

Yanks Clinch Fourth Straight Series With 7-4 Win Over Reds

By SID FREDER For The Associated Press CROSBY FIELD, Cincinnati—In one of the daffiest finishes in all world series history, the Cincinnati Reds' defenses blew up yesterday to let the New York Yankees win their fourth straight world championship by a 7 to 4 10-inning victory in the fourth game of the 1939 Fall classic.

After 32,796 fans, lifted to rapturous heights of delight by the Reds' seventh-inning three-run swing splash, the finish was a heart-breaker. For it came about on a collapse of the one feature that stood out for the Reds in the first three games—their fighting fielding.

This lapse of the Rhineland defenses topped off an up-and-down collection of performances by the hurlers who saw action. Tall Paul Derringer started for the Reds, but the loser was Bucky Walters, who took over in the eighth and thus was charged with his second defeat of the set.

For the Yankees, Fordham Johnny Murphy, the square-jawed Irishman with the excellent control, received credit for the first series victory of his career, although he saw action in relief only in each of the last three games. He entered the game in the seventh, after Oral Hildebrand had retired because of an ailing side and Steve Sundra had been tagged for the Reds' first three runs.

Myers dropped the flip to the bag, Keller scored and DiMaggio was safe at second. Proceeding with their customary slogan of "give us an inch and we'll take a mile," the bombing squad from the Bronx went to town right then. After DiMaggio went to third on George Selkirk's liner, Joe Gordon hit to Billy Werber at third, who made the pick-up and pegged to the plate trying to get DiMaggio. The idea was good but didn't work. DiMaggio slid in with the tying run as Ernie Lombardi dropped Werber's low throw. It was ruled a single for Gordon.

That inning should have been enough to happen to any club but not the Reds. They really showed the folks in the 10th. Walk one out and Frank Crossett in second on virtue of a walk and a sacrifice. Myers made his second miscue of the game by bobbling Keller's bounding back of second. DiMaggio shot a single into right field. The ball got away from Ival Goodman, and the base-runners proceeded to pick them up and lay them down. Crossett came in and Keller rounded third and headed for home. Goodman relayed to McCormick, who whirled and threw to the plate, trying to get Keller. Lombardi dropped the relay and fell across the base line. He lay there a few seconds, as the ball rolled about five feet from the plate. Since no one made an effort to go after it, DiMaggio, who by this time had reached third, caught the enemy flat-footed by breaking for home. Too late, Lombardi went after the ball and DiMaggio scored the third run of the inning.

Last Of The Lookouts The last of the Lookouts have departed with the exception of those who plan to stay here this winter. Red Marion and Cleo Peter pulled out early Sunday morning for Atlanta. Sid Hudson left the night before for Chattanooga where he probably will stay most of the winter. Dale Alexander and Hills Layne get their mail in Chattanooga so the three of them should have quite a time talking over happenings of the past summer this Fall around a nice fireplace eating some of the quail. Dale probably will stay with the new shotgun the fans gave him. Willie Sken said he planned to go to Denver and stay about a month and then might come back. He hadn't definitely made up his mind. Deputy Langston will resume his old job with the police force along about Oct. 15. Red Lane went to Chattanooga for a short visit but will be back to stay for the winter. Joe Pinder will stay here. Dixie Dean will spend the winter in Rome, Ga., but may take a flying trip down this way some time. Frank Hudson will spend the winter in West Virginia. Rick Gillespie, of course, will be here in the capacity of assistant coach at Seminole High School. Whitley Campbell will live in Georgia this winter. All but Dean and Sid Hudson are expected back for next Spring's training.

