

Commission eyes seven for manager's job

Sanford commissioners will conduct interviews Thursday to narrow list down to three

SANFORD — City Commissioners will conduct conference calls with the shortlist of candidates vying for the city manager position Thursday in hopes of narrowing the field to three finalists.

During a special meeting held Monday at City Hall, commissioners fine tuned the list of candidates and discussed the interview process.

"All the candidates on the short list were qualified," said Commissioner Kevin Hipes. "There are no absolute nos. Our committee did their job by narrowing it down to a good list of candidates."

Early last week, the City Manager Selection Advisory Committee presented Commission with a list of seven names it recommended as the city's next manager, replacing Tony VanDerworp, who resigned in February. Scott K. Schrader, most recently the city manager of Avondale, Ariz., was the eighth on the list, but removed his name after accepting another job offer.

Later in the week, Hipes and Mayor Brady Lessard requested that Al Grieshaber, Jr., be added to the list. Grieshaber is the city attorney of Albany, Ga. Likewise, Commissioner Randy Jones, asked that James F. Coleman, town manager of Lady Lake be added. "He [Coleman] understands what it means to be in charge and on top and responsible for things," said Jones.

Late Friday, Robert Fernandez withdrew his name from the shortlist stating personal reasons. Fernandez, who recently failed in an effort to become Polk County's manager, was fired by Ocala County commissioners in August because of his handling of the county's budget.

"I'm not sure why the committee gave

Honoring our troops: Brown serving in Southwest Asia

Navy Lt. James E. Brown, son of Barbara L. and James E. Brown of Longwood, is currently serving in Southwest Asia. He is assigned to Naval Mobile Construction Battalion-7, based in Gulfport, Miss.

Brown's unit continues to assist with convoys, watch-standing, radio operations, administrative coordination and project operations in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Seabees from NMCB-7 developed a new 360 degree rotating weapons mount that fit in the rear of high mobility multipurpose wheeled vehicles, giving the convoys moving into Iraq the capability of defending against enemy engagements from any direction. They also built a base chapel, a temporary aircraft maintenance shelter and base galley at Camp Al Jaber Air Base in Kuwait.

Naval Mobile Construction Battalions such as NMCB-7 provide military construction support to Navy, Marine Corps and other forces in military operations, construct base facilities and are armed to conduct defensive operations. Their motto "We build, We Fight" illustrates their ability to work and defend themselves at construction sites outside their base camp and convoy through unsecured areas.

Brown is a 1987 graduate of Spruce Creek Senior High School in Port Orange and a 1997 graduate of University of Central Florida in Orlando.

Comfort in a bag

Volunteers donate items to Child Protective Services

By making blankets, pillows and toys, a group of Seminole County volunteers are bringing comfort to children in dire situations.

Since October, the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) has been making comfort bags to give to Seminole County Sheriff's Office Child Protective Services. Each month, about 25 bags are given to children age 2 to 5 extracted by the agency from homes suspected of abuse or neglect.

"The investigators carry them in their cars so they have them on hand when a child is extracted," said Nancy Roth, volunteer coordinator for the Seminole Community Volunteer Program. "Sometimes, the children spend hours in an office after they are extracted, and they have little more than what's on their backs. The bags offer a small amount of comfort."

Each bag is handmade by an RSVP volunteer, Roth said. Along with a pillow and blanket, they are given a

Overcoming odds, Haynes now national champion

By Marva Hawkins
Herald Correspondent

In a short life span of only 20 years, Crystal Haynes has lived a life that books are based on. From her three short years at Winter Springs High School, custodial workers, teachers, and administrators observed her develop from a loose cannon to a state champ, Homecoming Queen, and now a National Champion.

Haynes' life began to take an uncontrollable spiral in February 1995, when her father (Vietnam veteran) died. Sam Haynes was well known in the Sanford community, but his untimely death left his family with no direction. Haynes found herself seeking attention from a group of negative friends, those who used vulgar language, fought and were not concerned about grades.

