Cocaine transfer in utero charged

SANFORD — Johnnie Elizabeth Edwards, 23, of 1013 W. 12th St. in Sanford, was arrested on Thursday and charged with delivering cocaine in utero to her daughter.

Tiffany Jones, born to Edwards on June 20 at Central Florida Hospital in Sanford, was found to have cocaine in her urine at birth, Sanford police said.

Edwards was arrested at 1506 W. 13th St. almost two months after her daughter was born, though the drug screening was done immediately at the time of Jones' birth.

Edwards, a single parent, was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where she is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

The police report did not indicate where the infant has been placed.

Play ends with 'I do'
BATH, Maine — Two actors are staging a play later this month that features a dastardly villain, lovely maidens and a hero. That part's just a play, but it will climax with a real wedding — their own.

Alice Kira and Mark Mannette, both of Portland, came up with the idea of mixing a play with a real wedding ceremony in February when Mannette proposed.

"We're both kind of unique individuals and not exactly traditional so we thought this would be a unique way to express ourselves," Mannette says.

The couple says the play will have all the ingredients for a long-running stage extravaganza, with a wicked villain and a happy ending when the stars are united in matrimony.

Kira and Mannette aren't saying much more about the plot, except that it reveals the evolution of their relationship. But one twist — a kidnapping of the bride and bridesmaids — is fictional, they say.

Kayaker paddles around Alaska

BARROW, Alaska — Not even the "beastly easterlies" stopped a kayaker from completing his trip around Alaska — after his third summer of paddling.

Paul Callyn, 44, of New Zealand, reached the village of Inuvik on Canada's northwest Arctic coast Tuesday. He started from the southern tip of the Alaska Panhandle in 1989.

Callyn told radio station KBRW in Barrow he averaged about 30 miles a day and, toward the end, encountered a lot of fog and wind he described as "beastly easterlies."

He also ran out of food, so the first thing he did after reaching Inuvik was eat. "I came in fairly lean," he said Wednesday.

Next summer, Callyn plans to paddle from St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea across the Bering Strait to the Soviet Union.

Protest: City spending

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A protest demonstration was held outside the Lake Mary City Hall last night. Several dozen citizens displayed signs demanding "Our Right to Vote."

A majority of the protesters objected to the latest actions regarding the citizen initiated referendum on government spending. Approximately 15 citizens who signed the petition have now been issued calls for court depositions connected with the matter.

Many months ago, several hundred citizens signed a petition requesting the city place an item on the November ballot. The measure, if approved, would have restricted certain spending by the city that could not be paid for within a fiscal year.

The commission however, acting on the advice of City Attorney Ned Julian, declared the wording of the proposed referendum as incorrect. Following a number of meetings on the matter, the commission voted to take the matter to court, for a declaratory judgement.

Several items scheduled for Monday night's city commission meeting dealt with spending matters. They included the proposed $5 million Public Improvement Revenue Bond an impact fee study and additional charges connected with the burial of power lines during the Lake Mary Boulevard widening and beautification project.

The matters were postponed and rescheduled for another meeting, due to the fact that only three commissioners were on hand for the meeting. The commissioners agreed to bring them up Tuesday, August 20, at a special called meeting, to finalize discussion on the city's proposed 1991-92 budget.

Only Mayor Randy Morris, and Commissioners George Duryea and Paul Tremel were in attendance. Commissioner David Meador was out of the city, and Commissioner Tom Mahoney had left earlier in the day because of a medical emergency in his family. City Attorney Julian was also unable to attend. Attorney Clayton Simmons served as Julian's replacement.

Property at 2018 Mellonville Ave. is listed as a vacant lot with no tax due; proposed value unchanged.

The property at 501 E. 4th St. has a current assessed value of $15,600. Proposed value is $28,300.

Sanford homeowners raise specter of class-action suit

By LACY DOWEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Owners of older homes in Sanford may see an average rise in property tax cost of about 500 percent when they begin opening their tax bills today, just as one city commissioner announces a class action lawsuit against the county may be brewing.

"A group of people is considering a class action suit against Mr. Suber for his property appraisals," Sanford City Commissioner Lon Howell said.

Other residents expressed shock at the tax hike. "They're out of their godblessed minds. I'm absolutely in shock," June Porzig, owner of 507 Oak Avenue said. Her appraisal jumped from $31,000 to $61,000, falling in the range Seminole County Property appraiser Bill Suber indicated would be the norm, an increase of 30 to 100 percent. Porzig's taxes on the property will jump from about $750, which she said she paid last year, to about $1,430 next year. She does not claim the $25,000 homestead exemption which would have caused the property taxes to rise from about $115 to about $850.

"They're sticking it to the residents," Howell, who researched several property's taxes in the historic district that he serves, said.

Howell argued that the appraisals should not have been raised so dramatically, which in turn affects tax rate.

"These are recessionary times and people are already strapped. Then the county comes along and increases taxes about 700 percent in real dollars to the taxpayer. Yeah, your appraisal may have gone up 90 percent, but it's 600 or 700 percent out of your pocket," Howell said.

Suber said the cities and county decide how to spend the money, his job is to assign fair value to properties.

"It's commissions like the one on which Mr. Howell sits that set policy for tax rate," Suber said, adding Sanford, when faced with the option, chose not to roll back millage rate this year.

"They (the Sanford City Commission) levied the same millage rate. That means a 12 percent increase in taxes to everybody in Sanford if the value of the property stayed the same," Suber said.

Suber said his focus has been to bring the undervalued older homes in the county up to fair value.

"It's the law. Your property must be at just value. We haven't picked out an area, this is countywide and if SANFORD — It's happy birthday to you, at the Central Florida zoo. Maude the elephant turns 17 Saturday.

A giant day-long party has been planned for the prominent pachyderm, complete with a huge birthday cake that will serve an estimated 100 people, and a number of smaller cakes needed for the crowd that is expected. Maude isn't expected to eat much of the cake however, she already weighs 7,000 pounds.

The observance, aimed specially toward the children, will include face painting, elephant picture coloring, and several other events.

According to Marketing Coordinator Andrea Farmer, "The party will be underway from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., with the guest of honor due to arrive at the observance area at 11 a.m."

Unlike many hard workers however, Maude will be required to work on her birthday. Elephant rides will be available from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., as is the regular offering at the zoo. Farmer said, "She doesn't seem to mind, after all, that's what she was trained to do. Anyway, she loves people, especially children."

Officers honored for exceptional valor

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary has honored two public safety officers for exceptional valor. Both officers were credited with disregarding their own safety to help save a life.

Officers Stephen Shea and Troy Hickson received special honors during Thursday night's city commission meeting. Hickson is a member of the Lake Mary Fire Department but also serves as a reserve police officer. Shea's father, a captain in the Sanford Police Department, was on hand to witness the presentation.

The incident took place on Aug. 4, when a vehicle was being chased by officers down Country Club Road. The chase ended when the car crashed into a retention pond, near the intersection of Main Road.

According to the certificates of appreciation, Hickson dove into the murky water three times to reach the submerged automobile, and finally succeeded in removing the unconscious driver. Shea also dove into the pond several times and although the driver far outweighed the officer, Shea was able to pull him to safety and revive him on shore.

Boat seized with cocaine on board

MARCO ISLAND — A 32-foot sailboat was seized off the Gulf coast with about 1,100 pounds of cocaine worth $6 million on board, authorities said.

The Miami-registered "Sea Quester" first aroused suspicions Wednesday evening when U.S. Customs agents monitoring radar noticed it hadn't moved for two hours from a spot about 30 miles southwest of Naples.

"At that point it became suspicious. Why was it stationary for so long?" Collier County Sheriff's Lt. Mike Koors said Thursday.

Boats from the sheriff's office, Customs and the Naples Police department arrived at the scene just in time to see a speedboat zooming away, out of reach, Koors said. No one was aboard the sailboat.

Undercover retiree nabs repairmen

WELLINGTON — A retiree was apprehensive about his undercover role, but wore a wire in a successful sting operation targeting two air conditioning repairmen accused of defrauding customers.

"We were both a little nervous, but we played our part," said Ely Timares, 62, whose 66-year-old husband, David, was equipped with the surveillance microphone. "It was such a terrible scam."

The recording Tuesday caught the words of two Allstate Air Conditioning repairmen telling the couple they needed to pay $2,700 for a new air conditioning system in their 2-year-old home.

The only real trouble was the system had been turned off from the outside.

Pinned worker freed from asphalt roller

ST. PETERSBURG — A construction worker pinned beneath a 3,000-pound piece of machinery in a drainage ditch barely kept his head above water while rescuers worked to free him.

"Get this thing off me!" Kirk Rice, 36, screamed Wednesday after the runaway asphalt roller tumbled onto him, pinning his left leg and right foot beneath it.

Rice was on his back with water and diesel fuel washing across his face, muffling his screams. The weight of the roller began to numb his leg.

Police Sgt. Greg Tots and a bystander at a convenience store heard his cries and jumped in the 3-foot deep water. They tried to hold Rice's head up so he could breathe, and took turns trying to pull him free.

Within minutes, St. Petersburg rescue workers waded into the water and inserted a tube into Rice's mouth as a makeshift snorkel. Using a fire engine and chains, they pulled the roller away and freed the Spring Hill resident.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Court backs property seizures

By BILL KAGAN
Associated Press Writer

"We are happy the court helped us in the war against criminals."

-Deputy Attorney General Pete Antonacci

TALLAHASSEE — Lawyers on both sides applauded a Florida Supreme Court ruling that upheld the state law used to seize criminals' property but wrote new rules to protect property rights.

"We are happy the court helped us in the war against criminals," said Deputy Attorney General Pete Antonacci. "Law enforcement can now go forth with certainty."

Tallahassee lawyer Robert A. Harper, who chairs a committee of the Florida Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers that filed a friend-of-the-court argument in the case.

called the ruling "a victory for property rights."

The 7-0 decision reversed a Levy County trial judge's ruling that the Florida Contraband Forfeiture Act was unconstitutional.

The justices, however, upheld Circuit

Judge Benjamin Tench's decision to dismiss forfeiture proceedings against several Cedar Key properties, including three subdivisions and part of an airfield. The property was owned in whole or part by Charles DeCarlo, who had been charged with drug trafficking in May 1990.

The state "seized real property, including residential property, without giving the claimants any notice or opportunity to be heard," Justice Rosemary Barkett wrote for the Supreme Court.

That action violated the property owners' rights of due process under the Florida Constitution, the justices ruled.

More is paid for defense spending than state gets

Associated Press

TAMPA — Florida taxpayers contribute about $5.8 billion more in taxes for defense spending than the state gets back in defense-related income, an independent study shows.

Of the 25 metropolitan areas across the country suffering the greatest losses, Miami ranks eighth, Fort Lauderdale 11th and the Tampa area 19th, according to the study released Thursday by Michigan State University economics professor James Anderson.

The Miami area pays $2.4 billion in taxes that go to the Pentagon and about $417 million is returned in military contracts and salaries for a net tax loss of about $2 billion.

Fort Lauderdale pays about $1.9 billion in taxes for defense and about $140 million is returned for a net loss of about $1.7 billion, according to the study.

Tampa Bay's metropolitan area pays about $1.3 billion more in taxes earmarked for defense items than the area receives in defense money.

About $2.8 billion is put in, of which about $1.5 billion is returned to the area through jobs created by military contractors.

Anderson's study, called "Bankrupting American Cities: The Tax Burden and Expenditures of the Pentagon," found that 200 of the nation's 355 metropolitan areas pay out millions more in taxpayer dollars than they take in from military contracts.

The figures are based on fiscal year 1989 data, when total defense spending was $293 billion.

A top military economist says the study is misleading because the financial give-and-take between the military and most of the nation's communities doesn't work that way.

"It's basically not a very good argument," William Kaumann, a defense budget analyst with the Brookings Institution, told The Tampa Tribune for Thursday's editions. "The Pentagon numbers aren't determined on the basis of what states or urban areas contribute."

Names of clients in nymphomania case could be public soon

Associated Press
FORT LAUDERDALE — The attorney for a Broward County deputy sheriff and his wife charged in a prostitution scandal has added a new weapon to his defensive arsenal.

Ellis Ruben, who stunned observers by saying the woman is innocent because she is a nymphomaniac, now says he might force the public release of the names of her alleged clients.

And the list of men who allegedly paid Kathy Willets for sex could include some prominent local officials, the attorney said Thursday.

