was nominated for Coach of the Year. Bishop Moore's Gregg Robinson and Ed Visscher of Luther joined Payne as the 14.

Some coaches claimed that they hadn't received word, or didn't remember it.

District Chairman Wayne Rickman of Boone said all the coaches were notified two weeks in advance. Kinney said an article ran in the "Florida Coach" a week prior saying when the meeting should be held.

"I can't understand why a coach wouldn't join," said Rickman. "And, even if he can't be there, he can call me and give me the boy's statistics and I'll nominate him."

Not being able to go was Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson's reason. "I didn't hear about it until the Friday before the meeting on Monday. I already had a commitment by then and none of my assistants could go," he said.

Peterson, however, pointed out that it was the first FACA meeting he has missed in six years. "I think its important to be a member of the organization, but it could be a little better organized," he added.

Speaking of excuses, Spruce Creek coach Edgar Scott had a pretty legitimate one. He was preparing his Hawks for their regional battle with Stuart Martin County.

"I'm a member," he said. "But it was just too hectic to go. Someone told me before the district tournament that it was a waste of time anyway because the Metro coaches gang up on you."

Seabreeze's Marshall Bradley is also a member, but didn't attend. Mainland's Dick Toth is not a member. "I belonged one year (1979) and Sam Henry made it," he said.

Payne is sincere in his efforts to promote and help the Five Star and its players. It's too bad that the other coaches didn't show the same interest this year.

During my dealings with Lawrence, Robinson and Peterson in the past five years, they have always shown this dedication for their work.

No one is more conscientious about reporting his scores than Peterson. Robinson may be a little bummed out this year by his 0-21 record, but he has always been dedicated too. Lawrence lets his number of scholarships speak for itself.

Maybe it was just an oversight this year.

For the sake of the Five Star and its players, let's hope so.

Tribe Snaps Skein; Davis Breaks Leg

Seminole's baseball team received some good news and some bad news Saturday night at Memorial Stadium. The bad news, however, definitely put a damper on the good news.

Tribe center fielder Alton Davis suffered a broken leg while rounding first base and will probably be sidelined for the season.

"He broke the fibula bone," confirmed Lundquist about his 414 hitting outfielder. "He rounded first base and slipped on the wet grass and it just snapped."

Lundquist feels his standout outfielder will probably miss the season. "Alton has to be in a cast for four to six weeks and then it'll be another four weeks till he's ready. It'll be May by then," he said.

Another thing that snapped Saturday was Seminole's three-game losing streak. Junior Greg Hill scattered nine hits and drilled a two-run double off the left field wall as the 'Noles handled Spruce Creek, 5-3, in Five Star play.

Lundquist's Tribe is 4-6 for the year. It plays Deland tonight with righthander

Tracy Walker getting his first start. Walker had been bothered by arm problems in the past which has limited his starts, but Lundquist feels he is ready now.

Elsewhere, Lyman, 7-1, battles Seabreeze. The Greyhounds and Lake Howell were rained out again on Saturday. Lake Brantley, a 12-6 loser to 3-0 Apopka on Saturday, travels to Mainland Wednesday. Brantley was rained out against Seabreeze Friday and will make up that game as part of a double-header Wednesday. The first game is at 3:30 p.m.

The Patriots' Scott Killa belted a grand slam home run in the first inning against the Blue Darters to tie the score, but Apopka broke loose for three in the sixth and four in the seventh to seal the victory.

The Pats got only two hits. Sophomore Jimmy Robbins had the other safety. Tommy Novak was the losing pitcher.

Apopka is 6-2 overall.

Seminole got all their runs they needed in the slugfest in the first two frames.

In the first, Senior catcher Brett Von Herbulis laced a single to left, stole second and moved to third on a Tracy Walker ground out.

Senior center fielder Alton David promptly drove Von Herbulis home on a shot to center. Davis then pulled up after taking his turn at first.

In the second Seminole continued to pick on Creek hurler Donnie Miller as outfielders Jeff Litton and Greg Register blooped singles to left. Second sacker Paul Griffin placed a perfect bunt, loading the bases for number nine hitting Hill. Hill's double chased Litton a Register home, and moved Griffin to third. Senior shortstop Freddie Howard completed the scoring by placing a bloop up the middle to score Griffin and Hill for a 5-0 lead.

