

HINES SEEKING WAY TO SOLVE BONUS ISSUE

Searches For Method By Means Of Which Congress Can Vote To Pay Certificates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—Busy around the conference table with his aides, Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, is looking for a way to solve the bonus question along the line of immediate payment of the cash surrender value of service certificates. Uncommunicative as to details, Hines and his subordinates have determined that whether the program is to be recommended depends on whether the funds can be found. Many millions would be involved.

Details of his plan are not likely to be known before presentation to the joint congressional committee set up at the fast session to study veterans' legislation. Veterans administrator Hines is directed primarily at showing the way in which the value of the bonus certificates could be paid if Congress passed. Subordinate officials in the veterans' agency have been making a thorough study of the whole field of veterans' compensation with a view to forging a definite policy.

Among the methods discussed for providing funds to pay the cash surrender value was the abolishment of allowances now paid to veterans for disabilities not of service origin. Under this scheme the money saved would go into a sinking fund. A sinking fund was set up originally to retire the $1,514,000,000 total of outstanding certificates when they mature in 1945. This sinking fund reached $1,214,000,000 but has been drawn on heavily in meeting loans on the certificates, of which 50 percent of the maturity value can be borrowed.

Should these borrowings fail to make any payments of interest, the face value of the certificates would be diminished sharply by interest by 1945, but the average certificate valued at $900 at maturity is now worth only $150. The average actual value of each certificate now outstanding is computed roughly at $530. Under the 50 percent loan to issue each certificate on the basis of its borrowing power of $300, leaving the average margin between loan and cash surrender now at $135. The present law provides that certificates on which 50 percent has been loaned could be borrowed against at $11 more in 1942; $38 in 1943; $40 in 1944 and $74 in 1945.

Sanford Occupies Place In Booklet Issued By Railroad

For the first time in recent years, Sanford and Seminole County are represented in a new folder entitled "Tropical Trips", issued by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and today found in every important railroad station, hotel, and chamber of commerce office in the United States.

On page 21 of the publication is a picture of the deer in the Sanford Municipal Zoo. On page 22 there is a large picture of the "Sovereign Cypress" or Big Tree near Lake Mary, under which is the quotation "From the magazine American Forest for July 1929—There is known in North America only one older tree and that one is in Mexico."

In the booklet there is contained a paragraph which says "The Colony City, on the western shore of Lake Monroe, head of navigation of the St. Johns River and 135 miles north of Jacksonville in the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, Sanford is the center of one of Florida's best agricultural sections. It also offers visitors superior hunting, fishing, and golf.

Copies of the booklet are procurable at the travel body offices in the City Hall from which office was sent the photographs and information that is found in the booklet. The first distribution of the booklet totaled 25,000 copies which went to touring offices, railroads, and chamber of commerce offices throughout the United States.

Human Voice Carried Upon Beam Of Light

LAKE DESOLATION, New York, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—A searchlight beam flung voices of men across the Adirondack foothills last night in the first recorded experiment in long distance "radio-telephony." A 30-inch mirror on the mountain-side collected the rays of a searchlight which twinkled faintly on the horizon at Schenectady 21 miles away. Out of the stream of light came impulses which passed through a special receiving set and emerged as human voices. The unwavering beam was the "telephone wire" over which the voices passed as in an ordinary telephone conversation.

INJUNCTION WILL SEEK TO CURTAIL ROAD ACTIVITIES

Defuniak Springs Man Plans Court Action To Gain Many Points

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—F. A. Stinson, of Defuniak Springs, yesterday served notice on the state road department that he would seek a court injunction to halt the department from borrowing funds from any source which would involve or affect any revenue to be derived from the department.

Construction of any part of road 115 (Federal and State) in Bay, Walton, and Oklawaha counties and building bridges on this road or doing any work on it with a national funds work or contract.

Construction of a bridge over the St. Johns River on Road 1 at Stuart, improving a section of Road 14 at Panama and Flagler counties, of Road 2 in Marion and Levy counties, of Road 3 in Levy county, of Road 4 in Orange county, and Road 67 in Glades county, all projects on which bids were opened here yesterday.

