Summer baseball in full swing

LONGWOOD — Baseball players from high school age to the Little Majors were in action all over the area Tuesday evening and night. See Page 1B.

BRIEFS

Cookie Monster strikes

SANFORD — It probably wasn't the cuddly blue furry fellow from Sesame Street who helped himself to some snacks at the First Impression Day Care, 1221 W. Seventh St. in Sanford over the weekend.

Owner Meta Brooks reported to the police that someone kicked in the back door of the facility and helped themselves to an armload of graham crackers and Cheezits some time between 5 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday.

"It freaked me out," she said. "Why would they do all that for those cookies?"

Brooks said the door frame and door had to be replaced as a result of the forced entry.

Nothing else was taken, she said.

"They didn't have to do that," she said. "All they would have had to do was ask. If they were that hungry, we'd have given them a snack."

Store robbed

LAKE MARY — A robbery was reported to Lake Mary police yesterday afternoon at a convenience store at the corner of Wilbur Avenue and Country Club Road. According to Capt. Sam Belfiore, a white male entered the store at approximately 2 p.m., and robbed the clerk of an undetermined amount of money. "While some type of firearm was indicated, none was actually seen," he said.

The robber then reportedly left the store, where Belfiore said he was spotted by a man who had been in his yard. "The man gave chase but finally lost the robber on U.S. Highway 17-92, heading into Sanford," Belfiore said.

According to the license number on the car, it had been listed as stolen in Winter Park.

No pickup

SANFORD — The City of Sanford has announced there will be no refuse pickup for residential and commercial customers served by the city's Solid Waste Division, on Monday, July 4th. Normal service will resume Tuesday, July 5th.

For additional refuse information, phone the Solid Waste Division at 330-5679. For water and sewer information, phone the Utility Department at 330-5630.

Lake Mary LDCRTF to meet

LAKE MARY — The recently formed Land Development Code Review Task Force will meet tonight at Lake Mary City Hall. On the agenda is discussion regarding the annexation laws, options of vesting development standards for annexed properties, ranking/scheduling of issues to be discussed by the group, restaurant/bar definitions, and landscape regulations.

The meeting is open to the public. The five member group will meet in the commission chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, 100 N. Country Club Road.

Improving the schools

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will be taking time over the next year to hear what each school plans to do to improve the overall quality of education at their facility.

The School Improvement Plans have been completed and the board will hear from each facility during meetings on the third Tuesday of each month (except December) beginning in August. The meetings will be at 7 p.m.

Four or five schools will make their presentations at each meeting. Specific schools will be announced near the meeting times.

The meetings will be Aug. 16, Sept. 20, Oct. 18, Nov. 15, Jan. 17, Feb. 21, March 21, April 18, May 16 and June 20.

Cable TV rates drop

Local customers should pay less by August 1

By NICK PFREIFAUFF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Time Warner Cable has advised the Sanford City Commission that cable rates will be changing beginning in July. Monthly cable bills for most residents with standard services will be going down.

Time Warner, formerly known as Cablevision of Central Florida, serves approximately 490,000 homes in the Central Florida area, including most of Seminole County.

The move was brought about through a mandate by the Federal Communications Commission earlier this year. It was in response to changes made because of a similar edict in mid 1993.

At that time, the FCC ordered cable companies to make some billing changes. It was believed the recommended changes would reduce residential cable bills.

In order to comply with the FCC's complex demands and compensate for the loss in income, many cable companies reportedly had to change a number of stations carried on basic service.

As a result, in order to continue receiving those moved telecast channels as well as others being added, customers expanded their services. Subsequently, they found their bills for the additional services had gone up rather than down.

The severe increase resulted in what the FCC considered a massive outcry from the public, and See Cable, Page 5A

Fine feathered friend

The youngsters at the vacation Bible school at Longwood Hills Baptist Church got a surprise visit from one of their favorite birds recently. Big Bird wandered off Sesame Street and came to see what the kids were learning about at the church's summer camp. Booker Beachem, Kyle Brimmi, Caitlin O'Grady, Cory McBriarty and David Curtis were thrilled to meet the big yellow guy they love to watch on TV.

Back from brink of extinction

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — On the brink of extinction twenty years ago, the American bald eagle is thriving, especially in Florida and will be removed from the endangered species list.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will announce Thursday its proposal to upgrade the status of the eagle from endangered to the less dire "threatened" category, according to government officials and environmentalists.

Doris Mager gives local kids a chance to see what the bald eagle is like up close.

Orlando Science Center support

County reaffirms $1 million

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners affirmed their $1 million support for the $42.5 million Orlando Science Center expansion Tuesday.

Voting 4-1, commissioners approved a contract to grant four more $200,000 installments on their $1 million pledge last year. The first $200,000 grant payment has been made.

OSC officials sought confirmation that the county intended to pay the $1 million grant spread over five years. Last year, commissioners agreed to pay the amount, but only firmly committed to the first $200,000 installment.

OSC plans a 190,000-square-foot expansion of their present facility. The organization has a $1 million. See Science, Page 5A

SANFORD — Trips to the Orlando Science Center are the most popular field trip taken by Seminole County public school students, school district officials say. Both the Seminole County school board and the Seminole County commission have joined a coalition of local governmental entities from Orange and Osceola counties in pledging their financial support of the science center's expansion programs.

From Seminole County's two supporting agencies, the center will receive $2 million over a five year period that began last year.

When completed, the expansion of the science center facilities will include not only more activities for See Center, Page 5A

Bus routes: Wait, see attitude

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners are going to wait to see how much money they have before making changes to Lynx bus service in the county.

Lynx subsidies will cost an extra $155,132 next year just to continue the same five routes. The increase is largely due to a 50 percent annual hike in free transportation for handicapped, said Lynx director Paul Skoutelas.

Lynx suggested increasing the Winter Park-to-Sanford service from hourly to twice-hourly, saying ridership would increase. Other proposed improvements were a Heathrow and Lake Mary route and a State Road 434 route.

The county will pay about $1.3 million this year for service and $1.4 million next year for the same service. Revenue from a penny gas taxes added last year pays most of the bus service expense. The balance is paid from property tax revenues.

Commissioners were unwilling to embrace the $1.3 million additional costs for the service improvement until they have a chance to review County Manager Ron Rabun's proposed budget, due out next week.

Dutch treat

While the battle for soccer's World Cup rages on the pitch at stadia across the United States, the team from Holland relaxed for a few moments last night in the sparkling beauty of AAA's national headquarters in Heathrow. A reception honoring the team brought out local dignitaries to honor the team. The Netherlands side is to have played a match against Morocco this afternoon at the Citrus Bowl in Orlando.

Man sentenced to 22 years for beating

FORT LAUDERDALE — A judge has sentenced a man accused in the 1992 beating death of a Vietnamese college student to 22 years in prison, the maximum sentence recommended under state guidelines.

Terry Michael Jamerson, 22, was sentenced Tuesday for his role in the death of Luyen Phan Nguyen, who was beaten in a Coral Springs parking lot. Prosecutors said he was attacked by a gang of men attending a party who chased the victim out, taunted him with racial epithets, then killed him.

Seven young men were accused in the death. Sentencing for two others was postponed Tuesday.

William Madalone, 23, and Christopher Anderson, 20, convicted of second-degree murder along with Jamerson, will be sentenced July 12.

Broward Circuit Judge Richard Eade delayed that action after their attorneys complained a pre-sentencing investigation by the court was late and shoddy.

Cruise ship crew member arrested

MIAMI — A crew member has been charged with sexually molesting a 13-year-old boy on a cruise.

Prapto Wibowo, 47, was charged with a federal count of abusive sexual contact for an incident with the passenger Saturday on Dolphin Cruise Lines' Seabreeze I in international waters north of Cuba.

Wibowo, an Indonesian, was arrested Sunday after the ship returned to port in Miami and had an initial court appearance Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo. A bond hearing was set for Friday, and an interpreter was requested.

The boy told the FBI that Wibowo offered him candy in a ship passageway Friday and gave candy to him and his sister again Saturday.

The he invited the boy to his cabin and molested the boy as he was trying to leave the cabin.

Prison disturbance quelled

STARKE — Emergency squads were sent in to New River Correctional Facility near Starke to quell a disturbance by an estimated 100 inmates, a Department of Corrections spokeswoman said.

The disturbance broke out Tuesday in the west unit of the prison about 10 a.m., and when inmates at the east unit heard about the melee some chairs were thrown through windows there, said Laura Levings, the spokeswoman.

The disturbance began with an fight among a few inmates and grew to involve about 100, she said.

"Most backed off and wanted to stay out of it," Nate Holton, the prison's personnel director, said of the majority of the prison's inmates.

Four corrections officers were assaulted. Two were treated for minor injuries and returned to work; the other two were sent to a hospital for checkups.

