Losses To British Shipping Decrease, Admiralty Asserts

Toll Was More Than 71,000 Tons Last Week, And 98,000 In Previous Week

Graziani Quits His Army Post Commander Of Force In Africa Resigns Following Setbacks

LONDON, Mar. 25.—(AP)—The British Admiralty announced today a drop in Britain's sea losses for the second consecutive week, reporting that 23 British and Allied merchantmen totaling 71,775 tons were lost in the week ended Mar. 16.

This compared with losses of 98,832 tons the previous week, and 141,315 tons the week before that.

The British said 3,000,000 tons of Axis shipping had been sent to the bottom in the five weeks up to Mar. 16.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani today resigned the command of Italy's North African troops and positions of army chief and governor of Libya. He ordered the Italian advance into Egypt which has turned into a rout before the British forces.

Italy's military reverses in Africa and Albania have taken a heavy toll of high Fascist commanders. One of them has stepped out just as Graziani did, by resigning after repeated defeats.

An appeal for United States materials to protect American war materials en route to Britain against destruction by German submarines was made today.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco said that American public opinion might oppose action, but he needed immediate aid.

What we need most urgently is American aid for America's own war effort.

While other newspapers have been urging that the United States take steps to make certain that all heretofore have refrained from proposing American convoys.

"We need every enemy and neutral ship that may be able to help in the American harbor," the sketch said. "We need every American ship that America does not need for herself. We need every American ship that can be used to transport American troops."

It cannot afford to wait for American aid to wait for public opinion, while Germany acts with such concentrated force on our maritime resources.

Planning Meals In Britain Made Difficult By Shortage Of Food

Food is the chief worry of English housewives at the present time and it is a problem planning meals, an unaccustomed letter to Mrs. E. D. Martin from her niece in Mossley, England, revealed today.

The letter was placed in a large envelope marked "wedding reason." The envelope did contain a wedding picture, and was signed by the bride-to-be.

"Everything is tightening up in the shops," Mrs. Martin's niece writes her, "and onions, oranges, lemons, cheese, bananas, tomatoes are out of the question."

"You just can't buy them," the letter continues. "If there is any, the shopkeepers keep them for themselves. We now live a day at a time." Mrs. Martin's niece asserts that "we just don't have the idea of an invasion. If paratroopers drop here we shall be taken from limb to limb."

"Everybody is collected in some kind of national work," the writer says. "I am a St. John's nurse in our district. Audrey has gone as a trainee for munitions. Charles is on munitions and does his turn at fire watching at the grammar school where John goes and Geoffrey is an A. R. P. worker, as is Evelyn's husband. Speaking of air raids on nearby towns, the letter says: 'You will have heard of the raids on Manchester and Salford. It was one hour on the Saturday night and 11 hours on the Sunday night. We could see the glow of fire and the bombs whizzed terrific. It was awful. When Annie went to work on the Monday morning she logged of me not to go down.'"

Vegetable, Fruit Growers Asked To Meet In Florida

LAKELAND, Mar. 25.—(Special)—Members of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, representing approximately 1,500 of the country's more important companies handling fresh fruits and vegetables, will be given an opportunity to familiarize themselves with Florida's citrus industry; if an invitation to that body to hold its 35th annual convention in Florida, extended by the Florida Citrus Commission, is accepted.

The convention would be held preferably in some community on the citrus belt, around the middle of next January. As many delegates bring their wives, it is expected the convention would bring a group of approximately 2,500 people to the state for 10 to 15 days.

Members of the association handle a substantial part of the annual crop of Florida's citrus fruits. Bringing the convention to Florida also would provide the opportunity for these fruit and vegetable handlers to obtain first-hand information on other Florida crops, a large volume of which goes through the association membership.

It is estimated members of the association handle approximately 500,000 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables annually.

Just where in Florida the convention will be held has not been definitely determined. It is expected that adequate facilities must be available, including not only hotel accommodations but also an auditorium large enough to seat the membership for the business sessions of the convention.

