An inter-racial group of Sanford young people are living Martin Luther King's ideals while preparing to perform a retrospective about his life on Jan. 16.

The 50 children and young adults represent a racially harmonious mixing of black, white, Hispanic and oriental, according to Doris Thomas, who is author-director of the play they'll perform during Sanford's Jan. 11-17 Martin Luther King celebration.

Mrs. Thomas' two-hour retrospective will be performed at the Sanford Civic Center, starting at 7 p.m. It's part of King celebration planning the city's Human Relations Advisory Board began last fall. Also set for the week-long celebration is a religious observance, on Jan. 11, a banquet recognizing private citizens and community leaders on Jan. 17, and a luncheon with Pearl Balley as guest speacker on Jan. 14. All gatherings will be held at the civic center.

Mrs. Thomas' play is foundation of the celebration's Jan. 16 "youth night." Her performers range in age from 6 to 20 and joined the program through requests she made to various church and parochial schools.

The group, the week-long celebration itself, and her husband, who is the city's first black commissioner, are indicative that racial barriers have fallen by the wayside. Much of the progress because of King, Mrs. Thomas said, although "there is still room for improvement."

While blacks are holding public office, and no longer riding in the backs of buses, receiving food through the back doors of restaurants, or attending integrated schools, some attitudes die hard, she said.

"We're still 'unwelcome guests' in a lot instances," said Mrs. Thomas, who hopes "the sincerity" of Sanford's King celebration will take the community further towards realizing "com-plete freedom" from racial bias.

Mrs. Thomas taught 34 years with the Seminole County school system, and spent her first 19 years in the profession teaching at Crooms, then the county's high school for blacks. While each city or area had separate elementary schools for white and black students, for high school, "It didn't matter whether our youngsters lived in Oviedo, Altamonte, Snow Hill, or Geneva, they had to come to Croom's In Sanford," Mrs. Thomas said.

Seminole County Boosts Taxes; Schools Act Against Drug Abuse

By Deane Jordan and Kathy Tyrity (First of 2 parts)

In Seminole County, a tax hike stole the spotlight in 1986 with passage of a 10.1 percent boost and the schools went on the offensive against drug abuse.

The tax hike was passed by a 3-2 vote of the Seminole County Commission.

The countywide tax rate approved for the fiscal year that

Made in cooperation with the National Federation of High School Athletes and the United States Youth Basketball League, the message was a response to President Reagan's "Say No To Drugs" campaign.

Celebrities helping in the taping included former Harlem Globetrotter Curly Neal, who recently moved to Seminole County from Greensboro, N.C. He played basketball with the kids and urged them to stay clear of drugs.

Tot's Play FSuspected Fire Cause

By Karen Talley and Deane Jordan

A young boy's post-Christmas curiosity may have caused the fire that took his life and critically injured his brother early Friday morning, city fire investigators say. The fire broke out shortly before 6 a.m. in a Sanford Housing Authority apartment.

Three-year-old Lee Antwon Bradley may have been playing with matches or a lighter near his family's Christmas tree or the tree's lights might have shorted after he plugged them in, according to Sanford Fire gional Hospital in Sanford before being transferred to Shands.

The boys' father, Lee Bradley. 25, was released from CFRH Saturday. He suffered deep cuts on his arms trying to break windows at the apartment after jumping from it when the fire broke out. His wife, Karen, 23, holding their 10-month-old daughter, Crystal, also made the approximately 25 foot jump to safety. Bradley's wife and daughter were treated and released from the hospital Friday.

Investigators say although some things still don't add up. they're beginning to draw conclusions based on the fire's ignition point near the tree, the boy's proximity to the tree and the type of blaze that resulted. They're "almost positive" the fire resulted from one of two causes, Hoening said. Threeyear-old Lee may have been playing with matches or a lighter near wrapping paper and presents that surrounded the Christmas tree, or the tree's lights shorted out after he possibly plugged them in, Hoening said. The investigation is hampered by heavy damage to the living room, according to Hoening. Investigators are still looking for a lighter or evidence of matches and, although some of the tree's lights show signs of shorting, they didn't appear to be plugged In when firefighters arrived, he sald.

It was a news-packed year for Seminole County schools with 500 Lake Mary High School students making national news by signing anti-drug contracts, a number of teachers being reprimanded for misconduct, and an upset election that saw the defeat of two incumbent school board members.

The school board also sold a $105 million bond issue to restore school buildings, completed construction of Greenwood Middle School Lakes in Lake Mary.

The highlight of the year came in September when, after much controversy over legalities, Lake Mary High School went ahead with its "Lake Mary Says No" anti-drug contract program.

That same week, the student body of Lake Mary that wished to participate in extra-curricular activities met at night with parents and teachers and received the anti-drug contracts to sign. When a couple of popular coaches got up to give speeches the entire auditorium rocked with applause. The school's efforts resulted in a majority of targeted students signing the contracts including two-thirds of the football team.

Also that month, teachers received a 9 percent pay hike from the school board, after requesting 20 percent. The community then voted two of the board members out of office - Jean Bryant and Bill Kroll.

Grand Jury Probing Owen-North Link

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A federal grand jury is investigating whether Robert Owen, Lt. Col. Oliver North's alleged middleman with the Nicaraguan Contras, helped plan an illegal shipment of arms to the rebels in 1985, a U.S. official says.

But the probe by the Miami grand jury, which convened in November, has bogged down while the Justice Department and special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh decide whether Walsh should take over the case, said the official, who asked not to be identified.

The official said Sunday that more than 10 witnesses have Government documents show that these witnesses, some of whom have testified before the grand jury about their role in the shipment, also placed Tom Posey of Decatur, Ala., at the planning sessions, the official said.

The grand jury's proceedings have been curbed partly because of questions in the Justice Department about whether Owen's apparent link to North places the investigation under the special prosecutor's jurisdiction, the official said.

Walsh was appointed by a three-judge panel Dec. 19 to investigate the diversion of proceeds from Iran arms sales through Swiss banks to the Inspector Lt. Mike Hoening.

The tree was probably artificial, investigators say. That may be determined today. Hoening said, and the combustibility of the tree's material may help determine what caused the fire. There was the appearance of an electrical short in the apartment but at an outlet not near the tree, Hoening said. Investigtors are expected to have final conclusions later today.

Preliminary autopsy results show the boy died of smoke inhalation. There were no apparent burns that could have been made by an electrical short. the report said. The child's right arm was more burned than his left, according to the report. A more detailed analysis awaits results of toxicology tests.

The housing authority is waiting for fire inspector findings to determine if tenants' safety can be upgraded, SHA Executive Director Elliott Smith said. The authority has also offered another apartment to the family that lost their home in Friday's blaze.

Five members of the Bradley family were in the #69 Lake Monroe Terrace apartment when the fire started. Four of them were reportedly sleeping, while the 3-year-old was possibly playing in the living room by the family's Christmas tree, investigators say. His body was found near one of the apartment's doors, just off the living room, and his 2-year-old brother. Brandon Lee Bradley, was found according to investigators. Brandon was in serious but stable condition today at Shands Hospital in Gainsville. A spokesman at Shands would not discuss the tot's injuries. The child, however, was treated for Lee's father told firefighters he unplugged the tree before the family went to bed Christmas night.

Bradley also told investigators the apartment's smoke alarm didn't sound. Hoening said fire damage to the alarm may prevent confirmation of his report:

Smoke alarms were installed In all 100 Lake Monroe Terrace apartments when they were built in 1971, said Smith.

The alarms are supposed to be kept in working order by "SHA staff' as part of their "regular unit inspections," Smith said.

He said the investigator's findings will be used for overall in an upstair's bedroom closet, determinations of possible improvements to tenants' safety. # 38 Die On Florida Roads Over Holiday

From Staff and Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) - Four people killed in a two-car crash on Florida's Turnpike were among 38 people killed in car accidents on the state's highways this holiday weekend, six less than predicted by the Florida Highway Patrol.

There were no traffic fatalities in the Seminole County area, according to the FHP.

The organization predicts 34 will be killed on Florida's highways during the New Years holiday period that begins 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends midnight Sunday.

In the latest Christmas holiday accident, a FHP spokesman said a car driven by Steven Johnston, 34. of West Palm Beach, Fla., was facing the wrong way in the northbound lane Saturday when it was struck head-on by another car carrying four students from Ohio.

The accident, which is still under investigation, occurred two miles south of the Jupiter tollgate.

Johnston, who was traveling alone, the driver and two passengers in the other car were killed in the 1 a.m. accident. A fourth occupant. identifed as Ahmad Hafizi, 23, of Toledo, Ohio, was critically injured. troopers said.

The students, who were all in their 20's, are from Malaysia and authorities were having trouble notifying relatives of victims in the accident, which occurred as the students headed north after their Christmas vacation, the spokesman said.

The Florida Highway Patrol predicted that 44 people would die in highway accidents before the end of the 4-day holiday at midnight Sunday.

Of those killed since the holiday began at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve, at least 12 people have died in alcohol-related accidents, said an FHP spokesman in Tallahassee. Eighteen cases were awalting autopsies and six were not alcohol related, he said.

In another multiple fatal accident Saturday, Brian S. Brogdale, 21, and Samuel Keith Pool, Brogdale's lo-year-old passenger, were killed when their car slammed into a tree in Niceville at 7:12 p.m. Police said the accident was alcohol related and neither victim was wearing a seat belt.

Two Wildwood, Fla. men were killed in a one-car accident about two hours before the Palm Beach accident.

Vogt, HRS Seek Patient Rules Changes

By Susan Loden Berald Staff Writer

In a slow process, State Sen. John Vogt, D-Coaco Beach, said Health and Rehabilitative Services officials since an August report in the Sanford Herald have been working to change the rules to loosen the state strings attached to the freedom and rights of some former mental health patients in the state.

After the Herald reports, Vogt said he met in Orlando with state HRS officials and local mental health workers. He asked them to change the rules and to design specifically a plan for closing the cases for former mental health patients.

Vogt said in November HRS officials presented proposed changes to him. But they had skirted the issue and had not addressed his concerns for eliminating the possible violation of civil rights of former patients by failing to close cases or being vague about how cases are to be closed.

There was no real change in policy outlined in the November HRS proposal, Vogt said. And his suggestion, made in the inital meeting with the group, that perhaps civilian ombudamen might be called on to evaluate the cases of former mental health patients and to play a role in closing the cases. had been ignored.

Vogt said he is awaiting a second proposal from HRS. And if he hasn't received an acceptable change plan by April, when the legislature goes into session, he will press the newly appointed head of HRS for a significant change in policy.

In August, the Heraid reported that under existing HRS rules some former mental health patients, even if they didn't want follow-up contact with mental health providers after treatment and release from care, were being dogged by area "case managers." who check up on them and try to get them back into therapy and track their actions.