Stinson's notice to the department also said he would insist on the department complying with a recent court order which required it to build a bridge across the Chassawhatchee River on Road 10 at the Walton-Washington county line.

He said he would go into court as a result of taxpayer and business and consumer of gasoline.

Chairman Wells of the department, said his board would put on its fighting clothes to resist such an action.

Official Of Citrus Exchange Pleads For Co-Operation In Citing Losses

Picturing Florida's citrus industry as losing $20,000,000 annually because of the confusion which exists in the distribution of the crop, J. Reed Curry of the Florida Citrus Exchange today appealed to the Sanford Kiwanians to become emissaries of cooperation because it is a vital concern of every business or professional man in the state.

Mr. Curry declared that the citrus industry today is the most important thing to the future progress of Florida. He said that the revitalization of the industry presents a challenge to every good citizen of this state because upon the success of the year's crop depends the success or failure of hundreds of business and professional men and women who make the state their home.

He said that the primary cause of the World War and the reason for the industry itself is traceable to competition where there should have been a cooperation. COLD DAMAGE TO CROPS IS SEEN SLIGHT

Eggplant And Pepper Growers Hardest Hit By Frosts That Swept Over Florida

ORLANDO, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—Frosts during the first two weeks of November in Central and South Florida damaged tender fall vegetables a survey of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, released here yesterday, showed.

"The actual damage from frost was, the Bureau bulletin added, 'to a large extent, not very great as most fall sections had about completed the harvest of their vegetables.'

"The exception to this, were at Brooksville and Waukegan where considerable damage to eggplant and peppers was sustained. The Winter Garden and Sanford sections in Central Florida escaped damage from the cold weather, but previous heavy rains have generally ruined the early planting of lettuce."

Leafy shipments of beans, the bulletin said, started about immediately to the cut-off of the large supply in the East, three weeks earlier in the month of October than has been completed at least a 100,000 tons, making little if any profit.

Shipments of a variety of leafy vegetables, the report said, will continue light throughout November. The condition of most crops in the South is such that they are getting into the market in good condition. The report also noted that the condition of most crops in the South is such that they are getting into the market in good condition.

SCIENCE SHOWS ANOTHER COOK EFFECT TOBACCO HAS ON AUTOISTS

Users Of "Weed" Generally Have Best Eyes For Driving

By ERNEST A. HEDGECOCK, Chairman, Department of Psychology, University of California.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—A study of the eyes of Southern California drivers, conducted by Ernest A. Hedgcock, chairman of the department of psychology at the University of California, Los Angeles, has shown that tobacco smokers have the best eyes for driving.

The study, which was conducted over a period of six months, involved 100 drivers, 50 of whom were tobacco smokers and 50 were non-smokers. The drivers were subjected to a series of tests designed to measure their ability to detect and respond to visual stimuli while driving.

The results of the study showed that tobacco smokers performed significantly better than non-smokers on all of the tests. In particular, smokers were faster to detect and respond to visual stimuli, and were more accurate in their responses.

Commission May Be Constituted To Survey War Debts

However, Body Would Not Have Power To Cancel Or Revise Obligations To U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—Whether a commission should be constituted to resurvey war debts today became the dominant question in that dispute.

To congressional leaders assembled by him in his cabinet room President Hoover suggested such an agency to go over the field but without authority to revise or cancel any of the eleven billion dollars owed this country.

Immediately on leaving the meeting the Democratic conference went to the hotel quarters of President-elect Roosevelt where views were exchanged. The Democratic legislators steered clear of any commitment on the President's suggested commission.

There was general agreement, however, that if the commission is created it be with the understanding that the act entailed no obligation by this country to revise or cancel the debts.

SENKARIK TELLS OF PROGRESS BY YOUTHFUL GROUP

Future Farmers Have Many Achievements To Credit In 1932

(Editor's Note—The following address was delivered before the recent fourth annual Father and Son banquet staged by Seminole Chapter, Future Farmers of Florida, by John Senkarik, outstanding member of the Chapter.)

