

Russo Says He's Waited Long Enough

Public Defender Sues Over Office Space

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Public Defender James Russo figures he's waited long enough for adequate office space in Seminole County. Now he's going to court to try to get it.

Russo, who represents the 18th Judicial Circuit, filed suit in Seminole County on Wednesday against the County Commission for failing to provide him with the office space he says he needs.

In his suit, Russo cites Chapter 27 of Florida Statutes, which says, "The public defenders shall be provided by the counties within their judicial circuits with such office space, utilities, telephone services, and custodial services as may be necessary for the proper and efficient functioning of these offices. The office space and utilities shall not be less than the standards for space allotment promulgated by the Department of General Services. The counties shall not provide less of these services than were provided in the previous fiscal year."

"It's been a situation where we've been working with the county for over a year on our space needs and the present situation," Russo said from his

Titusville office. "But nothing has happened. We waited on a space study the county made, and that clearly reflected our need for more space. And the way the Legislature is shaping up, it appears we'll receive the funding for another nine people, four of them in Seminole County."

The county currently houses the public defender's office at 212 N. Park Ave., across from the courthouse.

Russo said the layout of the offices has created a multitude of problems for his staff and himself when he visits Seminole County.

"We can't operate in an efficient manner," he explained.

"If I need an office when I come over to Seminole County, I'm relegated to moving someone out of his or her office. And there are security problems, too, with the layout," he said.

"We have to keep the doors locked in the hallway for security, and for one defender to get to his office he has to walk through several other offices," he said.

The county has hired the private consulting firm of Walter H. Sobel & Associates to conduct a long-range study of the space needs for the judiciary's, public defender's and state attorney's offices.

Russo points out that in the judicial portion of the study completed recently by Sobel, his office space was termed "as substandard an office as (was) seen."

"The study didn't tell us anything we didn't already know," said Russo. "We've worked hard with the commission, but just haven't seen any tangible results. There's been no resolution to the problem, so the next step is to let the court take care of it."

"I have empathy for the county. They pick up the tab for our services. But on the other hand, the people of Seminole and Brevard counties are getting services for a very minor investment."

David Hotary, county director of administrative services, says Russo's position on the space problem hasn't changed since he took office last year.

In December he indicated he'd file suit, Hotary said.

"I don't know what he hopes to gain by standing before a judge. Going to court will take a lot of money on both sides," he said.

"The county is pedaling as fast as it can. We expect the Sobel study to be completed in late May," added Hotary.

"The county has put its best foot forward, and the commission feels the final report will tell us what we need. The board doesn't want to waste money needlessly by making decisions without the entire study. Russo has valid points about the space problem, but he's not the only one with the problem," said Hotary.

"At the end of the study just on the judicial space needs, the estimate through the year 2000 shows that just the judicial space needed will consume everything the county now owns or rents. What about the needs of the rest of the departments?" he said.

Hotary added that the commission is aware Russo's staff will increase in the future, but that by the time funding is approved, job vacancies are posted and interviews conducted, new personnel for the public defender's office probably won't be on hand until late summer or early fall.

"The space study will be completed by late May, and with all the details, we should be able to make the right decisions on space," he said.

A GREAT DAY FOR THE IRISH

More than a thousand spectators lined downtown Sanford streets Wednesday afternoon to watch the city's first annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. While the marchers paraded (top photo), Colleen Jenkins was busy making people "honorary Irishmen," as she did Mark Justice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Justice of Sanford (photo above). She also was named winner for best women's costume, while bagpiper James Wood of Deltona (right) won for best men's costume. John Kader, Sanford jeweler (left), was grand marshal.

Fort Mellon Park Beautification Work To Begin March 29

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Work on the first phase of the Fort Mellon beautification project is scheduled to begin March 29, Sanford Parks and Recreation Department director Jim Jernigan told the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee today.

The project calls for installation of an automated irrigation system in Fort Mellon Park, with the first phase involving irrigating the area around the General Sanford Museum and Library. Jernigan said the $1,400 needed to pay for the first phase was presented to the city last week by SISTER Inc. (Sanford's system to the tennis courts and toward Lake Carolla.

SISTER will sponsor a garage sale beginning at 10 a.m. in the chamber parking lot at First Street and Sanford Avenue in conjunction with an auction sponsored by the Beautification Committee, which will also begin at 10. SISTER members will serve hot dogs, coffee and tea from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., and the committee members will sell home-baked items.

Among the items to be auctioned are a coffee maker, dishes, an Afghan, a barbecue grill, and a computer.

Donations of items for the auction and garage sale are being solicited.

The plans call for the final phase to extend the irrigation to the edge of the parking lot, Jernigan said. He estimates the second and third phases will cost between $700 and $800, as the cost of the automatic controls was included in the first phase.

He said the first-phase installation will take eight to nine days. Once the irrigation system is in, he said, the garden club has committed itself to contribute some plants to beautify the park.

Jernigan said talk of putting a fountain in Lake Carolla was just "scuttlebutt" and discounted the idea as impractical and costly to install and maintain.

Members of the committee will meet at the chamber Friday to assemble 12 purple martin houses purchased by the Sanford Woman's Club Community Improvement Project Committee to attract the birds to eat the pesky blind mosquitoes (midges). When the 12 birdhouses are assembled and put up around the city, this will complete the martin house project begun last year, according to committee chairman Mrs. Bill Gielow.

The Beautification Committee has joined SISTER in supporting the project along with the Sanford Garden Club and the Seminole High School Future Business Leaders of America chapter.

On April 3 a joint project is planned by the committee and SISTER to raise funds for the second phase, which will extend the irrigation

Residents Ask Court To Block Soccer Club

The Seminole Soccer Club's right to use a 40-acre site for playing fields near the northwest intersection of Markham Lake and Longwood-Markham roads is being challenged by a group of homeowners in the area.

Ernest Cowley, a spokesman for residents in the Paola-Markham area, has asked the circuit court in Sanford to look into a Jan. 12 County Commission decision that permitted the soccer club to build a recreational complex at the site, to include the development of a dozen soccer fields.

The commission voted 3-2 in favor of the soccer organization in January, overturning a ruling by the county's Board of Adjustment.

Cowley and the Paola-Markham residents say the commission granted a special exception for the fields on an emotional and political basis rather than addressing several areas used as criteria for special land-use exemptions.

The petition by the homeowners says the county must consider consistency with general zoning, not detrimental to the character of the neighborhood, not highly intensive, not incompatible with rural land use, not having inverse traffic impact, and having access to urban services such as fire, water and sewerage, and is consistent with the county's comprehensive land-use plan.

County Commission Chairman Robert Sturm and Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Barbara Christensen voted in favor of the soccer club, while Commissioners Robert G. "Bud" Feather and William Kirchhoff voted against allowing the soccer organization special use of the land. -- JOE DeSANTIS

IN BRIEF

Trying To Break Logjam On Budget Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Election-year jitters, the sagging economy and political sniping have stalemated congressional attempts to reach a bipartisan budget compromise.

House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okla., said Wednesday he may bring President Reagan's embattled budget proposal, which includes a projected deficit of $96.4 billion, to a vote by the full chamber to "break the logjam."

Irish Chief Visits Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Charles Haughey made his St. Patrick's Day visit with President Reagan memorable with a plea for American help in achieving a union between the Irish Republic and Ulster.

Haughey's appeal came during a toast at a lunch hosted in his honor by Reagan. A number of famous Irish Americans, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., White House press secretary Jim Brady, Secretary of State Alexander Haig and actress Maureen O'Hara, were on hand for the occasion.

Great Day For The Irish

United Press International
Millions of Americans gave the Irish custom of "drowning the shamrock" their best shot on St. Patrick's Day and woke up today to discover they had lived to regret it.

To mark the occasion, the Chicago River ran green and cities across the nation put on parades that ranged from a 14-second stroll across a Blue Springs, Mo., street to New York's giant march with the late Irish rebel Bobby Sands as posthumous grand marshal.

Black Chief For Charleston

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Reuben M. Greenberg, credited with cutting crime and corruption in Opa-Locka, Fla., has been named as Charleston's first black chief of police.

Greenberg, 38, who served as chief deputy under former Orange County Sheriff Mel Colman, will become the city's police chief when the appointment is formalized March 23 by Charleston County Council.

Smokers Inhaling Monoxide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly four-fifths of the nation's smokers have levels of carbon monoxide in their blood high enough to endanger their health, a new government report says.

The report was issued Wednesday on the heels of a Reagan administration retreat from a proposal for tougher health warnings on cigarette packages.

Ride For Cancer Set For Saturday

The Great American Ride for Cancer, sponsored by the Seminole County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, takes off at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Registration begins at 9:00 A.M. at Levitz Furniture, Howell Branch Road and State Road 436, for the 30-mile cross-country bike ride to raise funds for further cancer research.

Applications for the ride are available at all Flamingo bank offices, McDonalds in Sanford, and at all county middle and high schools.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Houses in Fort Wayne, Ind., were submerged up to their roofs today — the result of five days of flooding that has caused more than $16 million in damage. The worst storm of the year in Southern California set off mudslides and avalanches. The South also was hit by violent storms with golf ball-size hail and 75 mph winds reported in Alabama and a tornado near Atlanta. Miles of Sandbar dikes in Fort Wayne were saturated almost to the bursting point and police scurried from door to door urging wary residents to flee. Officials also said if the dikes go, on the St. Joseph, St. Mary's and Maumee rivers, Indiana's second-largest city could be cut into six mini-cities.