The follow-up was supposed to be optional on the part of the former patients, but as mental health organizations under contract to the HRS. including the Seminole Community Mental Health Center in Sanford, interpreted the rules and orders from HRS staffers, former patients who asked to be left alone were still pursued.

In Herald reports in August. Vogt called for a clarification of the rules and establishment of guidelines on the closing of the cases of former mental health patients.

Although there had been no official complaints logged by the patients being followed, mental health workers said they weren't sure where to draw the line in follow-up and said they felt pressed by HRS supervisors to pursue paitents who didn't want or need such tracking. HRS officials and mental health workers contradicted each other and the written rules in explaining the follow-up procedure. The initial follow-up plan was developed in the wake of a 1982 Tampa case where a former mental patient, who didn't receive follow-up contact, firebombed a grocery store and killed five people.

even with follow-up care, to predict such an incident and prevent it.

Vogt said he believes if people have the right to say they don't want follow-up, that request should be honored and they should be given privacy. He also said he is concerned about the perpetuation of the stigma, "Once a mental patient, always a mental patient." Vogt said he

Fog Disrupts Holiday Travel

By United Press International

Dense fog that delayed air traffic across the nation on one of the busiest travel days of the year clung to the South for a second day today, reducing the visibility to zero in Atlanta and Birmingham, Ala.

Hartsfield International Airport in Atlanta, a hub for flights nationwide, was shut down by the fog for 2 1/2 hours Sunday, delaying nearly 2,000 flights to and from the airport during the day, some for up to five hours, said David Martin, airport operations supervisor.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jack Barker said the backed-up air traffic in Atlanta triggered delays across the country Sunday, the end of the Christmas holiday weekend and one of the busiest travel days of the year. "Anytime you have weather slowing airline flights in the major hubs ... it will cause an effect all over the country." Martin said. "I have seen fog and delays in 1986 but so far this year I have not seen fog so thick as it was early today or as 00.0 many aircraft backed up and walting."

Martin said it was expected the fog would burn off early today, and predicted airlines would catch up with the delays by then.

"I feel like I was born and raised in a plane." Jim Smallwood of Norton, Va., said Sunday. "I've been sitting in a plane for seven hours from Knoxville, Tenn., to Atlanta. ... And Lord knows where my luggage is."

The National Weather Service posted travelers advisories early today for fog for north Georgia, Alabama. the Florida panhandle and northwest Arkansas.

Visibility was one-quarter mile in much of the warning area early today, the NWS said, and it was down to zero in Atlanta and Birmingham, Ala. "There's a lot of Pacific air over the nation," said Paul Fike, an NWS meteorologist. "It brings mild temperatures, but it is a moist air mass, and it also brings fog problems." Fog was also prevalent today in Oklahoma and northeast Nevada.

Fog shrouded western Montana Sunday, where near-zero visibilities had brought a halt to air travel in and out of Missoula, Mont., since Saturday.

Pacific storms spread rain with snow in the mountains across western sections of Washington and Oregon early today, prompting travelers advisories.

Gale warnings were posted for the coastal areas.

Light snow dusted northern Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

The monumental delay started early Sunday, one of the airport's busiest days of the year, when thick fog settled on Hartsfield, canceling all arrivals and departures from 7 a.m. until 9:30 a.m., said Jack Barker, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman.

"Rather than having planes circling over Atlanta, the airlines went into flow control," Barker said. "That means that Atlanta-bound traffic waited in other airports until cleared for landing in Atlanta."

At its worst, the fog limited visiblity to near zero. Only L-1011, 767 and 757 aircraft equipped with instruments to allow them to land and take off in fog - were landing once the fog lifted slightly at about 9:30 a m. Sunday, Barker said.

Reagans Honor Voyager Crew, Prepare For New Year's Fete

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - President and Mrs. Reagan are emerging briefly from their holiday seclusion to honor two of America's newest heroes and then head off to the desert to ring in the new year with friends and political allies.

The Reagans, in the second day of a weeklong vacation, scheduled a mid-afternoon departure today, trading urban Los Angeles for the desert bloom of Palm Springs.

There they will greet the new year as they have for the past two decades: in the company of friends at a black-tie bash held at the sprawling estate of publishing magnate Walter Annenberg.

Before their departure, the Reagans were to be in the limelight just long enough to salute the crew of the experimental Voyager aircraft, which last week completed a nine-day, 25,012-mile nonstop flight around the world without refueling.

Having captured one of aviation's last great records, pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager, along with aircraft designer Burt Rutan, were to receive the Presidential Citizens Medal from Reagan for exemplary achievement.

Koch Appeals For Racial Calm

NEW YORK (UPI) - Mayor Edward Koch appealed for calm in a white Queens neighborhood where a teenage gang beat and chased three black men and criticized one victim's refusal to cooperate with police as "foolish."

Queens District Attorney John Santucci said the case especially a murder charge - has been jeopardized by the refusal of victim Cedric Sandiford to cooperate in the investigation, including reviewing a police lineup. Santucci said the suspects - Jon Lester, 17, Jason Ladone, 16, and Scott Kern, 17 - would have to be released without ball today if Sandiford does not testify at a court hearing.

Koch went to Our Lady of Grace Church Sunday in an attempt to defuse racial tensions in Howard Beach but he was answered by jeers and taunts from some parishioners. leaving the frustrated mayor pleading. "Hear me out, hear me out. I'm not condemning the whole community."

Koch's visit to the Howard Beach church and to a black church in the St. Albans section of Queens came a day after 1,200 blacks and whites marched through Howard Beach to protest the Dec. 20 attack on the three black men in which one victim was struck and killed by a car while fleeing.

Murder, Jail Expansion, 911, Highlights

By Busan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Top news from area law enforcement agencies in 1966 included the implementation of the 911 emergency telephone system in Seminole County and the expansion of the Seminole County jail. And a young Paola man is still on the mend, following his unintentional involvement in a murdersuicide, which left him wounded by a man he didn't know.

The $13.5 million jail expansion will bring capacity up from 212 beds to 840, when the job is complete.

Inmates and staff have moved into the new section of the jail, where all jail operations will be centered as the old section of the jail is renovated in 1987. Funds for the job are from a one-year, one-cent sales tax in effect in the county in 1985.

Jail Administrator, Capt. Jay Leman, was off duty for several months, following a July 29 kidney transplant needed to combat a hereditary health problem. Leman, 40, returned to his job in early October and is in good health.

At nine answering stations in the county operators receive calls from residents who dial 9-1-1 for help, using the system that has a start-up price tag and first year cost of about $800,000.

In November, operators at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department received 3,339 calls through the system. Of those calls 462, were fielded to the county public safety department for fire runs.

In the news on a more personal level, a tragic suicide-murder, which also involved the wounding of a bystander, made dramatic news in this year.

Jeffrey Dickey, 20, of Wilson Road in Paola, the bystander wounded in the neck in that incident, on Oct. 6, within the past couple of weeks returned to his job at Ball Trucking Co. in Sanford.

Dickey's mother, Suzanne Dickey, said it will be two years before the extent of damage to her son's nerves will be known. But she said he is doing well, despite some problems with his speech and weakness in one of his arms.

Dickey was shot in the neck just before midnight Oct. 6, when he brandished an axe handle against a man who had forced a car in front of Dickey's pickup truck off State fire and rescue calls, came on line in late Road 46-A, west of Sanford. The two cars had crashed and Dickey's pickup hit a tree because of the collision in front of his truck.

The man Dickey pursued, Robert Shaw, 41, of Sanford, was gunning for his estranged wife Mary Shaw, 41, who was in the car forced by Shaw to stop.

As Shaw approached the car where his wife sat, her bose, Horace W. Starns, 46, who was taking her to her job at Stromberg-Carlson on nearby Rinehart Road. frantically tried to get Mrs. Shaw out of his car to run.

She was frozen in fear, Starns said.

As Shaw moved in on Starns' car, Dickey approached and chased him around that car wielding the axe handle. Shaw turned and shot Dickey in the neck. Dickey, who later said he would have never gone after Shaw if he had known he had a gun, fell wounded.

Shaw advanced on his wife and shot her pointblank in the back of the head. He returned to his car and fled west on State Road 46 to Orange Blvd., leaving his wife fatally wounded and Dickey injured.

Starns said if Dickey hadn't distracted Shaw he believes Shaw would have shot him. Starns was not injured.

Within minutes after the first shootings Shaw stopped his car on Orange Blvd. at Wilson Road and fatally wounded himself in the head with a single shot.

According to records, his car was involved in a minor accident around 2 a.m. A lobbyist from Winter Park, Ken Powell, 32, claimed he was driving the car. It had struck a parked car causing $2,400 in damages to both vehicles. Powell later recanted his story, and Selph, who first denied being the driver, said he was driving at the time of the accident. The issue was further complicated by an witness who said he saw Powell get out of the vehicle. Powell, a friend of Selph's, was a lobbyist for the Church Street Station tourist attraction in downtown Orlando which had interest in a liquor bill. Selph later said that after the accident Powell offered to handle the details and he, Selph, went on to a nearby hotel for a party. Powell and Selph were subsequently charged with driving under the influence, but because of a lack of evidence were allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge of reckless driving. Selph told the Sanford Herald often during the month-long unfolding story that large state newspapers were fanning the fires of his demise and blamed publicity of the accident on politics. ## Hart Leads Dems In Iowa Poll

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., has a commanding lead among lowa Democrats for the party's presidential nomination, a newspaper poll shows.

With Iowa's first-in-the-nation precinct caucuses 14 months away, the Des Moines Sunday Register shows Hart has a 4-1 lead over New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, his nearest challenger.

Hart, who will retire from the Senate next month presumably to begin his second try for the presidency, was the choice of 56 percent of the 204 Iowa Democrats polled. Thirteen percent favored Cuomo, followed by New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley with 5 percent, Jesse Jackson with 4 percent and retiring Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt with 3 percent.

Changes Needed To Reverse Trend

America's ability to compete in today's shifting global economy is lagging dangerously. The swift deterioration in U.S. competitiveness at home and abroad is best reflected in alarming trade imbalances, which if not corrected will force an inevitable decline in American living standards. At stake is nothing less than the era of general prosperity that has characterized this country for most of the time since World War II.

Once the world's leading exporter, the WASHINGTON WORLD United States is projected to pile up a trade deficit this year of $165 billion, by far the world's largest. American manufacturers who once built half of the world's automobiles now produce only 23 percent of them. Four years ago, this country was the globe's No. 1 creditor; now it is the world's biggest debtor. To finance Washington's enormous budget deficit, the government has grown . excessively reliant on foreign capital.