"Winning state honors for the best Future Farmer Chapter in the state of Florida has become a habit of Seminole Chapter Future Farmers of America located at Sanford. This group of 24 vocational agriculture students has recently been adjudged winner in the state Best Chapter contest for the third consecutive year and has been awarded a $100.00 silver cup, and selected to represent Florida in the National 1931-32 Chapter contest in which $1000.00 is offered in prizes. In 1930-31 the Sanford boys received honorable mention in this national contest.

"On cannot doubt that Florida's winning chapter has justly received this honor when consideration is given its activities which include farm project work, cooperative activities, community service, leadership activities, savings and investments, school organization and recreational activities.

"Community service was one of the outstanding activities of these Future Farmers during the past year. During the Better Farming Show held at Sanford last January the chapter members conducted free motion pictures which depicted improved practices on the 'Live on the Farm' idea. Farmers Day in Sanford also was another occasion for them to show their community spirit. On this occasion the boys assisted in laying out grounds, building toilets, and generally assisted in making the day a real success. A 'Live on the Farm' parade float was constructed by the boys and entered in the Farmers Day Parade, winning the first prize of $25.00 cash.

"Co-operating with the county agriculture department it is fostering the county wide 'Live on the Farm' program. Seminole Chapter has brought into Seminole County approximately 75 pure bred and feeder pigs during the past year and distributed them among local farmers. This project has resulted in much increased interest in hog raising in this county.

"In connection with this work the boys found the need for some local means of curing home raised pork as there was no cold storage plant available with meat curing service. The chapter financed and constructed a meat curing plant for use of the farmers of this section. This plant is located on the school farm at Sanford and has a capacity of 5000 pounds of meat. All of the construction work including carpentry, electrical, and plumbing was done by members of the Future Farmer Chapter, the result of which the chapter now owns and operates a complete meat curing establishment valued at $500.00 and equipped for a full service of meat curing, butchering, and pork products manufacturing. During the first two months of operation this plant has cured over 3,000 pounds of meat.

"Co-operative feed buying was another activity of these Future Farmers. 100 percent of the chapter members owning live stock projects organized a co-operative feed buying group which resulted in the purchase of over ten tons of feed at a saving of approximately $1.00 per ton.

"Educational trips were an important part of the chapter program. One trip was made to Tampa and through Central and South Florida during which fertilizer factories, shipping docks, phosphate mines, B.K. Tower, and other interesting places were visited. Another trip was made to Gainesville to the State F. F. A. Convention. Several short trips were made to local county and to nearby points. Practically all trip expenses were paid by the chapter treasury from funds earned co-operatively by chapter members.

"Florida's winning chapter also is proud of its accomplishment at the State Livestock Judging Contest held at Gainesville. The team entered by this chapter won first place as a team and several individual places over all other chapters in the state. This honor carried with it the $100.00 silver trophy offered by the state department of agriculture.

"Members of this chapter also participated in the state public speaking and fiddling contests at Gainesville. These contestants had previously won in the local district elimination contests.

Big Ten All-Star Team Ignores Northwestern

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Ohio State's stars upset the all-star "Big Ten" football team this year. Although engulfed in an erratic season, the Buckeyes tied Michigan in placing players on the all-star team selected for the Associated Press by coaches, landing three berths in the line and backfield. Purdue placed two players while the other three positions went to outstanding aces from Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota. Northwestern, which placed three players on the 1931 all-star eleven and two of them on the all-American team, failed to land a berth. Ernest "Pug" Hester, feet wild left halfback, received but one vote for "re-election" and that was for the second team. Another stalwart on last year's all-conference team, Jack Manders, of Minnesota, lost out by a narrow margin to Roy Horstmann, Purdue's yardage maker.

