

Sanford-Orlando Lookouts Journey To Palatka Game Is Called Because Of Rain

DeLand, Gainesville And Palatka Take Other Loop Frays

While the Sanford-Orlando loop battle was cancelled on account of a shower which set in at game time, other games in the Florida State loop saw the DeLand Reds come to within half a game of second place by shutting out the Daytona Beach Islanders 5 to 0.

The St. Augustine Saints were handed a defeat by the Gainesville G-Men by a score of 2 to 1 while the Palatka Azaleas ended a long losing streak by turning back the Leesburg Anglers 3 to 2.

Heavier showers throughout the day had had their effect on the field in the Orange county city and with the game time grower adding to the dampness, managers Alexander and Gansel decided upon cancellation of the Sanford-Orlando go which will be made up, a double header the next time the two teams clash.

In DeLand Bob Hayes chatted up his fourth consecutive victory of the season when he set the Islanders down with four safeties. The Red Hats took an early lead by shoving across two runs in the first inning on a walk, a double and two infield outs. The DeLand nine also took advantage of a balk, a sacrifice and a wild pitch to score another run in the sixth inning.

In Gainesville, the G-Men took advantage of a single, a double and another single in the second inning to score their only two runs while the Saints also scored their only tally in the earlier half of the frame. The G-Men pounded Abercrombie for a total of 10 hits while Heintz limited the Saints to five hits.

In Palatka, the Azaleas pushed across a run in the seventh inning to break a 2-0 tie and win their first contest in the last 11 starts. The Palatka nine out-hit the Anglers 5 to 4.

Kipped Herrings Part Of Air Cargo

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—Among the many strange cargoes carried in the modern long-distance planes are "kipped herrings."

A rich Indian potentate who came to London for the coronation first ate these at his West End hotel. He was so keen on them that he has since ordered six boxes to be sent out to India regularly each week for his guests.

Another Maharajah has biscuits flown to him every week another has given an order for Tonight Sid Hudson, master huffer for the Lookouts, will wave his magic flipper for the benefit of the Azaleas when the Lookouts jump to Palatka for a game with the collar club. Acting as supervisor of the evening's activities in the proper cultivation of the Azaleas, Hudson has gone on record as stating that since he is in charge of operations for the evening he believes in a good trimming and pruning would do the posies world's of good for the team which is, now in last place with an arid, dust bowl rate of production that adds up to five wins and 17 losses.

Last night, however, the Azaleas suddenly blossomed forth with an unexpected 3-2 win over the fifth place Leesburg Anglers to break a 10-game losing streak.

Others expected to help with the cultivation of the botanical gardens for the evening include the members of the squad who are known here as "bell-players," but who will doff that role tonight for the more prosaic one of "Tenders of the Azaleas," including Alexander, Langston, Skeen, Barnett and others.

English hams to be flown over regularly. Food for invalids in the Orient is regularly taken by plane, while yacht owners on Mediterranean cruises regularly call at Marseilles for air-borne food supplies from England.

Most Applicants Unable To Pass Physical Exam

Tests Ground Nine Of 10 Candidates For Army's Air School

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex. May 11.—(AP)—If Joe College hopes to join college aviation classes next year, he had better go into training right now.

For if Joe is like most college boys, says Capt. E. J. Kendrick, chief of the Army's Air School at Randolph Field, he isn't in tip top shape.

Captain Kendrick, who examines hundreds of candidates for the Army's West Point of the Air—and rejects most of them, calls the physical examination "one of the hardest given anywhere." And Army and Navy officials have recommended this same test for applicants to civilian aviation classes under the current program which will be expanded next year.

"The test is about 10 times harder than a life insurance examination," says the captain, "and we feel lucky when we find one college man in ten whom we can accept."

The requirements are so rigid that Brig. Gen. Barton K. Young, assistant chief of the Air Corps, testified at a congressional hearing recently that the War Department will have to examine more than 25,000 men to find

2,200 pilots expected to graduate in the next two years.

Without this rigid examination, college aviators will be of little use later to the Army and Navy, explained Rear Admiral Arthur H. Cook, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics.

The Air Corps has tossed aside "whirling" chairs and other spectacular tricks for testing applicants, but many men flunk because of a gadget as harmless appearing as a thermometer.