"We are treating it a minor disturbance because there was minor property damage and no inmate injuries," Holton said.

The emergency squads, including correctional officers from Florida State Prison, Union Corrections Institution and North Florida Reception Center, were able to quell the fighting by late morning.

Guardian accused of exploitation

FORT LAUDERDALE — A court-appointed guardian for 11 elderly people has been fired for allegedly exploiting those in her care and has been ordered to account for their funds.

Circuit Judge W. Clayton Johnson threatened Monday to find Martha Wright, 49, of Pompano Beach in contempt of court if she fails to account for her wards' funds.

"I have to take whatever steps are necessary to protect the wards," Johnson said at the hearing ejecting Wright from the guardian program. "This court has no other choice to act."

Wright, a former maid and nurse's aide, admitted herself to a Pembroke Pines hospital complaining of chest pains Sunday after The Miami Herald reported on her guardian duties.

She had legal and financial authority over her wards.

In one case, a 93-year-old retired nurse should have had a $200,000 balance in her bank account, but it had been closed.

In another, Wright leased a car in the name of an 80-year-old Alzheimer's patient who had lost the right to drive and sign contracts. Wright said she used the car for the man's errands, but he died April 2.

Building moratorium and water ban

BROOKSVILLE — Some 1.2 million Tampa Bay residents must cut water use by about 4 percent over the next year under an emergency order issued by regulators.

The action Tuesday by the Southwest Florida Water Management District is aimed at slowing environmental damage and protecting drinking water supplies. It prompted threats by Pinellas County officials of a building moratorium or outdoor watering ban in their county.

Contact lens price conspiracy

Makers, optometrists accused of inflating prices

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The cost of contact lens was doubled at times as part of a conspiracy between two big manufacturers and optometrists who sought to push retailers out of the lens market, a top state official has charged.

"If ... the optometrists and manufacturers would use a free market system we could save a lot of money, the soft eye-contact wearer could save a lot of money," Attorney General Bob Butterworth said Tuesday. "We believe that in some cases the price has been inflated by 100 percent."

Butterworth accused Bausch & Lomb Inc. and Johnson & Johnson Vision Products Inc. of violating federal and state antitrust laws and Florida's consumer-protection law. He made the charges in a civil complaint filed Tuesday in federal court in Jacksonville.

Butterworth's complaint also names two professional associations and nine optometrists active in them. He is seeking triple damages and penalties of $1 million against each corporation and $100,000 against each optometrist named in the complaint.

Bausch & Lomb and Johnson & Johnson and the American Optometric Association, which represents most of the nation's optometrists, denied any wrongdoing.

The complaint alleges that the lens makers and optometrists have conspired since 1989 to discourage the sale of contact lenses through sources other than eye-care professionals.

Johnson & Johnson introduced disposable contact lenses in 1988 and more companies began selling replacement lenses at discount prices.

Consumers could buy lenses through such outlets as pharmacies and mail-order houses more cheaply than if they bought them from eye-care professionals, who often mark up lens prices by 100 percent.

The contact lens field is worth $1.8 billion. In the last seven years mail-order businesses such as Lens Express, based in Deerfield Beach, have claimed $100 million of the money, said Gary Hanauer, a Lens Express spokesman.

Some states ban the sale of lenses except through licensed eye-care professionals. But most, including Florida, let pharmacists and others sell lenses.

"We're talking about people across the country. Basically, the conspiracy operated on a national scale," said Jerome Hoffman, who heads antitrust investigations for Butterworth.

Although there are other contact lens manufacturers, the conspiracy hurt price competition, Hoffman said.

He added that the conspiracy has not been entirely successful in eliminating other sources of lenses. But, he said, all contact consumers were probably affected.

"It's everybody who purchased lenses," he said. "Probably everybody paid more than they should have."

Larry DeCook, president of the optometrists association, said he believes "we are innocent of any conduct that could result in our being found liable."

A spokeswoman for Bausch & Lomb said the company would vigorously contest the allegations, which she said were unsubstantiated.

"In theory, what the state of Florida is suggesting is that we ought to make contact lenses available through drug stores and gas stations and amusement parks and we are not prepared to do that," Barbara Kelley said from Rochester, N.Y.

Bob Kniffin, a spokesman for Johnson & Johnson, said the company adopted its policy of selling lenses only to licensed eye-care professionals in order to better protect the vision of consumers.

"We feel very strongly that this is the right way to manage the prescription and use of a regulated device," he said from Johnson & Johnson's corporate headquarters in New Brunswick, N.J.

Johnson & Johnson has 168 operating companies, including Vistakon, which makes contact lenses in Jacksonville.

Getting ready for the Fourth

Jeromy Schweickert (from left), Mark Johnson and Josh Schweickert got into the spirit of the holiday at this fireworks stand in Lake Mary. Their choices included a selection of fireworks with names such as "rising sun", "fire ants", "morning glory" and "happy lamp." Lake Mary Fire Marshal Lyn Wright said that this tent and one other located on Lake Mary Boulevard, are fully permitted and carry only legal fireworks.

Student aid rules threaten private trade schools

By Associated Press

TAMPA — A Florida trade school association is asking a federal judge to throw out new student-aid rules, saying they could force half the state's private trade schools to shut down.

The rules, which go into effect Friday, require for-profit trade schools and junior colleges to get at least 15 percent of their revenue in cash from students if they want to continue receiving student aid money from the federal government.

But students at some schools just don't have the money, according to Monday's lawsuit, which seeks an emergency injunction.

"It sounds good on the surface, like a very effective consumer-protection issue," said Art Keiser, president of Keiser College in Fort Lauderdale. "But it's a very serious problem."

"It sounds good on the surface, like a very effective consumer-protection issue, but it's a very serious problem."

-Art Keiser

David Longanecker, assistant secretary of education, agreed that for some school operators, "it's a life-and-death circumstance." He even conceded that a few good schools might be hurt.

"But I'm certain the majority of them are not going to be missed terribly," he said.

The new regulation, known as the "85 percent rule," was included in a 1992 law that aimed in part to curb fraud and abuse of federal student aid programs.

Some schools would sign up anyone for financial aid, then provide a substandard education, leaving students unable to get a job or repay the loans, officials said. Taxpayers wound up swallowing the costs of the defaulted loans.

Of the 15 million students in higher education in America, about 5 percent attend trade schools. The schools receive about a quarter of all federal student loan money but are involved in three-quarters of all defaults.

The lawsuit contends that the 85 percent rule is unfair because Florida does not provide state grants to trade school students. In many northern states that do, that money can be counted toward a school's 15 percent non-federal revenue.

The federal lawsuit was filed on behalf of the 150-member, Tampa-based Florida Association of Post-secondary Schools and Colleges Inc., the Florida School of Business and two of its students, and the Career Center.

POLICE BRIEFS

Vehicular burglary arrest

Marshall Sanborn Morris, 25, 10305 Stonebrook Drive, Sanford, was arrested on vehicular burglary and grand theft charges Monday. Sanford police say Morris confessed to removing a $300 air flow sensor from a car at an auto dealership on Orlando Drive.

Shoplifting

Dona Jean Cleveland, 40, 13 Lake Monroe Terrace; and Sharon Renee Jackson, 37, 905 Avocado, both of Sanford, were arrested on shoplifting charges by Sanford police Monday. A manager of an Orlando Drive clothing store reported they attempted to leave the store without paying for $45 in merchandise.

Warrant arrests made

The following wanted persons were taken into custody:

- John Steven Porco, 34, 747 Baywood Circle, Sanford; turned himself in to deputies at the county jail on a drunken driving probation violation charge.
- David Phillip Mahoney, 19, 930 Little Fawn Road, Geneva; on a burglary probation violation charge.
- Keith Lenard Myers, 21, 19 William Clark Court, Sanford; on a cocaine possession probation violation charge.
- Cecily Rambo, 20, 2003 Jefferson Avenue, Sanford, was located by Sanford police at 10th Street and Oleander Avenue Saturday. She was wanted on a warrant for worthless checks.
- Robert Eugene Weaver, 17, 908 Park Avenue, was located by police in the 300 block of Palmetto Avenue Saturday. He was wanted on three warrants for violation of probation on previous convictions of burglary to a dwelling, grand theft, and burglary.

- 1800 block Paloma Drive; a microwave oven was reported taken sometime between 5:30 p.m. Sunday and 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Teen girl could land on death row

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas — Kristi Koslow's lawyers say police coerced the scared 17-year-old into falsely confessing that she hired her boyfriend and another teen-ager to slaughter her parents for their money.

Her millionaire father — who survived though his throat was slashed — says his adopted daughter deserves to die.