Jack Stays Ahead Of Pack

ORLANDO, (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus had planned a bone fishing outing with his son and Gary Player but the weather forced him to give up his pleasure outing today for a run at his first golf title in nearly 19 months.

Instead of fishing, the Golden Bear will be trying to defend a one-stroke lead in the rain-plagued $300,000 Bay Hill Classic.

Sunday, Nicklaus fired a 4-under par 67 for a 54-hole total of 10-under 203 for a one-shot edge over Raymond Floyd, who was 9-under after posting a 64. Thirty-six holes had been planned Sunday but a four-hour rain delay forced tournament officials to carry the final 18 over until today.

"I had planned to go bone fishing Monday with Gary Player and my son Jack in the Keys, but I will have to forego that for a month," said Nicklaus, who hasn't won a tournament since the PGA championship in August, 1980.

Bay Hill Classic

"But I've been in contention and had a shot to win every week this year," Nicklaus said. "This happens to be my best so far."

Nicklaus, who entered Sunday's round in a three-way tie at 6-under, had seven birdies in his round. South African Dennis Watson, making his first American start this year, was three Sunday.

Dave Eichelberger (67), who won Bay Hill in 1980, was tied with Larry Nelson (69) at 6-under 207. Woody Blackburn (68), Jerry Pate (70) and Lanny Wadkins (70) were at 208 and five golfers, including Craig Stadler (73) and Scott Hoch (73), were at 4-under 209.

Andy Bean, the defending champion and last weekend's Doral Open winner, was out of contention after firing a 73 for a 3-over 216. Gary Player, who had a 74, was also at 216.

After more than an inch of rain soaked the 7,069-yard Bay Hill course, tournament officials decided to play the final round, which will be nationally televised (NBC) today.

Nicklaus had finished his ninth hole and was 8-under when the rains hit and went 10-under after firing birdies on his 10th, 14th and 15th holes.

"It was kinda of an unusual round," said Nicklaus. "I played a lot of good shots and played a lot of good holes. All in all, I guess I played very well and more aggressively today."

"I needed to make some changes in my swing and I did that Saturday," he said. "I made some adjustments and it paid off."

Nicklaus said he suspects Floyd, whose last TPA win came in the Westchester Classic in 1981, will have a good round today.

Spruce, Osceola Fall; Luther Advances

Spruce Creek and Kissimmee-Osceola were both shot down in sectional basketball action Saturday night, but Luther, boasting three Seminole County players, advanced to Thursday and Friday's state tournament at Lakeland.

Coch Edgar Scott's Hawks ran into the state's number one 4A team, Twin Lakes, and dropped a 62-49 decision at West Palm Beach.

"We gave it our best shot," said Scott Monday morning. "But six straight road games is too much. We won five of those games though."

The Hawks were up by six with two minutes left in the half, but then missed several layups and Twin Lakes connected on its free throws to take control of the game.

The Hawks finished with a 24-5 record under first-year coach Scott. It was the best in the school's history, slightly better than the mark of 23-6 posted by Joe Piggotte's squad last year.

Osceola also had trouble with free throws, but the Kowboys couldn't make theirs in a 50-47 setback to Ocala Vanguard.

Super junior shooter Jimmy McCrimmon, averaging 26.5 points a game, went scoreless in the first half and finished with just 12 points.

Luther got a solid scoring effort from former Lyman guard Kevin Zastrow down the stretch to outlast Hastings in overtime, 63-62.

Zastrow tossed in nine fourth-quarter points to pull the Crusaders even and then another Greyhound transfer, Joe Thomas, hit two key free throws to preserve the win in overtime.

David Visscher topped Luther with 22 points, while Zastrow chipped in 17 and Thomas 11. Lake Mary's Kevin added four to the Crusader total.

In girls state tournament play, Clearwater Central Catholic, a sectional winner over Lake Mary, clobbered Walton, 72-44, for the 2A title.