Woman Raped Twice At Knifepoint

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A North Carolina woman was raped twice at knifepoint after an unidentified man abducted her from the Seminole Memorial Hospital (SMH) parking lot and drove her to a dirt road near State Road 46, just outside Sanford.

The 27-year-old victim told deputies she was entering her car, which was parked at the Sanford hospital, at about 9 p.m. Wednesday when a man came up to her and asked for a ride to Interstate 4. When the woman refused, the man pulled out a knife, held it to her throat and got into the vehicle, deputies said.

The man drove to Oregon Avenue near SR 46 and raped the woman, deputies reported. He then drove to the Bookerlown section of Sanford where he talked with an unidentified couple, deputies added.

The woman told deputies the man then drove to a telephone booth on SR 46 and allowed her to call her husband to tell him she had a flat tire. The man proceeded to the Phillips 66 food store on Airport Boulevard where he locked the woman in the car and entered the store. Deputies said the woman was so scared that she did not think to get out of the car and flee.

The assailant returned and drove back to Oregon Avenue where he again reportedly raped the woman, deputies said. Later, he wiped the car clean of any possible fingerprints, using the nightgown of the victim's mother, deputies said.

The woman was then taken back to Airport Boulevard where she was let out of the car, deputies said. The woman went to a nearby motel and called deputies.

CREDIT EQUIPMENT SWIPED

A large amount of citizens band radio equipment was stolen from a Sanford man's home sometimes between 12:45 a.m. and 10:11 p.m. Sunday.

George C. Clark, 25, of 526 Radio Street, told police the thieves entered the home through a front window.

CULPRITS TAKE DIAMONDS

Thieves broke into an Apopka man's home sometimes between 8 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. Sunday and stole two, 3/4-carat diamonds and assorted coins.

Mark Williams, 21, of 2919 Autumnwood Trail, told deputies the thieves entered his home through a rear window and stole the coins and jewels valued at about $1,345.

THIEVES GET THEIR KICKS

Thieves kicked down the rear door of a Lake Monroe woman's home and stole numerous items sometime between 7 a.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

Louise Marie Hittell, 68, of Orange Boulevard, told deputies someone broke into her home and stole a cassette tape recorder and tapes, canned goods, silver dollars, a cedar chest and a television.

$100,000 BURGLARY

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home sometime between 4 and 11:20 p.m. Saturday and made off with about $100,000 worth of cash, jewelry and silver.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the burglary at the home of Richard Feller, 34, of 4 Quail Run, in the Ravensbrook subdivision, said the thieves broke a glass pane in the rear door to gain entry to the house.

Once inside, the burglars stole about $20,000 worth of silver flatware, $4,000 cash, a 4-carat diamond valued at about $20,000 and a $300 safe, deputies said.

COUPLE CHARGED

An Altamonte Springs man and woman have been arrested as suspects in what police say has been a stolen property fencing operation in central Florida for the past four years.

Ronaki Laverne Laphart, 42, and Billy Jean Denham, 50, both of 725 Pearl Lake Causeway, were released on bond from the Seminole County jail following their arrests Saturday at their home. Both were charged with trafficking in stolen property, jail officials said.

Police said the arrests are the result of a month-long investigation into a stolen property operation in the central Florida area.

CULPRITS CRUISE IN CARTS

Someone broke into the Sweetwater Country Club golf cart storage building, and removed about six carts sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and 6:15 a.m. Sunday, deputies said.

Upon investigation, deputies found three golf carts parked together in a wooded area on the golf course located near Longwood, and another cart was discovered a short distance from the three with a flat tire, deputies said. The other carts had been returned to the storage area, deputies added.

Deputies said the culprits caused an undetermined amount of damage to all of the carts.

SILVER STOLEN

Thieves broke into an Altamonte Springs man's home sometime between March 7 and 10 p.m. Sunday and stole an undetermined amount of silver and jewelry.

Daniel L. Clements, 40, of 940 Larson Drive, told deputies the thieves entered his home after removing a kitchen window. Once inside, the thieves searched dresser drawers and closets, stealing the silverware and two jewelry boxes containing an undetermined amount of jewelry, deputies said.

The thieves also drank a soft drink, which had been in Clements' refrigerator, and left the empty bottle on the kitchen table, deputies added.

CHURCH SITE BURGLARIZED

Construction materials were reported missing Friday from a Tuskawilla Presbyterian Church construction site.

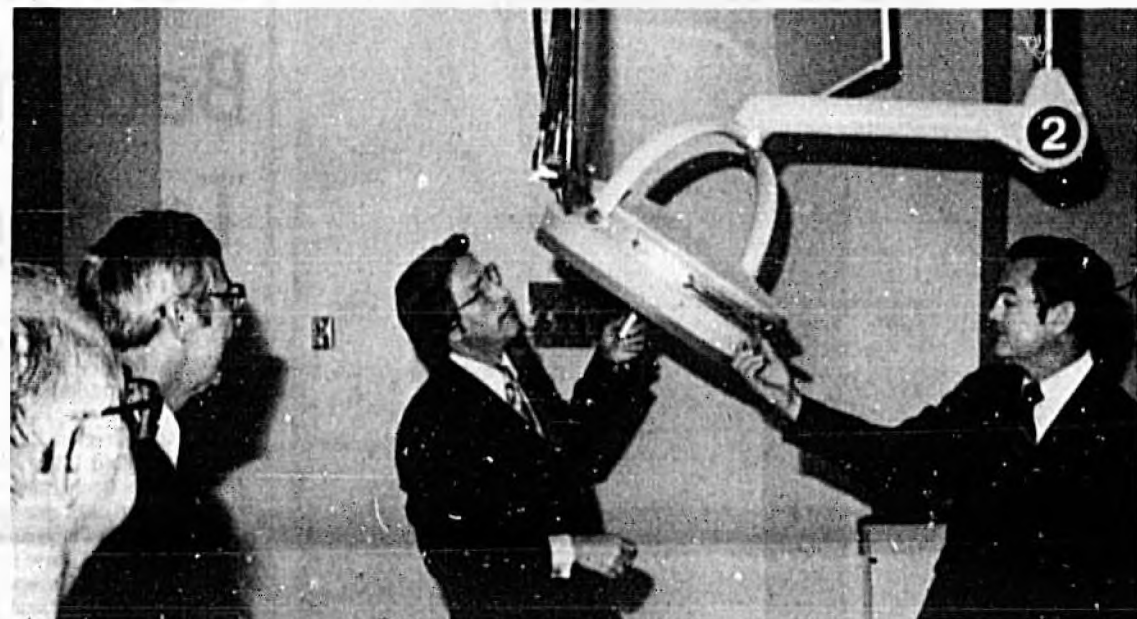

Girdley Construction Co. supervisor Greg Fowlkes said that 12 sheets of plywood and 100 two-by-four-foot pine studs were stolen between 2:30 p.m. Thursday and 6:45 a.m. Friday. The wood was valued at $333.

SANFORD MAN ROBBED

A Sanford man, walking along U.S. Highway 17-92 near State Street, was assaulted and robbed of an undetermined amount of money Saturday.

Robert L. Taylor, 29, of 2702 W. 22nd St., told police he was walking along the highway at about 11:11 p.m. when an unidentified man hit him in the stomach, knocking him to the ground. Taylor said the man then grabbed his wallet and fled, police reported.

Taylor told police he found his wallet a short distance from where he was attacked, but that the money had been removed.

Time Running Out On Trailer Owners

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The clock continues to tick away for the owners of trailers parked on a 2-to-3 acre tract off Humphrey Road in Lake Mary to comply with state sanitation laws.

The property owners, Barbara Jo H. Harper, Nellie Maxine Mullins, and Elwin W. and Emily Hoyce, have been ordered to remove most of the trailers and various sanitary nuisances at the site by March 31 or face state prosecution.

Russ Miller, director of the environmental health section of the Seminole County Health Department said the facilities were to be inspected again today.

Miller said today that Mrs. Hoyle and Mrs. Harper have said they plan to discuss with his office just what would be legal at the site. Although Mrs. Mullins has been served with legal notice, she has not responded as yet, Miller said.

Miller said he will find out today whether sewage from the trailers at the site is being properly disposed of.

Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes told the Lake Mary City Council that residents of the trailers were disposing of sewage by simply dumping it on the ground.

The matter came to light last month when the Lake Mary City Council granted Mrs. Harper permission to park a second trailer on her property off Humphrey Road.

At the time, Councilman Vic Olvera asked that the request be tabled until a complaint about several trailers being parked at the site could be checked out.

Had Planned To Take Over Haiti

16 Daring Invaders Jailed

MIAMI (UPI) — Sixteen men apparently intent on an armed invasion of Haiti were in federal custody today, many of them seasick after their swash-buckling adventure in two leaky cabin cruisers.

The group faces charges of violating the U.S. Neutrality Act and exporting munitions without a license — charges similar to those filed against another group of would-be revolutionaries who tried to overthrow the Duvalier regime in January.

The 16 men will be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate.

The men — 10 American citizens and six Haitians ranging in age from 18 to 45 — were intercepted by the Coast Guard cutter Cape Current Tuesday night and brought back to Miami Beach Wednesday.

The invaders accepted the abrupt end of their mission "with resignation," said Cape Current Commanding Officer Kurt Nancarrow.

"They were sort of an idealistic bunch. They weren't mad or greedy or anything," he said.

In fact, he said they were "very congenial" and offered the Coast Guard boarding party some bourbon. Most of the suspects were seasick when taken into custody.

Congenial or not, the FBI is taking the alleged coup attempt seriously.