Mrs. Willets has been accused of selling sex to men for between $50 and $150 a session. Her husband Jeffrey is accused by police of being her pimp.

The Willets also are charged with illegally taping a phone conversation with an alleged client, according to court documents. Mrs. Willets was booked on that charge Thursday and released on $1,300 bond.

The couple's arraignment is set for Aug. 21.

Rubin has said Mrs. Willets needs sex with many men because she suffers from nymphomania and her husband has impotency spells. Ruben hinted Thursday that if the state pursued its case against the Willets, the names of the Willets' purported clients would become part of the public record.

"Shortly after the Willets' initial arrest, it was disclosed that the couple kept a card file with their alleged clients' names. Two weeks ago, the vice mayor of Fort Lauderdale resigned amid speculation that his name was in the file. Doug Danziger said only that he quit the job for personal reasons.

Since then, the question on a lot of people's minds has been: Who else is in that card file?"

If Ruben demands discovery, the state must turn over to him all its evidence in the case. A copy of the evidence would go to the clerk's office where it would become part of the public record, clerk Sharonda Foster said.

"If I ask for discovery, I think the names of everybody involved in this case are going to become public. If I don't ask for discovery, I might be compromising some of the rights of the defendants," Ruben said.

When pressed on why he might not demand discovery,

Rubin answered, "because if I ask for discovery and the names of the people who are allegedly in some kind of a book or a list become public, maybe some of those people are innocent of what the state says the book signifies.

"I am not about to destroy men's lives and their families and their friends and acquaintances without giving this a lot of extraordinary thought," he said.

Sharon Mullane of the state's attorney's office said she could not think of a case where a defense attorney would not demand discovery.

Some of the men who think their names may be in the Willets' files have hired lawyers to keep it quiet.

Disorderly conduct charges filed in sex case

Associated Press

TAMPA — A month after a couple was videotaped through an outside window having sex in their condominium, prosecutors have filed disorderly conduct charges against them.

Alfred Stephens, 36, and Janet Paddock, 32, are accused of a partially nude swim in the condo pool a week before the taping, having sex in a hot tub hours afterward, and on the next night entering a bar restroom "with the intent of engaging in sex."

"These people were just conducting themselves in a manner where they were just being obnoxious to the people around them. If you will," prosecutor Hank Lavandera said after the Hillsborough State Attorney's Office filed the charges Thursday.

"If there was a law against being a jerk in public, then this charge would define it," he said.

The couple won't face the original charge for which they were arrested — lewd and lascivious conduct in front of a child. The felony carried a possible 15-year prison term.

"It would have opened up a Pandora's box," explained Lavandera. "Whether they knew they were being observed ... whether they were in fact doing it because they were being observed — all that really doesn't belong in the criminal system. We just don't want to mess with it."

The three disorderly conduct charges filed against the couple are second-degree misdemeanors with maximum sentences of 60 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Defense attorney Nicholas Mataassini said the couple flatly denies the charges against them and plans on pleading innocent.

"My clients are madder than ever now," Mataassini said. "After a monthlong investigation, they're charged with things that have nothing to do with what they were arrested for in the first place."

The couple was arrested July 16 after police saw the video shot by a neighbor through the blinds of Stephens' ground-floor condo. The tape showed the couple having sex near their bathroom window, authorities said.

Stephens and Ms. Paddock said they had no idea they were being observed and called the taping an invasion of privacy. Neighbors, however, said the two could clearly be seen by children at the pool.

Sheriff's deputies were called about 1 1/2 hours later when neighbors said children saw the couple having sex again, this time in the hot tub.

Neither Stephens, a car salesman who was asked to move out of the complex soon after his arrest, nor Ms. Paddock, a barmaid-waitress at the time of her arrest, could be reached for comment.

Circuit Judge Walter R. Heinrich has ordered the tape locked in evidence until the case is resolved.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man charged with sexual assault

A Sanford man was arrested Wednesday and charged with the 1986 sexual assault of two children in his care.

Donald Gene Vance, 30, 1006 Cedar Creek Circle, Sanford, was arrested at the Sanford police station and taken to the Seminole County jail, where he was held without bond. Vance was charged with sexual battery on a child under 12, sexual battery on a child under 18, and sexual activity with a child under his care.

According to Sanford police reports, the incidents occurred in 1986 while Vance was living on Grenada Drive. During that time, he engaged in a sexual act with a seven-year-old girl and "four or five" sexual acts with a 13-year-old boy. Reports state the girl signed a statement that Vance threatened her with physical violence if she told anyone about the incident.

According to reports, Vance signed a statement admitting to the sexual act with the girl.

Bank teller arrested for theft

A Sanford Barnett Bank teller has been arrested and charged with the theft of $2,000 from her cash drawer.

Tina Marie Kaiser, 33, 107 Cobblestone Way, was charged with grand theft at the Sanford police station Wednesday. According to police reports, she took the cash from her drawer on Aug. 5 and falsified bank documents to conceal the theft. A bank audit revealed the cash missing from her drawer, reports state.

According to police reports, Kaiser signed a statement that she took the money to make a deposit on an apartment and for utility hookups. She stated she planned to replace the money, reports state.

Pizza deliveryman reports robbery

A Sanford pizza deliveryman reported he was robbed at gunpoint by two masked men Wednesday night while delivering an order to Goldenrod.

Theodore William Graham of Sanford told Seminole County deputies he was delivering a Hungry Howies pizza to a McCarthy Avenue home when two black men dressed in black and wearing white masks approached him from the rear, incident reports state. Graham said one man, who had a rifle that appeared to be a shotgun, took an unknown amount of cash from his rear pocket.

The other man reached inside his car and took the pizza. Both men fled into a nearby wooded area, Graham told deputies. Deputies are investigating the report.

Woman charged with burglary

Sonya L. Collins, 22, local address unknown, was arrested by Seminole County deputies Wednesday for the theft of $278 in items from her mother's home on Dixie Avenue.

Collins' mother said her daughter told she had sold a dress for $10, reports stated. Collins was charged with burglary and grand theft.

DUI charged

Robert Charles Benzling, 43, 1380 Farrindon Circle, Heathrow, was charged with drunken driving by Lake Mary police.

A policeman's report states he found Benzling in a Porche on Lake Emma Road at the entrance to North Pointe with the front tires flat and the rims bent. Benzling told the officer he had hit the curb, reports state.

Arrest made for shoplifting

Nicholas William Tozza, 40, 118 W. Second St., Sanford, was arrested and charged with shoplifting by Sanford police Wednesday.

Arrest reports state a Winn-Dixie manager saw Tozza stuff two packages of jumbo shrimp valued at $20 in his pants and attempt to leave the store without paying for them.

Two arrested for trespassing

Two men were arrested for trespassing by Sanford police Thursday morning after Special Investigations Unit agents told them to leave the corner of Seventh Street and Pine Avenue.

Ralph Emmett Anderson, 20, 710 Hickory Ave., Sanford, was charged with trespassing. After his arrest, Seminole County deputies found he was wanted for failing to appear in court to answer to driving with a suspended driver's license charge. Also charged with trespassing was Freddie Lee Williams, 22, 2850 E. First St., Sanford.

Copper caper solved

Edwin Ray Ellis, 34, 3040 Freedom Trail, Oviedo, was arrested by Seminole County deputies Wednesday and charged with taking $1,500 worth of copper from a Lake Mary business since January.

A Del-Air official told deputies he accompanied Ellis home and found large amounts of copper, appliances and building materials. Ellis was arrested at the company and charged with grand theft.

Warrant arrests

The following people have been arrested on warrant charges:

• Joseph Charles Baker, 30, 701 E. Eighth St., Sanford, turned himself in to deputies at the Seminole County jail Wednesday. He was wanted for failing to appear at court hearing to answer two charges of driving with a suspended driver's license and one charge of speeding.

• Reginald Earl Bellamy, 21, 1015 Holly Ave., Sanford, was arrested near West Fifth Street and Olive Avenue in Sanford Wednesday. He was wanted on three traffic offenses, including leaving the scene of an accident with property damage.

• Darwin Oriove Glover, 23, 390 Snow Hill Road, Geneva, was arrested near State Roads 426 and 46. He had been wanted since Sept. 1990 for violating a probation sentence for a grand theft conviction.

• Jeffrey Nolan Summers, 22, 317 Hidden Lake Drive, Sanford, turned himself in to deputies at the Seminole County jail Wednesday. He was wanted since June for violating a probation sentence for an assault on a law enforcement officer conviction.

Committee searches for Epps' replacement

By VICKI BOBROWER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A committee of seven people will meet beginning next week to find a replacement for Seminole High School principal Wayne Epps, named principal at Oviedo High School on Tuesday.

Epps leaves an opening for the top position at Oviedo to replacing Charlie Webb who is retiring.

The committee, headed by Jack Heisler, director of high school education, will consist of Marion Dailey, assistant superintendent for instruction; John Reichert, director of personnel; Dick Evans, principal of Lake Howell High School; Jeanne Morris, school board member; Pat Southward, a parent representative and Lance Abney, a social studies teacher at Seminole.

Heisler will visit Seminole High School at the start of next week to talk with administrators and teachers about what they consider the most pressing needs of the school.

"Different schools have different needs," Dailey said. "We have to talk to the people who work with the principal on a day-to-day basis."

Under Epps' direction, Seminole High School has been the subject of some controversy from a group of parents who brought the U.S. Justice Department in to investigate charges that as a result of racial imbalance between Seminole and other district schools that the school was suffering academically.

Though many of the students are what educators call "academically disadvantaged", a term used to denote those whose family environment is not conducive to learning, the test scores at Seminole have risen steadily over the last few years.

"Seminole has undergone a lot of changes under Wayne (Epps)," Dailey said.

"We want to know where they feel they need to go next."

The committee will meet on Aug. 21 and recommend to the superintendent who they feel meet the needs of the school according to the survey taken by Heisler.

On Aug. 27 the Superintendent will make his recommendation to the board.

None of the committee members contacted were willing to speculate on who they would recommend to the superintendent.

Job declined, county still seeking deputy manager

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The elimination process will begin again for about a dozen candidates for deputy Seminole County manager.

Thursday, County manager Ron Rabun said Thomas Olliff, the Collier County manager's assistant for growth management, had turned down a $62,000 offer for Rabun's deputy in charge of public service departments.

Rabun said Olliff told him he could not accept the job due to personal reasons and the fact that University of Central Florida did not offer the classes he needed to complete graduate studies.

"If things were different personally, I would like to accept the job," Olliff said Thursday afternoon. "I met most of the commissioners and they all seem to share the same vision for the county. It's always an ideal situation to work for a county when the commissioners can get along."

Rabun said he will return to his stack of about a dozen candidates for the position review them again.

"It's back to square one," Rabun said Thursday afternoon.

Rabun may be comparing those candidates to John Kevin Grace, assistant Charlotte County manager. Grace's resume states he has served the southwest Florida coastal county since 1986, working his way up from a development reviewer, to land development supervisor and acting public works director

Report: HRS had visited home where boy killed

Associated Press

ORLANDO — State social workers twice investigated complaints that 5-year-old David Votalre had been abused or neglected in the two years before the Orange County boy was hacked to death with a machete, a newspaper reported.

The most recent of those complaints came just months before the boy's June 29 death, when the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services waited more than two weeks before investigating a doctor's complaint that the boy had bruises that may have resulted from abuse, according to two officials familiar with the case.

HRS classified that complaint as unfounded, said the officials.

Football's dean

Professional football was already 30 years old when Paul Brown arrived on the scene, but more than any other coach before or since, he made the game, and the National Football League, what they are today.

Former NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle made the point after Brown's death recently at the age of 82:

"Whether they knew it or not, nearly everyone in the game of football has been affected by Paul Brown." Many of the coaching techniques now regarded as routine were Paul Brown innovations.

Having produced some of the best high school teams in America in Massillon, Ohio, Brown was briefly at Ohio State, then coached the wartime Great Lakes Naval Training Station teams. In 1946, he founded the Cleveland Browns, which won four straight All-America Conference titles. When the AAC merged with the NFL in 1960, Brown might have stumbled. He didn't: Cleveland played in six straight NFL title games, winning three of them.

In 1962, Brown left the team he built (and which was named after him by the team's owner) and later founded the Cincinnati Bengals, a team he coached until he retired in 1975.