Ocala Vanguard nipped Stranahan, 69-66, for the 3A title, Ft. Lauderdale Dillard crunched Brandon, 64-48, for the 4A crown, and Laurel Hill smoked Hastings, 65-46, for the 1A championship.

Lakeview's Robert Hill rebounded in 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Sunday as the eighth grade Mustangs completed a perfect season by belting Milwee, 83-50, for the Seminole Youth Sports Association championship at Lake Brantley.

Hill received additional help from 6-0 Chris Jackson who threw in 11 points and clutched eight boards. Sean Fulce dumped in 10 points, while Daryl Williams and Michael Simmons added eight each. Williams handed out 10 assists.

"Hill did a great job on the boards," said coach Charles Steele about his 14-0 Mustangs. "He's not that tall (6-0), but he knows how to rebound."

Lakeview held a narrow 23-23 halftime lead, but blew open the game in the middle of the third quarter with a zone press spearheaded by guards Williams and Simmons.

"Daryl and Michale both had excellent floor games," praised Steele. "They play a real smart game."

Milwee's Fred McNeal was a constant thorn in the Lakeview side with 22 points. "He gave a lot of trouble," Steele said about the younger brother of Lyman standout Marcus Neal.

Milwee's Bret Marshall had 11 points and T.J. Scaletta had 10.

NCAA Coaches Happy Just To Be There

College Basketball

United Press International

Two college coaches whose teams will take different paths in hopes of a trip to the Final Four in New Orleans reacted similarly when asked about their school's chances for an NCAA Championship.

"We're happy to be in the East, but that doesn't assure us of anything," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith after his team was awarded the top seed in the East Regional at Charlotte, N.C. Meanwhile, Georgetown travels 3,000 miles to Logan, Utah, as the top seed in the West Regional.

"There is no easy path to New Orleans, so, it really doesn't matter what regional you're in," said Hoyas Coach John Thompson.

Virginia headed a list of 20 schools awarded at-large berths by the NCAA for its 44th annual tournament. The Cavaliers were awarded the No. 1 seed in the Midwest Regional.

The NCAA also issued at-large berths to two ACC lodge brothers of North Carolina and Virginia, Wake Forest (20-8) and North Carolina State (22-9), plus Southeastern Conference co-champions Kentucky (22-7) and Tennessee (19-9), who were both ousted during their league's post-season tournament by eventual winner Alabama.

The NCAA also invited three Big Ten teams to join league-champion Minnesota in the quest for that conference's fourth national title in the last seven years: defending NCAA champion Indiana (18-9), Ohio State (21-9) and Iowa (20-7).

Other teams to gain at-large entry into the tournament were No. 2 DePaul (26-1), No. 13 West Virginia (26-3), an upset loser to Pittsburgh in the Eastern Eight Tournament, No. 16 Kansas State (21-7), a semifinal round loser in the Big Eight Tournament, and No. 18 Louisville (20-9), a championship game loser to Memphis State in the Metro Conference Tournament.

Rounding out the 20 at-large teams were Big East regular-season champion Villanova (22-7), Southwest Conference runnerup Houston (21-7) and West Coast Athletic Conference runnerup San Francisco (25-5) plus James Madison (23-5), 1977 champion Marquette (21-8), Southern Cal (19-8), Boston College (19-9) and St. John's (20-8).

The other top seed was awarded to DePaul in the Midwest.

In NIT pairings announced Sunday night, Oklahoma, 19-10, visits Oral Roberts, 18-11, in the opening game Tuesday night.

Wednesday pairings, with the home team listed first, are: Purdue (14-13) vs. Western Kentucky (19-9), Dayton (19-8) vs. Connecticut (17-10), Illinois (17-10) vs. Long Island U. (20-9), Brigham Young (17-12) vs. Washington (18-9), and Texas A&M (18-10) vs. Lamar (22-8).

In Thursday games, it is Georgia (18-11) vs. Temple (19-7), Rutgers (19-9) vs. Iowa (24-4), Bradley (21-10) vs. American (21-8), and Nevada-Las Vegas (19-8) vs. Murray St. (20-7).