Twenty-six rifles, seven shotguns, six handguns and 20,000 rounds of ammunition were found aboard the vessels, said Jim Freeman, assistant FBI special agent.

"I don't think the Haitian government thinks this is a joke," Freeman said. "We certainly don't."

State Attorney Going To Court Over Building

A hearing has been set for April 6 before Circuit Judge Roger Dykes in Rockledge on a suit filed a year ago by State Attorney Douglas Cheshire and his wife, Susan, to gain control of a Melbourne commercial building.

Cheshire said today that Mrs. Cheshire gained title to the property at 7050 Industrial St. from her father, George Schlatter, in 1977. Schlatter had gained title through the bankruptcy court earlier in the year.

The property was owned before the bankruptcy by Z. Clifford Singleton of Melbourne, a former campaign aide and close friend of Cheshire's.

The suit was filed against Singleton to evict him from the property, Cheshire said.

A cross-claim filed by Singleton against Cheshire asks the court to overturn the 1977 sale to Mrs. Cheshire's father, Cheshire said.

Sabin Proposes Oral Spray For Measles Vaccine

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Dr. Albert Sabin, the inventor of the oral polio vaccine, has proposed a new method of fighting measles that would inoculate children orally with a 65-cent atomizer.

Sabin, in a paper read Wednesday to the International Symposium on Measles Immunization in Washington, said his method is more effective than the current injections and makes it much easier to vaccinate large populations because anyone could learn to administer it.

Measles, which often occur in children between 6 and 12 months old, is a major health problem in many parts of the world because few youngsters are vaccinated, Sabin said.

Sabin cited research in the Soviet Union, where 10,000 children were exposed to an aerosol vaccine in large rooms or polyethylene tents. The results showed many more children injected with the vaccine contracted measles than those immunized by a spray vaccine.

By taking the Soviet method one step further, administering an aerosol vaccine on an individual basis would be simple for anyone, he said.

Sabin's method involves fitting a cheap, disposable mouthpiece onto an atomizer filled with the vaccine. It would be placed in a glass of crushed ice to create a vapor and forced through the mouthpiece with a simple motor or foot pump.

He said if results are good, "It may be possible to carry out mass vaccinations against measles with thousands of non-professional personnel — and thereby quickly eliminate measles in countries where it is still a serious health problem."

Sabin called for clinical testing of his idea in countries where large numbers of children are not vaccinated against measles.

"Such national mass vaccination programs carried out in a short time could provide the possibility of rapid eradication of measles in both economically developed and undeveloped countries," Sabin said.

Sabin, 75, has been distinguished research professor of biomedicine at the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston since 1974.

Countdown Under Way For Monday's Shuttle Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The space shuttle Columbia today began the countdown for Monday's launch on a demanding, seven-day orbital test flight that may end in New Mexico instead of California.

The long series of final flight preparations started early this morning with a "call to station" for launch control center personnel. It was the first time a shuttle countdown got under way without being preceded by delays caused by technical troubles.

Legislature Is Late Again

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislature won't finish work today as scheduled — the sixth straight year that adjournment on time has not been possible.

The question now is whether agreement on reapportionment, the budget, taxes and insurance review can be reached sometime next week or whether legislators will be in Tallahassee for weeks in a series of special sessions.

Askew Given Advantage

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Legislature has given a vote of confidence to former Gov. Reubin Askew in case he decides to run for president in 1984.

Both houses have quietly passed a bill which supporters admit is aimed at increasing his chances of winning the White House. The proposal, in effect, switches Florida's presidential primary to a winner-take-all contest.

Local Bands Headed For The World's Fair

The Lake Howell High School "Silver Regiment" Marching Band and Wind Ensemble have been invited to perform at the Six Flags Over Georgia Invitational Music Festival in Atlanta, Ga., on April 29 and 30.

They will be competing with over 40 high school bands from throughout the country and Canada.

After the competition, the band will then attend the grand opening of the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

The Lake Howell group won't be the only local band performing at the fair. The Oviedo High School Band will strut its stuff on May 28.

In order to make the trip, the Lake Howell band is currently trying to raise $15,000 by staging a returnable bottle drive, family night at Shakey's Pizza, Burger King Day, and a 28-hour Rehearse-A-Thon.

Honoring 'A Neat Kid'

An annual award is being established at Idyllwild Elementary School in memory of Mark Brownell, 12-year-old Lake Mary leukemia victim who died Feb. 21.

Because Mark had been an outstanding member and captain in the student patrol at Idyllwild, it was decided by the school faculty that the award should go to the member of the patrol who shows the most responsibility and leadership.

The first recipient will be announced at the school awards day in June. The winner's name will be engraved on a plaque which will be displayed at Idyllwild. The winner also will be presented with a medal.

The son of Richard A. and Patti Brownell of Lake Mary, Mark became ill with the tragic disease as a fifth grader during his final year at Idyllwild. Mark was a student at Lakeview Middle School for only a short time when leukemia forced him out of school. He continued to study, however, through the school district's homebound program.

"He was a neat kid and we all liked him," said Idyllwild Principal Norma Ragadale. "He had an outstanding attitude and was a good example to the other students. We wanted to do something to let his family know how much we cared."

Parents May Be Required To Buckle Up Their Kids

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham will now have the final say on whether parents should be required by law to place young children in seatbelts or child restraint seats when driving.

The House gave final approval Wednesday to a bill (SB 289) that would provide a $15 fine for parents found guilty of not securing children three and under in restraining seats and four- and five-year olds in seatbelts.

The fine could be waived on a first offense upon the showing of a receipt confirming the purchase of a restraint seat.

Pushed by House Rules Chairman Sam Bell, D-Daytona Beach, the measure was approved 96-6. But Bell later moved to reconsider that vote after several lawmakers complained that the bill was moved so quickly they did not realize what they were voting on.

On the second vote, the bill was approved 71-34.

The bill, which was approved by the Senate last month, had been sidetracked to a committee in the House by its opponents but was freed for a floor vote through the removal of an amendment that would have required the state to pay for the enforcement costs.

The proposed law would apply only to parents and legal guardians and not other adults driving with children not their own.

Proponents contended the requirement would save children's lives and prevent traffic injuries to them. Opponents argued that the proposal would be an unwarranted intrusion by the government upon parental responsibility, would be unenforceable in many areas and would take up police time better spent on serious crime.

ERA Rally Flops Badly

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Hundreds of men and women rallied for the Equal Rights Amendment on the Capitol steps Wednesday...but only 15 legislators bothered to show up and all of them were already ERA supporters.

Inside the building, a steady stream of volunteers visited the offices of hold-out senators all day long, trying to change their minds, telling them of the discriminatory experiences in their lives that they think ERA will cure.

The big push had been planned for the day before the adjournment of the Legislature. But the lawmakers ran into trouble and are going to stick around another week or 10 days.

One of the new volunteers was Meredith Morgan, a Florida State University junior, who used to be anti-ERA. She got busy on the other side, she said, when she heard an ad that women are paid only 59 cents for every $1 paid a man of equal qualifications holding a similar job.

At City Chemicals Site

Toxic Waste Removal Coming Along Nicely

About 60 percent of the chemical waste stored in a two-acre field off Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane in Sanford has been removed from the site.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles reported today that while the chemicals removal, now in its 18th week, is slightly behind schedule, a marked improvement can be seen at the site.

"All the rough spots have been smoothed," he said, adding that the site now has been cleaned up considerably and is an orderly operation.

The removal is being accomplished by City Chemicals Co. Inc., an Orlando-based firm, in cooperation with the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER).

City personnel has been monitoring the operation for the DER four times daily. Knowles said observations by city personnel are contained in consolidated weekly reports to the state agency in Tallahassee.

According to the original court order from Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler, the site was to be completely cleaned up and all waste chemicals removed in 24 weeks. Six weeks remain to accomplish the task.

Knowles said he expects the removal operation to be speeded up in the final weeks of the process.

In an arrangement ordered by Leffler, the DER is lending City Chemicals the money necessary to remove and dispose of the chemicals. The funds are to be repaid by City Chemicals in a year at 18 percent interest.

City personnel, after receiving a complaint from a resident, discovered the City Chemicals storage facility in November 1980. At that time it contained 3,264 drums of chemical waste. — DONNA ESTES

High Court Upholds No-Fault

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) The state Supreme Court today upheld key portions of Florida's no-fault automobile insurance law invalidated last summer by the 5th District Court of Appeal.

Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter hailed the decision as a victory for policyholders whom he said have had the benefit of low premiums under the 1979 law.

"I am elated. The timing is perfect. The court's decision is just what was needed to break the logjam between the House and Senate. We don't need any further argument over no-fault," Gunter said.

"It has been upheld as is," he added.

The court — announcing its decision while the House and Senate were locked in battle over whether to retain the entire no-fault law found that the provisions aimed at cutting down law suits growing out of auto accidents, "do not violate the rights of access to courts, due process or equal protection."

The district court had struck down the very parts of the law that supporters claimed held down insurance rates and, in some instances, even led to roll back of insurance premiums.

One of the provisions which the court's decision restores to the law requires victims to demonstrate significant and permanent injury or death to bring certain speculative damage lawsuits.

Another provision declared higher deductibles invalid.

The appeal court contended the constitutional rights of accident victims were violated when the state prohibited them from filing lawsuits in cases where injuries aren't permanent or disfiguring.

The three-judge panel also said it prevented injured people from receiving compensation while forcing them into dire financial straits by raising deductibles.

The case came to the appeal court from Brevard Circuit Court where the parents of 15-year-old Dennis Dillo Jr. sought damages for injuries received by the teen-ager in a 1979 car accident in Indian Harbour Beach. The lower court dismissed it on the grounds that Dillo's injuries were less than what was required by the law to justify a court suit.