City's Losses From Fire Are Unusually Low

Continued From Page One) all the department took part along with the citizens. The State Volunteer Firemen's Association was born and in State competition Sanford won more prizes than all other members combined. The State association was composed of all towns south of Fernandina and Ocala to Key West. Chief Papworth resigned in 1898 and was succeeded by Chief Hockett, who, after a short tenure, was succeeded by Chief George Davis, and in quick succession came Chiefs Tom Brotherson, C. M. Hand, W. H. Underwood and in 1912 Chief Paxton, and the dawn of a new day as now the City of Sanford was protected by the professional fire fighter, with a paid fire department. On January 3, 1911, the City Council purchased the first American LaFrance motor equipment and Sanford now was in a position to protect its citizens. After a serious fire on Sanford Avenue W. H. Underwood, then a member of the City Council decided that Sanford should have a paid Fire Department and accordingly brought the matter before the Council with the result that the measure was approved and the department was installed on June 12th, 1912. The active personnel consisted of a Foreman and an assistant and the equipment was a No. 5 American LaFrance combination hose and chemical truck, a hand drawn ladder wagon, hose wagon, hose reel and a 25 gallon chemical tank. Mr. Underwood took great interest in the department and the condition of the equipment. Being a wagon maker he arranged that the ladder wagon and hose wagon could be drawn by a horse. The horse was sold and a small Ford chemical truck and hose trailer was bought which proved to be a decided improvement. Finally, an American LaFrance 750 gallon pumper was obtained. In the beginning the water was furnished from wells on West 6th Street and the pressure was maintained either direct or from a tower. This system was unsatisfactory as the mains were old and often burst and yet with lack of equipment and men the Fire Department gave a good account of themselves. After the Episcopal Church fire when the Water Works failed and as an emergency measure to guard against inadequate protection six or seven six-inch wells were drilled in favorable locations and four of these were connected to a 200 H. P. gasoline motor near the Fire Station. The water from this plant could be directed into the City mains if necessary. In time more men were added, some of the old equipment disposed of, a new pumper and new ladder wagon installed, new water works built and many new mains laid and altogether with the management of Chief Cleveland and loyalty of his assistants, the Sanford Fire Department has attained its present high efficiency.

Federal Jury To Resume Inquiry In Tax Scandal

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9—(AP) The federal grand jury today will resume its inquiry into charges of a tax racket which a parish grand jury had investigated without success in the early days before the scandal. The government delved into the so-called "gray train" from two angles— income tax evasion and use of the mails to defraud. The late Huey Long's law partner, Hugh Wilkinson, early this year accused officials of promoting a bribe system to reduce tax assessments. Former Governor Leche, now under three indictments, was deeply shocked when he heard Wilkinson's charges and demanded a thorough investigation. A grand jury questioned witnesses for 46 days and reported there was not enough evidence upon which to base an indictment. A young lawyer charged that the jury had deliberately whitewashed the charges and created a minor scandal, but he withdrew his charges and the alleged tax racket was forgotten. Meanwhile, Orleans parish District Attorney, Byrne, who conducted the first investigation, denied that a new, publicly-em-were built and many new mains laid and altogether with the management of Chief Cleveland and loyalty of his assistants, the Sanford Fire Department has attained its present high efficiency.

Advertising For Tourists

All Florida is anticipating an exceptionally good tourist season this winter. Among the many special reasons for this widespread belief are the war in Europe which will very largely prevent travellers from going to Europe or even to such nearer resorts as Bermuda and Nassau, and the Florida Exhibit at the World's Fair which has been seen by millions of people from all parts of the United States and has served to advertise this state in an unprecedented manner.

Speaking of the war in Europe, T. M. Griffith of St. Petersburg, head of a nationally known advertising agency, declares, "Florida with the nearest winter resorts to the great population centers, will get the lion's share of this extra business. Railroads, bus lines and travel agencies already are reporting increased interest in Florida. Meanwhile Florida communities are planning to make a good season better by increasing their advertising appropriations."

Among those Florida cities which have seen the advisability of tourist advertising are St. Petersburg which has increased its annual appropriation by $10,000 to a new high of $98,000; Miami, which plans an advertising expenditure of $200,000, not including Miami Beach which will spend an additional $50,000; Clearwater which has doubled its last year's advertising appropriation; Pensacola which plans to spend $21,000 for advertising; and Orlando with a $7,500 advertising bid for new tourists. Even Tampa, generally regarded as more of an industrial city than tourist resort, will spend $20,000 this year to bring in the tourist business.

