The Tennis Matches

The tennis matches scheduled between Sanford and Ocala were stooned from last Sunday to an indefinite date, Bob Hardaker Sinabunced. Hardaker pointed out that the reason for the positivent was wet courts. He wired the Ocala team that the courism too wet to permit playing. But negotiations are now being ried on with a view to playing the matches as soon as possible, as competition in sports between the different cities is a fine ing. Of course sports have been carried on between schools of rieus elties for a long time; and in some of the larger cities been the teams sponsored by recreation departments. But committee the teams sponsored by recreation departments in aller cities ham't been going on such a long time, in fact, it has a done only in the past few years. The main reason it was depend so long was due to lack of funds. At the present time, the set for city recreation facilities and competition between cities is become accepted as a vital adjunct to proper living. Let's hope at further relations with other cities in sports will be carried on the Recreation Department receives the support of citizens much one fais time can be carried out.

Next Year's Budget

President Roosevelt, in presenting his budget estimates to Congress yesterday, apparently slashed the heart out of government expenditures. Work relief for the unemployed was cut by half a billion dollars. Agricultural subsidies were reduced by $400,000,000. Public works and so called "investments" were decreased by $300,000,000, and altogether, including certain increases in some departments, total expenditures were reduced by $675,000,000.

Even so the hudget calls for avanditures of $2.474.

Even so the budget calls for expenditures of $8,424,-000,000 for the fiscal year beginning next June 80. The size of this figure is not likely to be appreciated by most of us, since it is so big as to dwarf our imaginative powers, unless we compare it to previous government expendi-tures. Not once during the decade of the twenties, after war time expenditures had returned to normal, did government expenses exceed $3,994,000,000. In 1916, the last full year before our entry into the war, the cost of government was only $734,000,000. They are now 12 times as much even with retrenchment.

And even with retrenchment the budget calls for additional taxes amounting to $460,000,000. This increase alone is more than half as much as the total taxation in 1916. This increase comes on top of federal taxation which has already reached a new peak. Estimated taxation for next year amounts to $5,548,000,000, or approximately twice as much as at the beginning of the present Administration. The new taxes are expected to hit the small salaried man and wage earner in the lower income brack-

> But even with the new taxes, and even with all the retrenchment which has been proposed, the government would still fail to live within its income by over two billion dollars. This net deficit, of course, will have to be borrowed and will be added to the total government debt for future generations to pay. The amount which will have to be borrowed to run the government for the coming year is more than half as much as the total cost of government ten years ago.

And so the government debt soars to new heights. At the end of the next fiscal year, according to the Presithe end of the next fiscal year, according to the freshdent's estimates, it will for all practical purposes have dent's estimates, it will for all practical purposes have reached the legal limit of $45,000,000,000. This is almost three times as much as it was ten years ago; it is almost twice as much as it was the end of the Warld War; it

$1,188,000,000 to nearly $45,000,000,000.

And yet this is just an estimate of next year's expenditures. With an election in the offing, it is but natleaving the tensels' candles to ural that it represents the best and most optimistic estimate which the President could make. It is based on ha way to bed on the mattresses what he guesses will be the receipts of the government, and the costs of government, not this month, not next month, but next year, beginning June 30, 1940 and extending to warfeet the following Wednesday.

You might suspect that even Acting Secretary of the Navy Edicing has dreamed such a dream. He remarked at a press conference in a sort of mooning undertone that a ship which contained all the features of which the navy dreams would be something bigger even than the super-colossal 45,000-tonners now being planned. There is evidence, also, that the mavy may have even more magnificent ideas in mind. The old Pansma Canal—the one we have now—will handle an 80,000-tonner. It would be a tight fit with not more than two feet to spare along the sides. The new canal which the war department engineers are building for the mavy to use will be hig enough even for a fairly matronly, full busted 80,000-tonner—a ship with hips, and maybe a bustle.

Return Of The Native

Joe Pinder blew into town yesterday from up Pennsylvania way: He is the vanguard of the Lookout troops that should be heading this way before long. Joe looked hale and hearty after a winter of taking it easy. He was all dressed up in blue, had on a snappy tie with what looked like a diamond stick pin, and a classy dark blue hat. Joe looked quite the stuff. We didn't ask him if that was a real diamond in his tie, but it certainly looked like one. The soft apoken Lookout hurler showed us that Mayo Langston wasn't the only one who could hag a buck. And what's more Joe had pletures to prove it. He had a har hefty-looking seven point back strung up on the side of a hunting cabin and thinking headed it looking every bit like a Tennessee mountaineet with his gun hooked casually through his arm and his hands in his before they are generally released.

Now that 1940 has rolled around, the Yocational school here in Sanford expects to have bigger chasses. There are now classes in Shorthand, first and second year: Commercial English, Typing, and Bookkeeping. But beginning next week there will be a new class for persons wishing to begin first year shorthand, and first year shorthand, and first year bookkeeping.

We also have an interesting spelling class and have a nice time learning the meanings of words and discussing words in general.

The first year shorthand class is just about ready to go into the second year class, and the second year students are coming alongist fine and will be ready for lobe in the past year, because they came to the westional school. The businessmen of financed come up to the subcol and get pupils, who have shown themselves capable for jobs, for part-time jobs and full-time jobs as stempraphers and bookknepers. Gifts were exchanged, and each teacher considered this affair a very enjoyable preface it the holidays.

New activities have been organized for the coming year. These clubs were developed in order to attinulate the interest of the students in various hobbles. There are clubs dealing with home economics, model airplanes, actence, journalism, drematics and first aid. Each club has its own officers and meets for thry minute periods three times a week. It is believed that through these organizations the students will gain knowledge of lasting value. At these periods during the week pupils who are tehind in their work are given an opportunity for special study.
