Hostage After 5 Hours

WINNEMUCA, Nev. (UPI) — An armed robbery suspect who hijacked a small plane in Idaho surrendered and released a hostage unharmed today, ending a five-hour standoff with police who surrounded an airport trailer where he had holed up.

James Powers, FBI agent in charge of the Las Vegas office, said Harold Lynn Stary would be charged with kidnaping and held on a recommended $100,000 bond. The suspect was to be taken to Reno, Nev., later today for a federal court appearance.

Kidnap Voted By Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has voted to outlaw pornography featuring children and to include boys in a law that now bans transporting girls across state lines for prostitution.

The measure won final congressional approval Tuesday on a 401-0 vote in the House. President Carter is expected to give swift approval.

Coal Strike Talks Pressed

Electric company executives from several states hampered by dwindling coal supplies met with Department of Energy representatives in Washington today, while West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller applied pressure to resume negotiations in the eight-week-old United Mine Workers strike.

Talks between the UMW and Bituminous Coal Operators Association "blew up" early Tuesday after a marathon bargaining session, in which union and management were reportedly close to agreement. Officials said the potential for an agreement was "badly damaged," and that it was not likely the bargaining would resume within the next few days.

Flooding Imperils Northeast

By United Press International
Snow shoveling could turn to sandbagging today in sections of the battered Northeast. A winter storm, with diminishing intensity and a low pressure system over the Gulf of Mexico threatened to bring warmer temperatures and rains of 1-3 inches — and possible flooding — to the Northeast.

Evers Photo Up And Down

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A picture of slain civil rights worker Medgar Evers was placed in the Mississippi Capitol Tuesday by the field director of the state NAACP, but the photograph was later removed by security officials.

Dr. Emmett Burns, in a brief news conference, admitted he did not have the authority to hang the picture of Evers, but said he decided a picture of a black should be placed in the building. He said his action was prompted by news reports earlier this week that a mystery portrait was hanging in the capitol.

CIA Chief Wins Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Expressing total confidence in Adm. Stanfield Turner, President Carter has turned over to the controversial CIA director broad new powers over the intelligence community and control of the nation's spy budget.

Included was a directive severely restricting covert activities of federal intelligence agencies, including an outright ban on political assassination.

Marston Firing Cleared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Department investigators are taking the word of President Carter and Attorney General Griffin Bell that they did not intend to obstruct justice by firing U.S. Attorney David Marston of Philadelphia.

The question was whether Carter or Bell knew Marston had an "investigative interest" in Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., last November when Eilberg asked Carter to expedite removal of the Republican prosecutor.

Stress

ignore the stresses of a child. This leads to more pressure. "This is one of the things parents tend to do," commented Dr. Parke. "They (parents) tend to talk about only that one thing that the child is having problems with when the child is in their presence."

Dr. Parke often counsels parents with children suffering stress-related diseases. "This is part of my practice," he said. "We find that the children who don't do well often complain of headaches, a back problem or some sort of stomach trouble. If they have problems that put them under pressure, they begin to develop these symptoms that could lead to an ulcer."

Dr. Parke emphasized that stress is not the only physical problem stress can create in children. "For every child that develops an ulcer there is one who begins a nervous reaction of some other kind, like a cough," said Dr. Parke.

The first sign of trouble, he said, is a sudden deterioration in school.

"It is universally understood that all children like school and later they begin to be turned-off, but if this happens suddenly it can be the signal of an emotional problem," said Dr. Parke. He added that the deterioration in classes could also be a natural reaction to being kept inside during good weather.

If parents suspect a problem at school, Dr. Parke suggested "they ought to get in touch with the teacher as soon as they can. Usually, they won't get it from the child if there is a problem, because most parents will put the child on the spot and that will put them under more pressure."

Parents can help at home, according to Dr. Parke. "Parents can help most by watching school work and seeing that it's not all left up to the school. They should encourage children to read and not watch television all the time," said Dr. Parke.

"Parents should let children know what they expect of them in general terms, but don't get down on them if they don't live up to their expectations," continued Dr. Parke. "They need to express their confidence in their children." — MAX KREMLERMAN

Meet Reset

The Seminole County Legislative Delegation will meet at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, rather than at 2 as previously announced, in the county commission chambers at 100 Southwood in Sanford, according to State Rep. Vince Fochler (R., Leesburg), delegation chairman.

Items on the agenda for the meeting include: a representative of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) to speak on the proposed closing of HRS of the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center at Sanford in favor of a new regional center in Volusia County; a local bill relating to the word "under" to be submitted by Sanford City Atty. Vernon Mize; another Mize bill authorizing Seminole cities to annex areas completely surrounded by city territory; a third bill by Mize repealing the Seminole County Comprehensive Planning Act; a package of proposed legislation from the county commission and legislation from the Seminole County Local Government Study Commission creating and funding the group.

Hypnosis Fails To Jolt

Memories Of Beaten Coeds

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two Florida State coeds, brutally beaten by a chowhounding man who killed two of their sorority sisters, were unable to identify their assailant under hypnosis Tuesday.

Leon County Sheriff Ken Kotaris said Tuesday veteran police hypnotist Julian Arroyo of Temple Terrace questioned Kathy Kleiner and Karen Chandler under hypnosis and "absolutely no new information was revealed."

Also hypnotized were Nita Jane Neary, who entered the Chi Omega sorority house as the attacker fled, and Linda Sue Thompson, a Chi Omega brutally beaten in a different attack a year ago.

Space Telescope Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A huge telescope will be launched into space Thursday to help astronomers gather clues in their quest to learn the origin of the universe.

The International Ultraviolet Explorer, which will orbit the Earth, is scheduled to speed into space at 10:56 a.m. Thursday atop a Delta rocket.

"On any given day, we can point the telescope at any heavenly body we wish," said Kenneth Sizemore, Goddard's spacecraft manager. "It is the first time that astronomers will be able to have continuous observations of whatever they wish through a space telescope."

Look On The Bright Side...

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The composite failure rate among Florida 11th graders taking the functional literacy test was 37 percent — almost a quarter more than officials predicted — but Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington says there is a bright side.

"There is now a new determination on the part of students and teachers to work harder and to do better. There is more good and hard work going on in the schools of Florida than ever before," Turlington said.

Labor Racketeering Probed

MIAMI (UPI) — A team of agents from the U.S. Department of Labor will move into the Miami area this week to investigate reports of widespread labor racketeering. It was reported today.

The Miami Herald said a reliable source said Labor Department officials hope the investigation will lead to a small group of labor leaders who may be engaging in illegal activities involving pension and welfare funds in other states besides Florida.