In the fall of 1997, Haynes entered the new Winter Springs High School. Her mom, Sandra Haynes, believed that sending her to a new school away from her friends in a positive environment would place her in a positive direction. She was shaken to later learn that many of her friends also decided to enter Winter Springs High School. Trouble immediately started anew. She missed many days of school due to suspensions because of fighting, insubordination, and disrespect.

Haynes believed that her greatest repertoire was her mouth, which she used to threaten, and her fist, which she conquered with. Her loose cannon behavior constantly landed her in the office of Assistant Principal Gene Grace.

Finally, Mr. Grace informed Haynes she had run out of chances and her next visit to his office would result in expulsion from Winter Springs. He also advised

City makes an 'honest woman' of fence violator

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter

SANFORD — When Marilyn Maples installed a three-panel vinyl picket fence in the front yard of her downtown Sanford historic home, she unknowingly violated a city land development regulation.

According to Maples, a 10-year resident of the downtown Sanford Historic District, she was not aware of the District's S Codes, which prohibit the installation of vinyl fences. According to the code, only wood or iron fences are permitted in the District.

When a member of the Historic Preservation Board's (HPB) code enforcement team contacted Maples in January, she was told to submit for a certificate of appropriateness or remove the fence. Maples appeared before the HPB in March to gain approval, but was denied based on the code.

"I felt like my constitutional rights had been ripped from me," she said. "It's not on their property, it's mine. I do understand that there are standards I need to live by and by living here [in the Sanford Historic District] I have to go by the rules. However, I never encountered anything like this in the 10 years I've lived here."

"They [HPB] are really trying to preserve the city now, more than 10 years ago," she added.

Maples appealed to the Sanford

Jeno Paulucci to compete for world entrepreneur honors

From Staff Reports

Jeno F. Paulucci, America's Top Entrepreneur, will soon be heading to Monte Carlo to compete for the title of World Entrepreneur of the Year.

But the Sanford, Florida businessman doesn't view his counterparts from 26 other countries as rivals. Instead, they're prospective partners in what he hopes will be a global effort to make the world a better place for all.

Paulucci, who has created and sold 50 successful companies worth more than $2 billion, wants to organize the world's leading entrepreneurs into a network that uses their influence, prestige, and power to create jobs and improve economic opportunity in struggling regions and nations around the globe.

Paulucci says the 10,000 entrepreneurs nominated worldwide for the Ernst and Young award have tremendous influence. Past winners of U.S. Entrepreneur of the Year include Amazon's Jeff Bezos, Howard Schultz of Starbucks, and eBay's Pierre Omidyar.

"These businessmen and women make jobs and help their economies grow," says Paulucci. "Working together, we could develop creative and practical solutions to help ease political and social problems."

He should know. Paulucci got his start 60 years ago canning Chinese food in the Scandinavian country of Northern Minnesota with an initial investment of $2,500. Twenty years later, Paulucci sold his worldwide Clun King Corporation to RJ Reynolds Tobacco Company for $63 million. At age 85, he still works seven days a week running 11 companies, including Michelina's, one of Boxes of new theater seats were stacked outside the Helen Stairs Theatre Friday, May 30, as workers prepared to install them in the balcony. Ron Rose, development director at the theater, said 272 seats were ordered from Irwin Seating Co. and installed by Creative Inc. The new seating brings the theater's capacity up to 577. The June 13, production of "Hello Dolly" will be the first full performance after the finishing touches are completed this week. Since the theater re-opened in 2000, audience members who sat in the balcony did so on cushions placed on the floor. Rose said the installation is about one year ahead of schedule. "The Welkiva River Players' productions are beginning to regularly overflow into the balcony," Rose said. "The board thought we should go ahead with the project." The cost to purchase and install the seats is $86,000. Rose said the theater took out a loan, which will be repaid through the Golden Lyre, an annual awards gala to raise funds for the theater. The first event will be held in August.

