Walsh and Heflin To Take Floor Today In Opposition To Appointment of Stone

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—It took an executive session of the senate all afternoon to reach the final decision that the matter of the confirmation of Attorney General Stone as justice of the supreme court would be in open session. Accordingly, the senate will hear Senators Walsh of Montana and Heflin of Alabama, at noon Thursday, and if they get through with the debate, Mr. Stone will be confirmed before adjournment. It is anticipated that more than two-thirds of the senate will vote to confirm.

Senator Walsh's speech, ready for three days, is expected to suggest that the only way in which the senate intelligently can vote on Mr. Stone's fitness for the high court is to wait until the grand jury has acted on the evidence.

Has Little to Go On

Until it is known whether there is justification for a new indictment of the Montana senator, or whether the proceedings in Washington are simply a transformation of the Montana case, the senate has little to go on.

As against this, the administration senators press that the only way the senate could learn the evidence adduced before the grand jury would be by having it revealed to an executive session of the judiciary committee, of which Senator Walsh is a member and that it is not to be expected the government will expose its whole case to the counsel for the defense, as Senator Wheeler also is attorney for Senator Wheeler.

The Stone matter will soon be out of the way, but there remains to be disposed of the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general.

SHOALS BILL IS DELIVERED TO DRAFTING BODY

Conferees Are Tentatively Agreed Upon Underwood's Leasing Provision With Few Minor Changes Made

Underwood Agrees To All of Changes

Thirty Amendments Agreed Upon Including Provision Concerning Ford's Offer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Having reached a tentative agreement on the Underwood leasing bill, the Muscle Shoals conference Wednesday night turned the measure over to the congressional drafting experts.

The conferees will assemble Thursday to consider the re-drafted bill and to discuss points of agreement described as of minor importance.

Fundamental principles of the measure are said to have been retained, but numerous alterations have been made in its terms.

Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, author of the bill appeared before the conference Wednesday and agreed to the changes suggested by the conferees. Afterwards he declared that while the bill would be reported with some amendments, it substantially was the same as passed by the senate.

Agree on Main Provisions

Chairman Keyes, of the conferees said Wednesday night the conference had reached informal agreements on all of the main provisions but it still was disagreed on the language of some portions of the bill. For this reason he said, it was doubtful if the conference report would be completed before early next week.

Thirty amendments have been suggested by the house conferees, including provisions of the bill passed by the house that would have leased the property to Henry Ford, who withdrew his offer before it came to a vote in the senate.

There is considerable sentiment among the conferees that Ford would be induced to submit another bill if the Underwood bill is passed by congress and supporters of his original bill, together with some farm organizations, have announced their intention of attempting to interest a large and influential manufacturer again in the Muscle Shoals project.

Compromise on Council

Senate conferees have agreed to compromise with their colleagues of the house on the proposal to create an advisory council of farmers' representatives to oversee the production and distribution of fertilizer as provided by the measure.

The finished bill is expected to provide for the creation of some liaison agency against the producers and farmers but details have not yet been decided. Appointment of members of the agency is expected to be left to the president instead of designating them as the house bill provided.

Most of the conference alterations are represented as being designated to give the president greater latitude in drawing a lease, for if the executive is restricted, the conferees fear he would be unable to obtain a lease and government operation would be impossible.

Section Four Rewritten

With this in mind, the conference is understood to have rewritten completely section four of the bill regulating the production of fertilizer. It would have required the lessee to produce 40,000 tons of (Continued on Page 8)

INFORMATION ON MUZZLING OF AIR OFFICERS GIVEN

Lowie: Body Hears Unexpected Revelations in Probing Aircraft Industry; Members Of Committee Are Aroused

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A flood of information on the condition of the army and navy air services was turned loose Wednesday with unexpected suddenness before the house committee investigating the aircraft industry, and before the committee adjourned the subject had spread to the army and navy departments and the floor of the house.

The committee members, aroused by charges that army and navy officers had been "muzzled" to prevent their telling the truth about the efficiency of aircraft in war, shifted rapidly at today's hearing, from one phase of the situation to another, and announced their intention to sift the matter to the bottom.

The committee obtained and made public a "confidential letter" in which Secretary Weeks asked that Brig. Gen. Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, furnish all facts on which he based recent statements "seriously reflecting" on the army air service and its administration in his testimony supporting unified control of the government's air service.

It also considered in executive session a resolution to place it on record as regarding removal of General Mitchell from his present position as detrimental to the army air service, but action on it went over until today. Such a charge in General Mitchell's status would return him to the rank of colonel.

Representative Perkins, Republican, New Jersey, the committee examiner, announced that three naval officers had asked not to be summoned for testimony, as they could not give their honest views for fear of being disciplined, and he stated that they had been informed unofficially that Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department, and Brig. Gen. Mitchell were to be transferred from their present assignments.

Secretary Wilbur issued a flat denial that the navy departments attempted to exercise any censorship whatever over the testimony of naval officers testifying before congressional committees. Secretary Weeks, however, refused to comment on the subject, although he indicated that when General Mitchell's reply is before him he will make a public statement and setting forth his decision and setting forth reasons for it.

Representative Reid of Illinois, a Republican on the aircraft committee, charged at the committee session that the investigation had not been treated with "open and above-board" tactics by the army, and Representative Curry, Republican, California, author of a bill pending before the military committee to create a unified air service, issued a statement challenging the "older service" of the army and navy, "to order tests covering the entire field in Mitchell's testimony."