On Friday, matchups are Louisiana State (14-13)-Tulane (17-8), Richmond (18-10)-Maryland (15-12), Syracuse (15-12)-St. Peter's (20-8), Virginia Tech (18-10)-Fordham (18-10), Clemson (14-13)-Mississippi (17-11), San Diego State (20-8)-Cal-Irvine (22-4).

In two tournament championship games Sunday, North Carolina beat Virginia 17-45 to win the Atlantic Coast Conference and Memphis State defeated Louisville 73-62 to capture the Metro Conference.

ACC
At Greensboro, N.C., freshman Michael Jordan stopped a Virginia comeback with a second-half scoring blitz and North Carolina then turned to its delay game for the final 10 minutes to beat third-ranked Virginia.

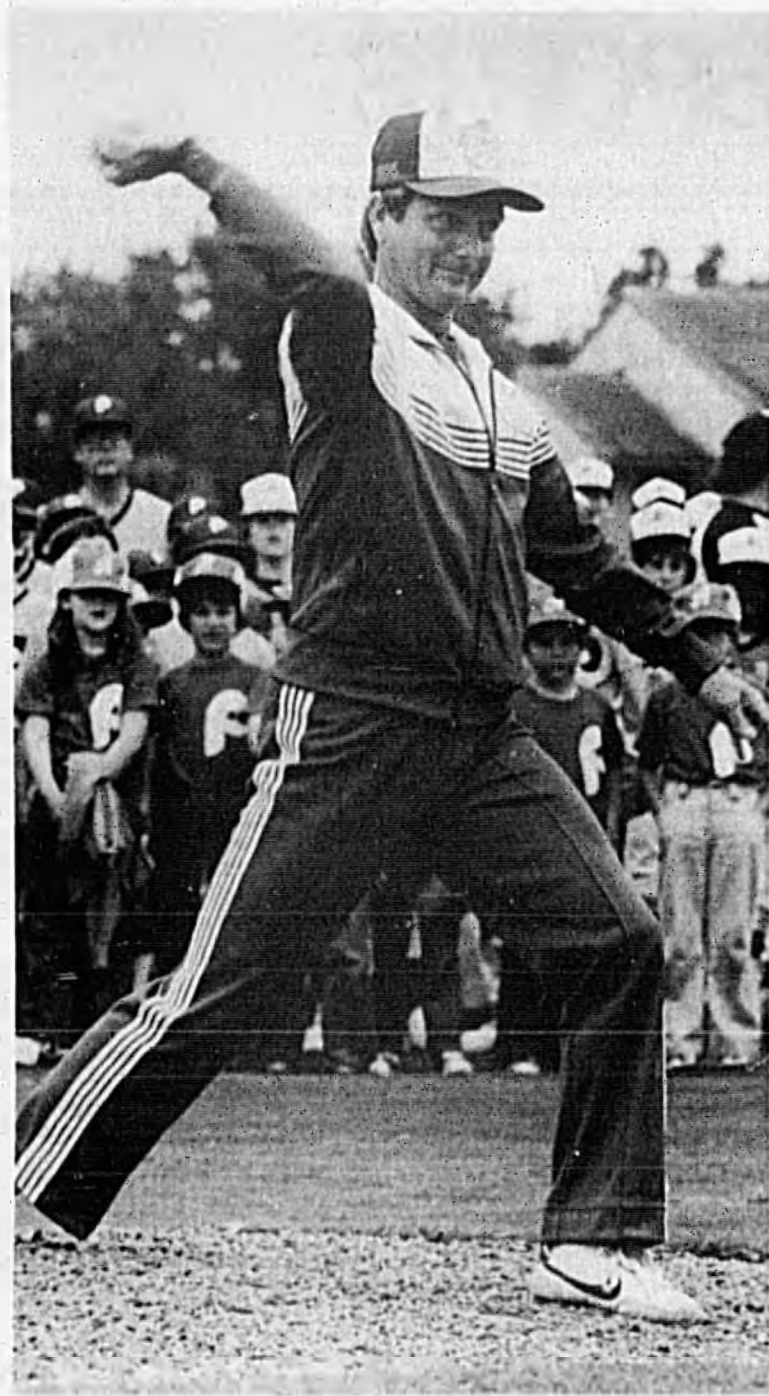

Metro
At Memphis, Tenn., Metro Conference player of the year Keith Lee poured in 27 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Sunday to lead 11th-ranked Memphis State to an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

In conference title games over the weekend:
Southeastern
At Lexington, Ky., Eddie Phillips scored off a rebound with three seconds left and Alabama upset Kentucky 48-46 to win the SEC tournament for the first time since 1934.