It's a blood pressure instrument.

"Husky football players tremble before the blood pressure gauge," says Captain Kendrick. "Their blood pressure frequently is above 150, and that is 15 points higher than the limit."

"We're sure these fellows aren't running around all the time with such high blood pressure. They just get upset and nervous over the examination."

"If a fellow gets that litery over a physical examination we don't want him. He'd run all to pieces when he got into a jam in the air."

"Eye defects and high blood pressure cause 45 out of 50 rejections," he said, "the other five rejections are on miscellaneous counts."

He reported that at Denver recently only two applicants out of 67 college men passed the examination; at the University of Oklahoma, 10 out of 90. In Arizona, the ratio of successful applicants was one to five.

All right, Captain, what should a fellow do about it?

"Relax and take things easy," he answers, pointing out that a surprising few of the applicants have a constitutional defect.

"But a lot of them have been out on a date late the night before; they got up in a hurry, ate down a breakfast of ham and eggs and then rushed over for their examination. Their blood pressure is up. If they could get plenty of rest for a few days before examination date, stay at home the night before and eat a light breakfast in the morning, I think they would do better."

Brown and white are no index to a man's fitness for air duty. "We don't care how many pounds a man can lift," says Captain Kendrick. "Our tests are designed to disclose his constitutional soundness, or the lack of it. Wiry, small men frequently do a lot better than hefty half-backs."

PLANNING FOR TRAFFIC

As H. S. Fairbank, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads' Division of Information, has said: "The end of all surveys is expected to be a report. It generally is the end. The report goes on the shelf when the survey is finished; forgotten and no one is the better for it."

In order that such a fate may not overtake the three years of research that have gone into Florida's state-wide highway planning survey, the 1937 session of the

No. 1—U. S. 1, between Miami and West Palm Beach; No. 2—Fla. 17, west of Tampa; No. 3—Fla. 5, north of Brooksville. To adequately serve traffic, the Highway Planning Survey finds that Florida needs a planned 15-year construction program of roads like these.

Legislature, in Senate Concurrent Resolution Number 10, provided for a legislative committee charged with the task of preparing a long-range plan for the state highway program plus the necessary legislation to put such a plan into effect.

Legislative Committee A. H. Hale, chairman of the Road Board, is chairman of the committee. Members include Senators J. Locke Kelly, Clearwater; George P. Westbrook, Clearwater; Joe Shatt, Fort St. John; John R. Buchanan, West Palm Beach; A. G. McArthur, Callahan; and Representatives G. Pierce Wood, Bristol; Norman P. Ives, Lake City; John S. Burke, Trade City; L. C. Leedy, Orlando; Dwight W. Rogers, Ft. Lauderdale.

The legislative committee has been studying the results of the planning survey for a year now and following a meeting in Fort Lauderdale, February 10th, made their first public announcement by stating that to adequately serve traffic, that part of the State Highway System under the care of the Road Department should be revised upward from about 6,000 miles to 8,000 miles. The revised system will include 800 miles of streets that act as connecting links through cities and will serve as a part of all traffic outside of urban areas.

Preparing a Road Program In the final preparation of a long-range highway plan from survey data, the legislative committee will follow the method of procedure recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads:

- All roads in the state will be divided into the varying levels of traffic volume and placed in primary, secondary or tertiary classes, as determined by the traffic studies.
- Then, with data gathered in road use studies, available funds will be divided among the various classes of roads on the basis of revenue earned by each class. This means that new construction and reconstruction will be under