America's sudden vulnerability is due to an array of factors, including relatively recent , trends such as the flood of imports. They were triggered by a strong dollar and i increased U.S. purchasing power stemming from the four-year-old economic expansion. However, recouping this country's competi-tive standing over the long term will require fundamental reform of American business, an end to government policies that penalize success and risk-taking, and reshaping of the spending and saving habits of individuals.

Efforts now advancing in Congress to stave off foreign competition by curbing imports would only exacerbate America's plight over the long term. Protectionist measures would perpetuate the inefficient practices of some large U.S. industries, which have sacrificed quality and product improvement in a bid for quick profits at the expense of long-term gains in productivity.

Protectionism also would prompt retaliation by our overseas trading partners, whose demand for American exports would consequently decline even further. An overall contraction of world markets would result. That's why calls for stiff tariffs on imports from Japan and West Germany is a textbook example of how to worsen, not solve, the trade imbalance. A more productive step would be to eliminate government subsidies and preferential tax breaks that prop up non-competitive U.S. enterprises. This also would help lower the federal deficit, an action essential to freeing more capital for business investment. Because the deficit consumes such a large share of American capital, the cost of funds for private investment is two to three times higher here than in Japan. Congress must impose other large-scale budget cuts to rein in the deficit, thereby making available more dollars for industrial modernization and other investments to spur U.S. producitivity. In general, the way out of the current trade problem is for Americans to cool their consumption binge of recent years and begin saving and investing more. The high inflation of the 1970s abruptly altered Americans' buying habits, encouraging a sharp rise in consumer debt and discouraging saving. The personal-savings rate in the United States now is among the lowest in the world. Reversing these trends demands tax policies that discourage consumption and reward savings, such as eliminating taxes on interest from bank deposits and reducing taxes on capital gains. Regaining market shares lost to foreign competitors will require approaches that look beyond today's bottom line and consider the needs of the next century. All that is far more difficult than the expedient of protectionism. and therein lies the national challenge of the next decade.

Wise Remedy Needed For Unwise Policy

It is a measure of the depth of our present political crisis that Richard Nixon — the architect of the Watergate scandal — has emerged as a major defender of the current Is it wise policy for U.S. arms to be made president, Ronald Reagan.

In a sense, both Nixon and Reagan are singing the same tune about our current troubles: The policies were right, but the execution got screwed up by subordinates.

Says Mr. Nixon a decade later, let's get off Ronald Reagan's back, support his decisive policy judgments and go after Robert McFarlane, Oliver North and John Poindexter for fouling up the execution of those wise policies.

But how wise is a policy designed to put U.S. arms into the hands of the worst terrorist government in the world? This government, headed by the Ayatollah Khomeini, held 53 American hostages for a year, probably helped kill 241 Marines while they slept in their barracks in Beirut and encouraged and engineered the seizing and killing of other Americans.

available to help Iran smash Iraq so that the gates of the Middle East are open to highly dangerous and violent Moslem fanaticism of the kind Iran seeks to spread?

Is it wise policy to seek the release of three or Jour American hostages by giving arms to a government that will use them to slaughter hundreds of other human beings who are as precious in God's eyes as American hostages?

Is it wise policy to imply that any tyrant who seizes an American will be rewarded with American arms?

These are the policies the Reagan administration has been pursuing. If Lt. Col. North fouled up the execution of foolish policies such as these, his clumsiness was an inadvertent service to the nation.

The same applies to the Reagan policies toward Nicaragua.

Was it wise policy to use American arms in a is it wise policy to send American arms to Iran covert effort to sabotage the government of Nicaragua at a time when we officially recognize that government and have an ambassador fully accredited there?

. Was it wise policy to identify the moral authority of our government with the discredited, ineffective and corrupt Somoza remnants that largely make up the contras of Nicaragua who Mr. Reagan calls "freedom fighters" and compares to the heroic George Washington?

Was it wise policy for the CIA to assist in the mining of, international waters around Nicaragua's ports?

It was not only an illegal procedure to use money from the sale of arms to Iran to finance the contra war against the government of Nicaragua: the policy itself is wrong.

The remedy today is not to fire Lt. Col. North and Adm. Poindexter, although that may have been necessary as a small housekeeping step.

The remedy today is to challenge the unrealistic and frequently cruel policies the Reagan administration has been pursuing from Iran to Nicaragua to Angola to South Africa to the Soviet Union and NATO - and from Santa Barbara to Washington, D.C.

Politics, Politics, Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Show a politician a river and he'll start talking about building a dam. Show another politician a desert and he'll offer to vote for the other guy's dam in return for the water to irrigate his desert.

That is why Sidney Hillman defined politics as "who gets what." But just as often, politics is "who gets blamed." Some of that is going on now in the Iran arms-Contra aid affair.

For weeks, both Republicans and Democrats have been saying, "Let's find out who is responsible, bring any law violators to justice and get on with the public's business." Fine words, but it seems some of these people have additional goals in mind.

-The Republicans want to protect President Reagan and as many of his GOP associates as can be salvaged without blatantly projecting the image of a coverup.

SCIENCE WORLD Botanist Seeks Lost Tribe By Gayle Young

UPI Science Writer NEW YORK (UPI) - The young Harvard botanist who spent years discovering the secrets of zombies in Haiti says he will soon head to the Amazon in search of a lost tribe of mountain people.

'I don't really know what we're going up against because the area is so remote," said Wade Davis, 29, who recently received his Ph.D. in botany from Harvard University. "It's a big, unexplored territory."

Davis said he hopes to canoe up a tributary of the great river to a site in Colombia where an Indian tribe was observed from an airplane 40 years ago. It has not been seen since.

If he finds the tribe, Davis said he will study how the Indian people use plants for food, medicine and adornment.

"It's a tremendous opportunity to study a people who have had little, I any, contact with other civiliza tions," he said. Davis describes himself as one of a new breed of botanists who looks to Richard Evans Schultes, a Harvard professor of botany, for guidance and inspiration. Schultes, who flew over the remote Amazon region of Colombia in the 1940's and first discovered the tribe Davis hopes to encounter, is famous for his adventures in pursuit of knowledge about civilizations and the plants they use. 'We're proteges of Schultes'. He's shown it can be a very exciting field," Davis said of his teacher. "It's part anthropology because we are looking at cultures as well as plants." Davis's first major botany adventure was in Haiti, where he spent four years in pursuit of the secret of zombles. His report that they do exist, and that their catatonic state is induced by eating a Caribbean plant, caught the imagination of the press, the public and Hollywood.

BERRY'S WORLD

"If he's having the 'Divestiture Special,' so will II'

The GOP would be very happy if the public would accept the proposition that the entire affair was concocted in the White House cellar by an over-zealous lieutenant colonel of Marines and countenanced by an inattentive vice admiral. Failing that, they start looking for the next goat to scape - as far away from the Oval Office as possible.

The Democrats, conversely, probably would like to dig into the affair only as long as it takes to hang it on Ronald Reagan.

For all of the plous talk about not wanting another failed presidency. the Democrats have absorbed enough political pummeling from Reagan in the past six years to see wisdom in the immortal words of the late Richard Daley, "Don't get mad; get even." But if the albatross won't fit around the president's neck, they would settle for Vice President Bush.

If you can't believe American politicians would play politics with a situation as serious as this, consider what has gone on just in the last two weeks.

First, Reagan declared he was so eager to get the facts out that he favored giving Vice Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North limited immunity from prosecution. Then they could be obliged to drop their Fifth Amendment pleas and tell what they know about the arms and aid episode.

Then, Speaker-apparent Jim Wright tossed a skull-cracker of his own, suggesting if Reagan really wanted the truth in a hurry, why didn't he simply issue presidential pardons to Poindexter and North?

has been good news and bad news lately about the U.S. government's anti-AIDS research.

On the positive side, significant advances have been announced in two separate projects. On the negative side, a panel of outside experts has confirmed many of the allegations about problems in the top AIDS research lab.

For the past six months charges and denials have been flying about alleged mismanagement of the AIDS research program at the Centers for Discase Control in Atlanta. Officials there have admitted that more than half of their top-level scientists at the lab guit in recent months.

Some charged their experiments had been tampered with by jealous colleagues. Others claim that publication of their research papers has been blocked by administrators playing favorites.

Now a distinguished three-member panel of the National Academy of Sciences has completed an investigation of the CDC research program. CDC officials are hailing the report, saying it clears them of mismanagement.

But a careful reading of the report - mindful of the fact that it was undoubtedly written to cast the program in the best light possible shows that many of the allegations have a basis in fact.

The review panel, headed by Julius Krevans, chancellor of the University of California, found that the CDC research effort suffered from rapid supervisory turnover and low staff morale. He also found evidence that sabotage by squabbling researchers did occur in "minor experiments."

The investigators found that laboratory activities can be traced to the lack of strong scientific leadership and clear research goals and the consequent low morale." One direct result of the poor leadership was that "demands and pressures ... generated internal competition rather than uniting individuals."

The investigators looked into the specific allegations of sabotage, including contamination of cell cultures, rearrangement of experiments and altered settings on regulators and valves. They concluded that "some unusual incidents did, in fact, occur," and were the result of "an environment of distrust and dislike" among some researchers.

But, trying to protect the integrity of the research advances that have come out of the CDC program, the panel concluded "in no case was experimental work seriously disrupted ... or compromised."

The panel also investigated charges that important findings had been suppressed, specifically the discovery that commercially available spermicides might be effective in killing the AIDS virus.

They concluded the research was not surppressed: The results were published in a British medical Journal. But they were hard pressed to explain why it had taken more than 11 months for CDC administrators to clear the research for publication.

Meanwhile, two other U.S. programs have separately announced what can only be described as encouraging reports on significant research advances.

The former eagerly compared him to the fictional archeologist Indiana Jones and the latter is planning a movie based on a book Davis wrote about his exploits.

"It's important, I think, to write for the popular press, not just for the academics." Davis said recently at a botany conference at the New York Botanical Garden. However, he said he has never liked the comparison to Indiana Jones.

Davis said he was born, in Northwest Canada and spent his early life with trackers and Indians. developing a fascination for Indian culture and nature.

JACK ANDERSON Hussein Has Dodged Bullets All His Life

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - Jordan's diminutive monarch, King Hussein, has survived more than a halfcentury - despite the worst intentions of over a dozen assassins.

"I've always been a fatalist," the king explained in a recent interview with Dale Van Atta. "I've believed that, right or wrong, one has to do one's best at any given moment, and that when life is ended by the will of God, that's what happens."

Then, using "one" to replace the royal "we" in a masterplece of understatement, Husseln added: "One has been through a lot."

Hussein's first narrow escape was bloody and traumatic - and could easily have convinced "one" that he led a charmed life. It occurred on July 20, 1951. Hussein, then 15, was standing beside his beloved grandfather. King Abdullah, at the Al Aksa Mosque in Jerusalem when an assassin opened fire at close range.