Eastern Earnings Reported

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines, which reported Tuesday it had its second-best earnings year in 1977 with the help of wages kicked in by employees, announced a plan to let stockholders fly at discount prices.

Eastern said it earned a net profit of $34.7 million last year, including $6 million contributed by its 33,000 employees as part of a "variable earnings" program.

Auto Insurers May Settle

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Other auto insurers may try to settle out of court now that State Farm Mutual has agreed to refund $10 million in excessive profits, an aide to insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter says.

Gunter has gotten feelers to indicate that several auto insurers may drop their lawsuits and agree to refunds, press secretary Harold "Bud" Rummel said Tuesday. Rummel refused to identify the companies, but said they include "a couple of major ones."

Sanfordite Dorothy Ann Hudges, 25, of 59 Castle Brewer Court, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday night after shooting a Sanford man in the stomach.

Taken to Seminoles Memorial Hospital was Oscar McFadden, 47, of 14444th Street, Southwood Road. He was listed this morning in fairly good condition at the hospital, according to a spokesman.

Mrs. Hudges was brought to county jail and charged with aggravated battery. Her bond was set at $2,000.

Police said they heard a shot fired at 10:30 p.m. and responded to the scene, they found McFadden lying on the ground.

He had been shot once. He told them Mrs. Hudges had shot him, and she was arrested, police said.

MIAMI (UPI) — A Labor Ministry man was stabbed and robbed of an undetermined amount of cash Tuesday night by two men, Howard Earl Bean, 41, of 959 Carraway Road according to sheriff's deputies.

Bean said he had left a house on Church Street and got into his car when two men, demanding money, stabbed him several times. Bean said he gave the men his cash, and the two fled on foot.

Bean was treated at Seminoles Memorial Hospital for stab wounds and released, said a hospital spokesman.

of Forest City Tuesday pleaded not guilty in county court to charges of abducting and murdering an Altamonte Springs convenience store clerk on Jan. 4.

County Judge Alan A. Dickey, presiding over Preston's preliminary hearing scheduled from the home of Wesley E. Gilson 64, Missouri Avenue, rural Lake Wales, Gilson held deposition.

Preston was indicted by a Seminole County grand jury last Friday for abducting, stabbing to death 65-year-old Earlene Walker, assistant manager of the LF Champ store at Spring Oaks Boulevard and SHOS.

He is being held in county jail without bond.

MURGLARY SUSPECT
Joseph Peter Shover, 21, of 678 Bayou Drive, Casselberry, was in county jail this morning on $1,000 bond, charged by Casselberry police with an early Monday morning burglary of a Casselberry home at 700 Bayou Drive, occupied by Harold Johnson, 35.

The occupant of the home discovered Shover leaving the house and held him until police arrived they say.

through an unlocked back door and took his wallet, Gilson said.

THE VALUE OF THE stolen items was more than $2,000, Wanda said. Police are trying to determine how burglars entered the home.

PROBATION VIOLATION
Lantern Smith, 34, living in Titusville, was brought Saturday from Broward County jail to Seminole County jail, Sanford, for violation of probation in Seminole, deputies said.

Smith was arrested Saturday in Broward County for speeding, and police discovered he was wanted for probation violation in Seminole.

A Push For Excellence

The story is told that after watching the Reverend Jesse Jackson on CBS' "Sixty Minutes" recently, Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano and the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey were sufficiently impressed to agree that HEW should commit some of its resources to Mr. Jackson's "Push for Excellence" program.

It is remarkable how straight the crew flew when such movers as Mr. Califano and Sen. Humphrey agree to something; a short time later, $45,000 was in Mr. Jackson's mailbox in Chicago. Mr. Jackson, of course, is one of the people on whom the mantle of the civil rights movement fell after Dr. Martin Luther King was killed in Memphis. It is not hard to be impressed with what Mr. Jackson is saying these days, for he is penetrating to the core of what is necessary for greater minority achievement.

Mr. Jackson preaches nothing less than a revival of ethics — of discipline, responsibility, and hard work. Mr. Jackson labors to make the point that ethics are independent of race or ethnicity, but still he is misunderstood sometimes, perhaps because ethical discourse is unusual in an age drenched in sociology.

On another television program, Mr. Jackson was asked whether he really was talking in the final analysis, about ethnicity. Mr. Jackson replied, no, to the contrary, he was talking about ethics. The point survives the sociology.

Orlando Patterson, a professor at Harvard and himself black, is driving at practically the same thing in his studies as Mr. Jackson when he says that blacks (and, by extension, other individuals, like Chicano, who have suffered) need a "moral transformation." There is no other way, says Mr. Patterson, to explain the successes of blacks.

If one is to succeed in the world, one should first succeed in primary and secondary school, to state the obvious.

But the obvious is important because it is only by success in school that one gains entry to college. College is not the easy road to success, but it is the road to professional success and dignity for the professions, in which so few blacks, Chicano, and other minority individuals are found.

It makes strategic sense, then, to concentrate on bringing about a moral transformation among minority individuals in the primary and secondary schools, and this is what Mr. Jackson is trying to do.

One of Mr. Jackson's tactics for this transformation is a contract signed by student, parents, and school officials, which pledges the student to clean living and studious habits, the parents to ensuring the homework is done, and the school to taking a deep interest in the student's work.

There is debate about the effectiveness of this tactic, as there is debate about some of the other tactics. Mr. Jackson employs.

But about the end Mr. Jackson is after — the moral transformation of minority individuals — there can be no quarrel. Integrity, the hallmark of excellence, is the neglected point in all the discussions about minority success in school and in the professions, and it is to Mr. Jackson's credit that he is bringing it up, loud and clear.

BERRY'S WORLD

The most basic human right is the right to enough food to survive. Yet an estimated 800 million people go to bed at night hungry and undernourished.

The fourth year, meanwhile, is steadily gaining an epidemic proportion. The number of undernourished people in the world, the hard core of human misery, is expected to reach 700 million by 1985.

It seems obvious, therefore, that the U.S. government has taken between 11 million and 12 million acres out of production to keep wheat prices up. The farmers are not to blame. They cannot afford to sell wheat for less than their production costs.

The United States has also been more generous than any other nation when it comes to feeding the hungry. The million-acre loss of U.S. wheat, stored on farms and in grain elevators, are now earmarked for emergency use around the world.

The international nature was stressed over the U.S. cutoff in wheat production. The American government has been accused by a number of agriculture ministers about this wheat cut-off program.

Mr. Jackson is not alone in his concern. He has been "frequently cited" in light of the U.S. restrictions on wheat cut-off, there

"Come on and hear, come on and hear, Alexander's Ragtime Band." These were the familiar lyrics of one of Irving Berlin's earlier hits later revised in the 20's into starting after Pops.