That facility will cost an estimated $400,000 to complete. Ten-8 refurbishes, rebuilds and repairs certified fire engines throughout Florida. Five Year Growth Spurt Shows No Signs of Abating At Girard Environmental Services in Sanford
Girard Environmental Services in Sanford, which opened its doors in 1998 with a handful of customers, today employs more than 145 workers, has seen five straight years of double-digit growth and no signs of slackening. Rick Girard, vice president and co-founder of the firm, along with his brother Randy, said the formula for success is easier said than done. "We lived modestly, we worked very hard and we poured all our profits back into the business," Girard said. The firm saw $1.7 million in sales in 1998, $3.6 million in 2000, $5.9 in 2001 and more than $7.1 million last year. In 2003, Girard said the firm should realize sales in excess of $10 million, which ranks Girard as one of the largest and fastest growing privately held green industry firms in the U.S. "We have exceeded every goal that we have ever set for ourselves, the momentum of our company is absolutely incredible," Girard said. "Having my brother as a partner has proven to be a big advantage. We have never questioned each other's character, loyalty or commitment to making our company successful, basically we watch each other's back. When we disagree, it's for the right reasons because we both are determined to achieve the same end result," he added. Girard Environmental Services, founded in 1998, provides irrigation and landscape construction along with a variety of landscape management services throughout Orange, Seminole, Brevard, Lake and Volusia Counties.

her to get involved with an extracurricular activity. Mr. Grace believed the track team would be the perfect sport for Haynes to release her aggressive energy. At the end of the school day, Haynes was introduced to Coach Clark, a former World Class 800M runner and the 1991 PanAM Games Gold Medalist. Coach Clark informed Haynes that he would not hold her past record against her.

Consequently, she was also informed that any bad report from a teacher relating to her behavior would result in terrible consequences. Within days, Coach Clark discovered that Haynes was involved in a heated swearing match with another female student that came to resulting in a fight. At 2:45 p.m. Coach Clark was waiting patiently at the track entrance gate and ordered Haynes to leave her things and get on the back of his red Toyota pickup. Coach Clark drove her to the entrance of the Oviedo bike path, seven miles away from the track at Winter Springs High School.

Practice was over when Haynes finally arrived back at school, silent and wary. Coach Clark later exclaimed he felt this would be his last day with Haynes because she would surely quit. The neighborhoods of Goldboro and Georgetown, however, had toughened this warrior beyond her years. From that day forward, she learned to focus her energy on positive matters, and the next day Coach Clark was surprised to find Haynes at practice ready for the next challenge.

The following year in March, Haynes would lose her mother to cancer and would be cared for by her older brother Ralph and sisters Tameka, Keeshun, Latanya and Tammy. The death of her mother brought tremendous pain, but it also brought tremendous focus to her goals. Haynes became a member of the state championship team placing seventh in the 100m final and anchoring the 4x100 relay team to victory.
More surprises came to Haynes her senior year when her classmates voted her the homecoming queen, becoming the first and only African American in school history. Now again facing all odds, Haynes has prevailed becoming the first National Champion in the history of Webber College, a

NAIA Division III school located in Lake Wales. The final 75 meters of the torturous 400m became a fight between Haynes and the defending champion, and of course Haynes has always been ready for a good fight. On this particular day Haynes would have assistance from two heavenly beings as they watched their youngest child become a National Champion at 400m with a time of 54.94 s. Her next goal is qualifying for the 2004 U.S. Olympic Trials, and again her angels will be there smiling.

Fence

City Commission last month in hopes of being allowed to keep her fence. Although the mayor and commissioners upheld the HPB verdict, they did offer an interesting solution - city staff would remove her fence and replace it with one that would meet the HPB requirements.

"I was wrapped up in the S. Code and they [the mayor, commissioners and city staff] were trying to help me get out of it," she said. "Between the mayor and Tom George, they made an honest woman out of me. I'm no longer a rebel against the code without a cause."

"That's what makes Sanford a great city," she added. "The mayor is the one who runs the city by setting a good example."

George, Sanford public works director, worked with staff to find a location that Maples' fence could be used. An even swap was made - the city has installed Maples' vinyl fence at the police substation located on 13th Street and Maples was given a new wooden fence. Maples' new fence is a mirror image of her previous fence, with the exception of the material it is made of.

