Truck Growers Are Organizing

Florida Growers Realize That In Union There Is Strength

For the purpose of organizing a Truck Growers' Association and installing a canning factory at Greenville, A. P. Fant, Florida industrial agent of the Seaboard Air Line, left this afternoon for that city.

Before leaving Mr. Fant was asked to state just what had been accomplished by these truckers' associations in the state, and the following interesting and valuable record of successes obtained was given by him:

"We are indeed gratified at results obtained by the first organization that we assisted in organizing, the Baker County Growers' Association, of which you have no doubt heard. At Macclenny and Glen St. Mary, two points where practically no truck had been raised until this season, 300 acres were planted in Irish potatoes the past season, which resulted in a production of an average of 35 barrels per acre and sold at $4 per barrel, f. o. b. car. These people were so much encouraged that they ran the association membership up to ninety and subscribed an acreage of 1,000 for next season.

"Not only did these little experiments wake the people up to their possibilities from an Irish potato standpoint but served to stimulate them to greater action along agricultural lines and the result has been that large acreages of strawberries, sweet potatoes, beans and other truck have been put in in season; and conditions studied and practiced as to the best local method of crop rotation.

"The great benefit of the association rendered in this instance was the saving of 50 cents per barrel on thirty cars. All business was transacted through the offices of the association, such as the buying of barrels, etc., and when the crop was harvested and the buyers were on the ground the committee of officers laid out for $4 because they controlled the output at the two points, and got what they demanded, although an offer of only $3.50 was made by the buyers. On the other hand, if the buyers had been dealing with individuals they would doubtless have bought the crop at their own price.

"I cite this instance merely to show what is being done along this line and the policy our department is following into detail with the farmer in his business so that we may render him the most material aid possible.

"Following up this line of work, we have encouraged and aided in every way consistent several associations along our line of road, some of which are just being organized.

"Results so far have been very gratifying indeed, and we intend to follow up this line of work together with the industries of other kinds, but to my mind the most unlimited possibilities in this state are to be found in the trucking industry."

The following are some of the Truck Growers' Associations established along the lines of the Seaboard Air Line in Florida, with the alleges of the associations:

Baker County Truck Growers' Association; C. J. Krautter, president, Glen St. Mary, Fla.

Maxville Truck Growers' Association; H. D. Carter, president, Maxville, Fla.

Fawcette Truck Growers' Association; W. S. Moore, president, Hawthorne, Fla.

Greenville Truck Growers' Association; H. W. James, temporary secretary, Greenville, Fla.

Clunbia County Trucking and Marketing Association; W. M. Cone, president.

Swansee County Truck Growers' Association; Thomas Z. Atkinson, agricultural advisor, Live Oak, Fla.

Madison Truckers' Association; O. Sanders, temporary president, Madison; Monticello Trucking Association; B. W. Partridge, temporary president, Monticello, Fla.

Gadsden County Truckers Association; Y. L. Watson, temporary president, Quincy, Fla.

Lake County Truckers' Association; Jack Peters, agricultural advisor, Tavares, Fla.

Callahan Truckers' Association; E. O. Erwin, president; D. H. Petrie, secretary, Callahan, Fla.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

A big sawmill industry is to be established in St. Johns county near Liego where large tracts of timber will be cut over and converted into lumber. Five large sawmills will be located on the lands. The mills will be equipped with modern machinery and big gangs of men will be placed at work. Most of the timber will be consumed by next spring. After the timber has been cut off the land will be developed for agricultural purposes.

Grooming Hudson

Jacksonville, Oct. 9.—The Evening Metropolis says political rumor has it that shrewd politicians have been endeavoring to draw Fred M. Hudson, of Miami, into the race against Senator Fletcher, John Stockton and Albert W. Gilchrist, hoping thereby to defeat a Jacksonville man and then make sailing easier for the Party District Congressman to come from Jacksonville.

Several conferences are reported to have recently been held on this subject. Last Saturday Senator Hudson went to Washington, and the belief has been expressed in some circles that he would attempt to get support against both Fletcher and Stockton.

Recently Senator Hudson has written letters to progressive Democrats with reference to his possible candidacy, and it is understood that many of the replies have been to the effect that it is now John N. C. Stockton's turn to go to the United States Senate for past services as the original progressive in Florida. Mr. Hudson would make a good Senator, though progressives admit, as he has made an excellent record in the State Senate and as attorney for the Railroad Commission.

Look Out For Bad Checks

Beware of the bogus check passer. This is the word that comes from nearby counties where a smooth young man is said to be operating with a great deal of gain to himself and grief for the unthinking merchant he robs. He is headed this way.

The smooth talk of the check pusher and the smallness of his checks make the scheme a success. The young man is said to be well dressed with a good line of conversation.

The game is an old one. The checks are made payable to George Wood or Robert Woods, mostly, although at times other names are used. The smallness of them, however, throws the merchant off his guard and before he knows it he has parted with a small package of merchandise and thrown in a handful of change in the bargain.

Seffner Has Newspaper

Seffner, one of the enterprising little towns of South Florida, and only a few miles from Tampa, is enjoying a great big boom. It is blessed with a class of the most progressive citizens to be found in the state, and they are "doing" things in great shape. It has a live Board of Trade and its personnel are live wires from the word go.

This organization is accomplishing great results in its laudable efforts to keep Seffner in the lime light. The song of Seffner's approaching prosperity is a sweet melody and sounds good to those seeking investments in a genial climate where the oranges grow in great profusion and the home of the industrious and well to do farmers.

Not being satisfied with only a Board of Trade to sing its praises, it is to have a newspaper which will make its appearance about November 1st and will be known as the "Seffner Weekly Hustler," and it will be published by M. D. Moseley, a well known journalist of South Florida.—Tampa Tribune.

St. Petersburg Bonds

St. Petersburg voted overwhelmingly on Tuesday for a $227,000 bond issue for internal improvements, the greater part of the amount to be used in completing contracts now under way.