The all-star big ten football team was selected for the Associated Press by coaches and outstanding critics for 1932:

President Awaits Roosevelt Arrival To Discuss Debts

It was taken as certain that Hoover would speak of European disarmament in close connection with his talk of debts. The possibility was voiced unofficially that this might be a counter-proposal to foreign debtors requests for relief, involving his own proposal for a one-third slash in world arms.

Still another allied subject probably will be a suggested date for the world monetary and economic conference. The President feels that since this parley will continue into the new administration, Roosevelt should have a hand in arranging American participation.

During the day on Capitol Hill the last of the senatorial delegation of six invited to talk debts with the President on Wednesday reached town. They were Watson, Republican, Indiana, and King, Democrat, Utah. Virtually all of the six ranking Republican and Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee who will join them have returned to the capital.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, ranking member of the Ways and Means committee, yesterday told newspapers: "I do not know what President Hoover has to propose, but if it is the recreation of the war debt funding commission, I shall be opposed to that."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

TRUST AND WAVER NOT—Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.

PICTURE OF PEACE—The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf, and the young lion and the fattening together; and a little child shall lead them.

Russia is getting human. It has lifted the ban on jazz.

It is our misfortune that so few of our national troubles are of a kind that can be cured by a forty-five minute radio address from some candidate.—San Diego Union.

The latest count which we have seen on the presidential election gives 21,235,037 votes to Roosevelt, 16,091,259 to Hoover, and 916,185 to Norman Thomas, the Socialist. If there is an upset in these figures, it lies in the Socialist vote. Mr. Thomas was reasonably expected to receive at least 2,000,000 votes.

Banks charged with hoarding will loosen up temporarily next month when approximately 10,000,000 members of the Christmas Savings Clubs will collect some $440,000,000, not alone to buy Christmas presents, but also to pay insurance premiums, taxes, and rent coming due on the first of the year. The important thing is that the $440,000,000 will be real money, not depreciated currency which might have resulted from inflation.

The importance of maintaining the gold standard is well illustrated by the predicament with which England is confronted with regard to the $100,000,000 payment on December 15. England has not abandoned the gold standard for a year. It would be called upon next month to pay $100,000,000, amounting to the country. As it is, the British government must raise approximately 20,000,000 pounds for this payment. The debt is payable in gold and the British currency has depreciated in the past year from $100 to about $33.22.

An interesting memorandum comes from Raymond Houston of the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee. It is rather commonly believed that most unemployed are former factory workers or other workmen classified in the skilled and unskilled labor departments. Mr. Houston says that at least 40 percent of the jobless really men are former executives, clerks, stenographers, and representatives in general of the "white collar" class. Hunger to them is no more acute than to the laboring man, but neither is it any less.

New York City investors who may look with amazement upon the lack of selling power of Sanford bonds and later upon the actual default by this city can turn their attention to financial problems closer to home in these days of prolonged depression. New York City bonds with the strongest backing of any bonds in the world except the U. S. government are now selling at 85-1/2, and factually are not selling much. There is, of course, a far cry from New York's 85 to Sanford's 18, but give the metropolis a few more years of Tammany Hall, and it will get there.

We may have legal beer by Christmas, but not in Sanford. Some optimists who think so overlook the nineteenth article of the constitution of Florida which says: "The manufacture, sale, or exchange of all alcoholic beverages, whether spirituous, vinous, or malt, are hereby forever prohibited in the state of Florida." The state constitution is stronger in this respect than the federal government. The former forbids all alcoholic beverages, the latter only "intoxicating." The state constitution cannot be amended before November, 1934.

Making 'Em Pay

The possibility of any immediate settlement of the war debts almost disappears as senators and representatives returning to Washington express themselves emphatically not only against cancellation but also against any extension of the moratorium or review of the problem by a Congressional commission. Congress simply refuses to discuss the matter at all. The President and President-elect, neither of whom has any authority in the matter, do not go quite so far, but have nevertheless declared their opposition to cancellation.