"It's always important when a

The fence in front of Marilyn Maples' house in the Sanford Historic District is now wood - not vinyl - as a result of a swap with the city.

resident of the city is trying to help themselves to improve their property," said George. "When she enhanced her property it added to the image of the city. We felt like we could partner with her to keep the enhancement and bring her up to code."

Because of this and several other appeals brought before the city Commission this year, the HPB's S Code is currently under review. It is undetermined when the revised codes will reach the Sanford Commission for approval.

"They are working to improve the situation," said Maples. "But, there have been inconsistencies from HPB in the past with allowing some people to have or keep the fences and not others. Now, they're trying to resolve them to get everyone singing from the same sheet of music."

ed to the sheriff's office to commemorate National Volunteer Month.

Although there are more than 600 volunteers in RSVP, about 50 focus on the comfort bag program, Roth said. Many are from two large groups - the Hacienda Village Sewing and Craft Club and the Lake Mary Senior Center - while four participate on an individual basis.

"We have received a tremendous response for the comfort bag program in regard to volunteer input," Roth said.

RSVP, which is sponsored by the Seminole Community Volunteer Program (SCVP), includes individuals age 55 and over who try to make a daily difference in the lives of their neighbors through their service in more than 80 non-profit agencies, city/county offices, law enforcement and public schools. Along with the comfort bags, programs include making blankets for children in the Healthy Start program, lap blankets for residents in nursing homes and crib items for hospitals.

SCVP, which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year, is a non-profit organization that recruits, interviews, enrolls and matches volunteers with the needs of partnering agencies. Along with RSVP, the group sponsors the Seminole Volunteer Center for individuals under 55 interested in improving the quality of life in Seminole County. Currently, there are more than 1,200 volunteers in the two programs.

SCVP receives funding from three major sources, including Seminole County, Heart of Florida United Way and the Corporation for National and Community Service. Along with funding, the agency also receives support and supplies from the community.

For example, Roth said members of RSVP are always looking for materials to make the comfort bags. Items include polyurethane stuffing, batting, thread, fabric, yarn, and clean sheets and curtains.

"If we can incorporate it into items for the bags, we can use it," she said.

For more information about donating materials for the comfort bags or volunteering, call Roth at 407-665-6508.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Working mom yearns for some time to call her own

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old wife and mother of a 16-month-old son. For the most part, I feel blessed. However, there are times when I feel overwhelmed working and being a wife and mom. I never seem to get a break.

Dear Abby

We live with my husband's dad because we had some credit problems and are trying to get back on our feet. My father-in-law thinks I should do most of the household chores and that I should still be able to find enough time for myself — but it hasn't worked out that way. If I want to spend a few hours with my friends, my husband and his dad think it's an imposition when I ask them to baby-sit. On the other hand, my husband takes off and hangs out with his friends any time he feels like it. Am I wrong to feel there's a double standard here? Don't get me wrong — my husband and son and I do spend some time together, and we're active in our church. But I can't help feeling I need more time for myself. Please help.

OVERLOADED IN THE NORTHWEST

DEAR OVERLOADED: Before any more tensions and resentments build, it's time to draw the line and speak up. As it stands, your father-in-law has a built-in maid and your husband has reverted to adolescence. Whether you get church-based or secular marriage counseling, get it NOW before you cave in under the stress of your current situation. You and your husband need to get back on your feet and find a place to call your own.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and have never had a boyfriend. All my friends have boyfriends, and I'm the only girl without a guy. This whole year I've had my eye on a senior at my school. I try my best to get his attention, but he doesn't seem to take the hints. We say "hi" to each other in the halls, but that's about it. How can I get him to notice me, Abby? I mean, I'm really in love with him and want him to know how I feel. There's only one problem — I'm kind of scared to approach him. Graduation is almost here and soon he'll be leaving. What should I do?