Many of the members come from the rich Mississippi Valley and Plains States and this would be the first trip to Florida for a large number of them. Citrus Commission officials are anxious to get the convention to Florida if possible, because they feel it would provide a real opportunity to familiarize an important group in Florida's markets with Florida's citrus deal and the many forward steps in growing and grading that are being carried on.

W. Garritt, executive vice president of the association, pointed out the possibility of holding the 1942 convention in Florida. Immediately the commission extended an official invitation which now awaits formal action by the advisory board of the association. Headquarters of the association are in Chicago. The 1941 convention was held in St. Louis.

Fred Davis, prominent official of Lake Wales, state director of the association in Florida, pointed out that bringing the convention to Florida would be of great benefit to this state and its agricultural industries.

Edwin Arlington Robinson was the only poet to win the Pulitzer Prize on three different occasions.

Greater Farm Loans Okeyed By Committee

Legislation Expected To Add To Income Of Growers By Sum Of Billion Annually

WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Legislation which its author said would add about $1,000,000,000 a year to farmers' income through higher government loans was approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee today.

The author, Senator Bankhead (D. Ala.) said the bill was intended to place farmers nearer a "parity with labor and industry," and that it was aimed at assuring the producers of cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice the "parity of a fair exchange price" for their products, through loans designed to serve as a "floor under market prices."

The Senate passed the $7,000,000,000 loan-aid appropriation bill yesterday by a national-unanimity vote of 97 to 0. The action came after less than two hours' discussion and the opposition did not so much as offer an amendment. The debate, in fact, consisted largely of statements of position from some of the many senators who had voted against the original loan-aid authorization bill, but for the appropriation.

Among these were Senators Adams, Democrat, Colorado; Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan; E. A. Tamm, Republican, Virginia; and Taft, Republican, Ohio. For the most part they said that since helping England and other nations resisting the Axis powers had been approved by Congress, it was the duty of the national legislature to provide funds for giving that policy effect.

The $7,000,000,000 fund, the nation's largest peacetime appropriation, would provide, among other things:

- $2,054,000,000 for aircraft and accessories.
- $1,343,000,000 for ordnance and ordnance supplies.
- $1,250,000,000 for the purchase of miscellaneous agricultural and industrial articles.

Loans were included for tanks, for container and outfitting of merchant vessels in American ports, for building of other-wise acquiring factories or factory sites for the manufacture of war supplies, and for the purchase of the manufacturing of the war.

Beyond this breakdown, the details were withheld from Congress. Adams, who as chairman of the Senate's subcommittee on agriculture, introduced the bill, said in the course of the debate that to make such things public would "advertise Britain's needs."

The finalists agreed to make the four men play a match with the low scorer of the game. Spencer and played the round to a finish with F. H. Smith and Mr. Spencer tied until an extra hole was played. Mr. Spencer shot the extra hole a one over par five to win when Mr. Smith failed to recover from a trap and took an extra stroke.

This will be the second time Mr. Spencer has had his name engraved on the Chamber of Commerce trophy as he was the winner four years ago and has been runner-up twice since then.

In the play yesterday Mr. Spencer won over his first opponent, W. G. Fleming by a score of five holes up with only four to play when Mr. Smith had his moment. Andrew Carter, who three up with two to play, the count showed the two winners tied for first and an extra hole was played to break the tie and give the win to Mr. Spencer.

Nation Is Exempted From Giving Military Assistance To Alliance Countries

Limitations Are Help To Britain

Greeks And Germans Reported In Small Frontier Skirmishes

WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt froze all funds of Yugoslavia in the United States today shortly after that Balkan kingdom signed the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance.

Yugoslavia, the 18th nation whose funds have been frozen, has assets in this country of about $1,000,000.

With a solemn pledge that no Axis troops would march through her territory, Yugoslavia signed the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance in Vienna today in ceremonies attended by Adolf Hitler.