Abdullah was killed with a bullet to the head, and as the assassin and the royal bodyguards exchanged fire, Hussein, though unarmed, ran toward his grandfather's killer. The boy was struck by a bullet, but legend has it that the slug bounced off a medal on the uniform that Abdullah had insisted Hussein wear that day.

Was that really the way it happened? Van Atta asked.

"Yes," replied Hussein. "There was a medal, and (the bullet) actually glanced off it." Hussein began carrying a pistol the next day.

In 1957 Hussein drove alone to the Zerka army base to put down an officers' rebellion. He drove into the mutineers' midst and dared them to shoot. Some of them did - he said he could "feel the heat" of bullets whizzing past him - but most were too ashamed.

On another occasion, he succeeded by a similar confrontation -but with a daring twist. He demanded that all 700 rebellious officers approach him, salute and pledge their allegiance to him. The procession took 90 minutes.

There were more bizarre attempts on his life. For example: "I had sinus problems," the king recalled. "I still have them to this day. I used (nasal) drops. One day I came in and felt that I needed to use them."

Hussein had been warned by his intelligence chief that there would be an attempt on his life by someone on his personal staff. A taped conversation was played in which a would-be assassin boasted to a royal spy: "We've recruited somebody in his residence to finish him off and it won't be long now. If (the king) had only stuck to a proper routine, we would have got him days ago.'

On the day his sinuses began throbbing. Hussein reached for the nose drops, but luckily examined the bottle. "It looked a little old, so I poured it down the sink and it started to froth and bubble." The acid in the medicine bottle was so strong it ate away the chrome trim on the basin drain.

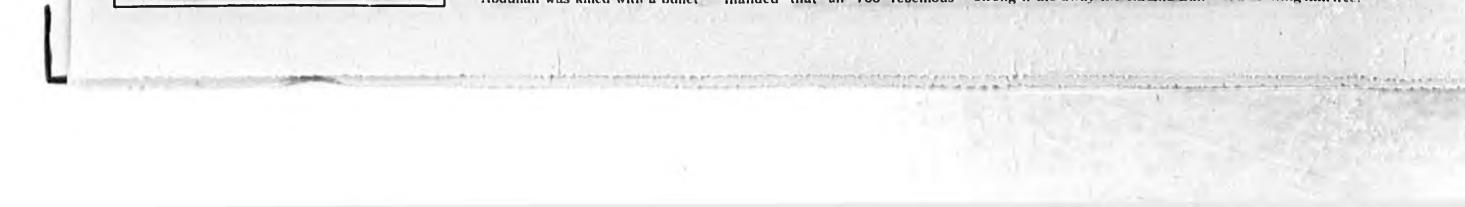

"I didn't use it, consequentially." Hussein added sardonically.

Equally bizarre was the tragic case of the royal cats.

"I have always had cats around." the king said. "My grandfather. Abdullah, loved them. And one day I saw that the cat population (on the palace grounds) was getting a little smaller. I wondered about it. And it turned out that someone had been trying some poisons, unfortunately, on the cats."

An assistant cook soon confessed that he had been recruited by a cousin in Damascus and was to be paid a large sum if he poisoned Hussein. But he didn't know the proper dose, so he experimented on the palace cats. Seven were found dead on a single day, six the next. The king himself came upon three dead cats while strolling on the palace grounds.

Characteristically, the king turned an enemy into a friend by pardoning the would-be assassin and setting him free.

Branch Returns To 'Skins' Tepee For Playoff Role

Sanford's Reggie Branch, who was one of the last roster cuts of Washington this fall, has resurfaced with the Redskins in time for the NFL Playoffs.

The former Seminole High football standout, who enjoyed a fine collegiate career at East Carolina, returned to his familiar role of specialist on kickoff and kick return teams Sunday as the 'Skins eliminated Kansas City, 19-7, in the NFC Wild Card Game at Washington.

Branch, one of the Redskins' top specialty performers last year, was a surprise cut this past fall. After an exhibition victory against the Bucs, Branch said he thought he would fill a similar role this year and maybe play some back running back.

Then came the cut and 14 agonizing weeks in the Washington area. "Reggie was just hanging around, hoping to get picked up." brother Herb Branch said. "He was negotiating with the Jets for next year when the Redskins called. He was surprised as anybody.'

The timing, though, couldn't be better. Branch was re-signed before the Redskins' game with Philadelphia. That turned out to be the famous Joe Glbbs' "Tongue-lashing Game." Washington fell behind the Eagles, 14-0, but rallied for a 21-14 victory.

On Sunday, Branch, donning an unfamiliar No. 29, made the tackle on Washington's last kickoff, following Jess Atkinson's fourth field goal of

Now that the holiday season is almost over Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne and his 14-2 Raiders know it is time to get back to work.

The Raiders now face the second half of the season which will feature a large amount of conference games to determine which teams will be in the state tournament.

"We're not going to change," Payne said Sunday night. "We feel Florida Junior College and Daytona Beach Community College are the teams we'll have to beat in the conference."

Daytona Beach is currently ranked ninth in the nation and in the Mid-Florida Conference.

After early exits the past two years, Lake Brantley's Patriots find themselves only one step away from a berth in the 1986 Pizza Hut Invitational final.

That step, however, is a huge one to say the least.

The Patriots, winners of two consecutive in tournament play, take on defending Class 4A champion Tampa Leto in semifinal action tonight at 6 at Orlando Bishop Moore High. In the first semifinal match, today at 4, Tallahassee Leon battles top-ranked (4A) Mlami Killian.

Leto, currently ranked second in Class 4A, comes in with a 5-0 record and is the two-time defending tournament champion. Lake Brantley now stands at 5-3-1. The Patriots were Pizza Hut finalists in 1983.

Lake Brantley advanced to the semifinals with a 1-0 victory over Seminole County rival Lake Howell on Saturday night. Leto advanced with a 5.0 whitewashing of Lyman's Greyhounds. Lake Howell fell to 8-2-0 with the loss while Lyman now stands at 5.2.2.

After a disappointing loss to Clearwater Central Catholic on Friday, Lake Mary's Rams closed out their play in the Pizza Hut tourney with a vegeance Saturday with an 8-0 thrashing of Winter Garden West Orange's Warriors.

Seven players scored goals for the Rams led by Ernie Broennle with two and Rick Broennie, Jon Brooks, Tony Fiorentino, Frank Baranowski, Pete Kinsley and John Yurick with one each. Steve Sapp contributed three assists to the offense while Scott Schmitt added two assists while Lee Alexander and Rick Broennle added one each.

Sanford's Aretha Riggins, a young lady who has athletic talent, good looks, intelligence and a great personality. Is not having much luck.

Last December, the Seminole High sophomore was stricken with Landry-Guillan-Barre Syndrome (a descending paralysis). She fought through that battle only to encounter another one this winter. Aretha will undergo major knee surgery in January.

She had knee surgery last year, too, but due to the inactivity caused by the paralysis, Aretha said a ligament in her knee did not sufficiently recover. Therefore, it will have to be restructured. She will be on the shelf for another nine months.

"I'll be back for volleyball next year, though," Aretha promises. The body may have faltered for this young lady but the spirit has never weakened. Hang in there Aretha, you have two years of good luck yet to come in your prep career...

Seminole High's cagers aren't having the greatest of luck either. After losing to No. 2 Daytona Beach Mainland twice and No. 8 Port Orange Spruce Creek, the 'Noles dropped an 84-74 decision to No. 1 Miami Senior in the first round of the Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic Friday night.

It is doubtful any teams have played a tougher schedule than coach Bill Klein's Tribe. When the 'Noles aren't playing top 10 teams, they are 6-0.

Seminole returned to consolation bracket action today at 1 against Hawthorne. A victory today would send the Tribe into the consolation semifinals Tuesday at 2 p.m. against today's Fort Lauderdale St. Thomas Aquinas-Orlando Oak Ridge winner. Sanford has already beaten Oak Ridge by 21 points earlier this year.

The 'Noles have played all of the ranked teams tough, which is going to fine tune them for January's Seminole Athletic Conference schedule and another run at Spruce Creek on Jan. 6 and Mainland on Jan. 22.

Some "experts" have been discouraged, the players included, by the 6-4 start, but the best is yet to come.

"We have our first practice since the break Monday," Payne said. "I think everyone is fine, I'll find out then.'

The Raiders will tune up for their conference games at the SCC Health Center against some out of state competition. On Friday, Jan. 2, Seminole will host Wisconsin's Waukesha County Tech. The Raiders will play New York's Rockland Community College the following night.

Malcolm Houston leads the way in the scoring department for the Raiders averaging 22.1 points a game. Houston, a 6-0 guard, has connected on an amazing 46.5 percent (67 of 144) of his three-point goals (19 feet 9 or further).

Center Vance Hall is next averaging 17.8 game, Hall also leads the way in the rebounding department gathering in 8.4 boards a game. Hall also leads the team in blocked shots with 61 and has another team high in dunks with 24.

Gallagher is averaging 13.5 points a game to go along with his healthy assist average of 10.1 a game. Gallagher leads the way from the free throw line for SCC with an 85.2 average. The 5-8 sophomore has converted 18 of 28 three-point attempts for a whopping 64.3 percent.

Forward Cluade Jackson is averaging 11.4 points a game and is second in rebounding grabbing an average of 7.3 per game. Jackson also has 17 blocks and 10 dunks.

James Morris Is averaging 9.8 points a game to go along with his average of 4 rebounds a game. Morris took over for Dunning after the injury and has since played well for SCC.

Dunning is averaging 8.6 points per game and picking up 6.1 boards a game to help the Raiders out in the middle. Another helpful addition in the middle is Rob Williams who is averaging 4.3 points and rebounds a game.

Efrem Brooks is averaging 6.8 points per game while handing out a pair of assists per outing. Brooks is second from the free throw line for the Raiders with an average of 81.8.

"We'll have to work hard to win," Payne said. "We'll need to be competitive in our conference.'

The Raiders are tied for third in the conference right now. Daytona leads the way with a 2-0 record FJC is second at 1-0. The Raiders and three other teams are all tied at 1-1 going into the second half of the season. The MFC slate consists of 14 games.

'Noles Face Quick Hawthorne

While Seminole High returns to consolation action today at the Ocala Vanguard Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Basketball Tournament, the host Knights and Miami Senior both face tough quarterfinal winners' bracket games tonight.