SCARED TO MAKE THE FIRST MOVE IN FLORIDA

DEAR SCARED: Give or send him a graduation card with a sincere note wishing him luck and letting him know you'll miss seeing him on campus. It will give him an opening and show him that you like him. If he doesn't respond after that, set your sights on a cute junior — someone who'll be around for another year.

DEAR ABBY: Graduation time is here. My senior is blissfully happy to be graduating from high school. She addressed her own announcements and sent them to family and friends of her choosing.

I would like to send a message to the recipients of the millions of announcements that will arrive during these next few weeks: Please take these announcements for what they are — they are NOT a request for gifts.

My daughter is thrilled to be going through this rite of passage. I remember how I felt a few years ago when I began receiving announcements from the children of friends, wondering if a present or monetary gift was expected. Well, THIS senior's parent wants to say: Please just be happy for the graduating student. Thanks, Abby.

PROUD OF MY GRAD IN VIRGINIA

DEAR PROUD: When someone receives a graduation announcement, one should do more than "be happy." Good manners dictate that the announcement should not be ignored. At the least, a card or letter of congratulations is in order. (Gifts are optional.)

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Custom home builder targets resale value of luxury homes

Four luxury home owners who put their luxury homes on the market within the past 30 days got some pretty good news pretty quickly all four homes sold, literally within days of their listing, for their listed sale price. That's a big selling point for their builder, Dave Brewer, Inc.

The luxury homebuilder, one of the largest and most active in Central Florida, said resale value has become one of the strongest selling points for homes he builds.

"Our most recent survey shows four luxury homes at Alauqua Lakes were resold by their owners at prices that ranged from the high $900,000 to more than $1.3 million," said Gary Rauch, chief operating officer at Dave Brewer Inc. "All four homes sold within two weeks on the market, and all four brought top prices."

Rauch said he is notifying area Realtors that he will provide logo graphics and floor plan details free of charge if they want to include his company in the homes for sale listing.

"Most custom home builders tend to limit contact with their buyers after the sale except for warranty issues," Rauch said. "We've been conducting surveys of resales of homes we have built and we are finding that our participation adds significantly to the resale value of a home, even one we built 10 or 15 years ago. We want to encourage that."

Workers Temporary Staffing to host Contractors' Cup to benefit St. Jude

Workers Temporary Staffing, one of Florida's largest temporary staffing agencies with 21 offices statewide, will host the 2003 Contractors' Cup Charity Golf Tournament to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. The second annual tournament, which is expected to draw more than 100 of the area's top construction industry contractors and subcontractors — will get under way at The Legacy Club at Alauqua Lakes with a shotgun start at 9 a.m. Wed., June 11.

Mark A. Lang Sr., founder and chief executive officer of Workers Temporary Staffing, said the golf tournament is a great way to spend casual time with many of the firms his company does business with. But on the golf course, said Lang, it's all business — and the business is raising funds for St. Jude.

"Workers Temporary Staffing participates in a wide variety of charitable events and activities, including many that we sponsor and produce ourselves," Lang said. "The Contractors' Cup Tournament is one of our favorites because the work at St. Jude is so important."

Colonial names new vice president of private banking Regional President and CEO Michael L. Sleaford today announced the appointment of Barbara J. Minerva as vice president of private banking.

Minerva will be in charge of serving the bank's 200-plus private client customers in Central Florida. Minerva will also be responsible for expanding Colonial's private client base.

Minerva has more than 20 years of banking experience with emphasis in the areas of wealth management, retail and business lending.

"We are pleased to have someone of Barbara's experience and background leading our private banking division," Sleaford said. "She will be a great addition to our team."

Colonial Bank is the sixth largest bank in Florida.

Colonial Bank of Central Florida manages $1.3 billion in total assets through its 45 offices in eight counties comprised of Brevard, Flagler, Lake, Orange, Osceola, Polk, Seminole, St. Johns and Volusia. The regional headquarters is located at 201 East Pine Street in downtown Orlando.

Manager

us him to consider in the first place," said Commissioner Velma Williams.

During Monday's meeting, Commission eliminated Frank Spence, who was the city manager of Miami Springs until last year, from the list.