Washington Is Now Redesigning U. S. Democracy

Totalitarian Heads Must See Success Of Individualism

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Call time out on the European headlines for a few minutes, and you'll discover that the Congress and the President of the United States are working up a new design for democracy right under your nose. The pattern of their effort goes by the name of "government reorganization." But don't let that fool you. What goes on is a lot closer to home plate than a mere moving day for government agencies. The basic idea seems to be to make democracy work in the face of the stinging argument of the totalitarians that democracy stands for "do-nothing." The immediate objective of reorganization is efficiency and economy in our bureaucracy, but for more important—it was found necessary to create a new device, a new design, perhaps a new balance of power in government to achieve that simple end. The Roosevelt administration and the lawmakers who helped the administration put over the new reorganization law claim it's the most important step toward efficiency in democracy in 25 years, and they swear they haven't sacrificed the democratic principle to achieve their end. The opposition camp tells a different story. They swear by—and in—the Congressional Record that the Constitution has been scrapped, and we are on the verge of government by decree. As for who's right, we'll just have to wait and see; but in the new reorganization law we do have a new design that is certainly evolutionary, perhaps revolutionary. By this device, the President proposes and the Congress disposes; the President initiates, the Congress vetoes. The normal democratic procedure is, therefore, reversed in two of the three branches of our government. The third, the Supreme Court, still holds the final arbitrating power, doing business at the same old constitutional stand. So, we now have the President proposing definite, rigid plans to streamline the executive branch of the government. The Congress has no right under the new law to tamper with any plan he sets up; it may not filibuster the idea to death, for it must act within 60 days, or forever hold its peace. Even if the two houses can get together, they can by a simple majority veto, any organization plan—and thereby kill it deadlier than a scorpion. Off hand, it may seem odd to you that the President and the Congress have decided to swap their magic wands of power in the name of efficiency. It is odd. Only the combination of desperate taunts of dictatorial governments, and equally effective taunts hurries on the floor of Congress was effective in speeding our lawmakers to face the issue. Listen to Senator Byrnes from South Carolina, arguing with his colleagues in the Senate days before the reorganization law was passed: "Every senator says he favors reorganization. President Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Harding, Wilson and Coolidge were in favor of it. Republicans and Democrats, you have been saying you favor reorganization for 25 years. Why haven't you done it? Who isn't for the man in the street the facts? We are too close to the seat of government to do it. I have not been able to remain in my office for the last 24 hours. If I get out of the chamber now, I will be called to the phone. Some man who has been appointed to office will telephone me. How many senators have come to me to say, 'I am for reorganization, but I have a good friend, on such and such a commission. It is not possible to exempt that commission from reorganization?' We forget the advice of the great Champ Clark, who said: 'We listen... to those who have access to our ears, and forget the multitude who can never see our faces, or hear our voices.' The reorganization law went through the Senate, only after a recess was taken to unscramble a parliamentary tangle. But when it did go through, it carried a host of concessions to the people who want to safeguard democracy first and attend to efficiency and economy afterward. At one point in the formula required by the new law, a simple majority of the 100 houses can upset the reorganization apple cart, and scurry back to the slow, deliberate procedure that was good enough for father. Furthermore—and finally—the Supreme Court may yet have to decide whether the law itself is constitutional. But meanwhile, the President has started the ball rolling with Plan No. 1 affecting 60,000 federal employees. Watch Congress closely and you'll have a first-hand picture of democracy working out its destiny.

proposes and the Congress disposes; the President initiates, the Congress vetoes. The normal democratic procedure is, therefore, reversed in two of the three branches of our government. The third, the Supreme Court, still holds the final arbitrating power, doing business at the same old constitutional stand. So, we now have the President proposing definite, rigid plans to streamline the executive branch of the government. The Congress has no right under the new law to tamper with any plan he sets up; it may not filibuster the idea to death, for it must act within 60 days, or forever hold its peace. Even if the two houses can get together, they can by a simple majority veto, any organization plan—and thereby kill it deadlier than a scorpion. Off hand, it may seem odd to you that the President and the Congress have decided to swap their magic wands of power in the name of efficiency. It is odd. Only the combination of desperate taunts of dictatorial governments, and equally effective taunts hurries on the floor of Congress was effective in speeding our lawmakers to face the issue. Listen to Senator Byrnes from South Carolina, arguing with his colleagues in the Senate days before the reorganization law was passed: "Every senator says he favors reorganization. President Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Harding, Wilson and Coolidge were in favor of it. Republicans and Democrats, you have been saying you favor reorganization for 25 years. Why haven't you done it? Who isn't for the man in the street the facts? We are too close to the seat of government to do it. I have not been able to remain in my office for the last 24 hours. If I get out of the chamber now, I will be called to the phone. Some man who has been appointed to office will telephone me. How many senators have come to me to say, 'I am for reorganization, but I have a good friend, on such and such a commission. It is not possible to exempt that commission from reorganization?' We forget the advice of the great Champ Clark, who said: 'We listen... to those who have access to our ears, and forget the multitude who can never see our faces, or hear our voices.' The reorganization law went through the Senate, only after a recess was taken to unscramble a parliamentary tangle. But when it did go through, it carried a host of concessions to the people who want to safeguard democracy first and attend to efficiency and economy afterward. At one point in the formula required by the new law, a simple majority of the 100 houses can upset the reorganization apple cart, and scurry back to the slow, deliberate procedure that was good enough for father. Furthermore—and finally—the Supreme Court may yet have to decide whether the law itself is constitutional. But meanwhile, the President has started the ball rolling with Plan No. 1 affecting 60,000 federal employees. Watch Congress closely and you'll have a first-hand picture of democracy working out its destiny.