If Ms. Koslow, now 19, is convicted of capital murder, the same jury must decide whether to sentence her to life in prison or death. No woman has been executed in Texas since 1883, when one was hanged for murdering a horse trader.

The case was expected to go to the jury after closing arguments today.

Jack Koslow testified that he was awakened early on March 12, 1992, by the buzz of his home burglar alarm and the scream of his oil heiress wife, Caren: "They're in the house!"

Two men broke down the door of the dark bedroom. Jeffrey Dillingham beat the couple unconscious with a metal pry bar and Brian Salter cut their throats, the 19-year-olds told authorities.

Salter, Ms. Koslow's former boyfriend, accepted a life sentence in exchange for his testimony. Dillingham was sentenced to death.

Salter said Ms. Koslow planned the attack, gave him a map of the house and the burglar alarm code and promised to share her inheritance.

An informant's tip led police to the trio two weeks after the attack. Until then, Koslow had been their prime suspect.

Outside the jury's presence, Koslow said his daughter should get the death penalty.

"That's what she gave Caren," he said.

The defense called just one witness, a lawyer, but the judge prevented him from testifying that police denied him access to his client, Ms. Koslow.

The defense also played a recording of Ms. Koslow's arraignment, when she told a judge that she did not know she had been charged with capital murder, "because ... I did not commit the crime."

Prosecution witnesses testified that Ms. Koslow wanted her parents' money.

Salter said he and Ms. Koslow shopped for the cars they planned to buy with the inheritance: a BMW convertible for her and a Toyota Land Cruiser for him.

Clayton Hudson, her friend and former classmate, testified that Ms. Koslow told Salter, "We can kill them easily. I have the house key. I know what room they're in. I know the alarm code. So you walk in and do it. It would be easy."

"Anything Kristi wanted Brian to do, all she had to do was say it and Brian jumped," Hudson continued. "Kristi definitely had Brian wrapped around her little finger."

Unemployment payments fraud

Florida paid out $76.3 million too much in unemployment payments last year according to federal estimates. Let's make it clearer. We the taxpayers of Florida, have been robbed of $76.3 million dollars.

Depending on who you talk to, there is usually someone to blame. The state says it could be because the system is so complex that errors are bound to happen. It also claims the operation of unemployment compensation is complex and easily falls prey to fraud.

Others tell us it's because we have such a large-scale influx of immigrants who've made it difficult to operate the program on a low-error level.

The federal government says the state is responsible for about 26 percent of the errors, and the people who receive the claims are responsible for 41 percent of the loss.

It's interesting to note that no one is being blamed for the additional 33 percent of the money which has virtually disappeared from our coffers.

We believe it is time for an examination into determining where this one-third of the overage is going.

In pointing the blame at the people, the complaint is that unemployed persons who find work forget to notify the state, and keep collecting benefits. To us, this is outright stealing. They may think the government has plenty of money and can afford it.

But it is our money they are taking. The money we work hard to earn, then pay in taxes. Seldom do we hear of anyone being arrested for or charged with unemployment compensation fraud. There are a few cases, but so few, that most people believe they can safely get past the law in this situation.

People who have falsely taken our money wouldn't be able to repay it even if they were found guilty and given a fine.

The state says some of this overpayment could be attributed to improper record keeping. If that is the case, we suspect no one in Tallahassee apparently cares enough to do anything about it. We have had this overpayment problem for a number of years.

The same holds true with falsehoods or bad record keeping connected to food stamps. In 1992, Florida had the nation's worst food stamp error rate. Overpayments of food stamps and unemployment compensations in 1992 amounted to $300 million.

This money is not coming out of a magician's hat, it's coming out of our pocketbooks and wallets.

This isn't a laughing matter. Unemployment compensation, food stamps, and other assistance programs are useful in helping members of our society who have fallen onto hard times. But the money should never be allowed to be a handout to people who purposely lie and cheat our government.

Let's reverse that old axiom. It is broke, so let's fix it.

Image of Congress

Congressman Dan Rostenkowski was formally indicted recently on 17 counts which, if true, could put him behind bars for years. Both parties in the House of Representatives have passed rules which require anyone charged with a felony to step down as chairman or ranking member of a committee. On the face of it this looks like Congress is acting responsibly, however, when you look beneath the surface, you find that Congress, as usual, is compromising its principles in seeking a safe solution.

In the United States a person is considered innocent until proven guilty, normally by a jury of his peers beyond every reasonable doubt. This is a higher standard of proof than is required in a civil case where the winning party prevails upon a "preponderance" of the evidence. If the presumption of innocence applies to members of Congress it would appear the logical course would be to allow Rostenkowski to keep his chairmanship until and unless he is proven guilty. On the other hand, if the Congress in setting up its internal rules feels that a felony charge against a member casts a shadow over congressional effectiveness, the individual charged should be removed from the Congress or at least forced to take a leave of absence until the case is resolved. As usual, Congress had done a little of each. It keeps the presumption of innocence in terms of allowing a member to stay in the Congress and on the committee, but removes the presumption of innocence as far as that person staying a committee chairman. It is no wonder that the image of Congress has fallen from a 78 percent favorable rating 30 years ago to less than 30 percent today. If the public does not respect the people making the laws, the laws themselves become questionable.

Welfare plan should be Murray-Lite

With the introduction of President Clinton's welfare plan, starting a long process, this question arises: Can government action modify human behavior in a salutary way?

The recent evidence is clear: sometimes. Thus, the number of people who smoke is way down, partly because of government research and public education programs. Government-sponsored education campaigns have somewhat lowered drug use. Automobile accident deaths are down partly because of safety regulations, like seat belts.

But there was something more than government at work in these partial successes. A disincentive. We were told, on every cigarette pack, that smoking could kill you. We saw television commercials that told us that drugs could fry your brain like an egg on a skillet. Drunk drivers, we were told, could end up in the slammer.

Will Clinton's new welfare plan provide the disincentives to fulfill his pledge to "end welfare as we know it"? I hope so, but I am dubious. Clinton bunted when he could have gone for the long ball. This is wrong-headed because the Long-Ball strategy is not only better for the country and for potential welfare recipients, but better politics for a president and a party in trouble in an election year.

The welfare problem can be divided into two parts. First, there are those people already on welfare -- known, identifiable adult females with offspring, who are typically in a sorry state. Second are those people who will be on welfare at some point in the future -- but for the moment they are not yet real people, only abstractions.

Regarding those people now on welfare, Clinton's bunt strategy is barely acceptable. The main idea is to get mushy-tough on welfare mothers under 22 years of age. Among other things, they are told to prepare to get a job, within two years, typically by going to school or to a job-training program.

Ideally, the new jobs will be in the private sector. Alas, most will probably end up in the public sector. Moreover, the plan does not put a firm time limit on those jobs, raising a possibility of permanent government make-work jobs. But forget for the moment that government jobs programs have a history of failure, and that if the training is for "good" jobs, then qualifying for welfare by having an illegitimate child can become yet another desirable entitlement ticket. Remember that in this first category of people, already on welfare, we are dealing with young children, in trouble through no fault of their own. It may be worth one more try to help them out of the welfare trap.

It is regarding the second group -- unidentified abstractions of people who will come on to welfare in the future -- where Clinton's plan falls down. They are treated exactly the same as real people now on welfare.

So where's the disincentive to reduce those illegitimate first pregnancies that begin the whole cycle? That's the only real way to start ending welfare as we know it. Oh sure, Clinton has put in $400 million for an education and public relations campaign, through schools, and he plans to use the president's bully pulpit.

Yes, just like the ad says

BOSTON — Someday we are all going to miss the tobacco companies. I know we are. They just don't make corporate villains like this anymore.

Oh, occasionally an oil company turns a massive spill into a p.r. bonanza. Sometimes a chemical company twists a court-ordered cleanup into proof of good citizenship. But nothing rivals the creativity of the disinformation campaigns that roll out of the tobacco industry faster than a pack of Camels.

This week, just when everything is going wrong for the tobacco manufacturers, we are being treated to newspaper ads that reach dizzying speeds of spin control. In a voice of sweet reasonableness, R.J. Reynolds is publicly pleading for "dialogue," for "discussion," for "courtesy," for "coexistence" and even "accommodation."

The ads present tobacco executives as peace negotiators in a world fraught with hostile anti-smoking extremists, big government, and uncivil non-libertarians. The bottom line of the ads comes straight from a pacifist handbook by way of a marriage counseling manual: "TOGETHER, WE CAN WORK IT OUT."

The lion can lay down with the lamb, RJR with the AMA, Brown & Williamson with the FDA. You gotta give them points for nerve.

Americans now know more than ever about how the cancer-causing cohort has manipulated the drug and the research, the government and the public. In congressional hearings the other day, the FDA told us how tobacco companies keep their customers hooked. It turns out that Brown and Williamson, the third largest domestic cigarette company, didn't just calibrate the dosage of nicotine. They altered the tobacco gene itself, growing plants called Y-1 with twice the hit, to give their low-tar smokers their fix.