His legacy endures: 11 of the 25 Super Bowl games have been won by Brown proteges: Bill Walsh, Chuck Noll and Don Shula. Fifty of his former players have coached in the NFL. Refinement of the passing game, comprehensive game plans, playbooks and play-calling from the sidelines all came from Paul Brown, whose intensity and attention to detail made him a champion and a legend, deservedly so.

Our damned asterick

Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs for the New York Yankees in 1927. In 1961, Roger Maris hit 61. So who holds the record for the most home runs in a season? At first glance, 61 appears to be a number greater than 60. But this is baseball, not the real world: fact is merely one thread in the fabric woven together with memory and desire.

In Ruth's day, major-league teams played a 154-game schedule. When the leagues expanded in 1960, the schedule also was expanded, to 162 games.

Ford Frick, then commissioner of baseball, decided in the middle of the 1961 season that Maris would have to break Ruth's mark in 154 games in order to hold the record. It took Maris until the last day of the '61 season to hit his 61st home run, and his achievement was so marked by an asterick in the record books, standing alongside Ruth's 60.

Now Fay Vincent, the current commissioner, thinks it may be time to acknowledge Maris as the single-season home-run king. If a committee for statistical accuracy agrees with Vincent, Maris will get his due.

Bah, say some Ruth fans, who sneer at the effete players of the '60s (not to mention the '90s), pantywaists who couldn't carry the bags of those mythic characters of the "good old days." Jeez, these guys today wear batting helmets!

Nuts, say the Maris fans, who speculate that Frick was motivated more by his long friendship with the Babe than by any deep concern for historical accuracy. They argue that Maris' achievement was more impressive than Ruth's — the Babe never played a night game, never had to deal with jet lag and never had to face a slider.

Frick's decision was a burden for Maris for the rest of his life (he died in 1985). Changing that decision now won't diminish Babe Ruth's place in American sports history. It won't even end the 30-year debate. But, after all, 61 is a number greater than 60.

Political fantasy is a calculated tale

The following fantasy is offered for comparison to certain current events, and as a possible augury of things to come:

WASHINGTON, Aug. XX — Congressional Democrats are trying to decide whether to open yet another can of Republican worms.

According to a secret memorandum to House Speaker Tom Foley from former National Security Council staffer Gary Sick, circumstantial evidence is mounting that the late Lee Atwater, George Bush's 1988 campaign manager, met in Vienna in May 1988 with agents of Mikhail Gorbachev, and through them struck a deal with Gorbachev to delay until 1999 any further steps toward freeing the peoples of Eastern Europe. In return, Gorbachev was promised the political support of Bush thereafter, as the newly elected American president.

Viewed objectively, the existence of such a deal between Bush and Gorbachev explains much that is otherwise inexplicable. It is a fact, for example, that Gorbachev's major moves to abandon the communist regimes of Eastern Europe didn't occur until 1989. And it is also a fact that Mr. Bush has subsequently displayed a strange loyalty to Mr. Gorbachev, even when (as now) Gorbachev's popularity in his own country is at an all-time low and there is every reason to cultivate new and rising stars like Boris Yeltsin.

Moreover, the Bush forces are known to have feared that a collapse of the Soviet empire during 1988, in the midst of the American presidential campaign, would give a tremendous boost to the chances of the likely Democratic presidential nominee, Michael Dukakis. Bush's greater expertise in foreign affairs and defense would suddenly have lost much of its importance, and Dukakis could have made dramatic proposals for spending a huge "peace dividend."

Of course, many analysts flatly refuse to believe that Bush would have stooped so low as to prolong the Cold War, with all its human misery, simply to win an American election. But Sick, a respected analyst, insists that the evidence to the contrary is impressive.

"I have talked," he said recently, "to literally scores of people who either heard reports of the deal at the time or, in at least half a dozen cases, personally saw Lee Atwater in a suite in the Imperial Hotel in Vienna over the weekend of May 13-15, 1988. All of them, however, requested anonymity before agreeing to talk to me.

"I am bound to add that they are not all individuals noted for their veracity. Some, for example, are KGB agents. But I am impressed by the weight of their collective testimony. If the Republican Party in effect stole the 1988 presidential election at the price of an additional year of slavery (or worse) for scores of millions of innocent human beings, America deserves to know it. I see no alternative but a thorough investigation by Congress, with a liberal use of its subpoena powers.

Republicans, naturally, hotly deny the charge (as does Gorbachev). But leading congressional Democrats are sorely tempted.

Sick denies political motives, but he does acknowledge that five of his sources place Bush himself at the Vienna meeting where the deal was cut.

Bush has displayed a strange loyalty to Gorbachev.

Should Parks pay for VP's hooves?

WASHINGTON — Horsemen seem to be for Vice President Dan Quayle what military aircraft are for White House Chief of Staff John Sununu. Both men enjoy riding at taxpayer expense.

The latest controversy surrounding Quayle concerns a plan that was recently axed by the National Parks Service to triple the number of horse stables at Manassas National Battlefield Park. The park, which commemorates two famous battles of the Civil War, lies only a few miles from the White House and has recently become a favorite spot for the Quayle family to go horseback riding.

Manassas is currently the only battlefield park to have any stables at all, but this year the park service decided it needed more stables so it could train park police officers and Secret Service personnel who accompany the second family on their jaunts.

But as soon as the plan was announced, it set off a stampede. Historical preservationists charged that the plan trampled on the park's mission to restore the area to its appearance at the time of the Civil War.

An equestrian center at Manassas in 1987 was rejected on similar grounds by National Park Service Director William Penn Mott.

Rep. Peter Hoagland, D-Neb., felt strongly enough to unmandle the Interior Department's appropriations bill. No government funds to build stables at Manassas are permitted under his amendment. In a written statement accompanying his amendment, Hoagland disclosed a memo from the Secret Service. The memo cites the additional stables as vital for providing workspace for training the Vice Presidential Protective Division.

Hoagland, a member of the Subcommittee for National Parks, noted that the construction would come at a time when the park service is strapped for cash. Many parks have slashed visitor center hours, ranger salaries are notoriously low and many trails and facilities are in chronic disrepair.

Hoagland wrote: "It just does not seem right to find extra money for the horsingidling activities by high government officials when the administration tells us they cannot fund the pressing needs of the public's parks."

A Quayle spokesman told our reporter Jan Moller that Quayle had no direct hand in proposing the new stables, and that this controversy is less about the riding program than the longtime fights over the use of historic battlefield parks.

Even before the congressional calvary came charging, National Park Service Director James Ridenour put the stables on hold, apparently upset over the adverse publicity it was generating for the Parks Service and the vice president. Perhaps he was remembering the flak from last autumn's Columbus Day weekend.

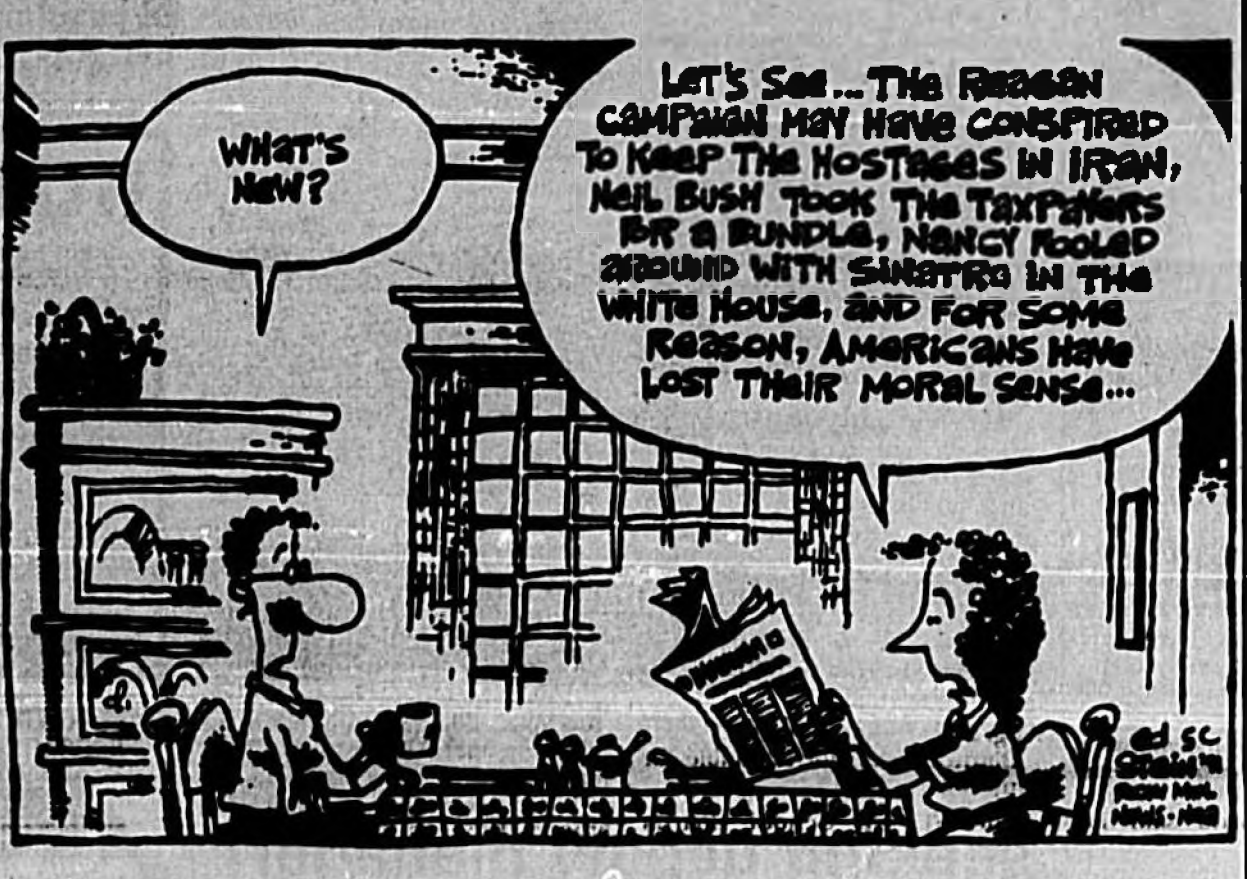

Those were the days of the infamous government shutdown, when Congress' inability to reach a budget agreement forced many non-essential government operations to shut down for the weekend in an attempt to save money. Though Manassas was one of the many parks to shut down that weekend, the three remaining rangers on duty were required to accompany the Quayle family on a riding excursion through the park. The incident led to a great deal of local criticism of Quayle and the Park Service.

While the Quayles were out riding last Columbus Day, American taxpayers were busy footing the bill for the shutdown, which congressional investigators recently estimated at $3.4 million.

In the meantime, it's doubtful the Quayle family will have to hoof it.

Quayle had had no direct hand in proposing the new stables.

Burt Lancaster: last real man

WASHINGTON — Former Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall is off somewhere in retirement this summer, sitting in his white socks, one imagines, and on the duff he mentioned at his parting news conference. Yet his memory lingers on in the videotape of the recent TV movie "Separate But Equal," the story of Marshall's fight against segregation in the nation's schools.

The film is underwhelming, as it happens. But if a review is not historically edifying, there is at least a lesson in the acting. Sidney Poitier plays Marshall: The Judge should sue. Poitier has come a long way since "Lilies of the Field," in the wrong direction; he is as deep these days as a coat of paint.

The only relief in the movie is the occasional appearance of a bit player named Burt Lancaster. He is casually cast as the attorney who argues against Marshall in Brown vs. Board of Education. Lancaster is warm, sympathetic and charming. Remember him in "Atlantic City"? He can make the wrong side acceptable.

Sadly, Lancaster had a stroke soon after the making of the Marshall picture. He lost his speech and his right side was paralyzed. One of his representatives says he is in therapy, and watching his old films, but "recovery is a long process." The film star is 77 now, with heart worries, too; no one knows if he will act again.

It's too bad. Lancaster is the genuine article. He has been a proper screen attraction for 45 years. He's played heroes, villains, patriots, madmen, one fool, a Nazi, two Indians, Moses, Jim Thorpe and Wyatt Earp. All with dignity. Some actors, like Poitier, regress with maturity; B. Lancaster has blessedly ripened.

Call him the last real man in the movies. At the least, he is on the short list. Players like Gregory Peck, George C. Scott, James Earl Jones and Anthony Quinn are big, bold and believable. But not Marion Brando, a tub; or Kirk Douglas, who at 72 is still trying to portray himself at 42. Real men act their age.