In adopting this "make 'em pay" policy, it is important to consider what we are willing to accept from our European debtors in payment. As the obligations now stand, our former Allies are required to meet the annual installments of principal and interest in gold. These annuities amount, in the sixty-two years over which the debts have been funded, to $22,188,000,000. With approximately $11,500,000,000 as the world's total gold supply, it is plainly impossible for the European countries to continue making these payments unless in some way part of the gold is returned to them.

This transfer of gold back to Europe might be accomplished by American purchases of European products in excess of European purchases in this country, by tourist expenditures abroad, by remittances of immigrants in this country to relatives in Europe, by loans from American investors to Europeans, and by a number of other minor ways of comparative insignificance. But by far the most important means of modern transfer is by trade and by loans. During the eight year period from 1922 to 1930 this country purchased $37,957,000,000 worth of commodities abroad, theoretically payable in gold. But at the same time foreign countries were buying from us to the extent of $43,512,000,000, leaving us a net surplus of $5,555,000,000. During this same period Americans travelling throughout the world spent $5,820,000,000, but at the same time foreign travellers spent $1,768,000,000 in this country, a net deficit for us of $4,062,000,000.

Immigrant remittances resulted in $1,979,000,000 being sent to foreign countries. Charitable and missionary contribution took an additional $494,000,000, and shipping charges accounted for $665,000,000 more. This makes a total of $3,138,000,000 which was theoretically paid to Europe by this country in gold. But at the same time Europe paid installments on war debts amounting to $1,842,000,000, and interest and dividends on American investments abroad amounting to $6,792,000,000 and miscellaneous obligations of $419,000,000 or a total of $9,053,000,000. In other words as a result of these combined operations, Europe owed us a net balance of $7,406,000,000. Of this sum Europe paid us $687,000,000 in gold and borrowed the rest from private investors.

It is plainly apparent that unless we wish to sacrifice our favorable balance of trade, or continue making private loans to foreign countries, we must devise some new method for the payment of these debts. Further private loans are, of course, out of the question. And an unfavorable balance of trade would fall most heavily on cotton, tobacco, and wheat farmers who export 55 percent, 41 percent, and 17 percent respectively of their total production as compared with 10 percent of the production for the country as a whole.

A multiplicity of suggestions have been advanced by economists and masters of political and financial science, for the solution of this problem but none of them, of course, can be entertained as long as Congress refuses to give the matter any attention whatever.

Thanksgiving

Some time during the present political, social, and economic upheaval most of us have knelt before the shrine of despair and paid homage to a catch-phrase: "Things couldn't be any worse."

These words have been spoken by business men with the same dumb and unshod philosophy which makes a small boy whistle in a churchyard, they have been spoken by politicians to justify their elections, they have been spoken by individuals in a blind effort to bolster their courage.

No statement could be more false, no statement could be more injurious to the intelligent approach of human problems than one predicated on the theory that "Things couldn't be any worse." Yes, things could be lot worse. They could be so much worse that the present might seem in comparison like Utopia, and if there is to be any thank returned on this Thanksgiving, then our people must recognize this fact.

We should be thankful as a nation that we are not in the throes of sanguinary revolution or other conflict. We should be thankful that we have less unemployment proportionately than many other countries, that our monetary system is still intact, that our gold supplies are unimpaired, and that our per capita wealth is greater than any other nation's.

Individually, if we are employed, we should be thankful that we have a job. If we are without work we should be thankful that charitable institutions have provided that we shan't starve. Those who are well should be thankful that they are not sick, and those who are sick can be thankful that they are not worse.

It is true that things could be much better. There is always room for improvement, but the saddest spectacle in the world is the person who goes about his daily life bemoaning the fact that someone else has more money, more clothes, better automobiles, and more fun out of life; the happiest person is the one who realizes he could be worse off and is thankful that his lot is so much better than many who are less fortunate.

Bad as conditions appear, we all have many things for which we can be thankful this year.

Science Shows Effect Tobacco Has On Autocasts

"Wide angle" or periscope vision is most important, keeping us informed as to what is going on around us. It is of the utmost value to the automobile driver in that it enables him to watch intently the road ahead of him and yet be keenly alert to the approach of other vehicles on either side. It is equally indispensable to the machinist, the structural steel worker and to many others in this age of high speed and rapid transit.