Passage of the issue means that the first step toward securing a deep-water commercial harbor at Bayboro has been made. Of the total issue, $41,000 is for the purpose of commencing work on the project. Plans for the harbor, which appeared in the Manufacturers' Record several weeks ago, were prepared by Engineer Henry W. Long of Boston, and the scheme is considered one of the most modern as well as convenient of the present day.

Clermont Clean-up Club

The good ladies of Clermont, that beautiful little city that nestles on the shore of Lake Minnehaha in Lake county recently organized a Clean-up Club at the suggestion of Mrs. R. L. Milholland and while the name of the club is not euphonious it is very suggestive and to the point. The ladies went to work with a will and they have made a difference in the landscape of that part of Lake county. All honor to the good ladies of Clermont. They will have a thriving community before they are aware of the fact and the strangers will be impressed with the fact that they have a live community.

Special Road District For Volusia County

Will Give Sanford Shorter Road To Ocean

New Smyrna People At Last Aroused To The Importance Of Tourist Travel

That the people of the south end of Volusia county are determined to have good roads and that they are determined to have no effort undone to give the development of this section all impetus good roads will bring is shown by the enthusiasm with which the proposition to form a special road tax district is being met in all parts of the proposed district.

Property owners, tax payers and citizens generally express themselves in favor of the move and indications at this time are that a special election for this purpose will carry by a big majority.

Efforts will be made within the next few days to learn the sentiment of all the people living within the confines of the proposed special road tax district and for this purpose meetings will be held in practically every voting precinct in the district.

The proposition to form a special road tax district for the purpose of bonding for the building of good roads and opening up the country to its better development is too big a question to be distributed by factional feelings, personal prejudices or narrow-mindedness and the subject is one in which every citizen who wants to see this section of the country grow and prosper should be vitally interested.

It is evident the people of the south end of the county can not expect much from the board of county commissioners, judging by what they have received since the new plan of lumping the county road moneys and expending the sum under the supervision of the county road superintendent went into effect.

New Smyrna and Coronado and the people living in all parts of the proposed district are losing heavily because of the absence of good roads in this part of the country. New Smyrna News.

UNDERGROUND WATERS

An Instructive Bulletin that can be Had Without Cost

Owing to the sparsely settled state of Florida farming sections we are not vitally interested in this matter, although it is worth while to secure the information contained in the circular, and we might find a condition confronting us at some time where it would be of excellent use.

The United States Geological Survey office has the following to say: "Underground Waters for Farm Use," a popular report of the United States Geological Survey has again been reprinted to meet the wide demand from all farming and suburban sections of the country.

Attorney General So States—Other News and Views Of State At Large

Tallahassee, Oct. 14.—Florida Congressmen will be elected from four districts at the next election, without a change in state laws. The following section of the General Statutes of Florida of 1906, quoted by Attorney General West, apparently settles all discussion over the matter:

"174. A representative to the Congress of the United States shall be elected in and for each Congressional district of this state at every general election."

Attorney General West states that under this section Congressmen will be elected from the four districts by vote of all the voters of each district. He states that the secretary of State should call for a primary election to be held on the November 4th next, for the election of Congressmen from the four districts.

Mr. West further explained that whatever section he or any other member of the legislature might desire to amend or repeal should be done by the legislature at its next session. He stated that the secretary of State should call for a primary election to be held on the November 4th next, for the election of Congressmen from the four districts.

Mr. West also stated that the secretary of State should call for a primary election to be held on the November 4th next, for the election of Congressmen from the four districts.

New Primary Law Is Strict

The new primary law is of such vital interest to every elector in the state that the legislature should have made provision for mailing a copy of the law to every registered voter. But as this was not done, we feel that it is the duty of the newspapers to make the people fully acquainted with its provisions, says the Jacksonville Metropolis. This will perhaps be even a better way of informing them, because they will read a brief summarizing of the law, whereas only a few would care to wade through the technical wording of the law itself.

The law makes it a misdemeanor for any other persons, as well as a candidate, to give or promise to give anything of value to anyone as a reward for electioneering. A person is also prohibited from soliciting or accepting any consideration for electioneering or making speeches in behalf of a candidate, and if convicted will be punished by a fine or imprisonment or both.

A corporation is prohibited from contributing, directly or indirectly, to promote the interests of any candidate and a person is allowed to contribute only his personal services and personal traveling expenses, and directly to a candidate's campaign fund.

It is prohibited for a candidate from slanders and malicious attacks made anonymously, all political advertisements and campaign literature must be signed by the author and must also bear the name of the printer and publisher. It is further provided that every political advertisement appearing in a newspaper must be marked "paid advertisement." The publication of charges within eighty days prior to the primary is prohibited except when a copy of the charges has been previously personally served on the candidate against whom the charges are made.

SOUTH IS PROVING ATTRACTIVE

The south is proving so attractive to our northern neighbors, the advantages are so great in climate and health and riches that the people of all countries are united on the subject of going south to live.

Previous to the civil war the trend of white population was from the south, Virginia and North Carolina helped populate Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The amount of space devoted to political affairs in newspapers has trebled during the last five years, and the papers find that it pays to give liberal attention to local, state and national governmental questions.

The pronounced tendency of the public to depend more and more on the newspapers for their news and instruction in matters political is decreasing the importance of campaign meetings and oratory.

The agitation for a large new tourist hotel being made by the Herald and the people of Sanford may have paved the way in general for the idea that Sanford had no accommodations for the new people that are coming here.

THE RE-DISTRICTING BILL

So far "Pastor B.H." Russell, of Palatka, and Senator Johnson, of Live Oak, are the only members of the last legislature who have ventured to say that the congressional re-districting bill is all right.

Yes, there are others, and there are some able men in the State who were fortunate in not being members of the legislature who say the law is all right.

Editor T. G. Taylor of the Hastings News announces that this week's is the last issue, he having received a flattering proposition to start a new paper elsewhere.

What the Palatka News contends is, that the Legislature meant just what it said, i. e., that "this act shall take effect at the expiration of the present term of office of the Congressmen now serving from this State."