Among other things, General Mitchell recently told the committee that certain officers were afraid "to tell the truth" about aircraft through a fear of being disciplined "indirectly" through transfer to less favored posts, and Mr. Perkins said today that one of the naval officers who asked not to be called told him if he testified as he believed—"well, Guam is a long distance away."

Representative Hull of Iowa, a Republican member of the military committee, declared in his house that it would be "unfortunate" if officers were prevented from coming before congressional committees to tell the truth.

Representative Anthony, Republican, Kansas, in charge of the army appropriation bill, also told the house that being the policy of both war and navy departments to place restrictions on officers as to testimony, and that his committee had found it "extremely difficult" to obtain straightforward or confidential information.

Plan To Place Whole Amount of Proposed Road Bond Issue Up In One Election

Road Program Will Cover Three Years

Will Expend $750,000 In First Year And $500,000 In Next 2

Plans for the expenditure of $1,750,000 for a hard surfaced road system in Seminole county, were laid at a special meeting of the Seminole County Commissioners on Wednesday. The recommendation by the Chamber of Commerce, which placed the sum involved at $1,500,000 and outlined a system of roads to be surfaced, was taken as a basis and enlarged.

County Engineer Fred T. Williams was directed to proceed with the survey preliminary to the work as quickly as possible. Likewise, instructions were given to County Attorney George A. DeCottes to prepare the call for the election. Other arrangements will be perfected at a later meeting.

Plan Three Year Program

The plan adopted by the commissioners calls for an election for the amount of $1,750,000. Of this amount $750,000 will be sold and placed in improvements during the first year of the program, which covers three years. The amount of the bonds to be sold during each of the two ensuing years is $500,000, according to the plan. The entire amount will be voted upon at one election.

The commission spent virtually the whole of the special session considering the plan. Roads as proposed in the chamber recommendations were given careful consideration while individuals who appeared before the commission were asked to make their recommendations. The names of those included in the plan, being listed and will be published shortly.

To Confer on Road No. 3

At the regular meeting Tuesday Commissioner C. W. Entminger, Mr. DeCottes and E. A. Douglas were appointed to confer with the State Highway Department relative to the right of way for state highway Number Three through the county.

In response to a request B. F. Whittier, Jr., that the county be represented at the Orlando Fair an appropriation of $250 was made to defray expenses.

Various bills and operating expenses for the county were brought before the commission and disposed of during the routine business session.

Members New York Family Prepare For Millennium Which Is Predicted To Begin After Mid-Night

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Six members of Robert Reidy's family, for many years residents of this quiet little Long Island community, completed preparation Wednesday to greet the millennium, due, in their belief, some time shortly after midnight Thursday night.

Reidy, known among his neighbors as "Forehand" man, said he will make a pilgrimage up a nearby hill at 11 o'clock Thursday night to be ready for any emergency. With the coming of Jesus, he said, a cloud chariot would call for him at the hill and transport him, his wife and their four children to Hollywood, Calif., home of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, leader of the Holy Land which has sincere faith in the truth of the prediction that the earth and all things temporal are to end some time Friday.

Reidy, a former member of the church of the Seventh Day Adventists, by whom he was disestablished recently, is the man who a few days ago disposed of his household effects to a second hand dealer in the conviction, that, with the coming of the millennium, he would have further use for them. He safeguarded against a misarrangement of the right to repurchase his effects should he fail to leave the vicinity on scheduled time.

Junior Chamber To Help In Disposing Baseball Tickets

Plans for aiding the sale of season tickets for exhibition games to be played in Sanford

Plans for aiding the sale of season tickets for exhibition games to be played in Sanford by the Milwaukee baseball club and other teams training in this state, were made at the weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Seminole Cafe Thursday noon.

Chairman of the various standing committees pledged efforts of the group in pushing the sale of tickets, which have already been received here. Each book of tickets will cost $5 which will give admittance to nine games, all of which will be hotly contested affairs and well worth the price, it is declared.

Continued efforts to secure suitable railroad crossing signals for the crossings in this city, were determined upon by members of the body in agreeing with President Spencer that two or three of the crossings in Sanford are as dangerous, if not more so, than any in the state.

Progress along the general line of beautification work in the city was reported by E. A. King, chairman of the Beautification Committee. He stated that certain lots in the business section where numerous old automobiles and other unsightly objects are stored are to be cleaned within the next 30 days by city officials.

Objection was voiced by L. C. Bebout to the fact that cows are allowed to roam the streets in the residential section and asked the body to take steps to seek co-operation of citizens in putting to an end the practice which was called a nuisance.

Several new members, among them, Dr. A. W. Eppes, Dr. Parks, Ray Durden and L. M. Stephenson, were present and made short talks.

Women's Club Players Delve Into Psycho-Analysis In One Act Play

(By M. S. Page.)

It is hard to write a review of a mail order catalogue when one is addicted to shopping at second-hand stores; it is hard to do justice to the "Covered Wagon" when one's ideas of western life were derived from Nick Carter and likewise it is a mean job to tackle Freud, or to be more exact, "Suppressed Desires" which is one of his by-products, when one's idea of the constants in literary art is "Gunga Din."

Suppressed Desires is a very clever take-off on the so-called school psychologists who "fall" for "psycho-analysis."

Presented with equal cleverness at the Woman's Club auditorium Wednesday afternoon.