Missouri Valley
At Tulsa, Okla., Paul Pressey scored 19 points as Tulsa defeated Illinois State 90-77 to win its first MVC tournament.

Big East
At Hartford, Conn., Georgetown, keyed by Eric Smith and Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, blew past Villanova 72-54 to take the Big East.

Big Eight
At Kansas City, Mo., Ricky Frazier scored 24 points on 12-of-14 shooting and Jon Sundvold added 21, giving Missouri its first Big Eight tournament title since 1978 with a 68-60 victory over Oklahoma.

Central Florida teams dominated competition over the weekend in the Florida Junior Boys, Florida Junior Girls and Florida Intermediate boys basketball leagues.

Sanford teams, however, were not so lucky. The Sanford Junior Boys and Intermediate Boys all-stars both lost their Friday night opening round games and then were beat Saturday morning in consolation matches.

Teams from District 4, which includes Seminole County, won two championships and finished second in the other tournament. All three state tournaments were hosted by the Orlando Recreation Department.

The Sanford Juniors dropped a 42-34 decision to Ormond Beach in Saturday morning's consolation round. Apopka beat Riviera Beach, 50-47, and then beat Ormond Beach, 59-39, in the consolation finals.

East Volusia stunned defending state champ St. Petersburg Lake Vista, 48-44, in the Junior Boys semifinals, while Orlando edged gully Palm Springs, 47-45.

Palm Springs beat Lake Vista, 54-43, for third place, while East Volusia slipped by Orlando, 45-43, in the title game.

In the Intermediate Boys tournament, DeLand beat Sanford, 92-82, and Orlando defeated North Miami Beach, 62-60, in consolation matches. In the consolation finals, DeLand beat Orlando, 53-40.

Apopka, the District 4 champ, beat East Volusia, 74-58, and Lake Vista nipped Riviera Beach, 44-43, in overtime in semifinal competition. Riviera Beach exploded for a 101-66 win over East Volusia to take third place before Apopka beat Lake Vista, 57-50, for the title.

In the Junior Girls tournament, Cocoa Beach beat Ormond Beach, 32-12, and Coral Springs edged DeLand 30-28 in overtime in the semifinals. DeLand beat Ormond Beach, 40-18, for third place and Cocoa Beach won the championship with a 23-21 win over Coral Springs. Palm Beach Gardens defeated Southeast Volusia, 22-11, for the consolation championship.

After falling behind early, the Sanford juniors battled back to make it a close game during the middle two periods. Ormond Beach led, 10-6, at the end of the first period and scored the final bucket of the second period to take an 18-16 lead into the dressing room at the half.

The two teams scored nine points apiece in the third period before Sanford was out-scored, 15-9, in the fourth frame. Reginald Bellamy led Sanford with 16 points, while Perez Perry, the league's leading scorer, was held to just two points. Travis Brown scored nine and Tarance Carr finished with six.

The Sanford intermediates jumped in front, 16-10, at the end of the first period and led DeLand, 37-36, at the half. Sanford was still in front, 59-54, at the end of the third period, but Joe Corso and Charles Ruffin both fouled out midway through the fourth period and Sanford finished with four players on the court as DeLand out-scored Sanford 38-23 in that high-scoring period.

Terrence Marshall finished with a game-high 29 points for Sanford, William Carr finished with 23 points and Leroy Richardson scored 18. Corso scored eight points before fouling out, but Ruffin, normally a double-figures scorer, was shut out.

FC Soccer Teams Shine Through Gloom

F.C. United Soccer

Saturday saw another action packed soccer day at Red Bug Park, home of FC United Soccer Club. Even though the weatherman predicted rain and an overcast day, several FC teams turned in shining performances.