Lookouts Shutout Palatka Azaleas - By 4 to 0 Score

Veteran Sid Hudson Records His Season's Fifth Victory

Azaleas' Scoring Threat In Sixth Was Blocked By Local Nine Which Cinched Tilt With Rally In Fifth Lanky Sid Hudson last night walloped the Palatka Azaleas 4-0 when he buried his second straight shutout of the season, allowing eight hitless innings, as he chalked up his fifth victory in as many starts.

Last night's win was the third shutout the slim hurler had tossed this season out of his five games. Last night was the first to crack the Lookouts have had at the team which snapped their early season winning streak at 10 games straight when they put on a last inning rally to defeat the Sanford club 6-5.

Dropouts "Jiffy" usual custom of pulling up an early inning lead, the Lookouts played errorless ball and let things drift along in an indifferent manner until the first of the fourth when they jolted left, thereby leading the Azaleas' right hand Azalea hurler, for one run, and then came back in the first of the fifth to run across three more runs, two of them driven in by Skipper Alex's well placed single.

Hudson ran into his most serious trouble when, in the last of the sixth with one away, he issued two passes followed by Feather's single on the ground to left, thereby leading the Azaleas. He steadied, however, to hold the potmen scoreless.

Hudson went the route striking out five men against one for Ivey during the seven innings he worked before relieved by the southpaw, Fairman.

The Lookouts banged out nine hits with Alexander, Hudson and Langston doing the heavy duty connecting for two for four each. One of Langston's blows was a double to center during the Lookouts large fifth inning rally.

DeLand Defeats Anglers 13-8 To Take No. 2 Spot

Daytona Beach Loses To Saints 1-0 As G-Men Take Orlando

The hard-fighting DeLand Red-totaled three Angler hurlers for total of 15 hits to win from the Leesburg nine 13 to 8 and took to second place in the Florida State League standings as the Daytona Beach Islanders, who had held a narrow half-game grin on the No. 2 spot dropped a 1 to 0 game to the St. Augustine Saints.

In the other state loop game at Orlando the Gainesville G-Men tripped the Sevierville 10 to 8 after an 11 inning fight.

Scoring eight runs in the first three innings, the Senators went into an early lead which held until the G-Men rallied in the final eight to score five runs which with the three they scored in the sixth frame tied the count at 8-8. The G-Men took the advantage in the first of the fifth by scoring two more runs while the Orlando nine failed to rally on their turn at the plate. The Senators outbit the visitors 13 to 10, however.

In Daytona Beach, Eickler of the Saints and Zawlocki of the Islanders duked for the nine innings which ended with a slight advantage for the former. Eickler led the Islanders to five victories while Zawlocki gave the visiting Saints six setbacks.

The ancient city crew bunched their hits in the final ninth inning to score the only run of the game.

At Leesburg, the Red Hats outbit the Anglers 15 to 12 in a free-hitting contest which saw two DeLand hurlers and three Leesburg hurlers on the mound in an attempt to stop the attack.

Scoring three runs in the first inning, Leesburg went into an early lead which was tied by the Reds who scored one in the first and two more in the second. At the end of the sixth the two teams were tied at 7-7 but 4 runs showed across by the Red in the seventh and two more in the ninth gave the visitors the lead which the Anglers were unable to overcome.