Of course, a dramatic critic must first fault to prove to critic world that he is a critic. Accordingly, the husband in the skit, which was played by Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, in a wooden character, devoid of human emotions. There is no aspersions upon Mrs. Maxwell; her rendition was excellent. The suffering husband's suppressed desire, engendered by a practice of his wife of waking him at all hours at night, to inquire what his dreams were, was for "freedom," and not to commit murder as a normal human being would feel like doing.

A psycho-analyst is brought in to the play with effect. He is the court of final appeal; his theories form the main spring of the existence of the wife, which character was recreated by Mrs. J. W. Barnes. Their Cousin Mahel, of Chicago, played by Miss Naomi Scoggin, provides an amusing and touching victim of the theories that form the theme of the skit.

The comedy abounds in humor of a higher sort, probably a mixture of irony, sarcasm and envy. One must be cynical in order to be properly satirical and ironical. It was presented in a highly creditable manner which reflected considerable thought, effort and ability.

BIG RUSH NOW IS ON FOR FLORIDA SAYS LOCAL MAN

H. C. DuBoise, Home From Visit to Washington, Says State Is Mecca for Thousand Refugees From Cold Winds

A picture of cold weather in the national capitol, the rush of people south and the devastation wrought in southern Georgia by floods was drawn Thursday morning by H. C. DuBoise, Sanford business man, who returned a short time ago from a mission conference of Protestant churches held in Washington.

When he stepped from the train he entered a temperature of three degrees above zero, the second time in his life Washington has given him such a reception. Transportation facilities were tied up and a walk became necessary. Rubber heels and sheet covered sidewalks made the going precarious until rubbers of special design to combat slippiness of sidewalks were procured.

Washington, however, Mr. DuBoise said, was making the most of the cold weather. "Baseball" games on a scale, in the first rink in the world, which is a part of the Lincoln memorial and other winter sports were the means employed. The Potomac river was frozen and boys skated across it with impunity.

Mr. DuBoise, with a woman delegate from St. Petersburg, represented the state at the conference. President Coolidge gave the opening address and received an ovation, which was prolonged as it was given to Woodrow Wilson when one of the speakers mentioned his "Fourteen Points" as one of the greatest humanitarian efforts in history.

Attendance is large. The auditorium, in which the convention was held, contained space for 8,000 persons and was filled throughout the session despite the inclemency of the weather. Radio amplification enabled those in the auditorium to hear perfectly the speakers.

Mr. DuBoise declared that Florida in everyone's mind. He quoted a porter in saying that one could always distinguish the trains (Continued on Page 8)

Club To Open Exchange Soon In Downtown Store; Plans Laid for Millinery Class and Exhibition of Styles Here

(By Mrs. E. A. Douglas.)

A large number of the members of the Woman's Club were present on Wednesday afternoon at the regular business meeting, which indicated that the members are intensely interested in all departments of club activities. Mrs. Henry Wight, the president was in the chair and after reading of the minutes by the secretary, reports from different chairmen were heard.

Mrs. W. M. Scott, finance chairman, reported that over 300 copies of the "Garden Year," the club calendar, had been sold during the last month. Mrs. W. A. Pitts, membership chairman, reported that 38 new names had been voted on for club membership and specially requested that all members pay their dues at this meeting of the club year, which is March 1.

Mrs. Wight reminded the club that now members were invited into the organization and asked for a spirit of cordiality towards them. The third vice-president, who is program chairman, reported that it was a source of gratification that the program as laid out in the year book, was being carried out in full.

Mrs. Galloway also reported that a teacher for the dressmaking and millinery classes could be secured free of charge and the only expense would be $1 for each member of the class to pay for incidental expenses in connection with the classes. It was also suggested that a fashion show should be held to display the work of the classes.

The club voted to begin their (Continued on Page 8)

Local Girl Leading Field In Sanford Shriners' Contest

Standing of candidates in the "Miss Shriners" contest being conducted by the Sanford Shrine Club in connection with the evening Shrine Circus, as compiled Thursday morning, shows that Miss Luba Williams, of Sanford, is leading with Miss Mina Williams of Eustis, a close second. The other contenders in their respective order are: Miss Margaret Power, of Deland; Miss Alberta Aycock, Miss Gladys Wilson, Mrs. O. W. Gilbert, Mrs. Frank Donaldson and Miss LeClair Jones, all of Sanford.

Telephone advices from Orlando indicate that Miss Mary Acits, an active contestant there, will come to the front by the end of the week while another Orlando entry, Miss Lucille Lester, gives promise of becoming one of the leaders. Other entries are Miss McLucas and Miss Norrine Shims, of Mt. Dora, Mrs. Jenkins of Oviedo; Miss Pauline West of Oviedo, and Miss Lillian District of Winter Park.

The contestants are selling advance tickets to the Shrine Circus which is to be given for 9 days on the Lake front near the Clyde dock beginning on Feb. 10. Judging by the wide distribution of tickets in the other central Florida cities, Sanford is to be the host to thousands of people of Central Florida. Reports which have been received from St. Petersburg and Palm Beach indicate that Sanford is to witness an unusually good circus, which is all of professional talent. The business end is handled entirely by the local Shriners.

One city, Eustis, has already asked for and has been assigned one day of the six days, to be known as Eustis day, and the Shriners and their friends have already chartered several busses for the motorcade which will bring the Eustis party to Sanford. Other days will be assigned to Mt. Dora and Orlando, but the dates have as yet not been set.