That isn't all. Much as I hate to sully any tobacco maker's crafted pose as defender of openness and freedom of choice a few more facts are in order.

For 30 years, the tobacco companies appear to have known that nicotine was addictive and smoking dangerous. Brown & Williamson, having failed to make a safer cigarette, buried the evidence of danger. Others, like the RJR manufacturers now in favor of -- "open dialogue," steadfastly denied -- in and out of court -- that cigarettes cause disease.

The whole cabal fought in Congress against adding health warnings on cigarette packs. They fought in court against accepting any guilt in the death of smokers. They fought in public the accusation that they were advertising to kids.

They fought against smoke-free airplanes, smoke-free restaurants, a smoke-free workplace. They still deny the evidence of secondhand smoke dangers. They still go on spending $3 billion a year pitching cigarettes.

But now with RJR at the wheel of the industry spin control, they are holding out a peace pipe? What's it filled with? Y-1?

The sudden interest in "accommodation" comes because cigarette makers are finally on the losing end of a 30-year war. It appears that the FDA may actually have to treat nicotine as a drug. The Justice Department is going to look into whether company executives lied to Congress and regulators. There are new taxes, new legal strategies, new bans in the works.

So here we go. Health defenders are now portrayed as health vigilantes. The manufacturers of products responsible for 400,000 deaths a year are protectors of openness, peace, and the American way.

A smoke-free society is portrayed as an unfree society. Warning darkly of the sinister forces of cigarette prohibition, the ads ask, "Who knows where it will all end?"

Well, I am not in favor of prohibition. If you've seen one smoker in withdrawal, you don't want to see 45 million at the same time. So I am willing to make a deal -- in a smoke-free room of course.

In "the interests of an informed debate," as RJR puts it, the tobacco companies only have to admit that smoking causes lung cancer, emphysema and all the other woes listed on the pack. In lieu of a ban, they give us a full list of cigarette ingredients beginning with A for ammonia. They tell us what they knew about addiction and when they knew it.

Next, they can stop promoting, advertising, and generally hooking the next generation of smokers. If they lower the nicotine dose, we'll even stop calling them drug pushers.

Yes, as the ad says: WE CAN WORK IT OUT.

They just don't make corporate villains like this anymore.

No light at the end of tunnel

WASHINGTON — Bob Kerrey was serving in Vietnam when negotiators at the Paris peace talks tried to end the war. But before the Paris talks began, negotiators squandered months haggling over the size and shape of the conference table.

More than two decades later, the irony of that impasse shouldn't be lost on Kerrey, now a United States Senator who's trying to defuse the ticking time-bomb of entitlement spending.

Kerrey, D-Neb., is the chairman of the 32-member Bipartisan Commission on Entitlement and Tax Reform. Entitlements now account for 54 percent of all federal spending. At the current pace, entitlements plus interest on the $4.6 trillion debt will devour all federal revenue by the year 2030.

It was Kerrey who originally bargained for the creation of the commission by causing the decisive vote in favor of President Clinton's budget last summer. One year later, the commission is a domestic-version of the Paris talks. That's why Kerrey is the last to promise -- to paraphrase an infamous Vietnam-era saying -- that reform "is at hand."

"I'm not sitting here saying that I'm optimistic," Kerrey told us. "But I am under the very strong opinion that we have to do it. Every day we wait, it makes things worse."

Congressional sources say a bitter backroom struggle flared long before the commission's first meeting was held as members from both sides of the aisle jockeyed for one of the high-profile slots. The Congressional leadership was left to pick 10 members from each chamber, to be divided evenly between Democrats and Republicans. Clinton was left to tap 10 experts from the private sector plus the commission's chair and vice chair.

With pressure building from all sides, House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., settled on a Democratic delegation that's spent a collective 119 years in the House defending the very oxen they're now expected to gore: Committee Chairmen John Dingell, D-Mich. (Energy and Commerce); Kika de la Garza, D-Texas (Agriculture); Martin Sabo, D-Minn. (Budget); as well as former Ways and Means chair Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill. A similar scenario played out among Senate Democrats.

"These are the people who have not done anything in more than a decade to put serious entitlement cuts on the table," said one House Democrat. "They've all had ample opportunity to take the lead on these difficult issues. Now we're supposed to trust this crowd to champion deficit reduction on the entitlement side of the budget?"

But committee chairmen provide muscle for making deals. Foley recently explained to Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn., a deficit hawk who Clinton had publicly said should be on the commission, that exclusion of these power barons could turn the commission into just another useless blue-ribbon panel.

Some House chairmen told Foley that "if they're not in on the ground floor, they may resist at the tail end and spike it," another Democratic insider told our associate Ed Henry. "If these folks aren't involved then we may be fighting them if they are displeased with the commission's recommendations."

Kerrey won the Medal of Honor for his service in Vietnam. If he can make progress with the entitlement commission, he'll surely deserve another one.

One year later, the commission is a domestic version of the Paris talks.

Discussion heated over choosing road contractor

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The tentative naming of a contractor for construction of Seminole Towne Center Boulevard has stirred anger from one Sanford commissioner.

The boulevard is to be the main entrance roadway into the mall, presently under construction with an expected completion date of Sept. 7, 1995.

During Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, it was revealed that the award would be granted to Amick Construction, announced as the low bidder.

Commissioner Lon Howell objected, indicating that the contract was not being accepted on a fair basis.

The contract awarding was required by the Seminole Towne Center Community Redevelopment Agency, which consists of the same members as the city commission. During the regular commission meeting, a brief adjournment was required, as the commission sat as the STCCRA in order to vote on the matter.

The controversy over the bidding of the contract was brought up regarding an error noted in the original contract estimate submitted by Amick.

The final figure in Amick's bid was listed as $2,599,000.

City Manager Bill Simmons reported that Amick had listed one line item, for sidewalk construction costs, at 75 cents per linear foot, which was considered extremely low. It was later explained that the cost should have been higher than listed.

Wayne Edmonds, with Hubbard Construction, the second lowest bidder, spoke on the matter. "Amick clearly made an error," he said, "and if the true cost of the sidewalk construction, approximately $6 per linear foot rather than 75 cents is added in, it makes their bid higher, and Hubbard would have been the lowest bidder, which is what your city rules call for in awarding a contract."

Gerald Ruttberg from Amick

responded. "It isn't a line item but the lowest total cost on which the bid was awarded," he said, "and the final figure offered by Amick was lower, so we should be awarded the contract."

Simmons explained that when the error in the single line item was found, Amick was contacted about it. "They said they would stick with their final total contract amount," he said, "so that's the basis on which we selected the low bid."

Commissioner Lon Howell questioned, "If you gave Amick the opportunity to change their mind, why didn't you give the same opportunity to Hubbard?"

"They didn't change their bid," Simmons responded, "they only verified what they had originally submitted as the final figure. We should look at it as in the best interest of the community."

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan observed, "It looks to me that if Amick made a mistake, it's to our benefit."

Several times during the dis-ussion, Howell proposed that the entire matter be put back out through the bidding process once again. No other commissioner supported his suggestion however.

Before the commissioners voted on accepting the Amick bid for the road work, City Attorney Bill Colbert suggested the contract awarding be conditional, subject to the availability of funding. "The bonds should be obtained around August 10th or 11th," he said, "then we'll have the funds for the awarding."

A motion was then made and seconded to accept Amick as the contractor.

"If the commission goes along with this," said Howell, "you will be making a big mistake. Frankly, if I was with Hubbard, I'd sue you."

The motion passed on a four to one vote, with Howell casting the lone nay vote.

Eagle

The proposal is expected to become final after a 90-day comment period.

It marks a renaissance for the stately bald eagle — the nation's symbol for more than two centuries. In the early 1970s, there were fewer than 800 adult nesting eagles in the lower 48 states. Today there are nearly 8,000 adult birds in those states.

Florida has over 700 mated pairs of bald eagles, and about 1,500 total birds, the largest bald eagle population for any state in the continental United States, according to Don Wood, endangered species coordinator for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. The study of the eagle population in Florida began in 1972 and the growth in the number of birds is a reflection of finding the nests as well as an expanding population.

"We don't know how many there might have been 20 years ago," Wood explained. "The increase in our database over the first 10 or 15 years of looking at them was a reflection of finding new nests every year that we didn't know about before, rather than increasing population. But in terms of the last 10 years, we think we had a pretty good handle of where they all were, or at least 98 percent."

Ten years ago, about 350 bald eagle nests were known to exist in Florida, last year the nests numbered about 700. Eagle pairs mate for life and typically return year after year to the same nest to raise their young, according to Wood.