This is extremely interesting news to all Floridians because as Mr. Griffith says, additional advertising will go a long way toward making a good season better, and of course, what helps one part of Florida helps all. There is no question that those cities which advertise and go after the tourist business will reap a fine share of prosperity this winter. Even those which do not will probably be benefitted by the overflow from the more aggressive resorts.

It is interesting to note, however, that those cities which have shown the greatest growth are the ones which have catered, if not exclusively, at least energetically, to the tourist trade. Orlando, for instance, once based its prosperity as much on citrus, as Sanford did on celery, but it soon learned the error of its way and went after tourists. There it began to grow, and during the first eight months of this year it has enjoyed a building boom amounting to more than a million dollars.

Residential construction in the Miami area so far this year has exceeded 25 million dollars and is several million dollars ahead of the same period last year. Jacksonville ranked second throughout the state in new residential construction; St. Petersburg, third; Palm Beach, fourth; and Tampa, fifth.

These facts should not be lost sight of anywhere in Florida; those cities which have advertised and gone after tourists are the ones which are showing the most substantial growth.

Hitler's "Peace" Record

These facts should not be lost sight of anywhere in Florida; those cities which have advertised and gone after tourists are the ones which are showing the most substantial growth.

Extracts from some of Hitler's previous speeches have been prepared by Irving B. Pfisum, foreign editor of the Chicago Times. "I believe I can today regard the struggle for German equality as over. We have no territorial demands to make in Europe," said Adolf Hitler in the Reichstag on Mar. 7, 1936. Since then he has seized Austria, Czechoslovakia, Memel, and Poland.