POLITICS AND THE NEWSPAPERS

The more active interest taken by the people in political affairs has increased their demand for political information and they look to the newspapers as the natural medium to supply it.

Of the increase of the number of newspaper men in political positions much has been said and written. Congress and state legislatures have sufficient numbers of scribes to issue newspapers from the legislative halls if they so desire when affairs of state lag and drag.

Governors and other high officers have developed the habit of having paid press agents. The candidate for office without a publicity promoter is practically (very practically) unheard of.

The pronounced tendency of the public to depend more and more on the newspapers for their news and instruction in matters political is decreasing the importance of campaign meetings and oratory.

Some sensitive folks look with apprehension on the rising power of the newspapers. Perhaps the words of Thomas Jefferson might reassure them.

CITY ADVERTISING

The value of adequate advertising seems to have become apparent to those interested in city development. As a result much space is devoted to exploiting the good points of various communities and with some success for it serves to arouse interest on the part of those in other places.

City advertising should begin at home. Exploiting the good points of the home town should be a pleasant duty. Every resident should know his home town thoroughly—its merits and its defects.

In other places he should speak well of home town. If he be the traveling representative of some local concern he can prove himself an advertising medium without peer for he can speak convincingly about his city and can answer questions.

Happy but dissatisfied residents—not grouchers—are the most valuable asset a modern city can have. They are happy because of excellent living and working conditions but they are not entirely satisfied with some existing conditions and aim for betterment in a sensible and constructive way.

Vitrified Brick For Florida Roads

Expert Road Builders In Every Part Of The United States Favor Them

Florida is coming to the front in the subject of permanent good roads more rapidly, perhaps, than any other state in the Union. Other states, and in each instance, older states in point of population, have more mileage of hard roads than Florida, but in no state is road enthusiasm bubbling and boiling as in this state.

Practically every county in the state is discussing the question of road-building, and the key note of the matter is the question of a better pavement than Florida rock or shell is the issue. Years of testing in every town and county in the state has proven conclusively to the taxpayer that the first cost of constructing a road is not the most important item, but that the latter, and in many instances, ruinous cost of upkeep is the feature of dissatisfaction.

For years Florida property owners have patiently spent money reaching into millions building roads cheaply, the one item of cheapness being the most attractive. For an equal number of years the property owners of the state have watched those roads wash into the ditches during the rainy season, or blow away in clouds of dust during the dry season. And all the time the insistent drain of upkeep was digging, digging into the treasury of the city and county.

The question of a durable pavement, one that was not prohibitive in its initial cost to the rural section, was answered in the country road of vitrified brick. From counties in northern states came the confirmation of the wisdom of adopting brick for country roads as well as city pavements.

From various counties and towns in the state committees have gone into other states to make a study of permanent pavements. The members of these committees have spent weeks in visiting cities in other sections, where a careful and detailed study was made of conditions of traffic, cost, maintenance and general road-building. The result of these investigations have been to convince public officials having in charge street and road work that the best and most durable form of pavement is a properly laid vitrified brick.

Climatic conditions in Florida are different from those in any other state in the Union. Long periods of rainy weather, during the rainy season, when pavement is subjected at one moment to a soaking rain and the next moment to the blistering sun, is a test more severe than pavements in northern climates endure. The pavement to resist these ravages of climate is admitted to be a properly made vitrified brick.

One of the features of brick pavement that appeals to the clear sighted business man, is the fact that when a brick pavement is properly constructed no expensive repair plant is necessary to keep it in condition for traffic. A brick highway properly constructed will last for years without a cent of repairs.

There can be no doubt of the fact that the construction of a permanent brick highway through a rural section automatically enhances the value of the property of the section, not alone directly on the roads but for miles back of the highway. Take any county in the United States where brick highways have been constructed and you will find that the property owner will not sell his land for anything like the price he asked for before the brick roads were built.

Hillsborough county, which on July 29, 1913, voted one million dollars for brick roads, made a magnificent step forward for progress and prosperity. Already the results of the columns of free advertising in newspapers and magazines throughout the county are being felt through inquiries pouring into the county. The question throughout the entire country is, What about Hillsborough county, Florida?

Not only is the county being advertised gratuitously in newspapers and magazines but brick paving manufacturers are advertising it still further in calling attention of other counties to the example of Hillsborough. The National Paving Brick Manufacturers' Association, organized for the purpose of disseminating information on brick pavements, is carrying in The Times today a full page advertisement, bringing to the attention of the public the value of brick pavements and using Hillsborough county in part as an object lesson.—Tampa Times.

Volusia at the Fair

Volusia county will be represented with an exhibit at the big mid-winter fair and exposition at Orlando next February, the board of county commissioners taking action at the regular monthly meeting this week, authorizing an expenditure of $300 for the purpose of preparing an exhibit and keeping it on display at the exposition in Orlando. The only action taken by the county board was to authorize the expenditure of the $300, and the question of how the exhibit is to be gathered and who will look after the exhibit at the fair has not yet been determined.

J. N. Whitner of Sanford, who is a vice-president of the fair association, appeared before the board at the meeting this week to explain that the exposition is not to be confined to Orange county, but county exhibits are to be made by Orange, Seminole, Osceola and Lake counties, and he urged that Volusia county be represented with a good exhibit so the fair would be a good representation of what can be produced in these five counties of the central part of the state.

Several months ago the county board took an action favoring the matter of having an exhibit at this fair and the matter of details of arranging the exhibit was left with the joint advertising committee of the DeLand Business Men's League and the Daytona and New Smyrna board of trade. No action has ever been taken by this committee and the county board will probably designate some person to prepare the exhibit for Volusia and arrange to take care of it at the fair.

New Freight Depot

It is currently reported here that the Atlantic Coast Line Railway will soon begin the erection of a commodious freight warehouse in the western portion of the city, between the union station and Rand's siding.