In reversing the appeal court, the Supreme Court disagreed that lowering personal injury protection benefits and raising the amount of permitted optional deductibles would necessarily result in reduced compensation and increased litigation.

"Many motorists of this state are covered by some other type of insurance or benefit program that would help pay for their medical expenses and lost income if they were injured in an automobile accident," the court said.

"The benefits from these collateral sources are often more than sufficient to pay for the expenses not included in the PIP coverage," it said. "Thus motorists entitled to these collateral benefits would receive full compensation without needing to file a suit."

Two of the seven justices dissented from the part of the majority ruling that the part of the law eliminating all lawsuits for intangible damages for nonpermanent injuries was valid.

They also noted, without actually striking them down, that portions reducing the medical expenses and lost income benefits "come perilously close to the outer limits of constitutional tolerance."

Smashing Imports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — An automobile dealer ran over a Japanese import with a tank, then buried it with the help of autoworkers in a demonstration of support for the ailing U.S. car industry.

"These imports are taking American jobs, and it is hurting all of us," said Peggy Vaughn, new car sales manager for Jack Maxton Chevrolet Inc. "We really feel that is the main problem in this country. We have to go back to basics and buy American."

The remnants of the car were buried Friday by members of United Auto Workers union Local 969 from a General Motors Corp. Fisher Body plant in Columbus.

Looking At Guatemala Voting

Elections in Guatemala have rarely been models of democratic virtue. It comes as no surprise, therefore, that the recent presidential election has been marred by charges of fraud from the three presidential candidates defeated by former defense minister Angel Anibal Guevara.

But before the Guatemalan government's critics on Capitol Hill and in the media jump to any conclusions, several things ought to be noted.

First, the strongest charges of voting irregularities have come from the far right candidate, Mario Sandoval Alarcon.

That would appear to invalidate the simplistic charge that the government is controlled by unregenerate reactionaries bent on preserving their power and wealth at all costs.

Were that the case, how would one explain the fact that the mayoral contest in Guatemala City was won by a candidate opposing the same coalition of political parties that supported Gen. Guevara?

Second, none of the three defeated candidates nor the parties that supported them have yet provided anything more than unsubstantiated claims that Mr. Guevara's 37 percent plurality was the result of wholesale fraud.

Inasmuch as all four candidates posted poll watchers at selected precincts throughout the country, credible evidence, if any, of massive irregularities should not be that difficult to document.

Finally, we might note that defeated political candidates in Guatemala routinely allege fraud even in cases where the winning candidates clearly enjoyed the support of a majority of voters.

The defeated Guatemala City mayoral candidate backed by Gen. Guevara, for example, is now crying fraud.

Even assuming his charge is justified, it surely wasn't the government that stuffed ballot boxes in Guatemala City.

Beyond the charges and countercharges — however valid — of squabbling Guatemalan politicians' lies the more significant fact that Guatemala conducted a nationwide election on schedule and that some 1 million voters trooped to the polls to register their political preferences.

That achievement stands in sharp contrast to the Marxist politics of, say, Cuba or Nicaragua where contested elections are out of the question.

Moreover, the mere fact that the elections were held and that some 1 million voters turned out stands as a repudiation of Guatemala's Marxist insurgents, who boycotted the election, tried unsuccessfully to disrupt it, and threatened violence against those who voted.

Perhaps it is time for those in Congress who deem Guatemala unworthy of American military aid in the fight against Marxist guerrillas to consider whether the recent admittedly imperfect exercise in democracy would be improved upon if the Cuban-backed insurgents were to win.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Getting a jump on doing income tax I presume?"

Every day I spend about an hour and a half poring over the crime reports at the Sanford police and Seminole County sheriff's departments.

What a way to start a morning... I have the opportunity to read all about the thefts, stabbings, shootings, burglaries, suicides, family arguments, missing people, runaways, armed robberies, drunk drivers, purse snatchings, and numerous other offenses that law enforcement officers deal with every day. In turn, our readers fall privy to the police information through the Action column.

If you are like me, you may read the reports with interest and even some sympathy but it's hard to empathize with the victims of the crimes until the violation hits home. When someone does something to you, a member of your family or a friend, that's when a crime becomes real.

That's when people become incensed with lawbreakers.

By TENIYARBOROUGH

I am incensed. Last Friday, my father was mugged. The thugs knocked him down, gagged him, and stole his ring, watch and wallet containing about $70. He was calling on a client in Orlando less than a block from the police department. It was 5 p.m.

and he was leaving the client's cafe to pick up my mother from work. As he walked across a short driveway to the sidewalk, one man hit him across the chest and another grabbed him from behind and threw him to the ground. They robbed him and fled — in broad daylight.

Now, let me assure you — my father is no pushover. He can, in most situations, hold his own. He's a 54-year-old Atlanta-born father of six children, two boys and four girls. In our family, there was never any doubt as to who wielded the iron fist. Dad did. If you don't believe me, just ask him.

But, as Dad put it, these two thugs—these two men who prey on the fortunes of others—were professionals. The element of surprise was their best offense and with the quickness and skill they used in the commission of their crime, it was apparent to Dad that he was not their first victim.

No, he was not seriously injured in the robbery—a few scratches and bruises. I'm thankful for that.

But how does he know this will never happen again? How does anyone know? How do you know that when you leave your office today, someone isn't waiting for you—waiting to bump you over the head and take a few precious treasures that will mean nothing but cold, hard cash to the robbers?

Sanford police and other local municipalities have instituted a variety of programs such as the Neighborhood Watch Program to provide a way for citizens to help with crime prevention.

Police can't do it alone and are always looking for people who are willing to stand up and say, "Yeah, I saw him do it. He's the one." Be a witness. Tell the police what you saw. Help them put the criminals behind bars before they find another victim—possibly someone you love.

My father told the police investigator in his case that he is willing to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law when they catch the men who robbed him. I'm proud of that. It would be so easy just to say, well I have my property back so I guess you can let him go. But who's to say it won't happen to someone else?

I'm all for compassion toward our fellowman but where was his compassion when he knocked my father down, gagged and robbed him?

If you've seen a crime committed or have information about a crime, call the police or sheriff's department. If you wish, they will keep your identity confidential, but tell them what you know. Help them to help you and we'll all be helping each other.

Reporting On The Big Story

We were discussing the Salvadoran conflict and assertions that the media is not adequately and accurately informing the American public of its complexity.

Those assertions are detailed by Freedom House of New York in a current background report that itself invites some detailed questioning.

Such as why it chooses to represent a crucial land-reform program as an accomplished and successful fact when, according to other sources, including the U.S. State Department's own Agency for International Development, it is no such thing.

Or why there is no mention of the Salvadoran military's intransigent right wing and its expulsion of the initial reformist leadership from the junta and country. Christian Democrat Jose Napoleon Duarte may hold the presidency of the junta but not the power. That, Freedom House neglects to mention, is firmly in military hands.

It does mention the mass killings that have made the most lurid news out of El Salvador, but raps the media for not fairly apportioning responsibility between left and right. Its own analysis of an 18-month period for which estimates place the death toll at 18,000 is interesting. The evidence suggests to Freedom House that "no less than one-third and probably closer to one-half of the killings during this period are likely to have been the work of the left."

There are estimates and estimates on this grisly subject and a third as the left's share, while on the high side, has been mentioned. But to the knowledge of this writer, none, not even the tabulations of the pro-junta U.S. embassy, approach a 50-50 split.

But never mind. Let's accept the Freedom House argument and consider the point it really makes: Forces associated with the Salvadoran business-military-political establishment, and that includes the U.S.-supported government, are responsible for the deaths of 9,000 to 12,000 Salvadorans from January 1980 through June 1981.

But back to the media's performance. Freedom House complains that "once the Reagan administration defined El Salvador as the major test in stemming the tide of Soviet-Cuban expansionism" hordes of journalists descended upon the scene. Many were not up to the challenge of their assignment, and slipshod reporting was the result.

Possibly. But before, during and after the administration's publicity blitz the heavyweight coverage for the American public has been provided not by semi-pros but by the wire services and the handful of major dailies and news magazines.

Ford Escapes Safety Hazard Recall

WASHINGTON — Once again, the government's auto safety regulators have let the Ford Motor Co. off the hook, at the risk of death or injury to untold numbers of Americans.

And this time, the reluctant regulators went through some strange gymnastics to justify their refusal to reconsider a massive recall of Fords that came off the production lines between 1973 and 1979. This much is made clear in a still-secret, self-contradictory memo to National Highway Traffic Safety Administrator Ray Peck from his enforcement chief, Lynn Bradford.

Here's what happened: The federal safety agency investigated complaints by Ford owners that the automatic gearshift had a tendency to slip from the "park" position into "reverse," with understandably frightening results. According to government records, the errant transmission was responsible for thousands of injuries and more than 100 deaths.

The problem, from Ford's point of view, was that the transmission was installed in 10 million vehicles. Recalling them would have cost a fortune. The safety agency took pity on the automaker and ordered Ford simply to mail out warning notices and stickers to owners of cars with the shifty gearshifts.

This was too much for Ralph Nader, the automaker's nemesis. He filed a formal request that the agency reconsider its

It Was Different Then

A writer for the editorial page of the Denver Post recently said, with more than a touch of sadness, "We seemed such a different people then, in the Depression years and the war years."

We are a different people, as people born in the 1920s or earlier recognize. We are a different people because conditions in our country and the world at large are enormously different.