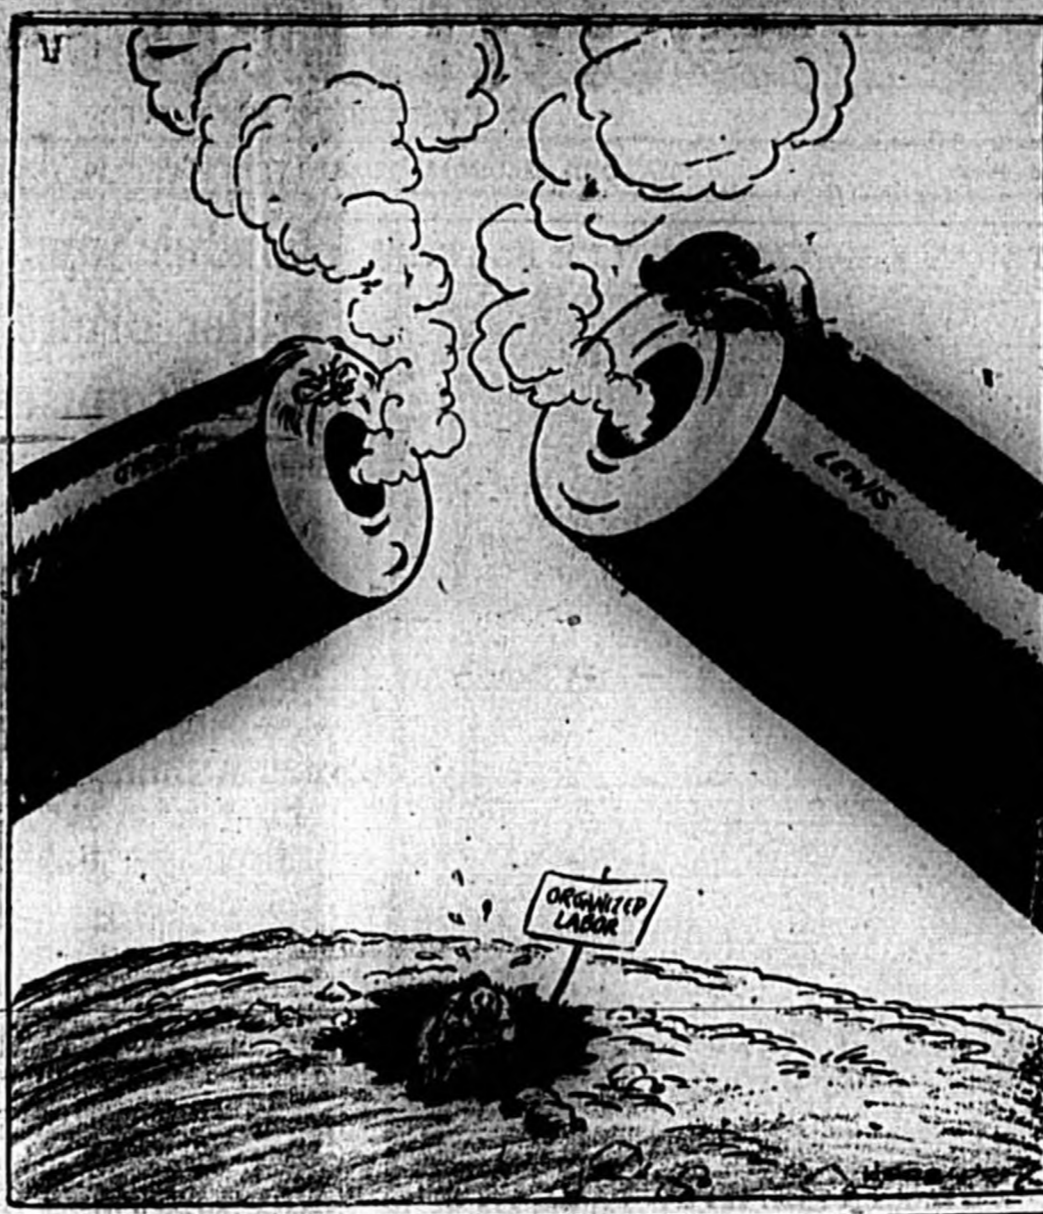

"With this declaration I wish to announce that the era of so-called surprises has been concluded, as a state with equal rights. Germany with the fullest loyalty will henceforth do her share in settling European problems," said Hitler in the Kroll Opera House on Jan. 30, 1937, also before he had seized Austria, but after he had rearmend Germany, remilitarized the Rhineland, torn up the Locarno pact, and denounced the Versailles Treaty.

One year ago, just after the signing of the Munich "peace for our times" agreement, giving Germany the Sudetenland, but not the rest of Czechoslovakia, he said, "We want peace... We want nothing from others... We have no wishes or demands... we want peace." A few months later he was taking over the rest of Czechoslovakia and laying his plans to seize Poland.

With regard to the recent Russian alliance and the seizure by the Soviets of part of Poland and the Baltic states, the following from Hitler on Feb. 21, 1938 is interesting: "We abhor every effort to spread bolshevism regardless of where it is attempted and stand against it in every way. It is not we who are seeking contact with bolshevism. It is bolshevism that tries to infect mankind... and hurl it into a disaster of momentous dimensions."

And yet, Hitler had the crust to say, a few days ago in a speech in Berlin, "I personally take exception at seeing foreign statesmen stand up and call me guilty of having broken my word." He expects them to believe him again when he says he will give them peace if they will accept peace on his terms. One wonders how many times Hitler thinks he can deceive and still be believed.

HOW ABOUT A PEACE OFFER ON THIS FRONT?

DISPELLING THE FOG

BY CHARLES MICHELSON Democratic National Committee

Because of some criticism of Senator Vandenberg in this column, for his position that international affairs are subordinate to domestic politics, in importance, we are gravely assailed by the Republican outfit of bringing politics into the neutrality controversy, by advocating the repeal of the arms embargo.

Naturally, I have attempted to avoid letting our mutual propaganda degenerate into a duel of words which he is running. The author of the indicated accusation is the putative mouthpiece of the Republican National Committee, notwithstanding the wraps under which he is running. The advocacy of the repeal of the embargo is the policy declared by the President in his message to Congress, and also constitutes the opinion of the Democratic majority in Congress. They believe that the cash-and-carry substitute for the embargo, with its removal of the embargo, is the only way in which might provoke dangerous "incidents," should be helpful in keeping us out of war.