Some pairs will build a second nest within their nesting territory, but most eagles add on to their old nest in preparation for their new family.

Although this year's data has not been compiled, in 1993 Seminole County had 32 eagle territories containing 23 nests and successfully produced 40 young birds which fledged (flew) from the nests, Wood said.

Fish and game officials survey the nesting sites by air several times during the nesting season between late September until mid-May to check on the eagle population. Wood says no one knows where the eagles go after nesting season. Although some eagles remain in Florida, they do not associate with their nest until the next mating season.

The removal of the bald eagle from the endangered species list marks "a dramatic recovery for the bald eagle" and a victory for the Endangered Species Act, said Michael Bean of the Environmental Defense Fund. He said the eagle could not have survived without the federal law that protects species from disappearing.

Interior officials have hinted for more than a year that the bald eagle would soon be removed from the endangered category across most of the country. Fish and Wildlife Director Mollie Beattie scheduled a news conference for Thursday on the eagle.

Bean said he has been told that the bird would remain classified as endangered in parts of the Southwest, including Arizona and New Mexico, where its recovery has been less dramatic, but be "downlisted" to the threatened category in the rest of the lower 48 states.

As threatened, the eagle and its habitat will continue to be protected under federal law, but the change in designation reflects the bird's improved chances for long-term survival.

The eagle has never been singled out as endangered or threatened in Alaska, where it has thrived, and it is not found in Hawaii. It came under the protection of the Endangered Species Act in the lower 48 states in 1975.

The bald eagle was named America's national bird in 1782 and is depicted on the back of the dollar bill with outstretched wings that in real life can span more than 6 feet.

Despite its majesty and historic significance, the eagle has had its enemies over the years. It was the frequent target of hunters in the early 1960s and also the victim of growing pollution from pesticides — especially DDT — that made their way into waterways and into fish, the primary food for eagles.

Critics of the Endangered Species Act have played down that law's impact on the eagle's recovery, arguing that grassroots love for the national bird and prohibitions on chemicals such as DDT had more to do with its bouncing back.

Many biologists and environmentalists agree that the 1973 ban on DDT probably was the single most important development in rescuing the eagle, but they also cite the protection of the bird's habitat afforded by the federal law.

Without the Endangered Species Act, "it would have taken 20 years to even begin the discussions on whether the bald eagle should have been protected," argues Karyn Strickler of the Endangered Species Coalition, a lobbying group seeking to prevent Congress from weakening the law.

Some protectors of the eagle, meanwhile, are concerned the Interior Department's action might make it harder to ensure the eagle's continued healthy recovery.

"The eagle is not yet home free," said Al Louis Cecece, president of the National Foundation to Protect America's Eagles. He said he is worried the change in the eagle's status will make it harder to get federal and state money for restoration and protection projects.

"Many of the bald eagle nests are on unprotected private land and for the eagle to continue its recovery we're going to have to work out something where landowners will continue to protect nests," said Cecece in a telephone interview.

Little Miss Coppertone covers up for sun safety campaign

By The Associated Press

TRENTON, N.J. — After 41 years of flashing her bare bottom, Little Miss Coppertone is covering up, for an educational campaign tied to new government forecasts of the danger from sun exposure.

The popular logo for sun care products now sports a T-shirt and hat, and her frisky puppy is tugging on her shirt, not pulling down her swim trunks.

The little girl also has a lighter tan than the child who first graced Coppertone bottles in 1953, before the product contained sunscreen.

"By covering her up, we're symbolically saying that times have changed. We all know more now about the relationship between overexposure to the sun and skin cancer," said Lewis Nolan, spokesman for Memphis, Tenn.-based Schering-Plough HealthCare Products, a division of Schering-Plough Corp. of Madison.

Schering-Plough's campaign, launched Tuesday, coincides with the National Weather Service's addition of a solar-hazard rating to the daily weather report — a move aimed at preventing skin cancer and eye damage from harmful ultraviolet radiation.

The new logo is featured in ads and a free brochure to be distributed through retail stores and physicians, at community health screenings and by mail. The brochure explains the dangers of UV radiation, how quickly a fair-skinned person would burn at each UV risk factor, and how to protect oneself.

Editor's Note: The brochure may be obtained from Coppertone, P.O. Box 8410, Young America, Minn. 55551-8410.

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Wayne gets Dolphins
 MIAMI — In major league sports, South Florida truly is Wayne's World. Sports-and-entertainment mogul H. Wayne Huizenga completed his purchase of the Miami Dolphins, bringing his collection of professional sports franchises to three. He already owns baseball's Marlins and hockey's Panthers. Also Tuesday, Huizenga bought the half of Joe Robbie Stadium he hadn't owned previously. The deal with the heirs of the late Joe Robbie had been considered a formality since March, when the NFL approved the sale. Negotiations stalled until Huizenga won a concession to rename Joe Robbie Stadium if he chooses.

AROUND THE NATION

Marlins edge Phillies
 PHILADELPHIA — Fernando Valenzuela pitched six strong innings in his return to the majors, but the Florida Marlins spoiled his night, beating the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 on Jerry Browne's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning. Valenzuela, who was 10-3 with Jalisco of the Mexican League before signing with the Phillies last Friday, allowed six hits and one unearned run. He struck out one, walked two and went 1-for-2 with a crowd-pleasing double. Pinch-hitter Matias Carrillo doubled to open the Marlins' ninth, went to third on Chuck Carr's sacrifice and scored on Browne's fly ball. Jeff Mutis (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 innings and Robb Nen pitched the ninth for his seventh save. Dave Weathers, 24, matched the 33-year-old Valenzuela. After allowing a run in the first, he blanked the Phillies over the next five innings. Carr reached on an error, stole second, moved to third on Gary Sheffield's single and scored on Jeff Conine's sacrifice fly for Florida's other run.

Panthers take Jovanovski
 HARTFORD, Conn. — The Florida Panthers selected junior defenseman Ed Jovanovski with the first pick in the NHL draft, while Toronto traded captain Wendel Clark to Quebec in a stunning six-player deal. Anaheim selected Russian defenseman Oleg Tverdovsky with the No. 2 pick and Ottawa took Czech forward Radek Bonk, who had 42 goals for Las Vegas in the International Hockey League last season, with the third pick. Toronto sent Clark, Sylvain Lefebvre, Landon Wilson and the 22nd pick to Quebec for Mats Sundin, Garth Butcher, Todd Warriner and the No. 10 pick, which the Maple Leafs hoped to use to select Brett Lindros. However, the New York Islanders took Lindros — the brother of Philadelphia star Eric Lindros — with the No. 9 pick they acquired from Quebec in a deal that sent Uwe Krupp to Quebec for Ron Sutter. With Lindros gone, Toronto gave the No. 10 pick to Washington for Mike Ridley.

Gooden suspended
 NEW YORK — Dwight Gooden, the New York Mets' last link to their 1986 World Series champions, was suspended for 60 days without pay for violating his drug aftercare program. The New York Times, citing a highly placed person in major league baseball, said today that Gooden, who missed a month of the 1987 season after testing positive for cocaine use and undergoing treatment, failed two random drug tests and the New York Daily News, citing a source familiar with baseball's drug-testing program, said he failed at least two tests, the last administered within the past two weeks.

Barkley will return
 PHOENIX — Phoenix Suna star Charles Barkley, who frequently hinted at retirement last season, said he'll return for another shot at the championship despite a back injury. Barkley, 31, said he was committed to a rigorous course of therapy his doctors say he must undergo to strengthen his back.

AROUND THE WORLD

Navratilova in semi's
 WIMBLEDON, England — Martina Navratilova, pursuing a 10th title in her 22nd and final Wimbledon appearance, beat fifth-seeded Jana Novotna of the Czech Republic 5-7, 6-0, 6-1 to advance to the semifinals. Thursday, the fourth-seeded Navratilova will face Gigi Fernandez and Lori McNeil will meet third-seeded Conchita Martinez of Spain. Fernandez beat No. 13 Zina Garrison-Jackson 6-4, 6-4; McNeil defeated Larisa Neiland of Latvia 6-3, 6-4; and Martinez beat No. 9 Lindsay Davenport 6-2, 6-7 (4-7), 6-3. Three-time champion Boris Becker, seeded seventh, beat No. 9 Andrei Medvedev 6-7 (5-7), 7-5, 7-5 (7-3), 6-7 (3-7), 7-5 in a fourth-round match that was suspended Monday.

Summer school in session

Bullets taught a lesson

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Summer high school baseball is supposed to be an educational experience. It certainly was (or should have been) for the Seminole Animal Supply Bullets Tuesday night.

After blowing a 3-1 lead in a 5-4 loss to DeLand, the Bullets — Lyman High School's summer squad — were treated to an extensive drill-and-review session of signs and strategy by Coach Bob McCullough.