Certainly, there is no one to take Lancaster's place. Hollywood today is a town of dweebs. Kevin Costner made the Sheriff of Nottingham look good; Mel Gibson will pass with wrinkles. Robert Duvall, maybe. But if Chuck Norris would have shown on the set of "Elmer Gantry," Sinclair Lewis would have died a second time.

Sylvester Stallone at the OK Corral? "Ayy, com'on y'guys, no measin' around." And a special note about Arnold Schwarzenegger: pecyew. Greasy muscles are all right, but not when they are poorly supported by the cast. Arnold will be history when his pecs sag. Burt remains rugged in a crank-up recovery bed.

Not that Lancaster is without error. He is no Humphrey Bogart, for one thing. He's often put too much of his teeth into roles, which means he's capable of relying on gimmickry. He is likewise said to be often a thoughtless man personally, given to tantrums; and, like rock stars and CEOs, he has been overstuffied and pampered.

He's furthermore been in some absolute cinematic duds. "Airport," "The Swimmer," "The Island of Dr. Moreau" (Ye gods!), and, sigh, "Cattle Annie and Little Britches." He played an officious meddling in "The Rainmaker," a zany in "Twilight's Last Gleaming," and he tied Paul Newman for best in "Buffalo Bill and The Indians."

Still, Lancaster has done rather nicely in 70 other films. Especially when he's underplayed the parts. He's told biographers that he believes good acting is an amalgamation of intelligence and self-control. It's also a matter of choosing scripts, of course: "Birdman of Alcatraz" was a factual fib, but theatrical heaven.

And there is something else about Lancaster's talents. He's generous on camera with others. Biographer Robert Windeler says he is egotistical but not vain, and pushes his play instead of his person. Nine people in his pictures have won Oscars, 12 others have been nominated. Lancaster has won once, for "Elmer Gantry."

Gantry, Birdman, Earp. Lancaster has never been afraid to sniff around. He plays other people besides himself. It's the ultimate reason he's grown with the years. He's failed in the process (his silly Italian accent in "The Rose Tattoo" is an illustration) yet he's generally succeeded, often against the odds.

He beat the odds, for example, in "Come Back, Little Sheba." He had to put on 30 years worth of makeup, and step completely out of hunkola character, to play an aging drunk who takes a knife after a pretty lodger. He would have damaged his career with anything but a bravo performance. It was. A man playing a man.

Lancaster says "Sheba" was the first time people began taking him seriously as an actor. He has not let it bother him, however. He does not do Tineltown, he does not give interviews, he just performs. To now anyway. Now he is learning to speak again.

He has been a proper Hollywood attraction for 45 years.

Bus trip heads for zoo birthday

By J. MARK SANDERS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — More than 400 kids from throughout central Florida will join the seventeenth birthday celebration for Maude the elephant at Central Florida Zoo Saturday, courtesy of Walt Disney World and Tri-County Transit.

The celebration will be this week's destination for Super Saturday participants, the weekly program of Tri-County Transit. More than 100 kids each from Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties will attend the party, which will feature an elephant-sized birthday cake, face painting and elephant tail making.

Transportation is provided free by Tri-County Transit and their drivers, who donate their services. The day was arranged by Walt Disney World and a free lunch of burgers will be donated by area Burger King restaurants.

The trips for Seminole County children are organized by Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley. This weekend's participants will come from summer city programs for Lake Mary and Oviedo children. Past trips have included children from the Boys and Girls Club of Sanford and Longwood summer program.

The next trip is scheduled for Aug. 24. About 100 lucky Sanford children will get a free trip to Sea World, as Super Saturday kids.

Lawsuit

some homes had to go up a list, there's no way I can help that," Suber said.

Howell questioned the method Suber used to reappraise older homes.

Suber explained the method of sales ratios and statistical studies. He said each of the 155,000 parcels in the county was visited over a three year period after values on older homes had eroded, a natural phenomenon, he said.

"It's complex. It takes hours and hours to gather the data to get values that represent the market. It is not just simply applying a little formula," Suber said.

Howell said he thought there was no rhyme or reason to appraisal methods. He said he personally checked about 20 properties and found inconsistencies.

"A 26 unit apartment complex with 7,200 square feet at 500 Oak Avenue went down from $116,000 to $113,000. Across the street at 507 Oak, a four unit frame house went from $31,000 to $61,000. One went down $3,000. One went up $50,000. Where's the reasoning?" Howell asked.

Howell said an antebellum house under renovation at 2018 Mellonville Ave. is on the tax rolls as a vacant lot when a property under renovation that Howell owns was appraised at $72,000 from $37,000 last year.

"It doesn't even have a bathroom or a kitchen," Howell said.

Suber said the antebellum house is only a shell and is not a structure in which a person could live at this time.

"It would take Mr. Howell a day to drop the fixtures into the property he is renovating. It's considered livable," Suber said.

Howell said he visited a home at 501 East 4th St. that he said "appears to be in disrepair" before checking tax rolls. Last year the home appraised at $15,600. This year it is appraised at $28,500.

Resident of the home, Theodore Hardy, said he doesn't know why the county would almost double his home's value.

"It sure needs workin' on it anyway. But if the county says that's what it's worth I'd be proud to pay it," Hardy said.

Howell said if the area was so severely undervalued for so many years, he feels Suber has not been doing his job.

"As long as he's been in office, he's admitting this is the first year he's doing the job right if property appraisals for older homes were all wrong until now," Howell said.

Suber said he feels values are now where they should be because of data now complete that was unavailable before.

"I work on facts and data, not because somebody says I should do it a different way. Any faults or glitches and we'll make the changes. It's not in the language of the law to do it differently. We're just following the law," Suber said.

Saturday visitors at the zoo. Farmer reported the Tri County Transit Company is also bringing between 400 and 600 children to visit the zoo on Saturday. "We're really going to have a great turnout for the birthday party," Farmer said.

"but we'll have plenty of room for one and all."

The Central Florida Zoo is located at 3755 Highway 17-92 in Sanford, just east of the I-4 Lake Monroe exit. Gates open at 9 a.m., with regular admission charged for Saturday's birthday party for Maude.

Protest

Many of the protesters, especially those who had brought young children, left the area when the meeting started. Others however, packed the commission chambers. During time designated for public participation, many of them were given an opportunity to voice their complaints.

Don Bence, of 273 Shady Oaks Circle, said he was against allocating money for the burial of power lines. "I don't think it benefits Lake Mary," he commented. "You have said you will poll the residents on the storm water utility rate proposal, why not be willing to poll them on all expenditures?" He described the taking of depositions for the declaratory judgement case as "totally absurd and lacking in dignity and respect."

Commissioner Tremel responded, "It is my understanding that if they do choose, they do not have to show up for a deposition in this type of judgement case." Attorney Simmons verified the comment.

Rudy Halen, of 379 Country Club Road, discussed the similarity between the wording of the proposed Lake Mary referendum, to one passed recently by the City of Longwood. "If Longwood can understand the wording of it, why can't you?" He also voiced his objection to, "citizens being harassed by being subpoenaed for depositions."

Resident John Schwartz took a political approach. "If this $5 million bond issue is passed, I guarantee you, I'll run for office. The money you spend belongs to the citizens of Lake Mary, and I'm a citizen." He said if he was elected, he would, "work, not promise, to pave streets." He said he would also seek to have, "the city run by a full time mayor, and do my best to see that property evaluations are equal."

Sheila Sawyer also addressed the commission. She suggested that the taking of depositions was incurring an additional cost to the taxpayers. "Through their taxes they are paying for Mr. Julian's time, and a recording clerk, plus having to hire their own attorney."

Sawyer, who had obtained a list of phone calls between the city attorney and members of the commission, questioned why the largest majority of the calls went to Mayor Morris and Commissioners Tremel and Mahoney. "Why not Commissioners Duryea and Meador?" she questioned.

Mayor Morris responded, "I object to Mrs. Sawyer's insinuation. It's normal for the mayor to receive a large portion of the phone calls from the city attorney, as the mayor deals with many issues that require legal judgment and other communications." Morris said he would not answer for Commissioner Meador, who may wish to address the matter during the Tuesday meeting. Commissioner Duryea did not respond.

At the conclusion of the citizen participation, Mayor Morris asked for a show of hands from the audience, regarding how many persons were on hand to oppose the $5 million bond proposal, and how many attended to address the matter of the citizens referendum. In both cases, roughly 15 persons out of an estimated 70 persons in the audience, raised their hands.

While only regular commission meetings are generally televised throughout Lake Mary, Morris suggested Tuesday's meeting also be scheduled for live coverage. Tuesday night's special called session of the commission, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

board on Aug. 20.

Blanton was not available for comment.

The Florida School Boards Association will conduct a superintendent search for member districts for a fee.

Seminole County, which is about to embark on a search for its first appointed superintendent, will not use the service.

Hughes said he has not received official word that he has been named a finalist though Longstreth confirmed that fact and yesterday.

"It was in the Gainesville paper today (Thursday)," Hughes said. "My daughter told me she saw it, but they haven't called me yet."

Hughes' daughter Suzanne is a sophomore at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

According to Alachua County officials, there were more than 100 applicants for the job and 82 of those met the qualifications for the job.

"I'm pretty pleased to be among the top five in a nationwide search," Hughes said. "That says I'm a good superintendent, I think."

When the superintendent search begins, Hughes said he will apply for the job. He said he will also apply for the job in St. John's County when it is officially advertised next month.

"I would like to stay in Seminole County," he said, "but if I leave, I'd like to go to Alachua or St. John's."

Longstreth said that Alachua is "in a hurry to place a superintendent", but maintains they will take the time to find the "best person out there."

He noted, "We want to have them in here by Jan. 1."

The state of our states

Governors bemoan economy

By DONALD H. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — While the White House trumpets an end to the recession, governors are painting a far less rosy picture of economic conditions in the states.

"We're still in an economic recession," said Gov. Zell Miller of Georgia. "I don't think we're going to pull out of it any time soon."

Nearly half the nation's governors say their states are in a recession, and even the governors who see signs of an upturn aren't predicting a dramatic economic resurgence.

"I think things are level," said Gov. Michael Castle of Delaware, a Republican. He described his state as "in belt-tightening times."

The governors responded to an Associated Press survey on the eve of the annual summer meeting of the National Governors' Association. The meeting opens Saturday in Seattle.

The view from the states was in sharp contrast to the upbeat statements coming from the White House.

"Our position is quite clear," presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater said. "The nation is coming out of the recession. We're moving into a recovery."

Governors, however, are struggling with budget shortages that have forced them to take the politically hazardous course of pushing for tax increases to make up for revenue lost because of a weak national economy.

A report issued this week by the National Conference of State Legislatures said 33 states this year enacted tax increases totaling $15.1 billion, the largest dollar increase for any year in history.

Connecticut remains in a deadlock over how to balance its budget. Gov. Lowell Weicker Jr., elected last year as an independent, is demanding enactment of an income tax, while the legislature is holding out for an increase in the state sales tax.

The gloomiest responses came from governors of Eastern and Southern states. Most states unaffected by the widespread

Changing America

The 1990 U.S. census has shown once again that the South is growing and the North is shrinking. This means some states will have representatives in Congress while others will gain.

The Census Bureau puts the current total population at 248.7 million, but most government officials believe as many as 5.5 million people may remain uncounted. In addition, the census shows that the minority population of the United States is rapidly growing.

The census numbers not only determine congressional apportionment, but also have 500 million of federal and state funds among state and local governments.

Census bureaus estimate that states and cities with large numbers of minorities and legal immigrants have the most uncounted people, and therefore should qualify for more federal aid and possibly state seats in Congress.

Several states and cities are using the federal government to correct the final tally. California, for example, claims the 1990 census may have missed about 1 million of its people, which would have allowed the state an additional seat in Congress.

Between 1980 and 1990, the number of Asian Americans has doubled from 500,000 to 1 million. Hispanic population has grown by more than 50 percent. Hispanics now numbering some 22.3 million people, now represent 9 percent of all Americans. Blacks, who number 22 percent of Americans, still form the largest minority group.

hard times were west of the Mississippi River.

When asked if their states were in a recession, 22 governors said yes. In addition, the governors of Indiana, Iowa, Washington and Wisconsin said their state economies were sluggish.

Only five governors gave unqualifiedly upbeat responses. They were Cecil Andrus of Idaho, Norman Bangert of Utah, Guy Hunt of Alabama, George Mickelson of South Dakota and David Walters of Oklahoma.