Miami Senior, ranked No. 1 in the Class 4A Florida Sports Writers Poll, improved to 9.0 with an 84-74 victory over Seminole Friday. The Stingarees face Atlanta Southside, an 87-82 victor against Hawthorne, tonight at 9:30. Coach Jim Haley's Vanguard club takes on Lake Weir at 8. Vanguard dropped Tampa Catholic, 82-73, and Lake Weir ripped Warwick. R.I. Bishop Hendricken, 98-67, on Saturday.

Coach Bill Klein's Tribe faces a small - but very quick -Hawthorne team today at 1. The perennial 2A powerhouse gave Southside all it wanted until the taller Atlantans pulled away by using their heighth and foul shooting in the closing minutes.

Klein received 22 points from Roderick Henderson and 17 from Jerry "Stick" Parker Friday. Craig Walker pulled down 13 rebounds. Michael "Spud" Edwards and either 6-10 Brad Baird or 6.5 Steve Hathaway are expected to fill out the starting lineup.

A victory today sends the 'Noles into semifinal consolation play Tuesday at 2 p.m. against either Fort Lauderdale St. - Sam Cook Thomas Aquinas or Orlando Oak Ridge.

"Except for the first half against Lyman, Leto has not been challenged in the tournament," Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody said. "I think we can challenge them if we continue to play our quick, short passing game and solid defense."

It was the defense and ball control on offense that pulled the Patriots through on Saturday. Lake Howell took 23 shots on goal compared to Lake Brantley's eight but Brantley goalkeeper Scott McCullough made 16 saves, including one on a penalty kick, for his fourth shutout of the season and second consecutive in tournament play.

The Patriots took a 1-0 lead 12 minutes into the game when Greg Marko scored on an assist from Chad Marien. Later in the half, Lake Howell was dealt a big blow when Jerry Philips received a red card which means ejection from the game. Lake Howell played the last 20 mintues of the first half and the entire second half one man short.

Still, the Silver Hawks had plenty of scoring opportunities but could not crack one past the nimble McCullough and the tough Brantley defense. Lake Howell's best scoring opportunity came with 25 minutes left to play when the Hawks' Jeff Philips took a penalty kick.

"He (Philips) hit the ball to the goalkeeper's left and Scott (McCullough) went that way." Brody said. "The placement of the kick wasn't perfect but it was hit real hard and Scott made a fine save. The ball then rebounded out and Philips came charging but hit it wide of the goal.'

With the loss, Lake Howell drops out of the tournament and now has lost two of its last three Bates and Pasi Kaviima.

of their frustrations from the day before.

"We're going to play Clearwater Central Catholice at their place in the middle of January so we have a chance to redeem ourselves."

Lake Mary put West Orange away early Saturday with four goals in the first 10 minutes. Lake Mary took 47 shots on goal for the game compared to two for West Orange. In his second game as Lake Mary keeper, Pete McNally made two saves in recording his first shutout.

LYMAN BOWS TO LETO

Powerful Tampa Leto was too much for Lyman's Greyhounds to handle Saturday as the defending tournament champions claimed a 5-0 victory.

Leto took 26 shots on goal compared to just seven for Lyman. Lyman goalkeeper Kelly Walden had nine saves for the game.

In other winners' bracket games Saturday, Killian advanced to the semifinals with a 2-1 victory over Clearwater Central Catholic and Tallahassee Leon stunned host Orlando Bishop Moore, 2-0.

In other action, Hialeah-Miami Lakes ripped Jacksonville Terry Parker, 6-0. Winter Park trimmed Orlando Evans, 3-1 and Daytona Seabreeze and Cocoa Beach lought to a 3-3 tie.

OVIEDO TO HOST TOURNEY

Oviedo will host its own Christmas Tournament starting Monday. Along with the Lions, Orlando Colonial, Apopka and Orlando Oak Ridge will also compete in the two-day tournament.

Oviedo, 3-2-1, has the county's leading goal scorer in senior Greg Brick who has 11 goals in six games. Goalkeeper Gordon King leads the county with 65 saves, more than 10 per game. Other key players for the Lions are Jim Guggenheim, Mike Moody, Mark McDonald, Derek

Cash Rallies Past Pernfors, Aussies Win Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) - Australia won the Davis Cup Sunday when Pat Cash rallied from a two-set deficit to defeat Mikael Pernfors of Sweden 2-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 in one of the classic victories of the competition.

Cash, capping a tumultuous year in which he was sidelined for seven months because of back surgery and dropped to 413 in the world rankings, scored the clinching point at Kooyong Stadium to give Australia its 26th Davis Cup triumph.

Although Stefan Edberg of Sweden came back to beat Paul McNamee 10-8, 6-4 in what was an inconsequential second singles. match, Australia earned a 3-2 victory over the two-time defending champions.

Australia thus regained the trophy it lost to Sweden in 1984 and is within two victories of the United States, which has won the Davis Cup a record 28 times.

Cash, a winner over Edberg on Friday, has a 15-5 record in Davis Cup singles, and he made history Sunday when he became the first Australian to come from two sets down to clinch a series for his country.

"Pernfors in the first two sets was the best player I have ever met," Cash said. "He never missed a return and at the end of the second set I thought to myself, there is only one way he can go ... down, he couldn't keep that up.

'I thrive on pressure. I love it and I compete better, but I can tell you last night was the longest night I ever spent. I only had three hours sleep."

Pernfors, a former star at Seminole Community College and the University of Georgia and a finalist at the French Open, said: "That was one of the best matches I have played. Pat raised his game after the first two sets but I thought I played very well and he is certainly a hard man to beat on grass.

Australia's victory marks the end of an era at Kooyong since this was the last time the stadium was being used for the Davis Cup. It was the seventh Davis Cup final to be played at Kooyong since 1946 when the United States defeated Australia 5-0, and Australia has won the last six series there.

Pernfors played only one tournament on grass this year - Wimbledon. But he adapted well to Kooyong's center court and in each of the first two sets he used a pair of service breaks to jump to a 3-0 lead.

Lame-Duck Tollner Wants To Go Out A Winner

ORLANDO (UPI) - Ted Toliner believes Southern California is treating him unfairly, and the Trojan coach wants to finish his tenure Thursday as a winner in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Tollner admits to being a lame duck this week as unranked USC (7-4) prepares for the New Year's Day game with No. 9 Auburn (9-2), but says he and his staff are not going to quit coaching. They plan to set an example for the players.

"We're constantly telling our players how college football teaches young people how to deal with adversity, Tollner said. "Now we're an example of it. We've got to respond the way we would want our players to respond.

"It's not an ideal situation. But we've got to stand up and make the most of it."

Tollner was fired three weeks ago, and will be out of a job after the Auburn game. He still has trouble with the decision by USC President James Zumberge and Athletic Director Mike McGee.

"I think it's wrong," he said. "I don't think anything should have happened.'

He has the backing of many fans. players and his assistants.

Football

Tollner, 46, has received scores of sympathetic letters from supporters. In a recent poll by USC's student news-paper. The Daily Trojan, 70 percent of the 250 respondents said the Trojans should retain Tollner.

"I have total respect for Coach Tollner," cornerback Lou Brock said. "He always takes care of the players, no matter what the situation. He made a family of the team, and he has been a father image. He never blamed anybody but himself when things went wrong. He never showed any pressure. It takes a strong person with a strong character to do that."

"Coach Tollner is a great man and a great coach," quarterback Rodney Peete said. "I learned a lot from him. He has been very honest with me. I'll be sad to see him go." Zumberge and McGee said they based their decision to fire Tollner on several factors, including his 28-19-1 record, the lowest winning percentage (.576) of any Trojans coach in his first four years.

They also cited his 1-7 record against rivals UCLA and Notre Dame: losing 10 games by more than 20 points; and finishing out of the top 20 three out of four years.

"A decision of this magnitude is not arrived at without considerable. personal pain and agony." said Zum-berge, who hired Toliner in November 1962. "These considerations, however, must be set aside when the best interests of the university are at stake."

Toliner said a football coach should be evaluated on his overall record, conference record, record against rivals and record against nationally ranked teams.

Testaverde's Goal: No. 1 Player Wants To Have No. 1 Team

PHOENIX (UPI) - Vinny Testaverde, the top quarterback in the nation and a member of college football's No. 1 team, wants to add another honor to his collection during the 1986 season - a national title.

Testaverde, who threw for 2,557 yards and 26 touchdowns to lead the Miami Hurricanes to an 11-0 record, received five awards presented to the nation's outstanding college football player, including the Heisman Trophy.

Now, he would like to share an honor with his teammates -beating second-ranked Penn State in the Fiesta Bowl Jan. 2 to claim the national champion-

The Hurricanes had a chance to be the top team after last season but were embarrassed. 35-7, by Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl as Testaverde had one of

That kind of confidence helps account for Testaverde's success. He has won 20 of the 22 games he has started for the Hurricanes and is sure he can handle any defense the Nittany Lions throw at him.

"Blitz, man-to-man, zone, they're playing into my hands." Testaverde said. "When I step on the field, I'm in charge and they have to stop me.

"A lot of teams have the philosophy: bend but don't break. My philosophy is, keep them bending and make them break."

Penn State quarterback John Shaffer - who wears the same number as Testaverde, 14 - has the same kind of self-assurance and an even better record, 22-1

Shaffer may not have Testaverde's numbers, but both quarterbacks effectively run their teams' offenses.

Liberty Should Produce Points

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) -Coaches Johnny Majors of Tennessee and John Gutekunst of Minnesota agreed Sunday the 28th Liberty Bowl could be a high-scoring game.

The Volunteers and the Golden Gophers, both 6-5, meet at 8 p.m. EST Monday. The game will be telecast by the Raycom Network.

"Our strengths and weaknesses match up." Gutekunst said at a late-afternoon news conference before his team's final workout.

Majors, whose Volunteers had difficulty defending in the ground game this the season. said, "I am not sure we can stop them. I hope we can slow them down.'

Minnesota will be led by junior quarterback Rickey Foggle. Maiors said the Gopher signal caller is "quick and fast," similar to Don Smith of Mississippi State, who destroyed Tennessee's defense earlier this season.

Majors also singled out Minesota running back Darrell Thompson, a 6-foot-2, 204pound freshman. The Liberty Bowl had only 400 tickets left for sale late Sunday, and bowl officials predicted all seats will be taken by kickoff Monday night. Both Majors and Gutekunst said they must avoid turnovers and other "self-destruct" mechanisms.

Clemson Warns '87 Foes: Watch Out For Defense

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - Clemson's 1987 football foes, beware.

The Tigers defense, which held Stanford to just 57 yards in the first half of Saturday's Gator Bowl, started only two seniors. Clemson broke to a 27-0 lead at the half and withstood a Stanford rally to win 27-21.

"People seemed like they were intense at halftime, but I guess they weren't." Clemson guarterback Rodney Williams said. "We just got complacent with the big lead."