POLICE QUESTION 60 STUDENTS WHO FILLED CAPSULES

Authorities Plan Vigorous Investigation to Ascertain Those Responsible For The Death of One Student

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—Police today prepared to question the first of more than 60 Ohio State University students, who last week worked in the pharmacy dispensary from which capsules, some containing poisons, were used to fill prescriptions written by the university student health service, which has caused the death of at least one student and serious illness to several others.

As a result, university officials this afternoon turned the official investigation of the situation over to Columbus police authorities.

Co-operation Is Pledged

They promptly placed every faculty of the institution at the disposal of the police and pledged their heartiest co-operation.

President W. O. Thompson, after issuing a statement insisting that there was no cause for alarm, did these things:

Ordered a complete chemical analysis of all remaining medicine of the kind issued to the students affected.

Ordered that all further issuance of such medicine remaining in the college of pharmacy where it was made up should cease.

The police Wednesday night questioned Dean E. F. McCampbell of the College of Medicine, George D. Thompson, of Canton, the last student taken violently ill, and arranged tomorrow to question all students in the college of pharmacy who have been on duty in the dispensary in the last two weeks.

Discovery of definite traces of strychnine in the stomach of Pusken made it certain that the poison was involved in at least three of the five or six more serious cases which have developed since last Thursday. But chemical tests of nearly two-dozen of the capsules issued for treatment of colds failed to reveal any trace of the poison except in one capsule. This capsule, one of a number issued to Timothy J. McCarthy, of Fremont, Ohio, varsity football player, last week, was said to contain nothing but poison. It is believed to have caused McCarthy to become violently ill last Thursday.

Poison was found in the stomach of Thompson, who was taken suddenly ill Tuesday under circumstances similar to those in other cases.

Exact cause of the deaths of Charles H. Huls of Logan, O., who died last Saturday in convulsions, and of the violent illness of Harold E. Gillig of Tiffin, O., a sophomore, has not been determined. Capsules of the same kind were prescribed for them.

Hul's death at first was ascribed to tetanus. That of Pusken, after a post mortem, was attributed to meningitis.

Dean Campbell Wednesday explained apparent conflict by saying that the symptoms in all three diseases might be mistaken for the other.

How or why the poison was included in the medicine is a mystery. Students who are treated at the university health service office are only given prescriptions there. These are filled at the college of Pharmacy dispensary. Medicine compounded at this dispensary is always made up under the direct supervision of faculty members, all of whom are registered pharmacists, officials pointed out.

Plan To Place Whole Amount of Proposed Road Bond Issue Up In One Election

Road Program Will Cover Three Years

Will Expend $750,000 In First Year And $500,000 In Next 2

Plans for the expenditure of $1,750,000 for a hard surfaced road system in Seminole county, were laid at a special meeting of the Seminole County Commissioners on Wednesday. The plan adopted by the commissioners calls for an election for the amount of $1,750,000. The amount of the bonds to be sold during each of the two ensuing years is $500,000, according to the plan. The entire amount will be voted upon at one election.

The commission spent virtually the whole of the special session considering the plan. Roads as proposed in the chamber recommendations were given careful consideration while individuals who appeared before the commission were asked to make their recommendations. The names of those included in the plan, being listed and will be published shortly.

To Confer on Road No. 3

At the regular meeting Tuesday Commissioner C. W. Entminger, Mr. DeCottes and E. A. Douglas were appointed to confer with the State Highway Department relative to the right of way for state highway Number Three through the county.

In response to a request B. F. Whittier, Jr., that the county be represented at the Orlando Fair an appropriation of $250 was made to defray expenses.

Various bills and operating expenses for the county were brought before the commission and disposed of during the routine business session.

WORLD TO COME TO END TONIGHT, SIX READY TO DIE

Members New York Family Prepare For Millennium Which Is Predicted To Begin After Mid-Night

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Six members of Robert Reidy's family, for many years residents of this quiet little Long Island community, completed preparation Wednesday to greet the millennium, due, in their belief, some time shortly after midnight Thursday night.

Reidy, known among his neighbors as "Forehand" man, said he will make a pilgrimage up a nearby hill at 11 o'clock Thursday night to be ready for any emergency. With the coming of Jesus, he said, a cloud chariot would call for him at the hill and transport him, his wife and their four children to Hollywood, Calif., home of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, leader of the Holy Land which has sincere faith in the truth of the prediction that the earth and all things temporal are to end some time Friday.

Reidy, a former member of the church of the Seventh Day Adventists, by whom he was disestablished recently, is the man who a few days ago disposed of his household effects to a second hand dealer in the conviction, that, with the coming of the millennium, he would have further use for them. He safeguarded against a misarrangement of the right to repurchase his effects should he fail to leave the vicinity on scheduled time.

Junior Chamber To Help In Disposing Baseball Tickets

Plans for aiding the sale of season tickets for exhibition games to be played in Sanford

Plans for aiding the sale of season tickets for exhibition games to be played in Sanford by the Milwaukee baseball club and other teams training in this state, were made at the weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Seminole Cafe Thursday noon.

Chairman of the various standing committees pledged efforts of the group in pushing the sale of tickets, which have already been received here. Each book of tickets will cost $5 which will give admittance to nine games, all of which will be hotly contested affairs and well worth the price, it is declared.

Continued efforts to secure suitable railroad crossing signals for the crossings in this city, were determined upon by members of the body in agreeing with President Spencer that two or three of the crossings in Sanford are as dangerous, if not more so, than any in the state.