Singularly a narrowly restricted tubular field may co-exist with central vision of a higher order. Conversely a person with very poor vision on the test chart may be keenly sensitive to the presence, and especially so to the movement, of objects in the marginal field.

From the standpoint of "form" vision, reading, and the like, the peripheral retina is decidedly inferior to the central or macular area. The latter is a small "spot" near the center of the retina, measuring only about one-tenth of an inch in diameter. To this small space is confined analytical vision such as is required for reading and other work demanding fine discrimination. Outside of this area vision for letters and between Fourth Street and Third Avenue will now be covered by the free delivery mail service. As soon as received a letter box will be placed at the corner of Pine Avenue and Third Street, pending the receipt of which the mail can be handed to the carrier. All patrons are requested to put up proper receptacles for the mail. "Gyp the Blood," "Dago Frank" and "Whitely Lewis" killed Herman Rosenthal, the gambler at the instigation of Charles Becker, and may pay the penalty of death in the electric chair. The jury which has been hearing the evidence against the four gunmen so decided Tuesday when it returned a verdict of murder in the first degree after but 20 minutes of deliberation.

Roosevelt View On Farm Affairs Is In Agreement

The immediate project was in substance the domestic allotment plan which calls for an excise tax on basic farm products equal to the tariff on those products. The tax would be distributed among the producers whose output was consumed at home. Under one phase of the plan the tax would be prorated among farmers who agreed to reduce their acreage and under another it would be paid to the farmers on the portions of basic crops consumed at home.

Farmers who have lost their land through mortgage foreclosure would be given a chance to recover title, he said.

Always, throughout his campaign, Roosevelt called the tariff fine details and quite rapidly. Few people realize how very small is the area of distinct vision, at 10 inches distance the human eye can see distinctly a space about the size of a cent piece or one word of medium length in ordinary newspaper type.

When we go to the mountains or aloft in an airplane we imagine we see a wide expanse of terrain spread out before us, which is true in a sense, but how very little of it we see clearly at any given moment, it is because the eye is continually moving and that we retain visual impressions in our mind.

That we are able to enjoy the landscape and define our objective thinking, that we can take in so much territory, thus we see the anasthetic as well as a practical aspect of "periscope vision." Now there are conditions which very naturally restrict the field of vision. When it is confined to the central sensitive area it is known as tubular or telescopic vision. The person with the visual defect usually as an automobile driver, even as a pedestrian, he is in considerable personal danger. Fortunately these periscope tubular fields are relatively rare, although taken in conjunction with their field defects they had been attributed to believe that a car that is to be driven in a public place will include field tests.

the crux of his program for relief to agriculture. Speaking at Sioux City, Iowa, on Sept. 9 he said: "Yet there is scarcely a major problem in our national life—agriculture, industry, labor, mercantile marine, international debt and even disarmament—that does not involve the question of tariff."

He espoused reciprocal tariffs with all foreign nations. He called for lower tariffs "by international negotiation as the first and most desirable method; by consenting to reduce to some extent some of our duties in order to secure a lowering of foreign walls that a larger measure of our surplus may be admitted abroad."

"Life Begins" Will Be At Milane Thursday

Hailed by preview critics who have seen the picture in Los Angeles and New York as "the most unusual picture of the age," "Life Begins," is headed for the Milane Theater where it will open its two-day run on Thursday.

Unusual both in theme and treatment, "Life Begins" gives the movie audience its first intimate glimpses into the workings of a hospital maternity ward and the lives and tragedies of the women confined there. The delicate subject deals with has been tactfully yet most effectively handled by the producers.

Opening with the story of a young woman serving a long prison term for murder who is allowed to enter the hospital in order to give birth to her child, the attention of the audience is drawn to the various other inmates of the ward. One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cromolium, an emulsified crotonate that is pleasant to take. Cromolium is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

All known drugs, crotonate is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble.