But to 70-year-old Harry Kaddis, who did not work in a band making tunes, they triggered memories of one of the loneliest moments of his life as a musician.

Remember that one gave Kaddis a copy of a song he had just composed. He called it "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

After making some changes to the tune, Kaddis got Irving Berlin, who could really hold out a song, out of bed to sing it. Then Kaddis played the piano on Chicago's famous Venetian stage as Berlin introduced it. With a combination of Berlin, Kaddis and Kaddis, how could it miss?

It's really a good feeling to be in an something that will go down in history. Why just the other day I found my biggest job to be the lyrics of the CIP (Community Improvement Project) as they participated in their temper drive to build in the future's Central bank to be built in the new city hall. Representing the Board of Directors and Mayor Thomas's Club and Chairman of Community Improvement Project have presented to the city.

Which reminds me of another temper drive I saw the other day on the bank of a car. It read "Old fashioned never die, they just speed away."

As CIP members — don't you do either, just keep smiling away as we all can enjoy the lovely view.

Everyone seems to be temper-drive-related these days and the Finance Society of Hamilton County is no exception.

The new temper drive is appropriately presented and presented "I Prance for Peace." That I can see, I cannot think how to dance on my breaks a lot lately on wandering oceans monster

Langston City Council granted Interstate Association of New Negroes branch an extension of time to hold a one-week carnival in the city.

Police Chief Greg Manning had asked if the city or police department could sponsor the carnival and receive 10 percent of the gross receipts, which was estimated by Jerry Rasmussen, Interstate representative, to be $20,000.

"It would be a lot with that... a great deal more or less police work," Manning said with a shrug.

Langston's extension was granted Monday. Rasmussen suggested the money could be used for providing job links another place for a driver training course. This was really fitting because the late, Steve Manning had just announced the fourth police car accident in recent months.

However, City Attorney Fred Adams Jr. advised against the city doing it. He said he had the event because of potential legal problems that might result.

Campaign Debts Don't Die

WASHINGTON — If money loses company, White House aide Margaret (Midge) Calmes should be pleased to learn she won't be the only person to file the Chapter 11 bankruptcy before starting up old campaign debts.

Calmes, who may recall, got into hot water last year when she held a 200-page-long letter to urge out a $17,000 debt from her campaign last year. She was reported to have filed to file the required reports with the Federal Election Commission until three months after they were due.

All but 50% of the debt was owed to Calmes herself, for repayment of money she had loaned her campaign committee, and her April 1977 fundraiser was a roaring success. Her campaign fund, in fact, wound up with a $1,000 surplus which has been donated to charity.

Examination of records on file at the Federal Election Commission reveals there is another long political candidate now serving in the Carter administration who has been far less successful in disposing of his old campaign debts.

He is Thomas C. Maloney, a Delaware Democrat who made an unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate in 1976 and was reported to have lost the election by a narrow margin.

Maloney's Senate campaign would go more than $100,000 in the red. And as of Oct. 1977, the Federal Election Commission reported that with the FEC, the deficit still totaled $100,000.

White days after that report was filed, Maloney's entire campaign committee quit. The former "Washington Post" columnist hired a lawyer to try to settle campaign creditors into settling for 50 cents on the dollar. That tactic, however, raises definite legal problems since most of the Maloney campaign debt is owed to creditors which are legally forbidden to make political contributions.

Under FEC rules, a corporation may write off a debt owed to it by a campaign committee only if the committee has abandoned the debt. The FEC has said it will not accept such a write-off unless the debt is settled in a similar fashion.

Michael Maguire, Maloney's attorney, acknowledged in an interview that only one lawyer had and had turned into campaign, weaned individuals.

A visiting newspaper actually not in this office the other day accused me of being a male chauvinist. Can you imagine that? Me, a male chauvinist...

Me — who believes in the natural order of things as it has been for centuries and centuries?

Me — who believes women to be soft and sweet, not hard and tough?

Me — who has had so many would-be girlfriends that I have had to turn into campaign, weaned individuals?

NAACP's Energy Report

For weeks the White House treated it like a hot potato, but the NAACP's energy report is now out. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's national energy conference report surfaced instead in a Dallas newspaper.

No wonder the White House was worried about it. It reads the Democrats a headache and the Republicans an opportunity.

Though it is a carefully worded document, the NAACP's message from black Americans to the Carter administration is very clear: your energy program is the work of white states who "have energy" and want to slice a piece of the pie.

The NAACP report put it this way: "While we endorse the Carter energy plan's objectives of eliminating energy waste and improving utilization efficiency, we cannot accept the notion that our people are best served by a policy based upon the availability of energy shortages and the need for government intervention."

Contrast that with Energy Secretary James Schlesinger's recent warning that Carter might say "energy is a scarce resource" and all to lock up prices to avoid inflationary spiraling.

The NAACP report doesn't have much to say for that approach. It says, "We note the historical direct correlation between the level of economic activity and energy availability and consumption. The black leaders understood, as energy guru don't seem to, that increased economic activity means more jobs."

President Carter is in a tight spot on this issue. Committed to an energy policy that is counter to the American interest to move "home" to work barriers and grow, his pursuit of it pleases his party's left-liberal wing while increasing the impatience of black Americans and other minorities.

In American politics, the party of optimism has taken the lead. The Republicans led it from just after the Civil War to the end of the 1940s. The Democrats seized it in the Depression, but the roles are showing signs of reversing again.

If we, the Democrats, will put aside empty rhetoric about "base-broadening" and get down to the serious business of linking their job and tax reform programs with the hopes of blacks and other minorities they may be able to forge an ad hoc coalition in time for this year's elections.

Yes, yes. Can you imagine that? So, there she was, actually labeling me a male chauvinist. The wonder of it all. My only regret is that she is not sitting here again.

If she was, I would straighten her out on her terminology — and the difference between that "chauvinist" thing and a realist.

And then she could return home contentedly, all ready to have dinner ready for the man in her life.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Egypt: U.S. Won't Do Something, Soviets Will

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt ended its press attacks on Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin today, but appeared to the United States to put more pressure on the Jewish state or face increased Soviet meddling in the Middle East.

Cairo sources said the government ordered the three main state-controlled newspapers to stop their vitriolic campaign against Begin following a meeting between President Anwar Sadat and U.S. Ambassador Hermann F. Ellis.

They said the decision apparently was made in response to a U.S.-Israeli call for a halt to the propaganda war that is hampering a resumption of collapsed peace talks.