Musson for Alderman

John Musson has announced for the position of Alderman of the city of Sanford. Mr. Musson has been a resident of Sanford for several years and been identified with the city's interests for ever since his introduction into our midst. He owns considerable property and has always taken an active part in boosting the city upon any and all occasions. Mr. Musson is no novice in municipal affairs having served the city of Morrison, Tenn., as alderman and also as mayor and the people of Morrison will tell you the Mayor John Musson always took a stand for the right against all opposition and when he was a member of the council he never dodged an issue but fought for the city's best interests at all times. Mr. Musson will take a thorough canvass of the voters, for he believes that what is worth having is worth working for and he expects to be one of the next aldermen of Sanford.

Bisset for Alderman

F. A. Bisset is a candidate for Alderman, having so announced his intentions in last week's Herald. Mr. Bisset is well known here, having resided here for many years and afterward going to Port Tampa, only to return to his first love and he is now a sure enough citizen of Sanford. Mr. Bisset is a very busy man, being foreman of the A. C. L. shops, here, but he has the laudable ambition to serve his city as alderman and will make a strong campaign between now and the first primary election. Mr. Bisset has the best interests of Sanford at heart and promises the voters that he will favor a progressive administration and favors a square deal for the taxpayers. His many friends have urged his candidacy and they will help him win the office.

How To Do It.

If there is one enterprise that a "quitter" should lease severely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a ship's bottom. He should know before he begins that he must spend money. Somebody must tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising does not jerk—it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year until it exerts an irresistible power.—John Wananaker.

No Dog Tax No Dog! Dog Gone!

County Judge E. V. Whitaker, of Tampa, astonished the owner of a fine pointer dog recently when he told him that he had no redress against a man who, the dog's owner claimed, had stolen the animal. The judge asked the complainant if he had turned the dog in to the tax assessor as personal and being informed that such was not the case, informed the man he had not, therefore, any right to the dog in the eyes of the law and could not seek recovery through the courts as a matter of course.—Eustis Lake Region.

Florida Insane All Right

Jacksonville, Oct. 14.—"Relatives and friends of unfortunate persons who are confined in hospitals for the insane are in constant fear lest their loved ones be mistreated or not given proper care, and I wish to assure Floridians that this is not the case with the asylum at Chattahoochee, and to invite the most careful inspection of the institution at any and all times by any citizen."

Worth Trammell, brother of Governor Park Trammell and superintendent of the hospital who was in the city recently, made this statement:

"We have about 180 people employed to care for over 1,200 patients, and every department of the hospital is kept absolutely clean," said Mr. Trammell. "Furthermore, we never confine or restrict the patients except under direct instruction of the physicians, and do not even lock the doors of rooms at night."

Osceola Canning Club

Kissimmee, Oct. 11 Miss Agnes Harris, who fills the chair of domestic science in the State College for Women, as well as represents the Agricultural Department at Washington, was in the city this week and addressed both the County Commissioners and the County School Board in the interest of the work of forming a canning club for the girls of Osceola county.

Both the commissioners and the school board were favorably impressed with the proposition and voted $125 to supplement the appropriations made by the national government and the State of Florida to further this work.

Miss Harris stated that the work of organizing girls' tomato clubs and boys' corn clubs were progressing in thirteen counties, and that she had organized girls' tomato clubs and gave instruction to those selected to have charge of the work in the various

Supreme Court Moves

Tallahassee, Oct. 11 The Florida Supreme Court has just finished moving into its new building. This is one of the handsomest and perhaps best constructed buildings in the state costing, with its furnishings about $135,000. Everything is new except the judges, the clerk and the books, and one can spend an hour very profitably in sightseeing.

The new building is situated on the corner of the old State Capitol building. It is a particular point in this beautiful property, for it is partly owned by every man. This splendid building was secured very largely through the effort of Hon. W. W. Flournoy of DeFuniak Springs, who is the senator representing the first district and owned the building.

Getting it Right

A traveling musician suddenly and was taken to his grave in the west. His relatives telephoned to the nearest Florida some miles away to make a wreath; the ribbon should be extra wide, with the inscription "Rest in Peace" on both sides, and if there was room, "We Shall Meet in Heaven."

The florist was away, and his new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide and bore the inscription: "Rest in Peace on Both Sides, and if There is Room We shall Meet in Heaven."—Lippincott's.

Our Brick Roads

The sale of the $200,000 road bonds, the proceeds of which are to be used to build brick roads out to the celery farms is a settled fact and as soon as some technical matters have been adjusted by the bond attorneys the money will then be available for the work. It is estimated that this sum of money will build twenty-eight miles of roads radiating out of Sanford, which will make this little county of Seminole one of the most famous in the state on account of its excellent roads.

Will Locate Here

J. T. Andrews and M. H. Rogers, prominent citizens of Morgan, Tenn., are in the city visiting their former townsman John Musson. They like Sanford so well that they will probably purchase property here and decide to make Sanford their future home.

Florida's Income Tax

Internal Revenue Collector Henry Hayes Lewis anticipates that Florida will yield about $500,000 to the income tax the collection of which will be very thorough in this state. Investigation by the authorities is expected to reveal interesting facts relative to the incomes of citizens in various sections of Florida.

There is much speculation as to who will get the job of income tax agent when pays $2,000 a year. George Ward of DeFuniak Springs defeated aspirant for the marsh-ship of the northern district of Florida former State Superintendent of Public Instruction W. M. Holloway and Mr. Maxwell of Sarasota are the only applicants for the place whose names have been published. It is believed though that none of these gentlemen will get the plum and that it will go to a "black horse."

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em—So Says Saunterer.

I've stepped the paper—yes, I have. I didn't like to do it, but the editor, he got too smart, and I allow he'll rue it. I am a man as pays my debt, and I won't be limited, so when an editor gets too smart, I want to be consulted. An' he'd be all I could, sir; but what it comes to dussan' me, I don't like to be consulted. But that he did, and you can see it made me mad as thunder. Says I, "I'll quit that sheet, I will. If the coming thing goes under, I'll hunt up the mostly whole, an' for his coming paper, I'll hold the seven years—quit. Yes, sir, I've stepped his paper."