"Idaho has been one of the few economic bright spots in the nation over the past year," said Andrus, a Democrat. Republican Bangert said his state's job growth was "one of the strongest in the country."

Gov. Booth Gardner of Washington, a Democrat and current chairman of the NOA, said his state "is one of the most economically healthy states in the nation." But he added that "our economy has leveled off. ... We do not expect the kind of rapid growth we experienced in the late 1980s."

Gov. Evan Bayh, a Democrat, said Indiana suffered an economic decline during the Persian Gulf War and "at this point, we are neither in recession nor in recovery."

Republican Gov. Terry Branstad of Iowa described his state's economy as soft and said it "has not been as strong during 1990 and 1991" as it was in the previous three years.

Gov. Tommy G. Thompson, a Republican, said Wisconsin experienced "an economic slowdown" early this year but avoided falling into a recession.

The region hardest hit economically is New England.

"The real estate recession in Rhode Island has made the construction workers unemployed," said Democratic Gov. Bruce Sundlun. "The banking crisis is having a psychologically negative impact and the federal government has been slow to assist."

"We've certainly been in a very severe recession," said Gov. Judd Gregg of New Hampshire.

Moving southward, Gov. L. Douglas Wilder of Virginia, a Democrat who is considering a bid for president, said "We still have a long way to go."

Lawmakers form 50-state health-care organization

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Legislators from all 50 states have created an organization to tackle the problem of the medically uninsured and try to convince lawmakers nationwide to consider universal health care proposals by 1993.

The State Alliance for Universal Health Care, chaired by Democratic Minnesota Rep. Paul Anders Ogren, was announced Thursday on the final day of the National Conference of State Legislatures annual convention.

Ogren said the coalition will attempt to find answers for the estimated 42 million Americans who have no health insurance.

"I think it is deplorable in this country that your access to health care depends on your wealth," said Maine Rep. Charlene Rydell, also a Democrat and a member of the organization's board.

The alliance, which will be based in St. Paul, Minn., is intended to urge passage of state legislation and pressure the federal government to help states deal with the health care crisis.

"It takes one out of every eight dollars generated in the economy to pay for health care," Ogren said. "Because of a lack of consensus, the federal government has failed to respond to the needs of middle America for affordable health care coverage."

The difficulty for many politicians is the perception among voters that their taxes will rise to pay for such sweeping plans. In some states, payroll tax hikes on employers have been proposed to fund universal health care, while others would re-channel federal Medicaid money to help pay for the programs.

Florida Rep. Elaine Gordon, a Democrat who sponsored an unsuccessful universal health care bill last year, said the alliance will stress the hidden costs of uninsured medical care to offset the public's fear of taxes.

"The costs would be much less than we're paying now, directly and indirectly," Gordon said.

For example, she said hospitals shift costs of treating the uninsured to those who can pay, thereby raising the price of health care for everyone. Another possibility is that property taxes which support public hospitals could be held in check if health costs are lowered.

States want to design their own plans before the federal government imposes a major health care overhaul on them. Yet the states also want Congress' help, specifically in allowing waivers of rules on how Medicaid and other health care dollars are spent to allow flexibility.

"It's time for the federal government to stop being a roadblock and assist states in bringing about a solution to this health care crisis," said Ohio Rep. Robert Hagan, another Democrat.

Ogren said the group is aiming for all legislatures to at least consider universal health care by 1993. At least 26 states have passed or formally considered some form of universal health care thus far.

At its business meeting Thursday, the NCSL voted in favor of a resolution recommending that states ease sanctions on South Africa if the government begins direct negotiations with the African National Congress and other groups. The resolution was first adopted earlier this week by the NCSL task force on South Africa.

The NCSL also formally nominated Republican Arizona Rep. Art Hamilton as president-elect to take over after next year's meeting.

Sanford group says board game dangerous

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The creator of a drinking game being blamed for the death of a 16-year-old girl says it was not meant to be played with alcohol.

Kathy Krausoff, president of the Sanford Junior Women's Club says, "Who are they kidding, people have been playing a similar game like that for years, and they have been using various forms of alcohol."

Police say Melissa Vinson apparently drank herself to death with vodka by playing the board game called Pass-Out. The Woman's Club has begun a campaign urging laws regulating such games.

The players land on squares that read "take a drink" or "go to bar," and they recite tongue-twisters printed on "pink elephant" cards.

Frank Breese, who created Pass-Out in 1982, calls it "a joke, a spoof, a parody."

He doesn't drink and plays the game with soda or milk, Breese said recently.

But the Junior Women's Club of Sanford has launched a national letter-writing campaign to church and government leaders. Members want laws passed to regulate such games. Krausoff said, "The club has worked on this for several years. We're trying to convince people, especially teenagers, that alcohol and drugs are not to be played with."

Jeanne Ferracelli, a club member, leading the campaign, agreed. "Alcohol is not something to be made a game out of."

An exact cause of Melissa's death has not been established by the county medical examiner.

Deputy sheriffs say Melissa, an honors student at Seminole High School, played Pass-Out for about two hours on July 4 at a friend's apartment in Orange County. Also playing were her 20-year-old cousin, Vicki Dyer, and Crystal Bird, 20, who lives in the apartment.

They played the game with a mixture of fruit juice and vodka and drank most of a liter bottle of vodka, said sheriff's detective Jerry Geier.

Ms. Dyer and Melissa then drove to a convenience store and met a former boyfriend of Ms. Dyer's and his 16-year-old male friend. The four went to the man's apartment in Orlando, "where they basically just sat around and talked," Geier said.

"There was no drinking there, that we can tell."

Melissa suddenly began having convulsions and passed out on the living room floor. An ambulance took her to Florida Hospital Orlando, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Geier said hospital officials told him Melissa's blood alcohol content was 0.18, nearly twice the amount considered as legal intoxication.

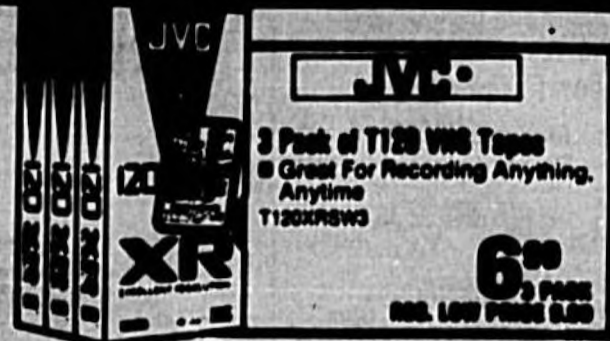

But Geier was told by the county's chief medical examiner, Thomas Hegert, that he found less alcohol in Melissa's blood. More lab tests are being conducted, and Hegert said the lab will be analyzing "one particular drug."

Melissa was taking a drug prescribed primarily to soothe menstrual cramps, and Geier indicated this may have played a role in the case.

Conflicting signals arise over hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Hostage families heartened by new diplomatic initiatives broadcast messages to their captive loved ones. But conflicting signals are emerging from Israel, Iran and Syria — key players in any hostages-for-prisoners swap. With a proposed exchange hinging on word about Israel's seven missing servicemen, Lebanon's leading Shiite Muslim cleric called Thursday on Lebanese groups to release the MIAs or their remains.

The plea by Sheik Mohammed Mehdi Shamseddine came as diplomatic efforts slowed for a deal to free five Americans and six other Western hostages in exchange for hundreds of Arabs detained by Israel.

Today, Israel restated its willingness to make a gesture in exchange for information on the servicemen missing in Lebanon.

U.S. reassessing Syrian president

DAMASCUS, Syria — After all the official U.S. gratitude heaped on Syria's president for helping rescue Western hostages and joining America's Persian Gulf War coalition, the question arises: Is this a kinder, gentler Hafez Asaad? The answer is that Asaad is still acting in his own and Syria's interests. But with the world changed by new economic and political realities, Asaad's desires are merging more often with those of the West.

President Bush's appearance earlier this week before the American people to thank Asaad and Syria for its help would have been impossible to imagine just a couple of years ago.

Nutrition ideas help with AIDS

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Joe had been stuffing himself on ice cream, pastries, steaks and butter, but was steadily losing weight.

He had AIDS and knew it, but had been trying to keep his weight up to stay as healthy as possible.

"I should be fat with all I'm eating," Joe said.

"It may sound hard to believe, but it's more likely that you will continue to lose weight on that diet," said Dr. C. Wayne Callaway, an endocrinologist and specialist in clinical nutrition.

Joe's problem was an AIDS-related bowel disease that prevented him from absorbing high-fat foods. He needed more calories, but the fat in the foods he chose exacerbated the bowel disease, causing extreme diarrhea and weight loss.

Callaway put him on a high-carbohydrate, low-fat diet and prescribed a resin to affect his intestinal tract. Within days, Joe was better and within three months his weight rose from 107 to 125 pounds.

Joe's story is one of several in Callaway's new book "Surviving With AIDS: A Comprehensive Program of Nutritional Co-Therapy," co-authored with Catherine Whitney.

Callaway says there is no evidence that AIDS itself can be treated with diet. And he admits that all these patients are terminally ill. But his research shows that diets can be prescribed that enable patients to both enjoy eating and guard against the rapid wasting that is typical of the disease.

"In 60 or 80 percent of (fatal) cases, starvation was making a big contribution to their death," Callaway said in an interview.

Callaway's book includes descriptions of typical eating disorders associated with AIDS and symptoms caused by specific nutritional deficiencies.

It offers a checklist for tracking weight loss, nutrient intake and eating patterns and for identifying food-related reactions, like diarrhea, changes in tastes and a quick sense of fullness.

The book also tells the reader what foods to eat and to avoid if certain symptoms exist, provides a list of menus and recipes and discusses what to do when tube or intravenous feeding becomes the only way to consume nutrients.

Callaway has been working with AIDS patients since the early 1980s when he was director of nutrition at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He said people were coming to him because of severe weight loss. When he discovered they had AIDS, they quit seeing him and went to the infectious diseases division of the clinic for drug therapy.

"At that time, we knew very little about the disease and even less about its nutritional complications," he said.

Later, when Callaway started private practice in Washington, he began seeing people already diagnosed with AIDS who wanted to know how to combat the disease nutritionally.

Boys & Girls Club camp

SANFORD — The West Sanford Boys & Girls Club is sponsoring a free basketball camp each Saturday through September from 10 a.m. to noon at their club house, 919 S. Peralmon. The camp is intended to teach youth the rules and regulations of the game. Those interested in participating must become a member of the Club for a fee of $1 per year. For information call Coach Gary Mathews, 330-2456.

YOUTH BASEBALL

Winter signups

FIVE POINTS — The Seminole PONY Baseball League will register players for its winter leagues on Saturday, Aug. 17, and Saturday, Aug. 24. Registration will be held at the Five Points Baseball Complex on Highway 419 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day. Registration is open to all players ages 5-13. Prospective players will need to bring copies of birth certificates and a registration fee of $35. Players must be at least 5 years old by Aug. 1.

PREP SPORTS

Oviedo physicals

OVIDEO — Oviedo High School will give physicals to any student (male or female) interested in trying out or playing any sport during the 1991-1992 school year. The physicals will be given in the Oviedo High School Training Room Saturday, Aug. 17, from 9 a.m. to noon and will cost $10 per athlete. The $10 will be donated by the attending physician back to the high school to benefit the Athletic Training Program. Each athlete will need to pick up a Athletic Physical/Screening Form packet in the Athletic Department Office or from his/her coach and fill out all information, including notarizing the Medical Treatment/Consent form, before obtaining the physical. For more information call 365-5671.

Suns shut out SunRays

JACKSONVILLE — Jeff Wetherby singled in Tony Manahan with two outs in the sixth inning as Jacksonville blanked Orlando 1-0 Thursday. In the bottom of the third inning, the game was delayed nearly two hours by rain. Fernando Figueroa (6-2) got the win while the losing pitcher was Rusty Richards (5-5).

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

UF: Mack, Johnson don't show

GAINESVILLE — Defensive end Stephen Mack and defensive tackle Phillip Johnson have not reported for practice and won't make the team, Florida coach Steve Spurrier said. Spurrier said he's heard nothing from Mack, a senior, since the team reported. He said Johnson, a junior, had quit and Mack probably did the same. Mack played in all 11 games last season, backing up Mark Murray, and was expected to see action this season while backing up William Gaines. Johnson was expected to compete for the backup job behind starter Brad Culpepper.