Progress along the general line of beautification work in the city was reported by E. A. King, chairman of the Beautification Committee. He stated that certain lots in the business section where numerous old automobiles and other unsightly objects are stored are to be cleaned within the next 30 days by city officials.

Objection was voiced by L. C. Bebout to the fact that cows are allowed to roam the streets in the residential section and asked the body to take steps to seek co-operation of citizens in putting to an end the practice which was called a nuisance.

Several new members, among them, Dr. A. W. Eppes, Dr. Parks, Ray Durden and L. M. Stephenson, were present and made short talks.

MAINE GOVERNOR SAYS ALL EYES ON THIS STATE NOW

Writes Governor Martin That Is Receiving Publicity By Being Held Up As An Example of Spirit of Progress

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 5.—Florida is on everyone's lips, writes Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, in a letter to Gov. John W. Martin of this state. "We are giving Florida a great deal of free advertising now as we are preening all over the state that we must learn to emulate its example in these days just ahead," the letter, dated Jan. 24, reads. "Imitation," it adds, "is the sincerest flattery."

The Maine Governor was a visitor to Florida last fall when he attended the governors' conference at Jacksonville Nov. 17-18 and later toured the state with the party that spent a week or more in visiting the principal cities of the West and East. Brewster urged Gov. and Mrs. Martin to visit Maine. "I cannot promise to exceed your hospitality," he said, "but we shall do our best to equal it here in the State of Maine."

"We have had it forty below here in our state this past week and we are feeling fine," the letter continued. "I walked one-half mile or so in the face of a biting wind and snow storm yesterday visiting one of the institutions of our state, as an automobile and sleigh were both obliged to give it up on account of the drifts, and thoroughly enjoyed the experience. You must come up in January or February sometime and trail me for a week or so and learn something of the joys of life. You may assure Mrs. Martin that it will not injure your complexion in any way."

He added, however, that the story would be different in June "when we hope to have you and the other governors here."

Rollins Begins Second Semester Of 40th Year Of Life

WINTER PARK, Feb. 5.—Rollins College opened the second semester of its fortieth year Monday and now starts out on the final lap of the year's work. As is customary all students were registered although the majority of courses are a continuation of those begun last September.

A sharp increase in registration was made possible through the registration of a number of students transferring from Columbia University, University of Tennessee and Oberlin.

One of the features of the new semester is the basketball trip through Georgia and South Carolina which the vars began Tuesday.

In speaking of the close of the first semester President Weir expressed satisfaction at the solid work done by students covering that period and predicted a most satisfactory session just beginning.

FORT MELLON

A Residential Paradise

THE ACME OF HOMESITE PERFECTION!

PERMANENT restrictions on Fort Mellon property assure investors of absolute safety from all annoyances and inconveniences which might tend to mar the perfect charm connected with the thought of a homesite in this section. Located on high ground and commanding an extensive view of the lapping waters of beautiful Lake Monroe, the supremacy of this subdivision from a healthful or artistic viewpoint is unquestionably indisputable. The Promoters are offering excellent residential lots, easily within reach of moderate means, which are ideally situated for the construction of permanent homes and the rearing of children. In accordance with the beautification program, trees will be planted, parks constructed, and streets paved, so as to make this a thing of remarkable beauty within the city limits. The present low price of lots should be an irresistible inducement to the home seeker to secure for himself a location whereon later to build, before adjacent developments make Fort Mellon values too high for the average investor. The rapidity with which wise men have snatched up these bargains should be ample evidence of the true merit of Fort Mellon property.

$250

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS will make the first payment on a fifteen hundred dollar lot in Sanford's Superior Subdivision where attractive homesites lure investors from other sections of the city by untold investment opportunities. We have lots now selling as low as $1000, which can be bought on easy terms. Gaze briefly into the future to see the value of these lots when First Street has been paved to Mellonville Avenue and the new hotel, nearby, has been completed.

Where is Fort Mellon?

FORT MELLON is located near the intersection of Union Avenue and Mellonville Avenue. It is the site of the Historic Fort Mellon where General Mellen once repelled a strenuous Indian attack at the cost of his own life. It is located on high ground rising gently but steadily from the shores of Lake Monroe, making an incomparable setting for a beautiful homesite. It is within a few blocks of the site for the new hotel and quite in line with the proposed developments of the Sanford-Hotel Realty Company of the East Side properties. Fort Mellon is offering a superb opportunity for money making investments.

Why Should You Buy Now?

THE UNPRECEDENTED sale of Fort Mellon lots increases the likelihood of immediate rise in realty values. Already lots in this entire subdivision have increased ten per cent since they were put on sale. If you can visualize the future with any degree of accuracy, you will see two or three years hence a Sanford of thirty thousand population. You will see the business district built up almost to the very borders of Fort Mellon. It is impossible to estimate what property in this section will sell for at that time, but it is safe to predict that fortunes will be made by early investors in Sanford's Finest Subdivision.

Old Neighbor Dobbins has a sow, As fine as fine can be. They say she weighs a thousand pounds, An' has a pedigree; She has a dozen baby pigs, Plum beauties, I declare! But what's the use of telling this? You'll see them at the fair!

Old Andy Jones, the chicken man, That lives across the way, He has a hen that takes the cake, Lays once or twice a day; At least, that's what old Andy says, And Andy wouldn't dare To lie about his hen, because He'll have her at the fair!