Tallahassee has just finished a big revival meeting, and among the converted is a barber, who had been a bad actor in his day. Once he put some home made sea foam on a young man's hair which turned the hair red, and the color did not come out for a year.

The barber confessed to this and other crimes. It was a hard won conversion and the evangelist was elated. He saw a chance for passing religion on to a host of Capital City citizens, utilizing the barber shop as a gat-way.

Over in a corner of the revival hall he talked to a knight of the striped pole. "Now, Mr. Seizers," said the evangelist, "you have it in your power to do great good in the world. You're a man of impressive personality; and by reason of your position you meet men in all walks of life.

"Instead of discussing baseball or fishing with a patron, why not say a few words calculated to turn him into a cleaner path? Remind each, as you have been reminded, that while he is large in life he must get ready for the end, which comes to all men."

The barber thought that was a fine idea, and pledged himself. Then he went back to his shop.

Little old Johnny Looseleaf came in from his day's work at the pean farm. Johnny was afraid of ghosts and green horses and his wife. He wanted his hair cut.

The barber got through with the lathering and half of the shave with his remarks about the fig and the movement to fill up the abandoned canal. He was just going the razor over the patron's throat when it occurred to him to address a few words of inquiry to Looseleaf concerning the state of his soul.

"Johnny," said the barber slowly, "are you prepared to die?"

"The man in the chair opened his eyes and said the razor, then the high light of the end of the razor.

"What's that?" he shouted. With which he cut a lightning leap from the chair, waded the razor from the barber and threw that gentleman through his own plate glass window.

I have no patience with people or organizations that try to be charitable and make it so difficult for the recipient. If one can give let it be given in secret and discreet. I noticed that the poor children of Havana can get school books free if they swear that their parents are destitute cannot make a living and never did or if they are dead that they were left destitute by the parents who were too shiftless to make a living. No child cares to go through all this red tape in order to get free books and no one who is dependent upon charity cares to have the fact continually hung in their faces. Sometimes pride and poverty go together and the fellow who is down to cry may have been up yesterday and one of the big men of the country. I favor the plan of Big Tim Sullivan of New York, who while not exactly an angel to most men was certainly an angel to the poor people of the Bowery and they who tried to get the benefits each year will miss him now that he is gone. Many a man, woman and child whose name was not mentioned in the newspaper when Timothy D. Sullivan died is mourning the "Big Fellow" end.

Sullivan was the recipient of dozens of begging letters every day; but he did not lavish his charity indiscriminately. Of his hundreds of letters to those who served him at his headquarters in the Bowery they were half a dozen whose special task it was to investigate the calls that were made on Big Tim's purse. His instructions to them were something like this: "Look up this letter and tell me if they really need anything. If they need it right off the bat so that they have it before you return. Don't come back and tell me that the man of the family is a booze fighter and to blame for his family being up against it. What I want to know is not what caused their being hard up, but just how hard up they are. If they ask for rent, pay the rent. If they need coal, see that they get it, and if it's a case where they can use the money right themselves, give them the money."

I often go to church on Sunday morning and delight in listening to a learned discourse from the dominies who fill the pulpits here so ably. While the summer weather and other influences are apt to bring on the charms of Morphous and incline one to drowsiness there has never been a time when the sermons were not strong enough to keep me awake, but I noted several other old men who always wait to sleep on the job and stayed there until the end of the sermon. One fellow in particular, who seemed to be a winter visitor always slept very soundly when the contribution plate was passed and would droove along until the pastor was ready to dismiss the congregation and he would get up very nimbly and pass out as though he had enjoyed the sermon very much. "This reminds me of a minister who awoke the sleepers one Sunday morning and the only objection to the plan was that the innocent suffered with the guilty."

"Dr. Stenthy, on a sultry September morning, preached with sincerity and vigor a sermon that he had prepared with great pains.

"But, for all the force of his argument and delivery, the good doctor was much vexed to see that a large part of his congregation slept. Several of his leading parishioners even aored.

"Dr. Stenthy, at the end of his discourse pounded on the lectern, and when all were at last awake, he said very firmly and mildly:

"My friends, this sermon cost me a great deal of trouble, and I don't think you have paid it the attention it deserves. I shall, therefore, repeat it." My text I take from—

"And for a second time Dr. Stenthy preached his sermon from beginning to end."

I was glad to see Alderman Underwood's defense of the fire department in the last issue of The Herald. There was absolutely no grounds for any kick against the fire department at the Barnes fire last week. They arrived in record time and did all they could after arrival. All in the world they had was the chemical engine and when that was exhausted there was nothing more to do. The chemical engine is designed to extinguish small blazes around chimneys or in the corners of houses where the fire has only started and the extinguisher puts out the fire without the use of water, not only saving the house from the fire but also from the water.

But after the fire has gained headway that the Barnes fire had there is no chance in the world for any fire extinguisher to stop it. There is no fire plug closer to Sanford Heights than Tenth street, consequently the fire department had no chance in the world to do anything more than they did. I honestly believe that Sanford has the finest department of any city of similar size in the state and they have demonstrated on more occasions than one that they were on the job at all times. There is hardly a man in the fire service today in any city that takes as much care of his material as Foreman Paxton and he had his equipment in working order the night of the fire and did all that he could after reaching the fire.

I see that Franklin county commissioners have donated $500 to the advertising fund of the county and the city of Apalachicola has given $250 more and the fund will be used for special advertising and the sending of copies of newspapers to interested parties who are likely to locate in Franklin county. Every county in Florida is up and doing and the very essence of the advertising is the spirit in which the money is given for the real live counties of Florida realize that unless they advertise they will be lost in the shuffle. These are the days of advertising and the business house, city or county that cannot get in the game will soon be on the list of the has-beens.

Commissioners Working Overtime

The county commissioners of Seminole are busy men these days holding their regular meeting on Monday and an adjourned meeting on Wednesday. There are so many matters of importance in the new county that one meeting per month is hardly enough in which to transact business although the board loses no time in disposing of business as it comes before them. Seminole county has a board of county commissioners to be proud of and much credit is due them for the able manner in which they taken care of the new baby.