Miami: Banks ineligible

CORAL GABLES — Freshman Gary Banks was found academically ineligible to compete this season and will enroll in a junior college this fall, Miami Coach Dennis Erickson said. Banks, a graduate of Miami Palmetto High, didn't make the required grades in high school, according to his transcript, which arrived late and wasn't verified until Thursday. Also missing from practice Thursday was senior defensive tackle Anthony Hamlet (6-3, 265, Delray Beach) who will sit out until Monday at the earliest with a case of the chicken pox.

FSU: Defense bothers Bowden

TALLAHASSEE — Missed tackles, missed assignments and offensive penalties were the biggest problems coach Bobby Bowden found with his FSU team during practice Thursday. "Defensively, if they make those tackles, they had a pretty good day. I liked the effort and the hitting was good once they got to you. But the tackling scares me," Bowden said. Defensive lineman Kelly Rush will be ineligible to participate for Florida State this fall, school officials learned Thursday.

Bodybuilding competition still growing

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

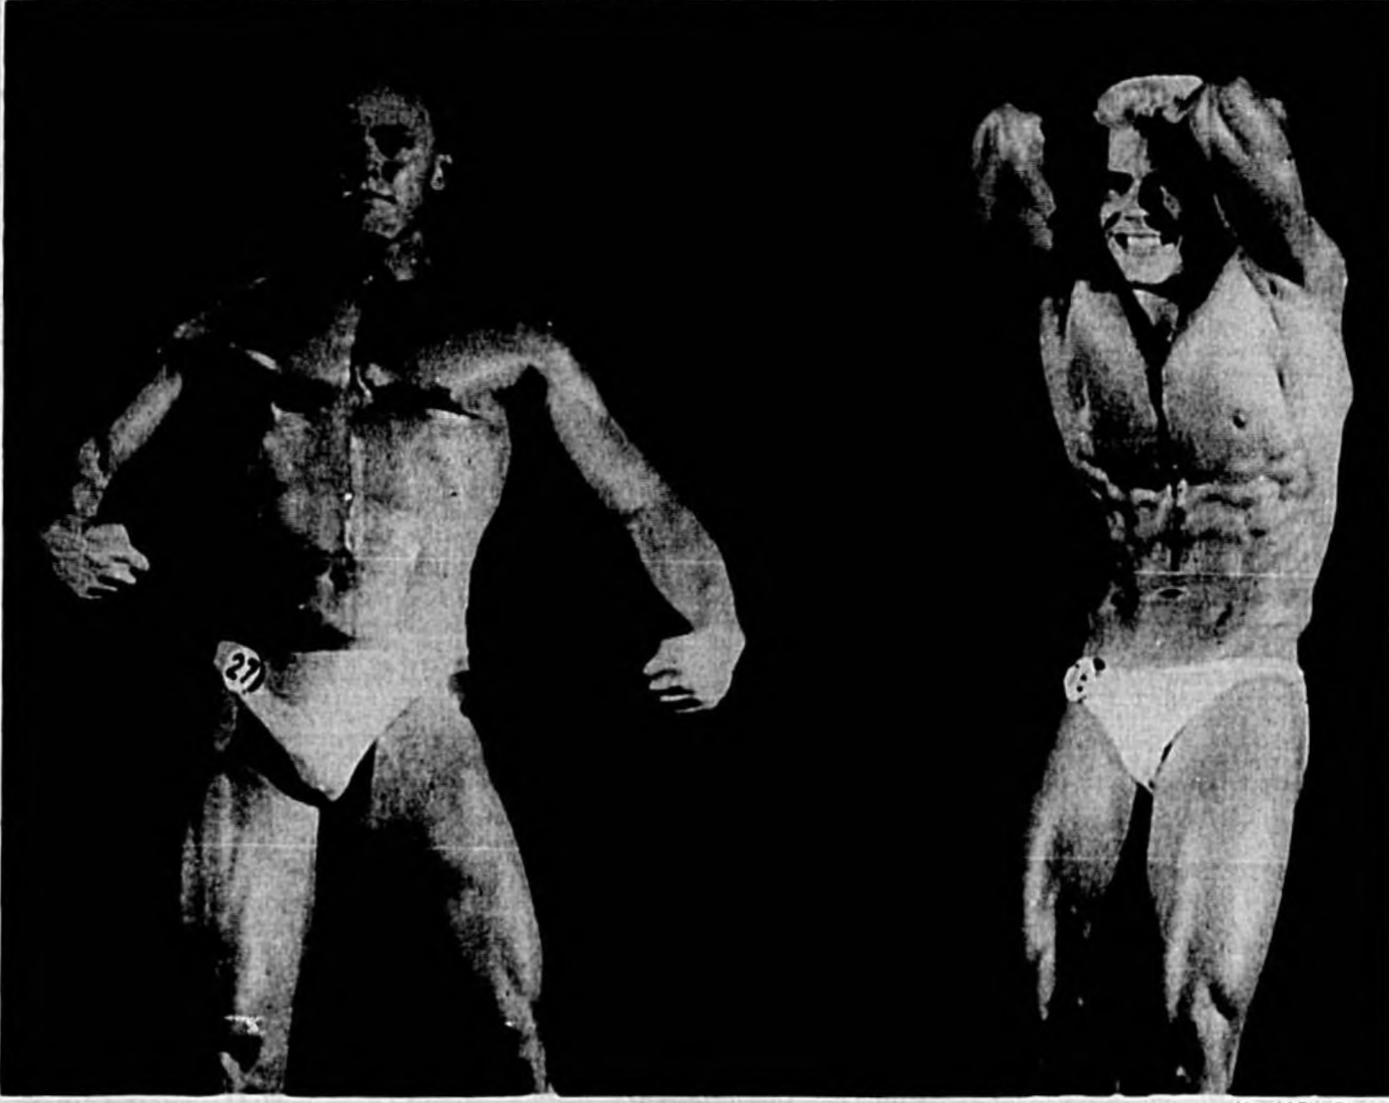

LAKE MARY — In each of its four years of existence, the Seminole Classic Bodybuilding Championships has grown larger and larger and the competition has gotten better and better.

This year's fifth renewal of the championships promises to continue that trend.

"It's going to be big," said Thomas Robare of ARENABARE Sports Enterprises about this year's event. "We're proud of the fact that we keep drawing a bigger crowd each year. Last year we had a standing room only audience of over 850, and we expect more this year. We also have over 50 competitors entered with more to come."

The 1991 NPC Men's and Women's Seminole Classic Bodybuilding Championships will take place tomorrow at Lake Mary High School, a change from the Sanford Civic Center, with pre-judging starting at 10 a.m. (weigh-in for competitors is at 9 a.m.)

The evening show will start at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for pre-judging and $15 for the main event. See Classic, Page 2B

Sanford host to clinic for softball ump

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Hollers of "Safe" and "Out" will be heard this weekend in Sanford despite the fact that there are no games scheduled. The Sanford Umpires Association will hold an Amateur Softball Association (ASA) certification Clinic tomorrow and Sunday.

Anyone interested in umpiring softball in Sanford in the fall leagues that will start Sept. 14 and does not have a current ASA license will have to attend and should plan on being there both days. Association members who already have their licenses are encouraged to attend.

The Sanford Umpires Association currently supplies umpires to the Sanford Youth and Adult Softball leagues and to the Sanford Church Softball League.

Instructors will be Sanford Recreation Department Superintendent Rocky Ellingsworth, who will be working his fourth national tournament this fall, and Reggie Sigmon, who runs Red Bug Park for the Seminole County Recreation Department and had has umpired Major League Baseball as well as six ASA National Tournaments. Both are members of the Indicator Fraternity, which is the second highest level that an ASA umpire can achieve.

The clinic will start at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Sanford Recreation Department, Downtown Youth Center, 300 N. Park Avenue, first floor of Sanford City Hall.

Saturday's schedule will include a four hour rules clinic (classroom), lunch and then four hours of on the field mechanics at the Fort Mellon Softball Field.

Beginning Sunday at 8 a.m., there will be four more hours of on the field mechanics at Fort Mellon. After lunch, the certification test will be administered at the Youth Center.

Cost will be $20 and can be paid at the clinic.

To register, or for more information, contact the Sanford Recreation Department at 330-5697.

Will national title cap FSU's last year as an independent?

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA — Florida State's last season as an independent football power could turn into its first national championship celebration.

The Seminoles, headed for Atlantic Coast Conference competition next year, have most of last season's starters on hand for another run at a national title that has eluded some very good Seminole teams.

"We've been hanging around the top long enough," coach Bobby Bowden said. "One of these days I figure we'll luck into the dang thing."

The Seminoles have 17 starters back from last year's 10-2 team, which finished fourth in the nation after beating Penn State in the Blockbuster Bowl. Casey Weldon, who threw for 1,600 yards and 12 touchdowns last season, is back to run an offense that includes leading rusher Amp Lee (825 yards) and versatile fullback Edgar Bennett. The biggest offensive loss was All-American receiver Lawrence Dawsey, who had 65 catches for 999 yards and seven scores last season.

Defensive standouts include linebackers Marvin Jones, Kirk Carruthers and Howard Dinkins and cornerback Terrell Buckley, a dangerous punt returner.

Despite a star-studded lineup, Seminoles will be hard pressed to go undefeated against a schedule that includes Michigan, BYU, Florida and Miami.

Now that Miami has joined the Big East, Florida State's biggest challenge for Southern supremacy should come from longtime foe Florida and future ACC rival Clemson.

Clemson is favored over defending champion Georgia Tech in the ACC and Florida is the pick in the Southeastern Conference, with defending champion Tennessee and Auburn regarded as the leading challengers.

Ken Hatfield enters his second season at Clemson, which has 12 starters back from last season's 10-2 team. The offensive leaders are DeChane Cameron, who threw for 1,185 yards last season, and ACC rookie of the year Ronald Williams, who ran for 941 yards.

Hatfield thinks this year's offense could be for the finals if purchased in advance at either West Arena's Studio, 345 W. Lake Mary Blvd., Suite 111, or The Health Store, Publix Plaza, 641 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Those purchasing tickets at the door for the finals will pay $15.

Robare, who will co-promote the event with former Mr. Southeastern U.S.A. Matt Arena, said that Roseanne Kaiser, current Ladies Southeastern U.S.A. Champion, will be the guest poster. There will also be another special guest.

"Former heavyweight boxing contender Pinky Thomas will be there to sign autographs," said Robare, owner of the Health Store and a 10-year body builder. "He's developing a program for disadvantaged kids to help them get involved with athletics and away from drugs. We will present a check to him from our proceeds that will go to help his program."

Besides the two guest stars, competition will be held in seven classes: Men's Open, Women's Open, Men's Novice, Men's Over 35, Men's Over 40, Men's Teenage and Couples divisions: top five places.

"The show is to promote drug free sports," said Robare. "And to encourage kids to say no to drugs. We have hopes of getting younger kids excited about weight training and health."

by the National Physical Committee (NPC) of the United States with entry open to men and women from Orange, Seminole, Volusia, Lake and Brevard counties. All contestants must have a valid NPC card.

Entry fee is $90 but since the deadline for entries is today, entries will need to be turned into Robare today at The Health Store in Lake Mary.

Trophies will be awarded as follows:

Men's Open Division: top five places in the Lightweight, Middleweight, Light-Heavyweight and Heavyweight classes, plus the overall winner.

Women's Open Division: top five places in the Lightweight, Middleweight and Heavyweight classes, plus overall winner.

Men's Novice Division: top five places in Class I (175-4 pounds and under) and Class II (175-4 pounds and over), plus overall winner.

Men's Over 35, Men's Over 40, Men's Teenage and Couples divisions: top five places.

"The show is to promote drug free sports," said Robare. "And to encourage kids to say no to drugs. We have hopes of getting younger kids excited about weight training and health."

Falcons to experiment with player versatility against Buccaneers

Atlanta Falcons coach Jerry Glanville said the team will experiment with player versatility against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in an NFL exhibition game.

Atlanta receiver Andre Rison also will get a chance to defend some passes.

Falcons' coach Jerry Glanville said the league's 47-man roster has placed a premium on versatility, so he is using the game as an opportunity to see what three of his starters can do on the opposite side of the ball.

The Falcons, 2-0 in preseason, are 6-0 in exhibitions since Glanville took over as head coach last season, and are unbeaten in seven straight exhibitions.

there and get me the ball," he said. "I want the ball."