Amin: 'I'm Misunderstood'

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A subdued President Idi Amin of Uganda today marked his seventh anniversary in power, declaring that he wants peace with the United States and Britain.

Speaking to a gathering in the town of Kookoo, 250 miles north of the capital of Kampala, Amin insisted that his country had violated human rights that he was correcting.

"The British and the Americans do not understand the situation," Amin said. "We are not against the British or Americans or the international community."

Rhodesia Agreement Reached

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Prime Minister Ian Smith has reached agreement in broad principle to hand over power to a black government, sources close to the negotiations said today.

The sources said Smith, who led the former British colony to independence in 1965, was expected to announce details of the agreement later today at a news conference he has called.

Cuban Soldiers On Rampage

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Mutinous Cuban soldiers fighting a jungle war in southern Angola went on a night of pillaging yesterday and had to be gunned down by their loyalist comrades, anti-Communist guerrillas say.

He said 17 Cubans were killed and 36 — including the unit's political commissar — injured by the loyalists crushing a "night of orgy and looting" in the railroad town of Malanje, 250 miles east of the capital of Luanda in late December.

"There were also civilian casualties. We still don't know how many, although 26 women and children, including one girl 11 years old, were hospitalized after being raped," the spokesman said Tuesday.

Vietnam Fighting Two Wars

HONG KONG (UPI) — A senior Vietnamese military commander admits his country, actively engaged in a border war with Cambodia, also has to fight insurgents from the defeated U.S.-backed Saigon regime behind its own lines.

Radio Hanoi today accused Cambodia of fresh attacks in seven of its eight border provinces over the past week, but claimed the Cambodians suffered heavy casualties.

Waste Station Site Studied

Orange and Seminole Counties will enter a joint venture to study the possibility of locating a solid waste transfer station in Altamonte Springs to serve both counties.

Thursday night the Seminole County commission authorized Chairman Dick Williams to talk a contract with Aet Systems Inc., Winter Park, to examine the Altamonte Springs site. The study agreement was approved on a 6-1 vote, with Barry Kretschmer opposing the idea.

In addition to probing the idea of locating a solid waste transfer station in Altamonte Springs, the study will examine other alternatives.

Bill Kretschmer, County Planner, told the commission the Altamonte Springs transfer station would serve both counties. "What you're saying there is that this idea would benefit only those people in the southwest portion of Seminole County," Kretschmer said.

"The Seminole people will be dealt with as detailed in the contract," replied Kretschmer. He noted the Altamonte Springs site was only one option in the study.

Kretschmer said the study may prove that it would benefit Seminole County to locate individual transfer stations throughout the county.

The study, which is scheduled to last six weeks, will be prepared by upgrading Seminole County data on solid waste. The study will be headed on an equal basis by both counties, according to Kretschmer.

An amendment to the contract specifies that Seminole County will not pay more than $1,200 for the study. Payment will be due once the study is completed.

Task Force To Aid Teens

The Seminole County Task Force on Teen Parents Tuesday elected officers and established a committee to create specific goals for the group.

Shirley Cox, program planner for Seminole Community Action Inc., Sanford, was elected chairman of the Task Force. Rev. Dr. Vernon Henry, pastor of the Seminole County Health Department, agreed to serve as secretary.

Shirley Cox said she and a committee of five will meet next week to establish tentative goals for the Task Force and to develop a questionnaire about the needs of teen parents within the county.

The Task Force, made up of representatives of such agencies as the department of health and rehabilitative services, county health department, county school board, girl scouts, and league of women voters will then consider those goals.