For a Canning Factory

W. E. Jacoby of Toledo, Ohio was in the city yesterday. Mr. Jacoby is connected with a large preserving plant at Toledo and is on his way to Eustis, where he hopes to be able to establish a branch preserving plant. When asked about Sanford's chances for a plant Mr. Jacoby said that Sanford had an ideal location for such a plant and that in view of the fact that there is a number of tons of vegetables, fruits, etc., thrown away yearly that it would certainly be profitable to the growers, as well as consumers to have one here.

Woman's Club

Notes From All Departments of The Sanford Woman's Club

The first meeting for the club year of the Music Department of the Sanford Woman's Club was held at Mrs. Munson's a udio on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Munson was in charge of the program which was delightfully prepared.

A paper, "The Music in America from Early Days to the Beginning of the Nineteenth Century" was read by Miss Josie Stumon.

The musical program consisted of "Ye Olden Time Songs and Pieces," including the Revolutionary Tea, Old Hundred, the old hymn tune Chester, a camp fire favorite of the Revolution, President's March, Yankee Doodle and a Scotch ballad Robin Gray.

These were effectively rendered by Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Claude Herndon, Mrs. Marlowe, Mrs. Gerror and Miss Josie Stumon, with Miss Gaines as soloist and Miss Stumon as cornet soloist.

Mrs. Munson also gave us a good idea of the old time music by playing some fragments of some very old pieces, also the famous Battle of Prague.

The Welfare Department of the Woman's Club held its first meeting of the season Thursday afternoon, October 9th.

The program opened with the reading of a very excellent paper by Mrs. T. A. Neal, on the Health and Training of School Children and it is to be regretted that larger numbers of the members had not been present, particularly more of the mothers and teachers, as so many vital topics were suggested of special significance to them.

It is unfortunate that, before the meeting more emphasis had not been given to the importance of the subject matter of this particular program, which no doubt would have assured a larger attendance. The interested attention and ready response called forth by the paper showed that the subject had been wisely chosen and well treated and found an echoing chord in the heart of every woman present.

For lack of space only the following brief resume of Mrs. Neal's paper can be given.

Nothing could more closely affect the welfare of the city than the welfare of her children—the coming citizens.

This has been most admirably set forth in Mrs. T. A. Neal's excellent paper read before the Welfare Department of the Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon on the Health and Training of School Children.

It was Mrs. Neal's good fortune last summer to hear no less an authority than the distinguished Dr. Geisel on the health of children, and we were given the benefit of her excellent suggestions.

First, a clean environment and the necessity of good, wholesome food, nourishing to both brain and body. Dr. Geisel highly recommended unpolished rice as an ideal brain food, and for a general diet whole wheat bread, fruit and nuts as the best.

Mrs. Neal emphasized the great importance of the care of children's teeth, the frequent examination of the same, as carelessness in this particular may result in indigestion, and sources for disease germs. So impressed are the advanced school authorities on this subject in Birmingham, Ala., that the children's teeth are examined every few months. The use of the tooth brush at least twice a day is insisted upon.

Habits of cleanliness should be instilled. Hands and finger nails should be kept clean. Fingers kept out of eyes, nose and mouth.

Teachers should see that they are properly seated in regard to light and that they are comfortable, feet resting on the floor and shoulders erect. Eye strain may lead to serious errors of vision. The inspection of an eye specialist from time to time was recommended.

Dr. Geisel insists that heredity is not an insuperable difficulty. Health is normal and by the practice of the laws of health and the aid of science disease can be overcome. The removal of adenoids may turn a dull child into a bright one. A wholesome diet may work the same miracle for the semi-starved and a pair of glasses may open the vision upon a new world.

Mrs. Neal's discussion in regard to the training of school children is worthy of profound attention. She insists upon the cooperation of parents and teachers. The school provides the opportunities for learning; the parent must see that the child uses them. A great responsibility rests upon the men and women of this nation who are trying to equip the coming millions for a lofty citizenship. But while the school is a mighty factor, the home is a greater one. She urged that the most attractive place in the world for the children should be the home, where mothers are their most charming companions, whose delightful study shall be how to help them in every possible way to grow into the highest ideal of noble manhood and womanhood. The informality and goodwill which pervaded the meeting was very pleasing and many topics were brought up and freely talked over.

The limited space for playground at the primary school was discussed and a committee appointed to confer with the city council in regard to the purchase of the vacant lot adjoining the school grounds on the north.

The importance of the use of individual drinking cups by school children was acknowledged by all, but the failure to find a successful plan for enforcing the rule was admitted.

That old grievance—the open sewers emptying into the gateway of the city, offending the aesthetic sense and menacing the health of the town was discussed with animation and the hope expressed that at least they might be sunken out of sight and extended into the channel of the river.

Governor Trammell May Head Off Jap Settlers

Other News And Views Of The State In Tabloid Form Predigested

Tallahassee, Oct. 16.—Gov. Trammell announced today that he is investigating the question of Japan colonization in Florida by land companies and will act as his judgment dictates as soon as he has made up his mind as to the seriousness of the influx.

Impeachment proceedings against the county commissioners are openly advocated by many of the leading members of the dry faction in St. Petersburg. The commissioners are blamed for the outcome of the recent local option election.

Frank Clark Thinks Republicans Should Lose Their Jobs

Washington, Oct. 16.—"Crooked," "fraudulent" and "damnable" are some of the terms applied to the civil service by Representative Frank Clark of Florida in a speech in the house in favor of the senate amendment removing deputy marshals and deputy revenue collectors from the civil service.

Mr. Clark left no doubt in the minds of his hearers as to his views on civil service. He said: "Mr. Speaker—I am in favor of senate amendment No. 8—I am in favor of it principally because I am opposed to the whole civil service propaganda."

"I do not believe that any President of the United States can successfully carry into execution his policies unless every agent under him is in line with his policies and believes as he believes."