McKyer also will be used some when Atlanta plays a nickel defense, adding extra defensive backs.

"I know how a wide receiver thinks, so I should be able to get into people's heads," said Rison, who was recruited out of high school as a defensive back by Michigan State.

"Hey, if I'd known you get as much pub (publicity) playing corner as (Sanders) gets, maybe I'd have stayed there," said Rison.

The Bucs had six turnovers last week in a 29-13 loss to Miami, and new coach Richard Williamson has worked on the problem in workouts this week.

"I haven't seen anything wrong that is not correctable," he said. "We have been emphasizing the need to avoid turnovers from the start of camp and got off to a good start in that area when we didn't have any in our opener with Cleveland."

The Bucs beat the Browns 23-10.

Atlanta defeated the Los Angeles Rams 38-7 last week after beating Houston 36-7 in its exhibition opener.

"They present another look from either Cleveland or Miami," said Williamson. "They will be a good test for us."

even better.

"I am excited about the improvement I saw in spring practice," he said.

Exciting quarterback Shawn Jones and All-American defensive back Ken Swilling are back at Georgia Tech, the country's only major unbeaten team last season. But coach Bobby Ross knows it will be difficult to match last year's 11-0 record, especially after losing most of his offensive line and tailback William Bell, who was suspended for the season after being charged with stealing school supplies.

"We have too many holes in our offense for that to be realistic," Ross said. "For a football team to go undefeated is almost a miracle. Don't expect that to happen in '91."

After winning only one game in 1989, North Carolina went 6-4-1 last season for the second best turnaround in the nation. The Tar Heels should continue to improve following another outstanding recruiting year by coach Mack Brown.

Florida is the favorite in the Southeastern Conference after going 9-2 in Steve Spurrier's first year as coach.

"We have a chance to be as good as last year," Spurrier said. "We have most of our experienced big guys back, including four of five offensive linemen and three of four defensive linemen."

One of the key returnees is quarterback Shane Matthews, who was the SEC's player of the year last season when he threw for 2,952 yards and 23 touchdowns.

Louisville doesn't figure to be as strong as last year's 10-1-1 team that crushed Alabama in the Fiesta Bowl. The Cardinals lost their offensive leader, Browning Nagle, who passed for 2,150 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Benefit planned

What do Bette Midler, Farmers Furniture of Sanford, W.T.R.R. AM 1400 and Nancy Dukas have in common? They're searching for heroes to save a life. Dukas is in need of a heart transplant and you can be a hero by stopping by Farmers Furniture, Highway 17-92 and 25th Street today, Saturday, and Sunday, August 18 through 19 to see Ed Lewis and his antique fire truck. Bring the kids young and old. Have your photo taken with Sparky the Fire Dog. Sample the free refreshments and register for a free Bahamas cruise package.

Budding star

Natalie Weid, daughter of Valerie and George Weid, Sanford, will be appearing on the hit show "Get the Picture," featured on the kids' channel, Nickelodeon, tonight, August 18, at 6:30 p.m. You can cheer for Natalie and her partner on this children's version of Concentration and Jeopardy. Natalie is also the 1991 recipient of the Betty Williams Star Bright Scholarship and was named Florida Dance Master's "Rising Star."

Heart transplant benefit raises $1,500

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — The Magic Miracles Gala Extravaganza, a benefit for Nancy Dukas who needs a heart transplant, was held at Harry's Tavern on August 10. It was a booming success. This gala raised over $1,500.

By mid-afternoon the tavern was so packed that people had to squeeze by each other. They did so politely.

The atmosphere was of gaiety, politeness and good cheer, much to the effort of Gene DeVillias of Metro Trucking, who spent the entire day in costume as a hobo clown. His charm and quick wit fell in with the general theme of the event.

A mini clown in full costume, Carol Lee Ireland, sold balloons and was superb.

Bill Tharpe of Apopka Truck Brokerage served magnificently as the main auctioneer for three of four auctions. Tharpe belted the benefits of each item as Ed Lewis, Bob King and James Booth displayed each item for sale.

Ed Lewis, the famous former firefighter who climbs the 100-foot fire truck ladder for donations to Nancy's benefits, relieved Tharpe as auctioneer in the evening. He continued until late into the night as he and the benefit organizer tried to sell everything in sight even to the leftover food. It all sold.

Throughout the day and night something was continuously going on.

The house band for the day, Michael Page's "Midnight Messengers" brought the house down with every number they played. Page's band was so well received that they graciously stayed beyond their scheduled time frame. They deserved the applause.

Pat Breslin, entertainer and master of ceremonies from Orlando, brought several entertainers with him who performed to the delight of the audience.

Les Varnes entertained the crowd with his most professional voice and guitar renditions. The man has a unique talent and totally charmed the audience.

Caesar Sereno, El Santo, the international magician, performed his magic and captured the audience while his wife, Joy, sat nearby. They are a charming couple who love benefits and give their time freely.

Barbara McCauley and Les Cox of American Sing-A-Long did themselves proud as they opened the day's activities to the delight of the audience.

McCauley and Cox have each independently earned an appearance on Nashville Network Television and will appear later this month.

Pat Moyer, owner of Harry's Tavern, said, "I had a wonderful time. This benefit is a huge success."

Ed Lewis, who brought his vintage fire truck, said, "To pack anyplace, downtown Sanford on Saturday afternoon, is totally phenomenal. This is it."

Joe Klinger and his wife, Norma, came over from Winter Springs. Joe, one of the 55 cooks who did attend, brought a platter of homemade chicken nuggets displayed on orange slices, which he quickly sold to benefit Dukas.

He said, "I must congratulate the organizer on the well-planned organization of this event. It's the best benefit that I've attended. The organization, the entertainment, everything is so well organized. It's great."

Dukas' daughters, Missy Mullins and Sandy Williams, cooked for the affair and served. Pam Waldron of Lake Helen and her two children, Jamie and Heather, brought fried chicken breasts and Pam served as food cashier. Other cashiers were Gert Ireland, front door, and Sandy Pence, back door. Decorations were made and donated by Mary Lou Nordman. John Dunn donated ferns for the tables and decorated along with Theresa Ireland.

The faithfulness of Pat Moyer's customers at Harry's are to be commended as they continuously supported the event.

The committee wishes to thank the people of Sanford for marvelous support. Cooks, servers, entertainers and cashiers donated time. Merchants donated money, gifts and passed out flyers. Irene Scalley, ran around and picked up food.

Mary Lou Nordman is also credited with efforts that helped make the benefit a success. Carol Custiss telephoned to soliciting funds and held a garage sale. Pat Moyer donated space and other items to help make the gala an event. Ralph Dukas, Dukas' husband almost had to clone himself to be in so many places, working for Dukas' special.

Ed Lewis deserves a special thanks for his tireless dedication and participation at the benefit.

Pets locked in cars sometimes rely on kindness of strangers

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from my vacation and had to write this letter first thing. While vacationing in a national park, I saw several dogs locked in closed (or almost closed) cars while their owners toured museums, rode the tram, ate lunch, etc.

Abby, I recall reading in your column the facts about how fast a car heats up when left locked up on a hot summer day. Please publish these facts again soon. Maybe it will cause some thoughtless vacationers to reconsider before taking their pets on vacation with them.

While they may think it's the kind or convenient thing to do, they should decide while planning their vacation whether they are willing to leave at least two car windows partially open when they stop for even a few minutes. If not, they should leave their pet with a relative or friend, have a neighbor care for it at home, or board it in a kennel. These are by far the kindest options for people who really love their pets.

And if other tourists, sightseeing in a national park, should observe a pet locked in a car with less-than-adequate ventilation, they should report it to the park ranger.

CONCERNED TOURIST FROM STILLWELL, KAN.

DEAR CONCERNED: Thank you for a timely reminder to well-meaning, but thoughtless pet owners.

The Animal Protection Institute, P.O. Box 22505, Sacramento, Calif. 95822, sells cards that may be placed under the windshield wiper. They sell for only $3 per 100 cards.

The message on the card reads: "YOUR DOG MAY BE DYING! We understand you meant to be kind by taking your dog with you today, but you could be risking your pet's life."

"On a hot summer day, the inside of a car heats very quickly.

Three years ago you left our happy home. The years have passed but our love for you will always last as long as time goes on.

TIME WELL SPENT
"If I could save time in a bottle..."
The wish expressed in the lyrics of this song is often shared by most of us. No, we cannot harness time. The minutes and the days pass surely and swiftly, like sand in an hourglass. Yet, unlike the sand in the hourglass, we cannot invert the flow of time and begin anew. We cannot turn back time and "do it over," but we can use our time wisely by learning from all of our experiences and "do it better" the next time.

The only true failure is the one from which we do not learn and grow. There is a Latin phrase which, when translated, means "Through adversity to the stars." Thus, not a moment of our lives, even the less pleasurable moments, need ever be time wasted.

There is one sure way in which we may spend our time wisely. Each Sabbath, attend your chosen house of worship. Time with God is always time well spent.

IN BRIEF

Dealing with difficult children

SANFORD — "How to Succeed with a Difficult Child in a Group Setting" is the subject of a seminar Aug. 27. The seminar will be conducted by Marilyn Brown, psychotherapist at West Lake Hospital.

Participants will learn to profile a hard-to-manage child, to identify and discuss effective techniques for dealing with a difficult child and to identify and examine the negative effects of being labeled a difficult child.

The seminar, at 7 p.m., and supper, at 6 p.m., will be held at the First United Methodist Church, 410 Park Ave. Hot dogs and baked beans will be served for $1.50, adults, and 50 cents per child, under 10. Family cost is $6. It is not necessary to eat supper to attend the free seminar. A nursery is available.

The deadline for registration is Aug. 30 by calling the church, 322-4571.

Applications for festival being accepted

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Altamonte Community Church is holding its annual Fall Festival and Craft Fair on Oct. 26 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Applications are being accepted for craft space (10x10) and space for antique dealers. To join the festivities, which includes food and entertainment, please send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: The Altamonte Community Church, P.O. Box 180667, Altamonte Springs, FL 32718.

For more details, call Sharon Foley at 321-2222.

Turner to give concert

SANFORD — Central Baptist Church, 3101 W. First St., will host Ken Turner in concert this Sunday evening at 7 p.m. Ken started his career in Gospel music with the Palmetto State Quartet of Greenville, S.C.

From there he went to the Dixie Echoes, of Pensacola, before joining the Blackwood Brothers, where he was bass singer for 17 years before going into solo ministry.

His ability to inspire and entertain an audience is well known. Not only his superb singing, but his many limitations of trumpet, trombone playing, Gomer Pyle and others.

The public is cordially invited to attend. A love offering will be taken.

'Relationships' talk set

The Unity Singles Group of Unity Church of Christianity, 5182 Pope Rd., will sponsor guest speaker, Dr. Eric S. Hennig, who will give a talk entitled "Relationships" on Tuesday, Aug. 27, at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Hennig will discuss the difference between intimacy and addiction in relationships and how to love another and still maintain your individuality.

Dr. Hennig, E.D.D. Ph.D., psychologist, marriage and family therapist, has maintained an office in Orlando for 16 years. He has been a Student Counselor at Seminole and Valencia Colleges for 10 years.

The program is open to all individuals interested in learning more about relationships.

For more information call 298-9181.

Citywide crusade against drugs

SANFORD — A citywide crusade against drugs will be held at the Sanford Civic Center, in downtown Sanford, on Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m.

"Freedom From Drugs" will feature Joe Ponzillo, Louisiana Youth Choir, Sanford Church Choirs, Birdella Hall-Walker and Kenny McMiller.

All proceeds will go toward drug rehabilitation.

A $5 donation is being asked. For more information, call 323-1010 or 324-9147.

Let us know what's going on

The Sanford Herald welcomes news about church activities and news for publication in the Religion page each Friday.

The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

- All items should be typed or written legibly and include the name of a person who can be contacted and a daytime phone number.
 - The deadline is 11 a.m. Wednesday before publication.
- There is no charge for publication.

'Believeth in me sayeth the Lord'

¶ We who are charming Christ as our savior must be absolutely sure that we believe. ¶

—The Rev. Mary Smith

Mark 16:15-17: "And he said unto them. Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature.

He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

And these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues.

Mark 16:11 — "And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not."

"They" has reference to his Apostles whom he had chosen.