But, according to the output of my Republican contemporary, the New Dealers wickedly are planning an intensive movement. I thought I was a New Dealer until the President's latest circular informed me to the contrary. Now the same authority publishes that the President's supporters have established a publicity department in opposition to the one from which this letter emanates, which is not news to me, and I believe, to the New Dealer. However, this is not important, beyond emphasizing the conclusion that exists in the G O P, which neither knows what variety of candidate it wants for the 1940 sacrifice, or what sort of program the candidate ultimately chosen should run on.

the principle that everybody and every political party had an equal right and privilege to broadcast. Some of the laws, the repeal of which is advocated by the gentleman who has taken over the Liberty League's function of propagandizing things the G O P father, have been on the statute books for twenty years. They were placed there because it seemed wise to Congress to clothe the Executive with powers that might be requisite in times of crisis. Since their enactment, we have had twelve years of Republican administration and seven of Democratic—and nobody worried lest a President should run amuck with these powers.

It may seem strange but the country assumed that four Presidents were decent, patriotic men—and the country has not changed its view of the constitutional authority in the White House.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By RUSSELL RAY

Editor M. D. Baer of the Florida Dispatch of St. Augustine, published in the interests of the railway employees, advances a suggestion that is well worth consideration. He says that there are today 125,000 retired railway employees drawing pensions of from $40 to $120 each month, while another 150,000 are eligible to retire. Many of these folks have other income supplementing their pensions.

Freely from active service, these pensioners are in a position to select most any location that appeals to them, in their "sun-set of life" they naturally desire a healthful, balmy climate where living costs are nominal and outdoor recreational opportunities exist.

No state, contends Mr. Baer, has more to offer than Florida and urges that an effort be made by the state as well as individual communities to establish colonies of these retired railroad workers, providing them with accommodations within their means and recreation facilities that will appeal.

He suggests colonies, pointing out that these elderly railroaders like to be together. They are somewhat clannish and naturally feel more at home in a community where other railroaders are located. For like old soldiers, they enjoy sitting around recounting their experiences over many years of active railroad service.

Suppose some community seeking good citizens were to go out after these folks in an honest, sincere effort to establish them as permanent residents. Suppose a colony of 1,000 were attracted to the community. What would it mean in buying power? It would mean between $600,000 and $700,000 a year from Railway Retirement pensions alone—and remember, many of them have other incomes from investments.

Bringing these folks to Florida, Baer contends, is not a job for the slick real estate promoter or those concerned only with the sale of real estate, but rather the community itself. While the income of these pensioners is, individually, small, it is nevertheless dependable, and in the aggregate would mean a great deal to any town that went after it in the right way.

America today is pension-minded. Practically all of our larger industries are providing their retired workers with pensions and amounts are being increased each year. For the most part these pensioners represent sound, substantial, honest, hard working people—mighty good citizens for any community.

Another thing to think about is that these railroad men have built up a wide acquaintance over the years. During active service they met and made friends with thousands of railroad patrons. Most of them have a large circle of close personal friends and relatives in their own community.

Some day a national old age pension plan will be put into operation, with "oldsters" receiving a substantial sum each month. When this occurs, Florida will be in an enviable position because of what she has to offer the pensioner.

The few far sighted business leaders who are to-day supporting the Townsend Plan probably realize this and see this state and possibly California as the real beneficiaries of any plan that will provide the old folks with sufficient funds to travel and "visit" or "loaf" permanently in this land of sunshine.

Encouraging and supporting pension movements and extending a cordial welcome to pensioners isn't such a screwy idea as some people might think. Florida, above all other states, is in a position to attract millions of pension dollars and it is high time she recognized this advantage and started going after this worthwhile business. Railway pensioners offer a splendid opportunity.

—Roads, rates and tourists will be the main objectives of the Sanford County Chamber of Commerce during the next 12 months, P. P. WAR, W. Va., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A disabled school bus careened from a highway and plunged down a 75-foot embankment today, killing three students and injuring 63 other persons, some critically.