In the Under 18 bracket, Coach Jim Doughty's FC 560 Strikers led the way with a convincing 7-0 victory over Seminole 681. The Strikers offense was led by the sparkling performance of Jim Morrissey, who turned in three goals for the day.

Doughty said it was just a "typical game for Jim!"

Rounding out the scoring was Jeff Schnitker with two goals and Tim Hefernan and Mike Ostien one goal each.

The fact that Seminole did not score was due to an excellent team defense led by David Dempsey and keepers Steve Doughty and Vance Guthrie who turned away several strong shots. Saturday's win makes the Strikers 2-0 for the season with 18 goals scored for zero against.

In the Under 14 action Coach Al White's FC 480 Arrows pulled out a tough game with a last minute goal for a 1-0 win over Pine Hills 481.

Even though the Arrows controlled 90 percent of the offensive action in the contest, taking 35 shots, they still found themselves without a score late in the game.

Realizing that time was running out they gave an all out effort and a long crossing pass was finally headed into the net by Adam Gorman.

The tempo of the game was controlled by center halfback Mike Tomazewski and strong man to man coverage by the fullbacks. Goalie Ray Thorn made several great saves to keep Pine Hills off the scorecard. This makes the Arrows third shutout and gives them a 3-0 record for the season.

In other action:
Under 8
FC 860, the Strikers played to a 1-1 tie with Pine Hills 861 and Winter Park 801 shutout FC 880 2-0.

Under 10
FC 700, the Wildcats defeated Maitland 701 8-0. FC 710 fell to Sanford 000, 1-0. FC 760, the Hornets, downed Winter Park 061, 2-1 and FC 060, the Tornados shut out FC 080, 2-0.

Under 12
FC 160 fell to Pine Hills 260 4-0; FC 270, the Junior Sting defeated Downtown Orlando 260, 2-1. FC 280 lost to SOE 202 3-2 and FC 220, the Raiders fell to Downtown Orlando 280, 4-2.

Under 14
FC 481 defeated Maitland 361 3-2, and FC 460 fell to Downtown Orlando 460, 3-1.

Greene Edges Marco For Boosters' Golf Crown

Sanford's Sonny Greene fired a 66 Saturday, and then won a match of the scorecards with R.D. Marco, to take the Championship Flight in the Annual Seminole Boosters Golf Tournament at the Mayfair Country Club.

Greene and Marco both had 66s, but when they retraced the scorecard to the first handicap hole, Greene had the better score for the top place.

Seminole baseball coach Bobby Lundquist tied with ex-Fighting Seminole Danny Zinn for the low gross with a 71, but Lundquist won a similar scorecard check to the top honor.

In the First Flight, Sanford's Ira Arambson fired a 67 to edge Tom Ball and Superintendent of Schools Bob Hughes who each fired a 68.

In the Second Flight, Sanford's Ada O'Neill struck a blow for women's liberation by shooting a 84 to edge Walt Carpenter and Seminole County Sheriff John Polk. They had 65s.

In the Third Flight, Dutch Campbell took an easy three-shot victory over Cliff Miller and Dennis Courson by firing a 64.

Jack "Sandbagger" Harner won the Fourth Flight with a 67 to beat out Katherine Parks (70) and Dick Herndon (72).

In the Calloway Division, Buddy Burton and Tom Smith both shot 71s, but Burton won the scorecard matchup. Tom Mixon was third with a 73.

In other contests, Steve Groover (fifth hole), Lundquist (seventh hole), Don Smith (10th) and Circuit Court Judge Joe Davis (16th hole) all won turkeys for closest to the pin shots.

Tom Ball had the longest drive (280 yards) and Dutch Campbell was second (270 yards). They each won a bottle of champagne.

Toney Records 46, 76ers Drop Lakers

United Press International

Like a fine student of basketball, Philadelphia guard Andrew Toney has begun hitting the books — the record books, that is.

"If I had known that, I would have taken him out early," Coach Billy Cunningham joked after Toney equaled his coach's home record of 46 points in a 119-113 Philadelphia victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Cunningham scored 46 points in a November, 1969 game.