"Mr. Speaker, I have noticed during my eight years of service in this house that when the gavel was yielded by Mr. Cannon and partisanship ran riot throughout the country, none of these gentlemen were demanding a close adherence to civil service reform."

"Civil service was to be established, it would not result in a better governmental administration, but it is not honestly and fairly enforced and, in my judgment, it never will be."

President Parrott Dies

Paying with his life for his devotion to his work in carrying forward the great projects over which he had charge in pushing the twin steel bridge over the ocean to Key West and in other railroad development work in the state, Joseph R. Parrott, president of the Florida East Coast Railway and the Florida East Coast Hotel Company, one of the three trustees of the vast estate of the late Henry Morrison Flagler, vice president of the Record Company, a director of the Florida Publishing Company, publishing the Jacksonville Times-Union and closely identified in other ways with business and industrial interests of Florida, died Tuesday night at 10 o'clock at his summer camp near Oxford, Me., his birthplace.

No Special Session

Tallahassee, October 16.—The correspondent of the Metropolis asked Governor Park Trammell this morning if he would call a special session of the legislature to correct alleged defects in the redistricting act. Governor Trammell said:

"It is my opinion that it will be legal and regular for a congressman to be elected in the nineteen fourteen elections for each of the four districts for the terms of office to begin on March 4th, 1915, as provided by the act redistricting the state, and I do not deem a special session of the legislature necessary."

Mexican Situation May Cause Trouble

Open Rupture With Huerta Will Be Next Turn

Other News Of The World Tersely Told For Busy Herald Readers

The Mexican situation is today regarded by officials as drifting toward a crisis with the United States awaiting President Huerta's next move. A commanding feature was the action of the Spanish minister in Mexico who called a meeting of the diplomatic corps to discuss Huerta's declaring his dictatorship.

Mexico City, Oct. 16.—That the crisis in the situation between Mexico and the United States, which was almost reached yesterday, is only temporarily delayed was the feeling here tonight between Mexicans and foreigners.

"I do not believe that any President of the United States can successfully carry into execution his policies unless every agent under him is in line with his policies and believes as he believes. Take it today. An eminent federal officer only a few days ago told me that the two stenographers were Republicans; that he could not dictate a letter that had not to be dictated to a Republican. Here we are undertaking to conduct a government upon Democratic lines with Republican agencies to execute them."

"It is not expected that the election which Provisional President Huerta wishes to regard as one of the cardinal principles of his policy will be postponed." Federico Gamboa and Manuel Calero, presidential candidates are not abating their efforts and appear to believe the elections will be held according to program.

Florida for Cattle. Palatka, Oct. 16. J. M. Foy, who is 74 years of age and lives two miles west of Palatka, came from west Kansas to this country in 1867.

There is no question, he says, about providing ample pasture and feeding crops here in quality and quantity equal to the best in the northwest. Since he has lived here he has experimented with a number of different crops, and is now having success with what is known as "Shallu" or Egyptian rice; he started two years ago with a small patch and it is year has two and a half acres. It grows about like sorghum and heads out with seeds in about the same way as sorghum but is non-saccharine.

What to do with the nearly 2,000 women in Detroit with the going into effect of Police Commissioner Gillespie's order sweeping out of existence all commercialized vice is a question upon which churches and civic bodies are working today. A vice commission appointed by the Detroit board of commerce has assumed the leadership of the relief movement. As a first step the commissioner will furnish transportation for any girls or women who wished to return to homes outside of Detroit.

Representative Underwood called today at the White House and defended the 5 per cent clause of the tariff law giving a discount to imports in American ships. He declared it would rehabilitate the American marine. ELECTION SET ASIDE

Pinellas County Is Wet According To Law

Tampa, Oct. 16.—Circuit Judge F. M. Robles this morning handed down a ruling that the recent "wet or dry" election held in Pinellas county was null and void because the notice of election had not been advertised according to law. It appears that the notice of election appeared in only one newspaper in Pinellas county, whereas the law requires that it be printed in one newspaper in each town in the county where a newspaper is published.

The case was that of Farver vs the Board of County Commissioners of Hillsborough county. Col. Robert W. Davis and George C. R. Parkhill of Tampa appeared for the complainant and County Attorney W. R. Rowland for the board of commissioners. Pinellas voted "dry" by a majority of about two hundred, some three months ago. Carl Duerler, a saloon keeper of Tarpon Springs, insisting that the election was not legally held, reopened his saloon, was arrested and convicted. That conviction will not, of course, hold now, in the face of Judge Robles' decision.

Florida for Cattle

Palatka, Oct. 16. J. M. Foy, who is 74 years of age and lives two miles west of Palatka, came from west Kansas to this country in 1867. Kansas' reputation for his health was in a report to the board of trade. Prior to coming here he travelled extensively in the Rocky Mountains and Pacific coast states, but got no relief until he came here. He was in the cattle business and naturally, in his western travels, noted conditions in that nature everywhere he went, and he took without hesitation that Florida is the finest cattle section in the United States.

There is no question, he says, about providing ample pasture and feeding crops here in quality and quantity equal to the best in the northwest. Since he has lived here he has experimented with a number of different crops, and is now having success with what is known as "Shallu" or Egyptian rice; he started two years ago with a small patch and it is year has two and a half acres. It grows about like sorghum and heads out with seeds in about the same way as sorghum but is non-saccharine.

Mr. Foy has also had good success with Kaffir corn. He says that there will be no trouble with dairying in this state, with the people right in the business, and suggests that parties interested should write to the State Experiment Station at Gainesville and get the last bulletin on the subject, as it abounds in valuable suggestions.

Cantata a Success

The Gallilean, a sacred cantata, was given at the Methodist church Sunday evening and was greatly enjoyed by the large congregation present. This beautiful cantata presents the life of Jesus as it must have appeared to those among whom He dwelt, particularly during the early days of His ministry on earth. The music was very beautifully rendered and included solos, duets and choruses, Miss Mary Gaines being the soloist for the evening. The readings given by Mrs. L. R. Phillips and Miss Farnsworth were most impressive and an important feature of the cantata.