George Hurls Two-Hit Ball To Emerge Victor In Junior Game

George, Team No. 1 pitcher, last night set the No. 5 club down 15-1 hurling a two-hit game while his team mates were laying down a barrage of 10 hits against Floyd, the No. 4 moundman, as the two Kivans Junior high clubs met at the lake shore field yesterday afternoon.

A large second inning for the No. 4 club, during which they showed across eight runs, gave them the win.

Angel, pitcher for the No. 4 club, trotted in the best performance of the pitcher, striking out five batters in four innings.

Austrian Forbear's
Sense Of Gaiety Is Visible In Fuehrer

The writer of this article describes the new Hitler as just been awarded the Pulitzer prize for distinguished foreign correspondence. A member of the A.P.'s Berlin staff since 1921 and its chief since 1928, he has had an excellent opportunity to observe Hitler's career from its very start.

By LOUIS F. LACHNER
BERLIN, May 11.—(AP)—The Adolf Hitler, May 28, 1923, when President Paul von Hindenburg asked him to form a cabinet, was very different from the Adolf Hitler of May, 1933, as he surveys his office.

In 1923 he was essentially Prussian, a successor to the Hohenzollerns. Now, he is rather more Austrian, dreaming the dream of a polyglot empire that the Hapsburgs had.

The change has affected even his private life. In '23 he was a dabbler for work, rivaling that intricate midnight oil burner of the late General Erich Ludendorff. He could toil all day and most of the night.

Now he relaxes frequently, he is in his hide-out on top of the Kehlstein mountain, in his chalet above Berchtesgarden, in the Tyrol, or even in heavy Berlin. When he seemed pover in 1923, pompous Prussian military marches alternated with heavy Wagnerian operatic strains at the Emperor's medical school.

Whenever he shows himself in public, and he still wears "Der Hintersieger" and other masterpieces of Wagnerian art. But Hitler's Austrian descent shows through, as it were, and leads him to go places where the lighter arts of dance and vaudeville and comic opera hold sway.

Miriam Vease and Miriam Dinkels, American dancers; Billy McKay and Eddy Laylo, American athletic humorists are among the stars of the dance in the Tyrol who have performed before Dr. Fuehrer recently. He has been visiting theaters in which these and other acts are given. He has seen several performances of Fritz Lehner, "Merry Widow."

He has repeatedly visited the club house of the artists and chatted amiably with such stars of screen and stage as Zarah Leander, Emil Jannings, Lewi Reinhardt, Dorothea Weck, and Lillian Ullrich.

After finishing the draft of his memorandum to President Roosevelt's plea for peace, Hitler referred by going to the Metropole (in a tunnel instead of a subway) to watch Miriam Vease perform again.

Counting Costs
Is Of Importance
To U. S. Farmers

By JACK THOMPSON
WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—The word memo to the modern farmer:

Count costs! And don't kid yourself by leaving out important items just because they don't happen to require cash.

Keeping track of costs accurately, say Department of Agriculture experts, is the best way to reserve cash for radio, cars, education, new clothes, higher tax bills that didn't come at all or didn't come so high in the days of the self-sufficient farm.

The modern farmer, after "back yard roundhouse," he has taught his son, Meyer, to drive the engine on the line whenever he is at home working at maintenance.

Right now Maund is making new smokstack for one engine. It's a special type, in which the steam exhausts from the engine's cylinders whirled the wood sparks around so they'll be burnt out before being expelled, and that won't set fire to the pine woods.

Every morning, bright and early, Maund steps out the back door, climbs into the cab, gets up steam, and puffs away through Mendes, Bradleys, Teels, Hughes and Reidsville to Collins. Then, pulling as many as four to eight boxcars, the train puffs back to Glennville and comes to rest in the Maund's back yard. On the 46-mile round trip, he burns three cords of wood at $3 a cord.

Behind the freight system, Maund also runs a passenger car on his line. It's made of an old streetcar in which he mounted an only slightly newer auto engine. This car also hauls mail and express, and hasn't missed a run in 10 years.

So the Collins and Glennville line is a special type, in which the steam exhausts from the engine's cylinders whirled the wood sparks around so they'll be burnt out before being expelled, and that won't set fire to the pine woods.

But any Railway Guide will tell you that it also has a president (J. V. Bradley), a vice president (W. A. Dugberry), a general manager (J. D. Bradley), and an auditor (W. H. LeGrand), and a chief surgeon (Dr. A. C. Branch).