Well informed quarters asserted Germany specifically guaranteed her territorial integrity. Thus, the terms of the pact asserted a severe blow to the defense plans of Britain and Greece against an expected Nazi invasion of Greece.

Except for the stipulation that German troops would not violate Yugoslavia's frontiers, the pact is the same as those previously signed by Hungary, Rumania, Slovakia and Bulgaria.

Yugoslavia was reported to have agreed to permit the transport of war and hospital equipment and wounded through her territory—which Greece already has warned she would consider as a "hostile act."

A reliable London source said Germany had purchased 800,000 troops in the Balkans for a blitzkrieg attack and to guard the Russian frontier.

Earlier reports had estimated British strength already landed or expected in Greece at 300,000, Greek troops which could be diverted to oppose a Nazi invasion at 400,000, and Turkish troops on the Bulgarian border at 100,000.

Bulgarian reports said Greece and German forces already have clashed in minor frontier skirmishes. Actual warfare was almost at a standstill.

German and British planes took a holiday from intense overnight raiding. Greek troops asserted they inflicted heavy losses on the Italians in Albania.

Soviet Russia took formal action today to block further Nazi expansion in southeastern Europe with publication of a friendship agreement which, in effect, assures Turkey of full material aid against German troops if Turkey is plunged into war to defend the Dardanelles.

The Soviet Union, a Turkish communistic said, has promised "full and comprehensive neutral aid" in case Turkey clashes with the Nazi armies now massed on her frontier with Bulgaria.

High diplomats said this meant that the U. S. S. R. is prepared to support Turkey with material aid like that being given to Britain by the United States and like that which Russia has tendered to China for several years against Japan.

Already, Soviet troops are stationed near the Caucasus border with Turkey and it is reliably reported that they are made up for the most part of anti-aircraft gunners, tank corps and technical experts.

They could be sent to Turkey's aid much as the same sort of specialists helped the Spanish Republicans during the Spanish civil war.

That Germany was scotchedly aware of the fast-changing Russian attitude was seen in reports from German-occupied Rumania that that Hitler's kingdom's army again was being mobilized and sent to positions on the Prut River frontier facing Russia.

Florida—Key To Defense

Florida has been receiving its full share of defense spending during the past year. With new Army airports dotting the entire state, with several new naval bases and Army camps, with a vast new shipbuilding plant at Jacksonville and another at Tampa, Florida is seeing literally hundreds of millions of dollars in outside capital brought into this state.

As the Tampa Tribune said the other day, "If any person had said a year or so ago that Florida would suddenly acquire a new $100,000,000 industry, he would have been put down as plain crazy. Defense projects so far constructed have cost $83,000,000 and by July 1 they will be occupied by more than 91,000 men and officers."

And that to our way of thinking is only the beginning. Most of this spending took place, most of the work was done, before the British aid bill with its immense consequences to America's future was written into law. The seven billion dollar appropriation to implement this policy has just been passed. Other billions will soon be voted to further protect us against the consequences of Axis aggression.

Industrially Florida may not be expected to benefit much from the manufacture of arms, planes and munitions for England, but in the matter of shipbuilding we are already beginning to see some economic aid ahead. More shipbuilding plants will be needed and they will be kept in full operation for years after the war is over replacing the millions of tons of shipping now being sunk.

But from a military and naval standpoint Florida is of the most vital importance in the defense program. News from France tells of the proposed construction of a railroad from the Mediterranean coast to Dakar on the Atlantic Ocean in French West Africa. This railroad line would serve as a springboard for Axis powers to launch an invasion of South America in the event they become successful in their effort to conquer the continent and the north of Africa.

Just as this railroad line to Dakar would be the springboard for a German invasion of South America, so would Florida be the springboard for United States forces in an attempt to prevent such an invasion. An expeditionary force, possibly to Brazil or Argentina, might become necessary to protect those nations from aggression. Such troops would probably move through Florida ports as the nearest points in the United States to the scene of action.