Beginning in anger-edged tones but finishing with jokes and laughs, McCullough rapidly flashed signs, then pointed to players for an interpretation. A wrong answer was rewarded with a foul line to foul line sprint.

"Games like this are important," said McCullough, dismissing that it ended in a loss like a summer day ending in a thunderstorm. "This lets people realize what it takes to

Mudcats take two

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Even though they scored nine runs in both games, pitching was the key to the Lake Mary Mudcats' sweep of an NAJF Pat Torre League doubleheader with the visiting Trinity Prep Saints Tuesday night.

In the first game, Robert Vessey threw four innings of hitless relief to allow the Mudcats to overcome an early 4-0 deficit and win 9-4. Jim Guemple and Nick Alexander combined on a one-inning shutout as the Mudcats rolled to a 9-0 win in the nightcap, which was stopped after 4 1/2 innings.

Vessey struck out eight while walking just one batter in his four innings of work.

Bryan Schumaker paced a two-run home run to pace the Mudcats' offense in the first game. He also hit a single. Carey Hobbs added a triple, two singles, and an RBI. Mike

Little Majors stay alive

From Staff Reports

LEESBURG — Sanford's Little Major Baseball League All-Star team kept its hopes of a trip to the state tournament alive Tuesday, using a five-run second inning to propel it to a 7-4 victory over the Port Orange American All-Stars in the district tournament.

Levi Raines Jr. scattered eight hits while striking out nine to get the pitching victory.

Sanford's big inning was keyed by a couple of errors, but the big blow of the evening was a three-run home run by Bud Bennett.

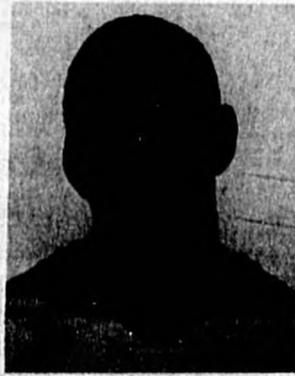

The local squad added insurance runs in the fourth and sixth innings.

Providing the offense for Sanford, who lost its opening game to the Ormond Beach National All-Stars on Monday, were Bennett (home run, two runs scored, three RBI), Nick Ireland (double, two runs), Raines and Andrew Beatty (one single and one RBI each), Jason Turner (single, run), Alex Anderson (single), Brad Locke (run, RBI) and Brian Porter (run).

Turner also turned in the defensive play of the game, cutting down a Port Orange runner at the plate with a strong throw from center field.

In other games Tuesday night, host Leesburg and the New Smyrna Beach advanced to the winners' bracket finals by beating the Port Orange Nationals and Ormond Beach Nationals, respectively. Also scheduled was a losers' bracket game between the Ormond Beach Americans and Holly Hill.

There will be two losers' bracket games tonight at Leesburg. Sanford facing the Port Orange Nationals and the Ormond Beach Nationals facing the winner of the Ormond Beach American-Holly Hill game.

Sanford Preps settle for second again

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — The Sanford All-Stars gave it a great try, but five games in three days and the Daytona Beach All-Stars proved to be too much as they had to settle for second in the Babe Ruth Prep-13 District Tournament at Candyland Park Sunday.

Sanford, which finished as the runner-up in the tournament for the second consecutive year, nearly reversed roles with Daytona Beach as they had suffered a heart-breaking 4-3 decision to Daytona in the winners' bracket final Saturday evening.

Sanford rebounded by scoring four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to eliminate host Longwood, 7-4, in a game early Sunday morning.

But, needing to defeat Daytona Beach twice to win the tournament, Sanford could not solve the offerings of Daytona Beach pitcher Bubba Sullivan, who gave up just four hits while striking out four and walking two.

Sanford loaded the bases with two out in the fifth and a runner on third with two out in the sixth, but could not push a run across and finished with a 3-2 record, with both losses coming to Daytona Beach.

In the Longwood game, Sanford led 2-0 and 3-2 before Longwood scored a pair of runs in the top of the seventh inning to take a 4-3 advantage. But four walks and a bases-clearing double by Melvin Holt gave Sanford the victory and a spot in the finals.

Hitting for Longwood were Jeremy Williams (double, run), Edmundo Delgado and C. Aptel (one single and one run each), Robbie Macchione and Scott Murray (one single each) and Matt Guenther (run).

Getting the hits for Sanford against Daytona Beach on Sunday were Hawkins (two singles) and Casey and T.J. Thompson (one single each).

Balough makes last-to-first charge for Late Model win

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Late Model veteran Gary Balough charged from the back of the pack to win the 50-lap Late Model feature event last Friday, June 24, at Orlando Speedworld.

Balough, who qualified third fastest for the evening, took the lead on lap eight when race leader Dick Anderson (who set the evening's fast qualifying time) was forced from competition with a leaking water pump.

Once on the point, Balough pulled to an eight-car advantage over the second-place car of Ronnie Burkett.

Balough dominated action until he was spun by a lapped car to the infield on lap 28. Flagman Ken Golden put Balough and the driver that triggered the incident at the back of the lead pack for the new green flag.

It took four laps for Balough to dice his way back through the 18-car field to regain the point. He wasted little time in racing to a 10-car lead over the rest of the pack.

Despite seven more caution periods that bunched the field for restarts, Balough immediately put his competitors behind him.

"There's no two ways about it, we were real strong tonight," said Balough, who drives the Pee Wee Griffin Racing Camaro. "I feel like we were a fraction of a second faster than Dickie (Anderson) tonight. It's too bad he dropped out. It would have been a real good race."

Mechanical gremlins plagued several other drivers who had exceptionally good qualifying times. Burkett was forced from competition with engine problems while handling problems put Ed Meredith behind the pit wall.

Trailing Balough to victory lane were Bruce Everett — who drives the oldest Late Model on the Florida circuit — Tuffy Heater, Michael Haight, and Don Fenn.

"It's old and it's ugly, but I'm proud of it," said Everett, who has been racing for 18 years. "It's a 1974 Howe Chassis Car Kit. It was stored on the back of trailer from 1980 until I bought it in 1990. When I got the car, I rebuilt everything under the body."

"Tonight, I'm pleased and excited. Imagine finishing second behind Gary Balough."

Michael Williams held off the hard-charging duo of Gary Schlechter and Glenn Carter to win the Limited Late Model feature. Williams started from the inside pole and led every circuit in notching his eighth win of the season.

Schlechter took the checkered flag four car lengths behind Williams. Carter was third followed by Andy Saffloti and Mark Miller.

Bobby Sears started the Mini-Stock feature event from the third place position, but by the end of the first lap, he was leading the 18-car field out of turn four.

With Sears in command, Kelly Jarrett and Jared Allison duelled for the No. 2 spot. At the halfway mark, Allison faded to a distant third while Jarrett tried to overtake Sears.

But Sears remained strong and took the checkers ahead of Jarrett, Allison, Eddie Tovet, and Ted Vulpus.

Harley Gibbons led every circuit to win his first Bomber main event of the year. Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Robert Jenkins, Bobby Stevens, Mike Peppier, and Doug Gould.

Ed Meredith edged Bruce Thompson at the flag stand to win his ninth Modified headliner of the season. In tow behind the lead pair were Greg Hughes, Wayne Parker, and Bobby Owens.

Other feature event winners were Jeff Rule (Sportsman), Tim Nicholas (Run-Abouts), Tim Aultman (Mini-Bombers), and Debbie Santo (Four-Cylinder Enduro).

IN BRIEF

Home canning toll-free number

A new 800 number has been established to meet the needs of consumers with questions about home canning, freezing, dehydration or other food preservation.

The toll-free number will have up-to-date home canning guidelines, recipes and answers to food preservation problems. Suggestion on how to avoid these problems are also provided.

Consumers may call 1-800-240-3340 to speak with a representative. The number is available for consumer questions Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Eastern time zone, except holidays.

Turkey recipe contest

There is still time to enter the "Topsy-Turvy Turkey" recipe contest, sponsored by the National Turkey Federation.

Winning recipes will be selected based on taste, convenience, family appeal, originality, appearance, simplicity of preparation and variety. Cash prizes will be awarded for the top five recipes in the following denominations: grand prize-$2,500; second-$1,000; third-$750; fourth-$500 and fifth-$250.

All recipes must include at least one pound of turkey meat. Recipes must be clearly typed on an 8 1/2 x 11-inch sheet of paper. Include your name, address, telephone number and recipe title on each recipe. Winning recipes will be selected by a panel of judges selected by the National Turkey Federation. Judges' decisions will be final.

Entries must be postmarked by midnight, July 30, 1994. If duplicate recipes are received, the one received earlier will be judged. Winners will be notified in June 1995 and prize monies awarded. All prizes will be awarded; federal state and other taxes will be the sole responsibility of the winners. All entries become the property of NTF.