We who are charming Christ as our savior must be absolutely sure that we believe. These people had been following Jesus for three and a half years. Listening to his teaching, preaching, seeing Him raise the dead, heal the sick and working miracles.

Matthew 26:32 — "But after I am risen again I will go before you into Galilee."

The disciples had been with Jesus on a daily basis and heard the words from his lips saying after "I am risen. I will meet you in Galilee." And yet when Mary Magdalene told them "He has risen" they did not believe.

As children of God no matter how long we have been preaching God's word or teaching his word or singing in the choir, or the best worshiper or you may be just a committed pew person with a special seat in the church, the great question is: Do you believe?

It is time now to slow down and examine yourself carefully and make sure you are a true believer in Christ Jesus.

St. John 3:5 — "Jesus answered. Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."

In order for one to be born again, you must first hear the Gospel of (1) Jesus death, how he died; (2) was buried and (3) the third day he was resurrected.

Romans 10:9 — "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

Faith is belief, and belief is faith. We notice Hebrew 11:5 — "But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." This lets us know that no matter what race, color or creed, rich or poor, educated or uneducated, we must all approach God the same way, that is by believing the Gospel. We must be sure we have believed with all our heart, soul, mind and strength.

Just a few points to check to see if we have believed.

1. Are we loving the Lord thou God with all our heart, mind and strength?
2. Are we loving our fellow man as ourselves?

3. Is the life you live giving the impression of the righteous God?

4. Or is your life displaying Satan?

The impression we have made to the world as believers in Christ has caused the young and old unbeliever to turn a deaf ear to the call by the Gospel. They can not hear what we are saying, because they are looking at what we are doing as believers. We are engaged in the same activity as the unbeliever, and this ought not to be.

The world of God tells us to come from among them, "Be ye separated, be holy for I am holy, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

Be sure you have believed because judgement is going to begin in the church among the ones who said they had believed.

Luke 13:27 — "But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity."

Custom and tradition will not please God. It is our belief in Christ which will save us.

Acts 2:44 — "And all that believed were together, and had all things common."

If we as believers would work together as the believers did in the early church, we could make a great impact on unbelievers in our community. Possibly causing Sanford to return to the good old days when crime was not as high as it is now and people were concerned about each other.

Let us stop convicting the world and start convincing the world that they must "believe" the Gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ in order to be saved.

Mary W. Smith is pastor of Sanford Christian Worship Center, 1289 W. 12th St., Sanford.

Experience a challenge thru His word

SANFORD — On Wednesday at 7 p.m. you will have the opportunity to experience the life changing message of the Florida Teen Challenge Ministries at Family Worship Center located at Country Club Square, on the corner of Airport Boulevard and 25th Street, according to Sheily Kid, church secretary.

Teen Challenge of Florida, ministers to men and women who once had a life controlling problem, such as drug addiction and alcoholism. Only when they experience the truth of Jesus Christ are these individuals truly free from the things that once controlled them.

If you know someone who is suffering from any of these problems, you are encouraged to bring them to hear the testimonies of how Jesus Christ has set them free from crack, alcohol, prescription drugs, and immoral lifestyles. There will be singing and preaching from the Word of God.

The Rev. Jeff Krall, pastor of the church, invites the public to attend this special meeting and to bring a friend.

For more information, please call 322-9222.

Rappin' for the Lord

Rappers DC Talk, above, join five veteran contemporary Christian music acts for the ninth-annual Night of Joy in the Walt Disney World Magic Kingdom. Returning alumni include veteran rock group Petra and gospel artists Bebe and CeCe Winans. Rockers Margaret Becker, Mylon Brooks Heart and WhiteHeart complete the six-act lineup for the musical extravaganza to be held Sept. 6, 7, from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Eye disorder calls for second opinion

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife has been diagnosed by an ophthalmologist as having a hole in the retina of her right eye. The doctor states nothing can be done to restore the vision of that eye. She's desperate, and we'd value your opinion.

DEAR READER: The retina is a thin coating inside of the back portion of the eyeball; it is rich in nerves and enables us to see objects when light, focused by the lens, strikes the retina.

There are a variety of diseases — such as a detached retina and retinal degeneration — that can affect this vital tissue. From your brief description, I cannot diagnose your wife's affliction with certainty. Therefore, I'll give a general answer.

Retinal disorders often result from injury and, unfortunately, from the aging process. Many patients suffer from visual difficulties as they age; by and large, retinal diseases are — as your wife's doctor noted — untreatable.

For example, retinal degeneration, a poorly understood disease, can lead to patchy areas of thinned, non-functioning retina, causing what appear on examination to be retinal "holes." This produces a spotty loss of vision because the diseased tissue does not register images. Patients usually complain of visual loss, flashing lights or spots floating in the visual field. The condition is untreatable.

On the other hand, retinal detachment — which produces similar symptoms — is associated with a painless wrinkling or pulling away of the retina from the underlying tissue. If discovered early enough (before large areas of retina have detached), the affliction is curable using laser surgery to re-attach the retinal coating.

As you can appreciate, retinal disorders require meticulous examination by eye specialists to determine if the causes are treatable or not. Since your wife has valid concerns about her vision, I suggest you seek a

Ask someone if he can count to 12, and he will think you are being insulting. But sit that same person at the bridge table, and suddenly he finds the task impossible. Bizarre!

It really isn't so difficult. Look at the North-South hands in today's deal. You are in six spades, and West has led the heart king. Given that the opposing clubs are breaking 4-3 and the trumps aren't 5-0, which 12 tricks do you plan to win?

In the auction, two spades was "fourth suit forcing" and did not promise length in the suit, but North raised to define his distribution exactly. Four no-trump was Roman Key Card Blackwood. Five hearts showed two key cards (the four aces and the trump king counting as key cards). It denied the trump queen.

By Phillip Alder

If you draw all the trumps and run the clubs, you will win only 11 tricks. When you play a diamond, someone will win with the ace and cash a heart trick.

The secret is to establish your 12th trick in diamonds immediately, leading the 10 to dummy's king.

East wins with the ace, but what does he return? If a heart, you ruff, draw trumps ending in the dummy, cross to hand with a diamond to the queen and run the clubs. If a diamond, you win in hand with the queen, ruff a club in the dummy (just in case clubs are 5-2), draw trumps ending in hand and cash the clubs.

Two internationals won the opening heart lead and immediately cashed two rounds of trumps. Suddenly they found there was no way to recover. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Aug. 17, 1991

You could be extremely fortunate in the year ahead in endeavors or operations that you personally manage. Be wary of situations where you have to share your authority with someone else.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A buzz of exciting news may make its rounds among your friends today. It's possible that the bulletin is all about you and some significant developments. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail #2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Confidential information from a least-expected source could prove beneficial to you today — if you choose to act on it. There's a chance you might not give it the importance it deserves, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll make such a good impression on friends today that everyone will want to do something special for you and, perhaps, one or more might.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Focus on your most important objective today, and don't let anything dissuade you from striving to achieve it. You could be exceptionally lucky where goal fulfillment is concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is one of those unusual days when you could learn something of real significance trying to teach another. Be generous toward those who ask your advice or counsel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Greater returns are more possible today from something you consider a second source of income than from your usual channel of earnings. Review your circumstances to see what opportunities exist.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Continue to be hopeful today regarding the outcome of events. Things are back on course now, and you should get the type of end results you've been anticipating.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're an exceptionally good salesman and promoter today, so don't waste your time on trivial projects. If you're going to sell something, shoot for something big.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You were better yesterday at handling little transactions than you were at handling big ones. Today, however, conditions are reversed, and you could be luckier in large matters.

IN BRIEF

Jewish population on the rise

NEW YORK — The Jewish population of the United States increased slightly last year to 5,981,000, up by about 40,000 and amounting to 2.4 percent of the U.S. population, the 1991 American Jewish Year Book says.

The compilation by the American Jewish Committee reports recent increases in Detroit; Middlesex County, N.J.; Orange County, Calif., and Seattle.

But a long-term decline continued in the Miami-Dade County region of Florida, once an area where American Jews lived in record number. Jewish population there fell more than 20,000 to 201,800, the new figures show.

Directive focuses on tobacco companies

SANTA FE, N.M. — Under a directive adopted by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), a meeting here of an investment committee singled out 12 tobacco companies subject to divestment by the church.

They are American Brands (American Tobacco Company), BAT Industries (Brown and Williamson), Culbro Corporation (General Cigar), Dibrell Brothers, Imasco Ltd., Liggett Group, Philip Morris, Rothmans Inc., RJR Nabisco, Standard Commercial, UST Inc. and Universal Corporation (Universal Leaf).

Stronger stand urged on abortion

MINNEAPOLIS — A petition by a group of pastors and lay people asks the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America to reject a commission-proposed resolution on abortion and take a stronger stand against it.

Long decline in membership may be turning

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Hints of a membership turnaround are appearing in some mainline denominations, including those larger, historically rooted Protestant bodies whose rolls gradually have shrunk for a quarter of a century.

Only wispy, scattered signs of a reversal in that downtrend are showing and generally, it continues. But it lessens and slows.

"We're beginning to turn the corner in numbers," said Presiding Bishop Edmond L. Browning of the 2.5 million-member Episcopal Church. He told a news conference at the denomination's recent convention in Phoenix, Ariz.

"There are more worshippers on Sunday than at any time in the last 50 years. And giving is higher than it has ever been. These are just some of the indications of the church's health."

Membership and attendance are gaining ground, according to 1991 survey findings. This could be temporary, sociologists note.

Will the elderly miss the boat?

George Plagens

One of the country's eminent brain surgeons has warned that unless something is done soon about out-of-control costs and the growing demands being made on our overwhelmed medical resources, health care in the United States will have to be "rationed."

The word rationing raises the specter of gasoline, tire and meat rationing in World War II. Unpleasant as these things were, rationing of health care would impose the severest form of hardship on great numbers of the sick and suffering.

took the starving nations aboard, the boats would swamp and everybody would be lost.

Lifboat ethics, if applied to health care, would mean that some people would be refused certain medical treatment so others, with a higher priority, could receive it.

Already some ethicists have advocated that all persons 80 years of age and over should not be eligible to receive any form of extraordinary care and rather be provided with only inexpensive medical management.

Lifboat ethics gets its name from an actual incident on the sea that took place in 1841. The square-rigged American sailing vessel William Brown was heading for Philadelphia from Liverpool, England, when it hit an iceberg. A jagged hole six feet across was opened in the bow of the ship.

There were two lifboats available for the 65 passengers and crew of 17. Forty-two screaming men, women and children crowded into the longboat that had a capacity for 18. Nine made it into the smaller boat built to hold seven. The 31 others went down with the William Brown.

As Hal Butler tells the story in his book "Abandon Ship," the overloaded longboat rode so low in the water that it soon became obvious that unless some of the passengers were thrown off, the whole boatload of 42 would perish.

"Do what you have to do," George Harris, the captain of the William Brown who was in the smaller boat, called to the first mate in charge of the longboat.

Under orders to "tighten the boat," two burly crewman, Alex Holmes and James Murray, moved methodically through the longboat and threw 16 passengers into the black, icy sea. The next day a schooner spotted the longboat and rescued the 26 survivors. The smaller lifboat was picked up by a fishing vessel.

There was a loud public outcry in the weeks that followed resulting in the longboat crew being charged with murder. Curiously, only Holmes was indicted. His trial in Philadelphia created a sensation.

Seven survivors of the longboat disaster took the stand. Some condemned Holmes. Others said his actions were "necessary under the circumstances."

Convicted of manslaughter, Holmes was sentenced to six months in jail. He served his term, then returned to the sea.

NOTICE OF EMERGENCY MEETING OF THE SEMINOLE COUNTY EXPRESSWAY AUTHORITY HAVING BEEN HELD

Please take notice that on August 13, 1991 at 8:30 A.M. in Room W122 of the Seminole County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, Florida the Seminole County Expressway Authority held an emergency meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to address the assertions made in various court pleadings filed by the Turnpike Counsel's Office of the Florida Department of Transportation concerning claims that have been filed relating to the alleged impacts of right of way reservation maps that were filed pertaining to properties which were later acquired at right of way for Project 1 of the Seminole County Expressway. The Authority authorized staff to take all appropriate actions, including the filing of pleadings and actions, to defend against assertions and claims made by the Florida Department of Transportation against the Authority by alleging that the Authority has continuing liability as to the Turnpike Project 1, extending from State Road 28 to U.S. Highway 17/92.