Toney's career-high included 20 fourth-quarter points and helped hand the Lakers' their third straight defeat.

"I had a couple of games something like this but they were in college," the guard explained. "This is the first time in the pros. I knew I had it going good in the fourth quarter, I was just trying to make things happen."

Philadelphia trailed throughout most of the game, and the Laker lead was 99-93 with 8:46 to play. However, Toney and Julius Erving sparked a 10-2 Philadelphia spurt and a lay-up by Maurice Cheeks gave the 76ers a 102-101 lead with 6:05 to play.

In other games, Boston stopped New York 107-106, Indiana beat Dallas 108-106, Kansas City defeated Chicago 124-122, Denver outscored Cleveland 147-127, Houston got by Phoenix 14-92, Portland beat Golden State 106-102 and Seattle drubbed San Diego 144-106.

'The Best Of Dear Abby' Reminds Reader Of A Rose

DEAR ABBY: Our children gave me a copy of "The Best of Dear Abby" for Christmas. I had expected to find it filled with wisecracks and funnies. On the contrary, seriousness seems to be the keynote. It is evident that you do not lightly take your responsibility as an adviser.

Your book reminds me of a rose. The pages become petals, rich with fragrance of empathy, compassion, seriousness, wit and humor. The stem has its thorns. The book is mightily near to being a documentary on humanity.

May I please have permission to reproduce by Xerox pages 48, 49 and 50, which contain correspondence from "Misérable in Phoenix"? I desire to give copies to our children and grandchildren and their friends who may be raising teen-agers.

I am 94 years old and my beloved wife of 64 years is 87. We both enjoy your book immensely. Rather than becoming an old pest, I will say "Good-bye." Love, CHARLES ALBERT SMITH, ALTADENA, CALIF. DEAR CHARLES: An "old pest"? Never! Your letter made my day. You may use the specific material from my book to share with family and friends. Everyone desiring to reproduce copyrighted material must request permission, as you did.

P.A. To those who have complained that their local bookstores are out of my book, it's available by sending $9.95 plus $1 for postage and handling to: "The Best of Dear Abby," 4400 Johnson Dr., Fairway, Kan. 66205. Make checks payable to Universal Press Syndicate, and please mention the name of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY: Many parents spend the entire month of January recuperating after their grown children have come "home" with their families to spend the Christmas holidays with Mom and Dad. I'm one of those moms.

Here's a terrific letter I hope you'll print. I'm sure not many moms have received one like it: "Dear Mom: Thanks for sending this big box of stuff I left behind when we spent the Christmas holidays at your house. Everything arrived beautifully packed, as usual. And thanks for washing and ironing everything, and mending my good blue sweater. Glad you found the brown sock behind the bed. (I thought I had looked there.) Sorry about forgetting my camera and sunglasses. "It was sure great to see you and Dad. You always treat us like royalty, feeding us three scrumptious meals a day and waiting on us and the kids and all our friends. We didn't have to lift a finger. You did all the cooking and cleaning and laundry, too!" "Next year we kids are going to carry you and Dad off to the shore for Christmas at that nice lodge, and somebody can wait on you for a change, OK?" "Oh, enclosed is a check to take care of all those long-distance calls I made, and also to cover the gas I charged to your credit card. (Thanks for lending it to me.) Your loving son."

I can't that a great letter, Abby? Of course we never received one like it, and I'll bet not many mothers have. But I believe in miracles, so it might happen yet!

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DiETING Must Be Ongoing Solution

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 57 years old and weigh 125 pounds. I'm 5 feet 3 and would like to lose weight, about 10 pounds. My legs bother me when I have an excess of five to 10 pounds. I am quite active, try to watch my diet, but I cannot follow most "sensible" diets as I hate fish, too many eggs are high in cholesterol and so is cheese. Beef doesn't agree with me too well.

I would appreciate a weight-lossing diet I could live with always. I also retain water even though I watch my salt intake. My blood pressure is 104 over 60. I would really like to lose 10 pounds and then stabilize at that level.