The defense of the No. 18 Tigers was awcsome in the first half. No. 17 Stanford, which averaged 23 points and 343 yards per game during its 8-3 regular season, didn't get inside the Clemson 40 the entire first half and didn't have a first down the first 23 minutes.

"We were frustrated in the first half offensively," Stanford Coach Jack Elway said. "That is a credit to their defense."

Stanford wide receiver Jeff James credited the second-half improvement on adjustments the Cardinal made at halftime. Clemson Coach Danny Ford blamed it on a Tiger letdown.

Football

"We didn't play a full 60 minutes." said Ford, adding that had been a recurring problem during Clemson's 7-2-2 regular season. "I hope we learned a lesson, that when you have somebody down, you can't let him back up."

The Clemson defense reawakened after Stanford tailback Brad Muster scored his third touchdown of the second half to narrow the gap to 6 points with 2:51 left. The next, and last, time Stanford had the ball, four plays netted Just 7 yards.

"Our football team should be grateful to win." Ford said. "We came within a cat's whisker of not winning. I told our guys at halftime they were going to do one of two things - either set an NCAA record of being ahead at halftime and losing, or go out and score a bunch of points and win going away. It came awfully close of being the first one."

Elway had to take heart in the way sophomore quarterback Greg Ennis played in the second half.

ALOHA: ARIZONA DOWNS UNC HONOLULU (UPI) - Arizona Coach

Larry Smith said he actually saw some good come out of watching a 30-point lead evaporate under the hot Hawailan sun.

"To regain momentum and get things under control when it looks like you're losing it is a sign of a good football team," he said after the No. 13 Wildcats downed North Carolina Saturday 30-21 in the Aloha Bowl.

Arizona received all its points off the work of its defensive and punt return units during the two middle periods. It then had to hang on for its ninth victory. the most in the school's history. During the scoring stretch, the Wildcats scored in six of their seven possessions.

"Overall, our defense was exceptional," Smith said. "We ran and hit for 2 1/2 quarters and then let up."

Linebacker Byron Nelson snatched two fumbles to set up 10 points and Jerry Beasley and George Hinkle also had fumble recoveries that led to Arizona points. In addition, Boomer Gibson partially blocked a punt and Derek Hall returned a punt 48 yards to account for the remaining points. The Arizona scores came on two field goals by Gary Coston, a game-record 52-yarder by Jeff Valder, short runs by David Adams and Art Greathouse and a 13-yard pass from Alfred Jenkins to Jon Horton.

But the Tar Heels, behind freshman Torin Dorn, railled. Dorn, who rushed for 101 yards on seven carries, ripped off a 58-yard scoring run late in the third quarter to get North Carolina started. By the middle of the final period, the Tar Heels had two more TDs on a 6-yard pass from Mark Maye to Randy Marriott and Maye's 2-yard run.

That's when Smith gathered his players around him.

"We're ahead so let's play like it," he told them. "If you play like you're behind, you'll end up behind."

North Carolina fell to 7-4-1. "We self-destructed in the the first half." Coach Dick Crum said. "Our guys aren't happy about losing, but I think we can get them confident from the way they played late in the game. They didn't quit.

Harbaugh, Wolves Hope To Erase Rose Bowl Pain

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) - Jim Harbaugh, whose father was an assistant to Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, has known the pain of the Big Ten's recent difficulties in the Rose Bowl.

"As a kid, I used to go to all the home games and some away games," said Harbaugh, the Wolverines' big-play quarterback, who will lead No. 4 Michigan against No. 8 Arizona State in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

"I was a big fan. The players were really friendly to us and I used to feel real bad for them when they lost here. I hated to see what losing the Rose Bowl did to my dad (the elder Harbaugh has since joined Stanford's coaching staff).'

Schembechler has been to Pasadena seven times and won just once. If the Wolverines are to have a chance to beat Arizona State, Harbaugh might need a day like he had Oct. 4 when he threw for 310 yards against Wisconsin or the game he had against Indiana three weeks later when he amassed 300 yards.

"We don't throw that much more than past Michigan teams," the Big Ten Player of

THOMAS: NO COMPARISONS

MIAMI (UPI) — Arkansas quarterback Greg Thomas wants people to stop trying to compare him to Oklahoma quarterback Jamelle Holieway.

It's natural to want to compare the two quarterbacks, who will meet Jan. 1 when No. 10 Arkansas plays third-ranked Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. Both run wishbone offenses, are the leading rushers on their teams and are quick. dangerous runners. But Thomas doesn't think he and Holleway have too much in common.

AGGIES: OFFENSE POTENT

DALLAS (UPI) - Such is the power of Texas A&M's offense that not even the Aggies know what will happen during the game.

The Aggies, who meet Ohio State Thursday in the Cotton Bowl, have the nation's thirdranked offense and average 440.2 yards a game.

"We really don't go in saying we will do a certain thing." offensive coordinator Lynn

Erving Bids Goodbye To Forum With 6 Points, 111-85 Setback

United Press International

Julius Erving's final game in the Forum should have been better.

instead of a struggle in the tradition of the Philadelphia-Los Angeles championship series of 1980, 1962 and 1983, Sunday night's matchup demonstrated the disparity that has developed between the teams. Erving, who will retire after this season, scored only 6 points in 31 minutes in the Lakers' 111-85 victory.

"Leaving at this time is like having a tremendous burden lifted," Erving said. "This game wasn't up to my expectations, but I can't let that lessen the future of Julius Erving."

Los Angeles limited Philadelphia to just 11 points in the second quarter, 38 percent shooting overall and its lowest point total of the season. The 85 points were 23 below the 76ers' average. Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 28 points to lead the Lakers to their fourth consecutive victory.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 16 points and 9 rebounds, became the NBA's third-leading career rebounder. He has 16,284 and trails Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell on the all-time list.

James Worthy added 17 points for Los Angeles, which owns the NBA's best record of 22-6. Maurice Cheeks led the 76ers with 17 points and Charles Barkley added 13 and a game-high 16 rebounds.

In the only other NBA game, Portland whipped Seattle 127-118.

Virginia Tech Forfeits 2 Games

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI) - Virginia Tech is forfeiting its last two victories because transfer center Russell Pierre who missed academic requirements by one credit hour played while ineligible, university officials say.

"Jacksonville University and Wake Forest University will be notified that their basketball games with Virginia Tech will be forfeited," Tech said in a statement released Sunday. With the forfeits, Tech falls from 3-4 to 1-6.

Pierre became ineligible when the university's fall term ended Dec. 19, but final grades were not released until Dec. 22. In that time, he started in three games - two in the Gator Bowl Tournament and in Tech's Dec. 22 game against Wake Forest.

Pierre, of North Babylon, N.C., transferred to Tech after two years at North Carolina State and sat out last season in order to be eligible to play for the Hokies this year.

Stars & Stripes Topples U.S.A.

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) - Stars & Stripes recovered from a slow start and defeated U.S.A. by 3 minutes, 2 seconds today for its second straight victory in the America's Cup challenger semifinals.

Stars & Stripes Skipper Dennis Conner, forced to restart after crossing the line before the gun, overcame a huge 18-second deficit and sped by Tom Blackaller, his longtime adversary, for a 16-second lead rounding the first mark and led the rest of the race.

Jets Reverse Frustration With 35-15 Rout Of Chiefs

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) - The New York Jets revensed the frustration and embarrasement of a five-week nose dive by winning the AFC Wild Card playoff game.

The Jets Sunday snapped a five-game ioning streak with a 35-15 rout of the Kansas City Chiefs and moved within two victories of Super Bowi XXI - sparing themselves a miserable offsesson. The Jets are scheduled to play the AFC Central-champion Browns in Cleveland Saturday in the conference semifinals.

"The five-game losing streak was horrible," said Pat Ryan, who started at quarterback in place of Ken O'Brien and threw three touchdown passes. "People acted like we were dying. I feel good I helped change this around.

"There's nothing like winning. It takes away all the pain we had the last five weeks."

Ryan made Jets Coach Joe Walton look good for his controversial, mid-week quarterback change. The Jets took a more conservative approach on offense, using short passes and the running of Freeman McNeil to dent the Chiefs. McNeil gained 135 yards on 31 carries and scored two touchdowns as the Jets played turnover-free against the opportunistic Chiefs.

'We felt we needed one win to turn it around," Walton said. "Let's hope this is it. Ryan gave us an emotional lift as I thought he would. This was his kind of game. It was a tribute to him."

Kansas City had won three straight games to finish the regular season 10-6 and make the playoffs for the first time since 1971.

'Nobody is going home with a big smile ### on his face, but we have to be proud of some of our accomplishments this year," Chiefs rookie linebacker Dino Hackett said. "As long as I'm here, the playoffs are going to be a habit. We're going to be in the playoffs year after years.

Football

The Jets had traveled in the other direction to their 10-6 finish. New York stumbled miserably after standing atop the NFL at 10-1. In the five losses, O'Brien threw 12 interceptions and two touchdowns.

"We had to play our way through it," McNeil said after his third straight 100-yard game. "Like Coach Walton said, sooner or later, we'd come around.

"We had a second chance and, after the way we played today, we showed that we deserved it. We shouldn't have even been playing today. We just didn't get the jobdone earlier when we had the chances."

Ryan completed 16 of 23 passes for 153 yards and touchdowns of 1 yard to McNeil, 11 yards to Al Toon and 6 yards to Billy Griggs. On a fourth-and-6 from the Chiefs 33. Ryan gained 24 yards on a quarterback draw. The play help set up a 4-yard TD run by McNeil for a 7-6 lead.

The Jets also scored on linebacker Kevin McArthur's 21-yard interception return of a Todd Blackledge pass 13 seconds into the second half.

"Ryan's very good at ball control," Chiefs Coach John Mackovic said. "That fourthdown play was great. The big play in the game that took us out of it was McArthur's , interception starting the third quarter. You could see Todd sag after that."

ford Herald, Sealard, Fl.

Monday, Doc. 29, 1986-7A ...

Blackledge, starting for injured Bill Kenney, completed 12 of 21 passes for 80 yards and two interceptions. Kenney replaced him in the fourth quarter and completed 8 of 16 for 97 yards despite a hand injury suffered against Pittsburgh last 📢 week.

The Chiefs' offense, which ranked last in T the NFL, was ineffective after Jeff Smith's 1-yard run had capped a 67-yard drive for a 6-0 lead. Nick Lowery missed the extra point after a bad snap and the Chiefs struggled from there. Kansas City's 241 yards of total offense was the lowest total against the Jets this season.

The Chiefs scored their second-half points when Albert Lewis blocked a Dave Jennings punt and recovered in the end zone 14 seconds into the fourth quarter, and when Jennings ran out of the end zone for a safety out of punt formation with 2:59 left.