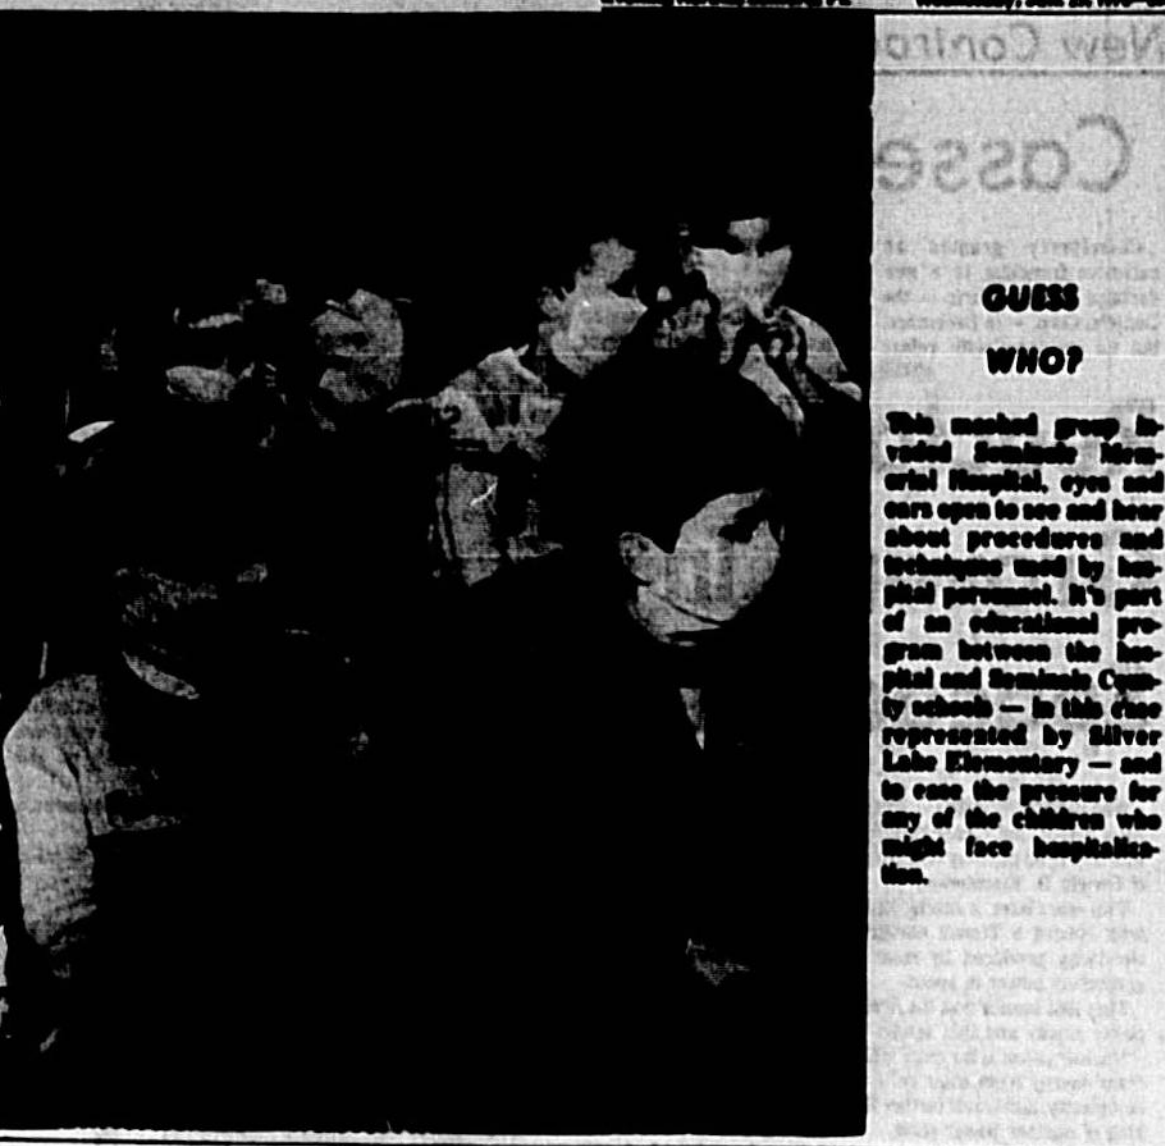

When goals have been established the task force will hold a public meeting to hear about the needs of teenage parents, and to hear suggestions on how to meet those needs, Mrs. Cox said.

Causes Of Epilepsy Remain A Mystery

DEAR DR. LAMB - In August of 1971 my husband suffered a grand mal seizure which was followed by a complete and complete evaluation found no cause for the seizure. The doctor prescribed Dilantin which he took for a while, then quit. He was all right for over a year. Then he had three severe seizures, one after the other. A repeat evaluation again failed to show any cause for his seizures. Again, he was put on Dilantin and he took it faithfully twice a day. During the next two years he again had some slight seizures, but only one at a time and he recovered quickly. Then last November he again suffered three grand mal seizures in about two and a half hours. These were the most severe attacks he has ever had. He was completely disoriented and delirious. He is now on four Dilantin tablets a day, but only one at a time and he has had no more seizures. What can be the cause of these seizures and why should they have started at the age of 47? There is no history of epilepsy in his family, he has suffered no severe head injury and he is not a heavy drinker. I am concerned as to what these seizures might do to him. The doctor says not to worry as long as he takes his medicine but I'm not so sure.

DEAR READER - You have to realize that over half of all cases of epilepsy occur without any apparent cause. This common form of epilepsy is called "idiopathic" as opposed to "symptomatic" which has an identifiable cause.

The other point your husband's history makes is that many people who develop epilepsy do so after a family history of the disorder. The relatively low incidence of

Brunch Has Become Uniquely American

Through its most origins are thought to have been derived from the breakfast of a "fast breakfast." Up at dawn in the hills and lowlands, Southern Illinois and gentlemen of the 18th century would thus return to the kitchen to make for a sumptuous mid-morning repast, generally accompanied by coffee and glasses of straight bourbon.

Brunch is an increasingly popular way to entertain and with the right recipe it can become an elegant party on a relatively small budget.

Classic Chilled Liver and Mushroom Crepes which serve twelve. They taste "rich" although the filling calls for only a pound and one-half of chicken liver (1 super-market chicken liver is one-pound bargain).

Classic crepe batter is easy to make. A few practice pancakes will give you the experience to become a crepe chef par excellence. The crepes can be prepared the day ahead and refrigerated, or eaten ahead and frozen. The smooth white sauce which goes with the crepes is a breeze. It, too, can be made ahead and frozen for last minute spooning over warm, fluted crepes.

The key to planning a brunch menu is to select an interesting combination of colors and textures. Baked Stuffed Tomatoes flavored with herbs and buttered bread crumbs would be a colorful accompaniment. Add a sparkling fruit salad or tomato loaf.

Start with chilled goblets of champagne and orange juice. Replenish coffee and serve Danish pastries complete the menu. If you would like other ideas for great parties for little money, write to: Ac'cent International, Dept. A-1, 131 East Street, Westwood, MA 02090 for their new booklet "Feeding Your Friends with Fewer Dollars."

CHILLED LIVER AND MUSHROOM CREPES
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced or
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, divided
1/4 pound chicken livers, rinsed and drained
White Sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
20 crepes

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. In a skillet over medium heat, saute mushrooms and onion in 1 tablespoon butter, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from pan. Brown chicken livers in remaining butter; drain and add to mushroom mixture. Stir in 1/2 cup of white sauce, lemon juice, Ac'cent, salt and parsley. Spoon 1 tablespoon filling into each crepe and roll it up. Place crepes on a greased platter and spoon remaining sauce over them. Bake, covered, 20 minutes, until sauce bubbles.

To prepare white sauce:
In a saucepan over low heat, melt one-third cup butter or margarine. Stir in 1/2 cup flour and cook, stirring constantly for 1 minute. Stir in 1 1/2 cups chicken broth, all at once, and cook, stirring frequently until sauce thickens. In a bowl, beat together 1 cup evaporated milk with 1/2 cup milk; stir in 1/4 cup cream. Pour egg yolk mixture into the remaining hot sauce stirring until smooth. Season to taste.

To prepare crepes:
In a blender container, place 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup flour and 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Blend on high speed 30 seconds. Refrigerate mixture 2 hours. Place a 6-inch skillet over medium heat. Brush bottom and sides of skillet with melted butter or margarine. Pour 1/4 cup of batter into skillet; tilt pan to coat bottom with batter. Cook until top is set and bottom is lightly browned. With spatula,

Why Is Good Diet Like Good Wife?

Why is a good diet like a good wife? Because it inspires but never nag. Think about it. There may be a husband or two scattered around the face of the earth who advise the hapless pecking woman. Most men respond to inspiration and belief. That's how it is with diets.

The nagging diet arrives them into complete misery by the time the second week has passed. A diet should inspire the dieter to use foods properly in any combination. A diet should inspire a dieter to make choices among several good selections.

The person who heads off diet advice must believe in the intelligence of the people who ask for advice. When a dieter tells me that he or she cannot stomach the idea of eating fish, I know that detaching fish muscle with the promise of fast loss will result in a fast loss all right. A fast loss of any diet. When the dieter needs in an explanation how fish does speed the diet on its way and that there are excellent substitutes for fish. A dieter eating white meat chicken or veal will lose as well.

Almost every human being prevails in strengthening each day to freedom of choice. For the dieter, this is why the program I succeeded with worked for me. I could exercise my prerogative to change my mind.