Our country was much more rural in character 40 or 50 years ago. We were much less sophisticated and hardened. Drug use was virtually unknown. There was little street crime. Communities were closer and neighborliness was stronger. Patriotism was a more positive force. People weren't so dependent on bureaucracies. They expected less in the way of public assistance. They were more self-reliant.

We can't turn back the clock. We wouldn't want to. In those days, many people were isolated in tiny places with little contact with the outside world. Rural poverty, especially in the South, was deep and harsh. Many public schools were vastly superior to costly school systems in existence today, but many people were illiterate. College attendance was limited to a small part of the population.

People, institutions and countries are in process, always building up or decaying. The world around us has changed beyond what anyone could have conceived in 1942. Old empires have vanished. The global constellation of political and economic forces is utterly different. Who, in the 1930s, could have imagined that Saudi Arabia would be a major factor in the world scene or that Americans would depend on the Japanese for much of their transportation?

Nostalgia for the past isn't a useless activity. We need to remind ourselves of our quality as a people a generation or more ago. Looking back helps us gain perspective on today and our standards for tomorrow. We should be proud of the gains we have made as a people in terms of wealth, education, science and medical care. But we also should recognize how we have departed from sound norms.

For example, we should make a commitment to rid ourselves of crime, the frightful drug traffic, and the pornography that blights our society. We should determine to strengthen and stabilize the institution of the family, which is crippled by divorce. We need to restore order and true education to our public schools. We must reinvigorate the spirit of patriotism which has been impaired by leftist ideologues who scorn devotion to country.

Some of these changes can be accomplished by law and social policy. Others can only be altered by an inner renewal of our society.

We have only a limited capacity to affect the world around us. Each society and country has its own logic of development or retrogression. Here and there, however, we can take decisive action to affect change, and we must be willing to use our national resources to direct change in ways important to the American people. We cannot, however, transform entire continents.

What we can do is to look at the world in a realistic manner. We didn't look at it that way in the 1930s—the result was our involvement in a world war.

Campaign Trail Studies

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Democrats are predicting that unemployment will be their No. 1 campaign issue this fall.

Polls by Peter Hart for the Democratic Party and the AFL-CIO have found not only that unemployment is a leading cause of concern to voters but, more important, that many blame Reaganomics for the high jobless rate.

Democratic planners think that unemployment will provide them with a highly visible issue for the mid-term campaigns.

So, this fall you will most likely see — over and over again — a film clip from President Reagan's first State of the Union address. In that February 1981 speech, the president criticized the departed Carter administration for having left 7.8 million Americans unemployed.

If unemployment reaches 10 million by summer, which is now considered likely, this clip will become a very prominent feature of many Democratic campaigns.

Several recent polls of Democrats have found that Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is far ahead in the race for his party's 1984 presidential nomination.

In mid-February, the Callup organization asked Democrats to choose between Kennedy and former Vice President Walter Mondale. Fifty-four percent chose Kennedy, 31 percent chose Mondale and the remaining 15 percent were undecided.

The same poll matched Kennedy against former President Carter as a potential 1984 nominee. Then, 52 percent picked Kennedy, 31 percent picked Carter and 17 percent were undecided.

These results reportedly parallel those of private polls by various potential candidates. It should be noted that Kennedy was also the front-runner in the opinion polls during most of 1979. But he fell behind Carter as campaigning began in earnest.

Last fall Rep. Eugene Atkinson of Pennsylvania announced that he would change parties and seek reelection as a Republican. The GOP greeted this announcement with much glee.

Now the party is faced with the problem of getting Atkinson reelected and is pulling out all the stops to do so.

But some Republicans in Atkinson's western Pennsylvania district have expressed less than all-out support for his candidacy. So, operatives from the national party are trying to bring local GOP leaders into line behind their new convert.

Many administration figures, probably including the president, are likely to make campaign forays into the district between now and Election Day.

Police Watch When Bikers Congregate

WIND POWER

Ron Hamilton, 12, a seventh grader at Lakeview Middle School, Sanford, is shown with his project "Energy and Wind Power" which took him 2 1/2 months to complete for the school science fair.

United Press International
When motorcyclists by the thousands descended on Daytona Beach earlier this month, the ritual event also drew the attention of federal agents from across the country.

Agents from the U.S. Marshal Service were there for a rare surveillance on outlaw biker gangs — suspects in a wide range of criminal activity.

Agents were on hand also in September when more than 100 Hell's Angels, wearing colors from as far away as California and Massachusetts, gathered in Marshville, N.C., for the well publicized funeral of two slain gang members.

Wearing jeans and T-shirts, they mingled among the spectators behind a police cordon. A handful was equipped with sophisticated 35-mm camera equipment. Some of the bikers, well aware of the surveillance, made obscene gestures toward the cameras as they roared out of the parking lot.

Photo surveillance is just one tactic being employed by federal, state and local agents who say they are finding it tough going but getting results in their investigations into drug trafficking, weapons dealing and prostitution by gangs such as the Hell's Angels and the Outlaws.

Les Smith of the Marshal Service at the U.S. Law Enforcement Training Center in Clynco, Ga., said other federal agencies investigating outlaw biker gang activity include the FBI, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the Internal Revenue Service and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

In November, UPI reported that federal, state and local authorities across the country believed outlaw biker groups functioned as organized crime families, and were responsible for a wave of violence. Since that report, a number of arrests and convictions have supported the conclusion of police. But law enforcement authorities contacted recently said they still have a long way to go.

In Cleveland in late November, FBI agents raided two self-storage lockers, seizing an M-16 rifle, an anti-tank rocket, hand grenades, dynamite, two submachine guns, and an assortment of shotguns and handguns. FBI Agent Joseph E. Griffin said the weapons, their serial numbers gone, had been stockpiled by Hell's Angels enforcers for organized crime.

About the same time in Omaha, Neb., five Hells Angels and their associates were convicted of drug and weapons charges in a lengthy federal trial in which prosecutors tried to show they ran an organized drug distribution ring using terror tactics.

In December, in Tampa, Fla., five present or former members of the Outlaws were convicted in federal court for their roles in operating a prostitution ring between Tampa and Meridian.

In February, two brothers whom federal agents said were associated with the Hells Angels in North Carolina were arrested in Newark, N.J., for allegedly trying to sell 200 silencers worth $120,000 to federal agents posing as mobsters.

Also in February, some 50 policemen raided a clubhouse for the Sundowner motorcycle gang in Columbia, S.C., arresting 14 people on gambling, drugs, illegal weapons and stolen property charges.

A South Carolina Hell's Angel and a woman companion were arrested in Durham, N.C., on drug charges in November. Police also said they seized pistols, shotguns and a plastic explosive during the arrest.

In late February, authorities in western North Carolina and Tennessee said they had received intelligence reports that Hell's Angels planned to shuttle prostitutes from North Carolina to Knoxville, Tenn., during the upcoming World's Fair.

The intelligence followed the arrest of three Hell's Angels on drug and weapons charges. Police said they were living in a house that may have been rented for an operations base for the prostitution ring. One of the men was a fugitive on an arrest warrant charging him in the killing of a grocer near Raleigh, N.C. A second man a month earlier had pleaded guilty to assaulting two Charlotte, N.C., reporters covering a Hell's Angels rally.

But the killing and the random violence has also continued, presenting investigators with some of their most difficult cases.

In November, two members of the Outlaws motorcycle gang were shot to death in their Fort Lauderdale, Fla., clubhouse.

In Rock Hill, S.C., just outside of Charlotte in December, the founder of the Charleston, S.C. Hell's Angels chapter was shot to death in December.

In other assorted acts of violence, the Durham, N.C., Hell's Angels clubhouse burned, and authorities suspected arson. Last month in Youngstown, Ohio, an anti-tank grenade was fired into an Outlaws clubhouse. In late February, an Outlaw was critically injured while trying to set off a homemade bomb outside a former Hell's Angels hangout in Charlotte.

"I don't think we're ever going to get to the point where they are all going to take off their vests and disavow their affiliations," said John Westra, head of the ATF office in Charlotte, where Hell's Angels and Outlaws are thought to be fighting a bloody feud. "We're doing the best job we can with the resources we have and I think we're getting results."

Smith, who travels the country giving federal, local and state authorities seminars of biker activities and tactics, said problems with investigating the gangs are many.

"Because the biker gangs are so mobile, most local police can't even identify the individuals involved," he said. "They (the gangs) will move people wanted in one area to another area, redocument them and move them again."

Secrecy has also been a problem, infiltration is almost impossible and motives for violent crimes often cross state lines, befuddling local investigators, he said.

"You either can't find witnesses or the witnesses you have won't testify," Smith said.

The FBI, which has taken over drug investigations from the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, has had its hands full merely trying to identify who belongs to the gangs, one FBI official said.

"Most agencies are just trying to identify them and track them. That's a major problem," said the agent.

Cracking cases is even tougher for local police often saddled with assaults, murders and bombings, Smith said. He said fear by the officers themselves is sometimes a factor.

He said police have raided clubhouses only to discover that the gangs have collected intelligence on them, including names of their family members and where and when they go to work and school.

Lt. Don Andrews, who is investigating the execution-style killing of two Hell's Angels near Asheboro, N.C., last September, said he thinks such crimes may often be impossible to prosecute.

"At some point in time, law enforcement will know who did what, but whether any indictments will be forthcoming is another matter. This will be something extremely difficult to prove," said Andrews.

He suspects that Michael "Thunder" Finazzo, the former leader of the Charlotte Hell's Angels, and an associate were killed by members of their own organization for fouling up a drug deal in Virginia.