Applicants James Ross O'Connor and Danny Crew are both on the shortlist of candidates for the Osceola County manager position and will be interviewed for that position sometime this week.

After the conference calls, being held 6 to 10 p.m. Thursday, Commission will make its decision on who to bring to Sanford for a face-to-face interview.

"We can narrow the field down that night when it's fresh in our minds," said Hipes. "When we talk to them we should know right off the bat."

The expected fly-in date for the finalists is June 19. Each of the candidates will have access to a rental car to tour the city that day, followed by one-on-one interviews with the mayor and the four commissioners on June 20. The candidates will remain in town June 21 for additional interviews if needed.

"Everyone wants it [the interview process] to be an in-limate process," said Lessard. "There is no margin for error in who we hire here."

City staff has encouraged the candidates to bring their families to tour Sanford as well, and plans to pay for travel expenses for the candidates and their spouses.

The estimated cost to bring the recruits to Sanford will be approximately $8,000 to $10,000. During a time when budget issues are of specific concern, Williams warns about getting hung up on the topic.

"The budget is important, but in terms of this situation, we can't think of the budget," said Williams. "We have to bite the bullet and do what we need to do."

Lessard agrees, saying, "This would be approximately equal to the monthly salary of the city manager that we haven't been paying for a few months now."

Candidates still in the running for Sanford city manager:

• James F. Coleman of Florida. He is currently the town manager of Lady Lake.

• Danny Crew of North Carolina. He was the city manager of Gastonia, N.C., until January 2003.

• Terry Dault of Missouri. He is currently the city manager of Branson, Mo.

• Al Grieshaber, Jr., of Georgia. He is currently the city attorney of Albany, Ga.

• Donald Norton of Georgia. He is currently the county manager of Troup County, Ga.

• James Ross O'Connor of Missouri. He is currently the city administrator of St. Charles, Mo.

• Reid Silverband of Florida. He is currently the city manager of Ft. Walton Beach.

the country's top frozen food producers, and a regional banking chain.

Paulucci was named America's No. 1 entrepreneur in 2002 by Ernst & Young, beating out 4,000 nominees. He'll go up against the world's best in Monte Carlo June 5-8.

Known as "The Incurable Entrepreneur," Jeno Paulucci has created 70 brands, including Michelina's and the Jeno's pizza rolls that bear his name. When he was 72 years old, he launched his most successful venture yet—Luigino's. The company now accounts for a quarter of the frozen entrees sold in North America under the Michelina's and Budget Gourmet brands.

In addition to Paulucci's food businesses, he's started a bank chain, built the 10-square-mile community of Heathrow outside Orlando, and successfully lobbied to save the mining industry in his home state of Minnesota.

Paulucci isn't slowing down. His latest venture is a company that sells frozen food in vending machines.

"Work is my fun," Paulucci said. "Making a deal is a lot better than making a putt."

Paulucci is the founder of the National Italian American Foundation in Washington, DC, a positive voice for 25 million Italian-Americans.

Paulucci gives away 1 million meals a year to families nationwide through Luigino's "free food for the needy" program.

In 60 years, there has never been a strike or slowdown at any of Paulucci's plants around the world.

Paulucci is a family man who says the best deal he ever made was talking Lois Mae Trepanier into marrying him 56 years ago.