Home Mayonnaise

2 yolk, 1/4 teaspoon of a time, 1 tablespoon oil, 1/2 cup oil, 1/2 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup Dijon-style mustard
1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup cream
Use a deep 1-quart bowl and a hand-held portable electric beater. Have the olive oil in a 1-cup glass liquid measure; when it has been used, pour the rest out into the cream measure. Beat together the yolk, salt, mustard and 1/4 tablespoon of the lemon juice just until blended. In low speed beat in the olive oil, 1/4 teaspoon at a time, but wait 10 seconds after each addition. Pour the oil toward the beater with your left hand and rotate the beater head with your right hand. Do not overbeat. As the mixture will be thick, beat in the cream oil, dribbling it in drop by drop as you pour it from the measure, in the same way. Mayonnaise will be very thick. Do not overbeat. Add the remaining 1/4 tablespoon lemon juice and beat just until blended. Makes about 1 cup.

Chinese Chow Anyone?

A Venture In Exquisite Dining

For the Chinese, members of the great culture in the world, every meal is a feast. And many of our Americans each year are learning the reasons why Chinese food is popular. It's delicious, healthy to eat, and wonderfully varied. It's exciting, beautiful and quick and easy to cook.

Thousands of years ago, long before the western world had heard of rice and chopsticks, the Chinese were already discovering their way through a highly developed and elegant cuisine. In fact, eating was so important to them that they were already observing their way through a highly developed and elegant cuisine. In fact, eating was so important to them that they were already observing their way through a highly developed and elegant cuisine.

But don't let ancient history scare you. Chinese cooking is far from difficult. In fact, the recipes here are as easy and quick to prepare. They have been developed especially for American kitchens, American tastes and American ingredients. With or without a refrigerator, you can figure the methods and ingredients for the three basic recipes that are featured: Seared and Sautéed Pork, Better Fried Pork and Better Fried Chicken. Each of the dishes featured has one common ingredient: corn starch. Corn starch is a natural thickener in Chinese cooking. It is used just about everywhere. It is used to thicken soups, sauces, and to give a glossy finish to meats. It is used to give a glossy finish to meats. It is used to give a glossy finish to meats.

Seared and Sautéed Pork: Follow recipe for Seared and Sautéed Pork. Substitute Better Fried Pork for pork.

BETTER FRIED PORK AND GREEN BEANS:

1 lb. pork, sliced 1/4 inch thick
1 cup soy sauce
1 cup dry sherry
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tsp sugar
1/2 tsp ground ginger
1 lb. beef, thinly sliced diagonally (lean or round steak)
1/2 cup corn oil, divided
1 lb. green beans, diagonally sliced 1/2-inch pieces
1 cup thinly sliced onion
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp dried, crushed red pepper
1 1/2 cups beef broth

BETTER FRIED CHICKEN: Follow recipe for Better Fried Chicken. Substitute 1 pound fish fillet, cut in 1-inch cubes, for chicken.

SOY SAUCE SAUCE:

1 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup water
2 tsp minced green onions
1 tsp minced crystallized ginger
In small saucepan stir soy sauce and water until smooth. Stir in water, green onions and ginger, stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Cover, refrigerate. If desired, serve sprinkled with additional green onions. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

PINEAPPLE BREVARD BATTER SAUCE:

1 cup (8 oz.) crushed pineapple in own juice, strained
1/2 cup minced green onions
1/2 tsp ground ginger
1 lb. corn starch
1 lb. dry mustard
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp salt
In blender combine pineapple and ginger; cover. Blend 30 seconds or until smooth. Stir in onions and ginger. In small bowl combine corn starch, mustard and sugar. Gradually stir in pineapple mixture and soy sauce until smooth. Strain mixture into a large bowl. Add corn starch and soy sauce. Refrigerate. Makes about 1 cup.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK:

1 can (8 oz.) pineapple chunks in own juice
Better Fried Pork
(see recipe variation of Better Fried Pork)

1 large green pepper, halved, thinly sliced (about 2 cups)
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
1/2 cup vinegar
1 lb. corn starch
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
1 tsp salt
1/2 tsp dry sherry
Drain pineapple retaining 1/2 cup juice. Prepare Better Fried Pork, reserving corn oil in saucepan. Add corn oil to 390 degrees F. Add green pepper and carrots. Fry 1 minute or until tender-crisp; remove and drain. In large skillet stir fry remaining ingredients in corn starch until smooth. Stir in corn syrup, sugar, sherry, salt and reserved pineapple juice. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat. Stir in pork, green pepper, carrots and pineapple. Stirring constantly, bring to boil and boil 1 minute. Remove and serve. Chicken: Follow recipe for Seared and Sautéed Pork. Substitute Better Fried Chicken for pork.

Share Super Supper With Friends

The evening meal is a perfect time to bring friends together for good food, talk and companionship. On short notice, why not try "sharing a supper?" Let everyone join in the food preparation and supper duties. If you're a super organizer, assign each person or couple to bring a specific dish. Menu like these shows how easy and delicious. Chicken still ranks high as a favorite for its versatility and flavor that "goes with everything." Try a yogurt marinade next time you're broiling or baking. Canned pasta offer convenience and versatility, too. Some folks like to "host" and eat." Try adding a bit of your own magic in the form of fresh vegetables and seasonings. The results taste like you've been cooking for hours.

The dessert appeal to two kinds of cooks. For the do-handy person, the Fabulous Whisk Cream Raspberry Pie is perfect. The baked shell is made with vacuum packed wheat germ and Graham cracker crumbs. The colorful filling is done on the mixer with a package of instant frozen raspberries and a few other basic ingredients. Whipped cream smooths out the texture and flavor. To give it a professional look, pipe some whipped cream on top. Serve this dessert in the freezer for rethawing.

The last minute cook will really go for the Whisk Cream Pie Swirl. Take your choice of using regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar and honey in the dough. The spicy filling is done with canned Bartlett pears. The waxy wheat dough can be rolled up in a jelly and should be served fresh from the oven.

FAVORITE YOGURT

MARINATED CHICKEN
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut into serving parts
1 cup plain yogurt
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 small clove garlic, crushed
1/4 teaspoon cayenne
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
Place chicken parts in a shallow baking dish. Combine all other ingredients for marinade. Pour over chicken parts. Marinate in refrigerator for at least two hours. Place chicken skin side down on broiler or grill. Broil over medium heat. Turn chicken 1/2 to 3 inches from heat in gas range and 6 to 8 inches from heat in electric range. Broil chicken 20 to 25 minutes, turn and broil 15 to 20 minutes longer. May use yogurt marinade as basting sauce for chicken. Serve four.