DEAR READER — At least you recognize that it is a permanent program and not just a temporary effort. Avoiding excess body fat requires a regular life style you can follow indefinitely. If you diet and return to old habits you regain your weight.

I'm not convinced you need to lose a lot of weight. The real answer is how much fat you have under your skin. If there is too much around your waist in particular, then you may be right. But don't overdo it and don't try to do it too fast.

You don't need to eat cheese, eggs or meat. In fact most diets that recommend using a lot of eggs are not good diets anyway. You can use chicken and milk as your main sources of complete protein. If you will use the fortified skim milk you will decrease your calories. And low-fat cottage cheese doesn't contain much cholesterol or fat. It will contain even less if you wash it free of the creamy sauce that is there. After that it will be almost fat free. By eliminating fats, sweets, starches and using sensible measures on the amount you eat you can probably develop a "sensible" diet that you can live with.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which will give you some guidelines. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station New York, NY 10010.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I had a physical examination which did not include a Pap test. Isn't a yearly Pap test necessary? There have been quite a few cancer cases in my family. I am past 60 years of age. Would you comment?

DEAR READER — There was a time when annual examinations included an annual Pap test. Because cancer of the cervix develops slowly in most instances, the frequency of the tests have been decreased by many physicians.

The recommendation came from the American Cancer Society. Not all physicians agree with all parts of the recommendation.

The Society recommended that annual Pap smears be done in all women 20 or older and those under 20 who were sexually active, and two negative tests were obtained. After that the test should be done every three years until age 65.

The recommendation also included an annual pelvic examination for all women after age 40. Obviously in cases there was any indication on the examination for a Pap test or even a biopsy the doctor would do it. Or if the family history or other considerations suggested a greater risk of cancer of the cervix more frequent examinations might be done.

Anyone who is particularly concerned about a special problem should ask the doctor about it. He will usually test for it if you tell him.

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY

March 9, 1982

This coming year you are likely to dissolve several associations which thus far have been unproductive. Better alliances will be formed in their place.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be too easily swayed for your own good today. Have faith in your judgment and if you believe it to be right, stick by your guns. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful today not to assume greater responsibilities than you can comfortably manage. Also, other may attempt to shove their duties on you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a possibility you could experience some social pressure today. Keep in step with the majority instead of trying to have your own way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you and your mate have a problem today, don't let the in-laws become involved. Should they do so, things could get very complicated and difficult to unravel.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be flexible regarding your views and opinions today. Taking an unyielding position will put the other guy on the defensive and an argument could result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your sales resistance could be quite low today. Steer clear of high-pressure salespersons. They might sell you something you don't need.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In an important one-to-one relationship today, you may find it necessary to bite the bullet in order to keep harmony. This could prove to be a wise move.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Tasks you've failed to attend to properly could pop up and haunt you today. Get them out of the way quickly or they might get worse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Don't let yourself become involved in petty politics with friends today. No matter which candidate you back, it'll be the wrong one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your aspirations are apt to be rather high today, but for reasons known only to yourself you may fail to act on them. Get off your rocking chair and go.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't try to force your ideas on others today. This could produce unfavorable results. State the facts tactfully and leave others room to decide for themselves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Screen very carefully any proposals today which could cost money or require an investment on your behalf. Dig for hidden information.

WIN AT BRIDGE

$17.95, which seems enormous for a paperback. But it shows over 300 hands and discusses trump play thoroughly. Today's hand illustrates an apparent unsafe play.

Oswald: "The bidding is typical of that shown in a book on play. If North plays in notrump, he has 10 top tricks and will probably make 11. But South has bid four spades and has to play there."

Alan: "If he wins the heart and lets dummy's queen of spades hold the second trick, the hand will collapse. The combination of two aces in the East hand and a singleton heart with West will give the defense those two aces and two ruffs."

Oswald: "Now for the unsafe play. South over-takes the queen of spades with his king and cashes the ace and jack. This would cost him his contract if spades were going to break 5-1 but brings him home against the actual 4-2 and would let him make six if they were 3-3."

Alan: "For a declarer interested in the best play for his contract, it is actually his best line. The heart lead is likely to have been a singleton."