Smith said that in recent months the gangs have begun to attract the attention of more federal agencies.

He said the IRS is interested in where illegal profits are going, the marshal's service is taking over the FBI's role in searching for fugitives, while the immigration and naturalization service "has a problem in Canada," with the smuggling of fugitives out of the country.

Smith said some biker gangs are also courting military personnel, particularly those with access to weapons, which has attracted the attention of military authorities.

In North Carolina, where authorities believe as many as 17 unsolved homicides in the past three years are biker-related, the attorney general's office has set up a special task force to help coordinate the intelligence gathering process and pass information along to local police.

"Information from all agencies is now available, that wasn't being shared before," said Andrews. "I think this is a big step forward."

Robert Pence, head of the Charlotte FBI office, said public and police awareness of gang activities also seems to be helping.

"The fact the public recognizes what they are has been a big step, realizing they are not just good time boys," said Pence.

Chicken Snack Broils Sox's Fiery LaRussa

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — Tony LaRussa isn't sure whether it's his hot-blooded Spanish-Italian ancestry or what, but when he gets mad, look out, and his Chicago White Sox were getting him so worked up, he was like one of those missiles on the launching pad with all systems go.

What was getting to him were all the mental mistakes the White Sox were committing in a game with the Twins in Minnesota last summer.

LaRussa was aware the Twins' clubhouse man, Jim Wisner, had gone out specially and spent $150 to buy fried chicken for the White Sox players after the game. He was so disgusted over the way they played, he sent word in during the game there had better not be any chicken for them afterwards.

And there wasn't. The White Sox manager also had told one of his coaches, Ron Schueler, to wait for him after the game and they'd go out and have a bite together somewhere. Schueler waited ... and waited ... and waited. At 1:30 in the morning, with LaRussa still sitting there in his office, Schueler came to the conclusion he wasn't hungry. But Schueler was starved so he went back to the hotel ... alone.

When he came out to the ballpark the next day, LaRussa pulled $150 out of his wallet and gave it to Wisner.

"You got some of that chicken for me now?" he licked his lips in anticipation. "Sorry, Tony," was the answer. "I took it all home."

LaRussa smiles now when he thinks about that episode. Still, he won't argue too much over Schueler's general evaluation of his emotions.

"Tony does get a little excited at times," says the White Sox pitching coach.

Does he ever? But, Ron Schueler, who has known him 11 years, doesn't have to tell him that. He keeps improving as a manager every day, and around the American League the other managers will tell you he's going to get even better, but he's still a little hot-headed at times and he's doing his best to curb that.

"The biggest lesson I learned last year was to try and not get mad during games," he says. "Some guys get mad and it helps them. It wakes 'em up. I used to get mad a lot, but I make a conscious effort not to. I don't think it's a good thing to spend a lotta time ranting and raving. Some managers do that and they forget to think."

A writer offered the names of Earl Weaver and Billy Martin, both of whom would never exactly be described as low key on the bench.

"I've never seen either of 'em miss a trick," was LaRussa's answer.

Last season, umpires threw out LaRussa four times and during the 15 years he played in the majors and minors he estimates he was ejected no more than a half dozen times, so he doesn't go out of his way looking for trouble.

He is outspoken, though, and bone honest along with it ... His players always know how they rate with him.

"I've talked to a lotta people on the subject of getting angry and showing it," LaRussa says. "Paul Richards said to me, 'If you ever get mad at a player, wait until the next day. That's one thing I've never violated.'"

"You ever get mad at yourself?" someone in the White Sox dugout inquired of LaRussa.

"Have I," he laughed, meaning many, many times. "I used to play golf and I'd break clubs. I break racquets when I play racquet ball. I've even broken a mirror in the clubhouse."

"Why do you do it?" a journalist wanted to know.

"It feels good," LaRussa said sheepishly, smiling as he did.

Tony LaRussa manages the same way he played — hard — and he has never abided losing too well in either capacity. At 37, he's one of the youngest managers in the majors. Starting his fourth season with the White Sox, he already has more tenure in the league than anyone else in it with the exception of Weaver at Baltimore and Sparky Anderson at Detroit.

He isn't afraid to ask questions and has spoken to other managers about showing emotion on the bench.

"I talked to Preston Gomez," LaRussa said, "and he told me a manager like Walt Alston was capable of a good deal of emotion but he usually sat on the bench quietly. I tried it a game or two. You know what?" laughed the dark-haired White Sox pilot. "I ended up walking out a maniac."

Burkhart's Trick Pitches Bag 'Noles

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
When Lyman senior Pat Burkhardt ran into early inning trouble against Seminole Wednesday he reached into his bag of tricks.

There were no tricks, though, from Greyhounds Todd Marriott and Tom Perkins. The junior duo unloaded their magic bats to beat the Fighting Seminoles into submission, 8-4, at Lyman in Five Star Conference baseball.

The victory keeps the 'Hounds on the heels of idle Apopka in the conference race. Lyman, 10-2 and 5-1, trails the 6-0 Darters. Seminole is 6-9 and 3-4.

"We just got beat by a better ball club," acknowledged Bobby Lundquist. "Burkhart got off to a shaky start, but he settled down and pitched a good game after that."

The crafty lefthander, who improved his record to 3-1 with a 1.31 earned run average, got a case of the shakes when Tracy Walker lined a double into right center.

The long stroke may have scored Fred Howard who led off the frame with a single, but catcher Brent Smartt had gunned down Howard with a fine throw on a steal attempt.

A wild pitch moved Walker to third and when Brett Von Herbulis lined a shot at John Reich, the 'Hound first baseman misplayed the ball for an error, allowing Walker to score.

Howard handed Lyman the lead in the second, nevertheless, when he threw the ball past first base after Kenny Brown and Marriott had walked and moved up on steals.

Perkins had a sharp one-hopper to Howard and Brown wisely headed for the plate. Howard looked at him then bounced the ball in front of first sacker Robert Burgess as two runs scored and Perkins steamed into third base. Mike "Duck" Sawyer then squeezed a hit to right field against starter and loser Walker for a 3-1 edge.

Seminole deadlocked the game in the second on some excellent base running and some sleepy Greyhound defense. Paul Griffin and Burgess walked.

After a passed ball moved Griffin to third, Terry Russi tried to squeeze home Griffin. Burkhardt, however, picked thumb when he hit the bat trying to throw out a runner stealing third.

Remarkably, he returned in the seventh inning to line a single to left with one hand to keep a rally going which produced the final Seminole run when Jeff Litton grounded into a force out one batter later.

Von Herbulis has now reached base 33 times in 44 official plate appearances.

His one hit tipped his average to .341. His injury was diagnosed as a jammed thumb and Lundquist expects him to be ready for Friday's game at Mainland.

While Marriott and Perkins supplied the batwork, Burkhardt settled down to blank Seminole over the next four innings. At one stretch he retired nine of 11 hitters.

"I started using my curve ball more and some trick pitches after the first two innings," said Burkhardt, whose sidearm fastball and curve kept the Tribe off balance.

Novak 2-Hits Creek

Lyman takes on Lake Brantley Saturday at Altamonte Springs at 1 p.m.

The theme song at Brantley continued to be "As goes Tommy Novak go the Patriots." The senior righthander turned in another stellar performance Wednesday by fanning 10 hitters as the Pats, stopped Spruce Creek, 4-1, on Novak's two-hitter.

Momary's crew squeezed out just two hits, but made the most of some nifty base running and some clutch hitting by Scott Killam.

Brian Wright opened the first inning with a walk, stole second, went to third on the overthrow and scored when John Simas reached on an error.

Simas promptly duplicated Wright's act and flashed home when Killam dropped a perfect squeeze bunt down the third base line.

In the fifth inning, Wright walked, stole second and trotted home on two more throwing errors. In the sixth inning, Simas walked, swiped second and scored on Killam's single up the middle.

Novak was in complete control while raising his record to 4-2. He also lowered his earned run average to 1.81 and raising his strike out total to 49, tops in the county.

Crabs Rout Howell

While 6-8 and 4-3 Brantley was getting solid pitching, Lake Howell hurlers Bill Lang and Billy Stripp were routed as the Hawks dropped an 18-9 verdict to Seabreeze at Howell.

The Sand Crabs put a big 10-spot on the board in the fourth inning to blow away the 7-7 Hawks. Lang walked the bases full before Stripp relieved. Seabreeze sent 14 batters to the plate, using four hits and six walks to pile on the runs.

Center fielder Doug Chiodini had a great day at the plate for Howell with three hits and five RBI. Lang rapped three singles and drove in a run. Jim Royal added a double. Chiodini is now hitting .435 and Lang regained the county lead with a jump to .465.

The Silver Hawks travel to Oviedo Friday for a 3:30 p.m. game.

UPI Names Sampson Best

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Sampson of Virginia, on the verge of joining company with the greatest centers in college basketball history, today was named Player of the Year by United Press International.

It was the second straight year Sampson won the honor. The last player to do so was Bill Walton of UCLA, who was named the nation's top player for three consecutive seasons (1972-74).

In balloting by 160 sports writers and broadcasters, the 7-foot-4 junior was a landslide winner with 121 votes. Terry Cummings of DePaul was second with 22 votes and Kevin Magee of Cal-Irvine was a distant third with 3. "Winning this award is a great honor for me and for the University of Virginia," Sampson said. "It's a tribute to me, my teammates and the coaching staff. The only thing that would mean more would be winning the national championship."