WHEAT CREAM PIE SWIRL
1 can (10 oz.) Bartlett pears
1/2 cup wheat germ
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1/4 cup of 1 lemon
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
Please chicken parts in a shallow baking dish. Combine all other ingredients for marinade. Pour over chicken parts. Marinate in refrigerator for at least two hours. Place chicken skin side down on broiler or grill. Broil over medium heat. Turn chicken 1/2 to 3 inches from heat in gas range and 6 to 8 inches from heat in electric range. ## Ex-Oviedo Teacher Sues School Officials For Sex Discrimination

By MARVIN SREEDAN
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board is being charged in federal court with sex discrimination by former Oviedo High School teacher Carol Edwards.

The suit was filed in United States District Court against School Superintendent William F. Layer, the county school board, and Davis Sims, Allan P. Keith, Mrs. Jean Bryson, Jr., Stuart C. Crippen and Robert G. Foster, individually and as members of the school board.

Mrs. Edwards charges that, on or about Apr. 23, 1976, she was informed by her principal, an agent of the superintendent and the school board, that he would not recommend her for re-employment in the 1976-77 school year.

"The refusal to recommend me was based solely upon the plaintiff's sex and was a continuing violation of the principal's policy of denying equal opportunity for employment to female teachers, solely because of sex, and without a rational basis," Mrs. Edwards charges.

Mrs. Edwards is seeking back pay and damages, as well as reinstatement as a teacher, a continuing contract, according to the suit.

CAROL EDWARDS

She is also asking that the Court enjoin the defendants from their practices and policies which discriminate against female employees because of their sex.

Mrs. Edwards Wednesday issued a statement claiming that she was not given a continuing teaching contract at the end of her third year of teaching because the school principal "decided to use the teaching slot to hire a teacher who could also be used for coaching duties."

She claimed that the school board later upheld that action, and "admitted that I was an excellent teacher."

As Snow Paralyzes Midwest

Winds Hit County; Rains Deluge Panhandle

High winds Wednesday night whipped through Central Florida causing scattered damage to power lines and resulting in the arrival of a cold front that is expected to bring cold temperatures to the area for the fourth weekend, in a row.

Included in the wind damage were electrical lines which were broken in a metal sign at 3:00 p.m. Wednesday near Sun Bank at SR 68 and Oxford Road, according to a spokesman for the Seminole County Public Safety Department.

Florida Power Company repairmen were called to the scene to repair the lines.

A broken outdoor light bulb and bare wires also were reported at 10:00 p.m. Wednesday at Skywood Village Apartments on SR 64, Longwood. Employees of the complex shut off power leading to the wires, the spokesman said.

Winds at 1:30 this morning blew down power lines at SR 68 and Douglas Avenue, Altamonte Springs, and a transformer also knocked out of commission, according to the department.

Repairmen from Florida Power Company were called to the scene to repair the damage.

Two lines into a power line at 2 a.m. this morning at Marler Street and Longwood Avenue, Longwood, and Florida Power repairmen removed the lines, officials reported.

At least one tornado was sighted in Volusia County, according to officials. No injuries or serious damage were reported.

Tornadoes were reported east of Pensacola and near Ocala, but there were no immediate reports of major damage or injuries. Jacksonville reported a slight gust in 30 miles an hour.

Panhandle measured an official 1/2 inch of rain in 30 hours ending at 7 a.m. EST Wednesday and there were unofficial reports of higher amounts in the Panhandle.

Severely flooded by 877 Briarwood Lane, Altamonte Springs, told sheriff's deputies high winds at 12:30 a.m. today blew off the front section of her roof, causing an estimated $2,000 damage.

John Higgins, customer service supervisor of Sanford, Florida Power and Light Company office, said this morning that six homes in the Sanford area lost power for periods ranging from a few minutes to two hours, beginning around 10:15 Wednesday night.

A fierce blizzard paralyzed traffic and closed schools across the Midwest today, piling the Chicago area with a white coating reminiscent of the Great Blizzard of Jan. 28, 1977.

The National Weather Service reported the strong winds were sending wind chill factors to 60 to 65 below zero across the Midwest — and predicted gusts would reach 70 to 80 mph.

Blizzards were covered or impossible from the Duluth to Kenosha and outside and emergency shelters quickly filled with stranded motorists. South of the snow line, rain and tornadoes blanketed the Southeast.

It was 11 years ago today that a surprisingly potent snowstorm dumped 20 inches of snow in one day on the Chicago area.

Today's blizzard covers far expanded Chicago area road crews.