Warships to convoy them, transports to carry them, freighters to supply them, would be shuttling back and forth between South America and Florida throughout the entire period of hostilities. Ships would not go on to New York or other northern ports to refuel or take on supplies. That would take too long. They would put in at the nearest available ports. And they are in Florida.

And so already we see immense military and naval preparation in Florida. Hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent here. And it just begins.

Lawns And Camellias

A paragraph in the Garden Notes column of a recent issue of the Times-Union gives some timely advice on the care of lawns. This is the season of the year when the most effective work can be done in cultivating either St. Augustine or Bermuda grass that a prime requisite to a good lawn at any season of the year is a good soil to grow it in.

"Now is a good time to give grass some nourishment in the form of fertilizer after the turn of the year," says Garden Notes. "By all means, ask for the proper fertilizer and be wary of bargains. A lawn specialist is advisable and a fertilizer salesman is chosen by some good gardeners to discourage cricket moles. The bitter-blue St. Augustine is growing more popular as it is not liked by chinch bugs. True, the fly in the ointment with the bitter-blue is said to be a light fungus, but this seems very easily controlled by Bordeaux mixture."

In this same Garden Notes column is some good advice on taking care of camellias. It is quite natural that camellia culture should follow lawn culture because good camellias require a good lawn to set them off and a good lawn needs a few camellias planted here and there to give it quality. So here is what the Garden Notes column, quoting from Garbing, says about camellias:

"Plant them in good rich soil with a liberal amount of fresh dairy fertilizer mixed with the soil. Plant them shallow so that the crown roots are near the surface. Each Spring give them a mulching of two inches of well-chopped fresh dairy fertilizer around the base of the plants. Keep them uniformly moist. Keep a mulch of leaves or peat moss under the plants at all times. Spray with Volk each May or June to control scale pests. Spray with Bordeaux if Phomopsis blight appears. Dust with E. A. T. to control spider. Prune out all irregular growth and dead branches. Plant them on well-drained soil. Plant them in shade or full sun, either will give good results though we prefer semi-shade. When buying camellias go so while they are in bloom that you may know what you are buying. In cold weather when a freeze is reported be sure to have your camellias good and wet."

Continuing, Garden Notes says: "Elsewhere we read that camellias must be kept partly shaded during the first two or three Summers of their new location. Dr. Sandusky gets excellent results with a large flat house, and here we say that a flat house in Florida is a great aid to gardening. Some gardeners were overheard saying that camellias must have their roots near the surface and that this must be kept in mind because the years of adding food and mulch pile up the soil in excess. It's an art."

Of the total, $271,904,000 was for locomotives and rolling stock and $187,241,000 for roadway and structures.

Winter Visitors Are Invited To 'Stay Thru May'

"Stay Thru May" is the message to Sanford visitors which will be carried in an intensive advertising campaign sponsored by merchants and the Florida Power & Light Company. Announcement of the campaign was made yesterday by H. H. Coleman, Florida Power & Light manager. Stating the importance of informing transient residents about Florida's Spring season, Mr. Coleman continued: "Springtime in Florida is the best season of the year. We old-timers enjoy it, but visitors who have enjoyed a Florida winter often leave, without realizing they are missing the best weather, fun and natural beauty of the whole year."

This is the fifth consecutive year that the utility company has promoted the "Stay Thru May" invitation program. Plans for this year include statewide newspaper advertising and radio programs. In addition, windfield stickers bearing the slogan "Stay Thru May—Enjoy Florida's Springtime" are being distributed throughout the state, as a means of keeping the message constantly before the visitors. The stickers, printed in attractive colors, are available free at all offices of the "Sunshine Service" company. Calculating results of previous "Stay Thru May" campaigns, Mr. Coleman stated that all indices year by year, have shown a marked increase in business during the Spring months.

There's no doubt that our so-called winter season is growing larger each year," he said. "Many visitors have learned from experience that they may miss the best weather in the north at this time, while Florida grows ever fiercer every day. Another factor building Florida's Spring business is the growing popularity of Springtime vacations here for thousands of persons who have had to spend the winter in the north."