Maintenance of the railroad saved the towns along the route, and in fact has helped to build them up considerably. But the 355 still stops at Tootle only on flag signal.

counting all costs, may discover, for example, that the south he would make more money in corn than in wheat. He may find that although it demands a cash outlay, a milking machine will save him more than the equivalent in time.

Although the farmer can't figure on definite output, and prices often fluctuate more than the business man's, costs still can be counted. And there are a number of improvements in the old method of subtracting cash paid out from cash taken in.

The greatest danger comes in putting important costs that don't necessarily require cash—and family labor, for example. They account for 60 percent of production costs on some farms.

The value of your labor and that of members of your family should be fixed at whatever figure seems reasonable—what it would cost to hire someone to do the work in one method.

Planting expenses—seed and fertilizer—are easier to figure since they often are paid out in cash. Another item that should be counted is your cost of power whether you use a tractor or horse.

Then there's depreciation on buildings and equipment. Cost accountants have fancy ways of figuring that. But for a simple method divide the total value of your buildings or machinery by the number of years they should last. Then add your repairs.

These general cost items plus others which you know of on your particular farm will give you about what the business man figures when he counts costs.

And thousands of farmers do count costs on each crop. From information furnished by farmers throughout the country in 1927, the Department of Agriculture estimates that it cost an average of $20.15 an acre to raise corn; $14.27 to raise wheat; $10.27 an acre to grow oats.

What does it cost you?

Short Line Locomotive Chugs
Back To Its Yard Nightly

GLENNVILLE, Ga., May 11.—When Engineer Percy J. Maund of the Collins and Glennville Railway starts in from his day's run, he just parks the old engine in the back yard. Then he hooks a pipe to the steam line of the engine, and there's hot water to the house to wash up for dinner.

Maund's back yard is the only "round house" the C. & G. can boast, and all the repairs of the road's two locomotives are made there, as well as the overnight parking of the rolling stock.

Maund is one of those fellows who as a kid always wanted to be a railroad man. So he went to work on the Atlantic Coast Line at 14, and soon became a qualified engineer.

Some 15 years ago the Georgia Coast and Piedmont Railroad was about to discontinue its line from Collins to Glennville. Maund persuaded a few townspeople at Glennville and Reidsville to buy the line. "I'll run it," he said.

And he has run it ever since, making all repairs to the old wood-burning locomotives in his back yard.

Coastal Counties Lose Attempt For More Of Gas Taxes

Counties Sought Additional $500,000 Annually By Including 9 Miles Of Gulf Taxpayers' Relief Requested In Bill Two Years Exemption Asked For Those Who Paid In Full

TALLAHASSEE, May 12. (AP)—Eight coastal counties skirted the gulf coast of Florida in the Supreme Court today an effort to have nine miles of open sea added to their areas so as to give them a bigger share of the state gasoline tax revenue.

The court voted 5 to 1 against their contention that the State Comptroller should have figured the State's full boundary out into the gulf as a part of the county areas in determining how much each county should receive under the 1931 tax law.

Eight counties—Franklin, Wakulla, Taylor, Citrus, Pasco, Manatee, Dixie and Gulf—had estimated they would receive an additional $500,000 annually if their plea were upheld.

Florida's Legislature yesterday received proposals to give persons who have paid all their State and county taxes in full for the past five years a breathing spell, to renew the law allowing installment redemption of tax delinquent property, to levy a head tax and to recess the General Assembly so that a special committee might study the State tax structure.

Senator Andrews introduced in the Senate yesterday amendments to the Rivers and Harbors bill, seeking, in two instances, improvement of Florida's navigation. One deals with the Kissimmee River and the second with the Ocklawaha River, between Lakes Dora, Apopka and Eustis.

Each was referred to the Senate Commerce Committee, which has approximately 400 cases in the State available for shipment beginning the week of May 14.

The new orange production figures of the government reported yesterday, which show an increase in yield and an increase in the volume of Valencia remaining to be marketed, are a relief to growers.