This contest is open to all U.S. residents and is void where prohibited, taxed or restricted by law. Employees of the NTF, its affiliates, its promoting agencies and their immediate families are not eligible. Winners grant to the NTF the right to adapt, publish or use the entry for any advertising, promotional, trade or other purpose without further compensation or permission from the entrant.

For a free copy of the winning recipes, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your entry. Mail recipes to: JTLM Favorite Turkey Recipe Contest, National Turkey Federation, 11319 Sunset Hills Road, Reston, Va. 22090.

Cook of the Week

Equally artistic with paints or food

SANFORD — Cook of the Week Audra Wakefield undoubtedly has been blessed with many enchanting talents throughout her life. However, make no mistake in knowing that her high point areas range somewhere between her creativeness artistically with her paintbrush to the culinary treats she prepares with her pastry brush. Either way, Wakefield is truly a delightful and absolutely impressive lady.

Wakefield hails originally from Alabama and moved to Florida in 1955. She moved to Sanford two years later and has been here ever since. Wakefield is the mother of three sons and one daughter. Her oldest son, Jim, lives in California. Rick is in Georgia and Charles, who is in the Air Force, is stationed here in Florida. Her daughter, Jane, also lives in Florida. She has four grandchildren, two girls and two boys.

Wakefield is currently retired after having a 30-year career as a real estate agent in the Sanford/Lake Mary area. "I have seen a lot of changes and growth over the years," said Wakefield. But she does go on to explain that she also remembers those grim years where it seemed like nothing was ever going to sell where real estate was concerned.

Artistically, Wakefield found enjoyment with a brush and canvas. Much to her surprise she also found out that she was extremely talented in this area. So much so that her paintings have sold in Georgia, Alabama, Ohio and California. "I love to do paintings from the Bible," said Wakefield. "I do my still life paintings with acrylics and all of my sceneries in oil." As she presented some of her beautiful works of art that are displayed in the home, she mentioned that she has never had "lesion one." And even more amazing is the fact that her children are also just as artistically talented. Jane does what is called pen and ink. Jim's talent is in wood sculpture and Charles does his sculpting in sand. Like their mother, they were also latent artistic talents.

When it comes to cooking, Wakefield enjoys preparing Southern dishes and she tries to stay within healthy guidelines. "I cook a lot with fresh veggies and I stay away from salt as much as possible, and I have also found that lemon pepper, in place of regular ground pepper, is a wonderful tasting alternative."

Wakefield shared her most requested (by family members) recipe for Mississippi Mud Cake with Chocolate Icing. "I always make this recipe every time I go home for a family reunion," she said.

When there is going to be a covered dish at Wakefield's church, she always brings Audra's Easy Yeast Rolls. "It's the biggest request from my recipes that they ask for," she concluded.

BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

1 bunch fresh broccoli, flowerets only

1 can (10% oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup

1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese

1/2 cup sour cream

1/2 tsp. lemon pepper

1 can French fried onions

Combine broccoli, soup, 1/2 cup cheese, sour cream, pepper and 1/2 cup fried onions. Pour into a 1-quart casserole.

Bake covered at 350°F. for 30 minutes.

Top with remaining cheese and onions. Bake uncovered 5 minutes longer.

PORK CHOPS WITH GRAVY

(No Salt)

In heavy skillet with cover put small amount of cooking oil and when moderately warm, add desired amount of pork chops to skillet.

Cut center of pork chop and sprinkle with lemon pepper and reduce heat to low.

Cook until slightly brown on both sides. Remove from pan. Add about 1/2 cup of flour to drippings. Brown, then add lemon pepper to taste.

Add 2 cups of water. Cook stirring constantly until thickened, turn on lowest heat.

Return pork chops to skillet and simmer until tender.

MISSISSIPPI MUD CAKE

A rainbow of peppers now in season

Beautiful peppers of all descriptions can be found on the produce counters. Some are sweet and mild, others are very hot. They come in a variety of colors and shapes. Our salsa and other dishes can be enhanced by the wide range of colors and flavors.

The next time a recipe calls for green pepper, use a Cubanelle pepper (light green), or mix the two, or use red, yellow or purple peppers.

These appetizers are really easy to prepare and are a colorful addition to our appetizer tray.

CHEESE AND PEPPERS

1 small green pepper

1 small red or yellow pepper

2 oz. Monterey Jack cheese

Cut peppers into 1-inch wide strips. Remove membranes and seeds. Spray serving plate lightly with non-stick spray. Place strip on plate with inner-side up. Cut cheese in slices and then into sticks, one for each pepper stick.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered 1 1/4-1 1/2 minutes until cheese is softened. Let stand a few minutes.

Cut each strip into 3 pieces. About 24 snacks.

MIDGE MYCOFF

Browned pork cubes are teamed with pineapple, green pepper, water chestnuts and a light curry sauce for this sweet-sour favorite. Serve over rice for a colorful entree.

SWEET AND TANGY PORK

1 lb. boneless pork, cubed

1 Tbsp. oil

1 small onion, sliced

1 can pineapple chunks

2 Tbsp. soy sauce

2 Tbsp. vinegar

2 tsp. sugar

1/2 tsp. curry powder

1/2 tsp. garlic powder

2 Tbsp. cornstarch

1 green pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces

1 can (8 oz.) sliced water chestnuts, drained

Cut pork into 1-inch cubes. Heat oil in shallow 2-quart casserole on 80 percent power 1-2 minutes. Add pork and brown on all sides. Add onion. Drain juice from pineapple. Add water if necessary to make 3/4 cup juice. Stir in soy sauce, vinegar, sugar, curry and garlic. Pour over pork, mixing lightly. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100 percent power 4-5 minutes or until mixture starts to boil, stirring once. Then, microwave on 30 percent power 9-10 minutes or until pork is tender, stirring once. Combine pineapple and cornstarch until blended. Stir into pork mixture. Add green pepper and water chestnuts.

Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 6 to 7 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens, stirring once.

Stuffed peppers are a favorite in many homes. This recipe takes little time because the meat is cooked before it is placed in the pepper.

BAKED STUFFED PEPPERS

4 medium green peppers

1 onion, finely chopped

1 rib of celery, finely chopped

2 cloves garlic, minced

1 Tbsp. butter or margarine

2 Tbsp. fresh chopped parsley

1/2 lb. ground chuck

1 piece white bread, softened with 2 tablespoons milk

1 egg

1/2 tsp. sugar

1/2 tsp. salt

1/2 tsp. pepper

1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce

1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Toasted bread crumbs, for topping

Core and wash green peppers. In large glass measure melt butter 20-30 seconds. Add onion, celery and garlic. Microwave

Iced tea: the great American beverage

Here are some great ideas for enjoying tea iced with family and friends: garnish chilled glasses with fruit kabobs of strawberries, grapes and kiwis on wooden skewers; chill tea with ice cubes made from your favorite fruit juice.

Brewing instructions for the perfect glass of iced tea.
Place four to six tea bags in a glass quart jar or pitcher (four for mild flavor or six for full flavor). Bring fresh cold water to a boil then pour four cups over tea bags.

Brew three to five minutes or to desired strength. Remove tea bags. Pour into ice-filled glasses.

Place four to five tea bags in a glass quart jar or pitcher (four for mild flavor or five for full flavor. Bring fresh cold water to a boil then pour two cups over tea bags.

Brew three to five minutes or to desired strength.

Remove tea bags and add two cups cold water. Pour into ice-filled glasses.

Hot tea method for iced tea.
Place three family-size or nine regular tea bags in a gallon jar then fill with cold water.

Cap loosely and place in hot sunshine, away from combustible material, for three to four hours.

Remove tea bags. Add recipe ingredients, such as sweetener or lemon, if desired. Pour into ice-filled glasses.

Refrigerate within five hours of brewing start.

4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups self-rising flour
1 to 2 cups chopped nuts
1 bag miniature marshmallows

Melt margarine, cocoa, sugar and eggs. Mix well. Add flour and nuts, mix well. Pour into a 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 325°F. for 25-30 minutes. (Do not overbake!)

While hot, cover top of cake with marshmallows. Drizzle chocolate icing on top of marshmallows.

Chocolate Icing:
1 box Confectioner's sugar
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 stick margarine, melted
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix all well. Mix all to consistency as you would for any cake frosting. Then put into microwave.

Heat until thin enough to drizzle over marshmallows.

AUDREY'S BABY YEAST ROLLS

1/2 cup sugar
1 cup very hot water
1 cup lukewarm water
1/4 cup shortening
1 tsp. salt

2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 packages dry yeast
6 cups unbleached flour (plait)

In large bowl pour the hot water over sugar, shortening, and salt. Stir and let dissolve. Mix the yeast in the warm water while shortening mixture cools.