Old Farmer Brown has raised some corn, That knocks the record flat; The ears are 20 inches long— Well, maybe hardly that— But, anyway, there ain't no corn Can beat it anywhere. But what's the use of tellin' this? You'll see it at the fair!

The Coming of...

Everyone nowadays is writing syndicated articles for the newspapers; either that, or special articles for some particular publication. It is really quite the thing among those folks who would get their names in the papers anyway. They take it with the same ardor that the same kind of people developed appendixes a few years ago and then had them cut out.

During the political disturbance in New York last summer, W. J. Bryan, who has more fame as a politician than a litterateur, adorned the pages of the Hearst papers with articles on the Democratic outlook. Gene Sarazen, whose strokes with a mashie-niblick are considerably superior to those with his favorite fountain pen, contributes daily articles on how to sink the third putt. Even Peggy Joyce, many times divorcee, advises through the newspaper columns how to make love artistically, and Gilda Grey, shimmy queen, writes at length on reducing contours.

Most of these are, in the language of the plebs, the bunk. Most of them are mere space killers, or are used for the purpose of attracting a few additional readers of some particular class who cannot be interested by the ordinary news of the day. But a few of them furnish reading matter which has some appeal to the intellect and which shows considerable knowledge of human nature and the trend of national events. Bryan's articles last summer were among these. Those of Will Rogers, now writing for the New York World, are others. In a recent contribution he describes in his own inimitable way the rapid expansion of the automobile business. He says in part:

"Nineteen hundred and fourteen saw several changes in this great vehicular movement. The Ford Company passed its first 1,000 a day production. People thought then, My Lord, will they ever stop turning those things out! They were like Japs, they were multiplying something terrible. So America woke up and said, we got to have somewhere to put these things, and somebody thought of the idea of building roads to store them on, so they commenced to make roads. And as fast as they would make roads, why, Uncle Henry would clutter them up with these Things. It got so it was the entire Nation organized against one lone man. Every State said to themselves: "We will build some vacant roads," but the minute they got 'em built, why, they found there were thousands of people there waiting to twist a mechanical thing's tail and away it would go and fill up their road, just as much as it had been with Rocks and Trees before they had built it. He has filled every road that was ever built. I don't care where you try to hide a road, why, one of Mr. Ford's Road fillers will find it."

If you will look deep behind the smile on Will Rogers' face, you will see there something surprisingly true about what he says. We built roads to find space to put the automobiles being turned out in great numbers by the manufacturers. And after all that is just about what we did. Certainly if it hadn't been for the development of automobiles and their wide-spread use, very few roads would have been constructed and those which were, would have been of the old wagon-road variety of a quarter of a century ago.

Indeed it is true, and you can readily see if you think along this line a little further, that the invention of the automobile and its subsequent development, has effected vast changes in our nation and has completely revolutionized our society.

Merely Following Precedent

Inasmuch as the Laws of Florida are built upon old English laws, it should not be surprising to find Florida office-holders here and there imbued with the idea that they still have the prerogatives of the keeper of the Tower of London.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth the salary of the keeper of the Tower of London was about five hundred dollars a year. In addition to this he received all the government allowances made to offenders of high rank who were too proud to accept the gratuity. All cattle, too, that slipped off London Bridge, all carts that fell into the moat, all flotsam and jetsam in the Thames, two flags of wine from every vessel arriving from Bordeaux, and many other things were included in his fees.

The cop who feels privileged to pillage a fruit stand, the congressman who grafts his meals and his railroad fare, the occupants of many places of public trust will never get over that notion that they, too, are entitled to "all the carts that fall into the moat."

WHEN WE build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for the present delight, not for the present use alone. Let it be such work as our descendants will thank us for, and let us think, as we lay stone on stone, that a time is to come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look the labor and wrought substance of them: "See! This our Fathers did for us."—John Ruskin.

No star ever rose or set without influence somewhere.—Meredith.

"... PRETTY, BUT IT IS ART?" NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

The director of one of our more important art galleries was speaking the other night in Pittsburgh on the subject of craftsmanship, and after his talk he was approached by a glass manufacturer. "Where," said the latter, "can I get a first-class glass engraver? Of course, I might go to Bohemia—but well, it seems as if there ought to be Americans who would like and know how to do the chasing work on fine glass."

The next evening the same director spoke in Cleveland. After his lecture a gun manufacturer came round to see if he couldn't give him the name and address of an experienced man in the craft of engraving the smooth blue steel of fine shotgun barrels.

Meanwhile the woods are more or less full of young men who may be good painters or sculptors some day, and certainly could be good craftsmen in silver, glass, wood or what not, and who meanwhile will starve at the one task rather than stoop to the other.

Where so many clever young people who might some day have done "serious" work are beguiled by the easy money to be had by those who catch the knack of turning out just the right sort of pretty girls for magazine covers and advertising it may seem unnecessary to urge the claims of commercialism. Not only seems so but is. The point here lies in the common misconception of how "serious" and "artistic" a craft

As Nitrogen Does

Nitrogen, or Power? Ford Puts It Plainly. Looks Like Monopoly, Now. Up to the President. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

AT THE request of the War Department Henry Ford offered to develop the power plant, built by the people at Muscle Shoals to provide nitrogen for the atmosphere for use in war time. Nitrogen can be made into explosives for war and fertilizer for peace.

Politicians in Washington rejected Ford's offer, although the entire South and all the farmers demanded that the Government accept it. Ford, wearied of Washington's vacillation, withdrew his offer.