Canal Report By Engineers Is Unfavorable

St. Johns Improvement Association Seeks Rehearing Before Col. J. J. Bain

An unfavorable report on the proposed St. Johns-Indian River canal given made by the South Atlantic Division of Army Engineers, according to a report received from the division headquarters in Richmond, Va. today.

With this announcement came a statement from officials of the St. Johns Improvement Association, sponsor of the project, that plans are already being made for a committee of the association to meet with the Col. J. J. Bain and the board in the near future in an attempt to iron out objections to the proposed outlet from the St. Johns River in the East Coast.

The proposed channel to the Indian River at a point near Titusville would have afforded a waterway 8 feet in depth and 100 feet in width and it being sought chiefly to make the St. Johns River a two-way channel which would provide a scenic as well as protected inland water route for yachtsmen visiting Florida.

At present the St. Johns River is a dead end waterway and although yachtsmen make the trip from Jacksonville to Sanford each year, those seeking the canal have repeatedly asserted that many times this number would be made if the proposed $2,000,000 channel afforded them an outlet to the East Coast.

Farm Bill Given Senate Approval; Sent To House

Bill For Completion Of Ship Canal Is Studied By Group

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—The revised $2,218,000,000 farm appropriation bill passed the Senate today. It now goes back to the House for consideration of more than $338,000,000 in increases.

The Senate also approved the President's second reorganization plan and began consideration of a bill to authorize completion of the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal.

President Roosevelt today would favor repeal of the undistributed profits tax provided some other method was found to prevent what he called legal tax evasion by the wealthy.

The President emphasized again his contention that in place of any corporation levies, repeated there would have to be found substitute taxes to bring in the same amount of revenue.

Secretary Morgenthau called for revision last to the Treasury's policy must yesterday against the hosts of skeptical reports which have blown steadily through Administration corridors since the program was announced in February.

He added that neither the President nor anyone else in authority apparently wanted general revision of the tax laws.

Former 4-H Club Prize Winner Is Visiting Parents

"I have always regretted I did not have the opportunity to see my parents in 1925 as a 4-H Club member when they were in Tampa on the 25th anniversary of the extension service."

Mrs. G. S. Nordgren, now here visiting her parents, is shown in the picture in 1925 as a 4-H Club member when they were in Tampa on the 25th anniversary of the extension service.

The 4-H club work was discontinued in this county for a time shortly afterward, so Miss Vihlen had no opportunity to continue her work under club supervision.

Mr. and Mrs. Nordgren and son plan to leave for San Diego, Cal. the latter part of the month where Mr. Nordgren has been stationed following his graduation from the naval air school in Pensacola.

Other members of the club team included Ellen and Laurence Lundquist, Pearl and Eleanor Tyner, Ruth Ericson, Richard Vermy and Austin Vihlen.

Mr. Ben Whitney, of Jacksonville, was county agent and 4-H Club manager at this time. Group winners of this club were sent to 4-H Club short courses, the girls going to Tallahassee and the boys to Ocala.

Contract Okeyed To End Deadlock With CIO Union

Lewis Wins Inclusion Of 'Union Shop' Clause For Miners

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—A joint bituminous negotiations subcommittee agreed today, after a deadlock of eight weeks, on a new contract between the United Mine Workers of America (UMW) and the Appalachian operators, covering the wage and hour conditions for 346,000 miners in eight states.

Dr. John R. Steedman, secretary of U. S. Labor Department, said the contract would include a "union shop" clause which John L. Lewis, CIO chief and President of the UMW, had insisted upon. It was this demand which had deadlocked negotiations.

A joint committee of operators and miners met later to consider the adoption of a contract. It could not be determined how many operators would agree to the new contract and some southern operators said they would reject it.

A spokesman for the operators said yesterday that "a large block of the company" already reached a satisfactory agreement with the miners, and that the only remaining obstacle was a group of southern operators opposing the union "union shop" demand on principle.

The recap began when the union agreement expired April 1 and eventually threw nearly half a million miners out of work.

The Appalachian Operators Conference, covering 138,000 of the mine miners, operates under the "unit rule" of unanimity, binding in the present situation the entire organization to the resistance of any dissenting group.

The announcement came after Union President John L. Lewis had authorized union districts outside the eight state area to act as centers of the operators' disaffection, to begin immediately signing of individual agreements with operators not opposed to the "union shop."