Harris, Melillo help end Stetson's season

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

ATLANTA — Two former Lake Brantley High School baseball stars treated the local team rather rudely this past weekend in Atlanta. Kevin Melillo and Justin Harris, the starting middle infield for the University of South Carolina, both had big tournaments as the No. 2 seeded Gamecocks went undefeated in repeating as Regional Champions. South Carolina (42-20) capped their unbeaten run by defeating Stetson University, 9-3, in the Championship Game and advancing to the Super Regionals where it will host North Carolina (42-21) in a Best-of-Three Tournament this weekend. This is the fourth straight year that the Gamecocks have advanced to the Super Regionals and the third straight season that South Carolina has played host. The team also hosted the Tar Heels in 2002. Harris and Melillo were also starters last year when the Gamecocks lost in the Championship Game to Texas. Melillo, a second baseman, opened the tournament in a big way, going 3-for-4, including his 11th home run of the season, scoring two runs and driving in two as South Carolina blanked East Carolina, 4-0. Harris, a shortstop, also had a hand in the win, going 1-for-3 with a run scored. Harris then had the better stats in two wins over the Hatters, going 2-for-4 with a run in a 7-2 win on Saturday and 3-for-5 with two runs scored and an RBI in the 9-3 win in the final. Melillo was held to 1-for-8 with an RBI in the two wins over Stetson, but was still named to the All-Regional Team. For the season Harris is batting .352 See Baseball, Page 8

Track stars show well at Golden South meet

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Several Seminole County track athletes made the most of a great opportunity this past Saturday when they got to compete in the Bert M. Warden's Golden South Classic. This was the 27th annual running of the prestigious meet, which consistently brings together the top track athletes from throughout the Eastern United States. Seminole County was represented by 15 athletes from five schools and each more than held their own against a class field.

Leading the way was Oviedo star Jenny Berringer with a third place finish in the 800-meter run. This sophomore decided to skip her best event, the mile, in favor of trying to break the school record in the 800.

Trinity Prep junior Ryan Truchelut also placed third in the 2,000 meter Steeplechase, an event that is not normally run during the school year, but is run at the Golden South. Saints teammate Michael Rodriguez also ran well as the senior came home eighth. Several athletes finished fifth Lake Mary's Reggie Campbell, shown in the long jump earlier this season at the Lake Mary Classic, finished off his high school career by competing in three events at the prestigious Golden South Classic at The First Academy this past weekend. Campbell will be attending the Naval Academy this fall as a member of the Midshipmen football team.

in their respective events, including Oviedo senior Dustin Hicks in the mile run, Winter Springs junior Chris Senko in the pole vault, Lake Mary senior Wil Allison, who is headed to Hofstra University in New York on a football scholarship, in the long jump, and Lake Mary senior Chris Collins in the triple jump. Also placing fifth was the 4x100 meter relay team of Collins, Allison, Lake Mary's Reggie Campbell and Winter Springs' Kenny Scott. The team was put together at the last minute after another team failed to show up. Lake Mary junior Brandon Williams claimed a pair of sixth's in the discus and shot put. Campbell, who is headed to the Naval Academy to play football, finished 12th in the See Track, Page 8

Hard work paying off for SCC women

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD — The future is beginning to look bright for the Seminole Community College women's basketball program.

After an off season, by their standards, the Raiders' coaching staff has worked overtime on the phone lines and put in many miles over the highways of the southeast the past few months and its efforts are really beginning to pay off.

Head coach Lisa Nuxol was handed a tough task last summer as by the time she was named the new coach most of the prized recruits had already signed with other schools and several returning players had decided to transfer to other schools, the biggest loss being 6-foot-5 All-American Yelena Leuchanka.

But Nuxol and her assistants, Alex de la Fe and Tara Gibson, did a masterful job as after a slow start, the Raiders finished the season with a 19-11 record and just one win short of returning to the State Tournament.

And while pleased with the finish Nuxol and staff were not satisfied as the school had had after several seasons in a row of finishes in the Top 25 in the national rankings.

Coming that close to a return to the state only resolved Nuxol and staff to work harder and as a result, four players from last year's squad have signed scholarships and seven new players have decided to make SCC their new basketball home.

Sophomore Brandi Catia has signed a Letter of Intent and scholarship to attend Clayton State and College in Atlanta this fall.

The 5-foot-10 forward from Jacksonville's University Christian High School made the most of her one season at SCC, emerging as one of the best rebounders for the Raiders and being a main reason the team was able to overcome a 1-6 start after she joined the starting lineup.

Catia joins Yamil Cordero, Ditte Jakobsen and Danielle See SCC, Page 8

Prices vary depending on how many lessons are desired and whether it is private or semi-private.