And the Muscle Shoals plant, as things now stand, is scheduled to be put under the control of a great power monopoly.

EVERY VOTER in this country should read, and remember, until next election, Henry Ford's statement concerning Muscle Shoals. It was made yesterday, in response to a message from W. R. Hearst urging Ford to re-enter the Muscle Shoals contest, and again try to rescue the people's property from selfish exploiters.

THE SITUATION is clear, the President must see it plainly. And fortunately, private monopolists cannot seize this public property without the President's consent. Should Muscle Shoals go to the power monopoly, that concern will be directly indebted to President Coolidge.

THESE ARE POINTS in Henry Ford's statement that interest every American.

"I am willing to co-operate with the Government in developing Muscle Shoals into a great nitrate plant, making cheap fertilizer for the American farmer."

"In my opinion, the Shoals should be used for the production of nitrate and fertilizer."

"I believe that the Government could itself keep Muscle Shoals and run it, not as a power plant but as a nitrate plant, to help the farmers in peace and safeguard the country in war. The people of the United States spent $140,000,000 to create a government nitrate plant, not a power house. We should not lose sight of the original and biggest reason for Muscle Shoals being built."

"If the Government keeps Muscle Shoals and operates the nitrate plant by the army and navy, I shall be glad to put at their service all that the Ford company has of knowledge and experience. Our engineers have been working for three years on the problem of making cheap nitrogen from the air for farmers. We believe we have discovered improvements on the present processes. We believe air nitrate can be made at a price that will materially reduce the cost of fertilizer on the farm."

The Ford company will turn over to the Government, without cost, the results of its research. We will lead the way to help build up an efficient organization to run the Shoals. As a citizen's duty, we worked with the army and navy during the war. We are ready to give the same co-operation to the Government in aid of the farmers now, cost free, to the Government."

"Our open letter, made at Government request, was based on public service principles with a view to developing, maintaining and turning back to the Government a great public utility and development asset. This cannot be done under the system of private profit only that now rules business."

"It is a mistake to say that the Government cannot run the nitrate plant as well as any private party. This is the very kind of business the Government ought to engage in. Electro-chemical methods of air nitrogen fixation do not require great forces of employees. It is a straight job of letting the forces of nature work for you. The Government has as good men as there are in this field. We talked with some of them when we were figuring on the Shoals."

"If the Government keeps Muscle Shoals and runs it for the farmers, I will help, so far as technical help goes, just as much as I could have helped if I had taken the property over."

"HENRY FORD."

IN HIS appeal, sent to Henry Ford by wire, Mr. Hearst said: "I know how public spirited you are and how much you have at heart the welfare of our country and our people."

"I know that in your former attitude toward the Muscle Shoals enterprise you were animated mainly by a desire further to benefit the people of this country, and particularly the farmers, whom you hold so closely in your consideration."

"I know that you have lost none of this desire to serve, and I think that the situation in Washington that has developed in regard to the Muscle Shoals enterprise would again warrant your attention in the public interest."

EVERY FARMER and every other good citizen in the country should write to President Coolidge urging him to keep Muscle Shoals out of the hands of monopolistic exploiters.

It is understood that the President does not believe in public ownership, perhaps because his knowledge of politicians convinces him that they can't be trusted with a dollar.

But the President surely does not believe in turning over a $140,000,000 public investment to be exploited by private monopolists, whose record for public exploitation is notorious.

THE QUESTION is, "Shall Muscle Shoals, which the people own, be developed primarily as a nitrogen producing plant, and sec-

INVESTMENTS IN FLORIDA

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

It is a pretty generally understood fact that the people who have grown up with, or long lived in, a community may not realize and grasp that community's possibilities and certain future as fully as may others from a distance who see it for the first time and in a large way.

The home folks may not be free from the impress of the periods of small things, and perhaps struggles to get things going, and they may be less acquainted with the winter conditions that shape the trend of things towards them. The observant outsider may be well acquainted with these conditions and trends and may therefore judge better than we what is coming, and why.

The people of St. Petersburg and of South Florida are fully aware of the immense drive of development and growth of this region, but there are evidences that some do not quite understand it. There are those who shake their heads and wonder "how long can it keep up?"

Some light came to us in these premises the other day when he heard Governor Martin say that during the three weeks he has been our executive he has signed an average of 52 business corporation charters each day. These corporations are located all over Florida, but mostly in South Florida, and all are for purposes of constructive progress of some kind, and mean in the aggregate a vast investment of outside capital. But who can have any notion of how vast that is? We did not have, and then came more light from another source—veritably a blinding blaze of it.

A man of high position in the great financial world of the north in conversation asked if we had any knowledge of how much northern money was invested in Florida in 1924, and by way of comparison he told us: There were $19,000,000 invested in North Carolina. There were $8,000,000 invested in Georgia. And there were $150,000,000 invested in Florida.

These two statements, of the governor and of the financier, will tell the average citizen the story of Florida as he probably has not even dreamed it. The sources of this huge stream of Florida investments is not among gamblers or speculators, but the ablest and soundest business men and institutions in the country. They know what the future holds for Florida, and they are investing their money accordingly. And if they are confident, why should any of our home folks be afraid?

WALTER HAGEN WINS WORLD'S GOLFING TITLE

Cyril Walker, American Open Champion, Defeated by An Overwhelming Score of 12 Up and 15 Holes to Play

Consistent Game Is Played by the Victor

Hagen Never Leaves an Opening Through Which Walker Could Play to Cut Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 5.—Walter Hagen added the coveted title of the golf champion of the world to the already long list of honors he has held during the past 10 years by defeating Cyril Walker, the American open champion in the final 36 holes of their scheduled 72 hole golf match by the overwhelming score of 17 up and 15 to play.