For all Ryan accomplished Sunday, he did not clinch a start in Cleveland. Walton said O'Brien, a first-round draft choice in 1983 and the NFL's leading passer in 1985, might start next week.

"We'll leave the doors open." Walton said about Saturday's starter. "If I said anything now, I may have to change my mind later."

"If I play, I'm going to do my best," Ryan said. "Kenny's going to be our quarterback around here. He's got a world of talent; anyone can see that. He just needed a break. "I'm just glad we won a ballgame. We didn't want to go into the offseason with six losses in a row."

Another official, line judge Jack Fette, told referee Gordon McCarter he believed it was a fumble.

"But the back judge (Jury) was the covering official on the play," McCarter said after the game. "His call would have prevailed."

It would have, that is, if it had not been for Gardi, the replay official, who became involved in the first critical instant-replay use in NFL playoff history. Gardi took five minutes to make his decision, but finally ruled it a fumble.

The ball was moving (out of Hill's hands) before the knee was even close to being down." Gardi said. "The reason for the delay was that I was trying to determine whether or not he might have regained possession. But he dldn't.'

Although Washington had returned the fumble to the Rams 30, the Redskins had to be satisfied with possession on their own 45 because it was ruled a whistle had been blown during the return.

Atkinson's kicks came from 25. 20, 38 and 19 yards - one In each quarter.

"Jess realiy responded for ustoday," Gibbs said. "I think the team has confidence in him. I know I Lo. Sheet, we haven't had much luck even making extra points, so we are excited."

Butz: Victory Was Very Expensive

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Washington Redskins tried, despite themselves, not to savor their first postseason victory in three years.

Sunday's 19-7 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC wild-card playoff game at RFK stadium was only a few minutes old, but the Redskins were forcing themselves to look ahead to Saturday, when they face the defending Super Bowl champion Bears in Chicago in a divisional playoff game.

'The good news is we won," Washington coach Joe Gibbs said after watching his team force six turnovers to subdue the Rams. "The bad news is we have to go to Chicago. At this point everybody you play is good. Chicago is great."

"I don't think that's as much bad news as how many broken two weeks ago. "You look at it today and there's really not a field goal I shouldn't have made.

Despite their cautious mood, the Redskins had to be pleased with the rediscovery of their defense in time for the playoffs.

The Redskins, who owned the league's top pass defense last season, ranked 20th in the NFL in pass defense this season and 21st in overall defense. But they held Los Angeles quarterback Jim Everett to only 136 yards passing and intercepted the rookie signal caller twice. Redskin defenders also forced four fumbles, three of them by running back Eric Dickerson.

Teen-Ager's Foresight Lets Others Lead Better Lives

DEAR ABBY: Terry. my 15-year-old son, was killed by his best friend who was playing with a gun they did not know was loaded. We realize it was an accident, and both our families are heartbroken, but that is not what this letter is about.

Terry had just received his learner's permit. A while ago, while looking at my driver's license, he noticed "Organ Donor" marked on it, and asked what it meant. I explained it, and added if he wanted to donate his organs when he got his permanent license, he could mark it on his own driver's license. I said, "You can think about it and decide when the time comes." He replied, "I don't need to think about it; I've already decided that that is what I want to do! It will make me feel good to know that should I die in an accident, my organs will go to someone who can use them."

Well, after his tragic, sudden death, his mother and I honored his request.

His heart went to a minister in our town, one of his kidneys went to a 25-year-old man who lives nearby, and the other kidney went to a Catholic priest. (We are Baptists, but that didn't matter.) All of these men are doing well and are looking forward to a normal, healthy life.

Even though we did not have our beloved son with us for Christmas, we felt that a part of him still lives on, giving joy to three other families. I cannot describe the comfort and consolation this has given us. We are proud of Terry for having been so mature and unselfish to ### have expressed this wish.

Our family has enjoyed "Dear Abby" in the Birmingham News. for years, and we wish you and your family God's blessings for all the good you do.

ALBERT T. GANDY, FAIRFIELD, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: Does a handshake reveal the makeup of a person? For instance, does a firm shake reveal control and assertiveness and a limp shake reveal an insecurity or weakness? Or is a handshake merely a handshake?

S.S. PADILLA

DEAR S.E. PADELLA: A child is taught to shake hands. If it is stressed that a firm handshake indicates "control and assertiveness," and a limp handshake indicates "insecurity or weakness," the child will act accordingly. Actually, it is learned behavior, and, therefore, not a fair indication of anything.

does not have the right to insist on prepayment of a fee. Many physicians - far too many, in my opinion - require that a fee be paid at the time of service. Although this is not considered unethical, I believe that patients are entitled to "charge it" if they choose to do so. Maybe your new doctor's secretary was trying to give you useful information, not intimidate you into a prepay-ment. This way, you would be forewarned; the doctor's charges would not come as such a shock.

Amelia Earhart: Victim Of A Faulty Map?

By Vicki Berker WASHINGTON (UPI)

Amelia Earhart, whose 1937 disappearance has been attributed to everything from alcohol to espionage, may instead have been the victim of a map-maker's mistake. The aviator had the wrong coordinates for the Pacific island she was trying to reach when she vanished. A recently discovered document also suggests that Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, may have survived up to twelve days after the crash. undetected by the most massive air-sea rescue mission ever launched. On the flight plan prepared for Earhart's ill-fated round-theworld flight by navigator Clarence Williams, the location of tiny Howland Island, a two-mile-long sandbar in the middle of the South Pacific, is off by some seven miles.

The discrepancy was discovered by Grace Mcguire, a New Jersey flight instructor who hopes to recreate Earhart's flight for its 50th anniversary next May.

Earhart and Noonan vanished July 2, 1937. in the final minutes of a 2,600-mile flight from Lac, New Guineau, to Howland Island, It was the most perilous leg of their highly publicized journey: a nonstop flight over open water in an aircraft carrying barely enough fuel to reach its destination.

Reports filed after the disappearance say the

If she was flying into the sun I think she'd have had almost no visibility out in front of her -1would think one mile or less."

Mcguire said there is other evidence to support the theory that Earhart was working with faulty coordinates.

In Earhart's final radio transmission to the Itasca, delivered in what witnesses called a "very excited" voice, the aviator said she was flying "on the line of position 157-337 .... We are running North and South." Past investigators have theorized that the compass heading 157-337, which destrength of Earhart's finalradio transmissions suggests the plane was within 50 miles of Howland Island when it crashed, but no trace of it was ever found.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, Meguire said the faulty flight plan, which she said was based on inaccurate government charts, puts Howland Island to the northwest of its actual location. She believes that seven-mile mistake could have spelled the difference between life and death for the fliers.

"It was early in the morning and they were flying into the sun," Mcguire said. "The glare would have been terrible, and that island is so small. You'd have to be right on top of it to see it. I know, I've been out there. Every cloud shadow looks like an island out there."

An Air Corps report

declassified in 1977 says visibility was generally 25 miles that morning. However, the report notes that glare from the sun would have made both Howland Island and a smoke plume rising from the Coast Guard Cutter Itasca, anchored nearby, "very difficult to see from the west."

to a wing under him." Mcguire said Earhart's 46-foot Lockheed Electra 10-E would have been too small and too low for watchers on Howland and on the Itasca to have seen it.

"They had already descended to 1,000 feet," in the final Howland Island. Re minutes of the flight. Mcguire said. "They would have been below the horizon and impossible to see."

Earhart was on a spy mission for President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and that she was shot down over the Marshall Islands and eventually executed by the Japanese. Another is that Fred Noonan, who had allegedly been fired from Pan American Airlines for drinking, was drunk or hung over on the Lac-Howland flight and miscalculated the alreraft's position. "We haven't got any

Freed Dissident Discounts 'Star Wars' Effectiveness

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Soviet dissident physicist Andrei Sakharov, freed from seven years of internal exile, said it is possible the United States can build a space-based missile defense but warned that could be overwhelmed by enemy warheads.

Sakharov also said he had thanked Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev for his freedom but that he told him redemption of Moscow's human rights record "still lies ahead."

Sakharov, the human rights activist and physicist who helped develop the Soviet hydrogen bomb, made the remarks in a taped interview broadcast Sunday on the ABC News program "This Week with David Brinkley.

Sakiarov discounted the Strategic Defense Initiative, the U.S. research program into a space-based defense known popularly as "Star Wars," saying that it could be overwhelmed by a "strong opponent."

Chinese Students Dely Ban

PEKING (UPI) - Peking students, in apparent defiance of a ban on demonstrations, marched before dawn today in the second pro-democracy protest in the capital in a week. witnesses said.

The students, braving freezing winds, set out from Peking Normal University at about 2 a.m. and marched to the prestigious Peking University, gathering supporters along the 3-mile route through northwest Peking, a foreign student said. The protesters also marched to People's University.

"I heard it; it was very loud," the student said. "They were walking around chanting things about liberty and democracy. They returned to the school at 5:30 a.m.

The students staged the march in apparent deflance of a ban announced Saturday by Peking authorities forbidding demonstrations in the capital without advanced permission.

Anti-Apartheid Grandmas Unite

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - A white grandmother, seeking to circumvent a state-of-emergency clampdown on opposition to the government, said she plans to mobilize fellow white grandmothers against apartheid.

Lucille Gillwald, 52, said Sunday that white grandmothers could afford the time and risk of antiapartheid action better than their black counterparts.

Gillwald, resident director at Johannesburg's progressive Market Theatre, visited the vast Soweto black township outside Johannesburg to pray with black worshipers on Sunday.

She said she planned to meet with other women today to draw up plans for legal action against apartheid to show solidarity with black women.

Hijacking Death Toll Hits 67

The death toll rose to 67, including two terrorists, in the botched Christmas Day hijacking of an Iraqi Air flight from Bagdhad to Jordan - making it history's bloodlest conclusion to a hijacking.

The state-owned Iraqi News Agency said Sunday at least 67 people were killed in Thursday's shoot-out, crash and explosion in the Saudi Arabian desert near a small airport in Arar on the Iraqi border, 250 miles southwest of Baghdad.

Old Cuban Rebels Share Life After Jail

By Tem Tiode MIAMI (NEA) — Frederick Hernandes removes his shirt in deference to the afternoon heat. he settles down in a straightback chair that has been placed on the porch of a two-story house, he opens the top on a can of citrus refreshment and he tunes the dial of a small transistor radio.

Spanish music, he says, smiling. But he does not listen. Instead, he stares into the street. watching the automobiles pass, and he remembers how it has happened that after 75 years of life he comes to be sitting in the sun on this particular porch at this particular house in Miami.

He says it began some years after Fidel Castro took over the island of Cuba. Hernandez was born in that country and wanted to stay, so he tried at first to accept the new government. But he soon grew disillusioned, and eventually bitter, and he says he wound up trying to kill the dictator.