Lower living costs, less crowded conditions, more living accommodations and sports opportunities equaling the winter programs are some of the advantages, he pointed out, of staying through May. Chambers of commerce, state clubs and merchants are co-operating with the company in publicizing the invitation.

"They have dropped about four bombs here, but they have dropped in the hills and done no damage whatsoever. About eight days ago was the last raid here. We have had very heavy snow storms which have helped to melt the snow. As I am writing this it is snowing heavily outside, the letter says it is snowing here. "We are very pleased and grateful for all the help the U. S. A. are giving us," the writer says. "Also what you are doing personally with your 'Bundles for Britain.' I trust you will continue to have great success in your efforts for it is needed. After the rains people are left with nothing except what they are wearing. Often this is just their night attire. Cheerful and confident, the writer declares that "we know we have to go through the fire yet, but for victory any sacrifice is not too big."

Firestone Dealer Receives Shipment Of Marigold Seeds

A large shipment of seeds of the first fertile double marigold ever to be introduced containing the blood of both French and African marigolds was received today from David Burpee, noted plant genius of Philadelphia, by A. J. Peterson, manager of the Seminole Tire Shop, Firestone dealer. The seeds are for complimentary distribution to garden club members and others who are interested in garden work.

The new marigold, developed by Mr. Burpee after years of work, was named the Isabelle Firestone Marigold in honor of Mrs. Harvey E. Firestone because of his admiration for her as a lover of flowers and a composer of music including the song "In My Garden." The new marigold had a world premiere recently at a reception at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City. At the time of the introduction, Mr. Burpee presented complimentary packages of the seeds to each of the 5,000 prominent garden club officials and horticulturists who were in attendance.

The new flower was received with such enthusiasm that Mr. Burpee asked the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company to cooperate in making these seeds available to garden lovers throughout the nation. Accordingly, arrangements have been made for Firestone stores and dealers to distribute the seeds, and any garden lover may have a complimentary package by applying at the Seminole Tire Shop.

Errant Sea Lion Is Loose Again

MIAMI, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Aquarium officials hoped to recapture "Butch," the errant sea lion, Monday but they claimed their efforts so far had received very little co-operation from charter boat captains along Miami's waterfront.

The captains, hoping to keep "Butch" at liberty in the yacht basin because of the crowds he brings to the pier to watch his antics, threw fish to him Sunday until he stuffed himself and went to sleep under the pier. His would-be captors were unable to lure him into the cage they had prepared.

"Butch" is said to be a California sea lion which escaped nine days ago from Marine Studios at Marineland and escaped again after he had been caught in the Florida keys.

ALREADY FOR THE DEFENSE OF FLORIDA AND THE NATION

The Dependable Interconnected Power System of Sunshine Service Lines

Our country needs planes, ships, guns, to protect itself in a warring world. Vital to America's defense production is electric power . . . and TODAY the United States has the greatest electric facilities in the world. ● Power plants and lines, interconnected into unified systems, span from coast to coast. Private utility companies built this transcontinental chain of power since the World War, by pooling their resources of money and men under common ownership. It is one of America's strongest defense weapons. ● Abundance of electric power, ready NOW, relieves our government of spending millions of defense tax dollars to duplicate these facilities. This money can be used directly in the production of necessities so urgently needed for our country's preparedness.

SUNSHINE SERVICE LINES
OTHER FLORIDA ELECTRIC COMPANIES

● Typical of the nation's interconnected power systems is the Sunshine Service "grid" in Florida, which forms a state-wide belt of power serving more than 200 communities. National Defense projects supplied by this network include Camp Blanding, in northern Florida; Ops Locks military and naval air base, near Miami; Banana River air base, near Cocoa; West Palm Beach air station, and Christian Field, near Arcadia. Defense industries housed by Sunshine Service range from airplanes and ship building to tent manufacturers and sawmills.