Baseball

Former Longwood Babe Ruth star and Lake Mary resident Chris Westervelt also had a nice journey for Stetson after returning from a shoulder injury that had kept the All-American out of the line-up for better than a month.

Westervelt went 2-for-4, including his ninth double of the season, and drove in a run as the Hatters upset to-seeded, and host, Georgia Tech, 5-4.

The junior catcher then had a hit and scored a run in a 9-4 win over East Carolina, then went 1-for-5 in the two losses to South Carolina.

No. 1 ranked Florida State (54-11-1) and No. 8 ranked University of Miami (42-15-1) will join the Gamecocks in the Super Regionals, hosting defending National Champion Texas (46-18) and North Carolina State (45-16), respectively.

FSU advanced by coming out of the Loser's Bracket to defeat South Alabama twice on Sunday, while the Hurricanes bounced back from a loss to Florida to win its regional in Coral Gables.

Other Super Regionals to be held this weekend, with the winners advancing to the World Series in Omaha, will be Baylor (44-21) at No. 2 Louisiana State (43-19-1); Arizona State (53-12) at No. 7 California State, Fullerton (46-13); Long Beach State (41-18) at No. 6 Stanford (44-15); Houston (36-28) at No. 5 Rice (51-10); and Southwest Missouri State (38-24) at Ohio State (44-19).

In related news, Stetson University All-America third baseman Brian Snyder (Wellington High School) was selected in the first round by the Oakland A's with the 26th overall pick Tuesday in the 2003 Major League Baseball Amateur Draft, the highest-ever Draft Selection for a Hatters player. A 6-foot, 195-pound right-handed hitter, Snyder batted .396 with 11 home runs and 55 RBI in 2003.

He led the Atlantic Sun Conference in on-base percentage (.505), hits (90), doubles (23), total bases (152), and walks (48), and he ranked among the league leaders in six other offensive categories.

He also placed among the all-time Stetson single-season leaders in batting average (.616), hits (8th), doubles (1-5th), and total bases (1-6th).

Snyder was recently named a third-team All-American by Collegiate Baseball newspaper and was an Atlantic Sun first-team all-conference performer.

For his career, Snyder batted .373 with 32 home runs and 158 RBI. His .481 on-base percentage and .645 slugging percentage both rank second all-time in school history. He also ranks third in career batting average and third in doubles (56), tied for fourth in runs scored (188), fifth in home runs, sixth in total bases (408), and seventh in runs batted in.

Kevin Nicholson, who was drafted by the San Diego Padres with the 27th overall pick in 1997, is the only other Stetson player to be selected in the first round.

Richardson as former Raiders who will be playing at four-year programs this fall.

But it is the signing of the new players that have Nuxol excited. Topping the list of newcomers is former Winter Springs High School standout Mesay Guadagnino who will transfer from Stetson University.

The 5-foot-4 point guard led the Bears to four straight state tournament appearances and should team with returning shooting guard Natalie Emmanuelli to give SCC one of the strongest, and quickest, back courts in Florida.

Nuxol went out of state to sign another guard, 5-foot-7 Guard Danielle Jenkins from Beach High School in Savannah, Georgia.

The other new signees are from basketball-rich South Florida, led by 6-foot-1 post player Kirsten Harris from Ft. Lauderdale High School.

Other newcomers are 5-foot-6 point guard Kentrell Hill from South Miami High School, 5-foot-11 forward Lisa Jackson from Miami Norland High School, 5-foot-10 guard Christina Wright from Lehigh Acres High School, and 5-foot-10 guard/forward Nichole Miller from Palm Beach Gardens High School.

Nuxol also expects former Lake Mary High School standout Bryn Mosler, who decided to set out this season, to join the Raiders in the fall.

That group, along with returnees Emmanuelli, guard Nichole Bennett, center/forward Latasha Johnson, guard Jennifer Anderson, who sat out this past season with an injury, forward Rosanna Davis and forward A'Kisheon McCollum should give Nuxol the nucleus

she needs to make the jump back into the elite of programs not only in Florida, but in the nation.