Sampson, who has twice spurned the pros to remain at Virginia, kept his team near the top of the national rankings all season while being named to the All-America team for the second consecutive year. The Cavaliers, with a 30-3 record, a No. 3 ranking and a berth in the NCAA Tournament, relied on Sampson even more heavily this season than they had in the past.

Often double- and triple-teamed, Sampson averaged more than 11 rebounds and nearly 18 points a game this season while shooting 56 percent from the floor. In perhaps his finest game in a 65-60 loss at North Carolina, Sampson was overwhelming — finishing with 30 points and 20 rebounds. And against Tennessee in the second round of the Midwest Regional, he proved he could even leave the pivot if needed. Switching his defensive assignment in the second half, Sampson shut down Dale Ellis, the Volunteers' high-scoring forward, as the Cavaliers advanced to the semifinals of the Midwest Regional.

They were performances that recalled the likes of centers from other decades: Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell of the 1950s, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the 1960s and Walton of the 70s.

"While his statistics aren't as high as last year, people are recognizing the total player more than the glossy stats," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "He's been able to weather all kinds of situations this year and defenses this year without losing his composure. His selflessness on the court sometimes is overlooked because of his talent."

Cummings, a 6-9 junior All-America, was DePaul's source of strength this season. Powerful underneath with the ability to go outside, Cummings averaged more than 21 points and nearly 12 rebounds a game.

Magee averaged more than 25 points and 12 rebounds a game while shooting nearly 64 percent from the floor in carrying Cal-Irvine to a spot in the National Invitation Tournament.

MARCELLO, HOLZWORTH CONQUER GEORGETOWN

Seminole Community College's Rick Marcello combined with Brian Rice and Jody Ryan to stifle Georgetown (Ky.) College, 12-5, at SCC. Marcello (pictured), an ex-Lyman standout, received solid bat support from another Greyhound, Bryan Holzworth, who rapped two hits. Robert Thigpen continued to swing a hot bat with two hits as did Jeff Blanton and Greg Parker. Apopka's Jeff O'Dell stroked a double among his three blows. # Seminole Eyes On Baton Today

All eyes will be on the baton as well as the finish line today when the prestigious Trojan Relays open at Orlando's Maynard Evans High School. Field events will start the action at 4 p.m. In this unique relay format, the scores of the top three performers of the competing school are added together to the winner.

For instance, if Seminole strongman Isaac Williams heaves the shot put 59 feet and two teammates add a 40 and a 35, the Tribe totals 125 feet which would probably make it a runaway winner. The same holds true in the running events expect the times of the four runners which combine for the relay are used. It is in the running events where Tribe boys coach Hank Daviero feels the 'Noles should strut their stuff.

"We have some real good times with our relays," confirmed Daviero. "But Oak Ridge is really tough and so is Evans. If we run well, we'll challenge them I think."

Prep Track

In the 440 relay, Edwards joins fellow senior Lenny Sutton, Joe Whack and freshman Derron Thompson. In the 800 relay, he forms a solid foursome with Bennett, Manley and senior Larry Eason.

Bennett, the Tribe's "Great White Hope" is the holder of Sanford's fastest 100—a 10.2.

The speedy junior attended Sanford's Palmetto Christian the past two years before becoming a Seminole this year. He's been a perfect complement to what is already a strong sprinters corps.

In the sprint medley, Bennett leads off with the 110 split, followed by senior Make Apple with the 220, Thompson with the 330, and junior Torin Williams, "another fast up-and-comer" according to Daviero, with the 440 split.

"I'm really impressed with this relay," said Daviero. "It placed second to Oak Ridge at the Eagle Relays and we'd only run it just that time."

The mile medley is led by Wooten's 2:01 800-split along with Eason and Whack running 200s and Williams adding the 440.

UP, UP, AND AWAY

Seminole catcher Teresa Behrens can't leap high enough to flag down a wild throw during Tuesday's softball game against Lake Howell. The wild throw was the end result of a series of wild tosses which allowed the Silver Hawks to claim a 4-3 victory. Sanford tries to get back on the winning track today at 4 by hosting DeLand at Ft. Mellon Park.

Tech Battles 'Dogs In NIT

United Press International Virginia Tech visits Georgia Thursday night in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament and the winner will go to the semifinals in New York's Madison Square Garden. But Virginia Tech Coach Charlie Moir and his Hokies are a bit upset they must take their 20-10 record on the road again. "It's nice to be in the NIT," said Moir. "But it makes you think they (NIT officials) want certain teams to get there." The Hokies enjoyed a first-round home game, defeating Fordham, 69-58, but they were sent to Mississippi in the second round, where they won, 61-59. When word came the NIT was shipping Tech to Athens, Ga., Moir said only two words: "Dominique Wilkins." "It's obvious they (the NIT) want Dominique to get to New York," said Moir.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Boatright Baffles Darters; Livernois Silences Lions, 13-1

Lake Mary's Terry Boatright ran his record to 3-0 for the year by limiting Apopka to five hits as the Rams turned back the Darters, 6-3, Wednesday at Apopka.

The Rams, 5-3, jumped to a 3-0 lead after three innings. Keith Wallace, Kevin Hill, Mark Chaeay, Barry Hysell and Scott Underwood led the way.

Chaeay chased home two runs, while Hill and Hysell had an RBI. Wallace had two singles and Underwood slammed a triple.

Manager Don Smith's club hosts Lake Howell Friday at Westmonte beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Elsewhere in the county, Lyman's junior varsity Greyhounds remained unbeaten as Derek Livernois lamed Ovidio on a one-hitter, 13-1.

Livernois fanned 13 to improve to 2-0 for the year. He received some strong hitting from Mike Henley and Jody Foster.

Henley rapped a three-run homer and Foster added a solo shot. The losing hurler was Larry Grayson.

Manager Ron Baker's 7-0 squad plays at Lake Brantley Saturday morning at 10:30.

Greyhounds Shear Rams

Coach Karren Newman's Lyman Greyhounds put Lake Mary Rams back in its junior varsity place Wednesday by shearing the Rams, 12-2, in softball action at Lyman.

Left-hander Kathy Richardson gave up first-inning home runs to Andrea Fenning and Kim Averill, but then settled down and didn't give up a hit until the seventh inning.

Ten walks from the 5-2 Rams made things easy along with two errors as catcher Kim Gilliam had the lone Lyman base hit of the inning.

Lyman's Marcie Lewis rapped two hits and drove in two runs while Richardson added a double. 4-3 Lyman hosts Apopka at 4 today.

Hawks Honor Athletes

Lake Howell athletic director Harry Drivas announced the following awards from the Silver Hawks Winter Awards Night which was held March 9.

In varsity basketball, Mark Layton was the leading scorer, Tim Rae had the best free throw percentage and Fletcher McNeil was most improved.

In girls basketball, Grace Johnson was the best defensive player, Christy Scott was the best rebounder and Cynthia Blocker the best playmaker.

For coach Pete LeClair's wrestlers, state contestant Paul Knoblauch had the most tournament points, Dan Rae had the most team points and Jeff Bryant was most improved.

In soccer, Tito Martorell was the outstanding offensive player, John Lauretta was the outstanding defensive player and Robert Scott was most improved.

United Press International
Lou Piniella is the latest occupant of the New York Yankees' doghouse.

Piniella, who was fined $1,000 by Manager Bob Lemon Tuesday for leaving the team's scheduled game against the Texas Rangers without permission, said Wednesday the club had also been fining him $1,000 a day from Feb. 22 through March 1 for failing to get his weight below 200 pounds.

Piniella contended the Yankees had given him a verbal assurance the fines would not go into effect until March 1 (the official starting date of spring training). After Tuesday's fine of $1,000, the outfielder was informed the earlier fines also were being imposed.

"I've worked hard for my money," said Piniella. "I'm sick and tired of this. I was invited here early and I end up getting fined $1,000 a day. I could have stayed home and saved myself $7,000."

Steinbrenner, who was at the Yankees' game Wednesday with the Montreal Expos and heard Piniella's remarks, was equally outspoken.

"Sometimes Lou Piniella needs to be treated like a 19-year-old," Steinbrenner said. "If I'm a man and my employer is paying me $350,000 a year ... I'd sure as hell take 7 pounds off and honor that contract."

In games around the training circuits:

George Foster, who already has expressed his disappointment with the Cincinnati Reds, emphasized the point with his bat Wednesday. He greeted his old teammates with home runs in each of his first two at-bats to lead the New York Mets to a 5-1 victory.

At West Palm Beach, Fla., Dave Hostetler's three-run homer off Ron Guidry in the first inning sparked the Montreal Expos to a 6-4 defeat of the New York Yankees.

At Vero Beach, Fla., the Atlanta Braves snapped a 2-2 tie with three runs in the seventh inning, and went on to win their ninth game in 10 outings, beating the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-2.

At Miami, Fla., Bob Bonner and Cal Ripken Jr. belted home runs and Lenn Sakata collected three hits, to lift the Baltimore Orioles to a 14-3 rout of the Kansas City Royals.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., Juan Berenguer, Mark Bombardieri and Roy Lee Jackson, combined on a five-hitter to lead the Toronto Blue

At Tempe, Ariz., Terry Bulling's two-run single in the sixth inning keyed a four-run rally to help a Seattle Mariners' split-squad defeat the San Diego Padres, 4-2.

At Bradenton, Fla., Tom Paclorok collected three hits, including a three-run, eighth-inning homer, to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-5 Grapefruit League win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At Scottsdale, Ariz., Jack Clark's two-run single in the sixth inning keyed a four-run rally that gave San Francisco an 8-5 victory over Milwaukee.