Coming from Miami where the first half of the match was played last Sunday with an advantage over Walker of eleven holes, Hagen played a brand of golf that made the last half of the match Wednesday over the Boca Ceiga Country club course at Pasadena a mere formality. No golfer since first the shepherds of old passed their idle hours away hitting stones about with their crooks has ever played who could "spot" Walter Hagen eleven holes, with 36 to play, and do more than hope to win. So it was with Walker, though he faced his assignment with all the skill and courage of a David going to meet his Goliath.

Hagen's big lead that he brought here from Miami was due, in a great measure, to the consistent golf that he played there. Over the entire 36 holes there was but one that showed a lost stroke, the balance being either "birdies" or negated in par figures. Not one did Hagen leave an opening through which Walker might play to cut down the lead that was piling up so formidably but today was different. Walker himself is to blame in some measure for not taking advantage of the rifts in Hagen's game of today. There were times on the first 18 of the morning round that a well placed shot would have won the hole but somewhere must have lurked an inferiority complex, for no sooner would Hagen slip than Cyril did likewise.

Walker's first chance to close the gap that separated him from a chance to win came on the first hole. Hagen had pushed his shot to the right and into a sand trap. Cyril was a good 250 yards in the center of the fairway. Hagen, playing out first, did not get hold of his ball too well and hooked to the water guarding the green. Walker played his iron to the right in the rough, about ten yards from the edge of the green, and though Hagen had played another ball to the green pin, any kind of a firm shot should have put Walker where he could get down in two putts for a win. He took three. The second hole would have been halved but for a stymie. Hagen was on in two. Walker just to the right of the green and short. His run up shot was beautifully executed and stopped but two feet from the cup. Hagen's putt not having quite enough speed, came to rest on the lip of the cup in direct line with Walker's ball. The attempt to knock the ball around the other failed and the loss of this hole started the avalanche that was to smother him.

On the third hole after playing well from the tee a badly topped spoon shot left Walker in such a position that he could not possibly reach the green and a short sacrifice iron shot was played. Hagen in the meanwhile had hit a splendid breeze to the guarding ravine, but pulled his next to a deep trap. Here again could Walker have played more boldly than he did. Twelve down and only thirty-four holes to go is a position that requires desperate measures indeed if even a chance is to be had. An indifferent mushie nibble piten caught the snare trap as Hagen's ball and the hole was halved. The short fourth was halved in three. Walker took the fifth but Hagen won the sixth and seventh and halved the eighth and ninth. Both had four on the next two holes but Hagen broke away again on the next with a tee shot that landed less than six feet from the cup. Walker required two putts to Hagen's one, and faced the next two fifteen down. His winning of the thirteenth was a short lived respite, but the loss of the next and the eighteenth made it only a matter of a few afternoon holes to be played to bring to a close another titanic match.

The start of the afternoon round was a picture of a man pursuing the dimmest of hopes winning the first, having the next, dominating sixteen and faced with the prospect of winning every hole from the redoubtable Hagen was too great a strain and a badly sliced shot to match the 260 yard effort of his opponent was the final try of the game sportsman. Hagen won the hole 5 to 6. The cards for the morning round:

Hagen Out: 616 354 444—40
Walker Out: 657 345 514—43
Hagen In: 442 541 81—34—43
Walker In: 443 454 436—37—40

Afternoon round:
Hagen 845.
Walker 446.

Frisch, Young And Kelly Exonerated Of Charge Made By Banished Player

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Three New York Giant players—Frankie Frisch, Ross Young and George L. Kelly—named by Jimmy O'Connell as implicated in his attempt to bribe Henie Sand, Philadelphia National League shortstop, were exonerated completely by Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers, in a report made to District Attorney Stanton after the state's investigation of the scandal.

The assistant district attorney contends that O'Connell may be guilty of a violation of the penal law governing such cases, by virtue of his own testimony and the testimony of indicting O'Connell would await the return of Commissioner Landis from Panama.

Mr. Brothers also contended that O'Connell's testimony does not place a stain on the record of Cozy Dolan, also named by O'Connell as being the instigator of the bribe, but that Dolan's status remains unchanged due to the indecisiveness on his answers during the hearing before Judge Landis and his own investigation.

"There is no legal evidence to justify the belief that Kelly, Frisch and Young had anything whatsoever to do with this alleged bribe," said Mr. Brothers. "There is no evidence that they had any knowledge whatsoever of the alleged bribe. This, coupled with their excellent reputation and their manner in answering questions before Commissioner Landis and myself, points strongly to their innocence."

"Assuming that O'Connell is telling the truth in relating what he claims these players said to him, in my opinion such statements do not come within the discussions defining what constitutes aiding and abetting, etc., as set forth in section two of the penal law."

"There is no corroboration of statements of O'Connell that Cozy Dolan induced him to commit this offense. However, as appears in the record submitted by Commissioner Landis, Dolan by his answers in claiming not to recall the alleged talk with O'Connell of three days previous, brought suspicion upon himself which has not been removed by examination of Dolan."

When informed that the investigation did not produce any evidence against Dolan, John McGraw said: "I am glad for O'Connell's sake for this should give him a chance to earn a living again."