Add the yeast mixture and eggs. Add the flour 2 cups at a time mixing well. Store in covered bowl in refrigerator at least overnight (will keep 7 or 8 days).

When ready to use, make desired shapes: Parkerhouse style on cookie sheet. Cloverleaf into muffin pans.

Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until golden brown.

OLD-FASHION PEACH FRESH PIES

Cook 1 lb. bag dried peaches

or other dried fruit in saucepan with water until nice and tender. (Easier if you cut into small pieces before cooking.)

Add sugar, cinnamon and cloves to taste.

Drain and discard any liquid left in fruit.

Make biscuit dough with milk or water only (no buttermilk). Prepare biscuits a little drier than would be called for in the recipe.

Roll out small round pieces on well-floured wax paper. Use saucer to put onto rolled dough, cutting around to make circle.

Put fruit onto half the circle of dough. Fold over and crimp edges to seal fruit.

Prepare all the fruit ahead of time before commencing frying as the pies cook very rapidly. Use a heavy frying pan.

Add Crisco to pan as needed. Pierce one side with fork. Fry two at a time on moderate temperature until golden brown on both sides.

They are delicious and well worth the effort. They may be served warm or cold and will keep several days in the refrigerator.

Magic

on 100 percent power 2 minutes. Add bread softened with milk to ground chuck. Add meat to 1 1/2-quart casserole, microwave on 100 percent power 4-5 minutes, stirring after three minutes. Drain fat from meat.

Mix vegetables with the meat mixture, then add tomato sauce, parsley, egg, sugar and seasonings. Fill peppers. Place peppers in an 8-inch square glass casserole. Microwave on 100 percent power for 8-10 minutes. During the last 2 minutes of cooking time, sprinkle cheese and bread crumbs on top of peppers. After cooking, allow peppers to stand covered for 5-8 minutes to complete cooking.

Sweepstakes scams sweep away money

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for mentioning the trouble some people get into by investing their hard-earned money in those contests/sweepstakes.

I am a CPA who's had some of my elderly clients taken in by contest/sweepstakes promoters. One client wrote checks totaling more than $17,500 in 1993. She had received 134 mail solicitations in a single week! Multiple requests came from the same address — each with a slightly different pitch. In addition, there were two or three telephone requests every day.

The mail solicitations requested less than $100 — some less than $20; however, the telephone calls were something different. They asked for sums from $500 to $2,500, and "guaranteed" that she had won if she didn't agree to send the money, they became verbally abusive (they do not use the U.S. mail — they use Federal Express, thereby avoiding a mail-fraud charge.)

I have spoken with FBI agents regarding those "boiler room" calls. As soon as the FBI finds these people and shuts them down, they set up shop at a different location.

Sadly, many elderly people do not want a son, daughter or bank trust officer stepping in to control their finances, yet their falling vision, limited financial resources and the assurance that they have won the lottery make them easy prey for these promoters.

LINDA G. MONTGOMERY SAN FRANCISCO
DEAR LINDA: Thank you for the input. Read on for another point of view:

DEAR ABBY: I have been enjoying your column since it began. Usually I agree with you, but regarding the daughter who said her mother was "hooked" on sweepstakes, I think you should have done some investigating before answering.

A legitimate sweepstakes never asks for money. I know this for a fact because after I retired, I tried "sweeping" as a hobby. Every entry blank I saw in a store or newspaper, I sent in. All together, I won 27 prizes in three years. The largest was $1,000; other monetary prizes were $600, two for $200, five for $25, and one for $10.

I also won a Singer sewing machine, two pressure cookers and a large world atlas. The rest were small items such as egg timers, electric hair curlers, etc.

Once in a while, I received a request for money. After talking to the postal inspector, I was instructed to tape the original envelope shut and write

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"Forward to Postal Inspector" on the envelope, then drop it in the mailbox.

I have received letters from postal inspectors thanking me for helping them stop some of these fraudulent practices.

AUDREY JONES, TUCSON
DEAR AUDREY: Thanks for pointing out that not all contests are scams. However, those that require the contestant to send money usually are.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Magnetic therapy - is it a real cure?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have used magnetic therapy for over three years with great satisfaction. I have a mattress pad with magnets placed evenly in rows, concentrated more where the body and legs would be most of the time while in bed. What is your knowledge of this therapy and can you explain why it works?

DEAR READER: "Magnetic therapy" is considered by responsible medical authorities to be yet another method of separating naive consumers from their bucks. Proponents of this technique claim that the magnetic forces contained in objects such as copper bracelets and magnets placed against the skin or in bedding will ensure good health and cure an astounding variety of diseases. There are no valid scientific studies supporting these claims.

If you want to sleep with magnets, fine; but see your doctor periodically for routine examinations.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it true that women who take additional thyroid medication because it gives them more zip and stamina risk developing osteoporosis?

DEAR READER: Although the precise cause of osteoporosis is unknown, one fact is abundantly clear: Excess thyroid hormone accelerates the loss of calcium from the bones of both men and women, causing a more severe form of osteoporosis to appear earlier. This is the reason that good doctors are so fastidious about monitoring patients who require thyroid supplements. It's vital that such patients not be over-dosed.

In my view, and in the opinion of experts, blood tests of thyroid function performed at least annually are mandatory for good care. Using such blood tests, physicians can adjust the dose of thyroid medication to avoid inducing accelerated osteoporosis. Thyroid hormone is powerful medicine. It must not be used in a cavalier fashion to provide more "zip" or to lose weight. Thyroid supplements should be prescribed only on the basis of a documented deficiency (as judged by blood tests), for which careful monitoring is available.

The answer to your question is a qualified "yes": Women who need thyroid supplements should take them; women who don't run the risk of accelerated osteoporosis.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Osteoporosis."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

A highly rated book, first published in 1946, has just reappeared. "Why You Lose at Bridge" by Englishman S.J. "Skid" Simon offers lots of excellent practical advice (Devyn Press, $12.95, 800-274-2221).

Simon uses quasi-fictional characters to add color to his words of wisdom. In today's deal from the book, West is the Unlucky Expert. We all know about him. North is Futtie Willie, who finds imaginative plays that work only in the post-mortem. East is Mrs. Guggenheim, who tries hard but is hopeless. South is Mr. Smug. He expects everything to go well.

For a discussion of the auction, buy the book.

Against six spades, West led the club queen, won with dummy's ace. Seeing that he might have to establish a long diamond, Mr. Smug immediately played the ace and another diamond. After an agonized trance, Mrs. Guggenheim tried to cash the club king. Declarer ruffed, cashed the spade ace and played a spade to dummy's king. Now came a diamond ruff, but East's discard was a blow. There was only one dummy entry left, so the long diamond couldn't be both established and enjoyed. Declarer ran the rest of his trumps, but there was no squeeze and the hearts weren't 3-3. He lost the last trick to East's heart jack: one down.

Futtie Willie suggested finessing dummy's spade nine on the second round. But the Unlucky Expert had the right answer. "I think," he drawled, "that if declarer ducks the first diamond, it is perhaps, shall I say, a slightly superior way of getting the extra dummy entry."

SCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 30, 1994

In the year ahead, you might be more restless than you have been in the past. In most instances, the stimulus will work to your advantage, urging you onward and upward. In other cases, it could impel you to be inconsistent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't kid yourself today regarding goals and objectives you hope to achieve. Your chart indicates you might establish targets beyond your abilities and circumstances. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4485, New York, N.Y. 10163.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The one thing you don't want to be today is your own worst enemy. When your better judgment tells you not to do something, avoid going against its wisdom.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid situations today that could put you under obligation to an individual who makes you feel uncomfortable. It looks as though you may make some sort of counterproductive arrangement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a possibility you might make some commitments today that won't be kept, such as promising an ally a share in the rewards of an endeavor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very selective regarding persons you choose to help you with critical tasks today. Avoid individuals who would rather be the "assigner" than the "assignee."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Disappointment is a possibility today if you place your faith in a person who doesn't warrant it. Your ability to judge character is a bit iffy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In order to maintain harmony on the home front today, both you and your mate must be prepared to make some painful concessions. Things can't be one-sided.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're the type of person who often goes out of his or her way to be of service to others. Today, however, you might pick companions for what they can do for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you aren't budget-conscious today, you are not likely to manage your resources as wisely as you should. Don't spend money now you might need later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to treat persons you outrank in an arrogant manner today. If you do, they'll be anxious to even the score and probably will as soon as possible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Generally you try to be tolerant of persons who are not totally in accord with your views. Today you might have to be even more understanding than usual.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not let yourself be pressured by friends today into making commitments or doing things you really can't afford. If you do, you might be mad at both yourself and them later.