At Mesa, Ariz., Scot Thompson's two-out single in the bottom of the 11th inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 10-9 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

At Phoenix, Ariz., Rickey Henderson doubled home the tying run in the ninth and the winning run in the 11th in the Oakland A's 7-6 win over the California Angels.

At Lakeland, Fla., Kirk Gibson hit a three-run homer, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 5-0 victory over the Phillies.

In other news, at Orlando, Fla., Al Oliver told Texas Rangers' general manager Eddie Robinson he wanted to be traded. Robinson said he would try his best to do so.

Miss Scott Becomes Bride Of W.T. Burns

Roberta June Scott and William Thomas Burns were united in Holy Matrimony March 6 at Nativity Catholic Church, Lake Mary. The Rev. Father Clement Kuhks performed the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon C. Scott, 112 Mayfair Court, Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Burns, 113 Larkspur Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a chiffon gown over bridal satin. Alencon lace outlined the neckline and cuffs of the full crystal pleated sleeves. The crystal pleated skirt, fashioned along the A-line silhouette, terminated in a chapel sweep. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was secured to a halo of pink roses and baby's breath. She carried a formal cascade of pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath showered with white satin ribbons.

Julie Byrne attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a pastel pink gown styled with a long pleated skirt.

She carried a French hand bouquet of pink, burgundy and white carnations, interspersed with baby's breath and tied with burgundy satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Sandy Scott, sister-in-law of the bride; and Carol Howell, sister of the bridegroom. Their pink gowns and flowers were similar to the honor attendant's.

Bob Burns served his brother as best man. Ushers were David Scott, brother of the bride; and David Howell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Quality Inn North, Longwood. Pat Scott, sister-in-law of the bride, registered the guests in the bride's book.

The couple have returned after a wedding trip to Walt Disney World and Busch Gardens.

They are making their home in Deltona. The bride is employed at Sears, Altamonte Mall. The bridegroom is a machinist at Can Craft Automatics, Longwood.

He 'Fixed' Those Pretty Little Guest Towels

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who lamented that her guests never used her pretty little guest towels, preferring instead to dry their hands on the rug or whatever was handy, brought back memories.

When my wife was living, we didn't entertain much. But when we did, my wife always had the bathroom spotlessly clean, and she laid out her fancy guest towels. Of course, my son and I were admonished not to use them — they were for the guests. However, none of the guests used them either.

Finally, after one party, my wife mentioned that nobody used her guest towels and she seemed hurt about it. The next time we entertained, I went into the bathroom and dried my hands on not one, but two guest towels, and just to make sure they looked "used," I wadded them up and left them in plain view. Sure enough, one or two guests followed my example! The morning after the party, my wife and I were discussing what a good time we had, and she said, "And this time they used the guest towels!"

After that, I always did the same thing, and it worked like magic. I never did tell my wife my secret, bless her heart.

SNEAKY IN INDIANA
DEAR ABBY: I am a very upset and frustrated 15-year-old girl. My parents have forbidden me to date boys of a different religion, but I have been doing it on the sneak and this bothers me.

Dear Abby

I can understand their objections and have no intentions of marrying out of my faith, but I am not considering marriage now.

My parents and I have had some very heated arguments over this. Dating at 15 and marriage are two different things, but my parents can't see it that way.

I am proud of my heritage, and when it's time to look for a husband, I will restrict my dating to men of my own faith. In the meantime, I can't see the harm in dating others.

15 IN SHAKER HEIGHTS
DEAR 15: If you have no intentions of marrying out of your faith, you will avoid a lot of possible heartaches by dating only boys you may one day marry. The heart doesn't care what the head is thinking.

DEAR ABBY: Three of us girls from the office decided to go to a club that features male strippers. I told my boyfriend I was going and he didn't want me to go, but he wouldn't give me a reason. I went anyway just to see what it was like, and I enjoyed it. I didn't get "turned on" like some of the women in the audience appeared to be. I thought it was funny. The audience was more fun to watch than the male strippers.

One of the girls who went with us is married, and she said her husband would not approve of her going to see men strip, so she didn't tell him. The other girl is engaged, and she said her fiance thought it was disgusting.

Now we're asking you, Abby. Why would a man get upset because his wife or girlfriend wanted to see a male stripper?

NORA
DEAR NORA: Probably for the same reason some women get upset because their husbands or boyfriends want to see female strippers. They feel that comparisons will be made and they won't measure up.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion to all those wives who complain because their husbands watch football all weekend. My solution proved to be a salvation to our relationship and to my sanity.

I calmly, without giving him any notice, began to plan activities away from home during the time football games were being watched. This way, I and my children had something fun to do, it kept the children out of my husband's hair, and I didn't have to nag or be his servant while he was glued to the tube. The kids and I have entertained ourselves with concerts, movies, horseback riding, picnics, etc.

After a while, my husband started to feel left out. Also, without me there to provide snacks and background noise, football watching wasn't that much fun.

He still watches football, but not nearly so much. About half the time he joins us, and we're all much happier. So the solution is simple: Learn to entertain yourself. You'll be setting a great example for the kids in the process.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Friday, March 19, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 19, 1982
Over-all conditions look extremely promising for you this coming year...
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Normally you're extremely courteous in dealing with people from all walks of life.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Rather than going along with the crowd today, investigate your individual alternatives.
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
The less visible you make yourself today, the better your chances are for peace and quiet.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you're too stubborn today, you may turn a deaf ear to good advice and continue trying to hammer square pegs into round holes.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Worthwhile opportunities are around you today. Unfortunately, however, you go after the quick and easy "blue sky" promotions, thus gaining nothing.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
An old but abrasive domestic issue should not be resurrected today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Consideration, diplomacy and tact are your traditional tools, yet today you may forget this, and fail by using hard-nosed tactics.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Even if someone wrongs you, your greatest weapon today against the affront is to turn the other cheek.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Quit knocking your head against a brick wall. If something is not bringing in the promised returns, look elsewhere for better results.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't attempt to champion unpopular causes today, no matter how dedicated you are to them.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Something may be wrong with your judgment if you continually come up empty. Try today to change directions and have faith in your decisions.

Iron Requirements Vary Dramatically

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read in your column that 10 mg of iron a day is a good amount. I am 68 years old and take one vitamin tablet a day that contains 18 mg in each tablet. The label says that is 100 percent of the U.S. RDA. Is it too much? Of course this amount is in addition to whatever I get from my food. I have stopped taking the pills and will wait until I hear from you.

DEAR READER - There is no fixed amount of iron for healthy people to take. The recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA) is a guideline for most normal healthy people.

There are four phases in life that can increase the iron requirements: infancy (milk - including mother's milk - contains little iron); during rapid growth as in adolescence; during pregnancy; and in women during the reproductive years because of loss of blood with menstruation (which can be a highly variable amount).

The RDA for a menstruating woman is 18 mg and for other normal adult women and for men it is only 10 mg. Only about a 10th of iron you consume is absorbed. Absorption is highly variable. Some foods, including sources of bulk such as bran, may decrease iron absorption.

A normal adult can usually tolerate 25 to 75 mg of iron in the diet without deleterious effects. In a number of medical conditions, though, this would be hazardous. It could result in storage of iron in the liver such as occurs from too many blood transfusions.

Since there is iron in a number of foods we consume and from iron cookware, had I been asked I would have recommended to the vitamin companies that they limit the amount of iron in vitamin tablets to no more than 10 mg. My alternative suggestion is that people who take iron this way should use a tablet that contains NO iron one day and the iron tablet the second day, averaging an intake of 9 mg a day, or find a preparation that only contains 10 mg of iron. Of course, if your doctor wants you to have more iron for a medical problem that is different.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 44, Iron and Anemia. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Hialeah City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband has gotten into the habit of eating a bedtime snack right before retiring. The snacks range from a piece of fruit to a bowl of ice cream. He says it tides him over until breakfast. I have heard that the calories consumed before bedtime will not be burned up and will contribute to weight gain. What is your opinion on this? Is anything eaten before sleeping beneficial?

DEAR READER - Calories are just like making a deposit in your checking account. It does not make any difference what time of day or week you deposit your calories. If the amount consumed is more than the amount used, the excess will be deposited as fat. The total calorie consumption is what counts. I am aware that this is a common misconception but it is just that, a misconception.

I am not enthusiastic about eating before bedtime because food in the stomach can leak back into the esophagus and cause indigestion in some people. However, if that doesn't happen and the snack helps a person sleep it is far better than a sleeping pill. But the total calorie intake for the entire day must be limited to avoid weight gain.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Table with columns for NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH and various card counts and dealer information.

Vulnerable: Neither Dealer: North

West North East South Pass 27 Pass 10 Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: ♠5

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Soniat

Mark Twain said, "Every-one talks about the weather, but no one does anything about it." In "Modern Bridge Conventions" the authors have tried to cover all phases of bidding. One subject is the so-called "Reverse bid."

Today's hand shows a simple reverse bid by opener. His two-heart bid is a reverse since it shuts out a return to clubs at the two level.

Everyone knows a reverse bid shows extra values. Root and Pavlicek recommend a minimum of 17 points which is normal expert practice. They also follow expert practice in making the bid a one-round force and in requiring that the reverse bidder also promise another bid.

Responder's first duty here is to confirm a five-card suit if he has one. Going one step further the suit rebid is unlimited, but may be made with a rock bottom minimum response as may be the other weakness bid of two notrump.

Opener has 19 HCP. This is two more than he needed for the reverse so he jumps to the spade game. Had he just bid three South would pass with his minimum.

Four spades makes easily, but without this use of reverse bidding the chances are that North would play (two or three notrump and only collect seven tricks.