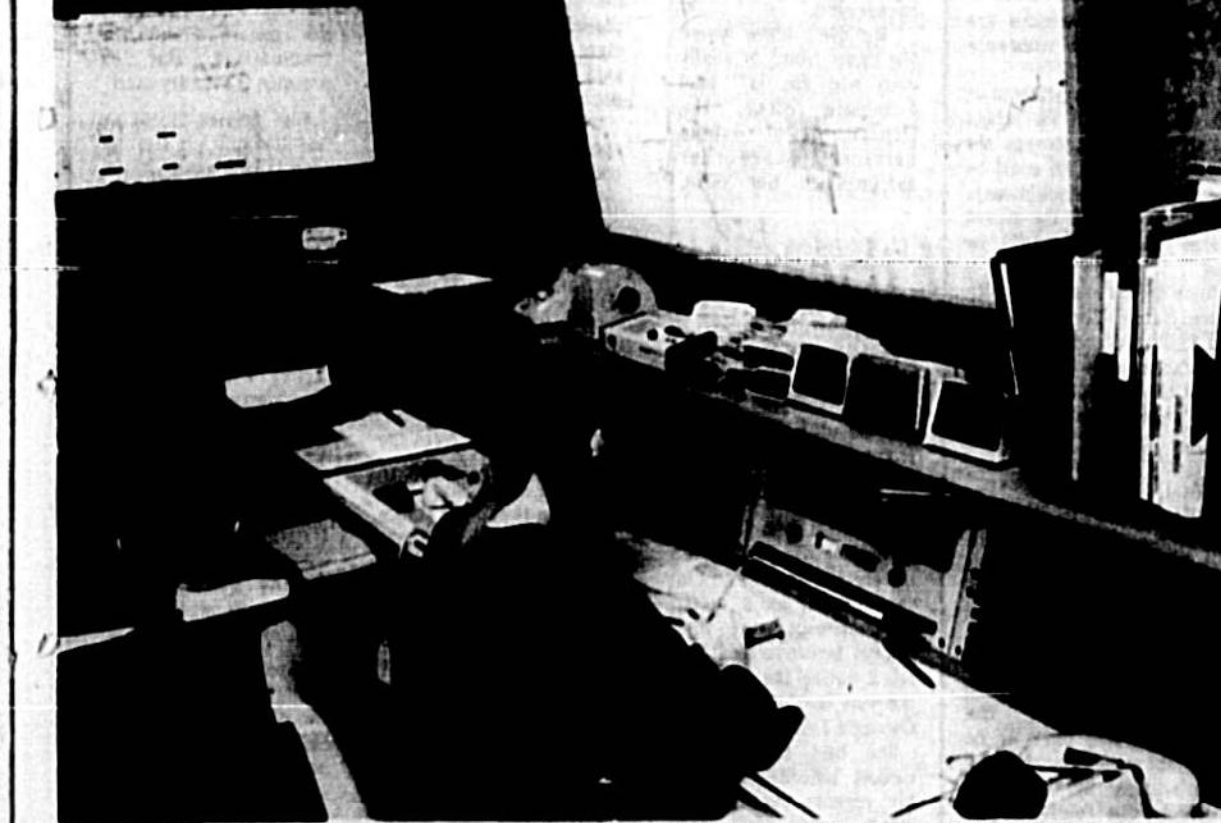

who labored furiously to clear expressways and main streets.

The storm cut visibility sharply and left hundreds of motorists to agonize their wheels in drifts and ice patches that lined the highways. Dozens of schools and businesses failed to open their doors and some school districts that stayed open were unable to provide bus service to students.

In central Illinois, the meteorological staff of the Charleston Times-Courier put the paper to bed and held an all-night party. It wasn't certain whether any of the schools would be delivered, with all roads closed in the area.

Southern Illinois roads were glazed with ice and snow and travel became hazardous, if not impossible. State police said visibility ranged from zero to 10 feet in some areas and a 170-mile stretch of Interstate 57 was closed.

The blizzard dumped 6 inches of snow at Indianapolis, closing Indianapolis International Airport. Airport officials said they didn't expect to reopen the airport until Friday.

SEMINOLE COUNTY'S DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY COMMUNICATIONS

County CD Head Opposes Weather Station Shutdown

By DONNA EYTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser said today he will urge the county commission to protest the announced closing of the Orlando Weather Bureau.

Kaiser said he will recommend to the county commission at its regular meeting on Tuesday that it adopt a resolution, similar to one approved by the Orange County Commission, asking that the Orlando office be kept open.

Wayne Brown, official in charge of the National Weather Service office in Orlando, said today he was notified by telephone last Friday that the Orlando and Ft. Myers offices in Florida as well as 17 other weather service offices throughout the nation will be closed on Sept. 30.

The order was issued, Brown said, in compliance with a federal Office of Management and Budget decision in Washington. The decision is in accordance with a directive from the president which says that all agencies must begin zero based budgeting showing justification and priority for operation of all federal facilities.

Kaiser said although he was assured by a federal official in Puerto Rico that the weather broadcasts received via radio and monitored daily in Seminole County and published locally will continue to be made after the Orlando office is closed.

Kaiser said the official told him the broadcasts would be made from either Daytona Beach, Tampa or the Miami office. "He indicated this arrangement will be done remotely from one of these locations and we would still be able to continue with our daily weather bulletins and advisories," Kaiser said.

He added that assurance has also been received that Seminole can have access to additional weather information through broadcasts.

"Our concern," Kaiser said, is that the information from our locale will be analyzed from one of the remote facilities such as Miami. This creates doubt in our minds as to whether they can accurately analyze our local weather predictions equal to the level of accuracy we could obtain from the local weather station.

"We are in one of the highest severe weather and lightning incident areas in the country. Seminole County alone has sustained a considerable amount of damage from lightning to our communications equipment which is highly susceptible to that sort of thing. Just last year, damage from the lightning hit alone exceeded $15,000 in addition to damage from severe weather," he said.

"We have the need to know and anything that affects the ability to accurately determine what the weather conditions are or would interrupt the speed with which we would be advised of changing weather conditions causes us vital concern in our civil defense function," Kaiser said.

Outside Attorney Will Settle Winter Springs Dispute

By DONNA EYTES
 Herald Staff Writer

A compromise offered by Mayor Troy Piland Wednesday night stopped a battle between him and the majority of the Winter Springs City Council over whether he must make annual appointments of the city attorney and city clerk.

The council has contended that the appointments must be made annually, while Piland has said that a re-elected mayor can merely continue, without the need of new council confirmation, appointments made in the past.

The question of the mayor's appointments was included on the agenda again at Wednesday night's meeting. But, when councilmen suggested that the mayor be delayed until next week's meeting because the 10 p.m. adjournment time was nearing, Piland offered a compromise.

He said that councilmen could get an opinion from any city attorney on the matter and that he would abide by that opinion.

Several weeks ago, the council in a move to force Piland to bring before the board ratification of Gary Maney as city attorney and Mary Heron as city clerk, voted unanimously to confirm Mrs. Norton's reappointment even though the mayor had not made a new appointment of her.

Piland has said the city charter does not require him to appoint the two officials again since their appointments were made during his past administration.

Piland announced that the Seminole County Bar Association has declined to arbitrate the dispute between him and the council over the appointments.

He said by offering the compromise he was trying to be agreeable, adding there is some confusion in the action of the city charter concerning the appointments.

The council Wednesday also continued until the second meeting in February, the proposed annexation of five lots east of SR 436, including the Seminole Youth Ranch.

During the interim period the city attorney is to discuss with the county commission whether agreement can be reached whereby the county will not sue the city over the annexation.

The delay was brought about when County Attorney Harry Stewart informed the council that if the city annexed the territories, the county would challenge the legality of the annexations in court.

Stewart said the annexations would create an enclave, which he defined as a county area "substantially surrounded by territory of another county."

Maney disagreed, saying an enclave is an area wholly surrounded by city territory, adding that in a recent Broward County court decision a judge there used the words enclave and island interchangeably.

Stewart, acknowledging that the county is keeping close watch on city annexations, said that the county feels it has to continue challenging the annexations or jeopardize its position in court in other annexation suits.

The county is currently suing LaSalle Mary over two annexations and Camellary over one. In addition it has put Longwood on notice that a suit will be filed against that city.

At the same time, a man in the audience who identified himself as William Hoffman of Longwood, said he had spoken to two county commissioners about his property, considered by Stewart as the enclave which would make the Winter Springs annexations illegal.

Hoffman said two commissioners, whom he did not name, advised him to go to Winter Springs to solve his problems including maintenance of a road which the state had given to the county.

Councilman John Daniels in voting here a delay in action, said the city should not be placed in a position where the county can sue and would prefer to wait until a Supreme Court decision is given defining the word enclave.