Sanford & Everglade Sale Has Been Made

Atlantic Coast Line Finally Purchases Short Line

Sale Will Not Affect The Sanford Traction Line Or Oviedo Schedule

The Sanford & Everglades Railway has been sold to the Atlantic Coast Line the deal being consummated this week and the new owners expect to take charge at once. This deal has appeared in several state papers recently as being made and the railroad commission gave the permission to sell several weeks ago but the real sale was not made until yesterday. It is understood that the price paid was entirely satisfactory to the former owners and the A. C. L. recognized the value of the short line as a future feeder from the new country opening up from the Everglades country.

The new owners have not given out any statement as yet in regard to their plans regarding the operation of the branch line and there has been considerable conjecture as to whether this new branch would make a change in the schedule of the Oviedo branch.

Some time since there was a change asked by the Sanford city council in the Oviedo schedule that would make two trips daily each way from Oviedo to this city and give the people of both places a much better schedule but about the time the change was contemplated the people of Oviedo seeing their train crew slipping away from them petitioned the railway officials not to change the schedule and the changes, if there are any, will probably be made in the Sanford & Everglades, such changes to be of water benefit to the many growers of the celery delta.

The sale of the Sanford & Everglades Ry. will not make any changes in the Sanford Traction Co., as they will continue to use the same joint tracks from Sanford avenue east to Cameron City and in time expect to run cars to the union station, bettering the city and giving the traveling public the benefit of a cheaper fare and good service.

Commercial Club Meeting

All members of the Commercial Club and those who are not members but are interested in the development of Sanford are requested to be present at the meeting of the Commercial Club next Tuesday night in the city hall building.

Program for Saturday at the Star. The following is the program for Saturday, Oct. 19th, at the Star Theatre, Sanford's most popular house. "A Girl Spy in Mexico," a powerful two reel story of the Mexican border. The war is on between the insurgents and Federal troops in old Mexico and the intermittent firing is playing havoc. The Sonofista Armaja not hearing of her lover, Lieut. Blanco, goes to the inter-errection camp, dresses as a Red Cross nurse and enters the Federal camp as a spy. She is, however, discovered and arrested. Through the aid of Armaja, Blanco captures one of the Federal spies and, using him as a guide, he himself enters the Federal camp. There he succeeds in directing his sweetheart's escape. Col. Ferro declares he will capture them again and accomplishes his wish. Blanco and the Sonofista are marched forward to what end—we know not.

In addition to this feature an exceedingly interesting vitagraph picture will be shown, entitled "The Bachelor's Baby."

Good music and plenty of fun for everybody.

W. F. Malcolm representing the Remington Typewriter Co. with headquarters in Jacksonville was in the city on Wednesday calling on local trade.

REV. STRONG'S LECTURES

An Important Series of Sermons at Congregational Church

Beyond contradiction this is the social age—with its problems and disturbing theories. The gospel message for such an age is of supreme worth. Believing that the teaching of Jesus, approached from the right point of view, contains the fundamental truth for our day, I purpose beginning next Sunday evening a very important series of sermons: "What Does Jesus Say About Character?" And, as an introduction to that series the special subject for next Sunday evening will be, "The Primary Need for this Social Age." Two theories upon this subject are today in the melting pot of public opinion, a candid examination of each will be given.

All are cordially invited and a cordial welcome awaits all.

At The Congregational Church

The Sunday-school Rally Day exercises at the Congregational Church Sunday morning were unusually bright and attractive. The program was well rendered by the young people and little folks.

Marching into the church, led by Ruth Waldron, carrying a large floral cross, typifying the "Cross of Jesus going on before," the procession was very pretty, each child carrying a flag. The large American flag was carried by Edmund Metch and the Christian flag by Margaret Strong. Marching to the platform the reveille was sounded by Mr. W. S. Thornton; the American flag raised, followed by the salute and pledge; "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all" after which one verse of "America" was sung; the audience standing. The reveille was again sounded and the Christian flag raised on high. The salute and pledge to the Christian flag followed. "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Saviour for whose kingdom it stands, one brotherhood, uniting all in service and love," followed by one verse of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Ruth Waldron and Clifford Walker acquitted themselves creditably in their respective recitations, "What Have We Done Today," and "The Little School Army."

The Little Pink Toe Brigade" by Sarah Wight was a charming recitation to welcome the Cradle Roll, while Florence Witte with her baby brother in the go-cart beside her in her recitation, "My Live Dolly," was especially pleasing. "Greeting to the Babies" was a sweet little song by Sarah Wight, Gladys Ingold, Beulah Hardeman and Isabel Strong. The primary classes were delighted in their marching song and the "Cheerful Sunbeam."

One of the prettiest numbers on the program was the "Daisy Drill and Song" led by Margaret Strong and ten little girls, charming in their daisy collars and caps. Also Gladys Ingold's beautiful recitation, "A Basket of Roses for the Poor."

In the Rally Day Messages recited by five junior boys and girls and Carrie Hardeman from the primary class, Carrie was the central figure.

Particularly pretty was the song, "Rally for the Right" by the junior boys and girls. Under the direction and guidance of their captains, Rev. F. P. Strong and F. R. Kent, the Lytania and Mauretania started on their journey to Palestine carrying the Sunday school in two divisions as passengers. The contest is for new members and as outlined by Mr. Strong should bring splendid results to the school.

Special mention must be made of the excellent music rendered by the Presbyterian-Congregational orchestra. It added much to the attractive program.

The church was beautifully decorated with masses of yellow daisies and white flowers. Misses Carrie and Mary Ensminger and Miss Flora Walker were the decorating committee.

Mrs. Marlowe presided at the organ and Miss Claire Walker at the piano.

Will Open Millinery Store

Mrs. Grace Earle Williams, who is now in the north will stop in New York and Philadelphia on her way back to look up the latest styles in millinery and return to Sanford the last of next week. Mrs. Williams will re-open the store of her mother, Mrs. M. L. Allen, Nov. 1st and will be pleased to see her old friends.