The plan was to do it with explosives. Hernandez was a sanitation engineer, working on the sewer system of downtown Havana, and the way he tells it is that he wanted to rig dynamite in the drainage of a government building and then detonate it remotely when Premier Castro paid a visit.

The plot, however, failed in 1968. Hernandez says the police caught him stockpiling the assassination materials, and he was tossed into prison. He stayed there for two long and difficult decades; when he was released last year, he left immediately for the Cuban exile community in south Florida.

He arrived with no funds, of course. And his youth had been spent. So that's how he came to this house in Miami. The house is the Casa del Preso, the prisoners' home; it is a privately run charitable institution that offers refuge to retired soldiers of the war against Castro. The home is in Miami's "Little Havana." There are Cuban and American flags flying over Hernandes on the porch. The place is owned and operated by a group called the Historic Political Prisoners of Cubs, and it's supported by dues, donations and some government assistance.

Hernandes is one of six current residents. He says he pays $10 a month for room and board, and it's something like an old-folks hotel. It's also something like an anti-communist center; the walls and the philosophies are posted with references opposing Castro. Gadhafi and the Soviet Union.

Hernandez points to a bumper sticker supporting the Nicaraguan contras. And he salutes a photograph of Cuban liberator Jose Marti. Other residents say that American intelligence agents have dropped by to put fliers on the bulletin board, and there is an honor roll of dead anti-Castro heroes.

It can be said that all of the residents in the home have come close to being included on the latter roll. And Hernandez the engineer is a good example. He says he served time in several Castro penitentiaries, where he was beaten, starved and pushed psychologically to the brink of his existence.

The torture has recently been documented in an excruciating book called "Against All Hope." It was written by Armando Valladres, a man who spent 22 years as a political prisoner in Cuba, and it is verified by the soldiers at the Casa del Preso. The men claim their time in the rather sit on the porch at the

On the porch of La Casa Del Preso ("The Home of the Prisoners"), Frederick Hernandez (right, without shirt) relaxes with friends. The house in Miami is a haven for former political prisoners freed by Cuba.

Castro lockups surpassed terror. The guards were routinely savage and sadistic, for one thing. The cells were filthy and the food was even wome. The men say they recall servings of breakfast gruel that were laced with glass shavings, and they add that de ad mice were routinely and purposely dropped in with the afternoon meat.

Hernandez says the men in his prison whet on strike at one point, to protest the conditions. But rather than relent, the communist authorities sent some of the dissidents to their death. Quietly, Hernandez says those dissidents are the people who are now enshrined here on the honor roll of heroes.

The old man trembles as he remembers the comrades. He does not like to think about the times. He says he would just prisoners' home, take in the sun and think how fortunate he is to be alive, to be free again and to at last be safe in the United States.

He can never forget, though. The song of the Cuban political prison was despair. He says the guards would not let him sleep a full night, he was forced to punish himself at hard labor, and he grew accustomed to the taste of spilled blood and to a permanent sense of lost hope and disquiet.

Hernandez says he wakes up in bed sometimes thinking that he is still struggling for survivial in jail. And it's not altogether comforting to find out it's a nightmare. He says he can't help wondering if he will yet wake up to find that the struggling is real, and the Casa del Preso is the dream.

Clearing Of Shamir Assailed

JERUSALEM (UPI) - Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir was cleared of charges of wrongdoing in the 1984 killings of two Arabs captured in a bus hijacking, prompting a chief investigator to assail the findings as "unacceptable.

"The conclusions of this report are not appropriate for a properly run state," reserve Maj. Gen. Meir Zorea said in remarks published today in the Al Hamishmar newspaper.

More than 50 Soviet emigrants boarded an Aeroflot jet at Kennedy Airport Sunday night for Moscow after as many as nine years in the United States. Most of the group that left Sunday were from the New York-New Jersey arca.

Aleksey Zhvakin, vice counsel to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, said it was the largest number of expatriate Russians to leave the United States at one time. He said "80 percent to 85 percent" of those returning were Jewish, but the scheduled to leave the United States in January, February and later in the spring.

Zhvakin said most of those leaving were "used to the Soviet way of life" and found it difficult to adjust to customs in the United States.

"They thought that they would live much better here, but then they found that there were some features that could not be tolerated." Zhvakin said, citing crime, poverty, prostitution and alcoholism, which he said exist on a smaller scale in the Soviet prospects. But Cherkasets said he missed "friends and relatives and people" in Russia.

"It's not a matter of better or worse. It is in another dimension," he said.

Arena Galetsky, leaving with her three children after nine years in the United States, said she missed Soviet culture.

"I feel really happy about (returning) because I think it is human nature to go to your homeland and feel good about it," she said.

Most of the departing Soviets would not discuss their reasons for leaving, but many who did ing with the group by the departure gate, said if any of them were disappointed with life in the Soviet Union, they would be permitted to return to the United States.

Zhvakin said about 20 members of the group have American citizenship but would have no problem with repatriation in the Soviet Union.

The returning expatriates were among more than 300 passengers paying about $1,000 to fly the new Soviet Ilyushin 86 jetilner, making its first departure from New York to Moscow.

Reagan's Prostate Problem Opens Doors To Discuss Common, Delicate Condition

By Larry Doyle UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) - President Reagan's medical problems make front page news and give health authorities rare opportunities to educate the public about little-discussed health problems of the elderly.

And so it was with the announcement the president will undergo a transurethral resection Jan. 5 to reduce an enlarged prostate gland. Last year, 333,000 other American men underwent a similar procedure, but not many more had heard of it until the White House revealed Reagan's condition.

"Any time any illness or disease happens to a president, it becomes a major opportunity to educate the public about all aspects of a problem." says Irving Rimer. spokesman for the American Cancer Society.

This president has presented many such opportunities. At 75, he has become something of a poster boy for the previously unspoken health problems of older people: colon and then skin cancer, hearing difficulty, urinary tract infections and now benign prostate enlargement.

Much of the credit for consequent attention paid to these conditions must go to the president himself, Rimer says.

"I think the frankness the White House has exhibited in this and with the president's carlier problems is really quite admirable," he says. "This is going to be breaking down taboos and opening up a much needed public dialogue.

The prostate is not a subject most men care to discuss. The walnut-sized organ, located next to the bladder and surrounding the urethra, is part of their sexual system, producing the fluid that carries sperm. Its enlargement can restrict the canal urine passes through, making urination difficult and sometimes causing painful infections. These personal elements make for a powerful taboo.

But try as they might, most men cannot ignore the subject if they live long enough.

"To some degree every man over 70 will experience some enlargement of his prostate," says Dr. Gerald Murphy. a former ACS president and author of a medical text on the subject.

Prostate enlargement, in fact, can begin in middle age, Murphy says, though most men will not experience symptoms serious enough to require surgery. But far more men could probably benefit from a simple transurethral resection than receive it, he savs

"It's a very commonly performed operation and a very successful one," Murphy says. "It's likely underused."

In the 30 to 40-minute procedure, a catheter-like instrument is inserted through the penis into the urinary tract and a tiny electric loop at the end cuts away excess tissue.

Tissue collected in a resection is typically analyzed for cancerous tissue, and about 10 percent to 15 percent of the time, such tests are positive, doctors say. And though no one is suggesting the president has prostate cancer, many say it is also an issue that warrants discussion.

Prostate cancer is the second most common cancer in men, with 90,000 new cases diagnosed every year. But unlike lung cancer, which is the leader, prostate cancer is not nearly as likely to be fatal, causing only 26,000 deaths annually.

"Many, many more people get prostate cancer than die from it," says Dr. Matthew Rifkin of Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia. "It's a very slow growing cancer, its course is more than 15 years in most cases, and most people die of something else first."

This too may change, health officials warn. Time appears to be the only factor that has kept prostate cancer from becoming a major killer and doctors are discovering more ways to buy their patients that time.

"We've got an aging population, and by the year 2000, more than haif of American men will be over 50," Murphy says. "If our detection methods don't change and with lung cancer rates going down, prostate cancer will be the leading cause of (cancer) death with 140,000 a year."

Most agree the primary current detection method, a manual exam performed by a physician, has two major problems: it is not sensitive enough to reliably catch prostate cancer in an early, curable stage; and it is not used.

"The digital exam remains the hallmark for (prostate cancer) detection," Rimer says. "But even though we recommend annual rectal exams in all men over 40, I imagine compliance with that is even less than what we see with mammography (to detect breast cancer) in older women, which is less than 15 percent."

A more sensitive, and perhaps more acceptable, detection method may be found in ultrasound imaging, a sort of X-ray employing sound waves rather than radiation. Early research indicates ultrasound can detect prostate tumors less than 1 centimeter in diameter - a size at which the disease is generally considered curable with some combination of surgery, radiation or chemotherapy. A large scale clinical trial of the screening method will begin in the spring.

"Ultrasound may be the answer." Rifkin says. "But we will have to see."

In the meantime, health officials are hoping that the president's condition and all of the attendant publicity will encourage older men to take advantage of the help that is available.

When Betty Ford went in for surgery for breast cancer, thousands of women went in to the doctor with lumps in their breast." Rimer says. "Now, maybe men who have difficulty urinating who are 55, but have been sitting around hoping the problem would go away or they could tough it out, maybe they'll go in to be checked.

"In the great majority of cases," he says, "they're going to find out what they have is an ordinary condition of aging and they'll be treated and end up better than they ever were.'

conditions of the gland can be detected and managed with prudent attention to symptoms and regular exams, the American Cancer Society says.

The cancer society provided the following facts and guidelines about prostate conditions:

The cause is unknown, but some studies suggest diets high in fat may be associated with development of prostate cancer.

Risk Factors

-Men 55 years of age or older.

-Twice as common among black men as white men.

-More common in married men than singles.

Suspicious lumps can then be analysed with more sophisticated procedures. The ACS calls ultrasound imaging promising, but investigational.

Signs and Symptoms

Prostate cancer often has no importance of digital exams. However, benign prostate enlargement and prostatitis, an infection of the gland, do produce symptoms similar to cancer. These symptoms war-

Treatment

Treatment, in general, depends on the extent to which the cancer has spread. Small, contained cancers are usually left alone, resulting in an outcome similar to a normal group of men the same age.

When the cancer is confined to the prostate gland, removal of the gland is usually successful. This approach often causes impotence, however, and many doctors opt for radiation therapy. Hormone management is used to control cancer that has spread outside the prostate. Several agents, including female hormones, are given to reduce or eliminate testosterone, a male hormone which influences growth of the symptoms, highlighting the tumor. Sometimes the patient's testicles are removed.

No standard chemotherapy exists for prostate cancer, though a number of drugs are promising and undergoing human trials.
